

Chutes open on Top o' Texas rodeo

By JEANNE GRIMES
Pampa News Staff

The pace was fast and the competition keen, but for the bull riders in the Kid Pony Show Tuesday night, everything rested on the flip of a coin.

Carl Guy of Booker and Jay Crocker of Beaver, Okla., each scored 57 on the bulls and Terry Mullins of Pampa and Brent Creswell of Perryton were tied at 55 points each.

Guy won the toss to take first place and Crocker settled for second. Mullins took third over Creswell.

Finishing out of the top three with 53 points each were Clay Coffee of Pampa and Toby Jewett of Panhandle. Matt Russell of Skellytown and Denise Campbell of Amarillo turned in 50-point rides while Don Kite Jr. of Amarillo and Lindsey Schafer of Canadian scored 52 and 51 points respectively.

Others of the 17 youngsters aged 14-15 to ride to the whistle were Diane Bessire of Tyler, Teresa Messer and Rusty Campbell, both of Amarillo, Tammy Nesbitt of Borger, and Terri Eads and Bill Minyard, both of Pampa. Twenty-six riders competed.

Eight of 33 bull riders aged 12-13 made it the full six seconds to the whistle with trophy buckles going to contestants from Sunray, Amarillo and Canadian. Successful rides were turned in by Steven Brown, Robbie Burrell and Glenn Eggleston, all of Pampa, Ray Miller of Canadian, Darla Thompson and John Ross, both of Amarillo, Wade Dooley of Sunray and Lee Ann Bessire of Tyler.

El Reno, Okla., cowboy Randy Ferguson edged past White Deer's Todd Freeman to take first place in the boys' potato race (12-13) by 0.3 second and Linda White of Mobeetie turned in an incredible 9 second run to win the girls' potato race (12-13). Linda held a commanding 2.87 second lead on her nearest challenger, Suzan Coffey of Borger, and she turned the barrels in the winning time of 18.42 seconds. She settled for second in the pole bending with 23.13.

Jo Linda Lowrey of Pampa won a first place buckle for an 18.5 second run in the girls' goat tying.

Seven calves eluded cowboys in the boys' ribbon roping, but six of the determined ropers caught their quarry. Olen Douglass of Pampa finished with a solid first place time of 15.83. Others roping calves were Jay Goodwin of Sunray, Luke Stephenson of Guymon, Okla., Carroll White of Mobeetie, Jim Richardson of Miami and Thad Greene of Pampa.

Rank calves slowed cowboys' efforts in the boys' tie down calf roping. Ropers throwing good loops were Stephenson, Terry Mullins and Jim Bridwell, both of Pampa, Lance Wilson of Canadian and White.

A full slate of rodeo action is set for tonight through Saturday at the Top o' Texas Rodeo Arena.

Eight bareback riders are expected to test their skills on Beutler and Son's tough rodeo stock tonight and Wednesday and seven bareback riders will fill the bill Thursday and Friday.

Eight cowboys have entered the saddle bronc competition. They will compete each night and the 14 bull riders will ride two go-rounds each with seven riding Wednesday and Saturday and seven on Thursday and Friday.

The steer wrestling will feature six professional cowboys competing in four go-rounds and 20 calf ropers have entered the professional Rodeo Cowboys Association-sanctioned Top o' Texas Rodeo. Each calf roper will compete in two go-rounds.

The girls' barrel race has drawn 22 contestants with each one to compete in two go-rounds.

Local amateurs who have entered the Top o' Texas Rodeo include J.B. Alvey, Keith French and Pat Bailey, bareback; Phillip Whitehead, Greg Terrell, Keith Ledrick and Ronnie Hill, bulls; James Lee Calaway and Rod Crow, calf roping; and Regina Benyshek, Faith Ann Whitley, Kelly Moore, Janice Rucker and Deena Wildcat, barrels.

Results from Tuesday's Kid Pony Show are as follows:

BOYS POTATO RACE (12-13): 1. Randy Ferguson, El Reno, Okla. (18.5); 2. Todd Freeman, White Deer (18.6); 3. David Mathas, Pampa (18.7).

GIRLS POTATO RACE (12-13): 1. Linda White, Mobeetie (18.42); 2. Suzan Coffey, Borger (18.77); 3. Dean Bass, Dumas (18.86).

Board orders hospital to cut costs

By ANNA BURCHELL
Pampa News Staff

The local hospital board ordered the administration to make staff reductions and quit operating in the red.

The action came Tuesday during a lengthy meeting of the board of managers for Highland General and McLean General hospitals. Board members learned that the two hospitals had lost $228,000 this year and that occupancy has dropped to the lowest point in five years.

The budget had been prepared around a 63 per cent occupancy. Cuts will be made to operate with a 56 per cent occupancy rate.

The mandate came following a report from Barry Breen, chief accountant, who told the board the two hospitals operated at a $228,000 deficit for the first six months of 1977.

Bob Sidwell, board president, called for a systematic approach to reducing costs.

"I don't think the county is going to sit by and watch. Neither is the taxpayer. The people of Gray County can look at these financial reports and they can't look at us and say we've done a good job," Sidwell said. He turned to Guy Hazlett, administrator, and asked "We are hearing you are reducing personnel. Where is it?"

Hazlett said the effect in personnel reduction — from 325 to 309 — would have been felt in June had it not been for problems with the compressor and other factors which pushed overtime costs up.

He also called attention to vacations for employees which cost the hospital in payroll for substitutes.

Joel Plunk, board member, said he isn't encouraged with the trial balance on accounts receivable. Royce Gee, board member, said he wondered if Highland General Hospital is losing business to Amarillo and Shamrock.

"It looks like it boils down to census," he said.

Hazlett said patient days tie into the doctor shortage.

"But 55 per cent occupancy won't back it," Plunk said. "I think we best build around what we have (in occupancy). Times have changed and apparently the facility here is not needed in its full capacity. I think we must face it," Plunk added. In a business, when dollars fail to meet expenses an attempt is made to increase business and if that can't be done, costs must be cut, he said.

"We can't drum up patients. I think we better drum up reductions in costs," he said.

Hazlett commented that if a major reduction in staff is made there will be criticism.

Bill Tidwell, board member, said something must be cut to keep expenses in line with income. He also noted the administrator's out of town purchasing policy on lower bids and called attention to the fact that when the hospital is in trouble "we must turn to the local citizens."

He then asked Hazlett if he thought the hospital saved enough money on out of town buying to make it worthwhile.

Hazlett said individual orders would have to be reviewed before he could answer.

Tidwell is store manager of Four R Industrial Supply Co., a Pampa firm that does business with the county hospitals on a regular basis.

Records in the county treasurer's office show payments to Four R of $1,000.43 in July and $1,115.90 in June.

Breen said Highland General lost $46,000 in June and McLean General showed a net income of $99.

Expenses were down $2,858 for McLean General during June while operating expenses increased $18,642 at Highland General," Breen said.

"Reduction is a fact, the census is down, but we have an obligation to the people of Gray County to take care of them," Gee said.

In other action, the board authorized use of time sheets instead of a time clock for hourly paid employees. Hazlett said this would give supervisors tighter control. The petty cash fund was increased from $750 to $900 due to increased postage costs.

The board authorized Hazlett to approve a sprinkler system quarterly inspection contract for the McLean hospital. A disaster plan to take care of a large number of patients in case of need was approved.

Hazlett reported that the recent hail storm damage at the hospital was $11,700.

Dr. W.R. Whitsett Jr., chief of staff, reported that the emergency room physician has been well received, and added that Dr. Royce Laycock will be leaving this week to accept a position with Southwestern Medical School in Dallas. He has requested staff membership here.

He added that the pharmacy has distributed forms to be used in case an experimental drug is prescribed here. "It isn't at this time," he added.

Following a lengthy executive session, the board reconvened and approved monthly rent for nursing residents to be increased from $35 to $60 per month.

Miss Vermell Meador, director of nursing service, said there are 18 rooms and only five occupants at this time.

The hike was made to help defray costs of building upkeep and utilities.

Hazlett reported on plans for energy conservation programs and told of a firm that could come in and tell the hospital how to cut costs.

"I think we have ways of conserving electricity without someone coming in and telling us how," Sidwell said.

Future board meeting dates were changed to the second Tuesday of each month instead of the second Thursday.

County rejects bid to lower tax

By ANNA BURCHELL
Pampa News Staff

Gray County Commissioners this morning rejected County Judge Don Hinton's proposal to lower the tax rate from $1.25 per $100 valuation to $1.20.

Commissioner J.O. McCracker of the Grandview Community made the motion to leave the rate as it is following much discussion on the Highland General Hospital deficit, inflation, uncertainty of the county jail situation and other factors.

Hinton said the county's assessed valuation for this year will be almost $123 million compared to $111 million last year.

"We will have a pretty good balance at the end of this year. With this increase (in valuation) we feel we can keep the balance for next year," Hinton commented.

Expenses for the coming year are expected to include the hospital, Red Deer and McClellan Creek Watershed right of way purchases, and the jail.

Commissioner Ted Simmons of McLean said he was sure all had considered the future of the hospital.

"That's the biggest worry we have right now," he emphasized.

"That hospital could fix us up in a big way," McCracker added.

"People don't remember the rate going down, but they sure remember when you go up," Commissioner Ronnie Rice added.

Hinton reminded the commissioners that the county paid off the hospital and airport bonds last year.

In outlining tax costs, Hinton said plans are to add a penny to the jury fund to help offset the additional court costs here.

After Hinton left the courtroom for additional information on county finances, he returned and again asked "What do you all think?"

"I don't anticipate the hospital getting better. Whether they can cut costs enough I don't know," McCracker said before moving to leave the rate as it is.

In other business, commissioners appointed Jack Hood to fill the unexpired term of B.R. Nunn on the airport board.

Welfare expenses for June were $2,213.43 for 34 families.

Commissioners met as a board of equalization and a letter from a representative of Lexington Apartments read that assessed valuation on that property was too high and an adjustment was requested.

Judge Hinton said the court would take action on the request later.

