HOLLYWOOD STARTS CIVIL WAR ALL OVER AGAIN—YOUNG LONDON MOTHER GETS ROLE OF SCARLETT

Vivien Leigh as Mrs. Leigh Holman with daughter Suzanne.

By PAUL HARRISON
NEA Service Staff Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 16.—From Atlanta, Georgia, to Darjeeling, India, is a long way—about 9,500 miles, in fact.

But not too far to go to find Scarlett O'Hara. As Producer David Selznick would agree, that's where Vivien Leigh was born, and all the lovely southern girls who have been cultivating their you-all brogue for two years can just relax.

For Vivien, daughter of a British stockholder in the Indian city, wife of a London lawyer, Leigh Holman, and mother of a 5-year-old daughter, has become Scarlett O'Hara for the screen version of "Gone With the Wind."

17 Inches around
Miss Leigh can't possibly carbon copy Miss Mitchell's Scarlett in one respect—Scarlett, the book insisted, was not beautiful. But in other respects, the violet eyes that will do so nicely for Scarlett's green one, the trim figure that will readily give the illusion of Scarlett's 17-inch waist, and the immediate British ancestry that may have some Irish and French in it a little further back—Miss Leigh qualifies eminently.

Though still comparatively unknown to American audiences, Miss Leigh burst on London four years ago.

Before she walked onto the stage of the Ambassador Theater in London that summer of 1935, she had been almost as unknown in England. But as the immortal little Phyllis of the 1700s who "stole the show" in "The Mask of Virtue."

Frankfurter and Murphy Approved

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 (AP)—The Senate Judiciary committee approved today appointment of Felix Frankfurter to the Supreme Court and Frank Murphy as attorney general.

This action is not President Roosevelt's appointments to the Senate floor for expected confirmation early this week.

The full Judiciary committee acted at closed sessions after subsequent hearings and unanimously approved both appointments.

Murphy, former governor of Michigan who was defeated in the November election, was named attorney general to succeed Homer Cummings, who resigned.

103 Die From Heat In Australian Wave
SYDNEY, Jan. 16 (AP)—Rain and a sudden drop in temperature today ended a disastrous week-long Australian heat wave and series of bush fires that caused 182 deaths and property damage running into thousands of dollars.

In New South Wales 103 died from the heat and seven were reported to death in bush fires. Five heat deaths and 66 fire victims were reported in Victoria. South Australia reported one heat victim.

Smallpox Feared After Man Passes Thru Texas Cities
DALLAS, Jan. 16 (AP)—Vaccination of children of pre-school age and revaccination of older persons were urged today by Dr. J. W. Bass, Dallas city health officer, because a smallpox patient had traveled thru a half dozen Texas cities.

Dr. Bass said he had communicated with all health officers in the towns visited by the Dallas patient and had advised the state department of health.

"We don't know how many persons have been exposed," said Dr. Bass.

The patient, a 23-year-old man, was the twelfth case of smallpox reported here.

He became ill at Galveston and traveled to Houston, Corpus Christi, San Antonio, Austin and Georgetown, part of the way on a bus and part of the way as a hitchhiker, before returning to Dallas.

Dr. Bass said the man was refused admission at two hospitals, en route to Dallas.

Pardon her English accent. This is London's Vivien Leigh, picked to portray Scarlett O'Hara.

Sidelights On Inauguration

DALLAS, Jan. 16 (AP)—The weather bureau gloomily predicted rain for Austin and vicinity tomorrow, inauguration day of Governor-Elect W. Lee O'Daniel.

The forecast for East Texas was cloudy and not so cold, rain on the lower coast and in southwest portion tonight, with occasional rains Tuesday. Probably rain was also forecast for the southeast portion of West Texas, with rain or snow in the north tonight and Tuesday.

Dr. Joseph L. Cline of the weather bureau said a developing low pressure area in Colorado was responsible.

FORT WORTH, Jan. 16 (AP)—Off to assume the highest office in the state, Governor-Elect W. Lee O'Daniel left his Warner Road home at 8:50 a. m. today for Austin.

O'Daniel was accompanied by Mrs. O'Daniel and their daughter, Molly. They had two sons, Pat and Mike, returned to Austin Sunday.

About 12 automobiles including a state highway patrol auto that led the procession, and the governor-elect's famous Hill Billy bus in which he campaigned last summer, were in the caravan.

Only one stop was planned. At Waco, where he opened his campaign last June 15, the party will circle the McLennan county courthouse. O'Daniel hoped to reach Austin at 3 p. m.

AUSTIN, Jan. 16 (AP)—The pageant depicting the history of Texas led the inauguration of W. Lee O'Daniel's inaugural—is the work of a Russian born citizen of Mexico who is seeking American naturalization.

Theodore Apstein, 20-year-old University of Texas student, says.

Wells To Speak Here Tomorrow

Members of both the junior and senior Chambers of Commerce, citizens of Pampa and newspapermen of the Panhandle will meet in the basement of the First Methodist Church at noon tomorrow to hear Deskin Wells, Wellington newspaperman, speak.

The young editor is an accomplished speaker. His newspaper has received national recognition and he has been named president of the Texas Press Association.

Advance reservations were reported at Chamber of Commerce headquarters this morning as being the heaviest in many months. Business men were being urged by President Reno Stinson of the Board of City Development to attend the luncheon and hear Wells discuss the relation of a chamber of commerce to its home town newspaper.

Entertainment will be numbers from the forthcoming "Jazzes" musical review, "The Singing Freshman," to be staged here December 24.

The program will be broadcast over radio station KPND.

Italy Must Get Out Of Spain, Says France

GENEVA, Jan. 16 (AP)—The fiery Spanish government foreign minister, Julio Alvarez del Vayo, seized upon the French-Italian quarrel over Africa today to warn France that an insurgent victory in Spain might cost Tunis.

The white-haired Spaniard came to Geneva for the League of Nations council session, and argued that if the insurgents won in Spain Mussolini's bottom price for a settlement with France would rise far higher and might go as high as a demand for Tunisia, the French African protectorate.

Mussolini, he warned the French delegation, likely would leave his troops in Spain under the pretense of keeping military order in conquered areas. Then, he predicted, Mussolini could wave a potent diplomatic-military club over France.

Newspaper Says Japs Will Smash U. S. Navy If Guam Is Fortified

TOKYO, Jan. 16 (AP)—The newspaper Kokumin declared editorially today that "the Japanese people are determined to smash the American fleet" if the United States intends "to get a political foothold in China" by fortifying the Guam and Wake Islands.

The article, which caused a sensation in Tokyo, demanded to know "the real intentions of the American people in the Western Pacific, not those of the President or the state department."

Washington reports last week listed among proposals for new naval bases the long desolate island of Guam, 1,500 miles from Japan, and said an air and submarine base would outflank any Japanese advance to the south or west but would call for a basic decision on national policy in view of the resentment likely to be aroused in Tokyo.

Plans have been drawn for improving the lagoon at Wake Island for surface craft of tonnage under cruisers.

The newspaper, which has considerable circulation in military circles, said that if the United States would only increase trade with China, then Japan would assist, but if America seeks to interfere with Japan's China policy, even resorting to arms, then Japan must be ready to smash the American fleet.

"This is the view not of the army and navy but of the determined Japanese people," Kokumin said, since it realized such fortification "would menace Japan's mandated islands and naturally the Japanese are gravely concerned."

The fortification of Guam and Wake would not be taken off conference "only if the American people objects to Japan's policies in China and intends to interfere with them."

The article asked: "Does America?"

Senate Praises RRC Payroll Cut

AUSTIN, Jan. 16 (AP)—The Railroad Commission's current campaign to cut its payroll 20 per cent gained the praise today of the Texas Senate.

The upper chamber adopted a commendatory resolution offered by Senator Morris Roberts, of Pettus, the recom-mitted chairman of its appropriations committee.

The commission Friday discharged 10 per cent of its employees and announced it hoped to bring the total to 20 per cent.

Both houses completed preparations for the inauguration tomorrow of Governor-Elect W. Lee O'Daniel. The House suspended its rules so that O'Daniel's first measure to the legislature Wednesday afternoon might be broadcast.

The lower chamber adopted a rule providing that final action not be taken on conference committee reports on appropriation bills until 48 hours after they had been printed.

Secret Defense Line Last Hope Of Government

BARCELONA, Jan. 16 (AP)—Fleets of insurgent planes smashed at a 15-mile circle around this besieged government capital today.

They dropped half-ton bombs and were reported to have strafed the refugee-packed road from Tarragona with machine-gun bullets. The number of dead was unestimated.

Six towns were bombed and machine-gunned in the path of the insurgent advance toward Barcelona. Twelve miles south of Barcelona a bomb hit a civil hospital and destroyed the operating room. Five attendants were hurt.

LERIDA, Spain, Jan. 16 (AP)—Spanish insurgent forces on the center of the Catalonia front reported today they had captured the town of Cervera, 47 airline miles west of Barcelona.

Cervera, a town of 4,000 normal population, is agriculturally rich and is an important junction of roads.

The capture was said to have advanced insurgent control of an important railway between Lerida and Barcelona.

