Bill okays Laetrile

By LEE JONES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Texas legislators passed and sent to Gov. Dolph Briscoe today bills allowing doctors to treat cancer patients with laetrile and counties to regulate massage parlors.

Representatives planned a decision on a bill they tentatively approved Wednesday night that would limit the freedom that Texas women have had since 1973 to have abortions.

No abortion would be allowed past the 22nd week of pregnancy except to prevent birth of a defective child, save the life of the mother or fetus or protect the woman from "grave impairment of health."

An avalanche of bills descended on the governor's desk including a measure eliminating the widely detested requirement that Texas voters sign their ballot stubs and deposit them in special boxes.

Senators approved the House-passed ballot stub bill 23-7.

Both chambers accepted a compromise massage parlor bill allowing counties to pass licensing and inspection requirements for parlors outside city limits. Sheriffs or other peace officers could enforce the regulations.

Senate approval of House amendments also sent Briscoe a controversial bill imposing a 200 pounds per day limit on commercial catches of redfish until October 1978. After that, the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department would set limits.

Senators also sent the governor a bill allowing cruise ships with gambling equipment to come into Texas waters if the paraphernalia is locked up.

The House tentatively approved 99-42 the governor's bill requiring post-release supervision of convicts who are not paroled but whose sentences were shortened by "good time" and then served out.

It would deny probation to persons convicted of committing aggravated kidnapping, rape, sexual assault, robbery or any crime involving the use of a gun.

Another provision of the bill would sharply reduce the parole eligibility of convicts who committed such crimes. They could be paroled only after serving a third of the maximum sentence or 20 years whichever is less, without consideration of good time.

"Good time" normally reduces sentences by 20 days for every month of good behavior in prison.

House members, on voice vote, accepted Senate changes in the laetrile bill, sponsored by Rep. Senfronia Thompson, D-Houston.

She said she "is pretty sure" the governor will sign the measure because "I have a number of persons around the state who are pretty supportive of the governor and would like to use laetrile."

Laetrile is not approved by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration for the treatment of cancer. The American Cancer Society says it is worthless and that its use can keep cancer victims from seeking effective treatment in time.

But several witnesses before legislative committees said it had arrested their cancers.

The Senate amendments put the manufacture of the substance — made from apricot and peach pits — under state regulation. They also require doctors to keep records of their laetrile prescriptions. The Texas State Board of Medical Examiners could yank a physician's license for deceptive advertising of laetrile or for misrepresenting its alleged curative powers, Mrs. Thompson said.

House members passed, 113-24, and sent to the Briscoe a major bill of his anti-crime package. It would allow judges to issue search warrants to seek evidence that a suspect actually committed a crime.

Such evidence might be a bloody shirt worn by a person suspected of murder, said Rep. Carlyle Smith, D-Grand Prairie.

Only one such warrant could be issued in a case, and it would have to specifically describe the articles sought.

Search warrants now are limited to weapons and contraband, such as stolen goods, drug paraphernalia and illegal drugs.

Also sent to Briscoe were his "anti-crime" bills that would — Switch from district judges to the court of criminal appeals the power to grant extensions of time to file trial transcripts and other documents necessary in an appeal of a conviction.

— Provide stiffer penalties, up to two years in jail and a $2,000 fine, for fraud in obtaining welfare payments and Medicaid.

The House passed and sent to Briscoe a bill appropriating $15.8 million on an emergency basis to help 27 state colleges pay rising utility costs.

House members finished work Wednesday on two major constitutional amendments, putting them on a Nov. 8, 1977, election ballot.

One, a part of Briscoe's anti-crime program, would enlarge the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals from five to nine members. The court could divide into three panels of three judges each to consider all but death penalty cases.

Rep. Bob Hendricks, D-McKinney, said it now takes more than two years, on the average, for an appeal to be decided because of the court's crowded docket.

The other constitutional change would authorize the sale of another $200 million in veterans land bonds, bringing the total since the program began in the 1950s to $700 million. Proceeds are used to make low-interest loans to veterans for the purchase of rural acreage.

House members also cast overwhelming votes to send to the Senate a $369 million teacher pay raise bill and two teacher retirement bills costing $213 million over the next two years.

Final amounts for both teacher pay and retirement benefits probably will be decided by a House-Senate conference committee in the closing days of the session, which ends May 30.

Senators passed and sent to the House on Wednesday bills that would — Enable pipeline companies to condemn land for underground storage of natural gas.

— Provide stiffer penalties, up to two years in jail and a $2,000 fine, for fraud in obtaining welfare payments and Medicaid.

— Transfer the East Texas Chest Hospital to the University of Texas System.

Friday the 13th in May --that's the worst kind

By JULES Loh

AP Special Correspondent
NEW YORK (AP) — Tomorrow is Friday the Thirteenth. It is the only one in 1977 and as luck would have it, it falls on May 13.

Nothing, Shawn Robbins said, stroking her cat. "But I don't believe in superstitions. I collect them. I find them fascinating, but I'm not superstitious."

Shawn Robbins can say that. She can spit in tomorrow's eye because she is a psychic. She knows in advance that tomorrow holds no evil for her even though it is a Friday the Thirteenth that falls in May, the direst kind.

May 13, as spook specialists such as Shawn Robbins know is the ancient Roman festival of Lemuria. Woe are us.

Lemuria is the dreadful night when the Lemurs, the malevolent souls of the dead, hover about. Placate them. Make them a midnight sacrifice.

Most superstitions have their origins in religion, Shawn Robbins said. Others trace back to practical necessities.

Friday the Thirteenth? The 13th apostle at the Last Supper was Judas Iscariot. The next day was Friday. We all know what happened. By the way, did you notice in the da Vinci painting that Judas has knocked over the salt? Interesting.

As for a superstition rooted in necessity, here's one from Shawn Robbins's copious collection. A coachwhip snake will catch you at night and whip you to death. Tell that to your slave if he is inclined to run away.

The superstition about walking under a ladder has elements of both origins.

Some say a ladder casts the shadow of a cross. Tread on it at your peril. Others, including Shawn Robbins, say a ladder casts the shadow of a ladder and the only reason for avoiding it is to keep from getting paint-splattered.

Shawn Robbins discovered her psychic powers 23 years ago when, as a girl of eight, she foretold her grandmother's death.

A few more accurate predictions and she discovered, as she explained it, that these weren't just lucky hunches. Over the years she has worked into the major league of psychics, predicting airplane crashes, finding criminals for the New York police, serving as seer in residence for the National Enquirer.

She took time out recently — probably knew she wouldn't be busy — to share some lesser known superstitions from her collection. Take them with a grain of salt. Then toss the salt over your left shoulder. Here they are.

Carry a rabbit's foot tomorrow. Not just any rabbit's foot. Carry the left hind foot of a rabbit that has run in a graveyard.

Don't get married in May. Wait until June, the month of Juno, patroness of happy marriages. As the Scots have warned us: "From the marriages in May, all the bairns die in decay."

Stay ashore if the old moon is in the lap of the new. That is, when you can see the faint outline of the full moon in the crescent of the new.

If none of these omens are what you're looking for, go see Shawn Robbins for a private reading. It will cost $50. The psychic business is good. Shawn Robbins doesn't plan to give it up. Not in the foreseeable future.

Rabies shots on slump

Pampa's three veterinarians said this morning public response to the city's annual rabies vaccination drive is running behind past years.

I had a real good response Saturday and Monday," Dr. Kenneth Royle of Royle Animal Hospital, 1238 E. Frederic said.

But it fell off Tuesday and Wednesday.

Rabies vaccinations are available for $4 from any Pampa veterinarian during the week-long drive which started Saturday.

Dr. Ron Hendrick of Hendrick Animal Clinic, 1912 Alcock, said he believed response was off because many people think the drive was last week.

It has always been the first week of May, he said. Dr. M.W. Horne of the Gray County Veterinary Clinic, 1329 S. Hobart, reported he has vaccinated fewer animals this week.

An estimated 230-315 animals had been vaccinated at the three clinics through Wednesday.

I figure we will see a lot more people vaccinating their pets the last couple of days," Dr. Hendrick said.

Dr. Royle said a rabid skunk discovered last month in Amarillo has made some people more conscious of the need to vaccinate their pets.

Pampa is very fortunate in not having rabies in several years. Part of the reason for that is the good cooperation we've gotten from the public in vaccinating pets," Dr. Royle said.

All three veterinarians said Pampa is still experiencing an outbreak of distemper.

Nearly every day I'm having to destroy animals," Dr. Royle said.

The three added they are recommending pet owners have their animals vaccinated against distemper when they bring them in for their rabies boosters.

Activities busy '77 seniors

By JEANNE GRIMES

The Class of 1977 will be Pampa High School history in a little more than two weeks.

And in the time remaining for Pampa High School seniors, there will be almost as many activities as there are classes to attend.

The short-timers picked up caps and gowns Monday and a rehearsal of graduation speeches was in the high school library.

Bill Mackey, senior class sponsor, said the senior fun night will be Friday.

"We've rented the Activities Center at West Texas State University in Canyon," Mackey said. "The last time we did this was in 1975 and about one-half of the senior class went over there."

Mackey said the seniors will leave Pampa by bus at 6:30 p.m.

"We'll have the Activities Center to ourselves for five hours," he said. "We rent it for $100 an hour and no one else is allowed in."

The Senior Fun Night will cost each participant $2.

That will just about pay for the transportation costs," he added.

The seniors will leave Canyon "about 1 a.m." Talented seniors can try out for the Senior Follies '77 during an audition at 7:30 p.m. today in the Pampa High School Auditorium.

Mackey said only seniors may audition and perform in the annual talent-variety show. The curtain will go up on this year's Follies at 8 p.m. May 19.

It will be back to the books for some seniors May 23-24 as they take final exams.

An earlier order that all seniors, even those exempt from exams, must attend classes those two days has been rescinded, Mackey said.

The decision was made "because absenteeism among seniors on Friday was normal," Mackey said. There had been an "unofficial and illegal attempt to organize a senior slip-out Friday."

Seniors will practice for Vespers at 4 p.m. May 24 in the M.K. Brown Auditorium and Vespers will be 8 p.m. May 25. The Rev. Philip Craig, former pastor of St. Matthews Episcopal Church here, will speak at Vespers. His daughter, Carolyn, will be a 1977 Pampa High School graduate. Rev. Craig now lives at Woodland Park, Colo.

Graduation rehearsal will be 2 p.m. May 26 in the Pampa High School Fieldhouse.

"We're urging everyone to go to Vespers practice," Mackey said, "but it is imperative that everyone attend graduation practice. If a student doesn't come to graduation practice, they cannot be in the ceremony."

A correct fit will be important during Vespers and graduation later this month, so Pampa High School senior Treasa Shaw takes special care in selecting her mortarboard.

EVER STRIVING FOR TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by a government, with the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property and secure more freedom and keep it for themselves and others.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guide expressed in the Coveting Commandment.

Up against strange textbooks

Now and then the opinion samplers probe the minds of students to determine their opinions and knowledge concerning capitalism. The battered free enterprise system on which this nation's economic welfare is based.

The results usually show — and alarmingly — that the students are abysmally ignorant in economics but worse yet, that in their opinions based on misinformation, they are uncompromisingly positive.

