Skeleton Of 'Sea Serpent' On Beach Fires Imaginations

BRINCEWOLD, Mo., Jan. 19. (AP)—Cape Cod with lost time today taking advantage of the opportunity afforded them by discovery of a 20-foot "sea-serpent" skeleton on a beach here.

Serious-minded zoologists hedged when asked to identify it—but not the Cape's cold salts. Captain Manuel Knox, usually described as "a well known waterfront character," was positive the skeleton was that of his long lost pet "Rover." His story was typical.

"Thirty years ago when I was dory fishing on the Grand Banks," he said, "I looked up to see a giant serpent approaching the dory. I had to do some pretty fast thinking so I picked up a cod fish and flung it to the critter. This stopped him for the time being so I let go another one, then another, until I had emptied the dory. By this time the serpent was pretty friendly. He came purring up to the dory and I scratched his ears. From that time on he followed our ship around and generally made himself useful."

FDR Urges Taxing All Government Salaries And Future Securities

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19. (AP)—President Roosevelt urged Congress today to make all private income from all government salaries and all future government securities subject to the general income tax laws of the federal and state governments.

Federal tax officials have estimated that federal revenue would increase, as a result, as much as $300,000,000 annually. State governments also would benefit by large revenue increases from reciprocal authority given them to tax federal salaries and bonds.

In a special message Mr. Roosevelt urged a special Congress that would pass legislation to prevent the present Supreme Court divisions had made some state salaries and some state securities subject to taxes. He asked legislation to prevent the present Supreme Court divisions had made some state salaries and some state securities subject to taxes.

Brotherhood Group Meets This Week

At a meeting of the Central Baptist Brotherhood this week at the church, mulligan stew, prepared by G. C. Stark, was served by Charles Barrett and Ernest Baldwin with Homer Johnson, president, presiding.

Before Walton Dempster, group captain, took charge of the program, for the evening, the men voted to adopt and sponsor Boy Scout troop number 24.

Mr. Dempster, assisted by two members of his group, Nat Lunsford and Nolan Harris, talked briefly on the subject of "Hell" in which it was pointed out that the place called "Hell" in the scriptures and described as a place of eternal punishment is not a popular idea with most people of today. Some say that the Lord is too just to punish a soul everlastingly. But the scripture teaches, "It was pointed out, that 'hell' is a place as definitely as heaven is a place and that the earth is a place. When the soul goes to the place of punishment it is not the Lord's will but because of its own disobedience."

"Humanity's escape from the place of eternal punishment is now while living," it was stated.

"It is not the length, but the seriousness of sin that sneers at God in transgressing his laws," the concluding speaker said. "It is a fearful thing to be numbered among the transgressors."

Amendment Unnecessary. In asserting that the situation could be remedied by legislative action, Mr. Roosevelt aligned himself with those legal students who contend that a constitutional amendment is not necessary to permit the state and federal governments reciprocally to tax income and security revenues paid out by them.

He based his argument on the constitutional clause providing for taxes on "income from whatever source derived."

"It is difficult," he told Congress, "for almost all citizens to understand why a constitutional provision permitting 'income for whatever source derived' does not mean 'from whatever source derived.'"

"Without legislation to supplement them, many individuals and corporations will be subjected to tax liabilities for income received in past years which they mistakenly but in good faith believed to be tax exempt," he said.

"In the interest of equity and justice, therefore, immediate legislation is required to prevent recent judicial decisions from operating in such a retroactive fashion as to impose tax liability on these innocent employees and investors for salaries heretofore earned, or on income derived from securities heretofore issued."

levied a considerable saving could be realized in distributing the money among the old folks. He proposed that only $100,000 a year be spent by the state old age pension organization. District pension offices would be abolished. County judges would examine the applicants and be paid $900 to $1,000 additional for that service. In each county, there would be a public record of all pension recipients.

Each person sending an article, whether he be manufacturer, wholesaler, or retailer, would be forced to affix stamps showing the tax had been paid. However, he would be expected to charge the buyer the amount of the tax. The state comptroller would be allowed $350,000 a year to collect the levy.

Tax On Newspapers

If you subscribe to a newspaper you will have to pay an additional 1.6 per cent. for old age pension. If you buy a want ad you will be required to fork over an additional 1.6 per cent.

A person seeking to put you on the old age pension rolls would be prohibited from charging a fee of more than $10. If you have an unmarried son making $300 a month, that won't keep you and your wife from drawing pensions because that is not your income.

You persons under 65 get a break in this—neither your county, city, or school district can levy a similar transactions tax.

Veteran governmental students here said O'Daniel's taxing plan, if accepted, would be the first thing of its kind in the nation.

There are general sales taxes, gross receipts taxes and gross income taxes, they said, but no transactions tax.

The plan can't apply to you unless a majority of you vote for it June 3. Even if you do, it won't go into effect until September 1.

selves grammatically. In one sentence of your statement you call yourselves 'we hep cats' and in the next 'us hep cats.' That's a fair sample of your grammar—and it's in your own writing, too. It's also a fair sample of your grades, probably. The illustration shows how any intelligent person could punctuate all of your statements. Speaking of intelligence have you ever read the conclusion of the famous psychologist, Dr. Watson, who said that the dance craze is definitely related to a low form of intelligence.

Attacks Intelligence

"You say the ice cream parlor keeps you away from honky tonks. If you are so intelligent why must you have to go some place and dance. You of course have been told that an intelligent man is never bored, so why can't you stay at home where your parents want you to stay. Can't you resist the temptation of alcoholic beverages? If not where is your superiority?"

Non-Climbable Fences Will Be Built At Wells

A non-climbable cyclone fence will be erected around the city water works department property, City Manager W. T. Williamson announced today, in compliance with state health regulations. Plans of the fences have been completed and work on them will start soon.

The high fences will be placed around the wells, storage tanks, etc., at the department's headquarters in northwest Pampa, around the new wells being drilled in southwest Pampa and around other storage tanks.

The Sherman Iron and Machine Works company has completed digging 12 blocks of ditches and laying 10 blocks of 12-inch pipe in the city's water extension program. Ditch digging is now in progress on Sunset Drive.

Laying of concrete for the base of the elevated water tower in East Pampa started this morning.

City Manager Williamson went to Amarillo today to submit plans for widening the North Cavalry street bridge to the Works Progress Administration office. Plans call for a 32-foot bridge with six-foot walks on each side.

Hitler Grabs Mexico And Brazil Trade

NEW YORK, Jan. 19 (AP)—Herr Adolf Hitler would seem to have been dipping his quick spoon into Uncle Sam's foreign trade porridge again.

Two of the great countries of the western hemisphere are involved—Mexico and Brazil. And that is something for America to ponder, since the ever hungry Nazi Oliver Twist has been getting a lot of his economic vitamins lately from good neighbors in the Monroe Doctrine area.

Specifically, a usually well-informed German news service says that an improved and extended system of bartering merchandise between Germany and Brazil is planned.

Also, the sudden return of Germany in which new officers were elected.

The afternoon was spent embroidering for the hosts. Refreshments were served to Meses, J. L. Campbell, J. B. McClelland, Stanley Hudson, R. H. McGee, T. L. Brooks, W. M. Brooks, O. R. Parrett, and the hostess.

al Juan Azcarate to his post as Mexican Minister to Berlin, after an absence of more than a year, is believed by many observers to be linked with an effort to expand trade relations between the two countries.

Mexico recently made a sensational barter transaction for disposing of some $17,000,000 worth of oil, taken mainly from expropriated wells of American and British companies. Most of it went to grease the wheels of Germany, and a lot of folk think this has encouraged Mexico to expand such oil sales to the Reich.

