EVER STRIVING FOR TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by a government, with the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property and secure more freedom and keep it for themselves and others.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guide expressed in the Coveting Commandment.

Are we better off?

Americans suffering from cancer don't believe the Food out of 100 rats in a control group and Drug Administration when it tells them the outlawed drug Laetrile is worthless.

Any agency which could seriously propose banning saccharine because three out of 100 laboratory rats fed dosages equivalent to 800 12-ounce cans of dietetic drink a day developed malignant bladder tumors deserves to have its competency called into question.

Many people are wondering why the FDA chose to move against saccharine at this time The Canadian investigation which prompted its action was by no means the first test which has implicated the artificial sweetener, however remotely, as a cancer - causing agent.

(Ironically, the Canadian government, which is similarly removing saccharine from the market permits the sale and use of Laetrile.)

Of course, the Delaney Clause, enacted by Congress in 1958 as an amendment to the Food. Drug and Cosmetic Act. decrees that any food additive found to cause cancer in humans or animals - no matter how massive the test dosages or how improbable the ordinary risk to people -- must be placed beyond entertain a reasonable doubt the pale.

But the FDA could easily have Little wonder so many called the Canadian tests inconclusive. The fact that two that were not fed saccharine developed tumors anyway would certainly seem to raise some reasonable doubts.

> The FDA also seems to have given little thought to the consequences to diabetics and others who must have a substitute for sugar in their diets.

At least one congressman is drawing up legislation to amend the Delaney amendment to permit the FDA to exercise 'reasonable judgment'' in matters of this kind.

Rep. James G. Martin. D-N.C., who is himself an organic chemist, points out that in the nearly 20 years since the Delaney amendment. the ability of analytical chemistry to detect minute traces of carcinogenic (cancer - causing) substances has been vastly refined.

We can detect much lower levels of compounds which in large doses are carcinogenic. Yet they're safe in normal amounts," he says.

Pending a change in the law however, or a massive dose of public opinion administered to the FDA, saccharine has had it. And we may be pardoned if we that anybody will be the slightest bit better off without it

When a 'junket' isn't

By Martha Angle and Robert Walters

WASHINGTON - (NEA) - On paper, it looks like the worst kind of congressional "junket." There's Rep. Phillip Burton, D-Calif., listed as taking a two-week, midwinter trip to the sunny climes of San Juan, Puerto Rico, and St. Thomas in the Virgin Islands.

Burton's Caribbean visit cost the taxpayers almost $1,500. The trip was made in December 1975 and January 1976, but it didn't become an object of public derision until last month when he once again was in the Virgin Islands, during the winter's worst cold spell.

Reporters poured over congressional travel records to find no fewer than 15 similar Burton excursions during the past six years. "Balmy Breezes Embrace Burton and Entourage," proclaimed one newspaper headline. In an era when the public perception of congressional ethics has plunged to abysmal depths, it's easy to make snap judgments about legislators' real and imagined proclivity for what the travel agents call "tropical playgrounds."

But that simplistic approach doesn't always do justice to a complex situation. Burton, for instance, happens to be chair-man of the territories subcommittee of the House Interior Committee, a post which gives him jurisdiction over legislation directly affecting those tropical islands.

There's also the question of how much work is accomplished on those jaunts. "The entire island was in turmoil," spluttered an angry Burton when confronted with his 1975-76 visit to Puerto Rico. "There was rioting in the streets. I was under armed guard most of the time.

Indeed, press accounts during the period in question show that in the weeks before, during and after Burton's visit terrorists bombed an ITT office, a Burger King restaurant, several Army Reserve vehicles, two branches of the Chase Manhattan Bank and assorted other targets. The Puerto Rican government had cancelled all police leaves and mobilized 1,300 members of the National Guard.

Burton's congressional delegation spent most of its time meeting with representatives of the feuding political factions in an effort to restore peace to the island. "It was no midwinter Caribbean vacation," says the congressman.

