Carr P. Collins Appointed Chairman Of State Highway Commission

EDUCATION BOARD ACCUSED

Labor Flays Appointment Of Kunschik

O'Daniel Appoints Labor Board Head At Same Time

AUSTIN, Jan. 23 (AP)—Appointment of Carr P. Collins of Dallas as chairman of the State Highway Commission and Joe Kunschik of Austin as state labor commissioner was announced today by Governor W. Lee O'Daniel.

Collins is an insurance company executive and a close friend and political advisor of the governor. His appointment is one of the most important the new chief executive had to make.

Salary of a highway commissioner is $4,000 a year.

Collins' appointment will be effective Feb. 15. He will succeed John Wood, an appointee of Governor Miriam A. Ferguson.

A highway commissioner's term is six years. Other members of this important government administrative body are Robert Lee Bobbitt of San Antonio, present chairman, and Harry Hines of Wichita Falls, both appointees of former Governor James V. Allred.

Has "Efficiency" Ideas
Governor O'Daniel said he would send the appointments of Collins and Kunschik to the Senate today for confirmation.

Asked if Collins had any new plan for application in the highway department, the governor replied:

"He has some ideas for more efficiency."

He went on to say there was "not much criticism" of the department, that it was "doing a mighty fine job."

"But the department is spending $45,000,000 to $50,000,000 a year," he said, "and surely some form of efficiency can be instituted that will give us more for our money."
Kunschik, who replaces the Allred labor commissioner, Fred Nichols, is an employee of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company. His appointment will be effective Jan. 31.

Labor Opposes Kunschik
Representatives of the Texas State Federation of Labor affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, expressed surprise at the appointment of Kunschik, and indicated opposition.

A statement by H. W. Acreman, state federation secretary, said Kunschik had no known labor connection, unless it was company union, which form, it said, had

Poison Trial Of Doctor Under Way

TUCUMCARI, N. M., Jan. 23 (AP)—From a panel of 45 venemasters, attorneys today began selection of a jury to hear the murder trial of Dr. John H. Sanford, charged with the poisoning killing of his wife.

The prominent physician, former mayor of Santa Rosa, N. M., is accused of dosing his wife's coffee with a common household poison.
District Attorney M. E. Noble has indicated he would seek to prove "another woman" was the motive for the slaying. Dr. Sanford pleaded innocent at his preliminary hearing.

Mrs. Sanford died in a hospital here last June 23. Her death was ascribed to natural causes at first, but suspicious authorities, three months later, ordered the body exhumed for examination.

Railway Trainmen Assail Sales Tax

AUSTIN, Jan. 23 (AP)—Governor W. Lee O'Daniel declined to comment today when asked if a retail sales tax would be an acceptable substitute for his proposal for a transactions tax.

He said he didn't know who would handle the transaction tax bill in the Legislature, adding "the boys over there (meaning the Senators and Representatives) are running that."

Meanwhile, Joe Steadham, legislative representative for the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, who said he spoke for organized labor generally in Texas, denounced the transaction tax as a sales tax "under a different coat of arms" which would be heaviest on people least able to pay taxes.

Top Hatters To Play For Dance At Hotel

Ralpher Rayland and his Top Hatters swing orchestra will furnish the music for the President's Birthday ball to be held at the Schneider hotel the night of January 30. The nine-piece orchestra is temporarily headquartered in Amarillo following a road trip.

An orchestra to play for the Southern club had not been signed up to noon today but the committee in charge had contacted several leaders and hoped to make a final selection soon.

Admission to the dance at the Schneider hotel will be $1.50 per couple and to the Southern club $1 per couple. A ticket to the Schneider hotel dance will entitle the holder to admission to the Southern club dance but a ticket to the Southern club dance will not admit the holder to the Schneider hotel, the committee announced.

Tickets to the dances will be placed on sale within the next few days. Fifty per cent of the proceeds remain in Gray county.

"Can You Spare A Dime?"

Throughout the country a great "March of Dimes" campaign is in progress in connection with the national infantile paralysis campaign. All citizens are being urged to contribute at least a dime. In many cities March of Dimes buttons are being sold. School children in thousands of communities are contributing their dimes to the cause. In other communities birthday cards are being sent to the White House, each card containing dimes as proof to President Roosevelt that the sender is cooperating in the crusade to stamp out the "maiming death."

The March of Dimes plan grew out of the suggestion last year by Eddie Cantor, noted star of the radio, screen and stage, that citizens

Bill Murray Moves To Rooming House

BROKEN BOW, Okla., Jan. 23 (AP)—Former Governor William H. Murray has forsaken his unpainted farm home on the banks of Yashua creek for a rooming house, and is pondering Texas affairs.

Now 70, the "Alfalfa Bill" of political surveys the stack of books in the corner of his back room and opined he was "just thinking—just thinking."

"I think about nature and occasionally I dwell on things down at Washington and over at Austin, Texas, too," he said.

"There's nothing new in taxation; there's nothing new in government, either," he asserted in commenting on Texas' new governor, W. Lee O'Daniel, and on the national administration.

FDR Submits Long-Range Health Plan

Compulsory Health Insurance Proposed By President

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP)—President Roosevelt submitted to Congress for "careful study" today a comprehensive report recommending a long-range $850,000,000 federal-state program to improve the national health.

"The objective of a national health program," Mr. Roosevelt said, "is to make available in all parts of our country and for all groups of our people the scientific knowledge and skill at our command to prevent and care for sickness and disability; to safeguard mothers, infants and children; and to offset through social insurance the loss of earnings among workers who are temporarily or permanently disabled."

The report included a proposal for compulsory health insurance, which is opposed by the American Medical Association as a step toward socialized medicine.

Mr. Roosevelt said one of the objectives of a national health program was to "offset through social insurance the loss of earnings among workers who are temporarily or permanently disabled."

Senator Wagner (D-NY) has said he would introduce a bill to provide the first $50,000,000 to start the health program, which by 1949 would cost the federal government and the states $850,000,000.

"The committee (inter-departmental groups that prepared the report) does not propose a great expansion of federal health services," Mr. Roosevelt said. "It recommends that plans be worked out and administered by states and localities with the assistance of federal grants—in-aid. The aim is a flexible program. The committee points out that while the eventual costs of the program would be considerable, they represent a sound investment which can be expected to wipe out, in the long run, certain costs now borne in the form of relief."

HENDAYE, France, (at the Spanish Frontier), Jan. 23 (AP)—The Spanish government today ordered evacuation of the civilian population of its capital, Barcelona, under the threat of insurgent armies a little more than 15 miles from the city gates.

Prime Minister Juan Negrin's cabinet, after a long night meeting, announced the ministers themselves would remain at the capital to fight to the bitter end.

The government proclaimed a "state of war" throughout the territory, the effect of this measure, taken after two and one-half years of civil war, was not at once apparent but border observers believed it meant full martial law.

Generalissimo Franco's armies pressed on persistently in the campaign to take the great coastal city, which became the capital after the government moved first from Madrid and then from Valencia to escape the insurgent menace.

Both Madrid and Valencia remain in government hands.

Insurgent planes bombed Barcelona three times this morning following repeated air raids yesterday which killed 49 and wounded 100 persons.

Meanwhile, the insurgent armies which yesterday captured Sitges, beach resort near Barcelona, pushed along the coast and inland columns converged on the capital.

Refugees To Leave
A cabinet communique from Barcelona said the ministers appointed a committee comprising officials of the national government, the provincial regime of Catalonia and the Barcelona city administration to organize the evacuation of the capital.

With most men called to the colors and many women working behind the lines, the evacuation was expected to be confined largely to women and children.

O'Daniel Would Name Director Of Budget

AUSTIN, Jan. 23 (AP)—Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel urged today that the state auditor be appointed by the legislature instead of the governor and that the governor be empowered to name a budget director.

The chief executive said, in his second message to the legislature, he considered it the responsibility of the legislature to determine what the taxpayers' money is going to be spent for and "the business of the governor to stay on the job and see it is not spent for any other purpose."

Submitting the auditor and budget director subjects as emergencies, the new governor said he hoped "to establish a business-like control of the taxpayers' money in this state, to the end that we may be able to give the taxpayers not only assurance that money has been honestly spent but also that it has been effectively spent."

Negress Fined $10 For Stabbing Man

Fields was treated at a local hospital for a knife wound in his shoulder. The injury was not serious and he was dismissed after receiving emergency treatment. The affray took place in the "flats."

Oklahoma Blanketed By Sleet, Snow, Rain

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 23 (AP)—Snow, sleet and rain, accompanied by sub-freezing temperatures, laid an icy blanket over Oklahoma today and the federal weather bureau said more precipitation and lower temperatures would come tonight and tomorrow.

The moisture added wheat fields and replenished livestock water supplies but left a perilous sheet of ice over highways that resulted in numerous minor accidents.

Every weather station in Texas except El Paso reported weekend rains to the Dallas weather bureau today.

Fine for crop lands and pastures, the precipitation fell in virtually all sections and all but obliterated recent drought-like conditions. In the Panhandle country there was some sleet and snow.

The prospects for tonight were

O'Daniel Gives First Broadcast In Old Mansion

AUSTIN, Jan. 23 (AP)—The stately old governor's mansion was the same as ever today, although the echoes of music and laughter of its first musical radio program had died down.

Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel, the Fort Worth flour man, who rode to the highest executive position in the state government, to the accompaniment of hillbilly tunes, yesterday inaugurated the first of a series of Sunday morning programs from his new home.

The gold and crystal drawing room of the beautiful mansion was transformed into a transmitting studio with all the necessary microphones and other equipment while the governor and his "hillbilly boys" and girl singer talked and sang and laughed for the people who made him governor.

With this stern, bearded countenance of Richard Coke, who was governor in the 1870's, looking down on the unaccustomed scene, Gov. O'Daniel remarked into the microphones: "Be it ever so humble, there's no place like home."

He spoke of the stacks of congratulatory mail he had received since becoming governor and mentioned a "bomb-shell" he threw into the legislature 24 hours after he was inaugurated. He asserted it was "amusing" to sit on the sidelines and watch the critics "howl."

Those who were "howling" over his message to the legislature, he said, are the ones who were "milk" the state and got "switched in the

U. S. Army Will Go Up Three Notches

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP)—The 45,000 increase in army strength projected in President Roosevelt's defense program, officials said today, would move the United States up three notches in the list of the world's military forces.

A proposed addition of 27,000 officers and men to the air corps, 13,000 or more to the Panama Canal garrison, and 5,000 to other branches would swell the regular army to almost 230,000 officers and men.