The Nazi barter system is one of the wonders of our time. The fatherland swaps its products for the products of other countries without any cash changing hands. In simplicity it's on a par with the trade whereby one schoolboy exchanges a jack-knife with a broken blade for a live beetle in a bottle.

I was chatting the other day in Paris with French Finance Minister Paul Renaud and he predicted that the Nazi barter scheme was headed for a nasty cropper; it wouldn't work indefinitely.

Other orthodox experts shudder at the barter idea. They say it won't work, but in the same breath they admit that it is working. And most of them have no answer to that, except that we must wait and see what happens.

Speaking Of 'A Free Press'

Deakins Wells, the Wellington publisher and president of The Texas Press Association, hit the nail on the head in his address before the Pampa Chamber of Commerce when he said that every citizen ought to support his newspaper when it is right and call it his hand when it is wrong.

Many persons, possibly through abuses some place in years gone by, lean to a misconception that there is no freedom of the press because a newspaper prints only what its publisher wants to print. It is the right of EVERY man and woman to print exactly what they want to print—whether in a newspaper, a book, a magazine or a handbill—subject, of course, only to the laws of libel.

A "free press" means that any man shall be free to attack or defend any cause or object, regardless of whom else may love it or hate it, or of whom else thinks the publisher is right or wrong. It means that any publisher shall have the right to defend or oppose. It means that any citizen has the right to ask his newspaper to use its columns for that same purpose just so long as the issue to be discussed is of public interest and relates to the public welfare.

Whether a citizen agrees or disagrees with the editorial policies of The Pampa News is no sign that the citizen does not have a perfect right to write to the editor and express his views in the matter. And, a "free press" means that the editor will give that citizen space in the newspaper to disagree with the editor and with the newspaper—subject, of course, to the above mentioned libel laws and public interest.

A "free press" means that whether the principle that a publisher advocates is right or wrong in the judgment of somebody—even in the judgment of the overwhelming majority—has nothing to do with his right to free expression. There can be no freedom of expression if the utterance of one man's opinion is controlled by the opinions of other men.

The liberty of the people and the life of democracy are equally bound up with the freedom of all newspapers, large or small.

Freedom of the press is something that the people of America do not have. The news that appears in the so-called "newspapers" of those countries first is okayed by a representative of the dictators. If it isn't favorable to the dictator, it isn't printed and the people get only what their dictators want them to read.

The story is told of the Nazi editor, who sat down to write an editorial about a vital issue coming up in Germany. He turned to his secretary and said:

"Get Herr Goebbels on the telephone and ask him what I think about this." And, there's more truth than just in this little illustration.

So, we hope more and more persons will follow the advice of the president of the Texas Press Association—"support your newspaper when it is right—call it his hand when it is wrong."

It must be remembered that the constitutional guaranty of freedom of the press was not given for the benefit of the newspapers, but for the benefit of the people.

Biscuits A La Townsend

Political observers who had been wondering for months how Governor O'Daniel expected to keep his promise to pay $30 a month pensions to the old folk, were not prepared for the rude surprise Texas' new governor gave them yesterday afternoon when he recommended a 1.6 per cent transaction tax to pay old age pensions.

The ex-four salesman had said that he was opposed to a retail sales tax leaving the impression that he would not want to saddle on the people such a burden. A quick and casual study of his transaction tax plan indicates that it is the most astounding tax scheme ever proposed in Texas. Briefly, his plan would put a tax on every financial transaction—water, light and gas bills, garage bills, milk bills. Every time you spend a dime in any way it would be taxed.

So such a tax would be far more revolutionary than a sales tax which the people of Texas have rejected time and again. It's a sales tax on everything. Of course, the trouble with a sales tax or a transaction tax is that it will shift the tax burden to those who are least able to pay. It will not only tax your bread but your medicine, your water, your gas, your lights.

Not only does Mr. O'Daniel propose to advocate this stupendous tax burden, but he wants to make sure that it is yoked on the people of Texas for the remainder of their lives. He wants to abolish the ad valorem tax, and once that tax is abolished it would likely never be re-enacted in entirety and perhaps not in part. If that were true, Texans would continue to pay this oppressive transactions tax ad infinitum.

If this gigantic tax plan which has shocked the people of Texas as they have not been in years, is enacted the people who pay this tax would endure far greater hardships than the people it would benefit. It is a fearful thing to tax the milk of children, their medicine, the water they drink. Perhaps it is just as fearful to permit children to go in want because of a tax as it is to let old people go in want for lack of a tax.

This new tax plan shocks the imagination and makes the humanitarian instincts in one shudder. There must be some way to take care of the old folk beside passing such a strangling levy. At any rate it would inflict more suffering than it would alleviate, and that's the point Texans must remember while they are making plans to wage war on this super-super sales tax.

Sharing the Comforts Of Life ---

By R. C. Hoiles

IS MONEY OUR LIFE BLOOD?

A couple of Townsendsites from Alliance, Ohio, commenting on my column, seem to be very much confused on the primary function of money. One of them says, "The life blood of our nation is money." The other says, "All business, under a capitalistic system, begins and ends with buying and all buying begins and ends with money."

These two Townsendsites, like the head of the Townsend movement, have very little conception of what causes business and they have very little understanding of what money is and the primary function of money. No, the primary function of money is not to buy things. The primary function of money is to measure values. Most of all our buying is done by credit. We exchange credit by writing checks, and even when we transfer actual money, we get this money by producing some service or product and exchanging it with others for pieces of paper called money which, under the present laws, is not money at all, but a promise to pay money. No, we do not buy with money. We buy with things and we exchange largely with credit and not with money.

The reason it is so important to frankly discuss these Townsend magical ways of creating purchasing power is that they are advocating practically the same thing that the New Deal is advocating, other than on a larger scale. The Townsend official pamphlet, issued by the Townsend National Weekly, says, "The Townsend Plan proposes to distribute buying power (to each recipient) in larger amounts than the government has proposed. This will enable the annuitants to buy quality goods produced by every industry manufacturing merchandise. The stimulation of every industry is necessary to effect complete buying recovery."

So you see this pleasant illusion, that both the Townsend Plan and the New Deal advocates, has become pretty generally believed by a great many of our people. It is therefore, of the utmost importance that the subject be discussed frankly and fearlessly so that the public may come to realize that simply taking money, or wealth, from one and giving it to another, as the Townsend Plan would do and the New Deal would do, in no way increases the total purchasing power. It only transfers the purchasing power from one and gives to another; and as long as the people believe in this magical way of creating purchasing power, they will not go back to work producing purchasing power and we will continue to have unemployment and a lower and lower standard of living.

It is certainly strange how people come to follow leaders like Roosevelt and Townsend, who never in their past lives have ever been able to train people how to have more income and a better standard of living, and believe they have all at once discovered this magical way of adding wealth to the country. It is evident that most people still believe in magic and miracles. They do not believe in natural laws in harmony with the forces of the universe. To most people, the wish is father of the thought.

SOME MONOPOLIES ABSOLUTELY NECESSARY

Most all Socialists and theorists invariably contend that there should be no private monopolies of land; that it should belong to the people as a whole. This seems like an ideal situation, but it must be remembered that two bodies cannot occupy the same space at the same time and each individual must have an inalienable right to occupy the place on the globe necessary for his body and his abode. And this right must be defended and sustained by the government.

It also seems to be necessary that private citizens have possession and control of certain parts of the natural resources, if they are to convert these natural resources into the comforts of life. So the statement that all the natural resources must belong to the people as a whole will not work when it is put into practice.

Society should strive to prevent any more monopolies of the natural resources by individuals than it is absolutely necessary in order to encourage initiative and increase production and develop character and produce the highest standard of living.