Radio broadcasts of insurgent victories in the drive toward Barcelona—particularly the Sunday capture of Reus and Tarragona—caused a wave of rejoicing through Spain.

The general feeling that victory was near spurred men, women and children to manifestations such as Spain has seldom seen since the war started July 18, 1936.

Milwaukee Girl Slain With Axe

MILWAUKEE, Jan. 16 (AP)—Ruth Scott, 16-year-old high school student, was killed with an axe early today by an intruder who broke into her home and drove her after cutting her arms together and partially stripping her of clothing.

The girl's body arms bound above her head, was found in a bedroom after her widowed mother, Mrs. James Scott, 57, fought off an attempted attack by the man and escaped by fleeing to the upstairs section of their home.

Mrs. Scott received a severe gash on the head as she battled with the man in the dark after he invaded her bedroom.

Detective Lieut. James O'Gorman said the girl had not been criminally assaulted although her clothes had been torn.

Dr. Sawyer And Son Going To Inaugural

While in Austin they will be guests at the home of Otto Studer, chairman of the Texas Industrial Board, and a former Pampa.

Following their visit in Austin, Dr. Sawyer and his son will go to San Antonio to attend the annual Mid-Winter Dental Clinic Friday and Saturday. They will return to Pampa next Sunday.

No Reports On Fees Made Yet By Officials

With 15 days remaining before the deadline, county officers are apparently not in any hurry to submit their 1938 fee reports to the county auditor. Not a single annual report has been submitted to the County Clerk Charles Thout to date.

Last report submitted to the county commissioners was the quarterly report of D. R. Henry, former county treasurer, for the period ending December 31, 1938.

The report showed an increase in the county's net income of from $97,846.14 on September 30 to $164,176.17 on December 31, not including receipts of the special tax fund. Balance of the special tax fund remained unchanged at $326,188.

The special tax fund is made up of payments received on delinquent taxes over a 20-month period.

Of the 14 county funds, the balance on December 31 showed an increase in seven cases over the preceding balance on September 30, six showed a decrease, and one remained the same.

Increases were in these funds: Jury, from $5,198.92 to $5,910.80; general, from $18,961.78 to $20,954.88; road and bridge 2, from $4,233.60 to $5,593.15; bond interest and sinking, from $3,865.10 to $68,419.64; road and bridge 1, from $1,921.40 to $2,601.61; road and bridge 3, from $3,635.42 to $118.55; road and bridge 4, from $2,047.90 to $115.12; salary, from $3,820.13 to $5,863.37; courthouse and jail, from $11,148.61 to $6,302.08.

Decreases were shown in these funds: road and bridge 5, from $1,419.64 to $887.10; road and bridge 1, from $1,921.40 to $2,601.61; road and bridge 3, from $3,635.42 to $118.55; salary, from $3,820.13 to $5,863.37; courthouse and jail, from $11,148.61 to $6,302.08.

Business Man Not Tired—Just Bored

NEW YORK, Jan. 16 (AP)—When the tired business man comes drooping home with that "hard day at the office moan," he's not tired—he's just bored.

It is boredom, said Mrs. Marie Peyton Ray, New York author, who claims she has never been tired in her life, that causes 95 per cent of fatigue.

"I isn't an incapacity to work but a lack of desire to work," she said. "Less energy goes into writing a Shakespearean sonnet than into a single blow delivered by Joe Louis. That's how much it takes out of you to do today's hard work at the office. So don't count on brain lag by those methods."

Layoffs Denied By Wage Administrator

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 (AP)—Elmer P. Andrews, wage-hour administrator, reported to Congress today that surveys had failed to produce evidence of widespread layoffs resulting from the new labor standards act.

Andrews declared the law had won public approval. He estimated that the 25-cent hourly minimum wage affected about 300,000 workers and that 1,384,000 persons received shorter hours or overtime pay as a result of the maximum work week of 44 hours.

Expansion Of Social Security Act Recommended By President

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 (AP)—President Roosevelt recommended to Congress today wide expansion of the social security act and warned against "untried and demonstrably unsound panaceas."

The expansion program he called for included beginning old age insurance benefits sooner and liberalizing them in the early years, affording greater protection to dependent children, extending unemployment and old age protection as rapidly as possible to "all of our people" and increasing in some instances federal grants-in-aid to states.

He also proposed that states receiving federal aid be required to institute merit systems for the personnel of agencies handling social security funds.

"I cannot too strongly urge the wisdom of building upon the principles contained in the present social security act in affording greater protection to our people," the President said, "rather than turning to untried and demonstrably unsound panaceas."

His message made no direct reference, however, to old age pension proposals.

The President emphasized the desirability of affording greater old age security. He described as sound a "two-fold approach" recommended by the social security board on this point.

"One way," he said, "is to begin the payment of monthly old age insurance benefits sooner, and to liberalize the benefits to be paid in early years."

"The other way is to make proportionately larger federal grants in aid to those states with limited fiscal capacities, so that they may provide more adequate assistance to those in need. This result can and should be accomplished in such a way as to involve little, if any, additional cost to the federal government. Such a method embodies a principle that may well be

4,000 Gathered At Waco Courthouse To See W. Lee

WACO, Jan. 16 (AP)—Four thousand persons massed on the McLennan county courthouse square greeted Governor-Elect W. Lee O'Daniel today as he rode toward Austin and tomorrow's inaugural ceremonies.

His motor caravan of a score of cars was greatly augmented by those of official greeters on the outskirts of Waco, and a parade four blocks long accompanied him as he circled the block where months ago as a political unknown he amazed observers by drawing a huge crowd in his opening campaign rally.

O'Daniel's party arrived at 11 a. m. and immediately after the parade it was escorted to the hotel (Roosevelt) where the Chamber of Commerce had arranged a luncheon at which former Governor Pat M. Neff was also to be an honor guest. O'Daniel made no address to the courthouse crowd.

Earlier, he stopped briefly at Hillsboro to shake hands with friends in a crowd of 150 that was waiting for him on that town's public square.

AUSTIN, Jan. 16 (AP)—A triumphal march into the hearts and minds of Texans moved today toward its finale as W. Lee O'Daniel, radio entertainer and flour salesman extraordinaire left his home and sped toward the state capital where tomorrow he will be inaugurated governor.

300 Killed As Japs Bomb China Capital

SHANGHAI, Jan. 16 (AP)—Chinese newspaper reports today estimated that 300 were killed and many more wounded in Japanese air attacks yesterday on Chungking, the provisional capital.

Numerous raids also were made on other inland cities. Six Japanese planes bombed Wanhsien, Szechwan province, killing 50 persons and wounding 80.

Severe fighting, meanwhile, was raging throughout southwest Shanai province, with the Chinese reporting their recapture of Lishui and surrounding villages.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 16 (AP)—Fire Captain Francis Holton and his men were awakened Saturday from a store building, had to walk up to the eighth floor because the elevators were not running.

Puffing and weary from carrying hand chemical extinguishers, the firemen arrived at the scene—only to find the store's sprinkling system already had put out the flames.

I Saw ---

A gas-powered model airplane built by Joe Neill stayed in the air about 20 minutes yesterday afternoon. Joe started the plane near the cemetery and it kept soaring in circles (the plane is geared to go in circles) and it rose to an estimated height of between 700 and 1,000 feet, and finally landed at the airport.

It was one of the longest flights ever made here by a model. Joe did not copy the plane from any model or plans, but it is his own creation. Other boys who make models from their own plans and were present were Pascal Massey, James Lybrand, Marcus Bratton, Vernon Casey, and Clifford Jones.

"A Gypsy Told Me"

Jan Stojka, a gypsy, bought his wife from her father for $3.50, gold cash. Immediately after the wedding ceremony she is said to have run away from her new husband. Jan promptly enlisted the aid of his brother and another man, found his bride, ducked her in a pond, bound her and carried her off in a cart.

Of course, the story should have ended there, and the couple lived blissfully ever after. But the bride escaped again and reported the incident to the police. Now Jan and his helpers are cooling their heels in the "cooler."

This unfortunate bride groom feels the $3.50 he spent was a very bad investment. You'll find it always profitable to use News.

Democracy, Like Charity, Should Begin At Home

Every day this conviction is gaining strength in America: the way to fight dictatorship is to make democracy work.

Not by making faces at Hitler, not by berating Mussolini, not by deploring Japan will this victory be won. The real battle is at home, the fight to get the cockroaches out from under democracy's sink and make the house so spick-and-span that nobody will want to hire a Fascist housekeeper. Democracy will triumph in the long run only because it is demonstrably better.

Like the weather, democracy is a thing people talk about a great deal, but few people do anything about. Totalitarian countries are deluged constantly with propaganda persuading the people that they are lucky to be so well off.

That is not wanted here. But nevertheless it will do no harm for all of us to brush up on our democracy a little bit, and remind ourselves just what it is all about. It too often happens that a newly-naturalized citizen, fresh from a little cramming for his citizenship examination, knows more about what democracy means and how it works than native-born citizens. School "civics" classes, for a country which depends on general knowledge of the technique of democratic government, have sometimes been rather perfunctory.

