Elaine Ledbetter gets world honor

A Pampa High School teacher, Elaine Ledbetter, has added an international teaching recognition to her list of achievements.

Mrs. Ledbetter is the recipient of the 1977 Catalyst Award for Teachers of Chemistry and Chemical Engineering. The award is sponsored by the Manufacturing Chemists Association, a trade organization with membership of 220 which represents the majority of the chemical producers in the United States and Canada.

The Pampa teacher will receive her $1,000 prize, citation and medal during the annual MCA meeting in White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., June 9.

Curt Beck nominated Mrs. Ledbetter for the award in 1976. Though he was then president of the Pampa Independent School District, Beck said the nomination was a "personal one" and was "based on my knowledge and acquaintance with the lady over a period of 30 years."

Mrs. Ledbetter was runner-up for the high school award and was so close to the winner that the panel of educators who act as judges requested her nomination be held over for the 1977 contest.

"I renominated her verbally to the director of education for the MCA, Dr. Robert Varnerin, in Washington, D.C.," Beck said. More than 200 candidates were nominated for the six awards this year, Beck said. The MCA offers four Catalyst Awards to college chemistry or chemical engineering instructors, one to a junior college faculty member and one to a high school teacher.

Winners are selected by a judging panel of educators (not the MCA) on the basis of excellence in teaching chemistry or chemical engineering, dedication to a science instruction and motivation of students to careers in science as well as responsibility as citizens.

Mrs. Ledbetter said one thing she has learned about teaching in 37 years is students must want to learn.

"It's not really original," she said, "but I've always said students are lamps to be lit, not cups to be filled. You have to inspire students to want to learn."

She does inspire her students and she uses some unscientific means to do it.

In addition to science publications, a chemistry textbook she wrote was one of five listed in Texas last fall for use in classrooms for the next five years; the teacher has published volumes of poetry.

"Well, I think chemistry requires creativity and I encourage my students to write poems related to chemistry," she said. Some of her students' works are published each year in the Pampa High School literary magazine.

Mrs. Ledbetter, a graduate of the University of Oklahoma and North Texas State University, has been in Pampa since 1951 when she started teaching general science at Pampa Junior High School. She had previously taught for Blackwell and Shidler-Webb schools in Oklahoma.

In 1953 she accepted a position teaching chemistry at Pampa High School where she is currently chairman of the science department in addition to her teaching duties.

She has been active in several education and science associations, especially the National Science Teachers Association. She has served on numerous NSTA committees since 1961 and was NSTA president in 1972-73.

She is bothered by teachers who do not stay on top of their subject matter and who are consistently years behind current developments.

"That's still one of our problems," she said of teachers who use outdated materials. "That's one reason I've been so active in NSTA — to try and get some of these trends changed."

Mrs. Ledbetter said she has never considered leaving the secondary schools to teach on the college level.

"I enjoy working with high school juniors and seniors so much I have not been tempted to leave that group. They're so enthusiastic and eager to learn."

In addition to her high school teaching and NSTA activities, Mrs. Ledbetter has done special work at the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies, the University of Arizona and the University of California at Berkeley. Her other honors are numerous and include Adult Leader of the Year for the Pampa Key Club, the Pampa Altrusa Club's Woman of Achievement, Texas Teacher of the Year, and Pampa Woman of the Year in Beta Sigma Phi.

She is a charter member of the Science Teachers Association of Texas and is the only member to serve two terms as president of that group. She won a regional MCA award in 1965 when she was named Outstanding Chemistry Teacher in Texas by the MCA and the Texas Chemical Council.

Arms limitation talks fizzle in Moscow

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter says he'll "hang tough" when arms limitation negotiations with the Russians begin again in May and that he has no intention of dropping his human rights crusade.

The President's reaction to Wednesday's breakdown of Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty negotiations in Moscow was relaxed and he said he was not surprised.

But he expressed his determination to pursue a major reduction in nuclear weapons and declared: "I will not modify my human rights statements."

And, despite his expressed desire to end the arms race, he pointedly warned Moscow that he will consider intensifying development of U.S. weapons if he decides after negotiations in May that the Soviets are not acting "in good faith."

The next round of arms talks is set for Geneva in May with Secretary of State Cyrus R.

Vance and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko heading the two delegations.

Vance started home from Moscow today expressing hope for an agreement eventually to reduce the Soviet and American nuclear arsenals despite his failure to get negotiations started during his visit to the Soviet capital.

Vance flew to Bonn to confer with Chancellor Helmut Schmidt and brief him on his fruitless five-day attempt to break the deadlock over a new Strategic Arms Limitations Treaty (SALT). He was spending the night in London and visiting Paris Friday for similar talks with British and French officials.

"In my judgment this has been a useful visit," Vance told reporters at the Moscow airport. "Our objective was not a simple one. Reaching agreement on arms control measures can't be accomplished overnight.

"In the meantime, I'm sure that both sides will study the matter which we discussed and will find that their objectives are similar."

More failure awaited Vance in Bonn, where West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt on Wednesday night rejected the Carter administration's urging that it modify its nuclear deal with Brazil and do more to stimulate the West German economy as an aid to international economic recovery.

Schmidt told a news conference West Germany's sale of a $4.8-billion nuclear installation to Brazil would be "one of the most important topics" in his talks with Vance. He reaffirmed his determination not to bow to the U.S. demand that the sale of a reprocessing plant that could make fuel for nuclear weapons be excluded from the deal.

"The American government has known since last year that we are determined to abide by contractual agreements," Schmidt said.

Senior defense officials see no need for any drastic acceleration of U.S. weapons programs because of Russia's rejection of the Carter administration's nuclear arms limitation proposals.

Defense Secretary Harold Brown, a member of Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty negotiating teams during the Nixon and Ford administrations, reportedly reacted with no surprise on learning of the negative Soviet response to the Carter administration's first formal arms control presentation.

Associates said Brown expects the Russians will come eventually to a new arms agreement with the United States on the basis of mutual benefit. Brown does not believe the human rights issue will stand in the way of such an ultimate accord, his associates said.

Some Pentagon officials feel a continued Soviet hard line in SALT talks might impel the President to approve continued B1 production as a bargaining chip and as a hedge against possible failure of the arms limitation effort.

But Brown and other top defense officials are known to believe there would be no need for any quick stepup in U.S. nuclear weapons programs to avoid a power imbalance. "Our programs are carefully constructed so we can adjust to developments," said one official. "We are in position to move ahead on weapons systems as needed."

Carter will be in Europe that month, attending an economic summit meeting with NATO leaders and conferring with Syrian President Hafez Assad about prospects for a negotiated Arab-Israeli settlement.

He said he has no intention "at this time" of meeting with Soviet officials then.

After learning of the breakdown in the Moscow talks, Carter told congressional leaders of his plans to "hang tough" for a comprehensive accord that substantially reduces the two superpowers' arsenals.

The President said he intends to "remain very strong in my position" that the two superpowers this year negotiate not just a superficial agreement allowing them to continue the arms race but to freeze development of new missiles and reduce launchers and multiple warheads substantially.

Folks still smoke dope

WASHINGTON (AP) — Harsh penalties don't keep people from smoking marijuana and moderate use probably poses no substantial health hazard, says a new government-financed report.

The 375-page report, issued today by the National Governors Conference, also says states that have decriminalized marijuana possession have shown a "substantial" savings of tax dollars.

The report, prepared for the governors by a Washington research firm under a grant from the federal Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, says reducing criminal penalties for pot possession does "not generally lead to an immediate increase in total marijuana use, although the long-term effects of penalty reductions are less clear."

The report said its findings on marijuana use in relation to penalty reductions "implies that harsh penalty structures do not in themselves deter personal possession and private use of the drug."

The study was based on a survey of previous data, visits to nine states in which a law decriminalizing marijuana possession has been enacted or attempted and on interviews with state officials, the governors association said.

"Statewide data were used when available," the report said. "When such data did not exist, local data and the subjective estimates of knowledgeable political, criminal justice and other officials were used. Care was taken to interview individuals with differing views on the issue."

Only officials in Los Angeles told interviewers they had seen any increase in marijuana use which, in their opinion, related to removal of criminal penalties for possession of small amounts of marijuana.

"Data from Oregon since its decriminalization showed no increase in use during the first two years," the report said. "However, a third-year study does show an increase in use, although not to a level above the average level in other West Coast states."

The Oregon figures indicated that changes in the law may not have an immediate effect, but may result in a gradual long-term change in public feelings about the moral, social and medical propriety of marijuana use, the report said.

The report also said an analysis of medical literature indicates "the preponderance of evidence shows that marijuana is not physically addictive, and in infrequent or moderate use probably does not pose an immediate substantial health hazard to the individual."

But it added: "The effects of long-term heavy use by youthful individuals are unknown and are the subject of ongoing research."

Weaving show tonight

Due to current popularity of weaving as a hobby, the Pampa Fine Arts Association will sponsor a demonstration of the craft tonight.

Slated for 7:30 p.m. in the Pioneer Natural Gas Flame Room, 220 N. Ballard, the demonstration by members of the Palo Duro Handweavers Guild of Texas from Amarillo will include a movie of various types of looms. Displays will include yarn, looms and samples of weaving. Guild members will discuss various techniques of the ancient craft.

The demonstration is open to the public, with no charge for admission.

Mark Buzzard to be assistant DA here

Mark Buzzard, an attorney with the local firm Buzzard, Comer and Buzzard, has been named assistant district attorney, filling a position that was officially approved Tuesday by the Gray County Commissioners Court.

The announcement of Buzzard's appointment came this morning from Harold Comer, district attorney, who said of his new assistant, "I think he'll be a fine prosecuting attorney for the state and for the people of Gray County."

Buzzard's duties in the new job begin Friday. His salary will be $800 per month. Comer pointed out that the county will encounter no additional expense for the new position since Buzzard will be based in his current private practice office.

Comer said that no new secretary will be added to the staff; both he and Buzzard can be served by one.

Buzzard graduated in December 1975 from Texas Tech law school. He grew up in Pampa and is a graduate of Pampa High School. His wife, the former Vanessa Arthur of Pampa, currently is attending Tech Law School.

While pursuing his law degree, Buzzard's studies included some advanced courses in criminal law.

EVER STRIVING FOR TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by a government, with the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property and secure more freedom and keep it for themselves and others.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guide expressed in the Coveting Commandment.

Whacking the poor

Not content to have imposed hundreds of dollars worth of costs on new automobiles via mandated gadgetry, the politicians now want to further burden the used car market with regulatory nonsense.

The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) is presently contemplating a ridiculous plan to require used car dealers to post a sticker listing 61 itemized trouble zones on the vehicles they have for sale. This, we are told, is supposed to warn customers of what parts might go bad, presumably so as to encourage frequent trips to the repair garage.

The whole notion is preposterous, putting it mildly, a new chapter in bureaucratic busybodyism. The chances of a used car having 61 things wrong with it is highly unlikely, and most used car buyers expect — repeat, expect — they're not dumb — that two or three things will go wrong with any used car. The thought of 61 parts ready to fall off or go bad could make any driver neurotic.

