

Senator Employs Filibuster To Get Fund For Health Plan

AUSTIN (AP) — Sock-footed Sen. Mike McKool of Dallas stretched his filibuster through the night to dawn today in a dogged effort to get more money to treat the mentally ill and mentally retarded.

His filibuster was nearly 18 hours old at 7 a.m. The words came slower and slower as McKool, his hands stuffed in the pockets of his trousers, paced the green carpet near his desk in his stocking feet. He occasionally flexed his legs to revive his tiring muscles.

His stalling tactics on a $4.1 billion one-year state budget got underway just before noon Monday but was continuous from 1:30 p.m. He said those with mental problems have no lobby so someone had to speak for them.

State Senate Considers Five TACB Appointees

Meat Processors Hope President's Move Will Have Little Effect On Prime Beef

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Texas meat processors expect President Nixon's lifting of all import quota restrictions to curb rising meat prices will have little effect on prime beef, though it could in time lower the cost of ground meat and sausage products.

Quality meats will offset any reductions.
"The mistake that was made was not freezing prices at the raw meat level at the feedlots and the ranches," Gorges said. "The ranchers are getting more for their cattle than ever before."
Cattlemen and feedlot operators in the Texas Panhandle did not agree. They said prices are now near the 1952 level and most feedlots are full.
Reaction in the Panhandle, which is part of the five-state area that sends more than four million head of cattle to market each year, is that most cattlemen do not like Nixon's decision but they are not getting too upset about it.

Main objection to import quotas being lifted is that this forms a precedent, but they don't feel that current choices for U.S. choice beef, their major product, will be affected much.
Some Texas processors feel there is not enough meat in the world supply to have much effect on the situation, since Argentina cannot meet its own home demand and Australia and New Zealand have developed new markets in the Far East which they may not want to abandon.
Gorges said he has never seen imported meat in any quantity that is of high quality. He thinks further action will be needed to reduce meat costs.

Joe Oscar Neuhoof, partner of Neuhoof Brothers, a Dallas meat packer, said:
"You can't just turn the faucet off like that. We have to price our product in advance of delivery in order to schedule production, and the market may be up a nickel or so by the time we do deliver. So it will all take time before anything is visible."
Regarding the choice steer meat, which hits hardest on the housewife's pocketbook, Neuhoof thinks the present supply is not ready to meet the demand.
"The feedlots are filled but the right weight and grade of cattle is just not ready for the market," he said. "The demand exceeds the supply and it has driven the price up."
Neuhoof said Nixon's move won't have much effect on the pot roasts and steaks, though ground meats and other processed meats might be affected.
"But it will take time," he said.

All 130 Texas Delegates Questioned By Challenges

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — All 130 of Texas' delegates to the National Democratic Convention in Miami Beach July 10 are questioned by challenges filed before the convention's Credentials Committee now in session at Washington.
State Democratic Headquarters said Monday a total of 14 separate challenges have been filed against the Texas delegation or parts of it.
Only two of the challenges involve the delegation as a whole.
The Texas Women's Political Caucus alleges that women were discriminated against because 52 per cent of the population are women but only 30 per cent of the delegates are women.

A group of black delegates, represented by Don Gladden, an American Civil Liberties Union lawyer in Fort Worth and a worker for Sen. George McGovern, alleges that the state's delegation does not accurately reflect the racial makeup of Texas' population.
He said only 6.92 per cent of the 1972 delegation is black compared to the 12.68 per cent black population. State Democratic headquarters sources say 10 per cent of the delegates are black.
Other challenges to the Texas delegation involve single delegates or those from a single senatorial district.

