

$2.2 bond election to be Aug. 18

A $2.2 million bond issue for Pampa schools will be decided at the polls Aug. 18. Five of the seven Pampa school board members were present for a 7 a.m. meeting today to call the election for the purpose of the construction and equipment of school buildings in the Pampa Independent School District.

Bill Arrington, president of the board, and Buddy Epperson. The men met in Carver Center, 321 W. Albert. The $2.2 million will be spent to close Houston Middle School and repair the eight other schools in the district. Repairs will range from energy-saving measures to refinishing floors. According to the committee which studied needs for the improvements, the bond issue would create a $1.58 tax rate. Presently taxes are $1.62. Predicted maintenance and operating tax for next year would be $1.44 compared with present rate of $1.50. Predicted tax rate for the bonds would be 14 cents. Present bonds will be paid this summer. The polling place Aug. 18 will be the Pampa High School music building. Absentee votes may be cast in the school business office at Carver Center July 28 through Aug. 12.

After an executive session, the board accepted the resignation of Betty Henderson, junior high math teacher, and hired the following: Mary McGaughy, special ed at Travis; Andrena Keesee, speech therapy; Lorri Chambless, special ed at Lamar; Sara Siegel, special ed at Houston; Dianna Lemke, special ed at Baker; and Angela Hefner, special ed at Houston. Other business included:

1. First National Bank in Pampa was selected as depository for 1977-78 and 1978-79. Bids indicated that First National would charge 4 per cent interest for short term loans compared with six per cent from Citizens Bank and Trust.
2. Low bids totalling $1,992.74 were accepted for athletic equipment.
3. Epperson was elected delegate and Lyte alternate to the Texas Association of School Boards fall convention in Houston.
4. Section D on personnel of the policy manual was approved.
5. The board reviewed Section G dealing with community relations.
6. Board members discussed the attendance policy at the high school which several indicated was too lenient. No action was taken but Bob Phillips, superintendent, and Paul Payne, high school principal, were asked to review the policy and report back to the board.

Board meetings are open to the public.

Watergate pair ordered to jail

WASHINGTON (AP) — H.R. Haldeman and John N. Mitchell, the biggest fish in the Watergate prosecutor's net, were ordered today to report to prison no later than noon June 22 to begin serving their sentences for their Watergate crimes.

The ceremony that effectively ended their years-long fight to stay out of prison took only four minutes. Both men have been sentenced to serve 2 1/2- to 8-year prison sentences imposed on Feb. 21, 1975, for their roles in America's biggest political scandal, the Watergate cover-up.

U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica had indicated last week that he would give the two former Nixon administration officials until June 22 to get their affairs in order. Haldeman had asked through his lawyer to remain free to attend his daughter's graduation ceremony from law school and Mitchell asked to help his lawyers prepare a last-ditch, slim-chance appeal to the Supreme Court.

They have a choice of turning themselves in to a U.S. marshal at 10 a.m. or to voluntarily appear at the prison gates by noon. Sirica only placed the men into the custody of the attorney general and it is up to the Justice Department to designate the prison. Haldeman's lawyer, John J. Wilson, said he had arranged for his client to go to the minimum security facility at Lompoc, Calif. Plato Cacheris, Mitchell's lawyer, said arrangements were not complete but that the former attorney general probably will be sent to Allenwood, Pa.

Even after they are in prison, their lawyers still have 120 days from the time that the Supreme Court denied review of the case to file for a reduction of sentence. Wilson said that certainly will be done. The courtroom scene was strictly a formality. Before Judge Sirica entered the room, Mitchell and Haldeman chatted. Haldeman looked tanned and fit with his hair in the same mod styling that he adopted after his brush-cut days at the White House.

Mitchell appeared slimmer than he did during the Watergate cover-up trial although his face was devoid of color. Their lawyers had made their pleas for a few weeks additional time during an informal hearing last week and there was no further pleading today.

Cacheris asked that Mitchell's status remain unchanged pending the disposition of a motion for reconsideration in the Supreme Court and said that he feels that he is in a unique position by reason of the premature disclosure that the court would refuse to hear the case.

The leak from the court, almost an unprecedented event, will form the basis of the plea for reconsideration both men will file by the deadline June 17.

The formalities were completed with each man's signing of the judge's committal order after Sirica had told them that the choice of whether to turn themselves into a U.S. marshal in Washington or at the prison gates was theirs.

With that, case number 74-110, the star in all the Watergate prosecutions was effectively closed.

Next to Nixon, who was pardoned for all crimes, Haldeman and Mitchell were the prime targets of the Watergate prosecution force. The prosecutors made many a deal for pleas to reduced charges and granted a number of people immunity from prosecution in order to get evidence against Haldeman and Mitchell.

They are the last to be punished. When the prison gates shut, the five-year anniversary of the Watergate break-in will just have passed and the prosecutor's office will have been out of business for a handful of days. The imprisonment of Mitchell and Haldeman will mark the closing of the book on the scandal that caused the only resignation of a president of the United States. The men have only slender hope of delaying or avoiding their sentences for conspiracy, obstruction of justice and multiple counts of lying under oath. They have asked the Supreme Court to reconsider its denial of their appeal, a plea rarely granted. Haldeman, 50, and the 63-year-old Mitchell were the iron men of the flawed Nixon administration. None ranked higher.

The austere Haldeman, as chief of staff, exercised power second only to Nixon. He had worked in Nixon political campaigns since 1956 and has said, "I knew Richard Nixon the man and Richard Nixon the president more intimately than any other person. No one else was as totally trusted or as totally knowledgeable."

The dour Mitchell, as attorney general, carried out the law-and-order promises of the two Nixon presidential campaigns he directed. He had been the former president's law partner. He was eight months younger than the president, but acted as Nixon's counselor and political adviser.

Mitchell will be the first attorney general in America's history to be imprisoned.

Ehrlichman, convicted also in the burglary of the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist, chose to go to prison while the Supreme Court considered his appeal along with those of Mitchell and Haldeman.

Police secure PR riot area

CHICAGO (AP) — Police enforced beefed-up security for the second day in a Puerto Rican neighborhood where weekend riots resulted in the shooting deaths of two persons, injuries to at least 133 persons and extensive property damage.

Violence erupted for a second time Sunday night after six hours of rioting in the Humboldt Park area Saturday night had left two men dead, and 116 persons, including 38 policemen, injured.

In Sunday's aftermath bands made up mostly of Hispanic youths threw debris at police and hurled several Molotov cocktails at squad cars. The explosives missed the cars and burst into flame in the streets. Thirteen officers and at least four civilians were injured.

There were conflicting versions of the initial shootings that touched off Saturday's riot. Police said they did not intentionally fire into the crowd. But Hispanic leaders said police had overreacted.

In one exchange Sunday about 300 youths and police clad in riot gear threw rocks and bottles at each other. In another incident, a motorist fired a shot at a police car and sped away as police returned the gunfire. One officer was injured, apparently by shattered glass, and a suspect later was arrested.

Earlier Sunday, looters ransacked stores, unrestrained for a time despite police patrols. "You saw what it was like," said one officer. "What are we supposed to do, arrest them all? We've got a potential riot."

Saturday's violence began about 6 p.m. after an estimated 3,000 persons had gathered in the park three miles northwest of Chicago's downtown area, following a Puerto Rican Independence Day parade in 90-degree heat. It was sparked by the fatal shootings of Julio Osorio, 26, and Rafael Cruz, 25. Witnesses said the violence was touched off when police tried to quell a fight between two rival Puerto Rican gangs. Authorities said two patrolmen, responding to a call, were fired on by Osorio and then returned the fire, killing him. They said it was not known who shot Cruz.

Acting Mayor Michael A. Bilandic, who toured the area late Saturday, said the "tone of the day" was set earlier when a bomb ripped through part of the fifth floor of the County Building downtown. The FALN, a militant Puerto Rican separatist group, claimed responsibility. There were no injuries.

During the melee, several police vehicles were overturned and burned and a three-story discount store set afire. The blaze burned out of control for about two hours until police could guarantee the safety of firemen. In all, property damage was estimated in the hundreds of thousands of dollars, including the $100,000 blaze which gutted the discount store.

