School bill work begins

By GARTH JONES
Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — House members returned to the school financing crisis today with a request from Speaker Bill Clayton to have a bill ready for special session debate by the middle of next week.

"You have a very big job and chore," Clayton told the House Committee on Public Education in an unusual public hearing called prior to the opening of the special session at 10 a.m. Monday.

Committee members were told that anything they did today and Friday would be only of advisory nature, but would expedite consideration of public school legislation once the session opened.

"With your discussions today and Friday you would be ready to go into a formal meeting soon after we meet Monday and I would hope you would be ready to pass out a bill by Monday afternoon or evening or maybe Tuesday morning," Clayton said. "That way we could debate it on the floor just as soon as it could be printed and laid on member's desks."

Clayton put in a plug for a new compromise effort produced under his sponsorship but carrying the names of the House conferees involved in last minute negotiations in the regular session that ended May 30.

"This bill, House Bill 1, is a better bill than HB 750 of the regular session because it clarifies the needs of our school districts," he said.

Clayton said he felt a ruling Wednesday by the attorney general would not affect HBI and would allow the main feature of the bill — a choice by local districts of setting local school taxes either by full market or agricultural use values.

He said he believed the attorney general's opinion ruled out a proposal that had been made by some senators that single-family dwelling be taxed differently from other property.

The committee moved next to a detailed discussion of Clayton's bill.

The $900 million measure provides $312 million for teachers pay raises, $90 million for maintenance and operation of schools, $10.6 million for transportation, $310 for local districts but not to exceed 125 percent of the spending the previous year and $120 million for "equalization" aid to poorer districts.

After Clayton's bill, the committee will turn to at least two more bills that have been pre-filed for consideration by the special session.

There were no similar hearings scheduled in the Senate but several senators planned to informally observe the House hearing.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe, who was expected to issue a formal call for the special session today, has said he plans to make public school financing the No. 1 task of the special session.

"Our school districts are in the position of having to make hard decisions regarding their budgets for the coming school year and it is of great importance that we expedite early passage of school finance legislation so they may proceed with their planning and budgeting," Rep. Tom Massey, D-San Angelo, said in calling the House committee meeting.

Parade, pony race set for Saturday

By JEANNE GRIMES

Dust will fly in the Top O' Texas Rodeo Arena tonight during the first of two practice sessions for entrants in the annual Kid Pony Show.

Don Hinton, chairman of the show, said competitors in Monday's night's performance will ride at 4 p.m. today and the contestants in Tuesday's show will practice at 2:30 p.m. Sunday.

"The main purpose of these sessions are to so the kids can practice the grand entry," Hinton said. "Each night of the Kid Pony Show, the grand entry will feature contestants from that night."

The Monday evening performance will be for riders aged 11 and younger and Tuesday's contests will be for youths aged 12-15.

Hinton said the Top O' Texas Rodeo Association and riders from the Leather and Lace Riding Club will also practice for the pony express race — an event that has become a grudge match between the two groups.

Both groups will sponsor teams in the double elimination pony express tournament at 5 p.m. Saturday in the Top O' Texas Rodeo Arena.

The tournament is new this year and was started in an effort to increase participation in the rodeo parade.

Dr. M.W. Horne, co-chairman of the parade, said parade participants will form up at 1:30 p.m. Saturday west of Coronado Shopping Center. At 2 p.m. the parade will move across Coronado Drive to Hobart Street and travel south on Hobart to Ward. The column will move southeast on Ward to Browning and will travel east on Browning to Cuyler. Parade entrants will proceed south on Cuyler to Craven, turn east for one block and then disband.

Parade judges — Mrs. Horne and Charlie Wellon of California — will be located on Cuyler between Browning and Francis Streets.

First and second place trophies will go to the best riding club entries, best entries by a civic club or organization, best commercial entries, and best ranch entries and judges will award trophies to the best western costume for a man and for a woman. Winners will be determined by the appearance of the horse and rider.

"All in all, we've changed the parade this year will be the Shriners Khiva Temple from Amarillo, several out-of-town riding clubs, the Gray County 4-H horse club, local riding clubs and the contestants in the Miss Top O' Texas Pageant."

Ramona Hite, pageant director, said the girls will meet at the Coronado Inn at 1 p.m. to be assigned to cars for the parade.

The convertibles, some of them antique cars, are being furnished by different people in the community, Mrs. Hite said. The 15 contestants will ride in eight cars.

Teams which plan to enter the pony express tournament Saturday night must ride in the parade, Dr. Horne said. The five member teams will enter the race at 6 p.m. Saturday at the Top O' Texas Rodeo Arena.

Kathy Topper, rodeo secretary, said "about six teams" have indicated they will enter. Riders in the rough and tumble race will be from Dalhart, Amarillo and Pampa. Entry fee is $25 per team.

Hinton said each team will probably run four times before the winning team can be determined. Trophy belt buckles costing more than $100 each will be awarded to members of the winning team, he added.

The Top O' Texas Rodeo will start at 8 p.m. Wednesday and the four-performance run will end July 16.

Although most of the contestants at the rodeo performances will be professional cowboys and cowgirls, Mrs. Topper said local residents may enter the competition until 11 a.m. Friday.

Local contestants must pay $8.50 in addition to the $30 entry fee for saddle bronc riding, bareback riding and bull riding. Regular entry fees for steer wrestling and calf roping are $50 per event. Contestants will compete in two go-rounds.

Local entries in the barrel race must pay a $3.50 central entry charge in addition to the $30 entry fee in that event.

Stock at the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association — sanctioned rodeo will be provided by Beutler and Son of Elk City, Okla., and clowns will be Rick "Ragin' Cajun" Young and Frank Rhodes.

Two deputy sheriffs showed up at the Episcopal Church of the Holy Saviour at Madison Avenue and 25th Street to confiscate ornaments, the organ, furniture and the like on behalf of the Rev. Dr. Abraham Carter, the pastor, who said he had not been paid for some time. The church also couldn't open for services the next day. Sunday On 7-7-77, the deputies had taken the keys.

It was a lucky day for Philip Donohue of Elizabeth, who spent six hours buried in a collapsed well the night before but was rescued at just about midnight, as July 7 started.

But it was the opposite kind of luck for a man named Daniel O'Leary, who chose 7-7-77 as the day on which his boat that he could walk 520 miles in six days would meet the moment of truth. He had been walking for five days already and covered 74 1/2 miles on 7-7-77, but it wasn't enough. Just after midnight, he quit — 40 1/2 miles short.

However, a word of encouragement comes from Robert Ball, director of the Astrological Metaphysical Research Center in Coral Gables, Fla.

A child born today "would be unusually sharp of mind, genius quality," he says.

Ball also says the stock market has risen every July 7th. If that claim is true, some investors will be in seventh heaven today.

Crime rate drops

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's crime rate dropped 9 per cent in the first three months of this year over 1976, the largest quarterly reduction in the 19 years the FBI has issued crime reports, the agency said today.

The report listed a bitterly cold winter and heavy snow as possible reasons for the decrease.

Although there were reductions in five of the seven major crime categories, the number of rapes increased 5 per cent and aggravated assaults were up 1 per cent, the FBI said in its Uniform Crime Reports.

The statistics are based on the number of crimes reported to nearly 9,000 state and local law enforcement agencies. Besides rape and assault, the report covers murder, robbery, burglary, larceny and motor vehicle theft.

The sharpest decline was for larceny, 11 per cent. The report showed an 8 per cent decrease for robbery, 7 per cent for burglary, 5 per cent for murder and 4 per cent for motor vehicle theft.

The statistics showed an over-all decrease in the crime rate in cities, suburbs and rural areas alike, although the decline was slightly less in rural areas.

Geographically, the reduction ranged from 16 per cent in north-central states to 3 per cent in the West.

The FBI noted that the sharpest drops occurred early in the period and said, "The harsh winter could have been a major factor in the declining number of reported crimes."

Home gardens growing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nationwide surveys by the Agriculture Department show that the popularity of home gardening is continuing to grow as families turn to their backyards for sources of fresh tomatoes and other vegetables.

The surveys were conducted a year ago and again last winter by USDA's Economic Research Service as part of the agency's program to assess consumer attitudes and behavior regarding food.

Officials said more than 1,400 interviews were conducted in homes across the country to get a "national probability sample" for various aspects of the survey. Gardening was just one of a number of subjects examined.

"Of those interviewed, 44 per cent indicated someone in their households had a home fruit and vegetable garden in 1976," a current national food situation report said. "For 1977, 45 per cent of the households intended to plant a garden."

The report, written by Evelyn Kaitz of the Economic Research Service, said the figures corresponded closely with survey results in the spring of 1976 and "indicate a general leveling off" in home gardening.

As with many activities, gardening has a hard core of enthusiasts who spade, plant and harvest regardless of what other people do. Some 31 per cent of the households have had gardens for at least 11 years, the report said.

Tomatoes are by far the most popular item among home gardeners, showing up in 97 per cent of their plots last year.

"Home grown fruits are less common than vegetables," the report said. "Strawberries and apples were the most popular, but were grown by only 21 and 17 per cent, respectively."

The reason mentioned most often for gardening was that "it provides better quality fruits or vegetables" or that the homegrown varieties taste better. Some 66 per cent of the households mentioned those reasons.

Officials found that the second most popular reason was that home gardening helped cut family food bills. Another big reason was that gardening was a hobby that provides satisfaction, pleasure and pride.

"Anticipated increases in the prices of some fruits and vegetables as a result of severe weather conditions this past winter, plus a continuation of the drought in the West, may have stimulated sales of seeds and plants this season," the report said. "Thus, a decline in home gardening in 1977 seems unlikely."

NEW YORK (AP) — Today, July 7, is 7-7-77. If you out store in numbers, and share the belief that seven is a lucky one, you might think this is your lucky day.

But maybe you'd better think twice. As reported in the New York Times of July 8, 1877, here are some of the things that happened on the last 7-7-77 — 100 years ago.

—More than 700 unlicensed dogs were drowned by the New York City dog pound, as owners of lost dogs scurried about trying to find their pets.

—There was more excitement at the pound yesterday than at any time since its opening," the Times said.

—The German bark Auguste arrived in London "with her bulwarks and stanchions broken, her rigging carried away, and otherwise damaged, having been in collision."

—Otis Hodge's machine shop and foundry at North Adams, N.Y., was destroyed by fire, at a loss of $20,000. He had $8,000 insurance.

—A horse named Idalia stepped up to the starting post at Monmouth Park, N.J., a favorite because she had already bested her competitor, Zoo Zoo. But Idalia became uncontrollable, tried to bolt and lost the race before it started. "A more sorrowful looking set of men than Idalia's backers were never seen on a race course," the Times commented.

No reason for food hysteria

Earlier this spring some Americans observed what was called Food Day, which was sponsored primarily by a Naderite Washington group called the Center for Science in the Public Interest. Food Day came on the heels of a McGovern Senate Committee report which was replete with alarmism and false assumptions which would lead the impressionable to stop eating breakfast lest it give them cancer.

Thankfully, there are saner voices, such as Dr. Frederick J. Stare, a medical doctor and former chairman of nutrition at Harvard University School of Public Health. Speaking at the University of Kentucky recently, Dr. Stare scored both the McGovern Committee's weaknesses and the Food Day propaganda.

"There is no reason for panic in the pantry," Dr. Stare said. "Our foods are perfectly safe, and that includes foods and beverages with saccharin, also with cyclamates — in the cyclamate days with BHA, BHT, propionates and the various colors and flavoring agents used with foods including sugar."

On the McGovern report. "The report is weak in dealing with the most important nutritional problem in our country. Eating and drinking (alcoholic beverages) too much and not using up enough of these extra calories in muscular activity — result obesity. There is no mention in the report of calories from alcoholic beverages."

On Food Day. Dr. Stare noted that the CSPI promoted it, calling it "a day to remember that much of what we eat has been treated with dyes, flavorings, preservatives and other suspect chemicals, which may be bad news for those who worry about our nation's high cancer rate." What about that? "Mentioning 'cancer' is a good way to get publicity," Dr. Stare commented, "but the cancer largely responsible for the 'high cancer rate' is cancer of the lungs from smoking. There is not one shred of evidence that any of the food additives mentioned in the above quote have ever caused a single case of cancer in man."

"Animal experiments with astronomical doses of suspected cancer-causing agents have no relation to reality when the same substance appears in a minute quantity in the diet. Anything is toxic if too much is consumed."

The "cancer" demagoguery, which it takes somebody like Dr. Stare to put down, is reminiscent of Governor Brown's sweeping description of the Sacramento valley if the proposed Dow Chemical facility had been installed, to wit: "a cancer belt." Speaking on a local radio program not long ago, Dr. Ralph Byron, chief surgeon at the City of Hope, said that people can pick up cancer anywhere, from Sacramento to the Amazon, with neither place noteworthy.

Actually, the modern incidence of cancer is mainly a byproduct of increasing longevity; more people are getting cancer because more people are living longer and more susceptible ages. Also we now can diagnose cancer accurately, whereas in the past cancer victims' troubles went undiagnosed.

It is important to hear reasoned voices such as Dr. Stare's and Dr. Byron's, what with mounting hysteria and paranoia. It is terribly important to understand, moreover, that most of the emotionalism is politically motivated.

"There is no energy crisis at all. It's a crisis of ignorance, fear, wrong thinking, an overblown bureaucracy and conditioned reflexes," Buckminster Fuller said in a recent issue of the publication "W."

"The poor President has a cabinet without an inventor on it," Fuller, 81, said of Carter's energy policy.

He blames the energy problem on capitalism's rigid adherence to the bottom-line, profit-motive mentality.

"We continue to live on the cream and not on the milk," Fuller developed such things as the geodesic dome.

No longer a 'Libertarian'

By BUTLER D. SHAFFER

I have been taken to task by a number of readers for having uttered heresies in contravention of official "libertarian" dogma. My lack of interest in political action is equated, by one reader, with "doing nothing effective" to reduce the power of the political state. Recalling that period of my own life when I, too, was fired with a missionary zeal to personally lead the human race into the millennium, I can only respond to their criticism with compassion.

I suppose that I could trace my introduction to "libertarianism" to the year 1960 when, as a student at the University of Chicago Law School, I read Friedrich von Hayek's "Constitution of Liberty." While I had read some of Ludwig von Mises, H.L. Mencken and others before then, my years at Chicago — aided by the excellent on-campus publication "New Individualist Review" — initiated me into the wide-ranging "philosophy of human freedom." From there I discovered the Rand's, Rothbard's, LeFevre's, Branden's, et al., who helped me knock off some of my own rough edges.

By 1962, I considered myself fully prepared to enter the knightwood and joined the Goldwater cause. I even managed to get myself elected as a member of the Nebraska delegation to the 1964 Republican National Convention. At about this same time, however, I was having grave doubts about the whole idea of "limited government," and soon found myself abandoning both participation in politics and support for any form of political institution. I had, in a word, become a hard-core "libertarian."

I dredge up my personal history not to satisfy any groundswell of popular curiosity about my own past, but to identify a factor I consider central to human development. I have, certainly since 1960, experienced what I like to think of as a continual process of growth, ... of change. This process has continued only so long as I maintained both a spontaneity and an internalized direction in my own life.

In more recent years, it has appeared to me that the philosophy of "libertarianism" — with its "emphasis on 'moral imperatives,' ... 'objective standards of values,' ... 'natural law,' etc. — was providing me with a highly-structured belief system that interfered with the very process of spontaneity necessary to my own continued development. Let me be clear: I do not mean to imply that a condition of freedom, or respect of property boundaries, or nonviolence, or economic freedom, are not important to human well-being. They certainly are, and if my own evolution has a common thread running through it, it is this recognition of the importance of individual autonomy and human liberty.

But while "freedom" is essential to human happiness and well-being, a "philosophy of freedom" is not. I have known many people who were quite civilized — persons willing to leave others alone while insisting upon their own autonomy — who wouldn't know a "moral imperative" from a seed catalog. If the world ever becomes truly civilized, it will be due to the psychological maturity — not the philosophic understanding — of people.

Reading the ideas of others can provide one with questions or thoughts not previously considered, and to that extent can have incidental benefit. But to structure one's life around such ideas, to become someone else's thoughts, to bend and distort oneself to conform to the expectations of others, is to deny the very spontaneity and internal direction that is the mark of a truly "free man."