New NEA President Airs Views On Top Priorities

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — The new president of the National Education Association says the only way to meet the educational needs of all children is with "raw political power."
Mrs. Catharine Barrett, a Syracuse, N.Y., inner city elementary teacher for more than 40 years, takes over leadership of the 1.2 million-teacher organization Friday at the conclusion of the NEA's 110th annual meeting.
In an interview, Mrs. Barrett said her two top priorities will be to "make teachers recognize political force" and to "achieve legislation which by 1976 will see the federal government contributing one-third the cost of education."
With teachers already organized politically in 42 states, Mrs. Barrett said she is hopeful that they will have an impact on presidential balloting and congressional elections in November.

failure to support funds for education and whether to support busing. He would take society back to an era we got rid of years ago. There is nothing in the Nixon administration to indicate his support of education or that he's prepared to take action to give every youngster an equitable opportunity.
Q. Have teachers become more politically active? Do you think they can be united at the polls on the local and national levels?
A. "Teachers in 42 states have organized teacher political action committees. In New York State, teachers are organized in all key legislative districts and are now endorsing candidates after intensive study. They also are organizing in congressional districts and will issue report cards on candidates' educational voting records so that teachers are able to make a complete judgment. Whether the NEA will endorse a presidential candidate will depend on the membership. It is more than possible that we will."
Q. What will be your top priority this coming year?
A. "I have two priorities and they are side by side. I want to make teachers recognize political force and to achieve legislation which by 1976 will see the federal government contributing at least one-third the cost of education. The highest it's ever been was 8.8 per cent and this past year was only 7.1 per cent."

Abortion Political Issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — Leaders of the National Woman's Political Caucus said Monday they find Democratic presidential hopeful George McGovern deficient on some issues that concern women, specifically the problem of birth control.
"Our meeting with him yesterday confirmed that the caucus will give no blank slate to any candidate," said Betty Friedman, founder of the National Organization for Women. "McGovern didn't seem to understand how strongly women feel about being able to control their own bodies."
Speaking at a news conference on the first anniversary of NWPC's founding, Mrs. Friedman said that within the past week, caucus leaders have requested meetings with all presidential contenders. Only representatives of Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace declined to return their calls, she said.
Ms. Friedman outlined a Woman's Plank that the caucus will present at the Democratic convention in Miami next month.
It calls for ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment, comprehensive child-care legislation, appointment of women to top positions of responsibility, and repeal of laws affecting a woman's right to decide her own reproductive and sexual life.
"Our feeling on the candidates are mixed," Mr. Friedman said, explaining that all the contenders they met with support the concept of a woman's plank, but they did not all agree on the abortion issue.

Michigan Church Robbed

PONTIAC, Mich. — "God loves you," the preacher said to the youth who stood on the church altar pointing a gun at his head.
"I hope so," the bandit replied as he pocketed money from collection plates in a Sunday holdup at the Christ in Christian Union Church in downtown Pontiac.
"We weren't scared," said 64-year-old parishioner Cecil B. Tupper. "We seemed to feel that there was someone looking after us other than ourselves."
Toward the end of his sermon, the Rev. Mr. Nesselrood said, a youth in his late teens and another in his early 20s barged through a side entrance.
One of them pulled a pistol and fired a shot into the ceiling.

tion," he said. "People held out their money and he walked down the center aisle taking it."
The gunman returned to the front of the church and climbed onto the altar.
The Rev. Mr. Nesselrood turned to his congregation, which stood up and prayed. "Dear God, help these poor boys to realize where a life of crime will lead them."
While the parishioners were praying, the minister said the robber who had held him at gunpoint "jumped down and told us not to follow him. Then he joined his partner and out the door they went."
Police are investigating, but the Rev. Mr. Nesselrood and members of the congregation said they would rather not prosecute.

WORLD OF WORK

Answers to Employment Questions by Secretary of Labor James D. Hodgson

Age No Bar to Employe Benefits

M. J. of Utica, N.Y., says: I've worked for the same firm for eight years, but am still classified as a temporary employe. My boss says that, at age 54, I'm over the age limit for permanent employe. This means I'm not eligible for full-time work or full fringe benefits. I don't even get retirement credit. Is this legal?
Dear M.J.: It sounds to me like a violation of the Age Discrimination in Employment Act, which prohibits job bias against persons aged 40 to 65. While the act permits employers to observe terms of bona fide seniority systems or employe-benefit programs, they cannot legally use these programs as excuses to evade the act's purposes. To ascertain if there is a violation of the law in your case, you may contact the federal wage-hour office in Utica.