Police arrested 119 persons Saturday night in a sweep to clear the park. Taverns along Division Street from Western to California Avenue were closed Sunday as city sanitation workers cleaned up the bricks, broken bottles and debris which littered the neighborhood.

Congress tackles housing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Revisions of the nation's housing, community development and clean air programs, and easing of restrictions on political activity by federal employees top this week's agenda in Congress.

The Senate, returning from a week-long Memorial Day recess, takes up a 4.8 billion housing and community development authorization bill today.

The measure would extend to Sept. 30, 1980, the government's program of block grants to states and localities for community development, with a first-year authorization of $4 billion in spending. It also would revise the formula for distribution of the money to give higher priority to cities with a high percentage of older housing.

The bill also provides for a one-year extension of basic federal housing programs, including a $1.24 billion authorization for housing assistance to lower income families through rent supplements and through public housing. The additional spending would fund an estimated 400,000 new federally assisted housing units.

In recognition of inflation in the cost of homes, mortgage limits for Federal Housing Administration loan insurance would increase from $45,000 to $60,000, and down payment requirements for homes costing more than $25,000 would be reduced from 10 per cent to 5 per cent.

Limits on mortgage loans by federal savings and loan associations for one-family homes would be increased from $55,000 to $60,000.

The Senate later this week is expected to take up legislation revising clean air rules, including a one-year delay in a scheduled tightening of auto exhaust standards.

The exhaust deadline already has been deferred three times. Included in the 1970 clean air act for achieving a 90 per cent reduction in tailpipe pollutants, it now is set for 1978 model cars. Last month, the House adopted an amendment, backed by the auto industry, providing for a two-year further delay and then imposing less stringent standards.

The clean air bill also covers other air pollution sources, generally giving industrial areas more time to meet standards, while offering added protection for areas that now have clean air.

A bill revising the 1939 Hatch Act, which for 38 years has barred partisan political activity by federal employees, comes up in the House on Tuesday.

The bill, similar to one vetoed in 1976 by then-President Gerald Ford, is supported by the Carter administration.

It would permit federal employees to take leave of absence without pay to run for elective office. It would continue prohibitions against solicitation of political contributions or votes on federal property, or using official authority or influence for political purposes.

On Wednesday, the House begins 10 days of work without interruption on major appropriations bills for federal departments and agencies for fiscal 1978, beginning with budgets of the Treasury Department, Transportation Department and the Postal Service.

Young demands 'let up'

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Andrew Young says it's time to "let up" on criticism of the Soviet government's human rights policies because he doubts that complaining does any good.

"Frankly, I've said almost nothing about Soviet dissidents because I don't know that it helps anything," the Carter administration's ambassador to the United Nations said in an interview in the July issue of Playboy magazine.

"I don't think the Soviet government is, in fact, very concerned about its dissidents," said Young. "Of far more importance are its satellite countries in eastern Europe. More than President Carter's statements on human rights, Soviet leaders are worried about such things as increases in the budgets of Radio Free Europe and Radio Liberty — which they do interpret as real attacks on their system and sphere of influence."

Young said the letter of support President Carter sent to Soviet dissident Andrei Sakharov was "the kind of thing you can do only once, like the (Israeli) raid on Entebbe. You don't try it again. My feeling, in sum, is that it's time to let up on the Soviet Union in this respect."

The Soviet human rights movement is a "rebellion by their elite, who have tasted a little freedom and want more," said Young, who is black. "As they advance economically and culturally, the Soviet Union is going to have a human rights explosion that will be not unlike our civil rights movement. You'll have literally hundreds of thousands of dissidents rather than a few hundred."

Young accused the press of misinterpreting him, likened President Idi Amin of Uganda to Hitler, called former Presidents Nixon and Ford racists because they "had no understanding of the problems of colored peoples anywhere" and said previous Soviet-American arms talks have "all been commetic. It was the Russians and the Nixon administration conspiring to deceive the American people."

"The Nixon administration bent over backward for the Russians," Young continued, "and, in a sense, it sold out to the Soviet Union. The Nixon Administration gave away wheat. This administration is going to sell wheat. And I think the President has decided he's not going to play disarmament games. Either we'll have a real ceiling on the arms race and serious arms reductions or we'll realize the Russians are not willing to do that."

The genocide trap

"Fools rush in where angels fear to tread," observed Alexander Pope.

Now Jimmy Carter doesn't qualify as exactly a fool and, certainly, the members of the U.S. Senate aren't angels, but when we note that the President asked the Senate to approve the United Nations Convention on Genocide, one is inclined at least to question the wisdom of the former.

The Convention on Genocide was adopted by the U.N. in 1948 with the support of 83 nations, but not the United States. It undertakes to establish genocide as a crime under each nation's legal system, as well as internationally, whether in time of peace or war.

That sounds innocent enough, even commendable, especially when the term "genocide" almost automatically brings to mind Hitler's attempt to eradicate the Jews. But the informed know that the term means much more than that and, at the best, is subject to broad and tricky interpretation.

For a better understanding of the term, one might turn to Merriam Webster which defines "genocide" as "the use of deliberate, systematic measures (as killing, bodily or mental injury, unlivable conditions, prevention of births) calculated to bring about the extermination of a racial, political, or cultural group or to destroy the language, religion, or culture of a group."

Which, as one can readily see, throws an entirely different light on the subject and, possibly, goes a long way toward explaining why, for 29 years, the U.S. has declined to support the measure in the U.N.

Quite aside from some misgivings about the inclusion of "mental injury" in the Genocide Convention as a crime (Just what is "mental injury" anyway?) the part that bothers us the most is the prohibition making it a crime to indulge in acts "calculated to destroy the language, religion, or culture of a group."

Subject to interpretation, a pastime for which judges have long been noted, that could mean almost anything, even ethnic jokes or unthinking religious or cultural slurs. For instance, certainly one doesn't enjoy hearing the phrase "white honkey" or comparable epithets, but should their users be judged criminals and punished as such? Surely there are already more than enough laws on the books to deal with individual cases of libel and defamation of character without adding abstract "groups," "religions," and "cultures" to the legal tangle.

Moreover, as we see it, the genocide measure is a distinct threat to the freedom of speech guarantee in the First Amendment to the Constitution. As such, it is a "Pandora box" better left unopened. The Senate would do well to resist Carter's plea for its approval.

The conservative advocate

Gluttonous lawyers raid the public trough

By WILLIAM A. RUSHER

NEW YORK — As the Dean of Yale Law School once pointed out, very few lawyers die in the poorhouse. I was a practicing attorney myself for nine years, before I turned to a life of crime and became a journalist, so I can testify from personal experience that they are a hardy and ingenious breed. Which makes it at once annoying and unsurprising that more and more of them are finding ways these days to make you, gentle taxpayer, cough up their scratch.

In my day, 20 or 30 years ago, the only lawyers with their snouts in the government trough were there more or less legitimately as judges or prosecutors, or staff attorneys for legislative committees and executive agencies — not forgetting, to be sure, those who had gone to the trouble of getting elected to something. ("The A's became professors," they told us at Harvard Law School. "The B's became judges. The C's make all the money. And the D's go into politics.")

But during the heyday of welfare liberalism in the 1960s a new idea took root in our body politic and spread cancer — like through the federal bureaucracy the notion that, along with everything else poor people need, they need lawyers, and that it is therefore the manifest obligation of the federal government to provide them with free legal services.

By the early 1970s U.S.

taxpayers were being squeezed for $60 million every year, most of it going in the form of salaries to 2200 lawyers employed in 800 offices all over the country, by the Federal Legal Services Program of the OEO, allegedly for the purpose of giving free legal help to the poor.

Here and there, indigent people did get useful legal assistance from this program. But, as experience with federal charity ought to have led everyone to expect, the lawyers hired by OEO to help the poor quickly came to think of themselves as legal Robin Hoods, commissioned to promote liberal causes with money gouged out of liberal and conservative taxpayers alike. By means of "class actions" against state and local governments and agencies — lawsuits in which the poor are often dragged into serving as "plaintiffs" without full knowledge and in some cases even against their will — the hired guns of the Federal Legal Services Program have put taxpayer-funded legal services to work for such dubious causes as job and school quotas, student protests, Indian land claims, gay rights, ERA, rent strikes, food stamps, and no-growth environmentalism.