A certain amount of private monopolies is absolutely necessary under free enterprise. Two bodies cannot occupy the same place at the same time nor can two people drink the same bottle of milk. It must be exclusive.

Behind The News Of The Day

By JOHN T. FLYNN

The President, in asking Congress for $552,000,000 for arms, $215,000,000 of which is to be available at once, left out any suggestion as to where the money is to come from. It has been rather calmly assumed, therefore, by many observers, that the money is to be provided by further government loans rather than by taxes.

Twenty-two years ago Congress faced the problem of fabricating a financial policy for the war into which it was about to lead the country. At that time over 200 leading economists from 48 of our foremost universities sent a petition to Congress urging it "to adopt the principle of taxation rather than bond issues as the principal means of financing our country in the war upon which it has embarked."

The petition then proceeded to point-out the financial difficulties into which the nation would be ensnared if borrowing rather than taxation were used to finance the war. Reading that document now it seems to be describing what actually happened rather than predicting what was to be expected.

It was signed by such distinguished men as Albert Bushnell Hart, O. M. W. Sprague, Warren Persons, Melvin T. Copeland of Harvard, Henry W. Farnham, Irving Fisher, Ray B. Westfield of Yale, John R. Commons of Wisconsin, and many others representing almost all schools of economic thought.

Now we are embarked on another adventure in armament. We need not question here whether that enterprise is right or wrong, wise or dangerous. But assuming that we go forward with it, the same reasons still demand financing by taxation rather than by deficits. Indeed the reasons are stronger.

WAR MAKES JOBS

Whatever may be said for the armament program, one ominous peril lurks in it—that is the danger that it may be used and expanded to create prosperity.

'I CARRY A KNIFE'

Around Hollywood

By ROBBIN COONS.

HOLLYWOOD—It wasn't in the headlines, but an important movie deal was consummated the other day. Blanche Williams left Eleanor Powell and transferred her services to Hedy Lamarr.

The Lamarr girl, who has been getting herself called a "second Harlow" for the ease with which she wins the devotion of set workers, clinched the title in acquiring Blanche—because Blanche was Jean's trusted friend as well as personal maid up to the end. The transfer of Blanche from Powell to Lamarr was, I understand, accomplished rather easily but with some of the subtlety that accompanies more ballyhooed "big deals" in the industry.

In stellar circles, where a "jewel"—black or white—is prized, the deal is on a par with Rosalind Russell's "lifting" of Garbo's Hazel.

Miss Russell—and Hazel—are working with Bob Montgomery on a comedy called "Fast and Loose," and we were reminded of last year's "feud" between the co-stars. It happened on "Night Must Fall," and—the story was—Montgomery and Russell didn't feud for each other one bit.

Like so many "feud" stories, this one hasn't held up. Russell and the Montgomerys entertained jointly at a holiday party, and on the set the other day, waiting for the cameras, Bob and Rosalind were going into mild hysterics at each other's clownings, which didn't look like any grand hate.

What Hollywood needs is a few real, honest hates—feuds of the Swanson-Connie Bennett school. In this day when tie-ups between the movies and commercial products are too common, I like to think of James Cruze and his "free car" on "The Million Dollar Mystery" of early movie serial fame.

Director Cruze was then actor-leading man in this phenomenon—early successful chapter play. As a sleuthing reporter Cruze was equipped with a modest car of a make no longer to be had. Anyway, midway in the works the exploitation department suggested that Cruze, for the publicity he was giving the jalopy, ought to rate a free one.

And so it was arranged, with everybody happy—until one day the cautious car-makers announced that since Cruze had a car they saw no need of a gift. Cruze's anger was righteous and quick, and his revenge as speedy. It couldn't happen now—unfortunately—but in those days movie-writing was an informal business. Cruze had this written into the script.

The reporter hero is chug-chugging on the trail of the villain in his little car. At the crucial moment the car breaks down, with a rattle and a groan, visible if not audible. Hero hops out, looks disgusted, and just then an old farmer comes up, inquires the trouble. "Trouble?" says our hero, in subtiles. "This... thing has broken down again. Fix it, Naw. It yours if you want it—I'd never put up with it again!"

As mentioned above, the little car is no longer made. An armament program were turned into a recovery program or any part of a recovery program. The only way this can be done is by financing that program with borrowed funds.

People You Know

By ARCHER FULLINGIM

The other night Junior Strickland, who was one of the best centers who ever played on a Harvester basketball team, jumped on this one with both feet, figuratively speaking. He said that he'd heard that this one who covers basketball was not supporting the team with his usual enthusiasm. Of course, we were downright insulted, and we denied it vehemently. The very idea! At any rate we were glad that Junior told us.

'Tis true that we did not go to Mobeetie tournament Saturday, but we had to listen to the grand opera. Anyway, we think this basketball team is just about as good as we've had in a long time, and we're backing the team, not the individuals, mind you, 100 per cent, just as we've always done. We've known every boy on the team ever since they were in ward school, and you can take our word for it they've got more fight than any team we have ever had—and they're good with it.

Andis sets a good example of unselfish play—he doesn't care who makes the points as long as they win... Next week, the boys are going to open the hottest basketball war in history—it will make last year's final game with Berger look like that torrid affair was sprouting icicles. We're going to start the shootin' at Bor-Tuesday night. The Catfish got his team going last week. They lacked two points of beating Plainview just as much as we did. Thursday night we're going to play Lubbock here, and the next night the Sandies are going to send the best team they have ever had to Pampa. Come out and see them, folks, the Harvesters will need your cheers.

The report of Professor Macdonald and Dr. Wislicki deals with two extracts of cabbage. One raises the blood sugar content, producing a diabetic-like condition. The other extract causes a reduction of the blood sugar. This blood sugar reducing vegetable extract is as effective when administered by injection.

A very striking part of the report is the following: A dog from whom the pancreas (insulin-producing gland) had been removed was kept alive by injections of insulin. It was found possible to control the blood sugar and the excretion of sugar in the urine in this dog by means of the cabbage extract alone, the insulin having been withdrawn entirely.

Withholding the cabbage extract from the dog resulted in the re-appearance of sugar in the blood and urine.

The insulin-like cabbage extract has been named "Vegulin." It has not been tried on human cases of diabetes. It is not available for such use at the present time and there is no assurance whatsoever that it may prove effective as a substitute for insulin.

Government To Buy Florida Oranges

LAKELAND, Fla., Jan. 19 (AP)—The federal government will begin the purchase of Florida oranges next Monday.

The Surplus Commodities Corporation at Washington notified a citrus industry committee yesterday it would begin its Florida buying program, designed to help dispose of a portion of the record-breaking crop, on January 22.

The fruit will be distributed to needy persons through government agencies.

Fred T. Henderson, chairman of the industry group providing facilities for handling the program, said 100 cars of oranges would be purchased the first week. The grades will be U. S. number 2 or better and sizes will be 3/8 or larger.

An armament program were turned into a recovery program or any part of a recovery program. The only way this can be done is by financing that program with borrowed funds. The only way to protect the thinking of the American people from the infection of armament economics is to insist that whatever we do in the way of national defense shall be paid for by the people by means of taxation. The time to do that is now when the program is launched. If it is not done now, obviously, it will never be done.

How's Your Health?

By IAGO GALDSTON, M.D.

CABBAGE AND DIABETES Under the heading of Annotations there recently appeared in the English Medical Weekly, the Lancet, an item entitled "A Substitute for Insulin?"

The article contained the following warning: "In view of the failure of previous attempts to establish a practical substitute for insulin, it would be a mistake to wax over-enthusiastic about these new findings. Several conditions must be fulfilled before we are certain that insulin has been replaced and that its action has not merely been simulated. But the observations are certainly encouraging."

