

Finding the unfindable Call for rickshaw, book

CHICAGO (AP) — Ellen Levine wasn't the least nonplussed when someone called her recently and asked her to find a rickshaw. She didn't bat an eyelash when someone else wanted a windshield frame for a 1932 Ford. She found both items.

When a third person called and wanted to rent a sheep "for a party" Ms. Levine said "can do" — pausing only to make sure that the animal would be humanely treated.

Ms. Levine, a former medical technician, has been in business for herself since January as the founder, proprietor and sole full time employee of Dial-A-Maven, a service for finding the unfindable.

A maven, for those who know no Yiddish, is a connoisseur, an adviser and a general know-it-all on a particular subject.

Dial-A-Maven is for the man who can't remember the words to the song that's been running through his head, the collector who wants animal figurines carved of Russian malachite or the lady who wants to find an acupuncturist or an obscure Hawaiian bath oil.

Ms. Levine finds those things and just about anything else, as long as it's legal. She now handles for 30 to 50 requests a week.

In filling the requests, Ms. Levine relies on telephone and business directories, research facilities and an ever-widening network of personal contacts. She charges a base fee of $25 for putting buyer and seller in contact, plus expenses such as long-distance telephone calls and extra time for especially hard-to-find items.

Her most common requests, she says, are for rare books, old opera recordings and pre-Elvis Presley rock-and-roll records. She also gets a lot of requests for antiques and decor items.

Camera crews shooting advertising layouts are some of Dial-A-Maven's most faithful customers. Ms. Levine has arranged for them to rent such items as a gazebo, a horsedrawn milk wagon and a crank-operated washing machine.

Some of the requests are for services. A woman recently sought — and got — a job on a river barge, and Ms. Levine is currently dickering with several farmers to find a country home for a too-large city dog.

Perhaps the most unusual recent request came from a transplanted New Yorker who was outraged to find that Nathan's Famous hot dogs were unobtainable in Chicago.

The man demanded to know why, and asked for an outline of Nathan's entire distribution system as well as a list of cities other than New York where the hot dogs were available. Dial-A-Maven found the information for him.

The client said he was getting tired of making the 1,800-mile round trip to New York's Coney Island every time he wanted to lay in a supply.

Wax in their ears

Once upon a time, Britain's royal family was the young family represented here. The wax group, receiving a final touch up from hairdresser Cathy Holton, represents Queen Elizabeth II, Prince Philip, Prince Charles and Princess Anne in 1962. The group is a special display at Madame Tussaud's wax museum in London during the Queen's silver jubilee.

AM could get delay on auto-exhaust rules

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate seems ready to give American Motors a special delay in meeting clean air rules, but remains deeply divided over how long an extension to hand the rest of the industry.

Mother found innocent in child's death

DALLAS (AP) — A Dallas County Criminal Court jury has found Mrs. Kathleen Senvey Elliot, 33, innocent in the death of her seven-month-old adopted daughter.

The jury deliberated for almost ten hours Wednesday and at one time told Judge James K. Allen it could not agree on a verdict. The judge, however, sent the jurors back to the deliberating room saying the case "must be disposed at some time and another trial would be a heavy burden on both sides."

Mrs. Elliot had been charged with first-degree murder and faced a possible sentence of five to ten years in prison. When the verdict was announced Mrs. Elliot broke into tears. She had remained almost emotionless during the trial. Members of her family, including her 13-year-old son, sat in the courtroom during the week of testimony listening to the trial.

Mrs. Elliot told the jury she was "angry and frustrated" when she was holding her daughter above her head in the bathroom shaking the child to "soothe it and make it stop crying." She denied any intent to harm the baby saying the girl accidentally fell from her hands and hit the bathroom floor.

Discrimination could be legalized

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A California legislator who says he prayed with Anita Bryant and campaigned with her in Florida is introducing a bill to legalize discrimination against gay teachers.

State Sen. John Briggs of Fullerton, a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor next year, said Wednesday he is assured Miss Bryant will campaign for his legislation if her help is needed.

Briggs said the bill he is introducing would give California school districts "the right to discriminate against homosexual teachers. The school board would have the right not to hire them, and would have the right to fire them."

"If I can't get that bill out of this house, then I intend to run it as an initiative."

"I told Anita about that, and I told her I don't know what the outcome is going to be," Briggs said. "I feel confident I can call on Anita Bryant and Bob Green, her husband, to come to California and give me a hand on it if I feel I need it."

After her group won a 2-1 majority Tuesday to repeal the Dade County homosexual rights ordinance, Miss Bryant said she would continue her campaign against gays nationwide, and specified California as a spot of special concern.

Briggs said he did not meet her until last Sunday in Miami, when "my wife and I went to her church, and we sat beside her, and shared the Bible and we prayed."

"She's in a position where she's awakened America. She really views homosexuals as a dangerous threat to children, to our religious way of life, maybe to the very survival of America," Briggs said.

Revenue sharing audits Panola

LONGVIEW, Tex. (AP) — The Longview Morning Journal reported in a copyright story Wednesday that the federal Office of Revenue Sharing will audit Panola County revenue sharing funds.

The paper said the audit will begin June 13 and is in response to citizen complaints alleging misuse of the funds and discriminatory hiring practices.

"I don't know what it's all about," said Panola County Judge Danny Buck Davidson.

"This is the first time we've ever had an audit."

The county has received $1.2 million in revenue sharing funds since the program started in 1973.

County auditor Billy Grimes said he knows of no problems with the county funds.

Federal officials told the county that the name of the complainant would remain confidential, but that the first complaint was filed June 15, 1975.

Chapman picks sermon

Dr. William E. Chapman, former professor in the Department of Religion at McMurry College in Abilene, will preach at the First Presbyterian Church here at the 10:45 Worship Hour Sunday morning.

Chapman will discuss "Piety for Tomorrow." Chapman now lives in Lubbock where he will be installed June 19 as campus pastor for the United Campus Ministry Council at Texas Tech University.

Following the worship service will be a congregational meeting to elect an elder to fill an unexpired term. The Congregational Nominating Committee has nominated Mrs. E.L. Biggerstaff.

At 9:30 Wednesday morning will be a prayer group open to the public. The group will meet in the West Room throughout the summer.

Pastor names lesson

"Control of the Tongue" will be the adult lesson at the United Pentecostal Church, 610 Naida, according to the Rev. H.M. Veach, pastor.

"The tongue has immense possibilities for both evil and good," Rev. Veach said. "Only when God controls the heart can he control the tongue."

Sunday School at the church begins at 10 a.m. and a prayer service at 6 p.m. Sunday precedes the worship service at 6:30 p.m. Bible study and worship services are 7:30 p.m. Wednesdays.

Rev. Veach said services at the church are open to the public and persons in need of transportation should call 665-4936.

Church league to prepare softball area

The Pampa Church Slowpitch Softball League will meet at 5 p.m. Saturday in the field behind St. Vincent de Paul Catholic Church to ready the field for the season opener Monday.

Season schedules will be available for those who missed the last meeting and Saturday is the deadline for paying the $10 per team entry fee.

Members attending Saturday's meeting should bring mowers and come prepared to work, according to one league official.

Communion services set

Communion services will be Saturday at the Pampa Seventh-day Adventist Church, 425 Ward.

The public is invited to the communion service at 11 a.m. and Bible School at 9:30 a.m., said Franklin D. Horne, pastor.

Topic of the sermon will be "Christ's Pardon Offer to Mankind."

Scholars search-- where is God?

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Through the evolving circumstances of history, the locale of God seems to shift about in the human viewpoint — from the mysteries of nature to the heavens above, from crusading armies to feasts of science to the privacy of individual contemplation.

Where is he to be found now? The question, and the changing perspectives of time and cultures, were examined by Christian and Jewish scholars at a conference at the University of Chicago Divinity School. They sounded a common theme — that the modern age tends to focus on a new setting of transcendence.