S. B. of Fowler, Ind., writes: My friend works in a department store and gets paid overtime whenever she works more than 40 hours a week. I work in a nursing home and get overtime after 48 hours a week. Why the difference?
Dear S.B.: Nursing home employes, as well as those in rest homes and bowling alleys, are exempt from the federal overtime law requiring pay of time-and-one-half for more than 40 hours of work in a week. Instead, they are entitled to the premium rate after 48 hours per week.
A. K. of Syracuse, N.Y., writes: There has been a lot of publicity about what's being done to help high school youth get jobs this summer, but I've heard very little about what's being done to help the younger kids use their time constructively. Do you know of anything?

Dear A.K.: I agree that there never seems to be enough for this age group to do. There are the municipal recreation programs for school-age children, which you can find out about from your city or county recreation department. Also, you could inquire at your local Employment Service or the mayor's office about the Neighborhood Youth Corps summer jobs program, which admits boys and girls as young as 14. Some of the NYC youth will work as junior counselors in the recreation programs which serve children from about 8 to 13. Beyond that, there is a summer "odd-job" program that many communities sponsor. Known as "Rent-a-Kid," the program puts youngsters 14 to 16 in touch with local householders who want to hire someone to mow lawns, paint, mend, baby-sit or run errands. The Labor Department aids community groups in the odd-job program.

REALLY ISN'T MYSTERIOUS

What Bonding Means In Business

"Must be bondable!" This phrase appears often in "help wanted" ads. Most people not connected with insurance or personnel work have only a hazy idea of what it means. It really isn't mysterious or foreboding. What the prospective employer tries to convey is that he wants candidates with good employment records, no on-the-job stealing or jail terms. Those who have had run-ins with the law or were involved in a dishonest loss steer clear of such job offers, said the Insurance Information Institute. Why? They want to avoid an investigation that might disclose that a bonding (surety) company paid for a loss or made an investigation on a prior job that left some questions unanswered. How does a bonding company insure people? Oversimplified, an employer asks his insurance agent to have an insurer specializing in fidelity bonds give him protection. If the business is small, a bond can be written for just one employee. Usually a so-called

"blanket" bond is used. "Blanket" means it covers all employees except those specifically excluded. One form applied to the positions (type of jobs, say, stock clerk or cashier) and another applies to "people." Often the fidelity or dishonesty insurance is one part of a "comprehensive crime contract." In both types of blanket bonds, the employees are not named in the contract, but the insurer (bonding company) usually requires each employee to complete a questionnaire so that it can investigate employment records and reputations. The Institute said that this investigation service is regarded by many businesses as well-worth the cost of the protection. Potential sources of trouble are usually uncovered. No one is "grilled" or made to feel uncomfortable. The majority of people are aware a check is being made. If an employee is confronted by his manager with a request to explain a few points raised by the bonding company, the employee can quickly untangle the misunderstanding or he knows he will be requested not to report back for work. A large number of insurance companies that write fidelity coverage are members of the Surety Association of America which gathers data on fidelity and surety matters. What else does a surety (bonding company) do for a firm that wants dishonesty insurance? It writes a contract in which it says: "I, the insurance company, promise to you, Mr. Employer, that your employee(s) will be honest or I will repay your loss(es) up to $XX if sustained under these conditions..." So, if an employee steals $2,000 from his company's safe and the surety is convinced by the evidence that he took it, the surety reimburses the employer. The bonding company then seeks out the dishonest employee and demands repayment. It persists in its search and demands until the loss is made good or until further salvage efforts seem futile. Why does it do this? There is a provision in the application the employee signed called an indemnity agreement by which he promises to reimburse the bonding company for any loss it pays on his behalf. Knowledge of the consequences has helped to encourage some weak-willed people to remain honest. Employee dishonesty losses are a major drain on American business assets today. Annually they total $4 billion. With adequate dishonesty insurance an employer's loss can be passed on to an insurer for a known, reasonable premium. It is a mark of distinction for a business and for its employees to meet the high standards set for dishonesty protection. "I am bondable!"