The observations to which the Lancet refers are those made by Professor Macdonald and Dr. Wislicki on the insulin-like effects of an extract made from cabbage. Many of the leading scientists have recognized a great similarity between hormones (the products of the glands of internal secretion) and vitamins. In fact, the vitamins have by some been called exogenous hormones, that is, hormones which are derived from sources outside the body.

The report of Professor Macdonald and Dr. Wislicki deals with two extracts of cabbage. One raises the blood sugar content, producing a diabetic-like condition. The other extract causes a reduction of the blood sugar. This blood sugar reducing vegetable extract is as effective when administered by injection.

Tex's Topics By Tex DeWeese

It is a bit jarring to be told that fatigue is not normal, that when you think you are tired at the end of the day you ought to work harder, live more intensely than ever... But that is precisely the success formula of Marie Beynon Ray. She gives it to you in a small book bursting with ideas. "Two Lifetimes in One."

If you look around you, says Miss Ray, you'll find that the few who really stick their heads above the crowd are untrusting... They seem to have energy to burn. If they possess more than average intelligence these people run the world.

But their drive is no gift, avers this author. The secret is energy and everybody in normal health ought to have it in astounding quantities... The trouble is that most of us waste what little energy we do have and fail to develop our real potentials. A study of men of genius, for example, says Miss Ray, shows that all great men had energy.

But how to achieve it, how to live two lifetimes in one? The rules are simple once you shake off the inhibitions... They hinge largely on diet, fresh air and sunlight, exercise and change of pace.

The pace is the hardest to change of all but it turns the trick. Complete rest is essential, of course, but not in the quantities you think necessary... Develop special interests, work harder, play more vigorously. Finally, watch those hours between 5 p. m. and midnight for in them may lie the difference between success or mediocrity.

So holds Miss Ray and whether or not you agree you'll find her book stimulating some evening when you're dead tired.

Mexican Minister Sails For Germany

NEW YORK, Jan. 19 (AP)—General Assaol, Mexican minister to Germany, sailed for Europe today, refusing to comment on reports of an expansion in trade relations between Mexico and Germany. "Naturally," he added, he was returning his post "to improve relations between Mexico and Germany." The diplomat explained he had returned to Mexico to fulfill the requirement of one year of military service out of every four and was anxious to get back to his post "as soon as possible."

In Berlin, a Nazi spokesman questioned about possible oil and munitions negotiations between the two countries, said: "We will have to wait and see what happens when he arrives."

Market Briefs

NEW YORK, Jan. 19 (AP)—A rise in wheat and U. S. government bonds diverted the market spotlight from the usual speculative favorites in the stock list today. Investment demand for top-grade bonds advanced sharply, particularly on the rapid new year accumulation of funds in banks and other institutions, imparting to the security markets while traders marked time waiting for developments and a definite trend.

Stocks advanced approximately 600,000 shares, one of the smallest turnovers in recent months. The market started a little higher but quickly tired of the uphill route when the buying thinned out.

So They Say

We are cowfaced, deadpans and sourpusses. —DR. HUBERT GREAVES of Yale on the poor standing of Americans as conversationalists. The nation's crime bill is $120 per capita per year. —W. H. D. LESTER, United States Federal Bureau of Investigation agent.

The Road to the DIVORCE COURT Is Paved With

CARROTS and PEAS

Remember that old song: "Monday hasenpfeffer! Tuesday string beans! Wednesday s-soo-OUP! Thursday roast beef! Friday Fi-ISH?" Surest way to lose a husband is to let him know what to expect for dinner every night in the week!

"She sued a rare juicy steak for alienation of affections." You've never seen that in the papers—but don't smile, lady,—it might happen to you some day. Just go on serving carrots and peas every Thursday, come rain, snow or maid's night out; just persist in your potato-patty pattern every Monday and the halibut on Fridays—keep at it long enough—and you'll lose your man!

You may be awfully proud of the way you fix tapioca pudding—but tapioca can taste pretty flat, served too often. Even the best of foods quickly lose their savor to a hungry husband when they come at him regular as clock-work on a weekly merry-go-round. And there lies danger! For "ration routine" has ruined more marriages than the fabled mother-in-law; it has broken up more homes than the bluest-eyed chorus girl who ever crossed Times Square!

"Ration routine" is doubly dangerous because it's so insidious; your husband himself may not consciously realize what's wrong. But while he picks at his food he is probably muttering, deep in his heart, "Vicious viftles!" and dreaming of a cottage in a magical land where he can get something wonderful and different and new for dinner every night.

You pride yourself on being a wise and thrifty shopper! Do you know that it's thrifty, economical shopper like you who are most likely to be at fault? They buy cautiously, they save money, they shun extravagance and sooner or later they fall into a food rut. Then beef stew goes on the table every Wednesday or maybe every other Wednesday, fried perch becomes a regular Friday nightmare, and that's when the trouble really begins.

Men like variety! They like to be surprised. They want food that is tempting and different even more than they want low grocery bills. To your husband dinner time—or should be, the high point of the day. It's the pivot about which his whole home life turns, and in the interests of his love and affection you just cannot afford to trifle with his appetite—you can't afford to risk "ration routine."

Especially when the cure is so simple. Maybe you've forgotten that there are anywhere from sixty-five to ninety different kinds of vegetables and fruits, canned and fresh, in a well-stocked food store; dozens of different kinds of meats, fish, sea foods; spices galore; prepared foods by the score—every one lending itself to several delicious recipes! Maybe you've forgotten, too, that there is a cook book somewhere in your house, brimming over with ideas that are really fun to try out. Maybe you've forgotten that one of the reasons your husband married you was because he thought you'd serve him a swell dinner every night. Have you forgotten? He hasn't!

If you doubt it, try this little experiment! Let your husband do the shopping next Saturday afternoon when he has the time. Don't tell him what to buy; let the choice be his. It's ten to one he'll come home with things you would never dream of buying yourself—delicious palate-teasing items—foods that will make dinner time a real event—and they won't be hard to prepare either!

Are you guilty of "ration routine?" If you are, you probably don't know it and you'd better watch your step before it's too late. Forget carrots and peas! Forget those insipid, inevitable tiresome dishes that have become a habit with you and may well become a curse! Forget—for just a little while—the staples, the "standards" and the "here-we-are-agains," and step out and go to town! There are "surprises" a-plenty waiting for you in your favorite food store, listed for you tomorrow in the Pampa News food ads—glorious, marvelous, delicious things to eat! Invest in them for your husband's sake. Resolve now to feed him handsomely and well.

Cut loose, lady, and treat yourself to some luxury buying at the grocery! Do it today—and knock his eye out with something super-delicious tonight!

HOLD ON TO THE MAN YOU LOVE! FEED HIM WELL!

Planes Don't Win War, Claims Envoy

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19 (AP)—Ambassador Norris, Independent, Neb., commented today that congressional critics of Henry Hopkins examine Congress itself to find out about politics in relief.

In any future inquiry, Norris declared, the investigators should ask the question where the responsibility for WPA administrative officials for competence from members of Congress who wanted jobs for their friends.

He said he was "reliably informed" that disclosure along that line would show where the responsibility for any WPA political activity belongs.

Hill And Banaski Will Wrestle In Main Event

Science will be paramount in the main event wrestling card at the Pampa Athletic arena Monday night but the same cannot be said of the preliminary and semi-final. As the light heavyweight elimination tournament progresses it falls to the lot of Frankie Hill, the ace from Wichita, Kas., and Joe Banaski, Oklahoma cowboy, to battle in the main event.

One of Herr Hill's boys will appear for the first time in the semi-final. He is Dutch Aultman, a rough and tough mauler if there ever was one. His opponent will be Able Freeman, Bronx Jew.