"Libertarianism" is an interesting stopping-off point, and I have certainly benefited from it. But "libertarianism" will not make Butler Shaffer "free." Butler Shaffer alone can accomplish that fact, and for himself alone. In recent years, through a process of introspection, I have come to the shocking realization that, while the political state restrains my choices, it does not "get in my way" as much as I do. I have, in my lifetime, become burdened with a garden-variety of self-limiting beliefs: guilts, fears, feelings of inadequacy, "hang-ups." Such attitudes have been far more effective in restricting my potential than have the politicians. I have learned, however, that by directing my energies toward changing myself — instead of others — by better understanding myself, I can rid myself of this self-maintained tyranny and re-acquire that full measure of spontaneity that is, I believe, natural to human beings.

I am, to put the matter bluntly, too "imperfect" a person to continue the task of changing other people. I have far too many doubts about things, and lack omniscience. I am far too likely to change my mind, or to consider new ideas — instead of adhering to "rational" and "objectively-defined" standards of "truth." If I were to "help" others become more like me, but then were later to change my own self, I wonder how I could ever go about getting the objects of my narcissism to re-modify themselves. All things considered, I have come to the conclusion that I could never be trusted with re-designing the lives of other people: I would probably botch the job.

Battin around

The winners and the losers

By C.R. BATTEN

One third of the land in the United States is owned by the federal government.

That single fact guarantees that the decisions governing the use of at least one third of the nation's natural resources are not determined by the economic needs of the people, but instead are determined by political expediency.

As always, those political decisions are made in accordance with which special interest group can scream the loudest, and which can place the most people in high places in government.

It is evident in the current struggle for control of the public lands that positions frequently change when groups find that they are gaining power.

When the Wilderness Act of 1964 was passed, its supporters had a "purist" view and insisted that once timber is harvested, or a mine is opened in an area, the Wilderness potential is totally destroyed, and can never be regained. The Act defined Wilderness as "untrammeled by man."

A few years ago, the Forest Service inventoried all roadless areas over 5,000 acres in size, in order to determine which of them had Wilderness potential and should be studied for possible inclusion in the Wilderness System. Studies and planning for many of those undeveloped areas are still going on.

The Forest and Rangeland Renewable Resources Planning Act of 1974 (RPA) directed the Forest Service to assess the renewable resources within its jurisdiction, and develop a resource program for the management of the national forests.

Now, enter the new regime. Suddenly, this orderly planning process put in motion by the RPA and other laws must be bypassed, the purist idea of "untrammeled" wilderness is being attacked. Congress must establish immediately Wilderness in areas for which the Forest Service studies are incomplete, or which have been determined not of Wilderness character.

And its okay if timber has been cut. Roads will go back to nature. Dams and water gathering facilities don't interfere with the Wilderness character. And if some poor soul happens to own some land inside these coveted areas, that's okay, we'll take that too!

One new member of the Administration had apparently not gotten the word of the changed game plan, when he told a Senate Committee that the RPA should not be short-circuited and that the Department of Agriculture supports a "careful and studied approach to the setting aside of public lands and resources for wilderness preservation."

Dr. M. Rupert Cutler, assistant secretary of Agriculture, explained that two timber sales within the Mt. Henry area of Montana have been sold, and that several areas have been harvested in the past. Roads have been built in the area.

It didn't take long for Cutler to get the word, for it was only two weeks later that he completely reversed his position before a House area.

At the same time, Cutler announced that the Forest Service plans to "take another complete look at the roadless and undeveloped lands" in the national forests. That means, of course, that those special interests who were successful in getting Cutler into his present position of power were not happy with the results of the Forest Service roadless area review. So the Forest Service is going to do it all over again.

Without a doubt, it will find many more areas qualified for Wilderness than it did during the first go-round.

This is just another phase of the "big land grab" to "preserve" resources from productive use. As with all cases involving political decisions, there are winners and there are losers.

The winners, at least for now, are the naturalists who, after all, comprise only a small minority of the people.

The losers include everyone else — investors who will lose opportunities from the resources that won't be used; the job-seekers who will lose opportunities for the jobs that won't be created; the customers who will be deprived of the products that won't be available; the taxpayer whose taxes must be increased because of the lowered productivity. And that is just about all of us.

Boycotts running wild

By GENE WEKALL

Trade boycotts are weapons used by one country against another to force the other country to bend to its will.

Thus we have boycotts against Rhodesia and legislation against the Arab boycott against Israel. In both cases, it is an effort by politicians and some special interest groups to force the other countries to do what they deem should be done.

In the case of the Arab countries, they have a boycott against Israel because the Arabs consider themselves at war with Israel. Israel has a boycott against the Arab nations.

During a war, you don't trade with the enemy.

The boycott against Rhodesia is to force that country's government to implement the "one-man-one-vote idea."

This would mean that the minority white government would be abolished. The interesting fact is that most of the African nations are under either a military dictatorship or strong-man control.

The special interest groups are calling for a boycott against South Africa. They are using an assortment of tools including trying to force U.S. business to stop doing business in South

'The more I make.'

TRIM (Tax Reform Immediately) Bulletin

Some forms of taxation harm production more than others. The worst kind is the heavy taxation of corporate earnings, because it discourages business and output and at the same time reduces jobs — which your Representative claims are his primary concern: It prevents the capital formation that is so necessary to increase real productivity and employment, real income, real wages, and real welfare.

Just about as harmful to the incentive and opportunity for capital formation is the progressive personal income tax. The higher the individual income the higher the rate of taxation and the greater the damage it does. How many have made or heard this statement: "The more money I make, the more the government takes away I always seem to end up with less!"

Senator says judge should quit

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Former Sen. Ralph Yarborough, a jurist for 50 years, says whatever Don Yarborough "touches is tainted" and he should resign — or be removed from the Texas Supreme Court.

Justice Yarborough, the former senator, said, has "breached" the supreme court's "wall of integrity which has endured unbroken for nearly 140 years."

Ironically, it was the similarity in the spelling of the names Yarborough and Yarborough that political observers claim enabled Yarborough to win election to the court last November.

Many Texans, observers feel, thought they were voting for Ralph Yarborough or Don Yarborough, former candidate for governor.

Speaker Bill Clayton said Wednesday the House — probably sitting as a 150-member committee — should be able to make a decision on removing Yarborough at a July 15 meeting.

The House, possibly joined by the Senate, is to consider a resolution filed by three House members to direct Gov. Dolph Briscoe to remove Yarborough from office.

Sen. Don Adams of Jasper is expected to file a similar resolution in the Senate. The resolution instructing Briscoe to remove Yarborough would have to be approved by two-thirds of the House and Senate.

"I commend this action," Yarborough said in a letter to Clayton and Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby.

Yarborough, 36, was indicted last Thursday on charges of forgery and aggravated perjury.

Several civil lawsuits also have been filed against him, and an Aug. 1 trial has been set on an effort by the State Bar of Texas to disbar Yarborough.

A special legislative session on public school finance starts next Monday, but Clayton said the legislature may consider the resolution without Briscoe's approval since it is not legislation and does not have to be included in the governor's call.

Clayton said the hearing, starting at 9 a.m., should be completed in a day "since we are not deciding judge. We are deciding whether he should be removed."

"Judge Don Yarborough,"

said Yarborough, "has so shaken the confidence of the people that in all good conscience he should resign, and not bring this travail on the supreme court. But if he fails to relieve the bench of this burden, the legislature has a clear and present duty."

Yarborough, a 1927 honor graduate of the University of Texas Law School, served five years as district judge in Austin; was a member of the Texas State Board of Law Examiners, and also was president of the Travis County Bar Association and a member of the State Bar of Texas.

He was in the U.S. Senate from 1957 to 1971.

Dana Kent enters pageant

Eighteen-year-old Dana Kent of Pampa is one of 15 hopefuls who will be on stage July 23 in the M.K. Brown Auditorium for the selection of Miss Top o' Texas. Miss Kent, a 1977 Pampa High School graduate, was a cheerleader and was a member of the National Honor Society, student council, Keyettes and Future Teachers of America. She was listed in "Who's Who Among American High School Students" and in 1974 she won the Junior Miss Dance competition in Tulsa, Okla. As the 1977 Miss Dance, she will be in Atlantic City, N.J., in August for the National Miss Dance contest. Miss Kent will perform classical points during the talent competition and she said she would like to dance professionally and then teach dancing. Her other hobbies are sewing and sports. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Stephens of Pampa and Mr. and Mrs. Billy Kent of Elk City, Okla. Her sponsor in the pageant is Granny's Korner.

Five die in jail fire

DANBURY, Conn. (AP) — A fire that killed five and injured 66 today at the medium security federal prison here was apparently set after a disturbance among inmates, authorities said.

Danbury police Sgt. Robert Lovell said evidence of the fire's being set was found in an investigation by the fire department and prison officials. He refused to elaborate.

Lovell said police and prison guards had responded to a disturbance about 11 p.m. Wednesday in the cellblock housing 80 inmates where the fire broke out. An inmate was hospitalized with a head injury suffered in the incident.

Hospital authorities said the dead were presumed to be inmates because of the clothing they were wearing. One guard

George Mahon to retire

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — U.S. Rep. George Mahon, D-Tex., dean of Congress and the only congressman the 19th Congressional District has ever had, says he will not seek re-election in 1978.

"At the end of my present term, I will have served 44 years in Congress and a total of 52 years in public office," Mahon, 77, told the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal Wednesday in announcing his retirement.

"I promised myself long ago that I would not seek to serve in Congress after reaching age 80, a milestone I would pass prior to the conclusion of another two-year term," added the chairman of the powerful House Appropriations Committee.

Mahon was a young district attorney at Colorado City when the 19th District, comprised of 25 West Texas counties, was created more than four decades ago. He was elected in 1934.

Mom surrenders son

LAREDO, Tex. (AP) — The widowed mother of a 12-year-old Laredo boy has turned her son over to police in connection with the fatal shooting of a 14-year-old girl.

The body of Patricia Gonzalez, who had been shot once, was found under a mesquite tree early Wednesday in the growth of a vacant lot near a drive-in theater.

Authorities had searched the area after they learned of a shooting incident reported by a youth who was admitted to Mercy Hospital with a bullet wound in his wrist.

Police said the girl reportedly was one of four young people

Same song wins talent again

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Lori Smith, Miss Haltom-Richland Area, won preliminary talent competition in the Miss Texas pageant Wednesday for the second year with the same song, "Moanin' Low."

"Stick with a winner," she said, adding she felt honored by the judges' choice. She was Miss Dallas last year.

Debbie Wilson, Miss White Settlement, won preliminary swimsuit competition. This is also her second year in the pageant.

"Chuck paid off," she said, attributing her success to her manager, Chuck Weisbeck, who also was her trainer.

Miss Smith went on to become second runnerup last year. She chose the song because "I feel that's what I sing best—blues."

Although she has been singing professionally in the Dallas-Fort Worth area, she didn't sing "Moanin' Low" during the past year so she wouldn't get tired of it.

She wore a green sequin gown, bending far back with her hand-held mike to put feeling in her voice as the spot scattered shards of light from her dress.

Judging from applause, she had quite a few supporters in the crowd of 1,976 at Tarrant County Convention Center theater.

Miss Wilson, a fifth grade teacher in Arlington public schools, trained extensively with weights under Weisbeck's direction. She attributes success in her red swimsuit to training and protein-rich diet.

Miss Wilson also received quite a few cheers.

Others popular with the crowd were Peggy Oliver, Miss Laporte-Bayshore, who performed the "Don Quixote" classical ballet. Judy Wee, Miss Houston, who sang a medley called "Top of the World and Let me be there." Persis Forster, Miss Arlington, who sang "It's a Good Day" and tap danced, and Mary Ella Meek, Miss Hurst-Eules-Bedford, a preliminary talent winner last year as Miss West Texas, who sang "My Man."

Tonight the girls, who are divided into three groups for the preliminaries, will again compete in swimsuit, talent and evening gown categories.

Results of evening gown competition are not announced. Pageant officials say this is because they don't want the girls imitating the winners.

A fourth category of competition, closed to the public, is a five-minute judges' interview, which sources say can make or break a contestant.

The 10 girls with the highest point total after three nights of preliminary competition will vie again Saturday night for the chance to go to the September's Miss America pageant in Atlantic City.

Washington burning

WASHINGTON (AP) — Washington is burning, spelled H-O-T.

Temperatures over 90 on 10 of the past 11 days. Enough humidity to keep mosquitos happy. Enough bad air for a health warning.

On Wednesday, the thermometer hit 100, the first time in eight years. The forecast is for temperatures of near 100 through Monday, with humidity over 70 per cent.

It's enough to make the city's newly opened air-conditioned subway stations a place to rest as well as wait for a ride. The jobs held by subway employees are among the best in town: working in cool concrete caverns underground, explaining the mysteries of the new train system to tourists and commuters alike.

"This heat makes me feel lazy and evil," said one sufferer, Gunther George, a 49-year-old fruit vendor working at his downtown stand on Wednesday. Washington wasn't alone.

Many of the nation was experiencing temperatures in the 90s on Wednesday, and some sections had readings over 100. In Birmingham, Ala. it was 102; in Detroit, 100; Atlanta, 100; Las Vegas, 105; Phoenix, Ariz., 108; Richmond, 105; Omaha, 100; Des Moines, 103; Dallas-Fort Worth, 100.

Electrical use set a record during the day in Washington, a city of great clusters of air-conditioned federal offices. Highway pavement buckled. And for more than 1 million suburban residents, there wasn't even the retreat of the neighborhood pool to look forward to. A major pumping station was knocked out.

The National Weather Service held little hope that a line of thunderstorms moving into the area from Pennsylvania would dislodge the stifling heat.

Towns may lose planes

ROSWELL (AP) — If a bill in Congress becomes law it will make victims of small cities and the small airlines on which they depend, said a Texas International Airlines official.

Sam Coats, general counsel and vice president of Texas International, said Wednesday the southeast New Mexico cities of Roswell, Carlsbad, Hobbs and Clovis could lose their present major airline service.

The bill would allow airlines across the nation to abandon any routes it deems to be unprofitable and detrimental to the airline, he said. The routes presently are regulated by the federal government.

Coats predicted in a speech before the Roswell Chamber of Development and Commerce cities such as the four in southeastern New Mexico would ultimately receive an indirect commuter service, which would cost the customer more with flights on a smaller aircraft at a less than daily basis.

He also said the measure also would hurt the smaller and medium size major airlines such as Texas International. The bill would allow airlines to add two new routes of its choosing every year. He indicated this would make it possible for the larger airlines to move into profitable areas being serviced by the smaller airlines, he said.

Chinese flyer defects

TAIPEI, Taiwan (AP) — A squadron commander in the Chinese Communist air force flew his MIG19 jet fighter to Taiwan today and asked for political asylum, a spokesman for the Nationalist Chinese defense ministry announced.

Informed sources said the defector, 41-year-old Fan Yuan-yen, would be rewarded with about $700,000 worth of gold. Fan's plane is no prize for Western intelligence officers since it has been outdated by the MIG21 and MIG25. But military sources said he brought documents concerning Chinese coastal military installations and other defense information.

The defense ministry spokesman said Fan took off from the Chintian military air field in Fukien province, crossed the Formosa Strait and landed at Tainan, in southwest Taiwan.

He told officers there that life on the mainland was "no suffering" that he had "no choice but to flee to Taiwan," the spokesman reported.

Fagan Dickson dies

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Funeral services will be held this afternoon for Fagan Dickson, 73, prominent liberal Democrat and well known attorney, who died Wednesday after a long illness.

Dickson was a practicing attorney in San Antonio from 1930 to 1941 when he was elected a member of the Texas legislature. He served as an assistant attorney general from 1942 to 1949, then went into private practice in Austin.

Dickson ran for Congress in 1968 with the announced aim of convincing President Lyndon B.

Johnson not to run for re-election. Billboards bearing the message "Bring Lyndon Home" were scattered over the district around Austin. After Johnson decided not to run again, Dickson withdrew from the Congressional race.

He was associated with former Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., in a number of political campaigns, serving twice as his statewide finance chairman.

He was a native of Hopkinsville, Ky. Survivors include a son, James Fagan Dickson Jr., Houston.

Detroit workers walk out

DETROIT (AP) — City employees, whose surprise strike left Detroiters without bus service or garbage pickup, were called back to their jobs today after a tentative agreement on a three-year contract.

The settlement, reached shortly after 2 a.m., was unanimously endorsed by representatives of 19 locals of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, which represents some 8,000 city workers.

Lloyd Simpson, director of AFSCME Council 77, called the walkout "fair to both city employees and Detroit's taxpayers."

Simpson said the agreement retained cost of living increases, health coverage and sick leave provisions from the previous contract, which expired last week. A contract extension expired at midnight Tuesday, prompting the Wednesday morning walkout.

