FDR's WPA Relief Request Slashed 150 Millions By House Committee

FDR ASKS HUGE DEFENSE FUND

Group Claims Rolls Should Be Decreased

Thousands Should Not Be On Relief Argue Democrats

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP)—The House Appropriations Committee, endorsing the WPA rolls carry "thousands neither rightfully nor justifiably thereon," formally recommended today a $725,000,000 appropriation to keep the relief agency going until June 30.

The full committee thus went along with a subcommittee in a revolt against the administration's spending program.

President Roosevelt had asked $875,000,000 for WPA but that figure, the committee said, "presages a continued degree of unemployment out of harmony with general recovery indications."

Four Republican committeemen, asserting that "a national scandal requires immediate action," went even farther. They said in a minority report that funds should be appropriated now only to keep WPA operating until April 7.

By that date, they added, there should be a basis for future conduct of relief activities, "revised and revised."

The $875,000,000 requested by Mr. Roosevelt contemplated keeping an average of 2,870,000 persons on WPA rosters for the five months starting Feb. 1. The majority said $725,000,000 would bring WPA employment down to an average of 2,377,000 per month.

Would Nullify Order

The appropriations committee approved the slash in the proposed WPA fund shortly before the bill was brought to the House floor for debate. Leaders had agreed to end

Highway Worker Hit After He Runs From Car

When Ben T. Griffin, Texas highway department maintenance employee, is working on highways these days, he favors installing a public address system to warn him of approaching motorists who keep an eye on him.

While working with the rest of the gang in making a pilot grade for a center line groove on U. S. Highway 66 near Groom, Thursday, Griffin failed to hear a shouted warning of a car approaching and went on with his work.

Suddenly he stepped out and found a Ford V-8 from Tennessee, driven by a woman, directly upon him. The car, like the old villain, "pursued" him for 120 feet, even after he had darted off the pavement and across the right-of-way.

Seeing the bumper of the car was going to strike him, he doubled up his legs to jump. Just then he was hit by the car, flung upon the hood and over the top of the car. He was bruised and shaken but not seriously injured, although unable to work the next day.

The driver of the car could give no explanation for her action. The foreman of the crew said the woman simply became confused and was hit by a queer psychological quirk, simply drove toward the object on which she was looking was traveling at a slow speed when Griffin was hit.

Chamberlain And Il Duce Lock Horns

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP)—Felix Frankfurter's nomination for the Supreme Court was approved today by a Senate judiciary subcommittee.

After deliberating 48 minutes, a 31st district court jury at 11:10 Wednesday night returned a verdict of guilty in the case of State of Texas vs. Jim Hodges, and set the defendant's punishment at seven years in the state penitentiary.

Hodges had been charged on a grand jury indictment here on October 3 with receiving and concealing stolen property. The charge was in connection with the possession of two typewriters, an adding machine and a calculating machine, admittedly stolen by O. D. James and Ellis Bonham on February 7 from the office of the Southern Petroleum Exploration company west of Pampa, and sold to Hodges in Borger.

Both Bonham and James testified for the state in the trial. They were brought to Pampa from the state prison, to which they had been sentenced on November 2, after they had entered pleas of guilty to a charge of burglary made in a grand jury indictment on September 22.

John F. Sturgeon was assistant prosecutor, while E. T. Miller of Amarillo and Willis A. Via represented the defendant. Mr. Via was not present as the closing arguments in the case were heard last night, as he left Pampa Wednesday afternoon, accompanied by his wife, for a veterans hospital in Wichita, Kas., where he is to undergo an operation.

Testimony in the case was concluded at 2:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Receiving Wednesday night, the jurors heard District Attorney James Sturgeon.

Shouse Residence Swept By Flames

The interior of the W. M. Shouse residence at 801 East Murphy street was gutted by fire of undetermined origin last night. The alarm was received at the fire station at 9:45 o'clock and both trucks were sent to the scene because of the distance to the nearest fire plug.

Firemen had to string 1450 feet of hose to reach the burning building. The blaze was brought under control a few minutes after water started pouring on the house but the fire had gained such headway before the alarm had been turned in that it was impossible to save the interior.

Lost through the fire had not been determined by Chief Ben White today.

James, state witness in the case against Jim Hodges, against whom a verdict of guilty was returned Wednesday night, on a charge of receiving and concealing stolen property.

No refutation of the alleged incident was made by any of the attorneys in the closing arguments of the Hodges case last night.

Pampan Goes To Trial In Assault Case

12-Year-Old Girl Will Be State's Chief Witness

The case of Robert W. White, 39-year-old Pampan charged with assault with attempt to rape in connection with an alleged attack upon a 12-year-old Pampa girl on the night of December 8, went to trial in 31st district court at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Absence of some witnesses was the reason for the late start.

Jurors in the case were selected at 11:20 o'clock this morning. Jurors are J. G. Cargile, Fay Gray, W. R. Whitsell, Frank Babcock, A. L. Flynn, L. K. Stout, W. E. Dean, D. H. Hamilton, L. I. Guthrie, Charles Morgan, F. A. Peck and W. C. Boatwright.

The State is represented by District Attorney Clifford Braly. The defense by Newton P. Willis.

White was indicted on January 6 by a 31st district court grand jury. He was arrested on the night of December 8 by Constable Otis Hendrix and Deputy Henry McGee, after officers had been summoned to a house in southeast Pampa by the girl's mother and another woman.

The girl was alone at the time of the alleged attack while her parents were visiting relatives.

Breaking away from the man, the girl rushed to a telephone to call her parents, and was able to say a few words before she was pulled away, according to Constable Hendrix. Feeling that something was amiss, the parents of the girl and relatives they were visiting rushed home.

While the man held the intruder, the women drove a car to the sheriff's office and summoned aid.

Convict Tells In Pampa Court How Officers Tortured Him With Electricity Near Amarillo

He said he would have signed anything before going through such an ordeal again.

Brought From Prison

E. T. Miller, a defense attorney in the Hodges case, brought forth these statements in his cross-examination of James Tuesday afternoon, the second day of the trial. James and Ellis Bonham were both state witnesses, having been brought here from the state prison, where both are serving sentences of two years each on a burglary charge. The pair was sentenced here on November 2.

Miller said the torture to which James testified occurred early in September, preceding the indictment of James and Bonham here on September 22.

He said the method used in obtaining the statement included tying James to a mesquite bush while his handcuffed hands were attached to the bumper of a car, and that James was stretched out between the bush and the car.

Miller said he saw James with a well around his body as big as a man's finger, caused by the electrical wires placed around him. James' eyes were bloodshot so he could hardly see, caused by another application of the electric wire. Miller said James said his ear drum was burst, and other parts of his body burst.

The attorney saw James in jail in Amarillo, where he lay in great pain after the ordeal. James testified.

Wife Of Charles Schwab Dies In Manhattan Home

NEW YORK, Jan. 12 (AP)—Mrs. Charles M. Schwab, wife of the steel magnate and philanthropist, died early today at her Manhattan home. Mrs. Schwab, who was in her late seventies, had been in ill health for some time.

She was the former Emma Eurana Dirkey, of Loretto, Pa., and was married to Schwab in 1883.

Schwab, modest in his success, often credited his wife when he was praised for some accomplishment.

At one time he was offered $50,000,000 for a half interest in the Bethlehem Steel Company. Discussing the proposal with his wife, whom he always took into his confidence, he said:

"That is a big sum. Half of what I have is yours. What shall we do? If we sell your share invested at five per cent it will bring you an income of more than $100,000 a month for the rest of your life."

"We wouldn't sell for five times that much," Mrs. Schwab replied.

525 Millions Needed Now, Message Says

'Present Offense' Feared; Immediate Action Urged

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP)—President Roosevelt asked Congress today for an immediate appropriation of $525,000,000 as the "minimum of requirements" for bulwarking the nation's defense against "the possibilities of present offense against us."

In a special message the President requested that the $525,000,000 be appropriated at once to be divided between the army and navy.

The fund would include $300,000,000 for a minimum increase of 3,000 in army plane strength.

He also asked for another $270,000,000 to provide an adequate "peace" garrison for the Panama Canal, of which $5,000,000 would be for immediate use to begin necessary housing construction.

The total request, all of which would not be spent in one year, would boost the new budget for defense to $1,661,558,000, largest by far of any peace-time outlay.

"Devoid of all hysteria," the President said, "this program is but the minimum of requirements."

"I trust, therefore, that the Congress will act quickly on this emergency program for the strengthening of the defense of the United States."

Not Prepared Now

Mr. Roosevelt said that after entry into the World War the United States "had more than a year of absolute peace at home without any threat of attack on this continent." "Calling attention to these facts," the President said, "does not remotely intimate that the Congress should not have any thought of taking part in another war on European soil, but it does show that in 1917 we were not ready to conduct large-scale land or air operations."

Relatively we are not much more ready to do so today than we were then—and we cannot guarantee a long period free from attack in which we could prepare."

Of the $525,000,000 the President asked that $450,000,000 be allocated for new needs of the army, $65,000,000 for similar requirements of the navy, and $10,000,000 for training civil air pilots.

3,000 Planes Needed

The $300,000,000 of the army fund should provide a minimum increase of 3,000 planes, he said, adding it would be prudent to have any thought of taking part in another war on European soil, but it does show that in 1917 we were not ready to conduct large-scale land or air operations."

The present authorized plane strength of the army is 2,320. Mr. Roosevelt said that the present authorized plane strength of the army is 2,320. Mr.

