Lone Burglar 'Hits' Gibsons

Undetermined Amount Of Cash, Merchandise Taken

A burglar who apparently hid in the attic until after closing time at Gibson's Discount Center, 2210 Perryton Parkway, burglarized the store of over $1,000 worth of money and merchandise Tuesday night.

Wallace said the man wore gloves, probably the cotton type, therefore no prints could be taken. Dust from the burglar's clothes and gloves were found in chairs, the desk and filing cabinet drawers.

Supina said all he saw was a tennis shoe as the door closed. Nothing was missing from the building.

1970 CADILLAC FLEETWOOD BROUGHAM
THE BEST YET

Cadillac Offers Performance

DETROIT — The 1970 Cadillac, highlighting engineering advancements and distinctive styling, combines new standards of performance, reliability, safety and comfort.

"Eleven models in three series, Calais, De Ville and Fleetwood, will go on sale in dealer showrooms Sept. 18, according to George R. Elges, general manager of Cadillac Motor Car Division and vice president of General Motors.

"A new look, both front and rear, tastefully retains distinctive Cadillac identification in all models," explained Elges. "Wheelbase and overall dimensions remain basically the same."

The standard Cadillacs look longer because of new cornering lights with horizontal chrome trim, the extension of the rear quarter into the taillight and a horizontal design line that sweeps the length of the side.

"Years of engineering research and development culminate in key innovations featured in the 1970 models," Elges noted. "As a result, we have achieved significant gains in performance, reliability and ride and handling.

"An industry first, Cadillac introduces a new integral ductile iron steering knuckle for all standard models." In addition, we will have a totally redesigned rear axle in 1970, the first in over 30 years," Elges said.

"And, the front-wheel-drive Fleetwood Eldorado will feature an exclusive new 500 cubic inch engine, producing 400 horsepower with 550 foot pounds of torque," Mr. Elges reported. "It is the largest production passenger car engine in the world."

The ductile iron steering knuckle, developed in a program started seven years ago, is a Cadillac exclusive. It has inherently higher reliability, fewer fasteners and fewer human variables than the multi-piece unit it replaces.

"Cadillac's 1970 new rear axle features quieter operation, greater durability, improved serviceability and will have the highest torque capacity of any passenger car in the industry," Elges said.

"Turning to the new look of the 1970 Cadillac, the new framed grille dominates even more in 1970 with a bright vertical accent adding emphasis to the area in front of the 472 cubic inch engine. The powerful engine, with 525 foot pounds of torque and horsepower of 375, is matched with a Turbo Hydra-Matic transmission.

New side moldings add a crisp and defined accent to the length of the side and result in added protection to the door panel finish. New wheel discs with radial fins are included on all standard Cadillacs.

Highlighting the rear appearance are new taillights and bumper. The tail lamps feature a concave, V-shaped, vertical lens which houses the taillight, stoplight and directional signal. A reflective marker is now located directly below the taillight in the outer ends of the bumper.

Summarizing the styling, Elges stated, "Cadillac customers can personalize their 1970 car from a variety of 21 exterior colors, 15 of which are new. Also, there are seven vinyl roof color options.

1970 OLDSMOBILE CUTLASS SUPREME HOLIDAY COUPE
Supreme Holiday Coupe Heads Olds' Line In '70

DETROIT — A new and luxurious personalized car heads Oldsmobile's line of impressively-styled 1970 models, all of them featuring history-making engineering advancements aimed at added durability and further reduction in the need for service, it was announced today by John B. Beltz, the division's general manager and a vice-president of General Motors.

"The newest Oldsmobile is the elegant Cutlass Supreme Holiday Coupe," he reported. "It's a distinctive car designed to answer growing customer demand for sporty luxury in a personalized kind of automobile. It's identified by its own roofline, its own body shape, its own external ornamentation, and its own ultra-luxurious interior."

He said the new coupe and a companion convertible represent an important added element in Oldsmobile's 1970 intermediate model lineup, complementing the 4-4-2 and Cutlass 'S' series whose fast-back coupes have been Oldsmobile's most popular.

"These cars, too," Beltz said, "have been restyled to emphasize their youthful image to an even higher degree. Meanwhile," he continued, "the successful look of elegance in our 88's and 98's has been further enhanced in 1970 to make them even more appealing, and the Toronado has undergone the most extensive change in appearance since its introduction in 1965.

"It is a sleeker looking automobile, with a distinctive new shape to the wheel openings, a new front end, including a new grille and exposed headlamps, and an interior to match the more elegant concept of decor which is added in 1970 to the Toronado's many other front drive virtues," he added.

He mentioned the car's excellent handling, its superior traction, and its flat floor. He further said in 1970 the Vista Cruiser type of station wagon, with its panoramic roofline windows and forward-facing third seat, is exclusive to Oldsmobile.

In addition to the division's restyling program for the new model year, Oldsmobile's long-held reputation for engineering leadership will be re-emphasized with the introduction of several major and far-reaching engine advancements designed to curtail the need for service.

"Particularly important, and exclusive to Oldsmobile in 1970, is the incorporation of a positive valve rotating system on all Oldsmobile V8 engines, which extends valve life beyond anything available on today's passenger car engines," Beltz said.

"Automobile engine valves, after many miles of use, are subject to distortion and wear," he explained. "The resultant poor valve seating causes loss of engine efficiency. However, with controlled rotation of intake and exhaust valves, as in Oldsmobile's 1970 V8 engines, valve seating is tremendously improved. This prevents loss of compression and permits the engine to operate at top efficiency — constantly — for the life of the car.

"Another important engineering achievement being introduced by Oldsmobile on its 1970 cars is a new concept in connecting rod bearing design that greatly enhances engine durability," Beltz continued. "The new rod bearing increases oil system pressure and substantially improves engine lubrication."

Oldsmobile has also eliminated the exhaust manifold heat valve on all 1970 V8 engines for further improvement in engine reliability. The engine's heated air intake system, combined with a newly designed choke mechanism, provides more rapid engine warmup.

In a major revision of engine availabilities for 1970, Oldsmobile has introduced the 455 cu.-in. V8 as the 4-4-2's standard power plant. It replaces the 400 cu.-in. engine which is no longer required. The 455 will also be used as part of the performance option for the new Cutlass Supreme coupe and convertible. With the engine, the Cutlass SX package will include a 2.56 axle, wide-rim wheels, and dual exhausts.

"The Cutlass SX," said Beltz, "is only one of several options developed by Oldsmobile engineers for the buyer who wants the ultimate in performance."

He said the newly designated W-33 option is a high-output engine selection available on all '88' models, while the V-34 will again identify the performance package in the Toronado.

"Front wheel power disc brakes," Beltz explained, "are standard on the 1970 Toronado and the '90' models. On our '88's, if the customer orders power brakes, front disc brakes are included in the option. Both power drum brakes and power assisted front discs remain options on our F-85's."

The automatic transmissions available on 1970 Oldsmobiles are 3-speed. The Turbo Hydramatic 350 replaces the 2-speed Jetaway as the automatic transmission option on F-85 models equipped with the 350 cubic inch V-8 engine.

The Turbo Hydramatic 400 continues for use with Oldsmobile's 455 cubic inch engine. A unique convenience feature offered exclusively on Oldsmobile's full-size cars, is a fingertip windshield washer-wiper control located in the shift lever handle.

Career Corner

By JOYCE LAIN

Miss Lain awards a Mercury portable, courtesy of the Royal Typewriter Co., to Steven Smith, Charlotte, N.C.:

"What schooling would a young man need to become a chef? Is this a good career for a man?"

