

Carter signs 'expensive' farm bill

By BRIAN B. KING
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter today signed an $11 billion farm bill that he described as "a good investment" although it is more expensive than he had in mind.

At a Rose Garden ceremony, Carter labeled the new law as most far-reaching farm legislation to be enacted in 40 years. It boosts grain farmers' incomes, revamps the federal food stamp program and expands agricultural research.

While the bill's food stamp and price support sections will be costly to the taxpayers, specialists say the measure's immediate effect on prices at the supermarket will be minimal.

Complimenting congressional Democrats and Republicans who had a hand in fashioning the farm law, Carter said that "as a farmer myself," he was pleased to sign the measure that renews and revises nearly every statute governing Agriculture Department programs.

Carter's signature marked the end of almost three years' work by Congress and two administrations to prepare the bill, which will be in effect for the next four years.

The President hailed the law as "a great boon not only for American farmer families but for anyone who consumes our products."

The bill tightens eligibility requirements for families with incomes above the official poverty level, while increasing aid to families with incomes under the poverty level.

The $11 billion estimated annual price tag on the bill is about $2 billion more than Carter said he wanted to spend, but he said the bill will lead toward stability for the farm economy and farm programs.

Price support sections of the bill, in which the government guarantees minimum prices farmers can get for their crops, will cost up to $4.4 billion a year and the food stamp program will cost $5.6 billion annually, the administration says.

The House completed congressional action on the compromise version of the bill Sept. 16. The Senate approved it Sept. 9.

Actual spending on crop-related programs depends primarily on the weather in this country and in other major crop-exporting nations.

Favorable growing weather, bumper harvests and slow foreign demand for U.S.

grains would keep prices low, prompt higher government payments to help farm income keep pace with production costs.

The farm bill will provide a record $1.2 billion in such payments for wheat farmers, who have harvested a surplus so far this year of 1.1 billion bushels.

Under the bill, average food stamp benefits are not expected to be changed substantially. Presently, recipients receive on the average 81 cents per day in additional food buying power.

But about 340,000 of the roughly 5.1

million families now receiving food stamps each month are expected to be cut from the rolls. New rules requiring unemployed recipients to seek jobs have been added.

The bill authorizes at least $1.27 billion in new and expanded research programs, with the emphasis on solar energy and nutrition.

The Food for Peace foreign aid program is extended for the four year period at roughly the same spending level of about $2 billion a year. But the measure contains new programs aimed at aiding agricultural development in poorer nations.

Compromise: gas regulated but price up

By TOM RAUM
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two senators who led a marathon filibuster which helped tie up Senate action on natural gas pricing for two weeks said today they would reluctantly vote for a compromise offered by Majority Leader Robert Byrd.

Democratic Sens. James Abourezk of South Dakota and Howard Metzenbaum of Ohio said they would support a plan which keeps federal controls on gas, but would allow more of the fuel to be sold at higher price levels.

But Abourezk and Metzenbaum said they would vote for the compromise only if it remains unamended by senators sympathetic to the natural gas producers.

Both said they would support the new proposal worked up by both Byrd and Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., with hopes that a House-Senate conference committee would cut down a $2.03 price ceiling on each thousand cubic feet of gas.

"I don't approve of it," Metzenbaum said. "But it's better than total deregulation."

Byrd said he was not sure the Senate would be able to vote today on the compromise, which shows promise of breaking an impasse which has tied up the Senate for nine days on the same issue.

Before voting on the plan, the Senate went to work on a complicated parliamentary maneuver designed by Byrd to brush aside some 400 proposed amendments to the bill.

Jackson's move was an attempt to break the filibuster that has kept the Senate from choosing between President Carter's proposal to retain price controls on natural gas and an industry-backed plan to lift them.

But the compromise engineered by Jackson and Byrd was fragile. While Senate leaders were optimistic, there was no guarantee the impasse could be broken.

Jackson, chairman of the Senate Energy Committee, unveiled the plan Wednesday night shortly before the Senate recessed after meeting nonstop for more than 37 hours.

The recess came as two senators opposed to any relaxation of federal price controls suspended their filibuster to give the Senate a chance to study the Jackson proposal.

But Sen. James Abourezk, D-S.D., said he and Sen. Howard H. Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, were ready to resume their filibuster if necessary.

Essentially, Jackson wants to raise the wholesale prices of some interstate gas from the present $1.46 maximum to $2.03 for each thousand cubic feet.

To build industry support, Jackson proposed that gas eligible for this higher price could come from both new wells and some older ones.

Carter's plan would raise the ceiling to $1.75 per thousand cubic feet but limiting the higher price to gas from new wells.

Both the Carter and Jackson plans would extend price controls to the now-unregulated markets within gas-producing states.

The success of Jackson's proposal hinges on building a coalition of Carter administration allies and enough defectors from the ranks of past deregulation supporters to win.

"We picked up some votes," Jackson said. "We made some headway." But he said the outcome was still too close to call.

Deregulation leaders said they planned to oppose the move.

Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, said Jackson's proposal was too great a concession.

But senators, weary after their around-the-clock session, agreed unanimously to sleep on the matter and resume work today.

Byrd, calling the proposal a "workable compromise," told the Senate it was time to break the deadlock.

"We have now debated this bill for nine days," Byrd said. "I have heard the world was created in seven."

Jackson said the White House is not opposed to his move.

An administration official who watched Wednesday night's session said the White House is hopeful a House-Senate conference committee will revive the original Carter plan.

Roy Fletcher dies after June wreck

A Pampa man, Roy Fletcher, who was seriously injured June 21 when pieces of a one-ton truck were scattered along almost a mile of railroad track west of Pampa, died Wednesday at Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo.

Fletcher, 59, suffered a broken leg, head and internal injuries. A service man for Ogden and Son, he had turned onto the drive at Cabot Machinery Plant, 3.5 miles west of Pampa.

Witnesses said the truck stopped, pulled onto the track with the oncoming train only a car away. Department of Public Safety Trooper Wayne Williams said the train was traveling at 60-65 miles per hour at the time of the crash.

The engineer said the gas and oil from the demolished truck spewed over the train. Fletcher was thrown 72.5 feet from the point of the impact.

The truck engine and other pieces of metal were scattered several feet west and north of the intersection where the collision occurred.

Services will be announced by Carmichael - Whitley Funeral Directors of Pampa. Details of Fletcher's background were not known this morning. Among his survivors is a niece, Nancy Jones of Amarillo.

Jerry Burgdorf, safety officer for the director of public safety, said Fletcher's death is the sixth traffic fatality in Gray County this year.

Board hikes hospital room rates

By ANNA BURCHELL
Pampa News Staff

The board of managers for the two Gray County hospitals hiked room rates during a budget study session Wednesday afternoon, and for the first time set the rates for the McLean Hospital the same as those for Highland General Hospital.

The new daily rates are $74 for a private room and $69 for a semiprivate room.

This compares with present rates of $66.50 and $61.50 at Highland and $64.50 and $59.50 at McLean. The hikes are projected to produce an additional $65,000 in revenue for 1978.

Earlier forecasts projected the hospitals need $100,000 additional revenue to operate at a break-even basis next year.

Rates for both hospitals were last increased on March 1 with Highland General going from $58.50 to $61.50 for a semi-private, and from $63.50 to $66.50 for a private.

McLean rates went from $61 to $64.50 and from $56 to $59.50 for a private and semi private rooms respectively.