Election judges for the 14 Gray County precincts were appointed.

The court granted discounts for tax payments at the rates of 3 per cent for October, 2 per cent for November and 1 per cent for December.

Quentin becomes battleground

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (AP) — Black Muslim and Nazi inmates battled with clubs and knives in racial clashes that killed three convicts and injured five in an honor block at San Quentin prison, authorities said.

"The lid's flying off," Mike Luxford, acting prison information officer, said after the conflict Tuesday.

"The hospital looks like a battleground. There was blood and people everywhere. It's an

Nurses found guilty

DETROIT (AP) — Two Filipino nurses were each found guilty by a federal court jury today of poisoning three patients at a Veterans Administration hospital in 1975. One of the two who had been charged with murder was found innocent on that count.

The two women each face a possible life sentence on the poisoning convictions.

Both women were also found guilty of conspiring to poison the patients at the Ann Arbor hospital with the powerful muscle-relaxing drug Pavulon.

Neither Filipina Narciso, 31, of Ypsilanti, nor Leonora Perez, 33, of Ann Arbor, displayed any reaction as the verdicts were read in the courtroom by the judge's clerk.

Miss Narciso was found innocent of one charge of murder and also of one charge of poisoning.

More than 50 breathing failures hit the hospital during July and August of 1975. Several of the victims died, but it was never clear just how many deaths were directly attributed to Pavulon.

U.S. District Court Judge Philip Pratt allowed the nurses to remain free on bond. He said he would set a date for sentencing after he received a presentencing report.

inmates attacked each other along corridors in the prison's north and west wings with makeshift knives and clubs before guards firing rifle shots quelled the disturbances.

The deaths and injuries came in two separate attacks by members of the American National Socialists on members of a Black Muslim prison sect, officials said.

DA adds investigator

By THOM MARSHALL
Pampa News Staff

Judicial costs of the 31st and 22nd districts, which both serve Pampa and Gray County, will increase by about $15,000 annually beginning Friday when E. Kirven Roper assumes duties in the newly created position of criminal investigator for the district attorney.

The money was appropriated by legislative action and will not come from the Gray County coffers, Harold Comer, district attorney, pointed out.

Roper will be paid a salary of $11,000 per year, Comer said. The remainder of the $15,000 will be used to pay the investigator's expenses like meals and mileage.

"And I think we'll have enough to send him to a state course in investigating," Comer said.

Roper was married June 18 to Jeanne Brown. She is the adult probation officer for the 31st Judicial District Grainger McIlhany, 31st District judge, officiated at the wedding ceremony.

A 1963 graduate of Dumas High School, Roper is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Roper.

He first worked in law enforcement when he joined the Dalhart Police Department in 1965.

He served as chief of police in Gruver from 1970 to 1974.

Other experience includes stints with the Adams County Sheriff's Department in Brighton, Colo.; the Deaf Smith Sheriff's Department; the Midland County Sheriff's Department; work as a captain on the Dalhart police force from August 1974 to May 1976; and serving as chief juvenile probation officer for the 60th Judicial District from May 1976 to Jan. 1977.

Before accepting his current position, Roper was serving as chief deputy in the Armstrong

County Sheriff's Department.

Comer said the new investigator "will save me time on the road. He will be involved in the investigation of first degree felonies and will investigate at the scene of the crime for the D.A.'s office."

Comer said that the procedure has been for him to spend the day before taking a case to a grand jury talking to officers and witnesses involved in the case.

"Now Roper will do that for me," he said, "and more of my time will be spent in the courtroom. He will secure my witnesses and secure my statements. Kirven Roper is going to be a benefit to us."

Making another comment in defense of the addition of Roper to his staff, Comer commented, "This isn't just something Gray County has. It's the only district attorney that hasn't had one in years. A lot smaller districts than ours have investigators."

Man in coma after crash

A 17-year-old man from Bridgeport, Tex., is in critical condition today after suffering massive head injuries in an automobile accident mile east of Pampa early this morning.

Bobby Lee Kenyon is in a coma in the intensive care unit of Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo with a fractured skull and cerebral contusions.

Kenyon was the front seat passenger in a 1971 Chevrolet driven by Randall William Manning, 18, of 310 N. Paulkner. The vehicle was traveling north on a county caliche road shortly after midnight today when Manning attempted a left turn onto Browning St.

The vehicle was traveling too fast for the turn and flipped on its right side. Kenyon fell halfway out the right window and was pinned beneath the vehicle. He suffered several cuts to his head when the car collided with a barbed wire fence.

The other passenger in the car was Eddie Gonzales Jr., of Bridgeport. Neither Manning nor Gonzales were injured.

Manning was cited for failure to control speed in order to avoid an accident, said highway patrolman Wayne Williams.

Metropolitan Ambulance gave Kenyon emergency assistance at the scene, then transported him to Highland General Hospital. He was transferred to Amarillo 1 1/2 hours later.

The Pampa Fire Department was called to stand by at the scene.

The Manning vehicle sustained light damage to the right portion.

Subsidized goober growers

Former Secretary of Defense and onetime head of General Motors, Charlie Wilson, once got himself in hot water by pointing out that "What's good for General Motors is good for the U.S. and vice versa."

Liberals took exception, by quoting only the first part of the remark, on grounds that the good of General Motors (then the world's largest corporation) and the good of the U.S. were not synonymous.

What Wilson meant, of course, was that, when General Motors prospered by providing consumers with products they wanted at prices they could pay in a free and competitive market, the people benefited as a whole. In that context, Wilson attempted to explain, what was good for General Motors was good for the U.S., too.

The liberals refused to accept the explanation and never forgave Wilson for the remark. Wilson, on his part, went on to gain the nickname "Bird Dog Wilson" for another pointed remark in reference to government doles.

We were reminded of the two episodes the other day when reading a piece in a national magazine which noted that, "Farmers elsewhere may be feeling the pinch, but peanut farmers in a certain south Georgia area are still enjoying prosperity." Recalling the Liberals' objection to Wilson's G.M. and U.S. analogy, we couldn't help but wonder if the good fortune of south Georgia peanut farmers is necessarily good for the rest of us?

What set us off on that train of thought was the magazine's explanation of the peanut grower's prosperity. The reasons are several—but the basic one is that the Government supports the price of peanuts at $420 per ton for all peanuts grown on 1.6 million allotted acres. The world market price is $285.

With production costs ranging from $275 to $375 per acre and average yields of about 2,500 pounds per acre, the article went on to explain, most farmers are guaranteed a profit unless they experience unusual disaster.

What all of that means, of course, is that U.S. taxpayers are being forced to make up the difference between the world market price of peanuts and the governmentally subsidized price being received by peanut farmers in Jimmy Carter's old stamping grounds.

And, in that context, what is good for south Georgia peanut growers is not good for the U.S.

Incidentally, Wilson earned the nickname "Bird Dog" for comparing productive workers to hunting dogs earning their keep, on the one hand, and receivers of government doles as lap dogs eating unearned food, on the other.

The Liberals never forgave him for that, either.

Battin' around

The final column

By C.R. BATTEN

It is with a great feeling of regret that I begin to write this last column.

It was seven years ago that I was first able to convince some editors that I had something to offer for their editorial pages.

Seven years seems like a long time. Yet, it is only a fleeting moment in history—and it seems little more than that to a person caught up in the whirlwind that life in our modern society has become.

I have attempted to challenge the type of thinking (or non-thinking) which seems to prevail these days—the kind that assumes that we must call in government to solve all our problems, that the individual does not know what is good for him, and cannot take care of him (her)self.

I have tried to alert the reader to the trends of politically imposed coercion that seem to be closing ever tighter around us, especially as they concern our ownership and use of the natural resources on which we depend.

I have tried to point out that government must create problems and crises in order to survive. The bigger the government, the greater the crises. It is against the interest of government to solve the problems it creates.

Problems are opportunities in a free market society, too—opportunities for individuals and groups of individuals to solve. It is in their best interest to solve them, so for the resolution of our problems, we must turn to free individuals, not to government.

I have not tried to give the answer to every question that has been discussed in these columns over the past seven years. I have tried to stimulate others to think about some of the questions that have been raised, and come up with their own answers.

If I have succeeded, and perhaps interested a few individuals in seeking voluntary solutions to the quandaries in which we have found ourselves, then my objective has been served.

It is easy to be pessimistic as we look back over the past seven years at the myriads of new laws that interfere with our freedom to act in the ways we believe best. I am sometimes told by my better half that I am pessimist.

But I believe there is more reason for optimism today than at any other time in my lifetime. There are more magazines and more books being published to explore the principles of freedom. Many of the new publications are originating from the increasing numbers of "think tanks" exploring those same ideas. Their work is being noticed.

It is largely unseen, because individualists do not tend to be joiners, but there is a massive movement of people away from dependency on government and toward the voluntary free market approach to problem-solving.

It is stimulating and even exhilarating to be a small part of that movement. It opens horizons that otherwise could not be imagined. If you have not yet discovered it, I urge you to seek it.

I regret that other pressures for my time have become so great that I do not feel that I can continue this column. There are many other things that need to be done.

To those readers who have written to express their agreement with me, thank you. It is always good to find others along the trail.

To those of you who have expressed disagreement, thank you, for you have forced me to examine my own premises, time and again, and to be sure of my facts and reasoning before I put a column in the mail. Besides, if everyone agreed with me, there would be no purpose in writing.

To the editors who have brought this to you, my everlasting gratitude for providing the opportunity to appear on their pages.

May the grass grow tall, the waters flow deep, and may there be plenty of wood for your tepee until our trails cross again.

City terrors? Come off it

By JIM FITZGERALD
Dear Cousin Al:

Thanks for sending me all those newspaper clippings which are supposed to scare me into moving out of Detroit quick before some crook kills me. Nothing personal, Al, but you are a real jerk.

It is a coincidence that you are upset by some high school graduates starting fights on Belle Isle. The fight was the same week one of my granddaughters visited us, and we spent a lot of time entertaining her on Belle Isle. Nothing bad happened, except for the pony ride.