Ten countries now have larger standing armies than the United States on the basis of newly revised official figures. Disregarding increases, which others may make in the meantime, the United States will rank eighth in two years, if Congress approves the $552,000,000 armament recommendations.

When trained reserves are included, the United States ranks only nineteenth, and officials anticipate no relative advance in this respect.

Probers Hit 'Waste And Extravagance'

State Department Angrily Assailed By Committee

AUSTIN, Jan. 23 (AP)—The state department of education was charged with "waste and extravagance" for the House of Representatives investigating committee today.

The charges were in a report signed by Reps. Bowen Bond of Fairfield, Alfred Petsch of Frederickburg, Marvin F. London of Montague and Virgil A. Fielder of Mount Pleasant.

The report alleged several instances of violations of legislative orders.

"There has been an utter disregard in many instances of salaries set by the legislature for the department," the report said, citing an item where the salary of a department porter allegedly was raised from $660 a year specified by the lawmakers to $987.

The investigators reported Miss Edgar Ellen Wilson, second assistant superintendent who was acquitted on charges of misapplying funds in a district court here last year, had been "paid a salary while not performing any service for the state."

"Numerous instances were found where two or more employees made trips from the same point on the same date to the same destination but each apparently used his car as each charged for mileage," the report continued.

It noted there were occasions where traveling expenses for one individual amounted to $2,000 a year. "We find the purchase of text books has been excessive and indiscriminate," the committee said and cited one instance where it said more books than had been ordered from a book firm had allegedly been received and paid for.

In his final message to the legislature, former Governor James V. Allred expressed the opinion the state was paying too much for the text.

"Many instances of overloading

Kidnaping Claimed By Feed Merchant

SAN MARCOS, Jan. 23 (AP)—Officers were on the lookout today for two men who were reported to have kidnaped T. H. Walsh.

Walsh, feed store manager here, said he was released near Mason after a drive to Austin and Fredericksburg. His automobile was found near Llano.

He was robbed of $65. The men accosted him as he sat in his automobile at a filling station here.

BORN 20 YEARS TOO SOON

In Gary, Indiana, there was a regular "birth boom" last month. 257 birth certificates were issued, but at least 50 of them were young men and women all over 20 years of age. It seems that various government agencies insist on age proofs and in those cases of lost certificates, etc., the applicants have to be "reborn."

Hull Seeks Western 'Open Door' But Not Monopoly In South American Trade Pacts

BL WILLIS THORNTON
NEA Service Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—The "war" for South America's trade will be conducted through an "Open Door" as a result of the Pan-American conference at Lima.

As the American delegation returns from its month-and-a-half pilgrimage to the south, the meaning of what was done at Lima in the trade field becomes increasingly clear and important.

It means that the United States, which tries to maintain the "Open Door" in China while the Japanese try to close Chinese trade to all but themselves, has fought also to keep the door open in South America. The trade resolution unanimously adopted by the 21 nations at Lima does not tend to bar Germany, or Japan, or anybody else from South American commerce.

The United States has never proposed to fence off South America as its exclusive trade area. And contrary to many impressions, such was not the effect of the Lima resolution. The American idea has been to increase international trading by keeping trade lanes and doors open to all on equal terms.

HULL HAS THE FORMULA

In South America, agreements between a single foreign country and a single American country, discriminating and "quoting" a single nation have been tending to rope off sections of the market for specific countries.

As this idea expanded, the "Open Door" in South America was swinging the shut in some areas.

To end this, Secretary of State Hull sought at Lima support for his pet trade principle of "equal treatment and equal opportunity for all." He got it. Every American nation today stands committed to this principle. This may put a new face on the "trade war" in South America.

Secretary Hull returns quietly confident that the trade resolution adopted at Lima may prove no less important than the already-famous Declaration of Lima which recognized the political solidarity of the American world.

It would not be desirable, even if it were possible, to exclude European or other countries from the South American trade," explained Hull.

"There are certain trade relationships between Europe and the South American countries which are national, desirable, and inevitable."

"It is not, and never has been our intention to disrupt these. What we have sought and gained is unanimous recognition of the American principle of equal treatment and equal opportunity for all. Having accepted this course, the American nations now steer toward the light of more free and more extensive international trade, and away from the darkness that lies behind suicidal attempts at autarchy and the forcing of trade into artificial channels."

Secretary Hull, who has seen criticism of the Lima resolutions as vague and general, has complete faith that much was accomplished. "Once the general plan and program received unanimous approval, there can remain no doubt that means will be found to put the program into action as specific instances arise," he maintains.

Hull looks on the South American "Open Door" resolutions as much more than a mere arrangement within the Americas. He believes it is the only world system consistent with peace and progress, and that adherence of the Americas may gradually draw all the world toward it. Unless something like this happens, Hull sees a dark future ahead.

"Unless trade barriers are removed, and world trade restored to a basis of free and equal opportunity, the increase of narrow bilateralism and exclusive regionalism in trade would make the future unimaged," he fears. "Without such an unshackled trade system, it is very hard to see any prospect for economic and social improvement and stability within nations, and for peace and friendly cooperation between nations."

In short, Hull returns from Lima believing not that the United States won any victory there, but that all the American nations together have won a victory.

DEFINITELY A FORWARD STEP

Was the Pan-American Conference a success? Was it all worth while? Some who expected the millennium wrapped in cellophane are disappointed. Others who vainly sought approval of pet projects are nettled.

But as another milestone on a 50-year continuous highway traveled by the Western Nations in a search for better ways of living together than the Old World ways of blood and hatred, it was a forward step. Never before have so few regional antipathies been noted, never before such a genuine feeling evident among all the countries that were all in the same boat.

Real and lasting friendships were made among delegates from many countries. Plans were developed to open up new ways of understanding each other more fully. American delegates found less suspicion of them and their motives than at previous conferences. Trust in the United States as a strong but equitable neighbor is gradually replacing the fear of "The Colossus of the North."

There is good reason to hope that at Lima the cause of peace and neighborly relations in the Americas moved definitely forward.

Famed Doctor Describes Role Of Convalescent Home In Paralysis

It cannot be too strongly impressed upon parents that proper use of the knowledge and facilities already at hand would prevent over fifty per cent of the crippling effects—the twisted backs and the distorted limbs—caused by infantile paralysis.

It is one of the objects of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, through the funds raised in the present "Fight Infantile Paralysis" campaign, to attack this disease on four fronts. They are thru research, epidemic control, education, and proper treatment of after-effects. The following article, written especially for the present campaign, gives a graphic account of the proper treatment given in a convalescent home or hospital.

By PETER E. SABATELLE, M. D.
(Written especially for the "Fight Infantile Paralysis" campaign and the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.)

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—What of the words Convalescent Home or Convalescent Hospital mean to you? To the majority of people and I dare say, to many physicians, it means a place where patients who have had all the active hospital treatment necessary are, by simple means, nursed back to health—implying, therefore, that all that is needed is a bed, proper food, and cheerful surroundings with a good climate.

But this is not true when the convalescent institution takes care of patients with infantile paralysis following the acute stage of illness or following an operation.

Perhaps you would understand the role of the Convalescent Home better if we followed a typical patient having infantile paralysis of a moderate severity.

Our patient John, then, has been stricken with infantile paralysis at the age of five. The case is fairly severe and involves more or less both legs and both arms.

He receives treatment at the hospital for his acute illness, and the limbs are placed in plaster of Paris casts or some other similar support in order to hold the arms and legs in neutral position, so as to help prevent deformities. A number of weeks pass, the casts are adjusted so as to permit removal of the limbs from them, and if the muscle tenderness has disappeared, physiotherapy is started.

Up to this point treatment has been somewhat similar to the treatment of any acute illness, but from here on the specialized treatment of infantile paralysis actually begins. The limbs are kept warm, baking and massage are given to improve circulation and to keep up the nourishment of the paralyzed muscles, and electrical stimulation is given to the muscles to let them contract and thus stimulate their normal work.

It naturally follows that at least some, and often a good deal, of the paralysis begins to clear up and we notice natural movements of some of the muscles.

Several weeks have now passed and the hospital where our patient John is cared for begins to realize that his case, in addition to regular nursing, requires special nursing such as feeding, because John cannot use his arms and takes a great deal of attention to occupying a bed for a longer than average period.

And all this will keep up indefinitely. The hospital will then consult its social service department as to how John's treatment may be continued elsewhere and the natural answer is the Orthopedic Convalescent Home.

Let us suppose, then, that John is transferred to our institution, namely The Wavecrest Convalescent Home of the Brooklyn Children's Aid Society. He will be transferred to us with certain treatment recommended plus a request for John to be sent back to the hospital for observation after a specified length of time. The mentioned hospital has no Orthopedic department, our patient will be transferred to our care outright.

John now finds himself in an institution surrounded by many acres of space, at the seashore, and away from the bustling city. He enters a routine of treatment planned to continue for at least several months. He receives his baking and massage, his electrical stimulation, muscle reduction, exercises under water, which will give buoyancy to his limbs, proper care of his casts or other supporting mechanism, has his cast repaired or remade when it

Denison Dam Issues To Be Investigated

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 23 (AP)—Gov. Leon C. Phillips probably will open an early investigation of the possible effect of the proposed Red River dam at Denison, Texas, on Oklahoma if Congress grants the legislature's request for a delay to study the situation, authoritative sources indicated tonight.

The governor was assured of aid in his fight against the dam by Rep. Jack Nichols, Democrat, Okla., who conferred with Phillips here today.

Nichols said he opposed the Denison project and has spoken against it on the floor of the House because it would deny the state other projects above the dam.

Phillips said Nichols had seen an engineer's report showing the project to be impractical. He said the report was not made public and he wanted William C. Coe, attorney investigating the matter, to look into it.

"I sent Coe to Washington largely for the attempt to see the report," the governor said. "It was made by army engineers and showed just what I've been contending."

J. A. Binehart, president pro tempore of the state Senate, told Senator Elmer Thomas of Oklahoma in a telegram today that the Senate committee of three, now in Washington, was sent only to attend the council of state governments and was without instruction relative to the Denison dam.

"House concurrent resolution No. 7 was passed by the Senate to give the state an opportunity to investigate the effect of construction of the dam on tax revenue sources of the subdivisions of government in the counties affected," the telegram said.

"We have not been officially advised whether the federal government will rebuild highways. All these facts are necessary to proper construction of our tax program and are equally incumbent upon the national and state government for benefit of the citizenship."

Don Welch, speaker of the Oklahoma House of Representatives and another opponent of the project, said today the House "has never taken any action at my request that will imperil any flood control project in the state which is desired by the citizens of the affected areas."