The congressman notes in his own defense that he has worked hard to help the territories whose people he says are "just run over, left out or ignored" by most of the federal bureaucracy.

He boasts, with considerable legitimacy, of assisting economic development in the Northern Marianas, exposing a tyrannical governor in American Samoa, securing delegates in Congress for Guam and the Virgin Islands and improving job opportunities for natives in Puerto Rico and elsewhere. Finally, there's the nasty business of politics. Human nature being no different in Washington than anywhere else, it's always more popular to kick someone when he's down - and Burton is in exactly such a prone position these days. He had the atrociously bad judgment to form an alliance with former Rep. Wayne L. Hays, D-Ohio, before Hays was forced to resign from Congress in the midst of a full-blown Washington scandal. Burton then sought the post of House Majority Leader, only to end up with egg all over his face.

With that background, it probably was no coincidence that reporters working for at least five different news organizations found themselves simultaneously digging into Burton's travel records last month after receiving virtually identical "tips" about the embarrassing material they might

There undoubtedly has been a considerable amount of swimming, partying and relaxation during Burton's eight visits to the Virgin Islands, two trips to the South Pacific, three tours to Puerto Rico Indeed, there's still far too much "junketing" on the part of many members of Congress. But Burton's case illustrates the dangers of oversimplified criticism of those travels.

But obviously, even a 10-room house can't use $369 worth of gas in one month unless a lot of its is going to heat the outdoors. Untold billions of cubic feet of gas are wasted every day by drafty poorly insulated houses. The worst offenders are the homes of people who are least able to afford high fuel costs.

A flag for Leisure Lodge

Several Pampa groups and individuals teamed to present an American flag to Leisure Lodge. On hand for presentation ceremonies Tuesday at the nursing home were Fred Tinsley, left, of PUPCO Co., donor of the flagpole; Eagle Scout Charles Dallas, coordinator of the project; Mrs. Bonnie Stuckey, Mrs. Minnie Emmons and Mrs. Alvena Williams, members of Veterans of Foreign War Auxiliary, donor of the flag, and Mrs. Lilye Noblitt, resident of Leisure Lodge who is also a member of the auxiliary.

US may purchase planes for Europe

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) -U.S. Defense Secretary Harold Brown sought the support of Western European defense ministers today for the purchase of nearly $3 billion worth of Boeing patrol-command planes to give Western Europe speedier warning of Soviet Bloc troop movements and air attack. Brown appeared optimistic on his arrival for the meeting of the defense ministers of the North Atlantic allies. But there were signs of opposition from West Germany, which with the United States would pay more than half the bill.

Some West German officials were balking because of Washington's reluctance to build a common U.S.-German battle tank around Bonn's new Leopand II tank

The new American XM1 tank was to have used the Leopard's 120mm gun, while the Leopard would use the American tank's engine. But U.S. defense officials have let it be known they consider the Leopard inferior and want the Germans to adopt the XM1

US wants to examine more bodies in Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) - The United States reportedly is urging Vietnam to let U.S. experts examine any further bodies before the Hanoi government publicly identifies them as remains of American servicemen

If this is done, U.S. officials say, it should be possible to avoid repeating a mixup in which the Vietnamese mistak enly identified two of 12 men whose remains were turned over to a presidential commission

The Pentagon reported Thursday that one of the men whose bodies was returned by Hanoi was Lt. Patrick E. Wynne of Satellite Beach, Fla. not Capt. Lawrence H. Golberg of Cloquet, Minn. Wynne was flying with Golberg when their F4C Phantom jet was downed on Aug. 8, 1966. Wynne's father. Edward, said

Advice

Dear Abby By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a mature 17-year-old girl. Last week I had plans to go to a movie with another girl, my best friend. She called at the last minute to say that a guy she knew had come into town unexpectedly and asked her to go out with him, so our date was off. (She said she knew I'd "understand.")

I felt very hurt and let down. My mother said I was, wrong to feel that way because it was only natural for a girl to prefer to go out with a guy than with another girl, if a guy suddenly came into the picture. Do you agree?