The one-day strike involved more employees than any in Detroit's history, and affected about 1.3 million residents of the nation's sixth-largest city.

Cavorting in sprinklers

New York City steaming

By JULES LOH
AP Special Correspondent
NEW YORK (AP) — Hell hath no fury like the sidewalks of New York on a steamy summer day.

East Side, West Side, all around the town, boys and girls cavort under fireproof sprinklers, splash in gutter rivulets, run barefoot from shade to shade on soft asphalt. On 20th Street a block from the East River, they line up at Sam the ice cream man's white pushcart.

Sam Batchoff, a man of good humor, has been selling ice cream at the same corner for 30 years.

"What is Nathan's famous for?" Sam calls out.

"Hot dogs!" chorus the kids gathered around his cart.

"What is Sam famous for?"

"Sammy's Whammys!" cry the kids, and run away laughing.

A Whammy, for the benefit of all over 12, is a cold confection on a stick and costs 10 pennies, or six, or nine, however many a small fist happens to hold. Sam rarely counts. "What are you going to do," he says, reaching into the cart through a mist of magic vapor, "not give it to them?"

According to one well-placed observer, Joey Varus, a nine-year-old connoisseur of almond bars, "Sam is the popaiarest guy in the neighborhood."

No argument there. Last year on July 2 the neighborhood women, many of them former members of Sam's clientele, greeted him on his corner with a big cake and some nice summer shirts and several boxes of cigars and stood with their kids and sang Happy Birthday to You.

Sam's eyes, which are chocolate, moistened. He examined the shirts, lit a cigar, composed himself, thanked the ladies. Then he passed out the cake to the kids.

"If you're an ice cream man and don't like kids you're in the wrong job," Sam said. "No, I never had children of my own but they're all my children if you know what I mean. I know nearly all of them by name. I know their mothers and fathers. I've watched them grow up and go off to college and get married."

"They come back and visit me and bring their kids and say, 'Honey, this is Sam. I used to get ice cream from Sam when I was a little girl.' Yes, I know them all and I guess they all know me."

Is that so, kids? Is there anybody in the neighborhood who doesn't know Sam? The kids pondered the question a long moment.

"Conroy. Maybe Conroy doesn't know Sam," said Joey, polishing off his third almond bar.

"Yeah, maybe," said Phillip the fudge bar freak, "but Conroy's only been here a month. Conroy doesn't count."

To Sam Batchoff they all count, every sticky-fingered one of them, because they are his life.

Computers unlocked

By EVANS WITT
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Dozens of computer terminals sit idle, unattended and often unlocked at night in a huge office in suburban Baltimore.

Property of the Social Security Administration, the terminals contain confidential personal information on tens of millions of Americans. Yet they are easy targets for fraud, government auditors say.

"Security procedures and controls... were not adequate to prevent fraud and abuse or to assure compliance with the requirements of the Privacy Act of 1974," said the Department of Health, Education and Welfare audit agency report.

For example, the audit found almost half of the 69 terminals in the SSA headquarters were in areas such as large open rooms that could not be locked at night.

The computer's 2,200 terminals all over the country can be locked electronically to prevent unauthorized use. But auditors found 59 of the 69 terminals in the Maryland office were left unlocked overnight at least once in a four-week period.

The computer system contains records on the more than 27 million Americans who receive more than $81 billion annually in Social Security checks and Supplement Security Income payments, including the amount of payments, family income and assets, medical histories and marital status.

Social Security employees use the computer system to process millions of new claims for benefits received each year. The system maintains records on all current benefit payments under the various Social Security programs, including Medicare and disability payments.

"The weaknesses (in the system) adversely affected the SSA's capability to protect the integrity of its data and prevent a compromise of personal data retained in the program records," the audit said.

There were no cases of frauds or abuse found by the auditors. But they said they didn't look.

"We did not attempt to determine whether the system has been misused, but, rather, whether the potential for misuse existed," they said.

The report on the audit, conducted last year, gave a laundry list of the problems with the system, including lack of terminal security:

—Reports on possible violations of computer security were too late to be useful and often were inaccurate.

—Too many employees knew the passwords that give access to the personal information, when their jobs did not require such knowledge.

—The computer programs designed to provide additional security were ineffective in blocking unauthorized use of the system.

Reps. John Moss, D-Calif., and Charles Rose, D-N.C., who made the report public, have asked for a General Accounting Office study of the computer system. The study is in preparation.

Pope defier sets visit to Texas

DICKINSON, Tex. (AP) — The French archbishop who recently drew Pope Paul's wrath for ordaining 14 priests of his traditionalist religious order plans a visit Sunday to this Southeast Texas town, says one of his Texas followers.

Archbishop Marcel Lefebvre defied the Pope's order last week and ordained the priests in a seminary in Econe, Switzerland. Vatican Radio said his actions had placed him outside the church.

Pope Paul had barred the archbishop from performing priestly functions because of his militant campaign against modernization of the Catholic Church. The ban, however, does not invalidate the functions.

Archbishop Lefebvre will visit here to consecrate the Queen of Angels Chapel, a church in his religious order, Father Hector Bolduc said Wednesday.

The archbishop will also celebrate a pontifical mass and later administer the sacrament of confirmation. The church reportedly has a congregation of 800.

Archbishop Lefebvre's conflict with Pope Paul centers on his celebration of mass in Latin following the Tridentine rite instead of the new liturgy, which calls for the mass to be celebrated in the language of the parishioners.

In Galveston the Rt. Rev. John Morkowski, bishop of the Galveston-Houston Diocese that includes the church, said he was "saddened" by the controversy involving the French archbishop and the Pope.

The French archbishop is the founder of the Society of St. Pious X, a religious order that follows the more traditional teachings of the church as opposed to those that emerged from the Second Vatican Council.

The Pope has not criticized the archbishop openly, apparently trying to avoid an open break.

Father Bolduc said Archbishop Lefebvre and his followers maintain communion with the Roman Catholic Church.

Father Bolduc is one of eight priests of the Society in the United States. As a member of a religious order he is not directly under the bishop of the secular diocese.

"In no way do we want to break away from the church," said Father Bolduc who was ordained by the French archbishop in 1974.

Father Bolduc, originally from New Hampshire, celebrates Latin mass in several towns in Texas.

"There must some mysticism connected with the sacrifice (mass)," he said. "Christ is mysterious, divine, but mass has become a form of entertainment or social gathering. Many Catholics are uncomfortable with the changes."

Hairy monster roams area near Abilene

ABILENE, Tex. (AP) — Neighbors, some with tongue-in-cheek, listened today to stories about the so-called "Hawley Him" — described as a hairy, 7-foot tall monster — roaming the countryside.

Three teen-agers told of dodging rocks hurled at them Wednesday by the ape-like creature on a ranch outside Hawley, a community 5 miles north of Abilene in West Central Texas.

"Whatever it was, he looked like kind of an ape but was still a man," said Larry Suggs, 15. "He had huge arms — they hung to his knees."

"You'd have to see him to believe it."

One of the rocks hit Suggs' right leg, he said, and others narrowly missed his companions, Tom Roberts, 14, and Renee McFarland, 15.

Young Suggs and Roberts, who live at Abilene Boys Ranch, ran to the McFarland home after first sighting the creature. She returned with them packing a deer rifle and handed it to Suggs after the monster reappeared.

"She handed the gun to me and said, 'You shoot it,' Suggs related.

He fired from a distance of about 40 yards and apparently missed, he said, adding that the weapon's recoil knocked him off his feet.

Guerrilla answer--bomb

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — A Palestinian guerrilla group says the pipe bomb in the Petah Tiqva market that killed a woman and wounded 20 other persons was its answer to Prime Minister Menahem Begin's territorial policy.

The radical Popular Democratic Front for the Liberation of Palestine announced in Beirut that one of its guerrillas planted the bomb that exploded Wednesday in response to the new prime minister's "policy of creating new settlements in Palestine."

Begin before he became prime minister supported the establishment of Jewish settlements in the West Bank territory on which the guerrillas want to establish a Palestinian state. Israel took the territory from Jordan in the 1967 war, and Begin contends it is part of historical Israel.

Petah Tiqva, a city of 105,000, is five miles from the border of the occupied territory, and thousands of West Bank Arabs pass through it daily on their way to and from work in Israel. It was the scene of two Arab bombings last November in which five persons were injured.

Following the bombing Wednesday, police warned the people to be on the lookout for "suspicious parcels and people, especially in crowded public places."

Japanese beetles sprayed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The lonely world of the Japanese beetle will be even more lonely now that the government and three airlines are working to stop the crop pest from migrating to the West Coast on airplanes.

Nine of the beetles, which generally inhabit the eastern part of the country, were discovered aboard an airplane landing in California last week. The Agriculture Department,

The bombing was the worst in Israel since May 1976, when a booby-trapped motor scooter blew up in Jerusalem, killing one person and injuring 29.

Hospital officials said a 56-year-old woman died Wednesday night while undergoing surgery, and four other wounded persons were reported in serious condition.

The police rounded up about 100 Arabs for questioning. The Popular Democratic Front said one of its guerrillas eluded Israeli security measures to plant a time bomb. It added that it "warns the Zionists against harming the arrested Arabs and assures our people in Palestine that we are always capable of helping them."

Despite Begin's earlier hard territorial line, Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan and others have been hinting that the government might relinquish some of the West Bank if the Arabs were willing to offer enough in a peace agreement.

As a result of this possibility, the leader of Israel's third largest party, Yigal Yadin of the centrist Democratic Movement for Change, decided Wednesday to renew negotiations with Begin to join the government coalition.

concerned for the state's $9.9-billion agricultural crop, ordered spraying of planes departing from Washington's Dulles International Airport and three others for California.

The department ordered the spraying beginning July 4 after declaring Dulles "hazardous." Similar declarations were issued for the Cincinnati Airport, Dover Air Force Base in Delaware and McGuire Air Force Base in New Jersey.

But United Airlines balked at the spraying order after discovering that the spray contained DDT, which has been banned from commercial use in the United States for five years. Two other airlines, American and Trans World, went along with the spraying but joined United in questioning the safety of DDT to passengers and crews, and to the planes as well.

Although the Agriculture Department maintained that airplane spraying with DDT had been going on under special authority since 1963, officials of the three airlines operating out of Dulles expressed surprise at the use of DDT. The spraying program went uncontested at the other three airports.

The dispute in Washington was resolved Wednesday, when government officials met with industry representatives at a session arranged by the Air Transport Association, a trade organization of major air carriers.

King Lovinger, a department spokesman, noted that the Environmental Protection Agency approved using a DDT mist, combined with Sevin, a popular garden pesticide, to rid airplanes of the beetles.

Pot crop located

The marijuana found growing near Danciger Park outside Lefors on July 4 was on property owned by Bitts Hoover, not Atlantic Richfield Oil Co., as was originally thought, according to Rufe Jordan, Gray County sheriff.

The sheriff said he received a call from Hoover saying it was located on his property — which he added is true according to the county surveyor's map of this county.

Sheriff's deputies harvested some 250 pounds of the illegal weed found growing wild by picnickers Monday. It was then burned.

Officers are not sure how it came to be growing there but the sheriff said an investigation will continue.

He explained that officers had received reports of the illegal weed in that area five years ago, but that no find it.

No complaints had been reported over the past 15 to 18 months.

Texas weather

By The Associated Press
Hot weather turbulence kept occasional thunderstorms booming in the north part of the Texas Panhandle this morning, and the same kind of weather lurked in the Gulf of Mexico near Galveston.

Scattered thunderstorms again boomed during the night in far West Texas also but yielded little moisture. Measurements ranged up to nearly one-fourth inch around El Paso in that section and at Amarillo in the Panhandle.

Coupled with considerable humidity, temperatures stayed uncomfortably warm overnight.

Advice

Dear Abby
By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: When Lenny came home from a convention trip, I thought he acted kind of funny. It was two weeks before I found out why. It seems a bunch of the guys went out one night and got tattooed. Well, Lenny had a pair of red lips tattooed on his behind. (He said he asked for a rose, but the artist gave him the lips.)
Lenny says he is sorry, and he wears a large band-aid over it so it won't make me mad everytime I see it. Is there any way to get that tattoo off his behind?
LENNY'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Yes, Lenny should see a dermatologist (skin specialist).

DEAR ABBY: My mother is the moodiest person on earth. She can wake up feeling fine, and then if anyone does one thing wrong, she's mad for the day. I am 16 years old, and I am sick and tired of her actions. So are my brothers and sisters.

I realize that some women have a difficult time when they reach 40, but enough is enough. Can you please give me some advice on how to get along with her? (Thank you.)
SHERI

DEAR SHERI: Yes. Just for one day, refrain from doing any of the things you know will irritate her. And try to do all the things you know will please her, such as: cleaning your room; limiting your telephone conversations; keeping the radio and TV low; desisting from complaints about what you don't have or can't do; remaining silent when you'd like to talk back or argue; and keeping the peace with your brothers and sisters. You will then find that living with mother is so much more enjoyable, you'll think you're in the wrong house. (You're welcome.)

DEAR ABBY: My children are just average, but they are good kids. I have no outstanding beauties among my daughters, and while they do have friends, none of them is wildly popular. My sons are average students, just fair in sports, but none of them ever made the team.

A relative of mine has outstanding children. They are popular, good looking and gets lots of honors—and he doesn't let me forget it for a moment. What can I say when he collars me and brags on and on about his kids?
SLOW BURN

DEAR SLOW: Nothing. Just because a jackass brays doesn't mean you have to answer him.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "WRONG SIDE OF THE TRACKS" IN CLEVELAND: If after all these years her parents refuse to accept you, quit trying. It would be easier to move the tracks.

Ask Dr. Lamb

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am writing you a few lines. I want to know when sex leaves a man altogether and he doesn't want a woman anymore, or does it?

DEAR READER — In general both males and females are sexual creatures from birth to death. How this is expressed depends upon many social and psychological factors. Health is also a factor. However, an elderly woman dying of cancer of the breast, and receiving male hormone to help control the cancer may still have an overwhelming sex desire.

Sexual desire of a man for one particular woman may vary in relation to their more basic relationship. If he is bored, or if the couple have basic problems the desire for sex in that situation may disappear.

Being impotent is not the same thing as not having any sexual interest. Relatively young diabetic men may be impotent because of damage to the nerves that control the mechanical aspects of sex. But that same man can be emotionally aroused and even have an orgasm.

Some older men have vascular disease that affects mechanical reaction but the desire may still be there. To give you more information on impotence I am sending you The Health Letter number 3-12. Impotence. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. You may be surprised to learn that men who live in good health into their 90s still have sexual interest and some are still capable of sex relations in the conventional sense.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I just can't get the courage to ask my family doctor, but I need advice. What should a man do when he and his wife both have had a very strong sex drive all their lives and now she absolutely refuses sex. She started acting like this after a D and C to stop bleeding.

My teen-age daughter is driving me up the wall, encouraging me to give her sexual response. She claims many of her school friends do it at home, why not us?
Is there any physical wrong with this type of relationship? How long can a man hold his composure under this sort of pressure?

DEAR READER — You need to be very firm with your daughter. In fact all three of you need professional help. I appreciate your reluctance to talk to your family doctor but perhaps you could tell him that you and your wife need family counseling and that you would like to have the whole family see a psychiatrist.

Your daughter is not correct in saying that relations between father and daughter are that common. The long-term effects on the daughter psychologically can be very bad.

The situation you describe suggests that all three of you have played a role in the situation that has come about. Your wife is not behaving normally, nor is she fulfilling the role of a wife. The reason may be related to you or she may have more basic problems.

So my advice is for all of you to see a psychiatrist. If you can't manage that easily I think you should go yourself and in the course of the interview perhaps you can get some help in finding out how to get assistance for all three. Dr. Lamb will answer representative letters of general interest in his column.

Polly's pointers

By Polly Cramer

DEAR POLLY — The enclosed clipping with a picture of contestants in a pie eating contest perfectly illustrates my Pet Peeve. Many people in our land are hungry and yet some seem to think this waste is a sport to say nothing of the danger of someone choking. To me this sort of thing is disgusting. — E.S.

DEAR POLLY — My husband's parents had the same problem Mrs. A. has with mold growing on their walls which is seemingly caused by the gas heater. After trying anything and everything they were told that the stovepipe was probably stopped up with soot and after cleaning it they had no more trouble. — MRS. B.