The accuracy of used car dealers' estimates that the proposal will add $500 to the selling price of their vehicles is not known to us, but there can hardly be any question that it will add considerably to the price tags of used cars — the market for which, as the politicians should know, consists primarily of lower-income people.

Another case of the government keeping the poor poor.

Let's hope that the FTC has an attack of conscience and withdraws the proposal.

What we're hooked on

What is America's worst drug addiction problem?

Not marijuana. Not heroin. Not even tranquilizers.

Caffeine, the stimulant found in coffee but also in tea, cocoa, chocolate and soft drinks, is the most widely used drug in the United States today, says psychologist Dr. Betty Vandervliet, who teaches a course in drug addiction at Franklin Pierce College in Rindge, N.H.

Americans drink more coffee than anyone else in the world, she notes. And that's a lot of caffeine.

The body can get dependent upon caffeine and be very uncomfortable when there is a lack of the accustomed amount in the system — as many who have tried joining the boycott against high coffee prices have discovered. Technically, she says, this is an addiction.

How can you beat it? You can either go "cold turkey" or gradually wean yourself away from coffee. In the latter case, Dr. Vandervliet suggests making the coffee weaker and weaker by adding a little more cream with each cup. This gives the body more time to adjust. She also recommends substituting fruit juices or milk for coffee.

As with any addiction, the coffee addict, she says, "must change his thinking, change his lifestyle, so that he has control of his urges. It's not easy."

We — sip, slurp — would be the last to argue about that.

Report on new CBs

Last year, manufacturers of Citizens Band radios were worried about how they were going to unload all the 23-channel models that would still be in the pipeline when the new 40-channel models went on the market on Jan. 1.

The report from the field, however, is that the 23s are still selling well and the 40s not so well, or at least not as well as predicted. Rather than phasing out the 23s, some companies have stepped up production of them to meet the demand.

One of the reasons is the price differential between the two types. The 40-channel sets run 10 to 15 per cent higher than the 23s. But another reason seems to be the belief held by many CBers and would-be CBers that the new radios are not as good as the old. Rumors abound that they don't have as much power.

Not so, says the industry. William A. Thomas, president of one of the leading CB manufacturers (Pace), points out that not only do the 40-channel radios have the same power and modulation characteristics as the 23-channel type, but they offer greater range and flexibility in the upper 17 channels because of less interference.

Another plus is new circuitry designed to cut down interference with TV and hi-fi equipment. This has been a major source of complaint from the non-CB public.

Well, our free advice to the industry is to hang in there. The new models have only been available for three months, and if the Citizen Band boom is more than just a fad — and experts agree it is only the beginning of a revolution in personal communications — sales of the 40-channel radios have nowhere to go but up.

The average depth of the Pacific Ocean is 13,739 feet.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your work could be doubly frustrating today, mostly because you delay things until the last minute.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) If social pressures beset you today, decide which is more important: Peace of mind or doing what you feel is expected of you.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) For the sake of harmony on the home front, don't let outsiders butt into family matters. An agitator could stir up a peck of trouble.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Take care how you express yourself today. You could inadvertently offend someone with words that convey double meanings.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Someone you're very close to who is a poor manager may prevail on you to get him out of a bind. You must evaluate the risk involved.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You'll be judged by the company you keep today. Try to avoid impetuous or aggressive types, because you'll be painted with the same brush.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) While you won't mind helping others today, you'll be happy only if you act voluntarily. Unfortunately, your hand may be forced by an unfeeling person.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You could mistakenly feel challenged by a friend today. Analyze the situation and you'll act more rationally.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Success will elude you today because you're zeroed-in on the wrong target.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Steer clear of political or philosophical discussions today. Bitter exchanges could ensue.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) What you put into a joint venture today is likely to be greater than that of your associates. Take care. This could precipitate a bitter confrontation.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Usually you're quite easy to get along with. Today, stubbornness could jeopardize an important one-to-one relationship.

AMBASSADOR YOUNG:

UN tenure may be short

By ROBERTS ALLEN
WASHINGTON — No one would seem to be more secure in his job than Ambassador Andrew Young — but don't bet on it.

Inside odds are he will be replaced before the year is out.

On the surface that might appear far-fetched. But it's an old story in Washington that outward appearances can be decidedly deceptive. Frequently the reality is quite different.

That is definitely the case with Ambassador Young.

Externally all seems to be amity and harmony between the brass, free-wheeling and free-talking former Atlanta Congressman and the White House and State Department. He still has ready access to President Carter and Secretary of State Vance, and both continue to speak cordially about him.

But behind the surface gloss, there are increasing signs that patience and tolerance with Young are wearing thin.

Notably that is true in the State Department. This is not necessarily exceptional in view of the fact that the Department bears the brunt of his grandstanding and headline-grabbing. It's the State Department that has to defuse and disavow his eruptions and emanations.

But this is not really what is increasingly annoying administration policy-makers.

Their intensifying grievance runs much deeper than that.

Misplaced

What they are holding against Young is plain and simple lack of good common sense.

His complaint is that his bombastic brassiness and racial aggressiveness evinces disturbing unawareness of the responsibility and significance of the highly sensitive position he holds as this country's ambassador to the United Nations and all that implies.

In other words, Young isn't just an envoy to a particular country; he is a diplomat functioning on the world stage.

And he is performing that important role not as the spokesman of his government but as the policymaker of his government — the tail wagging the dog, and not the other way around.

That Young is fully cognizant of what he's doing was bluntly voiced in his talk to the National Newspaper Publishers Association — comprising a majority of the 200 black newspapers in the U.S. To resounding cheers and applause he challengingly declared:

"It's been rough. Every time I open my mouth, I put my foot in it. Well, I've got a big mouth and I intend to keep opening it."

Unquestionably that's a winning technique on the political hustings. It served Young effectively as a civil rights crusader and candidate for Congress. But as U.S. ambassador to the UN, he is presumably not running for office or proselytizing.

That's the growing behind-the-scenes gripe against Young — and why he won't be around as long as it would seem he might be in view of President Carter's once effusive characterization of him as "the finest elected official I have ever known."

The President has amply demonstrated agile facility for changing his mind, and Young wasn't Secretary Vance's choice for UN ambassador to start with.

In the 1960s, when Vance was Deputy Secretary of Defense under President Johnson, Young was planning, organizing and leading militant civil rights demonstrations and marches throughout the country.

Under Fire

Definitely not helping Young is increasing antipathy toward him among former colleagues in the House of Representatives.

An instance of this occurred during the sharp wrangle over the bill to repeal the Byrd amendment that permitted importation of Rhodesian metallurgical chrome despite the UN embargo imposed by the Soviet-Arab-African bloc.

During Young's African junket, he swaggeringly proclaimed that Congress would revoke the Byrd amendment. Neither the White House nor

State Department had said anything about that, but after Young forcefully set the stage, they had to go along.

During the House debate, he undertook some personal lobbying in the chamber.

Former members have the "privilege of the floor." But they are barred when legislation they are personally interested in is under discussion. Young was clearly out of order and was briskly notified of that.

Rep. Robert Auman, R-Md., indafatigable "watchdog of the House," sent word to Young that if he didn't leave instantly, Bauman would publicly invoke the rules against him and have him escorted out.

Young left forthwith. Bauman blisteringly assailed Young for naming Brady Tyson a member of the U.S. delegation to the UN Human Rights Commission — where the ordained minister and long-time leftist created a world sensation by "apologizing" for alleged U.S. government participation in the overthrow of the Salvador Allende Marxist regime in Chile.

Both the White House and State Department disavowed Tyson's statement. President Carter characterized it as "inappropriate"; the State Department curtly summoned Tyson back to the U.S. for "reprimand."

Detailing Tyson's record as an "avowed Marxist," Bauman waded into Young to appoint this man to any post. All this calls into serious question the activities of Young, who is now seeking to expand his UN empire by establishing a Washington office at the expense of taxpayers, including Capitol Hill lobbyists.

President Carter should give prompt consideration to the future of Ambassador Young at the United Nations and his continued service in any official capacity.

That's no idle demand. There will be more as time goes on — and from within the administration itself, where Young is far from a shining Sir Galahad.

IN WASHINGTON

Martha Angle and Robert Walters

OSHA fails its inspection

By Martha Angle and Robert Walters

WASHINGTON (NEA) — There's nothing so gratifying as the spectacle of an unloved bureaucracy hoist by its own petard, so the chuckles were inevitable when the word went forth this month that OSHA had inspected itself — for a change — and flunked.

After endless horror stories about small businessmen subjected to nit-picking harassment by over-eager snoops from the Occupational Safety and Health Administration, it was quite delightful to confirm that the agency itself is not without sin.

Right here in their fancy new Labor Department digs at the foot of Capitol Hill, OSHA inspectors turned up 16 health and safety violations ranging from inadequate office lighting to improperly maintained fire extinguishers.

And to add insult to injury, they also gave a failing grade to the health and safety programs of OSHA's "parent," the Department of Labor itself, after a year-long evaluation of the Washington headquarters and a half-dozen regional offices. Labor Secretary Ray Marshall, who has barely had time to learn what OSHA is, swiftly pronounced himself "shocked and distressed" and promised to set his departmental house in order immediately, if not sooner.

Marshall and the OSHA types valiantly tried to grab a little credit for publicly confessing their sins, but the fact of the matter is that the self-critical report was released only after an enterprising broadcast journalist got wind of it and called up to inquire.

Unfortunately for Marshall, it's going to take more than a mea culpa and some internal house-cleaning to solve the problems of OSHA, which has had a dismal record since its creation six years ago.

The new Labor secretary candidly acknowledged that the agency is even more of a mess than he anticipated, and he blamed its sorry state on the Nixon and Ford administrations.

"I realize that this was a program forced upon a reluctant administration by Congress," he said recently. "The tangled history of its first six years illustrates what happens when people are asked to enforce legislation they don't believe in." Marshall said OSHA in many ways had been "sabotaged" from its inception by the very people who were supposed to make it work. He promised to "change the agency's direction and to provide new leadership dedicated to fulfilling the purpose of American workers from hazards on the job."

"Good administration takes time to effect," Marshall cautioned. "We cannot undo the consequences of six years of neglect overnight. That's why I ask that the Congress, the public and the press give us a little breathing space, a little time to set this important program on the right course."

Fair enough. Nobody can perform miracles, and Marshall is entitled to a reasonable grace period to straighten out the shambles at OSHA.

But that doesn't mean that Congress should abdicate its responsibility for an agency it created, which is what the lawmakers seem inclined to do.

Innumerable members of the House and Senate took potshots at OSHA on the campaign trail last fall, but when the agency's new boss, Eula Bingham, was on Capitol Hill last week for Senate confirmation hearings, only one senator — Labor Committee Chairman Harrison J. Williams, D-N.J. — even bothered to show up to ask her questions.

He tossed her a couple of softball and she replied with polite circumlocutions that added up to "I don't know." It was not an auspicious beginning for the new era of reform which Marshall has promised and which Congress purports to desire.