Their ignorance is the result of what they have been taught about what is listed in the curriculum as "economics," rather than their having ignored the subject altogether.

The title of one of the college textbooks is "Up Against the American Myth." It states at the beginning, "We can only solve our social problems by doing away with capitalism and institutions that support it."

They explain that is "the point of (this) book, and we make it again and again."

Our information concerning the textbook comes from the Textbook Evaluation Committee on America's Future, an organization, based in New Rochelle, N.Y., the function of which is to analyze textbooks and to present their analyses to the public, and particularly to school administrators.

The textbook presents an "unrelenting drumfire of denunciation of America (and) the United States is repeatedly described as 'imperialistic,'" says the committee.

"Up Against the American Myth" may be extreme, but the results of the opinion surveys indicate that there is an alarming lack of knowledge about the land they live in and the capitalism which it espouses — and an economic system that has been so successful that it can supply necessities of half the world out of its domestic surplus.

Where will cost spiral end?

What does it cost to keep the federal army of regulators maintained while they harass, intimidate and impede productive people in pursuit of their own well-being?

Just the direct cost has gone up 85 per cent since 1974 to a whopping 3.8 billion dollars. In the energy and environmental fields the jump has gone to 185 per cent of 756 million dollars.

And that is just the cost in dollars as it comes out of the federal treasury. Untold billions are shelled out by individuals and business as they try to comply with regulations and controls. It is impossible to even estimate the total costs as the productive segment of our society bears the burden of busy bureaucrats always ready to throw a curve at any successful entrepreneur.

Just at a time when those engaged in keeping vital energy sources flowing, the greatest interference ratio is being centered in the place least able to tolerate it.

Now that Congress will soon take up the energy matter we can only expect more interference. The politicians are sure to spur the bureaucracy on to greater strides in upsetting the market place in the energy field.

The voice of business

The wisdom of Big Brother

By RICHARD L. LESHER
WASHINGTON — In 1975 a harassed New England merchant complained.

Men of war cutters manne with their bayonets fixed, judges of the admiralty collectors, comptrollers, searchers, tide waiters, land waiters, with a whole catalogue of pumps, are sent hither to not to protect our trade but to distress it."

Such a state of affairs was obviously intolerable, so we threw out King George and his swarms of officers.

And now? Well? Pity the poor Navaho Indian who was ordered by the government to install a two-way intercom in his mine even though he works it alone.

He is as perplexed as the Portland employer who was told that 15 per cent of his two secretaries and one bookkeeper must be of minority extraction. Fifteen per cent of three people? Then there's the small businessman who was fined for having too many fire extinguishers. That's right, too many.

In Chicago, they confiscated a batch of rubber squeeze toys for squeaking too loudly.

The head of a meatpacking operation recalls being ordered by one federal agency to put an opening in a conveyor line, and being ordered to close it by another federal agency. "We have been told by various federal agencies," he says, "to provide smooth and rough floors in the same area, salt and not salt the same area, and so on."

Those are just the petty frustrations. Get into the excesses of the environmental

Dubious honor

Most folks know — and many deplore — that a great many members of Congress seem to enjoy travel at the expense of the tax payer. Some travel around the United States, supposedly in order to conduct hearings on issues of the day. Like the recent California hearings on expanding the Redwoods National Park in Northern California, by committee members already committed to the expansion.

But Rep. Charles A. Wilson of Los Angeles apparently likes his travels abroad. Just the other day it was disclosed that the congressman had just completed his seventh official tax-financed trip abroad in 27 months. On his most recent venture abroad, this world traveler visited Germany, Belgium and Spain to look at military postal facilities. On previous occasions, he had gone to England, France, Japan, Korea, Taiwan and Hawaii.

We do not know if anyone keeps records, but we would guess that Mr. Wilson should be somewhere near the top of the list.

protection movement and you make the big time.

The snail darter — a small fish — has stalled a $116 million dam in Tennessee.

The Furibush housewort — a useless weed — blocks a $600 million hydroelectric project in Maine.

The soft-shelled clam has halted a $2 billion nuclear power plant in New Hampshire. And a $3.5 billion coal-fired power plant in Utah was sacrificed on the altar of the black-footed ferret and the kangaroo rat.

Doesn't it boggle your mind — four major energy facilities being held up for petty reasons while the President reminds us of the energy crisis?

So far, no one in the bureaucracy has tried to make his horse a consul, but I expect it soon.

I had a letter the other day from a writer who asked me to explain the contradictions of the government. He said, "I understand there is a move to legalize marijuana while at the same time they are outlawing saccharin."

This bizarre behavior is certainly reminiscent of the eccentricities of history's mad kings and emperors. And yet it occurs — with increasing frequency — right here in the democratic, middle-class U.S.A.

Estimates of the total consumer cost of government red tape vary widely. But the educated guesses usually run between $700 and $2,000 a year, for each and every man, woman and child in the country.

Who — I would like to know — is "protecting" the consumer from this?

In the words of Bert Lance, director of the President's Office of Management and Budget, "We consistently talk about 'wages' and 'prices' being the causes of inflation. (But) the most serious perpetrator of all is government itself."

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Richard L. Lesher is president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.)

India and the population bomb

By ROGER A. FREEMAN
R.C. Holes Fellow,
Hilldale College

India's recent election which ended Indira Gandhi's long reign was widely acclaimed in American media as a hopeful sign of a reversal of the trend toward ever tightening totalitarian rule in the third or fourth world countries. Over a period of more than ten years Mrs. Gandhi's regime had become increasingly dictatorial and oppressive, imposing strict press censorship and jailing many thousands of its opponents.

On half a dozen visits to India over the past two decades I had observed, particularly in recent years, a gradual but decisive tightening of central control over the affairs of the 22 states and over the personal lives of the people. On its face therefore the changeover appears to be auspicious, a step in the right direction.

The questions are now can the new government pull the country out of its misery? Will it be able to live up to India's claim as the world's largest democracy? The prospects, unfortunately, are not bright to say the least.

The government of 81 year old Maraji Desai, well intentioned but lacking in strength, consists of a loose coalition of diverse elements which have little in common besides their rejection of Mrs. Gandhi's autocratic rule. No program has been announced or is in sight that could effectively cope with the country's social and economic troubles. The fact is that it was Mrs. Gandhi's attack on India's most serious problem — population growth — that more than any other factor brought about her downfall.

Here is the situation in a nutshell. In the early 1950s India's population was growing about 3.5 million a year. Now after a quarter century of a government directed "family planning program" the annual increase exceeds 15 million. Even India's enormous fertile land, blessed as it is with dozens of big rivers, fed from abundant monsoon rains which drench its plains and the high mountains to its north each summer, cannot meet the rising demands, despite the green revolution, miracle rice, industrial progress and technological advance. This is why, when persuasion failed, Mrs. Gandhi two years ago got tough about sterilization — which then proved to be her undoing.

Comparisons with the United States are startling. Population density: U.S. 60 people per square mile, India 490. Per capita income: U.S. well over $6,000, India $120. Birthrate: U.S. 15 per 1,000 population, India 42. The United States has given more aid to India over the past 30 years than to any other country — but what good has that done, economically or politically?

India's predicament is not unique — much of the rest of the globe is in the same situation. The world's population reached 1 billion around 1830, added another billion in the succeeding 100 years, then in 30 years, then in 15 years. At that rate the total may rise from the present four billion to seven billion or more by the turn of the century. What then?

The industrially and agriculturally self-sustaining countries — the U.S., U.S.S.R., Japan, most of Europe etc. — have lowered their birthrates to a point where they will face population declines. With few exceptions only countries which have trouble feeding their present population — generally with per capita income below $200 per year — incur explosive rates of population growth. If left unchecked this is bound to lead to a cataclysm of enormous proportions.

The fourth world countries, the poor ones with high growth rates, have increasingly been demanding a redistribution of the world's wealth. That's not mere fantasy — with their allies they now control a majority of the 150 votes in the U.N. General Assembly. But, of course, the world's wealth is not possessions but production. Production can be redistributed only if the industrial world permits itself to be enslaved by the fourth world — which given the guilt complex and suicidal tendencies of the West it conceivably might.

Some observers have expressed hope that birth rates in the fourth world will gradually decline. After all, they dropped sharply in the industrial countries as their people economically advanced. Why should that not also happen in the fourth world? This is standing logic on its head — like saying that rain is brought about by people opening their umbrellas. It confuses cause and effect. The same personal traits that enabled some nations to raise their agricultural and industrial production to formerly undreamed-of levels also enabled them to control their rate of reproduction. Those traits — the "missing ingredient" in Gunnar Myrdal's Asian Drama — are still sadly lacking in today's fourth world nations. Raising their income won't change that.

It isn't that the birth rates had risen so much in the poor countries of Asia, Africa and Latin America, though in some such as India they had, with western assistance. But death rates have sharply dropped. Prior to western colonization, nature and tribal warfare maintained a balance between births and deaths, between the resource base and the size of population. That balance was upset by the colonial powers and, in the past three decades, by the newly independent countries themselves, mostly with aid from the western countries. Medical techniques, food imports, technical and financial aid — all from the West — have enabled hundreds of millions to survive — who otherwise would have died — and to procreate more children in turn. By sharply diminishing death rates, the West, whether for selfish reasons or moved by charity, has created a Frankenstein monster. How can the world now dispose of it?

A drastic change is imperative and since this can obviously not mean that death rates should be permitted to rise to former levels, the action must be a reduction in the number of births. Representatives of the poor nations insist on the sovereign right of their people to have as many children as they please. But this right must include the responsibility to feed those children. That responsibility cannot be imposed upon other nations and people who act responsibly and are productive. Thus to increase food shipments and supply other technical and financial aid to the fourth world will only make the problem worse.

When in the sub-Saharan areas of Africa, the Sahel, ten million persons were reported to be starving a few years ago, huge amounts of food were shipped. That solved the immediate problem but it will probably mean that some years hence

Water Consumption
A total of 3,170 billion gallons of water — about eight times the average daily flow of the Mississippi River — is funneled daily through the nation's water pipes, turbines and irrigation systems to meet the needs of homes, factories, farms and power plants.

In Washington

Annapolis shuttle

By Martha Angle and Robert Walters

WASHINGTON — (NEA) After the long struggle to get to Washington with their man as president, members of Jimmy Carter's staff finally made it last autumn — only to become seemingly more fascinated by the charms of Annapolis, Md., 35 miles to the east.

Between mid-November and late December of last year, no fewer than 73 Carter aides submitted to federal officials written travel authorization requests for trips to Maryland's state capital.

Collectively, the Carter staff proposed to spend an astounding total of 627 days in Annapolis while working on the presidential transition between election day and the inauguration.

The travel forms were filled out for the purpose of securing cash advances. The Carter aides received a total of more than $17,500 in such payments from the General Services Administration (GSA), the federal agency in charge of disbursing money from the $2 billion government fund earmarked to finance the Carter transition.

But not one member of the Carter staff ever really intended to visit Annapolis and, in fact, none did. Instead, they used the "travel advances" to pay personal bills until they were able to begin collecting their first government paychecks.

In short, those Carter aides engaged in a deceptive financial maneuver in one of their earliest transactions in government — hardly an auspicious beginning for an administration whose candidate campaigned on a promise of "I will never lie to you" and who repeatedly emphasized his commitment to honesty and integrity in government.

