Strike Wave Hits London

LONDON (AP) — The growing strike wave against the Conservative government's new labor law hit the London bus system and Heathrow Airport today, taking most of the double-deck red buses off the city's streets and canceling many flights to the Continent.

The Official Solicitor, an independent watchdog for the legal system or sort of ombudsman, was to appear before the Industrial Relations Court today to ask for the release of the five longshoremen whose imprisonment last Friday touched off the strike wave. But there was no indication whether the court would free the men, whom it held in contempt because they defied its order to stop illegal picketing.

The five men are the first jailed under the anti-strike law which Prime Minister Edward Heath's Conservatives pushed through Parliament last year, and the strike wave in support of them has turned into a drive to nullify the law.

More than 300,000 workers were estimated on strike, and the engineering workers' union ordered its 1.5 million members to down their tools next Monday for 24 hours. The general council of the Trades Union Congress, the governing body of British trade unions, called a meeting to consider demands for a one-day general strike on Monday.

In London, 24,000 transport workers went out until midnight, forcing bus passengers into the subways, taxis, private cars or onto the sidewalks. There were 3,000 ground workers out at Heathrow, national newspapers did not publish for the fourth day, and a strike of brewery men threatened the city with a beer shortage.

London has been without fresh meat, fruit and vegetables for two days, since market porters walked out. All ports in the nation were closed by the strike of 50,000 longshoremen and thousands of other workers. Hundreds of ships were trapped.

Heath and Labor party Leader Harold Wilson argued angrily in the House of Commons Tuesday night over the core of the crisis, the government's Industrial Relations Act.

House Puts Off Action On Busing

WASHINGTON (AP) — A sharply divided House Education Committee voted today to postpone for another week any action on a strong antibusing bill.

The committee voted 18-16 to hear more witnesses on the controversial measure and to put off any action on it until next Wednesday.

The vote came after Rep. Alphonzo Bell, R-Calif., told the committee it would be a serious mistake to approve such a far-reaching bill without further study.

Clarence Mitchell, a veteran lobbyist for the NAACP, kept the Education and Labor Committee from acting Tuesday by spending all day in the witness chair attacking the proposed legislation.

Mitchell said Congress is acting like a lynch mob in its rush to ban busing and is undercutting the courts by trying to limit their powers to order busing in desegregation cases.

Several test votes indicated supporters of the bill have a majority on the committee, and they planned to press for prompt action today.

Sen. Eagleton Refuses To Show Health Record

Offer To Quit Rejected

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Democratic vice-presidential nominee Thomas F. Eagleton refused anew today to release medical records of his three hospital treatments for nervous exhaustion but said he would talk with his doctors about allowing them to discuss his past medical problems.

Eagleton also said he now realizes he made a mistake by not telling Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern about the three hospital stays before McGovern recommended him to the Democratic National Convention.

Eagleton revealed Tuesday that he had voluntarily submitted to hospital treatment in 1960, 1964 and 1966 for "nervous exhaustion and fatigue" brought on by overwork. Twice he received psychiatric care and electric shock treatment.

Eagleton elaborated on that announcement today, although Tuesday he said he would have no further comment on it during the campaign.

He said he does not now receive any medication except for "an occasional, very sporadic tranquilizer. I don't even know the name of it."

He said he did not feel any need for a psychiatric examination now and would not submit to one unless McGovern, President Nixon and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew do the same.

In New York, Clark MacGregor, head of the Republican campaign to re-elect President Nixon, indicated at a news conference today Eagleton's medical history would not be a campaign issue. He said Nixon has instructed persons connected with him "governmentally and politically" not to comment.

Pressed repeatedly by reporters on the matter of Eagleton's health, MacGregor declared, "We will make no comment whatever about the disclosures from South Dakota yesterday."

Rejecting Thomas F. Eagleton's offer to quit the Democratic ticket, Sen. George McGovern says he wants to "wait and see" the reaction to his running mate's revelation that he received psychiatric care and shock treatments.

McGovern's top political adviser, Frank Mankiewicz, said the next three days will be "a little touchy," and that the incident can't be a plus for the Democrats in their uphill battle to take the White House from President Nixon.

Mankiewicz said that he thinks "a lot will depend on how the Republicans handle it. If they take it and run, there could be a considerable backlash," he said.

Eagleton told reporters on a flight to Los Angeles that "time will tell" how the public reacts to his disclosure that he voluntarily hospitalized himself in 1960, 1964 and 1966, because of "nervous exhaustion and fatigue."

Later he scheduled a news conference for today and said he would answer additional questions on his treatments.

The first Republican reaction came from Sen. Lowell Peter Weicker of Connecticut. He said in a speech prepared for the Senate today that he has worked with Eagleton on the District of Columbia committee and "should he win, I have no doubts he will fulfill with distinction the duties of vice president of the United States."

Grover To Speak At Civic Clubs
State Senator Henry Grover, Republican candidate for governor of Texas, is scheduled to be in Pampa next week.

ASSESSMENT CHECK—This was one of several busy corners in the Gray County Court room yesterday as representatives of petroleum producers and other industry went over the revaluation figures on their county holdings with members of Thomas Y. Pickett Co., Dallas, consultants to Gray County. Clockwise from the left, J. W. Lee, B. J. Smith, both of Thomas Y. Pickett; Paul A. Tiemeier, Amaco Prod. Co. and L. J. Skylab Crew Begins Test In Chamber SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Three astronauts enter a small altitude chamber here today for 56 days in order to help fellow astronauts who will spend the same amount of time orbiting the earth.

The test Wednesday, delayed a week because of failure of monitoring equipment, will see Robert I. Crippen, William E. Thornton and Karol J. Bobko enter a chamber which duplicates the cabin of a Skylab orbiting laboratory.

The first Skylab is due for launch next April on a 28-day mission. Later plans call for two 56-day missions.

The astronauts, none of whom have flown in space, are taking on the chore to aid medical men who will be watching over the crew on the flying Skylab Missions.

The atmosphere in the test chamber will be like that of Skylab, 70 per cent oxygen and 30 per cent nitrogen under five pounds pressure.

Crippen, Bobko and Thornton will evaluate selected items of equipment, the placement of gear and the handling of experimental data.

They will also be eating Skylab type food and disposing of all of the garbage which can accumulate during 56 days.

N. Viet Dikes Bombed, Says Miss Fonda

PARIS (AP) — Actress Jane Fonda says her travels through North Vietnam led her to believe "profoundly that dikes are being bombed on purpose" by American planes.

The U.S. government has denied deliberately bombing the dikes, a tactic that would flood a large area.

The actress told a news conference here Tuesday that she inspected an area 38 miles southeast of Hanoi where U.S. bombs scored a direct hit on an "extremely important" dike at the confluence of five rivers.

There were no military targets or communications links in the area, she said.

She produced a film she said she made during her North Vietnam visit July 8-22, which showed two bombed dikes areas.

The film also showed seven American prisoners of war who she said supported the presidential candidacy of Sen. George McGovern because "they fear if Nixon stays in office they will be prisoners for ever."

The prisoners urged their parents and friends to work for the victory of the South Dakota Democrat, the actress said.

None of the prisoners in the film, who wore purple and red striped uniforms, was identified.

Trio Takes Over Plane For Drugs

HILLSBORO, Tex. (AP) — The Department of Public Safety said three men overpowered a customs agent and took over a government plane today at Cameron, landing it later at Hillsboro.

The department said the plane was believed to be carrying 2,500 pounds of narcotics, type unknown.

The department said two men emerged from the plane at Hillsboro, walked away, and were picked up in a blue Camaro, which then headed toward Dallas.

The safety department said the plane was commandeered at 6:30 a.m. at Cameron, southeast of Temple.

Reason for the plane's being there was not known. Cameron has only a small airstrip and refueling requires a call into the town.

Officers said the leader of the trio is a pilot and was armed and considered dangerous.

The plane is a twin-engine Lockheed Lodestar which had sufficient fuel for flying 400 miles.

City Officials To Meet With Dallas Engineers

Representatives of Forrest and Cotton, Dallas consultant engineers, will meet with city officials tomorrow to explain the preliminary process design for Pampa's waste water treatment to be in full compliance with requirements of the Texas Water Quality Board.

The meeting is scheduled with City Manager Mack Wofford, Mayor Milo Carlson and City Commissioner R. B. Wilkerson. City commissioners Leo Braswell, George B. Cree Jr. and Arthur Rohde are out of the city.

The TWQWB has determined Pampa's sewage treatment plant is not up to state standards in the matter of industrial waste being emptied into Red Deer Creek.

The state board has just recently been sent Pampa's time-table for steps to be taken

Tax Hearings End; Local Airing Later

Tax hearings with petroleum producers and other representatives of industry ended this morning several hours short of the two full days allotted.

Members of the Gray County Commissioners Court has convened as a board of equalization to hear any appeals regarding revaluation in the county but not one was forthcoming.

"All differences were minor and were ironed out with members of the firm of Thomas Y. Pickett," Gray County Judge Don Cain told the News.