Abby, I don't think I would have broken my date with her had a guy called me at the last minute. I would like your opinion.

SECOND FIDDLE

DEAR SECOND: I don't think it makes any difference whether the friend who suddenly breezed into town was a guy or another girl. Breaking a date at the last minute as your "best friend," did was unfriendly.

DEAR ABBY: Yesterday a salesman came to my door and showed me his product, and before I knew it, I had signed a contract to buy it. I have two years to pay, but now I'm afraid to tell my husband about the monthly installments.

I don't know what got into me, Abby. I really don't need that product, and we certainly can't afford it at this time. (I don't work and have no money of my own.)

Is there any way I can get out of it now?

FEELING SICK

DEAR SICK: Call (or write) to the company and explain that you signed the contract before you had time to think it over carefully. Tell them that you neither need nor want the product, and you cannot afford it.

Some companies will release hasty signers from their contracts. Others will not. (A note to other wives who are financially dependent on their husbands. Discuss all purchases with your husbands first, and don't sign anything in haste.)

DEAR ABBY: I would like your opinion of the business executive (or professional person) who has pictures of the spouse and family prominently displayed on his desk. No one else is interested, and if he (or she) has forgotten what his family looks like, he should take a better look at them when he gets home.

I never know what to say when I am "introduced" to a gallery of pictures. I keep fighting the urge to say, "Who cares?

NAMELESS IN CHICAGO

DEAR NAMELESS: It doesn't take very long to say, "How lovely!" And there's an outside chance that some people DO care.

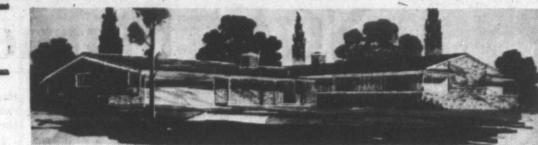

The reasons for the gallery display are varied. Some are there because the executive himself (or herself) likes to look at them. Others are there because the spouse has put them there. Some want to crow a little. And some are there for "protection." (I am told that some people need a subtle reminder that the doctor, dentist or lawyer is a family person.

ticle on bone spurs of the spine, explaining what causes the vicious things and why the doctors do nothing to keep them from growing there and creating a serious situation for the person. What makes them give a sickening sensation to the person when movements cause them to be pressed on at intervals.

DEAR READER - As wonderful as the human body is, it is not perfect. A major cause for bone spurs is nature's process of repairing injury. When a bone is injured or degenerates, it repairs itself. In the process the repair may not follow the original bone architecture. The regrowth may be as a spur. This can occur in arthritis where the vertebrae are damaged, perhaps with age, perhaps with years of wear and tear and the regeneration process produces the spur. It can occur with various diseases that stimulate bone growth. A spur may also occur from excessive pull or stimulation to one area of the bone, as from an attached ligament. Heel spurs are often caused this way.

Doctors can't prevent them, even though we would like to, without stopping the normal bone regeneration process of your body which would be more harmful than the spurs. If we could prevent arthritis and the disease associated with bone degeneration and prevent wear and tear from normal living, then there would be no need for bone regeneration but that is a bit beyond us. The spurs can be removed if they are in an area where they cause too much trouble, for example causing excess pressure on the spinal cord. The spurs can cause pain by pressure on nerves or by the pain they may cause by

Can I use soap and water to clean the drawers out and how do I clean the velvet in one drawer? - JUDY P. DEAR JUDY - I would first try a furniture cleaner to try and remove any old build-up of wax or polish. The dull spots may be places where the wax has been remov-ed. After using such a cleaner according to directions you will have a clearer picture of the condition of the wood. If all the old wax and polish is removed the wood should all look the same. It may even need refinishing, but, if not, you can start using your favorite wax or

WHY PREACH THE WORD

Many reasons could be given to answer the quesion above. Consider, if you will, the four that follow. They may provide some food for thought.

1. Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path" (Psalms 119: 105). Man cannot direct himself. His every effort only leads him away from God. A revelation from God is needed to answer questions about man's origin; purpose and destiny. His word enables us to know God's will. That word dispels the darkness of sin, directs man in the right path, leads him toward heaven. Therefore, we should preach the word.

2. The Holy Spirit exercises power in the conviction and conversion of the sinner. He exerts this power, and conversion of the sinner. He exerts this power, not directly upon the sinner, but through the word, the gospel. Jesus said the Holy Spirit would convict the world of sin (John 16:8). Men were convicted of sin when Peter spoke as the Holy Spirit gave him utterance (Acts 2:37). The words the apostles spoke and wrote were directed by the Holy Spirit. These words yet confict men of sin, for the gospel is God's power to save the sinner (Romans 1:16). Since the Holy Spirit operates through the word, we should preach that word.

3. The word of God is the seed of the kingdom (Luke 8:11). Seed must be sown before fruit can be produced or before there can be a harvest. Thed word, the gospel must be preached in order to make Chris-tians. It, as stated above, is God's power to save us from sin. But one seed will produce only one kind of fruit. The seed of the kingdom, the word of God, produces citizens of the kingdom, Christians only, and only Christians. "Christian," used only three times in the New Testament, is the name given to disciples. Since the word is the seed, we should preach the word.

4. The word will judge us in the last day (John 12:48). There will be a last day and there will be a judgment. We shall all be there, we shall all be judged. The word, the gospel is the standard or law by which we shall be judged. (Matt. 25:31-46; Acts 17:31; 2 Cor. 5:10). Therefore, we preach the word! What does the praching of the word of God mean to you?

Crime creates life of fear for elderly

EDITOR'S NOTE: Crime in the nation's cities has created a life of fear for many old people. Nowhere is the fear more pervasive than in New York City's Bronx where a wave of brutal assaults on the elderly has focused attention on a problem that exists in many rban areas. This is the first of three stories on crime and the elderly.

By VICTORIA GRAHAM Associated Press Writer NEW YORK (AP) - Bessie is so frightened she lives on tranquillizers.

Clara is so scared she sleeps on a hallway cot near her front door - for a fast getaway. Ralph is so fearful that he pays extortion money. Hans and Emma hanged themselves because they wouldn't live another day in fear. Bessie, Clara and Ralph. All of them old: all of them afraid of crime

So they flee the streets at dusk, barricade themselves behind their doors and don't come out until the sun is high. Out of place, out of step, out of time, many urban elderly are prisoners in their homes. foreigners in the neighborhoods they settled, old people in a young and threatening world.

Out of fear, they break the patterns that give meaning to their lives. Gone are the soft sociable afternoons on park benches; the park has become a war zone.

They forego visits to children and grandchildren. They won't see doctors. They stop going to religious services.

"Crime leads to an unbelievable deprivation and reduction in the quality of life of older people who already have problems of fixed income, poor health, loss of loved ones and of their own role in life." says George Sunderland, coordinator of the Crime Prevention Program of the American Association of Retired Persons.

"An older person's sense of self can be very fragile, and crime is an invasion of that self. People die a little." says Alice M. Brophy, commissioner for the aging in New York City.

All this makes the urban elderly a prime and easy target : Unable to resist, unable to identify their attackers and often unwilling to report crimes or press charges. For this reason crimes against the elderly are called "crib jobs"-robbing an old person is like taking candy from a baby. Everywhere, the elderly are

Most elderly victims are women, most are alone, most more numerous or the fear are attacked during the day in more pervasive than in New York City's Bronx. Most are poor and live on Hans and Emma Kabel killed fixed incomes. Younger victims can recoup losses through earn-themselves last October in their Bronx apartment where they had lived 50 years. Their home had been invaded and robbed twice and they had been attacked.

Finally, they laid out their funeral clothes, penned a note saying they could no longer live in fear and hanged themselves.