Opening the card at 8 o'clock sharp, Tiger Billy McEwin, de-throned from the main event class, will tangle with Steve Netry, the pride of Florida. McEwin lost to Hill and Banaski in main event matches and the losses dropped him back to the bush league. And McEwin is so mad he could chew nails.

Aultman has been in this country about four years but he is still a German. He is a threat in the light heavyweight division and his purpose in coming here is to win the tournament and get a crack at Champion Danny McShain. Freeman has the same idea only he would rather drop the German than win the title.

Freeman's parents are living in Hungary, his native country, and all letters he receives from there are censored until they are void of news. He doesn't know whether his parents are being persecuted or not. Hill and Banaski are a couple of big, scientific grapplers who should give fans who like wrestling a treat.

Jack Dempsey Receives Eddie Neal Trophy

NEW YORK, Jan. 19. (AP)—The story of a friendship that started in a Saratoga Springs fight camp 13 years ago was told anew last night in a Manhattan dining room when Jack Dempsey stood up and received the Eddie Neal medal, memorial to the Associated Press sports writer and war correspondent.

Dempsey's dearest friend among the writers. The award was for Dempsey, symbol of his work as the man who had done most for boxing in 1938. James J. Walker, mayor of New York in the gay days when Dempsey was young and heavyweight champion of the world was there. So were General Hugh Johnson, So were nearly a hundred working newspapermen. For most of them, when they stood up and drank a toast to his memory, Eddie Neal, killed in Spain on assignment a year ago was there too.

Dempsey, speaking in the high, thin voice that never fails to surprise, talked of Neal as he first met him in 1926 when he was preparing for his first match with Gene Tunney.

"I liked him right off," said Jack. "We were pals from then on. You fellows have done me a great honor."

Alan Gould, former sports editor of the Associated Press and present assistant to the general manager, pointed out, "It is fitting that this award go to Jack Dempsey. There was no essential difference between the two, Dempsey and Neal. Both were hard fighters, hard losers and straight shooters."

Cooper Takes Lead In Golf Tourney

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 19. (AP)—Harry Cooper led off today with a four stroke advantage over the field in the second round of the 36 hole qualifying tests for the $5,000 San Francisco match play open golf tournament.

Thirty-two players of the approximately 120 survivors will qualify for the match play after today's firing.

Cooper, unattached professional now playing out of Chicago, turned a sub-par 65 for what he said was the finest round of his career. He coupled a 32 and 33 for the par 35-36 Lakeside course, chalking up six birdies.

The fine round set a new competitive course record for Lakeside. Incidentally, it was Cooper who established the former mark, a 69, in the first San Francisco open nine years ago.

Trailing the leader after yesterday's rounds were Harold McSpaden, Winchester, Mass.; Ben Hogan, White Plains, N. Y.; and Dick Metz, Chicago, all tied at 69.

Sportsman's Park Screen Coming Down

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 19. (AP)—Stretched in front of the right-field pavilion at Sportsman's Park is a screen that stands as a reminder of the Babe Ruth era—and now it may come down.

The barrier was erected about a dozen years ago during the heyday of the mighty Bambino, who a while the person answering the phone were amused, but after several hundred calls it ceased to be a joke and the caller was told in no uncertain terms, that "Annie doesn't live here anymore, and in fact, she never did." Fortunately for the ones bothered, most of the calls have been made at night after the shop has closed.

The screen covers the pavilion from the top of the wall to the field and reaches from the right field foul line to deep center. Batters who hit the wire get as many bases as they can, the ball being in play after it caroms off.

The first day the New York Yankees came to town, after the screen had been erected, Ruth smashed two vicious drives against it. He reanted and regaled the patrons with gestures to indicate his displeasure at being "robbed" of a home run. It "robbed" him of many more before his career was over.

Now that the Babe is gone, Bill DeWitt, vice-president of the Browns, opening today that perhaps the screen was hurting his team's sluggers more than it did visiting home run hitters.

been booked for personal appearances at the Flea Market in Prof. Hubert's museum. Jack Johnson was the latest ex-celeb to appear there.

Looks like Sammy Sneed, the red hot boy of 1938, has gone the way of the Smiths, the Burkes and other top notchers and skidded into one of those slumps that hit star tournament golfers every now and then.

Manager Lefty O'Doul won't be in the party when his San Francisco battery candidates go to Boyes Springs, Cal., to bowl out. He'll put them on their honor to observe training rules. And he once played for Joany McGraw, too.

Some of you critics say Sammy Baugh, football's famous pitcher, can't chuck 'em faster or straighter than Doyle Nave.

Paul Wauer is predicting Pittsburgh and Cincinnati will fight it out for third place this year. The old Pirate split, eh? Some of you bugs might stump John Kieran and the other "information please" experts by asking 'em who named the Yankees the Yankees and why.

We're not going around carrying a torch for Tennessee, but if you think that football team was hot last year, just wait till October. Of the 33 first stringers, 23 were sophomores and they're all coming back.

Major Biff Jones of Nebraska says the Vols have the four best tackles in the country. Then add one of the five leading coaches in the business and you have what it takes. It's too bad the Vols don't take on a more representative schedule.

Pedro Montanez has lost only one fight in seven years of campaigning—that to Lou Ambers.

It didn't come out in the announcement, but they're telling it around Broadway that when Jess Willard starts touring for the Dempsey liquor interests part of his duties will be to lecture on temperance.

Old Grover Cleveland Alexander has

Tony Galento To Belt Out Latin Tonight

By DREW MIDDLETON
NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 19. (AP)—The amazing Tony Galento will waddle into the Newark Army ring tonight and in three or four rounds belt out Jorge Brescia, an amiable Argentine who once won fame by smacking Joseph Louis on the chops.

Brescia, who will weigh 210 to Tony's 235 or thereabouts for the ten-round bout, has the sporting chance of a steer in the stockyards. Galento has been named the No. 1 challenger for Louis' heavyweight title by the National Boxing Association and to date he has fought no one who might endanger the rating.

Tonight's bout will be the last in the minor leagues for some time for the beer keg that walks like a man. The 20th Century Sporting Club has signed Galento and Tommy (still trying) Farr for a 15-round duel at Madison Square Garden, March 10, ample evidence that Mike Jacobs, the boxing czar, and Joe Jacobs, Galento's manager, have kissed and made up.

Fresh from a tour of the hinterlands on which he buffeted assorted members of the Thomas family, Galento is expected to lure a crowd of 10,000 or so to the armory, tonight.

The boisterous buffoon is in good voice. As usual he is calling all heavyweights, living and dead, "bums" with Brescia the chief "bum" at present. Around 11 p. m. tonight Tony will blow the collar off a beer and reissue his challenge to "dat bum Louis."

Tony has added nothing new to his training schedule (laughter) or his boxing technique. His ring partner tonight will consist of a few ineffectual stabs with his right, a couple of whistling lefts and the thud of Senor Brescia hitting the canvas.

'Round The Razzberry Bush

By HARRY HOARE
Out-of-town boys entering The Pampa News Golden Gloves tournament February 8, 9, and 10 will be given free room and meals so long as they remain in the tournament. Or, should they reside close to Pampa and wish to go home instead of staying in Pampa, they will be furnished free gasoline.

The Golden Gloves Association will furnish seconds whenever desired and will also furnish clean towels for each bout. Three competent judges will render decisions and a state licensed referee, experienced in calling amateur tournaments, will preside in the ring. Rules are different than in professional boxing.

They are made to insure a minimum risk of injury. Amateur rules will be published before the tournament so that fans may acquaint themselves with them.