And naturally the cost of the whole program keeps rising. One of liberalism's noisiest lobbies, Common Cause, spent some $6 million in 1976. Jimmy Carter got himself elected president in that same year for $22 million. Yet the proposed funding level of the Legal Services Program for fiscal 1979 is $300 million — five times what it was in 1970. How many lawyers, do you suppose, that kind of dough will keep out of the poorhouse?

Nor is that the legal profession's only scheme for raiding the public treasury. You have probably heard of the so-called "public interest" groups — leftist law firms, "advocacy groups," and out-and-out lobbying organizations — that have sprung up in recent years like weeds after a good rain. Despite the open-handed largesse of such sugar daddies as the Ford Foundation, which between 1970 and 1975 subsidized these furiously litigious groups with more than $12 million in grants of untaxed money, America's social blemishes, it seems, need still more legal attention. Senator Edward Kennedy, therefore, has proposed a law authorizing federal agencies to hand out $10 million a year of the taxpayers' dough to "public interest" advocates who, in the agencies' opinion, would be able to contribute "substantially" to a "fair" resolution of issues before them but are financially unable to participate. The $10 million, plus an estimated additional $3 million to be ladled out yearly by the courts, would be expended (in case you hadn't guessed) largely in the form of "reasonable" attorneys' fees.

So send your son (or daughter) to law school. At the end of that rainbow lies a pot of taxpayers' gold, and it is getting bigger all the time.

Singlaub and Young

President Carter's theatrical summoning of Maj. Gen. John K. Singlaub to appear on the Oval Office carpet for remarks the officer made in Korea place the president in an awkward light. Clearly Jimmy Carter wanted to show his oats, using the incident as an excuse to assert his authority over the military in the dramatic way President Truman recalled General MacArthur from Korea.

But the Singlaub affair cannot be seen as a reprise of the MacArthur firing because in order to be so the parallel would have to be greatly attenuated. MacArthur allegedly disobeyed orders. Singlaub vowed to carry out orders to the fullest, only pausing to question the wisdom of pulling U.S. troops out of South Korea. Military leaders have impudently questioned the policies of commanders-in-chief throughout history, so why single out Singlaub?

Jimmy Carter's Politics of Love notwithstanding, the president is gaining a reputation for wearing a thin skin. If a White House underling abuses that skin in the slightest way, as if brushing by it in a narrow hallway, he or she can count on the notorious Cold Blue Stare along with weeks of official neglect. If the exalted epidermis is pricked in a direct way, as in questioning policy, the prickler is sent to Purgatory, which is where Maj. Gen. Singlaub now finds himself.

There is one major exception to the rule: U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young. Crusader Young has contradicted official policy so many times we have lost count. And yet Jimmy Carter smiles on the whole business, no matter how severely it disrupts international diplomacy. Andy Young has not been removed from duty in the cold fashion Maj. Gen. Singlaub was pulled out of his.

Why has he not?

Beware of self-serving consumerist posers

By OSCAR W. COOLEY

Let the consumer beware who pretends to "represent" him. Ever since Ralph Nader gained fame by posing as spokesman for the consumers, it has become quite the thing to name oneself a consumer representative, even if one lacks any semblance of authorization by the consuming public.

Recently, Louis Harris polled "a representative sample of Americans" to feel the consumer pulse. The sample consisted of "more than 1,500 adult consumers and 522 government, business and consumer affairs representatives." These supposedly represented the 216 million consumers of the nation. How they were elected we are not told.

But it is government "representation" the consumers should most beware. For a half century, Congress has been debating, and sometimes enacting, consumer protection legislation. Currently, it is considering creation of an "Agency for Consumer Advocacy."

While paying lip service to consumers, the government has been aiding and subsidizing special producer groups, such as manufacturers, labor, and farmers. Consumers want better and cheaper goods and manifestly have a human right to purchase them in an open world market, but the government prevents this. Carter's men recently conspired with the government of Japan to reduce the number of TV sets that country will sell the U.S. A similar deal is being made with Taiwan and South Korea to cut the number of shoes they send us. If the "Agency for Consumer Advocacy" had been in existence, would it have opposed these anti-consumer agreements? I wonder.

The consumer already has many supposed protectors and advocates within the government. There is an Office of Consumer Affairs, headed by a special assistant to the President. There is the Federal Trade Commission, which long has presumably been engaged in saving the consumer. According to a recent study of "Consumer Protection Legislation" by American Enterprise Institute, there were in 1961 253 consumer protection and advancement activities in 33 federal agencies and departments. By 1969 the agencies and departments involved in consumerism had increased to 39. In that year, Virginia Knauer, Nixon's assistant for consumer affairs, found that 413 units of the federal government were administering 938 consumer-related activities. And that, be it noted, was before the energy crisis, which has thrown Washington into a tizzy over the impending fate of consumers of that vital commodity, energy.

When a government does things such as subsidize agriculture and bar imports, which serve producers, it is increasing the cost of living, and the result is that the consumer gets less living for his dollar.

Note how governments, including our own, concern themselves with "creating jobs." But the more jobs, the more wages, and wages are a major cost of consumers. The consumers do not want more jobs to be created. They want fewer. They are labor-saving, not labor-creating.

The job creation myth was propounded as solemn truth by John Maynard Keynes. "Pyramid - building, earthquakes, even war may serve to increase wealth," he wrote. How? By creating jobs. If we can think of no better way, we should pay people wages for digging holes, then filling them up. You can read this balderdash in his "General Theory," which written in 1936 has been the economic bible of politicians ever since. It underlies the jobs legislation which President Carter asked and which Congress has just voted. It makes no sense to the common man, for he is a consumer and his main economic concern is to put victuals on the table.

The consumer requires no special protection. All he wants is a fair field and no favor in the marketplace. He wants freedom to procure his victuals wherever he can do best advantage. He would be grateful if the government would just get out of his way and allow him to bid freely.

Ancient Suburbia
Suburban living is not a modern development. Archaeologists in Italy have uncovered Oplonti, a community about 10 miles north of ancient Pompeii that was strictly residential, without market places or forums. The residents are believed to have been wealthy Pompeians and Roman patricians on vacation. Eruptions from Vesuvius in 19 A.D. buried this Roman version of affluent suburbia.

In Washington
Daley's machine in low
By Martha Angle and Robert Walters

CHICAGO — (NEA) — The first tipoff came on the ride into town. The motorcade bearing Vice President Mondale to the city's most sacred political event took almost 50 minutes to travel through rush hour traffic from O'Hare Airport into the Loop.

For ordinary mortals, that would be spectacularly good time. For a Democratic VIP of Mondale's stature, it was unthinkable. Mayor Richard J. Daley would have blocked every freeway entrance with cops — the public's convenience be damned — and whisked his guest to the Cook County Democratic Dinner in 30 minutes flat.

But Richard J. Daley is in his grave, and nothing is quite the same in Chicago these days. Despite herculean efforts by Da Daley's successors to suppress the evidence, it is clear the Cook County Democratic Organization has a bad case of the shakes.

A faint air of paranoia permeated the annual dinner attended by more than 7,000 Organization stalwarts last week. Acting Mayor Michael A. Bilandic and County Chairman George W. Dunne, who now share the two hats Daley wore alone, presided over the festivities with all the verve of men fearing a sneak hit by the mob.

But the city alone can no longer deliver Illinois to the Democrats. The Carter-Mondale ticket came out of Chicago last November with a 67 per cent victory, the best showing of any Democratic presidential candidate since the Lyndon Johnson landslide of 1964. But the Democrats took only 54 per cent of Cook County, which includes the suburbs, and lost Illinois to Gerald Ford by 112,974 votes.

The machine can still produce, but there are fewer and fewer Chicago voters to deliver each year. Election statistics compiled by political analyst Richard Scammon show the total city vote has declined by one-third, or 615,000 people, since 1962.

Since 1960, when Chicago provided the edge that gave John F. Kennedy the Illinois electoral vote and the presidential election, the city vote has declined from 36 per cent of the statewide total to 26 per cent as of 1976.