"We have not taken any action and will not take any action which would hamper in any way federal participation in flood control or power projects in the state," he said. "Some have expressed fear that repercussions of the fight on the Red River project might imperil other big federal works in the state."

Injunction Refused Plainview Utility

FORT WORTH, Jan. 23 (AP)—Federal Judge T. Whitfield Davidson has refused a temporary injunction sought by the Community Power and Light Company to prevent the city of Floydada from proceeding with construction of a municipal power system.

Judge Davidson said if the two contending parties desired, the hearing on the merits of the case could be held in Lubbock March 20. Otherwise, he said it could be heard during the May term.

Cooperation Advocated By New Dealers

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23. (AP)—A broad appeal for cooperation between business and government is being spread across the country by a number of administration officials.

In a series of speeches by cabinet officers and department executives, business men are being told that another breathing spell has been ordered by President Roosevelt and that now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of their country.

Far back in the offices of departmental publicity men, other such speeches are in course of preparation. On various occasions during coming weeks, they will be brought out.

In these days of modern government, a speech does not just happen to get made. Its subject matter is not left to the accidental functioning of a brain that may be called upon to do an extemporaneous job.

The modern political speech generally is the work of a professional craftsman. Weeks of research frequently go into the gathering of material. It is woven together by an adept at phrase making. Some of those public officials who make speeches write their own, but more of them depend on publicity departments.

When a series of officials turns up with speeches along the same lines, it is not likely to be pure coincidence. Purpose usually lies back of them.

Thus, the President said in his message to Congress that he had virtually finished the program of social legislation, that the chief thing left to be done was a mashing down of the tools of government which had been supplied by the last three congresses.

And now, department officials show up at widely scattered spots to use this portion of his message as a text. They predict that out of it will grow an invigoration resulting in a general improvement in business.

HEART DISEASE LEADS AS CAUSE OF DEATH

CHICAGO, (AP)—Heart diseases was shown by Chicago board of health statistics to have caused nearly one-third of all deaths in this city during 1938. Of approximately 11,381, or 32.5 per cent, were due to heart ailments. This is the highest percentage registered in the last six years.

The stress of modern living, worry and improper diets are some of the leading causes blamed for the trouble.

NLRB Flayed By Senator Burke

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23. (AP)—Senator Burke (D., Neb.) told the National Labor Relations Board today it had produced "a condition approaching industrial anarchy."

In a letter to Chairman J. Warren Madden of the board, Burke said:

Take Calotabs to Help Nature Throw off Colds

Millions have found in Calotabs a most valuable aid in the treatment of colds. They take one or two tablets the first night and repeat the third or fourth night.

How do Calotabs help Nature throw off a cold? First, Calotabs are one of the most thorough and dependable of all intestinal eliminators, thus cleaning the intestinal tract of any virus-laden mucus and toxins. Second, Calotabs are directed to the kidneys, promoting the elimination of cold poisons from the blood. Thus Calotabs serve the double purpose of a purgative and diuretic, both of which may be needed in the treatment of colds.

Calotabs are quite economical; only twenty-five cents for the family package, ten cents for the trial package (factory).

Curfew At Cambridge

During the Middle Ages the curfew bell was a signal for European householders to smother their fires. In the new world it was little used until near the close of the last century when it served as a warning to children to leave the streets and go to their homes.

What About It, Will?

President Coleman of the American Humane Society has written a letter to Will Hays of the movies, protesting cruel treatment of animals in the recent filming of the motion picture "Jessie James."

Coleman charges that during the production of the picture in Missouri a horse was blindedfolded, placed on a greased chute and propelled off a cliff into a like 70 feet below. The horse drowned.

Affidavits and an amateur motion picture are said to support the charges. It is to be hoped that the charges are unfounded and that the motion pictures which have brought so much of real beauty and of joy to millions of people may be cleared of this extremely serious charge.

There is so much of brutal cruelty in the world today that perhaps the death of a single animal might be overlooked. But the cruelty of the world at large is beyond the immediate control of most people. If horses or other animals are ill-treated in the movies, however, it is something that can and should be stopped at once. Moviegoers will expect a full explanation of the incident.

The Nation's Press

MR. ROOSEVELT IN 1939 (Chicago Tribune) Mr. Roosevelt in his Jackson day talk tried to minimize election reverses and to reunite a party he has insisted upon dividing or subduing.

He must have startled some of his auditors who were the victims of the election defeats or had themselves escaped the purge by which he endeavored completely to master the party and substitute his will for its own.

In 1932 Mr. Roosevelt was a Democrat nominated as the most promising prospect in the party at the time by a deal which some of the delegate traders may since have regretted. Mr. Roosevelt was an unknown quantity, as the country now realizes, but nevertheless during the campaign he seemed to be nothing more than a Democrat who was making the best political use of a depression which had men worried. He was promising nothing more than what would be expected of a politician who was going to set things right where they were wrong.

Immediately after his inauguration he broke upon congress like a thunderbolt, but it was all in the name of emergency and the country thought that a very brisk President was tackling a big job with a great deal of spirit. A majority of the people applauded, although some of the measures were very strange. The country didn't seem to mind taking a short cut if that was the way out of the hole.

Wiser people soon began to suspect that Mr. Roosevelt was very much pleased with the emergency which allowed him to jump fences and plunge through traditions and laws. It wasn't long before these people were convinced that what Mr. Roosevelt saw was not democracy, but opportunity. In 1936 he was still a Democrat, but he'd added the communists to the New Deal front. He denied it, but the denial was false.

Many Democrats may have been deceived by the communists weren't. In their determination to support the New Deal they were willing to drop nearly the entire body of communist political doctrine and they so modified their practice and procedure that they could almost pass as the least radical element in the New Deal combination. Mr. Roosevelt had given them a sign by which they hoped to conquer, and he, although he denied the admission, saw to it that his governmental agencies offered them sympathy, support, protection and freedom of action.

In 1938 Mr. Roosevelt tried to throw out of the Democratic party the men who were politically opposed to the Socialist trend and against the destruction of private enterprise, a destruction which is the prerequisite of Socialism. He was unsuccessful in doing this. Many of the men he would have fired listened to him the other day when he seemed to be asking for a reunited party. Not many of them could smile at this, because they knew the battle ax had not been dropped but would be swung on them if they lowered their guard. He had tried to put communists and fellow travelers in their places and failed only because they had been able to hold their electorates against him. They could remember what he said in his speeches against them and they also knew that in the great industrial states where the revolutionary conduct of New Deal governors and John Lewis labor agitators had alarmed and offended the people the Democratic party lost the territory it had controlled for six years.

Mr. Roosevelt's appointments reveal that he has not changed his purposes. The party will continue, if he dominates it, to be the one the American communists will support. The New Deal hasn't changed its intentions. Mr. Roosevelt is merely trying to muddy the waters because he fears that unless he can drag on the support of the men he tried to kick last year the program of making over the United States and turning the Democratic party into a revolutionary Socialist party will fail and the country will close the books on this destructive experiment which is heading for the world's greatest crash.

Sharing the Comforts Of Life ---

By R. C. Hoiles GERMANY'S PROGRESS IN AIRPLANES Those people, who are constantly condemning Germany, often contend that Germany is making no progress. When one reads, however, some of the statements made as to what they are doing in the production of airplanes, it is hard to believe that even with all the objectionable things existing in Germany that they are not making progress.

Boake Carter is responsible for the statement that the Germans now have, through 10 years of research, developed a 750-horsepower diesel engine so light that it has only 1.47 pounds per horsepower, against our gasoline engine that weighed 1.57 pounds per horsepower. Carter also states that Germany is now able to produce a 1000 B.H.P. engine for themselves and that they are licensing the Japanese and the Italians to build 750-horsepower Junker oil engines and licensing the British and the French to build 600-horsepower Junker engines; that Germany is now preparing a 2000 B.H.P. oil engine for their planes.

It is no wonder that they are willing to license the smaller planes to their competitors. What good would an engine do for an aviator up in the air fighting for his life, if his enemy had a plane that could out maneuver and out fly him? It would be a rather perilous position for any nation to be in.

Carter points out that last year, the gas engines took 18 1/2 hours to fly from Lisbon to City Island, N. Y. without any payload, while the German Diesel-engines flew it in 16 1/2 hours with space enough to carry 2500 pounds of payload, while the gasoline engine could carry no payload. If these statements are true, Germany is in a position to get the foreign airplane business from her competitors, not only will she get the foreign airplane business, but she will be on the road to taking a lot of the foreign automobile business.

And if this ability to get more power from a given unit of natural resources, is not a great accomplishment and will not help raise her standard of living, then all the experiences of the past as to how wealth has been created, are of no avail.

Boake Carter further contends that for us to go into a large building of airplanes will mean that after they are completed we will have planes that are of no value. He cites the fact that in the World War, we appropriated about a billion dollars for airplanes and after spending a billion dollars, four engines arrived in France before the Armistice in 1918 and no planes arrived until after the Armistice was signed.

Any nation, or any people, that can harness the forces of nature and turn power into the uses of mankind, is making economic progress. Whether they use it wisely or not depends upon whether they believe in the philosophy of Christianity and democracy or whether they do not.

NOT COURAGEOUS LEADERSHIP, TO SAY THE LEAST

When the President of the United States says that if there is a reduction in expense, in order to make the budget balance, it must come from Congress, he certainly is not showing the same signs of courage that he did six years ago, when he became President and then took the lead in cutting expenses. But the trouble is, he did not continue this practice.

The President seems to want a blank check so that he can buy himself popularity and request the Congressmen to do the disagreeable task of checking him in being a Santa Claus. This certainly is not teamwork that Roosevelt, talked about sometime ago, when he referred to the Supreme Court. He certainly is pulling in the opposite direction from what he well knows, or should well know, is absolutely necessary if we are to make any pretense of protecting the savings of our people.

After the President repeatedly has said that the budget would be balanced, for him now to put it up to Congress and make no effort at all, certainly is showing the signs of a coward. If this is leadership of a great nation in distress, people have a strange conception of leadership.

Behind The News Of The Day

By JOHN T. FLYNN NEA Service Staff Correspondent The New York Stock Exchange is looking for a new economist. This may seem a matter of no moment to anyone, but it does have some public significance.

Nothing is more ambiguous or even dubious now than the role of the economist in business. Large manufacturing concerns employ engineers, accountants, lawyers. They hire them to advise them on engineering problems, accounting problems, legal problems. When they hire them they want the truth from them.