DEAR POLLY — Since our area cut back in the use of water in parks and on lawns, it is no longer possible for dogs and cats to get a drink from dripping faucets or water in gutters. I have always kept a coffee can filled and changed it when I watered the lawn but I no longer do that. However I do still keep a filled can of water and have seen five cats come to it for a drink this week. Two of them were new to me and I watched to see where they went. They waited for traffic, crossed the highway to the next block. Evidently owners are forgetting that the animals outside need food as well as water. My can was empty this morning and a cat waited for my husband to fill the can. Please folks put out a can of water as a cat can go hungry but they do need water. — D.P.

DEAR POLLY — I keep my kitchen salt in one of those small margarine tubs with a lid and find it is so much easier for measuring when I am baking or cooking. Just dip the spoon in with no mess. — SUSAN.

DEAR POLLY — A quick way to touch up white scuffs on black patent shoes is to use a permanent broad-tipped black marking pen. — MRS. B.F.

Polly will send you one of her signed thank-you newspaper coupon clippers if she uses your favorite Pointer, Peavee or Problem in her column. Write POLLY'S POINTERS in care of this newspaper.

To prepare, combine in saucepan thinly sliced celery (about 1 cup), 1/2 cup of milk, 1 tablespoon instant minced onion, 1/2 teaspoon dill weed or thyme. Cover and simmer for 10 minutes, or until celery is crisp-tender. Cut 2 frankfurters into 1/4-inch slices. Cut four or five other franks at 1/2-inch intervals, cutting about 3-4 through. Cook franks in simmering water for five minutes or until curled and heated through. Add 1 can cheese soup and 1 teaspoon prepared mustard to celery mixture; stir until smooth. Add frank slices, heating until bubbly. On each muffin half, place a curled frank; spoon about 1/2 cup sauce on each. Makes four to five servings. For alternate mushroom hot dog shortcakes, use can of mushroom soup and omit the mustard.

Texas Twister

To prepare, combine in sauce pan 1 can (16 ounces) kidney or pinto beans with liquid, 1/2 medium green pepper (chopped), 1 medium onion (chopped), 1/2 cup catsup, and 1/2 teaspoon each of oregano and garlic salt. Simmer 15 to 20 minutes until thickened, adding water if necessary. Cook six to eight hot dogs, cut into spirals or "S" shapes, in simmering water for five minutes, until thoroughly heated. Slit hot dog buns but do not cut through. Place franks in buns and top with a generous portion of bean sauce. Sprinkle with grated cheddar cheese.

Macaroni doubles in summer

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

Macaroni salads are staples in many households for summer menus. These are easy to put together ahead of time and actually have a better flavor if the seasonings are allowed to marry a bit before the chilled salad is served. A macaroni and two-cheese salad makes a nourishing entrée with the added protein. Just serve with fresh tomato wedges and pickles for a quick lunch or light dinner. This version has a piquant touch through the addition of chili sauce.

For a hot party casserole here is a variation on baked macaroni and cheese, dressed up with pimiento stuffed olives with an added flavoring of celery seed.

MACARONI TWO-CHEESE SALAD

- 2 cups elbow macaroni (8 ounces)
- 1 tablespoon salt
- 3 quarts boiling water
- 2 tablespoons chopped scallions or green onions
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 1/2 pound Swiss cheese
- 1/2 pound Cheddar cheese
- 3/4 cup mayonnaise
- 3/4 cup chili sauce
- 1/4 cup lettuce

Gradually add macaroni and 1 tablespoon salt to rapidly boiling water so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain in colander. Rinse with cold water. Drain again.

Combine macaroni, scallions, 1 teaspoon salt and pepper. Cut half of the Swiss and Cheddar cheeses in to one-half-inch cubes. Add to

MACARONI MIXTURE

Blend mayonnaise with chili sauce, stir into macaroni mixture. Place lettuce leaves on salad platter. Arrange macaroni salad in center. Cut remaining Swiss and Cheddar cheeses into thin strips and arrange around salad. Makes 6 servings.

BAKED MACARONI CHEESE AND OLIVES

- 2 cups elbow macaroni (8 ounces)
- 1 tablespoon salt
- 3 quarts boiling water
- 3 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1/2 cup flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon celery seed
- 1/8 teaspoon pepper
- 2 cups milk
- 3/4 pound process American cheese, grated
- 1/2 cups sliced pimiento-stuffed olives
- 2 tablespoons seasoned bread crumbs

Gradually add macaroni and 1 tablespoon salt to rapidly boiling water so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain in colander. Rinse with cold water. Drain again.

Combine macaroni, scallions, 1 teaspoon salt and pepper. Cut half of the Swiss and Cheddar cheeses in to one-half-inch cubes. Add to

Gather ye cherries

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Fresh sweet cherries make market stalls colorful right now, but hurry, hurry. Gather the tempting fruit while you may. The fresh sweet cherry season is short — from mid-June to August.

For a luscious company dessert you might like to use some of the cherries to fill meringues. The meringues are inexpensive; they use leftover egg whites that may be stored in the freezer until you are ready to thaw them and put them to work in this sweet.

- 3 cups fresh sweet cherries
- 3 large egg whites, at room temperature
- 1/4 teaspoon cream of tartar
- 1/4 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 cup sugar
- Coconut Topping, see below

Halve and pit the cherries reserving 8 whole ones for a garnish; chill. Beat together until frothy the egg whites, cream of tartar, salt and vanilla; gradually beat in the sugar, a tablespoon at a time, until very stiff peaks form and the sugar is dissolved. Cover a cookie sheet with plain ungreased paper; mark off eight 3 1/2-inch circles; spread each circle with 1/3rd cup of the meringue; with the back of a tablespoon shape each portion of meringue to make a shell. Bake in a preheated 275-degree oven for 1 hour; turn off heat; let meringues dry in the oven with the door closed for 1 1/2 hours. Run a spatula under each meringue to loosen and remove from paper. Store in an airtight container in a cool dry place.

At serving time, fill the meringue shells with the halved cherries; add the Coconut Topping; garnish with the whole cherries. Makes 8 servings.

Coconut Topping: Beat together until thick 1 cup heavy cream, 1/4 cup sugar and 1/4 teaspoon vanilla. Fold in 1/4 to 1/2 cup flaked coconut.

A tossed green salad is a great main course for a Saturday lunch or a Sunday night supper when you add to it strips of ham and cheese, anchovy fillets or caper-stuffed rolled anchovies. Smoked tongue may be used instead of the ham. Chicken may also be added.

The recipe file

ZUCCHINI GEMS

They may be served warm or cold.

- 1/2 cup flour
- 1/2 teaspoon baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon baking soda
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
- 1 large egg
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1/2 cup salad oil
- 1 cup grated (medium-fine) unpared zucchini, loosely packed
- 1/4 cup raisins, snipped fine
- 1/4 cup chopped (medium-fine) walnuts

Stir together the flour, baking powder, baking soda, salt and nutmeg. Beat together the egg, sugar and oil until blended; add the flour mixture, zucchini, raisins and walnuts; stir only until dry ingredients are moistened. Fill buttered muffin-pan cups (each holding 1-3rd cup) two-thirds full. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in the center comes out clean — about 25 minutes. Loosen edges and remove. Makes 8.

SAVORY CORNBREAD

Quick to put together.

- 2 large eggs
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1-3rd cup salad oil
- 1 can (.8% ounces) creamstyle corn
- 2 cups fine, white, self-rising, stoneground cornmeal
- 1 1/2 cups grated (medium-fine) loosely packed cheddar cheese

Beat together the eggs, milk and oil until blended, add the corn and cornmeal and stir until the cornmeal is moistened. Turn half the batter into a buttered 8 by 8 by 2-inch glass baking dish or similar utensil; sprinkle with half the cheese; carefully spoon the remaining batter over the cheese and spread evenly; sprinkle with the remaining cheese. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven about 40 minutes. Serve at once. Makes 8 servings. (If the self-rising cornmeal is not available, use regular fine white stoneground cornmeal and add 4 teaspoons baking powder and 1/2 teaspoon salt.)

SALAMI EGG PLATTER

It looks attractive and tastes good.

- Watercress
- Cherry Tomatoes
- Thinly sliced salami (preferably Genoa style)
- Stuffed egg halves

Arrange the watercress (thick stems removed) in the center of a round platter; border with the cherry tomatoes and then the salami and stuffed egg halves.

Washington burning

WASHINGTON (AP) — Washington is burning, spelled H-O-T. Temperatures over 90 on 10 of the past 11 days. Enough humidity to keep mosquitos happy. Enough bad air for a health warning.

On Wednesday, the thermometer hit 100, the first time in eight years. The forecast is for temperatures of near 100 through Monday, with humidity over 70 per cent.

It's enough to make the city's newly opened air-conditioned subway stations a place to rest as well as wait for a ride. The jobs held by subway employees are among the best in town: working in cool concrete caverns underground, explaining the mysteries of the new train system to tourists and commuters alike.

"This heat makes me feel lazy and evil," said one sufferer, Gunther George, a 49-year-old fruit vendor working at his downtown stand on Wednesday.

Washington wasn't alone. Much of the nation was experiencing temperatures in the 90s on Wednesday, and some sections had readings over 100. In Birmingham, Ala. it was 102; in Detroit, 100; Atlanta, 100; Las Vegas, 105; Phoenix, Ariz., 108; Richmond, 105; Omaha, 100; Des Moines, 103; Dallas-Fort Worth, 100.

Electrical use set a record during the day in Washington, a city of great clusters of air-conditioned federal offices.

Highway pavement buckled. And for more than 1 million suburban residents, there wasn't even the retreat of the neighborhood pool to look forward to. A major pumping station was knocked out.

The National Weather Service held little hope that a line of thundershowers moving into the area from Pennsylvania would dislodge the stifling heat.

Towns may lose planes

ROSWELL (AP) — If a bill in Congress becomes law it will make victims of small cities such as the four in southeastern New Mexico would ultimately receive an indirect computer service, which would cost the customer more with flights on so smaller aircraft at a less than daily basis.

He also said the measure also would hurt the smaller and medium size major airlines such as Texas International. The bill would allow airlines to add two new routes of its choosing every year. He indicated this would make it possible for the larger airlines to move into profitable areas being serviced by the smaller airlines, he said.

Coats predicted in a speech before the Roswell Chamber of Development and Commerce cities such as the four in southeastern New Mexico would ultimately receive an indirect computer service, which would cost the customer more with flights on so smaller aircraft at a less than daily basis.

He also said the measure also would hurt the smaller and medium size major airlines such as Texas International. The bill would allow airlines to add two new routes of its choosing every year. He indicated this would make it possible for the larger airlines to move into profitable areas being serviced by the smaller airlines, he said.

Chinese flyer defects

TAIPEI, Taiwan (AP) — A squadron commander in the Chinese Communist air force flew his MIG19 jet fighter to Taiwan today and asked for political asylum, a spokesman for the Nationalist Chinese defense ministry announced.

Informed sources said the defector, 41-year-old Fan Yuan-yun, would be rewarded with about $700,000 worth of gold.

Fan's plane is no prize for Western intelligence officers since it has been outdated by the MIG21 and MIG25. But military sources said he brought documents concerning Chinese coastal military installations and other defense information.

The defense ministry spokesman said Fan took off from the Chintian military air field in Fukien province, crossed the Formosa Strait and landed at Tainan, in southwest Taiwan.

He told officers there that life on the mainland was "so suffering" that he had "no choice but to flee to Taiwan," the spokesman reported.

Fagan Dickson dies

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Funeral services will be held this afternoon for Fagan Dickson, 73, prominent liberal Democrat and well known attorney, who died Wednesday after a long illness.

Dickson was a practicing attorney in San Antonio from 1930 to 1941 when he was elected a member of the Texas legislature. He served as an assistant attorney general from 1942 to 1949, then went into private practice in Austin.

Dickson ran for Congress in 1968 with the announced aim of convincing President Lyndon B. Johnson not to run for re-election. Billboards bearing the message "Bring Lyndon Home" were scattered over the district around Austin. After Johnson decided not to run again, Dickson withdrew from the Congressional race.

He was associated with former Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., in a number of political campaigns, serving twice as his statewide finance chairman.

He was a native of Hopkinsville, Ky.

Survivors include a son, James Fagan Dickson Jr., Houston.

Detroit workers walk out

DETROIT (AP) — City employees, whose surprise strike left Detroiters without bus service or garbage pickup, were called back to their jobs today after a tentative agreement on a three-year contract.

The settlement, reached shortly after 2 a.m., was unanimously endorsed by representatives of 19 locals of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, which represents some 8,000 city workers.

Lloyd Simpson, director of AFSCME Council 77, called the pact "fair to both city employees and Detroit's taxpayers."

Simpson said the agreement retained cost of living increases, health coverage and sick leave provisions from the previous contract, which expired last week. A contract extension expired at midnight Tuesday, prompting the Wednesday morning walkout.

The one-day strike involved more employees than any in Detroit's history, and affected about 1.3 million residents of the nation's sixth-largest city.

Cavorting in sprinklers

New York City steaming

By JULES LOH
AP Special Correspondent
NEW YORK (AP) — Hell hath no fury like the sidewalks of New York on a steamy summer day.

East Side, West Side, all around the town, boys and girls cavort under fireproof sprinklers, splash in gutter rivulets, barefoot from shade to shade on soft asphalt. On 20th Street a block from the East River, they line up at Sam the ice cream man's white pushcart.

Sam Batchoff, a man of good humor, has been selling ice cream at the same corner for 30 years.

"What is Nathan's famous for?" Sam calls out.

"Hot dogs!" chorus the kids gathered around his cart.

"What is Sam famous for?"

"Sammy's Whammys!" cry the kids, and run away laughing.

A Whammy, for the benefit of all over 12, is a cold confection on a stick and costs 10 pennies, or six, or nine, however many a small fist happens to hold. Sam rarely counts. "What are you going to do," he says, reaching into the cart through a mist of magic vapor, "not give it to them?"

According to one well-placed observer, Joey Varua, a nine-year-old connoisseur of almond bars, "Sam is the popularest guy in the neighborhood."

No argument there. Last year on July 2 the neighborhood women, many of them former members of Sam's clientele, greeted him on his corner with a big cake and some nice summer shirts and several boxes of cigars and stood with their kids and sang Happy Birthday to You.

Sam's eyes, which are chocolate, moistened. He examined the shirts, lit a cigar, composed himself, thanked the ladies. Then he passed out the cake to the kids.

"If you're an ice cream man and don't like kids you're in the wrong job," Sam said.

"No, I never had children of my own but they're all my children if you know what I mean. I know nearly all of them by name. I know their mothers and fathers. I've watched them grow up and go off to college and get married."

"They come back and visit me and bring their kids and say, 'Honey, this is Sam. I used to get ice cream from Sam when I was a little girl.' Yes, I know them all and I guess they all know me."

Is that so, kids? Is there anybody in the neighborhood who doesn't know Sam? The kids pondered the question a long moment.

"Conroy. Maybe Conroy doesn't know Sam," said Joey, polishing off his third almond bar.

"Yeah, maybe," said Phillip the fudge bar freak, "but Conroy's only been here a month. Conroy doesn't count."

To Sam Batchoff they all count, every sticky-fingered one of them, because they are his life.

Computers unlocked

By EVANS WITT
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Dozens of computer terminals sit idle, unattended and often unlocked at night in a huge office in suburban Baltimore.

Property of the Social Security Administration, the terminals contain confidential personal information on tens of millions of Americans. Yet they are easy targets for fraud, government auditors say.

"Security procedures and controls... were not adequate to prevent fraud and abuse or to assure compliance with the requirements of the Privacy Act of 1974," said the Department of Health, Education and Welfare audit agency report.

For example, the audit found almost half of the 69 terminals in the SSA headquarters were in areas such as large open rooms that could not be locked at night.

The computer's 2,300 terminals all over the country can be locked electronically to prevent unauthorized use. But auditors found 59 of the 69 terminals in the Maryland office were left unlocked overnight at least once in a four-week period.

The computer system contains records on the more than 27 million Americans who receive more than $61 billion annually in Social Security checks and Supplemental Security Income payments, including the amount of payments, family income and assets, medical histories and marital status.

Social Security employees use the computer system to process millions of new claims for benefits received each year. The system maintains records on all current benefit payments under the various Social Security programs, including Medicare and disability payments.

"The weaknesses (in the system) adversely affected the SSA's capability to protect the integrity of its data and prevent a compromise of personal data retained in the program records," the audit said.

There were no cases of frauds or abuse found by the auditors. But they said they didn't look.

"We did not attempt to determine whether the system has been misused, but, rather, whether the potential for misuse existed," they said.