Oil Operators Still Acting With Caution

By ALFRED WALL. TULSA, Jan. 12 (AP)—Operating on a strictly conservative basis, the oil industry is displaying a disposition that it will have to be shown business is going to be better before it will believe it. In the second week of the new year there was a distinct tendency among refiners and producers alike to hew the line and hold down operations until actual demand and consumption, not prospects, warrant some expansion of activity. The Oil and Gas Journal reported last week's crude output was 3,206,392 barrels daily, down 435 barrels from the week before but still above the 3,000,000 barrels daily which the trade magazine advocated editorially as the advisable figure to be maintained until April 1. Markets agreed there was a slightly better tone to gasoline but refiners hadn't translated itself into a better price for motor fuel. One observer went so far as to say that the biggest need of the oil business today is better prices for refined products, especially gasoline. The trend of field operations still was not defined clearly but it was apparent most companies were feeling their way and waiting to see how much exploratory work their budgets would justify. Last week well completions in the nation totaled 449, compared to 386 the previous week and 522 for the same week a year ago. To date this year field work already has established a trend below that of 1938, which in turn was far under that of 1937. To date this year 835 wells have been completed in the United States as against 979 for the same period last year. Steamship Disabled JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Jan. 12 (AP)—Coast guard divisional headquarters said early today the steamship Florence Luckenbach reported its engine was disabled 180 miles south of the western tip of Cuba. Square Dancers Invited To Fort Worth Contest

FORT WORTH, Jan. 24—Invitations have been mailed to square dancers throughout Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico and Arizona to compete in a 10-day square dance contest at the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show, March 10 to 19. Under the plan contemplated, of Delaware, said the vessel would "require a tow" and the coast guard cutter, Mojave, was ordered to proceed to the boat's assistance.

three sets will compete for day honors and prize money each evening. Sets with the highest points will be called back by the judges for the finals on the last day of the stock show. Manager John B. Davis of the stock show announced that John Winters of Mineral Wells will be chairman of the square dance contest. Winters is known among square dance clubs of the Southwest. He is president of the Mineral Wells Junior Chamber of Commerce and conducted the square dance competition last year during the annual health festival in Mineral Wells. "I want square dancers in the Southwest," Winters said, "to know that they may come to the stock show contest with assurance that the judging will be based on old-time performance such as our fathers and mothers danced." Early entries will make it possible for the management to set a date convenient for the individual dance sets, Winters announced. Entries have been received from El Paso, Van Horn, Hot Springs, N. M., Mineral Wells, Toyah, Pecos, and Throckmorton. Entries should be addressed to the Fat Stock Show, Coliseum Building in Fort Worth.

Girls Need Business Training, Asserts Woman Executive

By AURELIUS KINSEY. CHICAGO, Jan. 5.—Edith Jarvis Alden used to play in the home offices of the Burlington railroad at Burlington, Iowa, when she was a little girl. Today, at 54, she is secretary to the road, the first woman high executive of the Burlington has had in its eighty-eight years of existence. "Big business offers women many opportunities," Mrs. Alden says, "and one of the best ways for a woman to attain success is to understand that she is participating in a man's world and should adapt herself to do things a man's way. Striking Out Alone. "I believe every girl should have business training, regardless of her station in life. She may have her heart set upon marriage and family as a career but a little knowledge of business requirements and methods will help her understand some of the husband's problems. And, too, she may have to strike out alone and support herself some day. As far back as Mrs. Alden can remember someone in her family worked for the Burlington road. Her uncle, Walter J. Jarvis, her father, Harry E. Jarvis, and an old brother, Fred S. Jarvis, were secretaries to Burlington presidents, vice presidents or division superintendents. As a child she heard the Burlington's business, board meetings, mortgages and policies discussed time and again. So it seems natural to her that the Burlington should be the major part of her life now. Started During War. Mrs. Alden started to work for the railroad during the World War. She helped handle Liberty Bond sales to its employees. She continued with the road and recently was elected to succeed Charles L. Sturgis, 76, as secretary, when he retired after 58 years of service. Railroad offers a few opportunities for women, Mrs. Alden says, but she doesn't think that they are greater than those in any other business. It is work, for instance, is filled with details, legal interpretations and application that thrill her, but might bore the next woman. She tried mixing housework and business, but found the days were too short for both. So she stuck to railroading. The Aldens were separated by divorce in 1923. Mrs. Alden lives with her 26-year-old son, John Jarvis Alden. His interests lean toward radio, advertising, music and writing. The two enjoy a close companionship. Mrs. Alden has a variety of hobbies, topped by her desire to grow flowers, get out into the open country, swim and travel. She chooses books relating the experiences of others in foreign lands, likes good fast-moving mystery yarns and won't play cards because she would rather visit than worry about suits, bids or scores. She is president of one and a member of another Chicago business and professional women's club and draws a line between these and purely social organizations. She prefers the business women's groups, she says, because there she finds hard-headed, hard-working members of her own sex who are striving for recognition in a man's world. Unlike bees and ants, worker termites may be either males or females.

Life Is Cheap

Is it worthwhile to save 7400 lives? Life is cheap today, what with Spaniards slitting the throats of brother Spaniards and Japanese bombing or machine-gunning the Chinese. And yet life is not so cheap in every part of the world that it is not worth saving at all. The United States may well be proud of those 7400 lives saved. It didn't just happen. It was the result of careful planning, unremitting effort, willing co-operation on the part of millions of United States citizens.

It came about this way. In 1937, traffic fatalities in the United States totaled 39,500. That is a tremendous, horrifying number of victims of the mere routine of traffic. No other country approaches it. That is because the United States has come farthest along the road to mechanization. It has more autos on the roads, more roads, more miles traveled, than any other country in the world. Also, it led the world in the number of dead who paid with their lives for the speed of today's daily existence.

It was, and it is still, a horrifying toll, considering that most of these victims had done nothing to deserve death; most of them, indeed, had observed every precaution possible, and still had been struck down by forces outside their control.

During the last year, under leadership of the National Safety Council, the campaign to cut down this death toll moved steadily forward to triumph.

While final figures for 1938 have yet to be compiled, there is every indication that the 1938 toll will be the lowest since 1933. Even if the figures for December shall prove to be the same as those for 1937, the saving in life will have been 7400 during the year.

But if the rate of reduction should prove to have been maintained during December the saving may be as high as 8000. Last November marked the 13th consecutive month of unbroken improvement in traffic safety conditions.

Have you, as a motorist been inconvenienced slightly by brake tests, license tests, apparently unnecessary traffic regulations? Have you as a pedestrian been harassed by crossing lights and corner traffic policemen?

Maybe you think you have. But the next time you are inclined to be annoyed by traffic regulations that seem a bit oppressive, think of those 7400 people who are alive today, and who might be dead. Human life, some of us still believe, is a precious thing, well worth going to considerable pains to save.

The Nation's Press

OPPORTUNITY

(The American Magazine)

The variations in human beings make this an interesting and colorful world. Most people, whatever their origin, heritage, or habitat, can EARN a living if they are obliged to. Some maintain a seemingly effortless existence by turning up ideas for others to execute. Some live by their wits or personality without getting eye-strain or a tired back from close application. They are the brilliant minds. Like meteors, they flash over what is for most a humdrum routine of daily chores.

Few of us are brilliant, save on extremely rare occasions. We do not get the answers easily. We plod along the hard road while brighter folks whiz by in fast cars. Yet, somehow, we dull fellows usually reach the place we start for, while many smarter ones turn off into a blind street or upset on a curve. That success is not reserved for the brilliant is a comforting thought for the student who was never called up to stage a demonstration for the visiting chairman of the school board. There have been many attempts—successful and unsuccessful—to define the elusive thing called genius. But I like best its definition as "an infinite capacity for taking pains."

The successful men it has been my privilege to know were hard workers, sometimes slow of thought and speech. They did not always sparkle when the switch was turned on. But, one and all, they rounded up the particular job on which they were employed. They not only finished the work in hand but checked back on it. More than likely, they discovered other jobs that had to be done to supplement the original assignment. A sure road to eventual unemployment is to leave a job unfinished each night to insure its being there the next morning.

It is tragic when a young man or woman accepts the current doctrine of defeat. There are opportunities on every side today just as there always have been and always will be. The difference is that in a depression they do not run after the candidate, nor are the openings as attractive as they used to be in boom times. Yet they still beckon to the ambitious, for whom frontiers will never close.

Too many people are Micawbers. They are waiting for something to turn up, and while waiting they go to a neighborhood movie or a baseball park. A man who seeks work he can perform and insists on doing it is not long idle. The job he takes may be one beneath his abilities. It may be manual labor for one trained to work with his head. But if he tackles it with enthusiasm and stays with it until he is satisfied that it has been done as well as anyone can do it, there is always someone waiting to hand that man another task. The superficial performer, glossing over his lack of thoroughness to be out of the door when quitting time arrives, may get along in a time of great business activity simply because there is no competition for his place. He joins the unemployed when an order goes out to reduce the force of which he is a dispensable unit.

Positions are hard to find. Someone else has to create a position, but you, yourself, can make a job.

ARE THE UNITED STATES, GERMANY AND RUSSIA DEMOCRACIES?

In a very enlightening article in the January issue of The American Mercury, Albert Nock has some timely comments to make on "What is Democracy." He defines democracy as it is usually defined by the dictionary; namely, "democracy is a system of government in which the sovereign power of the State is vested in the people as a whole, and is exercised directly by them or their elected agents."

Mr. Nock points out that this makes United States, England and France democracies. He says, "Of course they are," and continues; "But why, by definition, is not Germany a democracy? Why not Russia? Our publicists seem to think not, but how do they make it out? Is not the sovereign power vested in the people of those countries, as in ours? Do they not hold popular elections and vote, as our people do? Are not Stalin and Co. and Hitler and Co. as competently qualified agents of the Russian and German peoples as Roosevelt and Co. are of the American people? * * * But those elections were phony; all the people voted under duress. Can we be quite sure of that? I cannot. I think some of them, perhaps a good many, voted the affirmative ticket because they preferred it. Not all the voters were dragooned, at any rate, for some voted the other way, and were so recorded; so there seems to have been at least a shadow of an option available in the matter. But never mind; let it pass that the Russian and German elections were shotgun elections, and were therefore no proper test of democracy."

Then Mr. Nock brings up how our officers and lawmakers are selected, he says, "For purposes of fair comparison let us take the last Presidential election. Is it not perfectly competent for any Nazi apologist to say that Roosevelt won that election by straight over-the-counter purchase with public money, and that it was therefore no fair index of democracy in America?"