Each generation has "its own way of looking" at reality, said Rabbi Lawrence Hoffman of Hebrew Union College-Jewish Institute of Religion in New York City. He said an older generation sensed "a lofty and majestic God" in awesome dimensions, but nowadays he is increasingly conceived in more intimate, inward terms.

"Today's young people seek religious expression through relationships community and personal," he said.

That intangible, greater-than-self existence that seems to come about through inter-personal exchange and sharing was cited by several participants as the zone in which the contemporary generation seems best to realize the presence of an "Other" — of God.

Catholic debate gets heated over sexuality

NEW YORK (AP) — While debate heated up on the new Roman Catholic study on sexuality and its rejection of some codified Church taboos, its compilers pointed out that it also sets definite guidelines itself for even higher, personal sexual ideals.

Taking a positive view, the study says sex is meant to "foster a creative growth toward integration," adding that this capacity is impaired by tendencies to look on sex in a "furtive, disassociated way."

"Christians must therefore be encouraged to embrace their sexuality joyfully and in full consciousness," says the book-length study, "Human Sexuality: New Directions in American Catholic Thought."

Already, even before its official publication date June 24 by Paulist Press, the study's challenging of Church prohibitions against contraception, artificial insemination and various other practices has touched off controversy.

More of it is inevitable, editorializes the Catholic diocesan weekly, the Brooklyn Tablet, urging people to read the full report "before you judge."

Actually, its main difference is a "personalist" approach to sexual ethics based on particular circumstances and conscience, rather than the traditional Catholic "objectivist" approach, specifying certain acts as always immoral.

events—the Nazi holocaust, the atom bomb, erosion of the earth's resources, poisoning of the air—and people became disillusioned with the "God of materialism, technology and the computer."

So humanity hunts a new frame of reference for transcendence. Basically, in Judeo-Christian theology, God surpasses human thinking and his presence and caring reach everywhere, from the galaxies to the most secret self, yet each person is left free to embrace or reject it.

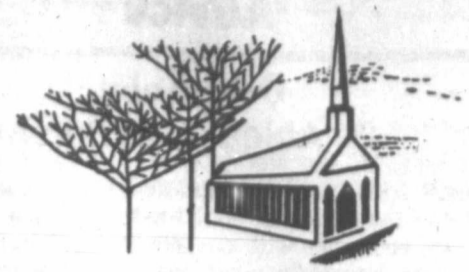

Nowadays, many people identify worship with a "sense of community," said Rabbi Haskell Bernal of Hollywood, Calif. He said the most effective clergy are "the one's not preaching, but creating participation."

Father Pawlikowski said the theological task is to find a way to "articulate a notation of transcendence which can counterbalance the potential for destructiveness found in the contemporary human condition," but theology can't do it alone.

"It will have to emerge from religious experience in which people genuinely feel contact with a power beyond themselves."

"It will have to provide contact with a loving presence which draws us beyond ourselves and in so doing provides a moral norm greater than ourselves which can guide and judge our conduct toward our fellow human being and the earth we have been given."

Precious SIGHT

No price is too high to pay to protect the eyesight of ourselves and our children. Good eyesight is an absolute necessity in the earning of our livelihood, in the school work of our children, and in the enjoyment of all of life.

But there is another type of sight which in these times is often neglected — spiritual sight. We and our children need to be established and grounded in the love of God and His commandments, and to rely on Him. We need to meet His requirement of loving our neighbors as ourselves, thus making a better home life, community life and a better world. Psalms 34:8 reads, "O taste and see that the Lord is good; blessed is the man that trusteth in Him." Attend the church of your choice

EVERYONE IN THE CHURCH
THE CHURCH IN EVERYONE

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

The Lighter Side

TORONTO (AP) — Laws against molesting squirrels or disturbing fish are among those Mel Lastman, mayor of Metropolitan Toronto's borough of North York, wants removed from the books.

"After all, who would molest a squirrel, except another squirrel," he said in calling for a clean-up of the borough's laws.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (AP) — Even Hollywood couldn't overstate the drinking problems of ancient Rome, says an article by the late E. M. Jellinek in the current Journal of Studies on Alcohol.

Jellinek, founder of Rutgers University's Center of Alcohol Studies, said wine drinking was playing a major role in Roman life by 200 B.C. when alarmed senators tried without much success to impose government controls over drinking rituals.

By the first century B.C., he said, Roman literature included Antony's autobiography, believed the first by an alcoholic, and Horace's writings on addiction and withdrawal.

Jellinek said Roman problem drinking and alcoholism took four centuries to develop and did not begin to decline until 100 A.D. But ultimately, he said, it was class pride and selfishness, not drinking, that brought Rome's fall in about 400 A.D.

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP) — Will Buchta figures the rotating barber pole is a tradition worth fighting city hall about, and he's winning.

"Once you turn off your barber pole, that says you're out of business," the 54-year-old hair-clipper said Wednesday. "It destroys the traditional symbol of the barber shops of America."

This spring the city ordered all 12 barber shops with rotating red and white striped poles to turn them off, claiming they violate a 1969 ordinance that outlawed moving signs in an effort to control advertising in neighborhoods.

"If they get away with this, next they could outlaw outside clocks or maybe stop church bells from chiming. I feel the issue I'm standing on is much larger than just the sign law," says Buchta.

The city attorney has been asked to draft an ordinance to exempt barber poles from the ordinance.

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — A government engineer who has developed a machine to prune, spray and harvest apple trees says fruit trees should be pruned into cube shapes to make harvesting easier.

"The shapes we're talking about may seem fanciful ... but in the orchard business you either change or cease to exist," says Dr. Bernard Tennes, agricultural engineer with the USDA's Agricultural Research Service at East Lansing, Mich.

Tennes and other Michigan scientists have developed a machine that will straddle 10-foot high apple trees, prune them, spray them, then return to harvest them six months later. It will be easily adaptable for peaches, plums, oranges and other fruits, Tennes says.

But traditional apple trees, 20 feet tall and 30 feet wide, are too large for such mechanized, assembly-line techniques, Tennes said.

So, "instead of designing equipment to suit the shape of fruit trees, we should shape the trees to suit ... machines," he says.

Stretch to fit, says author

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

After 35 years of teaching physical fitness, Russian-born Manya Kahn of New York is convinced she always has been on the right track — many of her long-time students are now in their 70s, she says, and they look far younger than their age.

"Exercise is indispensable to the dieter as well as to the person who just wants to keep fit. Many women go to weight-reducing places, but when they lose 30 or so pounds their skin hangs loosely on their bodies. Only by exercising as you diet can you keep your skin looking well. It adjusts as you exercise," she explained in an interview in her salon.

A former professional dancer — she began to study ballet at 5 — Mrs. Kahn has weathered the years well. Her exercises concentrate on the spinal column. Correct posture can keep one looking young into old age and avoid "bad back roundness."

The exercises are based on stretch routines coordinated with deep breathing and a relaxed body, movements that she used in teaching ballet classes even as a teen-ager.

She doesn't approve of "jerky movements," taught by many salons. Her own carpeted salon in an East Side town house is quiet with little hint that women are on massage tables, slant boards, and in classes and private sessions where they are doing rhythmic exercises. It seems effortless and that's the whole point, she explained.

"It is one reason I have put it all in a book," she said of her newly published "Body Rhythms: A New Approach to Exercise." The exercises can be done effortlessly at home as well. The book, with its divisions into basic, elementary, intermediate and advanced exercises, provides a chart for observing one's progress. A 10-day program also includes a diet.

Her body rhythm movements follow the growth of a child from babyhood and are done in five positions — lying down, sitting, half-reclining, kneeling and standing — a system that she believes retrains, strengthens and reshapes the body. In the '40s Mrs. Kahn had studied physical therapy, working in hospitals where she was fascinated with the study of the anatomy as she learned about natural healing methods, corrective diets, hydrotherapy, passive exercises and systems of face and body massage.

"The lower back is a major tension area because we do not use that part of our body very much," she said. "When tension develops in that region it becomes worse unless we do something about it."