Only a Few Use Income Tax Protest

WASHINGTON (AP) — In publicly declaring her refusal to pay income taxes that support the Vietnam war, Sen. Philip A. Hart's wife joins a few thousand other Americans, most of whom failed to carry out their threats. Most of those who challenged the Internal Revenue Service lost their cases. Figures for 1971 income-tax returns showed that 1,740 Americans indicated to the IRS they would not pay any taxes because of the war. But a spokesman said tax-delinquent accounts have been set up in only 631 of these cases, meaning that the IRS is taking formal action to collect for nonpayment. In previous years, the number of Americans who have protested to the IRS has grown. Last year, there were 1,648 who told the IRS they didn't intend to pay taxes, but the agency was forced to collect in 698 cases. In 1969, 1,401 protested, but only 368 drew formal action by IRS. In 1968, there were 592 who protested and 140 tax-delinquent accounts. "The numbers are tiny when you consider there were an average of 75 million returns over those years," the spokesman said. Today's figures only take into account those, such as Mrs. Hart, who have formally protested to the IRS. The spokesman acknowledged that those who use more-subtle means to escape paying taxes in protest might not be detected if they didn't let the service know. Folk singer Joan Baez announced in 1968 she didn't intend to pay that part of her income taxes related to the military budget. But the government collected from her bank accounts through court action.

Dixie Set To Offer Service

Dixie Parts and Supply, with two convenient locations, provides Pampa and the surrounding area with an automobile supply center that is unequaled in the trade zone. Complete lines of brand names and factory guaranteed parts are kept in complete stock at both store locations, 417 S. Cuyler and 1421 N. Hobart. Many years of experience in the supply field by the Dixie personnel insures sound purchases for the customer. Parts for all trucks and cars are in supply or can be obtained by fast individual order. Auto air conditioning is another feature of the stores. Operating with the slogan, "complete stock auto parts," Dixie has in the store such items as mufflers and tailpipes, starters, generators, shock absorbers, fuel pumps, brake shoes and starters. All automobile accessories are available. Professional and backyard mechanics are reminded that for the best replacement parts on any model of any make of automobile, they can give Dixie a call. If they don't have the part or accessory in stock, they will be happy to make quick and special orders. Years of successful business in Pampa testify to the quality of merchandise and service offered by the store.

Having trouble with your color television set? Charlie Green at Montgomery

Ward's customer repair service department can provide a trouble-shooting analysis of the circuitry of the set to see if the trouble is there. Montgomery Ward has the best equipment and the best technicians to give full service for all types of repairs. Currently the department has four factory-trained technicians ready to perform the needed repair services. The Montgomery Ward repair service department has the ability and the parts available to repair any product one might purchase at Wards, though they also offer the same service for all makes and models of equipment and appliances. The department technicians guarantee the work to the customer's satisfaction. Repairs can be done in the home or at the shop by the highly trained personnel. Among the items which can be repaired in the department are televisions, appliances, lawn mowers, washers, dryers, refrigerators and other electrical equipment. For repairs of televisions, appliances and air conditioners, ask for Oscar Scott and Charlie Green. Lee Jackson is the service manager.