"Stupid as I may be, I cannot get it through my head that jobholding by economic pressure is any more democratic than jobholding by shotgun-pressure. The difference seems to me purely one of method. Therefore, taking elections and electoral procedure as a test—and I know of no other that is applicable—if the United States is a democracy, Germany and Russia are democracies. If Roosevelt is an arch-democrat (and I hardly see how he could civil at the title) so certainly is Hitler."

And this buying of offices and control is not limited to Federal Government. It comes right down to local subdivisions. The people who advocate giving free text books, the greatest variety of curricula, free medical care, free athletic entertainment, meals at less than cost are invariably the ones who are selected to hire the instructors, under the claim that they will educate the youth of the land. But certainly this kind of elected officers might do mighty little real educating. They sell pleasant illusions. And the pleasant illusions spread into the minds of the people are the exact cause of the longest and worst depression in our history and the rapidity with which individuals are losing their character and their inalienable liberty.

PRIVATE INCOME

According to Virgil Jordan, President of the National Industrial Conference Board, "government agencies are spending today more than that total net income of all corporations and of all individuals who earn $5000 or more. Every business and every citizen is working most of the time either for the Government, or under its management. The proportion of the national income that now passes through Government hands has increased 100 per cent in the past five years than in all the preceding century and a quarter of our history. The per capita net income produced by private enterprise in the United States today is less than it was 30 years ago."

It was 25 years ago that we decided taxes should be paid in proportion to ability to pay. The same year, we decided—that labor unions should be exempt from the anti-trust laws and should have the right to make monopolies and restrict production. About the same time, we established the Federal Reserve that permitted the banks to manufacture check-book money.

With all the accumulated knowledge, science and inventions, for a people to have produced less per person than we did 30 years ago, should be evidence to any thinking person that there is something very definitely wrong. And these three laws established a quarter of a century ago are largely the cause.

"WHAT IS A REASONABLE OR FAIR PROFIT?"

In case you did not read this column yesterday, I want to remind the public that this column is offering $100 for the best article of 500 words, or less, on "What Is A Reasonable Profit."

In order that the youth of the land may compete with others of more nearly the same experience and training, I have divided the prizes into two groups. Those of 21 years of age or less, in one group, those of 22 or over, in another. Anyone is eligible to enter his group whether he be a subscriber of any of the papers running this column or not.

The first prize will be $20; the second, $10; the third, $8; the fourth, $7 and the fifth, $5, in each division.

For details turn to the Friday, January 6 issue of this paper and see the announcement in this column under the heading "100 for Students' and Citizens' Opinions."

The purpose of the contest is to stimulate interest on problems that we must understand if we are to preserve our independence and return to prosperity.

WINTER HOME ACCIDENTS

Beginning with October, the number of death from home accidents rises each month until the maximum toll is reached in December or January. More persons are fatally injured in accidents in and about the home during the winter months than in any other season. The evident explanation for this is that during the cold seasons more people spend a greater part of their time at home and consequently are exposed to more of the home hazards.

is not a merely of national defense. This means we must not merely defend ourselves, but we must go to the aid of sister nations who are attacked. But what sort of aid? Arms? No, since there are many methods short of war, but stronger and more effective than mere words, of bringing home to aggressor governments the aggregate sentiments of our own people.

HOW SHORT IS SHORT?

Hence we must come to the aid of sister nations, we must protest against the aggressors, but we must make that protest effective and do that we must use not "mere words," but methods "short of war." But how far short? Is the President talking about economic sanctions? How far short of war will that turn out to be? How long will a nation submit to embargoes and economic blockades before it provokes violent measures?

In other words, it is not merely of "national defense" the President is thinking, but of stepping out into the world and using our economic strength to supply goods to the nations he believes are in the right and to keep goods from going to nations he thinks are aggressors.

The plan is, not to take our stand upon our own continent and defend our own shores and interests, but to become the active, effective economic ally of all other nations our State Department favors and the active, effective economic enemy of all nations adjudged by it to be aggressors.

Of course if we do that we certainly will need plenty of navy, plenty of army, plenty of powder and plenty of allies. But that is not national defense. So the question arises—why the call to arms? For our national defense, or to provide the second line of offense behind an economic offensive?

Tex's Topics

By Tex DeWeese

This being the heart of the Panhandle oil field, a new definition for an "oil man" will be of interest to a lot of folk who read this column. He is defined by Frank Grimes, editor of the Abilene Reporter-News, and the new word picture is passed along to us by Garnet Reeves, secretary-manager of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce. It goes like this:

An oil man isn't simply a person looking for a place to dig a hole in the ground, or for a hole to crawl into, but an upstanding citizen who has every right to be proud of his record as a contributor to modern civilization, a sharer of the tax burden—and how!—and a man who earns his living in the sweat of his brow, and by taking chances that would turn a stunt filcher green with envy.

He's pretty apt to be a solid citizen, too, interested in such things as good water supply, pretty homes, fine schools and other civic assets. The public has the quaint notion that all oil men are millionaires, plunks, and heavy spenders; and this odd opinion frequently causes the oil man to be the victim of digs, gyps, hold-ups, and assorted other practices inflicted on reputedly wealthy people.

Well, he is a heavy spender, there isn't any dub about that. Think of his tax bill! The man's practically a parambulating checkbook, with enough cancelled checks and tax receipts in his files to paper a livestock exposition building. And he is a plunger; the nature of his business makes him so. It's a gamble from start to finish, with Lady Luck of Old Man Misfortune constantly at his elbow. But nobody ever accuses the oil man of being afraid to take a chance. He takes one every time he sinks a hole or buys an option. Sometimes he hits it rich, often he takes it on the chin, always he is trying.

It would be a pretty desolate, poverty-stricken Texas but for the oil man and his fast-moving millions. But for his willingness to take chances, his endless activity and his high courage in the face of difficulties that would daunt a lesser breed, half the automobiles in the world would stop running in a week. Millions would be thrown out of employment, government coffers would run dry, and our work would revert to the horse and buggy era beyond hope of redemption. He is a cussed lot and a cusses some himself. He is misunderstood, misrepresented and sometimes misdirected. But he's a pretty swell guy, the oil man, and if rich, often he takes it on the chin, always he is trying.

Around Hollywood

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—During this year hundreds of movie players will get their names, maybe their pictures, in the papers. Quite a few hundred more would like to know how to get their names, and their pictures in the papers. For the benefit of the latter, herewith are our Helpful Hints for '39:

- 1—Get yourself a feud. There is nothing quite like a good feud to help along a career. Where would J. MacDonald and N. Eddy be, I ask, if they didn't have a feud? Where would C. McCarthy and W. C. Fields be if they didn't loathe each other?
2—Get yourself a romance. Aw, don't be silly. You don't have to MARRY the guy (gal). All you have to do is be seen with him (her). Go steady—then when that "angle" wears 'em, ditch him (her) and get yourself a new romance. If you mix 'em up, all the better.
3—Get yourself a husband (wife). This is recommended only as a last resort. When you take the fatal (at least temporarily fatal) plunge, be sure to keep it quiet—but notify your publicity guide so the photos at Yuma can be waiting. Better still, slip away and don't tell a soul definitely; just hint at it, and deny everything.

4—Get yourself a divorce. This is always a sure fire. Better, of course, if you can ditch the spouse immediately on return from Yuma, but good any time. Gets more attention if, for months before you file the papers, you can both deny rift.

5—Get yourself a wardrobe. Be best-dressed woman (man) in Hollywood. (Don't mind if, simultaneously, there are two dozen other claimants to title.) If you're alert, you can always wear something a little nuttier than the next girl (guy).

6—Have a baby. But ponder this step long before taking it. There is something so irrevocable about a baby.

7—Get yourself a "pat."

Careful, here though. Remember there's a production code—and apply it to your "private life for safety."

8—Be a superlative. I mean be the grandest (swellest, snarkest) guy in town—or the meanest (naughtiest, spitefulest, most hard-hearted) dame. No halfway measures. No mediocrities, no normalcy.

9—Last but not the least is scarcely worth considering) just work like HELL, live quietly at home, study your art, take care of yourself and act like an ordinary pleasant human being.

(And see what it gets you!)

Annually, 250 miles of cloth, 500 miles of cotton fabric, and 1,000,000 yards of tape and braid are used to make uniforms for British pest-men.

The Capital Jigsaw

By HOWARD C. MARSHALL

AUSTIN, Jan. 12 (AP)—If Dr. Homer P. Rainey should serve 20 years as president of the University of Texas, he will be the first man to head the institution for so long a period.

The average term of presidents of the university has been four years. Dr. H. Y. Benedict, the last, held the position ten years, the longest term, and, paradoxically, he was the oldest, at 58, when he assumed office.

Dr. Rainey's age of 42 was one of the factors which led the regents of the university to select him. The regents had said when they began the search for a new president they wanted a young man who could have an expectancy of at least 20 years in the presidency.

Dr. Rainey will be the third youngest president, only Dr. David F. Houston, at 39, and Dr. Robert E. Vinson, at 40, being younger. Dr. W. M. W. Splawn, now member of the Interstate Commerce Commission, also became president at 42.

In addition to the qualification of youth, the regents wanted the new president to be able in delivering public addresses.

In a recent week, Dr. Rainey made 24 addresses, and regents reported that in the last year he has been in great demand throughout the country as a public speaker.

Reporting the long search for a president and state legislator, press correspondents ran across many interesting facts about the university.

In 1886 efforts were made in the legislature to establish two Universities of Texas. They were defeated. Subsequent events, however, gave advocates of two schools much satisfaction.

Texas A. & M. College was established through an act of the United States Congress, passed July 2, 1862, endowing agricultural colleges in various states. A. & M. was made a branch of the university, which came into being in 1883, by the Texas constitution of 1876.

Support of A. & M. College was provided in the Constitution as an earnest of state cooperation in the purposes contemplated by the Federal government.

When the founders of the University of Texas set about establishing it in 1882 they discovered that $190,000 which the legislature was to have set aside for the school amounted to only $37,000 in actual cash.

