THE PAMPA NEWS

SILVER PALM AND EAGLE SCOUTS

Here are pictured three of the six Pampa boys who will be awarded Eagle badges at the Court of Honor tomorrow night in the district courtroom. Upper left are shown Omer Harrell, top, and Junior Foster, lower, of Troop 83 sponsored by the First Methodist church.

Troop 80 has turned out 11 Eagle Scouts in the last year and nine months. In addition to Foster, Harrell and Wilkins, other boys who achieved the highest rank in Scouting from the same troop were Keeton Rhoades, Doyle Auld, Aubrey Green, Ray Boyles, Jack (Cotton) Smith, James Archer, Jack Crout, Billy Mounts.

Six Scouts To Receive Eagle Badge Monday

Six Gray county Boy Scouts will be eligible to receive Eagle rank in the Court of Honor to be held Monday night at 7:30 o'clock in the district courtroom. L. L. McCombs, Court of Honor chairman, will preside.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (AP)—The Senate gave final approval to the $725,000,000 emergency relief bill late today after writing into it restrictions against use of any federal funds for political purposes. The measure goes back to the House for consideration on these restrictions and other amendments. Whatever reception the Senate changes may get there, administration forces will not have opportunity to try again to raise the appropriation to the $875,000,000 asked by President Roosevelt.

Wife Charged With Shooting Husband

EL DORADO, Kan., Jan. 28 (AP)—Mrs. Venezuela King, 260-pound housewife, stood mute at her arraignment today on a charge she shot to death her husband, George King, 42-year-old oil field worker, on a lonely road near here Thursday night.

I Heard ---

John Crout, night city desk officer, trying to talk to an attractive young white woman who asked to sleep in the city jail Friday night. The woman was from Macon, Ga., and her accent was something to talk about. Her voice was soft and lilting as she said, "Mr. Officer, do you have a place for a lady to sleep? An is going to the head and it's too cold to sleep out." Officer Crout obligingly locked her in a vacant cell and yesterday morning she continued her trip to Macon.

Singers From Nine Churches To Open Revival At Central Church

Negro Makes Strange Will

Houston, Jan. 28 (AP)—The 40 days and nights J. S. Lewis wanted his body to lie in state will soon be up.

Then, on the first clear day in the first week of February it will be buried.

His will is no ordinary funeral, either. It will be just like he wanted it—big—and costing $20,000.

Lewis, 62-year-old negro undertaker, died Christmas Eve.

His last request was that his body be kept at his undertaking parlor 40 days and nights.

"Then," he instructed his secretary, Florence Holly, before death, "bury me on the first clear day—be sure it is a clear day so everybody can come to the funeral."

The secretary said Lewis' body will be in a $300 coffin, be placed in a $7,000 mausoleum, and $10,000 will be available to mummify it.

Lewis' estate, valued at approximately $50,000, was left to his daughter, Onelia Lewis, and to the secretary, who was named independent executrix.

The undertaker's will provided also that if any common-law wives or children appeared, they should be paid $1 each from the estate if they proved their claim. The will, stated, however, he had no common-law wives or children.

Paul Hill Sole Owner Of Store

Paul D. Hill, resident of Pampa for the past 11 years, is now the sole owner of the store known as Kees & Hill, "The Hole in the Wall," 108 1/2 West Fester. A deal was concluded Friday whereby Mr. Hill purchased the interests of his partner, Homer Kees, with whom he operated the store on September 20, 1937.

Coming to Pampa in the spring of 1927, Mr. Hill was employed at the L. T. Hill company store, at the original location at the intersection of Cuyler and Fester. Later he was with the store when it was moved to the location now occupied by Gilbert's, one block north of the original Hill store location.

Preceding the establishment of the "Hole in the Wall," Mr. Hill was project superintendent of Pampa's fairgrounds park in 1935-36.

Paul Hill, Men's Wear, will be the new name of the store, Mr. Hill said Saturday. Merchandise handled includes M. Born and International suits, Worth hats, Matrix shoes, Hawk brand work clothing, Virginia Trunk and Baggage company luggage, and Bear brand hosiery. The addition of a stock of ladies hosiery will be the only change in the lines carried at the present time, Mr. Hill said.

Missionaries In 'Quake Zone Safe

RICHMOND, Va., Jan. 28 (AP)—The foreign mission board of the Southern Baptist church said it was informed by cable today that the church's 12 missionaries in the Chilean earthquake zone were safe.

One of them, Dr. J. W. McGavok, messaged from Santiago: "All missionaries safe. Notify relatives."

The Southern Baptist missionaries in Chile are Dr. J. L. Hart of Essex county, Va., and Mrs. Hart of Flaherty, Ky., stationed in Antofagasta; Miss Cornelia Browder of Orange, N. J., in Temuco; Miss Agnes Graham of Yoakum, Texas, in Temuco; the Rev. W. Q. Maer of Europa, Miss, and Mrs. Waer, of Medina, Tenn., in Temuco.

Also Dr. McGavok, whose home is at Newberg, Ark., and Mrs. McGavok of Obion, Tenn., located at Santiago; Miss Anne Lassiter of Hubbard, Tex., in Temuco; the Rev. R. Cecil Moore of Fort Green, Fla., and Mrs. Moore of Fort Green, Fla., and Mrs. Moore Marjorie Spence of Kipping, N. C., in Temuco.

Inaugurating a revival meeting at the Central Church of Christ, singers from nine congregations of the Church of Christ will present a program of gospel songs from the auditorium of the Central church in Pampa, beginning at 3 o'clock this afternoon. The program will be broadcast over KPDN.