Joel Plunk, board member, said, "I personally believe we should go up a little" and set Pampa and McLean at the same rates.

"At least this will be a step in the right direction," commented R. W. Sidwell, board president.

The new rates will become effective as soon as approval is given by Blue Cross either Nov. 1 or Dec. 1. Blue Cross is a federal intermediary for Medicare.

Intensive care and coronary care rates will go from $120 per day to $145. The nursery will increase from $25 to $33 per day.

Guy Hazlett, administrator, told the board that room rates are the biggest single factor in setting the budget, which is projected in excess of $3.5 million for 1978.

The budget is to be presented at the board's next meeting.

Royce Gee, board member, said he was sorry to go up on rates. "But I see no other way," he added.

Mrs. Susie Wilkinson, board member, said she thought the new rates could be implemented and the hospital would still be competitive.

In other action the administrator was authorized to implement a new contract with the physical therapy department pending the outcome of a Medicare audit, taken recently.

Employee meals in dietary will increase from 50 cents to 73 cents each, beginning Nov. 1 the date the new budget is to become effective.

The increase will be based on 40 per cent of the cost and will be adjusted every three months — based on previous costs.

Hazlett was authorized to reduce travel expenses for education purposes by 15 per cent. Mileage will increase from 14 cents to 18 cents — the same as the state and county.

In discussing reduced costs, Hazlett told the board that several non-related magazine subscriptions were canceled or subscriptions not renewed. The list included Sports World and a Motorcycle magazine. The budget must first be approved by the board of managers and then passed to the Gray County Commissioners Court for its approval.

The 1977 budget was revised several times before the Commissioners Court finally approved it. The court met with the hospital board of managers a week ago, and apparently no problems arose which would prohibit the court from approving the board's proposed budget.

'Treaty doesn't need okay from House' -- Bell

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell argued today that the Carter administration need not submit the Panama Canal treaty to the House as well as the Senate before the Panamanian government can be given control of the Canal Zone.

Bell quoted U.S. Supreme Court opinions dating well into the last century and read from the original debates at the constitutional convention in 1787 to counter claims of treaty opponents that only the full Congress — including the House — can approve the cession of U.S. territory.

The pending treaty would cede the 10-mile-wide U.S. Canal Zone to the Republic of Panama and turn the canal itself over to Panamanian ownership and control in the year 2000.

The House will be asked to pass specific legislation implementing the treaty, including bills to organize a new Panama Canal Commission and to adjust the jurisdiction of U.S. courts and law enforcement during the 30-month transition period called for in the treaty.

Bell and the present U.S. ambassador to Panama, William J. Jordan, testified before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Jordan said the United States cannot best achieve its goal of maintaining the canal open, efficient, safe and neutral by being "inflexible and bull-headed" and by adopting "simplistic formulas like 'it's ours and we're going to keep it.'"

"No waterway or road, no military base or business, can long remain open and efficient if it is surrounded by a sea of public hostility and resentment," the ambassador said.

Jordan said the issue of the Canal Zone unifies the Panamanian people like no other.

"You will find that whether they are rich or poor, city men or campesinos, university graduates or day laborers, they are as one in their dream of a Panama that is unified and sovereign, a country that is no longer divided in half by a foreign enclave," the ambassador said.

He said the main issue is not the canal but rather the Canal Zone.

"It is an area over which Panama — the country in which it is located — has absolutely no control of any kind," he said.

"If a Panamanian is caught speeding or is involved in an accident, he gets a ticket from a foreign policeman. If the offense is serious enough, he is tried in a foreign court, under a foreign code of laws."

Treaty opponents are contending that both houses of Congress must approve the transfer of any property owned by the United States that would mean that if the United States actually owns the Canal Zone the House of Representatives as well as the Senate would have to approve the portion of the treaty that transfers the zone to Panama.

Armed robbery attempted

Lloyd Mayes, 37, of Pampa was arrested shortly before 11 p.m. Wednesday after he allegedly attempted an armed robbery at the Western Motel.

The arrest was made about 10 minutes after Emory Crockett allegedly grabbed a gun in a brown paper bag from Mayes. Crockett is the motel owner.

The man fled immediately and was hiding in tall grass and weeds when Pampa Police Department officers arrived.

Mrs. Crockett said this morning she and her husband had turned out the main lights and had a "No Vacancy" sign out when the bell rang.

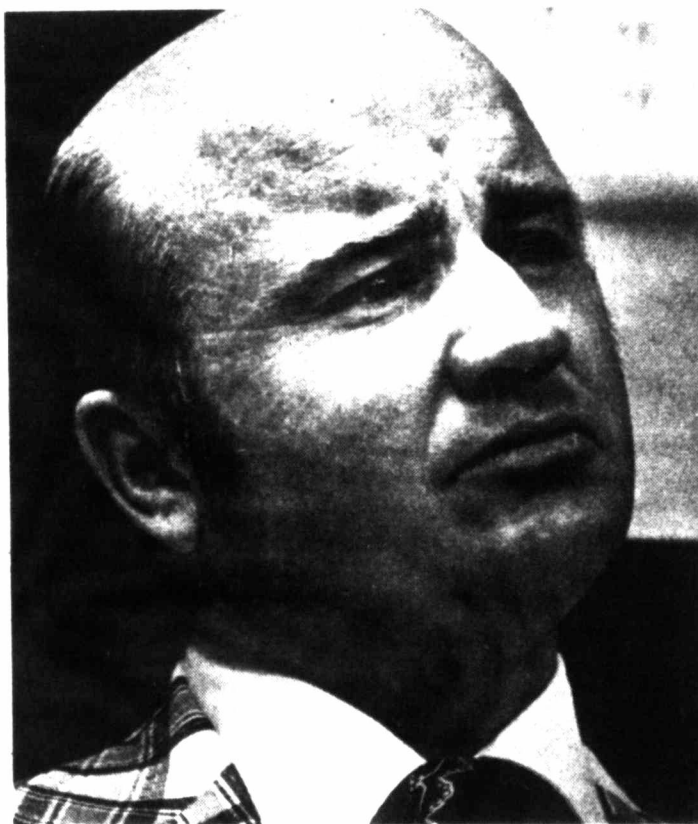

"Emory opened the door as he always does," she said. "And a man stepped in with a note which said, 'This is a holdup.

You talk to me. I have killed three people. I hope you won't be the fourth.'"