The report on the audit, conducted last year, gave a laundry list of the problems with the system, including lack of terminal security.

"Reports on possible violations of computer security were too late to be useful and often were inaccurate."

"Too many employees knew the passwords that give access to the personal information, when their jobs did not require such knowledge."

"The computer programs designed to provide additional security were ineffective in blocking unauthorized use of the system."

Reps. John Moss, D-Calif., and Charles Rose, D-N.C., who made the report public, have asked for a General Accounting Office study of the computer system. The study is in preparation.

Pope defier sets visit to Texas

DICKINSON, Tex. (AP) — The French archbishop who recently drew Pope Paul's wrath for ordaining 14 priests of his traditionalist religious order plans a visit Sunday to this Southeast Texas town, says one of his Texas followers.

Archbishop Marcel Lefebvre defied the Pope's order last week and ordained the priests in a seminary in Ecône, Switzerland. Vatican Radio said his actions had placed him outside the church.

Pope Paul had barred the archbishop from performing priestly functions because of his militant campaign against modernization of the Catholic Church. The ban, however, does not invalidate the functions.

Archbishop Lefebvre will visit here to consecrate the Queen of Angels Chapel, a church in his religious order, Father Hector Bolduc said Wednesday.

The archbishop will also celebrate a pontifical mass and later administer the sacrament of confirmation. The church reportedly has a congregation of 800.

Archbishop Lefebvre's conflict with Pope Paul centers on his celebration of mass in Latin following the Tridentine rite instead of the new liturgy, which calls for the mass to be celebrated in the language of the parishioners.

In Galveston the Rt. Rev. John Morkowski, bishop of the Galveston-Houston Diocese that

Hairy monster roams area near Abilene

ABILENE, Tex. (AP) — Neighbors, some with tongue in cheek, listened today to stories about the so-called "Hawley Him" — described as a hairy, 7-foot tall monster — roaming the countryside.

Three teen-agers told of dodging rooks lurked at them Wednesday by the ape-like creature on a ranch outside Hawley, a community 5 miles north of Abilene in West Central Texas.

"Whatever it was, he looked like kind of an ape but was still a man," said Larry Suggs, 15.

"He had huge arms — they hung to his knees."

"You'd have to see him to believe it."

One of the rocks hit Suggs' right leg, he said, and others narrowly missed his companions, Tom Roberts, 14, and Renee McFarland, 15.

Young Suggs and Roberts, who live at Abilene Boys Ranch, ran to the McFarland home after first sighting the creature. She returned with them packing a deer rifle and handed it to Suggs after the monster reappeared.

"She handed the gun to me and said, 'You shoot it,' Suggs related.

He fired from a distance of about 40 yards and apparently missed, he said, adding that the weapon's recoil knocked him off his feet.

One dies in explosion in Odessa

ODESSA, Tex. (AP) — An explosion ripped through a Shell Oil Co. refinery and killed a workman Wednesday night, a company spokesman said.

Bill Kennedy, the plant's manager for administrative services, said three other men suffered burns from the blast in a crude furnace, which was part of a distillation unit. They were dismissed after hospital treatment.

The dead man's name was being withheld pending notification of next of kin.

The refinery stands just outside the south edge of this West Texas oil center. Odessa residents said the explosion sounded to them like the slamming of a giant door.

Kennedy said the cause was being investigated and the extent of damage was undetermined. He reported part of the plant was shut down but the rest remained in operation.

Guerrilla answer--bomb

Jordan in the 1967 war, and Begin contends it is part of historical Israel.

Petah Tiqva, a city of 105,000, is five miles from the border of the occupied territory, and thousands of West Bank Arabs pass through it daily on their way to and from work in Israel. It was the scene of two Arab bombings last November in which five persons were injured.

Following the bombing Wednesday, police warned the people to be on the lookout for "suspicious parcels and people, especially in crowded public places."

The bombing was the worst in Israel since May 1976, when a booby-trapped motor scooter blew up in Jerusalem, killing one person and injuring 26. Hospital officials said a 56-year-old woman died Wednesday night while undergoing surgery, and four other wounded persons were reported in serious condition.

The police rounded up about 100 Arabs for questioning. The Popular Democratic Front said one of its guerrillas eluded Israeli security measures to plant a time bomb. It added that it "warns the Zionists against harming the arrested Arabs

Japanese beetles sprayed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The lonely world of the Japanese beetle will be even more lonely now that the government and three airlines are working to stop the crop pest from migrating to the West Coast on airplanes.

Nine of the beetles, which generally inhabit the eastern part of the country, were discovered aboard an airplane landing in California last week.

The Agriculture Department, concerned for the state's $8.9-billion agricultural crop, ordered spraying of planes departing from Washington's Dulles International Airport and three others for California.

The department ordered the spraying beginning July 4 after declaring Dulles "hazardous." Similar declarations were issued for the Cincinnati Airport, Dover Air Force Base in Delaware and McGuire Air Force Base in New Jersey.

But United Airlines balked at the spraying order after discovering that the spray contained DDT, which has been banned from commercial use in the United States for five years. Two other airlines, American and Trans World, went along with the spraying but joined United in questioning the safety of DDT to passengers and crews, and to the planes as well.

Fire hurts store

Pampa firefighters answered one alarm Wednesday, according to Dave Turner, fire department spokesman.

A liquor store west of Pampa on U.S. 60 sustained light damage to the roof, Turner said. Cause of the blaze was a hot neon light. The owner of the property is Rex Green.

Texas weather
By The Associated Press
Hot weather turbulence kept occasional thundershowers booming in the north part of the Texas Panhandle this morning, and the same kind of weather lurked in the Gulf of Mexico near Galveston.

Scattered thundershowers again boomed during the night in far West Texas as well as yielded little moisture. Measurements ranged up to nearly one-fourth inch around El Paso in that section and at Amarillo in the Panhandle.

Coupled with considerable humidity, temperatures stayed uncomfortably warm overnight.

Pot crop located

The marijuana found growing near Danciger Park outside Lefors on July 4 was on property owned by Blits Hoover, 20 Atlantic Richfield Oil Co., as was originally thought, according to Rufe Jordan, Gray County sheriff.

The sheriff said he received a call from Hoover saying it was located on his property — which he added is true according to the county surveyor's map of this county.

No complaints had been reported over the past 15 to 18 months.

Officers are not sure how it came to be growing there but the sheriff said an investigation will continue.

He explained that officers had received reports of the illegal weed in that area five years ago, but could not find it.

No complaints had been reported over the past 15 to 18 months.

Advice

Dear Abby
By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: When Lenny came home from a convention trip, I thought he acted kind of funny. It was two weeks before I found out why. It seems a bunch of the guys went out one night and got tattooed. Well, Lenny had a pair of red lips tattooed on his behind. (He said he asked for a rose, but the artist gave him the lips.)

Lenny says he is sorry, and he wears a large band-aid over it so it won't make me mad everytime I see it. Is there any way to get that tattoo off his behind?

LENNY'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Yes, Lenny should see a dermatologist (skin specialist).

DEAR ABBY: My mother is the moodiest person on earth. She can wake up feeling fine, and then if anyone does one thing wrong, she's mad for the day. I am 16 years old, and I am sick and tired of her actions. So are my brothers and sisters.

I realize that some women have a difficult time when they reach 40, but enough is enough. Can you please give me some advice on how to get along with her? (Thank you.)

SHERI

DEAR SHERI: Yes. Just for one day, refrain from doing any of the things you know will irritate her. And try to do all the things you know will please her, such as: cleaning your room; limiting your telephone conversations; keeping the radio and TV low; desisting from complaints about what you don't have or can't do; remaining silent when you'd like to talk back or argue; and keeping the peace with your brothers and sisters. You will then find that living with mother is so much more enjoyable, you'll think you're in the wrong house. (You're welcome.)

DEAR ABBY: My children are just average, but they are good kids. I have no outstanding beauties among my daughters, and while they do have friends, none of them is wildly popular. My sons are average students, just fair in sports, but none of them ever made the team.

A relative of mine has outstanding children. They are popular, good looking and gets lots of honors—and he doesn't let me forget it for a moment. What can I say when he collars me and brags on and on about his kids?

SLOW BURN

DEAR SLOW: Nothing. Just because a jackass brays doesn't mean you have to answer him.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "WRONG SIDE OF THE TRACKS" IN CLEVELAND: If after all these years her parents refuse to accept you, quit trying. It would be easier to move the tracks.

Ask Dr. Lamb

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am writing you a few lines. I want to know when sex leaves a man altogether and he doesn't want a woman anymore, or does it?

DEAR READER — In general both males and females are sexual creatures from birth to death. How this is expressed depends upon many social and psychological factors. Health is also a factor. However, an elderly woman dying of cancer of the breast, and receiving male hormone to help control the cancer may still have an overwhelming sex desire.

Sexual desire of a man for one particular woman may vary in relation to their more basic relationship. If he is bored, or if the couple have basic problems the desire for sex in that situation may disappear.

Being impotent is not the same thing as not having any sexual interest. Relatively young diabetic men may be impotent because of damage to the nerves that control the mechanical aspects of sex. But that same man can be emotionally aroused and even have an orgasm.

Some older men have vascular disease that affects mechanical reaction but the desire may still be there. To give you more information on impotence I am sending you The Health Letter number 3-12, Impotence. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. You may be surprised to learn that men who live in good health into their 90s still have sexual interest and some are still capable of sex relations in the conventional sense.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I just can't get the courage to ask my family doctor, but I need advice. What should a man do when he and his wife both have had a very strong sex drive all their lives and now she absolutely refuses sex. She started acting like this after a D and C to stop bleeding.

My teen-age daughter is driving me up the wall, encouraging me to give her sexual response. She claims many of her school friends do it at home, why not us?

Is there any physical wrong with this type of relationship? How long can a man hold his composure under this sort of pressure?

DEAR READER — You need to be very firm with your daughter. In fact all three of you need professional help. I appreciate your reluctance to talk to your family doctor or perhaps you could tell him that you and your wife need family counseling and that you would like to have the whole family see a psychiatrist.

Your daughter is not correct in saying that relations between father and daughter are that common. The long-term effects on the daughter psychologically can be very bad.

The situation you describe suggests that all three of you have played a role in the situation that has come about. Your wife is not behaving normally, nor is she fulfilling the role of a wife. The reason may be related to you or she may have more basic problems.

So my advice is for all of you to see a psychiatrist. If you can't manage that easily I think you should go yourself and in the course of the interview perhaps you can get some help in finding out how to get assistance for all three. Dr. Lamb will answer representative letters of general interest in his column.

Polly's pointers

By Polly Cramer

DEAR POLLY — The enclosed clipping with a picture of contestants in a pie eating contest perfectly illustrates my Pet Peeve. Many people in our land are hungry and yet some seem to think this waste is a sport to say nothing of the danger of someone choking. To me this sort of thing is disgusting. — E.S.

DEAR POLLY — My husband's parents had the same problem Mrs. A. has with mold growing on their walls which is seemingly caused by the gas heater. After trying anything and everything they were told that the stovepipe was probably stopped up with soot and after cleaning it they had no more trouble. — MRS. B.

DEAR POLLY — Since our area cut back in the use of water in parks and on lawns, it is no longer possible for dogs and cats to get a drink from dripping faucets or water in gutters. I have always kept a coffee can filled and changed it when I watered the lawn but I no longer do that. However I do still keep a filled can of water and have seen five cats come to it for a drink this week. Two of them were new to me and I watched to see where they went. They waited for traffic, crossed the highway to the next block. Evidently owners are forgetting that the animals outside need food as well as water. My can was empty this morning and a cat waited for my husband to fill the can. Please folks put out a can of water as a cat can go hungry but they do need water. — D.P.

DEAR POLLY — I keep my kitchen salt in one of those small margarine tubs with a lid and find it is so much easier for measuring when I am baking or cooking. Just dip the spoon in with no mess. — SUSAN.

DEAR POLLY — A quick way to touch up white scuffs on black patent shoes is to use a permanent broad-tipped black marking pen. — MRS. B.F.

Hot dog shortcakes

To prepare, combine in saucepan thinly sliced celery (about 1 cup), 1/2 cup of milk, 1 tablespoon instant minced onion, 1/2 teaspoon dill weed or thyme. Cover and simmer for 10 minutes, or until celery is crisp-tender. Cut 2 frankfurters into 1/4-inch slices. Cut four or five other frankfurters into 1/4-inch intervals, cutting about 3-4 through. Cook franks in simmering water for five minutes or until curled and heated through. Add 1 cup cheese soup and 1 teaspoon prepared mustard to celery mixture; stir until smooth. Add frank slices, heating until bubbly. On each muffin half, place a curled frank; spoon about 1/2 cup sauce on each. Makes four to five servings. For alternate mushroom hot dog shortcakes, use can of mushroom soup and omit the mustard.

Texas Twister

To prepare, combine in sauce pan 1 can (16 ounces) kidney or pinto beans with liquid, 1/2 medium green pepper (chopped), 1 medium onion (chopped), 1/4 cup catsup, and 1/2 teaspoon each of oregano and garlic salt. Simmer 15 to 20 minutes until thickened, adding water if necessary. Cook six to eight hot dogs, cut into spirals or "S" shapes, in simmering water for five minutes, until thoroughly heated. Slit hot dog buns but do not cut through. Place franks in buns and top with a generous portion of bean sauce. Sprinkle with grated cheddar cheese.

Macaroni doubles in summer

By Aileen Claire NEA Food Editor

MACARONI TWO-CHEESE SALAD

- 2 cups elbow macaroni (8 ounces)
- 1 tablespoon salt
- 3 quarts boiling water
- 2 tablespoons chopped scallions or green onions
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 1/2 pound Swiss cheese
- 1/2 pound Cheddar cheese
- 3/4 cup mayonnaise
- 1/4 cup chili sauce
- Crisp lettuce

Macaroni salads are staples in many households for summer menus. These are easy to put together ahead of time and actually have a better flavor if the seasonings are allowed to marry a bit before the chilled salad is served. A macaroni and two-cheese salad, makes a nourishing entree with the added tomato. Just serve with fresh tomato wedges and pickles for a quick lunch or light dinner. This version has a piquant touch through the addition of chili sauce.

Gradually add macaroni and 1 tablespoon salt to rapidly boiling water so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain in colander. Rinse with cold water. Drain again.

Combine macaroni, scallions, 1 teaspoon salt and pepper. Cut half of the Swiss and Cheddar cheeses in to one-half-inch cubes. Add to macaroni mixture. Blend mayonnaise with chili sauce, stir into macaroni mixture. Place lettuce leaves on salad platter. Arrange macaroni salad in center. Cut remaining Swiss and Cheddar cheeses into thin strips and arrange around salad. Makes 6 servings.

BAKED MACARONI CHEESE AND OLIVES

- 2 cups elbow macaroni (8 ounces)
- 1 tablespoon salt
- 3 quarts boiling water
- 3 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1 tablespoon flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon celery seed
- 1/8 teaspoon pepper
- 2 cups milk
- 3/4 pound process American cheese, grated
- 1/2 cups sliced pimento-stuffed olives
- 2 tablespoons seasoned bread crumbs

Gradually add macaroni and 1 tablespoon salt to rapidly boiling water so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain in colander.

Meanwhile, melt 2 tablespoons butter in saucepan. Blend in flour, one-half teaspoon salt, celery seed and pepper. Stir in milk and cook and stir until thickened. Add cheese; stir until melted. Combine macaroni, olives and cheese sauce and mix well. Melt remaining butter and toss lightly with bread crumbs. Place macaroni mixture in one and one-half quart casserole; sprinkle crumbs on top. Bake 15 to 20 minutes in 400-degree oven, until lightly browned and bubbly. Makes 6 servings.

Gather ye cherries

By CECILY BROWNSTONE Associated Press Food Editor

Fresh sweet cherries make market stalls colorful right now, but hurry, hurry. Gather the tempting fruit while you may. The fresh sweet cherry season is short — from mid-June to August.

For a luscious company dessert you might like to use some of the cherries to fill meringues. The meringues are inexpensive; they use leftover egg whites that may be stored in the freezer until you are ready to thaw them and put them to work in this sweet.