But economists have seemed to play a different role in business. There are some economic factors which business concerns ought to be advised about, but the average large scale business man regards himself as quite an economist. He also realizes that he has something to sell to the public besides his product. He wants to sell good will. He wants to convince prospective stock and bondholders that his place in the economic world is sound.

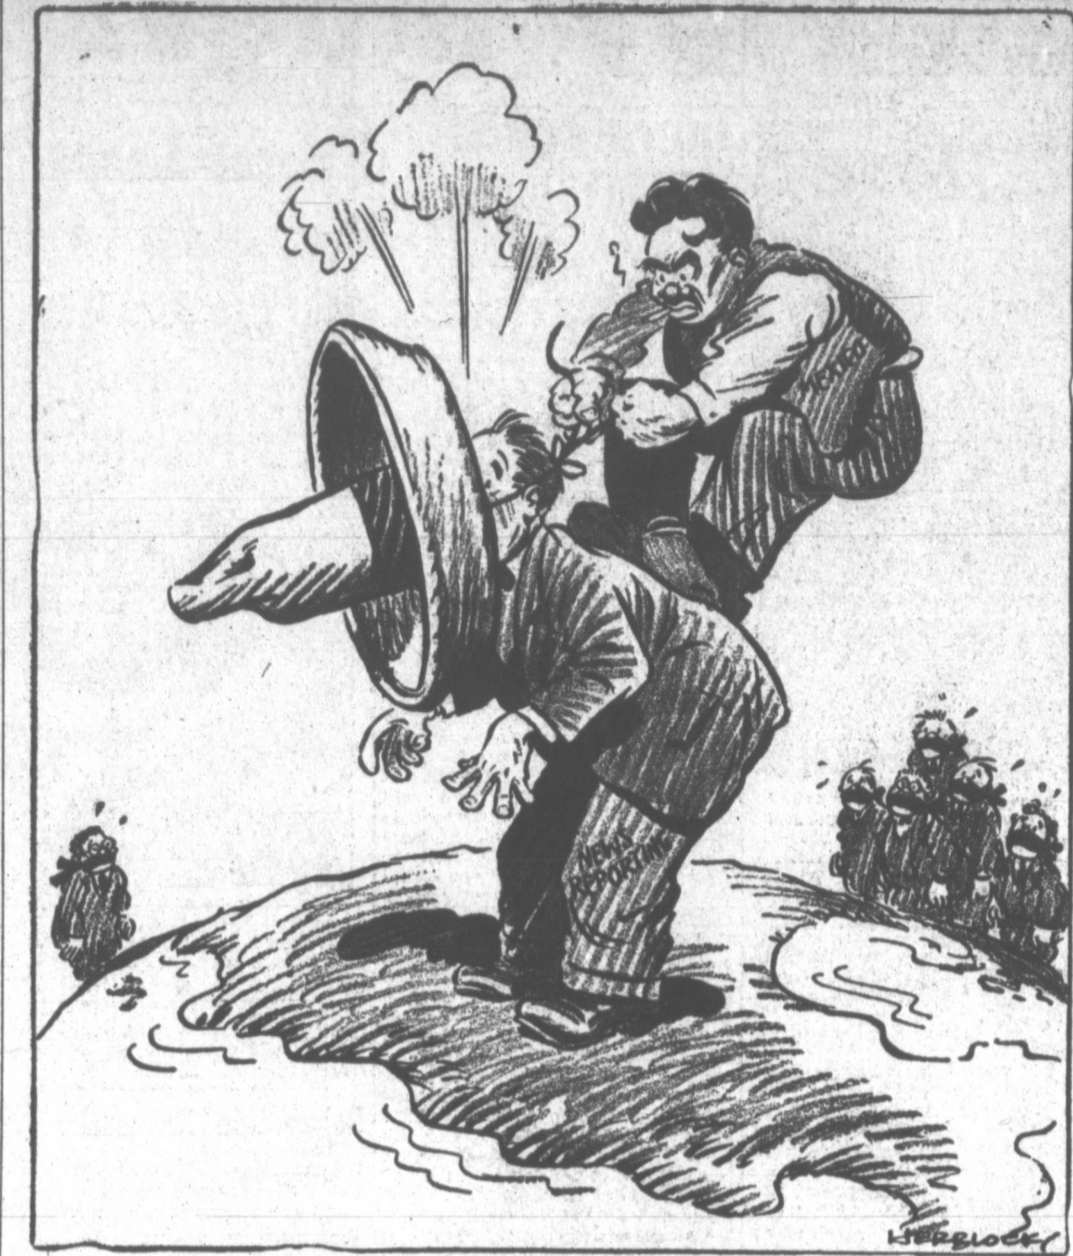

ECONOMICS OR POLITICS? Very often, therefore, when he hires an "economist" he is looking for someone who will act, not so much as his adviser, as the public's—someone who will keep inventing and pumping arguments into the public to convince it that the organization is sound, to convince legislatures and Congress that laws the organization wishes or opposes, are either sound or unsound.

In other words, the economist too often plays the role of a sort of glorified publicity man. He often plays a part like that of those old-time quack doctors in medicine factories, who gave testimonials as to the value of the producers' nostrums.

If you will remember this, you will see why, when the Stock Exchange hired the man who was, I believe, its first economist, they went to Yale and employed a professor of English. And when a large New York bank wanted an economist they hired a professor of romance languages from another university. They wanted someone who could write.

In the case of the Stock Exchange, the professor of English turned out several books and pamphlets, all

ANOTHER MUZZLE

Around Hollywood

By ROBBIN COONS. HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 23—Walter Pidgeon has made quite a few mistakes in his time—most of them profitable. He made a mistake by beginning his career in the investment department of a Boston bank; but the experience taught him something about business, of which too many actors know too little. He was in error when he went on the concert stage, because for a long time afterward nobody would believe that he knew how to act. Actually, though, his baritone trouping taught him more about acting than he might have learned in any other way.

Pidgeon made mistakes in coming to Hollywood the first two times—in 1925 and 1930. But his unhappy experiences made him determined to return again and lick the movies. And that's exactly what he's doing now.

Of course, all those readjustments took some time, and the strapping 6-foot-3-inch actor now is 41. Probably has no more than 35 good years ahead of him. ANECDOTES FOR LUNCH

This department went out to Mr. Pidgeon's house for lunch and to make some notes about him, but I had a hard time keeping my mind on my business. The actor is an agile conversationalist with wide interests and a long memory for hysterical anecdotes about celebrities—but stories which he asked me not to write. Some day I'm going back and try to get him to play and sing. He says he can sing a lot better now than when he was doing it for a living. But he also declares that he'll never sing again for pictures.

In Boston after the war (through which he'd fought with the Canadian artillery), Pidgeon studied dramatics and played in E. E. Clive's stock company while laboring in stocks and bonds. Singing was a secondary hobby then, just something to do at parties. He was doing it one night when Fred and Adele Astaire were guests, and they told him he ought to be on Broadway. Astaire actually got him a chance at the lead in a Dillingham show, but Pidgeon was sensible enough to turn it down. He was too green.

ELSIE JANIS GAVE HIM CHANCE About that time, though, Elsie Janis, whom he had met during the war, was looking for a baritone, and he got the job. Before their first concert Pidgeon told the manager that he had sung in places like Carnegie Hall and Queen's Hall, London. But he gave the lie to this extravagant buildup by getting out on the stage and flopping miserably in his first group of numbers. It was a tragic experience for a youngster who so desperately had wanted to succeed. Miss Janis begged him to do his second group after intermission, and he consented. Not half caring, he went out and sang his head off and got three encores.

"That was the best experience I ever had," Pidgeon reminisced. of which were widely circulated to prove that the Stock Exchange was a great institution, that speculation was socially essential, that liquidity was important to the capitalist system, that specialists could not be kept from speculation without ruining society, that margin trading was a blessing and so on.

Wall Street swarms with these kinds of economists. They get great reputations for profound wisdom. But some of these days the American Economic Association, like the Medical Association, is going

People You Know

By ARCHEE FULLINGIM This one remembering the persons from Rock Island, Ill., who have been lying in Worley hospital for 18 days, recovering from injuries suffered in a collision east of Groom, yesterday visited them, knowing that they being such a long distance from home and their friends would not resent a visit. At the hospital this one learned that western hospitality had not been lacking. The strangers had made many new friends. . . . Even at that moment in the room of Mrs. Fred Erhart, aunt of Leo Diets, whose back was broken in the crash, was young and personable John Taylor whose parents and other members of his family live in New Orleans. John is an employe of a local carbon company. "I want you to have this, Mrs. Erhart," he was saying. "My mother sent it to me as a souvenir of the Eighth Eucharistic congress at New Orleans. She would approve of my giving it to you," and he handed her a rosary. Tears came into the woman's eyes because she knew John was giving her a prized possession. . . . Then she said: "I will never forget Pampa. The people have been wonderful to me—flowers, everything. Now I know what they mean when they say hospitality. . . . And the kind of voices you hear out here. One of the most soothing voices I ever heard was when I recovered consciousness after the wreck. I was lying by the side of the road and a drawing voice was saying, 'you're going to be all right. Just had a little accident.' So I want to thank the people of Pampa for being so good to me and to Mr. Diets and the children." Mr. Diets and son, Donald, were due to leave the hospital yesterday in an ambulance for their home in Illinois.

How's Your Health?

By IAGO GALDSTON, M.D. In a new specialty known as orthodontia, modern dentistry offers a relief to child dental problems. At one time a child whose teeth had "come in crooked" or who had large teeth projecting over the under lip was merely "unfortunate." The child, in most cases, faced an entire life marred by the deformed condition.

The proper age for the beginning of orthodontia appliance is still a debatable subject. The problem is important because the mouth undergoes various changes during the falling out of the first set of teeth and the complete development of the second set.

That little corrective work can be done once the second set of teeth have grown in and been thoroughly established in the mouth is a mistaken notion. There are possibilities for the adult as well.

High Plains Soil In Best Condition

AMARILLO, Jan. 23 (AP)—The Five-States Advisory committee on land use practice, which reported at a session here yesterday that high plains soil is in the best condition since 1932, will continue a close study of wind erosion conditions.

The committee will meet three more times in Amarillo this year—in April, July and October—so that results of various practices can be checked in the coordinated soil conservation program.

The session closed today with adoption of detailed reports of the state groups. The committee represents parts of Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Kansas and Colorado.