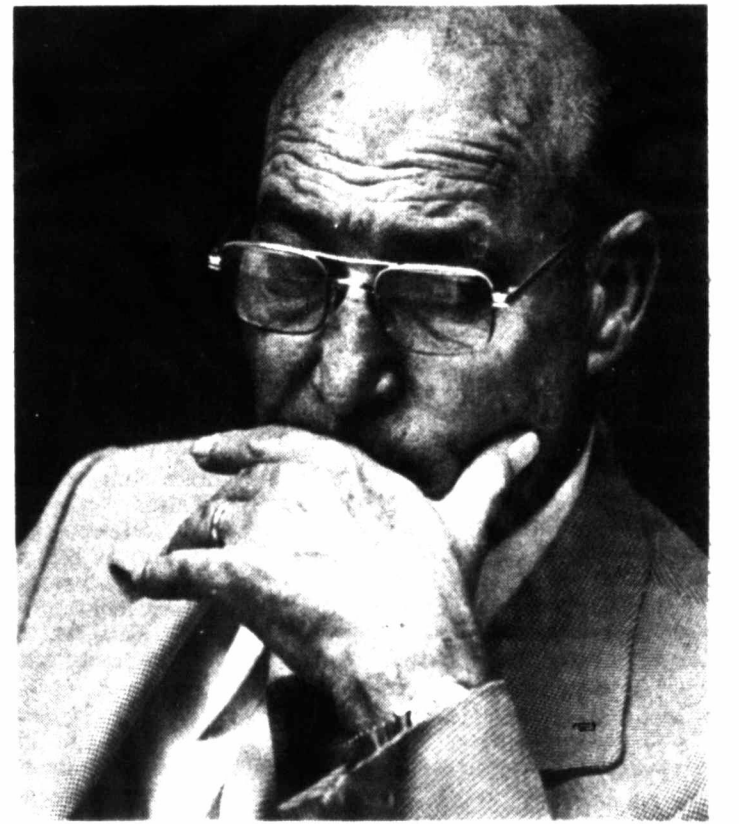

She said the note continued with: "I have a .38 colt pistol I want your money. When you give it to me I'll tape you up."

In relating the events, Mrs. Crockett said her husband walked around the register and put the money (about $50.00) out, but the man didn't think that was enough and started around to the register. Crockett grabbed the gun at that time, which was loaded and had a hole in the end of the sack.

Police Chief Richard Mills said Mayes is on parole following conviction of burglary in 1971. Chief Mills said Mayes told him he cleared "36 burglaries that year."

Stevens elected to head Chamber

By THOM MARSHALL
Pampa News Staff

Gary Stevens, manager of the local office of Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., was elected president of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce today, and will replace Melvin Kunkel in that office at the annual chamber meeting on Oct. 27.

Other incoming officers elected unanimously this morning included Luther Robinson, first vice president; Jim Ward, second vice president; and Royce Brandt, finance director.

The board also voted to replace director J.C. Roberts, who recently moved from Pampa, with Jerry Peurifoy.

Dona Cornutt reported on progress in plans and ticket sales for the annual meeting, which will feature Abigail Van Buren ("Dear Abby") as speaker.

Mrs. Cornutt said that chamber directors and their spouses will have an opportunity to meet and talk with the famous giver of advice in a reception following the program.

She said that backdrops for the stage at M.K. Brown Auditorium have been ordered and the Pampa High School Choir and Pride of Pampa Band are preparing their portions of the program.

Mrs. Cornutt urged her fellow directors to sell the tickets they had been assigned by Oct. 10, and reported that tickets are going fast.

Guy Hazlett II, administrator of Highland General Hospital, presented a slide program to the chamber directors. The pictures showed some problem areas in the condition of the hospital building and compared the local county-owned facility with hospitals in Hereford, Plainview, Brownwood and Paris.

"Money has not been placed back into the plant like I feel it should have been," Hazlett told the directors as pictures of stained carpeting, stained ceiling tiles, plumbing problems, chipped paint, scarred walls and missing tiles flashed on the screen.

Hazlett said that "at present there are something like 200 clamps" being used to patch pipes in the hospital plumbing system.

He presented a detailed comparison between Pampa and the other cities near Pampa's size in his slide study.

"We feel like we need a minimum of 34 physicians in Pampa," Hazlett said.

He estimated that Pampa currently is losing $4.7 million per year because of the inadequate number of doctors and the condition of the hospital.

Hazlett told the directors that the hospital currently is in the process of locating an expert to come in and look at the plumbing but said, "We're looking at a massive renovation program."

He said there is not enough money in a county hospital budget to provide for the kind of capital improvements that are needed.

The slide presentation, he said, is to educate Pampans to the hospital problem. He made no mention of potential sources for the money that extensive improvements would require.

Dr. Jack Long, a urologist who recently moved to Pampa, attended the meeting with Hazlett. He indicated the situation in the city's medical community is an urgent one.

"The quality of physicians in this town is extremely high," he said. "but I think I can guarantee you it won't stay high with the situation we have now."

"You can't take a place and not maintain it and let it go to seed and not have it reflected in the people who work there."

He said the facility now is being allowed "to go to hell in a handbasket," and asked if people would be willing to pay the ultimate price for inadequate health care in Pampa.

"I personally am not going to subject my family to the risk," Dr. Long added.

He said that the need to act on the hospital condition and doctor shortage is immediate.

"I'm concerned with the next six months," he said.

"The doctor urged the directors not to 'misinterpret my presence here or my ability to ride out a disastrous situation... we're in a bad, bad, bad position."

That old country know-how

By THOM MARSHALL
Pampa News Co-Editor

One thing that's always amazed and amused me is the mistaken belief held by many urbanites that something about rural wit, humor and intelligence is inferior to their own.

Nothing of course, could be more opposite to what is factual and example upon example has occurred throughout the history of this nation to prove it. One could, for one bit of evidence, mention Thomas Jefferson He was a farmer.

Or what about the rural background of Abraham Lincoln? There just haven't been many who were that witty or wise or so humorously adept at point making.

And more recently we had occasion to observe Senator Ervin at work in the Watergate hearings. Sharp old man, whether or not one agrees with his political viewpoints. And he liked often to refer to himself as just a plain old country lawyer.

Even more recently I had the pleasure of witnessing a local tiller of the soil get the best of a high-strung city fellow.

It was just the other day when I accompanied some of our area farmers up to that meeting in Pueblo. One of the first folks we encountered after deplaning was a fast-talking paper-shuffling Denver radio announcer doing some on-the-scene coverage of the event.

He was a superior-acting type of rather pushy, favor-asking fellow who started issuing thinly disguised orders just as quickly as he'd heard and forgotten everyone's name.

One of the fellows in our group who seemed happy to lend him a hand and run about fetching arriving farmers for him to interview, was Freddy Vanderburg.

Ah but who was serving whom in this case? Freddy was pleased at the opportunity to get the protesting farmers' message to the station's listeners. He didn't mind the radio fellow putting on his airs just so long as he put those farmers on the air waves. So Freddy ran and fetched while the Denver radio fellow sat behind a mess of papers just a talking away to the home base and those tuned in to it.

An interesting thing to watch, sure enough, but it got even more so.

That radio fellow invited himself to have lunch with us. Sharp move on his part. We intended to drive into town to a restaurant, but no, he suggested the airport cafe since he had to stick close for his next stint on the air. And by so arranging things that Freddy would be there, he insured himself a supply of farmers to interview.

Well, during lunch, he took upon himself the responsibility of entertaining the troupe of visiting rubes. He related as how he hasn't always been a big-time radio personality. No sir. He, himself, had humble farm-type beginnings—in the Ozarks, no less.