Despite this embarrassment, Col. A. Woodrigh, secretary of the board of regents from 1882 to 1894, and his co-workers labored at the financial task and successfully launched the university on its career.

The treasury had not been able to accumulate the cash due to heavy expenses of government.

Despite provisions of the Congress of the Republic of Texas that the University of Texas be located near the nation's seat of government, it took a vote of the people nearly half a century later to establish the school at Austin.

About 1880, shortly before the school was started, Waco, Albany, Graham, Williams Ranch, Matagorda and other cities and communities put in strong bids through their legislators for the university.

After bitter debate, the Legislature left the issue to the people, an election was held and Austin won the location by an overwhelming vote.

The famed "40 acres" of the university's main school, campus which Dr. Rainey will soon become the building quality covers an area of 221 acres.

Originally 40 acres were set aside for the campus by the Republic of Texas in 1839 but they have been added to several times.

Besides the main campus, the school owns 475 acres on the north and south banks of the Colorado River in Austin. A gift of the late George W. Brackenridge of San Antonio, seven acres in Galveston, location of the medical school; 400 acres northwest of Fort Davis in West Texas, site of the McDonald Observatory, and more than 2,000,000 acres of oil lands, also in West Texas.

Growth of the University of Texas is reflected in the following enrollment figures:

Table with 2 columns: Year, Enrollment. 1884: 221; 1888: 1,095; 1890: 1,339; 1892: 4,000; 1894: 6,941; 1938: 10,021

Highlights Of FDR Message

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP)—Highlights of President Roosevelt's national defense message: It is equally sensational and untrue to take the position that we must at once spend billions of additional money for building up our land, sea and air forces on the one hand, or to insist that no further additions are necessary on the other. It has become necessary for every American to restudy present defense against the possibilities of present offense against us. Careful examination of the most imperative present needs leads me to recommend the appropriation at this session of the Congress, with as great speed as possible, of approximately $255,000,000, of which $100,000,000 would be actually spent from the treasury before the end of the fiscal year ending June 30, 1940.

The survey indicates that of this sum approximately $450,000,000 should be allocated for new needs of the army, $65,000,000 for new needs of the navy, and $100,000,000 for training of civilian air pilots. In cooperation with educational institutions, it is believed that the expenditure of $10,000,000 a year will give primary training to approximately 20,000 citizens. We are thinking in the terms of necessary defense and the conclusion is inevitable that our existing forces are so utterly inadequate that they must be immediately strengthened. It is proposed that $300,000,000 be appropriated for the purchase of several types of airplanes for the army. This should provide a minimum increase of 3,000 planes. We have a splendid asset in the quality of our manpower. But without modern weapons, and without adequate training, the men, however splendid the type, would be hopelessly handicapped if we were attacked. The young men of this nation should not be compelled to take the field with antiquated weapons. Devoid of all hysteria, this program is but the minimum of requirements.

(Continued From Page One) It is proposed that $300,000,000 be appropriated for the purchase of several types of airplanes for the army. This should provide a minimum increase of 3,000 planes. We have a splendid asset in the quality of our manpower. But without modern weapons, and without adequate training, the men, however splendid the type, would be hopelessly handicapped if we were attacked. The young men of this nation should not be compelled to take the field with antiquated weapons. Devoid of all hysteria, this program is but the minimum of requirements.

Chamberlain in an answering toast to the king was for a "just and peaceful solution of international difficulties by the method of negotiation." The two talked informally for 90 minutes yesterday. They chatted again after the banquet. The formal conference today included, as did the previous discussions, Foreign Minister Lord Halifax and Count Galeazzo Ciano. Mussolini's son-in-law. Concessions Discussed Count Ciano received Lord Halifax, Sir Alexander Coddigan, British permanent undersecretary of foreign affairs, and Sir Noel Charles, counselor of the British embassy, an hour before the formal program started with a visit by Chamberlain and Viscount Halifax to leave wreaths at the pantheon of Italian kings and the Unknown Soldier's tomb.

The presence of Sir Alexander was believed to indicate that the preliminary talks dealt with Italian desire for concessions in French Africa and perhaps with the Spanish war. Chamberlain's position in the ensuing formal parley was said to be that of a listener, offering nothing until he had heard Mussolini's demands, which diplomats expected would be considerable.

The foreign minister's conversation was understood to have served as background for more important talks later with the two premiers present. Reliable sources said no important decisions were reached. Diplomats said that the German ambassador, Hans-Georg Viktor von Mackensen, visited Count Ciano after Lord Halifax's call. He was believed to have inquired and to have been told what the Britons thus far had discussed. Japan Files Inquiries Japanese Ambassador Shiratori Toshio was considered also likely to have made inquiries as the envoy of Italy's other partner in the anti-Communist triangle. Reports from London indicated that one of Chamberlain's chief objects was to find out what steps the anti-Communist partners might take in 1939.

It is the Fascist conviction that Italy either must dominate or be a prisoner in the Mediterranean, which was Rome's own sea long years before Britain had need to run a life-line through it. The two statesmen, in their toasts, affirmed past Italian and British assertions that the sea was so vital to each that it could be made a bond of union rather than the bone of contention. But Italy has indicated by her recent course that she feels this happy union can be achieved only by sacrifices from a third party, France.

The outcome of the talks, therefore, depended largely on how much Mussolini could get Chamberlain to ask France to give, and how France responded to his means of appeasement. HODGES (Continued from page one.)

Judge W. R. Ewing start reading the charge at 7:42 p. m.

Eight minutes later, District Attorney Clifford Bray opened the state's closing arguments in a seven-minute speech.

Miller Opens For Defense In the first speech for the defendant, E. F. Miller of Amarillo, mentioned what he claimed was lack of corroborative evidence on the part of state witnesses.

Newton P. Willis followed Miller. After a 10-minute recess, court was resumed at 9:15 o'clock as John F. Sturgeon began the state's argument and the final speech of the case. He talked one hour.

He charged that receivers of stolen property were responsible for much of the thievery prevailing in these times, especially by youths. The maximum sentence of 10 years was asked by the state. Minimum sentence in such cases is two years.

Defendant Calm The defendant in the case, Jim Hodges, a short, stocky, middle-aged man, with iron-grey hair, set calmly on the front row bench of the courtroom during the trial. He appeared perfectly at ease, although he watched the jurors closely during the closing arguments.

Hodges was dressed in a blue-serge suit and wore black kid blucher shoes, light grey socks, a brown shirt and blue tie. He smoked several cigars during the court session last night, chewing a stick of clove-flavored chewing gum after he finished smoking the first cigar.

As the verdict was announced, his expression did not change, except that he became slightly pale, as he was led back to jail by Sheriff Cal Ross.

Jurors hearing the case were: L. L. Guthrie, John B. Rice, George Hancock, W. R. Harwell, D. D. Cochran, Frank Babcock, Charles Seitz, E. M. Boston, L. K. Stout, Cecil Lumsford, Homer Gibson, and Buck Husted.

"What would I do with the money and what would you do without your work?"

Mrs. Schwab had been a virtual invalid for several years, and their Riverside Drive salon where great artists of the music world and the theater once gathered was closed.

Death came in the Schwab's 73rd street home, just off Riverside Drive.

Mrs. Schwab, who was 79, suffered a heart attack Christmas day. Her condition grew gradually worse until her collapse early this morning.

At her bedside were her husband, her sister, Mrs. Marshall Ward, and Mrs. Paul Walters, a niece.

The death of Mrs. Schwab brought to an end a happy union which started with her marriage 55 years ago in a small Pennsylvania town where Schwab, then an obscure workman, was employed in one of Andrew Carnegie's steel mills.

Schmelting Plans Comeback BERLIN, Jan. 12 (AP)—Max Schmelzing declared today at his country estate in Pomerania, where he and his movie actress wife have settled, that he is planning to go back to theistic wars.

The former heavyweight champion said he expects to start on the comeback trail next spring. No date has been set nor any opponent named, however.

Schmelzing denied that neither he or his wife, Any Ondra, was in trouble with German authorities.

FRANKFURTER

Union and said he consistently had insisted that all should receive equal rights under the constitution.

Frequently lifting a long forefinger to emphasize a point, Frankfurter said the union frequently had consulted him on "major issues."

Under questioning by Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, he continued:

"Some time ago a question arose when members of the Ku Klux Klan attempted to hold a mass meeting and parade in my neighborhood city of Boston and the officials sought to stop them.

"I said of course they were entitled to the right of free speech and the right of assembly."

"Civil liberties mean liberties for those we like and those we don't like or even detest."

The witness, speaking in a low voice into a battery of microphones, said that when the Nazi government rose to power in Germany there was a question whether the ACLU should give its aid to those professing allegiance to the Nazi regime.

"In several cities Nazi meetings were proposed," he continued. "I was quite clear about it—I said that so long as Nazis do not claim their rights under the constitution it made no difference to the purposes of the union."

"It doesn't matter whether the constitution is invoked for ends I like or ends I don't like, so long as those who invoke it keep within the framework of the constitution."

Frankfurter added that persons sympathizing with Italy's Fascist government also were entitled to all their constitutional rights.

"There must be freedom of speech, freedom of press, freedom of assembly and freedom to worship as your conscience dictates," he declared.

The nominee said that the ACLU had in some cases protested rulings of the National Labor Relations Board preventing employers from circularizing their employees. He added, however, that he had not been consulted in these cases.

The liberal Harvard law professor, nominated to succeed the late Justice Benjamin Cardozo, read a brief statement before a Senate judiciary committee.

Saying he had "taken the liberty of putting on paper" his remarks, Frankfurter added:

"I of course do not wish to testify in support of my nomination."

Frankfurter said he considered it "improper" for a nominee to the court "to express his personal views on matters affecting the court."

Frankfurter, speaking slowly and precisely, sat in front of the committee. He was flanked by Dean G. Acheson, Washington attorney.

He told the committee he did not believe "the best interests of the court would be helped" by statements from him regarding matters affecting the body.

"It would not only be a bad taste, but inconsistent to the duties of the office," he continued, "for a nominee to supplement his past record by present declarations."