The bowling marathon at the Berry alleys ended at 10 o'clock yesterday morning, 14 hours after starting. Emmett Dwyer's smart little dog has become a pet at the alleys. . . . Old Man Examination is facing the Pampa Harvester basketball team this week and he is about the toughest for the boys have met this season, they report.

Heard: a wondrous if taking up the jitterbug dance would improve footwork among basketball, football and baseball players and boxers.

"Anything for a gag," the comedian's pet ism has been taken up by the Texas Aggie students much to the disgust of the employees of the Bryan city warehouse and shop. Their telephone number happens to be Bryan 709, which sounds similar to the Bryan 709 featured in the popular song, "I Must See Annie Tonight."

Bryan is the town four miles from the college campus. For a while the persons answering the phone were amused, but after several hundred calls it ceased to be a joke and the caller was told in no uncertain terms, that "Annie doesn't live here anymore, and in fact, she never did." Fortunately for the ones bothered, most of the calls have been made at night after the shop has closed.

Louis is justly more capable than Willard.

Lewis is the best Louis has tackled, however.

He at least has the chance that Louis is not the lad he was a year ago. John Henry hit big time in a hurry in California. He was only 18 when he outgalled James J. Braddock, and took a decision from the hard-to-handle Maxie Rosenbloom a year later.

Lewis will not be 25 until May 1.

McCarthy, Hill Will Broadcast Jan. 25 Fight

FLINT, Mich., Jan. 19.—Clem McCarthy and Edwin C. Hill, who have teamed up on previous Buick championship broadcasts, will be at the microphones when Joe Louis, champion, and John Henry Lewis, contender, meet for the world heavyweight ring title in Madison Square Garden, Jan. 25.

McCarthy will give the blow-by-blow description during each round of the fight while Hill, between bells, will analyze the bout and describe rinside color and events to the nationwide radio audience.

Announcement of the selection of the two ace commentators was made today by the Buick division of General Motors, sponsors of this and the five previous major heavyweight fight broadcasts.

The fight will be broadcast over both the red and blue networks of the National Broadcasting Company through the facilities of the 157 stations.

Lewis Expects To Weigh 184

By HARRY SPORTS EDITOR
NEA Service Division
SUMMIT, N. J., Jan. 19.—John Henry Lewis expects to weigh 184 pounds when he sidles through the hemp to tackle Joe Louis over 15 rounds at the Garden, Jan. 25.

The Phoenix Negro is big enough if good enough.

Jack Dempsey scaled only 183 the day he mowed down the gigantic Jess Willard in Toledo.

The difference is that Lewis is not a black Dempsey while the 200-pound Louis is vastly more capable than Willard.

Lewis is the best Louis has tackled, however.

He at least has the chance that Louis is not the lad he was a year ago. John Henry hit big time in a hurry in California. He was only 18 when he outgalled James J. Braddock, and took a decision from the hard-to-handle Maxie Rosenbloom a year later.

Lewis will not be 25 until May 1.

Dumb Crappie Easy To Hook In Late January, February

By DAVE CHEAVENS
The crappie, leading chump among fresh water fishes, have moved in from the relative security of deep water in Texas lakes to the brushy fringes of creeks and bays for their annual spring spawning spree.

A fickle but stupid fish normally, crappie lose what little natural discretion they are endowed with during feverish days of egg-lying. All an angler needs to do is drop a baited hook in front of a crappie's nose, to find himself in possession of the finest panful of fish meat that fresh water offers.

There are hazards, of course, but the fact that millions of barn-door perch are caught every January and February in Texas is proof enough that it doesn't take a smart fisherman to catch his limit. Naturally, it is necessary first to find a likely spot for spawning, and next to find a school of perch. Having fulfilled those conditions, you may lose your fish in the brush or tear the hook from the tender filaments of its mouth. Nature goes that far in protecting white perch, but otherwise leaves with wide-open to destruction in a land where law lets the citizenry fly into the fish supply at its most vulnerable and productive season.

If you need further proof that crappie spawn in late January and February—the season closes March

He is only 12 days older than Louis. In addition to size and wallop, Louis has an advantage in that he has been submitted to much less wear and tear.

Never blessed by bucks office magic, Lewis had to fight often to make the beak busting business pay.

CHALLENGER DENIES HIS REPORTED EYE TROUBLE
But the Arizona high school product, his manager, Gus Greenlee, and his trainer, Larry Amadee, declare that he was as formidable as ever in making 174 pounds and taking 11 of 15 rounds from capable Al Galner in the last defense of the light-heavyweight championship in New Haven, Oct. 28.

They deny that any stray punch or series of them has had any ill effect on an eye, as reported.

They profess to believe that Lewis will outbox, outmaneuver, and out-think Louis.

Or, it has been suggested, the limit string should be five or seven during the early spawning season.

10,000 Planes Remain Long Range Target

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.-The first official outline of President Roosevelt's $552,000,000 national defense program gave Congress a broad new intimation today that 10,000 army planes remain a long range target.

Detailing Mr. Roosevelt's recommendations, Maj. Gen. Henry H. Arnold proposed to the House military committee a new 6,000-plane limit on the Army Air Corps, but it made it clear this referred only to fighting planes.

Rep. May (D-Ky.), the committee chairman, introduced such a bill yesterday.

On the basis Arnold outlined, almost as many training and other semi-military aircraft would be required in carrying forward into the second year of the program the initial increase of a "minimum" of 3,000 planes which Mr. Roosevelt recommended.

Arnold smiling, white-haired Air Corps chief, estimated yesterday the American aircraft industry could more than triple its present output to 12,000 planes in three years—a production figure which the administration has heard, Germany already has attained.

Only about $170,000,000 of the $552,000,000 Roosevelt asked for aircraft would be used for fighting planes, Arnold said. Nearly 1,600 of the 3,000 would be combat planes.

Other projected expenditures include: $62,000,000 for construction at existing air stations, and establishment of air bases in Alaska, Puerto Rico, New Hampshire and Florida; $33,000,000 to add to 2,200 officers and 25,000 enlisted men to the air corps present; 20,000 personnel; enlargement of technical schools at Rantoul, Ill., and Dayton, Ohio, $3,000,000 for additional research.

The increase in enlisted strength would include 1,200 flying cadets, General Malin Craig, chief of staff, was another witness before the committee yesterday. With Arnold's recommendation a legislative program including abandonment of the competitive bidding system for procuring planes during the "emergency" period.

German Cabinet Changes Denied

BERLIN, Jan. 19 (AP)-The press chief of the German government, Dr. Otto Dietrich, today took the unusual step of personally issuing to foreign correspondents a complete, emphatic and categorical denial that any cabinet changes were contemplated either now or at any time in the near future.

Rumors of impending changes had become so general in Germany and had been launched among foreign press representatives with such consistency by persons ordinarily in the know that a denial was deemed necessary and advisable in the interest of clarification as well as amicable international relations.

Rumors circulated yesterday in Berlin circles usually considered well informed that the following shifts in the Nazi leadership were likely: appointment of Field Marshal Hermann Goering as vice-chancellor and war minister; appointment of Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels to be chief of Nazi party district leaders and transfer of his propaganda and press functions to Dietrich himself; to the foreign office and to Goering's office; retirement of Interior Minister Wilhelm Frick and his replacement by Heinrich Himmler, chief of the government body ever had the question of reshuffling the cabinet.

He said the Reichstag would in all likelihood be called Jan. 30 to commemorate the sixth anniversary of Nazi assumption of power. But he added such a festive occasion was not one for making changes nor were changes contemplated at a later time.

Wallace Plans Economic Laws To Help Farmers

NO TIME TO MARRY

BY ELINORE COWAN STONE

COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday Janet is shocked to learn that her stock must pass up its dividends. How will she ever tell Lance? When she does, he counters by saying that there is something he hasn't told her yet.