Thomas Y. Pickett Co., Dallas, acting as industrial tax consultants had made the revaluation of such property in the county.

The next step is a hearing in August or possibly, September for local tax payers who have questions or appeals regarding revaluation of their property.

The whole process is being conducted with great reluctance on the part of the judge and county commissioners with a great lack of understanding of ad valorem taxes on the part of the taxpayer.

"Everything we are doing is to comply with the law," Judge Cain said. "The law has said there is a limit on the amount of taxes we can charge. The law has said that taxes must be equitable to all and that, if they are not, they must be made so."

For some 30 years petroleum and other industry in the county had been assessed at the 20 per cent rate while local taxpayers were assessed at 10 per cent. This was standardized at 20 per cent to comply with statutes demanding equality.

The assessment percentage was raised to 23 per cent this year to raise needed revenues to meet county operating costs while wiping out a deficit inherited by the current county administration.

This read "23 cents" in yesterday's account of the hearing but should have been "23 per cent assessment."

The rate is $1.25 per hundred dollars of assessment and is the maximum allowed by law. Therefore, to gain more money to run the county, there must be more hundreds of dollars and these are gained by revaluation.

Two things are happening in the world of the Gray County taxpayer: the assessed rate has been raised and all property is being revalued in the light of today's increased values in all realms of living.

The taxpayer has no recourse in the setting of the 23 per cent assessment rate. That is allowed by statute. The taxpayer does have the right to appeal the revaluation.

State Comptroller Disputes Claim By Senate Unit Staff

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — State Comptroller Robert S. Calvert has labeled "invalid" an accusation by a Senate committee's staff that he was costing Texas $12 million annually by laxity in sales tax collection.

The accusation was made five months ago at a hearing of a special Senate committee on taxation.

Calvert, 80, said Tuesday that one section of the staff report was merely an attempt to "defame me." The comptroller won re-election in June to another two-year term.

ered by the (general sales tax) act are delinquent in some form.

The staff also said the state audit system of the sales tax was "quite frankly, indefensible" and that Texas ranked 39th of 41 states in the percentage of accounts audited.

Christie made the alleged loss of sales tax revenue an issue in his campaign for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor but ran third in eight-man race.

Calvert said he saw the staff report for the first time when it was released to the five-member Senate committee in February.

His answer included a 16-page summary and 37 pages of supporting material.

The only point on which Calvert and the Senate staff apparently agree is that Texas needs more auditors for the sales tax and needs to pay them more.

He said, however, he asked for 58 more auditors in 1972-73, which the legislature refused, but did not think the staff needed to be doubted by adding 121 new auditors as the committee staff recommended.

Calvert said his "detailed analysis and evaluation has disclosed that the committee staff has attempted to derogate from my reputation and the capabilities of my employees through the use of fallacious information, erroneous evaluations and comparisons and unsupported comments."

However, there was no confirmation of this.

Connally's visit was described as "unannounced but not unexpected." A Wallace aide said Connally wanted the visit kept a secret from the news media so that it would not "look like a political visit."

"It was a social visit," Connally said later. "I meant to see him when he was in Maryland, but never did get the chance."

The two men also discussed the shooting incidents in which they were involved, and Connally encouraged Wallace to keep up the therapy to overcome as much as possible of his paralysis.

Connally was governor of Texas in 1963 when he was wounded while riding in the Dallas motorcade in which President John F. Kennedy was assassinated. Wallace was wounded May 15 while campaigning in Laurel, Md.

Wallace has not ruled out unequivocally the chance of another third-party campaign. But some members of his staff are predicting he will make a firm "I-won't-run" statement before or during the American Party convention which opens Aug. 3 at Louisville, Ky.

Wallace is still paralyzed in both legs from the would-be assassin's bullet which penetrated the abdominal wall and struck his spinal cord, and he is undergoing physical therapy at the Spain Rehabilitation Center in Birmingham.

Connally Visits Wallace

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Gov. George C. Wallace, reported by friends to be planning to watch the presidential race from the sidelines, has been visited by former Treasury Secretary John B. Connally.

Connally called on Wallace Tuesday and a source close to the Alabama governor said it would be natural to assume the two discussed Connally's "Democrats for Nixon" movement.

Narcotics Agents Indicted

WACO, Tex. (AP) — Two men identified as state narcotics agents have been indicted by a federal grand jury for allegedly beating a Waco attorney during a narcotics raid here March 26.

Indictments, returned Tuesday named Billy Warren Clifton and Bobby Gene Adams, described as narcotics agents for the Texas Department of Public Safety. They are charged with violating the civil rights of Charles M. McDonald.

Charges had originally been filed against McDonald, an attorney in Waco, but they were dismissed in county court. The briefs of the trial were sent to U.S. Atty. William Sessions in Houston. The grand jury action indictment followed.

The indictment says Clifton and Adams, "acting under cover of the laws of the state of Texas," beat McDonald. It said they "thereby (did) willfully deprive Charles Milton McDonald of the rights secured and protected by the Constitution but to be deprived of liberty without due process of law."

The agents have not been arrested and will be arraigned later.

Johnson Remains Under Observation In Hospital

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Doctors apparently have not ruled out the possibility that former President Lyndon B. Johnson may have had a heart attack Monday, but officials said there is no evidence that he suffered a major seizure.

Johnson, who had a heart attack in 1955 and again only last April, was flown to the Army's Brooke General Hospital here Monday night with chest pains and nausea.

"While there is at this time no evidence of a major severe heart attack of the sort he experienced in April, 1972, an additional period of observation in the hospital is indicated," spokesmen said Tuesday afternoon. There was no elaboration on this point.

The former President spent a comfortable night Monday "without recurrence of severe chest pain and nausea," officials said.

They said his electrocardiogram "remains stable and his heart rhythm regular."

Last April, a brief burst of rapid heart action brought Johnson's personal heart specialist, Dr. J. Willis Hurst, here from his home in Atlanta, Ga., while Johnson was undergoing treatment for his heart attack.

Hurst is being kept informed of Johnson's condition by telephone, the hospital reported, adding: "He may visit later but there is no urgency under the present circumstances."

Charges Dropped

HOUSTON (AP) — Felony charges of interfering with a federal marshal were dropped Tuesday against four men who chained themselves to the Federal Court House in an April antiwar demonstration.

Federal prosecutors said they no longer desire to prosecute the felony cases.

Still facing misdemeanor charges of blocking an entrance to a federal building are Cliff Randall Bain, 21, Wayne Edward Bogel, 25, Mickey McGuire, 33, and Mark Wilson, 19, all of Houston.

Four Houston women ranging in age from 22 to 47 also face similar misdemeanor charges.

ON THEFT CASE Judge Refuses Paper Injunction

LAREDO, Tex. (AP) — A state district court judge has refused to enjoin a newspaper from printing pre-trial information in a cattle theft case, saying the injunction would be a "harsh remedy."

However, Judge James Kazen noted Monday that the Laredo Times and other news media should display an understanding of the judicial process and use self-restraint.

"An injunction, coupled with possible contempt proceeding is a harsh remedy and I will not resort to it unless I have no alternative," said Judge Kazen in denying a defense motion.

The Times had published an editorial indicating the possibility of conflict of interest on the part of Dist. Atty. Carlos Catillon, who, the paper noted, does legal work for the father of one of four youths accused.

The four defendants are Paul E. Prevost, Richard Garza, Vela, George Longoria and Luis Bruni, all members of well known Laredo families.

They are under an indictment on charges of theft under $50. The indictment alleges they stole and killed a calf from the Kueyendall Ranch east of Laredo April 21.

The four were first accused of a felony but the charge was later reduced to a misdemeanor.

Four members of the Laredo Times staff were subpoenaed for the Monday hearing where the defense sought the injunction to keep the newspaper from publishing additional information in the case and also a continuance of the trial.

The continuance until October was granted.

"I hope the news media will display an understanding of the duties and obligations of the judges, the lawyers, the peace officers and the judicial process in general," the judge said, "and that it will cooperate with this court in not publishing and disseminating prejudicial matters prior to the trial of these and any other defendants."

He denied prejudicial matter "as publicity which, if read by a potential or actual juror may reasonably be used by him in deciding the issues of guilt and punishment and which might not be admitted as evidence at a trial."

Private Jobs Subject For DA Meeting

AUSTIN (AP) — 'Texas' district attorneys are expected to decide in September whether they should agree to give up private law practice in exchange for a major pay raise.

The topic will come up for some serious debate at the convention of the Texas District and County Attorneys Association Sept. 14-16.

A major item in the proposed 1973 legislative program to be approved at the convention would ask that district attorneys in counties of more than 50,000 population be paid the same as district judges.

"The thinking now" is to tie this request to a prohibition on outside work by district attorneys, "but some district attorneys don't want it—they don't want to have to give up their clients. I don't know how the association will vote on it," said Dain Whitworth, the association's executive director.

Texas law—except in rare cases—permits both district and county attorneys to practice civil law on the side.

