

PROUD RECORD - Muleshoe Fire Department, all volunteers, has rung up an enviable record under direction of Earl Ladd (top) who has been with the department here for more than 30 years. With Ladd in the lower picture is Jim Beller, one of more than 30 men who make up the corps. (Journal Photos)

Fire Department Whacks Fire Losses in Half

Muleshoe has a fire loss record of 51.66 percent, and in anybody's insurance catalogue, that's a darn good record. In fact, despite the growth of the town, fire losses are only about half as much as they were in 1960, and as a result, insurance premiums are down sharply, too.

These figures were pointed out this past week by Earl Ladd Sr., veteran fire chief here and a "smoke-eater" in Muleshoe for nearly 35 years.

"Wonderful bunch of boys," he says proudly of his volunteer firemen. And they say the same thing for the chief, too.

"He eats 4, sleeps it — we have firefighting around the clock," speaks up Mrs. Ladd. Although he's mighty proud of the equipment — most of it assembled right here in the fire station — he's proudest of that insurance record. The figures go something like this: In 1960, insurance premiums amounted to $775,554 and the losses that year were $21,244. The next year losses were whittled by almost a half — down to $12,944 and insurance premiums amounted to $67,672.

By 1962, premiums had dropped to $62,716 and losses were only $10,792. In 1963, premium payments amounted to $58,026 and losses totaled $10,091.

Last year they were up slightly — to $11,166 — but insurance costs continued to drop, skidding to $47,734. Or, totaling it all up, Muleshoe folk have paid $313,702 in premiums since 1960 and total fire losses have been $160,147.

"Fire-fighting has changed a lot during the 30 - odd years that I have been a 'fire-eater'," muses the chief. "Used to, we would go in and squirt water everywhere without even looking to see where the blaze was coming from. As a result, water damage frequently was as great and sometimes greater — than the fire loss."

"Nowadays we go into the building first and try to locate the seat of the fire. There are actually blazes these days that we put out with only five gallons or so of water. The losses are much less that way."

Actually, the department here has fought two blazes in its own territory and one at Causey, N. M., a school house blaze.

But serving on the volunteer staff is not just grabbing a hose and squirting water in all four directions. "Far from it," says Ladd. "The state requires that each man have a minimum of four hours training per month — and that's not including time spent in actual fire-fighting."

"I figured it up and came up with 1776 man hours per year. Then in 1964, we spent 1600 man

hours. See LOSSES, Page 5

Planning Commission to Delve Into 'Master Plan' Possibility; Other Cities' Methods Studied

Muleshoe Planning commission will study "master plan" systems being used in several West Texas cities in an effort to decide whether such a project would be feasible here, it was announced Saturday following a meeting of the commission.

Friday the planning commission members went to Littlefield to delve into that city's master plan operation, and next Wednesday they will go to Pampa to confer with Tulsa's former city manager, Jim White who was instrumental in setting up such a program when he was at Pampa.

The planning commission spent much of its meeting time this past week, going over all phases of the planning program, including the so-called master plan system. The city council had asked that the planning commission investigate the possibility of a master plan here.

Many area towns have adopted such systems, including Littlefield and Kermit to mention two towns in West Texas which correspond with Muleshoe's size. The Kermit plan has been in operation for several years, and already has carried out several phases of the long-range program of city development.

Roy Davis, acting secretary of the planning commission said that a "comprehensive plan for future city development will be studied by the planning group, the study being made at the council's request."

"We plan to gather all the data we can on such organizations," Davis said. "We want to know what items were included in the program, and how the work is progressing. Also we want to know whether work done so far in these cities has been successful."

Master Plans, it was pointed out, include all phases of city development, including such things as business developments, shopping centers, street improvements, possible by-passes, lighting, sewerage, parks, and beautification.

If the planning commission here reaches the conclusion that such a program would be of aid here, it will recommend that a consulting firm, experienced in such matters, be hired. See COMMISSION, Page 8

Construction is due to start tomorrow on three new duplexes at 17th street just south of Richland Hills Baptist Church, it was announced Saturday.

The elaborate new duplexes will be built by Dr. Armando C. Duran, Lubbock, with Melvin Smith & Associates, also of Lubbock, as the contractors.

The new duplexes will each contain 1100 square feet, and will be built of brick with stone facade and trim across the front.

Each unit will have cathedral type ceiling in the living area, with central heat and refrigerated air conditioning. Each also will be provided with a carport and each unit will have its own private fenced back yard. Dr. Duran said.