Here is a basic one, a full body stretch: Lie flat with lower back touching mat or board, knees straight, arms at side, toes pointed. Flex both feet, bringing toes toward you, pushing heels out to straighten knees. Breathe in while arms are stretched out sideways, then back, stretching elbows and fingers at the same time. Hold for one second. Breathe out while returning slowly to starting position. Relax. Repeat five times.

BODY RHYTHMS—An exercise from Manya Kahn's book is this torso stretch: (A) breathe in and raise arms; (B) breathe out, swaying torso back, bouncing back and forth three times, stretching from thighs; (C) breathe in as hands are clasped behind, bring torso back to upright position; (D) breathe out, bend torso forward and down with hands and arms stretching way up behind you; (E) bounce three times from hip joints. Return to starting position. Relax. Repeat five times.

Wants panties tested

SANTA MONICA (AP) — The defense attorney for movie director Roman Polanski has asked to have shipped to a Texas laboratory a pair of copper-colored panties worn by a 13-year-old girl Polanski is accused of raping.

Douglas Dalton, the 43-year-old director's attorney, made the request Wednesday before Superior Court Judge Laurence J. Rittenband, asking to have laboratory tests made on the panties to conduct tests for the presence of sperm or semen.

The prosecutor, Roger Gunson, said the panties, which are prosecution evidence, should not leave California. He expressed concern that they would be lost or damaged in transit, and suggested several local laboratories that could conduct the tests.

Rittenband scheduled a hearing for June 17 for this and other pretrial motions.

A June 29 trial date has been set for the six-count indictment against Polanski charging rape, sex perversion and drug abuse.

ARE YOU PREPARED?

As we all should know, the most important thing in life, is to prepare for its end, physical death. In Hebrews 9:27, the Bible teaches that death is appointed unto all. From it there is no escape. While we are living is the only time we have to prepare ourselves our death and the eternity into which it will plunge us. As death finds us, so will the judgment and so shall we be in eternity. This is clearly taught in the Bible yet many people seem to be completely unaware of it.

The world in which we live has gone mad over what is called pleasure, sinful activities and no matter at whose expense it is to be gained. Some seemingly have the idea that since we only live once, we should "live it up" now. If a man wants another man's wife, or a woman wants the husband of another, they care not for breaking up homes and marriages to satisfy that lust of the flesh. Both men and women try to add to their pleasure by the use of alcohol. This, too, destroys homes and marriages. Sometimes children are abused by parents who are in a drunken stupor. The family income is spent "over the bar" and children lack food, shelter and clothing. BUT ... parents have a good time and government gets the revenue.

Neither man nor government can mock God. He has spoken regarding marriage and its responsibilities. "Therefore shall a man leave his father and mother and shall cleave unto his wife and they shall be one flesh" (Gen. 2:24). He has also spoken regarding drunkenness (alcoholism). It is NOT a disease, it is sin. Man does it himself. "They which do such things shall not inherit the kingdom of God" (Gal. 5:19-21). The nation that permits such things and profits by them stands to be judged. The Psalmist says the nations that forget God shall be turned into hell (Psalms 19:17).

Indeed, God is not mocked. We shall reap (are reaping now) as we sow (Gal. 6:7-8). The New Testament teaches man how to live NOW to prepare for death and eternity. God says, "we are to hear His voice today" (Heb. 3:15). Are you prepared? are you interested in making preparation? When do you plan to begin? Think on these things.

Legless woman to fly alone

DALLAS (AP) — Alverna Williams, who lost both legs in an accident as an infant, intends to fly the entire cross-country Powder Puff Derby alone — even though a taking a co-pilot would cut the crushing expenses.

"I know what I am," said Mrs. Williams, 48, who "walks" on exceptionally strong hands protected by low-heeled shoes. "I have no legs. If someone goes with me, the public will think the other woman did everything."

"By going by myself no one can say I didn't do it. People in this country have been told too many lies about handicapped people, but I won't be one of them."

Mrs. Williams, a housewife and mother of two adult children, says it will cost her more than $3,500 to take part in the Powder Puff Derby's 30th anniversary commemorative flight from California to Florida on July 14.

"It's costing me a fortune," she admitted.

Her search for a sponsor has been unsuccessful. "So far my sponsors are my friends and fellow pilots who've donated what they can," she said. "It's kind of hard to find a sponsor when you don't look like Farrah Fawcett-Majors."

Mrs. Williams' legs were amputated at the hips after she was in an auto accident when she was a year old. As a child she wore artificial legs but discarded them because they were too rigid.

In 1944, at age 16, she learned to fly an airplane with hand-operated controls. After passing all the required tests — physical and technical — she was refused a license by federal authorities.

She threatened to take the matter to court and the Civil Air Administration, now the FAA, relented, issuing her the first pilot's license ever granted to a handicapped person.

Three years later, she soloed cross-country. Mrs. Williams also drives, swims, surfs, bowls, tap dances and rides a motorcycle. She met her husband, a former aircraft technician, while riding a motorcycle.

The Powder Puff Derby will be Mrs. Williams' first, since she hasn't been able to qualify her single-engine plane. "It wasn't fast enough," she said. "But this year the Powder Puff isn't a race, so it's been opened up to less powerful planes."

The Powder Puff commemorative flight, limited to 150 planes, covers the original 1947 race route.

Ocean oarsman stops

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The fury of an Atlantic storm broke the will of a young man who thought he could row the ocean alone.

After almost seven weeks at sea, Steve Kurachi watched the storm developing last Thursday.

"I realized that evening there was a changing sea state, that something wasn't right. The swells were coming out of the southwest, and the wind from the northeast — that hadn't happened before."

"Soon the swells were coming from both directions. It was 8 o'clock when I got hit by the first wave. It slammed into me and ... well, it wasn't really frightening, but it was unnerving. It keeled the boat over 90 degrees, and I wedged myself into one end."

"I kept thinking it would be 10 hours before the sun would come up, and I'd be there alone for that long."

"The waves sounded like locomotives. The second one hit me one hour later, and keeled me over 110 degrees. That's when I lost my contaminated water. All the water was gone, soaking my bedding, all the water was gone."