Without danger of being too much propagandized, we can stand a good deal of reviewing on fundamentals of popular government ourselves. That is why the new plan of the New York City Board of Education sounds worthy of study. The board is promoting both school assemblies and instruction in racial and religious tolerance and understanding. New York is not assuming that its young citizens, exposed to plenty of foreign propaganda for racial discrimination and intolerance, will somehow draw from the air the essence of American principles of freedom and decency. It is going about a program of specific instruction in those principles.

The Office of Education in Washington, too, is launching on a project for a series of nation-wide broadcasts to be called "Americans All—Immigrants All." The programs will tell how America, by making use of the talents and abilities of citizens of many races, creeds, and lands, is forming a rich and distinctive culture of its own. These programs will be recorded and made available to schools through the Office of Education.

Thus America strikes for freedom and democracy with the best weapon of all—the determination to make life under democratic forms so superior to any other that no spurious claims of other forms can ever undermine it.

BUDGETS AND LIBERTIES (Chicago Tribune)

Mr. Roosevelt's denunciation of the dictators was balanced by the high compliment he paid them in his message. They have succeeded where we have failed, he confessed. "However, we abhor their methods," he said, "we are compelled to admit that they have obtained substantial utilization of all their material and human resources. Like it or not, they have solved, for a time at least, the problem of idle men and idle capital."

Mr. Roosevelt went on to say that if our government will only spend enough money and run up a big enough deficit we can achieve the same result here "within the bill of rights and within the bounds of what is, from our point of view, civilization itself."

This generation is not likely to find a better example of wishful thinking. He wants to spend money in fantastic amounts and he concludes that such expenditures must create the prosperity he desires. The fact is that 20 billion dollars of deficits have left the country with its 10 million unemployed and there is no particular reason to expect that adding another 20 billion to the national debt will have a more favorable result.

Worse still, Mr. Roosevelt wishes and therefore believes that his policy of extravagance does not menace the liberties guaranteed in the constitution to the American people. If fact the risk is enormous, as a moment's unbridled reflection would have taught him. The brutalities of the totalitarian governments may be explained only in part as the product of the brutal impulses of the dictators. The denial of all human liberties in those countries has been forced upon the dictators precisely by the fiscal policies which they have pursued and which Mr. Roosevelt admires. No matter how well disposed the dictators might have been, they would have been obliged by circumstances which they had created to do the things which all decent reflections would have taught them to avoid.

Because of unsound fiscal policies Mussolini, Stalin, and Hitler have had to control every individual and every aspect of the economic life of their countries. To avert the chaos of inflation the dictators have been forced to fix wages and the prices of the things people buy. They have been obliged to ration raw materials, restrict imports, and regulate exports. They have kept the wage level down by forbidding men on pain of starvation from accepting better jobs. The dictators are not looking for trouble. They adopted these unpopular policies reluctantly, out of the necessity created by excessive government expenditures.

Not one of these policies could have been made operative without the use of force and without the denial of the liberties which the German and Italian constitutions formerly guaranteed their people. To keep wages down it was necessary to destroy trade unions and the right of workmen to meet and press their demands upon employers and the government. To keep prices down it was necessary to adopt similar measures against all business men. Inevitably the free press was destroyed, because it would have encouraged opposition, and equally inevitably the courts were perverted, into instruments of the government.

Sharing the Comforts Of Life ---

By R. C. Hoiles

"YOUR BROTHER'S KEEPER" A reader of this column from Alliance, Ohio, contends that I have not thoroughly studied the Townsend Plan, that it would not take from one group and give to another group.

The Townsend advocates seem to overlook the fact that any man who has the money given to him by the Government, with which to pay his taxes to the Government, no more pays taxes than a school boy who produces nothing for his father buys a suit of clothes when his father gives him the money with which to buy the suit of clothes.

Under the Townsend Plan the Government would be taking from the producing group and giving to the non-producing Townsend group.

Because some business man or worker would be willing to pay five per cent on every additional dollar of sales, if he could, make an additional sale or get a steady job, there is no logical reason to conclude that a man who is giving more for the money than anyone else would be willing to give five per cent, or even two per cent on all his business. And any additional tax on the millions of workers who are now not able to have a decent living and the hundreds of thousands of business men who are now losing money, or making practically nothing, would certainly cause them to become discouraged and give up quicker and ask the government to take care of them.

I think the reader is misinformed when he says the Bible says, "You are your brother's keeper." I believe Cain asked the question of Jehovah, but it was never answered. The misinterpretation of being your brother's keeper probably has caused as much misery, and suffering as any other belief I know of. If it be true that I am my brother's keeper, then I have a right to put him in jail at my pleasure, or to force him to read or not to read what I want him to. In short, I have a right to make him do my will.

The reader contends, as usual, that the so-called "forced circulation" will increase business. The forced circulation of money has no more to do with creating wealth than marking a lot of figures down on a bank book. It is creating and distributing wealth or a desire to get rid of bad money that causes money to circulate. Money circulated very rapidly in Germany in inflation periods, but it did not create wealth; it created poverty.

Wealth is only produced in one way, and that is by some intelligent, human labor changing the forms of natural resources into things that are desired by man. I wish there were some way of producing wealth more easily than through human labor but from the beginning of time, no one has ever succeeded and it seems rather absurd to believe that some old decrepit doctor who never employed labor or added to the wealth of the world above what he consumed, has suddenly found a magical way of doing it now.

"WHAT IS A FAIR PROFIT?" In our announcement that we would give two sets of prizes of $50 each for the best article of 500 words or less, on "What Is a Fair Profit?" we failed to ask contributors to specify whether they are 21 years or under, or 22 years or over. This is necessary so that we may divide the prizes in the two different age groups. If the ages are not designated, the judges might select two from the same group for first prizes. Those who are over 21, of course, need not give their age but simply state that they are over 21.

Remember, the contest ends January 24. While the winning of money would be very satisfactory to most people, the great benefit to the individual would be the feeling that he had helped others to think clearly on important social problems. Such thinking is necessary if we are to retain our liberty and return to prosperous times.

For full particulars of the contest see The Pampa News of Wednesday, Jan. 11.

Behind The News Of The Day

By JOHN T. FLYNN

The controversy which is arising about the proposed new-style, slick method of keeping the nation's books may turn out to be one of those things which will help to clear up some foggy ideas about national finance which have been persisting for six years.

For one thing it will help to clarify the position of those who from the beginning have advocated spending and at the same time a balanced budget. I recall that at the beginning of the last Congress, when in this column I urged a balanced budget but at the same time warned that any serious reduction in government spending would produce a depression, many people very critically asked me to make up my mind where I stood. "You want the budget balanced but you want the government to spend and you don't even object to borrowing—what are you talking about?"

It is an amazing thing how long it takes to get a simple problem of public finance understood.

HOW TO BALANCE THE BUDGET

The key to all this lies in the difference between government investment and government spending. And the key to the present confusion about the federal budget lies in the failure to correctly distinguish between these two things.

The government can balance its budget now by adopting the rule of paying for relief and recovery efforts which produce no off-setting revenues out of tax revenues. Then it may engage in whatever adventures it chooses in the field of investment and raise the money for that purpose by means of bonds. If the government spends a billion dollars for housing, raises the billions by issuing bonds, and then rents the houses for a sum sufficient to pay the interest and amortize the principal, there is no need to include those expenditures in the budget. If the government finds it necessary to subsidize such a housing development, the subsidy should be counted as an expenditure.

"INVESTMENT COVERS MANY SINS"

It is this perfectly sound principle which is now being misused. The plan now is to use the word "investment" to cover a multitude of expenditures which are not investment. Money spent on soil conservation, on WPA, on grants to states, on bridge and highway building which are outright expenditures and will never come back to the federal government, are not investments no matter how desirable the expenditures may be.

But the discussion serves to outline, not merely

Around Hollywood

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—It's all clear now. Just what the public wants. Anybody can make money-making movies.

It's that annual Motion Picture Herald poll of money-making stars that tells how. The most inapt conclusion-drawer in town should be able to draw a few pointed ones from the results.

Look at the kind of pictures the "first ten" played in to win their top spots, and make that kind of picture, to-wit:

Jane Withers—See Temple above, ad nauseam.

Alice Faye—Young love, and music.

Tyrone Power—Young love—and young love.

Simple, isn't it? And do you note what's missing? Our old friend Sex! Not that it hurts, in fact it's practically essential, but it has to be polite! It's called Young Love.

I met old Apple Annie again the other day. They were calling her Druggstore Maggie, and she was in a picture called "Broadway Cavalier" but I knew May Robson just the same.

And I thought of doing a piece on how certain players keep on getting the same role in which they're first clicked. But I happened to be talking to Pat O'Brien, who wasn't in the scene, and somebody mentioned that Pat had been doing all right by "The Front Page" ever since. And we thought of a few more like Cagney, and Wally Beery, and why go on?

Miss Juanita Field, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Field of Philadelphia, came to Hollywood because she wanted to escape the social routine. She wanted to do things and she wanted especially to get away from it all, meaning the dances and dancing that went on back home.

Gene Reynolds ("Boys Town," of "Human Hearts," etc.) plays Douglas Corrigan as a 9-year-old, this being the only age in "The Flying Fishman" in which Wrong Way does not portray himself.