In his past writings, the witness added, he had fully outlined his views on constitutional and legal questions affecting the Supreme Court.

He said he was "very glad to accede to the committee's desire to have me appear."

Borah Denounces Witness. The Harvard law professor accepted the group's second invitation to testify after having declined the first. He left his Massachusetts home last midnight.

Frankfurter had asked Dean G. Acheson, Washington lawyer, to represent his interests here. Acheson, a former student of the appointee, conferred with the committee in closed session late yesterday after several witnesses had objected vigorously to the nomination.

The testimony brought a denunciation of one witness by Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, who thundered his objections to discussion of Frankfurter's Jewish birth.

"You are raising the same question that has drenched Europe in blood," shouted Borah, half-rising in his seat, after Allen Zoll of New York had contended that Frankfurter's confirmation would arouse anti-Semitism in America.

Chairman Neely, Democrat, W. Va., said at the close of yesterday's session that all persons had testified who had asked to oppose the appointment. These witnesses had contended that Frankfurter was linked directly with Communist, revolutionary and subversive groups.

the debate tomorrow afternoon and to attempt passage by tomorrow night.

In recommending a clause which would nullify, in effect, a presidential order to blanket WPA administrative employees into the civil service Feb. 1, the committee said WPA was a temporary agency.

The administrative personnel—upwards of 35,000 individuals—the committee said also should be considered temporary workers.

With reference to recovery, the committee noted that President Roosevelt in messages to Congress, had commented on substantial business and industrial improvement.

Furthermore, it said, Col. F. C. Harrington, WPA administrator, had stated that there had been "rapid and extensive" recovery since last July and that the number of workers in industry and agriculture had increased by more than 1,000,000 in the last six months.

Harrington Figures Cited Harrington, it said, also stated that a further increase of 1,500,000 in private employment was anticipated by June 30.

"Reemployment on the outside is definitely on the upward trend and the committee can see no justification for anticipating that there will be a need by the end of June, 1939, 12 months after the recession was reversed and the upward trend started, to continue to employ on Works Progress Administration projects approximately 1,200,000 more persons than when the recession started back in the autumn of 1937."

WPA rolls, the committee said, "should be purged of malingers and many others who manage to remain on the rolls continuously."

It held that such purging should effect a reduction and make room for more eligible persons.

It said testimony on the bill indicated about 10 percent of those now on WPA have been there since the agency's inception.

There also are many unemployed on WPA who should be cared for by established relief agencies financed by other than federal funds, the committee asserted.

The committee said it felt the President's position that Congress might desire to legislate to divorce relief from politics was sound. Corrective measures, it added, should be considered either by a different committee or referred for consideration by the appropriations committee when it takes up the relief appropriation for the year beginning July 1.

Breakdown of Fund The $725,000,000, the committee suggested, could be so spread out as to provide for 2,800,000 WPA workers in February, 2,600,000 in March, 2,400,000 in April, 2,200,000 in May and 2,000,000 in June.

By comparison, the administration contemplated using $875,000,000 for 3,000,000 jobs in February and March; 2,875,000 in April; 2,775,000 in May and 2,700,000 in June.

That amount, it said, would bring the total available for the year to $2,227,350,272, compared with $1,478,858,500 in the 1938 fiscal year; $1,899,068,166 in 1937 and $1,305,802,581 in 1936.

DEFENSE

Roosevelt did not indicate whether the proposed 3,000 plane increase would consist entirely of fighting planes, or include also training and other types. He said details would be submitted to the appropriate committees by the war and navy departments.

Of the $150,000,000 balance for the army, $110,000,000 would go for "critical items" of equipment such as anti-aircraft artillery, semi-automatic rifles, anti-tank guns, tanks, light and heavy artillery, ammunition and gas masks—all to equip regular army and national guard units.

A total of $22,000,000 would go for "educational orders" of the army—to enable industry items which are non-commercial in character and are so difficult to manufacture as to constitute what is known as "bottle-necks" in the problem of procurement.

Navy Bases Needed

The balance of the $8,000,000 of the army fund was proposed for improving and strengthening the sea-coast defenses in Panama, Haferail and the continental United States, including construction of a highway "outside the limits of the Panama Canal Zone, important to the defense of the zone."

The $65,000,000 for the navy would be divided as follows: $44,000,000 for creation or strengthening of navy bases in both oceans, as recommended to Congress last week by a special navy board, and about $21,000,000 for additional navy planes and air material tests.

The $10,000,000 for training of civilian pilots in cooperation with educational institutions will give "primary training to approximately 20,000 citizens," the President said, adding that this sum should be appropriated annually.

Canal Un defended

"We have a splendid asset in the quality of our manpower," Mr. Roosevelt said. "But without modern weapons, and without adequate training, the men, however splendid the type, would be hopelessly handicapped if we were attacked."

Asserting the present garrison at the Panama Canal was inadequate to "defend this vital link," the President said this deficiency could not be corrected with existing forces.

fied he had tried to get a doctor the night he was returned to the jail, but did not get one until the next morning.

Can't Get Doctor Miller said James was enabled to secure a doctor through a message delivered by a jail trusty.

Statement Unlocated James said that he did not have a copy of the statement he made, nor did he know where it was. Miller asked Sturgeon if he knew and the special prosecutor said he did not. Clifford Bray, district attorney, said he did not know whether or not he had a copy of the statement.

The statement, according to a county official, was in connection with oil field equipment cached at various places near Pampa.

James testified that he sent for Miller, talked with him, and with Clayton, an ex-county judge of Armstrong county.

The prisoner was taken to the Gray county jail, thence to Pampa.

James was in Amarillo three or four days. Brought back to Pampa, he remained in the county jail a total of 34 days, confined in a dark cell for breaking a glass out of the door and throwing a note to his wife, James testified.

Bonham and James were still in county jail this morning. They were brought here from the state prison by Hangers Neal Arthur and Pat Tolliver, as witnesses for the state in the Hodges case.

Plainview And Pampa To Play Here Tonight

Bulldogs To Defend Big Five Title

The Big Five Conference basketball season will open tonight for the Harvesters at the local gym at 7:30 o'clock when the Plainview Bulldogs take the floor.

Tomorrow night, the Bulldogs will play Catholic Smith's quintet at Berger. Tuesday night the Borgans defeated Groom 18 to 10.

Plainview is the defending champion of the conference, and is always hard to handle. The Hale county cagers have been so tough to beat that the Harvesters will win only one game in Plainview in the past.

It is expected that Plainview will send another good team to Pampa tonight. Usually the scores are close, and the margin of victory is only a few points.

The Pampa team will enter the Mobeetle tournament this week-end, and is the favorite to win. LeFors and Mobeetle may be the chief threats. White Deer defeated LeFors Tuesday night.

Mary Martin Sings Songs To Big Shots

NEW YORK, Jan. 12 (AP)—For the second time in less than two months, Mary Martin, the little Texas songstress, "stopped the show" on Broadway last night.

Making her New York nightclub debut before a "who's who" audience at the Rockefeller's swank night spot, the Rainbow Room, the auburn-haired singer proved her one-song hit in the current musical, "Leave It To Me," was no flash in the pan. A short while ago, the young warbler from Texas was presenting her "letter of introduction" to persons on the fringe of Broadway with no success.

Last night, among those who came to hear and stayed to congratulate were such a select group of stage screen and society as Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Mae Connelly, Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., Brenda Frazier, Jules Glaesner, Vera Zorina and Jack Whiting.

Miss Martin's rise on Broadway has been the talk of many seasons. Unknown, except to limited radio audiences and friends in Weatherford, Texas, she came to Hollywood where she tried to crash the movie gates, she came to New York in October only to discover that the musical in which she had been promised a job had been abandoned.

In a minor role in "Leave It To Me" Miss Martin scored sensationally with a single song.

As sudden as was her rise, it was not without tragedy. A few weeks ago, her father, a Texas attorney, died after a short illness. After three eulogues from the audience that she sing her hit song from the show. The song is "My Heart Belongs To Daddy."

Ted Williams Wins All Batting Honors

CHICAGO, Jan. 12 (AP)—The American Association statistics on runs batted in during the 1938 season, released today, add a final clincher to Ted Williams' claim on every major batting championship for the campaign.

The sensational young Minneapolis outfielder, property of the Boston Red Sox, drove in more runs than anyone else in the circuit—this accomplishment going hand in hand with his league-leading batting average and his leadership in total bases, home runs and runs scored.

Williams batted 386, hit for 370 total bases, scored 130 runs and hit 43 homers.

Williams, in his only year in the Association, slammed home 142 runs, 23 more than the total batted in by the runner-up in this department, Joe Gallagher of Kansas City.

In third place, with 114 runs driven in, was Olie Bjerna of St. Paul.

Ruppert Saw Yankees Play Twice In '38

By GAYLE TALBOT.
NEW YORK, Jan. 12 (AP)—It was a glum gathering in the office of Secretary Ed Barrow of the Yankees. Every now and then another caller came in quietly, removed his hat and asked: "Anything new on the colonel?"

To each Barrow gave the same answer: "No, nothing new. He's still alive."

Everyone knew that Col. Jacob Ruppert, multi-millionaire owner of the Yankees, was making a hard fight for his life in his home up on Fifth avenue. It wasn't whether he would live another hour or another day, but there was no hope that he would make a complete recovery.

"I was up to see him," said Barrow, "and the last thing he said to me was: 'Will the Yankees win another pennant this year, Ed?' I told him I would guarantee it."

Col. Ruppert was able to get out to the Yankee stadium only twice last season, and Barrow recalled that he became too excited to sit through the second game.

"We were trailing by three or four runs going into the sixth inning and the colonel kept jumping around and beating me on the leg. Finally he hopped up and tore out of the stand. I yelled after him that we would win it for him, and sure enough we did. Dickey hit a home run in the ninth inning."

Barrow, himself over 70, has been associated with the colonel longer than any of Ruppert's other baseball lieutenants. They always worked in the closest harmony, and the success of their collaboration is reflected in the glory of the present Yankee empire. Barrow supplied the baseball knowledge, Ruppert the money.