The money now has been fully repaid. But the GSA officials responsible for reclaiming it say it took weeks and, in some cases, months to collect the funds, even after the Carter staff was drawing regular salary checks.

Among the recipients of the cash advances, most of which ranged in size from $200 to $300, were: —Timothy E. Kraft, the President's appointments secretary.

—Barry L. Jagoda, Carter's principal television advisor. —Mary Finch Hoyt, press secretary to the President's wife, Rosalynn.

—S. David Freeman, deputy to James Schlesinger, Carter's personal advisor on energy matters. The explanations of those who received the money after signing the phony travel authorizations are virtually identical. Most of them spent a year or more working for low wages in the Carter campaign, and many were forced to go into debt or accumulate unpaid bills.

Those chosen to accompany the president-elect to Washington after the election looked forward to a healthy, regular paycheck — only to discover that they could get no money for a month or more because of the routine but aggravating bureaucratic delays while the payroll was being established.

In desperation, they say, they turned to the scheme of collecting advances for phantom trips. "I have no problem whatsoever with getting a salary advance through a travel authorization," said Jagoda, who collected more money than any other individual.

While all his colleagues confined themselves to one travel advance, Jagoda filed for two. He claimed that he planned to spend 25 days in Annapolis at an estimated minimum cost of $770.60. The maximum sought by any other aide was $310.50 for 15 days.

Use of the phony travel documents was coordinated by two young men on the Carter transition staff: Walter Kallaur, who was in charge of finances and who filed for a fictitious advance himself, and Jonathan Stein, Kallaur's deputy who signed and certified all the requests for money.

Kallaur and Stein claim that GSA officials, who actually paid out the funds, not only approved of the plan but initially suggested it.

"They're damned liars," said G.C. Gardner, the GSA official in charge of funding the Carter transition. "They falsified travel advances without our knowledge."

Pampering hospital patients

They're young but age never got in the way of helping or caring, so four teenage volunteers are ready to donate more of their precious summer leisure time to Highland General Hospital.

The responsibility of work and the hospital routine won't be hard for the girls to adjust to. You see, they're veterans of a sort.

Ninth graders Debbie Rapstine, Cynthia Martinez and Karen Ladd and Robin Hill, a 10th grader, will be back at Highland General Hospital this summer. They'll do volunteer work while clad in the red- and white candy striped weskits which have given thousands of teenaged helpers across the nation a name for the country to recognize — Candy Stripers.

Debbie said she and the others will try to work eight hours a week doing whatever needs doing.

"There's different things to do," Robin said. "Taking flowers to the rooms... I like that."

"...helping in X-ray," Karen added.

"...helping in the gift shop or turning on the TV sets for the patients," Robin said.

The girls said they were recruited into the Candy Striper program last year. The Hospital Auxiliary, which supervises the young volunteers, signs up prospective volunteers at Pampa Junior High School each spring. All four said they were attracted to the program by the recruiting posters.

Three shifts are available for the volunteers to select from and Candy Stripers are on duty from 9 a.m. until noon, noon to 4 p.m. and 4-7 p.m. Due to conflicts with school activities, most of the volunteer work is done during the summers.

"They said we could work (during the school year)," Debbie said, "but most of the kids just work during the summer."

Debbie said she had been thinking of becoming a nurse and the Candy Stripers seemed an ideal way to check out hospital work.

"I'd like to work in X-ray because it is more fun down there," Debbie said. "I like to work with machinery and people. We take the patients down to X-ray and back to the rooms in wheel chairs."

Cynthia volunteered because she wants to "be something in the medical field, not necessarily a nurse. I'm interested in physical therapy."

"I'm really not doing it to be a nurse or anything," Robin said. "I'm just doing it to help people."

Robin's motives are backed by the others.

"Mostly all of us are here because we like working with people," Cynthia said.

"I just wanted to help," Karen said, "and this sounded like fun."

The Candy Stripers receive no formal training for their work. They are given a tour of the hospital to familiarize them with all the areas in which they will work.

"Knowing about all these areas makes a volunteer very valuable because he or she can be called upon to help in any area at any time," Mrs. Beverly Brown of the Hospital Auxiliary said.

The Candy Striper program at Highland General Hospital was allowed to lag for several years. Mrs. Brown added it was reactivated in 1975. That summer 16 girls donated 680 hours and in 1976 21 girls and one boy worked 806 hours.

Mrs. Brown said part of the value of volunteer work is the feeling of accomplishment it gives the volunteer.

But there's more to it than even that.

"You can just go in and visit with them (patients)," Cynthia said. "They get a kick out of that."

White to die June 15

MCKINNEY, Tex. (AP) — Convicted murderer Robert Excel White has been sentenced to die in the electric chair June 15 — after midnight and before dawn. It is White's second death sentence.

Before he was sentenced the first time last November, the 30-year-old drifter told State District Court Judge Tom Ryan he wanted to die because he could not live with his crime.

Insulation men expecting boom

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Insulation manufacturers are gearing up for an expected business boom because of President Carter's proposal for insulating 90 per cent of all American homes by 1985.

But they also are worried that sales may slump temporarily if homeowners delay improvements pending Congressional action on tax credits for people who install insulation.

And some government officials warn that the new emphasis on insulation is likely to bring out unscrupulous dealers with shady offers, making it harder than ever for consumers to get their money's worth.

A spokesman at the National Bureau of Standards in the Department of Commerce warned would-be buyers to "be very wary," particularly if someone proposes an unusually low-cost insulation program.

Under Carter's proposal, homeowners would receive tax credits of up to $410 for spending on such energy-saving items as insulation, storm windows and weather stripping.

According to a 1974 study by the National Bureau of Standards, some 40 million owner-occupied, single-family homes are wasting energy because of inadequate insulation. Eighteen million of these homes have little or no insulation.

The amount of energy — and money — that can be saved by installing insulation varies widely, depending on the location of the house, the design, the amount of insulation already in place and the cost of fuel.

According to the Federal Energy Administration, installing proper insulation in a previously uninsulated attic can cut energy usage by about 20 per cent; storm windows and doors can reduce consumption by 15 per cent; caulking and weatherstripping doors and windows — an inexpensive process — may save up to 10 per cent.

There are three basic types of insulation — mineral wool, which accounts for 80 to 85 per cent of residential insulation, according to the National Mineral Wool Insulation Association; cellulose fiber usually sold in loose fill form; and plastic foam.

Sheldon Cady of the mineral wool group said "plants are working at capacity even without the legislation." But he said the industry can meet the demand, providing the nation's homes are insulated over an eight to 10-year time span.

Both Cady and L.A. Barron of the National Cellulose Insulation Manufacturers Association expressed concern about people holding off on weatherproofing. Barron said that when a statewide program was proposed in California, "everyone stopped buying insulation."

Cady and Barron said that insulation is just as important in the summer — to keep the house cool — as it is in the winter. "The sooner you buy it, the better," said Barron.

No matter when you buy, you will have to be careful. Government and industry experts alike suggest that you make sure you know who you are dealing with and get several estimates for any work you plan to have done. Consider such qualities as durability, flame control and vermin resistance as well as the so-called "R" factor which indicates how well a material will stop heat loss. (The higher the "R" value the better.)

Insulation is not cheap; it can cost $1,000 and up to properly insulate a single-family home. There are ways of saving money, however, including some do-it-yourself alternatives such as plastic sheets instead of storm windows.

Figuring out how much insulation you need can be difficult without the advice of an expert. The Department of Commerce offers a step-by-step guide, "Making the Most of Your Energy Dollars in Home Heating and Cooling."

It includes climate maps, sample costs and charts for the individual homeowner to complete in order to determine his or her needs. The booklet is available from the Consumer Information Department, Pueblo, Colo., 81009, for 70 cents.

Mineral wool insulation generally comes in batts or blankets with an "R" value of about three per inch, according to the National Bureau of Standards. The batts are generally available in four, six and seven-inch thicknesses.

The batts, frequently used in unfinished attics or installed in walls during construction, are available with or without a vapor barrier — a paper or foil covering on one side of the batt. The barrier is designed to keep the water vapor in the house from condensing or passing through the insulation.

The vapor barrier should generally face the living quarters of the house; you need only one vapor barrier, even if you are using more than one batt.

Foam insulation also must be blown into wall or attic cavities. It usually is more expensive than mineral wool or cellulose insulation, but may do a better job in filling small openings. The National Bureau of Standards also cautions that some foams do not meet local fire standards and says that since the material is sprayed on wet, there may be problems with shrinkage and odor. Do not try to install the foam yourself.

Storm windows and doors also save energy, although they can be expensive. A spokesman for the Architectural Aluminum Manufacturers Association said an estimated 30 million storm windows and doors are sold every year, but he also said that half the nation's homes still do not have such protection.

Gov okays drug death

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov Dolph Briscoe says he doesn't know if he will delay any executions scheduled before Sept. 1, the date that death by drug injection goes into effect in Texas.

I had not thought about that, Briscoe said Wednesday after he signed into law a bill changing the way the death penalty is administered.

"Of course, we do not know at this point when and if any death penalty will be carried out."

Texas became the second state with such a law, following Oklahoma where Gov David Boren signed a similar bill on Tuesday.

I think and I hope this will provide some dignity with death, Briscoe commented after the brief informal ceremony in his public reception room. "I think it is a move in the right direction."

Briscoe said he supported and signed the bill on the recommendation of W.J. Estelle Jr., director of the state prison system. Estelle or anyone he designates will be the one to give the injection of a "lethal substance."

For many years electrocution has been the means of the prisoner, probably will be given to a Texas historical museum.

Spain's steps toward de-

Castro may want to lead Third World

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fidel Castro would rather pursue the role of Third World leader, particularly in Africa, than normalize Cuban relations with the United States, according to U.S. intelligence analysts.

While continuing to provide some low key support for Latin American leftist guerrillas, the analysts said, Castro will focus much of his future effort in Africa.

These were some of the conclusions in a recent U.S. intelligence assessment of Castro's growing commitments in Africa at a time when U.S. and Cuban diplomats have been moving cautiously toward possible resumption of relations. Intelligence sources report meanwhile that Cuban military advisers have shown up in Ethiopia, the 12th African nation to accept help from Castro.

Some eight to 10 Cubans are reported at work as the vanguard of several hundred military men being sent by Castro to help train some 25,000 Ethiopian peasant recruits to fight against Eritrean rebels.

Soviet military personnel also are expected in Ethiopia following the Addis Ababa regime's ouster of most U.S. officials and abrupt closure of remaining U.S. facilities there.

Russia sent Ethiopia some 60 T34 tanks and armored troop carriers last month. Since then, Ethiopian leaders have traveled to Moscow, reportedly in hopes of getting new Russian arms in quantity. U.S. intelligence analysts believe Castro is working to achieve his own aims in Africa, although he is said to have cooperated closely with the Russians on occasion for financial reasons.

Airport neighbors protest Concorde

NEW YORK (AP) — Angry neighbors of John F. Kennedy International Airport are vowing to close the facility twice a week in retaliation for a federal judge's order that the supersonic Concorde jet can't be banned from landing there.

The people are not going to take this lying down," said Bryan Levinson, head of Concorde Alert, an umbrella group of community organizations opposed to the British-French plane's noise.