Melissa is only four and at first she wasn't sure she could stay in the saddle without help. So I walked alongside the pony the first couple of times around the ring. I didn't watch where I walked and that evening I introduced a country smell to our city apartment. It reminded me of you.

Your letter was a lot of horseblop, Al. Belle Isle is a great place, and it is as safe as that putrid little park near your farm. The Free Press recently published a long article about how rare crime is on the island. They get as many as 150,000 people there on an average Sunday but there wasn't one armed robbery in all of 1976. No murders. How come you didn't send me that clipping, Al?

No, you're just like too many other people who somehow enjoy putting the knock on what they can't understand. You are just as stupid when you send me clippings about a gang fight and you say, "Boy, I would never live in that terrible city. There's a riot every day!" That's a stupid reaction, and unfair.

Al, remember when the little high schools from Imlay City and Lapeer used to play each other in football every Thanksgiving? Remember why the games were stopped? They were stopped because many of the students and alumni were using the games as an excuse for gang fights.

Remember a few years ago when an Imlay City student wrote for the Lapeer newspaper? He wrote something a big basketball player didn't like, so the player slugged the reporter unconscious in the school hallway.

Al, what if I wrote that all this fighting proved it isn't safe to live in Imlay City? You would say I was stupid, and you would be right. You are just that stupid when you send me clippings about kids fighting on Belle Isle and tell me I should escape Detroit while I'm still alive.

There are bad kids and dumb kids and thoughtless kids everywhere, Al, not just in Detroit. And most of the kids in Detroit are fine, the same as most of the kids in Imlay City are fine. You should be ashamed that your city cousin has to tell you that.

You also sent me clippings about the acquittals in the "famous" Cobo Hall case. You said this proved there is no justice in Detroit because black juries will never convict black defendants. I know a lot of people agree with you, Al, but you are all full of what I stepped in on Belle Isle.

Black juries convict plenty of black people here. The records prove it. In the Cobo case, the jury simply didn't think the prosecution had a strong enough case. That's the way the system is supposed to work. Sure, it doesn't always work perfectly. But hey, Al, why didn't you send me a clipping about the acquittal of Dr. Don Krohn?

Dr. Krohn is chief of obstetrics and gynecology at Providence Hospital in Southfield. One night he got drunk and broke into a home in West Bloomfield Township and physically abused the woman who lived there, according to police. He also slugged her neighbor and fled from police, the police said. Judge William Beer's verdict was that Dr. Krohn was not guilty because he hadn't intended to do anything wrong.

Both Krohn and Beer are white, Al. Would you say Beer's verdict was influenced by complexion? No, that would be stupid. Just as stupid as blaming the Cobo verdict on complexion.

It is for sure that justice is not always blind. But if I were looking for a peek from behind the blindfold, in any court in any city, I'd sure as hell rather be rich than black.

This has turned out to be a heavy letter, Al, and I hope you can handle it without writing me out of your will. You never were a poussin to kiss, but I always figured you had more sense than to fall for all that anti-Detroit crap which is handed out with the hors d'oeuvres at suburban cocktail parties.

I hope something I've written here might change your thinking, Al. Otherwise, you remain full of it, and I would rather walk behind Melissa's pony than walk behind you.

—YOUR CITY COUSIN

Grand Comrade Leonid?

By B.J. Cutler

We've always assumed Leonid Brezhnev was intelligent, or he wouldn't have been able to climb to the top in the Kremlin and stay there, and thus we've been puzzled by his making so many state visits abroad.

A state visit is one of the most tiresome events devised by the human mind, consisting as it does of 21-gun salutes, national anthems, security precautions, official banquets, tedious toasts and diplomatic negotiations, which are the most boring talks in Christendom.

However, it turns out Brezhnev has an incentive to travel. He's a collector of fast and fancy foreign cars and, much like medieval potentates giving a jeweled sword to a royal visitor, his hosts have been filling up the Brezhnev garage.

Among other luxury vehicles, he has a Citroen-Maserati from an earlier visit to France and a Caddy and Continental from his hobnobbing with then President Nixon.

On his just-concluded visit to Paris he was presented with a green Matra sports car designed for off-road driving. Ever the perfect guest, Brezhnev said he didn't like green and paint it blue.

Though the French government is saying nothing, Matra says it was ticked off to have to hold up its production line and paint the car blue, a color it doesn't stock.

The Chinese, who see no good in Russia, call the leaders there "the new czars" for the way they behave. We wouldn't want to take sides, but Brezhnev's lordly treatment of the French was, if not czarlike, at least that of a prerevolutionary grand duke.

Washington's new leak

Congress has passed and President Carter signed a bill appropriating $4.7 million to repair the leaky roof of the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington.

Of course $4.7 million isn't much money by Washington standards, but still there is a useful lesson in the Kennedy Center's drip drip drip.

The building is only five years old and took a whopping $73 million to build. You would think that money the bureaucracy could get a tight structure or would see the daylight out of the contractor. Apparently it can do neither.

Now getting a proper roof on a costly cultural palace and, to take another example, delivering a parcel post package without smashing it should be fairly simple feats.

Yet the bureaucrats who are incapable of performing them ask the country to trust them to handle really complicated matters, such as fine-tuning the economy and running the energy business. Hmm.

Your Birthday

July 14, 1977

A lot of things are in store for you this coming year, especially socially. However, be careful about entering into speculative ventures with people you meet.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

While you're certainly not a loner today, you should choose your company carefully. A pal prone to be silly could do something you'll have to pay for.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) In family situations today you're better off to go along with what the majority wants to do. Let compassion overrule your logic.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Keep an air of mystery about you if you meet someone new today. If you let her know a little bit, she'll be eager to learn more.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Friends may think an idea of yours is a hare-brained scheme. If you feel strongly about it, go ahead—you could have the last laugh!

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Where others may fail, you have the knack today for adding a little touch to what you do. It could be the factor that spells success.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You're better off not asking people for favors today. Your needs are already known—they'd rather act of their own volition.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) A good friend wants to act in your behalf today, but don't seek her advice unless she's an expert in the field. She could unwittingly steer you wrong.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) An unambitious associate or one whose ideas clash with yours could mar your chances for success today.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Praise goes a long way with those working for you today. A few encouraging words will do more good than a bonus.

Mexicans point to Catholic split

By ROB WOOD
Associated Press Writer
DICKINSON, Tex. (AP)—A split in the Roman Catholic Church exists today between traditionalists and the Vatican, says a spokesman for a group of Mexican Catholics who support rebel Archbishop Marcel Lefebvre.

The spokesman, in the small Texas city of Dickinson not far from the Gulf of Mexico, told The Associated Press, "on one side are those who have followed the rites of the church for 20 centuries. On the other side are those who changed our church within the past 15 years."

A small delegation of Mexicans met with the archbishop Monday night at the Queen of Angels church, consecrated one day earlier by the prelate as "the center of the true Catholic faith all over America."

Archbishop Lefebvre had planned a visit to four cities in Mexico but canceled the trip when he reportedly was advised that a visa would not be granted for his party.

He left Tuesday for Miami, Fla., en route to Bogota, Colombia. A sister, Maria Teresa Lefebvre, said he will arrive in that country later this week.

The Mexican delegation came to Texas to meet with the archbishop, who has been in conflict with Pope Paul VI over the issue of celebrating mass in the Tridentine rite—in Latin—or the new liturgy approved by the Second Vatican Council where by mass may be celebrated in the languages of the parishioners.

The Vatican has hinted that the archbishop may be excommunicated.

The spokesman for the Mexican group said the followers of Archbishop Lefebvre would

Libel suit on Scottsboro is dismissed

WINCHESTER, Tenn. (AP) — A federal judge Tuesday dismissed a $6 million libel suit against NBC, ruling that the network had not been proven negligent in airing the movie "Judge Horton and the Scottsboro Boys."

"I'm going to fight it," said plaintiff Victoria Price Street afterward. She was the main witness at the famed north Alabama rape trials of the so-called "Scottsboro Boys" of the 1930s. One of the trials was the subject of the film.

She contended in her suit that the movie defamed her by suggesting that she lied throughout the trials, in which nine blacks were sentenced to a total of 130 years for allegedly raping her and another woman in 1931.

"I felt I was entitled to it because I was damaged," she said. "I didn't tell any lies in Scottsboro and I didn't tell any lies here."

U.S. District Court Judge Charles Neese told the six jurors there was no proof that NBC had been negligent in national broadcasts of the movie in April 1976 and last January.

Attorneys for Mrs. Street argued that a script writer for the production company which made the movie, Tomorrow Entertainment Inc. of Hollywood, Calif., invented sections of dialogue calling Mrs. Street a whore, a bum and a perjurer.

The judge said there was no evidence of wrongdoing against NBC since the network merely bought the movie.

consider excommunication "an illegal act. We would not accept it and we would continue to follow the traditional teachings of our church."

The spokesman refused to disclose his name, the names of others who visited with the archbishop, or the number who met with the prelate. He said, "We cannot do so because we are afraid that we may be denied the right to return to Mexico."

"Those who want to change the church are being led by those from other religions and by the Marxists. We have no fear of being excommunicated. Those are only words from some people who are demanding we forsake the traditions of our faith."

Archbishop Lefebvre also has opposed recent moves by the Roman Catholic Church to reach some agreement with Communist countries and engage in ecumenical talks with Protestant denominations.

In Mexico, Foreign Ministry officials said there was no official decision not to grant the archbishop a visa.

However, those with the prelate's party said he had been advised that "the Mexican State Department had denied him entry and that broadcasts had been heard alerting border patrols to prevent his entry, either by car or by airplane."

Antonio Rius Facius, spokesman for the archbishop's reception committee in Mexico, said Mexican bishops had put pressure on national officials "to make entry difficult."

Archbishop Lefebvre recently ordained 14 priests at his seminary in Switzerland in direct defiance of a Papal order.

And, Father Hector Bolduc, whose church was consecrated by the archbishop Sunday, said, "he will continue to ordain priests. He will ordain at least 20 next year."

Almost half the nation's adult women are now in the labor force, compared with less than a third in 1947.