Whitworth said that this is probably necessary as long as salaries remain at their present annual level—$15,000 paid by the state for district attorneys. County attorneys receive as little as $4,500. District judges receive $22,000.

Salaries of some judges and a handful of district and county attorneys are supplemented by their county commissioners courts.

"If outside work were prohibited, you would get some nut in there—someone who is not a good lawyer, who would work for that," Whitworth said.

He acknowledged "there is always a possibility" of conflict of interest if a district attorney's civil client suddenly becomes involved in a criminal case.

There have been instances where a district attorney disqualified himself and brought somebody in from another district to handle a case "because of such a conflict," Whitworth said.

Miss Kitty Loves Her Cats

By DICK KLEINER HOLLYWOOD — (N.E.A.)

Gunsmoke is going into its 18th season, which means that it's old enough to vote. That's kind of a frightening thought for Amanda Blake. She has been playing Kitty on the CBS show since it began. What started out as a tentative job has almost bridged a generation. But she's ready for another season, undaunted, unboored and very rich.

She is, however, looking ahead to the inevitable day when the show goes off the air. And her plans revolve around her love for animals.

At the moment she and her husband Frank Gilbert live in Phoenix, Ariz. She virtually commutes to Los Angeles to shoot the show on her private plane. But she says it's worth it because on the Arizona place she has room for her lion.

Kemo is a 200-pounder who roams the fenced-in yard. His friends are Theda, the raccoon, a couple of horses, a Shetland pony, five dogs and four cats.

And there's a recent addition to the menagerie — a leopard cub Amanda picked up from one of those exotic pet stores. She gets violent on the subject of how so many of these places mistreat animals.

She says she "rescued" the cub from the store's clutches. They were feeding it horsemeat which, she says, isn't adequate for wild animals. They need other things for a balanced diet.

"But you can't just go in and pay the price they ask,"

Amanda Blake — Wealthy and enjoying her career, but looking forward to retiring.

she says. "They may be asking $300, but you have to wait until the animal gets a little sick. Then you can get it for about $50, or so. That way the store owner doesn't make a profit and can't buy any more."

Besides all that Gilbert is a bird lover and raises various exotic breeds of pheasants.

Not long ago they went to Africa for the first time. Amanda says her husband wasn't too keen on the trip although she had always wanted to go.

"I've been playing Tarzan and Jane since I was a kid," she says. "But when we got there he liked it as much as I did."

there ne liked it as much as I did."

Now they're thinking of buying a place in Kenya, about a 40-minute drive outside of Nairobi. There's a little farm for sale—17 acres, complete with a house, barns, kennels, everything a nice animal-lover from Hollywood could want.

"And it's only 57 thou," she says.

They're planning to go back and look at it on the show's next hiatus, probably this summer. If they like it, she says, they'll buy it and eventually move there permanently. They'd use it for their vacations until Gunsmoke calls it quits, then make the permanent move.

But it may be a bunch of years yet until Gunsmoke is shot down. It shows no signs of losing its appeal. And the studio just redecorated her dressing room. They don't do that for sinking shows.

Her dressing room, as it now stands, is right out of the period, with pseudo-Dodge City decor. The refrigerator has a false front—it looks like an old safe. And over the bar reclines a nude lady in a lush painting.

So it looks like the show will linger a while longer. And Amanda, although she talks longly about retiring to Africa in one breath, turns around and talks about her career just as excitedly in the next.

"I love working," she says. "I want to keep on working. The only way they'll get me to quit is to carry me out of the studio feet first."

Answers to Employment Questions by Secretary of Labor James D. Hodgson

Loan Helps Mother Seek 'Second Career'

O. J. of Lawrence, Mass., writes: I would like to study nursing as a half-time student. Could I get a loan? Otherwise I would have to use my children's bank account which I'm saving for their education.

Dear O. J.: The Nurse Training Act of 1971 makes it possible for a half-time student to obtain a generous student loan. A large part of the loan is forgiven as you practice your profession.

While some women with families who plan to seek a "second career" hesitate to obligate themselves, the low interest on a government educational loan makes it much more advantageous than the interest you would lose on your children's bank account.

More detailed information is available from the Nursing Education Branch Loan Section, Division of Nursing, National Institute of Health, 9000 Rockville Pike, Bethesda, Md., 20014.

VAN OF LEARNING ELGIN, Ill. (AP) — The Elgin YWCA Action Van, a self-contained camper trailer, has lived up to its name during the year it has been in operation.

Mrs. Vernon Patton, YWCA urban affairs director, said the van has been used for activities ranging from children's cooking classes to a standing-room-only meeting of parents and school faculty.

On Thursdays the van is open for women to sew, knit or type.

happening. Women never drove the Model T because they couldn't turn the crank. Then along came the electric self-starter and everything changed.

Similar changes have been taking place in industry. Trade unions are changing. Unions now report to the Department of Labor that women are working in 50 different skilled mechanical trades either as apprentices or full-fledged mechanics.

Our records show more than 700 women apprentices throughout the nation, with about one-third of them in construction and manufacturing trades. We have a report of women machinists, air-conditioning mechanics, sheet metal workers, and electronics technicians in Navy yards around the country. We know of women painters and women working in printing and book-binding trades as apprentices. These are some of the indications that lead me to believe the artificial barriers to women in "men's jobs" are coming down.

Dear B. J.: Yes there are. You could be a van driver's helper or a warehouse worker. Or you could be a cash clerk who tallies the cash collected by drivers, a cab dispatcher, or a junior rate clerk. These are beginning jobs that will put you in the right place at the right time when you are old enough for driving jobs.

C. D. of Hampton, Va., writes: The women's lib movement has been getting some privileges for us women that only the men used to enjoy. Do you see any chance of an upsurge in the number of high-paying mechanics' jobs open to women?

Dear C. D.: It's already

ANCHOR CHAIN HELPS FOREST GROW QUEBEC (AP) — Anchor chain originally intended for a Canadian destroyer is being used to grow forests in Ontario.

Twenty-foot lengths of chain are dragged by tractors across waste land where trees have been harvested for newsprint and other forest products.

To each 76-pound link is welded a long heavy tractor pin, which churns the soil up over the surface mat of old pine needles and forest debris.

This helps put the jackpine seeds in direct contact with soil so they will germinate. If the seeds stayed on top of the non-soil mat, they could not germinate and produce a new forest.

Grand Juries Limited To Criminal Rules

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Grand juries cannot make reports on matters that do not include criminal indictments, Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin this week.

The opinion says that the only authority of a grand jury is "investigating possible criminal offenses and delivering any resulting indictments."

"There being no authority given to the grand jury to investigate civil matters or to make any investigation into circumstances where no criminal offense is suspected or alleged, no report of recommendation to the district court in such matters is authorized," Martin said.

The opinion was requested by El Paso County Atty. George N. Rodriguez Jr.

Chief Red Fox Recounts Days In Wild West

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — At 102, Chief Red Fox smiled through his weatherbeaten features when he recounted his days with the original Buffalo Bill Wild West Show and Congress of Rough Riders, with which he spent 15 years.

The Oglala Sioux honorary chief, was born in Dakota Territory in 1870 and celebrated his 102nd birthday on June 11.

The veteran entertainer tramped the world as a show business performer and a sailor until retiring only last October.

The chief appeared in 107 movies during his lifetime and has now turned author, compiling his memoirs on which he worked for some 30 years.

"My mother and father knew chief said and that was how he got started into the wild west show."

He joined the original show in 1893 in Chicago at the world's fair and spent 15 seasons with the show until he entered vaudeville.

Red Fox remembered William F. Cody as thinking "more of Indians than cowboys" throughout Cody's life. He said Cody once told him all you have to do to make a cowboy is "to buy him a red shirt, a big hat, a pair of boots and a sack of Bull Durham tobacco but you can't make Indians."

Cody was "his own worst enemy" the chief said, "he would give his last dollar away" if it helped somebody else.

Red Fox came to Nebraska from his Corpus Christi, Tex., home at the request of Montie Montana Jr., the producer of the Wild West Show's revival which will open in the state arena at North Platte, Neb., July 29. Buffalo Bill was "a good man" he said, "he would let the children come up and sit on his lap" at performances or lift them into the saddle of a nearby horse and give them rides.

After he left the Wild West Show, Red Fox toured the vaudeville and rodeo circuits for nearly 20 years performing rope tricks and Indian dances.

After the demise of vaudeville he performed in schools and colleges until the early 1950s when he became the representative of a large meat company.

He said he attributed his long life to the 18 cigars he smokes each day at his home. He lives alone and spends a great deal of time cooking.

People in this day and age "are not content, not settled,"

he said. "The brotherhood of man is gone," not like it used to be when neighbor helped neighbor, he explained.

But, he asserted, "it's a great life if we live it right."

TELEVISION THROUGH GLASS WALL

LONDON (AP) — A special all-glass wall developed in Britain makes it possible to view and televise squash games from behind the back wall.

The wall is made of plates of 1/2-inch toughened glass, which is as much as five times stronger than ordinary window glass of the same thickness.