The diminution of Chicago's political clout stems partly from demographic shifts — the population drain to the suburbs typical of all big American cities — and partly from the changing composition of the voters who remain.

The Irish and Polish-Americans who were the bedrock of Daley's machine still control city politics, but there is an ever-growing black population in Chicago with a far lower voter turnout record. The times, they are a-changing, for better or worse.

Again and again, they insisted that nothing has changed with Daley's death. "We are going to continue to do the things we were taught to do in the past 21 years," Bilandic told party foot soldiers over a microphone which promptly malfunctioned as the mayor's minions spluttered.

Yet even as the party chieftains promised continuity, Mondale's presence was a silent reminder that Chicago is losing its grip on the national Democratic party — no matter how well the machine holds together internally.

Mondale was at the Cook County dinner solely because Jimmy Carter turned down the invitation following Daley's death. No Democratic president ever refused to come at Daley's command, and Carter's snub rankled deeply.

Whatever happens in Chicago in the months and years ahead, it now seems certain that its Democratic Organization will no longer dominate the calculations of national party presidential candidates and conventions.

"I think when they put Daley in the ground, it was probably the last time anybody had to go there," said one Washington political professional who has managed several Democratic presidential candidates in the past.

"There's nobody there with Daley's national clout," he said. "Who the hell is George Dunne? Or Mike Bilandic?" Chicago will still be a "must" stop on the campaign trail for Democratic presidential nominees, simply because it represents the biggest bloc of Democratic votes in a vital swing state.

Moluccans release two pregnant women

GRONINGEN, The Netherlands (AP) — Two pregnant women released by South Moluccan terrorists after 13 days captivity said today that the other 53 hostages aboard a train in northern Holland are in good condition despite "very great psychological pressure."

"In general, the hostages are being treated correctly by the Moluccans," said Anne Brouwer-Korf, 31, in a statement read to reporters before she and 25-year-old Nelleke Ellenbroek-Prinsen left the Groningen University Clinic with their husbands. Mrs. Ellenbroek, who is five months pregnant, and Mrs. Brouwer, who is two months pregnant, were freed Sunday. But Justice Minister Andreas van Agt said there is no indication that release is near for the other hostages aboard the train near Assen or four others held in a schoolhouse. Both women looked relaxed and rested after their night in the hospital, where Mrs. Brouwer is employed in the personnel department. They were released from the hospital after examinations by a physician and a psychiatrist. Van Agt said a six-hour mediation meeting Saturday between the militants on the train and two leaders of the South Moluccan community made little progress, and a second meeting has not been fixed.

"I don't yet see any reason to be optimistic that it will all soon be over," he said as the twin sieges went into their third week. Justice Ministry spokeswoman Toos Faber said the terrorists' demands are basically unchanged. They have demanded the release of 21 other South Moluccans imprisoned for terrorist activity and a plane to fly them all out of the country. Mrs. Faber said there was no connection between the release of Mrs. Ellenbroek and Mrs. Brouwer and the session Saturday between the terrorists and mediators Josina Soumokil and Hassan Tan. Another official suggested the Moluccans freed the women to get rid of a "troublesome burden."

Officials had repeatedly sought the release of Mrs. Ellenbroek-Prinsen, who is five months pregnant, but they apparently had not known that Mrs. Brouwer-Korf was two months pregnant. Mrs. Faber said the terrorists gave no indication they would free the women until they telephoned the government crisis center at Assen Sunday afternoon and asked officials to send for the women. Dr. Franz Tutuhutunewa, health minister in the government-in-exile of the phantom South Moluccan republic, was sent to get them, and an ambulance took them to a hospital at nearby Groningen.

Mystery disease probed

BLACKSBURG, Va. (AP) — Researchers here are searching for the origins of a mysterious disease to which 80 per cent of the seacoast population between Virginia and Texas may have been exposed.

Virginia Tech officials said last weekend that the National Institutes of Health had awarded three of its researchers $120,323 for a two-year study of the source of the tuberculosis-like lung disease.

The organisms, called atypical mycobacteria, apparently cannot cause sickness or death alone, researchers said. Only when they infect a person already weakened by the likes of black lung disease, pneumonia or TB will the organisms have an appreciable impact on health.

Bruce Parker, professor of biology at Tech, estimated that the organisms may help cause some 2 per cent of all pulmonary disease deaths in the seacoast region. "The disease is a secondary factor," he said, but added that it can often kill a patient by blocking recovery.

Unlike TB, the infection is not spread from one person to another, said Joseph O. Falkingham III, assistant professor of biology at Tech.

"The disease is not virulent like swine flu," said Parker, "but it is an opportunist. When a person's health is already sub-par, he is very susceptible to a disease of this type."

"We have proposed that the ocean is the reservoir for these organisms," said Falkingham.

"We are in the process of isolating atypical mycobacteria from these waters and initiating experiments to help understand their physiological ecology — why can the organisms survive, what do they require?" he said.

The researchers said that in the past year they have isolated the mycobacteria in

Portsmouth, Va., Myrtle Beach, S.C. and possibly from an area near Mobile, Ala., as well as from fresh waters in the James River in Virginia and the Savannah River in Georgia.

ET blames outside agitators

CORSICANA, Tex. (AP) — The lawyer for the president of Navarro College says it was unfortunate that Iranians chose the East Texas school as a target for expressing their complaints about their home country.

The complaints were incorporated into a demonstration last week that resulted in the arrest of 57 persons.

School officials say a misunderstanding by Iranians about the admissions and enrollment policies at the school was developed by "outside agitators" into two demonstrations on the college's campus.

A newly-imposed English proficiency test was the focus of the misunderstanding and some say non-student Iranians seized on the opportunity demonstrate in the last two weeks against the Shah of Iran. The students charge the shah is a fascist and a puppet of the United States.

Glenn Sodd, attorney for Navarro College President Kenneth Walker, said about 10 Iranian students became upset during summer class registration when they learned they would have to take an English test before enrolling.

Sodd said the purpose of the test, passed by the board of trustees last April, was to determine their level of English proficiency and not to deny admission to the school.

"There is a difference between enrollment and admission," he said. "The students were admitted. The test was to determine if they had to enroll in a remedial English course along with their other courses."

It was this initial misunderstanding that led to the first demonstration at the college May 27. Thirty-four Iranians were arrested for disorderly conduct on that day.

State pays Gray County for voter slips

A check for $1,253.20 has been issued to Gray County by the State of Texas in payment for issuing and processing voter registration certificates from Feb. 1, 1976 to Jan. 31, 1977.

Payments to 251 counties statewide totaled $26,677. The lowest amount paid was $6.80 to Donley County and the largest was $117,141 to Dallas County.

Counties are paid 40 cents for each voter registration certificate issued or canceled.

Harris, Pacino win Tonies

NEW YORK (AP) — A musical based on a comic strip of another era and portrayals of a gentle poet of another century and a Vietnam War GI of another decade were winners at the 31st annual Tony Awards for excellence on Broadway.

Julie Harris, who portrayed the reclusive poet Emily Dickinson in her limited-run one-woman show "The Belle of Amherst," won her fifth Tony as best actress.

Al Pacino, known best for his movie roles in "Serpico" and "The Godfather," returned to Broadway playing the title role in a Theater Company of Boston revival of "The Basic Training of Pavlo Hummel" and won as best actor in the Vietnam War play.

But "Annie," the musical built around the story of "Little Orphan Annie," was the big winner, taking the Tony in seven of the 19 categories at Sunday night's nationally televised presentation at the Shubert Theater. The string of awards for "Annie" showed why it is already the hottest ticket in town.

Thomas Meehan, in accepting his Tony for best book of a musical, said that when lyricist Martin Charnin phoned him with the idea for a musical based on the comic strip, "I thought it was the worst idea I'd ever heard."

Charnin and composer Charles Strouse picked up Tonys for best score.

"Annie" producer Mike Nichols accepted the Tony for best musical. Comedienne-singer Dorothy Loudon, who runs the orphanage, won as best actress in a musical. Peter Gennaro won for his choreography. David Mitchell for his "Annie" scenery.