To overcome Corrigan's objection that Gene is too handsome to be a Corrigan at any age, R-K-O gave the lad a cheap haircut, bleached his hair and trimmed his long eyelashes—but only after obtaining special permission from M-G-M. Gene's parents and other copyright owners, plus a solemn promise to restore Gene to good-as-new condition.

A house being interesting because of the people in it and because of the things in the house that reflect their owners' personalities, it is an experience to visit in the home of Morris Levine or Mary Ellen, and one of the intriguing personalities in that home is Mrs. Frank Clark, mother of Mrs. Levine. Mrs. Clark and her daughter have a lot of heirlooms. There is a tall grandfather's clock over 200 years old, and a chair of the same age.

But most rare of all is a set of Wedgwood dishes that Mrs. Clark's ancestors brought from England—if you don't know it, Wedgwood is the last word in dishes.

Mrs. Clark who lives in Wisconsin before she came to Texas is a Republican and she never voted the Democratic ticket. So she is fervently opposed to Roosevelt—and she can tell you why. She also tells a good joke on Texas. A mid-west family was preparing to move to Texas. The small daughter heard her father and mother talking about the "God-forsaken" plains, and that night when the little girl said her prayers she said, "Goodbye, God, we're moving to Texas!"

This one whose family came to Texas 103 years ago would feel like that if he moved to some other country.

Hopkins Denies Children On WPA

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 (AP)—Harry L. Hopkins, his eyes flashing with indignation, today that school children had been on WPA rolls.

Senator Johnson (R-Calif.) questioned the former WPA chief about reports that school children in Pennsylvania had been put on WPA rolls prior to election time.

Although that story has been printed in every newspaper in the country, it is not true, Hopkins said as he testified before the Senate Commerce committee considering his nomination to be secretary of commerce.

Johnson noted that the special Senate campaign investigating committee had found that a 16-year old high school boy was placed on Pennsylvania relief rolls.

That policy keeping policy but a wise financial policy. That policy may be stated thus: That the government will engage in useful low-cost housing construction throughout the United States to be financed by government bond issues, the housing production to be operated on a basis to yield interest and amortization charges; that the government will at first subsidize housing developments in part but such subsidies to come out of tax moneys; and that all government expenditures not susceptible of recapture shall be paid out of tax moneys.

How's Your Health?

EARLY DIAGNOSIS IN CANCER When treated in time and when treated adequately cancer often proves to be one of the most curable of diseases.

Unfortunately, however, cancer is likely to begin in relatively inaccessible parts of the body, and to progress in its development and spread without arousing suspicions as to its existence.

The ultimate conquest of cancer depends no doubt upon the discovery of its cause or causes. Such a discovery is likely to make possible the prevention of the disease. It is not impossible that an effective form of treatment may be developed which will apply to those cases which we cannot at the present time save through surgery, radium, or X-ray.

In the meantime, however, we are making progress in the early recognition of cancerous conditions. This makes possible the early treatment of an ever larger number of cancer patients and helps to reduce cancer mortality.

In recent decades enormous progress has been made in the recognition of cancerous lesions involving the skin, breast, tongue, throat and the female generative organs.

In this direction a valuable procedure (known as the Schiller test) has been recently developed for the detection of early cancer of the cervix (the lower portion of the uterus).

The test consists in the application of a stain known as Gram's solution to the cervix. The stain solution to the cervix. The stain contact with the cervix for at least five minutes. The cervix is then carefully inspected.

It is possible to differentiate between the normal and cancer cells by the color contrast developed. The normal tissue stains a deep brown color while the cancer cells stain a lighter color, and hence appear like white spots. The test is simple, and without danger.

The incidence of cancer of the cervix is second only to cancer of the breast. When diagnosed early it can be treated effectively with good expectation of a cure.

By this test, which authorities urge should be applied at least once yearly on women in middle age, it should be possible to increase the number of early diagnoses of cancer of the cervix and thereby to increase the number of permanent cures.

Free Street Car Rides Given Boys Schools Assert

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 16 (AP)—The San Francisco Academic Athletic Association called a meeting today to investigate reports some athletes had been lured into certain high schools on promises of free street car rides and ice cream cones.

Arthur Fagin, president of the association, said charges of proselytizing which allegedly have four high schools threatening to break off athletic relations with a fifth poses a particularly troublesome problem for the body in that it has no regulations governing the subject.

"We never thought of proselytizing entering high school athletics," Fagin said. "We had always considered that a problem peculiar to colleges."

However, Fagin said, the association at today's meeting would start an investigation behind closed doors and "later, perhaps, we'll have something to report."

McNutt-For-President Drive Opens In Indiana INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 16 (AP)—An organized campaign for the 1940 Democratic presidential campaign, apparently the first, started here today in behalf of Paul V. McNutt, United States high commissioner to the Philippines and former Indiana governor.

McNutt's supporters opened headquarters in a two-room hotel next door to the Democratic state committee and laid plans for statewide organization of McNutt-For-President clubs, later to reach out into other sections of the country.

Only the unusually tall girl can completely understand the heartaches which frequently come to one of her stature. . . . It isn't any fun finding a boy friend when the average fellow has to practically climb a step-ladder to get his arm around your neck. Many tall girls wear extremely low-heeled shoes and flat hats to lessen the effect—and come through nicely. Many others are hand-capped.

So here's a salute to the California Tip Toppers, an organization designed to acquaint girls over six feet in height with men who are at least as tall. Founded a few months ago, the club has received inquiries from all sections of the United States, and now has 40 members. . . . The guys and gals take hikes, have picnics, and go to night clubs together. . . . Yes, the Tip Toppers are tip top.

Jittery citizens of the Panhandle must expect another scare session in July. . . . On the 27th of that month Mars is scheduled to approach the earth to furnish the astronomical attraction of the year. Don't start selling your household belongings, however, for the planet will still be at a distance of 36,000,000 miles.

The mere fact that science can now accurately forecast such phenomena and describe their effects should put to rest all fears over Martian invasion or any other such nonsense. If a planet, militarized with monsters, ever hurtles into the earth, astronomers will certainly know about it beforehand and issue a warning. . . . Still some July guy will probably theorize that a Martian chieftain heard last year's broadcast and is sending his nation down to fulfill the prophecy.

There is NO enmity between two men who were on opposite sides in the bitter controversy over repealing the law which permitted pari-mutuel betting on horse racing.

In a recent talk at a luncheon, Gov. James V. Allred, mainstay in the successful fight to outlaw horse race gambling in Texas, spoke warmly of Senator Houghton Brownlee of Austin, one of the foremost advocates of legalized betting.

"Although we differed in the race-track question," the governor said, "I want to express publicly my appreciation to Houghton Brownlee for his fine services."

Brownlee was present when Allred spoke.

One of the most vitriolic exchanges Gov. Allred had with anyone in his administration was with former Senator T. J. Holbrook of Galveston during a special session of the legislature in 1937. Yet Allred afterward expressed the highest regard for Holbrook and emphasized their differences were strictly impersonal.

The chief difference between Allred and Holbrook was that the former wanted the legislature to levy additional taxes to improve the condition of the state's finances and Holbrook contended economy, not new taxes, were needed.

Gov. Allred always has spoken in terms of praise for former Senator Frank Rawlings of Fort Worth, who championed the opposition to repeal the race betting law.

The name "railroad commission," says Ernest O. Thompson, member of that department of the state government, is a misnomer.

Originally created to regulate the railroads and especially railroads in Texas, the commission, of which John H. Reagan was the first chairman, has had its duties enlarged until its regulation of railroads is one of its less important tasks.

In an address on the occasion of the automatic passing of the commission chairmanship from Thompson to Lon A. Smith, Thompson said that court decisions had taken away "from the sovereign states" almost all of their former state-making and other powers over railroads.

"The present plight of the railroads shows what federal control will do to our industry," he said. "The railroads are busted. Most of them are in receivership or bankruptcy."

Thompson pointed out the commission is charged with the administration of law touching five different branches of activities, as follows:

1. The administration of the law with respect to regulation of railroad, express, dock, wharf and terminal companies, also interurban railways carrying freight.

Its duties in this respect are specific in many instances, and in addition thereto there is a general provision of the statutes placing upon it the responsibility of enforcing all laws pertaining to the operation of railroad and express companies.

2. The administration of the gas utility law, which gives jurisdiction over producing, purchasing and transporting natural gas, and also appellate jurisdiction over the price at which natural gas may be sold by distributing companies to the public.

3. The administration of the law regulating in many instances, and motor truck transportation over the highways for compensation and hire in Texas.

The Capital Jigsaw

By HOWARD C. MARSHALL

AUSTIN, Jan. 16 (AP)—The "snow-birds" are making their annual migration to Texas and as usual are creating a problem for officials of Texas cities.

They are vagrants who normally spend the warm months in the cities of the north and move south when winter sets in.

As it always does, the state capital has received its full share of crippled beggars, panhandlers, moochers, hoboes, and so on, and the police have been forced to take a hand.

First a warning was issued that vagrants must be on their way and the next day arrests were started. Twenty-four hours in jail on a diet of bread and water and a specific order to leave town were meted out to undesirables in efforts to clear the city.