The problem of reflections and sighting the ball against a transparent surface were solved by etching vertical, parallel lines into the inner, or court, surface of the lowest 2 1/2 feet of the glass. Most times, the ball hits the back wall below this level, the manufacturer found.

PROTECT BACK-COUNTRY

WASHINGTON (AP) — A trial program to protect some fragile back-country areas, by limiting each area's use to the number of persons it can accommodate without environmental damage, has been started in three national parks.

The three where it has started are Kings Canyon National Park in California, Rocky Mountain National Park in Colorado and Great Smoky Mountains National Park in Tennessee and North Carolina.

The program applies only to the back-country of the three parks, not to normal visitor usage of developed areas within the parks.

Public Access: Do-It-Yourself TV

By RALPH NOVAK

NEW YORK — (NEA) — "Hey, what's on?" has become the central question of the television age, replacing "What is the meaning of life?"

Up until now, the answer has usually been something like "My Little Margie," "The Flintstones," "The Dating Game" or "Football." But we are in the midst of an incipient revolution that may some day give us such viewing alternatives as the Sunday service at the Presbyterian church down on the corner, a PTA meeting at the local high school, a concert by a polka band down at the America VFW hall or a panel discussion by a neighborhood group on how to deal with pollution problems in their area.

The rebel in question is cable television. The specific agent involved is the public access channel, which is something like a telephone line. Theoretically, at least, it can be used on a first-come, first-served basis at any time by anybody who wants to communicate something. Cable television (which brings signals to television receivers through wires instead of the air) can transmit a large number of signals cheaply and efficiently.

So when the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) early this year issued an involved set of regulations for cable television, it included a provision that all new cable systems in the top 100 television markets in the country must provide at least one public access channel. And it ordered all existing systems to provide a public channel before April 1, 1977.

Thus far there are only two regularly functioning public service operations, one in Reading, Pa., the other in New York.

Since New York's two public service channels began operating last July (they were required by the city's franchise agreement with the two cable companies active here), more than 100 independent groups have produced programs. Each channel is active for about five hours a day.

Most individuals and local groups are awed by the thought of putting on their own television show. (What mortal dares to imagine himself the equal of Walter Cronkite, Lucille Ball or Johnny Carson?) So almost all the public access programs produced here have been supervised by professionals at three centers supported by government and foundations funds, New York University's Alternate Media Center, Global Village and Open Channel.

Open Channel, which has spent about $150,000 in its first year in helping turn out about six hours of programming a week, gave some idea of the possibilities of public access at a recent retrospective showing of programs it helped create.

One high school student interviews another about graffiti on the school walls. A community newspaper reporter investigates National Guard activities at a local park. A group of black construction workers picket a project. The choir at a church bursts into a gospel. A neighborhood group discusses zoning changes in its area.

None of which will knock "All in the Family" off the rating charts. But the programs show the flexibility of cable television—programs can be shown citywide or to a small area, designed for a large general audience or a small specific one.

"We have freedom of speech and freedom of the press," says Theodora Sklover, Open Channel's executive director. "This is the beginning of freedom of television."

The stress is on the word "beginning," since public access television still has more than its share of problems.

One is regulation. What limits, if any, should be put on what kind of material is shown and who will impose those limits? What about libel, inciting to riot, blasphemy? (FCC rules already prohibit the showing of advertising, lottery information or obscene matter.)

The New York cable systems are permitted by their franchise to preview all public access programs (all shows are video taped). But only two programs have been rejected, both for being too sexually explicit.

"When the public access idea first came up, everybody thought it would all be only kooks coming up with programs," Ms. Sklover says. "It hasn't turned out that way. The only time we've turned people down is when we didn't have enough facilities to meet the demand."

Another problem is financing. Even though cable programs are relatively cheap to produce, not every individual or group can afford his own studio. The public access centers here have been providing equipment and technical help to would-be program producers but their grants will not last forever and they want future cable franchise arrangements to provide for some kind of financing for public access, perhaps by taxing cable fees.

Politics enters in, too. Anda Korst wrote recently in the "Cable Report" section of the "Chicago Journalism Review" that one explanation for the lack of cable television franchises in Chicago is that Mayor Richard Daley is concerned about the political possibilities of public access.

There is also the difficulty in overcoming the traditional let-you-entertain-me attitude toward television. "People have to learn that just as a piece of paper is a medium for communication, so is television," Ms. Sklover says.

And there is the distribution question: Is anybody watching?

There are only about 100,000 cable subscribers in New York and most of them are a lot less interested in public access programs than they are in seeing the home games of the Knicks and Rangers, which are cable's biggest attractions here.

Nationwide there were at the end of 1971 about 2,800 cable systems serving six million subscribers, or only about 9 per cent of all television households in America, according to "On the Cable," a report based on an 18-month study by the Alfred P. Sloan Foundation's Commission on Cable Communications.

The Sloan Commission also predicted, however, that by 1980 more than 40 per cent of American television homes would have cable service, creating a potentially vital role for public access channels in the communications process.

Committee Can Control Its Records

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The House Administration Committee can release information from the personnel records of House employees, but the committee also can restrict access to such data, Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin ruled Monday.

Personnel records of both the House and the Senate were used earlier this year when newsmen revealed that numerous legislators were employing their own and other legislators' relatives.

"It is our opinion that generally it is within the sound discretion of the custodian of the records as to what information or portion of the record he may see fit to disclose to the public," the opinion said.

The National Report on What's Happening

Elvis the Starter
And the Finisher

By ERNESTINE GUGLIELMO

On stage in a white-sequined jumpsuit and a gleaming cape with a red satin lining, Elvis Presley with his ageless good looks, seemed miraculously transported from the '50s to the '70s.

And perfectly at ease at his press conference, Elvis Presley with the barest trace of his arrogant grin answered questions, like why he outlasted all his competition, with a flip "I take a lot of Vitamin E." He was still real smooth. Until he was asked about his political views. "Honey, I'd like to keep my personal views to myself. I'm just an entertainer," was how the King of Rock and Roll put an end to that line of questioning.

Like the final silence from the '50s, when the Korean war raged but pony-tailed prom queens and men with grease-stained combs sticking out of back pockets didn't seem to know it, Elvis Presley's political opinions still didn't matter.

The psychedelia of the '60s shouted down that silence with slogans like "Right on," "Do your own thing" and other vague exclamations that made people feel closer to awareness.

The Beatles, who admitted one goal was "to be bigger than Elvis," became leaders in a more socially aware and politically active time. Lyrics began to be more political and rock groups were no longer "just entertainers." They became spokesmen, leaders, sometimes without having anything to say. Bill Graham calls it "mass adulation when groups became gods and goddesses, prophets instead of musicians."

Elvis Presley stopped touring and spent his intermission between the '50s and '70s starring in B-grade movies, while the Beatles and Rolling Stones took center stage.

The cliched slogans turned into political action as more and more groups began to come out for specific causes. George Harrison, Ringo Starr and Bob Dylan performing for the Concert for Bangladesh. John Lennon and Yoko Ono at almost every peace rally. Pete Seeger and Jerry Butler performing at an Evening with Angela Davis. And scores of singers and artists performing at McGovern benefits.

But Elvis Presley has survived all those changes. And despite his lack of political expression, he manages to capture an audience with his imperishable theatrical magic.

When Elvis Presley walks on a stage amid a blinding succession of flashing bulbs and screaming voices, 16 years dissolve as though nothing had changed. As though Elvis Presley had never been gone.

Dear Abby

Mother upset over daughter's foul mouth

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1972 by Charles Scribner's Sons, Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I have a 21-year-old daughter who will be a college freshman. She was raised in a moral and decent home. Lately she has begun to pepper her language with filthy four-letter words.

When I told her that I found her language offensive, she said everybody talks that way nowadays, and I should "get with it."

I am 50 years old and am not about to "get with" filthy language.

My daughter says, "They are only words, and it's a person's right to use the words he wants to use."

I would like your opinion. OFFENDED MOM

DEAR MOM: The "right" to swing one's arms ends where the other fellow's nose begins. Tell your daughter to "get with" and launder her language in your presence. No one has the right to pollute the atmosphere with audible garbage.

DEAR ABBY: My wife is young, 25, and she is naturally big busted, and usually a little cleavage shows when she wears a dress with just a normal neckline.

My parents think this is in bad taste. They invited us for lunch at their country club, and told me to please tell my wife to wear something with no cleavage showing. They say nobody dresses that way at a country club.

Abby, if I were to tell my wife what they said, you would hear screaming from Los Angeles to New York, so I turned down the invitation.

I like the way she looks in these dresses. Most of the women in my family are flat-chested.

I don't know how they dress at country clubs, do you? J. IN MIRADA, CAL.

DEAR J.: I doubt if a woman wearing a dress with "a little cleavage" showing would be out of place in any country club.

DEAR ABBY: I wonder how many houseguests there are who think they are being helpful to their hostesses, but are actually making more work for them?