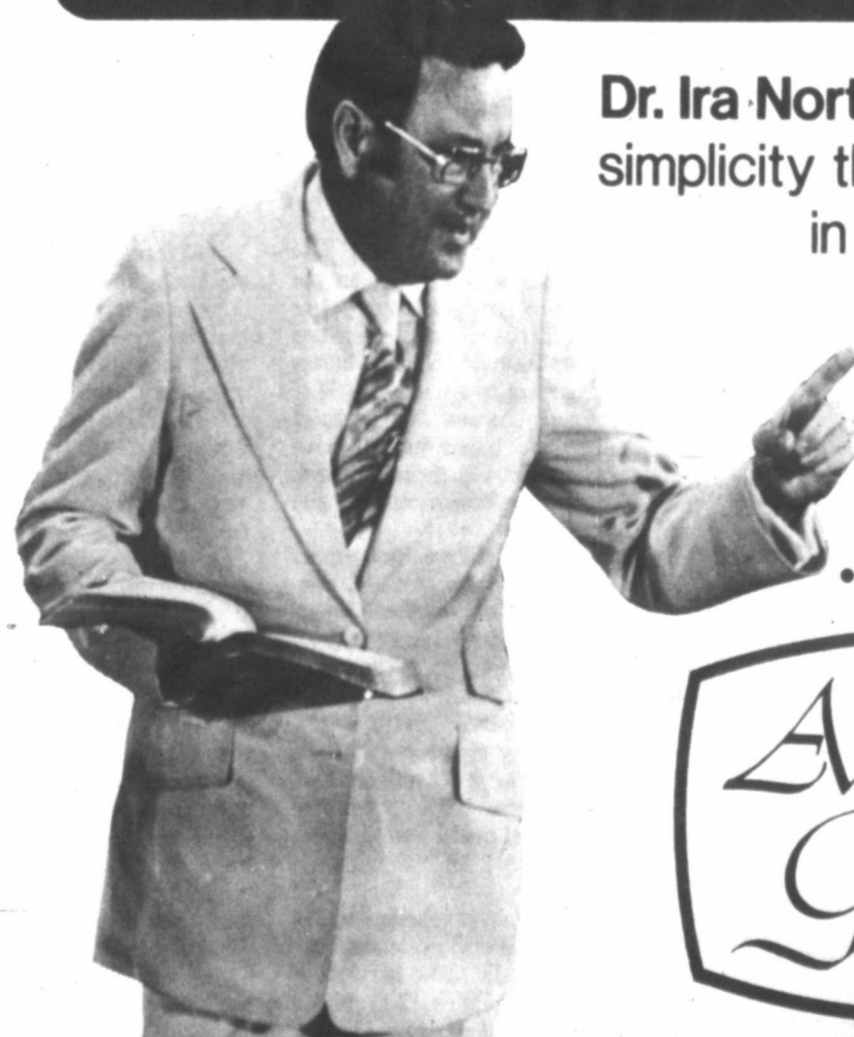

"Forty minutes later another wave hit, and then another 20 minutes later. The wind was literally screaming — it's usually a dull roar."

Kurachi sent out an emergency radio call for help. A U. S. Navy plane flew over and contacted a Japanese freighter, which rescued him Friday northeast of Bermuda.

The 25-year-old Austinite set sail April 15 from Wilmington Beach, N. C., and planned to arrive in England in late August and be the first American to row the Atlantic.

His water bags containing 87 gallons mysteriously ruptured after only six days and became contaminated, but he drank it for more than a month without getting ill. He also lost 40 pounds.

Reagan attacks Carter's policies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ronald Reagan, who never got a chance to run against Jimmy Carter, is campaigning against him now and is emerging as the sharpest Republican critic of the Democratic administration.

In speeches Thursday in New York and Washington, Reagan attacked Carter's policies at home and abroad and accused him of violating his campaign promise to restore confidence in government.

At a $100-a-plate fundraiser here for conservative causes, Reagan said Carter promised during the 1976 campaign that he would "never become part of this city's buddy system."

But Reagan, who also campaigned on an anti-Washington theme in his unsuccessful run for the GOP nomination, said Carter has "managed to adapt rather well to this city that has become his home."

"He's been in office now for nearly six months and in that time has managed to assemble the largest and highest paid White House staff in history," Reagan said.

"It strikes me as unusual that a man who was going to restore our faith in Washington would, as one of his first acts, propose to change the election laws so that congressional incumbents will be able to tap the federal till for their campaign funds," Reagan said.

The former actor and two-term governor of California also attacked Carter's support for repeal of Hatch Act prohibitions against government workers participating in partisan politics.

"It strikes me as unusual that a man who says he is beholden to no special interests advances the repeal of legislation designed to insulate federal government workers from crass political pressure," he said.

And he opposed Carter's plan to allow election day voter registration, sounding the theme repeatedly used by GOP members of Congress. Reagan called the proposal "a scheme that would debase the franchise by opening our electoral system to wholesale fraud."

"In light of all this, I'm afraid that I can only conclude that if the American people want to cut back government, they're going to have to look somewhere besides the White House, where the Democrats are simply doing business as usual."

Earlier in the day, in a New York speech before the Foreign Policy Association, Reagan attacked Carter's foreign policy, especially his human rights campaign.

"The new administration's foreign policy has aimed most of its human rights criticisms at governments which are no threat to others and which, despite not always behaving precisely as we might like, have nevertheless been our friends," he said.

Reagan criticized the administration for opposing chrome imports from Rhodesia while opening trade with Cuba and negotiating a canal treaty with Panama. It was Reagan, in his primary battle against Gerald Ford, who first made Panama Canal treaty negotiations a campaign issue.

Spacemen get new duds

Lightweight new suit will be worn by astronauts on the coming Space Shuttle flights. Weighing 170 pounds, compared with the 212-pound suits of the Apollo moon mission suits, the new two-part design allows spacemen to perform more tasks with less physical exertion. The upper torso is of rigid aluminum with backpack attached. Sizes — large, medium and small — are adjustable to fit different wearers.

Special session possible

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The special session on public school financing should be held "as soon as possible," Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and Speaker Billy Clayton have told Gov. Dolph Briscoe.

Briscoe has said he will call a special session if assured each House will give the necessary two-thirds approval to put the measure into immediate effect.

Hobby told reporters before the meeting with Briscoe he would recommend the session start on June 20. Afterward, however, he said he mentioned no specific date to the governor.

Hobby and Clayton also said they asked Briscoe to include property tax reform and a constitutional amendment on assessing agricultural land for its agricultural value in the call for the special session.

Whites get most top jobs in Carter's administration

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite President Carter's promises to place women and minorities in high-level positions throughout the government, 76 per cent of the top 265 jobs in the Carter administration are filled by white males.

The administration says it has hired a greater percentage of women and minorities than did previous administrations, but a White House aide conceded, "Obviously, there hasn't been a huge number of appointments" of women and blacks.

Just as obviously, representatives of blacks and women are less than satisfied with the record.

Figures compiled by the White House personnel office show that women hold 14 per cent of the top jobs, including Cabinet, subcabinet and ambassadorial positions. Blacks hold 9 per cent of the jobs and Hispanics 4 per cent. There is one Asian-American — Assistant Secretary of State Patsy Mink. There are no American Indians.

"make the fullest possible use of the women in America in helping carry out my program for America."

Before a women's group last October, he vowed to insist on hiring that would bring more women into the highest civil service levels.

Similar promises were made about minority groups and their roles in a Carter administration.

Now, with most of the top positions filled, Freddie Wechsler, a spokeswoman for the National Women's Political Caucus, says expectations for the number of women in decision-making roles have not been met by actual appointments.

Crowded field expected

HOUSTON (AP) — The decision by Houston Mayor Fred Hofheinz to step down at the end of his current term is expected to open the political gates for a crowd of candidates in the November 8 city election.

Frank Briscoe, a former district attorney who lost Hofheinz in the 1975 election, probably will make a formal announcement at a news conference today.

Jim McConn, a former city councilman, said two weeks ago he intended to enter the race.

Others considered as possible candidates are Andrew Jefferson, a former state district court judge, and Steve Oaks, once the Harris County Democratic chairman.

Jefferson, a black, managed the Hofheinz campaign in 1975, and said Thursday, "I don't know how long it will take me to decide, but I ought to know in a week or two. I think I could put together the total package that would make the whole community respond regardless of my race."

Hofheinz received strong support from the blacks of Houston during his two campaigns.

The son of a former mayor, Hofheinz, 39, was considered by most political observers a winner if he went for a third two-year term.

Woman held in infant death

PONCA CITY, Okla. (AP) — A woman believed to be the mother of an infant boy whose body was found in a trash can alongside a state highway was questioned Thursday at a hospital in Waseca, Minn., authorities said.

The woman was tentatively identified as Sue Thomas, Ponca, Tex.

She was reported recovering from an infection.

Authorities said she had checked into the hospital Sunday.

The body of the baby boy was found in a trash can at an Interstate 35 rest area south of Tonkawa, Okla., by a motorist on Sunday.

A medical examiner said the baby had died within minutes of its birth on Saturday of a blood clot in its head.

The Kay County district attorney's office said charges of failure to report a death and improper disposal of a human body may be filed.

Officials said the child was apparently born in a motel room at Pauls Valley, Okla.

The woman then headed north toward a friend's house in Minnesota, leaving the body in a trash can when she panicked upon realizing the child was dead.

Mrs. Harris is the only black in the Cabinet. Other high level blacks include U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young, Army Secretary Clifford Alexander, Solicitor General Wade McCree and Eleanor Holmes Norton, chairwoman of the Equal Employment Opportunities Commission.

Ann Kolker, the legislative coordinator of the Caucus, said the group was "thrilled with the quality of the women appointees" but extremely disappointed with the quantity.