A—Practically all chefs are men. The only time I had doubts about a man wearing the apron was when a friend married the son of a master chef.

You see, I had taught the bride everything she didn't know about cooking... majoring in can-opening with graduate work in defrosting. I was afraid the new father-in-law would look down his keen sense of taste and smell at her. Instead, he taught my friend many culinary tricks and all ate happily thereafter.

WHAT'S IN THE POT? Cooks and chefs prepare and cook food, usually in large quantities. They may be responsible for food purchasing, menu planning, pricing and related duties. The nature of a cook or chef's job depends on where he works: restaurant, public or private school, hotel, hospital, railroad dining car, ocean liner government agency, manufacturing plant, private club, catering firm, etc. (Here we're not talking about cooks in private homes.)

CAREER—BUFFET. Along with the type of eating place, also important to a cook's duties is its size. In small restaurants, one cook may do everything, or be aided by a short order cook and a kitchen helper or two. In larger establishments with varied menus, the staff often includes several cooks, sometimes called assistant cooks, and many kitchen helpers. Each cook usually has a special assignment — pastry cook, fry cook, roast cook, vegetable cook or sauce cook, for example. The chef is a head cook, and in large eating places there is usually an executive chef, who is over all kitchen personnel.

Senator Says Carmakers Control Market 'Tightly'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Rep. Benjamin S. Rosenthal, D-N.Y., charged big carmakers control the automobile market so tightly there is "a lack of meaningful competition."

Rosenthal, chairman of the House consumer subcommittee, told the opening of Federal Trade Commission hearings on auto price advertising practices that deception was widespread. "The terms and conditions under which the average American purchases an automobile are dictated to him in a market place clouded by monopoly and dulled by a lack of meaningful competition," Rosenthal said.

Unless we are prepared to proceed from these hearings to a study of how monopolies affect deceptive price policies and control of the automotive market, we shall ourselves be part of these deceptive practices."

John J. Nevin, a marketing vice president for Ford, said there is a need for specific advertising ground rules, but he defended the practice of posting manufacturers' suggested retail prices on automobiles. Anything else "would be impractical and would lead to considerable confusion in the market," he testified.

The commission's reason for the investigation, it said, was to determine the necessity for a trade regulations rule — which would have almost the force of law — to regulate car price advertising.

The commission is acting on complaints auto makers may have "gimmicked" new car prices by deleting equipment or by redesignating equipment that once was "standard" as "optional," then charging the consumer over and above the basic vehicle price for the alleged extra equipment.

1970 BUICK GS

1970 Buicks Feature New Styling

FLINT, Mich. — Buick Motor Division today introduced its new line of cars for 1970, featuring completely new styling in the intermediate Skylark and GS series, a new upper series station wagon and a new and bigger engine, plus numerous mechanical changes to provide better performance and serviceability.

The new models will go on display in dealer showrooms September 18.

While much of the styling emphasis for 1970 was placed on the intermediate-sized cars, Riviera, Electra, Wildcat and LeSabre models have undergone significant appearance changes with the introduction of new grilles, bumpers and ornamentation.

In addition to styling and engineering changes, we have made important strides in simplifying the serviceability of 1970 models," said Lee N. Mays, general manager of Buick and vice president of General Motors. "The serviceability of instrument panel components has been increased by as much as 50 per cent with such innovations as snap-on speedometer cable connections, air conditioning outlet hoses which can be disconnected quickly, and a steering column designed to reduce the time required to replace directional signal switches."

The dramatic new styling of the Skylark and GS models features a lengthened hood with a shortened rear deck, combined with subtle, horizontal body accent lines flowing rearward from the wheel openings. Front end treatment consists of a distinctive grille for each series and the shortened rear deck is complimented by a new, more massive bumper tailored to the flared fender lines that extend into the roof.

Horizontal tail lamps are separated by a stylish new "BUICK" name panel. The new instrument panel on the intermediate-sized cars has been styled for appearance, driver convenience and passenger protection.

All models in the intermediate line will have side impact bars in the doors and rear quarter panels. This safety feature was introduced last year on LeSabre, Wildcat and Electra models.

The intermediate line consists of eight Skylark models in three series — Skylark, Skylark 350 and Skylark Custom.

In the performance-oriented GS series, there are three models, a GS and a GS 455, both two-door hardtop coupes, and a GS 455 convertible.

GS models are identified by dual air scoops on the hood, which funnel cool, outside air directly into the twin-snorkel air covers, introduced on this car for the first time. The rear window has been widened, providing greater visibility and the rear bumper incorporates a new taillight design which adds to this Riviera's distinctiveness. The new 455 cubic-inch engine replaces the 430 cubic inch power plant in the Riviera, Electra, Wildcat, Estate Wagon models and is available on some LeSabre models.

cleaner, and a red striped rocker panel molding. For the first time in many years, Buick, in 1970, will offer a luxury Estate Wagon in its upper series lineup. The new wagon, which will be available with either two or three seats, is mounted on a 124-inch wheelbase and is powered by the new 455 cubic inch engine.

New front and rear end treatment creates a distinctive look for the luxury Electra series, which has shown the most remarkable growth of any car in the Buick line over the past several years.

A new hood and bumper blend smoothly with the new grille and headlamps which are spaced wider apart to enhance the 1970 styling.

In the rear, back-up lamps, which glow red at night when the lights are on, are mounted vertically in the fenders, adding a unique styling feature.

The Riviera, which is Buick's popular offering in the personal luxury car field, has undergone evolutionary styling refinements which further enhance its appeal. A longer hood profile is combined with a stylish grille which is of a vertical line design.

Adding to the Riviera's new appearance are fixed headlights and new rear wheel opening ments alone. If the U.S. government must keep one eye on Congress, they said, then Hungary must gauge very carefully the wind from Moscow before moving closer to Washington.

—Payment of U.S. government pensions to about 270 persons living here — either U.S. citizens or Hungarians who used to work in America.

Hungarian-American Relations Begin To Thaw

BUDAPEST (UPI) — After 13 long cold years, Hungarian-American relations are beginning to thaw.

A recent agreement between the two countries cleared away some of the diplomatic underbrush accumulated since the 1956 Hungarian revolution. Both governments now have their eyes on other agreements affecting trade, tourism and cultural exchanges.

But settlement of the two biggest issues remains a long way off. These are: Disposition of claims by both sides for property seized or destroyed at the end of World War II.

What to do about Cardinal Jozsef Mindszenty, who took refuge in the American Embassy here after the 1956 revolution and has lived there ever since. Now 77 and in good health, the Cardinal remains a symbol of hard feelings between Washington and Budapest.

"No golden age of Hungarian-American relations is about to dawn," one reliable source here said.

But there is a new willingness by both sides to look at the problems and a certain incentive to move on them.

Talks with officials here revealed a tough-minded recognition that progress is not entirely up to the two governments alone. If the U.S. government must keep one eye on Congress, they said, then Hungary must gauge very carefully the wind from Moscow before moving closer to Washington.

In fact, Russia's recent statements calling for better relations with America are generally seen here as one of the reasons for the thaw in Hungary's ties with the United States. Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—It is essential always to think six months ahead in the stock market, whether you are a short-term trader or a buyer of permanent holdings, Gould's Position says. Six months from now, the firm says, the market will be getting into mid-March with 1970's first intermediate shakeout probably wrapping itself up in a final rush of tax selling. From now through mid-fall, the six-month outlook is conducive to strategic buying during all outbursts of financial downside activity, it adds.