When a guest has slept in one of my beds and is leaving, why on earth would he carefully make up the bed—spread and all? I have to tear it apart in order to change the linen anyway.

Also, some guests will use towels, and then fold them so neatly I can't tell which towels have been used and which haven't. If they would leave the used towels a bit rumpled it would be so much easier for me.

Also, some people's idea of "washing" dishes is to run hot water over them. I'd prefer to have dirty dishes left in the sink for me to wash MY way.

Please rush this into print, Abby; I am expecting some "helpful" houseguests soon. NAMELESS BUT SERIOUS

DEAR NAMELESS: Consider it rushed.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "OLD TIMER:" He who takes but never gives may last for years but never lives.

Problems? Trust Abby. For a personal reply, write to ABBY, BOX 69700, L. A., CALIF. 90069 and enclose a stamped, addressed envelope.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-Agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

For a delicious drink blend together 3/4 cup milk, 2 table-spoons maple syrup and a scoop of vanilla ice cream. A loaf of quick bread in the freezer? Thaw it, wrapped, at room temperature allowing about 2 1/2 hours.

Aplington-Crocker Vows Exchanged In Los Alamos

Miss Judith Nelson Aplington and Gordon Crocker were united in marriage at 2 p.m. Saturday, July 1, in Trinity-on-the-Hill Episcopal Church in Los Alamos. Parents of the bride are Mrs. J. Faust Aplington, Washington, D. C. and Col. Henry Aplington II (USMS-Ret.), Annapolis, Md. and Mr. and Mrs. William G. Crocker, Pampa, are the bridegroom's parents.

THE CEREMONY
Rev. Milton A. Rohane performed the impressive double-ring ceremony. The church was decorated with floral arrangements of white gladioli and yellow spider mums.

THE BRIDE
Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full length gown of white dotted swiss with empire waistline and stand-up collar emphasized with a short train. Lace threaded with pale yellow satin ribbon accented the waist, collar, cuffs and hemline and was repeated on the dotted swiss headdress. She carried a bouquet of yellow and white roses, daisies and ivy.

ATTENDANTS
Miss Charlotte Mitchell,

Washington, D. C., served as maid of honor. Bridesmaid was Miss Laurie Lynn Stone, Fritch, Texas.

They wore long sleeveless gowns with Empire waists fashioned in yellow and white gingham seersucker with stand-up collars trimmed with yellow grosgrain ribbon around the neck and in the long bow at the waist. They wore headpieces of yellow daisies in their hair and carried bouquets of yellow daisies.

Edmund L. Secrist, Albuquerque, was best man and Harry Duhamel and Kenneth T. Imamura were ushers.

Robert E. Seamon was organist for the ceremony.

MOTHERS
The bride's mother wore a blue dress and jacket with crystal trim at the neck and a white orchid corsage. The bridegroom's mother wore a yellow dress and a white orchid with yellow center corsage.

For the wedding trip to Germany, the bride traveled in a lime green suit with A-line skirt and long jacket with hidden button front and roll collar.

The couple is at home in Los Alamos.

king of trumps, enters dummy by overtaking his six of trumps with dummy's seven.

Then he leads a diamond to his 10.

West promptly takes his ace and plays a diamond right back. This takes care of any problems in diamonds. Later on South takes a successful finesse against East's queen of spades and makes his contract.

If West is one of those unlucky players he will point out that South needed two finesses and a trump break to make his contract.

Someone may point out that if West had just let the 10 of diamonds hold the first diamond trick South would not have been able to make his contract because he wouldn't have had the two dummy entries necessary to take a second diamond finesse and a first spade finesse.

Probably no one will. They may not have seen it or may not want to annoy poor West further.

TODAY'S QUESTION
Instead of passing, East has jumped to three clubs over your partner's spade overall. What do you do now?
Answer tomorrow

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Undoubtedly there are unlucky bridge players around just as there must be lucky ones, but it is remarkable to see just how much bad luck these unlucky players bring on themselves.

East takes two club tricks and decides that if he is going to get any diamond tricks they will do him just as much good later on as right away so he returns a trump.

South cashes his ace and

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

THURSDAY, JULY 27
YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY:
Opens a productive year of normal growth, rewarding change. Romantic and social contacts thrive, promise moments of crisis and triumph. Material affairs fill much of your time. Today's natives are often gifted writers, fond of learning for its own sake. In maturity, they often choose to live alone.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Remember that your skepticism may be taken as personal rejection, temper with tact. Creative projects bring merits.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Outside actions turn bright, if you have the energy to press issues. Home life, social programs conflict with other demands.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Firm agreements elude final definition, are not to be forced. For you, a streak of contrary glee in all this. Allow time for travel.

Cancer [June 21-July 21]: Rehearsing an unsatisfying

TOMMY TUCKER RETIRES
WEST LONG BRANCH, N.J. (AP) — Tommy Tucker, popular band leader during the 1950s and '60s, will retire at the end of this school year from full-time teaching at Monmouth College here. He is an associate professor of music and is 68.

His biggest hit during the big band era was "I Don't Want to Set the World on Fire." Stars Edie Gorme and Gerry Mulligan got early schooling with his orchestra.

experience wouldn't bring good results. Come to terms with yourself; you did the best you could at the time.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: If you're single it's a romantic day; if you're married, you'll need patience. Career projects are helped by social endorsements.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Stick to your budget and your neighborhood. There's much to do about your daily living, like seeing habits for what they really are.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Uphill but worthwhile is the mood for today. Do the best job you can, expect no immediate response. Word from places and people is likely.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Substantial revisions of plans are possible, at the expense of both leisure and working time. Lengthy discussion may be needed.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Everybody wants to tell you all the details, but nobody wants to hear much of your story. Have you changed it lately?

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Contrary opinion is natural for you today. Anything you say or sign is subject to interpretation, so the less you do, the better.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Being reasonable isn't enough, you need to know where you stand. Fresh contacts are an open door to future progress.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Seemingly petty details in this mixed day turn out to be important, so you shouldn't get careless or hasty. Evening brings good news.

Bob Devaney has a string of 23 coaching victories and 32 unbeaten games, but if he hopes to continue that streak, he had better have a few aces up his sleeve.

Devaney, coach of the 1972 College All Stars, has been drilling his squad in preparation for Friday night's 39th All-Star Game against the Super Bowl champion Dallas Cowboys in Chicago.

The veteran Nebraska coach, whose teams have won two straight national football championships, told a Junior Chamber of Commerce luncheon in Chicago Tuesday he was well aware of what the National Football League champions could do.

"After a study of Cowboy game films, we decided to concentrate our game preparations on punting and kickoff returns," Devaney joked after introducing his squad.

In a more serious vein, he noted:

"With a group of guys like this, we feel that if we got any coaching to them at all, we would have a good chance. I know they're going to give it a great effort Friday night."

The All Stars will be led by quarterbacks Jerry Tagge and Van Bronson, both of Nebraska, and Pat Sullivan of Auburn, the Heisman Trophy winner.

The Cowboys are 16-to-17-point favorites in the game, which the pros have won 27 times while losing nine and tying twice.

Elsewhere, the San Francisco

49ers reported that rookie wide receiver Terry Beasley has broken a bone in his right big toe. The former Auburn All-American had just returned from being out eight days with a pulled hamstring muscle.

Chuck Hixson, who set many national passing records at Southern Methodist, announced his retirement after the Kansas City Chiefs said he had been traded to Buffalo. He never played in a NFL game. He was the Chiefs' 13th draft choice in 1971.

Franco Harris, the Pittsburgh Steelers' No. 1 draft choice, signed a multi-year contract with the team. The terms for the former Penn State player were not announced.

The Baltimore Colts signed veteran wide receivers Eddie Hinton, Ray Perkins, and Jim O'Brien who's also a placekicker, and defensive back Tom Curtis.

Wendell Tucker, a four-year wide receiver, was cut by the St. Louis Cardinals. Second-year kicker Skip Butler was released by the New York Giants, who also said rookie linebacker Jim Evans will undergo knee surgery.

Mike Tillemann, a Houston defensive tackle, was reported in good condition after exploratory abdominal surgery. Doctors said they found an abscess on the abdominal wall but no malignancy. Tillemann, 28, a seven-year veteran, had a malignant growth removed from his stomach in 1967.

Keeneland Sets Auction Record

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Although prices tailed off somewhat in the final session, Keeneland easily set a world thoroughbred auction record Tuesday night by collecting $12 million for 318 yearlings in a two-day period.

Only three of the 14 six-figure birds were registered in the final session and they came near the end of the sale, one on the second to last horse offered at auction.

Oddly, it was one of the lowest priced horses in the auction—an $8500 filly by Pretense—that set Keeneland past its old record of $10.5 million set last year.

Peter Wragg, an agent from Newmarket, England, paid the top price of the final session when he bid $120,000 for Warner L. Jones Jr.'s bay filly by Sir Gaylord-Spearfish.

Minutes later, Louis Russell of New Orleans paid $115,000 for a colt by Round Table-Tackling, from the consignment of Dr. Horace N. Davis, who died last week.