In general, other Texas cities cope with the problem in the same way. The idea is to keep the transient gentry moving.

The prosecuting attorney in the famous trial of Howard Piersen has been named an assistant to Attorney General Gerald Mann. He is James P. Hart, former district attorney of Travis county.

Charged with murder in connection with the fatal shooting of his parents, Supreme Court Justice and Mrs. William Pierson, young Pierson was found insane and imprisoned in a state hospital at Austin. Six months ago he escaped and since has been at liberty.

Hart vigorously opposed the defense of insanity, asserting the youth, while abnormal, was not insane within the legal meaning of the term and knew right from wrong.

Hill Billies, M'Ewin To Draw Crowds

Basketball and wrestling will hold the limelight in Pampa tonight when the Pampa Harvesters and the Hill Billies, sensational girls' basketball team, play in the high school gymnasium and Promoter Cliff E. Chambers presents his second light heavyweight elimination wrestling contest at the Pampa athletic arena, beginning at 8 o'clock.

The basketball warm-up, a hilarious comedy staged by the Hill Billies, assisted by Joe Satovich, will begin before 8 o'clock. Fans are advised to be on hand by 7:30 o'clock in order to get a seat. The game will end in time for wrestling fans to get to the wrestling arena to see the main event battle between the vicious Tiger Billy McEwin and the "dirtiest wrestler since Buck Lipscomb," Joe Banaski, and maybe the semi-final.

The wrestling card will open with Steve Netry, a hit grappler, from Florida who made a new last week, battling Able Freeman, popular Bronx grappler, in a 20-minute preliminary.

A semi-final that is doped to be one of the outstanding wrestling matches of the season will pit Frankie Hill of Wichita, Kas., against Russ Riley of Muleshoe in the 30-minute semi-final.

Then will come the blood and thum'ner main event. McEwin has already announced that he is going to send Banaski back to punching in Oklahoma. The card didn't make Banaski happy and for the first time he replied to McEwin's taunts, remarking "if the referee will play square I'll make that McEwin wish he was back in Montana with his sheep."

All of which makes tonight's wrestling card one of the outstanding of the season. And the admission will remain the same as usual.

The Hill Billies basketball team will be here for only one game. The girls will warm up in their native costumes but will play in white silk playing uniforms when the time for battle begins. The girls play boys' rules and have defeated some of the best high school and amateur teams in the nation.

Their ball playing is almost as spectacular as their before game stunts which have shut fans rolling in the aisles. Joe Satovich is the clown who does everything with a basketball but swallow it.

Who's The Best, Budge Or Vines?

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 16 (AP)—No man is a hero to his valet, and to their playing partners Don Budge and Ellsworth Vines are just a couple of nice guys with faults in their tennis just like other people.

Ever since Budge and Vines started their exhibition tour in New York two weeks ago, Dick Skeen, Hollywood pro, and Bruce Barnes, jovial Texan, have been watching them.

"Which is the better player?" Skeen and Barnes were asked "and the reason there is no way of telling which is the better player right now."

"It's pretty hard to say," Skeen replied, explaining: "Don has a fundamentally sound game. Any boy wanting to learn the game right should copy it. He does everything mechanically perfect, and he makes few tactical errors."

"Then why doesn't he always win?"

"They piled over each other to answer, but Barnes came out on top. Vines has tremendous speed. Don always plays a steady game, about the same on night as another."

"Vines is up and down. Often he plays far below standard. At other times he rises above himself. That's the reason there is no way of telling which is the better player right now."

Borger Quintet Beats Plainview

BORGER, Jan. 16—The Borger high school basketball teams won two games here Friday night. The Redbirds defeated the Darrouzett girls, 41-11, in the opener. Catfish Smith's Bulldogs won their opening conference game at home, 22-16, over the Plainview Bulldogs.

Borger Captain Roswell Raber, center, paced the scoring with 10 points in the Bulldog tussle, and Windy Davis, forward, scored seven. For the Plainview five, Miller sank three field goals for six, and Esslinger scored five. The Borger quintet showed marked improvement and had the edge over the visitors on defense and offensive team play. The game was tied 11 all during a good part of the third period. From then on Borger pulled out in front.

In the girls' game, Norma Simpson, Redbird forward, starred scoring 16 points. The Borger defense was so tight the Darrouzett girls never threatened. Koch, forward for the visitors, scored six to pace her teammates.

McLean May Get Baseball Club

MCLEAN, Jan. 16—If plans of a veteran baseball player and several fans materialize, McLean will have a baseball club this year.

R. A. Mantooth, old-time catcher and popular with the young players, has been organizing a baseball club for McLean. Players are to be from the younger sport lovers and athletes.

Cap Humphries, manager of the Smith Brothers Refinery, has turned over that company's equipment for the project. Support will be asked from business men of McLean and a good club seems in promise.

"Twenty boys have already signified their desire to belong to such a club," said Mr. Mantooth.

It is understood Clarendon, Pampa, Shamrock, and several other Top O' Texas towns will have similar organizations, so competition will be keen.

Metz And Harrison In $5,000 Playoff

OAKLAND, Calif., Jan. 16 (AP)—Dick Metz of Chicago and tall, raw boned E. J. "Dutch" Harrison of Oak Park, Ill., tee off today for a playoff for first money and the championship of the annual $5,000 Oakland open golf tournament.

At the finish of the 72-hole event yesterday, their four-round totals were identical—274. They play eighteen holes today for a medal score basis for first and second money of $12,000 and $750 respectively. In addition they divide half of the gate receipts of the Post tournament.

Harrison, a native of Little Rock, Ark., stroked through the tournament with scores of 72-69-64-69.

Metz, up from the caddy ranks a dozen years ago in Arkansas City, Kansas, was dogged by hard luck, nothing unusual in his pro career. On the 18th green yesterday he missed an eight-foot putt for what would have given him undisputed leadership. He had rounds of 69-70-65-70.

Alanreed Splits With Samnorwood

ALANREED, Jan. 16—Alanreed high school basketball teams won one game and lost one game to the Samnorwood high school teams on Thursday night in the Samnorwood gymnasium. The game between the girls ended in a score of 16-12 in favor of the Alanreed team. The boys' game, however, was a different story, with the final score being 42-14 in favor of Samnorwood.

The Independents of Alanreed also played the Ashtola Independents in the Clarendon gymnasium. At the end of the game this score was tied, 39-39, and an extra five-minute period was played to decide the game. The local boys came out ahead by a score of 44-39.

SERIAL STORY

NO TIME TO MARRY

BY ELINORE COWAN STONE

COPYRIGHT, 1938, NEA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday slipping back into the apartment early in the morning, Cynthia tells Janet that she is married. She draws Janet to a room where she is the man.

CHAPTER VIII

JANET said, after a moment of bewilderment, "Why, Barney, of course. I supposed naturally it was Barney you meant."

"Oh, did you, indeed?" Cynthia demanded drowsily. "Janet, was there any more reason why I should marry Barney tonight than there was yesterday—or a week ago—or a month?"

"Why—I don't know. . . Then, in Heaven's name, Cyn, who is it?"

"Why, Timothy Benton, of course. I thought you knew I was going out to dinner with him tonight."

"Timothy Benton!" Janet echoed slowly after what seemed to her so long and empty a silence that her own voice startled her. "But, Cyn, you couldn't. . . You couldn't! Why, you hardly know him! You can't possibly be in love with him!"

"In love with him?" Cynthia's voice was harsh. "Who said I was in love with him? I said I had married him. . . People can't always have everything, you know, Jan—like you. Well, I decided—some time ago—that if I couldn't have what I wanted most—I wasn't going to be fool enough to let that keep me from taking the next best thing that offered. . . You see, Tim has his points warm. And at least I shan't have to charge my frocks to your account any more, Jan."

Janet made a helpless inarticulate sound in her throat before she could speak again.

"But, Cynthia," she said, "why do you say you couldn't have what you wanted most? You could have had Barney. He—"

"Barney!" Cynthia stormed to her feet, her eyes suddenly blazing. "I'm sick of hearing about Barney. . . Why, you little fool, you don't imagine it was Barney I wanted, do you?"

"I wonder," Janet said, her eyes on her plate.

Mrs. Cantrell waited until Marge had gone back to the kitchen before she observed dryly, "I'm wondering, too—and also just why you told me it was Lance who called you last night, Janet—and incidentally, why Cynthia hid behind you in the hall when I opened my door. . . Just my insatiable curiosity, of course. No doubt it's all one of those things you girls sometimes seem to think I'm too young and inexperienced to be told. By the way, where is Cynthia?"

JANET said swiftly, "I don't think she's coming to breakfast."

Jan. Don't get the idea that I'm sorry for myself. Besides, I've been living on Grams entirely too long already. . . Call me a taxicab, will you—while I revise my facial scheme? I wish to Heaven I were one of those women who can cry without making their faces look like futuristic landscapes."

Nevertheless, she clung like a frightened child to Janet's hand before she let herself carefully out at the apartment door.

"Don't tell Grams till she's had her coffee, Jan," she repeated before she went.

Janet spent her next few hours wondering how she was ever to tell Aunt Mary—even after Aunt Mary had had her morning coffee.