Diamond, Turk & Co. feels it would be premature to initiate any aggressive buying at current levels. Until further base building has taken place in the 800 to 840 range of the Dow Jones Industrial average, the firm says, "the chances of cheap stocks becoming cheaper is an ever present possibility."

It seems unlikely the market will drop to the 760 level, says Spear and Staff Inc. The area bounded by about 840-76 represents "substantial to extreme" undervaluation, and becoming more and more probable that the 790-800 are reached July 30 marked the market's low. The firm suggests a shift from a cautious approach to a more aggressive and more heavily committed policy.

The volume of tax-loss selling this fall is likely to be unusually heavy, Goodbody & Co. says. However, the tax-selling rush may coincide with or be followed by a turnaround in the general market as investors, particularly institutional investors with sizable cash reserves, look ahead to 1970 and seek to

Hollywood Reports

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Jack Haley, the wonderful Tin Man in "The Wizard of Oz," reported for his first movie job in 25 years and was confronted by a director whose diapers he had changed 30 years ago.

Jack Haley Jr. was running the show.

"Dad is happier with me working behind the cameras than in front of them," Jr. reported the other day.

"I cast him in the role of character who rarely speaks, but he's in three sequences. The one line he had was written:

"I'd like to show you my 60 raper shell pecan trees."

"But he didn't think the time was funny and changed it right in the set to:

"I'd like to show you my Poland China brood sows."

Haley the younger grinned. He said it was the first day of shooting and he didn't have time to savor properly the unusual situation of son directing father in a major feature film.

Not since John Huston directed the late Walter Huston in "Treasure of the Sierra Madre" in 1948, has a well known father-son relationship existed on a movie set—with the kid telling his old man what to do.

"When it came to dad's close-up I shot it twice. He couldn't believe it, telling everyone that he was known as one-take Haley in the old days. After the second take he said it was a waste of time because I'd be using the first one anyhow."

"Dad was right, that's the one we used."

Jack Jr. only faintly resembles his father. He tried acting more than a dozen years ago and failed to ignite the celluloid. Thereafter he made several successful television documentaries and musical specials for the tube which harvested critical praise.

This is his first movie. Titled "Norwood," the comedy stars music phenom Glen Campbell, Kim Darby, Tisha Sterling, Carol Lynley, Meredith MacRae and Edward G. Robinson Jr.

Clearly nostalgia has overtaken Jack Haley Jr.

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—NBC-TV's Debbie Reynolds series, a half-hour comedy that had its premiere Tuesday night, is simply an attempt by the network to add a bread-and-butter show to its schedule. It is a straight situation comedy, with plenty of slapstick, that is obviously trying to follow in the tradition of the anything unique or experimental kind of series one would normally expect to find on Miss Ball's network. CBS-TV, rather than on NBC-TV.

But NBC-TV knows it has a pretty surefire thing in Miss Reynolds, who is cut to form for just such a show, being "cute" in the popular sense, an adept comedienne, wholesome in the old girl-next-door way, and pre-sold as a film star.

So it was hardly likely that NBC-TV was going to mess around with anything experimental or unique involving Miss Reynolds, or, for that matter, the comedienne who had wanted to try Reynolds' show, in which, she repeatedly tries to prove her ability to become a newspaper feature writer. It should be made clear that this is a domestic comedy above all, not a newspaper comedy.

Lovely, But No Lucy

There is, therefore, really nothing much to say about Miss Reynolds' show, in which, she repeatedly tries to prove her ability to become a newspaper feature writer. It should be made clear that this is a domestic comedy above all, not a newspaper comedy.

The Lighter Side

WASHINGTON (UPI)—George T. Egee, a natural born Philadelphian who now lives in England in what was once the seat of the Lord of the Manor of Dickleburgh, is one of your typical Yankee go-getters.

Inertia is abhorrent to Egee. So when he opened a British export business in 1957, he was saddened to discover a major asset being wasted—namely, the British aristocracy.

Impressive titles, which Egee immediately recognized as having vast commercial potentialities, were just sort of sitting around gathering dust, so to speak.

After brooding upon this at some length, Egee made his move. He opened what might be described as a rent-a-peer agency, calling it "noble directors."

For a price, ranging upwards of 250 guineas a year, a company could arrange through Egee to have a nobleman listed on its letterhead as a member of the board.

Bloodlife of Business
Egee said he had found that if two British companies were exporting identical items at identical prices, and one of them had a duke on its board, the company with the titled director would get the business.

I mentioned all of this now as a prelude to reporting that Egee has decided to expand his rent-a-peer agency by offering the service to American companies.

"I know of many gentlemen willing to consider employment contracts," he said in a recent letter setting forth his prospects.

"They could be very useful to U.S. firms who wish to establish more personal contacts in Britain and also on the continent. These nobles could also be useful in the U.S. domestic markets for sales promotion."

Pick-a-Peer

"We are able to arrange a selection of great houses in England and Scotland that have fantastic interiors, art treasures, etc., which could be used in connection with the nobles for sales promotion photos, etc."

1970 MONTE CARLO SPORT COUPE

Chevrolet Offers Totally New Personal Luxury Automobile

DETROIT—The Monte Carlo—a totally new personal luxury car, headlines Chevrolet's new models for 1970. John Z. DeLorean, General Motors vice president and Chevrolet general manager, said today.

"The 1970's will be an unparalleled decade of individual customer choice," DeLorean said. "Chevrolet will continue to set the industry pace with a variety of cars and options which allow each buyer to custom tailor his or her personal transportation."

Monte Carlo adds a new market dimension by offering to the youthful, sophisticated buyer a superb blend of individual, high fashion styling and intermediate-size handling and performance."

DeLorean said seven distinctive Chevrolet lines will be shown in dealerships on Announcement Day, Sept. 18.

"The big Chevrolet has new styling and added power for 1970 and Chevelle has an all-new appearance," DeLorean said. "Improvements in these lines are incorporated in both sizes of Chevrolet station wagons. The fast-selling Nova has fresh appeal in its new models."

Current models of the popular Chevrolet Corvette and Camaro will be continued to the end of this year with new models in each line scheduled for introduction later in the model year.

DeLorean said that among important 1970 engine changes, the base V-8 of the big Chevrolet is increased to 350 cubic inches from 327 cubic inches in 1969 to give added power for options such as air conditioning that continue to grow in customer popularity.

The base six cylinder engine of Chevelle is also increased—250 cubic inches in 1970 compared with 230 cubic inches in 1969.

"A smooth running new 400 cubic inch V-8 that burns regular fuel is introduced as an option on the big Chevrolet and also is available on Monte Carlo," DeLorean said.

"The new high torque 454 cubic inch V-8's replace 427 cubic inch engines offered on the big Chevrolet in 1969."

He said mechanical improvements include smoother engine acceleration through the use of a transmission controlled vacuum spark advance.

There is extended use of variable-ratio power steering which gives more responsive maneuverability in turns and parking. It is now available on all 1970 models except station wagons and Nova models, with four-cylinder engines.

Longer life, fiberglass-belted tires are standard on all 1970 Chevrolet models.

Every 1970 model has extensive safety features for occupant protection, accident prevention and anti-theft.

New for 1970 among Chevrolet's more than 400 options and accessories are improved electric door locks, replacing vacuum locks.

With the electric door locks is a new automatic front seat back release for coupes which unlatches when either front door is opened, for easier access to the rear seat. The latch re-locks securely when the door is closed.

Chevrolet offers 15 colors, most of them new, for 1970.

There are up to seven two-tone combinations, five vinyl top colors and two convertible top colors.