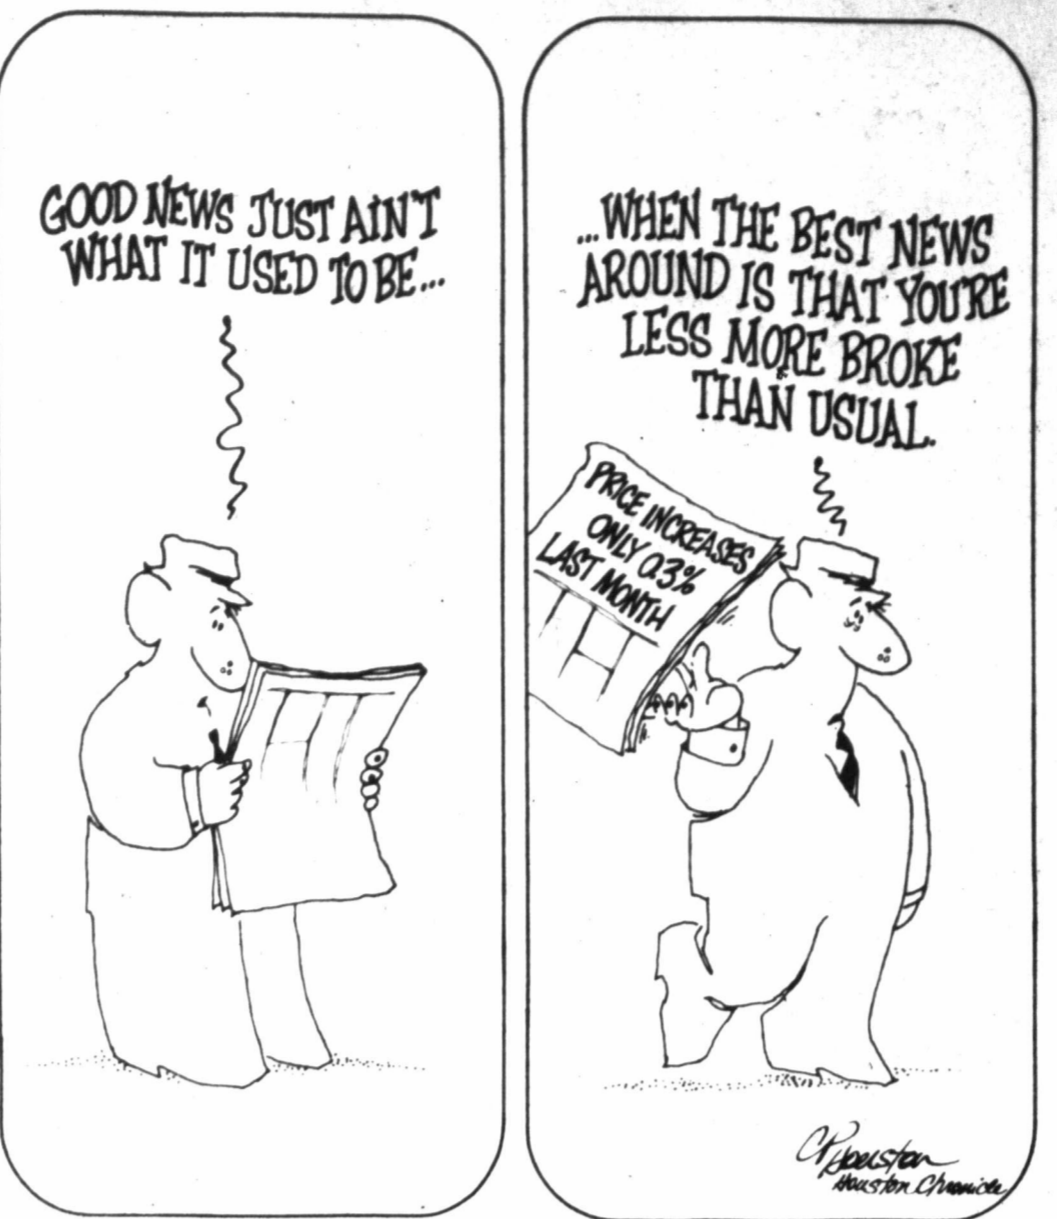

Told how he used to get up early in the mornings to harness the mules. Then he proceeded to tell the mules' side of that situation. He nee-hawed and brayed and whistled right loudly. Nobody in the entire restaurant with any bearing abilities at all was spared that voluminous demonstration.

Say now, I hope that didn't embarrass you boys any," he was kind enough to inquire of his immediate audience after his echoes faded sufficiently.

"Shucks, no," Freddy shot back. "We're used to hearing people bray like a jackass in crowded restaurants. Besides, it sounded so natural coming from you."

Freddy's timing, the sincere expression on his face, the flattering tone of his voice—all combined to make the perfect coup de grace.

Some of those city dudes can sure be simple-minded at times.

Speeding up a slow-down?

An Associated Press (AP) dispatch tells us that the administration is considering speeding up the licensing of nuclear power plants. The newly-created Department of Energy has formulated a "Nuclear Regulatory Reform Act of 1977," which is supposed to shorten dramatically the length of time it takes for the government to approve licenses for nuclear plants.

It takes about five to seven years from the first proposal to the completion of a coal-fired generating plant. The major part of the delay is directly caused by the innumerable government agencies as they ply their regulatory trade. Miles of red tape and many busy bureaucrats impede progress at every stage.

With the proposal for a new nuclear plant, the tempo of governmental interference speeds up to slow down or stop the project. Past history shows that another five years may be added to the total delays. If the bureaucrats fail to halt the project, it is not unusual for the courts to come to their assistance.

At this time the administration pins its hopes on the energy secretary's draft of a bill which is aimed at circumventing red tape. It would also give authority to approve suitable locations for nuclear facilities in advance of specific construction permits.

It is easy to imagine what will happen to the bill as it proceeds through the Congress. Vociferous interests will be on hand at every turn to hamper all attempts at simplification.

Under the guise of "protecting the people" we can anticipate that the pseudo environmentalists will be on hand to orchestrate their effective pitch with all stops pulled out. And those who think it is their bounden duty to protect each and every one of us with or without our consent, will be at instant alert for the "cause."

What is really needed is not new laws. A quick review of the ones which give regulatory power to the point of confiscation, would reveal wherein our best chance of getting nuclear energy lies. But there is a strong lobby to get unnecessary regulations off the books.

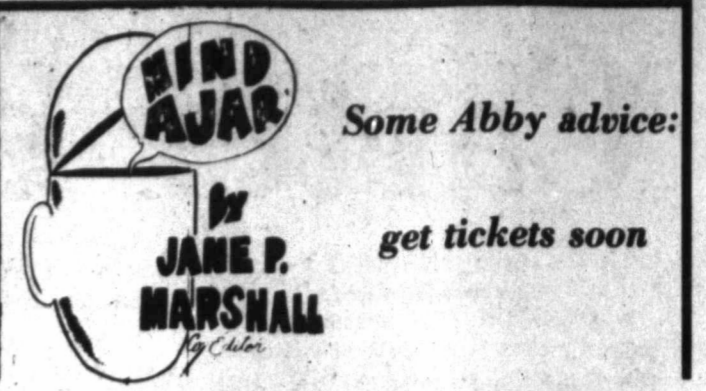

The (AP) dispatch states that the Carter administration, striving to improve the United States' ability to meet its energy needs, without outside help, is considering speeding up nuclear power plant licensing.

But the President or Congress has too little direct control over the bureaucracy to be greatly effective.

Long ago, through legislation, they gave the power to directors of government agencies to make rules. The power to make rules produces rulers. And so, today we have many a small tyrant running a governmental agency and working at his favorite sport. Harassing anything that resembles big business.

It is only big business that can bring consumers the energy we desire and need. Laws and the ever-present regulators will continue to get in the way of energy progress.

The called-for speed-up may only become another big slow-down.

Dear Abby is coming to town. Only about 300 tickets are left for the big bash which the Chamber of Commerce is planning for Oct. 27 in M.K. Brown Auditorium.