A clean sweep

The Pride of Pampa band and the Pampa Junior High School band each won sweepstakes awards during ULL competition in Amarillo last week. Displaying the senior high sweepstakes trophy, left, are Judy Bridwell and Pam Mann. Junior high band members with their trophy are Lori Koenig and Janette Taylor. Only four sweepstakes trophies were awarded with others going to high school bands from Hereford and Canyon. Pampa Junior High School band was the only junior high band to take home a sweepstakes. The sweepstakes goes to bands who earn top ratings in several areas of competition. Directing the Pride of Pampa band was Jeff Doughten and Bill Surface. Joe DiCosimo conducted the junior high band. (Pampa News photos by Gene Anderson)

USAF invades Pampa?

The United States Air Force apparently is staging an invasion of Pampa and The News has not yet been able to learn why.

An Air Force official reportedly has contacted a local motel manager and arranged to rent 13 rooms for a period of almost a year beginning in early January of 1978.

There will be 10 rooms for two men each and three singles. Later in the year three more singles reportedly will be added to the number.

Congressman Jack Hightower's office was contacted but a spokesman there said Hightower had no knowledge of the project and a later contact with the office revealed that it might be some time before an Air Force liaison man in the Pentagon can learn the reason behind the Pampa "invasion."

City Manager Mack Wofford said this morning that he had not been contacted by anyone about the Air Force plans and had no knowledge of or speculation about reasons behind them.

The motel manager indicated the total cost for the rooms would be about $80,000.

He said when he asked the Air Force spokesman who contacted him what the rooms were for, the only reply he got was "They are for the Air Force."

The News will publish additional information when it becomes available.

FDA will recall 945 pacemakers

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Food and Drug Administration today announced the recall of two types of heart pacemakers that have been implanted in cardiac patients across the country.

The FDA said the Interlith pacemaker may produce an abnormal additional pulse and recommended that physicians run new electrocardiogram tests on their patients with the pace-makers if the company does not already have such a test on file. The batteries in the Vitatron pacemakers, the agency said, may run down prematurely, and it recommended that doctors monitor the devices every three months and remove them when they show signs of weakening.

Chopper crash settlement reached

STINNETT — A settlement agreement has been reached between Hutchinson County commissioners and the owner of a Canyon airport where the county's helicopter crash landed late last year.

The commissioners agreed to replace airport equipment damaged during the Nov. 8, 1976 crash. Owner of the airstrip, Wayne Early of Amarillo, impounded the chopper following the crash.

To be replaced by the county are a 500-gallon fuel tank and stand, and two barrels of weed killer.

The helicopter was on a test flight following repairs when the crash occurred. There were no injuries.

Commissioners said about $25,000 in county funds were used for the repairs, made by Hubbard Helicopters of Amarillo over a period of more than two years.

The helicopter is to be moved from the airport to Borger, with details of the transport arranged by County Judge Bob Carp.

In other action at Monday's meeting of the commissioners, approval was made to move the county offices now located in the former Coronado School building. Judge Carp estimated cost of remodeling the school building into offices at $125,000 or more.

The court approved the purchase of refueling equipment now being used at the county airport, at a cost of $11,240 from Phillips Petroleum Co.

Following recent criticism of the county dump grounds from several state offices including the Texas Air Quality Board, commissioners agreed to hire an attendant for the dump. The attendant is to be paid $150 monthly plus sole right of salvage. Duties will include instructing people where to unload trash, and prevention of misuse of the grounds when possible. The county leases the dump site, located east of Hutchinson County Airport, from Johnson Cattle Co. for $1 per year.

The commissioners voted to hire Mark Smith as assistant county attorney.

The plat of Double Diamond Estates was approved for Arrowhead Development.

Aliens, drugs caught in raid

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — A pre-dawn raid at a Brownsville lumber-yard netted officers five illegal aliens and 193 bottles of codeine-spiked cough syrup.

Hours later, officers added 203 more bottles to their cache when a man was stopped near Raymondville and the bottles were discovered in his automobile.

More than 800 tablets were also confiscated after authorities were tipped to an illegal alien and drug smuggling operation. Investigators said the cough syrup and pills were bound for Houston.

Assassination study continues

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House assassinations committee, granted two years to do its work, will lay to rest all the rumors and rumors of rumors...

...about the murders of John F. Kennedy and Martin Luther King Jr., its chairman, promises. A sharply divided House extended the committee's life through 1978 by a vote of 230 to 181 on Wednesday after its controversial chief counsel, Richard A. Sprague, resigned.

Chairman Louis Stokes, D-Ohio, said an unofficial count had indicated that if Sprague had not resigned, the committee might have been killed by some 20 votes. He and other panel members praised Sprague and said he had been unfairly maligned by the committee's former chairman, Rep. Henry B. Gonzalez, D-Tex.

Gonzalez quit the panel last month when its members and the House leadership refused to back his attempt to fire Sprague.

Stokes said he expects to obtain a $2.7 million budget this year. At one point, the panel had asked for $6.5 million.

Stokes told the House the committee is pursuing new leads and talking to new witnesses. But critics demanding proof tried to force the first secret House session since the 1880s to make the panel spell out its evidence.

That effort was defeated 226 to 185 on Stokes' argument that leaks of the witnesses' names could put some of their lives in danger.

Rep. B.F. Sisk, D-Calif., complained that at a closed briefing on the evidence, "the only thing I heard was that you have evidence that X overheard Y and Z say something."

Octogons pick officers

The Octagon Club of Pampa High School will install a new slate of officers at 7 p.m. today in the Pampa Optimist Club, 601 E. Craven.

New president of the group will be Tim Reddell and Eddie Brown will be vice president. Secretary will be Brian Bailey and Zach Adcock will take over as treasurer.

The club, a newly organized youth group sponsored by the Optimist Club of Pampa, is open to all service-oriented youths in grades 10-12.

Installing the officers will be Don Bills, lieutenant governor of the North Texas District, Zone 1, Optimist International. Donnie Hughes, high school student body president and charter member of the Octagon Club, will be master of ceremonies.

Man hospitalized after fire here

A 20-year-old Pampa man is listed in satisfactory condition today in the Highland General Hospital intensive care unit following a fire Wednesday morning.

Mike Griffith of 609 Sloan was admitted to the hospital after suffering burns when some solvent he was using to clean tools ignited and exploded.

Griffith, an employee of Full-Data Surveys one-half miles west of Pampa on Texas 152, was reportedly burned on his face, arms and hands.

Mrs. Ralph Hipkins said this morning that a co-worker threw Griffith to the ground and smothered the flames. She and her husband are owners of Full-Data Surveys.

Griffith was the only person injured in the fire, according to Mrs. Hipkins.

"We were mighty fortunate (no one else was injured)," she said.

Mrs. Hipkins added that Griffith would be transferred to an Amarillo hospital later for plastic surgery.

The Pampa Fire Department which was called to the scene said a truck was on fire inside the building. A fire department spokesman said Griffith was washing some parts in gasoline when the fire started.

Counterterrorists plans revealed for Israel

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — The Israeli government has cracked open the door on its counterterrorist operations abroad, then slammed it shut after a tantalizing glimpse.

"Now it can be told... in part," said the headline in the Jerusalem Post Wednesday over the announcement that five suspected terrorists will be tried in Israel 15 months after they were captured while allegedly preparing to shoot down an Israeli airliner outside the country.

The authorities released only a few bits of information about the affair, but reporters learned that the attempt on the El Al plane was made at Nairobi, the capital of Kenya.

A government announcement said the five were members of the radical Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine (PFLP). It said they had Soviet missiles — apparently small rockets fired from the shoulder — and were preparing to fire them at an El Al airliner loaded with more than 100 people.

Officials said three of the suspects are Arabs and two are West Germans, but they would not give their identities. Little more information will be revealed to the public from the trial, which is to be held in secret before a military court.

El Al stops at Nairobi on its Tel Aviv-Johannesburg route. Officials would not say how the five were caught in January 1976 and ended up in Israeli custody, but a report from Bonn, the West German capital, said Kenyan police arrested them, and they were secretly extradited to Israel. Lawyer Leah Tsemel, who often defends radicals in court here, said the Germans were Thomas Reuter, 24, of Warendorf, and Birgit Schult, 23, of Enkenbach. These identifications were confirmed by the West German embassy, which protested against Israel's holding them for 15 months without letting their government know about it.

They will be tried under a unique Israeli law allowing prosecution of those who attack or attempt to attack Israeli citizens outside Israel.

There was speculation that Israeli intelligence learned of the plot and tipped the Kenyans off. This could not be confirmed, but it fits a known pattern of aggressive Israeli counterterrorist operations in Europe, the Middle East and Africa.

Labor may sue Teamsters

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Labor Department, broadening its crackdown on the Teamsters Union, is threatening to sue a union benefit fund in Ohio in connection with $2.5 million in fees paid to fund officials.

Sources familiar with the investigation say the department is challenging as excessive the fees paid to two Dayton attorneys who administered the Ohio Highway Drivers' Welfare Fund for 27,000 truckers since 1972.

The sources said the department is seeking to bring the fund into "voluntary compliance" with the 1974 federal pension reform law. Among other things, the government is demanding the ouster of the fund's administrator, Robert C. Kneer Jr.

His father, Robert C. Kneer Sr., administered the fund in the past.

Labor Department records filed by the Ohio fund show the father was paid $482,763 in 1972 and $575,573 in 1973 to administer the plan. His son took over in 1974 and received $878,915 that year and $627,746 in 1975, the last year for which records are available.

The smaller Ohio welfare fund, with assets of $26 million, provides dental, surgical and other medical benefits to its members. As administrators, the Kneers have been responsible for overseeing its daily operations.

Independent pension experts say the fees paid the Kneers are far in excess of those paid to administrators of similar pension and welfare plans.

In contrast, Daniel J. Shannon received $61,000 last year as administrator of the 450,000-member Central States pension plan.

Knee Jr. declined comment during a telephone interview when asked about the fees and other aspects of the government's probe.

Grand jury indicts sheriff

CLAUDE, Tex. (AP) — An Armstrong County grand jury returned cattle theft indictments Wednesday against former Sheriff Evert Johnson and his son, Roger.

The 60-year-old former law officer and his 26-year-old son are charged with stealing nine head of cattle from two ranches. The cattle were found on the elder Johnson's ranch by inspectors from the Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association.

They were previously indicted in Donley County on charges they stole feed.

Johnson has said he is innocent of the charges and that they result from a misunderstanding.

Belly dancing addictive says Houston instructor

HOUSTON (AP) — There were fat bellies and skinny bellies and round bellies and flat bellies and all of the bellies were bouncing, flopping, twisting and turning.

In the center was Mahal Garifallos, an enchanting whisp of a woman who was moving her torso in every conceivable direction, first fast and furious and then slow and sensuous.

Mahal, 24, is a belly dance instructor and her students ranged in age from small children to grandmothers. All were attempting to either get rid of the excess fat, or tone the muscles, and eliminate stress.

Mahal said, "Many of the women begin taking this as an exercise course because belly dancing uses all parts of the body."