Songs sung will be from the "Christian Hymns" book published by the Gospel Advocate Company of Nashville, Tenn., and churches represented in the program will be the Central and Northside congregations of Amarillo, Berger, Clarendon, Kellerville, McLean, Shamrock, and the Central and Francis Avenue churches of Pampa.

If sufficient interest is manifested by the congregations it is planned to have the song service regularly each fifth Sunday. Under this arrangement services would be conducted this year on April 30, July 30, October 29, and December 31.

Order of the program presented this afternoon will be:

Amarillo Central congregation: Song leader, G. W. Mills. "Guide Me Oh Thou Great Jehovah," "Above the Bright Blue," "Worthy Art Thou."

Two-minute talk by Luther Roberts, minister.

Amarillo Northside congregation: Song leader, Grady Cooper. "When We All Get To Heaven," "Take Time To Be Holy," "Sing On."

24,000 Dead In Earthquake, Latest Estimates Reveal

SANTIAGO, Chile, Jan. 28 (AP)—Chilian officials said a toll of at least 24,000 dead was indicated today by advices from the south central region devastated by the nation's worst earthquake disaster Tuesday night.

An estimate of 20,000 dead in Chile alone, half the city's population, "would be conservative," officials said on receiving reports by courier from military authorities who took over control of the city 220 miles south of Santiago.

Dispatches from the quake area estimated the dead of other cities as follows: Concepcion, 2,000; Cauquenes, 1,500; Parral, 500.

Most still were buried under tons of debris, constituting a grave health menace. Some sources said dynamiting the ruins and mass cremation of the bodies were the only means of preventing epidemics.

While every available relief worker labored to aid survivors, unconfirmed radio reports said Llaimo volcano, 150 miles south of Chillan, had sprung into activity. The 10,037-foot peak is in a sparsely inhabited region.

Evacuation of the cities which suffered the most from Tuesday's earthquake was ordered. The most seriously injured were taken to nearby cities in planes, autos, or ox-drawn carts while others were removed aboard the British cruisers, Exeter and Ajax, from the Concepcion-Talcahuano region.

In Cauquenes, where only five houses were left intact, all workmen were conscripted to move debris and within a few hours 200 bodies had been recovered. Most of the rich wine-growing region's storage vaults were destroyed.

President F. ro Aguirre Cerda returned to Santiago from a tour of the quake area and prepared to call a special session of Congress to approve emergency relief measures.

While church bells tolled during services in memory of the victims, resident of Santiago prepared to receive 3,000 orphans from the quake zone.

Lull Between Storms Down In Law Halls

By HOWARD C. MARSHALL.

AUSTIN, Jan. 28 (AP)—There seems to be a lull between storms in the Texas capital here. W. Lee O'Daniel is making good progress in setting up his administration and the legislature has completed organization for a four-months session.

Dust from the inauguration of O'Daniel and his recommendation of a tax on commercial transactions estimated to raise from $45,000,000 to $200,000,000 a year has settled, but clouds of the sales tax versus natural resource tax controversy will be mounting soon.

There was a rumus last week over confirmation by the Senate of Gov. O'Daniel's appointments to certain state offices but this discussion probably will soon pass.

Chief opposition is to his selections of Elster M. Halle as tax commissioner and Joe Kunschik as labor commissioner, charging having been made Halle is really a resident of Kansas and Kunschik is a "company union" man.

Gov. O'Daniel, in addition to considering appointments, is working on another message to the legislature in which he will advocate elimination of special funds from the state's plan of handling revenue.

Getting Acquainted.

It is plain he is devoting much time to getting acquainted with the routine of his new job, and meeting members of the legislature.

There is interest in the degree of success he achieves in getting along with the legislature because of his campaign attacks on "professional politicians." However, he has reassured his desire to work harmoniously with the legislative branch.

Legislators and others will be listen-

Train Wreck Holds Up League Meeting

BEAUMONT, Jan. 28 (AP)—Texas league officials meeting here today to adopt the 1939 schedule were delayed by a train wreck which prevented their arrival until late afternoon.

Consideration of the schedule was postponed until Sunday morning, the balance of today's program being occupied by a dinner, with the Beaumont club, 1938 champions, as host.

Regardless of which several schedules under inspection is finally adopted, the opening dates on April 12 will remain the same with Fort Worth playing at Dallas, Oklahoma City at Tulsa, San Antonio at Shreveport, and Beaumont at Houston. This order will be reversed to supply the visiting teams with their openers two days later with the exception of Fort Worth, Dallas moving into the Cat stronghold on April 13 instead of April 14.

July Fourth will find San Antonio at Shreveport, Houston at Beaumont, Dallas at Fort Worth and Tulsa at Oklahoma City in double header programs and on Labor Day exactly the reverse will be the schedule.

All informal discussion occurring during the meeting accepted San Antonio's presence in the league as a settled fact although the remote possibility that the Missions' franchise might be moved still existed in view of the continued bargaining at San Antonio over rental of the park owned by the school board and operated by the St. Louis Browns.

Hunger-Crazed Spaniards Stumble Across Border In Mass Migration

By CHARLES S. FOLTZ, JR.

PERPIGNAN, France (Near the Spanish Frontier) Jan. 28 (AP)—Thousands of panic-stricken, hunger-crazed refugees stumbled across the French frontier today fleeing before an insurgent army sweeping northward through Catalonia almost without opposition.

These thousands, however, were only a vanguard of a horde estimated by Spanish government authorities at almost one million being pushed toward the frontier.

For them it was the end of a week of tortured flight from homes smashed in the civil war.

One of the greatest mass migrations of history was under way.

Border authorities at Le Perthus dropped the chain across a gateway through the Pyrenees mountains, admitting throngs into France. Sobbing with relief, hundreds of women and children and old men hurried themselves on the border guards.