- CHERRY MERINGUES
- 3 cups fresh sweet cherries
- 3 large egg whites, at room temperature
- 1/2 teaspoon cream of tartar
- Dash of salt
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 cup sugar
- Coconut Topping, see below

Halve and pit the cherries reserving 8 whole ones for a garnish; chill. Beat together until frothy the egg whites, cream of tartar, salt and vanilla; gradually beat in the sugar, a tablespoon at a time, until very stiff peaks form and the sugar is dissolved. Cover a cookie sheet with plain ungreased paper; mark off eight 3 1/2-inch circles; spread each circle with 1-3rd cup of the meringue; with the back of a tablespoon shape each portion of meringue to make a shell. Bake in a preheated 275-degree oven for 1 hour; turn off heat; let meringues dry in the oven with the door closed for 1 1/2 hours. Run a spatula under each meringue to loosen and remove from paper. Store in an airtight container in a cool dry place. At serving time, fill the meringue shells with the halved cherries; add the Coconut Topping; garnish with the whole cherries. Makes 8 servings.

Coconut Topping: Beat together until thick 1 cup heavy cream, 1/4 cup sugar and 1/4 teaspoon vanilla. Fold in 1/4 to 1/2 cup flaked coconut.

A tossed green salad is a great main course for a Saturday lunch or a Sunday night supper when you add to it strips of ham and cheese, anchovy fillets or caper-stuffed rolled anchovies. Smoked tongue may be used instead of the ham. Chicken may also be added.

The recipe file

- ZUCCHINI GEMS
- They may be served warm or cold
- 1/4 cup flour
- 1/4 teaspoon baking powder
- 1/4 teaspoon baking soda
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
- 1 large egg
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1/2 cup salad oil
- 1 cup grated (medium-fine) unpared zucchini, loosely packed
- 1/4 cup raisins, snipped fine
- 3/4 cup chopped (medium-fine) walnuts
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1-3rd cup salad oil
- 1 can (8 1/2 ounces) creamstyle corn
- 2 cups fine, white, self-rising, stoneground cornmeal
- 1 1/2 cups grated (medium-fine) loosely packed cheddar cheese

Beat together the eggs, milk and oil until blended; add the corn and cornmeal and stir until the cornmeal is moistened. Turn half the batter into a buttered 8 by 8 by 2-inch glass baking dish or similar utensil; sprinkle with half the cheese; carefully spoon the remaining batter over the cheese and spread evenly; sprinkle with the remaining cheese. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven about 40 minutes. Serve at once. Makes 8 servings. (If the self-rising cornmeal is not available, use regular fine white stoneground cornmeal and add 4 teaspoons baking powder and 1/2 teaspoon salt.)

Stir together the flour, baking powder, baking soda, salt and nutmeg. Beat together the egg, sugar and oil until blended; add the flour mixture, zucchini, raisins and walnuts; stir only until dry ingredients are moistened. Fill buttered muffin-pan cups (each holding 1-3rd cup) two-thirds full. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in the center comes out clean — about 25 minutes. Loosen edges and remove. Makes 8.

Ford's papers prepared

WASHINGTON (AP) — The presidential papers of Gerald R. Ford, apparently will be available to the public long before those of Richard M. Nixon.

A librarian was named Tuesday to begin preparing for release of Ford's papers, while Nixon and the government continued to wage a legal battle over ownership of his papers and White House tapes.

The job of preparing Ford's papers for public release will be supervised by William J. Stewart, assistant director at the Franklin D. Roosevelt Library in Hyde Park, N.Y.

Stewart's appointment was announced by James B. Rhoads, archivist of the United States. Stewart, who has been with the National Archives since 1960, will direct a 14-member staff working to catalog and open the Ford papers to researchers. The National Archives is a branch of the General Services Administration.

Ford donated his papers and other historical materials to the federal government just before leaving office. There are about 20 million pages documenting Ford's life as congressman, vice president and president.

By contrast, Nixon's presidential papers alone total 42 million pages and there are, in addition, 880 tape reels containing roughly 5,000 hours of conversation.

The ownership of the Nixon papers has not been determined, but the Supreme Court ruled last week that the government has custody and control.

Hartford has been the capital of Connecticut since 1875.

Selling houses of the stars

EDITOR'S NOTE — So you think prices of homes are out of sight? How does $1 million grab you? There's a real estate firm that doesn't but an eyelash at numbers like that — and in fact won't consider handling a cottage priced below $250,000. It's out in Beverly Hills, naturally, and not doing badly at all.

By LINDA DEUTSCH
Associated Press Writer
BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Elaine Young, a glamorous real estate agent with a show business pedigree, was selling a house to a star couple when the clients balked. For $1 million, the house had just one bathroom.

"I got up all my courage," she recalls, "and I said, 'Well, what do you want for a million dollars?'"

The couple laughed — and bought the house. They said they would add another bathroom.

Although Ms. Young admits that line won't work on many clients, the attitude is symptomatic of a celebrity real estate market gone mad.

"I was showing a house to someone famous for $700,000 and they were so excited because everything they'd seen was either $895,000 or $1 million," Ms. Young says. "The world must think we're crazy."

Crazy or not, it's a living.

Elaine Young, daughter of a movie executive, ex-wife of actor Gig Young and a member of the prestigious Mike Silverman Agency, last year sold $8 million to $9 million worth of property herself. The agency's gross came closer to $30 million.

Most of it was sold to movie, TV and recording stars and executives. All of the house hunters had special requirements and were willing to pay top dollar to get what they wanted.

Cher Bono needed lots of closets. O.J. Simpson wanted a tennis court. Tom Jones opted for a moody atmosphere.

"One common denominator is they all want privacy," Ms. Young says. "Everybody is so worried about burglaries and kidnappings. Everybody wants privacy and a swimming pool."

A house without a pool is unthinkable in the Beverly Hills, Bel-Air, Holmby Hills area where the stars seek a roof over their heads. But there's more.

"Projection rooms are very big in Southern California," says Ms. Young. "But Numero Uno is tennis courts. People are so tennis happy. They'll pay $100,000 more than a house is worth to get a tennis court."

For rock stars, a recording studio on the premises is a must. For those with families, multiple bathrooms are preferred.

"Everybody wants two bathrooms off the master bedroom now," sighs Ms. Young. "God forbid the husband and wife should wash their teeth in the same sink."

A show business couple that have bought in Bel Air and are now hunting a Malibu beach house are Marty Richards and Mary Lea Johnson, movie producers who head the Producer Circle Co. She is a member of the Johnson & Johnson drug family.

They also maintain a New York apartment and a New Jersey estate. Prices in the Bel-Air-Beverly Hills enclave are "astronomical," they say.

"This is probably the highest priced real estate in the country with the exception of a gery small part of Palm Beach," Richards said.

They bought a Bel-Air house last year for $600,000. It's worth $700,000 now. Twenty years ago, the previous owner paid $167,000 for the house, originally built by Al Johnson.

Agency owner Silverman, who bills himself as "realtor to the stars," has spent 25 years perfecting a style of real estate salesmanship as soft as sable and fine silk.

A celebrity arriving to look at a $2 million house is welcomed with a chilled glass of expensive wine or perhaps a cocktail. Soft music in the background. Money is rarely discussed. Do his clients worry about cost? "If they do, they conceal it nicely," he says.

Ms. Young's largest sale to date was a $2 million house sold to producer Dino De Laurentis. Now she's shooting for three. "I just listed a house in Holmby Hills for $3 million," she says, "and I know it will sell."

What do you get for $3 million?

"It has two or three acres, a tennis court and it's just very gracious," says Ms. Young.

"The address is a status symbol. Holmby Hills is so exclusive that pretty soon there will be nothing there under $1 million. It also has the highest taxes."

The yearly tax on Cher Bono's recently sold home was $24,000, she notes.

Finding prospective buyers for these mini-palaces is a special talent closely akin to being a gossip monger.

"You have to know who's passed away, who's getting a divorce," says Ms. Young. "I read the trade papers and the gossip columns."

"I am friendly with the chauffeurs because there is no better source of information and gossip — who's looking for a house and who's doing what to whom. They know everything....

"Then there are the maids. The maids in every house adore me. I get a phone call from a maid saying, 'So and so is having a fight. Be prepared; their house may be on the market.' Sometimes I know that someone is getting a divorce before he does!"

Frequently, Ms. Young will re-sell a house several times as the owners move on to other mansions.

"I've sold one house six times," she says. The residents included Cher and Barbra Streisand.

"People move around and change houses like people change clothes. I don't know if it's boredom, money or new relationships."

Not every transaction is a triumph, of course. A while ago she found the perfect house for singer Tom Jones. Jones and his wife made a down payment and flew to Europe.

"Three days before they were to move in, the owner died."

Julie's book: witness for the defense?

JULIE NIXON EISENHOWER: "I've let my name help me in this case, but I've not taken undue advantage of it."

By Ellie Grossman

NEW YORK (NEA) — Remember, dear, you're a President's daughter and everything you do reflects on him.

Some day the situation may reverse itself, after the office ends. Especially if it ends badly.

In 1976, Julie Nixon Eisenhower, 28 — Mrs. David Eisenhower — walked down a Washington street alone and was relieved to find that no one cared.

Then she went and wrote a book, "Special People," published by Simon and Schuster, and subjected herself to the questions and the staring all over again.

Sort of. Don't ask about Watergate and the Frost interviews, the publicity representative told us, twice. We've had to cancel a number of interviews because Julie only wants to discuss the six public figures she wrote about: Golda Meier, Mrs. Billy Graham, Prince Charles, Mamie Eisenhower, Anne Morrow Lindbergh and Mao Tse-tung.

But we noted a seventh presence in the book, e.g., "I thought of all Golda Meier and my father had done for what they hoped would be a lasting peace."

2) "The Chinese speak of my father as a 'man ahead of his time' because of his vision of Sino-American relations, and Acting Premier Teng Hsiao-ping told me . . . 'We have never attached much importance to the Watergate affair.'"

3) And, from the Anne Lindbergh chapter, "She wrote a letter to me six weeks after my father's resignation which reveals something of her philosophy of dealing with controversy. . . I hope you will remember always that you are and will be far into the future a living witness for your father whether or not you are a speaking witness." Etc., etc.

So that morning in Mrs. Eisenhower's suite at the St. Regis Hotel, after she settled herself on the couch, fresh and soft in a pink gauze dress, her smile warm and engaging, we decided to ask her about that seventh presence.

After we'd learned a few other things, such as why she'd sought public scrutiny again.

"In the last four years, I've edited seven books and I decided I wanted to write," she said. "I like to do biography. I'd like to write my mother's but we haven't gotten down to the nitty-gritty, yet," she confided, laughing.

David wanted to write, too, she said. "After graduating from law school last June, he signed a contract to write a book about his grandfather."

So it's quite a compatible life for the couple in their new home in Capistrano Beach, Calif., their eighth home in eight years, what with David's service in the Navy and law school and all.

While he's researching his book, she's choosing the pictures for her father's book, a short-term project. Often, late in the afternoon, she makes the 15-minute drive to her parents' home and swims with her mother. Once a week, she and David dine there.

A nice, simple life that hasn't been disturbed much by the standard two-week promotion tour authors of her caliber undergo for their books. Besides, it'll probably be two years before she finishes the next book.

"I only gave myself seven months to write this one," she explained, "because I wanted it to come out before my father's. I didn't want to be buried by his book."

After all, she'd had "unique opportunities to meet these public figures, especially those who don't usually give interviews," she said. And she wanted to share what they taught her about courage and a very positive attitude towards life, and things of a spiritual nature.

Yes, her name had sweetened the publisher's response to the book. "I've let my name help me in this case, but I've not taken undue advantage of it. You can spend your whole life avoiding things because of your name. But I don't think I'll ever do that, and I believe I've written a good book."

Yes, she tended to agree with Anne Lindbergh that her husband, Charles, was unjustly reviled during World War II for an anti-war, perhaps anti-Semitic attitude.

"I've read his wartime journals and I don't feel he was a racist," she said.

And, yes, what Mrs. Lindbergh said about being a witness was true. "People will always look at me and say, she's Richard Nixon's daughter and depending on how I live my life, I can be a good or bad witness."

Actually, we said, we were thinking more of being a witness for his defense. Wasn't that the statement she was making in the book?

She sat back on the couch impatiently, the muscle over her left eye tensing and said,

"How can you conclude that from one sentence? If that's what comes across in the book, it wasn't a conscious thing, but I don't think you could say the book is a statement on his behalf. It's a statement on my behalf."

Air bag ruling hits snag

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration's decision to require air bags in most 1982 model cars is getting mixed reviews in Capitol Hill.

While a Pennsylvania congressman was criticizing the proposal on Tuesday, a newly formed Ralph Nader consumer group was voicing guarded approval of it.

Transportation Secretary Brock Adams last week ordered passive-restraint systems for all standard and luxury cars sold in the United States starting with 1982 models. Although this system could include a seat-belt harness that automatically covers the driver and passenger, the air bag is the most commonly discussed method.

On Capitol Hill, however, Rep. Bud Shuster, a third-term Republican, said he has introduced legislation to block the order. The air bags order will stand unless Congress acts within 60 days to overturn it.

Shuster said the proposal represents another government infringement on individual freedoms.

While Shuster was promising a congressional battle to head off mandatory passive restraints, Nader was predicting the order will survive a congressional assault.

Nader, who believes the Carter administration has moved too slowly on passive-restraint systems, said there is wide support against those who "believe Americans have a right to die in their cars."

The Transportation Department has estimated that passive restraints could save 9,000 to 12,000 lives each year and prevent 100,000 to 200,000 serious injuries.

The average annual rainfall in the state of Connecticut is between 40 and 50 inches.

On the light side

ATLANTA (AP) — An American should not be upset when his British visitor asks him to "pass the joint."

The Briton is only asking for the roast, according to a brief translation dictionary given to Atlantans who are hosting 300 Newcastle residents as part of President Carter's "Friendship Force."

Although Americans believe they speak English, the dictionary, which also was distributed to the British visitors, makes it clear that the language has differences.

For example, an Englishman who invites his host to "knock up" is only suggesting a tennis match.

Geordies — the British name for Newcastle residents — find zebra crossings elsewhere than in the jungle. Zebra crossing is the English name for marked street crossings.

The handbook clearly explains that the British frequent the baths — swimming pools — in large crowds, while one who decided to drop in on an Atlanta "bathhouse" stands the risk of being arrested, or at least embarrassed.

And at the table, American chips are British crisps, while British chips are American french fries.

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — It might be called the Case of the Mistaken Mansion.

But it wasn't billed that way when the City of Sacramento went to court Tuesday to file a $150,000 civil complaint against the people it claims tore apart the home of California's first governor.

The city-owned structure, built by Peter Burnett, was gutted a few months ago by a work crew which said it accidentally did its job on the wrong house.

The correct house was a short distance away, but the crew instead stripped doors, fireplaces, floors, paneling and handrails from the governor's home, city officials have said.

Named in the suit were West Coast Building Wrecking Inc., William Smith, an officer in the firm, and Mariano Gutierrez.

SEATTLE (AP) — At 4:30 p.m. each day the large glass doors of the King County Superior Court clerk's office are locked shut.

Take a peek inside a few minutes later on Thursdays, however, and you'll see about a dozen of the female employees tapping their toes and clicking their heels, led by a 55-year-old executive secretary.

Ellen Matson said she started tap-dancing lessons because "these girls need the exercise."

Her students are aged 23 to 60. None of the male workers has been invited to the informal classes, and none has asked to join.

Ms. Matson says she plans to continue the lessons "long enough to put on some kind of a review. We thought we'd call ourselves the 'Judicial Dollys.'"

Walton dad buys theater for troupe

LOS ANGELES (AP) — In 1975, Ralph Waite, the father on "The Waltons," took a big chunk of his TV earnings, located a beatup theater here in an area not frequented by Beautiful People, and leased the joint.

And thus began his Los Angeles Actors' Theater.

Tonight in many areas, he's on public TV in his troupe's version of Samuel Beckett's "Waiting for Godot." It's in the fine arts series that PBS stations and Exxon, the oil company, have bankrolled.

Waite is an unlikely prospect for a theater-founder. Now 49, he didn't attend his first acting class until he was 32.

A recovered alcoholic, he'd previously been an ordained minister, a Yale Divinity School Graduate and before that a social worker.

And Hollywood's an unlikely place to start a theater, the legend goes. But not for Waite, who did much of his early acting for Joseph Papp, New York's fiery off-Broadway theater founder.

Waite, a tall, pleasant man from White Plains, N.Y., said he wasn't finding much of his TV work here fulfilling. After each "Waltons" season, he'd rush back to New York, back to the stage and his friends there.

Then, after he finally bought a home here, it dawned on him that many of his New York colleagues had migrated here. And, he said, he thought: Why not rent a theater and put on quality plays?

Which he did, the first production of the Los Angeles Actors' Theater being Eugene

O'Neill's "The Hairy Ape."