We cost Kennedy $3 million to $4 million every time we show up there (to protest). I can see it happening once or twice a week on a regular basis if need be," he said. "We'll be there on the runways en masse to greet them."

U.S. District Court Judge Milton Pollack ruled Wednesday that the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey acted illegally in banning the supersonic Concorde during a 16-month trial period ordered by the federal government.

Pollack ruled that "local regulations may not override national purposes," and said test flights might lead to a cleaner, quieter, more efficient supersonic transport.

A spokesman for the Port Authority said the ruling would be appealed as soon as Pollack signed the order making it effective. Port Authority attorney Patrick Falvey also said his agency would seek to have the ban reinstated while litigation continues, a prospect that could put off Concorde landings indefinitely.

Following the ruling, British Airways said it would start test flights into Kennedy next month and begin commercial service by the end of September. Air France said it plans to start daily Paris-to-New York flights on June 20.

Both airlines now make commercial runs into Washington's Dulles Airport, the only other U.S. airport designated for trial runs.

A Concorde flight from London to New York would cost $693 compared with the current first class fare for a one-way journey of $574.

While some residents around Kennedy vowed to fight on against the Concorde, others saw slim chance of success. "If we have a chance, we're going to protest it, sure," said Alice Costello of Howard Beach, Queens. "But what could you really do?"

Predictably, French and British officials were happy with Judge Pollack's ruling.

"This is the decision we had hoped for," said Marcel Cavaille, the French Secretary of Transportation. British Airways said it was "delighted" with the ruling.

But sources at British Airways said problems may lay ahead in testing Concorde at Kennedy Airport because the plane has never landed there before, and the main runway may be too bumpy for the sleek plane's stork-like undercarriage struts.

The French and British have sunk an estimated $3 billion into developing the Concorde, and the entire investment could go down the drain if a regular Europe-to-America run is not established.

High spender sought in death

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — A man who used $100 bills to light his cigars while buying rounds of drinks at a suburban tavern is being sought as the mastermind of the multimillion-dollar robbery and murder of a reclusive grocery heiress.

Authorities say state murder charges and federal fugitive warrants have been issued for Howard Willard, 38, and a woman believed to be traveling with him, Marjorie Pollitt, 48. They are thought to be en route to Daytona Beach, Fla.

About $1.6 million was found in the possession of three persons already in custody in the case. Authorities say at least $1.4 million is still missing from the home of Marjorie Jackson, 66, who was found shot to death early Saturday.

Robert Kirkman of the Marion County Sheriff's Department said one of those already arrested told police that Willard got a floor plan of Mrs. Jackson's house from a man involved in the January theft of $817,000 from her home.

The man, whom Kirkman declined to identify, said the plan to rob the heiress developed after he met Willard at an inner-city nightclub, Kirkman said.

Willard was identified as the man lighting cigars with $100 bills, buying rounds of drinks and passing out $100 bills to friends late last week.

Mrs. Jackson's body was found by firemen responding to reports of a fire at her weedchoked, three-acre estate. She had been fatally wounded by a .22-caliber weapon, and detectives believe the fire was set to conceal the crime.

Police found more than $5 million in cash still in her house, stuffed in drawers and closets.

It's still uncertain how much money is missing, Kirkman said. Mrs. Jackson had withdrawn about $8 million from an Indianapolis bank in the past year and might have withdrawn more from other banks, he said.

Those arrested were Manuel Lee Robinson, 29, held without bond on charges of first-degree murder, arson and burglary; John Williams, 38, charged with being an accessory after the fact, $100,000 bond; Annie Young, 22, charged with possession of stolen property, $1,000 bond.

Fire damages home kitchen

A house at 1238 N. Russell sustained heavy fire damage to the kitchen and smoke damage to the rest of the house Wednesday.

A Pampa Fire Department spokesman said the fire, which started behind the stove, was probably caused by a gas leak. "The fire burned the floor, wall and cabinets," the spokesman said.

The house belongs to Raymond and Lucille York.

Bill could pay Texas millions

DALLAS (AP) — A nationwide public service job program will send millions of federal dollars to Texas when it is signed into law by President Jimmy Carter.

Congress has okayed a $6.6 billion appropriations bill that will increase from 370,000 to 725,000 the number of public service jobs open to unemployed workers.

Texas is earmarked for $203,082,455 of the federal funds.

William S. Harris, administrator of the U.S. Labor Department's employment and training programs in the Southwest Region, said the money will be used to create jobs in areas of high unemployment.

Harris said he expected the jobs to be hired as rapidly as possible after the President signs the bill with the goal of having all jobs filled by the end of the year. Most of the jobs are expected to go to unemployed people sponsored under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA).

In his proposal to Congress, Carter said, "this public service employment program will enable the unemployed to use their talents to serve their fel-

Vance meets in Spain

MADRID, Spain (AP) — Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance met today with King Juan Carlos and other top Spanish officials and expressed "greatest admiration" for their efforts to bring democracy to Spain after 40 years of dictatorship.

The nearly hour-long meeting at the king's Zarzuela Palace, once an 18th century theater for light opera, was Vance's first with the Spanish monarch, who came to the throne 18 months ago after the death of dictator Francisco Franco.

Since then, the government has scheduled the first free national election in 40 years next month, legalized antigovernment political parties including the Communist party and freed hundreds of political prisoners.

Vance also met with Premier Adolfo Suarez, a favorite to win re-election in the June balloting, and briefed him on the economic summit conference in London last weekend.

U.S. officials traveling with Vance said the main purpose of the secretary's visit to Madrid was to attend a meeting of the U.S.-Spanish Council. The council, established last year as part of the deal continuing American bases in Spain, provides Spain with information and consultation over Western European nations get as members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization — NATO.

"We are preparing them for the day they may want to join NATO and NATO decides it wants them along," said one U.S. official. "They have been fairly isolated."

Spain's steps toward democracy since Franco's death in November 1975 have neutralized much of the opposition from NATO members such as Norway and Denmark to Madrid's admission to the alliance.

The official said he felt Spain could have NATO membership for the asking if the democratization process continues.

Vance flies later today to Tehran, the Iranian capital, for a meeting of the Central Treaty Organization — CENTO. While there he is expected to complete arrangements for the sale of eight nuclear power plants to Iran for $16 billion. The deal was negotiated during the Ford administration and would make the United States the chief provider of nuclear equipment and technology to Iran.

France, which is also building nuclear plants in Iran, said last week it would offer to build the eight facilities if the deal with the United States fell through.

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — Five Texas cases involving the federal voting rights act have been consolidated by the chief judge of the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals to be heard by a three-judge federal panel.

The cases include those of four Texas school districts and one city that claim they are not covered by the federal act.

In a copyright article Wednesday, the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal said Judge John R. Brown ordered the five Texas voting rights act cases consolidated.

Corn husks not useless

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

For sweet corn lovers, the season never ends now that their favorite vegetable is shipped year-round.
For example, Florida growers plant thousands of acres and pick two or three crops a year to produce a 600-million-ear sweet corn yield. Sweet corn is shipped to various states under coats of snow-ice which helps preserve its sweetness. Keep corn refrigerated when you take it home from the supermarket and eat as soon as possible. Although a favorite way to cook fresh corn is in boiling water for 5 to 8 minutes, you can bake it in its own husk or strip the husk and foil-wrap it, moistened with butter. If you haven't done so, try oven roasting sweet corn in the husks. Either way allow 25 to 30 minutes baking time in a 350-degree oven.

CORN BAKED IN THE HUSKS
Remove silks from corn. Replace husks and tie with string. Soak corn in water for 10 minutes. Place in a baking pan. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven 25 to 30 minutes.

FRESH CORN AND CHEESE QUICHE ears fresh corn

5 eggs
1 1/2 cups light cream or milk
1/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese
2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
2 tablespoons chopped pimiento
1 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon ground black pepper
9 1/2-inch unbaked pie shell
6 strips crisp bacon

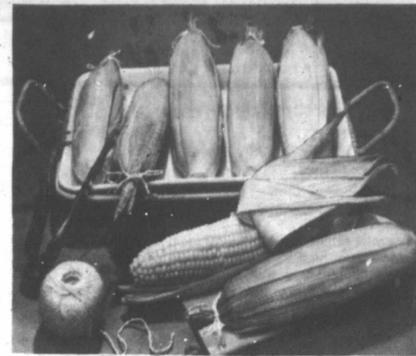

Remove husks and silks from corn. Cut kernels off cobs (makes about 3 cups).

Set aside. Beat eggs with cream. Blend in cheese, onion, pimiento, salt and black pepper. Mix well. Stir in reserved corn. Pour into pie shell. Bake in a preheated 400-degree oven for 25 minutes. Reduce heat to 350 degrees. Arrange cooked bacon over top of quiche. Continue baking until a knife inserted near center of pie comes out clean, about 20 minutes. Makes 6 portions.

Quick vegetable dish: canned stewed tomatoes heated with canned okra. Good served in sauce dishes.

Spice cake takes to a glaze made with confectioners' sugar and lemon juice.

Fresh-baked corn

Fresh sweet corn turns into a unique taste treat when the ears are baked in the husks.

EPA admits human testing proposal

By STAN BENJAMIN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Environmental Protection Agency said Wednesday that one of its divisions proposed in 1975 to test a possible cancer-causing fungicide on Mexicans, to by-pass its own ban on human testing in the United States.

An EPA spokesman said, however, that the proposal was turned down by Edwin L. Johnson, who was then associate deputy assistant administrator, heading EPA's pesticide programs.

Responding to questions on the subject, the spokesman said the proposal originated in the pesticide program's Criteria and Evaluation Division, then headed by Leonard R. Axelrod, now deceased.

It involved a group of fungicides called "EBDC" which were known to cause cancer in animals; such findings automatically bring the chemicals under suspicion as possible causes of human cancer, until they can be proven safe.

EBDC is also suspected as a possible cause of birth defects.

But the Department of Health, Education and Welfare had placed a moratorium on human testing of such questionable substances.

In Mexico, testing was still permitted, and Axelrod proposed to negotiate a $100,000 contract at U.S. expense with the Hospital de Gineco-Obstetrica in Mexico, for the experimental feeding of EBDC chemicals to human beings.

The EPA spokesman said the proposal, contrary to a published report, was sent routinely to Johnson, higher up the chain of command in the pesticide programs.

Johnson consulted attorney Jeffrey Howard, in EPA's General Counsel's office, and blocked the proposal, the spokesman said.

He said Johnson is investigating to determine who, besides Axelrod, was involved in submitting the proposal.

EPA Administrator Douglas M. Costle, who took office earlier this year, issued a statement describing the proposal as "a serious error of judgment on the part of those originating it," and "unethical and totally repugnant."

"I am glad that EPA management at the time had the good sense to reject the plan," said Costle.

"None of the testing was done and no tax money was spent to implement this ill-conceived project."

"EBDC" is an abbreviation covering six fungicides authorized by EPA for use on leafy vegetables such as spinach; potatoes, tomatoes, corn, grain, and other crops.

The fungicides are known as Maneb, Zineb, Amoban, Mancozeb, Nabam and Metiram.

EPA said these fungicides are currently under review as possible candidates for proceedings to cancel their authorizations, because of suspicions that they could cause cancer or birth defects.