CHAPTER XI

"I DIDN'T tell you before," Lance went on, "because I didn't see any reason for burdening you with business details. Of course you can't be expected to understand such matters. But I—well, you see, I bought the three lots on the hillside beyond ours as an investment. Sometime I'm going to sell them with Barstow-designed houses on them. I put all my savings into them, and I'm still paying. If it hadn't been for that, of course, this salary cut wouldn't matter so much."

So that was it! Even though Janet couldn't be expected to understand such matters, she had vaguely wondered why, after several years as Hollowell and Benton's most highly paid designer of private homes, Lance's salary cut had left him so completely without funds for financing their own home. . . . But just how had he expected to pay for all this in the beginning?

She almost asked him, but caught herself up in time to say very quietly, "Then, Lance, if my suggestion seems too impractical, perhaps you will tell me what you think we ought to do."

Lance rumped his blond hair in his boyish way she loved, and leaned his elbows on the table, his face slowly flushing.

"Well, I—this has all caught me so suddenly. . . I'll have to have time to see what I can arrange. . . It's damnable, Janet, that it had to happen now—after the invitations are all out and—everything."

Janet said steadily, hardly believing that it was her own voice creating the words. "I suppose the invitations could be recalled—and everything."

Lance was silent so long, his eyes lit on the fork, how motionless his hand, that she thought she had hurt him beyond speech. Then he said incredibly, still without lifting his eyes, "You mean you'd be willing to postpone the wedding for awhile?"

THERE was such inescapable relief in his tone that Janet had to clench her hands in her lap to steady her own voice before she answered, "Of course, Lance—if that's what you want."

"What I want? Janet, you know that isn't fair. If I let myself do what I want, we'd be married at once—tonight. What I'm asking myself is whether I have a right to let you in for marriage with things as they are. It's—surely you see what a risk we'd be taking. And the responsibility would be all mine."

"Oh, yes," Janet said gently. "I'm beginning to see."

"But, darling, you don't see. I can tell that from your face. Really, Janet, don't you think you're being rather unreasonable about this?"

"I have told you that I will have Aunt Mary recall the invitations," Janet said. She even managed to smile. "What else do you want me to do—throw up my hat about it?"

"Oh, let's get out of here," Lance cried, getting abruptly to his feet.

As they went out into the crisp September air, Janet could not believe that it had all actually happened. She wished Lance wouldn't go home with her. . . . But that was being unreasonable. After all, they hadn't actually quarreled. They had only postponed their wedding as, no doubt, two sensible people ought to do under the circumstances. . . . But argue with herself as she might, her sense of hurt and humiliation persisted.

On the way home they talked about everything but their own affairs—about the European situation, about Sylvia Grant's luncheon, and finally about Cynthia and Timothy Benton.

"A swell time for him to be rushing off on a honeymoon—with things the way they are at the office," Lance said. "At his age, too."

JANET asked, "How old is he really, Lance, and what is he like? I've never met him, you know."

"Well, he's a big bruiser, dark and well set up—so ugly he's almost handsome. About 43, I should say; but he seems to have creaked enough into 43 years to last some men 100—mining in Peru, drilling oil wells in Mexico, construction work in South Africa, and the war. Works like the devil. Swell company, except occasionally when he drinks too much—that is, he always seems sure of himself with men, and gets on with them. But I've seen him at a dinner party with nice women—you've heard what his first two wives were like—when I've been almost sorry for him. He seemed scared to death of them, and trying to cover up by wise-cracking. . . . Not at all the type I'd expect to appeal to Cynthia. What did—?" he broke off and lighted a cigarette with elaborate care—"just what did she say about him?"

"She said—" Janet smiled a little wanly—"that he had his points."

"At the door of the apartment, Janet said swiftly, "Don't come in, Lance—not tonight, please I want to talk to Aunt Mary alone."

She knew he would be relieved at not having to face Aunt Mary just now; and he obviously was. He took Janet swiftly into his arms, and said into her hair, "Tell her it's only for a short time, Jan. Maybe only a few months if I'm lucky."

"I'll tell her," Janet said, and went slowly into the apartment.

TELLING Aunt Mary was not so hard as she had imagined. The old lady had already learned from the evening papers the news about the dividend cut in the A and S stocks. When Janet told her that she and Lance had decided to postpone the wedding, she seemed in no way disturbed, and to Janet's bewilderment, not even surprised.

"Well," she said practically, "it's lucky I hadn't ordered the food. The flowers and everything else can be canceled with a word. And I haven't any doubt that young McKnight will be rushing around here as soon as he hears with a few well-chosen words to explain everything to the world."

But under her matter-of-fact briskness Janet felt pity, and for the first time in that ghastly day, her eyes filled with tears, so that she had to turn away to steady herself.

"Cynthia came in this morning after you left," the old lady went on. "Such a pother you never saw. She wanted some of her clothes to take with her—and of course she couldn't find anything. She only took a few. It seems that Mr. Benton is buying her a complete new outfit in New York."

"How did she seem, Aunt Mary?"

"I couldn't make her out. She made neither an entrance nor an exit—not even a single effective speech. . . . Oh, did I tell you he came with her?"

"Timothy Benton?"

"In person. . . . And what's more," Aunt Mary folded her hands and looked up at her niece defiantly, "I like him—and that in spite of having heard very little good of him. He strikes me as one of those persons whose faults are so peculiar and make such good gossip that you hear very little about their virtues. . . . By the way, Janet, I have a piece of news, myself."

Janet thought, if I have to listen to another bit of news of the kind I've been hearing all day, I shall burst into peals of maniacal laughter.

"She said—" Janet smiled a little wanly—"that he had his points."

Less Than 10 Per Cent Of N. Y. Fair Still Not Built

NEW YORK, Jan. 19—Less than 10 per cent of the New York World's Fair 1939 remains to be built, Grover A. Whalen, president of the Fair Corporation, reported today. With 107 days still to go before the opening on April 30, the $155,000,000 Exposition is still ahead of schedule, Mr. Whalen declared. "This harbinger of peace and progress in the World of Tomorrow," he said, "will open on the 150th anniversary of George Washington's inauguration on the balcony of Federal Hall at Broad and Wall Streets."

With work on the 1,216-1/2-acre Fair grounds 90 per cent completed, the Fair Corporation itself has virtually wound up its construction program and is now in the "clean up and polish" stage. Exhibit buildings have been embellished with murals, statuary and all the colors of the rainbow; starting lighting effects have been realized; 10,000 trees and 2,000,000 other plants are in the ground, and the famed Trylon and Perisphere have shed their scaffolding and are being prepared within for the dramatic theme exhibit of "Democracy."

On avenues radiating from this theme center some 1,400 leading industrial, commercial and professional organizations are setting up their exhibits—exhibits which in their entirety and aside from their educational aspects, promise to rival the Amusement Area as entertainment attractions. Novel exhibits in course of preparation include: a working model of a rocket gun, the largest model railroad ever built; puppet manufacture of automobiles; a block-long diorama of New York; a half-mile auto ride in a building; creation of artificial lightning; animated characters from "Alice in Wonderland"; a full-scale street intersection of the World of Tomorrow, and a perfume fountain.

Coyoacan Named Mexican Park

COYOACAN, Mexico, Jan. 19 (AP)—The little town of Coyoacan, the first Spanish settlement near the capital, has been named a public park. A series of fairs will be held in the palace to raise money for beautification and restoration of certain of the buildings and streets. Naming Coyoacan as a park is part of a new policy of the Mexican government, which will culminate in the setting aside of a number of typical and historical villages as public treasures, and in their beautification and care.