FBI ran fencing shop

DALLAS (AP) — Got a "hot" 250-pound African lion you need to fence? Don't try Trend Associates as one thief recently did.

The firm went out of business Tuesday with the disclosure that the men operating the going business on an industrial street in the southwestern portion of the city was actually being operated by Dallas police officers and FBI agents.

The officers started a six-month phony fencing operation that has resulted in the recovery of millions of dollars worth of stolen property, including the lion. They put out the word that they were in the business of fencing stolen merchandise and got plenty of business.

So far, more than 25 persons have been arrested and officers indicate that more arrests are coming.

The merchandise recovered includes 75 automobiles, motorcycles, some large tractor-trailer rigs, 110 color television sets, 100 stereo units, 87 rifles, pistols and shotguns, two tractor-trailers loaded with heavy equipment, 500 automobile and truck tires and 280 batteries.

Dallas police chief Don Byrd said officers have been unable to determine where the lion came from.

At a news conference Tuesday after Trend Associates went out of business, Byrd said the operation is a "message to hoodlums and burglars - that we intend to arrest them if they are dealing in hot merchandise."

Officers said charges filed so far in connection with the operation include state charges of burglary, theft, robbery and receiving and concealing stolen

Mrs. Liddy cleans house

WASHINGTON (AP) — When G. Gordon Liddy goes home on Sept. 7 after 52 months in prison, he will find a clean house and five children grown to adolescence in his absence.

"The first thing I'm going to do is clean this place up," Liddy's wife, Frances, said Tuesday after the U.S. Parole Commission set the date for her husband's release.

She looked around her home and apologized for the clutter, bikes propped against the dining room table, sheets over one chair, a front window in want of repair.

"I was a little disappointed that it would be as long as September," Mrs. Liddy said in an interview only an hour after she heard on her car radio that her husband would be paroled. She was driving near the Watergate complex when she heard the news.

Liddy, whose planning and direction of the Watergate burglary set in motion the events that forced Richard M. Nixon's resignation, is in the federal minimum security prison at Allenwood, Pa.

He has received several job offers, Mrs. Liddy said, including "two that are interesting." She added that she and her husband want to remain in the Washington area because their children, two girls and three boys, ages 13 to 18, participate in school activities. They are on the swim team and in student government.

Mrs. Liddy, who said she gets up at 4:30 a.m. every day to drive one son to swim practice, was bringing him home when she heard the news.

Her easy smile faded when asked how she has managed during the more than four years that her husband has been in prison.

"I don't know how I managed," she said. "It's hard to be the only parent. But Gordon has been a big help. He kept in constant contact with the children through letters. And they would go to visit him regularly."

Tom, Liddy's 16-year-old son, recently received a full-scholarship to Washington's prestigious, private St. Alban's School. He said the children visited their father two or three times a month, taking their school essays for him to read.

"He always wants to know what the neighborhood looks like, if the flowers are blooming, if the trees are in leaf, if the Japanese beetles are out."

Tom said. The Liddys live in a two-story brick house in a middle-income housing development in suburban Oxon Hill, Md. Numerous kittens played in the pink petunias and blue ageratum in the flower box on the front stoop.

Mrs. Liddy said that since President Carter intervened last April and commuted Liddy's sentence to a maximum of eight years, she and her husband have talked by telephone every day. Last month, their phone bill was $230, she said.

Three falsified vouchers

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Three men have pleaded guilty to charges of conspiracy to commit theft by falsifying vouchers during construction of low-cost housing in Crystal City.

Jimmie Lopez and Natividad Granados of Crystal City and Albert Ramirez of Laredo had been indicted on charges of submitting the bogus claims to the Crystal City Housing Authority.

Their trial was moved to Austin on a change of venue. State Dist. Judge Darrell Hester of Brownsville sentenced each defendant to three-year terms, probated.

A fourth man indicted in the case, Reynaldo Mendoza Sr., president of Crystal Contractors Inc., died last month.

The three men told Hester they thought the money went to a payroll for persons employed through the influence of Zavala County Judge Jose Gutierrez, a Raza Unida party leader.

The case involved a check for $46,914 endorsed by Lopez on April 5, 1974. Granados, a clerk with the contractors, helped prepare the voucher, and Ramirez, a foreman, signed it.

The money apparently was given to the Citizens State Bank in Carrizo Springs, which financed the construction of the housing project.

The State Banking Department closed the bank last summer after it failed. A federal trial has started in San Antonio for several defendants accused of violating federal banking regulations.

Migrant workers sue for jobs

By MILLER BONNER
Associated Press Writer

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — The Texas Rural Legal Aid has filed a class-action suit in federal court claiming President Jimmy Carter used his political pull to pave the way for Mexican laborers to work in the Presidio Valley of Texas which deprived Texas migrant farmworkers of attainable employment.

U.S. Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell, Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS) Commissioner Leonel Castillo, INS Deputy Commissioner Mario T. Noto and Griffin and Brand, Inc., a McAllen-based firm which purchased crops in the Presidio Valley, are named as defendants.

The suit was filed Monday afternoon and lists 27 migrant farmworkers ad plaintiffs and "at least 250 farmworkers whose contracts were canceled by defendant Griffin and Brand, Inc. as a result of the defendants' unlawful submission and approval of visa petitions for temporary foreign workers."

The suit claims Griffin and Brand, Inc. and the Presidio Valley Farmers Association "conducted an intense campaign to obtain approval of the visa petitions (for Mexican labor) through political and extralegal contacts.

"This effort culminated on June 9, 1977, when President Jimmy Carter, at the request of Congressman Richard C. White of Texas, personally contacted Secretary of Labor Ray Marshall. Secretary Marshall then passed the President's wishes onto the Justice Department. On the same day, the visa petitions were granted by (INS) Acting Commissioner Mario T. Noto."

The suit asked for a preliminary injunction "restraining defendants from approving nonimmigrant visa petitions which have been submitted by an employer where said employer has failed or refused to observe the employment policies of the Department of Labor."

Although the suit acknowledges the government's right to grant temporary work visas to foreign workers after receiving a petition from the prospective employer, the suit maintain this can only be done if domestic workers cannot be found.

"We don't see any reason why farmworkers should be imported especially with the unemployment rate in the Rio Grande Valley," said James Herrmann, the Texas Rural Legal Aid attorney who filed the suit. "Our interest is not letting the INS do this again. We'd like to see the government comply with their own regulations."

"It's a harassment suit, that's all it is," countered McAllen Mayor Othal Brand of Griffin and Brand, Inc. "In this country, anybody can file a suit."

The small growers in the Presidio Valley were going broke. The weeds were grown up in the fields and the crops were overripe."

Brand added that a "substantial salvage" of the pepper, onion and melon crops was possible "as a result of Commissioner Castillo's decision to permit the entrance of foreign workers."

The McAllen mayor also said he had spoken with the Department of Labor and to one of Congressman White's aides on behalf of the Presidio farmers but "I was only one of 100 voices."

Oscar Spencer, a Presidio area farmer, said earlier that growers needed about 2,000 persons to work the harvests in the area.

Spencer said, "We tried to get some help. We explained our problem to people in Austin and Dallas to make them see that their requirements would not apply here and that we were about to lose our crop because we could not get anyone on this side (Texas) to help."

Spencer also said the workers would be paid $2.20 per hour to harvest canteloupes, one of the most perishable crops grown in the area.

The suit claims the farmers should have been made to pay "the adverse affect wage rate for Texas of $2.83 per hour."

Texas weather

By The Associated Press
Texans mopped their brows today and sweated another day deeper into unrelenting July heat.

Occasional showers and thunderstorms brought moderate to heavy rain just east of El Paso in extreme West Texas and scanty moisture elsewhere from that city to the Guadalupe Mountains.

Aside from early morning clouds in the Hill Country of Central Texas the skies were clear and the sun cruelly bright across the rest of the state.

Early morning temperatures ranged through the 60s and 70s. Half a dozen cities shared the state's top mark of 100 degrees Tuesday — Childress, Dallas, El Paso, Fort Worth, Mineral Wells and Waco.

Mostly fair and still hot was the latest forecast except for some isolated showers in far West Texas.

Tecumseh, the Shawnee Indian chief, was the founder of a confederation of tribes to stop the encroachment of whites. He fought on the side of the British during the War of 1812, and was killed in the Battle of the Thames in Canada in 1813.

Libya threatens OPEC

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Radical states within the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries — OPEC — said today they would resist any attempts led by Saudi Arabia and Iran to freeze the price of oil in 1978 at current levels.

Libya's oil minister, Ezzedin Mabrouk, said, "There will probably be a new split in the organization if the Saudis maintain this position."

An Algerian spokesman said he felt there must be "some corrections" on the current $12.70 per barrel price before the end of the year. Algerians reported Venezuela was also against a hold on prices, although Venezuela officially declined to comment.

Sheik Ahmhed Zaki Yamani, the powerful Saudi oil minister and the main proponent of a price freeze, indicated success of his efforts would depend partly on the world economy and progress toward a Middle East peace. The Saudis have often linked moderation of oil prices with progress in the Arab-Israeli dispute.

At a news conference, he praised President Carter for his efforts toward a Mideast peace and his energy conservation program. "Unfortunately the program has not been accepted by Congress. We think it is a step in the right direction," Yamani remarked.

Yamani said he had not discussed the freeze with the OPEC membership. But he told a news conference: "We'll do our best to convince everybody within OPEC" to support it.

The discussion of oil prices, however, was not on the agenda of the two-day meeting, which ended shortly before noon today. OPEC Secretary-General Ali Jaiderh read a brief final communique which said that an interim committee had been set up to continue discussions on the crude oil price differential issue.

The differential issue is basically an internal matter within the organization and has no effect on petroleum product prices at the consumer level.

Saudi Arabia and Iran are OPEC's biggest producers and in the past have been rivals for leadership of the group. But in their joint-TV appearance, Amouzeq agreed with Yamani on everything.

"We want to see to the world economy," said the Iranian. "Today there are 15 million unemployed in the industrialized world. We are members of the earth and we cannot overlook that."