JANET was just coming from her own room when, to her complete consternation, she heard the telephone ring clearly and loudly in the hall, and Aunt Mary's crisp tones answering the call.

"Oh, good morning, Lance!" Aunt Mary said. "I'm glad to hear you sounding so fresh after the hours you kept last night. It must have been almost four when you called Janet, wasn't it? . . . I wonder if I'm not hearing very well this morning. You say you did not call Janet? . . . But I understood from her—oh, well, never mind. . . Then you would like to speak to her now, of course. Hold the line, please."

When Janet had talked with Lance briefly—and somewhat disjointedly, because her mind was racing ahead to the ordeal before her—she went slowly into the dining-room. Marge was just bringing hot rolls from the kitchen.

"I found your chiffon scarf tangled up with the telephone bell when I was dusting the hall this mornin', Miss Janet," Marge said on a cheerful, congratulatory note which Janet found definitely discordant. "It sure was lucky, else Mr. Lance never would have been able to ring you. I wonder how on earth that scarf ever came to get in there."

"I wonder," Janet said, her eyes on her plate.

Mrs. Cantrell waited until Marge had gone back to the kitchen before she observed dryly, "I'm wondering, too—and also just why you told me it was Lance who called you last night, Janet—and incidentally, why Cynthia hid behind you in the hall when I opened my door. . . Just my insatiable curiosity, of course. No doubt it's all one of those things you girls sometimes seem to think I'm too young and inexperienced to be told. By the way, where is Cynthia?"

JANET said swiftly, "I don't think she's coming to breakfast."

fast, Aunt Mary. Hadn't you better butter your roll while it's hot?"

It sounded parrot-like and rehearsed—as it was.

Aunt Mary set down the silver pot from which she had been about to pour her niece's coffee, and folded her hands before her.

"Janet Dwight," she said, "you're the most transparent equivocator I've ever had the privilege of listening to."

"All right," Janet said desperately, "it was Cynthia who called me last night—and I muffled the telephone bells. I did it because we didn't want the newspapers to bother you."

"The newspapers?" If Aunt Mary turned a little white, her voice was not less steady. "My dear child, if this is your idea of breaking something to me gently, you might as well give a war-whoop and fire off a gun. Anyhow, I've had so many unpleasant things broken to me in my day that I'm practically shock proof."

So Janet told her what had happened between Cynthia and herself.

When she had finished, the old lady nodded her head slowly and murmured, "Timothy Benton, hm? . . . Well, I can't pretend to be surprised."

"Aunt Mary, you mean you expected this?"

"I won't say I expected this, but I've been expecting an explosion of some sort ever since—"

"Ever since what?"

"For once, Aunt Mary seemed embarrassed. "Well—ever since I've noticed how restless she is."

Janet knew that was not at all what Aunt Mary had started to say; but she also knew that there was no use in pressing the point.

"And you didn't do anything to stop her?"

"When people reach Cynthia's age, my dear, there's not much use trying to stop them—or start them, either. All that should have been taken care of years ago with a birch rod. Did—Lance mention having heard about this?"

When she had talked with Lance awhile ago, she had not mentioned Cynthia's marriage for fear Aunt Mary would hear. Now she wondered a little blankly what he would think. She had so often had the feeling that Lance did not approve of Cynthia.

Before she could answer, the knocker on the hall door sounded sharply.

"The representatives of the press," she presumed, Aunt Mary sighed, "Cynthia might at least have supplied us with a few more essential facts. Just what I am to tell them I'm sure I don't know."

Chamberlain Will Now Try To Settle Italo-French Quarrel

By J. C. STARK

LONDON, Jan. 16 (AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain is expected to try to ease the strain between Italy and France after he reaches home tomorrow evening from his no-give-or-take talks with Premier Mussolini.

This appeared to be the next step necessary to keep Europe's peace.

Chamberlain apparently refused to become an official mediator on his three-day visit to Rome and made it plain Britain fully backed France against Italian territorial aspirations.

But Chamberlain now has first hand information on the Italian point of view.

His foreign secretary, Viscount Halifax, was expected to make an approach to France for negotiation on the moderate Italian complaints when he meets with French Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet at Geneva this week-end.

They will attend sessions of the League of Nations Council, opening Monday.

Italy Softens

An indication Italy was open to negotiation came from the Fascist newspaper Il Telegrafo which said "the Fascist government would not be averse to opening new negotiations but that is not completely possible with or without mediators in the atmosphere created by the French government and press."

Before negotiating, however, Italy hoped for an early insurgent victory in Spain, which would give Italy a stronger argument for extending territorial or other concessions from France. Italy's claims have remained nebulous and unofficial.

Aside from an attempt to smooth out Italian-French relations, Chamberlain's next diplomatic moves under his appeasement policy were uncertain.

Says To Syria

France's bargaining position was most recently affected by rioting against French rule in Syria, her eastern Mediterranean mandate. Three French submarines were ordered to Syria today while the French Mediterranean and Atlantic fleets prepared for extensive war games off Africa's northwest coast.

This apparently firm stand Chamberlain took at Rome was regarded here as evidence he was encouraged by the hardened United States policy toward dictators and had set his face against further concessions to threats of force.

This view was strengthened also by the British request to Japan for a full statement of Japanese intentions toward British commerce in China.

Democracies Allied Against Jap Force

LONDON, Jan. 16 (AP)—The United States, Great Britain and France were believed firmly allied today in a mutual stand against recognizing Japan's "changes by force" in China.

Just as Prime Minister Chamberlain returned from what many observers called his fruitless talks in Rome with Premier Mussolini, the British foreign office yesterday released the text of its strongest note to Tokyo since the Chinese-Japanese conflict broke out.

The communication resembled the one sent by the United States on Oct. 6 charging "unwarranted interference" with American rights in China and asking the Japanese government to "implement its assurances already given with regard to the maintenance of the open door and non-interference with American rights."

France, informed persons said, was expected to follow in the footsteps of the other two democracies with a similar note, as a signatory of the 1922 pact in which China, Japan, the United States, Great Britain, France, Italy, Belgium, Portugal and The Netherlands pledged respect for Chinese territory integrity and maintenance of the open door for trade.

Chamberlain conferred today with his close advisers prior to a full cabinet meeting Wednesday when he is to report on his Rome talks.

TOKYO, Jan. 16 (AP)—A member of the government, speaking for himself only, today termed the British note against Japanese restrictions in China "unrealistic," and failing "to observe the general trend of the situation in the Far East."

Cattleman Killed

MIDLAND, Jan. 16 (AP)—H. E. Lewellen, 61, widely known cattle commission man, was killed early yesterday in a crash near here.

His son, Rick, Lewellen, escaped with slight injuries.

Officers were informed the driver of the other car did not stop after sideswiping the Lewellen machine.

Youth Shot To Death

GAINESVILLE, Jan. 16 (AP)—Fourteen-year-old Leonard Lindecker Jr. was shot to death near here yesterday, apparently in a hunting accident, in a hunting accident.

As Walter Winchell, New York columnist, would say, "Orchids to Mrs. Lon Roberts, school registrar and lotions of luck from the students of P. H. S." She has served P. H. S. for many years with an unfailing loyalty and deserves all the appreciation that can be given by P. H. S. students.

This year the Harvester basketball team has won all but two of their games. They have won these games without very much support from the students of P. H. S. They have won most of their games by high scores, but with a little support they could double these scores. Let's all start going to the basketball games and give our teams a little support.

Paging Senior High school students. Paging Senior High school students. Message for high school students. Attention, please, Miss Gracie Fern Latimer wishes that all students who come to the library would use library material and do their studying in the study hall.

The A Cappella choir, under the direction of Miss Helen Martin, has given several commendable performances this year. Despite the fact that Miss Martin had to train new voices at the beginning of the year, the choir gives finished concerts. Students, this is an activity to support, praise and be proud of!

Students of Pampa High school should be more courteous to teachers. Some students when they run into a teacher just look at them and say to themselves, "The teachers are always in the way." This is not the way to respect our teachers, so be more courteous and show them we do respect them.

Rumors have been heard that next semester school will begin at 8:45 instead of 8 o'clock in the mornings, but according to school officials the time will not be changed. After all, P. H. S. students are used to an earlier hour, why not continue it?

Have you ever noticed the walls of school buildings? Some are kept spick and span, and the students, with all their might, strive to keep them so. Our buildings can be just the same, with cooperation on the part of the students.

Abraham had his ups and downs. Again and again he met failure. Yet, no matter how often he was stopped by defeat, Abe Lincoln never stooped to dishonesty about success. He tried and tried again.

This moral can easily be made to apply to students when taking an exam. No matter what the difficulty may be, never cheat just to "get by." A temporary gain is obtained, but it results in the person who cheats more than anyone else. Play fair at all times.

The song entitled "What a Wonderful World" may well be changed to "What a Wonderful School" if only students would participate in keeping the halls of Pampa High more orderly. Rushing, pushing and scrambling often result in serious calamities. Such actions also cause a great disturbance over the school. Yes, if such improvements could be remedied, "What a Wonderful School" this would be.

Make reading a pleasure instead of a task. Get acquainted with the new books they have in the library since this school term opened.