Dr. Duran said he and his associates are "contemplating" several other units of a like nature in Muleshoe. They have built a number of projects in Lubbock, including several nursing homes.

Dr. Duran said he expects to have the units completed and ready for occupancy within 90 days.

Each apartment will have electric range and oven, garbage disposer and other modern features built in, but will not be furnished. Vinyl flooring will be used throughout.

Financing was arranged through Don Harmon at the Tri-County Savings and Loan Co. in Muleshoe.

The builder says the new duplexes "will have an entirely different frontal pattern, which will make them distinctive for duplexes." He adds: "In fact the entire architecture is entirely different from any home in Muleshoe at present."

Nobody, But Nobody Votes Absentee Yet

Interest in two early April elections here apparently is only lukewarm.

The indication of lack of interest is based on the fact that through Friday, not a single absentee vote had been cast, either for school board posts or for the city council.

Absentee voting period for both elections started this past week. Absentee voting for school board positions ends Tuesday, March 30, while absentee period for city council races ends April 2.

"We are not surprised at the lack of a rush to vote in the school election," says Hazel Gilbreath, county district clerk. "It's usually the last day or two of the period before absentee voting picks up."

However, we do usually have a few votes by this time."

Absentee voting for the council races can be done at the City Hall.

School board election is slated for Saturday, April 3 in the junior high school library, and the city council election is scheduled for the following Tuesday, April 6, in the City Hall.

Four persons are seeking school board posts, and three have tossed their hats into the ring for council berths.

Incumbent Rudolph Wiedebush will face Royce Garth for council, but Matt Dudley, only other incumbent whose term is ending this year, is unopposed.

School board candidates, on the other hand, run "at large," with two men who receive the greatest number of votes winning positions. Candidates include the incumbents, John Smith and Ralph Douglas, and Vic Benedict and E. A. Bradley.

In order to vote persons casting ballots must have paid their poll taxes or secured exemptions before Feb. 1. Poll tax payments were relatively high for an "off" election year, Jean Lovelady, county assessor-collector, reported. Some 1000 persons would be eligible to vote in the Muleshoe school district election, and possibly as many as 700 to 800 in the city election.

So far as is known now, the school board and council elections are the only elections slated for this year.

Spring Shivers In As Winter Returns

Old Man Winter took a long look at the calendar this past week and saw that his term in office was just about over. Accordingly, he mustered Jack Frost to his aid and stomped noisily back into the Panhandle for a farewell appearance.

The return engagement of the old fellow, who had been dozing comfortably for several days, roared in on the wings of a mild sand storm that kicked up dust and was followed by a thin layer of snow. In fact, O. M. Winter took two stabs at his snow business; he pulled his first snowball Thursday morning, following it with another burst Friday morning. Neither attempt, however, was good enough to cover the ground with snow, although the blast-See SPRING, Page 8

Bovine Man Tops Five-County Output of Sugar Beets for '64

Business was good for the first crop of locally processed sugar beets, says Holly Sugar Corp. manager at Hereford, Dexter Lillie.

And to a nearby grower goes the record yield. Grady Sorley, Bovina, was the top producer for the new Hereford plant. He produced 12,165 pounds of sugar beets per acre, and another Parmer county grower, O. L. Blake, Friona, was a close second, with 11,664 pounds to the acre.

The Hereford plant, known as the Merrill E. Shoup Plant in memory of its late board chairman, finished its first season recently when "slicing" of beets grown last year was completed.

Lillie said 19 contracts, produced between 10,000 and 11-1/2 pounds of sugar per acre, seven made 11,000 to 12,000, and one topped 12,000.

He explained that farmers who produce 10,000 or more pounds of sugar per acre are a rarity in the older sugar beet growing areas of the United States.

The Holly plant draws its sugar beets from four Texas counties — Deaf Smith, Parmer, Castro and Oldman counties in Texas and Curry county in New Mexico.

In the first year of Holly's sugar beet operation for its own area plant, nearly as many contracts were in the 10,000 pound per acre class as are found during a lifetime of sugar beet growing in the older areas. Lillie See BEETS, Page 8

Bank Employees Attend Women's Meet in Lamesa

Elizabeth Thomson, Billye Jones and Mildred Neely of the Muleshoe State Bank attended the Panhandle - West Texas group meeting of the national association of Bank Women in Lamesa, March 14 and 15.

Evelyn L. Worley, National President of the Association was the main speaker for both the evening and morning meetings. Her evening topic described the role of banks in todays business as she said "Our main aim in banking business today is to promote the fact that banks are today able to provide full service banking to our customers". Banks are no longer in the wholesale business but are in the retail business just like a department store or grocery store. There was a time when banks gave people what they wanted them to have, but today people are making demands and they demand to be sold the services they need. The banking industry, have to offer."