"But later, most get hooked on it, begin enjoying it as a dance, a form of expression. After about six months they all have more confidence in themselves, are pleased how they look, feel more outgoing, lose their shyness. Husbands constantly tell us how their wives have changed for the good and the men do enjoy watching the wives perform, she said.

Asked if men in need of physical conditioning could take belly dancing lessons, Mahal answered, "There are men who do belly dancing. It is more dynamic than the style done by the women. We haven't had enough demand for a men's class, but if enough wanted it, we would teach them."

The Bacchanal School of Belly Dancing was started in 1975 by George Garifallos. He was so pleased with the young instructor Mahal that he married her last May.

Garifallos said belly dancing was a part of many ancient civilizations. "And in many countries," he said, "belly dancing was used as a preparation for natural childbirth."

Texas weather

By The Associated Press Many Texans found the weather a trifle nippy as they awoke to start this last day of March.

The mercury skidded a little below freezing again in the Panhandle, dipping to 28 degrees at Dalhart and 30 at Amarillo in early morning. Readings elsewhere ranged up to 72 at Brownsville on the south tip of the state.

It was drizzly from the Upper Texas Coast into Louisiana and clouds overhung much of South

National weather

By The Associated Press Skies remained overcast in the Midwest following a winter storm that dumped four feet of snow on some areas.

Storm and snow warnings and travel advisories were lifted Wednesday.

Meanwhile, South Dakota Gov. Richard Kneip declared an emergency in western parts of the state, making counties eligible for state assistance in clearing roads.

Many roads remained impassible in the wake of the storm, which left from one to four feet of snow since Monday. Rescue teams trying to help stranded motorists were hampered by winds gusting to 40 miles per hour.

Temperatures dropped below freezing overnight in parts of the Southern Plains and mid-Mississippi Valley.

Thunderstorms continued from Texas through the Gulf Coast states, across Georgia and into South Carolina. Fog forming in Texas resulted in travel advisories.

Rain also was reported in the Appalachians, New England, the upper Great Lakes region and central California.

Thunderstorms that brought up to seven inches of rain to some Georgia communities over the past two days were to end today. Warnings of possible flash flooding and tornadoes expired late Wednesday.

But the Army Corps of Engineers ordered a suspension of electric power generation at Georgia three dams to reduce the chance of downstream flooding.

Early morning temperatures ranged from 2 degrees below zero at Havre, Mont.

Advice

Dear Abby
By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I'm 22 and John (not his real name) is 29. We've been dating steadily for two years.

John is a fireman paramedic, which brings me to my problem. About three months ago John's squad responded to a car accident in which a very pretty 26-year-old blonde was slightly injured. (I'll call her Nancy.) Nancy wasn't seriously hurt, but she was hospitalized for 24 hours and then released. John happened to be the paramedic who treated her at the scene of the accident, and since then Nancy can't do enough to repay him for "saving her life."

She found out his name and station and wrote him a thank you letter, which I thought was very nice. But she didn't stop there. She's been dropping in to visit him at the station, bringing little gifts. She even baked him a birthday cake!

I think she's carrying her gratitude a little too far, don't you? John says he has no interest in her, but he can't stop her from coming to the station and bringing him gifts, and he doesn't want to be rude or hurt her feelings.

How would you handle something like this, Abby? Should I talk to Nancy and ask her to please lay off my guy?

IN LOVE AND INSECURE

DEAR IN: No. He's not "your" guy. (Nobody owns anybody else.) If John wants to discourage Nancy's visits and gifts, he'll find a way. Let him handle it.

DEAR ABBY: Our first child died shortly before his second birthday. In offering condolences some of our friends said, "You'll have another one." Or, "It's all for the best." Or, "It was a blessing."

In behalf of all of us who have lost children, I have this message: We will never again see that child who was with us for such a brief time. He wasn't just "a baby." He was an individual—entirely different from any other child we may have in the future.

If my husband were to die, I doubt that anyone would say, "You'll have another one."

Abby, please tell those well-meaning people who want to say something comforting to parents who have lost a child to just say, "I'm sorry."

I hope you find this letter worthy of space in your column.

A MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: I do. And thanks for setting many of us straight.

DEAR ABBY: I have a friend who gave up cigarettes because his doctor said he had to. Now this friend smokes a pipe! I think he's just kidding himself and told him so. He insists that he doesn't inhale when smoking his pipe, so it's perfectly harmless. Meanwhile he's got a pipe stuck in his face all the time, and he's busy lighting it every two minutes, creating huge clouds of smelly smoke.

IS a pipe harmless?

SKEPTICAL

DEAR SKEPTICAL: Only if you don't light it. For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (24¢) envelope.

Ask Dr. Lamb
Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I read in the paper that Burt Reynolds lost 30 pounds in just three weeks. He had a half grapefruit, unsweetened, for breakfast with a cup of black coffee. For lunch he had a single scoop of cottage cheese and a peeled fresh peach. He skipped dinner every other day. When he did have dinner it was limited to six ounces of steak, or six ounces of ground beef or 12 to 16 ounces of fish. With this he had a salad with no salad dressing.

When he felt like he was going to give in to his hunger he jogged around the block. Do you approve of this diet? Is it really possible to lose 30 pounds in three weeks that way? If you think it is OK I'd like to try it.

DEAR READER — I am afraid Burt Reynolds knows more about movies than he does about dieting. Let's examine what Burt really did. If he lost a pound of fat a day for three weeks that would be 21 pounds. He would have to use 3500 calories a day more than he took in. Even on total starvation that would be impossible unless he was doing lots of strenuous physical activity every day. It is more likely that he used closer to 2500 or 2800 calories a day while he was on his diet. That is not equal to the calories in a pound of fat.

When anyone starts on a bad diet like that one which markedly decreases the food intake the first week there will be a loss of normal body water — your body weight is half water — and the digestive system will empty out. You can lose between five and 10 pounds of weight (water, not fat) that way. That accounts for part of his weight loss.

Polly's pointers
Polly Cramer

Dear Polly — I spilled some clear epoxy glue on my non-stainless wood table so please tell me how to remove it without damaging the table.

Also, did you know that bath soap will last longer if you unwrap the bar and let it set for a few weeks before using it? — JUDY W.

DEAR JUDY — Some problems have no satisfactory answers and I am afraid yours is one of them as far as I can learn. Epoxy glue is made to stick and it really does. My only suggestion would be to rub the glue with fine, fine steel wool that has been dipped in liquid wax and perhaps you could remove the dab of glue so it is at least the same level as the rest of the table top. This would have to be done very carefully so as not to mar the surface around the spot. It will leave it with a mark but perhaps being even with the table top will make it less conspicuous. If some reader has had a similar mishap and found a solution do let us know. — POLLY.

DEAR POLLY — Mrs. J. C. wrote asking how she could whiten a white nylon baby dress that is embroidered with real silk. Anyone fortunate enough to own a deep freeze can whiten nylons. First wash and rinse and, after the water has been pressed out with the hands, place loosely in a plastic bag and freeze. Leave in the freezer several days. — MRS. T.C.

Big Bend beauty

BIG BEND RANCH, Tex. (AP) — Locked in the rugged, craggy mountain ranges of West Texas is a variety of scenic wonders virtually unknown to most Texans.

And Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong wants $8 million to secure the area for the state.

"I hunted on the ranch several times over recent years, and was struck by its unique beauty," Armstrong said of the Big Bend Ranch in southeastern Presidio County.

"Nowhere in Texas is there such a variety of pure scenic beauty and geological, biological and archaeological phenomena."

Armstrong recently had a lawmaker introduce in the Texas Legislature a bill to appropriate $8 million to buy the ranch, 300,000 acres of what he says is unmatched in its variety of natural beauties.

The ranch lies near Big Bend National Park and is largely owned by the Diamond A Ranches of Roswell, N.M., headed by oil company executive Robert O. Anderson.

It is a starkly beautiful region of spring-fed creeks, sparkling running water, giant cottonwoods, towering waterfalls, willows and ash trees and 28 miles of a spectacular wild river canyon.

"Mr. Anderson told me two years ago that the ranch was for sale, and gave me—actually the state of Texas—first refusal to buy," Armstrong said.

"It was not a case of the General Land Office going out looking for a ranch to buy but rather being in a position to take advantage of a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity for the people of Texas."

He said the ranch contains 212,000 acres of patented land and some 38,000 acres of State Public School Lands, administered by his agency.

The selling price includes all minerals and improvements such as an adobe residence, a foreman's home, a large hunting lodge and bunkhouse.

The ranch, Armstrong said, will sell—"if not to the state, then somewhere else, and the opportunity for the state to obtain it will likely be gone forever."

The scenic beauties and spectacular vistas include a 28-mile stretch of the Rio Grande which cuts through some of the most spectacular canyons in the world.

Madrid Falls, on spring-fed Fresno Creek, is one of the state's highest and one of the only two known perennial waterfalls west of the Pecos.

The canyons of the major creeks on the ranch are carved from forbidding but starkly beautiful mountains and bear names reflecting the area's Mexican heritage and history.

"Rare mammals include the desert kit fox, the mountain lion on occasions, when crossing from Mexico, the gray wolf," Armstrong said.

Staff members and associated scientists have identified and catalogued 82 species of plants, 31 species of fish, nine amphibians, 40 reptiles, 43 mammals and 101 different species of birdlife.

It is a prime area for mule deer, dove and quail.

The ranch offers a smorgasbord of geological, archaeological and biological potential, Armstrong said, a natural laboratory of sorts for scientific study.

Opponents question the state buying more land for a park with the Big Bend National facility just next door, but Armstrong says the primary reason is water.

"Big Bend Ranch has an ample supply of water, both in its spring-fed creeks and a vast underground supply," he said.

Lack of water in the national park has helped trigger a study by the National Parks Service to declare a large part of Big Bend a wilderness area. This would leave only the Chisos Basin and accessible areas along the Rio Grande as parts of the park proper. Armstrong said attendance has jumped 70 per cent in two years at the major parks in West Texas such as Big Bend, Guadalupe National Park and Davis Mountains State Park.

"Every indicator points to a continued increase in this influx of tourists during the coming years," he said.

Ranchers, plagued by coyotes and mountain lions, have voiced fears that if the land becomes state property, it will become a haven for predators.

Jupiter is the largest planet in our solar system. Mercury is the smallest.

At wit's end

By ERMA BOMBECK

A reader vows this is a true story. In her Sunday school class one morning she asked, "And what did the disciples say before they ate the fish?"

A five-year-old boy in the front row waved his hand vigorously and said, "I know. They said, 'These fish got any bones in them?'"

There is every reason to believe this story is true.

Five-year-olds are without a doubt, the most suspicious diners in this world. They will eat mud (raw or baked), rocks, paste, crayons, ballpoint pens, pillows, moving goldfish, cigarette butts, electrical plugs, soap, cleansing cream, cat food and newspapers.

Try to coax a bit of beef stew into their mouths and they'll give you that look — like the puppy when you stand over him with the Sunday paper rolled up.