"Annie" designer Theoni Aldredge tied with Santo Loquasto, who did costumes for "The Cherry Orchard," as best designer.

Barry Bostwick won as best actor in a musical for his title role in "The Robber Bridegroom," a rustic caper which opened in October and closed in February.

Tony nominations were voted on by 486 members of the theatrical profession. The Lawrence Langner Award for lifetime achievement was given to producer Cheryl Crawford.

All motions in cases set for jury trial will be heard by the court beginning at 10 a.m. June 20.

Dallas TV newsmen assaulted

DALLAS (AP) — Police say they hope to complete their investigation today into assaults on newsmen and cameramen from two Dallas television stations that occurred near a Teamsters union meeting hall.

The newsmen and cameramen said they were attacked Sunday while standing on public streets near the South Dallas hall where the monthly meeting of Local 745 was being held.

Greg Lefevre, newsmen for KDFW-TV, said he and cameraman Jack Weber stopped about 400 feet from the hall to take some exterior shots of the building.

A man approached them and when Lefevre extended his hand for a handshake, the newsmen said, the man grabbed him and threw him against a car.

The man grabbed Weber's camera and smashed it to the ground, Lefevre said. The man then punched Weber.

Lefevre said he and Weber finally got into their car and drove to a local hospital where Weber was treated. The newsmen said the $40,000 camera was destroyed.

Byron Harris, WFAA-TV newsmen, said he and cameraman Mike Coscia went out to the area of the union hall after hearing about the earlier disturbance.

Harris said they stopped their car about 300 feet from the hall. He said he asked a group of about 15 or 20 men standing nearby what happened. Some of the men walked over to Harris and said the crew had better leave.

Harris said someone then slugged him. Coscia was filming the attack while seated in the back seat of the car.

"Once they realized the camera was going, they went crazy," Harris said.

The men dragged Coscia out of the back seat and hit him. One man grabbed the camera, raised it over his head and threw it to the pavement.

Harris said he and Coscia returned to their car and drove away along with tape editor Steve Beck. Harris said they called their station and then went to a hospital for treatment of their injuries.

Harris said their camera, valued at between $35,000 and $40,000, was probably damaged beyond repair.

The local has been mentioned in several recent news stories concerning dissent by some members in the organization about union affairs.

A police spokesman said one arrest was made at the union hall Sunday morning. A man was charged with assault after he allegedly slammed a car door on the leg of a former union member who was trying to attend the monthly meeting.

Mandatory death term illegal

WASHINGTON (AP) — States cannot make the death penalty mandatory for persons convicted of killing police officers, a sharply divided Supreme Court ruled today. The court, voting 5-4, struck down a Louisiana law requiring persons convicted of killing police officers to be executed. "There is a special interest in affording protection to these public servants who regularly must risk their lives in order to guard the safety of other persons and property," the court's majority opinion said. "But it is incorrect to suppose that no mitigating circumstances can exist when the victim is a police officer."

In a series of capital punishment decisions last July 2, the high court appeared to reject on constitutional grounds all mandatory death penalty statutes. But the court agreed to review Roberts' case, solely on the question of whether such automatic executions can be ordered for the murderers of law enforcement officers. The Louisiana law struck down today was aimed at protecting policemen, firemen, sheriffs and their deputies, game wardens, federal law enforcement agents, jail and prison guards, and judges, district attorneys and other court officers. The justices who formed the court's majority were William J. Brennan Jr., Thurgood Marshall, Lewis F. Powell Jr., Potter Stewart and John Paul Stevens. They said the fact that Roberts was only 19 at the time of the crime could be a mitigating circumstance which could lead jurors to prefer life imprisonment as a punishment. "Circumstances such as the youth of the offender, the absence of any prior conviction, the influence of drugs, alcohol or extreme emotional disturbance... are considered relevant in other jurisdictions," the court's majority noted. In his dissent, Rehnquist said police officers need special protection that the law can provide. "Policemen are both symbols and outsiders of our ordered society, and they literally risk their lives in an effort to preserve it," he said. "The state therefore has an interest in making unmistakably clear that those are convicted of deliberately killing police officers... be forewarned that punishment, in the form of death, will be inexorable." The justices ruled last summer that the death penalty is a constitutional punishment for murderers. Pending before the court this term, with a decision expected before the end of this month, is the related question of whether the death penalty is a legitimate punishment for the crime of rape.

Texas death toll swells

By The Associated Press. Four two-fatality wrecks caused the weekend violent death toll to swell in Texas. The Associated Press count of violent deaths in Texas between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Sunday reached 20 early today, including 14 traffic fatalities, one shooting death, one drowning, one electrocution, an asphyxiation and two deaths in a plane crash. Among the fatalities, William Owens, 23, was killed Sunday evening when the car in which he was a passenger hit a mailbox adjacent to Texas 11 and then struck a fence. Officers said the railing on the fence came through the windshield and killed Owens, of Whitewright. Two Randolph Air Force Base airmen were killed Sunday night when their single-engine plane crashed just inside the Guadalupe County line in South Central Texas. The victims were identified as Dave Quillan and Peter John Minisci. The Air Force did not immediately release the ages and hometowns of the two men. Richard Pichardo, 17, was killed Sunday in a hit and run incident in El Paso. The youth was driving a motorcycle when he was struck. Gustavo Gutierrez, 41, was shot to death at his home Sunday morning. Pauline Buske died in a fire at her San Antonio home Saturday night. Firemen said she died of smoke inhalation. A bus and a car collided near Tyler Saturday, resulting in the death of Lonnie Dean Warren, 22, of Tyler, a passenger in the car. Ten Continental Trailways bus passengers were injured. Eldridge Pinkston, 57, was electrocuted Saturday while working in the back yard of his home, police said. Investigators said the man was working with a circular saw when the accident occurred. Two persons were killed Saturday when a produce truck rolled off an overpass near Canyon in the Texas Panhandle. The victims were not identified. C.W. Wallace, 44, of Tatum and John Sherfield, 61, of Henderson were killed in a head-on collision Saturday on Texas 149 near Tyler. Two sisters—Darlene Elizabeth Waters, 28, of Mexia and Patricia Waters Mayfield, 22, of Dallas—were killed Saturday when their car ran off Texas 14 near Mexia and hit a culvert. A San Antonio couple, Guadalupe and Albert Flores, died Friday night following a head-on collision on Texas 21 near Old Dime Box in Central Texas. Five other persons were injured in the wreck. Rosalba Coria, 5, was killed Friday night in Pecos in a hit-and-run incident. Officers said she had been playing by the side of the right of way when a vehicle struck her. Debra Lynn Rosell, 3, of Waco drowned in a hotel swimming pool at Waco Friday night. Police said the child wandered away from her parents while they were dining at a restaurant and fell into a nearby pool.

Texan's appeal denied

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Texan who lost a congressional election by 268 votes last November today lost his last chance to reverse that defeat. The Supreme Court refused to hear the appeal of Republican Ron Paul, who lost the congressional race from Texas' 22nd district to Democrat Bob Gammage. The House Administration Committee ruled against Paul's challenge and the full House on May 9 voted to dismiss it. Paul's defeat was the narrowest of any congressional race in the nation last year. A total of 192,802 votes were cast in the 22nd district election. Paul first sought and obtained recounts. Failing to reverse the results, he mounted an election challenge in a state district court in Harris County, Tex., charging vote fraud. Gammage, meanwhile, successfully blocked the lawsuit when the Texas Supreme Court ruled that a state law empowering state courts to probe elections for national office is "unconstitutional and inapplicable" for members of Congress. The Texas court ruled that the House of Representatives is the exclusive arbiter of Paul's allegations of vote fraud. Paul appealed that ruling to the Supreme Court, arguing that it contradicts a decision reached by the high court five years ago in the contested election of former Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind. Gammage argued that the Supreme Court ruled that state courts could review Hartke's election victory because he had been awarded a "qualified" seat in the Senate pending judicial rulings. Gammage said he was not seated with any qualifications or reservations by fellow House members.