Neutron bomb decision nears

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate is preparing to decide whether more defense dollars should be spent to develop controversial neutron weapons, designed to kill people while inflicting minimal destruction in a blast area.

Opponents of the neutron weapons planned to carry their fight to the floor of the Senate today, despite President Carter's declaration that the warheads are needed for the defense of western Europe.

Led by Sen. Mark Hatfield,

R-Ore., opponents of the weapons planned to urge the Senate to delete funds for the nuclear devices from a public works appropriations bill.

A vote on the issue was expected today.

At a news conference Tuesday, Carter urged the Senate to approve funding for further development of the weapons, which critics say would mark a dangerous leap in the arms race.

Neutron weapons, implanted in artillery shells and Lance missiles, are designed to kill enemy troops with concentrated radiation rather than explosives or heat used in more conventional nuclear armament.

While Carter urged continued development of the weapons, he left open the question of actually deploying them. "I have not yet decided whether to approve a neutron bomb, but I think it should be one of our options," the President said.

In a letter to neutron supporters Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., Carter said the weapons "are in this nation's security interest."

Carter told Stennis, "We are not talking about some new kind of weapon, but of modernization of nuclear weapons."

The President said the neutron warheads might be needed "for discreet application of force" against NATO enemies. Neutron weapons, he said, would keep potential adversaries in Europe uncertain whether nuclear weapons might be used against their "forward echelons."

Carter said two detailed studies on the weapons are due Aug. 15 from the Pentagon and the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency.

Yarbrough to fight legislative trial

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Associate Texas Supreme Court Justice Don Yarbrough's lawyer said today he will go to federal court in an effort to stop the legislature from trying his client Friday.

"They're only concerned with whether they've had enough time to prepare for trial. They're giving no time at all for us to get ready," said Waggoner Carr. Carr called it a "rush to judgment," and said, "it's about as bad as anything I've ever been in."

The judgment has already been made. The members already have expressed themselves," Carr said.

The legislature is scheduled to meet as a committee of the whole to consider an "address" resolution Friday morning.

Yarbrough argues that the section of the state constitution that legislators are trying to use to oust him from his supreme court seat provides for removal "for wilful neglect of duty, incompetency, habitual drunkenness, oppression in office or other reasonable cause which shall not be sufficient ground for impeachment."

The House concurrent resolution of address accuses Yarbrough of perjury, forgery and solicitation of the "commission of the offense of capital murder."

These are high crimes and misdemeanors, Yarbrough says, and those are the allegations that have historically been made in impeachment proceedings.

An address resolution must allege acts that are not sufficient for impeachment, he says.

It takes a two-thirds vote in each house to send an address resolution to the governor. The governor must remove from office any official such a resolution is passed against.

In his first response to the resolution, Yarbrough also made a general denial of the allegations, called for individual examination for prejudice of each of the 181 legislators, asked for the right to get copies of all tapes and documents that will be used against him, and requested that the proceeding be governed by the rules of criminal rather than civil procedure.

Yarbrough also wants the right to take the deposition of Bill Rothkopf, who allegedly took secret tape recordings of Yarbrough calling for former business associate Doug Kemp and Victoria banker Doug Ford to be "wiped away."

The judge also seeks to bar from voting the lieutenant governor, the speaker, the chairmen of the joint legislative committee as a whole and the authors of the resolution.

"To allow such would be tantamount to letting a district attorney, after prosecuting, sit and vote as a member of the jury," Yarbrough says. That would violate his right under the U. S. Constitution to due process and equal protection, he says.

This assertion appears to be an attempt to lay the predicate for an appeal to the federal courts in the event the resolution is approved.

Speaker Bill Clayton said subpoenas would be issued for all House members, who are in Austin for the special session anyway, for the transcript of the Travis County Grand Jury proceedings, for the Harris and Travis county district attorneys and for Rothkopf.

He said Rothkopf is in a hospital, but that his testimony will not be necessary for approval of the resolution.

Jackie's home for sale

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis' childhood home, where her romance with John F. Kennedy bloomed, has been put on the auction block because the former first lady's mother needs the money.

"I don't want you to sell it," Janet Auchincloss quoted her famous daughter as saying when she broke the news that the 58-acre Hammersmith Farm was for sale for $600,000.

"All my children hate it, and I hate it, but it is absolutely necessary," Mrs. Auchincloss said Tuesday.

She explained that her late husband, Hugh D. Auchincloss, had devoted his personal fortune to try saving his Washington brokerage firm, Auchincloss, Redfern and Parker, before his death in December 1976.

"I was very proud of him for doing it," she said, "even though I knew it wouldn't work."

Hammersmith, the oldest working farm in Newport, is alive with memories. It was there that Mrs. Onassis taught a younger-half sister how to get around the strict Auchincloss and where a 14-year-old Jackie set fire to the library sofa while sneaking a cigarette.

Here lived a nursemaid in a little 18th century cottage on the estate, where she invited the Auchincloss children to "come into my castle and I'll give you some cookies and milk."

The children called the cottage The Castle and the name has stuck to this day. Mrs. Auchincloss now lives in The Castle.

Leading a reporter on a tour of the grounds, Mrs. Auchincloss marveled at how well they are kept. She has had to make do with four gardeners on grounds once tended by 32 workers.

Fumes endanger residents

ROCKWOOD, Tenn. (AP) — This valley steel town remained imperiled today by noxious brown fumes still drifting away from the site of a tanker wreck that splashed toxic bromine over a highway.

National Guardsmen finished evacuating the last of Rockwood's 5,259 persons early this morning, including 55 patients in a local hospital. Some 1,500 residents had refused to move and had to be forcibly evacuated.

"I can't overemphasize the danger involved in breathing this chemical," said Col. Russell Newmann of the National Guard. Forty persons were treated and released at area hospitals following the spill.

"It can be lethal. The people who are in Rockwood are in imminent danger in the possibility of a wind shift and an additional spill of the chemical," Steve Webster, a Civil Defense officer from Knoxville who helped coordinate the evacuation, said the "bromine can be fatal when it vaporizes and it vaporizes under normal atmospheric conditions. The liquid will burn and the vapor can kill you."

A Dow Chemical Co. emergency team today planned to move the tanker, which still contains about half its 1,800-gallon load of liquid bromine.

Newmann said officials plan to roll the cylinder to an upright position and place it on a trailer to be removed to a remote area near the Rockwood Airport. There the remaining chemical will be pumped out of the tank, he said.

Civil defense officials said the gas was rising to the upper atmosphere and dispersing more rapidly. The cloud that had covered the entire town Tuesday night had diminished into several small pockets in various neighborhoods.

Minimum wage may be $2.65

WASHINGTON (AP) — A key member of Congress is predicting quick action on a proposal to raise the minimum wage by 35 cents following a compromise on the issue between President Carter and organized labor.

The House Education and Labor Committee will consider the proposal early next week, Rep. Carl Perkins, D-Ky., said Tuesday after meeting with Labor Secretary Ray Marshall.

Perkins, committee chairman, said he expects final congressional action before the August recess.

Officials say an estimated 3.1 million American workers are paid the minimum wage, $2.30. Under the proposal, reached after months of negotiations, their pay would rise to $2.65 an hour on Jan. 1.

Future increases would be tied to the nation's average hourly manufacturing wage. Under the formula, the hourly minimum would go to an estimated $2.89 in January of 1979 and about $3.15 in January of 1980. It would remain at $3 per cent of the manufacturing wage thereafter.

Some issues remain to be worked out, including changes in the current system of permitting restaurants to pay only half the minimum wage since their employees receive considerable extra income from tips.

The compromise on the minimum wage, announced Tuesday by congressional leaders and confirmed by President Carter at his news conference, breaks a months-long impasse and averts what appeared last spring to be a serious showdown in Congress between the new administration and organized labor.

Labor leaders had wanted a $3 hourly minimum to take effect next year with future increases tied to between 55 per cent and 60 per cent of the average blue collar worker's wages. But Carter said he would accept no more than a $2.50 minimum and an indexing set at 50 per cent.

Sibling team charged

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Austin police arrested a brother-sister team in less than an hour after the Travis Bank & Trust Co. was robbed late Tuesday.

Charged with aggravated robbery with a deadly weapon were Barry Lane Bennett, 24, and Bonnie Bennett Hudgins, 22, both of Zachary, La.

Bank officers said a man waved a .32 caliber revolver at bank teller Melissa Casbeer and demanded only $50 and $100 bills. He fled with less than $5,000, they said.

Police said the money was recovered when Bennett was arrested at an apartment in north Austin. He offered no resistance.

Police and FBI said Bennett and his sister had lived in the apartment for about two weeks.

A third person was initially taken into custody, but officers said later the man was only visiting the Bennett apartment when Bennett was arrested. The third person was not charged.

Kent campus clear

KENT, Ohio (AP) — The tents are gone. The demonstrators have been fingerprinted, photographed and jailed. The two-month-old protest on Blanket Hill by the May Fourth Coalition is over.

The scene Tuesday when 193 demonstrators were untangled and dragged off to police vans and arrested was drastically different from that of May 4, 1970, when panicky National Guardsmen whirled on an anti-war demonstration and shot and killed four students.

There was little resistance from the protesters, and officers were careful to be gentle.

A deputy who helped make arrests said, "Thank God there was no violence. We kind of had to pry them apart. It was sort of a game, but we have a sense of humor, too."

The dispersion of the Tent City did not end resistance to alteration of the tree-topped hill by a planned $6 million gymnasium annex. The May Fourth Coalition voted Tuesday night to hold more rallies, and some discussed reoccupying the hill.

John Coble, 20, a student at Miami Univ. at Miami, Ohio, said he was in junior high school when he saw the television reports of the Kent State shootings.

"It touched me deeply, even at that age," the Toledo native said after he was released from

Carter treads easily on nuclear war question

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is walking softly through a discussion of possible U.S. use of nuclear arms.

At one point during a nationally televised news conference on Tuesday, Carter seemed to move U.S. policy toward the position that use of a single nuclear weapon would bring worldwide devastation.