The annual chamber meeting, which for the past two years has featured Art Linkletter and Paul Harvey, is one of the few events which fills the auditorium.

As usual, the program looks exciting and well worth the $5 ticket price. Call the chamber for reservations.

Abby, a shortened version of Abigail Van Buren, is in private life Mrs. Morton Phillips of Beverly Hills, Calif. She and her husband have donated $100,000 to endow a new scholarship fund at Stanford.

The scholarships are to be available to "serious students in need of an education but lacking in financial resources to obtain one."

"Abigail Van Buren" was born in 1956 after Phillips' business interests took the couple to California. She decided that she could write a better advice column than the one she had been reading in the San Francisco Chronicle, convinced the editor to give her a trial and proved her point.

She named herself "Abigail" from the Old Testament and "Van Buren" after the eighth president for its "aristocratic old family ring."

In just two months her Chronicle column was syndicated and within two years "Dear Abby" had become a household catchphrase across this country and abroad.

A friend, in the hospital having her third child, was overwhelmed with the care she got at Highland General Hospital.

She had been in other hospitals and bragged that Pampa's nurses are the nicest.

The following is not an endorsement or a plea against abortion. The following Associated Press story is just food for thought.

The current issue of The Lancet, a British medical journal, includes this contribution from L.R.C. Agnew of the University of California School of Medicine at Los Angeles:

"One way of catching class attention is to ask what advice students would give when presented with the following family history.

"The father has syphilis, the mother tuberculosis; they have already had four children—the first is blind, the second died, the third is deaf and dumb and the fourth has tuberculosis.

"The mother is pregnant with her fifth child and the parents are willing to have an abortion should you so decide. Assuming there aren't too many Catholics in the class, you will usually find a majority in favor of abortion.

"You congratulate the class on their decision to abort—and then you tell them they have just murdered Beethoven."

Agnew added that all too often today there is no "love of man" in the practice of medicine.

We received a post card from Barbara and Peter Jenkins, the two young souls who are walking across America and were through Pampa last month.

"Hooray...yipe...we finally walked across the State of Texas" was one of their comments.

Their foot trek across the expanse of our state took them many months, many blisters and many friends.

It's obvious to those who read Kessler Calls 'em on the sports pages of The Pampa News that the sports editor is our resident Buckeye.

He talked for weeks about the Saturday game where his alma mater, Ohio State, would show those guys at Oklahoma University how to play football.

He didn't talk much about the game after Saturday but was a good sport when Pampa's best known resident Spooner walked in Monday for a visit.

David Faterree actually said, "We were lucky to beat Ohio State." Well, according to Kessler, that's what he said.

Texas residents obtained 2,066 patents last year to rank eighth among the states in the number granted to inventors.

California was top, then New York, New Jersey and Illinois.

To obtain a patent, an inventor must prove that his idea is new, useful and not obvious. A patent protects his invention for 17 years.

Since the patent system went into operation in 1790, more than 4 million patents have been issued. Of these, about 3 million have moved into public domain.

Canal should be privately owned run for a hundred years by a private company. In the 19th century it was common for private enterprise to build canals, as well as railroads and highways. Every kind of engineering project is most efficiently built and run by private capital and management.

Arteries of transportation are not necessarily monopolies. There is always more than one route to a destination. No single type of vehicle is required. Hence, there is always competition between routes and vehicles for the patronage of the traveler and shippers. Such competitions can best be relied on to check the cost and maximize the benefits.

The Panama Canal is not efficiently run today. It has always been subsidized by U.S. taxpayers. One wonders—if the U.S. gives the canal to Panama, who will make up its losses then? Has Torrijos considered this? Perhaps he assumes and probably correctly, that the U.S. taxpayer will continue to pay its deficits.

Three-quarters of the people employed in the Canal Zone are Panamanians. By U.S. law, they receive the same scale of wages as the U.S. citizens who work beside them. Will they continue to receive such wages after the canal is transferred to the government of Panama?

If a Panama-run canal loses money, as it is likely to do, Torrijos may raise the rates. This, any economist will warn, is not sure to eliminate the loss for although each ship would pay a higher toll, there would be fewer ships. Running a canal is not a simple operation.

Yet in the interest of the world's consumers who consume the goods freighted through the canal, it should be run in the black, paying its own way, as every economic enterprise should. Only ownership by private owners who have no source of subsidy will insure this.

The rates should be such as to maximize profits. If the charging of such tolls bade fair to yield a large profit, one may be sure other entrepreneurs would be moved to provide a similar service.

Other canals could be dug across the isthmus. In fact, one was once projected across Nicaragua. This would be longer, requiring more digging, but with today's earth-moving equipment it could be done. And no locks would have to be built; it would be a water-level route and hence would have an advantage over the present canal, which has three sets of locks, expensive not only to

Grandson believes Ash killed dad

HOUSTON (AP) — The teenage son of a slain plastic surgeon has testified he believes his father's 1972 shooting death was masterminded by oil millionaire Ash Robinson — the grandfather to whom he hasn't spoken in five years.

Robert Hill, 17, told a civil court jury Wednesday that he could accept a verdict clearing his grandfather, but said he could never forgive Robinson for his "persecution" of Dr. John Hill before the shooting.

The youth testified in a $7.6 million wrongful death damage suit in which Dr. Hill's family alleged Robinson arranged the slaying to avenge the death of Robinson's daughter.

Hill, who was awaiting trial on charges of killing his first wife, Joan Robinson Hill, in 1969 through medical neglect, was shot to death at his fashionable River Oaks home by a masked gunman. She was Robinson's only daughter and Robert's mother.

Robinson has denied the allegations by Robert, Connie Hill, 37, and Myra Hill, 75, the son, widow and mother of the slain doctor. Robinson has said he wanted Hill to be tried, and if found guilty, to be punished.

"I could forgive my grandfather if it was proven he did not kill my father," young Hill testified, "but I cannot forgive him for the persecution of my father before his death."

"From the evidence that has been brought forth in this trial that he was accusing my father of being a homosexual and a dope addict—that's one thing I just cannot forgive him for."

When asked if he thought his father was either characterized, the boy shrugged and answered, "No, sir."

Robinson, 79, and his wife, Rhea, sat 15 feet away from their tall, blond-haired grandson as he testified. They remained unmoved, their faces seldom changing expressions as he testified he had not spoken to either of them since his father's death, Sept. 24, 1972.

The civil trial began nearly six weeks ago.

The boy testified he did not want to talk to Robinson about his father's death "because I fear that whatever he says about my father or whatever he would explain is not going to be good about my father. I don't like hearing that because I know he was a good person."

Presented a picture of Bobby Wayne Vandiver, the boy said, "That's the man who killed my father."

Vandiver was charged as the triggerman in the Hill slaying. He was killed in a shootout with a Longview policeman before he was brought to trial. Two women, Lilla Paulus and Marcia McKittrick, are serving prison terms after being convicted as accomplices in the slaying.

The boy recalled the three-year period between the death of his mother and that of his father. He said Robinson would drive the block surrounding his home as Robert played outside.

He said one day Robinson drove up to talk to Robert, who was playing with a friend.

"He asked me how I was doing," the youth testified. "I knew there was some sort of friction between my father and my grandfather. I asked him, 'Can you forgive my father?' and he said, 'No, I can't ever forgive your father.'"