Many collapsed in the snow, huddling together against the sides of buildings to protect their scantily-clad bodies.

Others grabbed feverishly at great chunks of bread handed out by emergency relief kitchens.

There were a few mothers carrying babies which had been born along the roadside while great guns roared in the distance and warplanes dropped bombs.

An estimated 10,000 crossed the frontier today. About half were "legal" refugees passed by the French

Easy on the eye—easy to buy—on General Motors terms!

IN the big Buick factory in Flint these days the long assembly line is running smooth as oil.

Not in ten years has production been steadier—and not in the memory of man has the work been better or the car so fine and full of dollar value.

Which is one reason we ask, man to man—what are you waiting around for?

With the first bright budding weather a flock of folks are going to itch to start traveling behind this power-packed Dynaflesh straight-eight.

They're going to hear the call of the open road—and hone to answer it in smart Buick style, with Buicoil Springing to cushion them along.

They're going to come pouring in on us wanting Buicks, wanting them fast—and in spite of all we'll be able to do then, somebody may have to wait.

But the smart buyers will be all set—will be on their way looking at spring-fresh greenery through Buick's new "visibility unlimited."

They'll be having glorious fun behind this supple giant of a Dynaflesh power-plant, taking their steady ease in the comfort only Buick gives.

That's why we hope you're making your decision now.

Your old car's worth more today than it will be later. You may dodge a lot of repair bills by trading in now. You buy now at prices that are lower than a year ago, lower than you'd expect, lower even than some sixes.

So why wait—and wish you hadn't?

"The Quality Car In The Low Price Field"

is not just an advertising slogan. It grew out of the car itself and its service to owners. It is your guide to getting more for your money. Here are the reasons:

The Ford is "The Quality Car in the Low Price Field" because of its V-type 8-cylinder engine. Only Ford has found a way to make a car with a V-8 engine to sell at a low price.

The Ford is "The Quality Car in the Low Price Field" because it is built of exceptionally good materials. 63 different kinds of quality steel, many of them made in the Ford plant, are used in the building of Ford cars.

The Ford is "The Quality Car in the Low Price Field" because Ford pioneered fine craftsmanship in volume production, and insists upon rigid standards of precision manufacture. Ford owns and controls the manufacturing rights in North and South America for the famous Johansson gage blocks—world-wide accepted standards of measurement.

The final, distinguishing mark of "The Quality Car in the Low Price Field" is its modern design. Like the Lincoln-Zephyr and the Mercury, it has beauty of line and proportion which reflects the inner quality of the car.

We are not satisfied simply to build all the quality we can into our cars. We prove the fact that it's there. Probably no car is more thoroughly tested than the Ford.

For example, Ford alone has built a huge weather tunnel, where test cars must face the world's worst weather—endure sleet storms, sand storms, cloud-bursts—in order that the Ford you buy may serve you well under every condition.

On three Ford "torture tracks," other test cars are literally driven to death over rocks, cobbles, concrete humps—then torn down to measure wear and to search for signs of strain.

No Ford car can leave the assembly line until its parts have passed 6350 separate gage inspections—many of them held to limits of one ten-thousandth of an inch.

We could save a lot of money by skipping on tests. But a car built without them wouldn't be a Ford car.

And we aim constantly to build a better car—a car that will give you more and more for your money. But you pay no more. Ford prices are still low—and even lower than they look, when you realize the desirable equipment they include.

Both construction and appearance prove that the Ford V-8 is "The Quality Car in the Low Price Field."

LOW FORD PRICES INCLUDE EQUIPMENT

Both the Ford V-8 and the De Luxe Ford V-8 come equipped with bumpers and bumper guards, spare tire, cigar lighter, twin horns, dual windshield wipers, and headlight beam indicator on instrument panel, at no extra charge. De Luxe cars also have an extra tail light and sun visor, de luxe steering wheel, glove compartment lock, clock, and rustless steel wheel bands, at no extra charge.

Hopkins Plans Reorganization Of C-C Body

By JOHN LEAR.
NEW YORK, Jan. 28 (AP)—Integral reorganization of the U. S. Department of Commerce to bring the government into closer touch with industrial problems was disclosed today to be under consideration as part of Secretary of Commerce Harry L. Hopkins' drive to make peace between business and the New Deal.

Under this system, a college graduate trained in scientific farming is sent out by the government to live and work among the farmers of a county. For the benefit of the farmer, he encourages crop rotation, crop diversification, experiments with new fertilizers, sprays, and high test seeds, and budgeting of income and expenses. For the benefit of the government, he observes farm conditions. The result is that the farmer knows more about farming, the government knows more about the farmer, and co-operation is easier.

boot-and-shoe man. His job would be to know all there was to know about boots and shoes. He would use this information both to inform government of industrial problems and acquaint individual business men with conditions in industry as a whole.

Government Cost Can Be Cut Says Committee Head

AUSTIN, Jan. 28 (AP)—Youthful E. H. Thornton Jr., chairman of the House appropriations committee, believes the cost of state government can be sliced by at least $3,000,000 a year.

his fifth year, "and with its cooperation I'm sure we can stop some of this foolish spending of public money." Thornton, while not considered strongly economy-minded, belongs in the "no taxation" group. Describing himself as a "dyed-in-the-wool conservative," Thornton said he believed reducing salaries of government workers was not as important as abolishing certain departments and combining their functions.

STEVENS POINT, Wis., Jan. 28 (AP)—Administrators for an estate attached a farm horse held as part security for a note. The farm couple's son claimed the officers took the wrong horse—that it was his, and not his parents.