The Shumtown Symmetry, a very talented musical group formed and directed by G. R. Crawley, President of the First National Bank of Lamesa, furnished the group of some 125 NABW members and guests, a very enjoyable hour of entertainment.

"Never have we seen a town as a whole stand behind an organizational meeting such as this. They were assisted by all the banks, Chamber of Commerce, City officials and businesses in general. What a wonderful thing when such complete co-operation is attained. We were fortunate indeed to have been a part of this meeting," a spokesman said.

City School Head Given DE Award At State Meet

Kaye Beavers, Jackie Kemp, Sharon Tiller and Dusty Thomas, attended the annual state youth leadership conference of the Distributive Education clubs in Houston recently.

Superintendent Neal Dillman was one of five Texas Superintendents honored for outstanding work done in DE.

Also going to the state session were board members John Smith, C. V. Riley and Ralph Douglas. The welcome mat was out for the 1200 delegates, sponsors, and friends who converged on Houston. From El Paso to the West, Barger to the North, Texarkana to the East, Brownsville to the South, and all points between they came by train, plane, bus, and car to spend a busy weekend in Houston on Friday, March 5, at 11 p.m., the business meeting marked the official beginning of the conference — where student officers for the 1965 - 66 year were elected. That night the business speaking, job interview, ad layout and copywriting contests were held. Late to bed and early to rise found the students in the midst of the sales demonstration contest Saturday morning. Saturday night the highlight of the entire conference was the annual awards banquet. During the banquet, all contest and scholarship winners were recognized as well as business and school officials and legislators who have concerned themselves with the role of education in distribution. Festivities after the banquet included the crowning of the State Distributive Education Sweetheart.

nator of Muleshoe High School was the sponsor.

AWARD — Neal Dillman, superintendent of Muleshoe schools, was one of five Texas superintendents honored recently by the state distributive education division for outstanding work with DE. Here he shows the award to Wister Harrison.

Three huge swarms of locusts have been sighted recently in West Pakistan and one in East Africa's Somali Republic. Large numbers of mature locusts have gathered in Ethiopia and scattered bands are in North Africa.

Capri was once a Greek colony, but it belonged to the Republic of Naples when Augustus Caesar slopped there in 29 B. C. Legend holds that a withered oak sprouted new buds after the mperor landed. He was so pleased that he traded the larger island of Ischia for Capri, and used it as a vacation resort.

Losses

And for those who like to know they're getting their money's worth out of their tax dollars, Ladd has some pretty startling figures.

The department is operated on a budget of only $800 per year, and that's cheap in anybody's language. "And that includes replacement equipment and all," Ladd says with justifiable pride.

That record is possible because the department here buys its equipment "stripped" and then the volunteer firemen take it from there and turn out classy fire-fighting equipment.

Recently, for example, they've rebuilt one unit outright and built three new units. If somebody put a retail value on the fire-fighting equipment here, he would find that the light units would be worth about $7,300 each. One big unit would be worth $22,900 and another $12,000. Which is a lot of fire-fighting equipment to be bought and maintained out of an $8000 - a year budget.

There's another record of which the department is proud: That's its accident record. During the eight years that Ladd has been chief, there have been no serious injuries.

Ladd says the most costly blaze last year was a residence loss which had a payoff of $7,163.00, and the lowest loss — also covered by insurance — was only $8.87.

"We would like for ALL blazes to be reported to us," Ladd says. "We had much rather make a 'dry run' than not to know about the blaze. He says frequently small losses, those which are extinguished by the family themselves, are never reported. "We want to know about ALL fires, whether they did any damage or not," he sums up.

There have been many amusing experiences during Ladd's 30 odd years as a fireman. "Only at the time we are so busy that we don't have time to consider the humor of the situation. We save that for a coffee session after the fire has been extinguished."

He recalls, for instance, the time he was nearly drowned by a fellow fireman, an eager beaver.

"We were fighting a fire in a barn," Ladd reminisces.

"There were two of us up in the loft of the barn, fighting the blaze as its source. Well, somehow I managed to fall through the loft into the hay on the ground floor, and my companion became alarmed for fear I had fallen directly into the burning hay. He swung the hose around and squirted it full force directly into my face, and I nearly drowned before I could get out of the hay.

"To make it worse, I had on my very best suit at the time!" And there was also the time, three years ago, "When one of the trucks backed into an outdoor toilet and shoved it three or four feet. As it turned out, the Chic Sale building was occupied at the time."