Can you imagine that! . . . Personally, we are worried no end about the confession we'll have to make. . . . We have tried to slip little hints now and then that this column is not at all original, but if it ever comes right down to the point where we have to make a clean breast of it, we're sunk—that's all. . . . It's getting so a fellow doesn't have any privacy at all. . . . Just imagine if we have to tell where the rest of this column comes from: * * *

There is another thing, in addition to legalized wagering on horse racing, which Brownlee would like to see the legislature do. He wants it to get the general fund of the treasury on a cash basis and quit giving "hot-checks" which many state employes have to discount. It wouldn't be such a difficult thing to straighten out the revenue, according to Brownlee. In his opinion, the situation is much like that which many individuals get into and emerge from. "If you were overdrawn at your bank," Brownlee said, "what would you do? I will answer it. You would probably go to your banker and say, 'I am overdrawn and I want to make you a note.' If your assets were good your banker would lend you the money without hesitancy in other words, he would help you to refinance your business. "That's what Texas ought to do about the $19,000,000 deficit in the general fund. It ought to refinance it, and with Texas' good credit and all the money there is in the banks it would be easy. "The banks are bursting with money and want to lend it. A loan to put the general fund on the cash basis could be floated for from 1 1/2 to 2 per cent, which would be cheap and good business. The saving in discounts would pay out the deficit."

Private Industry To Manufacture Arms

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP)—The War Department is counting on private industry to turn out the bulk of $185,000,000 or more worth of munitions along with the aircraft. President Roosevelt called for in his national defense program. Officials said today 75 per cent or more of the gun and tank parts, direction finders, ammunition and other "essential" items for a force of 400,000 men are to be made in commercial factories.

The working forces at the army's six manufacturing arsenals, under plans already worked out in detail, will be expanded little. A proposed private industry for possible wartime tasks, and to avoid adding thousands of new employees at the arsenals who might have to be laid off within two years.

Several hundred plants, on the current arms procurement basis, will be inspected on a spot-check basis, approved the recommendation that $110,000,000 of the $322,000,000 emergency defense fund be allotted for arms, chiefly ordnance, and $32,500,000 for "educational" orders for vital munitions of a particular technical character.

5 Persons Missing In N. Mexico Storm

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Jan. 23 (AP)—A blanket of snow, hiding the whereabouts of at least six persons, lay over Northern New Mexico today. Five national guardsmen and an Albuquerque radio announcer were unperished on snow-clogged roads in the Cline's Corners area, east of Albuquerque, where several automobile motorists were marooned in a blizzard two weeks ago.

Four guardsmen, under the command of Lt. Arthur Thomson, had not been heard from since they left Albuquerque late yesterday to patrol highways.

The Capital Jigsaw

By HOWARD C. MARSHALL AUSTIN, Jan. 23 (AP)—Heavy-set, tanned Houghton Brownlee, state Senator for the Austin district, doesn't see anything wrong with the sport of horse racing and regulated betting on it and wants to see it restored to Texas.

He has a greater interest in the matter than most persons who advocate re-legalization of wagering on horse racing. He is a breeder of thorough-bred horses and has operated a racing stable.

In a recent interview, he discussed the situation, saying among various things, there was merit in a proposal of the Texas Horse Breeders Association that breeders be allowed to operate the race tracks. "If operation of the tracks were turned over to the breeders and the profits given to the state," he said, "the state should reap $2,000,000 or more a year. It might receive $3,000,000.

"Under the old law, the profits went to private operators, and the state received only the revenue from a small tax. Yet even then the state obtained more than $1,000,000 a year.

"With the finances of the government in the condition they are this money would look mighty good."

Concerning the morality of horse racing, he said: "I can't see any harm in it. It has been enjoyed by the people since the days of Ben Hur and is one of the few universal sports."

He said he had heard that Brownlee, the 19th century German chancellor, once attended a horse race event in England and, after observing the mingling of the nobility and the common people, the rich and the poor, remarked that "England need never fear Communism so long as the people mix as they are doing here."

About the same time, Rep. Bryan Bradbury of Abilene, co-author of the bill that outlawed horse race gambling two years ago, was saying in another interview: "The need for revenue was as great when we abolished racing as it is now. I can't believe, the state has deteriorated to the level where it would go into partnership with gamblers to finance the government. Texas is too rich in resources to stoop to gambling as a source of money."

There is another thing, in addition to legalized wagering on horse racing, which Brownlee would like to see the legislature do. He wants it to get the general fund of the treasury on a cash basis and quit giving "hot-checks" which many state employes have to discount. It wouldn't be such a difficult thing to straighten out the revenue, according to Brownlee. In his opinion, the situation is much like that which many individuals get into and emerge from. "If you were overdrawn at your bank," Brownlee said, "what would you do? I will answer it. You would probably go to your banker and say, 'I am overdrawn and I want to make you a note.' If your assets were good your banker would lend you the money without hesitancy in other words, he would help you to refinance your business. "That's what Texas ought to do about the $19,000,000 deficit in the general fund. It ought to refinance it, and with Texas' good credit and all the money there is in the banks it would be easy. "The banks are bursting with money and want to lend it. A loan to put the general fund on the cash basis could be floated for from 1 1/2 to 2 per cent, which would be cheap and good business. The saving in discounts would pay out the deficit."

Brownlee recognized that some would probably say the Constitution forbade the state to create a debt. "The debt already has been created," he said, "and this would be refinancing an existing debt. It would solve our most serious problem."

The Senator said he planned to discuss the matter with Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel. "It is what O'Daniel would do in the flour business."

CLAIMS THAT FOXES ARE AID TO FARMERS

ST. PAUL, (AP)—Winter eating habits of foxes are more beneficial than harmful to farmers, said Donald M. Hatfield, University of Minnesota Entomologist, after a study of the animals.

The university conducted its research because sportsmen and game wardens contended that foxes were responsible for a decline in pheasant population.

The content of 92 foxes' stomachs showed that but four to six per cent of the bulk was pheasant material. From 50 to 65 per cent showed foxes ate such rodents as mice and rats.

Harvesters To Play Borger Tomorrow Night

Amarillo To Be In Pampa On Friday

The Harvesters basketball team today began what promises to be the most exciting weeks of the season. In the three games they will play this week, the Harvesters will come up against the two biggest threats to Harvesters basketball supremacy in the Panhandle—Amarillo and Borger.

The first battle will be fought tomorrow night on the floor at Borger. If the Catfish's Bulldogs are on, and they've always been on against Pampa, the Borgans may be as stubborn as a stick of dynamite, and as explosive. Pampa is not favored to trim Borger now; comparative scores early in the season gave the Harvesters a distinct edge over the Bulldogs but not any more. Figures hint they may be a toss-up.

At any rate not since, Borger topped Plainview by the same scores the Harvesters did. On Thursday night Lubbock's Westerners will come to town. The Harvesters should win, and they should win because both Amarillo and Borger have beaten Lubbock.

Sandies Coming Friday.
On Friday night, Amarillo's Golden Sandies boasting the best basketball team in history will attempt to prove that they too can play basketball—Pampa has always swamped Amarillo in basketball games. They haven't won but one or two games of the Harvesters in decades. This year the Sandies think they can take the Pampans. They have nosed out Canyon by the same score the Harvesters did, and they lost to Canyon by the same score. They beat Plainview more than the Harvesters did, and they swamped Borger early in the season.

Played 29 Games.
When the Harvesters take the floor against Borger tomorrow night they will be out to win their thirtieth game of the season. They lost two games, to Canyon and Abernathy, at the beginning of the season. Since then they have beaten both Abernathy and Canyon.

Coach Odus Mitchell believes that the best teams his boys have faced are Quail, Canyon, Hollis, Okla. The Harvesters have won two tournaments, one at Mobeetie and the other at Shamrock. They lost their first game to Canyon in the Plainview tournament.

A list of their games follows:
Perryton 3, Plainview tournament 3, Abernathy 2, Mobeetie tournament 4, Canyon 2, Plainview 1, White Deer 2, Groom 2, Shamrock tournament 4, Ozark Mountain Hill Billies 1, Turkey 2, Panhandle 2, Miami 1. In the Mobeetie tournament they defeated Mobeetie, Kellon and Shamrock.

Scored 122 Points.
Pampa's Harvesters basketball team rolled up a total of 122 points to their opponents 57 in winning the Shamrock Invitational tournament Friday and Saturday. Bob Andis and Grover Lee Heiskell, forwards, led the scoring parade with Andis scoring 39 points and Heiskell 34. Dunaway added 15, Miller 13, and Auld 10 among the first string.

The Harvesters opened the tournament with a 19 to 15 win over Briscoe and then came back to defeat Wheeler 28 to 14. Lakeview fell before the Harvesters 29 to 10 and Hollis took a 23 to 18 drubbing in the final game.

On All Star Team.
Grover Heiskell and Pete Dunaway of the Harvesters were named on the all-tournament team. Others were Sedon and Auburn of Hollis, and Johnson of Turkey.
Mobeetie's girls won their division, defeating Wheeler 38 to 14 in the final game. Consolation went to the Canadian girls and Shamrock

Guards Get More Shots As Cage Offenses Open

By JERRY BRONDFIELD
NEA Service Sports Writer

It wasn't so many seasons back that a basketball coach would say: "Give me a couple of guards who can hold their forwards to five or six points, while getting a couple of field goals themselves, and I'll show you a winning team."

Guards weren't supposed to score. If they didn't ring the bell two or three times a night nobody's feelings were hurt. There were exceptions, of course — like Furdue's Johnny Wooden, a remarkable dribbler who averaged close to 150 points a season in Big Ten play—but for the most part the back-courts were just that.

Came the elimination of the tip-off and an about-face in the scoring situation among guards.

The race-horse style of play that has been adopted on a virtual nationwide scale demands scoring ability from all five men, rather than by the two forwards and center.

These were the three who did the greater share of basket tossing in seasons past, mainly because the set style of offense was the dominant type play.

Guards Had Few Scoring Chances.
The deliberate, passing game with its set formations meant that most scoring opportunities were given to front line men. The guards came through once in a while, but it wasn't much more than a change of pace in an effort to keep the offense mixed up.

The fast break has changed much of this. Set plays are on the wane. Speed and the ability to take advantage of scoring situations are leading the attack. And the guards are coming through as often as the forwards and center.

This gives them a greater responsibility than ever before. Not only are they the backbone of the defense, but they've got to go out and get more than just their couple of buckets of yesteryear.

They're doing it, too.

Among those who stand out in particular are Ernest Andres of Indiana, George Duzinski of Villanova, Wally Johnson of Oregon, Paul Maki of Minnesota, Jack Garfinkel of St. John's, Bernie Oppen of Kentucky, Howard Black of Temple and Jim McNatt of Oklahoma.