Asked why he wanted the reconciliation to take place, the boy replied, "Because I wanted to see my grandfather. I wanted everything to be well."

W. Robert Brown, Robinson's lead counsel, asked the boy if he could accept the fact he could be wrong about his grandparents, and, if so, could he then forgive them.

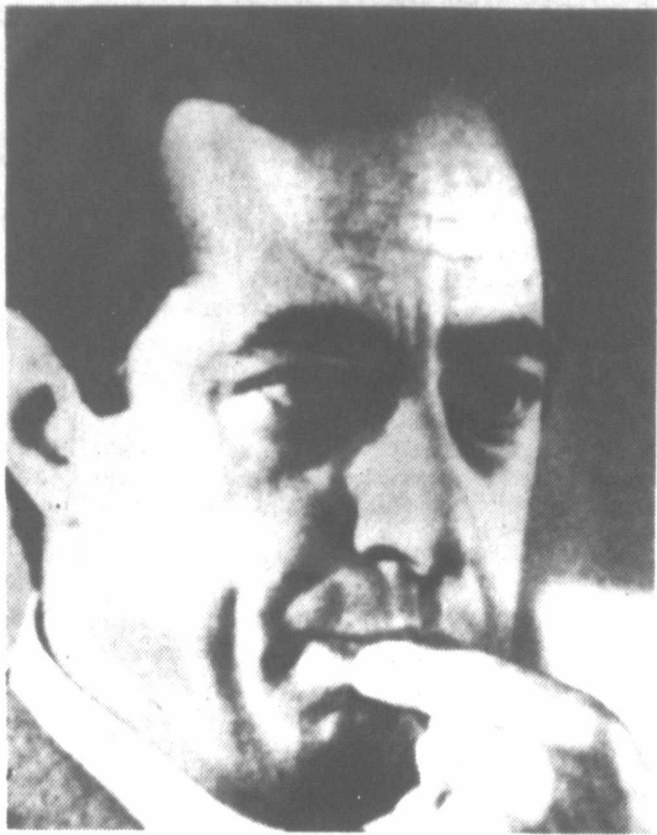

"I'm sorry," he replied. "I can't forgive them if I was wrong."

"Why?" Brown asked.

"I don't believe that I am wrong," the boy replied.

He said a man forced his way into the house, bound and gagged the then-12-year-old boy and his grandmother, Myra Hill.

Leafy vegetables such as lettuce usually need more water than root crops like beets, says the Colorado State University Extension Service.

Switch parties

Problem for Mario Cuomo is his role in New York City's November mayoralty election. The loser in the Democratic runoff vote, Cuomo is still on the ballot as the Liberal party candidate but is under pressure to withdraw to improve prospects of Democratic nominee Ed Koch.

Jesse James (state treasurer) dies

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Jesse James, the cocky old man with a train robber's name who had served as state treasurer since 1941, died in a local hospital early today following a heart attack.

James would have been 73 on Oct. 10.

A hospital spokesman said death came at about 12:15 a.m.

"He was taken to the hospital last night after a fresh heart attack. He had a long history of coronary heart disease. He died of the heart attack early this morning," said his physician, Dr. Robert Anderson.

Morris Stevens, the treasury's chief clerk and James's right hand man since 1946, said James's death came unexpectedly, despite more than a year of poor health.

"He was at the banking board yesterday afternoon, in good spirits and hale and hearty," Stevens said.

The treasurer's death gives

Gov. Dolph Briscoe another top elective position to fill by appointment, pending the outcome of next year's elections. His appointee would have an incumbent's built-in advantage in a race for treasurer next year.

James himself first came to office by gubernatorial appointment when Gov. Coke Steven-

County sets Saturday meet

The Gray County Commissioners Court will meet at 9 a.m. Saturday for a brief agenda.

The court also will consider salary increases, including those proposed for elected officials.

son named him to replace Charles Lockhart, who resigned as treasurer in 1941. James had been Lockhart's top assistant.

Doctors amputated most of James's left leg in January because of a blocked artery, and he suffered from diabetes. After the operation, he came to the office infrequently and moved about in a wheelchair, yet he told anybody who would listen that he was running for re-election.

"I'm better than I ever have been. My guns are cocked," he said in an interview last month.

Some potential candidates, in fact, were afraid to run against James, despite his advanced age and poor health, because of his strong name identification and his proven ability to finance a campaign.

Feds pay gas bill; others angry

CRYSTAL CITY, Tex. (AP) — A federal dote intended to bail Crystal City out of an overdue gas bill is predictably making citizens in that South Texas town happy, but some other communities facing the same rising gas prices are miffed.

Lo-Vaca Gathering Co. shut off the gas to the city of 8,000 for non-payment of a $750,000 bill accrued when rates were hiked with the blessings of the governing Texas Railroad Commission.

Uvalde, Del Rio and Carrizo Springs, some officials think Crystal City should have to live with its problem.

Uvalde City Manager Jack Caffall believes his town should also be considered for federal aid.

Uvalde has about $60,000 in escrow. Del Rio City Manager James A. Hester said: "I have no argument with the attempt to help them buy stoves. But I don't see how it's reasonable for the federal government to pay their bill, to reward them for mismanagement," he said.

Benavides doesn't agree that the city government of Crystal City is at fault. He said Lo-Vaca is to blame "because when we signed the contract in 1973 at a set price, we were led to believe that Lo-Vaca had enough reserves to supply gas at that price."

Hijackers' demands met

DACCA, Bangladesh (AP) — The Japanese government agreed today to hand over $6 million and nine prisoners to ransom 146 persons held hostage by terrorists aboard a hijacked Japanese airliner at Dacca airport. But the government asked for an extension of the hijackers' deadline for the delivery.

The five hijackers had given the Tokyo government until midnight tonight (2 p.m. EDT) to deliver the ransom money and nine "comrades" held in Japanese jails.

A spokesman for Prime Minister Takeo Fukuda announced that the money would be paid and the prisoners sent to join the hijackers. But he said it was impossible to get them to Dacca in the 18 hours then remaining until the deadline.

Japanese. The released hostages reported there were five hijackers, the Japanese Foreign Ministry reported. They said four were Japanese men under 30 but the fifth wore a mask and they could not tell his nationality.

Gutierrez said Del Rio voters would not stand for the mismanagement he sees in Crystal City. The mayor himself faced an August recall election because of a controversy on the location of the town's new firehouse.

Hunts violated trading rules

CHICAGO (AP) — A federal court judge has found that the wealthy H. L. Hunt family of Dallas, Tex., violated trading regulations on the trading of soybean futures, but said there is little or nothing he can do to remedy the situation now.

He denied the commission's request for an injunction. Besides the injunction, the commission had asked the McGarr to order the Hunts to liquidate their soybean holdings and to surrender "all profits unlawfully obtained." He also denied these petitions.

He said the evidence the court heard mostly dealt with soybean futures contracts which expired in May and July. "It is therefore impossible to enter a meaningful order requiring the defendants to liquidate their existing positions in excess of the limits," he said.

Hunts is unknown. He said, however, if the holdings exceed the 3 million bushel limit, "orderly divestiture under court supervision to protect the market would seem to be appropriate."

Most encouraging to economists was a rise of three-tenths of a per cent in contracts and orders for plants and equipment. That means industries are building more factories and will be able to turn out more products, possibly leading to more jobs.