DEAR ABBY: Our 19-year-old daughter has been seeing a psychotherapist about some problems. This is perfectly all right with us, but his mode of "therapy" has us worried. Our daughter tells us that after each session he takes her in his arms, holds her close and kisses her tenderly. He says this is the new "sensitivity" therapy. Have you ever heard of anything like this?

WORRIED MOTHER
DEAR MOTHER: Before jumping to any hasty conclusions, you must remember that your daughter is in "therapy" and could be indulging in fantasy, exaggeration or wishful thinking. However, "sensitivity" therapy is a new approach, as opposed to the former rigid "hands off" relationship between patient and psychotherapist. Some patients need a friendly touch or a reassuring pat. But no reputable therapist I've ever heard of will "tenderly kiss" a patient as part of the therapy. You have every right to confer with your daughter's therapist and find out if he's giving her a "treat" instead of a treatment.

DEAR ABBY: I have a prominent nose, but it is a family trait. In fact we call it a "Schwartz" nose. Every now and then some rude person will ask, "Why don't you have your nose fixed?"

I don't think I need it, but how should I answer?

J. SCHWARTZ
DEAR J. SCHWARTZ: Say, "Why should I have my nose fixed? It runs all right."

DEAR ABBY: We hear so much these days about people not wishing to get "involved."

I want to tell you a true story. My husband and I were driving on University boulevard in Maryland. It was 2 p.m. and the temperature was in the 90's—and no shade. Our car blew a tire and the nearest phone was half-a-mile away.

While we waited for the service we had called this is what happened: A teen-aged boy and girl offered to make a call at a friend's home nearby. A lady returning home with groceries took us to her home to check on the first phone call. She sent me back to our car with a pitcher of ice water for my husband. Her two teen-aged daughters stayed with us until our car was fixed.

Two young men from Maryland's School Department stopped, offering to change our tire.

Another man in a small service truck, going in the opposite direction, turned around and asked if he could help us.

Two Maryland police cars stopped and offered help. A third one put in an emergency call. Three other family cars stopped and offered help. Two buses stopped, offering to drop us off at a service station.

Fourteen Good Samaritans in one hour and fifteen minutes! The world must be spinning in the right groove.

Sincerely,
MRS. E.P.B.

THURSDAY, SEPT. 18

Your birthday Thursday: Your basic trend now is toward discovery and the development of your own special way of life—perhaps learning to do everything for yourself without help. If you are to keep and deepen emotional ties, you must make definite consistent efforts. No relationship in the coming year can be taken for granted. Thursday's natives nearly always manage to drift into a life of service, generally on a group or public scale.

ARIES (March 22-April 19): Be alert today. Consult with financial, credit people; and other specialists. Do not let a missed connection put you off—find some way to reach your party.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Advice comes easily and should be just as easily filed away rather than used early. Your spending ought to be restricted to necessity. Machinery tends to malfunction and must be used only with great care.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Your share of the peace Thursday consists of being aware that you may be overly critical; make allowances for others. Take time to think over your recent progress as you retire for the night.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Wear new clothing and go after a better spot in your career. Do something for your friends in the process. It's a very lucky day, according to your performance.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): There is more respect and help from important fellow workers, local connections. Save money on some new device in housekeeping. Pursue romantic interests in the evening.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): intensely personal strivings begin now, and will continue for many months. Changes are not to be forced at this time. Plan for travel if you have reason to go. Make it business if it is at all possible.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): The morning opens with pleasant surprises from neighbors and associates. Read technical bulletins carefully, as there is something of special interest to you Thursday. Take your best friend with you visiting.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): This is one of those difficult days; you are ready for action, but nobody else has his mind made up or else is determined to disagree. Be patient until things turn around to favor you more. Harsh words spoil everything.

SAGGITARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Your intuition is going strong as you awaken. Follow it, whatever it says. Loose ends are easily tied up on the way toward new ventures, but don't waste time along the way.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Your plans should not be announced—do whatever you planned, and let people react to your arrival. Chance meetings provide clues. Things done Thursday pay out in about a month's time.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): The schemes of friends are great for others to invest in—while you stay clear altogether. Influential people are quite likely to be busy elsewhere if you are expecting anything of them.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Give your associates just a little encouragement and they are apt to open up somewhat and tell you more of their story.

Mrs. James Poole, president, conducted a short business meeting as announcements were made for the Regional Meeting which will be held at the Pampa Country Club Oct. 13. The theme is "We Dare Not Sleep or Be Indifferent." Dr. Frances White, international president and sister of Mrs. Julian Key, will be the guest speaker.

The program, "Values of the Seventies," was presented by Mrs. Fay Dellis Adams and Mrs. Kenneth Walters.

Mrs. Adams reviewed several movies and stated "such material has no place in the lives of young people in the formative years. Control must be done on the local level through the local community."

Mrs. Walters admitted that "movies have gone too far, but we cannot blame our problems on the movies. The blame must be placed on the adults."

Welfare: The Destroyer

With rising demands for increased "welfare" benefits making both the local and national news, now would appear to be the opportune time to recall the words of warning sounded by a former President of the United States.

"The government must and shall quit this business of relief," said the President in his message to Congress.

"Continued dependence upon relief induces a spiritual and moral disintegration fundamentally destructive to the national fiber," the President continued. "To dole out relief in this way is to administer a narcotic, a subtle destroyer of the human spirit."

The speaker was not the present occupant of the White House, but a man who today is commonly regarded as the father of the welfare, socialist state in this country. Franklin Delano Roosevelt's prophetic message was delivered in 1935. And his vision of the destructive character of government bestowed welfare has, 34 years later, proved to be more of a reality than even he could foresee.

Today, with business and industry literally begging for workers, there are some eight to ten million (some estimates go much higher) Americans on relief and the number is growing.

The great and costly social experiment has failed utterly to do what FDR, reversing himself, said it was designed to do: provide the basic necessities for the unfortunate, until they were able, once again, to provide for themselves.

"Temporary relief" has become a permanent way of life for millions as the narcotic administered by the welfare state continues its subtle destruction. Today, millions of people look upon welfare benefits, plundered by the government out of the efforts and sweat of working people, as absolute rights.

Some of the poor-by-choice have become so accustomed to their condition and "welfare

SOURCE OF INFLATION

"New think" economists continue to insist that higher taxes are necessary to combat inflation. Their theory is that inflated taxes reduce consumer purchasing power by leaving people with less money with which to buy goods and services.

If this theory should be carried to its final conclusion, we would have to decide that the way to stop inflation altogether is for the worker to turn over all of his earnings to government, which would then spend the country back into a condition of financial stability. The theory holds that consumer spending is inflationary but government spending is non-inflationary.

Common sense boggles at this concept. The main cause of the inflationary trend that has been going on since the end of World War II — and even earlier — is excessive spending, deficit spending, by the federal government. Higher taxes are not a weapon against inflation, for they must be added to the cost of all goods and services. They set off demands for wage increases, which also must be added to production costs. So the inflationary spiral takes another spin.

The middle class worker, who makes up the bulk of our population, is caught in a squeeze between the direct and indirect cost of government policies. The direct cost comes in the form of higher taxes; the indirect cost is continued inflation.

Economic theorists may not be able to grasp these simple facts, but the people most adversely affected can see them clearly enough. They are living with them every day of their lives.

America's Ignored Mass: 17.4 Million Poor Whites

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)—It has become altogether too easy in this country these days to forget about the white poor.