Officers relieved after drowning

HOUSTON (AP) — Police Chief B. G. Bond says disciplinary action probably will be taken against five officers in the drowning of a Houston man.

The police chief said an announcement was to be made today.

The five were relieved of duty with pay this week after patrol officer Terry W. Denson, 27, was charged with murder in the drowning of Joe Campos Torres Jr., 23.

Bond said Wednesday he is "proceeding in the direction" of firing the five officers.

"This particular case is the saddest case we've ever had," Bond said. He described the move as an effort to "clean our own house."

The case was the first investigated by the new police internal affairs unit, which was formed Monday afternoon.

Bond said all of the officers were present Thursday night when Torres was allegedly pushed off a dock into Buffalo Bayou after he was severely beaten.

This was the first official confirmation of any events which sources said occurred after police brought Torres to the downtown jail following a disturbance in a bar and a jail supervisor told officers to take Torres to a hospital for treatment.

Meanwhile, FBI officials said Joe Campos Torres Sr., father of the dead man, went to the FBI Wednesday requesting an additional investigation of the incident.

An FBI official said the FBI notified the Justice Department of the matter but said the federal government had decided not to take an active role in the case pending the outcome of a county grand jury review.

Bond said possible indictments that could be returned by the grand jury in the case could range from "murder to assault."

"We didn't need a polygraph," he said of the investigation which lasted more than eight hours Monday night through Tuesday morning before the murder charge was filed and personally signed by Bond.

15 refuse nuclear slowdown

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fifteen nations that export nuclear tools and technology refused to agree on a proposal to slow the spread of nuclear weapons, despite U.S., Soviet and British backing for the plan.

Although members of the so-called "Nuclear Suppliers Club" failed to reach an accord during last week's talks in London, they did agree to resume their talks next month.

Giving the first account of the secret exchanges that preceded last week's allied summit talks, insiders say two themes dominated the two-day meeting.

The first was a formal British-Soviet proposal, supported by the U.S. delegate, Joseph Nye, to ban sales of nuclear plants, equipment, technology and fuels listed as sensitive unless purchasing nations agree to constant surveillance of all their nuclear installations.

This proposal for "full scope safeguards" would apply even to sectors of the nuclear industry that a user-country may have developed unaided by outside sales.

Despite U.S., British and Soviet agreement on the proposal, the plan was blocked by other members of the "club," including France. The French, who built much of their nuclear technology without outside help, saw such a proposal as "an inequity."

The second key theme at the London talks involved Nye's detailed explanation of the Carter administration's new domestic approach to the problem of stopping or slowing the spread of nuclear arms.

Nye spelled out how the United States intends reshaping its own program of research and development for a new generation of reactors that will not yield material that can go into nuclear weapons.

"The American proposals undoubtedly have disturbed the international nuclear community," one expert insider said of the failure of the London talks.

"But it could be the initial reactions of resistance may have been intended to smoke out U.S. intentions."

West Germany, Japan, France, Britain and other major exporters and users of nuclear energy do not have easy access to uranium supplies and enrichment facilities. Some nations suspect the Carter policy may be motivated by a wish to recapture the U.S. monopoly that once dominated the worldwide nuclear market.

Explaining the new U.S. policy in London, sources said Nye told the "Suppliers Club" that Washington will study on a "case-by-case" basis requests by foreign fuel customers for permission to have spent fuel reprocessed into material that could be used in weapons.

Nye also told the nuclear nations that the United States intends to renegotiate fuel supply and cooperation agreements with countries that are not required under current pacts to seek Washington's approval before turning the spent fuel into plutonium.

NATO adopts Carter plan

LONDON (AP) — The NATO allies have adopted President Carter's proposal to put their defense ministers to work on plans for strengthening forces in Europe to meet the Soviet Union's new offensive strength.

The 15-member North Atlantic Treaty Organization, wrapping up a two-day meeting Wednesday, announced the defense chiefs will meet next week in Brussels, Belgium, for a three-day strategy session.

The allies also accepted Carter's invitation to a summit meeting in Washington next May to chart NATO's defense for the 1980s in the face of "the growth in strength of offensive capabilities of the armed forces of the Warsaw Pact countries."

In his speech to the alliance Tuesday, Carter warned Soviet forces today "are much stronger than needed for any defense purpose." He promised U.S. efforts to revitalize the alliance and called on the allies to join in the task.

The Brussels meeting, opening Monday at NATO headquarters, will bring together representatives of all the alliance members except France.

Although the French remain members of the alliance, their military forces are not part of the NATO command structure headed by U.S. Gen. Alexander Haig.

An informed source said U.S. Defense Secretary Harold Brown, who joins the meeting Tuesday, will bring along several proposals for improving the alliance's defense capabilities. These include recommendations for building up supplies of ammunition and antitank weapons and streamlining plans for deploying troops from the United States and Canada to Central Europe, he said.

Brown will also review lessons in tank tactics learned by the Israelis during the 1973 Middle East war, the source said. During the conflict, the Arabs used primarily Soviet weapons and tactics while the Israelis fought with American equipment.

Brown told a business group in Atlanta, Ga., Wednesday that NATO forces are beset by numerous problems, including differences in equipment, communications and tactics. He said such differences would have to be resolved "if collective security... is to flourish."

The NATO committee issued at the close of the London meeting also noted "there have been improvements in East-West relations in recent years," although "elements of instability and uncertainty exist."

Frank Phillips to visit WTSU

At 90 years of age, Frank R. Phillips, first dean of the School of Agriculture at West Texas State University, will return to the campus for a visit with his ex-students and friends.

On Saturday, a reception from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. will be in the new office building of the Opportunity Plan Inc., at 504 24th Street, in Canyon. At 2:30 p.m. a plaque will be presented to Phillips. The public is invited to the ceremony.

Phillips is a native of Tennessee, but migrated to Texas in his early youth. His father settled at Prosper.

He began his college training at North Texas State in about 1910. After one year in that school and a brief stint as a teacher in a rural school, Phillips went to Texas A&M University. He graduated in the class of 1914. He served briefly as a county agent in Rusk.

Phillips came to Canyon (and West Texas State College) in 1920. He received a Master's degree from Cornell in 1923, and became head of the Agriculture Department of the college in 1924, from which he retired in 1953.

He founded West Texas Educational Tours Inc. in the early 1930s, and for a number of years operated these tours to various scenic locations in the United States and also in Mexico. From the late 1930s until the early 1950's Mr. Phillips owned and operated Western Life Camp, a summer camp for adolescent boys and girls in the mountains above Las Vegas, New Mexico. For several years during World War II Mr. Phillips also operated the Ceta Canyon Encampment for the Northwest Texas Conference of The Methodist Church.

GOP offers energy plan

By TOM RAUM
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republicans are ready to counter President Carter's energy program with a major proposal of their own that seeks to increase U.S. energy production by lifting price controls from oil and natural gas.

The GOP energy "alternatives" expected to be backed today by the Senate's Republican membership, would allow energy companies to reap larger profits on domestic energy production.

But according to a draft of the proposal, these firms would be subject to a "windfall profits tax" unless they reinvested the added profits into finding and developing new oil and gas reserves.

A copy of the draft was obtained by The Associated Press.

GOP leaders stress that the draft is not final and may be subject to last-minute changes. But Republican congressional sources say it is unlikely that the main elements of the proposal will be modified.

While the President's proposal aims to reduce U.S. consumption by taxing excessive use of scarce fuels, the proposed GOP plan would let energy prices rise without taxation in an effort to spur production.

"Unwise government intervention in the marketplace has been the major cause of supply shortages, unrealistic prices, excessive consumption and increased dependence on foreign sources," the draft asserts.

But the proposed GOP plan also advocates energy conservation incentives similar to those in the administration plan, including tax breaks for those who install home insulation or solar energy units.

And it calls for continued development of the controversial breeder reactor program at Clinch River, Tenn., which the administration has proposed canceling. But it urges that a decision be delayed on whether technologies that use plutonium — such as the breeder reactor — should be used commercially.

The proposed plan also recommends that utilities wishing to convert from oil or gas to coal be given a five-year exemption from meeting federal clean air standards.

GOP leaders contend that the administration's energy plan, which would continue price controls on both gas and oil, fails to offer industry enough incentives to find new sources of energy.

Such an incentive can only be provided by a "return to free market pricing," says the GOP draft proposal.

Along with removal of price controls on oil and gas, the GOP plan would establish a windfall profits tax that "would be triggered only when producers fail to reinvest any excess revenues into expanded domestic energy exploration and development," the draft says.

House okays hike in teacher pay

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The House has passed a $360 million teacher pay raise bill and two teacher retirement bills totaling $213 million, sending them to the Senate for almost certain revision.

The pay raise bill gives some teachers increases as high as 13.5 per cent but others less than six per cent. It passed the House Wednesday, 143-1.

A Senate subcommittee has approved an entirely different approach to teacher pay. Final amounts probably will be worked out in a conference committee in the closing days of the legislative session.

Under the House bill, the state-subsidized minimum salary for a beginning teacher with a bachelor's degree would rise from $8,000 now to $9,024 in the fall — more than 12.5 per cent. It would take another jump to $9,385 in September 1978. The House added three new steps for teachers who have topped out under the present 10-step scale so that a teacher with 21 years' experience would jump from a minimum of $11,780 now to $14,382 this fall, or 13.5 per cent.

But a teacher with six years' experience would get only a six per cent raise, from $10,050 to $10,622.

The Senate approach is across-the-board raises of 5.1 per cent this fall and 3.4 per cent in September 1978.

Existing taxes would not finance the general appropriation, school finance, teacher pay and teacher retirement bills passed by the House.

The retirement bills would:

- Appropriate $104 million for increased benefits, up to $40 per month, for teachers who are already retired. A teacher who retired last year after 30 years' service would get a $22.50 increase.
- Increase benefits for teachers who retire in the future by 14.3 per cent, financed by increased contributions from both active teachers and the state. Teacher contributions would rise from six to 6.65 per cent, and state contributions would increase from six to seven per cent of salary. State cost over the next two years would be $100 million.

Kent Reeves takes DECA gavel today

Ann Casey, president of the Pampa High School chapter of the Distributive Education Clubs of America, turned over her gavel to Kent Reeves following an election of four officers at the DECA Senior Breakfast in the Coronado Inn Terrace Room this morning.

Linda Kirkpatrick, distributive education teacher and DECA sponsor, said Reeves was unopposed in his bid for election. Other officers elected this morning were Kim Smith, honorary president; Susan Johnson, secretary; and Jana Marlar, historian. The 1977-78 officers will be installed in the fall when four additional officers will be elected.

Dona Cornutt, retired distributive education teacher, received a plaque at the breakfast, sharing appreciation honors with Ken Plotner, advisory committee chairman for the Pampa club.

Eight students received certificates of completion for finishing two years each in the Pampa distributive education program.

It's Salvation Army Week
The Pampa Salvation Army conducts a diversified program of religious and social welfare services for all ages. Capt. Bodell Heath is at the helm of the local corps.

Salvation Army 'doesn't give up'

Capt. and Mrs. Bodell Heath of Pampa Salvation Army are observing Salvation Army Week — now in progress — with a continued effort against poverty, desperation and disaster.