Man says grass found on Gavrel

NEW YORK (AP) — It was the first time that women were in the audience and that the Friars Club ever "roasted" a woman — Totie Fields — who fought back from a leg amputation to resume her career.

Prosecutors identified the man as David Howard and said he contends he removed two bags of marijuana from Gavrel's shorts while he was being undressed for emergency room treatment last year.

Defense lawyers contended the state provided only skimpy details of the disclosure and asked trial Judge George Dowlen to order prosecutors to furnish a fuller report.

Economic trends turn sharply up

WASHINGTON (AP) — A government index of future economic trends showed a sharp upturn in August as industries decided to spend more money on their factories, the Commerce Department said today.

consumer spending may have reached its peak. Also contributing to the increase this month was a rise of three-tenths of a per cent in building permits and boosts in the money supply, prices of raw materials and liquid assets. Among figures declining were vendor performance and stock prices.

Advice

Dear Abby
By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: A year ago I married Ted. His wife (Maxine) died and left him with two children, ages 6 and 8. This is my first marriage.

I say that after Maxine died, Ted is no longer related to Maxine's relatives. Ted says Maxine's parents will always be his in-laws.

Well, I have parents, too, so where does that leave them? A person can only have one set of in-laws at a time, and MY parents should be regarded as grandparents, too, and they aren't. The titles of "Grandma and Grandpa" go to Maxine's parents. My parents are called "Papa Pete and Mama Mary." Do you think this is fair? And what can I do about it?

IN-LAW TROUBLE

DEAR TROUBLE: Even though technically Ted is no longer the son-in-law of Maxine's parents, I advise you not to be so technical.

There is a strong bond between Ted's former in-laws and their grandchildren, so if you're wise, you won't tamper with those bonds because they were established before you came into the picture. Grandparents are grandparents forever.

DEAR ABBY: I admire parents who take an interest in their children's school work, but we have a situation in our school that I think needs looking into.

There is a family whose parents are well-educated and very smart, so if one of their children has to write a theme or give a speech, his parents "help" him with it to the extent of doing the whole thing.

I happen to know this is so because my son pals with their son, who won a speech contest by giving an "original" speech, which his father wrote for him. I think this is unfair to the other children who go by the rules.

I wish you would mention this in your column. Maybe the guilty parents will see it and take the hint.

FURIOUS

DEAR FURIOUS: Not only is it unfair to the other children, it is unfair to their own child. The real "prize" is in the learning—not in the winning.

DEAR ABBY: Charlie and I have been married for 32 years. We love to dance and go dancing every chance we get. (We've invested a lot in dancing lessons, too.)

For some reason, there seem to be fewer good dancers among men than women, which is my problem.

Whenever Charlie and I go dancing, one gussy lady after another approaches Charlie and says, "Gee, you're a terrific dancer—how about a dance?"

Not wanting to embarrass the lady, and maybe feeling flattered to have been noticed, my Charlie dances off with her while I'm left sitting on the sidelines. This has happened more times than I can count, and I'm tired of it.

Abby, will you please tell all those gussy ladies out there that it's rude and unladylike to ask a man to dance?

CHARLIE'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Your problem is not gussy ladies—it's Charlie. He should diplomatically let the gussy ladies know that he brought his wife along because THEY enjoy dancing together.

Ask Dr. Lamb

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB—In the last seven months I have lost my dad, age 45, and his brother and sister to heart attacks. My dad's attack was his fourth in two years.

His father died with a heart attack when I was four. My grandmother is 77 and really strong, so I guess the weak heart is inherited from my grandfather. I'm 24 and would like to know what chance there is that I have inherited a weak heart. Also, what can I start doing now to strengthen my heart?

DEAR READER—Some families do have a tendency to have heart attacks early in life. A little arithmetic tells me your grandfather must have been in his middle 50s and assuming your uncle and aunt were near your father's age they all died in the 40s with heart attacks. That is suggestive of a familial tendency.

You do have one thing going for you. As a woman you are less likely to have a heart attack until after 60 than men are. But in the presence of a familial tendency that doesn't always work out, as evidenced by your aunt's death.

The problem is usually a metabolic one—not a weak heart. There is a tendency for increased production of the types of fatty-cholesterol particles that are associated with deposits in the arteries and cause artery disease. This, in turn, may cause heart attacks or strokes.

With such a strong family history I do think you should have a careful evaluation now. Particularly your cholesterol level should be checked.

There are three areas that you can work on to help maintain good health. You can follow a dietary program to prevent artery disease that leads to heart attacks and strokes. That means limiting your calorie intake in relation to your activity to the point that you remain on the slender side with no major fat deposits under your skin, eat a low-fat, low-saturated fat, low-cholesterol diet. I am sending you the Health Letter number 1-3 to give you more information on the principles of this diet. Others who want this information can send 50 cents for it with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Second, you should develop a regular exercise program and stick to it. That can be walking or your favorite sport. This will also help you limit your body fat.

Third, you can stop smoking if you happen to use cigarettes. Heavy cigarette smoking increases the chances of having a heart attack or dropping dead about three times what it would be if a person didn't smoke. I might add for women that it has now been established that the combination of birth control pills and cigarette smoking increases the chances of heart attacks. If you take the pill, regardless of your family history, you would be wise not to smoke.

Then, of course, you should have a good medical evaluation. A baseline electrocardiogram in a person with your family history is a good idea. And if you should develop any high blood pressure your doctor will want to control your pressure.

If you follow these measures you can reduce substantially your chances of having a heart attack. And if you have abnormally elevated blood fats and cholesterol levels that are not controlled by these measures your doctor may want to give you some medicines for that purpose.

Polly's pointers

By Polly Cramer

DEAR POLLY—My pen with blue ink on it has leaked on my shirt pockets and my wife has not been able to remove the spots. I hope you will be able to tell us what will erase them, and oblige an old age pensioner. —JOHN.

DEAR JOHN—You failed to say what type of ink was in your pen or what sort of fabric makes your shirts so our answer has to be on the vague side, too. For a ball point ink stain spray hair spray on the spots, let dry and wash as usual. Some permanent inks cannot be removed. For pen inks that are not ball point one could rub in lemon juice and a detergent, let stand five minutes and then launder. If stain remains after this spread a paste made of baking soda and peroxide over stains and hold over a steaming tea kettle. Launder as usual. Good luck. —POLLY.

DEAR POLLY—My Pet Peeve is with the new spools that thread no comes on. These spools spin on the machine and cause the thread to knot under the needle. —ETHEL.

Peanut butter crescents

Bread already buttered

By CECILY BROWNSTONE

Associated Press Food Editor

DEAR CECILY: I have a large family and often have to double recipes to have enough to go around. I realize that most families are smaller and need the usual recipes serving four to six. Is there any reliable cookbook for a mother like me? —WISTFUL.