Next semester students should put reading outside reports for each six weeks at the top of their six weeks assignments; check on a book early for the report. "This will be for your own good" for when the last six weeks roll around you can be reading for extra points which sometimes come in very handy. This suggestion is by Miss Gracie Fern Latimer, librarian.

Students, start your preparations soon. Why? The interscholastic league contests are on their way. Anyone who is eligible can enter these contests and perhaps bring back honors to P. H. S.

Many fields are offered. Some of them are commercial, foreign language, one-act play, track, singing, debate, declamation, extemporaneous speaking and girls volleyball. Make your choice now and go out to win.

New Absentee Rule To Go Into Effect Second Semester

A new absentee rule was adopted by the student council at its weekly meeting last Tuesday.

Any member that is absent three times in one semester without acceptable excuse by the council is disqualified, and the vice-president of his home room will automatically become president and a member. His home room will elect another vice-president.

This rule will go into effect at the beginning of next semester. Plans were discussed to arrange all of the coming assemblies for the next semester.

Silent Reading Tests Given to English Classes

The results of the reading tests given January 5 and 6 were from average to a little above average, reports Miss Margaret Jones, head of the English department.

The highest scores in the senior class were made by Lloyd Lee, 199 points; George Edwards, 187; Jack Hessey, 181; Dorothy Jane Day, 177; and Wayne Coffin, 175.5.

The five highest for the junior class were Donna Day, 195; Hugh Stennis, 177; Ray Zernial, 170; Floyd Blackwood, 168.5; Joycelin Jackson, 168.

Highest in the sophomore test were Margaret Sullins, 137 points; Joe Longacre, 135; Ruth Graves, 151; Dewey Scott, 150 and Marguerite Kirchman, 147.

These tests have given to over 5,000 students in various schools over the United States to find the average ability for each class.

Enrolment Begins Monday Morning

Students will register for the second semester next Monday from 8 to 10 o'clock. There will be four short classes for the rest of the morning and afternoon classes will go on as usual.

Examinations will end next Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock and there will be no school Friday. This day will be used for teachers to get all grades in.

The small report cards are due in the office at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon. From 3 to 4 o'clock grades will be checked to see that they are all in. At 4 o'clock there will be a teachers' meeting to complete the checking of grades.

Johnston To Pick Volley Ball Squad Out of Forty Girls

The first girls' volleyball practice was called last Friday afternoon, January 6. There were 40 girls who came out, and from this number Miss Eugenia Johnston, coach-of-volleyball, will pick a squad.

Out of the 40 girls who came out, they chose six captains and each captain picked her own team. The captains chosen were Tommy Close, Ruby Eldridge, Virginia Fore, Jean Eldren, Dorothy Fisher and Martha Oll.

The girls will practice every Friday afternoon from 3 until 4 o'clock until after basketball season is over, then they will practice three times a week. They plan to play the exes, as well as, the surrounding towns.

Home Ec Classes Studying Nursing Unit

Second-year home economics classes, under the supervision of Miss Charles Hill, have completed their unit on home nursing. They have studied the diet and how to make food look more appetizing to the sick.

What keeps Pampa High students from being bearded in iceicles while they listen to a teacher discussing Franklin D. Roosevelt's New Deal? That is a question that this wandering reporter adventured to find out, risking his life in about a 112-degree inferno.

After going down a short flight of stairs, pipes, of all sizes, twisting and turning in all directions, were encountered. There is one thing that all these pipes have in common and that is that they all lead to one of the two furnaces.

These two furnaces look like overgrown doghouses and the smaller is about the size of an elephant. The larger heats the classrooms while the smaller heats the auditorium.

Gas does all the work after water has been run in. It heats the water to boiling point and the water turns into steam which is sent up into the classroom radiators. When this steam condenses and turns back to water it comes down to the furnace room and is pumped at certain intervals into the furnace by electricity. When four pounds of steam have accumulated, the heater is automatically shut off until more steam is needed.

The best point about these furnaces is that they can not blow up unless a water runs in after they get out of water and get extremely hot. When the furnaces get too hot, a soft plug on the inside melts and lets the steam fall back into them, putting out the fire.

More students should make a visit to that hot room and see what makes the thing percolate.

Amarillo Defeats Sophomores 25-13 Tuesday Afternoon

Composed of two squads of almost equal strength, the Amarillo High basketball team defeated the Pampa Sophomores, 25 to 13, Tuesday afternoon in the gym.

The sophomores had a few substitutions with the starting team as follows: John Saunders, Richard Kuehl, Theo Cummings, Billy Mounds and Jimmy Shofner playing the majority of the game.

Saunders was high point man with eight points, Cummings with five points, Trissler, Goddy and Madison made two points each.

Wooten was high point man with eight points; Collins, second with six points and Whitley, third with five points. Trissler, Goddy and Madison made two points each.

Of these, the judges, Miss Anne Louise Jones, English teacher; Aubrey Steele, history teacher; and O. F. Shewmaker, debate sponsor; chose as the negative Ross Euzzard and Peggy Williamson, and as the affirmative, Neil McCullough and Vaughn Darnell.

Leonard Earl Walker, typist for the club has written to the following states for material on the sales tax question: Oklahoma, Colorado, Arizona, Alabama, California, Ohio, Illinois, Missouri, Mississippi, Indiana, New Mexico and Arkansas.

Thursday the debaters met to discuss the debate soon to be held with Lubbock.

Students Will Attend Canyon Press Meeting

Dr. F. L. McDonald to Speak at Convention

Thirty-five journalism students from Pampa High school will attend the Panhandle High School Press association convention to be held in Canyon, February 4.

One of the main speakers will be Dr. F. L. McDonald, who is the state sponsor of the Texas High School Press association. Dr. McDonald is the professor of journalism at Texas State College for Women at Denton. Their college paper, the Lass-O, has received National All-American rating for the past three years.

Olin E. Hinkle, professor of journalism at Canyon and sponsor of the P. H. S. P. A., is a former editor of the Pampa News.

The Pampa delegation will be one of the largest at the convention, according to advance information.

It was only last year that West Texas State college adopted the P. H. S. P. A. and this is the first high school press convention to be held at this college.

Deskin Wells, president of the Texas Press association and editor of the Wellington paper, will speak at the college assembly at which the delegates to the convention will be honored guests.

P.H.S. Students Hear Debaters

Four members of the debate club, under the sponsorship of O. F. Shewmaker, debated the question, Resolved: That Texas should adopt a uniform sales tax, in assembly last Wednesday.

The decision of the judges, D. F. Osborne, Kenneth Carman and Mrs. John B. Hessey, was for the negative speakers, Peggy Williamson and Ross Euzzard.

Affirmative speakers included Vaughn Darnell and Neil McCullough, Jr. Time keeper was Charles Pearce and chairman, Dorothy Jean Gibson.

Other parts on the program included a short skit, "The Chinese Sage" with Jack Johnson and Bobbie Karr as the characters. The Sage made some predictions for the future of some P. H. S. students. A short talk on etiquette was given by Harry Kelley and announcements were made by Mr. Osborne concerning examinations and by Miss Margaret Jones about the annual.

Who's Who In Senior Class

For a girl who represents sportsmanship, stoutheartness and popularity one could look to Tommy Lee Close, senior. Tommy has all these traits and has put them to use for her advantage in F. F. A. contests.

She has shown her sportsmanship by being elected captain of the volleyball team and pep squad leader her junior year. This year she was field marshal of the pep squad.

In working hard for the betterment of the school, this student has decided to "Shut Off to Buffalo" and met him in "The Garden of the Moon" where they had a "Rendezvous With a Dream."

On the way to the "Honeymoon Hotel" they met "Goofus" who had "To Dickets to Georgia" and they decided to "Shut Off to Buffalo" where they could see the "Moon Over Miami."

The "Dream Train" stopped near "A Cottage For Sale" and they "Struck a Match in the Rain" to see what it was like.

They bought the "Houseboat on the Hudson" and asked the "Little Old Lady" from "Way Back Home" to stay with them.

"The Lady in Red" and her cowboy sailed for "Paris in the Spring" where they became "Strangers in Parer" near the "Latin Quarter."

This song heard that "Mary Had a Little Lamb" and sailed home to see the "Lone Oondler."

Students "Grin and Bear It" As Fool-Proof Camera Clicks

Amid a flash of glaring light, blink eyes and Cheshire cat grins Pampa High students posed for their pictures which will appear in the home room section of the annual. Foster Fletcher, with Eugene Mann as the "birdie" and Miss Margaret Jones to guide him, underwent the danger of having his camera broken to photograph sophomores and juniors in rooms as they appear every day.

After entering a room Mr. Fletcher would climb upon a chair and say, "Look at Mr. Mann." That is when the kids began to laugh. No wonder! Then Mr. Fletcher would squirt at his victims and there was a flash like lightning. Everybody would "Oh" and "Ah" and blink their eyes as Mr. Fletcher departed to another room.

The most commotion was caused in the shop where all the boys scrambled onto one work table. They were partially sitting in each other's laps and standing on the one in front of them until Mr. Fletcher thinned them out. E. T. Seeds had to part with his dear cap while the picture-taking was in progress.