I got so much food spit back into my face when my kids were small, I put windshield wipers on my glasses. Then one day my husband said, "How many babies died from malnutrition last year while playing in their food?"

"That's not the point. She doesn't trust me."

"What trust?" he said, "she's a finicky eater."

"She is not finicky. She eats anything — just so long as it isn't on a spoon and my arm isn't attached to it."

"Look, when she gets a little older, she'll change and will probably eat us out of house and home."

He was wrong. She was the only kid in nursery school with her own food taster. My hot dogs never tasted as good as the ones you dipped in watered-down mustard and paid 60 cents for at a football game. My cherry pies never created the excitement of those under heating lamps at the Golden Arches. My pizzas never tasted as wonderful as the cold ones that stuck to the lid of the cardboard box.

One day she said, "Boy, I just had the greatest meal at Kathy's house. Her mother is some cook!"

I raced to the phone. "Helen! What did you have for dinner last night?" My daughter raved about it.

"Potato chips and cold cuts." I try not to overreact. After all, you burn a kid's tongue once when he's 15 months old and he carries a grudge forever. That's what motherhood is all about.

But last year, when she sent Sara Lee a Mother's Day card. That was cruel.

Elegant desserts observe Passover

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

If a little is good, a lot is better. This especially is true of desserts and baked goods for Passover. The Passover holiday which begins sundown April 2 calls for a very special feast to commemorate the Hebrew exodus from Egypt. At this time Jews throughout the world observe strict dietary laws during this very traditional celebration.

Sweets always have been a perfect closer for the holiday meal.

ORANGE GRAPEFRUIT TORTE

- 1 1/2 cups sugar, divided
- 1 cup finely ground almonds
- 2/3 cup potato starch
- 1/8 teaspoon grated grapefruit rind
- 9 egg whites

In a large bowl mix one-half cup sugar, almonds, potato starch and grapefruit rind. In a large bowl beat egg whites until foamy. Gradually beat in remaining 1 cup sugar and continue beating until stiff peaks form. Fold egg whites into almond mixture. On brown paper, draw five seven-inch circles. Place brown paper on baking sheet. Turn meringue into pastry bag with large star tip. Pipe six small kisses on brown paper and pipe circles inside outlines on paper. Fill in circles with remaining meringue. If pastry bag is not available drop kisses from teaspoon and spread meringue inside circles. Bake in 300-degree oven 1 hour, until dry and lightly browned. Turn off oven and allow meringue to cool in oven.

- Filling:
- 3 tablespoons potato starch
  - 3/4 cup orange juice
  - 3/4 cup grapefruit juice
  - 3/4 cup sugar
  - 1/8 teaspoon salt
  - 9 egg yolks

In the top of a double boiler stir potato starch with a little juice until dissolved. Add remaining orange and grapefruit juice, sugar and salt. Beat in egg yolks. Place over boiling water and cook, stirring frequently, until mixture thickens and mounds when dropped from a spoon 13 to 16 minutes. Mixture will be lumpy. Chill for 1 to 2 hours. To assemble torte, spread top of each meringue layer with orange-grapefruit filling. Stack layers and place kisses on top. Garnish with orange and grapefruit sections. Makes 8 servings.

PASSOVER ORANGE CREAM PIE

- Pie Crust:
- 1/2 cup matzo meal
  - 3/4 cup finely chopped almonds
  - 1/4 cup sugar
  - 6 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted

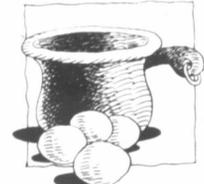

In a medium bowl mix all ingredients. Press on the bottom and sides of a greased nine-inch pie plate. Bake in 400-degree oven 20 minutes, until golden brown. Crust will slide to bottom of pan. When removed from oven, immediately push crust up sides of pie plate with a spoon or spatula. Cool completely.

- Filling:
- 1 1/4 cups potato starch
  - 1 1/4 cups milk
  - 2/3 cups sugar
  - 1/8 teaspoon salt
  - 5 eggs, beaten
  - 1 1/4 cups orange juice
  - 1/2 teaspoon grated orange rind

In the top of a double boiler mix potato starch with a little milk until dissolved. Add remaining milk, sugar and salt. Beat in eggs. Stir in orange juice and rind. Place over boiling water and cook, stirring frequently, until mixture thickens and mounds when dropped from a spoon, 15 to 20 minutes. Mixture will be lumpy. Turn into prepared pie crust. Chill, covered with waxed paper, 3 hours. Pie is best when served same day. Makes 8 servings.

PASSOVER FRUIT PUFFS

- 1/2 cup orange juice
- 1/2 cup water
- 1/3 cup butter or margarine
- 1 cup matzo meal
- 1/8 teaspoon salt
- 4 eggs

In medium saucepan combine orange juice, water and butter. Bring to a boil. Add matzo meal, stirring constantly until well blended. Remove from heat. Beat in eggs one at a time. Drop by heaping tablespoons onto a greased baking sheet. Bake in 450-degree oven 10 minutes. Reduce temperature to 325-degrees and bake 20 to 25 minutes longer, or until puffs are browned and dry. Cool on wire rack. Cut cap from top and scoop out inside. Fill with Orange Fruit Filling*, replace top. Makes 16 puffs.

- *ORANGE FRUIT FILLING
- 1/4 cup sugar
  - 2 tablespoons potato starch
  - 1 cup orange juice
  - 1 package (10 ounces) frozen raspberries, thawed

In medium saucepan mix sugar and potato starch. Stir in orange juice. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and comes to a boil. Stir in raspberries and simmer 1 minute, continuing to stir. Chill.

PASSOVER STRAWBERRY AMBROSIA SHORTCAKE

- Cake batter:
- 8 eggs, separated
  - 1/2 cups sugar
  - 2/3 cups orange juice
  - 1 teaspoon grated orange rind
  - 3/4 cup Passover cake meal
  - 1/2 cup potato starch
  - 1/4 teaspoon salt
  - 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
  - 1/3 cup finely chopped nuts
  - 1 cup heavy cream, whipped
- Strawberry Ambrosia Topping:
- 1 carton strawberries, washed, hulled and sliced

*Strawberry Ambrosia: 1 carton strawberries, washed, hulled and sliced

- 2 cups Florida orange sections**
- 2 medium bananas, sliced
- 1/3 cup flaked coconut
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 1 cup heavy cream
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 tablespoon sugar

For shortcake, beat egg yolks until thick and lemon-colored. Gradually add sugar, beating after each addition until mixture is light but very thick. Add orange juice and beat well (about 3 minutes on electric mixer). Stir in orange rind. Sift together cake meal, potato starch, salt and cinnamon. Add nuts and mix lightly. Fold dry ingredients gently into beaten egg yolks. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Gently fold into cake batter, blending well. Spoon into 9 or 10-inch ungreased tube pan. Bake in 350-degree oven for 1 hour or until done.

While cake is baking, make ambrosia. Place strawberries, oranges, bananas and coconut in bowl. Sprinkle with sugar. Let stand at room temperature. Whip cream with vanilla and one tablespoon sugar until soft peaks form; chill.

When cake is done, invert pan and cool cake before removing. Cut into 2 layers with serrated knife. Place bottom layer on plate. Spread with one-third of whipped cream and top with two-thirds of ambrosia. Pour juices (from sugared fruit) over the ambrosia and top with another one-third of whipped cream. Center second cake layer over filling, spread with remaining whipped cream and top with remaining ambrosia. Makes 8 servings.

**To section oranges, cut slice from top, then cut off peel in strips from top to bottom, cutting deep enough to remove white membrane. Or cut off peel round and round spiral fashion. Go over fruit again to remove any remaining white membrane. Cut along side of each dividing membrane from outside to middle of core. Remove section by section.

(NOTE: Shortcake may be prepared with bakery Passover sponge cake layers.)

Tulip cake for easter

- CHERRY TULIP CAKE
- 1 cup sifted cake flour
  - 1 1/2 cups sugar
  - 1 1/4 cups egg whites (10-12)
  - 1 teaspoon cream of tartar
  - 1/2 teaspoon salt
  - 1/2 cup chopped red maraschino cherries
  - 2 tablespoons cherry syrup
  - 4 egg yolks, well beaten
  - 1/2 teaspoon vanilla
  - Cherry icing*

Sift together flour and one-half cup sugar. Reserve. In large electric mixer bowl, beat egg whites until frothy, sprinkle with cream of tartar and salt and continue beating until stiff but not dry. Gradually beat in remaining sugar. Fold in flour mixture about one-fourth cup at a time. Divide mixture into 2 equal parts. Fold cherries and syrup into one part. Fold egg yolks and vanilla into other part. Put batters by spoonful into ungreased 10-inch tube pan alternating pink and yellow batters. Bake in 325-degree oven about 1 hour and 15 minutes. Invert pan until cake is cool. Then remove from pan. Cool completely. Frost with Cherry Icing.

*To Make Cherry Icing: In small bowl, combine 3 cups sifted confectioners' sugar, one-fourth cup soft butter or margarine, 2 tablespoons milk, 3 tablespoons cherry syrup and dash of salt. Mix well until blended. Garnish as desired. Makes one 10-inch cake.

Where else but America?

Daze of beer, boredom

By JULES LOH
AP Special Correspondent
DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Moose Messer is the new president of the Wholesale Beer Distributors of Iowa, duly installed in convention assembled. Did someone say, where else but America?

Where else has that exercise in excess known as a convention become a rite of spring? Where else do grown citizens devote themselves to three days of booze and boredom in the name of commerce, or education, or dentistry, or even, for heaven's sake, mental health?

The busiest man in this town last week had to be the ladder climber who changes the welcome sign over the parking lot outside the Airport Inn.

Inside, in the lobby, Iowa pharmacists checked in at card tables to pick up a color-coded Hello badge and an armload of agenda and to lay out $25 for banquet tickets. On the second floor, the beer distributors in-terminably passed the gavel to Moose Messer. At the front desk, bone-tired delegates from the Iowa International Trade Council queued up with glazed eyes and trembling credit cards to undergo the final remorseless convention ritual, checking out.

A motel guest attached to none of the three groups, just passing through, had a nightly decision to make. Which of their hospitality rooms should he visit? The choice was easy.

It was room 522, presided over by DeLane Shaheen, beer distributor from Cedar Rapids. DeLane Shaheen said the chore of tending bar falls to him at every beer distributors' convention but he does not object. He is an ideal choice.

He's a jovial, friendly sort, gets along with everybody. These include beer distributing rivals who, at a convention, become shoulder-hugging buddies. Besides, he has the know-how. He once ran a saloon, pushing two-bit beer and 10-cent setups. "A dime for a glass of water and a stir stick. Can't beat that."

On banquet night, more women than usual were in room 522, getting all available mileage out of long, formal dresses. They fixed their Hello badges in inventive ways to provocative places.

Moose! Moose! Moose! The chant welled in the room. Through the crowded doorway, Lloyd Messer of Sioux City, "Moose" to all in the Iowa beer business, man of the hour, lurched.