There are two women in Carter's Cabinet: Commerce Secretary Juanita Kreps and Patricia Roberts Harris, secretary of Housing and Urban Development. In the White House itself there is one woman, Margaret "Midge" Costanza, in the ranks of the top presidential assistants.

Farm report Two billion bushels expected

BY DON KENDALL, AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farmers may be well on the way toward production of a wheat crop of more than two billion bushels, the third bumper harvest in a row.

Crops the last two years of over two billion bushels have helped rebuild dwindling U.S. supplies to the largest levels in 14 years.

The Agriculture Department said Wednesday that 1977 winter wheat production, which traditionally accounts for about three-fourths of total wheat output, is expected to be almost 1.53 billion bushels.

If spring planted wheat produces at least 500 million bushels, as some USDA experts believe, total production this year could exceed two billion bushels again.

Last year production was a near record of almost 2.15 billion bushels. The harvest in 1975 was almost 2.14 billion bushels. Before that, in 1974, the most wheat U.S. farmers ever produced was under 1.8 billion bushels.

The new estimate for winter wheat was based on surveys as of June 1. It was up 3 per cent from prospects on May 1 because of good weather in much of the growing area.

Last winter it appeared that much of the crop in the drought-stricken Great Plains might not survive and 1977 production might decline sharply. But good spring weather has changed the situation.

Thus, the United States has had a rapid growth in wheat stockpiles. Those were estimated as of June 1 at 1.1 billion bushels, the most since nearly 1.3 billion bushels were in surplus on June 1, 1963.

Only three years ago, following huge exports to the Soviet Union and other countries beginning in 1972, the June 1 wheat inventory was at a quarter-century low of 340 million bushels. The buildup has had a strong effect on farmers who have seen prices tumble from more than $5 a bushel a few years ago.

As of May 15, the national average farm price of wheat was $2.29 a bushel, compared with $3.43 on the same date last year. Many farmers have seen local elevator prices decline to less than $2 a bushel as this year's harvest began.

Exports have not kept pace with production and domestic wheat consumption is relatively stable. About 750 million bushels is required domestically for food, seed, feed and other purposes each year.

That means that when farmers produce a wheat crop of two billion bushels they must export at least 1.25 billion bushels or a surplus results. Exports currently are about 960 million bushels a year.

With other countries also turning out more wheat, competition for world markets is intense. Australia, Canada and Argentina have ample supplies and look toward the same markets sought by U.S. exporters.

The Soviet Union in the past has sporadically bought huge quantities of grain when its crops are short, but indications are that the 1977 Russian grain harvest will be a near record. China is another big importer, but so far has turned to Canada and other countries for grain.

Consequently, if the 1977 harvest is as large as it now looks, American farmers will see further downward pressure on market prices. They also will renew demands for the Carter administration and Congress to raise federal price supports.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The problems involving the use of the nation's land must be solved mainly by local people and their organizations, at least for the time being, a senior Agriculture Department official said today.

Assistant Secretary M. Rupert Cutler said, "The collision course between land and the people is going to accelerate in the immediate years ahead." His remarks were in a speech for a meeting of the Soil Conservation Society of America.

With the U.S. population increasing by an expected 50 million to 60 million people by the year 2000, demands for additional housing will force "more and more of our farmland" into residential and community use.

"How far can we as a nation go in continuing to permit the kidnapping of prime farmland for housing and industrial use without gravely endangering our capacity to meet the food needs of our people and our food commitments to the disadvantaged people of the world?" Cutler asked.

Some people believe "we must change our concept of land from that of private property to the consideration of land as a national natural resource" in coming to grips with the problem, he said. But it is probably "impossible ever to get a majority consensus" in favor of this approach.

Bucks to pick 1st, 3rd in NBA collegiate draft

NEW YORK (AP) — Some shrewd trading, plus an assist from lady luck, put the Milwaukee Bucks in the catbird's seat for today's National Basketball Association draft of college talent.

The Bucks earned the first pick in the draft by finishing with the worst record in the Western Conference, then winning a coin flip from the Kansas City Kings. The trades gave the Bucks the third and 11th picks in the first round, meaning Milwaukee is virtually assured of picking up three quality players in the annual lottery. They hope those three will complete a rebuilding job begun last year, when new Coach Don Nelson worked a number of first and second-year players into the lineup.

The key to the process is Kent Benson, the two-time All-American center from Indiana. The Bucks announced in April, as soon as they earned the right to pick first, that they would open the draft by picking Benson.

"He's a pure center," said Rick Sund, the Bucks' chief scout, "and NBA franchises are built around centers."

And Benson is the center the Bucks want to build around.

In midseason they traded their starting center, Elmore Smith, plus reserve guard Gary Brookaw, to Cleveland to get the No. 11 pick in the draft. They also traded guard Jim Price, who was not getting much playing time, to Buffalo for the No. 13 pick.

Then, after the Bucks were assured of getting Benson, they traded their starting center as of the end of the season, Sven Nater, to Buffalo for the No. 3 pick in the draft.

Thus the Bucks were able to collect two of the top three choices, as well as the 11th pick, in the draft which got underway today at 1 p.m. EDT.

After the Bucks started the draft, the order of selection in the first round was Kansas City, Milwaukee, Atlanta, Phoenix, Los Angeles, New York Knicks, Seattle, Denver, New York Knicks, Milwaukee, Boston, Buffalo, Washington, Los Angeles, Golden State, Washington, Golden State, Portland, Philadelphia, Denver and Los Angeles.

Among the top collegians eligible for the draft, besides Benson, were:

Centers — Tom LaGarde of North Carolina, Tree Rollins of Clemson, Jell Wilkins of Illinois State, Jack Sikma of Illinois Wesleyan, Wilson Washington of Old Dominion and Bob Elliott of Arizona.

Forwards — Marques Johnson of UCLA, Walter Davis of North Carolina, Greg Ballard of Oregon, Cornbread Maxwell of UNC-Charlotte, Ernie Grunfeld of Tennessee, Anthony Roberts of Oral Roberts, Alonzo Bradley of Texas Southern and Bo Ellis of Marquette.

Guards — Otis Birdsong of Houston, Ricky Green of Michigan, Ray Williams of Minnesota, Norm Nixon of Minnesota, Tate Armstrong of Duke and Ed Jordan of Rutgers.

Six undergraduates were also eligible, including three who were likely to go high in the 16-round selection process — forwards Bernard King of Tennessee and Kenny Carr of North Carolina State and guard Brad Davis of Maryland. The other three eligible undergraduates were Ray Eggs of Norfolk State, James Redwine of Eastern Washington State and Ray Tatum of Malone.

Mileage plus

Detroit has a long way to go to catch up with Lisa Cain's achievement in fuel economy. Her motorized skateboard, demonstrated at the Los Angeles Sports Arena, gets an estimated 250 miles per gallon of gas. Top speed is 25 mph.

Unbeaten Seattle Slew bids for Triple Crown

NEW YORK (AP) — Someone at the draw for post positions for the 108th running of the Belmont Stakes wondered why Johnny Campo had bothered to enter two horses against unbeaten Seattle Slew.

But Campo was not in attendance, so Mickey Taylor, whose wife Karen is listed as Slew's owner, stepped in. "It's like Campo says, 'I know there's one horse I can't beat, but I can beat the rest.'"

A field of 10 3-year-olds was entered on Thursday for Saturday's third jewel of thoroughbred racing's Triple Crown. If Seattle Slew can overcome that large field, he not only will be the first undefeated Triple Crown winner, he also will have overcome a larger field than any of his nine predecessors.

But Taylor does not believe the large field indicates there still are those who question the colt's ability. "They want to put up the money," he said "and it makes no difference to us how many enter. Iron Constitution, Run Dusty Run, Sanhedrin, they deserve to be in it. The rest have high hopes."