"I was lucky to be in a position where I didn't care if it paid off," said Waite, who estimates he put more than $100,000 into the theater's first year of operation.

"But I wasn't just burning cash. ... I knew if we had theater of integrity and importance, we'd eventually begin to get (outside) funding, and that indeed has happened just this year."

Waite's theater is a two-story operation that from Thursday through Sunday nights usually has two plays going, one on each floor, according to the actor.

The actor, asked why he'd left the pulpit in 1964, cited these reasons:

"Like a lot of guys in their early 30s, I had vocational and personal crises pushing me into a corner. I'd gone into the church, not because I'm religious, but because I felt it an instrument for social justice. It didn't seem to be working out that way."

"And my marriage was breaking apart," said Waite, divorced in 1969.

He said he'd also begun drinking heavily. He took three months off to think, to write, to be alone. Then one day, an actor friend asked him to attend acting class with him. It started the process of change.

And after stage work in such plays as "Blues for Mr. Charlie," roles in such films as "Five Easy Pieces," he landed a steady role in "The Waltons," which he says he'll probably leave after next season, its sixth season.

Area youths counseled

Orientation programs concerning the summer youth program of the Texas Panhandle Community Action Corporation was conducted in Wheeler Wednesday and in Memphis today.

The special counseling session, were established this summer to provide career counseling for participants in the TPCAC jobs program.

Approximately 40 Gray County participants attended an orientation session Tuesday in the Court House.

CETA is a federal program supported by tax funds, said David Duncan, TPCAC vocational coordinator, "but it is not welfare. Welfare is something you get for nothing. CETA is a program to provide both summer jobs and training so that you can someday become self-supportive taxpayers and citizens."

Nearly 200 participants, ages 14 to 21, currently work in public service jobs in Pampa. The students are paid $2.30 per hour for a 40-hour work week.

Participants are employed with the Parks and Recreation Department, the Day Care Center, the Youth Center, Genesis House and other locations.

The orientation sessions provide instructions for preparing resumes and job applications and other aspects of career planning.

THNA fights regulations Mendgen says

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Sen. Walter Mendgen, R-Houston, says he has proof the Texas Nursing Home Association (TNHA) is fighting efforts for increased regulation of nursing homes.

Mendgen, in a press release distributed in Austin, said a recent memo distributed by the TNHA "outlined their plans to attempt to diffuse the recent revelations by the Lufkin News that scores of Texas nursing homes residents are beaten, underfed and given inadequate medication."

Feds set goals, not quotas

WASHINGTON (AP) — Six Southern states have new federal guidelines for desegregating public colleges that set five-year goals but not quotas for increasing black enrollment.

In issuing the guidelines Tuesday, Joseph A. Califano Jr., the secretary of health, education and welfare, said his department has a renewed commitment to enforcing civil rights laws but will not require the schools to enroll specific numbers of blacks.

The new desegregation plans affect state colleges, but not private schools, in Florida, Georgia, North Carolina, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Virginia.

HEW submitted the goals and timetables for desegregating colleges and universities to U.S. District Court Judge John Pratt in response to a court order.

Pratt had asked for the guidelines in April because of a suit filed in the District of Columbia by civil rights groups charging that HEW failed to fully enforce the Civil Rights Act of 1964. The law bars racial discrimination by institutions receiving federal money.

Pratt said desegregation plans used by several southern colleges and universities since 1974 were inadequate and that HEW violated the law by failing to order adequate plans.

In 1972, the judge found that HEW failed to order adequate desegregation in 10 states that at one time had legally mandated segregated higher education.

The other four states — Louisiana, Mississippi, Maryland and Pennsylvania — are involved in separate lawsuits on the issue and were not included in Pratt's latest order.

While the new guidelines require evidence of progress toward desegregation, Califano emphasized that the goals are not quotas.

"The department is opposed to the use of arbitrary quotas in civil rights enforcement," he said. "Failure to achieve a goal set forth in the criteria will not be sufficient evidence, standing alone, to establish a violation ..."

"The goals do, however, set out specific benchmarks which will help us measure progress towards elimination of unconstitutional de jure (set by law) racial segregation."

The major five-year goals include one that the states increase the number of blacks attending all public colleges and universities. This goal requires states to try to have equal percentages of black and white high school graduates continue their education.

States also are required to reduce the disparity in the percentages of blacks and whites entering four-year white schools, halving this difference within five years.

To cut black college dropout rates, which are up to 10 per cent higher than those of whites, states should use such steps as compensatory education and increased financial aid to blacks, HEW said.

The guidelines laid out plans to increase the number of blacks in graduate and professional schools, as well as goals for more blacks on college faculties and administrative staffs.

Califano said the guidelines call for specific results, "but leave substantial discretion to the states ... for achieving those results."

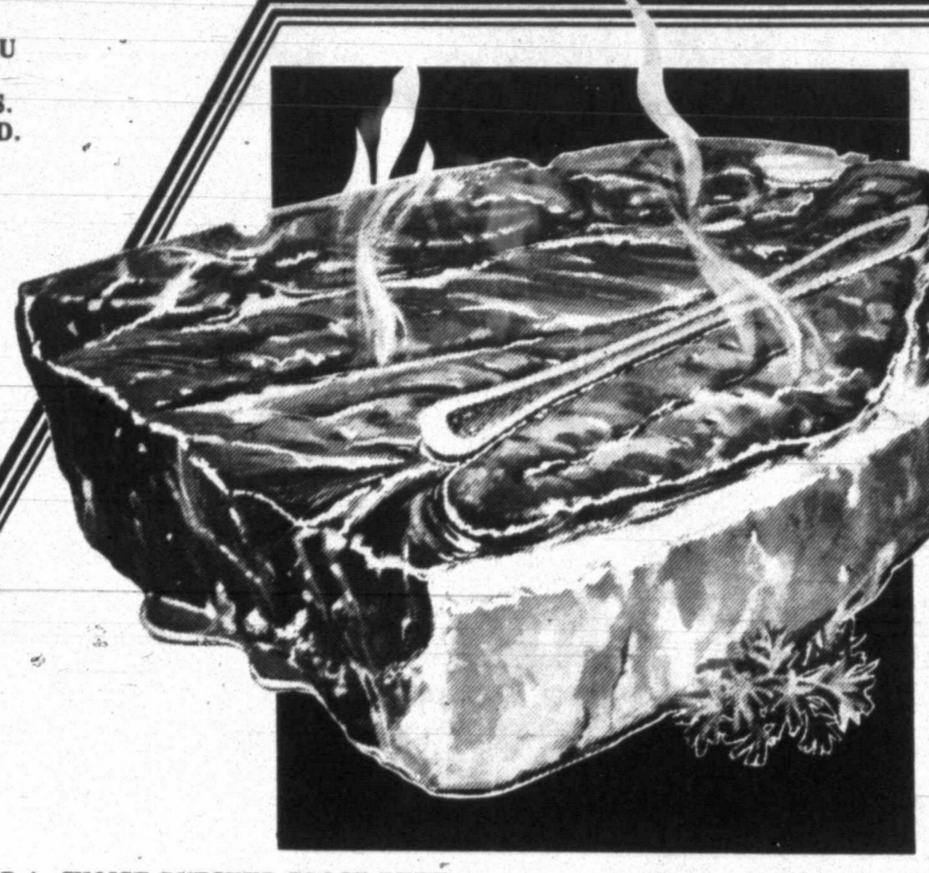

The last change in U.S. coinage came in 1857, when the half-penny was dropped.

Mixed reactions greet bomb

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission is telling the White House that production of a new neutron bomb could have mixed effects on President Carter's stated aim of ending the nuclear arms race.

Officials of the agency say their view was conveyed to the White House and the National Security Council in "an impact statement" requested by Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I.

Under federal law congressmen can ask the agency for periodic impact statements when the executive branch begins to research, develop and deploy a new weapons system.

The bomb would be a nuclear warhead with a capacity to kill people when it detonated, but would leave buildings unharmed.

Deaths would come from the bomb's intense radiation. For 20 years, proponents of the neutron bomb have argued for its use as a tactical weapon.

Sources said that factors considered in appraising the arguments for and against the deployment of the bombs include:

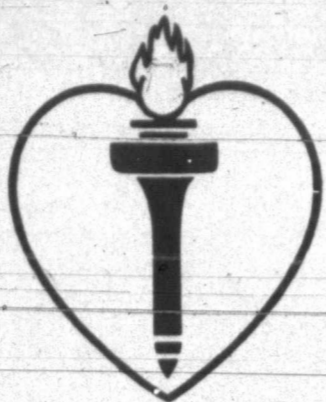

- The effect on current U.S.-Soviet-British moves to negotiate a comprehensive nuclear test ban treaty that would outlaw test firing of nuclear weapons underground. The agency view is that research on the neutron bomb has been completed, development is virtually finished and a test firing could comfortably be carried out well before any test ban treaty is signed.

—The effect on current U.S.-Soviet negotiations for a strategic arms limitation treaty. According to the agency, the effect would not necessarily be negative. The reason given was that the neutron bomb would not in itself change the strategic balance between the two countries.

What's up in killers

Although heart disease is far and away America's No. 1 killer, the others which form this gruesome "top 10" list strike down a considerable number of people. Here's the list, compiled by the National Center for Health Statistics and based on 1975 data: the latest available.

Disease	Casualties
1. Heart Disease	716,215
2. Cancer	365,693
3. Accident	103,030
4. Cerebro-Vascular disease (stroke)	94,038
5. Influenza and pneumonia	55,664
6. Diabetes	35,230

Race entries for sale

LADONIA, Tex. (AP) — It took some last-minute summer rains to flush out enough competitors to "run for the tomatoes" and save this weekend's Ladonia 500.

And 9-year-old Scott Franklin has been taking advantage of the situation, capturing and training his 25 terrapins for the race in this tiny Fannin County community.

Scott knows a good thing when he sees it. On the day of the race, he and his 5-year-old brother Shawn will be selling the terrapins for 50 and 75 cents each to competitors in the 500.

For the more expensive price, a purchaser can get a model that Scott says is "real, real fast" although he doesn't think he has any that will beat the record set in 1973 when a terrapin covered the 500-inch course in 35 seconds.

Just a few weeks ago officials of the Frontier

Day Celebration were worried that there might be too few terrapins to have a good race during the fifth annual event.

Hot, dry conditions, said Bob Hayes, the "racing commissioner," had forced the terrapins into seclusion. But when the rains came, so did the terrapins.

Now Hayes figures as many as 50 terrapins will be vying for the crown Saturday in a race where only one racer, the record-holder, Homer Whitt-kohl, has ever broken the one-minute barrier.

Hayes says, however, Homer's record was aided by her laying an egg less than two hours before going to the starting line.

Local residents refer to the race as the "run for the tomatoes" because a shiny tomato is placed at the end of the course to serve as an incentive for the racers.

The Name Game

I don't know why, but baseball players have the weirdest names in sports. Sure football has its Bronco Nagurskis, Jack Hams, and Roman Gabriels, and basketball has "The Doctor," "Willie the Stilt," and "Tiny Archibald. But from top to bottom, baseball has the most colorful nomenclature.

Imagine an all-star game in which "Campy" Campaneris hits a John "The Count" Montefusco pitch to third baseman Doug "Rooster" Rader who throws to Larry Bowa for the force out with center fielder Cesar Geronimo backing up the play.

Perhaps having an unusual name is a prerequisite for getting into the major leagues. When did you last see a John Doe, Joe Dakes, or John Smith in the lineup? Even Kilroy, who was everywhere else, never made it to the "big."

Making fun of player's names can be a lifesaver for a sportswriter trying to stay awake in the sixth inning of a 9-2 game. Three of the current favorites are Detroit's John Wockenfuss, Milwaukee's Sixto Lezcano, and Rance Mullinck of the California organization.

But they can be a headache. Ever try to write Carl Yastrzemski, Stan Perzanowski, or Dave Lemanczyk in a one inch column and then try to decipher the hieroglyphics hours later? Military decoding can be easier.

Sometimes the order of the names can get confusing. Is it Tommy Toms or Toms Tommy? Tommy John or John Tommy? And is Boston "Spaceman" Bill Lee really Lee Bill?

Some youngsters were, by their names, destined to be ballplayers despite any lack of talent. Steve Swisher of the Cubs is a brilliant receiver, but, you guessed it, he can't hit a lick.

Yankee farmhand Mickey Klutts is the most graceful thing in the world. And when asked to describe how well brother relievers Elias of LA and Jose of Houston pitch, one can reply, "Oh, Sosa."

But others should have gone into other professions. Barry Foote would undoubtedly be an excellent podiatrist, and Don Mgey, Dave Cash, and Bobby Bonds sound like Merrill Lynch execs to me.

What about the Dodger's Johnnie Oates as a thoroughbred trainer, Rollie Fingers as a Las Vegas dealer, and let Cincy's Bill Plummer work with the Tidy Bowl man?

I'd love to see Chicago's Ivan de Jesus and Dave Pagan of Seattle get into an argument about religion.

Being a Dodger fan, nothing would be finer than to see John make Benches and Pete grow Roses. The Dodgers could sacrifice Stan to build Walls for the Tom House and Rowland Office.

I always thought Bob Veale and Bob Moose were better suited as butchers, that Bob Boone should be up in the wild country instead of behind the plate, and that Jim Kaat and Doug Bair were reincarnated.

And I wonder about the hygienic habits of Dusty Baker, the quickness of Horace Speed, the leaping ability of Clint Hurdle, and the golf game of Frank Duffy.

Can you picture a poker game between Jim Rooker and Oscar Gamble with Toby Harrah telling jokes?

Sportswriters have, with a straight face, described Cleveland's Larvell Blanks as "a zero," and said the Reds would be better off if Cesar Geronimo forgot to pull the ripcord.

And it has to be every sportswriter's dream to interview White Sox prospect David Frost when he makes the majors.

The redeeming social value of the above treatise admittedly is nil, but then again, a 9-2 ballgame does strange things to the minds of sports scribes.

Dorsett faces assault charges

DALLAS (AP) — A bartender and barmaid at a Dallas disco have whistled Heisman Trophy winner Tony Dorsett, the Dallas Cowboys' heralded first-round draft choice, for alleged unnecessary roughness.

Dorsett faces two charges of simple assault stemming from an altercation early last Thursday at the night spot. He could be fined up to $200 on each count if convicted of the Class C misdemeanor.

But the former University of Pittsburgh star says the matter would have been dropped if he wasn't Tony Dorsett.

The complaints, filed in municipal court, allege Dorsett punched a bartender and threw a whiskey glass that cut a barmaid. He was not arrested, a Dallas police spokesman said, but will have to answer a summons.

Dorsett, who signed a Cowboy contract worth a reported $1.2 million, said the altercation resulted from a misunderstanding over whether he had paid for his drinks.

He said a bartender asked if he had paid. "And he asked in a way I didn't appreciate," said Dorsett.

The bartender insisted he move from the bar, Dorsett said, but Dorsett refused to move until he had finished his drink.

"He started coming at me. I was just protecting myself," said Dorsett. "I know this — if I hadn't been Tony Dorsett nothing would have been made of it. I don't know if the bartender knew at the time when he started it who I was, but he found out later."

"Dorsett just reached across the bar and punched me," said the bartender, Sammie Emerick, 26. "The police were consulted but he didn't go to jail. I just decided it was best not to put him in jail. I had to get four stitches under my eye, however."

Schroeder's 66 leads classic

TURNBERRY, Scotland (AP) — "It's a good thing they made the pin placements so difficult," said Johnny Miller. "Otherwise someone would have shot in the 50s out there."

It was a strange start to the British Open Golf Championship — no wind on Turnberry's Ailsa links, easy driving conditions but cunningly placed holes on the slopes of glassy greens.

"Those are the hardest pin placements I have ever seen in one round," Miller said.

Thursday's second round began with a surprising leader in John Schroeder, the son of former Wimbledon tennis champion Ted Schroeder, who birdied the last two holes late Wednesday to post a four-under-par 66 on the 6,875-yard layout beside the Firth of Clyde.

Martin Foster, a relatively unknown Briton, was in second place with a 67.

Three American stars — Jack Nicklaus, Tom Watson and Lee Trevino — were at 68. Miller was at 69, along with Severiano Ballesteros of Spain and Indian-born Gaylord Burrows, who lives in the United States.

The winds which can make Ailsa such a place of terror never came. And the rough beside the narrow fairways was so short it caused few worries.

Trevino kept hitting into the rough on his left.

"Honey," he told his wife Claudia who walked beside him, "it's the way to do it. You get a better lie in the rough than on the fairways."