Joe Morgan Voted Most Valuable Player

ATLANTA (AP)—Joe Morgan didn't like the way the script for the 43rd major league All-Star Game was going so the little Cincinnati Reds' infielder took things into his own hands.

The extravaganza turned into a most happy event for Morgan, whose 10th inning run-scoring single gave the National League a 4-3 triumph Tuesday night before a record 53,107 crowd at Atlanta Stadium.

But only two innings earlier, it appeared that Cookie Rojas would be the hero, after he put the American League ahead 3-2 on a two-run homer off Montreal's Bill Stoneman.

Earlier Hank Aaron, pushing toward Babe Ruth's all-time home run mark of 714 with 659, stroked a two-run blow in the sixth inning, putting the Nationals up 2-1, and sending the home town crowd into a frenzy, giving the Atlanta slugger nearly a two-minute standing ovation.

"When Aaron hit the homer it was like watching a Hollywood movie," Morgan said afterward in the winners dressing room. "I thought he should be the hero. Then when Rojas hit it, I said, 'Gee, it's not supposed to be that way.'"

Morgan then won it for the NL in the 10th after Nate Colbert walked and was sacrificed to second by San Francisco's Chris Spier. Morgan crisply spanked a line drive single to right center and Colbert easily strolled home with the winner.

Morgan was voted the game's Most Valuable Player, with Aaron second and winning reliever, Tug McGraw the third choice. Rojas was fourth.

"This was one of the most dramatic home runs I ever hit," Aaron said. "I felt comfortable hitting against Perry (Gaylord, formerly of San Francisco and this year a 16-game winner with Cleveland). The pitch I hit off him was a spitter. It wasn't one of his best spitters, but it was a spitter."

Danny Murtaugh, who retired after guiding the Pittsburgh Pirates to the World Championship last year, led the NL to its ninth victory in 10 games and put them ahead in the series which started in 1933, to 24-18.

Rojas was disappointed that the American League didn't win but was thrilled about his home run.

The little Kansas City second baseman, who made it into the contest as a pinch hitter for starter Rod Carew only because the Minnesota infielder had a recurrence of a rib injury, said he hit "a dangling inside slider."

"It really felt great and I thought we were going to win it. At first I thought it would be caught but when I rounded first base, I saw it was out."

"I then thought I only need 630 more to catch Hank Aaron."

National League Wins All-Star Game 4-3 In 10

ATLANTA (AP)—Tug McGraw is awfully glad that he doesn't pitch in the American League. He'd probably never make the All-Star team if he did.

"They don't recognize relief pitchers over there like they do in the National League," the New York Mets' bullpen star said Tuesday night after helping the Nationals win the 43rd midsummer classic with a tense 4-3 victory in 10 innings.

As if his powerhouse pitching didn't speak eloquently enough for his argument, the left-hander had much more to say after winning his first All-Star game.

"Relief pitching is an art," he said, "and only the National League recognizes that fact. Specialization is the National League way, the modern way. I'm glad that my league has underlined the importance of a relief pitcher. He's really the 10th man on the team."

All of McGraw's remarks were, of course, directed at the American League—but mostly toward Manager Earl Weaver of the Baltimore Orioles. In three straight All-Star games, the American League field boss has never picked a relief pitcher for his staff.

"Earl certainly doesn't recognize us," said McGraw. McGraw was certainly recognized as one of the best pitchers on Atlanta Stadium's playing field Tuesday night, although there were several other standouts in one of the best-played All-Star games in recent years.

McGraw held off the American League with shutout pitching in the last two innings, striking out four batters, before Cincinnati's Joe Morgan came through with the game-winning single in the 10th.

"It was some kind of breaking ball, but I don't know if it was a slider or curve since I've never seen him before," Morgan said of the pitch he hit for a run-scoring single off Baltimore southpaw Dave McNally, the losing pitcher.

Actually, the whole affair never would have gotten to the extra-inning stage except for some game-turning dramatics by Atlanta's Hank Aaron, the hometown golden boy, and Cookie Rojas of the Kansas City Royals.

Aaron coaxed the standing room-only crowd of 53,107 to an ear-splitting roar when he belted a two-run homer over the 375-foot mark in left-center to give the Nationals a 2-1 lead in the sixth inning.

Then Rojas, one of the unluckiest home run hitters on the field, delivered a pinch-hit clout with a man aboard in the eighth inning to give the Americans a 3-2 lead that put a wet blanket on Aaron's accomplishment.

However, the Nationals tied the game in the ninth on Lee May's run-scoring bouncer.

Quarry Retires

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Jerry Quarry, whose dream of a heavyweight boxing title eluded him through seven years as a professional, says he has quit the ring to pursue a career in public relations.

The 27-year-old Texan said Tuesday the decision to retire came last June 27 after he watched his brother Mike get knocked out by George Foster in a light heavyweight bout in Las Vegas.

Quarry himself was TKO'd in the same ring later that night by Muhammad Ali.

"I lost my desire when Mike lost his fight," Quarry said. "Watching my brother loose like he did was seeing him go through the same frustrations I'd gone through."

Quarry, interviewed by telephone, was in Pittsburgh to promote a rock concert for Reb Foster Associates, the same firm which handled publicity for his fights.

SHAVING STROKES

by Frank Beard

72—Backspinning Iron Shots

A lot of average golfers envy tour players because we can put spin on an approach shot so it lands on the green and backs up. Ideally I like to hit the ball all the way to the hole and a little past it, then draw it back.

I like to do that because it excites the galleries—but more than that because it leaves me short putts worth big money.

How do you impart that kind of spin?

You have to keep your wrists firm. If your wrists break coming into the ball, you cannot spin the ball well. The wrists are almost stiff. Tommy Bolt is the best I've ever seen at firm-wristing iron shots so they hit and suck back. That was his secret.

Pampa Falls To Brownsfield

SAN ANTONIO—Brownfield got six runs in the fourth inning and never had to touch home plate again as they defeated the Pampa Babe Ruth all-stars 6-3 last night.

The Brownfield team had five base hits in the inning off Rick Leverich, who pitched the entire game. Pampa also committed three errors in the fourth to aid their opponent's cause.

Brownfield had six runs on seven hits, made one error and left eight men on base.

Pampa got its three runs on four hits while committing 14 errors and stranding seven runners on base.

The loss knocked Pampa into the loser's bracket of the state tourney. Their next game is today at 4:00 p.m. The game will be broadcast over radio station KPDN.

Unser Says That Speed Is Relative

MOUNT POCONO, Pa. (AP)—"Speed is relative," says Bobby Unser. "It's just another number. The driver doesn't really feel it."

That was the 37-year-old Albuquerque, N.M., driver's reaction Tuesday after he recorded four laps at Pocono International Raceway at 189.473 miles per hour.

His record-shattering 10-mile run gave him the pole position for Saturday's $496,750 Schaefer 500-mile Championship race.

It also was the sixth straight pole-winning effort for the lean, dark-haired driver this year and the 13th time in 17 races over a two-year period that he has qualified to lead a race to the starting line.

Rain had interrupted first-day qualifying runs for almost two hours in mid-afternoon, and darkness was setting in when Unser got his Olsonite Eagle off the line at 7:35 p.m.

"I could hardly see the white line markers on the course," he said.

His best lap was his third circuit of the 2.5-mile triangle shaped oval, a blistering 190.210 M.P.H. It made Mark Donohue's 1971 single lap mark of 172.967 M.P.H. look like child's

Terrorism In The Sky

Skyjacking may soon crowd out bank robbery as a means of raising several hundred thousand dollars quickly.

Since 1961 there have been 134 American skyjackings, 82 of them successful in the sense that the bandits accomplished their mission.

Nothing tried so far has curtailed the upsurge in airline terrorism. So far this year there have been 10 attempted skyjackings in this country.

In the beginning the skyjackers just wanted a free ride somewhere. To Cuba, perhaps, or some other country. But two years ago Auther Barkley hijacked a Trans World Airlines 727 for $100,000 ransom, the first of the extortions, and this set a new pattern in which political blackmailers, bomb-carrying neurotics and suicidal misfits began placing second to the man with quick money on his mind.

There has been criticism of the federal government for not doing enough to stop the wave of hijacking. One psychiatrist who has interviewed 36 hijackers and who wrote a book about these people says every method of prevention or deterrence is drawn to fit the logic of the legislator who devises it. That's fine, he says, except that hijackers don't have the same system of logic. "The laws are fine to keep legislators from hijacking airplanes, but not worth a good damn to stop hijackers from hijacking airplanes," he says.

Sky Marshals, hired and trained by the government in an effort to foil skyjackers, haven't been able to do the job. Metal detection devices paid for and installed by some airlines in their boarding lanes can detect guns. But not all airlines have them and a weapon doesn't necessarily have to be a gun.

Airlines captains are under orders to do whatever a hijacker orders; so, all it takes is a knife or even a fork held to the throat of a stewardess and the hijacker is master.