The Campo entry of Max Gluck's Make Amends and Hey Hey J.P., owned by Campo and his wife, likely will not make it to post (at about 5:30 p.m. EDT) intact, however. Campo is expected to scratch Hey Hey J.P. and run him in the Keystone Handicap on the same day as the Belmont, leaving nine in the field.

Regardless, Taylor is not worried about Seattle Slew's competition. "I don't worry about the other horses. I never have. Slew can gallop faster than most horses can run," he said. "And this is our playground this time. We're the home team."

Seattle Slew, the winner of his first eight starts — four of them in New York — including the Kentucky Derby and Preakness, under jockey Jean Cruguet, drew the No. 6 post position for the 1 1/4-mile Belmont, which will be worth $183,000 if all 10 go. The winner would earn $110,200.

In order of post position, the Belmont entries were Golden Chance Farm's Run Dusty Run, Sandy Hawley; Harry T. Mangurian Jr.'s Iron Constitution, Angel Cordero Jr.; Hey Hey J.P., no boy; Make Amends, Ron Turcotte; La Luna Stable's Sir Sir, Gustavo Avila; Seattle Slew; Elaine Brodsky's Leading Scorer, no boy; Darby Dan Farm's Sanhedrin, Jorge Velasquez; John L. Greer's Mr. Red Wing, Jacinto Vasquez; and Meadow Stable's Spirit Level, Tony Graeff. All will carry 126 pounds.

Duncanville faces Sharpstown nine

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Houston Sharpstown will battle Duncanville tonight for the Class 4A schoolboy baseball championship, and Uvalde will meet Pecos for the 3A crown.

Sharpstown won the honor by dumping Fort Worth Southwest 10-4 in Thursday's semifinal. Earlier, Duncanville whipped Victoria Stroman 11-5 to earn the other playoff spot.

Uvalde edged Waco Midway 4-3 to earn its half of the 3A championship tilt while Pecos downed DeSoto 7-3.

A bases loaded triple by winning pitcher Chris Day paved the way to Sharpstown's victory, sparking a five-run fourth inning and breaking the back of Southwest.

Day got help from Curtis Kouba in the fourth.

John Tomasic took the loss.

Keith Creel also pitched and batted his Duncanville teammates to their big victory. Creel twirled a two-hitter in upping his record to 17-1. He also cracked three hits and scored three runs.

Creel's brother, Leland, made it a family affair, picking up a pair of hits and two RBIs.

Noel Delgado took the loss for Stroman, and watched his teammates commit six errors. Uvalde got all its runs in the first inning, then hung on for dear life in edging Midway.

Van McElroy got his 11th victory of the year, while Andy Hawkins dropped only his second game against 15 wins.

For Pecos, Lavel Mobley went the distance, striking out nine and allowing five hits. Steve Mobley took the loss for DeSoto, allowing only one earned run and giving up six hits.

Mobley has been drafted by the Texas Rangers of the American League.

Uvalde and Pecos are making their first appearances in state playoff competition.

What can be more insidious than man's ingratitude to man? "It's a question I have to ask myself every day," says Bill Daniels, Denver communications pioneer who took a $4 million bath in a naive venture into big time professional sports — particularly basketball and boxing.

"I am not bitter, just disillusioned," added the energetic head of Daniels Properties, Inc., which has a network of cable television subscribers in 14 cities and five states. "I learned a lesson. I found that faith and trust are scarce commodities in today's inflated sports market."

"Most athletes are out for everything they can get. Few have a compunction about keeping their word. Contracts and understandings are just things made to wiggle out of."

The experience mainly encompassed the Utah Stars of the now defunct American Basketball Association and two ranking heavyweights, ex-convict Ron Lyle and the recently beaten "white hope," Duane Bobick.

"Lyle was like a brother to me," Daniels said. "I took an interest in him while he was still in prison. He had great potential as a fighter. I saw possibilities of rehabilitating him on the strength of his boxing ability."

"I used all the influence I had to get him pardoned by the governor of Colorado. I promised him a shot at the title. I fulfilled that promise. Ron had a lead on Muhammad Ali on every official card until he got careless in the 11th round and was knocked out."

"Then one day he came up to me and said he wanted out of our contract. It was like a son saying, 'Well, dad, I don't like you any more. I am going away.'"

The experience with Bobick was every bit as disheartening, Daniels said.

"Before the 1972 Olympics, everybody was promising Duane a Cadillac and $200,000 bonus to sign after the playoffs," he related. "They were sure he would win and be a big pro drawing card. But he lost, and when he returned home, he found that all those fancy offers had disappeared. Nobody wanted to talk to him."

"That's when I signed him. I gave him good training and coaching, paying him $1,000 a month expenses. Then, after his 24th fight, he came to me and said he wanted to go to Joe Frazier."

The communications executive took his biggest bath in the old ABA, a venture that he figures cost him close to $4 million.

"The Stars were in the cellar some 17 or 18 games out of first place in 1970 when I brought the franchise from Los Angeles to Utah," he said. "We made the playoffs."

Unnoticed, awkward colt racing for the records bing his tender ankles.

"Hey, you're something — you could be quite a race horse," the doctor said.

The doctor — let's call him James Hill — doesn't race horses, he just cures them. But he suddenly remembered he had a friend 2,000 miles away who might be interested.

Far away in a little village of White Swan, Wash., on an Indian reservation not far from Seattle, a young logger had become interested in race horses when his pretty wife said she wanted a horse for an anniversary present instead of a milk coat.

Let's call the logger Mickey Taylor and his wife Karen — a young attractive couple, who look like Robert Redford and Katherine Ross of the movies. Not the horse set at all. Just plain folks.

Mickey got rich by investing in lumber for pulp when the market was hot. His racing stable was small, largely a hobby.

"Hey, Mickey," said Dr. Hill. "I got a good colt here which I think I can get pretty cheap."

"Buy him," said Mickey. "I'll give him to Karen."

Doc picked up the colt at the sales for $17,500. It was like buying him in the basement at Woolworth's.

Diablos face biggies

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — As a 59-year-old rookie college coach, Jack Deutch enjoys presiding over what he admits is a "kookie" ball club.

But Deutch's team — California State-Los Angeles — is no joke on the baseball field. The Diablos are cast as the spoiler in the 31st College World Series that opens Friday evening.

"We do some strange things — but I don't think you'll find a looser team around or one that has a better time," said Deutch.

Cal State-LA, 40-20, was a surprise qualifier for the eight-team classic. Twice the East LA Ragga-muffins — as they are called by some — rallied in late innings to eliminate highly regarded Southern California in the Western Regional.

One of the tension-easers is their phantom infield warmp.

"They used it against USC," says Deutch, a 34-year veteran of professional baseball. "Mostly to show that they weren't awed."

"We've got a bunch of clowns and they like to ham it up. They fake errors, bad throws and great catches. The fans loved it."

After nine years as a volunteer pitching instructor, Deutch took over a team that finished 16-33 the year before.

"A lot of people are surprised we're here," said Deutch. "But that's the way ball is in California — pretty even."

"All the players know each other. They played against one another in high school, Sunday ball, Connie Mack and other leagues. There's no surprises to them."

"Half of my players are inner city or ghetto kids," he continued. "Some have been in trouble with the law but straightened themselves out. Maybe they are a little hungrier than other teams."

Deutch is in tough company for talent. The Southern Cal area has 20 four-year schools including Southern Cal, winner of 10 series titles, and 40 junior colleges.

Sun Devil duffers lead

HAMILTON, N.Y. (AP) — Lanky junior John Stark of Houston held a three-stroke lead going into the third round of the NCAA Golf Championship here today after posting a two-day total of 142.

Arizona State continued to lead the team competition in the four-day tournament at Colgate University's Seven Oaks golf course.

Tied for second in the individual competition at 145 were Lee Mikels of Arizona State and Dan Pohl of Arizona, whose 71 Thursday was the low for the day.

Stark, 21, from San Antonio, Tex., playing in a daylight drizzle, turned in matching scores of 36 to add to his first-round score of 70 from Wednesday.