But then he added that he wouldn't say exactly what his policy would be in any specific situation.

"My guess is, and no one would certainly know, that the first use of atomic weapons might very well quickly lead to a rapid and uncontrolled escalation in the use of even more powerful weapons with possibly a worldwide holocaust resulting," said the commander-in-chief.

"This is a prospect that is sobering to us all." But he prefaced his comments by saying: "One of the concepts that must be avoided is an exact description ahead of time of what the Portage County Jail. "To me it was a misuse of government authority and the guilt still hasn't been placed in an official way on anyone. So the only truth of the matter left is the memories and the sight itself."

"The site is not a petty or insignificant issue. It's like a great shrine. Like the ones Americans place on famous battlefields. It's like our Gettysburg," he said.

"But here's one of the really instructive things about this whole day. We had just conducted a nonviolent protest and yet outside the courthouse I heard two (local) women say, 'There should be a bullet for every one of them.'"

Among the first arrested Tuesday were the parents of Sandy Lee Scheuer, one of the four students killed. Sarah Scheuer said she decided that morning to be arrested. "I don't want the gym built there," she said after being taken into custody with her husband, Martin.

Dean Kahler, wounded and paralyzed from the waist down in the 1970 shootings, said he also learned how deeply the emotional scars of the past still affect him.

"It was a victory," he said at a coalition meeting after the arrests.

"I as President would do under every conceivable circumstance."

The first statement seemed to put Carter on one side of the decade-long debate over whether a "limited" nuclear war would be fought, or whether the use of one nuclear weapon would trigger full-scale nuclear exchanges. In the past, U.S. policy has seemed to consider, at least, the possibility of a limited nuclear war.

But Carter's statements were not unequivocal.

Herman Kahn of the Hudson Institute and a leading expert on nuclear war and escalation, says Carter is "playing both sides of the fence," trying to talk to the Russians and U.S. allies at once.

"He's saying to the Russians: 'Don't try it. We might use it.' Kahn said. "He's saying to our side: 'Don't worry. We won't.'" Closely connected with the issue of a "limited nuclear war" is the question of a first strike: would the United States be the first to use nuclear weapons?

Advice

Dear Abby
By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a 61-year-old bachelor who never married because I took care of my widowed mother who just died at the age of 93.

I am somewhat withdrawn and never had any girlfriends, although I'm told I'm above average in looks. I am acquainted with a gal who looks about 30 and used to work in my bank. We were both invited to the same party last Christmas, and I haven't seen her since because she's not at the bank anymore.

I sent her some flowers for St. Valentine's Day, and she wrote me a very nice letter thanking me. (I'm enclosing a copy of it.)

Should I call or write to her to thank her for the note, and ask her to dinner?

I have about $140,000 in the bank so I could probably afford a wife if I could get one. Or do you think I'm too old to be considered eligible?

BASHFUL IN ARIZONA

DEAR BASHFUL: I think you're too ELIGIBLE to be considered OLD. From her note I would say she is panting to date you. Don't waste any more precious time. Call and ask her to dinner!

DEAR ABBY: I've been hearing so much lately about life after death, and since I've donated my eyes and kidneys to the organ banks I'm kind of worried for fear there might be something to this.

After all, if I do come back, gee wilikers, I don't want to be walking around with some of my parts missing. Do I? Can you advise me?

JACK IN ST. PETE'S

DEAR JACK: Don't worry. If there IS life after death, when you return you'll have all the parts you need.

DEAR ABBY: A young mother whose baby had died said she felt no consolation when friends said, "Don't worry, you'll have another baby." She went on to say, "if my husband were to die, I doubt that anyone would say, 'you'll have another one.'"

Well, don't you believe it. Within a month after my husband died, people were saying, "You're still young and attractive enough to find another man." I wasn't even thinking about finding another man. I just wanted to get over my grief.

Another thing that bothered me after becoming a widow was the number of people who said, "If there is anything I can do for you; just let me know."

All you people out there who really want to help a widow: Don't wait for her to call you, call HER, and invite her to dinner or to a movie or on a family outing, the way you did when her husband was still living.

I'm not out after anybody's husband, but I do need to be around adults, and to feel that people still care about me. I'm 35 and the mother of three.

YOUNG WIDOW

DEAR WIDOW: Try Parents Without Parents. They're a great group. And a timely reminder to those who are still lucky enough to be going two-by-two: Invite a widow, divorcee, or any single male or female to your next party or family outing.

Ask Dr. Lamb

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I read your column about acne and found it very interesting. Interesting in the way you mentioned different approaches to its treatment.

You left out the most important warning, to avoid radiation as a treatment under any circumstances.

I was radiated with 1,000 rads to my face and neck during World War II for acne. It didn't cure the disease, just burned the skin like a severe sun burn. This radiation was given over a two-month period.

The net result was carcinoma of the thyroid 22 years later. In this large country of ours who is to say some doctor may not be using X rays for the treatment of acne.

DEAR READER - It is true that X rays were used to treat acne. So were a lot of other things that I would not recommend - possibly a list longer than your paper would care to publish.

It is also true that X rays to the face and neck area in significant amounts can cause cancer of the thyroid. Let it suffice to say that there are sufficient effective treatments for acne today that I would think no one would be using X ray treatment for this purpose anymore.

Readers who want a complete discussion of the current treatment for acne, black heads and white heads can send 50 cents for the Health Letter number 8-2, Acne Can Be Treated. Send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I am writing to you in regard to eating ice I have been eating ice for the past 20 years. I have gone to several doctors but they can't help. They tried several kinds of medicine but failed.

I stop for three days and nearly pass out. We have plenty of good cold water without

Polly's pointers

By Polly Cramer

DEAR POLLY - I cut my children's hair and have found that if I allow the little ones "wiggle time" (about 10 seconds) they will hold perfectly still as I cut their hair. After about 30 seconds I allow another wiggle break so I am able to take my time, the haircut looks better and they are not upset and crabby when I finish.

To save on paper towels I cut old newspapers into quarters and use these sections in place of paper towels for catching fruit and vegetable peelings. I also use bread wrappers and margarine bowls in place of plastic wrap for storing food in the refrigerator. I find that if I do not buy paper towels and plastic wrap I am forced to find a substitute. The substitute is something I would have thrown away, so those items were not as necessary as I thought. - B.C.

DEAR POLLY - When I am ready to tweeze my eyebrows I go out and use the rear view mirror in the car and do a much better job in the bright natural light. - KATHY.

DEAR POLLY - When making cupcakes I used to have the problem of the batter dripping from my spoon and getting the right amount of batter in the cupcake holder. Now I use the gravy ladle from my everyday table service and always get the same amount in each holder and do it faster, too. - PATRICIA.

About books

India: karma or chaos

By Carol Feinsenthal

"The poverty of the land is reflected in the poverty of the mind."

So writes V.S. Naipaul in his latest, bitter and bleak look at India.

Naipaul, who is most well-known and respected as a novelist, wrote "India: A Wounded Civilization" following a year-long visit to the ravaged land from which his ancestors fled a century ago. Born and raised in Trinidad, the author has never lived in India, but during the last 14 years has made four extended and painful visits—searching not for his roots, but for the words with which to explain the crushing poverty, barbarism and failure of his ancestral homeland.

Naipaul concludes that India's problems are not so much political or even economic as they are intellectual. He blames this intellectual void on colonialism and Hinduism, both of which, he believes, have retarded the country's development.

Colonialism to Naipaul is not just British colonialism, but 1,000 years of invasion, defeat and foreign rule by conquerors ranging from Alexander the Great to the British Raj. And Hinduism is part of the reason why even after British rule ended in 1947, India stagnated. Individual initiative had already been sapped by centuries of Hindu inertia; by generations of people believing that acceptance of one's lot is a virtue and that self-realization is the most exalted goal.

The Oxford-educated Naipaul is obviously appalled by India, but his repulsion is akin to the repulsion a person feels upon passing a bloody auto wreck - it's difficult not to stare. Naipaul is fixated by the decay, by the wasted people, starving dogs, the city streets caked with human defecation. He is mortified by the juxtaposition of fat holy men and emaciated children. He is enraged by the grandiose rhetoric about Indian democracy: rhetoric which doesn't change the fact that in rural villages the feudal relations between master and servant continue undisturbed and that in Bombay skyscrapers are surrounded by shanties and 100,000 people sleep on the street every night.

Naipaul visited India during India's state of emergency, before the astonishing defeat of her Congress Party last March. Unlike most commentators who bemoaned Mrs. Gandhi's abuse of the world's largest democracy, Naipaul welcomed the emerging dictatorship. The loss of "alien freedoms" is no real loss, India's only hope, Naipaul contends, lies in "further swift decay," a cleanup of the mess and a rebuilding from scratch.

The book's subtitle is an understatement. India suffers, not from a mere wound, which would heal with time and proper care, but from a malignancy which dooms the country to death—no matter which party is in power or how many social reforms are instituted. Naipaul has a relentlessly critical eye and a simple, strong style. His book is an incomparably honest and unflinching assessment of this nearly indescribably complex country.

In "Staying On," novelist Paul Scott's sensitive eye doesn't look into the slums of Calcutta or into the lives of the Untouchables.

His focus is narrow, but clear: on Tusker Smalleys and his wife Lucy who, 25 years after Indian independence, are the last permanent British residents of the picturesque Pankot Hill Station. The Smalleys are people on whom history has played cruel tricks. Just as the ineffectual and indolent Tusker reaches the rank of colonel, allowing Lucy to pull rank on the wives of lower officers (an indignity she has stoically endured), independence comes and the British hierarchy is replaced by the Indian hierarchy.

In Indian society the Smalleys are a curiosity, a tourist attraction for Americans who ask their Indian hosts: "Are there any oldstyle British around here?" As Lucy suggests to Tusker, "We should write to Cooks . . . and ask them to put us on the tourist itinerary after the Taj Mahal, after the rock temples of Khajuroo, after Elephanta and Fetehpur Sikri, and after the beach temple at Mahabalipuram and the Victoria Monument in Calcutta, the Smalleys of Pankot. We could make a packet, Tusker, especially if you wore your old toupee and I could be discovered playing Mahjong. Ibrahim could take the money at the door and guard their shoes."