Hijacker overpowered

KUWAIT (AP) — Kuwaiti troops dressed as mechanics overpowered a Lebanese man in a wheelchair who hijacked a Lebanese jetliner with 112 other persons aboard and demanded $15 million, airport sources reported. The 101 other passengers and 11 crew members were unharmed. The hijacker was identified as Nasser Mohammed Ali Abu Khaled, 28, from the northern Lebanese village of Kubaeh. One of the other passengers said he told them: "I am a sick man and I am forced to do this. I need the money." Abu Khaled had been carried aboard the plane in Beirut in his wheelchair. Officials at the Beirut airport said he was not given the usual security search because he was an invalid. Radio Kuwait said Abu Khaled was being questioned by security officials and by the Lebanese and Iraqi ambassadors. The airliner, a Boeing 707 operated by Lebanon's Middle East Airways, was nearing the end of a flight from Beirut to Baghdad, Iraq, on Sunday when Abu Khaled wheeled his chair down the aisle, held a small pistol on the pilot and demanded to be flown to Kuwait, passenger Kamel Dawi reported.

After the plane landed in Kuwait, the hijacker made his ransom demand. Officials at the airport began to negotiate with him, and the ambassadors of Lebanon and Iraq joined in. Meanwhile, Kuwait's interior and defense minister, Sheikh Saad el-Abdulla el Sabah, and his security forces made plans to capture the man, a government announcement broadcast by Radio Kuwait said. After nearly eight hours of negotiations, the Kuwait Information Ministry announced that Abu Khaled had agreed to surrender after being promised safe conduct out of the country. Instead, a group of commandos boarded the plane disguised as air conditioning technicians and grabbed the man with the help of two male stewards. Dawi said Abu Khaled fired a single shot from his pistol as he was seized, but no one was hit. He was brought down the ramp from the plane in his wheelchair with his hands tied behind his back. "He was a pathetic figure and we felt we could subdue him, but we waited," said Dawi. Two Britons were the only Westerners among the passengers. The Tibetan name for Mount Everest, Chomolungma, means "goddess-mother."

Names in the news

WASHINGTON (AP) — Singer Frank Sinatra has been presented with Israel's Cultural Award at an Independence Ball celebrating the Jewish nation's 28th anniversary. More than 1,000 persons attended the affair on Sunday at the Washington Hilton, and watched as Israel's U.S. ambassador, Simcha Dinitz, honored Sinatra. Sinatra has made a number of visits to Israel in recent years, and presented a series of concerts to promote the nation's health and welfare institutions. LOS ANGELES (AP) — Christopher Lance has had a taste of what it must be like to be Burt Reynolds. Lance has been picked by Ron Smith Enterprises as Reynolds' look-alike. Smith says he and Lance were recently dining when "all of a sudden a dozen girls about 13 years old rushed up to the table and started putting pencils and pens into his hands." Smith also says that women who have won his contests for looking very much like celebrities also find Lance in demand. He says he draws strands to determine which lady look-alikes will get to travel with Lance on promotional trips. Smith, who gets as much as $1,500 to supply his celeb look-alikes to private parties, conventions and supermarket openings, is still without a winner for what is turning out to be his most sought-after title: Farrah Fawcett-Majors' double. WASHINGTON (AP) — There is some Nixon sentiment out there," says Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas. But the 1976 GOP vice presidential nominee stops short of predicting a quick political comeback for the fallen former president. For the moment, "I don't see any active role for former President Nixon," Dole said on ABC-TV's "Issues and Answers" program Sunday. He said Nixon may become an elder statesman in the Republican party, but not yet. "It takes more than four interviews... to properly rehabilitate Richard Nixon," Dole said, referring to the recent Nixon-David Frost interviews. ATLANTA (AP) — Foreign officials gave President Carter an elaborate glass dogwood flower a few years ago, but Rosalynn Carter is giving an economy version of the same flower to leaders of foreign nations. The U.S. State Department bought the glass dogwood flowers for under $50 each from Hans Godo Frabel, an Atlanta artist, for Mrs. Carter to present to the heads of state she visits on her Latin American tour. Frabel said the flower is a less-expensive version of one which the consulate corps of Atlanta gave to Carter several years ago. "I think they want to cut down on the cost to the taxpayers," Frabel said of the State Department's decision to buy the smaller glass creations for Mrs. Carter's trip. Carter has established a $50 limit on gifts to foreign leaders.

Rosalynn facing tough Brazil visit

LIMA, Peru (AP) — Rosalynn Carter is moving on from a triumphant visit to Peru to the toughest challenge of her Latin American tour: Brazil and the dissatisfaction of its military regime with some of her husband's key policies. "Rosalynn Conquered Everyone," said a headline in Lima's tabloid El Correo. "She's won us all by her sympathy, sweetness, simplicity and the frank manner with which she treats us," said Foreign Minister Jose de la Puenta. Reports from Brasilia, the Brazilian capital, said that despite some initial chill, Mrs. Carter's visit there was now viewed as a stepping stone to more amicable relations between the United States and its most powerful southern neighbor. However, Mrs. Carter was certain to hear some frank talk about two issues in particular: her husband's opposition to Brazil's purchase of a nuclear reprocessing plant from West Germany and the Carter administration's criticisms of the Brazilian regime's human rights policies. Carter is opposed to the sale of the nuclear reprocessing plant because plutonium that can be used in atomic bombs is one of its byproducts. But a special team of U.S. negotiators who visited Brasilia three months ago and U.S. pressure on the West German government have failed to get either government to cancel the deal. The Brazilian government canceled its 25-year-old military accord with the United States and rejected $50 million in military loan credits because of a State Department report on the human rights situation in Brazil. The report has not been made public but is assumed to be critical of the military regime. Mrs. Carter will spend three days beginning today in Recife, the fifth country on her seven-nation, 13-day tour of Latin America. Her schedule includes meetings with President Ernesto Geisel, Foreign Minister Antonio Azaredo da Silveira and other officials and a dinner given by the president. She goes on Wednesday to Recife, which she visited in 1973 during an exchange program between Brazil and Georgia. She will spend the night there with friends, Mr. and Mrs. Camilo Steiner.

Texas weather

By The Associated Press. Forecasters expected more scattered thundershowers in the Lower Rio Grande Valley today, while the rest of the state enjoyed fair skies. Brownsville recorded nearly one-half inch of rain and McAllen .02 inches Sunday, the only precipitation recorded in the state. More of the same was expected. Early today, only a few patches of clouds were reported over East Central Texas and coastal sections. Light winds and clear skies were the rule over much of the state despite the scattered clouds. Predawn temperatures ranged from 59 degrees at Dalhart and 62 at Lubbock and El Paso to 77 at Galveston and 78 at Longview. Sunday's maximums included 98 at Waco and Wichita Falls, 99 at Fort Worth, 100 at Tyler and 101 at Dallas.

National weather

Tornadoes and severe thunderstorms continued in the Midwest this morning. Five tornadoes were reported in Wisconsin and two in Indiana. Trees and power lines were generally the items damaged but occasionally a roof was reported to have been misplaced. There were no reports of injuries.

Advice

Dear Abby
By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I never miss your column and believe that more people read Dear Abby than any other part of the paper.

Here is a thorny question I have never known you to comment on.

Love: Are the millions of unmarried, widowed and divorced people supposed to do without it?

We are taught to share everything else, so what is so wrong with sharing love with some needy person?

And can you separate love from sex?

M. R.

DEAR M. R.: Sex for sex's sake means anyone will do. Love is selective. Only a certain somebody can fill a need for love.

The need for "sex" rarely leads to love, but the need for "love" usually leads to sex. Promiscuous love? Sil! Promiscuous sex? No!

DEAR ABBY: Several years ago I was depressed for a period of time, and since I considered myself an enlightened person, I went to a private psychiatrist. He assured me that there was nothing seriously wrong, that I didn't need prolonged treatment, and after a few more appointments, he dismissed me. That was the sum and total of my "psychiatric treatment."

A year ago I applied for a position. I was asked, "Have you ever had psychiatric treatment?" Seeing no reason not to tell the truth, I mentioned my experience.

In case you don't know this, there are many government positions (and private ones) that cannot be held by anyone with a "history" of psychiatric treatment.

Abby, a person can be nuttier than a pecan plantation, but if he's never been to a psychiatrist, he's considered mentally stable.