One acquaintance who is an executive in an airline blamed the United States news media partially for the increase in skyjacking. Every well-publicized incident breeds another, he said. But then the media is always a handy scapegoat; and people, uninformed about skyjacking until they become an unwilling accomplice would raise the roof. So there are arguments on both sides.

This same man suggested that there is ultimately only one answer to stopping airline hijackings. He said the American people would never stand for it but it works in Europe and is accepted by the people who fly on European airlines planes.

The European answer is a body search of every passenger who is going to board an airliner. The men are searched by police and the women by matrons.

But even that, he admits, isn't the complete answer in view of the fact that almost anything can become a weapon once the skyjacker is aboard the plane.

And we don't think it would work here at all.

Imagine Senator Thaddeus O. Flibuster's reaction when they asked him to submit to a body search.

Nope. We'd better go on seeking another solution.

Maybe if we built bulletproof crawl spaces into the tops of airplanes, over the heads of the passengers, where air marshals could hide and keep watch on the activity below.

You couldn't sleep, thinking that someone might be peering through a peephole at you?

Well, it was just an idea.

Up With Out

Out in San Francisco, a group of out-of-work teachers set an example that is reported in the June-July issue of Reason, a libertarian magazine.

The teachers formed a group called Organization of Unemployed Teachers (OUT).

The group is aimed at encouraging unemployed teachers to create their own education projects rather than to wait for the state to solve their problem.

OUT drew up a list of 21 projects. Among these are schooling prisoners in city and county jails, developing industrial training projects, and setting up a job clearing house and newsletter. The organization hopes to expand to the rest of the U.S. to serve as a catalyst for developing alternatives to the public schools.

OUT is headquartered at 300 E. Santa Inez Ave., San Mateo. We don't want to give an impression that the group is purely marketplace-oriented in the view of its members, because we don't know for sure. But at any rate the OUT teachers have begun to do their own thinking and that is most encouraging.

Most of us get what we deserve, but only the most successful will admit it.

McGovern Faces Lots Of Hurdles

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
WASHINGTON (NEA)—Sen. George McGovern has some huge hurdles to leap to beat President Nixon this fall. Yet most observers are afraid to say he can't do it, since he came out of nowhere to win the Democratic nomination.

For starters, McGovern can't take much comfort from the fact there are millions more Democrats than Republicans in this country. The record indicates that Republicans have won three of the last five presidential battles.

Secondly, though we hear a lot of talk about the nation being in an era of one-term presidents, the evidence for that hasn't been established yet.

Harry Truman had two, and so did Dwight Eisenhower. Lyndon Johnson had one and a half. The peculiarly urgent circumstances which led him to abandon another try do not seem to be at work in Nixon's case.

For all the talk, we are still where we were: in this century, only William Howard Taft and Herbert Hoover have been denied second terms after making full campaigns before the electorate.

McGovern's skilled, imaginative strategists are about to feel the full weight of something else that is obvious but too little appreciated. Winning an election is a vastly different business than taking a nomination. The woods are full of fellows who managed one successfully, but not the other.

Nobody ever had a better record of nominators than the late Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York. He picked off the Republican nomination twice running—in 1944 and 1948. He had a shot at it earlier, in 1940. But his people never found the key to winning in the fall.

Moving masses of voters into your column is nothing like gaining delegates for nomination by packing state caucuses or making quick bursts into primary states.

In 1964, Sen. Barry Goldwater won nomination with the aid of the kind of dedicated, youthful cadres who helped McGovern this time. Goldwater's activists were fewer, but they were all-out. Yet by late September they seemed to be piling up pebbles against the tide. Goldwater was engulfed.

McGovern's people are smart. They know that spring and fall are different, and they're trying to prepare. They talk of massive registration efforts right to a late hour. They believe their kids can move boulders, not just pebbles.

They're better than some campaigners at testing the national mood. Their poll analyst, Pat Caddell, is busy right now giving them major cues culled from 13,000 voter interviews.

It will be no surprise if the findings are that millions of Americans distrust government and politics and want real change. That's what Caddell has found consistently for many months.

But he has also found that most voters don't want a revolutionary sweep. McGovern thus has a thin line to walk. He has to be different without sounding radical.

Polls in 1964 showed majorities for many of Goldwater's views. His problem was that voters could not accept him as the instrument of change. McGovern won't win just because people want change. They will have to believe he has just the right qualities to achieve it.

His dedicated cadres may take him far. But his credibility as a man of new promise may be deeply scarred if Democratic party regulars and big labor don't pitch in with full spirit, energy and money. He'll need every working body and every dollar he can get.

For starters, McGovern can't take much comfort from the fact there are millions more Democrats than Republicans in this country. The record indicates that Republicans have won three of the last five presidential battles.

Secondly, though we hear a lot of talk about the nation being in an era of one-term presidents, the evidence for that hasn't been established yet.

Harry Truman had two, and so did Dwight Eisenhower. Lyndon Johnson had one and a half. The peculiarly urgent circumstances which led him to abandon another try do not seem to be at work in Nixon's case.

For all the talk, we are still where we were: in this century, only William Howard Taft and Herbert Hoover have been denied second terms after making full campaigns before the electorate.

747 Superliner Proves Its Safety In Skyways

The British Concorde, the faster-than-sound next-generation airliner, has been flying around the world selling itself.

How does it feel, Americans, for us to be riding in the BACK seat?

Americans were stunned when an ill-advised Congress refused financing for a supersonic airliner.

But our preoccupation with the passenger plane that got shot down before it ever took off has distracted our attention from a supreme achievement.

Though I try to deny any vestige of superstition, subconsciously it's there—trying to dissuade me from saying what I am about to say. The present queen of the skyway fleet—the Boeing 747—is the first history-making, new-generation airliner ever to fly 25 billion miles without a fatality.

A good year for commercial aviation was 1971: lower accident rate per 100,000 hours flown than any time in 11 years.

But during the two-year lifetime of the 747 there were 102 commercial airline accidents, eight fatal ones, involving planes other than 747s.

Despite an unprecedented degree of electronic sophistication and structural innovations, the superliner kept flying with a most minimal number of modification bulletins and no fatalities.

Meanwhile, this superplane was setting a host of new records—for passenger haulage per flight, gross weight lifted and so on.

These are days when what's wrong with civil aviation is getting investigated, spotlighted, headlined. But something excitingly "right" has been happening, also.

The 747 has lived up to our highest anticipation on safety, performance and direct operating costs.

Ten years ago when the 747 was first studied, airline traffic was growing at an average rate of 15 per cent per year. Anticipating the need to decongest skyways with larger planes carrying more seats each, Boeing timed this takeoff perfectly.

Today almost 200 747s are flying, all but 60 of them for United States airlines.

In more than half-million flight hours these immense planes have carried 18 million passengers.

Six of those planes have flown more than 3 million miles each—37 of them have flown more than 2.5 million. Each 747 now in use is in the air an average nine hours every day.

The cost per mile is 82 per cent more for this big bird, but the average passenger load has increased 230 per cent—so it is paying its way and then some.

Those costs, by the way, precisely match Boeing's 1966 predictions.

Whatever air travel problems remain unresolved, it seemed appropriate to report today on the two-year shakeout of the god ship 747, the most reliable, most safe innovation in air transportation since the DC-3.

Your Health

Progeria Strictly Child's Disease

Dear Dr. Lamb—Would it be possible for a woman past 50 to develop progeria? She has been a heavy cigarette smoker for about 35 years. She started premature aging about two years ago. Her face is so full of tiny wrinkles she looks like a mummy. Also she's getting bald. Is there some particular vitamin she could take that would help her skin? She is not overweight but she refuses to have a checkup.

Dear Reader—No. Progeria is a disease that affects infants and children. It is an endocrine disorder which results in a 10- or 12-year-old boy having many of the manifestations of a 70- or 80-year-old man, including heart disease and baldness. A person who starts developing signs of aging at 50 wouldn't be in that category at all.

Heavy cigarette smokers are inclined to marked wrinkling of the face, particularly the crow's feet at the edge of the eyes and the network of fine wrinkles. The heavy smoker may have a wrinkled face similar to that of a person 20 years older than his actual age.

If more women realized that heavy cigarette smoking caused premature aging of their face, specifically deep wrinkling, they might think twice about their habit.

There are many causes for loss of hair, but it is more common in women when they reach the middle years or change in life.

The lady that you mentioned should have a medical examination. She may have a marked change in endocrines associated with the change in life. If this is the case and there is no other problem, she might benefit from female hormones.

Dear Dr. Lamb—Can you give me some information about wearing an IUD? I have had one about 10 years now and I have never had any trouble with it, not even at the beginning. I haven't had a pelvic examination except for cancer smears in six years. I can't feel the IUD, but then I never could that I remember. Several of my friends who have worn them have recently told me that it is very dangerous to wear one this long as it can work itself into the tissues and cause cancer. Now I'm worried. I'm 32 years old. Is there any truth to this?