No matter what repairs are needed, expert service is offered on all equipment. Montgomery Ward is set up so a person can buy and still maintain service almost anywhere. More than 2,000 service locations are scattered throughout the United States, with more than 5,000 service specialists. And each service location has 400,000 replacement parts at its disposal. In addition to its customer repair service department, Montgomery Ward carries a variety of goods and products within the same building. There are clothes, sporting goods, automotive accessories, boat, motors, lawn equipment, televisions, radios, records, stereos, tape-cassettes and virtually everything in the department store line. Montgomery Ward's success is due to its fine line of products and its prompt service department. Both of which are good reasons for shopping at Montgomery Ward. BAD FOR REPUBLICANS
Rising Food Prices Is Political Issue

NEW YORK (AP) — At a most inopportune time for Republicans, the wholesale price of food is rising. That means storm flags probably will be flying over retail outlets at election time. It isn't only the time element that makes this issue of food prices a politically potent one. The emotional factor is incalculably deep: It involves health and the nourishment of one's family and it involves life itself. There is still another ingredient that agitates the mixture: Food is bought daily or weekly. So the impact of rising prices, of the menace to life and security, is multiplied. Motivational psychologists find that the reaction to a 2-cent increase in the price of a food product is sometimes as great as a $50 increase in the price of a durable product which might be purchased three times in a life. Families that pride themselves on saving a few cents here and there by driving from one market to another to save on specials somehow feel that the 13 cents a mile it costs them is money well spent. And women who rebel at a penny markup on a 46-ounce can of tomato juice will be thrilled to spend $10 for one ounce of a beauty product whose powers never have been tested and which costs less than the jar that contains it. American families now spend less of their income for food than for any other people on earth—less than 20 per cent. And the percentage is steadily

Russell Stover chocolate candies are the going sweets, be it for a holiday or special occasion or just a gift for a loved one. B and B has them. B and B also has Pangburn's and Ann Raskas hard candies, in case something different than chocolates is desired. In women's fragrances, B and B stocks Nina Ricci, Lanvin, Crepe de Shine, Coty, Faberge and Vitabath. In the gift department, B and B carries such items as costume jewelry, glassware and billfolds. For those who want good cosmetics, B and B has several well-known lines of beauty aids, including Frances Denney, Dorothy Gray, Revlon, Bonne Belle and Allercreme. For men, B and B Pharmacy stocks goods to meet all shaving needs and men's fragrances. They carry English Leather in the regular or lemon-lime scent, "That Man" by Revlon, Old Spice, Robert Denney, Black Belt and Signorici. In addition to the fine gifts, B and B features well-trained pharmacists. The highly competent pharmacists at B and B have been filling prescriptions to the best of their ability and to their customers' satisfaction from their stock of 10,000 medicines since 1953. Pharmacist R.B. Ragsdale said the B and B pharmacists have filled well over half a million prescriptions since the store opened for business. Two pharmacists are on duty at all times at B and B and are on call on Sunday. B and B also offers "over-the-counter" medicines. They also carry Dr. Schol's remedies and are equipped to meet all drug and first-aid needs. With summer at hand, they also have remedies for sunburns. B and B also has a short order restaurant to aid customers if a hunger pang strikes. The eldest son of a British sovereign has held the title, Prince of Wales, since the reign of Edward III in the 14th century.

Whatever the need, B and B will handle it. Seven employees operate the business directed by F.L. Stone and Lucille Foster, co-owners.

Your
Horoscope
 By Jeanne Dixon

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 28
YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY:
 Following a period of experiment and search, you settle to a busy and many-sided mixture of career, social, and personal interests. Your skills find a better market. Keep ahead of fast-breaking developments. Today's natives have lively imaginations, ability in advertising or promotion.

Aries (March 21-April 19): Either you get right to the point and act on it or you waste the day in circular debates. Afternoon hours straighten out.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): There may be an extra reason for obstinate behavior. Think about your own reluctance. A pause in the morning hurts nothing, may help later.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): You really need advice and consent of all teammates. Ask questions, listen, let them resolve their doubts in the telling.

Cancer (June 21-July 21): Try to remember that nuances are temporary, particularly if you can avoid making issues of them. Some resistance is inevitable.