In fact, one is likely to hear more about these 17.4 million poor white Americans from some of the responsible black leaders than from most of the guilt-ridden white liberals who talk as if poverty were exclusively a problem of the nonwhite.

A top official of the Office of Economic Opportunity told this reporter some time ago that the anti-poverty agency tended to concentrate most heavily on the poor blacks because millions are clustered in urban ghettos and hence are easy to find.

There is much more to it than that, of course. The urgency of the racial struggle underscores black poverty. There are two poor whites for every nonwhite American, but only a tenth of all white persons were poor in 1968 as against a third of all the nonwhite people. That crushing ratio explains much.

Nevertheless, 17.4 million is a lot of people—just a little less than the entire population of Yugoslavia or Romania. One of

Clearing House

Got something you would like to "get off your chest"? That's what the "Clearing House" is for. It has been suggested there should be more letters to the Editor, that people should speak their minds. So, in the public interest, write to the Editor and "get it off your chest."

Editor:

For years, even when I was first on the City Commission, I scratched, clawed and hollered, about the Canadian river dam and the payments and what it would do to Pampa.

Also I used all the newsprint the Pampa News could afford, to write about it. Chemical analyses were offered to show what the quality of water is.

Now, it seems useless to longer bemoan the project. We have got it for fifty years. So let's turn to the other page and see what we have now realized that we have done.

The sale tax matters little financially, as to whether it passes or not. It is just a desperation move, and a clutching at straws. The sales tax is only a drop in the bucket of what we will need.

The rank and file of city employees now are going through a time when they wonder where the next loan is coming from. The rate of turnover is discouraging. It matters not how much comparison can be made with other cities. It's immaterial as to what salaries are in Amarillo, or Plainview, or Lamesa. Other city laborers are in the same fix.

Our city employees are finding it practically impossible to live on what they are being paid. So are small businesses and other workers.

It can be expected, regardless of this puny sales tax, that other revenue will have to come, other than that now proposed. Principally, the people of Pampa will have to pay this sales tax. We are not near enough of a tourist center to attract more than 26,000 people here to visit and buy.

Only about five cities have to pay for the dam. Others pay only for the delivery pipe and the water. Pampa, along with a few more, must stand for the cost of building the dam and the maintenance.

The puzzling thing is, how could business men, who have made good success in their own business, so misjudge the Canadian River project, and declare its great success, when the facts were so apparent?

"The old man of the sea," Lake Meredith, hangs like a milestone around the necks of this generation and of generations to come.

JOHN GOLDSMITH Cross Currents on Draft —Will Nixon Act?

ROBERT ALLEN

WASHINGTON — President Nixon has been assured by the experts that he can alter military draft procedures, pretty much to his own dimensions, by executive order and without congressional action.

That is the substance of a joint study prepared for the White House by the Defense Department and the Selective Service System. It's this coordinated study which has given rise to all the recent predictions that the President will act to reform the much criticized draft.

Some advocates of draft reform are cautioning, however, that the plan for presidential action in the complex field is still uncertain. They will believe it when they actually see the presidential order and resulting directives to local draft boards across the nation.

Early in the summer the President asked Congress to enact draft reforms. He envisioned a system under which 19-year-olds, and older students deferred after four years of college, would face a year's vulnerability to military service, with selection determined by a random choice lottery, rather than the current induction of oldest eligibles first.

Only the proposed lottery system really required action by the House and Senate. President Nixon, like President Johnson before him, has had the power to shift from inducing the oldest eligibles and focus on the 19-year-olds. The military brass have long favored such a shift.

Now the joint study indicates that the President could couple a shift to the 19-year-old group with adjustments in the frequency and size of draft calls so as to produce a haphazard, lottery-like process for selecting among the younger eligibles. The effect would be quite similar to the plan recommended to Congress.

For the individual young man, the plan would mean that after a year of draft vulnerability at about nineteen years old or after four years of college he could be sure, barring an all-out emergency, that he would not have to serve. That sort of assurance might help to quiet the unrest on college campuses in the months ahead.

The Doctor Says

By DR. W. G. BRANSTADT

When Best Treatment May Be No Treatment

Several abnormalities seen in newborn infants and toddlers that are a great source of worry to their parents are self-correcting and will disappear without any treatment. It is important to recognize these conditions for what they are because, at best, treatment is a waste of time and effort and at worst, it may be harmful.

The jaundice seen in about 67 per cent of full-term babies in the second or third day of life is believed to be caused by a breakdown of fetal red blood cells and immaturity of the liver. It should clear up without treatment before the child is a week old. If it doesn't, an examination should be made.

The umbilical hernia, often present at birth, clears up spontaneously before the child is 6 years old. This occurs even when the hernia is two or three inches in diameter.

The undescended testicle should be left untreated until adolescence. Many will have descended into the normal position in the scrotum before that time. If this does not occur, it is time enough for corrective surgery.

The strawberry mark of hemangioma usually appears during the first month of life. It seems especially ominous because it tends to increase in size for six to 10 months. But almost without exception it will disappear by the age of 5.

The geographic tongue is characterized by bizarre patterns of bright red with whitish margins. It may last two to seven days and may return from time to time, but, even if it doesn't go away completely, it is not a disease and requires no treatment.

Babies who are cross-eyed should be referred to an eye specialist if the condition has not cleared up by the infant's first birthday.

Babies who are bowlegged, knock-kneed, or pigeon-toed should be examined to rule out rickets and congenital disease. If these are not the cause, the deformity usually corrects itself without treatment before the child is 2.

If your infant has any of the above conditions, stop worrying and give a cheer for Mother Nature.

PERILS AND PITFALLS

The plan for presidential action evolved after leaders in the House and Senate made it clear that congressional action was out of the question this year. Some of those congressional experts have long argued that most of the proposed reforms could be effected by the White House.

They have been telling the White House that draft legislation, put before Congress now, could well emerge in a form far different from the plan proposed by the President. They have been saying that

GRISWOLD RE: DOUGLAS

Solicitor General Erwin N. Griswold has rejected the suggestion of Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La., that Justice William O. Douglas be required to abstain from participating in a key draft case which is to be heard by the Supreme Court.

As reported in our previous column, Hebert, second-ranking member of the House Armed Services Committee, wrote Griswold declaring that Douglas had long demonstrated "open and vindictive bias and prejudice" against the draft law. He asked that the 71-year-old Justice be disqualified in a Boston case which seeks to invalidate the law's provisions on conscientious objectors.

"In the first place, it is doubtful that there is any legal authority for seeking such disqualification," said Griswold, declaring that Douglas could fairly be charged with bias and prejudice.

Besides, said Griswold in a letter to Hebert, "practical considerations" point against any government request that a justice be so disqualified. The government is a party to many Supreme Court cases, the solicitor general said, and all members of the court would frown on such a move, which would "impair the relationship the solicitor general has built up with the court over many years."

"I see no basis upon which I could properly seek the disqualification of a particular justice in a particular case because his prior actions and expression of views may indicate that he is likely not to accept the government's position in the case," Griswold said.

Lighter Collection Plate

Not all Britons are happy about their nation's scheduled 1971 switch to decimal coinage to supersede the time-honored but confusing system of 12 pennies to the shilling, 20 shillings to the pound, one pound and one shilling to the guinea and so on.

Clergymen are especially doubtful about the change-over in change, reports Scripps-Howard writer B. J. Outler.

It seems that the largest British coin and the one most frequently found in collection plates—the half-crown—will be eliminated in the new coinage.

The half-crown (there is no such thing as a crown; that would be too logical) is worth about 30 U.S. cents. Its place will be taken by a 10 new-pace piece, worth 24 U.S. cents.