Andres, Hoosier captain who stands six feet and weighs 300 pounds, set a new Western Conference scoring record for a single game when he dumped in 30 points against Illinois last year. He's a smooth performer and a dead-eye from anywhere around the foul line.

Gopher Star is Long-Shot Artist.
Duke Duzinski, Villanova junior, led all scorers in the Philadelphia district, which includes Penn and Temple, in bagging 296 points last semester.

Johansen is an All-Pacific Coast selection and a justifiable one, in view of his 227 points. Duzinski and Johansen are on their way to another 200-point campaign but the latter may be side-tracked by a leg injury suffered recently.

Maki is making his mark as a long-shot artist.

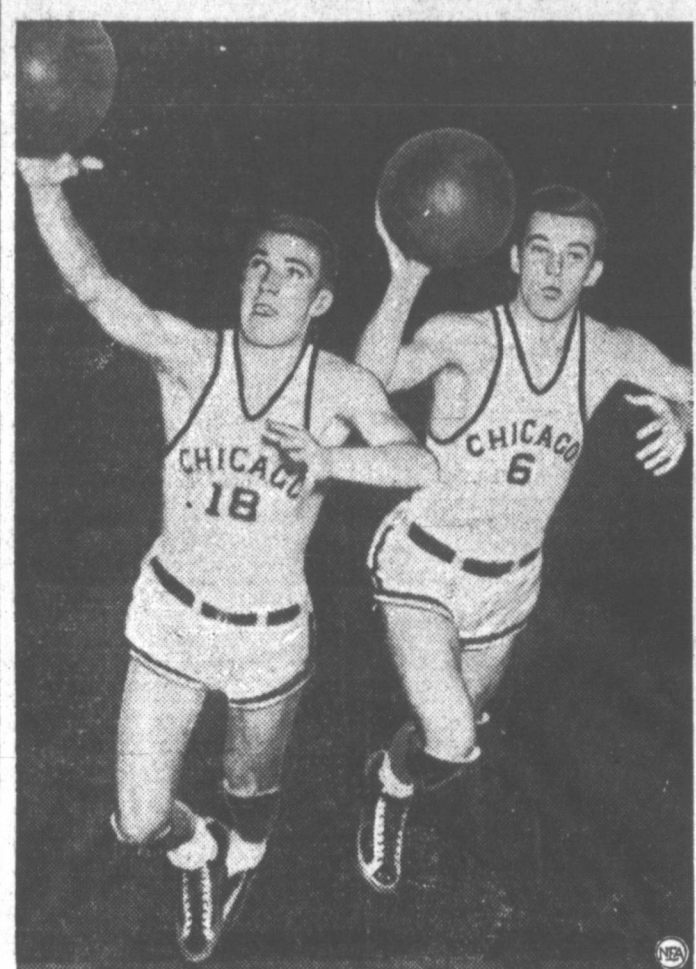

Garfinkel is termed by Coach Joe Lapchick—who should know—as being the greatest basketball prospect ever to hit St. John's.

Oppen left his native Bronx to play for John Rupp, and the latter developed a scoring eye for him which landed the New Yorker on the Southwest Conference team. They're still trying to stop him below the Mason-Dixon line.

Kansas Leads Opponents In Big Six Race

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (AP)—Barring the possibility of personal fouls committed by examination papers, the leaders of the nation's foremost college basketball circuits shouldn't have much to worry about this week.

Two of the most important conferences, the Big Ten and the Big Six, may even see a few changes tonight. Minnesota, Big Ten leader until it was beaten by Northwestern a week ago, plays Illinois, the current pace-setter, at Minneapolis. Ohio State, well within striking distance, tackles Michigan tonight and Chicago Saturday in the only conference games.

Kansas, 1938 Big Six champion, which lost its first two loop games this season and then created considerable turmoil by winning two last week, plays Iowa State at Ames tonight. Nebraska and Oklahoma, which have outside chances, come together Saturday.

California and Southern California fight it out at Los Angeles Friday and Saturday for the top of the Pacific Coast conference southern division.

The showdown in the northern section isn't due until the following week.

On Friday Colorado, topping the Rocky Mountain Big Seven with four straight victories, and Wyoming, which has won three straight despite a threatened player strike, meet in Colorado's field house.

Alabama, which ranked as the No. 1 team in the Southeastern conference with six victories in seven starts, has two important tilts listed. The Tide men meet Georgia tonight and then take on Kentucky, the pre-season favorite, Saturday.

Georgia Tech, the defending champion, heads the standing with two victories and no defeats. Tech meets Georgia while Tennessee plays Vanderbilt. All the ranking teams still are in the running.

The only Southern Conference games pit North Carolina against North Carolina State Tuesday, and Virginia Tech against Virginia Military. They're nowhere near the lead, where Wake Forest stands with seven victories and one defeat.

In the East, undefeated Dartmouth and Cornell lead the Eastern league and the Eastern Conference, respectively, with Columbia and Georgetown in the runner-up spot.

Oklahoma Aggies, virtually unbeatable to their Missouri Valley conference foes on their own court, start a road trip which may cause trouble next week-end. It opens Saturday at Grinnell.

The Chicago professional won the $5,000 San Francisco match play open yesterday with a one up victory over Horton Smith, Oak Park, Ill. The match went the full route of 36 holes.

It put Metz out in front as the leading money winner of the annual tournament swing. A week ago he defeated E. J. Harrison, Oak Park, Ill., in an 18-hole playoff of the 72-hole $5,000 Oakland open. He placed out of the money in the recent Los Angeles open, but to date has won a total of $2,000.

He's a protégé of one of the elder statesmen of golf—Gene Sarazen, picked by the latter to become eventually the country's top player. Those who watched him in the last two tournaments think he won't be stopped now.

Metz took Smith's measure in sensational fashion. He was forced to come from behind in a battle that provided thrills to a gallery of some 3,000 spectators at the Lakeside course.

MAIN EVENT.
Frankie Hill, Wichita, Kas., vs. Joe Banaski, Oklahoma City.

SEMI-FINAL.
Dutch Aultman, Berlin, Germany, vs. Able Freeman, New York.

PRELIMINARY.
Steve Netry, Miami, Fla., vs. Billy McEwin, Helena, Mont.

A clean, scientific main event with rough semi-finals and preliminary is the dope on tonight's wrestling matches at the Pampa athletic arena beginning at 8 o'clock sharp. Although the matches should warm the arena, promoter Cliff Chambers had fires going this morning in order to have the building warm for the battles.

The clean and scientific main event is just dope. One or both of the maulers might get rough if he sees that method will gain victory because the loser will be dropped a notch in the light heavyweight elimination tournament. In previous matches, both maulers have shown a preference to wrestle instead of rough yet both have gone the tough way when pressed.

There is no doubt about the intention of Dutch Aultman who will be making his first appearance in the local ring. Aultman has issued warning to all comers that he is out to win the tournament and that sissies might just as well drop out before he gets to them. His raving, however, hasn't made an impression on Able Freeman.

Billy McEwin is also a raving maniac. He has been toppled from the favorite list in the tournament through two losses and he is very unhappy. Netry will be trying to pull himself from the preliminary tonight.

Frankie Carswell Of Rice Rage Of Southwest Cage League

DALLAS, Jan. 23 (AP)—Apple checked Frankie Carswell, a deliberate sponghore who stands near mid-court and rings the register too often, has brought old-fashion'd, heart stopping basketball back to the Southwest conference.

Frankie, rage of high school circles just a couple of years back, has full permission of his coach to fire when and where he has the urge. He seldom misses.

His Rice Owls, forgotten in pre-season guessing are second to Southern Methodist—by the slight matter of 22 seconds. It took the Methodists just that long Friday to erase a Rice lead and pull out a fantastic 33-31 triumph that kept them undefeated; gave Rice its first setback in five games.

From out near the center circle Frankie had wound up and chucked in five field goals to keep the Owls ahead of S. M. U. most of the game. Then the Methodists, who play the strictly orthodox style of setting up crisp shots, got panicky and tried Carswell's methods.

Guard Guy Dougherty scored a long one that tied the score and then, with three seconds remaining, Center Bill Dwell crouched out in the center of the court and arched a long one that won, 33-31.

Right back the next night came Carswell to throw a weird assortment of long range bombs against Texas Christian. He wound up with 21 points and Rice pulled in ahead, 44-1. Frankie's 57 points are tops in the league.

On his home court at Houston Saturday night Carswell must have his sights adjusted again. The Rice-men meet Baylor, third place team, in one of the week's two games. Baylor's sophomores, a fine five, took a close licking from Texas last week, 36-31, that set them back temporarily and must pull through twice this week to stay within range of leaders. On Tuesday night they meet Texas Christian at Fort Worth—and that isn't the easy game it once was.

The Christians, restless after four years in the cellar, haven't won a game yet this season, but they're getting warmer.

Metz Pockets $1,000 Title

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 23 (AP)—Smiling Dick Metz, reigning star of the current winter tournament season, pocketed $1,000, another title and headed for greener golfing pastures today.

The Chicago professional won the $5,000 San Francisco match play open yesterday with a one up victory over Horton Smith, Oak Park, Ill. The match went the full route of 36 holes.

It put Metz out in front as the leading money winner of the annual tournament swing. A week ago he defeated E. J. Harrison, Oak Park, Ill., in an 18-hole playoff of the 72-hole $5,000 Oakland open. He placed out of the money in the recent Los Angeles open, but to date has won a total of $2,000.

Reapers To Play Sophs Tomorrow

The Pampa Junior high Reapers and the Pampa high school Sophs will clash in a Panhandle Junior High league basketball game tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock in the high school gymnasium. Neither has won a game in the league to date so tomorrow's clash will be one to keep out of the cellar.

No admission will be charged and fans are invited to see the youngsters in action. Most of the boys are very little experienced while boys on the Amarillo teams have been playing in grade school and on into junior high.

Coach Oscar Hinger of the Reapers will start Shaw and C. Clemmons at forward, Berge at center, and Proper and Otts at guard. Coach Bruce Barton of the Sophs will send into the game Cunningham and Cox at forward, Sanders at center, and Shofner and Mounts at guard.

AAU Puts Ban On Panther Athletes

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 23 (AP)—An Amateur Athletic Union ban on University of Pittsburgh athletes competing in open meets will keep Johnny Woodruff and other great Panther runners out of the four big eastern indoor events next month.

A controversy between university and AAU officials culminated in the registration committee of the AAU's Allegheny - Mountain Association voting 6-1 to withhold traveling permits or sanctions for Pitt athletes to compete in other sections.