TEA. Neal Dillman, superintendent, said all eight phases of the vocational program will be studied and decisions reached on areas that need improvement.

Possibilities here include agriculture, homemaking, distributive education, skilled occupations, technical occupations, business education, health and municipal services. The survey is to be completed by April 12.

"All these areas are fields in which training can be given profitably for the Muleshoe district," Dillman said, "and a change in the teaching program

Nine Students Attend TFTA Convention

Nine Muleshoe High School students attended the State Convention of the Texas Future Teachers of America in Houston March 12 and 13. More than four thousand students representing three hundred and eight schools were present at the 16th Annual TFTA State Convention. The representatives from Muleshoe attended such workshops as: Coaching, Parliamentary Procedure, College Preparation, and Money Making.

On Awards Night the Muleshoe chapter was presented a trophy for the third best Commercial Yearbook in the state. In this area there was no division of schools and Muleshoe was competing with Class A through Class AAAA schools. Those making the trip from Muleshoe were: Charles Murray, Joe Putman, Nime Ed Bovell, Sharon Siewert, Lanelle Spurgeon, Linda Johnson, Shirley Smallwood, Susan Pendargrass, and Linda Darnell. Their sponsor was Miss Glyna Masten.

 enced in such programs, be engaged to conduct the survey and later to draw up the actual plans for carrying out the program. Usually, Davis explained such programs are long-range in nature with the work being carried out on scheduled basis, step by step. City streets and by-passes were important items on Kermit's long-range program, for example, a drainage projects also have been projected far into the future.

"The entire purpose of the program," the planning commission secretary summed up, "is to plan for an orderly growth of the city with not a single street to be laid out that will not be needed in the future. We believe Muleshoe will continue to grow, and now is the time to look ahead and plan for that growth, the commission members feel."

The planning commission, recently re-activated, is headed by James Jennings. Others include Eddie Lane, Ben Yeager, M. D. Gunstream, Roy Davis, Lonnie Bass, Horace Holt, Bob Airhart and City Manager Albert Field. The group meets every month on the third Tuesday night.

At their meeting this past week, the planning commission also adopted a motion to investigate the desirability of extending the fire zone in the downtown area. They also approved opening an alley on 17th street, in Parkland Place, which had not previously been opened. The desirability of opening the alley, it was explained, is to permit garbage service to three new duplexes to be built in that area soon.

Spring

 ery try was sufficient at Lazbuddie to force an early closing of the school Thursday.

Spring, frilly lace dresses and all, shivered into West Texas Saturday night on time, but the stage was still set with winter scenes.

The thermometer dipped to the 20 mark both Thursday and Friday and to 8 Saturday. Farmers had welcomed the he explained. The 27,000-acre sugar area in Texas and New Mexico produced an average of 20 tons per acre with 17 percent sugar content.

Producing 100,000 to 11,000 pounds of sugar per acre were: G. E. Bailey, Durwood Bell, T. M. Caldwell, Albert Cannon, David Grimsley, John B. Taylor, Reuter & Gerk, Richard Picketts, L. L. Schultz, Fritz Smith, Iris Touchstone, B. E. Kendall, Hugh Reynolds, Howard N. Hayes, Herbert Friemel, Edwin Axe, Chester Clark and A. R. Dillard.

Producing 10,000 to 11,000 pounds were Sorley, Black Reuter & Gerk, Howard N. Hayes, John B. Taylor, Steve Struve, George E. Turentine, J. B. Harrell and Clyde Renfro.

snowfall, hoping it would be of sufficient quantity to add some much-needed moisture to this county's parched fields. The hope died a - burning.

Nevertheless, early vegetables, such as onions, went into the ground last weekend, ahead of winter's return.

Williams Rites Held In Muleshoe

Funeral services were held at the Muleshoe Church of Christ Thursday afternoon for George Johnson Williams, a blacksmith and welder at Needmore, who died at his home there Tuesday. Conducting were Lonzell Ross, New Home Church of Christ, and D. L. Thompson, Muleshoe Church of Christ minister. Burial was in Muleshoe cemetery with Singleton Funeral home in charge of arrangements. Survivors include his wife, Sue Williams, and a half brother, Frank Williams, Grassland. He was a member of the New Home Church of Christ and had moved to Needmore from New Home a year and a half ago.

Funeral services were D. E. Lightner, E. B. Wilson, Marshall Williams, J. R. Lee, J. L. Elmore, and Troy Paris.