The worry is that if the habitual half-crown giver begins giving the coin nearest in value, he will be cutting his donation by 20 per cent.

Clergymen are hoping that the one-coin man will become a two-coin man, dropping in two 10-penny pieces and thus increasing his giving by 60 per cent.

But, being in the salvation business, they are not too optimistic about the human nature.

Individualism Is Legal

High school students' manner of dressing may not be regulated by administrative order where fashion or taste are the sole criteria, the New York State Education Commissioner ruled this year.

"The standards of taste of a previous generation of students are an insufficient basis for the imposition of restrictions on students today," the commissioner stated.

That was a purely administrative decision, but now the same right to individualism in appearances has been accorded teachers by a federal court.

The U.S. District Court for Massachusetts recently ordered the reinstatement, with back pay and compensatory damages, of a 24-year-old eighth-grade teacher who had been fired because he wore a beard.

Fashions change but legal principles don't. Law school students are urged to file these precedents in their memories for reference on that day—oh, maybe 20 years from now—when the first representative of

Question Box

(We invite questions on economics and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.)

QUESTION: The Nixon administration claims to be trying to stop inflation and at the same time prevent a recession (or depression). What can the government do to cure these twin problems?

ANSWER: What the government ought to do to cure the problems of inflation and depression are actions that will make the government very unpopular, so we have little hope that the Nixon administration or any other political administration will take the necessary steps. For what the government ought to do is first to stop inflating and then to do nothing.

A simply written and easily understood little booklet called "Economic Depressions: Causes and Cures" by Dr. Murray Rothbard explains the basic principles of Dr. Ludwig Von Mises' theory of business cycles. Von Mises' theory satisfactorily explains, as no other economic theory does, all the puzzles of the cycle — its recurring nature, the massive cluster of entrepreneurial error and the far greater intensity of the boom and bust in the producers' goods industries.

We quote from the Rothbard booklet: "In the first place, government must cease inflating as soon as possible. It is true that this will, inevitably, bring the inflationary boom abruptly to an end, and commence the inevitable recession or depression. But the longer the government waits for this, the worse the necessary readjustments will have to be. The sooner the depression-readjustment is gotten over with, the better. This means, also, that the government must never try to prop up unsound business situations; it must never bail out or lend money to business firms in trouble. Doing this will simply prolong the agony and convert a sharp and quick depression phase into a lingering and chronic disease. The government must never try to prop up wage rates or prices of producers' goods; doing so will prolong and delay indefinitely the completion of the depression-adjustment process; it will cause indefinite and prolonged depression and mass unemployment in the vital capital goods industries."

Boss Of 'The FBI' Has Creative Talent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Philip Abbott, the John Edgar Hoover-like boss of television's "The FBI," would rather pilot his power mower around his modest San Fernando valley estate than fret about the 10 most wanted list.

Abbott is a tall, spare man, a native of Lincoln, Neb., with a dry wit and a penchant for creativity. While acting has provided him with sufficient wealth to enjoy the good suburban life, he is a happiest writing for the theater and directing his own works.

Since "The FBI" went on the air five years ago, Abbott has authored and directed "Robert Frost's Promises to Keep" and "The Web and the Rock," an adaptation of Thomas Wolfe.

Both were produced in Theatre West, a small legitimate playhouse near Warner Bros., where his ABC-TV series is filmed. Both playhouse and studio are a 20-minute drive to Tarzana, where Abbott lives with his wife, Jane.

The "Me Tarzana, You Jane" gags have worn a bit thin with both Abbotts as well as their offspring Denise, 17; David, 12; and Nelson, 7.

A combination of California ranch and contemporary modern, their home is centered on more than an acre of ground and contains some 3,000 square feet, allowing for spacious rooms. There are four bedrooms, an airy living room and roomy dining area. But the center of life for the Abbott family is a magnificent den-playroom which includes an antique pool table, television set, stereo equipment and other diversions. It looks directly out on a patio swimming pool.

Fruit trees abound in the garden, and Abbott is one of the few men in the neighborhood who does not employ a gardener. He can be found two or three days a week pruning trees, trimming shrubs, mowing his considerable lawn and planting flowers.

"Gardening is relaxing," he says. "Gives me time to get my mind off work and other things."

Weekends Abbott and family often head for the beach. But his favorite means for leaving the world behind is to camp near the town of Frazier Park in the Tehachapi mountains, less than two hours from home. Abbott discovered the area while on location for an episode of the adventure drama.

Abbott's job is far from taxing. In some shows he is seen briefly in a scene or two, requiring him to work only one day of the week. Again, he may find himself active before the camera all week.

The schedule is perfect for a man who enjoys the feeling of a power mower trimming the lawn. The schedule is perfect for a man who enjoys the feeling of a power mower trimming the lawn.

Libya's New Council Ups Wages

CAIRO (UPI)—Libya's Revolutionary Council, which toppled the monarchy Sept. 1, has decided to give all workers 100 per cent pay raises. A broadcast from Tripoli heard here Thursday said the council gave no date for when the decision will go into effect.

Wife Versus Parents

If a bridegroom is lucky, his bride and his parents will work out their new relationship in sweet peace and harmony. But what if they don't—and he is "in the middle"? Where do his duties lie?

By and large, the law says his wife comes first. Take this case:

A man was hailed into court by his wife for non-support. In his defense, he explained:

"I give every nickel I make to my elderly parents. I just feel they need the money more than we do."

But the court decided this was no excuse, and ordered him to start taking care of his wife. The judge said she had first claim on his earnings.

A similar principle applies to the family domicile. A man accused his wife of desertion, after she walked out on him. But in court, she pointed out that she had good reason for leaving: her husband allowed his mother not only to live with them but also to run the household with an iron hand.

Ruling in the wife's favor, the court said:

"When a man marries and founds a new family, he assumes new duties. When these conflict with his former ties, they must be held paramount. The very existence of the family depends on this principle. Whatever his filial obligations may be, a man may not bring his mother to reside in his new home. That place belongs to the wife."

Nevertheless, the law does not insist on total estrangement of a husband from his parents.

In another case, a man brought his ailing, elderly mother into his home—partly for the sake of economy. However, it was his wife, not his mother, who had full charge of managing the household.

Was this husband falling down on his marital obligations? This time, a court said no. The judge said that, although a wife does rank as Number One, she still must make fair and reasonable adjustments to reality—to make the marriage work.

Income Tax Questions, Answers

EDITOR'S NOTE — This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q — I just started working in a beauty shop as a beautician. What tax records should I keep?

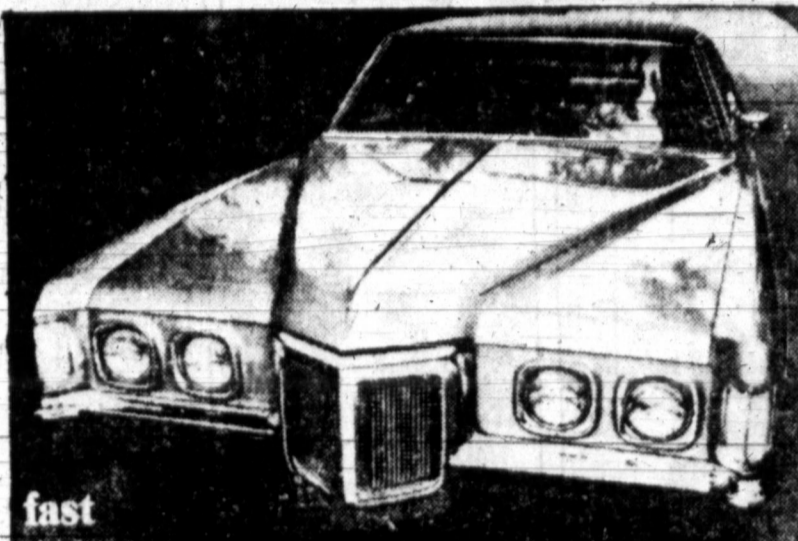

A — The W-2 statement will get from your employer will show your earnings and the amounts withheld for Federal income and Social Security taxes. A copy of this form should be attached to your 1040 tax return when you send it in and you should keep a copy.