"I hope it blows like hell for the rest of the tournament," Trevino said.

But it won't according to the weather experts. They predicted the same freakish calm through Saturday.

It is not what the locals are used to and not what the British Professional Golfers Association expected when they assigned the Open to Turnberry for the first time in the 117-year history of the tournament.

Schroeder's late charge came out of the blue, when most of the 17,600 spectators had gone home — and even some of the course marshals too.

Schroeder has won $53,000 this year and is 30th in the U.S. tour rankings.

The Diablos strung together five hits, a Gold Sox error and wild pitch and four walks to send 14 men to the plate and score eight runs in a wild seventh inning.

The victory extended El Paso's second half lead in the West to two games over Mid-

PAMPA NEWS Thursday, July 7, 1977 15

Football on Thurs.?

NEW YORK (AP) — ABC wants a piece of the Super Bowl. CBS and NBC are interested in Thursday night football. A West Coast promoter would like to show the playoffs and Super Bowl on closed-circuit television. There is even talk of televising some games on Sunday night.

The current NFL contract with the three networks runs out after the upcoming season. It's time to begin hard bargaining and one thing is certain. There will be more pro football on the tube starting with the 1978 campaign than ever before.

The NFL schedule expands to 16 regular-season games in 1978 and the playoff format will include two extra games involving wild-card teams. The three networks combined currently pay about $60 million a season for rights to the NFL games and they'll pay more in the future.

Thursday night football? While the prospect of another night of pro football may be appealing to some, CBS and NBC apparently feel there are enough football nuts in the land to justify it, at least occasionally.

The NFL, wary of over-exposure but also eager for new sources of revenue, may come up with a separate package which could include two or three Thursday night games and as many Sunday night games.

All three have the rigid of first refusal for renewing their current packages. CBS has the Sunday National Conference games, a couple of NFC Saturday dates, a Thanksgiving Day game and the NFC playoffs. NBC gets the same package but with AFC games. And ABC has the Monday night package. CBS says more for its NFC package than NBC does for the AFC games because the NFC includes a better selection of TV markets and, consequently, gets higher ratings.

Assuming all three networks agree, basically, to carry the same packages they have carried before, the main wrangling should come in discussions of new time periods and, of course, the Super Bowl.

Pampa stars advance

The Pampa 13-year-old all-stars whipped Borger, 15-5, and High Plains advanced to the finals in tournament play at Optimist Park last night.

Pampa lashed out eight hits and was aided by four Borger errors, as the ten-run game ended after five innings.

John Kading pitched four solid innings, and Matt Schiffman mopped up the fifth for the Pampa victory.

High Plains, which is made up of players from Clarendon, Claude, Groom, Skellytown, and White Deer, slipped Top-O-Texas, 6-5, to advance to the finals on Saturday.

Pampa will play Canyon, a 12-10 winner over the Panhandle Okies, in the 8 p.m. contest tonight. The winner will play Top-O-Texas Friday night for the right to meet High Plains in the finals.

Pampa tennis tourney slated

The Pampa Tennis Association will sponsor a "luck of the draw" men's and women's doubles tournament Saturday and Sunday at the high school courts.

Partners will be assigned randomly before the opening matches which will begin at 9 a.m. on Saturday. First-round losers will participate in a consolation match.

Entry fee is $3 for adults and $2 for students. For registration information, contact: Lynn Robinson, 9-6158.

Insurance carriers don't want cities

MIAMI (AP) — Officials in Tamarac, Fla., were astonished when a jury awarded Thomas Garcher $4.3 million for injuries he suffered in an auto accident — especially since the city carried only $1 million insurance.

The retirement suburb still is appealing the judgment, and Tamarac city fathers are confident they won't be forced to pay the multimillion-dollar award.

But the predicament of the Broward County town is representative of a municipal liability insurance dilemma facing cities nationwide, an Associated Press survey of 22 localities indicates.

Insurance companies, which once considered municipalities "prestige accounts," no longer want cities' business because of frequent lawsuits and out-sized jury awards.

Few governmental bodies enjoy sovereign immunity any longer under the law as suits against municipalities "become somewhat vogue," according to one government official.

Some carriers are raising premiums as much as 200 per cent a year or just canceling policies without explanation, placing cities in a position similar to that of auto drivers who have trouble obtaining and maintaining insurance coverage.

Tamarac's municipal liability insurance premium increased from $12,000 a year in 1976 to $25,000 this year.

Sacramento, Calif., was faced with a $1-million premium in 1976 before it decided to drop its coverage in favor of a self-insurance plan. The proposed rate was 193 per cent greater than the 1975 premium of $625,000.

Self-insurance has become the only avenue for some cities which, like Sacramento, find spiraling premiums too high to meet. Under self-insurance, cities budget money annually to cover anticipated lawsuits as estimated by past experience.

Voters approved complete self-insurance for Miami in 1975 after city officials convinced them of an impending crisis.

Miami property manager Don Stewart said the city would have been faced with a $2.5 million premium by this year if it even could obtain insurance.

Other cities that have chosen self-insurance include New York, Los Angeles, Minneapolis and St. Louis.

The cities blame the insurance companies for "abdication of their responsibilities as risk takers and becoming money machines" and point to deficiencies in state laws protecting municipalities.

The cities claim they will continue to be wide open to multi-million dollar lawsuits unless statutes are passed setting maximum limits for judgments.

Some officials hope insurance firms will be more willing to offer coverage at affordable rates if the fear of huge lawsuits is removed.

An insurance industry spokesman in New York says part of the problem is the ever-increasing number of activities covered by municipal liability insurance, ranging from highway accidents to public school mishaps to utility failures.

At wit's end

By ERMA BOMBECK

A couple at a party the other night were lamenting the fact that they didn't know if their children were old enough to be left alone when they go on vacation.

"How old are they?" I asked.

"Fifteen, 17 and 20," replied the wife.

"You have it all wrong," said my husband. "The question is not how old, but how young. Offhand, I'd say you missed it by 12 years. You could have gone when they were three, five and eight, but not now."

"You are too funny," said the woman, "but I'm serious."

"So are we," I interrupted.

"Did you ever hear of a three-year-old calling up 100 of her closest friends and having a party the minute your car leaves the driveway?"

"Or a five-year-old getting your car stuck sideways in the garage?"

"Or an eight-year-old leaving the garden hose running for 15 days and finding your trees waiting to merge on the expressway?" chimed in another father.

"You can't leave a seven-year-old," said the woman indignantly.

"Listen," said another observer. "My daughter at seven could have run General Motors from a sandbox. She could make a meal, handle major decisions, dress herself and I once saw her move a piano when a Barbie head rolled under it. She knew how to adjust the color on the TV set, walk in the attic without a floor, and could sniff out bananas I was saving through three inches of metal. The only thing she needed me for was to make out her deposit slips at the bank. That's the year we should have gone on a vacation with her home running things. Not ten years later."

"What happened ten years later?" we asked.

"According to the police report, it was a 746."

"Which was?"

"Blocking off streets for a parade without a permit."

"Illegal parking of two Portapotties on a carport."

"Kidnapping and holding an assistant principal against his will."

"Assault, naming three drums, 12 guitars and a bass as weapons, causing hearing damage to anyone within a radius of 112 miles and sterility in a 34-year-old milkman who left his truck."

"Unsanctioned gathering of 150 people in a house built as a single family dwelling, causing the kitchen to become a health and fire hazard."

"There were also charges of neglect to the dog who hadn't been fed anything in three weeks except pizza and space dust, but the testimony was weak."

"But leaving small children constitutes neglect," said the couple.

"We know, but it beats a 746."

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Two counts of second degree murder were expected to be filed today against a 19-year-old man in the fire slayings Wednesday of two children.

Dist. Atty. Andrew Coats said. The charges were due to be filed against Michael Creston Moore of Newcastle, Okla., Coats said.

The deaths occurred early Wednesday morning as Melford Isaac made his rounds, with his children asleep in the back of the car, delivering the Oklahoma Journal, an Oklahoma City newspaper.

Isaac, 25, left the motor running as he delivered the papers to an apartment complex about 4 a.m. He told police he saw a man jump in the car and drive off. Isaac said he tried to give chase, but gave up and called police.

Officers found the car about eight blocks away where its interior apparently was doused with a flammable liquid and set afire. A passerby saw the blaze and a man running from the car, and called the fire department.

Firemen found the bodies after extinguishing the blaze, which was fed by the stack of newspapers in the hatchback compartment of the compact car.

About 10:45 a.m., Moore surrendered to Oklahoma City police, accompanied by an attorney.

Moore's sister Ronni, 18, also of Newcastle, was arrested and jailed on complaints of aiding and abetting a fugitive. A friend of the Moores, Marilyn Jean Helms, 18, Newcastle, was jailed as a material witness and on a complaint of interfering with official process.

The victims were identified as Melissa Isaac, 6, and her brother Martin, 3.

Isaac and his wife had recently separated and the husband was keeping the children. Rather than leave them alone, he had been taking them along as he delivered the papers — letting them sleep in the hatchback section of the car behind the stack of papers.

Coats said the second degree murder charges would be filed rather than first degree because of the apparent lack of premeditation.

"It apparently was somewhat impulsive and not with any real planning," Coats said, adding the fire may have been started "just as an afterthought."

A police spokesman said investigators believe the car was taken after a Tuesday night drinking party which apparently led to an impulse "for a short ride."

The mother, Judy Lynn Isaac, 23, said she carried no animosity toward the man suspected of the deaths.

"He couldn't have known they were back there or he wouldn't have done it," she said.

Mrs. Isaac is employed by the Oklahoma Publishing Co., publisher of the Oklahoman & Times, as an agent carrier.

Two children killed in care fire

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Dereliction of duty by two guards at the state prison here may have led to the escape of two inmates wanted in connection with a multi-state crime spree, Warden Richard Crisp said Wednesday.

The inmates, Earl Van Denton, 27, and Paul Ruiz, 29, escaped the prison June 23. They are charged with murder in the slayings of the town marshal at Magazine, Ark., and an Arkansas Army Corps of Engineers ranger.

They also are wanted for the wounding of another Arkansas Corps ranger, and the disappearance of two Louisiana fishermen and a cab driver from Purcell, Okla.

A preliminary prison report says that four guards had posted themselves in front of a shed where a 20-man work crew of inmates was lodged during a lunch break.

But no one guarded a back door of an adjacent building, the report said. Ruiz and Denton, plus inmate Elmer Finin, are believed to have slipped into the other building, out the door and across a landfill.

They were not missed until after the lunch hour was over. Finin has not been recaptured, but authorities do not believe he is still with Ruiz and Denton.

"It appears that proper surveillance broke down. There is no excuse for what happened," Crisp said.

Crisp said a personnel hearing will be held Thursday, and he will reach a decision on the personnel board's recommendation sometime next week.

Scheduled to appear at the closed session are Capt. C. C. Battles, a 21-year veteran of the prison, and Lt. Billy Jack Cohen, employed as a guard for over 10 years.

Melvin "Bud" Tyler, the prison's security chief, said only Battles and Cohen were held responsible because they were in charge of the guard crew.

"If they had acted properly, guards also would have been stationed to watch the back of the adjacent building," Crisp said.

In a related development Wednesday, it was learned that the missing Purcell cab driver, James Melvin Short, is a second cousin of Denton's ex-wife.

Mrs. Short said her husband, missing since Friday, met Denton at a family reunion seven years ago. But Mrs. Short said she doubts that Denton could have knowingly arranged to kidnap Short.

"Melvin wouldn't have recognized Earl. And I know that Earl wouldn't recognize my husband," she said.

Short disappeared after he answered a fare call about 11:30 a.m. Friday. Authorities later found a pickup truck the pair had stolen in Arkansas stuck in the mud four blocks from where Short had gone to pick up his fare.

Washington (AP) — Germ warfare tests at the White House? You'd better believe it.

They weren't conducted yesterday, or even last year. In fact, the whole business nearly has become lost in the mists of history. What makes the subject current is an apparent difference of opinion between the Pentagon and President Carter's White House over a reporter's request for details.

The Army acknowledged earlier this year it had turned loose nonlethal germs some years back in such public places here as the sprawling Pentagon, National Airport and the Greyhound bus depot before President Richard M. Nixon ordered a halt to all such activities in 1969.

This disclosure led to a rumor that the White House also had been a target for germ warfare experiments.

In response to an inquiry, a Pentagon spokesman said that "at the request of the White House staff, the Army in 1962 tested the air intake system of a portion of the White House." He said nonlethal bacteriological agents were employed.

Pressed for details, the spokesman said nothing would please him more than to provide an elaboration. However, he said he was under orders from the White House to say nothing further.

White House Press Secretary Jody Powell later said he knew nothing about the tests or about any gag order to the Pentagon. Ditto for Jerrold Schecter, spokesman for the National Security Council. Ditto for John Warner, spokesman for the Secret Service.

So the whole affair remains as mysterious as those little microbes that floated around some part of the White House back when John F. Kennedy was president.

When Jimmy Carter walks, everybody — well, almost everybody — walks, too.

Eight sedans and station wagons were drawn up in a line when the President, relatives, aides, friends and bodyguards arrived by helicopter at Camp David, Md., for the July 4th weekend.

Eight sedans and station wagons were drawn up in a line when the President, relatives, aides, friends and bodyguards arrived by helicopter at Camp David, Md., for the July 4th weekend.

Carter moved directly toward his sedan, at the head of the line, conferred briefly with some of his fellow travelers, then picked up James Earl Carter IV, his 4-month-old grandson.

Turning away from the waiting vehicle, Carter stepped briskly down an asphalt roadway leading to his weekend lodge about a quarter-mile away. Wife Rosalynn and almost everyone else did the same.

Except for the infant, everyone walked save the drivers of the eight vehicles. The drivers pulled their cars into line behind the President and followed at a walking pace. It was Camp David's version of a holiday parade.

Alaska line down for fix

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — Workers were replacing a faulty L-shaped portion of the trans-Alaska pipeline in an effort to get the oil moving again through the 800-mile line.

Spokesman Lou Cancelmi said the pipe section was being replaced. The slow process of introducing oil to the pipeline was expected to resume late today.

Alyeska had at first said the shutdown Monday resulted from the apparent failure of a 1 1/2-inch drain plug, but federal and state officials said the problem was more serious.

Cy Price, deputy state pipeline coordinator, said he understood the problem involved a defect in an L-shaped portion of the pipeline and Alyeska later confirmed that report without giving details.

WHISTLING BOTTLES

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Dan Stat of the University of California at Los Angeles Museum of Cultural History, and Steven Garrett, a UCLA graduate student in physics, have analyzed 73 ancient Peruvian Indian whistling bottles with a battery of modern acoustical equipment and reached the following conclusion:

The Peruvian Indians used them to alter consciousness, not, as was believed by many archeologists, as containers for water or some other liquid.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter meets Wednesday with budget director Bert Lance to discuss proposals to cut the White House staff by up to 145 persons and to eliminate some agencies.

The proposals were made by Carter's reorganization specialists last week. The Washington Post reported in Wednesday's edition.

Carter, who used government reorganization as a campaign theme, has promised to give Congress his reorganization plan by July 15.

The Post said among the agencies that may be eliminated are the Foreign Intelligence Advisory Board, the Economic Policy Group, the Energy Resources Council, the Federal Property Council and the Office of Telecommunications Policy.

The White House staff currently numbers about 580; including more than 100 temporary workers.

Ambassador passes danger after shooting

PARIS (AP) — A gunman shot the Mauritanian ambassador to France today, but officials at the American Hospital said he was out of danger. He was the third ambassador shot in Paris in the past two years.

The attempt on Ambassador Ahmed Ghanahalla, 36, apparently was the work of the Polisario Front, which is fighting a guerrilla war in northwest Africa for the independence of the former Spanish Sahara from Mauritania and Morocco.

A woman telephoned Agence France Presse, the French news agency, and said the Mohamed el Wali Sayed International Brigade was responsible for the attack. Mohamed el Wali Sayed was the secretary-general of the Polisario Front who was killed in an attack on Nouakchott, the capital of Mauritania, in June 1976.

Ghanahalla was shot this morning just after he had gotten into his chauffeur-driven car near his home in the fashionable 16th district. Witnesses said two men about 25 years old approached the parked car from behind and one of them fired six shots through the rear window.

The two attackers fled into adjacent streets and escaped. Ghanahalla, who had represented his government in Paris for about 15 months, was taken to the emergency room at the American Hospital. An hour later a spokesman for the hospital said he was out of danger and conscious. Another source said he had been shot in the head and the legs.