The home ec girls were close runner-uppers in the commotion contest. That protested that Miss Charles Hill should be in the picture, too.

"But she's a pretty teacher," voiced Donna Day and then she looked at Mr. Mann, "You're pretty, too," she said. Blush! Blush!

Room 302 was unaware that a photographer was near at hand. Grover Hieskel was taking his noonday siesta and had to be awakened for the picture. Bobbie Karr insisted on standing up in his seat but Mr. Fletcher thought that enough of Bobbie would be seen if he sat down.

In room 208 Pat Bissett was sitting out of the photo where she was left. She didn't care (Oh, no) but she moved. The startling flash must have reminded Betty Jean McAfee that she was a one-man riot because she stuck out her tongue and began fighting like Joe Louis. Who's crazy?

Kenneth Carman just had to tidy up a bit so he had a boy hanging on a broom handle, while the others hung the stage curtains. Then they were ready for Mr. Fletcher to shoot.

Mr. Fletcher finished his 30 minutes' work with a picture of Tom Herod who grabbed his eyes as though somebody had hit him after the camera flashed at him. "Gee, didn't he give that camera the horse grin. Maybe he thought he would break it."

Results of these pictures will be seen when the annual comes out next spring. Then there will be more "Oh's" and "Ah's" and "I wish I hadn't worn that dress" or "My hair looks awful."

"The Lady in Red" Has Adventures With Song Titles

"The Lady in Red" was walking "Alone" down "Forty-Second Street" in the still of the "Night" when she met the man with "High Hat, a Piccolo, and a Cane."

He said he was going to see "The Lady Who Couldn't Be Kissed" and asked if she wanted to go and meet "Ragtime Cowboy Joe."

They found him "Jump-Jump-Jump Here" with "The Beautiful Lady in Blue." She was filled with rage to see this "Sophisticated Lady" who wanted to see "The Man She Loved."

She went to her room that night and found a "Little Fraternity Pin" with the words "Remember Me" engraved on it. She remembered him and met him in "The Garden of the Moon" where they had a "Rendezvous With a Dream."

On the way to the "Honeymoon Hotel" they met "Goofus" who had "To Dickets to Georgia" and they decided to "Shut Off to Buffalo" where they could see the "Moon Over Miami."

The "Dream Train" stopped near "A Cottage For Sale" and they "Struck a Match in the Rain" to see what it was like.

They bought the "Houseboat on the Hudson" and asked the "Little Old Lady" from "Way Back Home" to stay with them.

"The Lady in Red" and her cowboy sailed for "Paris in the Spring" where they became "Strangers in Parer" near the "Latin Quarter."

This song heard that "Mary Had a Little Lamb" and sailed home to see the "Lone Oondler."

Sagebrush

It was the night before exams. Not a sound could be heard. For over in the corner of the room one tiny light burned. A book was open and into it peered Wyndall LaCasse. The name of the book couldn't be distinguished but from all appearances it was an English book. But alas! Everyone is fooled sometime. He was only reading a novel the night before exams.

The verdicts so nobly passed by the "Chairmen" in assembly last week were just pieces of recollections from the Voice of Experience. The person behind the mask was probably discovered by everyone; therefore, the Sage will withhold his name.

Scenes behind stage: Ed Terrell has been trying to act as a bishop.

Alta Ruth Ford is exerting her utmost to keep from saying "yes."

Karl Rippel is a potential singer, he wants to join the A Cappella choir.

Ross Buzzard says they will be taking a person soon according to his name.

Mr. Carman is trying to decide who will play what in the junior play.

Mrs. Roberts works harder just before exams than anyone else.

Mildred (Mickey) Martin wants to know what would happen if something that couldn't be stopped was rolling down a hill and ran into something that couldn't be moved. Does anyone know?

Annabelle Lard can't seem to get her singing and her hiccoughs to work together. She broke up a hiccough the other day with a loud "hic." Oh, boy, did the choir laugh!

The Sage wishes to inquire of Wayne Coffin about his New Year resolutions. He resolved to let Junior High girls alone, but, unless badly mistaken, the Sage saw him . . . Well anyway, what about it, Wayne?

Doug Corrigan has nothing on on Jack Crot, Harvester basketball player. Corrigan was called "Wrogg Way" because he flew an airplane to Ireland when he thought he was going to California. Crot tried to shoot a goal for his opponents when he thought he was shooting for Pampa. Hats off to "Wrong Way Haul."

Flash! Alan Hale, the movie actor, may be doped with his new idea, but if he is, then James Evans and Ray Boyles are that way, too. They agree with Hale in that elevators should stand still and the buildings move up and down instead.

Roy Goodwin brings fencing foils (swords to you) to school on noon every day. If all the spectators had to pay to watch "Kansas" Ramos, Vernon Casey and Dick Kennedy fence, someone would get rich. Why here? with "The Beautiful Lady in Blue." She was filled with rage to see this "Sophisticated Lady" who wanted to see "The Man She Loved."

She went to her room that night and found a "Little Fraternity Pin" with the words "Remember Me" engraved on it. She remembered him and met him in "The Garden of the Moon" where they had a "Rendezvous With a Dream."

On the way to the "Honeymoon Hotel" they met "Goofus" who had "To Dickets to Georgia" and they decided to "Shut Off to Buffalo" where they could see the "Moon Over Miami."

The "Dream Train" stopped near "A Cottage For Sale" and they "Struck a Match in the Rain" to see what it was like.

They bought the "Houseboat on the Hudson" and asked the "Little Old Lady" from "Way Back Home" to stay with them.

"The Lady in Red" and her cowboy sailed for "Paris in the Spring" where they became "Strangers in Parer" near the "Latin Quarter."

All-Girl Team Will Play Here Tonight At 8

Joe Satovich Will Present Exhibition

Jumping Joe Satovich and the Ozark Hill Billies, champion girl basketball team, will challenge the Harvesters in the local gymnasium tonight at 8 o'clock.

The six girls and Satovich have all been members of championship teams and are now giving exhibitions for the Hockaday Sporting Goods company of Enid, Oklahoma.

It is said of Jumping Joe that he can do everything with a basketball except "buy the groceries."

He is from Ironton, Minnesota, was a member of the Bismark, North Dakota, State AAU champs. Later he played ball with the State Mill and Elevators team of Grand Forks, North Dakota, and the "Chicken Pickers" of Minnesota.

His exhibition will include trick shots of all types. Advance publicity says he is able to put Jesse Owens "in the shade" on a basketball court, but that will be verified tonight.

"En," "Sadie," "Hinky," "Hee," "Liz," and "Mag" will do most of the playing with "Jumping Joe" Joe helping in the tight spots against the Harvesters.

The girls' real names are Vinia Hobbs, Lorene Daniels, Lucy Peters, Nola Lee McCain, Eleanor Leitch and Jo Darrow.

The game will begin promptly at 8 o'clock and admission will be 25 and 40 cents.

Changes Made In Junior Play Cast

Changes have been made in the cast of the junior play, "What Happened to Jones," a three-act farce written by George H. Broadhurst and directed by Kenneth Carman.

Members of the cast include Aubrey Green as Jones; Jack Johnson, Ebenezer Goodley; Mrs. Goodley is played by Jeanne Lively; Richard Heisterly by James Foran; Carolyn Suratt portrays Alvin Starlight.

Other members of the cast are Marjorie Perry Smith; Anthony Goodley; Hugh Anderson; Cissy, Bonnie Lee Ross; Thomas Holder, Chester Carpenter; Helma is played by Heidi Schneider; Minerva by Margery McColm; William Bigbee, Ed Terrell; the part of Henry Fuller is played by Jerry Smith.

The play, a farce, is presented in three acts. Mr. Goodley goes to a boxing match with Richard Heisterly and when the police raid the place, he runs off, falling from the roof down the water spout and is followed by Jones, who is afraid of being recognized by the police.

Anthony Goodley, the bishop, has arrived from Australia expecting to see his fiancée, Alvin. A half crazy Indian comes in and tries to make him a chief.

The girls arrive, expecting to find a chief. They are afraid of him. They think he is mad and begs him to have mercy upon them.

The men get their clothes mixed. Jones gets into the bishop's clothes and the bishop is taken to jail when the police follow them to the house. He is thought to be Jones, whom the police have been hunting.

Everyone is someone else and no one knows what each is doing.

Year Book Staff Wants Snapshots Of Each Student

"More snapshots are needed for the annual," said Miss Margaret Jones, one of the sponsors of the annual. "We would like to have a snapshot of each student in school."

The 17 home room pictures, which were taken last Tuesday and Wednesday, will be printed in the annual. All the senior pictures have been sent to the engraver.

The annual sponsors are Miss Margaret Jones and Eugene Mann. The staff is composed of three seniors, Tommy Close, Ruby Eldridge and Dorothy Jane Day; the juniors are Annabelle Lard and Leland Finney; the sophomores, Patsy Gaut, and Billy Behrman.

Band Plays For Pep Rally Over K.P.D.N.

As a pep rally for the basketball game Monday night between the Ozark Hill Billies and the Pampa Harvesters, the band gave a program over station KPDN last Thursday afternoon.

The band, which has been practicing for the district contest, played the contest number, "The Unfinished Symphony."