He wore a tux and a frilly white shirt. What tragedy other than a convention could cause an honest beer truck driver to get himself up in a hired suit that barely fit and a frilly white shirt? As Moose inched through the happy throng lusty slaps on the back sloshed his plastic cup and jostled the ice out. Someone was always at hand with a refill.

A perfumed lady with a Hello badge stuck to raw flesh tugged Moose Messer away by his tux sleeve. DeLane Shaheen kindly explained.

"Oh yes," DeLane Shaheen said, pouring somebody a stiff one. "This is our working convention. You really ought to come back in the fall. That's when we get together just to have a good time."

Nadine King, left, of 1933 N. Zimmers, and Frances Hall of 2234 Duncan were among members of Pampa Art Club attending recent workshops in preparation for Tuesday's invitational tea and exhibit at Lovett Memorial Library. The show will be open to the public from 5-8 p.m. Tuesday, and all day Wednesday. (Pampa News photo by Gene Anderson)

Artists prepare show

Members of the Pampa Art Club gathered recently at the home of Mrs. J.W. Flynt of 1711 Chestnut for a workshop.

No instructor was in charge — many of the participants were art instructors themselves. Like Frances Hall.

She was painting a landscape miniature, using a small easel at the kitchen table. Panhandle canyons came to life under her brushes. A solitary yucca dominated the foreground of the painting.

"Now I see a tiny little cowboy riding his horse along that far butte in the background," she said, reaching for a small brush.

At her elbow, Nadine King, a Pampa china painting instructor, was brushing in ripe red apples on a china plate. Subtle blends of colors in leaves and twigs accented the vivid scarlet of the fruit.

Other artists worked in macrame, copper enameling, decoupage, papier mache, beadwork, authentic Indian-style basketmaking, artificial flowers, ceramics, sculpture, wood carving.

Finished products can be seen during the club's upcoming annual invitational tea and exhibit, slated for 2-5 p.m. Tuesday in the conference room of Lovett Memorial Library. The exhibit will be open to the public from 5 p.m. until 8 p.m. Tuesday, and from 8:30 a.m. till 6 p.m. Wednesday.

"Pampa Art Club has a number of good artists," Mrs. Flynt said, "and each year new and interesting crafts are featured in the exhibit. This year's show will be no exception."

She said in addition to crafts, paintings of all media will be included in the show.

Pampa Art Club meets twice monthly. President of the group is Mrs. Odus Wells, who said there are currently 25 active members in the club. The tea and exhibit has been an annual event since 1948.

DALLAS (AP) — "Mama I paid the bank and closed my account and sent you a cashier check. The papers for the rented TV are on the table. The telephone bill will have to be paid. The car will probably go to — because the insurance won't pay. Love me." The note was written by a Dallas woman before she allegedly shot and stabbed her boyfriend to death and killed herself.

"She shot me, it was jealousy," Michael Hedrick told police as he was rushed, dying, to a hospital Wednesday. He had been shot three times and stabbed twice.

The body of Claudia Raymey, 30, was found in Hedrick's apartment with a bullet wound in the temple. Her body was some six feet from where Hedrick still alive was found.

The note was found in Miss Raymey's purse. The Dallas County medical examiner said autopsy reports on both bodies would be released later.

92 years as Viola 'Unknown'

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (AP) — She was a survivor of the days when people who weren't "normal" were simply kept out of sight.

Apparently born deaf and dumb, Viola "Unknown" spent most of her estimated 92 years tucked away in institutions. But with the advent of modern teaching techniques, she eventually learned to say, "I love you."

The woman without a last name died here Wednesday after breaking her hip. She kept a lifelong habit to the end of never complaining that life had passed her by.

A brief institutional biography states she was found by a farmer in a cotton pen as a baby. The farmer tried to send her to school eight years later, but she was not able to keep the pace and was committed to the Delta County Farm.

Her last name, "Unknown," was assigned for convenience of governmental agencies. Viola was eventually diagnosed as a deaf-mute, but no mental or physical deficiencies were found.

"If Viola had been diagnosed as a deaf-mute today, she could have lived a real productive life," Garland Patterson, administrator of Pleasant Hill Custodial Care Home, said.

Viola had been a resident of Pleasant Hill since being transferred from the Wichita Falls State Hospital in February, 1969. She had been a patient of the state hospital 20 years.

The training was so poor in those days, she didn't have the opportunity to show what she knew, but she had the personality to make up for it," said Dr. Mark Huff, superintendent of the state hospital.

Huff explained that patients with medical problems during that era were institutionalized. "There was no place else to send them. We did have some food and medical care to offer," he said. "But as the years went by and treatments improved, Viola learned to communicate. During her last years in Pleasant Hills, she was able to mumble, 'I love You.'"

Viola broke her hip March 27 and never recovered from surgery. "She was a sweet thing everybody loved her," Huff said. "Some people glow. She was one of them."

FBI joins probe on NTS campus

DENTON, Tex. (AP) — North Texas State Campus Police have said the FBI and other law enforcement agencies have joined them in an investigation of "irregularities" in the university's physics department.

Police have declined to reveal what the "irregularities" are.

NTSU police Chief Robby Robinson said Wednesday he could not confirm any allegations until his investigation is complete.

"I am looking at prosecution at the end of the line," he said. "And I can't release anything that would damage my case."

"I've got a lot of expertise assisting me, meaning the FBI and other agencies," Robinson said. "And if they come in specifically, then they would know what is going on."

The Denton Record-Chronicle said the campus police have been joined by the Texas attorney general's office, the FBI and the Texas Rangers in the investigation.

Sources outside the university told the newspaper a loss of equipment from the physics department apparently discovered about a year ago during an inventory may be the object the investigation.

The equipment loss is estimated to total $100,000 and to involve equipment obtained with federal and state grants, the sources said.

Robinson said his department began investigative interviews

Tuesday and more were scheduled Wednesday.

"But the only thing I can confirm is that the investigation is being conducted," Robinson added.

Asked if students were being excluded from the investigation, Robinson answered, "No." "This could well end up involving all three segments of the university—students, faculty and staff—we just can't say at this point," Robinson said.

FBI cooperation in any investigation, Robinson said, would occur when allegations involve the possible crossing of state lines which adds federal violation status to some criminal offenses.

Other sources revealed that the university police initiated the investigation after being provided with information from a former NTSU employee.

NTSU president C. C. Nolen issued a brief statement Wednesday confirming the investigation, but declined further comment.

An investigation consisting of various outside law enforcement agencies as well as the university police department is being conducted into alleged irregularities in the physics department," Nolen's statement said.

NTSU police chief Robby Robinson is in charge of the investigation on behalf of the university. Since investigation is in process the university's point of contact for information concerning the matter will be Chief Robinson.

Pampans take acting honors

Two Pampa drama students were named for acting honors at the District 3-AAAA One-Act play contest Wednesday at Amarillo College Theatre.

Gail Wilkins, in the role of Clare Zachanassian, awarded the trophy as best actress. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Lacy and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irl Smith.

For the second time, Ben Wilson, as Anton Schill, was one of 10 area students named to the district all-star cast. He is the son of Benny Wilson.

Students from Pampa High School presented a 45 minute cutting from "The Visit" by Friedrich Durrenmatt.

The two unranked winners in the contest were Amarillo and Caprock high schools. Critic judge was Dr. John Clifford of Southwestern University in Georgetown.

Other cast members in "The Visit" were Jimmy Jeffrey, Mike Gage, Cecilia Casey, Dee Joiner, Jack Redus, Ricky Welch, Daria Welch, Kristy Carpenter, Mike Martinez, Dale Ferris and Bobby Burns. Crew members were Diana Willis, David Sadler and Jana Norwood. Drama students also attending were Leon Choate, Jenny Fletcher, Kristi Ledbetter, Martha Cannon and ReLinda Brewer. Bill Haynes and Mrs. Rochelle Lacy, drama teacher sponsored for the group.

Pantex explosion kills two men

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP) — Officials are trying to determine the cause of an explosion that killed two men Wednesday at a plant near Amarillo where nuclear weapons are assembled.

The dead have been identified as Chester Grimes and Ray Tucker, both 62 and both of Amarillo. The two men had worked at the plant for 25 years.

The explosion occurred when an employe was machining a piece of chemical explosive that was not supposed to go off without a detonator, officials of the Pantex plant of the Energy Research Development Administration said.

John Hinderhot, 46, of Amarillo, suffered a broken pelvis, a broken ankle, and several bruises. He was reported in critical condition at Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo.

Three ERDA employes will investigate the explosion, plant manager Ross Dunham said. "We will begin the investigation as soon as possible, but it will be some time before a formal statement on the cause of the explosion is issued."

Pantex manufactures chemical explosives and does development work in support of design laboratories for nuclear weapons assembly testing and repair.

The blast occurred about 9:30 a.m. Wednesday morning, plant spokesmen said, adding that the explosive involved was similar to TNT or dynamite. They said no radioactive material was involved.

The part of the plant where the explosion occurred is used for shaping explosive material for experimental purposes, Dunham said.

He said that the machining of chemical explosive has been conducted at Pantex for 25 years.

House clears school bill

By LEE JONES
Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A $694 million school finance bill, which orders school districts to cut their taxes in 1978-79 by a statewide total of $73 million, has been cleared by a House committee for floor debate.

The House Public Education Committee approved the bill, dealing with one of the session's top issues and using up more than half of the estimated state tax surplus, by an 8-2 vote.

The House is expected to take it up next week.

Committee Chairman Tom Massey, D-San Angelo, said that district-by-district figures he has seen tell him that "the news is good" for local property taxpayers, assuming the bill passes.

Massey, Speaker Bill Clayton and Rep. Hamp Atkinson, D-New Boston, worked late Tuesday night with the Texas School Administrators Council and others to produce a compromise.

The compromise made the bill more favorable to districts whose taxable property base consists mainly of single-family residences. It also delays for one year state-mandated property tax cuts.

Local fund assignment — the districts' share of the cost of the Foundation School Program — will be cut by about $357 million over the next two years. Local school boards, however, are not required to pass the full amount of that relief on to the taxpayers.

What local boards must do, however, is reduce taxes in 1978-79 by half the difference between that year's local fund assignment and what it is now — or about $73 million statewide.

Local fund assignment will be determined by applying a 20 cents per 00 tax rate to a new factor called the "District Adjusted Categorical Property Value (DACPV)." It consists of 80 per cent of the market value of one-family homes, agricultural use value of farm and ranch land and full market value of all other property.

The net effect is to impose a lighter burden on bedroom communities and farming districts than on those with large amounts of commercial and industrial property.

Other state aid increases provided by the bill would include: —$106.5 million for "equalization aid" to property-poor districts.

—$13 million for driver education, increasing allotments from $25 to $65 per student and expanding the program from one-fifth to one-fourth of all students in grades 10-12.

—$138.5 million to raise allotments for school bus operations and routine operating expenses.

—$46 million to reduce teacher-pupil ratios in kindergarten through third grade.

Medicaid abuse 'minimal'

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — There is "minimal" abuse in the Medicaid program, according to the final report of a special 47-member task force named last January by the State Department of Public Welfare.