In Coyoacan the first Spanish council met in 1522. It was here that Cortez's Indian wife, the Mexican heroine Malinche, was discovered strangled to death, some say by Cortez himself, because she repented betraying her people into his hands. Cuzutemoc, last of the great Aztec princes, was tortured here in order to make him tell where the Aztec treasures were. Every stone in the streets could tell of history.

Lasting Peace Will Emerge Opines Dawes

CHICAGO, Jan. 19 (AP)—General Charles Gates Dawes, who shared the Nobel Peace Prize with Sir Austen Chamberlain in 1925, predicted today an enduring European peace would emerge from parleys now in progress among Great Britain, Germany, France and Italy.

He based his belief on experiences drawn from service as vice president of the United States, ambassador to the court of St. James, president of the American Commission on German reparations, and general purchasing agent of the A. E. F. during the World War.

In one of his rare public addresses, prepared for delivery before the Chicago Association of Commerce, General Dawes came to the defense of both the Munich pact and its father, Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain of Great Britain, whom he called "a great fearless leader."

"European people are now in the play of a tremendous force—the fear and hatred of war," he said. "In the grasp of this force are dictators and dictatorial governments as well as Democratic governments, and if the result of its operation is not eventually an enduring peace in Europe, then the world may despair of any civilization hereafter which will destroy itself by war."

This force of fear, he asserted, prevented the outbreak of war when Germany marched to the Rhine, prevented it when Germany absorbed Austria, and forestalled it again during the Czechoslovakian crisis.

"The implications of the existence of a deep seated and widespread horror and hatred of war on the part of European peoples do not seem to be fully sensed.

"The statesmen of Europe should and do realize that it is only to the great war that this general attitude of the peoples of Europe owes its existence, and that if Europe, without war and in peace, is ever to make the difficult territorial and racial readjustments necessary to insure continuing peace, she must do it now."

BAI Inspects 8,448 Cattle In December

There was employed in Amarillo district for the month of December one state man, and one B. A. I. man and four county men who spent their entire time in an effort to eradicate scabies infection, and a total of approximately $30 was expended by this department in its regular eradication program.

Forty herds, and a total of 8,448 cattle were inspected or dipped. No head was considered as exposed or infected.

The Livestock Sanitation Commission of Texas will continue the work in the Amarillo District in an effort to protect the livestock in that district from imported infection, affording the necessary scabies certificates demanded by other states on livestock moving from Texas.

The above work was conducted under the supervision of Dr. J. Guy Porter, Lubbock, supervisor of scabies eradication work, Amarillo, Texas.

Note—One B. A. I. paid inspector and four county paid inspectors were employed in the Amarillo district which are not included in the above expenditure. One state paid inspector receives part of salary from county.

Three Texas Appointed To Important House Committees

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19 (AP)—Of utmost importance to Texas today was the selection by House Democrats of three additional representatives of the Lone Star State for membership on major committees.

Those chosen were Representatives Charles South of Coleman, George H. Mahon of Colorado (Texas), and Paul Kilday of San Antonio. They will serve on the Interstate and Foreign Commerce, Appropriations and Military Affairs committees, respectively.

Named in a caucus of Democratic members, their final appointment depends on favorable vote of the entire House, which is taken for granted.

Last week Representative West of Brownsville was elected to the House Ways and Means committee, which made recommendations to the caucus of all other committee assignments. Texas members already had chairmanship of four important committees, and assignments on several others.

The selection of Representative Poage of Waco for the Flood Control committee was hailed by Texans. Although not an exclusive committee—one considered so important that members must serve on it exclusively—the flood control body considers legislation of vital interest to Texas.

Kilday Jubilant.

Kilday was chosen from among several candidates to fill the only Democratic vacancy on the military affairs committee. His district, comprising one of the strongest military centers in the United States, includes such army posts as Fort Sam Houston, Randolph, Kelly, and Brooks airfields.

Confined at his residence here with a slight attack of influenza, Kilday jubilantly received news of the caucus results.

"I am highly gratified to learn that I have been appointed," he said. "It is a recognition of the importance of San Antonio as a military center. I shall devote my entire energy to the discharge of the many duties of the committee."

"Under the rules of the House, all legislation is referred to this committee which relates to the military establishment, including the increase or reduction of commissioned officers and enlisted men and their pay and allowances, the militia, and the public defense."

Representative South declared that his new assignment would give him an opportunity to fight "discriminatory" freight rates now in effect in Texas and the Southwest.

Freight Cut Sought.

"I do not think there is any one question that the people of my district are more interested in than the question of freight rates," South said. "Every person, whether a producer, consumer or both, are vitally affected by freight rates."

"It is pretty generally conceded that rates in our state are out of proportion to rates prevailing throughout the country generally. This discrimination has become well entrenched, and we cannot hope to overcome it over night."

Relief Bloc In Congress Strengthening

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19 (AP)—A shift in senatorial opinion appeared today to be strengthening administration forces in their attempt to obtain $875,000,000 to operate WPA until July 1.

Senator Norris (Ind. Neb.) joined Senator Borah (R-Idaho) in urging that the appropriation be raised from the $725,000,000 approved by the House.

Senator Burke (D-Neb.) indicated he would support the higher figure recommended by President Roosevelt, and Senator Downey (D-Calif.) announced support of the larger sum.

But Senator McNary (R-Ore.), the Republican leader, predicted the House figure would be accepted despite efforts both to raise and lower it. Economy advocates still were calling for a further reduction.

Senator Adams (D-Colo.) in charge of the relief bill, conferred with Mr. Roosevelt for more than an hour late yesterday. Afterward, Adams said he did not have "the slightest idea" what the final Senate action would be.

Adams' subcommittee continued its work on the bill after hearing Senator Bone (D-Wash.) urge yesterday that the appropriation be raised. Bone's testimony followed that of labor and municipal spokesmen who contended the total asked by Mr. Roosevelt is essential to prevent suffering.

Senator Norris told reporters: "The people who are endeavoring to cut this appropriation are not familiar with the relief needs of the country. There was a thorough study of the situation before the President made his recommendation and it ought to be accepted."

Borah said he understood that the circumstances of many persons on relief were "fearfully bad."

"I do not know whether the money has gone into politics or to the officials who administer the fund," he said, "but I do know that the people who ought to have it are not getting it. I can't reach the conclusion that the place to cut government expenditures is with those who will actually suffer if they are deprived of what they are already getting."

Meanwhile, Senator Wagner (D-N.Y.) urged the re-establishment of the National Employment Stabilization Board to direct a long-time public works program supplementing emergency relief.

Nine-Point Defense Program Outlined

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19. (AP)—A nine-point defense program will be considered by Congress if it follows the suggestions of General Malin Craig, army chief of staff.

The measure Craig recommended to the Senate military committee yesterday would:

1. Increase the army plane limit to 6,000 fighting craft.
2. Increase the air corps personnel.
3. Increase the number of air reserve officers on active duty.
4. Train air corps personnel in civilian schools.
5. Train civilian instructors in army schools.
6. Provide more training planes for civilian schools.
7. Provide housing additions in the Canal Zone.
8. Broaden powers of the army procurement section.
9. Increase army "educational" orders with industry.

Rules On Reserves Loosened By Army

Requirements for enlistment in the Regular Army Reserve has been further liberalized by the war department to permit the enlistment of all previous soldiers, who have been honorably discharged after at least one year's service, provided they are not past 36 years of age. Married men may be accepted for this enlistment.

Enlistment in this reserve does not require the ex-soldier to take any drill or training. He reports his address at 4-month intervals and is subject to call only in case of a national emergency declared by the President.

Members of the Reserve are paid $24 per year.

They may be recruited at the Army Recruiting Station, Post Office building, Amarillo, with no expense or loss of time.