It's a good practice to keep records of all expenses that are deductible for Federal income tax purposes. Put your receipts and cancelled checks for charitable contributions, medical expenses, and interest expenses in a special envelope or file folder. This way you'll have them when you start to prepare your return. If you have a job where tips are part of your income, record them daily. For details on reporting tips, send a post card to your IRS District Office requesting Publication 531, Reporting Your Tips for Federal Income Tax Purposes.

Q — My divorce came through. Can I still claim my ex-wife's exemption for withholding purposes?

A — No, after your divorce you are no longer entitled to claim a new W-4 with holding exemption certificate, with your employer to make the change.

This is the way it's going to be. Pontiac's 70's

Surprised that Pontiac's setting the style for the umpteenth straight year? Of course not.

But you may be a bit dazzled to find out that Pontiac finally outdid Pontiac.

Take Bonneville. From the strong, new bumper grille to the standard 455 under the hood, it's a rouser. Inside, instant limousine. So luxurious, some of the traditional big boys are already screaming.

One of the nicest things we could have done for Grand Prix's luxury was to leave it alone. We did. But we popped in a 455 V-8 for you to order.

Enter LeMans Sport. A brand-new series in the Pontiac stable. Wait'll competition sees it pull the new 400 cubes under the hood trick. We'll show you that one if you check the right box on the order form.

By now, you've spotted our '70 GTO. But maybe you haven't heard it. A sound so tough we've dubbed GTO "The Humbler."

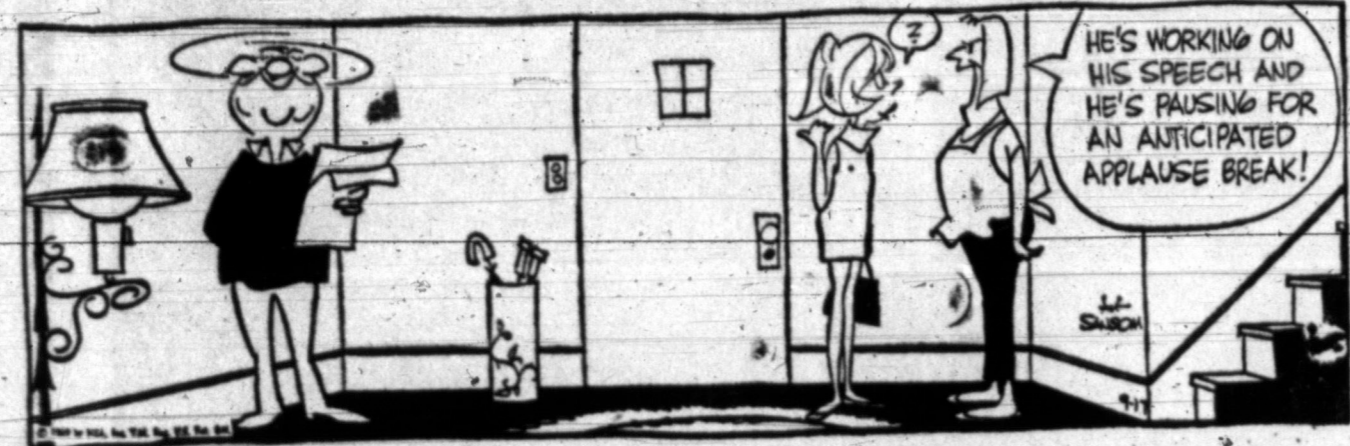

This is Pontiac '70. And this is the way driving's going to be. It's at your Pontiac dealer's now.

Pampa Given Nod Over Dumas Squad

There is an old saying that if you want to beat the book, you've got to do it in the first three weeks of the season. It's impossible to beat the book.

It's even harder to pick the high school winners, witness last week's terrible 13-8-2 record on opening Friday. But, then I've been known to get better as the season grows older.

The season is still young but here's this week's attempts:

PAMPA 22, DUMAS 8 — Despite losing Pampa showed more drive than ever. A couple of fumbles and some bad punts can happen to anybody. Look for a good clean game Friday night.

SHOCKERS 21, BORGER 12 — The Shockers seem to know what it's all about. They've got good quarterbacking, some good running and a fine line both on offense and defense. Get old quick, fellows.

DALLAS 24, ST. LOUIS 16 — Without Morton and Hayes the Cowboys aren't as good. Staubach is exciting but his passes have a way of getting in the enemy's hands.

OKLAHOMA 35, WISCONSIN 0 — This is thrown in just to make sure we get one right this week. The Sooners should be a shoo-in over a weak Wisconsin team.

WHITE DEER 8, CLARENDON 6 — This game should be played in a couple of weeks when both teams know a little more what they are doing. Both are good and if it was being played at Clarendon they would be the choice.

SPEARMAN 16, CANADIAN 8 — The Wildcats are in bad shape. Injuries cost them the game against

You Don't Say...

By RON CROSS

Booker. They played good but have a severe shortage of personnel.

MCLEAN 16, LEFORS 10 — A good class A team should be a good class B team anytime. The Tigers found out against Shamrock where their weaknesses were. Lefors is still a little young but should come on strong.

WELLINGTON 14, WHEELER 7 — The Mustangs are still a little inexperienced for Wellington, a big, powerful team. Give 'em a little time and they just might be the class of District 2-A.

GROOM 22, CLAUDE 0 — The Tigers are an excellent class B team while Claude is only a so-so class A squad. But Groom is good at that, there is no question.

MIAMI 35, GATE 22 — The Warriors lost by a bad break last week. I doubt they'll get anymore punts blocked. They look solid for '69.

WICHITA FALLS 10, AMARILLO 7 — This is about a toss up and if the same two teams were playing in Amarillo the Sandies would be the choice. However, the Coyotes are always tough at home.

TASCOSA 16, BORGER 10 — The Rebels looked fair in losing and Berger beat a very inexperienced Perryton team. The Bulldogs are good but not quite as good as the Rebels.

EL PASO CORONADO 22, CAPROCK 6 — The Longhorns are facing a long, long season. Enough said.

LUBBOCK CORONADO 21, ANDREWS 8 — The Ponies got a little shock from Wichita Falls last week but they should be able to come back strong. They still have a good team.

LUBBOCK HIGH 10, ODESSA VECTOR 8 — The Westerners surprised everybody, including themselves with an opening game victory last week. If they can do it once why not again?

WICHITA FALLS RIDER 21, MONTEREY 8 — Rider is supposed to be strong and Monterey squeaked past Big Spring, who isn't too good anyway.

PALO DURO 35, EL PASO IRWIN 7 — We apologize to the Dons for having thought they weren't that good. If word is right the fleet backs could carry them to the state championship.

PLAINVIEW 21, HEREFORD 7 — The Bulldogs made the usual opening game mistakes against Clovis, who already had a game under its belt and still won. They should have no trouble with Hereford, who isn't that good.