His election to the house was not his first attempt to win public office. The political bug bit him in 1936 when he ran for state commissioner of agriculture and got 120,000 votes after spending only $400 for his campaign. Among other things, he's a farmer.

Eighth District President Names New P-TA Officer

The resignation of Mrs. F. A. Render, second vice president of Eighth District, Panhandle, causes a loss in the ranks of Parent-Teacher workers that will be keenly felt over the entire district.

Parents of Eighth District who are enrolled in the procedure course offered by the state organization must complete their course and turn it in by Feb. 1 if they wish to receive recognition at a graduation luncheon in their honor to be given during the district convention at Borger.

Plans, which will be announced soon, were made Saturday for the district convention to be held in Borger near the first of April.

Inadequate laws in Texas for the protection of children was the subject discussed by O. T. Lackey at the safety program of the Borger High School Parent-Teacher unit last week.

Principal W. J. Adkins followed Mr. Lackey with a talk on safety driving of the automobile for high school students.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

By ALICIA HART Chronic fatigue, accompanied by a listless manner, just isn't conducive to beauty—the glowing variety that comes from within, depending little on mere physical characteristics for its lasting charm.

According to Marie Beynon Ray, author of "Two Lifetimes in One," a fine little book which tells how not to be tired, chronic fatigue is largely a matter of habit—bad habit.

"Word-of-mouth fatigue is something to fight against," says the slender, perfectly-groomed gray-haired author, who claims that she never has been tired in her life. And this is in spite of the fact that she has been managing editor of one magazine, fashion editor for another, author of several books and is the mother of a 19-year-old daughter.

Research for these historical incidents is made by students of history under the direction of Dr. W. G. Holden, dean of archeological research and head professor of history. Richard Flowers, speech instructor, writes the adaptation and directs the dramatization on the air. The programs are sponsored by the West Texas Museum association and Tech speech department.

Tests Show Women Still Proficient As Housekeepers

LUBBOCK, Jan. 28.—Woman's place is still in the home, if the vocational interest tests made at Texas Tech recently mean anything. Dr. Albert Barnett, professor of education and psychology, tested women students in a measurements class on various occupations with no unusual results. But on aptitude for housewives, nine out of ten made "A's."

Boy Eats 2 Checks— They Taste Alike

CHICAGO, Jan. 28 (AP)—Robert Frycek, 16, spent the night in the juvenile home digesting the turn of events—and two checks.

Detective Frank Paps related subsequent developments substantially as follows:

The clerk noticed the signature on the check was that of Robert's father—but it had been made with a rubber stamp. He left the cage to telephone Mr. Frycek. Robert heard the conversation.

When the clerk returned he saw the check disappearing in Robert's mouth. Hoping to retrieve it by a ruse the clerk waving another check and said, "You're eating the wrong one."

Robert's hand darted through the cashier's window and came back with the second check. Both checks disappeared as Robert swallowed twice.

At the police station the clerk said he didn't know the amount of the second check or where it came from. He "just grabbed it up."

Robert said the checks tasted alike to him.

U. S. Pictured As Land of Starving People By German

BERLIN, Jan. 28 (AP)—Minister of Agriculture Walther Darre today pictured the United States as a land where millions were starving in the midst of plenty.

Opening the annual agricultural fair, he told Germany's farmers that in the United States "everything was to be had in stores but 10,000,000 unemployed and their families are starving."

National socialism, he said, considered it "better that the entire nation be protected from hunger" rather than have such an alleged situation.

Farmers strolling through the monster agricultural exposition are being made conscious of the newest Nazi battle—to halt flight from the land and to increase production in order to come closer to realizing the self-sufficiency aimed at under the four-year plan.

Food shortage has plagued Germany ever since the Nazis came to power. There has been an almost continuous shortage of fats, butter, eggs. Periodically, fresh vegetables and fruits are at a premium.

Ambitious Nazis hope to counteract the tendency by broadening Germany's "lebensraum" (space of living), in which the return of the colonies lost in the World war and economic domination of the rich Ukraine are their objectives.

Pampa To Be Named Weather Reporting Center Very Soon

Early approval of Pampa as an airway weather reporting center is to be expected, according to Postmaster C. H. Walker, who received 8 letters from an official Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc., yesterday.

Establishment of a weather reporting station has been tentatively approved by officials of the United States Weather Bureau and the Civil Aeronautics Authority, the letter said. Arrangements must be completed for teletypewriter equipment and other necessary instruments before final approval can be made.

Location of such a service in Pampa would require the moving of several families here, construction of a airport, and other needs.

The station would furnish 24-hour weather service to the weather bureau, to airplanes and to newspaper and radio.

Czech Loan Made By France And Britain

LONDON, Jan. 28 (AP)—The British and French governments today signed an agreement presenting a loan to $200,000 ($27,800,000) to Czechoslovakia as an outright gift and lending her another $6,000,000 to use in caring for refugees.

The agreements was signed at the foreign office by Viscount Halifax, British foreign secretary; Charles Corbett, French ambassador to London, and Dr. Vilem Pospisil, Czechoslovak financial expert.

Britain made a gift to Czechoslovakia of $4,000,000 and France cancelled a debt of 7000,000 francs—approximately equal to the British gift—owed by Czechoslovakia to French bankers since 1937.

"The $20,000,000 loan will be guaranteed equally by the French and British governments.

SERIAL STORY NO TIME TO MARRY

BY ELINORE COWAN STONE

Yesterday Janet finds that Tim's... she learned that Barney had been sent out of town on a newspaper graft expose.

CHAPTER XVIII

ONCE Barney roused long enough to pat her arm and murmur a drowsy apology, then he promptly dropped off again.

Janet did not wake him until a brisk wind scattered the fog and made driving possible. It was almost daylight when they rode into town.