Mrs. Bhoobhoy, a mountain of flesh, bad temper and greed is Scott's symbol of the rising Indian middle class. She owns an interest in a consortium which has built a modern monstrosity of a high-rise hotel in Pankot. The Hotel Shiraz casts a shadow over Smith's, the decaying colonial hotel which Mrs. Bhoobhoy also owns and in which the Smalleys live in genteel poverty. The consortium owns other hotels in Rampur, Mayapore and Mirat, as well as a chain of restaurants called the Go-Gos.

These Indians are religious only in their total devotion to that Great Western God—greed. "Mrs. Bhoobhoy showed no interest in any religion, in any kind of hereafter, only in the here and now and in how this might be arranged to her advantage."

Scott, who has written many novels about India, including a series of four collectively known as the "Raj Quartet," knows India well enough to make this novel at once a comedy and a small tragedy; a book distinguished by social and political insights of the first order.

RUBENS' YEAR

NEW YORK (AP) - Belgium is celebrating the 400th anniversary of the birth of artist Peter-Paul Rubens this summer, and almost 100 museums have scheduled Rubens-related exhibitions.

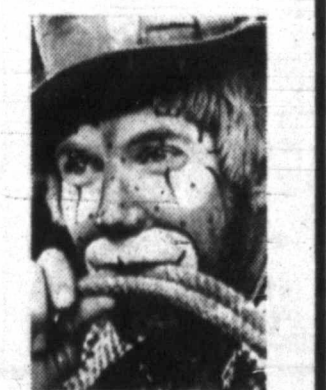

The central event is the exhibit of about 60 drawings and 100 paintings at the Royal Museum of Fine Arts in Rubens' home town of Antwerp. The Royal Museum of Fine Arts in Brussels is also paying tribute to the artist with a summer-long exhibit "Plastic Arts in the Southern Netherlands in the Century of Rubens."

Corporations owe pension billions

By EVANS WITT
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — America's 100 largest industrial corporations owe their employes at least $38 billion more in pensions than the companies have put aside to pay retirement checks.

This massive potential debt is more than the companies' combined profits of $32 billion in 1976, one indication that it could pose a major problem for some companies and for their employes.

The bill collector won't come around next week or even next year to collect this debt. Piece by piece, like a home mortgage, the companies have to pay off the debt.

And if the companies fold or can't pay their pension debts, the government will step in. Paying off these long-term debt obligations plus funding the pension checks due now is quite a burden already for some companies, since it is a business expense that must be paid out of income and thus lowers profits.

For example, Uniroyal's pension costs of $79.4 million were almost four times its $20.1-million profit. McDonnell-Douglas, the aircraft company, made a $108.8 million profit in 1976, but that is overshadowed by the $115.6 million it paid for employee pension costs.

Others among the top 100 whose profits were lower than pension costs include Lockheed, Republic Steel, LTV and Litton. Together, the top 100 firms paid $9 billion in pensions last year — both in current costs and paying off the $38 billion liability.

That's up $1.4 billion from 1975 costs, a 20 per cent rise in one year. These totals come from an Associated Press study of annual reports and other official reports to the Securities and Exchange Commission by the largest 100 industrial corporations, as ranked by sales. Despite the huge dollar figures, individual workers' pensions generally are not threatened. A semi-government agency, the Pension Benefit Guaranty Corp., now insures pensions for millions of workers, assuring them of retirement benefits up to a certain dollar limit, even if the company is unable to pay the benefits.

The $38 billion figure is the total of the so-called "unfunded liabilities" of the pension plans of the top 100 companies. These liabilities are estimates of how much the firm must pay in pensions for all its workers, minus what it already put in the bank and what it plans to put in the bank in the future to pay retirement benefits. These are estimates based on extremely complicated assumptions, such as future salary increases, inflation in future years and how the stock market will perform.

In terms of total unfunded liabilities, General Motors is No. 1 with an estimated liability of $7.3 billion dollars. Next is Ford with a $3.3 billion burden and Chrysler with $2.04 billion.

In order, the rest of the top 10 in pension burden are U.S. Steel, $1.2 billion; Bethlehem Steel, $1.13 billion; Dupont, $959 million; International Harvester, $920 million; Republic Steel, $837 million; Union Carbide, $830 million; and Westinghouse, $817 million.

Shoppers grab coupons for nickle loaf of bread

By RICK SCOTT
Associated Press Writer
SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — A supermarket chain has San Antonio shoppers battling for newspapers which contain discount coupons offering bread for a nickel, eggs for five cents a dozen and milk for 19 cents a half-gallon.

"We've had people calling all night long wanting to buy 200 copies of the newspaper before dawn," said one local newspaper executive. "The callers say they can take the advertising inserts and sell them for 50 cents each."

The promotional campaign was launched June 30 by the San Antonio-based Handy Andy Supermarkets, a chain of 51 stores spread across South Texas.

The first week the advertising coupons appeared on Thursday morning, bread was offered at five cents a loaf, eggs were a nickel a dozen and margarine was sold for five cents a tub.

The afternoon San Antonio News reported the second highest daily circulation in its history. Every copy of the paper was sold and extras were quickly printed. They sold out, too.

The coupons are good for a week and supposedly are limited to one per family.

Last week, a shopper with the coupons could buy milk for 19 cents a half-gallon and weiners for 10 cents a dozen.

The newspapers sold out again.

Handy Andy officials won't say what's in store for this Thursday's advertisements, but the newspaper executive said: "We have had the inserts under lock and key to protect them."

The battle for the coupons is so fierce that newspaper officials report thefts at coin-operated newspaper boxes have jumped on Thursdays. Instead of removing just one paper, some people have been grabbing the whole stack.

At the Handy Andy stores, shoppers are jamming the aisles. One shopper went to the store last Sunday, finally found a parking place and then had to wait in a line outside before getting into the store.

One store manager said the sales are not just limited to the advertised specials. "Our sales are just fantastic," he said. "They (customers) are buying everything in the store."

Morris Mathieu, vice president for advertising and promotion for Handy Andy, said results of the ad campaign so far are inconclusive.

"We're trying to increase sales and profits and traffic in our stores," Mathieu said Monday. He said the specials will continue indefinitely.

The same advertisements are appearing in newspapers in Austin, Houston, Corpus Christi and Kerrville, where Handy Andy has other stores.

Meanwhile, officials of the larger H.E.B. Supermarket chain which has 142 stores, refused to comment on the Handy Andy campaign. H.E.B. is Handy Andy's main competitor in San Antonio.

H.E.B. has advertised it has "everyday low prices." Both chains are private corporations and thus do not publicly disclose their sales or profits.

Study finds athletics not related to brains

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer
COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Texas A&M University professor Dr. Richard McGill has some disheartening news for the eager father who buys his son a baseball glove at age two and can't understand why the kid can't control his curve ball at age four.

McGill and his associate, Michael Ash, have just completed a research paper that will be equally disturbing to those academics who suggest organized athletics inhibits classroom achievement.

They found, after thorough testing of two groups of second through fifth graders, that there is no benefit or harm to be gained in the classroom by participating in organized athletics.

"We were looking at the attitude that sports is detrimental to kids as opposed to the attitude that the more active and involved kid will do better in school," McGill said. "I think it is encouraging to find that there are no basic differences."

The professors divided a group of elementary school students into those who competed in organized athletics and those who did not. Both groups then were tested in such areas as motor skills, self-concept (how they feel about themselves), and academic achievement.

"We had an idea that in the areas of motor skills and self concept, that kids who participated in organized sports would be higher," McGill said. "But even in the area of motor skills, there was no difference."

McGill is disturbed by one finding of the research—the dropout rate among those participating in organized sport grew with each higher grade level. "Certainly it can't all be merely related to lack of skill," McGill said.

Could the kids be feeling parental pressure to compete? "That's one of the real problems—adult intrusion or domination of the game," McGill said. "It almost seems that what the adults perceive that the game should be about and what the kids perceive are two different things."

Although his research stops short of proving it, McGill suspects over-zealous parents push youngsters into competitive situations too early. McGill says it is possible a child who could have excelled in a sport, perhaps professionally, may lose motivation if exposed to the sport too early.

McGill would like to see organized sports restructured at the younger levels to put more emphasis on learning skills instead of winning.

"I recall a study where kids were asked if they would rather sit on the bench on a winning team or play for a losing team and they all wanted to play," McGill said. "The adults want to keep the records. The kids just want to play."

McGill contends that by placing more emphasis on skills at younger ages, a child is better prepared to compete at higher levels.

"If all the emphasis is on winning and being competitive, the child grows up without the necessary skills," McGill said. "There comes a point where competitiveness can't overcome skill."

The research paper does not determine at what age a child is ready for competitive athletics, but McGill says it should not be until after the child had reached a certain level of maturation, especially physically.

McGill hopes to do further research to discover why kids start dropping out of organized athletics as they grow older.

"Is it merely lack of skills?" he asked. "I think some of it is based on bad experiences."

An NHL expansion fact-finding committee met Tuesday with representatives of the WHA in preparation for today's meeting.

The NHL announced last month that it had authorized its committee to pursue negotiations with the WHA leading to an expansion of the NHL by not less than six teams.

NEW YORK (AP) — They say one test of a boss is the people who leave him. But a better test of that man is what the defectors say about him after they cash their last paycheck.

Four former New York Yankee employees took the stand today and promised to tell the truth, but the truth and nothing but the truth—so help me George Steinbrenner.

George is very demanding," said Marty Appel, who quit his job as Yankee public relations director last year to become a players' agent. "There were times you'd want to put your fist through a wall in anguish and frustration. But then you'd realize this is New York, and the man had a right to expect the best job possible."

Appel's business partner, Joe Garagiola, Jr., a former Yankee lawyer, found Steinbrenner a tough, but fair boss.

"This is New York, the big leagues, the fastest track," said Garagiola. "His theory of management is to push people to get the most out of them. He won't accept second best from himself, so he looks to other people in the same way."