Someone recalled the best of all the Ruppert stories, the time Babe Ruth gave the colonel a wide grin and told him he wanted $50,000 to play the next season. The little owner was thunder-struck.

"What?" he exclaimed. "You must think I'm a millionaire."
Barrow said the greatest pleasures Ruppert had in life were his annual trips to St. Petersburg to watch the Yankees train, and his frequent visits to Yankee stadium to see them play. He liked to sign Ruth to those whopping contracts while the cameras clicked.

Arkansas May Be Eliminated Friday Night

(By The Associated Press)
The first of a round of games this week may see the defending champion Arkansas Razorbacks virtually eliminated from the South-western Conference basketball race scheduled tonight at College Station.

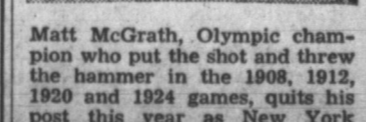

The Texas Aggies, defeated in their opener by the surprising Owls, entertain the ambitious Baylor Bears, rated with the top teams of the circuit.

Tomorrow night Arkansas opens a two-game series with the Texas Longhorns. Defeat in one or both games means practical elimination for the Porkers who last week dropped two to the highly-rated Southern Methodist University Mustangs.

Texas went down before Rice and unless the Longhorns take both battles from Arkansas the Steers will be somewhere in the vicinity of the eighth.

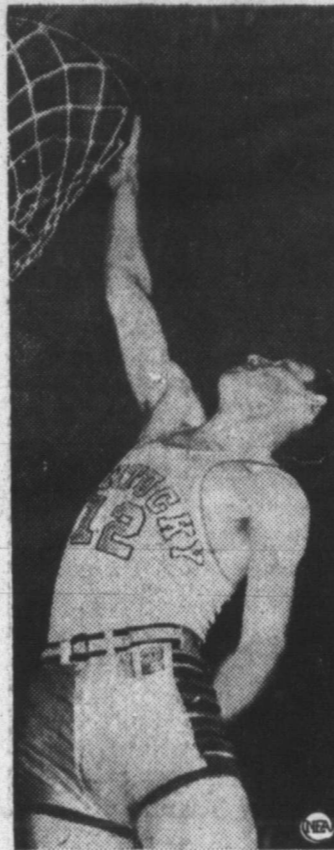

The Mustangs go to Fort Worth Saturday night for a clash with the heretofore impotent Texas Christian University Horned Frogs.

McEwin And Banaski Will Wrestle Monday Night

Tiger Bill McEwin, the Montana Bulldogger, will be given another chance to stay in the light-heavyweight elimination wrestling tournament next Monday night when he faces Joe Banaski, the Oklahoma cowboy, in the main event.

While McEwin is battling to stay in the running Frankie Hill of Wichita, Kas., who conquered McEwin last Monday night will be resting on his laurels while battling Russ Riley of Muleshoe in the semi-final.

Opening the card at 8 o'clock will be Steve Netry, the Florida hurricane, and Able Freeman of the Bronx. Reserve seat tickets are now available at Cretney Drug.

Banaski was elevated to the main event because he led the battle against Freeman in the semi-final Monday night. Riley got the call to the semi-final when he won the loss from Netry. The two went to an even draw and Promoter Cliff Chambers was unable to decide which had the edge.

Hill was given the semi-final to fight out Riley in the semi-final main event. The Kansan had to come from behind to drop McEwin in a wild and woolly battle.

The fur is scheduled to fly in the main event when McEwin opens up with everything to gain and nothing to lose. A loss will send him back to the bush league. While Banaski prefers to wrestle, he can get plenty rough and tough. McEwin is strictly a roughster and he doesn't deny it. He has already announced that he is going to annihilate Banaski and the rest of the crop and that it will be Mr. McEwin who will meet Champion Danny McShane at the close of the tournament.

BACK OF BASKETBALL

Perfectly Executed Hook Pass Most Difficult To Stop On Hardwood Court

By LLOYD BRAZIL.
University of Detroit Coach DETROIT, Jan. 3—As recently as two or three years ago many a basketball coach spent a lot of time trying to find the smoothest-working five-man combination.

He would come up with the quintet he usually designated as his first team. If his choice was correct, it was this five, with the aid of two or three others, who carried the brunt of his team's attack. Barring injuries, a coach would go through the season without using more than seven or eight men unless his team was ahead by 15 or 20 points.

But basketball has speeded up to such an extent that seven or eight men no longer can carry the load against major opponents. The boys would have to be made of steel. The coach playing the five-man combination against a well-balanced squad would be at a great disadvantage.

And I don't consider it wise to have five men become so accustomed to working with one another that they are lost when a new man is sent in.

Five-man combinations mean that if the first team tires the coach is virtually forced to substitute an entire second team, which usually is much weaker than the first.

All players should adjust themselves to each other . . . strive for the best possible teamwork regardless of what five men are on the floor.

When this is accomplished a coach can rotate his squad so that at all times he has fresh and good men in action.

One or more substitutions then can be made without weakening a team to any great extent.

Riggs Limited To 10 Bucks Day For Tourney Expenses

By HARRY GRAYSON, NEA Service Sports Editor.
With Don Budge an out-and-out professional, it would appear that the American Davis Cup team would have to be rebuilt around Robert Riggs.

So what does the tactless United States Lawn Tennis Association do but write Riggs informing him that he can accept no more than $10 a day for expenses in tournament play, and that for not more than eight weeks of the calendar year.

One has to agree with the transplanted Los Angeles now employed in a Chicago advertising agency that 10 bucks a day is a pretty tight fit when you're traveling . . . especially on the net circuit with his swanky hotels.

Of course, Riggs will take this latest and uncalled for word from the United States Lawn Tennis Association and continue to do just as he pleases. It always has.

The return of today in no way objects to control but wants to be controlled in the light of present-day standards.

Most of the headlines are very fair. Budge, for example, put off collecting a fortune to remain in the thick of the so-called slam-pure fight for an additional year.

AMERICAN PLAYERS CAN SYMPATHIZE WITH BRITISH

As impossible as the brass hats of tennis are in this country, they are even worse in England.

George Patrick Hughes, the English Davis Cup team captain, remembers how, on joining a sports club, he found the governing associations most appreciate the realism of the law and of supply and demand. Tournaments want players who attract the public. If such gate attractions are few, that simple law must work in their favor.

Of course, it does work in their favor all the way around the globe and has been doing so for years, whether or not the powers that be like to admit it.

There no longer is any good or sense in making a bluff that amateurism is pure. That is nothing more than hypocrisy.

Tennis would do well to adopt all the amateur rules of polo, which has none.

Other tournaments, both on this and the outside, want to make money just as the All-England club does. The same methods are necessary. That is why players are enticed to tournaments. Yet, even today in England, payment to players is out of order officially, unless the tournament concerned is Wimbledon.

Sooner or later the governing associations must appreciate the realism of the law and of supply and demand. Tournaments want players who attract the public. If such gate attractions are few, that simple law must work in their favor.

Of course, it does work in their favor all the way around the globe and has been doing so for years, whether or not the powers that be like to admit it.

There no longer is any good or sense in making a bluff that amateurism is pure. That is nothing more than hypocrisy.

Tennis would do well to adopt all the amateur rules of polo, which has none.

RIGHT-OF-WAY TO BE GIVEN

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP)—Congressional leaders agreed today to give right-of-way to a national defense program of spectacular proportions as soon as President Roosevelt submitted his recommendations.

There was doubt whether the President's special message would be ready for presentation by noon, but his principal points were decided on earlier this week.

Well-informed legislators heard in advance that the $500,000,000 defense program would recommend thousands of planes for the army and hundreds for the navy, new air bases, stronger Panama Canal defenses, and gearing of industry for mass production of munitions in an emergency.

Army and naval proposals were on the President's desk when he advised Congress a week ago that in word of order for a basic decision on national policy in view of the recent military advances to the south or west, the United States might be required to take up a new front.

Mr. Roosevelt made it clear in his budget message last week that he would propose spacing the extraordinary defense outlays over two years or more, with a first-year expenditure of $210,000,000 in addition to the regular budget of $1,109,558,000 for the army and navy.

Nazis Blame Jews

Berlin, Jan. 12 (AP)—Germany, angrily blaming Jews for mysterious shots fired at Nazi buildings in the Netherlands warned today that Jews in Germany would be made to suffer if the incidents continued.

Both the press and the propaganda ministry blamed Jews for shots allegedly fired at German consular officials in the Amsterdam consulate and at the office of the German legation secretary at the Hague.

The German minister to the Netherlands called the incidents to the attention of the Dutch foreign minister in Amsterdam yesterday and a thorough investigation was promised.

Nazi newspapers let loose a scathing blast against international Jewry, warning of the dire fate awaiting their German co-religionists if another attempt is made on the life of Germans.

DNB, official German news agency, said the German minister at the Hague had been instructed to make "energetic representations" to the Netherlands government over the alleged attacks.

Valley 'Charros' To Attend Inauguration

Brownsville, Jan. 12 (AP)—One of the most colorful delegations to visit the state capital for the inauguration of Lee O'Daniel as governor will come from the Lower Rio Grande Valley, where announcement was made today that "Charro Days Inauguration Spectacular" to convey a hundred charros and their ladies from the border.

The charros will be dressed in the colorful costume of the old Spanish rauder, and the women visitors will wear China pobiana costumes.

The Valley delegation was making arrangements today to take a full carload of grapefruit to be given away, and hoped to transplant a growing grapefruit tree in full fruit in the memorial stadium for the inauguration.

He May Be Baby Of Congress But Texas Youngster Is Johnny-On-Spot

By BRUCE CATTON NEA Service Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON, Jan. 12—This city has seen lots of baby congressmen, and it has good reason to warm up to them slowly. Let a new legislator or show up who is more than usually young, and it will give him all kinds of chances to make an ass of himself—and if he takes them Washington will be off him for good.

The baby of the 76th Congress apparently is going to get along all right, and if he stays his toe over anything it won't be because he wasn't watching.