"If anyone sees us," Janet told him as they stopped before the Breckenridge, "you may have to make an honest woman of me."

"You can't scare me. Aunt Mary doesn't own a shotgun," Barney grinned. Then his grin twisted and his eyes held hers almost defiantly.

"Of course this wouldn't make any difference to you," he blurted out, "but I can think of a lot of things I'd hate worse. . . . Well, I guess you know your way in. I've got to run."

Before Janet could find words he had driven away. . . . Of course it was just some more of Barney's nonsense. Nevertheless, she could not forget the way his eyes had searched hers.

Aunt Mary's door was closed when Janet stepped into the hall outside. Apparently she had gone to sleep and slept the night through. Janet never knew why she opened the door and peeped inside.

She did not understand at once, either, what it was about the appearance of Aunt Mary's room that struck chill to her heart, even before she had opened the door wide enough to see more than the small area of rug at the head of the bed.

Of course the bed lamp was burning; but Aunt Mary often slept with a light.

Later, Janet remembered that it was the book on the floor. It was sprawled open, face downwards, with the leaves bent and crumpled.

Aunt Mary, who cherished her books as she cherished her next of kin, could never have left a book lying like that. . . . Yet she had.

A GOLD blast of air greeted Janet as she went in.

The bed was empty. There was only a neat dent in the pillow, a slight disarrangement of the covers to indicate that it had been occupied.

Over by the front windows, under the wind-battered curtains, lay Aunt Mary in a crumpled heap on the floor. She must have risen from bed at the sound of some fog-bound motor horn, hoping, perhaps, that it was Barney's—of course this was only Janet's guess.

CHAPTER XIX

"KNOW him, do you?" exclaimed the old gentleman, gazing at her with fresh interest.

"Well, I have an idea he's worth knowing. I've seen one or two articles on current topics he's had in the magazines."

"Did you like them?" Janet asked.

"He doesn't miss it, and he's got a way of putting things so that you remember them. Most young men, if they're worth their weight in pig-iron, start out in life with an idea that they'd like to take a crack at some of the modern dragons that need killing—but very few of them actually do."

"I suppose not," Janet said absently. "I mean—no one would ever guess you were over 70."

"He chuckled a little at that. "Oh, do you have to go?" he exclaimed as Janet got to her feet.

"I'm afraid so. But it's been nice to talk to you, Mr. . . ."

"Justin. Abner Justin. Well, maybe we'll meet again some time."

"I hope so, Mr. Justin."

Janet found that her best smile—the one she hadn't felt like using for weeks—was still working, and used it.

"That's better," he said contentedly. "Now you look like yourself."

He's a lamb, Janet thought as she went off down the trail.

dropped her cherished book heedlessly on the rug in her haste, and hurrying to the window, slipped and fallen on the polished floor.

She was unconscious when Janet reached her. She remained unconscious for hours after she was taken to the hospital. The resident physician whom Janet talked to first said she had a broken hip and a dangerous chill. Apparently she had lain for hours in her thin nightgown under those wind-blown curtains.

Janet tried desperately to get a message to Cynthia at Nice. But evidently Cynthia and Timothy Benton had moved on since the last card had come, and her message missed them. It was six weeks before Janet actually caught up with them in Cairo, and by that time it was too late.

When she tried to get Barney at the office of his newspaper, she was told by a crisp secretarial voice that McKnight was out of town. . . . No, the office couldn't say where he was to be found. When Janet tried his home telephone later, it was silent. For the first time Janet realized how much she had come to depend on Barney.

LANGE called her up—first at the apartment, as the switchboard girl told her later, and finally at the hotel. By that time Aunt Mary's chill had developed into pneumonia—the surgeon who set her hip told Janet that she would probably never walk again.

Janet was at the hospital when Lance's call came.

"Janet," Lance said, "I'm sorry than I can tell you. Isn't there something I can do?"

"I'm afraid not, Lance. Only the doctor is much use. Janet said wearily—quite as if he were any of a hundred others who had called to ask the same question.

"It won't hurt like this forever, Jan," Cynthia had said. "I know." And unbelievably, Cynthia had been right.

So many people wanted to help that Janet—especially after the first week—found it hard to understand why Barney was not among them.

Thanksgiving came and went. Christmas was at hand. . . . Aunt Mary had always been as excited as a child about Christmas. She had passed the pneumonia crisis safely, to the complete amazement of her doctors, but continued to suffer a great deal from her hip.

It was the day Cynthia's radio came from Cairo that Janet, firmly ejected from Aunt Mary's room by the nurse, went out for a walk in the park.

It was after midnight—long after Janet had gone home—that she said quietly to the nurse, "Such a nice Christmas! I'm glad I had this one more. . . . I thought I'd stick it out till New Year; but something tells me I'm not going to make it after all. . . . Well, I've had an interesting time while it lasted. . . . All right, call the doctor if you must; but it's no use. . . . No, I won't have my niece disturbed. This business of dying is something you have to attend to for yourself, anyhow. Just tell her in the morning that I went very quietly—in my sleep. People like to believe that."

And so, having made up her own mind on the subject, Aunt Mary died, as independently and composedly as she had lived.

JANET, who had been staying with Sylvia Grant, went along to the apartment after she heard that she wanted to sit quietly for awhile among the things Aunt Mary had lived with and loved.

She had hardly taken her wraps off before the knocker sounded at the front entrance. When she opened the door, Barney McKnight stood, grinning down at her. He was startlingly gaunt, and his blue eyes were sunk deep in their sockets; but they were bright with excitement.

"Well, sister, I'm back in your midst," he cried. "Seen the end of the New Year story. . . . Where's Aunt Mary?" Then the sight of Janet's face, he broke off. "Good Lord, Janet!" he burst out. "What is the matter?"