The kind of violence that drove the Kabels to suicide is reflected in the city's crime figures. New York's latest statistics on crime and the elderly showed there were 3.208 muggings of people over 60 last year - a 16 per cent increase over 1975. The elderly represent 21 per of all purse snatching victims, 27 per cent of all pocketbook robberies (where force, fear or weapon is used) and 27 per cent of all stickups in apartments. The elderly comprise only about 17 per of the city's population.

The Kabels' solution to their worries about such statistics and their real life experiences was extreme, but fear forces many elderly in the Bronx to take extreme measures. It frequently drives old people into lives of isolation. It drives still others to pay out their life's earnings for a feeble assurance of safety.

Police tell of one 75-year-old woman in the Bronx - let's call her Mary - who was so frightened after she was mugged that she never left her apartment. Her life shriveled.

Mary never carried out the garbage. So it piled up. and room by room was filled with refuse. Room by room was sealed off, as her life got smaller and smaller.

Nor would Mary venture out for food. She threw money out the window to kids who bought her candy bars. They, too, ripped her off, charging her double for candy. Police learned of Mary when, letting down her guard, she was mugged as she mailed a letter.

The police tell of an elderly man - call him Ralph - one of the few elderly people of means, who thought money could insulate him. So he paid two brothers $1,000 in extortion money to protect him from the predators in his Bronx neighborhood. He was mugged any-

Federal grand jury studying Johnson case

ABILENE, Tex. (AP) -Asst. U.S. Atty. Jim Rolfe said evidence and testimony concerning the affairs of a missing North Texas grain dealer is being presented to a federal grand jury here.

The grand jury reconvened in Abilene Wednesday after listening earlier this year to testimony from several witnesses at Wichita Falls concerning the disappearance and financial affairs of Robert M. Johnson of Iowa Park.

Johnson allegedly drowned when he disappeared from a pleasure boat in the Gulf of Mexico off Port Aransas Jan. 3. Port Aransas Constable Ben Cash said last month. however. that he had evidence Johnson faked the drowning and was alive in northern Mexico.

Following an investigation by state officials into Johnson-operated grain elevators in Wichita Falls and Iowa Park, authorities said several thousand bushels of grain were missing.

Lima was hospitalized March 7 with the paralyzing Guillain-Barre syndrome. He received a swine flu vaccination Nov. 12, a month before evidence of its connection to Guillain-Barre halted the $135 million national vaccination program. Lima's case was not reported to either the Colorado Health Department or the national Center for Disease Control (CDC) in gatlanta.

"The vigor of the surveillance effort dropped off after the end of January." said the state Health Department's chief epidemiologist. Dr. Tom Vernon. At the CDC, spokesman Bob Alden said the CDC is no

Rebel wants change -- from within

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) - The sound and the fury of the old "Chicago Seven" days are gone. But Tom Havden is still around, and he has a new target: Corporate power.

At 36. Hayden, who shows up at political meetings in business suits and short hair, still espouses causes that sound radical to some people, such as public ownership of businesses. He says he is trying to build a bridge between radicals of the 1960s and conventional politics of the 1970s and 1980s, and one of his goals is giving consumers and workers a voice in business decisions. But now Hayden, who received 1.2 million votes in an unsuccessful bid for the U.S. Senate last year, is working within the structure of the California Democratic party. At seminars he conducts.

The Vietnam War is over. The new target is excessive corporate power and profits. "Our economic system is now starting to fail to deliver, because of the excessive goal of profit and power above everything else," Hayden says. "We want a new goal, which is improving the quality of life, and we want our economic system reorganized in whatever ways promote that." Sitting on the front porch of

His emphasis today is on recruiting and electing candidates to local offices such as city councils and school boards. Then, as those candidates gain recognition, they can work up to higher office.

Since his own defeat last June, Hayden's has recruited candidates or joined coalitions backing candidates in nine races. There were four winners - two school trustees in San Francisco, a city councilman in the Sacramento Valley community of Chico, and a supervisor in Alameda County. Hayden says he is backing 17 more candidates in local elections around California later this vear