"The Salvation Army doesn't give up on anybody," Capt. Heath said. "Our founder, Gen. William Booth, said 'Go for souls and go for the worst.' That's still a watchword today, 111 years later."

The captain said Home Leagues are an important part of corps work. Mrs. Capt. Sondra Heath is in charge of the Pampa women's group, whose work has a four-fold purpose: education, fellowship, service and worship.

Another important volunteer group is the local Army's League of Mercy, whose members regularly visit patients in hospitals and rest homes.

"Working with young people is very important to us," Capt. Heath said. "We have Sunbeams and Girl Scouts, similar to Brownies and Girl Scouts. We also have Boy Scout troops. These youngsters have opportunities each summer to attend the Army's Camp Hobbittelle, a 300-acre camp near Midlothian."

There are sessions for Girl Scouts and Sunbeams, youth and music camp and boys club camps. Activities include canoeing, archery, fishing, swimming, sports, horseback riding, crafts and cycling. "New last year was eology. We taught the campers how to ride a bike properly and safely, and how to keep a bike in good working condition," the captain said.

Dallas police officers help with camp activities on a volunteer basis. The program was initiated in 1975 and has grown steadily, Capt. Heath said.

'He said he killed my parents'

HOUSTON (AP) — The defense was expected to continue its cross examination of Paula Cantrell Derese today in the fourth day of the capital murder trial of Vernon McManus, charged in the slaying of her parents.

Mrs. Derese, 27, testified Wednesday that McManus told her he and two other men killed her parents last July in their fashionable Baytown home.

She also said McManus threatened to kill her and her young son if she told anyone about his role in the slayings.

McManus is charged in the July 25 slayings of Paul and Mary Cantrell, Mrs. Derese's parents.

Both McManus, 34, a former Baytown and Lamar University football player and coach, and Mrs. Derese, his former secretary, were charged with capital murder.

Mrs. Derese later pleaded guilty to lesser charges of murder and agreed to testify for the state in McManus' trial. She is to be sentenced later.

The state contends McManus and Mrs. Derese conspired to kill the Cantrells for estate and insurance money.

Mrs. Derese testified Wednesday McManus threatened her and her son, Chad, 3, after telling her he and two other men had killed her parents.

"He told me to keep my mouth shut and not to crack," she said. "He told me if I told anybody I would be killed or my son would be killed."

She said McManus told her he picked up two men at a Baytown apartment. He said one wore a beard, but it could have been a disguise.

She said he told her he had a .38 caliber pistol pointed at him by them and was "made to dance like a puppet."

She testified he told her the Cantrells were hit with a pipe and then strangled.

Mrs. Derese cried briefly as she described finding her dead parents.

She said McManus badgered her constantly with telephone calls—even leading to her firing from a job—yet she continued to talk with him when McManus discussed killing her parents.

"You're really asking the jury to believe this?" defense lawyer Ron Smith. "Is this still your testimony?"

"That's it," she replied.

She said her only "encouragement" in the plan was keeping silent as McManus reeled off boasts of having found contract killers.

Attorneys for McManus lost a bid to introduce an unmailed letter from Mrs. Derese which allegedly showed she knew of another planned slaying scheme.

However, State District Judge I.D. McMaster ruled the letter inadmissible as evidence. He agreed with prosecutor Mike Hinton's contention that the letter, about three years old, had no bearing in the McManus' trial.

Weeds on Lake Marvin to be treated in May

The Black Kettle National Grassland, in cooperation with the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, will start an aquatic weed control program on Lake Marvin beginning May 17.

Fishing will be permitted 10 days after treatment. Other water uses, such as wading, cooking, bathing and drinking will be prohibited for a 30 day period. Signs will be installed around the lake as a precautionary measure to notify people of the chemical treatment.

In the earlier years weeds were removed from the lake by mechanical methods. More recent treatments have included the use of chemicals as a means of removing unwanted vegetation. This year, a chemical registered with and approved by the United States Environmental Protection Agency will be applied.

Daniel said that the treatment will be applied to only twenty per cent of the Lake Marvin area and that will be predominately on the shoreline. He said that removal of the aquatic vegetation will increase the recreation appeal of Lake Marvin for both swimmers and fishermen. "Once the treated weeds have decomposed, we expect the fisheries quality to increase and the aesthetic qualities of the Lake will also be enhanced," said Daniel.

Although the chemical is safe for its designed use, some precautions are necessary following application, he said. Lake Marvin will be closed to all water related activities for 10 days following treatment.

Fishing will be permitted 10 days after treatment. Other water uses, such as wading, cooking, bathing and drinking will be prohibited for a 30 day period. Signs will be installed around the lake as a precautionary measure to notify people of the chemical treatment.

Fish controversy hooks Senate

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The redfish controversy, one that has had sportsmen shouting at commercial fishermen, was back in the Senate's net Wednesday.

Senators must now decide whether to accept the House's total rewrite of the bill that started in the Senate.

As passed by the House, it sets a 200-pound daily limit on redfish catches by commercial fishermen until October 1978.

when the Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission could set a new limit.

Before House members approved it on voice vote, they heard opponents repeat their claim that it would put many small fishing boats out of business.

Sport fishermen claim the bill is needed because redfish are disappearing from Texas bays.

The House passed, 125-8, and sent to the Senate a bill validating the Texas Aeronautics Commission decision to allow Southwest Airlines to fly passengers between Dallas Love Field and Austin, Lubbock, Midland-Odessa, Corpus Christi and El Paso.

Rep. Jim Kaster, D-El Paso, said the purpose of the bill is to allow Southwest to operate the flights pending the outcome of Fort Worth's lawsuit challenging the decision.

Fort Worth wants Southwest placed under orders to use Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport.

Black Rep. Paul Ragsdale, D-Dallas, won tentative approval, 81-57, of his House bill creating a state equal employment opportunity commission.

Debate of the bill added to the strain of Dallas Rep. Clay Smothers' relations with his fellow black representatives.

Ragsdale's bill would set up an equal employment opportunity division within the Texas Department of Labor and Standards. Its executive director would have broad power to hear complaints and resolve them.

His decisions could be appealed to a district court.

"This bill seeks and finds race problems and... might very well create some race problems or manufacture some," Smothers, a conservative, said in arguing against the bill.

He said affirmative action "doesn't protect the rights of the individual who has striven all his life to make his business work" and asserted that discrimination complaints sometimes are filed by persons who were fired for good reason.

Ragsdale said employment discrimination is "a critical problem... not only in state government but in Texas generally," with 5,400 complaints now pending before the federal EEOC.

After the final vote on the bill, Rep. Ron Wilson, D-Houston, moved to have Smothers' remarks transcribed and recorded in the journal, and the House agreed.

Wilson later asked the House to reconsider and not record Smothers' speech in the journal.

Rep. Anthony Hall, D-Houston, objected and remarked that Smothers is "a minority, or at least many people consider him that."

Smothers said he wasn't ashamed of anything he had said against Ragsdale's bill and asked Wilson just to let the prior motion stand.

Nixon speechwriter calls resigning 'bizarre'

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent
WASHINGTON (AP) — In the incredible archives of Richard M. Nixon, there are few items so bizarre as his story of the day he told his speechwriter to decide whether he should resign the presidency.

The speechwriter recalls the episode just as Nixon recounted it in the latest of his tapes, this one made for television. Raymond K. Price Jr. said he found it fantastic, too. It is not the normal work of presidential speechwriters to decide what their bosses should do, only how they should sound.

And it defies belief to think that Nixon would have read himself out of office even if the line had been there.

Speechwriters are supposed to be more invisible than ghostwriters, heard and not seen. President Carter has a stable of five speechwriters to draft his addresses. It is not a very busy shop. Carter turns to his wordsmiths on major addresses, but he tends to speak off the cuff, or from sketchy notes, on other occasions.

In Nixon's time, the White House speechwriters cranked out prose for almost every event. Prose, and more, by Nixon's account.

It was April 29, 1973, he was about to fire H.R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman, and Price came in with the final draft of his speech.

"And I said to him, 'Ray,' I said, 'if you think I oughta resign, I said, 'put that in, too, because I feel responsible.' Even though I did not feel that I had, ah, engaged in these activities consciously...."

"Well, he didn't put it in. And, ah, I must say that at that time, I seriously considered whether I shouldn't resign."

Price, astounded at the suggestion, never really considered writing such a line into the speech. "You have to remember that it was a very emotional time," he says now. Nixon survived another 15 months in office before announcing, in a speech crafted by Ray Price, that he would resign on Aug. 9, 1974.

None of this is to suggest that Nixon would have quit earlier if he'd found the line in his speech text. Ehrlichman says that when he was being fired, Nixon gave no hint that he had thought of resigning.

And a president who really wants to stand aside doesn't need a speechwriter. When Lyndon B. Johnson announced that he would not run again in 1968, he read from a brief statement he'd had in his pocket for months.

Top court rules against 33 Beaumont policemen

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The Texas Supreme Court Wednesday ruled that 33 Beaumont policemen are not entitled to longevity raises that were frozen by the city council in a 1974 economy move.

It upheld, without writing a new opinion, a decision of the Beaumont Court of Civil Appeals.

John Randall Bond and others challenged the freeze in their suit.

The council voted an across-the-board 10 per cent salary increase for all employees, including policemen, on Oct. 1, 1974. Two days later, in recognition of the strain on the city budget, it passed another ordinance blocking automatic longevity raises for patrolmen.

Ordinarily, a patrolman's pay would jump automatically after six months and 18 months of service.

A trial judge ruled the policemen were entitled to the longevity raises as they came up. He cited a statute saying that all policemen in the same classification should be paid the same, plus longevity and educational incentive pay to which they are entitled.

But the appeals court ruled 2-1 that no policemen were entitled to the automatic raises on the day the ordinance took effect, so there was no vested right involved.

It said the policemen had not cited any authority "which would deny to a home rule city the right to reduce the salary of an employee when such can be done without discrimination," nor which gave the policemen a vested right "to receive periodic salary increase from the public treasury."

TIA gets federal loan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Department of Transportation Wednesday guaranteed 90 per cent of a 10-year, $9.54 million loan to Texas International Airlines to purchase three used DC9 jet airliners.

Texas International is buying two DC9s from Trans World Airlines and one from North Central Airlines. Two of the aircraft will be delivered this month and the third in September.

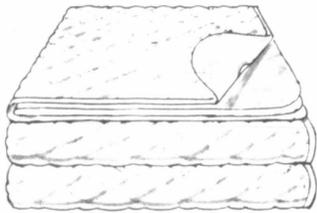

Under the Aircraft Loan

Guaranty Act, the Federal Aviation Administration is authorized to extend such guarantees when local service airlines or small certificated carriers are unable to obtain conventional loans on reasonable terms.

The loan is being made by the United States Trust Co. of New York, as trustee for the Dollar Savings Bank of New York and the Chase Manhattan Bank, the institutions providing the funds.

Average American income jumps up

By LARRY MARGASAK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — If you fit the government's description of an average American, your income increased by 9.1 per cent last year, and you gained a step on inflation.

government measured inflation for the same 12 months at 4.8 per cent.

Residents of Hawaii, Montana, Nebraska, North Dakota and South Dakota lost ground to inflation during the year, the government said. But elsewhere the news for consumers was good.