"Aunt Mary's—gone, Barney," Janet said woelessly. "She's dead. She died last night."

"Dead—Aunt Mary!" His face was as blank as his voice. "Oh, Jan! Why, I can't—people like Aunt Mary don't just die—like that."

"Don't they?" Janet asked dully. Then, seeing how utterly stunned he was, she asked, "You don't mean, Barney, that you haven't heard anything—all these weeks?"

"How could I," he demanded. "For almost two months I've been racing across the continent on the coattails of a guy who was barely three jumps ahead of the police. The police didn't get him—but I did. That's how I found out where to look for the written evidence I needed, and—oh, skip that! It doesn't matter now."

"But, Barney, do you mean you've just got back?"

"Not exactly. But the people I've been seeing since I did aren't the kind you would know. Since I came—after I'd seen the people this man sent me to—I've been camped with a pot of coffee handy could see the white house, nestling, cameo-like, against the bare winter hillsides. Janet found the old gentleman she had talked with there before, a bag of peanuts on the bench beside him, an opened newspaper on his knee.

One squirrel was on his shoulder, and another scrambled up his left leg. Another peered from a branch overhead, his lower jaw quivering at the seductive crackling of the paper bag. The old gentleman had aged noticeably; but he glanced up with a friendly twinkle as Janet approached.

"You must have been missing your daily dozen, young lady," he said, making room for her. "You don't look quite up to snuff."

Janet explained simply, "I'm not. My aunt—the only mother I remember—has been very ill for over a month. Perhaps you read about her accident—Mrs. Mary Cantrell? It was in the papers."

"Mrs. Mary Cantrell?" He looked startled. "Then—are you Miss Janet Dwight?"

He cracked several nuts, scanning her face covertly as he did so.

"Miss Dwight," he said finally, "I find myself in the unpleasant predicament of most people who talk too much. . . . You see, I do read the society gossip. Used to read it aloud to my wife before she went out; and got the habit. . . . I remember seeing something about your breaking up your engagement. . . . I hope—of course if I'd known who you were, I'd have kept my fool mouth shut that day."

"Oh, please," Janet cried quickly; "that was something I had a right to know. . . . Things like that happen to be really important to me. When I broke my engagement—but only one. . . . Anyhow, all that doesn't seem to matter now," she finished.

"That's fine!" he said. As if glad to change the subject, he went on, tapping the newspaper on his knee besides the doings of society these days. This poor, Here's a young man who's done something no one else in this town's ever had the nerve to try."

As Janet glanced down, phrases leaped out at her from the page: "Beginning Monday" . . . "Series of articles" . . . "dramatic exposure" . . . "graft ring" . . . "exclusive story, by—"

"Why?" she cried. "But I know him well!"

So Barney was in town. He must be if his story had broken. . . . And he hadn't even taken the trouble to call her up.

He put his arms around her; and she leaned against him while she told him what had happened, crying passionately for the first time.

"They said it was her heart, Barney," she finished. "All of a sudden—after we thought she was better—it began to grow weaker. And then it just—stopped. . . . Oh, Barney, I wanted you so terribly all that time! And you didn't come."

She felt his arm stiffen under her head. After a breath, he said with an intensity she had never heard from him before, "For God's sake, Jan, don't say things like that unless you mean them!"

"But I do mean it. I kept thinking every day you'd call. Even Lance did—and he knew Aunt Mary didn't like him. . . . She loved you, Barney."

He was silent so long that she lifted her head. Then he said, "I'm here now, Janet. And I'll always be here if you'll let me. . . . Do you remember what I told you that morning when we were stuck in the fog? You said something silly about my making an honest woman of you, and I said I could think of a lot of things I'd hate worse. That was a masterpiece of understatement. Jan, I couldn't say much more that morning—not till I had something to show you."

Janet drew a little away from him.

"Why, Barney?" she breathed. "But I never thought of us—in that way."

"After a moment he released her slowly.

"Of course," he said. "Just another pipe dream. . . . But I thought you understood all along. I supposed—well, we have got used to each other."

"But all along I thought it was Cynthia you wanted. . . . We seemed just—grand good friends."

"Well, that wouldn't be such a bad start, would it? As for Cynthia, that never really meant anything to either of us. And I've known a lot of swell girls, Jan, but you're the only one I ever—well, wanted to take care of for the rest of my life. Aunt Mary knew how I felt. . . . Do you know I believe that somehow she understood that all this was going to happen to her soon. It was only a short time before I went away that she was talking to me about you. . . . I wonder if you'd care to hear what she said?"

"Please tell me, Barney," Janet said.

O'Daniel Will Deal With Death Penalty

Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel early next week probably will be faced with his first death penalty case—that of Wenzell Williams, Dallas negro, scheduled to die Feb. 3 for murder.

Williams was convicted of murdering E. B. Atwood, 63-year-old Dallas County Dairyman. Records disclosed Atwood, a white man, was shot in the head with a shotgun as he slept in a chair at his home in mid-morning, Feb. 25, 1938.

Panhandle Field Reports 7 New Oil Wells

Hutchinson Leads With 4 Completions

The Panhandle field reported seven new oil wells last week, caused by the Texas Railroad commission for an open flow potential of 3,545 barrels.

Hutchinson county, which proved the most active spot in the field during 1938, led with four wells capable of producing 2,218 barrels. Gray county's two wells were tested at 820 barrels with the Carson county producer good for 510 barrels.

The Travelers Oil company completed the best well of the week in its No. 7 Hall "A" in section 4, block M-21, Owners survey, Hutchinson county, which flowed 844 barrels.