Bob Fishel, Appel's predecessor in the job of public relations director, left to become an administrative assistant to American League President Lee MacPhail, who had earlier left Steinbrenner's Yankees.

"I got along swell with him and still do," said Fishel. "He's a charming guy. I have nothing but respect and admiration for him."

Pat Gillick, director of player personnel for the Yankees, left after the 1976 season for a position with the expansion Toronto Blue Jays.

OSU golfers deadlocked

MIDLAND, Tex. (AP) — Oklahoma State University's Dave Edwards and Jay Fought of Portland, Ore., produced their second sub-par rounds in as many days Tuesday and tied for medalist honors in the Trans-Mississippi amateur golf tournament.

Match play begins Wednesday at Midland Country Club and continues through Sunday. The 36-hole qualifying competition was held at MCC and Hogan Park.

Edwards and Fought both carded 36-hole totals of 136 slip past first-round leader Lindy Miller, a Fort Worth, Tex., native who played on the OSU team with Edwards. Miller finished third at 137, five strokes under par.

Tanana hurt

ANAHEIM — Frank Tanana of the California Angels, the American League's winningest pitcher with 12 victories and the possible starter in the All-Star Game, has been advised not to pitch again until July 21, meaning he will miss the 48th mid-season game between the AL and National League.

The Angels announced that the ace left-hander has an inflammation of the triceps tendon, where it attaches to his pitching elbow.

SIMPSON STRATEGY

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — O.J. Simpson of the Buffalo Bills says he was the first running back in the National Football League to line up seven yards behind the line of scrimmage.

"I wanted more time to see what was developing ahead of me," he explained. "I sometimes make moves behind the line that help linemen with their blocks. I have always thought it's not how quick you can get to the line but how quick you can get through it."

Bunched at 139 were Joe Hager, Dallas; Blaine McCallister, Fort Stockton, Tex.; and Bill Bradford, Houston.

Seadock suffers major setback

HOUSTON (AP) — U.S. Rep. Bob Gammage, D-Tex., says he will ask Texas lawmakers for backup legislation to support a shaken Gulf-coast offshore oil superport project.

Gammage termed a decision by Exxon Co. Monday to withdraw from Seadock Inc. a "major setback."

Hugh L. Scott, the president of the consortium of companies that plans to build the deep-water crude oil unloading facility off the Texas coast, said "it is highly unlikely that Seadock will be able to proceed" following Exxon's withdrawal.

Gammage blamed the "onerous restrictions" of the Department of Transportation for Exxon's withdrawal.

"I hope to see it pieced back together but, without the support of major participants, it is difficult to see how it will be done," Gammage said.

He said he wants Gov. Dolph Briscoe to allow the current special legislative session to consider an earlier backup bill, sponsored by Sen. A.R. "Babe" Schwartz, D-Galveston. Schwartz' measure called for state construction of the superport with a financing plan such as is used for the building of state ports and harbors.

Gammage said passage of the bill will give the state a backup alternative in case Seadock collapses.

Exxon Pipeline Co. said in a statement the firm was pulling out of the consortium of Seadock investors supporters because of "continuing uncertainties... relating to rights and prerogatives of owners to manage and operate the facility, marine tanker stipulations and future financial obligations."

Nine original member companies were given six months in which to accept or reject the license, which was granted last January by the U.S. Secretary of Transportation.

The announcement by Exxon, which held approximately 22 percent interest in the proposed $700 million project, was the second withdrawal in the consortium. Mobil Oil Co. abandoned its 15 percent share in April.

"Remaining shareholders in the project must now decide whether they wish to continue with the project as presently planned, look at possible alternative plans or simply withdraw," Scott said.

Nearly $20 million has already been spent on design work, environmental studies and the licensing and permitting activities, Scott said.

The Exxon statement said the company continues "to believe there are significant national benefits that can be realized from a deep water port."

The remaining seven companies in Seadock are Cities Service Co., Continental Pipeline Co., Crown-Seadock Pipe Line Corp., Gulf Oil Corp., The Dow Chemical Co., Phillips Petroleum Co. and Shell Oil Co.

Scott said when the license was issued that it was a tough one that would require careful study by Seadock's member companies.

Yarbrough hearing Friday

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The Texas House and Senate will act as jury next Friday while backers of an "address" resolution try to prove Supreme Court Justice Don Yarbrough is not fit to hold office.

If two-thirds of the members of each house approve, Gov. Dolph Briscoe must remove him from office.

It will be the first time since 1953 that such a resolution has been considered by the Texas legislature. The last effort, against a district judge, died in committee.

The House first voted 129-13 Monday for a set of rules covering the joint hearing.

The Senate approved the procedure by 74-0.

Atty. Gen. John Hill removed some technical protests late Monday when he ruled that "removal of judges by address is a quasi-judicial proceeding and may be considered in a special session even if it is not included in the governor's proclamation."

Under the resolution, the 181 Senate and House members will meet at 9 a.m. Friday to consider the resolution as presented through witnesses, evidence and arguments of appointed counsel.

Yarbrough has been invited to appear and may make a joint statement to the joint session or appear as a witness. He will be able to subpoena witnesses.

Rep. Bob Maloney, R-Dallas, told the House Monday that it will not be the purpose of the legislators to decide, Yarbrough's guilt concerning the three charges in the resolution but only to decide if enough evidence is presented to prove he should be removed from office.

The resolution accuses Yarbrough of supervising the forery of a car title, of lying about the forgery to a grand jury and of soliciting the capital murder of a grand jury witness. He was indicted by the Travis County grand jury on forgery and perjury counts.

The State Bar of Texas filed 11 more charges Monday in Houston in its disbarment suit against the 36-year-old former Houston attorney. The latest filings brought to 100 the disbarment counts alleged against Yarbrough. The disbarment trial is set for Aug. 1.

Two efforts were made Monday in the House to remove a ban against cameras or any photographic equipment in the House chamber or gallery on Friday. Maloney said the camera ban was necessary to preserve decorum and to protect one witness — apparently John William Rothkopf, a former Yarbrough associate who told two grand juries that Yarbrough hatched a plot to kill another former business associate, Doug Ford, and Victoria banker Bill Kemp.

The efforts to remove the ban failed 90-54 and 79-66.

When Rothkopf appeared before the grand jury in Austin, he evaded reporters and cameramen by wearing a paper sack with eye holes over his head.

Maloney said that he presumed the next step for Yarbrough, if the address resolution causes his removal, would be an appeal to federal courts.

Yugoslavia tries to stop Oswald film

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — The Belgrade newspaper Politika is ready to go to court to prevent an American television film from depicting Lee Harvey Oswald holding a copy of the paper, a Politika spokesman said today.

Since Newsweek magazine published a picture of John Pleshette, an actor playing Oswald, with a copy of Politika in his hand, the newspaper has been inundated by phone calls from people wondering how Politika was linked with the assassin of President Kennedy, the spokesman said.

Politika, a Serbo-Croatian newspaper, is the oldest daily in Yugoslavia and is the organ of the Serbian Communist party.

The Newsweek report concerned the filming of "The Trial of Lee Harvey Oswald," a movie for ABC television by producer Lawrence Schiller.

Newsweek published a photo of the real Oswald, taken in his garden, showing him holding a gun in one hand and a copy of newspapers called The Militant and The Worker in the other. The story also included the picture of Pleshette, holding a gun in one hand and a copy of Politika in the other.

The Politika spokesman said the paper would file a lawsuit against Schiller if the complaint is not settled out of court.

He suggested that the use of Politika in the film might be a deliberate attempt to slander the internationally known daily and Yugoslavia by linking the newspaper with the Kennedy assassination.

Policeman flipped butt, got ticket

DALLAS (AP) — Police Officer C. W. Cottongame flipped a cigarette butt and started to issue a traffic citation to Mrs. Kateri Ewing, and that's when his troubles began last May 23.

The officer now faces a complaint for violation of the city's anti-littering ordinance. It was filed by Mrs. Ewing who describes herself as a committed environmentalist.

Mrs. Ewing said that as the officer dismounted his motorcycle he discarded a cigarette butt on the ground. She asked the officer if he was aware of the anti-littering ordinance.

"I suppose you're referring to the cigarette," he said.

She was.

Cottongame admitted to her that it was wrong to throw the cigarette butt, but his attorney said that was not a legal admission of guilt and is now asking for a jury trial for the officer.

Mrs. Ewing, who paid her $20 ticket for improper use of a turning lane, intends to act as her own counselor at the July 26 Municipal Court trial.

"I broke the law and I admit it. I paid my fine; why can't he do the same?" she asked.

Littering carries a possible fine of $1 to $20.

FOOTBALL RITUAL

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A football game may have the same function of what we call a ritual of renewal in which everyone comes together in a kind of a free-for-all ceremony, says an anthropologist at the University of California, San Francisco.

Christie Kiefer, who presented his theory of rituals to the American Anthropological Association recently, said all the ingredients of primitive rituals are found in football. The stadium is a setting separate from everyday life. The music, band, uniforms, cheers of the crowd and even the Star Spangled Banner are ritualistic.

He said rituals are aimed at altering a participant's antiscocial mental state. Physical changes often occur during rituals, he said, including increased heart rate, flushing, sweating, trembling, passing out and insensitivity to pain. Similar changes occur with a football fan. He can become so excited that his heart pounds.

ONEDA C. JOHNSON Where can our family begin to thank each and every one of you for the people for all your prayers, food, flowers, cards, phone calls, and deep concern during the illness and loss of our dear beloved wife and mother. We want to say a special thank you to the First Assembly of God Church and the Rev. K.L. Courtney. Their deep concern and beautiful prayers meant so much to us during our sadness. Also the members of the church who donated blood to our dear one. A special thank you to United Mud Service for their concern and use of their plane flying our family back and forth. We would like to send special thanks to our sister-in-law and Aunt Mrs. J.D. Grider. The wonderful things she did for our family is indescribable but she knows how much we love her for all she did for us. Again we thank each and every one of you, you were truly wonderful to us.