The task force made more than 80 recommendations for improving the program and cutting costs.

Texas discriminates against "the marginally poor" by making them quit their jobs after age 65 and give away all their assets before they can qualify for Medicaid, according to the report, which was given to the welfare board Wednesday.

"Take this case," said Marvin Watson, task force chairman. "A man has worked up to his 65th birthday at a job not covered by Social Security. He wants to keep on working, but at the time in life when his health needs are greatest, he cannot afford health care."

Medicaid will help, but only if he quits his job, gives away his assets and assumes dependency."

Texas could extend Medicaid benefits to 1.3 million more people and still save $189 million over the next five years, the report said.

By putting city, county and hospital district funds into the Medicaid program, Texas can get matching federal money, Watson said.

Thirty other states already are doing this, meaning federal taxes paid by Texans are providing greater support for Medicaid in those states.

The cost of including what Watson called the 500,000 working poor and their families would be $280 million over the next five years, but the matching federal money and other cost-cutting recommendations would total $449 million, Watson said.

There are those who could afford to pay for their medical care, but they give all their assets to their children in order to qualify for Medicaid, Watson said. Legislation making such transfers illegal would have saved $92.5 million over the past five years in Texas, he said.

The welfare board created the task force in an effort to find ways to contain the rising costs of Medicaid. The federal government pays for approximately 60 per cent of those costs.

The task force made its recommendations after accumulating 4,500 pages of testimony at hearings across the state.

Watson suggested a moratorium of three to five years on construction of new nursing home facilities, which he said would encourage people to give health care to the aged at home.

Families should be required to assist in health care costs, he said.

Treatment through outpatient clinics would cost only a third as much as mandatory hospitalization under the present program, he said.

Amarillo youth killed

AMARILLO — A Palo Duro High School student and a Clovis, N.M., couple were victims of a fatal car crash Tuesday eight miles northeast of Amarillo.

Dead at the scene was Mrs. Aulton Rose of Clovis. Her husband and James Albert Cronberg, 16, of Amarillo were dead on arrival at the Amarillo Emergency Receiving Center.

The accident occurred about 1:15 p.m. The pickup driven by Cronberg reportedly was passing a car driven by Palo Duro High School vocational agriculture teacher Nick Joy. The Cronberg vehicle collided head-on with the Rose vehicle.

The six passengers of the Cronberg vehicle were taken to the Amarillo Emergency Receiving Center. Five were admitted to Northwest Texas Hospital and one was released following treatment.

In serious condition is Debbie Avant, 15, Gerald Cathey, 17, Terry Edwards, 16, Eddie Prock, 17, and Glenn Koonce, 16.

are all in satisfactory condition. Sixteen-year-old Randy Jack was released from the AERC.

The Cronberg vehicle and the car driven by Joy were carrying students who had competed in a Livestock judging and evaluation contest at Frank Phillips College in Borger.

Funeral services for Cronberg are pending with Blackburn-Shaw Martin Road Chapel.

YOU CAN'T CHANGE THE WORLD. THINGS JUST KEEP GETTING WORSE AND WORSE. THERE'S NO ONE YOU CAN TRUST ANYMORE. NOTHING YOU CAN BELIEVE IN. AND WORST OF ALL, NOTHING YOU CAN DO ABOUT IT. NO MATTER WHAT YOU ACHIEVE, LIFE SEEMS EMPTY AND MEANINGLESS. AND THAT MAKES IT TOUGH TO KEEP GOING."

If you feel that way you're not alone. Thousands of people do. And with good reason. Just look around. Listen to the news. Chaos, corruption and irresponsibility seem to be everywhere.

Maybe you're right. Maybe you can't change the world overnight. But there is a place to start. You can learn to live in this world by first learning to live with yourself. You can better understand others by first understanding who you are, what you can be and what you can't.

Only one person makes this possible. His name is Jesus Christ. For two thousand years He's been telling us we can start over—we can become new persons—through a personal relationship with Him. We can acknowledge our faults because He forgives us. We can love ourselves because He loves us.

JESUS said He came "so we could have life, and have it more abundantly." And countless Christians today are living proof that He does have the power to change lives. Executives and store clerks. Singers and homemakers. Sports figures, teenagers, actors and government officials. People you know. People you don't know. They've all found that Jesus Christ is the one person you can trust and believe in. That He gives your life meaning, purpose and direction. That He gives you peace of mind.

They are living proof that Jesus Christ is real in 1977. That people can be changed. And enough changed people can change the world.

PHS girls enter 25-team Amarillo Relays

By PAUL SIMS
Sports Editor

AMARILLO — Canyon, Amarillo High and El Paso Coronado, all relay - strong and laced with depth, are set to stage what might be the closest Amarillo Relays in the three-year history of the girls track meet Friday and Saturday in Dick Bivins Stadium.

The field-event finals and running event preliminaries will kick off the meet at 1:30 p.m. Friday. Saturday's running event finals are scheduled to start at 1 p.m. B-team division preliminaries and field event finals will be held Friday at Amarillo Caprock High School.

The large-school division (AAAA-AAA) will be minus El Paso Burges, last year's champion, which was unable to defend its crown because of a scheduling conflict.

However, Coronado, with similar depth to last year's champion, is expected to make a strong run at bringing the team title back to El Paso. Amarillo High and Amarillo Palo Duro are District 3-AAAA's strongest teams, and, along with Canyon, should make the Panhandle the most talent-loaded area represented in the meet.

Pampa, Borger, Caprock, Dumas, Hereford, Perryton, Plainview and Amarillo Tascosa are other Panhandle teams entered.

Other entrants include Big Spring, El Paso Austin, El Paso Irvin, El Paso Bowie, Lubbock Coronado, Lubbock Dunbar, Lubbock High, Lubbock Monterey, Lubbock Estacado, Levelland, Roswell, N.M., Clovis, N.M., and Wichita Falls.

Teams in the small-school division include Abernathy, Adrian, Alamo Catholic of Amarillo, Bovina, Crosbyton, Frenship, Friona, Panhandle River Road of Amarillo, Sanford, Fritch, Stinnett, Tahoka, Textline and Tulia.

B-teams entered are from Abernathy, the Amarillo schools, Pampa, Panhandle, Tulia, Wichita Falls, Bovina, Canyon, Big Spring, El Paso

Coronado, Dumas, Hereford, Levelland and Lubbock Monterey.

The relays may provide spectators, who will pay $2 for admission ($1 for student), with the most exciting finishes Saturday.

Three spring-relay teams — Palo Duro, Canyon and El Paso

Coronado — have dipped under 60 seconds. Palo Duro, which may have the meet's most versatile athlete in Falecia Freeman, who runs a relay leg and also is favored to win the 220 and triple jump, has done 48.5.

Palo Duro and Coronado both have done 1:46.1 in the 880-yard relay, while Amarillo High and El Paso Irvin own the best mile-relay clocking this season, 4:03. Canyon has done 4:09.

The half mile (880) should be another close event, with Pampa's Sue Smith, Caprock's Sandra Perkins and Irvin's Leigh Ann Stulle all having run 2:26 this year. Smith is the defending champion.

In the 440, three girls have dipped below 60 seconds — Amarillo's Susan White and Julie Currey (both 59.7) and Palo Duro's Sonia Ballard (59.9).

Freeman and Amarillo's Kelly Fuhrback have run 25.2 in the 220, while Canyon's Deedy Johnson has done 25.9.

In the 80-yard hurdles, Amarillo's Stacey Ingram has the fastest pre-meet time, 10.8, while Nora Hughes of Dunbar is a tenth of a second behind.

Stephanie Freeman, sophomore sister of Falecia, may be the fastest entrant in the 100, with a 10.9 showing to her credit this spring. Canyon's

Johnson ran 11.0 in an earlier meet.

Priscilla Gregory of Amarillo High has run 5:39 to head a long list of top-flight milers in the meet. Others include Monterey's Carla Leslie and El Paso Coronado's Christi Gray, both with 5:40 this spring.

Friday's field events also show no overwhelming favorites.

In the discus, Perryton's Molly Mayfield has thrown 121-10, while Tascosa's Debra Rogers, the top shot putter going into the meet with a 37-7 loss, has done 119-5. Canyon's Dieder Carroll has heaved the shot 37-7. Falecia Freeman has triple jumped 37-4.2, slightly better than Merry Johnson of Canyon (37-1.2) and Tascosa's Paige Curtis (36-6.2).

Curtis, just a sophomore, has long jumped 18-8.4.

Merry Johnson and Pampa's Sherry Kimbell have high jumped 5-2 and 5-1, respectively, and are co-favorites in that event.

Bovina and Panhandle may have the strongest small-school teams, with Abernathy and Tulia owning enough caliber individuals to make the top division an interesting race.

The Amarillo Relays tennis and girls golf tournaments also are scheduled for Friday and Saturday. Pampa is entered in both tournaments.

The National League had five 20-game winners in 1976, led by Randy Jones '22 for the San Diego Padres.

To run relays in Relays

Barbara Faggins, left, and Sharon Moultrie practice an exchange in preparation for the relay events at Friday and Saturday's Amarillo Relays Girls Track Meet in Dick Bivins Stadium. The running event finals are scheduled for 1 p.m. Saturday. Faggins will compete in the long jump and high jump finals beginning at 1:30 p.m. Friday.

Pampa to battle for lead in torrid district golf race

Amarillo Tascosa, Amarillo High and Pampa, all involved in a torrid race for the district championship along with a handful of individuals playing for the three leaders, compete in the fourth of five 3-AAAA boys golf rounds Friday at the Pampa Country Club.

Play will start at 9 a.m. The final round, with the winner and runner-up advancing to the regional tournament, is scheduled for April 22 at the Amarillo Public Golf Course.

Tascosa, regaining golf notoriety after a mediocre past few seasons, leads the field at 945. Amarillo High is second at 953 and Pampa third at 959. The next closest is the Amarillo B-team at 980. Pampa's B-team is well back at 1,123.

The medalist race is even closer. Tascosa's Brent Jacobs leads at 229, followed by Pampa's Scott Barrett and Tascosa's Jon Davis, both at 233. James Bischof and Steve Russell, both of Amarillo High, are at 234 and 235.

Pampa last year was in a similar situation even though district teams played six rounds instead of five. After five rounds, Amarillo led at 1,561, followed by Borger at 1,573 and Pampa at 1,584.

The Harvesters never made up the deficit in the last round, winding up 22 shots behind Borger.

players in the medalist race (Dusty Hudson is at 240), we're not out of it. To win district, it's obvious we have to play good on our own course. We can't let anybody beat us here." Pampa Coach Deck Woldt said.

"I think our chances lie in a nice day and a good round. If it's windy... well, there's nothing like the wind to equalize the teams. We can't be equal — if we're going to shoot 320 and they're going to shoot 320, we'll be in the same boat."

The Harvesters will play in the Amarillo Relays April 15-16.

He's leaving coaching, criticism

By PAUL SIMS
Sports Editor

Gene Mayfield will continue to oversee the physical well-being of others but this time he won't have to endure criticism about his program not producing victories.