Dear Reader—Don't worry! You've been listening to uninformed people who would do better to do more listening and less talking. There is no evidence that the IUD causes cancer. With extensive reading I haven't observed a single reported case of cancer that has been proved to be caused by the IUD. Nor is there any evidence that it works itself into the tissues of the womb. I do approve, however, of regular examination, but perhaps you've been getting one in conjunction with your cancer smear. If there were any real danger in your using the IUD, your doctor would have told you so.

'Tiger Cage' Code For Hill Employees?

WASHINGTON—Free-wheeling employees of Congressional committees may soon be officially prohibited from using their positions for personal enrichment.

That's the intent of legislation being introduced by Reps. G.V. Montgomery, D-Miss., and Philip Crane, R-Ill., of the House Select Committee on U.S. Involvement in Southeast Asia, to establish a code of conduct for Congressional employees.

Major purpose of the proposed code is to crack down on committee employees personally profiting from their official work.

The bipartisan measure was triggered by an employee of the Select Committee, Tom Harkin, who without the committee's knowledge or authorization took photographs of the so-called "tiger cages" at the prisoner-of-war camps on Con Son Island off South Vietnam and sold them for a reputed $25,000 to a national magazine.

When the committee demanded the money be turned over to the government, Harkin flatly refused.

Similarly, he rebuffed an order from Rep. Montgomery, committee chairman, that the film and photos be given to the committee for its official files. Montgomery, a decorated combat veteran of World War II, thereupon fired Harkin.

"His conduct was inexcusable," said Montgomery. "Not only was he an employee of the committee, that is of the government, but he went to Vietnam and Con Son at the expense of taxpayers to work for the committee. Despite that, he acted as if the pictures and the considerable sum of money he got for them were his personal property."

Montgomery stressed that Harkin was dismissed because of his "impropriety and unseemly conduct."

"What this man did impugned the integrity of all the members of this committee," declared Montgomery, "particularly Rep. Neal Smith (D-Iowa) who hired him. Harkin was working as a mail clerk, and Smith arranged to have him hired by the committee for twice the amount he was making. The whole affair is shocking, including the outrageously sensationalized account of the Con Son camp for Communist POWs."

The House Administration Committee voted to request the Justice Department to take steps to require Harkin to give the government the money he got from a national magazine for the "tiger cage" pictures. Then-Assistant Attorney General L. Patrick Gray (now Acting FBI Director) informed the committee this could not be legally done as there had been no official description of Harkin's job and functions.

Chairman Montgomery indignantly criticized this opinion, but was unable to do anything about it directly. Indirectly, he and Crane decided to plug this loophole by introducing a bill placing all committee employees under a code of ethics.

Crane, who had taken pictures for the committee of the Con Son "cages" and proposed selling them to the magazine for $10,000 worth of food and medicine for the POWs, was sarcastically critical of Harkin.

"Surely," the former Illinois college professor remarked, "no one would want to make pecuniary gains out of the misfortune of others or would they? That's a very good question for Mr. Harkin to answer."

Crane's caustic comment was prompted by Harkin's statement, when he balked at giving the photographs to the committee, that he had a "higher obligation to those jammed in the 'tiger cages.'"

To which Crane derisively retorted, "Harkin's lofty humanitarianism would find greater gratification if he would join me in contributing the money he got for those pictures for the relief of the prisoners. Like all too many self-righteous do-gooders, he seems to be confused as to what belongs to the government and to him."

Rep. John Erlenborn, R-Ill., another committee member, also denounced Harkin's conduct, saying:

"It was unfortunate that an employee of the committee saw fit to act the way he did. The whole Con Son affair was sensationalized far out of proportion because of the way it was handled by this staff employee. It's very obvious he should never have been hired."

Having Trouble Telling Sexes Apart?

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Can you still tell the sexes apart?
At first glance?
If you can, you're a marvel. More people are finding it more difficult in more cases.
About half the people over 30 today can't tell easily the sex of about a-third of the people they meet who are under 30. In many cases they are still mystified after they follow a doubtful glance with two long stares.
Well, here are a few helpful hints:
If it works as an attendant in a men's room, it is a him. If it works as an attendant in a powder room, it is a her.
Does it sing aloud in the bathroom? Probably it's a guy.

Does it hum while sitting at a dressing table and studying its face? It's a gal.
If, when asked at a cocktail party whether it wants another drink, it replies, "Yeah, another belt won't hurt me," put it down as a fellow. If it smiles dimly and says as it holds out its glass, "Well, just a teentys-veentys bit this time," put it down as another thirsty dame with hollow legs.
You say it warms its hands by putting them in its pockets? It has to be a boy. You say it warms its hands by thrusting them under its arms and hunching its shoulders? It has to be a girl.
Does it hate to write a check for under $25. That's a man.

Does it like to write checks for three 8-cent stamps and a 79-cent bottle of hand lotion? That's a woman.
Does it assume a hedgehog defense and make menacing hisses if you say something slighting about the women's liberation movement? Beyond doubt it's another embattled femme. If it immediately loses interest or wants to change the subject when you mention the women's liberation movement, beyond doubt it's another cowed male.
A direct actionist can settle his uncertainty most quickly by simply walking up to a strange person and asking simply, "Hey, what sex are you—if any?" If he gets punched in the jaw, it's a man; if he gets slapped in the face, it's a woman.

Protective Measure
When under attack, the armadillo lizard rolls on its back and grasps its tail in its mouth to form an impregnable ball of armor to protect the soft skin of its underside.
Lobsters, massive-clawed crustaceans that listen with their legs and taste with their feet and are capable of regenerating severed claws, are living fossils that have existed in their present form for some 100 million years.
The Big Room of New Mexico's Carlsbad Caverns is more than one mile long and has a "floor" space of 14 acres.

Father Seeks To Get Son's Zero Erased

AUSTIN (AP) — A Corsicana doctor whose son got a zero on a high school English paper failed Tuesday in an effort to get state education commissioner J.W. Edgar to erase the grade.
Dr. Lester McGary, a urologist, complained to Edgar that Mrs. Mary Ann Anderson refused to accept the paper because his son, Richard, wrote it while he was suspended from school.

McGary's lawyer, William McKie, indicated McGary would appeal Edgar's ruling to the 21-member State Board of Education.
Richard was suspended Monday and Tuesday, May 8-9, after a girl called her mother from Galveston and said boys on a high school field trip had been drinking at the Flagship Hotel.
Mrs. Anderson, a former Corsicana High School pupil and English teacher there for eight years, assigned an English theme on Tuesday to be turned in Wednesday.

She said Richard tried to turn in the paper Wednesday—although it had been assigned while he was suspended—and she refused to accept it. "He offered me his paper, and I thought he was kidding," Mrs. Anderson said. "He had called me the first day he was suspended to ask me what we were doing in class, and I said, 'you know you can't make up the work.'"

She quoted Richard as replying, "I know that, but I wanted to keep up with the reading."
School board lawyer Robert Gladney said Richard found out from a classmate about the theme assignment.
Mrs. Anderson said she understood the school policy to be that a pupil has "no right to

Plywood Car Gets Go From Beer Keg

SEATTLE (AP) — What kind of mileage could you expect from a plywood car that sucks its fuel from a beer keg?
Well, Mike Lee, 18, and David Kelliher, 20, of White Bear Lake, Minn., aren't exactly sure, but their home-made vehicle has made it from there to here, and they fully expect to get it back to there.
The car they drove into Seattle this week after 2,200 miles is listed with the Minnesota motor vehicle department as a "Renault-slightly modified."
The Renault parts consists of an engine Kelliher hauled from his old car after an accident last fall. The rest is "slightly modified"—including a plywood frame and a beer keg-gas tank perched on the vehicle's front end.
Kelliher says it took him and Lee "about five weeks, days and nights," to put together the car after he decided not to junk the old engine.
It took eight days to reach Seattle in the crate, which looks like the idea of a dune buggy whose time never came.
There were a lot of skeptics, Kelliher said, including various highway patrolmen along the route.
"We got stopped three times along the way," he said. "But the patrolmen in Montana and Washington were nice and didn't ticket us for things like not having a horn. And the patrolman in North Dakota just wanted to see what our car looked like."
They say the car, which they call "Green and Yellow Basket," hasn't yet reached the end of its road.

"We're going to California later this summer," Kelliher said, "and then we'll drive back to Minnesota."
Any misgivings from his mother when they started out?
"They say 'everybody has to do his own thing,'" she sighed.

make up work missed because of an unexcused absence."
The zero, she said, probably changed the grade for Richard by only a single point out of a possible 100 for the year and maybe two points for the semester, and that he graduated from high school in May.
The school board affirmed Mrs. Anderson's action, and McGary appealed to Edgar.
He contended Mrs. Anderson acted on a "vague, unwritten and alleged rule," and he labeled her action "negative academic discipline to a behavior problem."
He said by refusing to accept Richard's theme on Wednesday she was, in effect, penalizing him an extra day because he could not take part in the class that day either.
The female deer always covers her prints exactly as though her tracks had been made by a two-legged animal.