OTHER GAMES — Perryton 20, Woodward, Okla. 7; Sunray 14, Booker 6; Gruver 16, Memphis 0; Stratford 10, Dalhart 6; Turkey 24, Silvertown 20; Happy 21, Bovina 8; Textine 6, Boise City, Okla. 3; Pollett 21, Woodward Okla. B. 10.

Bufs To Open Season Saturday Against Arizona

CANYON — West Texas State University's Buffaloes enter their 10th season under coach Joe Kerbel at 8 p.m. Saturday in Buffalo Bowl against the Northern Arizona University football squad.

In Northern Arizona the Bufs will be facing a club with a new coaching staff which opened its season with an impressive romp Saturday afternoon.

Northern Arizona, formerly Arizona State of Flagstaff, zipped past California Poly. 38-7 Saturday in Flagstaff. Former professional football coach John Symank took over as head coach of the lumberjacks this fall. On his coaching staff is former pro quarterback Lamar McHan.

This will be the first year for Kerbel to have the double job of head football coach and director of athletics. He's been pleased with the showings of his ball club during a pair of scrimmage sessions, but is looking forward to seeing his team in an actual game.

The Bufs return only four starters offensively from last year's team which had an 8-2 record, but Kerbel feels the replacements have outstanding potential.

Leading the offense is All-American candidate Duane Thomas, 6-2, 220-pound fullback who is the 10th leading rusher in West Texas State's history. Thomas has 1,304 yards in two years — gaining 596 yards his sophomore year and 708 last fall.

Gone is NCAA record-breaking halfback Eugene "Mercury" Morris, but Kerbel feels he has a pair of excellent replacements in Olan Thompson and "Rocky" Thompson (no relation).

Olan Thompson has rushed for over 200 yards in each of the Buff scrimmage sessions. Rocky, on the other hand, has been injured, but is expected to be ready for action Saturday night. Both backs are speedsters — Rocky having run a 9.5 in the 100-yard dash during an intramural track meet last fall and Olan being a 9.7 sprinter.

At the quarterback post will be Clarence "Pooky" Redic, a former all-stater at Odessa Ector High. Redic limited his duties last year as a freshman to placement kicking and was the fourth leading kick scorer in the nation with 67 points.

Redic and senior letterman Eric Roanhaus have been impressive with their passing during early drills.

The defense returns eight defensive regulars

Highlights And Sidelights From The State Capitol

AUSTIN, Tex. — Legislators closed out 44 days of special session conferences over taxes and finance.

Texas' $348.6 million tax bill, which takes effect October 1 includes:

- An increase from 3 to 3.25 per cent in the general sales tax rate and inclusion of beer and liquor in the tax base for the first time.
- A boost in the cigarette taxes from 11 cents to 15.5 cents a pack.
- Increase in corporation franchise tax from $2.75 to $3.25 per $1,000.
- Change in corporation franchise tax allocation formula to include out-of-state concerns which sell products in Texas (food and drugs exempt).
- Raise in natural gas tax from seven to 7.5 per cent of value.
- Levy of five cents a drink on alcoholic beverages sold in private clubs.
- A record $5.8 billion biennial appropriations bill — $313.8 million above the present general revenue spending level — would provide a $205.6 million increase for education, $58 million more for health, hospitals and youth corrections, $62.2 million increase for medical aid to the needy and a 10.4 per cent increase in state employees' pay.

When the major business of the session was over, legislators turned to other matters submitted by Gov. Preston Smith which included:

- Creation of 28 new district courts over the state.
- Establishment of an antiquities code, setting state policies for historic and scientific explorations or state-owned lands.
- Removal of the statutory interest rate limits on state and local government bonds.
- A variety of "clean beach" legislation.
- Authority for creation of a non-profit corporation to provide deposit insurance for state banks and savings and loan associations in the $15,000 to $100,000 range.

LAWMAKERS RAISE ALLOWANCE — Before departing for the hinterlands, legislators voted themselves increases in their contingency funds.

House raised its allowance for each representative from $450 to $875 monthly during the in-term between legislative sessions. Senators raised their expense maximum from $1,000 a month to $1,700.

Legislators in both houses are paid a salary of only $4,800 a year.

INSURANCE PROBE ENDS — Governor's committee studying a proposed 11.4 per cent auto insurance rate increase recommended that the State Board of Insurance reduce insurance companies' expense allowance for acquisition of physical damage insurance from 25 per cent to 22.5 per cent of the premium dollar. This would scale down the proposed $43 million overall increase by about 6.6 million.

Committee found an increase in premiums "inevitable primarily because of the large increase in automobile accidents and costs of repairs in 1968."

Otherwise, said former Gov. Price Daniel, chairman of the nine-member committee, the increase is "conservative compared with rates in other states, lower than most.

Committee also recommended that investment income derived from auto insurance premiums and loss reserves be considered directly by the Board in determining allowance for profits and contingencies.

Governor Smith said he would make no statement on the report until he has studied it with his staff.

NEW COURTS CREATED — Total of 28 new courts will begin functioning over the state as soon as Governor Smith appoints judges to fill the benches. Twenty-seven were created in a package bill and another in a single-shot measure.

Big cities will get the bulk of the courts. Harris County alone will have six, Dallas five, Bexar and Tarrant two each. One new court each will serve the counties of Nueces-Cameron-Willacy, Anderson-Henderson-Houston, Kerr-Bandera-Kendall-Menard-Concho-Kimble-McCulloch, Potter and Randall, Bell, Jefferson, Praso, Gregg and Hunt.

AG OPINIONS — A person whose driver's license has been suspended must furnish proof of a valid policy of auto liability insurance or other proof of financial responsibility to get an occupational license. Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin has held.

In other recent opinions, Martin concluded that:

- All dredging of bay bottoms requires a permit from the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department since they are owned by the state.
- Burden of proof of private ownership is on the defendant. No permit is required for land owned under fresh water.
- Banking Commissioner has no power to force national banks to stop accepting deposits on Saturdays or other days they elect not to close. He can permit state banks to accept deposits on days they designate to be closed for general banking purposes but they would lose some protection against liability by having available only limited banking services.

Texas Aeronautics Commission has jurisdiction to regulate for-hire air transportation (i.e. helicopters) wholly confined within the limits of any city or town. Agency also has power to seek injunctive relief against violators of its orders.

Though the personal representative of an estate is not required to give security for costs, he is required to pay specified costs set out in law at the time of filing a proceeding in probate.

Office of the ex-officio member of the Texas Air Control Board has been abolished by the Texas Clean Air Act effective September 1.

Psychologist licensing act is not in violation of the constitution, but proposed terms of the new board members — three years — are not in conformity with the constitution which prescribes six, four or two year terms.

APPOINTMENTS — Governor Smith named Dr. Elmer Baum of Austin, state Democratic chairman, to a two-year term on the State Banking Board, succeeding Robert S. Strauss of Dallas.

Smith named Field Scovell of Dallas to the Board of Regents of Texas Tech University replacing Charles D. Mathews who moved to the State Insurance Board Senate promptly confirmed the appointments.

Governor named to the Board of Regents of Texas State Technical Institute Harold Glen Tate of Austin, Francis Verle Wallace of Amarillo, Russel Breckenridge Watson Jr. of Tyler, Joe J. Garza of Harlingen, Henry Clyde Schulte of Teague, Richard Lanier Thomas of Dallas, John Henry Kuitgen of Waco, John W. Niglaizzo of Hearne and James Vancay Price of Lubbock.

Richard S. Robertson has been named to the job of state classification officer. He succeeds Everett L. Anschutz who joined the state employees retirement system.