Leo (July 22-Aug. 22): Save your pride by evading a direct confrontation. Even where you are right, it doesn't help to compete openly at the present.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Words fly, some of them harsh. You'll be well off in realizing they're outside your proper experience, and disregarding personalities.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): There are puzzles to solve this morning, and you may be distracted in your work until you get things clear. Celebrate in the evening.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Travel, quick deals are not specially favored, traditional routine is, in contrast to usual modern conditions. Find time for study.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Reserve judgment on what you hear, and keep agreements tentative. When you know the entire story you will understand.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Any squabble today bears the seeds of possible final quarrels, so keep the peace. You can have the better conditions if you want.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Be sure it's not the beam in your own eye instead of the mote in the other fellow's before you start. Technical advice is favored.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): The fine shades of meaning make the difference. Remarks are taken seriously, even when you're just rambling along or joking.

Don't bury parental love until it's too late

By Abigail Van Buren
 (© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-St. V. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: My father wrote to you at least 12 years ago, and you put his letter in your column. (You reprinted it twice on request.) My father had it framed and when we brought him here last year to live with us, he carried it in his hands for fear it might get damaged or lost.

When he heard that his letter had been framed and hung in the chapel of a cemetery, he said, "What a pity it will be seen only by those for whom it is too late. It would accomplish more posted on a bulletin board in a high school."

Abby, he made me promise that after he died I would write and ask you to run it once more. He died one week ago today (at 72), so I hope you will print it once more in memory of my beloved father. Here it is:

"DEAR ABBY: I am the most heartbroken person in the world. I could always find the time to go everywhere else, but never time to go visit Mom and Dad. They sat at home alone and loving me just the same. It's too late now to give them those few hours of happiness I was too selfish and too busy to give. Now when I go to their graves and see the green grass above them, I wonder if God will ever forgive me for the heartaches I must have caused them when they were alive. I pray to God that those who still have their parents to visit, do so, and show their love and respect while there is still time, for it's later than you think.
 TOO LATE"

DEAR ABBY: While my wife and I were at the movies last evening, a middle-aged woman sitting next to my wife spilled some popcorn on my wife's new suede coat. The butter stains were immediately visible.

I called it to the lady's attention, and all she said was, "Oh, I'm so sorry."

I then whispered to my wife that it would cost about $8 to have her coat cleaned and I was going to suggest to the lady that she should pay for the cleaning. My wife told me not to make a scene, so I kept my mouth shut.

We left the theater and that was that.

Abby, would I have been out of line to have asked the lady to pay for having my wife's coat cleaned?

BEFUDDLED

DEAR BEFUDDLED: No. And you wouldn't have been out of line had you asked the theater manager to pop for the cleaning. (This is a new way to "butter up" customers.)

DEAR ABBY: If you can stand just one more letter about whether to share prize recipes, here it is:

I have a number of excellent recipes, and I have always given them to anyone who asked for them. Like you, my philosophy was, "Do I enjoy something less because someone else enjoys it, too?"

My generosity paid off when I lost one of my favorite recipes. (It was Spanish rice with about 16 ingredients.) I simply telephoned a friend to whom I had given it, and she gave it back to me.

Now, where would I have been if I had refused to share my best recipes?

HELEN

DEAR HELEN: Out of luck! Good for you. I'm sure many others (including this writer) have had the identical experience.

DEAR ABBY: Sorry to inform you that your husband is not the world's best salesman. My ex-husband is.

He sold my former best friend on the idea that he would make a better husband than her own. I expect any day to hear that he has been called up before the Better Business Bureau for false advertising. GOOD RIDDANCE

The Professor won the heart lead with his king and proceeded to lay down the ace of spades. Then he led the ten of clubs and let it ride.

East won with the king. He thought for a while before leading another heart. This play turned out to be a mild mistake because the Professor proceeded to run off all dummy's clubs to discard all his three diamonds and make an overtrick.

Of course, West trumped the last club but he had to trump it with the king.

"Golly," said the student. "How did you know not to take the trump finesse?"