Tied for third at 146 were Joe Walter of Georgia, defending champion Scott Simpson of Southern California and Sam Trajan of Florida.

Steve Waugh of Georgia Southern had a 72 for a two-day total of 147, while Payne Stewart of Southern Methodist University, Lindy Miller of Oklahoma State and Watkins of Arizona State remained in contention with 148.

Arizona State, led by the play of Mikels, Bill Loeffler and Scott Watkins, had a 582 team total, followed by Houston at 588, Georgia at 602 and Georgia Southern at 605.

"The course definitely favored the long ball hitter, while the greens held better after the rain," Stark said after his tour of the course Thursday.

Carter ponders bomber fate

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter told congressional critics of the B1 bomber project today that he will "pretty much go into seclusion" as he makes a "basic decision" on the fate of the costly aircraft.

Carter said he has studied the plane's merits and drawbacks, noting a meeting Tuesday in which he heard the views of the B1's congressional backers. He said he did not want to make his decision without listening to the opposition.

The president told the group he plans to make up his mind about the project by the end of the month.

Among the critics invited to a half-hour Cabinet Room session today are Democratic Sen. George McGovern, S.D., William Proxmire, Wis., and Thomas Eagleton, Mo., and Republican Sen. Clifford Case, N.J.

The president also scheduled a morning meeting on another controversial military decision, his plan for a gradual withdrawal of most American ground troops from South Korea.

Reporting to Carter on their recent mission to Seoul to discuss the plan with South Korean officials were Philip Habib, undersecretary of state, and Air Force Gen. George Brown, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

The president told B1 backers on Monday that he would make a basic judgment later this month on what to do about the B1, one of the most expensive weapons programs ever proposed by the Pentagon.

Following that session, Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., told reporters Carter "is becoming convinced that we can't live without the B1."

Although other members of Congress said Carter kept his inclinations to himself, many observers expect the president to approve the building of some of the strategic bombers. However, few expect him to give a green light for the 244-plane fleet sought by the Air Force.

Carter was highly critical of the B1 project during the 1976 election campaign. Although Carter voiced flat opposition at times, Press Secretary Jody Powell said this week the president is willing to be convinced of the need for the B1.

Each of the sophisticated bombers, designed to replace aging B52s, would cost about $102 million, or a total of nearly $25 billion for the entire fleet.

Mexican shot in raid

TUCSON (AP) — The U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration flew to Tucson a Mexican police commander shot in a drug raid for medical treatment at the request of the Mexican attorney general, officials said.

Richard Bensinger, U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration director, said the man was flown by his agency free of charge Tuesday night as a "goodwill gesture."

Carlos Mondragon was listed in serious condition at the University of Arizona Hospital following surgery for bullet wounds in his stomach and leg.

Moluccans deadlocked

ASSEEN, The Netherlands (AP) — Efforts to free 55 hostages held by South Moluccan terrorists in a train and school in northern Holland remained deadlocked today despite a second mediation attempt by two South Moluccan community leaders, a Justice Ministry spokesman said.

Premier Joop den Uyl met cabinet ministers in the Dutch capital of The Hague to plan the government's next step in the 19-day-old crisis. The cabinet had met for five hours Thursday night after the mediators completed their second round of face-to-face talks with the terrorists.

The spokesman said the government was still evaluating the report turned in by mediators Josina Soumokil and Hassan Tan, elders of the South Moluccan immigrant community, who talked for four hours with the gunmen aboard the hijacked train, where 51 hostages were being held.

Every contact with the terrorists "has its function," the spokesman said.

The Justice Ministry refused to say what happened during the mediation effort. But it was apparent the Moluccans were holding out despite the government's warning, relayed by the mediators, that the gunmen faced dangerous consequences if the sieges dragged on much longer.

Vesco asked to leave Costa Rica

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (AP) — Financier Robert Vesco, a fugitive from U.S. charges of embezzlement and illegal political contributions, will leave his five-year-old haven in Costa Rica, President Daniel Oduber said today.

"Many days ago I told Mr. Vesco that he should leave Costa Rica, and he is going to go," Oduber said in a radio-television broadcast Thursday night.

"I do not think he should leave hurriedly," said the second Costa Rican president, who should enter his office in a few days. "He should put his affairs in order, and he is doing this. And he should clarify his situation before the courts of justice."

Vesco, who lives with his family in a walled-in, well-guarded home in a suburb of San Jose, was not available for comment. An aide at his office said: "To my knowledge, no statement has been issued by Mr. Vesco."

There was speculation that the 42-year-old financial manipulator would go to Panama or would return to the Bahamas, where he has holdings reportedly worth $50 million and where a court in 1973 rejected a U.S. request for his extradition.

Vesco, a native of Detroit, is a fugitive from U.S. federal charges of looting $234 million from Overseas Investors Services, the international mutual fund, and of making a secret $200,000 cash contribution to President Nixon's 1972 campaign.

Italian police search today for assassin

ROME (AP) — Italian police searched today for a tall, thin, black-haired Armenian wanted for the assassination of Turkey's ambassador to the Vatican, Taha Carim.

The 42-year-old diplomat was shot in the head and neck Thursday as he was about to enter his residence in the elegant Parioli section. He died about six hours later.

The attacker, who had been waiting at a nearby bus stop, fled on foot. He was described as tall, thin and black-haired. Authorities said Carim was armed but had no time to pull his pistol.

Carim had been the ambassador to the Holy See for three years.

An anonymous telephone caller told the Associated Press in Beirut that the Justice Commandos for Armenian Genocide were responsible for the killing. The caller said the killing was for revenge, presumably for the Ottoman massacres of Armenians from 1894 to 1915.

Carim was the third Turkish ambassador in Europe to be murdered in less than two years, and all apparently were Armenian revenge slayings.

Names in the news

WASHINGTON (AP) — When the "President's Physical Fitness Awards" were handed out at Francis Junior High School, guess who was there to hand out the awards? Why, it was President Carter.

And guess who stepped up to receive the first award? You've got it. Amy Carter, of course.

The awards at an end-of-term celebration were for a special program at Stevens Elementary School, which Amy attends. It was held in the nearby junior high school because the auditorium there was better.

The president and Amy's nurse, Mary Fitzpatrick, spent two hours at the school while Amy and other children performed skits and dances for parents. Rosalynn Carter, the president's wife, is on a goodwill tour of Latin America.

Reporters were excluded from the performance, but a White House aide said the awards were handed out in alphabetical order and 9-year-old Amy, wearing a green T-shirt and white shorts, got hers first.

MOSCOW (AP) — Russian actress Victoria Fyodorova and her American husband, Frederick Poy, are in Moscow on a visit everyone seems to know about despite its lack of notice in the Soviet press.

"A lot of people have called," she said Thursday. "People are really glad to see me..."

Never reported in the Soviet press, the marriage nonetheless seems well known in the world of artists and actors.

The dark-eyed Victoria, now a model for an American perfume company, left Russia two years ago to see her American

Jackie Wilson bedridden

MEDFORD, N.J. (AP) — Singer Jackie Wilson, once billed as "Mr. Excitement" for his flashy style and high-geared performances, now lies bedridden in a convalescent home, unable to speak or to feed himself.

His voice is quiet except for occasional grunts that may be efforts at formulating words. He communicates by blinking his eyes. His meals consist of baby food.

On Thursday, Wilson, a top artist for nearly two decades, marked his 43rd birthday at the Medford Leas Retirement Community, a nursing home here.

He received six birthday cards.

Wilson, whose hit songs include "Lonely Teardrops," "Higher and Higher," and "To Be Loved," suffered a heart attack as well as brain damage when he collapsed on a nightclub stage 21 months ago and lapsed into a coma.

Since then, he has been in three hospitals and three nursing homes or convalescent centers.

He undergoes rigorous physical therapy for several hours each day. The official prognosis is uncertain.