The highest per capita income in the nation was the $10,178 in Alaska. The lowest was $4,575 in Mississippi.

personal income as wages and salaries, interest, dividends and Social Security benefits.

Meanwhile, a second set of figures showed Americans are spending increasing portions of their money on transportation.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said American families spent more money in 1973 on transportation than they did on food.

Transportation accounted for 21 per cent of family spending in 1973, compared with 15 per cent in 1960-1961. Food, which accounted for 20.1 per cent of spending in 1973, took 24.4 per cent of a family's money in 1960-1961, the government said.

The figure, adjusted for seasonal variations and trading day differences, was 11 per cent higher than in April, 1975.

A spokesman said the figures do not reflect fully higher gasoline prices, which began a sharp rise in late 1973 with the Arab oil embargo.

In other economic developments Tuesday: —The Commerce Department said retail stores reported sales of about $58.4 billion during April, virtually the same amount as the month before.

—The House Banking Committee voted 36-1 to extend the Council on Wage and Price Stability for two years. Top administration economists, urging the extension, said the council would be assigned new duties to provide early warnings of problems that could heighten inflation.

Concorde okayed for Kennedy stops

NEW YORK (AP) — A federal judge ruled today that a ban on landings of the supersonic Concorde jetliners at Kennedy airport was illegal.

U.S. Dist. Judge Milton Pollock granted a request by British Airways and Air France to lift the temporary ban ordered by the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey.

But the judge did not order that the planes immediately be allowed to start landing at Kennedy Airport.

The Port Authority had temporarily banned the fast but noisy plane from landing at Kennedy pending evaluation of noise, vibration and pollution data.

The Concorde has been flying into Dulles International Airport outside Washington since May 1976 under an order from former U.S. Transportation Secretary William Coleman for a 16-month test.

Concorde interests went to court to overturn the Port Authority ban here, claiming federal commitments pre-empted the powers of the regional agency.

If current growth rates continue, Mexico's population of 83 million will double in 20 years.

Garcia dismantles bill after mysterious note

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Rep. Matt Garcia argued long and hard Wednesday to force a horse race gambling bill out of committee then abruptly gave up. He said he quit because he got a note.

But who wrote the note? Garcia moved to instruct the House Committee on Intergovernmental Affairs to report to the floor a bill allowing horse race betting on a local option basis, with state regulation.

"Those people who are interested in having horse racing in Texas are entitled to have a vote on it this session," he said.

Rep. Gib Lewis, D-Fort Worth, committee chairman, said the reason the bill had not come to a vote "is because many of you have local bills (in the panel) that you desperately want passed." Such bills are a prime responsibility of Lewis' committee.

Rep. John Wilson, D-La Grange, said, "I guarantee you the architects of the motion are two men sitting in the gallery" — horse racing lobbyist Bill Pumprey and another leader in the fight for legalized horse race betting.

After further argument, Garcia abruptly withdrew his motion to instruct.

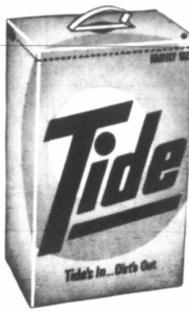

He told reporters he did so because Rep. Leonard Briscoe, D-Fort Worth, "brought me up a message" from one of the two lobbyists. He displayed a handwritten note saying, "Withdraw your motion."

Briscoe said, however, he wrote the note himself and, "I don't take instructions." He then went back to Garcia and said, "What's wrong with you, man?"

He showed reporters that the note was written on the back of a form used to notify House members that a visitor is waiting outside the chamber. The form was made out to Briscoe and said "Mr. Pumprey" wished to speak with him.

Rives, Moon in Pampa for Optimist Youth Club

Opening ceremonies for the Pampa Optimist Youth Club summer season will be Saturday beginning at 6:30 p.m. at Optimist Park and two professional athletes will be in Pampa for the event.

Chicago Bear Don Rives will come over from Dumas where he lives during the off season and works as vice president of Apollo Energy, an independent natural gas and oil company.

Rives grew up in Wheeler and played fullback for Wheeler High School. He went to Texas Tech on a football scholarship and was moved to middle guard in his sophomore year. He was a starter in his sophomore, junior and senior years.

Drafted by the Chicago Bears in 1973, Rives will begin his fifth year as a pro-football player in July. He is a middle linebacker. Former major league baseball player Wally Moon also will be here Saturday. He currently is director of athletics and baseball coach at John Brown University in Siloam Springs, Ark.

Moon graduated in 1961 from Texas A&M and received a master of education degree there the following year.

In 1964, his first year with the St. Louis Cardinals, Moon was named Rookie of the Year in the National League.

Traded to the Los Angeles Dodgers in 1969, Moon led that team to World Series Championships in 1969, 1983 and 1985. He was named to three National League All-Star Teams — 1967, 1969 and 1985.

Moon was inducted into the Arkansas Hall of Fame in 1969, the same year he re-entered major league baseball — as batting coach with the San Diego Padres. He also is a member of the Texas A&M Hall of Fame.

Last fall Moon purchased the San Antonio franchise in the Texas League, affiliated with the Los Angeles Dodgers. His son, Wally Joe Moon, is general manager of the team.

The program Saturday will include introduction of the league presidents by Warren Hasse and the presidents will introduce the teams and coaches — Farm League, Robert Douglas; National League, Bob Lowrance; American League, T.V. Lowrance; Babe Ruth League, John McGuire; and Girl Softball Teams, Marylyn Kidwell, president.

Jessie Watson will introduce the 1976 Babe Ruth Queen, Kim Morrison, and the 1977 queen candidates and their mothers.

in front of his dressing cubicle exhausted, but with a look of deep satisfaction etched on his face.

"It was unreal, but I just knew if I could get back to familiar surroundings I would play well and so would the team," Lucas said Wednesday night after he had quarterbacked the Rockets to a 118-94 victory over Philadelphia in their National Basketball Association playoff series.

Criticized for his inability to control the tempo in two previous losses to the Sixers, Lucas had his hand on the pulse of the game all the way Wednesday as the Rockets narrowed Philadelphia's lead to 2-1 in the best of seven Eastern Conference championship series.

"Tonight we could dictate a little more what was happening," said Lucas, a rookie from Maryland. "When you get the lead you can have something to say about what to do."

The Rockets got the early lead in a big way, zooming to a 21-8 lead with 5:39 left in the quarter and it was Lucas who led them there, hitting 10 points in the first quarter.

Lucas drove for the basket and hit the first two points of the game and the Rockets were in the lead from start to finish finally slowing down the finely tuned 76ers' running game.

"We didn't do anything different, we just played our game," Rockets Coach Tom Nissalke said. "We were able to keep Mo (Malone) and Kevin (Kunnert) in there for awhile. Usually Kunnert will wind up with five fouls and we have to get him out."

But this time Kunnert didn't get into foul trouble, and in fact, played a key role in keeping the 76ers from getting into their fast break offense.

"Kunnert was hitting that little short jump shot over the middle and C.J. (Caldwell Jones) was having to go over and guard him." Sixer forward George McGinnis said. "That keeps us from getting the fast break going."

The Rockets led 33-20 by the end of the first quarter and expanded it to a 59-41 margin by halftime. Their 13-point first quarter lead was their biggest of the series to that point.

Philadelphia made one run at the Rockets when they outscored Houston 15-3 in the first four minutes of the third quarter.

Bobick bobbled title try

NEW YORK (AP) — Ken Norton, after destroying previously unbeaten Duane Bobick in less than one minute, probably will fight world heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali for the title at Rio de Janeiro later this year.

Bob Biron, Norton's manager, said today on NBC's "Today" show that contracts for the fight have been signed with TNT Productions and the company has an option until May 28 to complete the negotiations for the scheduled 15-round bout.

"If they come through with the money, we will honor that contract," Biron said, while appearing on the early morning program with his fighter.

Biron also said that he and Norton would hold a press conference in New York later today at which time they would release telegrams to boxing's two major governing bodies — the World Boxing Association and the World Boxing Council — asking them to require Ali to defend his title against the No. 1 challenger.

"After last night (Wednesday, when Norton smashed Bobick into submission), Kenny has to be the No. 1 challenger," said Biron.

The dapper manager said he would ask the WBA and WBC to give him 30 days to negotiate with the Ali camp. "We will have Ali in the ring before the end of the year," he added.

Ali is scheduled to defend his title Monday night against lightly regarded Alfredo Evangelista in the Capital Centre at Landover, Md.

A Norton-Ali bout would be their fourth. Reportedly, it will be held in September.

In their last meeting, a title fight at New York's Yankee Stadium last September, Ali won a disputed 15-round decision.

"My attitude about it is $2.5 million and the crown," Norton said about the upcoming bout. "Of course, Ali will get most of the money."

Against Bobick, Norton, weighing 222½ pounds, came out swinging. His first punch, a right, caught Bobick in the throat, and that was it. A couple more rights landed, and Bobick toppled to the canvas. He reached his feet at the count of nine, but referee Peter Della stopped the contest. 58 seconds into the first round.

Texas League roundup

By The Associated Press Bob Slater soloed a homer and followed it with a single and a double as El Paso mowed down Amarillo 8-2 in a Texas League baseball game Wednesday.

Opti-Mrs. softball results

Opti-Mrs. Girls Softball League competition this week included a win by B and L Trucking over R.L. Gordy Trucking by a score of 17 to 12.

Winning pitchers in that game were Debbie Albin and Karen Ladd. Meganne Walsh tossed for the losing team.

Don Riddle Machine Works beat Copan 40-1, winning pitcher Jeanna Porter, losing pitcher Ladiana Hunnicutt.

Brown Shoes beat Malcolm Hinkle 16-7, Kelli McKnight winning pitcher, Laurie Comer losing pitcher.

Amarillo took a 2-0 lead early in the first inning, but their luck changed abruptly when El Paso camp to bat Slater's homer put El Paso on the scorecard in the first and Carney Langford popped a three-run homer in the third to insure the lead.

In other Texas League action, Arkansas leveled Tulsa 11-3, Shreveport edged Jackson 5-3, and a scheduled game between Midland and San Antonio was postponed due to rain.

Arkansas racked up the runs while pitcher Len Strelitz held Tulsa at bay until the eighth inning, when the Drillers rallied for three points. Strelitz is now 3-2 while losing pitcher Paul Mirabella slipped to 2-4.

Don Robinson picked up his fourth triumph without a loss as Shreveport scored four unearned runs in the first and held on to defeat Jackson. Losing pitcher Greg Harris slipped to 1-3.

New coach leaves; another already picked

CANADIAN (Sp) — Jimmy Duncan, the new head high school football coach, resigned Tuesday. No reason was given for the resignation, but it was reported that Duncan is returning to Vega, where he'd been before recently accepting the Canadian position.

Canadian school officials have named a replacement for Duncan, who had replaced Jack Hawthorne. Tommy Jackson has verbally agreed to sign a two-year contract.

Jackson has compiled a 19-21 record as coach at Electra High School.

He is a 1964 graduate of Oklahoma State University and was voted the most valuable player on the OSU football team in 1963.

Boy maced after letter

By MILLER BONNER
Associated Press Writer
BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — David Baldwin's eye is blackened and his father's face glows beet-red when discussing a recent tear gas incident involving the 14-year-old boy.