I'd appreciate your comments.

STABLE BUT LABELED

DEAR LABELED: There are still in existence a number of laws, rules, regulations, traditions and precedents that are unjust, archaic, senseless and plain idiotic.

If a single session (or a hundred) with a psychiatrist makes one a "mental case," then all psychoanalysts are "mental cases," because in order to become a psychoanalyst one must himself be psychoanalyzed.

Steering clear of a psychiatrist's office does not necessarily affirm one's good mental health. The person who boasts that he's never been to a psychiatrist can be a lot sicker than those who have.

CONFIDENTIAL TO EAGER TO SUCCEED: Sorry, but you will never accomplish what you have in mind if you continue to wait until you "find the time." No one ever FOUND time for anything. He made it.

Ask Dr. Lamb

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Now that summer is here I would like to get a good tan. I always look better tanned than being white as lard. But I'm worried about causing my skin to look old and wrinkled. I've read that the sun ages your skin, but how can I get a sun tan without aging my skin? Also I've heard that too much sun can cause skin cancer. Is that true?

I'm sure that there are lots of other readers who want to have fun in the sun without paying for it later. Any suggestions?

Incidentally I'm a blonde and tend to burn easily rather than tan so that makes it doubly difficult for me.

DEAR READER — You are right to be concerned. Underneath nearly every beautiful tan is skin damage. Ultraviolet radiation in the sunshine is a perfect example of a substance that is essential to our health and life but too much can be harmful. The UV radiation is necessary for the energy that enable plant life and it stimulates the formation of vitamin D in our skin.

The UV radiation damages the process essential to maintaining the elastic fibers in the skin. This leads to wrinkling of the skin associated with aging. One of the best proofs of the effects of the sun on your skin is to look at a skin area protected from the weather of an individual who has a wrinkled and weather beaten face. The protected skin may look youthful and unwrinkled.

It is also true that solar radiation causes skin cancer. That is why most skin cancers are on the face and areas where the skin is exposed to sunlight. Skin cancer is the most common form of cancer. Fortunately most of them can be completely cured if they are diagnosed and treated early. But new crops of skin cancer tend to occur, requiring repeated treatments to rid the skin of new cancers. The best treatment is prevention. To give you more information on skin cancer, those brown spots caused by the sun and aging of the skin I am sending you The Health Letter number 7-10, Your Skin: Sun, Aging, Spots and Cancer. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it.

I am sorry to say there is no way you can get a good tan without damaging your skin. This is particularly true for blonde people like you.

Realizing that people will get a tan and want to enjoy the outdoors I can only suggest ways to minimize the damage. The first rule is not to expose your skin for more than 15 minutes a day. Never stay out so long that the skin gets pink. That early pink flush is not the real tan. That comes a few days later and reaches its peak about three weeks after exposure. It is produced by the increased formation of pigment in the deep layers of the skin. This pigment helps to protect the skin from sun damage.

Remember that your face is the area that is most important to protect. If you lie on your back 15 minutes and then on your stomach 15 minutes part of your face will get more than 15 minutes of exposure. I think you should use a sun screen on your face. Increase your time in the sun about five minutes a day — no more.

Fair people like you really need to use a sun screen all year around. I have discussed the various sun screens in The Health Letter I am sending you.

Polly's Pointers
Polly Cramer

DEAR POLLY — I would like the recipe for starching ruffled dollies with sugar. — HELEN G.

DEAR HELEN G. — I have never had a definite recipe. One just makes a thin boiled syrup with sugar and water. Cool and immerse dollies one at a time, wring out excess syrup and then shape as desired and leave to dry. Perhaps some reader can give us the quantities in a more exact form. — POLLY.

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with the pockets that most clothing manufacturers put in men's work pants. We pay from fifteen to twenty dollars for each pair of such pants and after three weeks of wear the pockets are of no use at all. It's as if the material used for them is almost like cheesecloth. The pants are well made but the pockets come apart. — MRS. G.F.

DEAR POLLY — I have made good use of the side of my refrigerator that stands out away from the wall. A large hook was put in the wall and all of my appliance cords hang on it. They are easy to get to and not all mixed up as they might be in a drawer. — JEAN.

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with the dirty language we so often hear. Why should a well groomed man or woman not be as proud of the words that come out of his or her mouth as of their personal appearance? Words mirror one's thoughts and thoughts shape that act that will follow sooner or later. — BESSIE.

DEAR POLLY — When a cake recipe calls for chopped nut meats sprinkle a pinch of flour through the nut meats (or fruit) and add to the batter last. The nuts go through the cake and not to the bottom. — MRS. E.D.

Amarillo players dominate tourney

By TOM KENSLE
Pampa News Sports Editor

Top-seeded Wayne Goodwin of Amarillo relied on a good second serve and accurate ground strokes to whip Dennis Crowell of Amarillo, 6-2, 6-2, for the coveted 'A' singles' championship trophy of the Pampa Open Tennis Tournament which was concluded Sunday at the high school courts.

"My first serve was not very good, but thank heavens, my second serve was pretty strong," said Goodwin, a native of New Hampshire.

Both players had already played two matches when the championship duel began. "But I think he was quite a bit more tired than I was," Goodwin said. Goodwin is a lanky, 6-4 former tennis player for the University of New Hampshire. He works as a salesman in Amarillo.

In the most eye-appealing match of the day, beautiful Sandy Childress of Amarillo defeated equally stunning Teresa Barkley of Gruver, 6-1, 6-3 for the women's A trophy. Childress' serve and volley game kept Barkley off balance for most of the match.

The men's A doubles final, which pitted Dennis Crowell and Frank McAlpine versus Terry Wood and Wayne Goodwin, drew the greatest tournament applause. The match was dead even, and in the end only two points separated the teams as Crowell and McAlpine won by scores of 7-4, 7-6.

Canadian's Steve Adams won the men's B singles crown with a convincing 6-0, 6-2 tally over Locke Carter of Amarillo.

Pampa's Kris Douglas won the trophy in the women's B singles as she defeated Echo Watson of Borgs, 6-2, 6-3.

In other matches, Steve Adams and Danny Hill of Canadian teamed for a 6-1, 6-3 victory over Wayne Williams and Kurt Krause of Amarillo for the B doubles trophy. Jack Little won the men's 35 crown by whipping Hobie Fatheree, 6-3, 6-4.

Amarillo's Jack Fyfe and Jack Little defeated the Liberal, Kansas pair of Hank Rowley and Tom Richardson, 6-1, 6-1, for the top spot in the men's 35 doubles.

Joe Davis of Pampa beat Bob Wylie, 6-2, 6-3, for the men's 45 crown. The men's 45 doubles belonged to Joe Davis and Midland's Jack Wells who took Hobie and Warren Fatheree by a 6-4, 6-4 count.

In women's doubles, Peggy Amerson of Amarillo teamed with Pampa's Lynn Robinson to beat Gruver's Teresa Barkley and Spearman's Mollie Holton, 6-1, 6-2 for the A trophy. The B trophy was won by the Lubbock team of Kay Ruckman and Cindy Henson which outclassed J. Schuman and L. Watson for the crown.

Terry Wood and Cindy Henson teamed to beat J. Gikas and Wayne Goodwin, 6-4, 6-2, in the A mixed doubles final.

Borgers' David Johnston and Ms. Nielson defeated Pampa's Betty Blake and Joe Zeuker for the B mixed doubles crown.

Goodwin wins good

Wayne Goodwin uses his lanky frame to stretch for a short ground stroke in Sunday's finals of the Pampa Open A singles championship. Goodwin, a former University of New Hampshire tennis star, outclassed Amarillo's Dennis Crowell, 6-2, 6-2, in the premier event.

Dr. J., McGinnis fall short, Portland is NBA champion

PORTLAND (AP) — The Pacific Northwest is known for rain and clean air. Now, it's also known for the best basketball played anywhere.

The Portland Trail Blazers, who until this year had never had a winning season, claimed the National Basketball Association title Sunday with a hair-raising 107-107 victory over the Philadelphia 76ers.