The committee announced its action resulted from failure of Olson to return properly filled out travel permits for meets during the past two indoor seasons.

Golden Gloves Entries Asked To Meet Tuesday

All boys entered in The Pampa News Golden Gloves boxing tournament to be held here Feb. 8, 9, and 10, are urged to be at the Pampa athletic arena, four blocks east and one south of the post office, between 5 and 7 o'clock Tuesday evening to sign applications for AAU membership. A special call to local boys is made and any out-of-town boys who can be here are urged to sign up.

There still is time for boys to enter the tournament and get in shape. Workouts are held every afternoon excepting Monday at the arena under personal supervision of Cliff B. Chambers and Joe Vernon.

Several new entrants were received this morning, including that of Jake Bible of Alameda, last year's featherweight champion who has graduated into the lightweight class. Bible was one of the tournament favorites last year. Another Alameda boy sent in his entry this morning. He is Neil "Red" Hill, a welterweight battler of note in that section.

Other newcomers to the list are James Moore, middleweight from Pampa; Perry Young and Joe Hornbeck from Canadian, and Roy L. Speck from Pampa.

Word was received from Clarendon yesterday that a team from that city would be here for the tournament. To date no entrants have been received from Shamrock, where three 1938 winners live. Also White Deer, Panhandle, Wheeler, and McLean have yet to report.

Entries to date number 30, mostly from Pampa. Unless more local boys enter the out-of-town list will pass the locals.

SERIAL STORY

NO TIME TO MARRY

BY ELINORE COWAN STONE

COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday Janet meets an old man in the park who tells her that Lance had offered to build his house on his lot if the affair could be handled quickly.

CHAPTER XIV

JANET wondered for a moment if this weren't all some grotesque dream. She had to steady her quivering lips before she could answer, "Why—he wanted to sell you the house without the knowledge of his firm, I suppose?"

"So I gathered. . . . Now my problem is this: I want that house a lot. I'm not under any obligation to Hollowell and Benton. I've already paid them for any services they had rendered. . . . But—now you look like a smart young woman—would it be your opinion that a man who was disloyal to one employer would be any more straightforward in dealing with another?"

"No," Janet said, very low. "I'm afraid it wouldn't. . . . Not with any one."

"Well, that's just about what I decided. . . . But I did want that house."

He glanced toward the white house across the ravine.

"I don't suppose," he said reflectively, "that that one is for sale?"

"I—really, I don't know," murmured Janet.

"After all, did she? Could she be sure of anything after this? She got up slowly."

"I think I'll have to be running along now."

"I'm afraid I've been boring you," he said, smiling up at her. "But sometimes talking things out to someone else helps you to come to a decision. . . . My dear young lady, you look ill. I hope you haven't over-tired yourself. I have a car right out by the gate."

"Thank you," Janet said hastily, "but I'm all right. Anyhow, I live just around the corner."

At first Janet thought that she could not go to the party that night—that it would be impossible to appear with Lance, laughing and acting as if her world had not fallen to pieces. . . . But soon all the thought that her love had built up about Lance sprang to his defense. . . . Whatever he had tried to do, he had attempted for her. . . . Besides, he had failed. And having seen the cool scorn in the old man's eyes that afternoon, Janet had a feeling that before the matter was ended, Lance would be made to understand just why he had failed. . . . He must have been too desperate to understand exactly what he was doing, or he would never have tried. Before it was time to dress for Leslie's dinner dance, Janet had almost persuaded herself that this was true.

The sea-green gown with the jacket of sequins was delivered late that afternoon. Janet decided that she might as well wear it. There was nothing like a sense of being beautifully dressed to bolster up one's morale. Besides, she thought a little bitterly, the sea-green gown would be entirely out of style before she needed a trousseau.

Cynthia and Timothy Benton had just arrived, and were standing in the lobby of the hotel where Leslie was giving her party when Lance and Janet went in.

Timothy Benton was rather overpowering in evening dress. He was, Janet thought, as Lance had said, so ugly he was almost handsome. He carried himself with the easy poise of an athlete; but his voice, when Cynthia introduced him to Janet, was just a shade too loud, his manner a shade too hearty for perfect ease.

There was something about him that reminded Janet of a great friendly bear not entirely sure of his welcome. When he made a boisterous joke about their being cousins now, Janet saw Lance's left eyebrow lift ever so wearily. Lance, who had been trained in an expensive technical school and in Paris, and who had been taken into the business as the son of one of Mr. Hollowell's best friends, had always been humorously contemptuous of the self-made young partner.

THEN Timothy Benton turned to Cynthia, and at something in his eyes, Janet's breath caught.

Why, he really in love, with her, she thought. This wasn't just a fly-by-night marriage with him. He looks—kind; and Cyn's just using him. It isn't fair. Cynthia, in ivory satin and old gold ornaments, was more radiant than Janet had ever seen her. In fact, from the beginning it was really Cynthia's evening. . . . Not that Janet cared about that. What she cared about really was that nothing in her own world was quite the same tonight as it had been only a week before. She wondered a little blankly if she ever should get it all back again—that sense of security and that clear confidence in the integrity and kindness of the world about her.

It was during the first dance after dinner that Lance said, very casually, "Oh, about the old boy I was drawing the plans for, Jan—I heard just awhile ago that his wife died suddenly in the hospital early this evening. An unexpected heart attack. Rotten luck!"

"Oh, the poor old dear!" Janet cried, remembering the old gentleman's eyes when he had spoken that afternoon of the walks he and his wife used to take in the wood.

Barney McKnight was there—very long and lanky—and lousie-headed even in the formality of tails. He was conspicuously armed with a huge notebook and pencil, with which he gravely pretended to make copious notes for the morning society page.

"Put me down for ermine and emeralds, Barney," Sylvia Grant called, dancing by in rose taffeta.

"And don't forget my diamond stomachacher," Leslie laughed.

JANET had hardly had time for a private word with Cynthia. Late in the evening, coming from the powder room, she saw her cousin alone through the French doors that opened on a veranda, and turned to follow.

It was dark on the veranda; but rounding a corner, Janet made out the glimmer of Cynthia's satin gown against a stone balustrade. She was about to call her name when she realized that Cynthia was not, after all, alone.

"But, Cynthia," a man's voice said, "how could you do this insane thing? I've been half wild ever since I saw those headlines. . . . Cyn, you've always been the only one really. You must know—"

"I do seem to remember having heard that once—long ago," Cynthia's low voice stung like a whip. "But that was before Jan came home with her stocks and bonds and that look of a sweet, kind, brave little girl. . . . You made your choice then, Lance. Well, I've made mine. And I hope to God I'll manage to be a better sport about it than you've been."

Janet fled down the dark veranda. Stumbling over a chair leg, she plunged forward against a tall figure which had just stepped out from a doorway. (To Be Continued)

Politics Enters Trans-Atlantic Plane Service

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP)—Great political importance is attached in diplomatic circles to the prospective beginning of transatlantic airplane service next summer. . . . There is the salient consideration that all routes between the United States and Britain and France will bring this country yet closer to the larger democracies of Europe. . . . Diplomats say international air-line promotes commerce, faster conduct of peoples of two nations and of prime importance to governments—made possible frequent, personal talks between diplomats. . . . Also there is the military consideration that development of the lines will lead to the training of additional aviators at a time when the United States is greatly improving its air defenses. . . . The type of flying will lend itself to the creation of a reserve of pilots particularly adapted to the navy's long-range patrol planes. . . . Significantly, the state department quickened its usual deliberate diplomatic pace to clear the way for transatlantic service to begin. . . . It suddenly terminated prolonged discussions with France this week with the announcement that an agreement had been negotiated for an airline between France and the United States. . . . Indications also prevail that a final understanding with Great Britain has been reached after more than three years of negotiations.

Mexico Reflected In New Shoe Style

"Shoes will be wide open this spring," says Harry Lipsky, manager of Levine's Department Store, who returned Saturday from the shoe convention in San Antonio. . . . "The styles and heels will be open. The leading colors for early spring will be black patent and various shades of tan leather. . . . Leading the entire show in styles for the coming season are Havana's, the style designed from the way the shoe of the Mexican peasant. They are popular in all colors in men's, women's and children's styles. . . . The styles for spring wear are very glamorous."

GETTING FIRST BABIES IS FAMILY HOBBY

SALINA, Kan., (AP)—Having the first babies of the new year is getting to be a habit in the Schmidt family. . . . Dale's youngest child was born at 12:06 a. m. Jan. 1 this year; his sister, Nancy, was Salina's "first baby" of 1938, born at 12:10 a. m. Jan. 1 and a cousin won the "first baby" title in 1937 at Wichita.

Unwed Mother Regains Baby In Fort Worth Court Trial

FORT WORTH, Jan. 23. (AP)—All the principals had lived in Chicago until the Heimlein came here shortly before Christmas with the baby. They contended in court that Miss Lee had given them the child. Miss Lee declared she merely had allowed them to keep him while she was recovering her health. . . . All admitted that Heimlein and Miss Lee were the parents of the baby. . . . A voracious appetite is the possession of the female spider, who is capable of consuming her mate. . . . The mother won, but Mrs. Heimlein, who cared for the baby since he was 23-days-old, was allowed to keep him until 2 p. m. today. . . . Miss Lee came to the Heimlein home with her attorneys. Almost timidly she entered the room where her baby was being prepared to go out by Mrs. Heimlein, who cried and sobbed and clutched the baby to her. . . . Little was said between the two women. . . . Mrs. Heimlein turned over milk formulas, clothes and toys to the mother of the child. . . . Miss Lee paused at the porch to talk a moment to Heimlein, whom she testified had promised to marry her more than a year ago in Chicago.

Mexican Slayer Goes To Trial In Sweetwater

SWEETWATER, Jan. 23 (AP)—Frank Salazar, youthful Mexican, was called to trial today on a charge he killed Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kennedy at their farm home near Miles, Texas, because they objected to his attention to their 16-year-old daughter, Wilma.

Salazar also is accused of kidnaping two young Kennedy girls and abducting Wilma. Since his capture at Austin, Dec. 18, three days after the slayings, he has been shuttled between various West Texas jails.

The case was sent here from San Angelo by District Judge John F. Sutton after difficulty in obtaining a jury. Judge Sutton arranged to exchange benches with Judge Albert S. Mautzer for the trial.

A relative found Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy shot to death and their children, Faye, 14, and Imogene, 13, with their skulls fractured. Wilma was missing.

The Kennedy automobile was trailed to Austin where Salazar, and Wilma were found in separate rooms at the home of his relatives.