"Last week, a boy called David out back to fight," said Elton Baldwin, an independent contractor at the Port of Brownsville whose letter to the U.S. Attorney in Houston launched a federal investigation at the port. "I went with David to ask the kid why my son had been harassed so much at school. The kid ran and David took out after him. After a brief chase, Baldwin said, the other juvenile reached into a drainage pipe, pulled out a small can and sprayed David in the face with tear gas.

"David passed out and fell to his knees," Baldwin said. "Then the kid sprayed him again."

Investigating officers, however, said the tear gas attack on young Baldwin was "in no way connected with his father's problems at the port."

"If it hadn't been for nurse (Ruth) Preston bathing David's eyes before the ambulance arrived, the doctor said he probably would have been blinded," said Baldwin. "The doctor said it was tear gas."

"The officers told me tear gas can't be bought in stores," continued Baldwin, his tanned face growing steadily redder. "Where in the hell did he get it... and why would he do such a thing?"

Asked if he blamed factions at the port for his son's situation, Baldwin said: "I'm going to answer that just like I answered the sheriff: I don't know. I don't know where to put the blame. I'm not putting the blame on any one person but it ceases to be a coincidence that his (David's) harassment started after I wrote the letter against the port."

The day after the tear gas incident, port equipment showed stacks of debris from the banks of the ballast pits where Baldwin works trying to extract oil from the man-made ponds into the pit near Baldwin's pumps.

"That was trash I had pulled out of the pit after it had clogged my pumps," Baldwin said. "It had been there four years and nobody said anything about it."

"We had a small fire at the port not long ago," said Al Cisneros, the port's director. "The Coast Guard told us to get rid of any fire hazards. That trash is very oily and flammable. Besides, the pit is for oily trash... that's where it belongs."

"The port isn't trying to harass anybody," continued Cisneros. "We feel the situation with Mr. Baldwin is very unfortunate."

Baldwin wrote a letter last month to the U.S. Attorney outlining various allegations against the port and requesting federal protection.

U.S. Attorney Edward B. McDonough Jr. responded with a letter dated April 27 which stated:

"Since these (Baldwin's allegations) represent information furnished us in connection with a federal investigation, this office would regard any attempt to injure, threaten, coerce or retaliate against you by reason of such information, or any attempt to hinder or prevent the giving of, or influence the content of possible further information or testimony which you may give, as a potential obstruction of justice, a serious federal crime."

"If anything of this nature occurs, please advise this office immediately."

McDonough said Tuesday he was sure his office had been notified of the tear gas incident but had no comment on it or the port situation citing a "pending investigation."

Baldwin said his son was forced to wear patches over both eyes for about 15 hours. "he has some nearsightedness which the doctor said was normal in a case like this," he said.

School officials said David and the other juveniles involved were not "problem students."

Asked if David had been the subject of harassment, one school official replied: "No, no. I'm with the kids every day. I'm very sorry anything like this happened, but when kids are growing up, anything can develop over a very minor incident."

Good spring weather put new life in wheat

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Good weather this spring pumped as much new life into the 1977 winter wheat crop that the harvest probably will be substantially better than many forecasters predicted last winter.

The Agriculture Department said Tuesday that this year's harvest, based on May 1 computations, will be almost 1.48 billion bushels, down 6 per cent from 1976 production but 3 per cent more than the department initially predicted last December.

An estimate of 1977 spring-planted wheat production will be announced in July, but officials think that if farmers get good weather an output of around 500 million bushels is possible.

So, if things go right, total wheat production this year could be close to two billion bushels, not far below the record harvest of 2.1 billion bushels in 1976, and add further to the growing U.S. wheat stockpile.

Last year's record wheat crop included about 1.57 billion bushels of winter wheat and 581 million of spring wheat.

The winter wheat crop in Kansas, the leading producer, was estimated as of May 1 at 384 million bushels, compared with 339 million in 1976 and just a shade less than the all time record of 384.8 million bushels harvested in 1973, according to USDA records.

Officials said the 1977 average yield per harvested acre nationally is estimated at 30.9 bushels, compared with 31.6 bushels an acre last year and 32.1 in 1975.

The department's Crop Reporting Board said the winter wheat crop perked up "as a result of substantially improved moisture conditions, principally during March and April, and by May 1 mostly was in good condition except in drought areas of California and the Pacific Northwest."

As a result of the recent large crops, the U.S. wheat reserve stockpile has grown and by June 1 is expected to exceed 1.1 billion bushels, the most since the early 1960's. A year ago it was 664 million.

Consequently, wheat prices have dropped sharply and averaged $2.41 a bushel as of April 15 on the farm, compared with $3.50 a year ago, according to USDA.

The report Tuesday also showed that as of May 1:

—Orange production is estimated at 254.6 million boxes, down one million boxes from the April estimate, but still 5 per cent more than last season.

—Peach output in the nine southern states is forecast at 643.5 million pounds, up 23 per cent from last year and the most in the region since 1968.

—Spring potato output, estimated at 22.7 million hundredweight, is up 6 per cent from prospects in April but still 8 per cent down from 24.8 million produced in 1976.

—Stocks of hay on farms are estimated at 19.6 million tons, down 23 per cent from 25.6 million on May 1, 1976.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland isn't saying so directly, but admits under questioning that he has reservations about some provisions of the Beef Research and Information Act now being considered by cattle producers.

The act provides that producers, if they approve, would be billed $30 million to $40 million a year to carry out projects aimed at improving beef and convincing consumers that they should eat more of it.

Bergland was asked by reporters whether he would vote for the beef program if he were still actively farming.

"I've never raised any beef cattle," Bergland responded. An aide chimed in: "He's in the grass business." Bergland, as a farmer in northern Minnesota, raised wheat and lawn seed.

"What if they had a grass referendum built like the beef referendum?" asked a reporter.

"If there were a grass seed referendum built like the beef referendum, then I would vote no," Bergland replied.

Bergland added that "I'm very much opposed to using producers' monies to finance consumer advertising. I've never been for that."

However, Bergland said, if such programs — including other commodities such as eggs, pork and cotton — were designed in such ways as to bring larger benefits to producers and consumers through research and information "that's another matter. I'm for that kind of thing."

But Bergland said that when such programs turn into what he called consumer advertising "it becomes an advertising bonanza" with producers paying the bill.

Cattle producers will vote in the near future on whether to approve the program. Under it, they would be charged assessments equal to three-tenths of 1 per cent of the value of all cattle sold to finance the program. At least two-thirds of those voting must approve the plan before it could be put into effect.

which will end Sept. 30, the department's Outlook and Situation Board says.

But if drought and other weather problems interfere, and the world grain crop is affected, corn prices at the farm in the 1977-78 marketing year "would likely average 25 to 50 cents a bushel" above this season's market. That would mean a corn price in the range of $2.50 to $2.75 a bushel for next fall's crop.

"While final outcomes are uncertain, the generally improved moisture conditions suggest that at this time the odds favor another large U.S. feed grain crop," the board said in a preliminary report.

Counts added for Yarbrough

HOUSTON (AP) — The State Bar of Texas has added 11 more counts to a disbarment lawsuit against Texas Supreme Court Justice Donald B. Yarbrough.

The amended pleading filed Wednesday alleged Yarbrough committed perjury in a trial last January. The new counts brought the number of allegations of fraud, professional-misconduct and violations of state and federal laws pending against Yarbrough to 84.

The new counts center around a Harris County civil court-at-law trial here in January in which Houston builder R. E. Blue Jr. claimed Yarbrough owed him $1,472 for construction of bookcases for Yarbrough's lawbooks.

The Cheese Chalet, owned and operated by Lynn and Jane Stafford, now is open at 729 N. Hobart. The Staffords said they hope to offer about 30 varieties of cheese and also have many kinds of wine and beers. A liquor permit also has been approved at the local level and Stafford said he expects soon to have his stocking completed as planned when he first began construction on the store about a year ago.

Tempers flare in Senate

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The bill was dead anyway, says Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, so he saw no reason to allow Sen. Bill Patman to waste the Senate's time by talking about it.

Patman accused Hobby of giving a loan bill "every break in the world" Tuesday after Hobby refused three times to let Patman speak against it.

In the tradition-conscious Senate, Hobby's refusal was considered an insult.

"If he (Hobby) wants to take the side of the loan sharks, he ought to get on the bill as a co-sponsor in fact as well as in deed," said the furious Patman.

Hobby, the Senate's presiding officer, said he would not permit Patman to talk because "I didn't want to waste the time of the Senate."

He said the bill raising rates on $100-$300 loans was dead anyway, because sponsoring Sen. Grant Jones, D-Abilene, had "pulled it down."

Hobby said, however, he could never recall shutting off a senator as he had done Patman.

"It was a grossly excessive use of power and arrogance," Patman said.

Hobby talked to reporters near the podium after the Senate adjourned while Patman, leaning against the press table about 15 feet away, also was being interviewed. Neither looked at the other.

The controversy first erupted on the floor when Patman, D-Ganado, asked his colleagues to send Jones' bill back to the Senate Economic Development Committee, which had approved it.

Patman contends that the bill will set up "exorbitant rates."

Jones countered by saying rates are so low now on $100-$300 loans that borrowers cannot get such loans and are being forced to go to the "black market," where rates run as high as 1,300 per cent.

Jones said the lenders seeking the increase "basically are people on your main street and my main street across the state."

Hobby took a voice vote on Patman's motion and, slamming his gavel, said the motion had failed.

Patman had a news release distributed within minutes calling the Jones bill a "tragedy."

Utah polygamist murdered

By DAVE BRISCOE
Associated Press Writer
MURRAY, Utah (AP) — Two dark-haired, heavy-set women in their 20s walked into an office and calmly shot to death a surgeon who claimed to have at least six wives and 40 children, police said.

Dr. Rulon Allred, 71, a neuropathic surgeon and admitted polygamist, died Tuesday in his office in this Salt Lake City suburb. Police said seven shots were fired from two handguns.

Police Sgt. Paul Forbes said several persons, including members of Allred's staff, were in the doctor's waiting room when the women entered sometime after 4:45 p.m.

Officials said they were told the patients and nurses heard several shots and then saw two women leave and walk around a nearby home.

No one else was injured and no arrests were made, police said.

Police said they questioned members of Allred's large family.

Authorities declined officially to identify Allred as the victim.

But several officers, neighbors and Allred's landlady confirmed he was killed.

Two years ago, The Associated Press interviewed Allred for a story about polygamists, but he was not named in the story at his request.

In that interview, Allred said members of his family were among 35,000 Fundamentalist Mormons. He and other polygamists were excommunicated from the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormon) for polygamy, which the church banned in the late 1800s.

Allred had taken the reporter to visit three of his wives in separate Salt Lake City homes. He said then he was talking openly about polygamy partly because of two murders in Mexico linked with the polygamist Church of the First Born in the Fullness of Time.

KUTV reporter Lucky Severson said Allred told him in interviews two years ago he might be a target of rival polygamist groups, but did not say which ones.

Severson, who broadcast several reports on an investigation of polygamy in the West, described Allred as the leader of the second largest group of polygamists in the nation.

Some, said Severson, believed Allred was a prophet.

Allred was imprisoned during anti-polygamy campaigns earlier in his life.