Mayfield becomes director of employe services at the Mesa Petroleum Co. headquarters in Amarillo Friday. The position will include directing a yet-to-be-constructed athletic facility for company employes.

The 49-year-old Mayfield didn't make it as a college football coach. He resigned in January as athletic director and head coach at West Texas State University, where his record in six years was 24-39-2, a far cry from his 156-35-6 mark in high school.

It appeared he might get back into high school coaching. Because he accepted the Mesa job doesn't mean he didn't try.

"I looked very closely at some high school jobs. I don't think I would have been a matter of stepping down if I had gone from college to high school. I've never felt like ego was a problem of mine."

"I thought about it a while and I had some opportunities. I just decided this might be the time to get out of coaching and get something else."

Age had nothing to do with his decision. Mayfield, in fact, believes he can win, provided the situation is anything other than that at West Texas State.

Critics pointed to Mayfield's record as a primary reason WTSU projected an athletic deficit of $308,000 for next fiscal year, a figure which prompted the board of regents to consider dropping football or going to the NAIA.

"I just got kind of tired of all the problems involved locally. There's been so many different working conditions here that perhaps it made me more tired than I would have been somewhere else. But I have never at any time had any doubts about my ability as a coach. I feel I can still do the job."

"I can't say this decision (to leave coaching) came easy. You spend 26 years in it — it's not easy. I guess the situation here in the past couple years perhaps made it a little easier."

His new position made it easier, too.

"It's a very good opportunity," Mayfield said. "Mesa is an outstanding company and very progressive in their thinking. And they're starting a program that is in line with some of the things I've been doing."

"Once the new building gets built, I'll be in charge of the physical fitness for the company as well as some other employe services. All the duties haven't been worked out in their entirety."

Mayfield isn't sure whether he will miss football.

"I'll just have to see. I don't think anyone changes vocations unless they're sure it's what they want to do. I don't think any of us can afford to spend a lot of time looking back."

Seattle goes AFC

PHOENIX (AP) — The National Football League was to plunk the Seattle Seahawks into their permanent American Conference West home today, one year ahead of schedule, then try to tackle the sticky problem of retroactive compensation.

Those last two words happen to be the dirtiest floating around these NFL meetings — and most clubs apparently would be happy to wash their hands of the mess, generated by the one year when teams could sign free agents without fear of losing anything in return.

The Seahawks were supposed to be part of the AFC Central Division this year, joining Pittsburgh, Houston, Cincinnati and Cleveland for the 1977 season before moving in permanently with Oakland, Denver, Kansas City and San Diego in the AFC West in 1978.

But when Tampa Bay, placed in the National Conference Central Division with Chicago, Detroit, Green Bay and Minnesota for the 1977 season, was assigned that berth for 1978 and beyond, too, the Seahawks decided to ask that they also be moved into their permanent home in 1977.

Herman Sirkowsky, managing partner of the Seahawks, was to do the asking today at an owners meeting — and top NFL sources said no opposition was expected.

Electronic eye

HOUSTON (AP) — Dr. G.S. Brindley, a University of London scientist, hopes he will soon perfect an electronic eye that will give the blind something better than a guide dog or a long white cane.

Dr. Brindley said he plans to make a third implant in 1978 with high hopes the patient's lack of vision will be at least partially restored.

The scientist, in Houston for an international vision symposium, said he advises those undergoing the four-to-five hour implant operation "that they may get some benefit, but they really are doing something for the future, for other blind people."

Although some sight is restored with the electronic eye, Dr. Brindley said there is no way known for the implant to perceive color.

"The first stage of the project was remarkably quick," Dr. Brindley said. "It took only three years from the beginning of the work in 1964 to the first implant. But it was five years before the second operation and it will be six years before the third."

"It will take time, but there is always hope for more progress in each implant."

The normal optic nerve contains one million channels. My implant eye now has only 100 channels. Perhaps we will develop 6,000 or even 10,000 channels, but never one million.

The artificial eye contains electrodes which are placed in the area where visual signals are received. The electrodes are driven by small radio receiving sets placed under the scalp. The receiving sets con-

Rain brightens crop prospects

WASHINGTON (AP) — Early spring rains and moisture-laden snow have prompted government experts to be a little more optimistic about 1977 crop prospects than they were a few weeks ago.

Massive storm systems the past week dumped moisture over wide areas of the parched midlands, including much of the Great Plains and the important Corn Belt areas of the Midwest.

A national weather summary issued Tuesday by the Agriculture Department for the week of March 21-27 said that several late-winter storms moved from the Pacific Northwest to the southern Great Plains and then turned northeast.

"Precipitation was prolific in most areas along this track," the report said. "Welcome rain was falling in the important winter wheat area of Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas at the end of the period but more is needed."

The big storm system also dumped a mixture of rain and snow from Wisconsin through Iowa and into Missouri, the report said.

A comparison with some previous weekly reports put out cooperatively by USDA and the National Weather Service shows that a number of subtle changes have occurred in the language used to describe crop conditions, notably the winter wheat crop which was planted last fall for harvest this summer.

For example, the latest report said that nationally by March 27 the winter wheat crop was in "fair to good" condition. Further, it said that "wheat in Kansas remained in fair condition" but that in some extremely dry areas wheat suffered "light to moderate" wind damage.

Last month, another weekly report repeated a refrain used by the experts regularly during most of the winter: "Kansas winter wheat still rated poor to fair condition" and that it was susceptible to wind erosion.

The change, however significant it might be, is that now the report says the Kansas crop is "fair" not "poor to fair" as it had been. Also, the description of winter wheat nationally as "fair to good" is more upbeat than before.

As midwestern farmers move nearer spring planting of corn, soybeans and other crops, the weekly reports take on larger significance when they spell out moisture conditions in Iowa, Illinois and other major producing states.

But droughts do not emerge overnight and they do not disappear with one rain. Thus, the government weather reporters are cautious in describing moisture conditions and are wary of going far out on the limb.

One USDA group which does have the responsibility of sticking its neck out is the Outlook and Situation Board. But this early in 1977 it also is cautious, saying last week that "uncertainties abound" about this year's harvest.

John Newbery (1713-1767) was the first English publisher and bookseller to make a specialty of children's books.

Danger in mixing Pill, smoking

NEW YORK (AP) — Women over 40 who use birth control pills and smoke run a much higher risk of heart attacks than those who use the pills but don't smoke.

Women in their 40s who smoke more than 15 cigarettes a day die of heart attacks or blood clots nearly 12 times more frequently than those who don't smoke at all.

These were the major findings of a new study of mortality risk and oral contraception that was reported Tuesday by research analyst Andrudh K. Jain of The Population Council. Jain, summing up his study, said: "The safety of the pill should be considered separately for smokers and nonsmokers because the effects are different."

"Women over 40 who take the pill and do not smoke are not exposed to substantially higher risk of death."

Jain and others at a news conference said they did not know what physical mechanism would account for the excess mortality among pill users who smoke.

The Jain study found that the annual mortality rate from heart attacks and blood clots for women aged 40-44 who use oral contraceptives but do not smoke is seven per 100,000 — or roughly a third the risk of death from pregnancy and childbirth among women who use no birth control.

But the pill users in this group who do smoke face a mortality risk of 59 per 100,000, the Jain study found. And among heavy smokers — more than 15 cigarettes a day — the risk is 83 per 100,000.

The new data analysis follows recent studies in Great Britain and the United States that indicated pill users in general, and especially those over 40, faced a much higher risk of death and both fatal and non-fatal heart attacks than others.

But those studies lumped together both smokers and nonsmokers among pill users and therefore did not take into account the synergistic effects of pill and smoking combined. A synergistic effect is one that is greater than the simple addition of two factors.

in the self-evaluation program," he said, adding the forms are to be answered anonymously.

The purpose of the program is to assess effectiveness and examine goals of a council. Action and activities for the next planning period are more easily determined after the appraisal identified what needs to be done, he said.

"We need to make the public aware of this program and its importance to the area," Jones stressed.

According to Milton Jones of Pampa, chairman of the self-evaluation committee, Quivira Council is now conducting an appraisal of its goals and charter obligations.

Jones said questionnaires recently were mailed to 500 area residents selected at random. "Information obtained through the questionnaires will be used

Nurses go to meeting

Three Pampa nurses are in Fort Worth this week for the 68th Convocation of the Texas Nurses Association.

Attending the convention are officers of TNA District 23 including Marjorie Penn, president; Margie Holland, secretary; and Betty Wells, board member. All are registered nurses.

District 23 includes membership of the top 13 counties of the Texas Panhandle.

According to Mrs. Penn, highlights of the convention will be sessions on primary patient care and advanced nursing techniques, and lectures by nationally-known speakers on such topics as exercise and stress reduction, cost effectiveness in hospitals and the malpractice crisis.

Special awards will be given during the convention, which concludes Saturday at the Sheraton-Fort Worth Hotel.

Names in the news

LONDON (AP) — Prince Charles, son of Queen Elizabeth II, has chosen Princess Marie-Astrid of Luxembourg as his future bride despite the problem of her Roman Catholic religion, a gossip columnist said today.

Nigel Dempster wrote in the Daily Mail that close friends of Britain's Protestant royal family are "quietly confident" the marriage is being arranged.

"We have absolutely no comment to make on this," a spokesman at Buckingham Palace said.

Charles will be 29 in November and the Princess is 23. Their names have been linked before, notably last November when the queen and her husband Prince Philip made a two-day state visit to the grand duchy of Luxembourg.

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — An Australian political cartoonist, who won an Oscar for the best animated short film, intends to stick with his newspaper career because "that is where the people are."

Bruce Petty, cartoonist for the Melbourne newspaper, The Age, described his Oscar win Tuesday as "very odd."

"I had never heard of the animated category until the film was nominated," he said.

The winning film, entitled "Leisure," was produced two years ago for the Australian government's department of housing, environment and community development. The 14-minute film was devised and drawn by Petty.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Billy Carter, who's moving 19 miles outside Plains, Ga., says he knows what he does NOT want his kids to be when they grow up: tourists.

He said Tuesday that he has purchased a house north of Plains where he will move at an undetermined date to escape the tourists visiting the hometown of his brother, President Carter.

He made a brief speech to delegates attending the Travel South USA convention Tuesday night, and then asked for questions:

Advice for Yankees? "Stay home."

Outlook for tourism? "I'm against it."

Opinions of the Russians? "As long as they don't come to Plains, I like 'em fine."

What does he want his six kids to be when they grow up? "Not tourists."

Is 19 miles away far enough? "I hope so."

Carter, handed a glass of beer midway through his remarks, also said he won $22,000 betting that his brother would be elected president.

"Momma still thinks I'm the smartest one of the boys," he said.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "King," a four-hour movie for television based on the life of Martin Luther King Jr., will be directed as well as written by Abby Mann, Oscar-winning author of "Judgment at Nuremberg."

Mann will also serve as executive producer of the two-part show, which will appear on NBC next season. He says that he will present new material concerning the murder of the civil rights leader.