"I didn't know anything at all about it. As a matter of

Babe Ruth Queen Contest Deadline Set For Friday

The Babe Ruth Baseball Queen Contest is in its final week, with the deadline set at midnight Friday. Mrs. Lloyd Summers, contest chairman, announced today. The event is being sponsored by the Pampa Opt-Mrs Club.

At the beginning of the season, each Babe Ruth team elected a queen, with the title of all-star queen to go to the queen of the team that raises the most money, all of which goes to the Optimist baseball program.

The winner will receive a $50 savings bond, and the runner-up a $25 savings bond during crowning ceremonies next week.

Pampa's all star queen will go with her team as far as it goes in district, bi-district, regional, state and national competition, and will compete with queens of other communities for additional honors. In the past, Pampa has had three girls reign as state queens.

Team mothers were chosen to be in charge of the fund-raising activities. Special emphasis was placed this year on membership in the Pampa Optimist Booster Club. Bake sales and rummage sales have been held as well as display boards in various business featuring a jar beside each queen's picture, with a penny counting as one vote.

Babe Ruth Queens vying for the all-star title are Cyndi Koetting, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Koetting, Ideal Food Store team, with Mrs. Jack Lowe as team mother; Brenda Cox, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Cox, John's Inc. team, with Mrs. Leon Taylor and Mrs. Ray Hudson as team mothers; Gail Lynn Simon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Simon, First National Bank team, with Mrs. Tupie Lowe as team mother; Lisa Watson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Watson, Cree team, with Mrs. Jim Leverick as team mother.

And Shelley Covalt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Covalt, Pampa Hardware team, with Mrs. Bob Thrasher and Mrs. Don Klepper as team mothers; Debra Hickman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Hickman, team mother; Vicki Youngblood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C.S. Youngblood, Pampa Lions Club team, with Mrs. LeRoy Morris as team mother; Dana Rogers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Frasier as team mother.

African Violet Society Has Talk On Pollution

"Pollution And You" was the program topic presented by Mrs. Holly Gray at the dinner meeting of the Pampa African Violet Society.

"Man has lost the real, rich things of nature and replaced them with his own imitations," she told the women. "Now he is paying for it with polluted air and water, cancer, emphysema and the like."

She explained African violet growers are guilty of "sins against nature" by using synthetic soils, fertilizers and pesticides, adding that the tiny environment of a potted plant is part of the "total environment."

"We can lessen this crime against nature by practicing organic growing and gardening, using chemicals only in extreme cases," she pointed out. "More and more gardeners and flower growers are using compost heaps and nature's way of growing."

Mrs. Gray said plants are "great purifiers," providing food, shelter, clothing and "lovely landscapes," as well as the "breath of life" since they give off oxygen which man breathes in and in turn, use carbon dioxide, which man breathes out. She explained moving air masses help distribute oxygen throughout the world.

"Where trees and vegetation cover the land, their leaves absorb and filter out large amounts of soot, dust and other particles floating in the air,"

ABANDONED LANGUAGES NEW YORK (AP) - An Irish scholar is studying Yiddish at Yeshiva University to determine whether there is any relation between the fate of the Irish language and the trend in the use of Yiddish in the United States.

"There has been a clearly discernible trend in America for the Yiddish-English bilingual (person) to abandon Yiddish in favor of English," says Alan J. Hudson, the Irish scholar.

"In Ireland a similar development has been occurring; that is, the adoption of English over the Gaelic language."

The scholar says, "I would like to expand this investigation into the history and current status of the Irish language situation with a view to helping formulate national language policy."

The student, the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hudson, of Baile Atha Cliath, Ireland, has been doing graduate work here since 1968 under a fellowship from Ireland's Ministry of Education.

HUMOR IN LAW VANCOUVER (AP) - Grogging humor out of the law is being rewarded, says David Huberman, professor of law at the University of British Columbia.

He's devoted years to sifting out what little humor there is in the mills of justice and plans to write a book about it.

At one time he was chairman of admissions to the UBC law faculty and he's called a couple of answers to admission questions, turned in by law students and student accountants.