Five new locations were staked during the week, two in Hutchinson and one each in Gray, Carson and Moore counties. Four of the wells will be drilled for oil and one for gas.

Cold weather accompanied by snow and sleet slowed down activity in the field.
Completions by counties follow:

In Harrison County
Hase & McGill No. B-6 Cooper "B", section 5, block 9, I&GN survey, was given a potential of 510 barrels with lime formation between 3,100 and 3,153 feet.

In Gray County
King Oil co., No. 4 Baer "A", section 126, block 3, I&GN survey, gauged 463 barrels. Lime pay was from 3,240 to 3,279 feet.

Magnolia Petroleum co., No. 25, Fee 227, section 11, block 3, I&GN survey, tested 357 barrels with pay between 2,980 and 2,996 feet in lime.

In Hutchinson County
Gibson Oil co., No. 1 Harvey Sisters, section 71, block Z, ELRR survey, gauged 554 barrels with lime pay from 2,969 to 3,016 feet.

Travelers Oil co., No. 7 Hall "A", section 4, block M-21, Owners survey, was given a potential of 844 barrels with the lime pay between 3,012 and 3,078 feet.

Phillips Petroleum co., No. 37 Cockerell, section 3, block M-21, TCRR survey, tested 353 barrels. Pay was from 2,990 to 3,068 feet in lime.

Stanford Oil & Gas co., No. A-20 Watkins, section 3, block M-21, TCRR survey, gauged 464 feet with lime pay between 2,941 and 3,006 feet.

Intentions to drill:
Continental Oil co., B. F. Block No. 3, 990' from the north and west lines of SE-4 of section 111, block 4, I&GN, Carson county.
Magnolia Petroleum co., J. S. Morse "E" No. 1, 330' from the north and west lines of SW-4 of NW-4 of section 68, block 25, H&GN, Gray county.

Phillips Petroleum co., J. J. Perkins No. 21, 440' from the south 1741' from the west of their lease in section 16, block X-02, B&OB, Hutchinson county.

Texoma Natural Gas co., J. T. Sneed No. 17 Sn. 2120' from the south and 1320' from the west of S-2 of section 31, block 6-T, T&NO Moore county.

L. S. Hobbs, J. T. Hodges No. 4-B, 330' from the north and west lines of E-2 of SE-4 of section 14, block X-02, L. A. Patillo, Hutchinson county.

Mahaffey On Kansas Oil Advisory Board

Max Mahaffey, for several years superintendent of the Cities Service Oil company here, has been named a member of the oil advisory board named last week by Governor Ratter of Kansas.

Mr. Mahaffey is now a resident of El Dorado, Kas., where he is superintendent for the Cities Service Oil company. The board is composed of seven of the state's leading oilmen.

The board has been named to cooperate with the corporation commission of Kansas in "working toward a correction of factors which contribute to the general decline of the oil industry in the state," according to a statement issued by Governor Ratter.

While a resident of Pampa, Mr. Mahaffey was prominent in civic and oil affairs. He was chairman of the Panhandle chapter of the American Petroleum Institute and a member of the Mid-Continent Advisory Board.

Gun Handles, Knives, And Clay Produced In Alanreed Factories

By MRS. H. G. GULL.
ALAN REED, Jan. 28.—This southern Gray County town of less than 200 population, is noted as a center for cotton, fruit growing and truck gardening, but few persons, even those in Gray County, realize that two factories are located here.

The Panhandle Clay Company located a factory here several years ago in order to be near the raw material which they use in making a clay for use in oil wells. This factory is closed down a greater part of the time, but when it is running they turn out a rare product which is much in demand in locations where quick sand is prevalent.

The other factory which never closes (excepting nights and Sundays) is a knife factory. Jim Bryant is the owner, and is assisted by his son, L. W. Bryant. Both are master mechanics. They both make every state in union for their products. President Franklin D. Roosevelt has one of their knives.

These knives are made of steel and are adorned with various handles, according to order. A special kind of tempering is used in tempering the knives which makes them specialities. When Mr. Bryant demonstrates a knife in making a sale he hacks an iron rod, concrete, or any other hard object that is handy then takes a piece of paper and cuts it or shaves the hairs off his arm.

A Pampa man wanted a hollow-ground knife and told Mr. Bryant that he did not think that he could make one, but he did and people who know knives say that they are the best. Another product of this firm is gun handles. Just recently some state highway patrolmen had some new handles put on a part of their guns.

Petroleum Class To Be Organized Here

A vocational class on Petroleum Production Practices will be organized Monday night at 7 o'clock in the study hall at the high school, it was announced yesterday by W. C. Hukeba.

The class will be open to men whose occupation relates to the petroleum industry. Principal courses of study will be equipment used in the daily production of oil, lifting equipment, pumping units, work done by gangs and general production practices.

Able speakers will appear before the class from time to time. A similar school now in progress in LeFors drew an overflow crowd.

Power Company Sold To LCRA For $5,000,000

AUSTIN, Jan. 28 (AP)—A publicly-owned electric utilities "empire" in Central Texas became considerably nearer reality today with the purchase by the Lower Colorado River Authority of properties of the Texas Power and Light Company in 16 counties.

Purchase price was $5,000,000. Contract for transfer of the properties, under negotiation for some time, was approved today by the board of directors of the LCRA.

The deal hastening the start of operations of the "Texas T. V. A." affects properties in San Saba, Lampasas, Llano, Burnet, Blanco, Travis, Falls, Bastrop, Guadalupe, Caldwell, Kerr, Lee, Fayette, Washington, Austin, and Colorado counties.

Power generated by the federally-financed authority at its plants on the Colorado river will be resold to cities in the area, and to rural co-operatives. The authority will retain the transmission lines. Power from the LCRA will not be turned into the lines until legal and engineering details have been completed, probably 90 days. Until that time T. P. and L. will continue to serve the area.