There Wilma learned her parents had been slain. She said Salazar had told her he chloroformed her parents and forced her to accompany him.

Officers said Salazar admitted the slayings, which he said were committed while he was "crazy drunk." He denied beating the children, who now are recovering in a San Angelo hospital.

Wilma denied Salazar was drunk. She blamed the slayings on Salazar's jealousy after he learned she had been going with another boy.

Salazar claimed the girl had fallen in love with him.

The state contends Salazar slew the couple in a rage over their objections to his infatuation with Wilma.

The government, while insisting it would "maintain residence" in Barcelona, acknowledged that steps had been taken "to face any eventuality and to assure the continued work of the administration."

In case of actual insurgent entry into the capital, government officials were expected to move toward the French frontier. The mountainous region from Barcelona north to the border offered ample refuge in towns like Gerona and Figueras.

Defenders retiring Simultaneous advances by three insurgent columns placed their front lines slightly more than 15 miles from Barcelona, a war bulletin said.

Market Briefs

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (AP)—The stock market today suffered its sharpest break in more than 4 months as Wall Street's gloom over foreign developments deepened perceptibly.

Pivotal stocks and motors tumbled at the start and dragged down other securities. The most notable loss ranged from 1 to around 6 points generally with a few stragglers as much as 9 or 10.

Occasional efforts at a rally met with little response. Transfers approximated 1,900,000 shares.

Consolidation because with overseas connections reported offerings of American stocks from London and Paris heavier than usual. Markets in Amsterdam, Paris and London turned downward.

Touching off the release, brokers said, were reports Prime Minister Chamberlain would make a strong defense speech later in the day, and the eminent Spanish war crisis involving possible fall of Barcelona. The insurrectionists, with international repercussions feared likely.

On top of this the German financial muddle following the arrest of Reichsbank leader Dr. Schacht tended to dampen speculative sentiment.

Prominent on the slide were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, John-Manville, Du Pont, Westinghouse, Douglas Aircraft, J. I. Case, Montgomery Ward, Eastman-Kodak, Reichman leader Chemical, American Telephone, Consolidated Edison, Santa Fe and N. Y. Central.

Bonds emulated stocks and even U. S. Govt. bonds fell. Most commodities pointed lower.

Four Cases Settled In District Court

Settlement of four cases before they came to trial, and absence of attorneys in other cases combined to cause the petit jurors called for the fourth week of the January term of district court to be dismissed today for the week.

Cases settled were First National Bank of Pampa vs. Letitia Galtz et al., Pampa National Bank vs. Letitia Galtz, W. S. Roberts vs. E. F. Caughey, and O. C. Cox vs. Panhandle & Santa Fe Railway Co.

There were 26 jurors reporting out of the panel of 40. Local attorneys present were Aaron Sturgeon, Newton P. Willis, and Tom Wade. H. H. Jordan of Amarillo was the only out-of-town lawyer present as court opened at 10 o'clock this morning.

Next week will be criminal-jury week. A special venire of 150 has been called to report next Monday when the cases of State of Texas vs. Clyde McGraw, alias Shorty McGraw, State of Texas vs. Irvin Maxey, and State of Texas vs. A. C. Duncan are to come to trial.

McGraw is under a grand jury indictment for murder in connection with the fatal shooting of Oscar Williams here on the night of Dec. 11, and Maxey is also under a similar indictment in connection with the fatal stabbing of Odessa Lintzy, on the same date. The stabbing occurred at a negro dance at the Southern club. Duncan is charged with a statutory offense.

The grand jury reconvened this morning but up to noon had made no indictments.

DANCE

(Continued From Page One) send a dime to the President as evidence of their support of the campaign. As a result, $85,000 in dimes rolled into the White House during the final weeks of the campaign.

This year Eddie Cantor heads a "Council of Stars" comprising leading celebrities of the entertainment world, all of whom are cooperating in the March of Dimes campaign. Some interesting facts concerning the silver coin are contained in the following article, the third of a series.

Among the ten cent pieces received at the White House and at the various city, county and state headquarters of the campaign are a number which could almost be classed as antiques. Dates on some of the coins go back before the Civil War.

In the chorus are Christine Kendall, Virginia Nelson, Arlene Elliott, Louise Robinson, Erlene McMillan, Leone Heard, Lois Heard, Wynona Enloe, Dorothy Fisher, Marguerite Kirshman, Dorothy Meskimmis, Lucy Mae Walker, Heidi Schneider, Sarah Bourland, and the nipped passengers and crew members received first aid from seamen and a pharmacist's mate.

SNOW

(Continued from Page one) for more rain to the south and cooler weather in the northwest—around 20 in some Panhandle sections—and clearing skies in the central Texas.

Heaviest rain for the last 24 hours fell at Dallas and totaled .79 of an inch. Wichita Falls reported trees there sheathed in ice and a low of 30 degrees. At Vernon rain turned to sleet in 24-degree temperature. Denton had .76 inch of rain, benefiting grains. Berger reported snow last night with a minimum of 25 degrees.

A bitter cold wave, accompanied by disastrous gales plumed the mercury to sub-freezing points today (Monday) as ocean storms brought a series of "O. S." calls from imperiled ships on the North Atlantic.

Storm fatalities reached into the scores. Mountainous waves lashed the eastern seaboard from Cape Hatteras to north of Maine, causing widespread distress, and delayed the arrival of the rescue tanker Esso Baytown en route to New York with the 10 survivors of the Bermuda-bound British Imperial Airways flying boat Cavalier, which sank with a loss of three lives Saturday.

"S. O. S." signals crackled from eight ships tossed on the Atlantic, and nearby craft turned to their aid. The lives of more than 300 passengers and seamen were in jeopardy.

Twelve persons were killed on the southwest coast of England, where the storm struck with particular fury, at times reaching a velocity of 94 m. p. h.

Update New York county five dead, including a Syracuse man and his woman companion, whose bodies were found frozen on Onondaga Lake near Bridgeport, N. Y., where they had been fishing through the ice.

REHEARSAL

In the chorus are Christine Kendall, Virginia Nelson, Arlene Elliott, Louise Robinson, Erlene McMillan, Leone Heard, Lois Heard, Wynona Enloe, Dorothy Fisher, Marguerite Kirshman, Dorothy Meskimmis, Lucy Mae Walker, Heidi Schneider, Sarah Bourland, and the nipped passengers and crew members received first aid from seamen and a pharmacist's mate.

The missing: Donald W. Miller, president of a Lincoln, Neb., department store; J. Gordon Noakes, 57, president of a New York auction company, and Robert Spence, steward.

Wives See Weakened Husbands Sink Before Miraculous Rescue

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (AP)—Safe after one of the most dramatic rescues in the annals of trans-oceanic air travel, five men and five women survivors of the sunken flying boat Cavalier approached New York today aboard the tanker Esso Baytown.

They had been expected to arrive about 9 a. m. but later advices indicated the tanker might not reach its North river pier until about 3 p. m. (CST) because of rough weather.

Gale-swept seas slowed the rescue vessel bring the ten who lived in the memory of nearly 10 terror-filled hours spent clinging to rubber lifeboats until the tanker howe to in the darkness, drawn by their cries.

Joy over their miraculous rescue was tempered with sorrow at the fate of three other persons—two men passengers and a steward—who slipped beneath icy waves, apparently too weak from injuries for the long struggle against tempest winds and battering water.

Eight Coast Guard vessels gave the three up for lost last night after a thorough search of the seas where motor trouble forced the giant Bermuda-bound Imperial British Airways flying boat to sink.

Among the survivors were the wives of two missing passengers. They were recuperating from hysterical horror engendered when, helpless to aid, they saw their weakened husbands slip from hastily grabbed lifeboats to certain death.

All survivors were reported in "fair condition" however, except Capt. M. R. Alderson, pilot of the 19-ton, $200,000 flying boat, who suffered more from shock and exposure than the others. Several were believed cut and bruised.

Two tugs carrying supplies, fresh clothing, relatives, airways officials, and newspapermen were ready to steam down the channel and take the survivors—clad in borrowed sea togs—off the tanker.

Motor cars were waiting at the pier to speed them to a hospital for medical examination.

Mountainous waves had prevented the transfer of a doctor from the navy gunboat Erie to the tanker after the rescue, and the nipped passengers and crew members received first aid from seamen and a pharmacist's mate.

COLLINS

Joe Steadham, secretary of the joint labor board and legislative representative of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, said meeting of labor representatives would be held immediately to discuss the appointment.

"Labor representatives at Austin expressed no little surprise at the governor's choice for labor commissioner," a statement by Acree-man said. "They do not seek to suggest to the governor whom he appoint. They would have appreciated it, had the governor called them in, as in the past, and discussed the mayhap objectionable applicants."

Telephone Connection "It was at labor's insistent best that this department was created, in the interest of all labor; and all remedial and protective legislation is under the immediate enforcement of this department."

Mr. Joe Kunschik, who, it is reported, will be named, has no known labor connection, unless it be the so-called "company union" of the telephone company. This form of union has been outlawed by congressional act.

"With due deference to the governor, and full respect to Mr. Kunschik, labor considers it dangerous to place in inexperienced hands the administration of so important a department of government, to which all protective legislation looks for enforcement, and to which all labor looks for relief, especially those workers who come within the lower brackets of earnings."

FDR Supporter Defends Relief Appropriation

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP)—Administration supporters charged today that congressional economy advocates had arrived at a $725,000,000 relief appropriation by "guesswork" and that a precipitate drop in WPA activities would occur if it was approved by Congress.

The statement were contained in a report filed by Senator McKellar, Democrat, Tenn., as a member of the Senate appropriations committee which approved the relief fund Saturday.

The Senate was expected to take up the $725,000,000 relief measure, already approved by the House, after disposing of the nomination of former WPA chief Harry Hopkins to be secretary of commerce.

Hopkins' object of considerable criticism by Republicans and anti-administration Democrats, was vigorously defended today by Senator Schwellenbach, Democrat, Wash., a New Deal supporter, who asserted Hopkins was "due an apology from those trying to smear him."

Vice President Garner nearly rail-roaded the Hopkins nomination through before debate began, but a Republican maneuver checked the move.

As the session opened, the Vice President said: "The question is on confirmation of Harry Hopkins, without objection."

Senator McNary of Oregon, the Republican leader, jumped to his feet, with a smile: "I do not wish to make a speech but some other Senators do," he said. "I suggest the absence of a quorum."

Garner chuckled when the clerk began to call the roll for the second time in 10 minutes.