Joyce McRae, a friend from Chicago who takes care of Wilson, described the singer as "incapacitated, spastic, handicapped." She said, however, that he definitely is not in the vegetative state he was considered to be in shortly after he collapsed.

"He's come a long way," said Ms. McRae, who said she thinks Wilson may be on the verge of uttering his first words since his attack and may soon be able to stand on his own.

Ms. McRae said few people visit or call and Wilson receives little mail.

"He can understand love and he can understand if people are caring about him," she said. "I am disgusted and very disappointed that only lip service has been paid to him by his 'friends and superstars' in show business."

In 1976, New Jersey State Police issued 6,016 citations for hitchhiking along the state's 142-mile Turnpike system, including toll plazas and service areas.

'How safe is the pill?'

Psychiatrist prints News

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Question. What is schizophrenia?

A. It means broken or split mind. This happens when someone cannot tell the difference between what is real and what is imagined. It is a serious mental illness.

Q. How safe is the pill?
A. A lot safer than pregnancy. Almost 10 times as many women die from pregnancy as from the pill (10.8 per 100,000 population versus 1.3 per 100,000).
Q. My husband snores. Can I do anything about it?
A. Gently lift his chin to close his mouth. Then turn his head to one side. The snoring will stop. Snoring occurs when the tongue falls to the back of the throat during sleep. It rattles as breathing occurs. Both sexes snore.
Such questions and answers are found in a new tabloid newspaper of medical information entitled "Good Health," begun with a $15,000 investment by Dr. John P. Callan, a 38-year-old assistant clinical professor of psychiatry at the University of Connecticut School of Medicine.

Callan acknowledges that he hopes to turn a profit from the newspaper, but says his primary purpose is to "service the people."
"The goal," he says, "is to present medical information in an easy to read and understand format. The obscure jargon of medical journals will be translated to everyday terms. Most medical journals are written by doctors for doctors."
Callan says he also aims to show people how they can get good quality health care at modest costs.
"People say doctors don't tell them enough and rush them through and don't give them enough information," he says. "We hope we can help alleviate that to some degree."

One article by a medical doctor discussed fees and noted that the average for a routine office visit in central Connecticut is $15, $40 to $60 for a complete physical and $5 to $15 for ear washing in addition to the basic office fee. The article said doctors' fees have risen about 30 per cent in the last four years.

But is the annual physical really necessary? "Probably not, especially in persons under 40," Callan notes in his question and answer column called "Probe." He says: "Many doctors are opposed to annual physicals. They feel it costs too much, takes up time that could be spent with sick people and does little to prevent disease before symptoms have developed."

Medicaid loses millions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Twenty states may lose millions of dollars in Medicaid payments because they did not properly review nursing homes that serve Medicaid clients, says HEW Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr.
But he says the law that is forcing him to withhold the money should be changed.
The 20 states and others may be forced to pay back $377 million they received in Medicaid money in 1975, the secretary of health, education and welfare said Wednesday.
HEW is obligated to reduce the amount of federal matching funds for Medicaid in states which fail to make an annual review of each nursing home that accepts Medicaid patients.

Califano said he will comply with the law and withhold the money, but added he will ask Congress to change the law to set new guidelines and to permit the states to receive the money being withheld.
"The law must be enforced, but it urgently needs to be changed to be reasonable, equitable and effective," Califano said.

Court prohibits limiting contraceptive sales

WASHINGTON (AP) — States may not restrict the sale of contraceptives to children nor restrict advertising of contraceptives, the Supreme Court ruled today.
The court voted 7 to 2 to strike down a New York law requiring that contraceptives be sold only by pharmacists to persons age 16 and over. Under the state law declared invalid today, youngsters 15 years of age or younger could obtain contraceptives legally only from doctors.
The state law also prohibited advertisements for contraceptives to be displayed in drug stores.
In another decision, the court ruled that states may prosecute persons for obscenity offenses even though the materials depicting sexual conduct might not be specifically prohibited by law.
Justice William J. Brennan Jr., who wrote the court's main opinion, said the rights to privacy enjoyed by adults in decisions affecting procreation extend to minors.
He said the New York law served no compelling state interest and therefore could not constitutionally impose a burden on a person's decision of whether or not to use contraceptives.

Justices Potter Stewart, Thurgood Marshall and Harry A. Blackmun agreed with Brennan's reasoning.
Justice Byron R. White said the state failed to prove that prohibiting distribution of contraceptives to youngsters actually served the intended purpose of controlling venereal disease and not encouraging sexual activity by youngsters.
Justice Lewis F. Powell Jr. said the state law was defective because it infringed on the privacy rights of married females under age 16 and prohibited parents from distributing contraceptives to their children.
Powell said the ban on parental distribution of contraceptives unjustifiably interfered with a parent's right to rear children as he or she sees fit.
Justice John Paul Stevens said the law could not be justified as a means of discouraging sexual activity by youngsters.
Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Justice William H. Rehnquist voted to uphold the law. Many states have similar laws.

Son discovers truth about mom years late

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The last time Clifford Doze saw his mother, he was a three-year-old and she was walking out the front door, saying she was going to buy him an ice cream cone. That was 50 years ago.
"I can remember the door on Chester Street, and wanting to follow her so bad. I didn't want to be left there. I watched the door for the longest time," he recalled recently.
Doze was raised by his maternal grandmother and it was years before anyone told him that his mother was dead. And it was years after that before he suspected there was some foul secret about her death.
He learned the truth because of an accident of history and a recent evening newspaper.
Doze, an exterminator, was sitting in his Buffalo home May 21, relaxing with that day's edition of the Buffalo Evening News. Turning to the Magazine section, he saw a reproduction of the May 21, 1927, front page of the News. It was printed to honor the 50th anniversary of Charles Lindbergh's solo flight across the Atlantic.

"LINDBERGH IN FRANCE," read the banner headline. Below it on the left, in smaller type but clearly visible, was the heading "Murdered Woman Is Mrs. C.G. Doze."
The newspaper account stated that a young woman, her hair "worn in a boyish bob," was found in a creek, strangled and beaten to death. Police believed her body had been thrown down the creek bank from a car.
The story said Grace Doze and her husband Chester had fought the Monday before her body was found. She had walked out on him.
The killing was never solved.
"The old man, he never said a word. Of course, he was pretty close-mouthed anyhow," Doze said recently.
Chester, who died several years ago, had been questioned in connection with the slaying, but no charges were filed.
Doze said he is glad to know the truth about his parents.
"I don't judge them. I feel they've both been judged."

We Hold These Truths...
A Chronicle of America

Alfred North Whitehead, 20th century writer and philosopher: "Religion is the vision of something which stands beyond, behind, and within the passing flux of immediate things; something which is real, and yet waiting to be realized; something which is a remote possibility, and yet the greatest of present facts; something that gives meaning to all that passes, and yet eludes apprehension; something whose possession is the final good, and yet which is beyond all reach; something which is the ultimate ideal and the hopeless quest."

'Don't think doomsday'

KERRVILLE, Tex. (AP) — A petroleum industry spokesman today cautioned against "doomsday thinking" in confronting the challenge of finding and producing sufficient U.S. energy supplies.
Frank N. Ikard said the nation will never reach ambitious energy goals "if our strategies reflect fundamental doubts about what we can achieve with ingenuity and creativity."
Ikard, American Petroleum Institute president, made his remarks in a speech before a combined civic club meeting in Kerrville, where he is being honored by Schreiner College as its first "Distinguished Alumnus."
He said one element necessary for achieving national energy goals is an attitude of confidence, "especially confidence in our enterprise system."
"What the doomsayers overlook — and they do it time and time again — is our ability to be inventive," Ikard said. "They have no confidence in our ability to come up with solutions as problems arise, in energy as well as other matters."
He cited historical predictions, beginning as early as 1885, that no more oil and gas were left to be found. He said in each instance major new discoveries proved the warning erroneous.
Ikard said some of the strategies suggested this year for reaching national energy goals are based on the assumption that most of the recoverable oil and natural gas in the United States has been found.