Officials of the authority announced every effort would be made to assist cities in sound operations of their municipal systems.

Twenty-three cities and towns in the LCRA's territory, most of them in the area included in the T. P. and L. purchase, already have voted to put in municipal systems. Within the area of properties purchased today are 62 cities and communities, in addition to rural electrification co-operatives.

The T. P. and L. first asked $7,398,016 for the properties involved. This included ice and water properties. These properties were eliminated and the price set at $5,584,577, which was refused by the LCRA.

With purchase of distributing systems by municipalities and rural co-operatives, the net cost of the LCRA will be reduced to $3,500,000.

Girl Graduate To Have Less Than 50-50 Chance To Land Man Or Job

CHICAGO, Jan. 28 (AP)—Next June's high school sweet girl graduate will have one chance in three of getting married within five years and two chances in five of going to work within one year.

If she goes to work immediately upon finishing school she probably will be married at a later date than her non-working sister and will run a greater risk of being divorced than she would if she did not work outside the home.

These conclusions were reported today by a group of sociologists headed by Lyle M. Spencer, director of science research associates. The latter was organized recently to undertake a long range occupational outlook survey designed to keep American youth from training for non-existent jobs and to guide them into industrial channels which offer better opportunities for going to work.

Sketching from various data a biography of the future of the average girl finishing school this June, the sociologists also concluded she has one chance in ten of working after she is married.

They reported that while "holding down a job does not appear to interfere seriously with a girl's chance of getting married," it does increase the probabilities of her divorce. "At present levels," they said, "about one marriage out of every five being contracted will probably end in divorce, and working wives get far more than their share."

"This is partly due to their feeling of independence gained from knowing that they are capable of earning their own living. Part can also be attributed to the changed living conditions occurring when both husband and wife are gone from the home all day."

Franco Pushes Loyalist Army Toward France

By LARRY ALLEN.
BARCELONA, Jan. 28 (AP)—Insurgent forces bent on conquest of the last corner of Catalonia reported tonight they had captured Arenys de Mar, coastal anchor of the government's new line, almost without firing a shot. Arenys de Mar is 20 miles northeast of Barcelona. Insurgents said the government opposition could be called genuine military resistance only by courtesy. They said the Catalonian defense actually had collapsed with the fall of Barcelona on Thursday, the government's greatest civil war defeat.

Apparently the greatest insurgent pressure was on the government's coastal flank. Granollers, 15 miles west of Arenys de Mar, was said to have been more than half encircled. To the west and northwest the story was much the same.

The government army was equal in numbers to the insurgents—about 300,000 men—but, lacking arms and ammunition, it was being rolled back toward France.

Even in Central and Southeastern Spain, government forces were giving ground, the insurgents said.

Troops Franco used to occupy and police Barcelona at first were leaving the metropolis for the front tonight.

Breadlines had been organized to function with precision for the relief of the hungry among the 1,500,000 people who remained in the former government capital when it was captured.

Barcelona had been on war rations for weeks while the insurgents were pushing to the city. Observers expected the war to drag on in Central Spain toward an inevitable government defeat. The aim would be to enable Franco to turn to the Madrid, Valencia and other fronts with 300,000 additional men.

Author Urges Parents To Be Hard-Boiled

By LYDIA GRAY SHAW
(AP) Feature Service Writer
NEW YORK—F. Van Wyck Mason is a mild-mannered man, but when he deals with children, he says, "Do as I say, or else..."

And sons Van and Bobby, ten and eight respectively, do as he says pretty fast. They know the "or else" means a good licking.

That's the way the Mason household has always been run, says the author of "Three Harbours," a novel of Revolutionary days. Van and Bobby have definite chores to do, and no excuses given.

When the family is in Bermuda, where Mason does his winter stint of writing, the youngsters are responsible for getting the paper at the postoffice daily, rain or shine. They have to keep the wood basket filled, too, whether they're tired from play or not.

"What's more, their basic allowance is five cents a week. The rest of their spending money must be earned around the house. And papa calls them to account if they don't earn enough."

Mason is full of revolutionary ideas on child-raising. He shudders if you even murmur the word "progressive."

"All this emphasis on individual guidance is a lot of baloney," he asserts. "The world isn't going to treat your child as an individual. He's going to be only one of a crowd, up against a lot of competition. Might as well get used to it early. There's no point in coddling him."

So when Van and Bobby start a fist fight, there's no parental interference.

"Let 'em fight it out," says Van Senior.

Mason even goes so far as to say that parents shouldn't be entirely fair in their dealings with their children. Eighty per cent of the time is enough, he says. That's the way they'll find life.

Van and Bobby have survived this upbringing pretty well. They are active little boys, thin and rangy. They stop ripping around the house at a word from their parents. They're curious to see what works now, but their questions aren't silly. And they shake hands without being prompted.

Mason, who admits having tossed off 20 novels and 50 magazine pieces, got even more violent on the subject of child-raising after he did the research for his latest novel. He's convinced that children today are a bunch of sissies—with special emphasis on the Boy Scouts. The Revolutionary had known how to chift for themselves.

Given the chance, Mason would have his sons taught only by men teachers and co-education is out. Boys are going to have to deal with men most of their lives, says the author blithely, so no sense in having a lot of girls around to confuse them.

Missouri farm lands now are selling for approximately 45 per cent of the 1927 price, a survey by the college of agriculture indicated. Average sale price in 1927 was $59 an acre and in 1938 it was $26.

Upward of 800 uses are recorded for the various parts of the palmyra palm, which is considered the most useful plant in the world.