The baby is Congressman Lindley Beckworth of the third congressional district of Texas, who is only 25. "They'll get you to do a lot of fool things, if you aren't careful," he says in his pleasant Texas drawl.

"Take the photographers. They've wanted me to do lots of things. Like for instance they wanted me to go down to the gymnasium and pose for a lot of pictures, exercising." (You can't blame the photographers, Congressman Beckworth looks like a first-rate halfback.)

IN WASHINGTON. DO AS AT HOME "Well, that'd just have been silly. I never go into gymnasiums down home. Why should I up here? If I did, I'd just make myself look ridiculous. And there'd be plenty of people"—he grinned—"including some of the reconciled ones back in my own district, who'd point to the picture and say, 'See!'"

But the trial by photographers is only one of the ordeals a new congressman faces. Beckworth's first day was typical.

Up early and to the office to answer a flood of letters. To the Capitol at 11:30 to find a seat in the House before it convened. Shaking hands with other new members, everybody very cordial. (Beckworth had already met his fellow-Texas, Vice President Garner, in Texas.)

Staying through the whole session, which only about half the House members did. The rest of the afternoon and evening back at the office. Then home to the rooming house, two miles from the Capitol where he is sharing a room with his father temporarily.

Beckworth thought the opening session was not as impressive in ceremonial as he had expected.

It took to him as though he will be too busy to have much social life.

GOT THERE EARLY

Like all wise new legislators, Beckworth has been on the job for several weeks before the session opened. There are endless little preliminaries. He had to bring his certificate of election to the clerk of the House, so he could formally be put on the payroll. He had to attend party caucuses at which he stated his choice for committee assignments (which may or may not be granted). Beckworth asked for agriculture, interior and foreign commerce, but here again he was put on the foreign affairs, roads, insular affairs, and postoffice and post roads. What he will get, as a new congressman, may be something else again.

Then he had to file with the superintendent of buildings his choice for an office, but here again he must yield to seniority if some congressman with longer service wants the office he has picked out.

He has to straighten up his mileage credit for the trip to Washington and open his stationary account for $125. He must file a list of his clerical staff and open his annual credit of $500 for clerical hire.

He must apply for his congressional auto license tag, which entitles him to freedom from parking tickets when on official business.

He must check over his office furniture to see that it is satisfactory, and ask for new if it is not.

SERIAL STORY

NO TIME TO MARRY

BY ELINORE COWAN STONE

COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday, as Barney drops Janet off at her home, he asks her about her stock and at something in his tone she senses a new fear.

CHAPTER V

WHEN Janet entered the apartment, she found Aunt Mary and Cynthia together in the living room.

At something conspiratorial in the faces they turned toward her as she went in, her sopping shoes making little squishy noises on the polished floor, she laughed.

"What skulduggery are you two up to now?" she demanded. "Something else I'm not supposed to know? After all, whose wedding is this?"

"Not at all," said the old lady briskly. "I didn't really intend to tell you until after the marriage; but I suppose there'll be no peace now until you find out. Since we shan't be needing so much room after you're gone, I'm taking a smaller apartment next month."

Something speciously cheerful in the old lady's voice, and the hint of warning in the swift glance she cast toward her granddaughter arrested Janet's attention.

"Where are you going?" she asked. "I've been considering the Avalon."

Janet paused in the act of removing her coat to turn incredulously. "One of those chicken coops?" she cried. "But, Aunt Mary, you couldn't stand being penned up there! And what would you do with all your beautiful things? They'd never fit in with that ginger-bready joint."

SHE looked about the charming room, with its high ceiling, its dignified vistas, its deep, rich rugs, its books and gleaming mahogany. "It had occurred to me that you and Lance might find room for some of the larger pieces until you have time to look around for just what you want. . . . And in any event," Aunt Mary finished tartly, "there are such institutions as storage vaults."

"You'd better not tempt me too far, Aunt Mary. It will be years before Lance and I could find anything as beautiful as some of your heirlooms. But you might as well put yourself in storage, too, as try to live in one of those two-by-four cells at the Avalon. You've always said you couldn't breathe in small rooms."

Cynthia spoke up sharply. "You might as well know the truth now as ever, Jan," she said. "I told Grams you wouldn't like her keeping it from you."

"Cynthia," old Mary Cantrell snapped, "I forbade you!" "Nonsense! . . . The bottom has fallen out of Gram's trust company, Jan. They've cut dividends. She can't afford this place any longer."

"It was a moment before Janet entirely understood. Then she cried, 'I don't care if she can't. You're not going to move one inch, Aunt Mary. Not while I have more than enough—'

She had started to say, 'Not while I have more than enough for both of us.' . . .

THEN she remembered. If she were to assume the payments on the house, she was not at all sure that she would have enough left even to make up the difference in Aunt Mary's rent. It had developed into such a very costly house—much too costly for two young people just starting out in life. But Lance had felt that they must have a separate apartment with the dignity of a rising young architect.

As Janet broke off, she was miserably aware of Cynthia's speculative glance. There was something uncannily intuitive about Cynthia.

"Well, at any rate," Janet finished desperately, "you're not going to do a thing until—but why, of course! All we have to do is to make a few very simple changes in the plans for our house, and you can have a separate apartment there for yourself, Aunt Mary."

"Not while I'm able to keep a tent over my head," said Aunt Mary grimly, "do I go to live in any other woman's house—not even yours, Janet. . . . And how, may I ask, do you suggest that I dispose of your cousin?"

"Why—" Janet faltered; then she rushed on with reckless abandon, "why, Cyn would come, too, of course."

"After making a few more 'very simple changes' in Lance's precious blueprint, I suppose?" Cynthia's eyes were wicked. "And wouldn't Lance just love setting up his married life as proprietor of a three-way harem? No, my dear little cousin. The time seems to have come for Cynthia to give some thought to carving out her own destiny."

SHE knelt to poke the wood fire with exaggerated care. When she had finished, she continued to stoop there, her slim hands tightly clasped over one bent knee, her graceful dark head bent.

"Rather stupid though," she finished almost as if to herself, "to waste time thinking. . . . Maybe I'll actually do something about it this time."

Perhaps it was the flaring up of the fire that made her seem suddenly paler, so that the rouge beneath her high cheekbones stood out in vivid triangles, and her eyes in their deep shadows were strangely bright. . . . She got up and strolled quite casually out of the room; and a moment later Janet heard her lazy voice laughing from the telephone in the hall beyond.

"Still against eating dinner alone tonight? . . . Well, you win after all. Yes, I've changed my mind. . . . Wasn't it clever of you to know that I would? And how nice of me to allow you to be right for once! . . . Oh, no! I'm not admitting yet that you were right about the rest of it, too. . . . Well, later, then."

"Aunt Mary," Janet said in a low tone, "what do you suppose she meant? You know—about—"

"Probably," said Aunt Mary, "just about as much as Cynthia ever means when she is in one of her exalted moods and feeling a bit dramatic. With her flair for exits and entrances I'm surprised she's never had leanings toward the stage."

Which was as near as Aunt Mary often came to criticizing her granddaughter. . . .

"BY the way," Mrs. Cantrell went on, "the mail just came. There's a young mountain for you."

Janet went to the table and shuffled through the heap of Parcels—more gifts, of course. . . . Notes. . . . And an appalling number of bills. She had never dreamed there would be so many. The telephone rang, and Cynthia, answering, called from the hall, "Mr. Bryant wants to speak to you, Jan."

Mr. Bryant, an old friend of Janet's father, was the attorney who had managed her modest fortune for her these last years.

"Oh, Mr. Bryant," Janet said, "I was practically on my way to call you. I'm afraid I'll have to have a little extra money this month if I'm to go to the altar an honest woman. I haven't opened my bills yet, but I know they're terrifying."

"Why, I think it can be managed," he said after a barely perceptible pause. "I suppose getting married is an expensive business. And hereafter you can let your husband worry about the bills. That's what husbands are for—ha! ha! . . . What I wanted to ask you is if you can find time to run down to see me tomorrow morning. There are some matters I think we ought to go into at this time."

Janet promised and hung up a little impatiently. In order to keep the appointment she would have to hurry the dressmaker, skip the hairdresser, and perhaps be unpardonably late for a luncheon given in her honor.

Hopkins Defends Record Of WPA

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP)—Harry L. Hopkins said today he had done everything in his power "to keep petty partisan politics out of the WPA."

At a hearing before the Senate commerce committee on his nomination for secretary of commerce, the former WPA administrator denied emphatically he had ever made the remark. "We will spend and spend and tax and tax and elect and elect."

Hopkins also testified in a discussion of his qualifications for his new office that "if anybody has had an intimate experience with business during the last six years it has been myself."

"The 'spend and spend' remark had been attributed to Hopkins by several newspaper correspondents, three of whom were called to today's hearing."

Under questioning by Sen. Vandenberg, Republican, Mich., Hopkins, squirming in his chair from time to time, vigorously defended his record as WPA administrator.

"I have been in Washington about six years," he said. "My record is an open book. . . . During this time there were about 3,300 Republican committees over the country collecting everything they could about us. There were plenty of critics trying to find evidence of chicanery."

Despite this, he said, only a few instances of politics had been found. Nothing had been found against the WPA administration, he said, in New York, Boston, Chicago, Los Angeles, and Cleveland or in the states of Michigan, Vermont, and Texas.

Two Families Live In Texas Capitol

AUSTIN, Jan. 12 (AP)—Texas' biggest apartment house is none other than its massive red granite capitol. Tucked away—almost hidden in fact—is an apartment in either wing of the sprawling structure.

These are the respective, and comfortable quarters of the speaker of the house and the lieutenant-governor and their families during sessions of the legislature.

How that came about, nobody seems to know exactly. There is no provision for them in the constitution or statutes. Lieutenant Governor-Elect Coke Stevenson says they, like Topsy, just grew. Just grew, the respective branches usually appropriate funds for their maintenance and year by year they have become more spacious and modern.

Mrs. Stevenson, perhaps, can speak with more authority about these cozy quarters than anyone. Her husband was speaker of the house twice and now as wife of the lieutenant governor-elect she has switched to the other apartment.