"We had a whole lot of fun," grinned Blazer team captain Bill Walton, who was named the series' Most Valuable Player after he scored 20 points, grabbed 23 rebounds and blocked eight shots in the victory. "I feel good all over."

When the buzzer sounded, Walton, who suffered through two injury-plagued seasons and considerable criticism before leading his team to this championship, ripped the No. 32 jersey from his back and hurled it into the crowd.

The Blazers had dropped the first two games of the best-of-seven championship series, then won four in a row to win the title. Sunday's contest was the only game that was close.

Portland led by as many as 15 points, but the Sixers repeatedly challenged the Blazers. They nearly caught them at the finish.

Joe Bryant's two free throws with 51 seconds left sliced the Portland lead to 108-105. Portland's Maurice Lucas sank one of two free throws with 27 seconds to make it a four-point game.

George McGinnis, whose shooting touch returned for the final game, sank a 20-footer to slice the lead to 108-107 with 18 seconds to go. Then McGinnis tied up Portland's Bob Gross and controlled the subsequent jump ball.

The Sixers got three shots in the final eight seconds, but none found its target. The first was by Julius Erving, who led all scorers with 40 points, but his 18-footer bounced off the rim. Lloyd Free grabbed the rebound, but his shot was blocked by Walton.

McGinnis grabbed the ball and fired from 12 feet, but the shot was short. Walton tipped the rebound to Portland's Johnny Davis and the game was over.

The crowd of 12,951 swamped the court in what looked like a scene from a Cecil B. DeMille epic, and the immediate post-game hysteria was tame compared with the celebration that followed a parade through downtown was planned for noon today.

500 to Darnell

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Rolly-polly Bay Darnell laughed all the way to the winner's circle after the United States Auto Club (USAC) Texas 500 stock car race Sunday all because he took the time to look underneath his Dodge prior to the start of the race.

Darnell, Deerfield, Ind., discovered a cracked bell housing in the rear end and got it repaired just in time to upstage A.J. Foyt and win the third race of his 15-year tour of the USAC circuit.

The victory jumped Darnell from seventh place to second behind Paul Feldner, Richfield, Wis., in USAC stock car division points. Feldner finished second in the race and retained his lead by a 580-465 margin.

"How'd you ever get under the car in the first place?" a USAC official said, pointing to Darnell's ample waist.

Weiskopf wins

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Experience was the key to his victory in the Kemper Open Golf Tournament, Tom Weiskopf said. A regained putting touch brought him through the multiple-man scramble.

"I was really down after my disappointing, discouraging finish in the Memorial Tournament in my home town," Weiskopf said Sunday after a final-round 70 had broken a two-year victory drought.

PCC ace for 11-year old

David Mann Fatheree, 11, scored a hole-in-one Sunday at Pampa Country Club's 10th hole with a No. 7 iron. PCC pro Hart Warren said that he believes Fatheree is the youngest golfer to score an ace at the PCC in twenty years.

ASU surprises for NCAA track title

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — "Baldy's Blazers," as some call them, came to run, jump and most of all win. And they did just that, as Arizona State won the team title in the 50th NCAA Outdoor Track and Field Championships.

"They picked us for fifth or sixth, but we felt we could win it all along. These kids read the papers just like everyone else, there's no doubt that it helped us," Arizona State Coach Baldy

Carter tells Africa to yield to majority

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration has quietly advised South Africa and Rhodesia to yield power to their black majorities or risk all-out race war.

"The days of white supremacy in Southern Africa are numbered," was the burden of the American warnings as related by diplomats familiar with the exchanges. "And, if racial conflict should develop, don't count on us to rescue you."

Predictably, reactions of the prime ministers of subcontinental Africa's last two bastions of white rule were defiant, though in different ways.

According to diplomatic assessments, their reactions seemed to dim prospects for peaceful settlements which the United States and Britain are trying to promote in Rhodesia, Namibia (formerly South West Africa) and the Republic of South Africa itself.

"We'll go on doing things our way," South Africa's John Vorster told Vice President Walter B. Mondale, in so many words, when they met in Vienna last month. "We don't interfere in your affairs, and it's not for you to intervene in ours."

Rhodesia's Ian D. Smith responded with a display of military force against neighboring Mozambique, which provides sanctuary for black Rhodesian guerrillas.

Smith sent a strong ground force, with air support, deep into Mozambique territory in a week-long operation, due to end this weekend, to destroy the guerrillas and their camps. Four base camps were hit, 32 blacks killed and caches of Soviet-supplied arms were captured, according to reports.

"It was a defensive exercise," Smith later explained. "There was nothing aggressive about it."

Rhodesia's Security Minister Roger Hawkins announced Friday that another cross-border raid would be mounted, if needed. He also announced an extension of the military draft for all Rhodesians, whites, blacks, Asians and mixed-blood persons, clearly anticipating an escalation of fighting.

The U.S. and British governments were not the only ones dismayed by the Rhodesian raid. South Africa, too, was concerned, according to authorities here.

Vorster's men do not conceal their view that the Smith government's repeated rejections of settlement opportunities have become an embarrassment. It's through South Africa that landlocked Rhodesia gets vital supplies, including fuels and arms.

Vorster, according to diplomatic dispatches to Washington, was sorely disappointed by what he took to be a demonstration of Mondale's — and America's — pro-black bias.

Claims Soviets crackdown on human right activists

Cut quick and easy with a Weed Eater* Trimmer

This electric trimmer slashes away weeds and grass without blades. Rapidly-spinning nylon line does the cutting. It cuts under fences, around trees, against buildings — many places conventional trimmers can't reach. It has a 3/4-hp motor.

MOSCOW (AP) — Andrei D. Sakharov, the dissident nuclear physicist, claims Soviet authorities are involved in a new crackdown on human right activists in wide areas of the country, with "many arrests" being made in the once-independent Baltic states.

"In Moscow and in the provinces, a strong new wave of repressions is under way," the Nobel Peace Prize winner said in an interview with The Associated Press. "We know for the most part what is happening in Moscow and the area nearby. The majority of those who are left from the Helsinki Group are either arrested or under strong pressure."

The Helsinki Group was formed in Moscow a year ago to monitor Soviet compliance with the human rights provisions of the 1975 Helsinki Conference and branches have been set up in the Ukraine, in Latvia and in Soviet Georgia. In the last four months its members are said to have been subject to arrests, searches and interrogations.

Of the 14 persons who joined the Moscow branch, four are free and active.

"We know that in the Ukraine, four members of the Helsinki Group have been arrested and that in Georgia two have been arrested," Sakharov added.

"Beyond the people we know about, the campaign of harassment and repression is spreading to people about whom we know very little," Sakharov said. "There are many arrests in the Baltic states. People who spent 25 years in labor camps are being arrested again."

The Baltic states — Latvia, Lithuania and Estonia — were independent nations before World War II, when they were annexed by the Soviet Union. They are known to be the seat of active dissident movements.

But because of the remoteness of these and other regions and restrictions on travel and publicity, underground activities in such areas often are unknown to dissident leaders such as Sakharov — and impossible for Western reporters to check.

In the interview given before Saturday's publication of the draft of a new Soviet constitution, Sakharov said Moscow's dissident community was stunned by the charge of treason made public last week against Anatoly Shcharansky, one of the most energetic of the activists.

"This news for us is very threatening," said Sakharov, sitting on a bed in his apartment.

Shcharansky is a member of the Helsinki Group, as are Alexander Ginzburg and Yuri Orlov, its founder. They were arrested in February and March, but there still has been no word about the fate of Ginzburg and Orlov.

Sakharov said the charge against Shcharansky indicated that strong measures probably would be taken against the others.

Charred bodies found on Padre

SOUTH PADRE ISLAND, Tex. (AP) — Authorities sought to identify today the charred bodies of two persons shot to death at Padre Island National Seashore and then burned in a gasoline-soaked camper.

Officials said Sunday they first will compare the dental charts of a missing Bastrop woman and her daughter with the burned bodies.

The bodies were discovered Friday in the burned-out remains of the camper.

Corpus Christi FBI agent Penrod Harris said the victims were shot on the sand and then placed in the camper, which was doused with gasoline and set on fire.

The bodies were found about 70 miles south of Corpus Christi.