Assault On Trade Agreements Seen

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP)—Lines are being drawn in Congress for what easily may become a broad assault on the trade agreements policy by which the Roosevelt administration has tried to pry open foreign markets.

Secretary Hull's visit to the Senate finance committee tomorrow will open the way for a discussion of the whole policy, though ostensibly that visit is being made only to talk about the trade treaty with Cuba.

Besides Republicans, some Democrats and several of the farm organizations are assailing the trade agreements. The changes proposed range from a complete repeal to the simple restoration of Senate power to approve or disapprove the treaties worked out by the state department.

Behind a score of these treaties have been put into effect setting up trade alliances with-as many nations they have been praised in many quarters but each treaty has produced its own group of dissatisfied Americans. The latter complain that every time the tariff barriers are lowered on any foreign commodity, that article is brought into keener competition with some American product.

Hull's appearance before the Senate committee grows out of a report from Havana that an agreement had been reached to reduce the tariff on Cuban sugar.

Rabbit Drive To Be Staged January 17

Another of the now famous rabbit drives in northwest Wheeler county will be staged the afternoon of January 17, according to a letter received here this morning from Jake Tartar, Wheeler County Agent.

The starting point will be 6 1/2 miles west of Wheeler and 5 miles east of Mobeetie on the highway where the high line crosses. Starting time will be 2 o'clock sharp and those not there at that time will be left behind.

The drive will be under the direction of Mr. Tartar who announced in his letter that all hunters must carry their own guns and leave their bottles at home. A committee will assist Mr. Tartar in seeing the rules of no drinking and age limits are obeyed. Those too young will not be allowed to carry guns on the drive.

PWA Starts Work On Laying Lines

Public Works Administration projects in Pampa are progressing favorably according to C. C. Sauer, resident engineer. Work started yesterday on two sections of the city's water extension program and the third part of the program is nearly 65 per cent completed. Digging of ditch for the large water lines started on Ward and Texas streets yesterday with laying of the pipe following. Digging of foundation for the new elevated water tower in East Pampa was also started.

D. L. McDonald, drilling the two new water wells, reported cementing of pipe completed or about 65 per cent of the project. The new wells will boost the city's water production to about 4,000,000 gallons daily or approximately 300 gallons per person per day, which is greater than any other city in this section of the state, engineers declare.

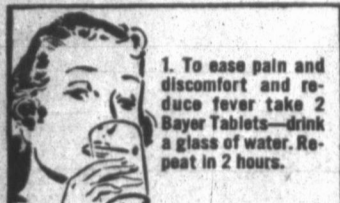

To date seven cars of pipe, 20 miles of caulking material, a carload of lead used in caulking and one car of fire hydrants and valves have been received here. Cost of the equipment is about $31,000.

The water extension program will include new wells, new and larger water lines, additional elevated water towers and fire plugs. Total cost will be $241,000 secured through a water revenue bond election at PWA grant.

Conductor Picks Wrong City And Wrong Auditorium

MINNEAPOLIS, Jan. 12 (AP)—A man in evening clothes pushed his way through a rear door of the Minneapolis auditorium and learned that a wrestling bout was being staged. Apparently embarrassed, he made a hasty exit.

Ten miles away, in the St. Paul auditorium an audience waited 30 minutes for the start of a concert by Dimitri Metropoulos, conductor of the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra.

Metropoulos admitted getting mixed up both as to auditoriums and cities.

Four Perfect Hands In One Bridge Deal

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Four perfect bridge hands in a single deal was claimed by Jacob Lechner and his guests.

The deck was shuffled and cut properly. When the cards were dealt each player is claimed to have had a perfect hand—all 13 cards in one suit. Lechner made a grand slam on a bid of seven spades.

Statisticians have figured out that such a deal might occur again in about 300,000 years if the cards were dealt once a minute from now until then.

GIRL, 11 HYPNOTIZES SUBJECT SIX BLOCKS AWAY BY BROADCASTING VOICE OVER RADIO

At the microphone, left, 11-year-old Rebecca Barfield of Chattanooga exerts her hypnotic power over the air waves on Joseph Anderson, 17, who falls asleep before the radio, six blocks away, at command of Rebecca.

By NEA Service

A child of 11 can broadcast hypnotic suggestions by radio and induce a hypnotic state in a listener. You doubt it?

It has been done, by Rebecca Barfield, 11, of Chattanooga, Tenn. At left above, you see Rebecca broadcasting her soothing and hypnotic suggestions to 17-year-old Joe Anderson, shown in his easy chair at right, his eyes fixed on the radio dial while he concentrates on the radio directions coming from Miss Barfield.

At right, Joe has succumbed to the hypnotic suggestions, rigid and motionless. Miss Barfield and her instructor in hypnotism, Edward Norris, 13, have been in the six blocks from the studio to Anderson's home to awaken him. Dr. R. B. Dame, psychologist, watches the performance with interest.

Little Miss Barfield, a tiny bundle of concentration, simply broadcasts over the air the same "Concentrate—relax—you are getting tired—when I count three you will be asleep" suggestions used by hypnotists on the stage. The subject, in this case Anderson, receives the suggestions as though the operator were present in person. In this case, Anderson closed his eyes, rose from the chair, and then stiffened into a hypnotic state while attendants lowered him gently to the floor.

With young Anderson on the floor in a trance, Rebecca proceeds to awaken him under supervision of Dr. R. B. Dame, psychologist.

Hitlerites Give Thanks For Peace Of Munich At Party

BERLIN, Jan. 12 (AP)—Adolf Hitler and the Berlin diplomatic corps gave their separate thanks for the "Peace of Munich" today in the traditional new year's reception in the glittering new wing of the chancellery which the Nazi Fuehrer designed for himself.

Wearing plain evening dress, Prentiss Gilbert, United States charge d'affaires, filled the place of Ambassador Hugh R. Wilson, now in Washington. (President Roosevelt summoned Wilson home to report on the November anti-Semitic outbreak.)

Monsignor Cesare Arsenigo, Papal Nuncio who headed the foreign diplomats as they entered the sumptuous new wing, acted as spokesman and tendered "public honor" to the "record of the courageous creators of this (Munich) accord."

Hitler replied that the "Peace of Munich" was above all due to "the recognition of the fact that necessities were founded upon historical development and natural needs must sooner or later be acknowledged and may not be denied by force."

215,000 New Homes

NEW YORK (AP)—Some 215,000 families were provided with new homes during 1938, according to F. W. Dodge Corp. The coming year is expected by these building statisticians to show an increase in residential building of 13 per cent over this figure—which was the highest since 1929. The dollar value of these homes, however, was the highest since 1930.

Republicans Plan War On Relief Fund

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP)—Along with Democratic critics of administration relief policies, Republican House members threw their weight today against the President's request for an $875,000,000 WPA fund.

They proposed instead that the agency be given $310,000,000 for two months and that in the meantime Congress work out a new relief policy.

The Republican plan was evoked by party leaders in advance of House debate (at 10 a. m., CST) over the relief fund—debate which provided the first floor test this year for an administration policy.

An appropriation subcommittee early this week lopped $150,000,000 from the President's request, and administration lieutenants were not overly hopeful that the House would restore that amount.

Democratic leaders, however, maneuvered the parliamentary situation to put each member on record for or against the $875,000,000 fund. They also insisted that enough money be

Ostrich Tactics

TOLEDO, O. (AP)—Dr. V. C. Williams caught a pheasant by its tail. He and a friend, hunting, saw a bird land. Following its tracks, they saw tall feathers sticking out of a snow bank. The pheasant had buried its head.

All the doctor had to do was grab the feathers and— presto—he had his pheasant.

Allreds Moving From Capital

AUSTIN, Jan. 12. (AP)—This is moving day at the governor's mansion.

A van rolled up the drive, took on boxes, barrels and furniture—personal property of the James V. Allreds—and pulled out for Houston.

It was the beginning of the end of four years of life in the gracious old building for the retiring governor and his family.

Mrs. Allred went to Houston to supervise unpacking but will return Monday to arrange the traditional post-inauguration luncheon Tuesday for the W. Lee O'Daniels.

Tuesday afternoon she, the governor, Jim Boy, 9, David 4, and Sam Houston, almost 2, will move permanently to the South Texas city where the governor will begin his duties as a federal district judge as soon as the national Senate approves his nomination by President Roosevelt.

Insurgent Drive Gathers Momentum

HENDAYE, France (at the Spanish Frontier), Jan. 12 (AP)—Spanish Insurgent forces, already in sight of the Mediterranean, gathered momentum today in their downhill drive toward Tarragona, threatening to isolate government troops to the south.

Generalissimo Francisco Franco's men were reported advancing southward from Mountblanch, gateway to Tarragona, which fell into Insurgent hands late yesterday after a combined drive by four supporting columns had swept aside government resistance around the little city of 5,000 population.

At the same time General Juan Yague's Moroccan troops went into action in the long-dormant sector east of More de Ebro.

Insurgent officials said that during the past 20 days of fighting their armies had occupied 1,200 square miles of territory, taken more than 125 villages and captured more than 30,000 prisoners.

Meanwhile, in southwestern Spain government forces continued their offensive, asserting they were approaching the railroad which connects Seville, southern headquarters of the Insurgents, with Burgos, their northern capital.

Turkey Starts 'Keep Fit' Program

ANKARA (AP)—American football is the latest western idea to hit modern Turkey.

American coaches are to teach the game throughout the country under a vast national "keep fit through sports" program launched by General Ismet Inonu, new president of the republic. Inonu, successor to Kemal Ataturk, is a skillful rider and winter sports expert himself.

U. S. Probes Bond Firm

WHEELING, W. Va., Jan. 6 (AP)—The Fidelity Investment Association, a nation-wide organization with 60,000 purchasers of investment contract certificates and bonds, was summoned to United States District Court today to defend its management.

Judge William E. Aker ordered the hearing of United States District Court on a petition filed by nine Pennsylvania investors who accused the company of operating accounts "recklessly, carelessly and wrongfully."