DEAR WISTFUL: "Farm Journal's Best-Ever Recipes" (Doubleday), published in 1977, should help you because the recipes yield more servings than the usual small-family ones. In preparing the book Elise Manning, Farm Journal's energetic Food Editor, wrote to 250,000 of their cookbook users, asking them to specify their favorite recipes from 20 previous Farm Journal cookbooks and also asking why they gave these recipes top rating. Elise says, "The response was enthusiastic and ranged the entire menu—from main dishes to desserts. What surprised us was the interesting assortment of pickle and vegetable recipes because these seldom seem to be regarded as home cooks' specialties." Elise and her staff counted the votes and the most popular dishes were included in "Best-Ever Recipes." One of them:

PEANUT BUTTER CRESCENTS

1/2 cup milk

1/2 cup butter or margarine

1-3rd cup sugar

1/4 teaspoon salt

1 package active dry yeast

1/2 cup warm (110 to 115 degrees) water

1 egg, beaten

4 cups sifted flour

Peanut Butter Filling, see below

Scald milk and pour over butter, sugar and salt in bowl; cool to lukewarm. Sprinkle yeast on warm water and stir to dissolve. Add egg, yeast and 2 cups flour to milk mixture. beat with electric mixer at low speed until smooth, about 1 minute; beat at medium speed until thick, about 2 minutes. Add remaining flour to make a dough that leaves the sides of bowl. Turn onto a lightly floured surface and knead gently. Put into a greased bowl; invert to grease top of dough. Cover and let rise in warm place until doubled, about 1 hour. Turn dough onto lightly floured surface. Divide in half; cover and let rest 10 minutes. Roll each half to 12-inch circle; spread with the Peanut Butter Filling; cut each circle into 12 wedges. Roll up each wedge from wide end and place pointed end down, on greased baking sheets. Curve ends slightly to make crescents. Cover and let rise until doubled, about 30 minutes. Bake in 400-degree oven 15 minutes, changing position of baking sheets in oven when half baked. Remove from baking sheets and cool on racks. Makes 24 crescents.

Peanut Butter Filling. Combine 1-3rd cup peanut butter, 1-3rd cup honey, 1/4 teaspoon salt and 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon

Blue Heaven Cake

Prepare cake according to directions on 14.5 ounce package deluxe angel food cake mix, adding 1/2 cup crumbled blue cheese during final one minute of beating time. Bake according to package directions. When cake is cool, beat one 8-oz. package cream cheese. Gradually add 1-pound box powdered sugar. Add 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1/2 teaspoon salt and 2 teaspoons lemon juice and beat at high speed about three minutes. Spread on cake.

The recipe file

FANCY BURGERS

1 pound ground chuck beef

4 pimiento-stuffed green olives

2 flat anchovy fillets

Salt

Divide beef into 8 even portions. Flatten each portion to a 3 1/2-inch round. Chop olives and anchovies and sprinkle over 4 of the patties. Cover with remaining patties and press edges together. Heat a 10-inch iron skillet until very hot; sprinkle lightly with salt; add hamburgers and cook over high heat for 2 minutes on each side. Turn heat very low and cook another minute if you want hamburgers rare in center, longer for medium or well-done patties. Serve at once. Makes 8 servings.

EUJICE'S COFFEE CRISPS

A little coffee goes a long way

2 cups flour

1/2 teaspoon baking powder

1/2 teaspoon baking soda

1/2 teaspoon salt

2-3rds cup butter

1-3rd cup granulated sugar

1/2 cup firmly packed light brown sugar

2 tablespoons instant coffee granules

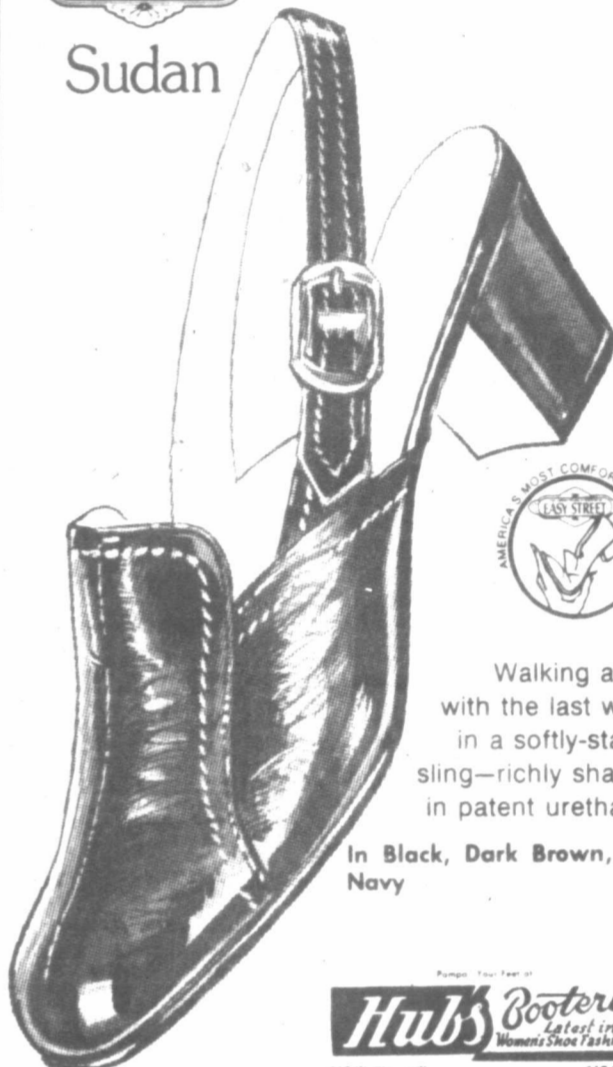

1 egg

Stir together the flour, baking powder, soda and salt. Cream butter, sugars and coffee; beat in egg; gradually stir in flour mixture until blended. Pack into three 6-ounce cans from frozen juice concentrate—dough will come about 1/2-inch from the top of each can. Wrap tightly and freeze overnight. Remove bottom of cans and use to push out rolls of dough. Cut each roll into 18 round slices; round any split edges with fingers. Bake on ungreased cookie sheets, a couple of inches apart, in a preheated 400-degree oven for 5 to 7 minutes. Makes 54 cookies.

At wit's end

By ERMA BOMBECK

One of the most personal experiences I've shared with readers over the past 13 years was the occasion of sending my last child to school.

Boy, how I had lusted for that day I was going to have all my stomach muscles back by lunch, go to the bathroom without locking the door, pull the shades and sing duets with Barbra Streisand, and burn my maternity clothes (The statute of limitations had run out and I had won!).

But there was no exhilaration in my victory, watching "the baby" sit pathetically at the curb. I thought of the woman he was going to — Miss Chalkdust, or whatever. And I wrote "Miss Chalkdust, give him patience and gentleness. Please have a soft lap and a warm smile. I submit to your tender, loving care my son who is a little shy and a lot stubborn. Who can't cope yet with zippers that stick or buttons on sweaters that don't come out even. One who makes his 5s sideways and doesn't know B-O-Y-S from G-I-R-L-S on the door. I may sue you for alienation of affection but for the moment, God bless you."

Those small, pathetic, scared children who are sitting out on the curbs this morning for the first time don't have their own column. If they did, they might confess that they didn't have breakfast this morning because they couldn't swallow. They didn't sleep well last night. They're afraid. Afraid they'll get lost. Afraid they'll goof up. Afraid they'll look different. Afraid they'll be called upon. Afraid they won't find the straw for their milk. Afraid they'll lose their lunch money. Afraid they won't get to the restroom on time — or ever. Afraid someone will laugh at their name. Afraid they won't find a friend. Afraid the wind will blow their papers out of their hands. Afraid of you.

One of the most poignant insights into a child's venture into education comes from a book written by Albert Cullum called "The Geranium On The Window Sill Just Died But Teacher You Went Right On." It deals with an insensitivity of the feelings of children and what they are going through. This is one of my favorites.

"I have a messy desk,
I have milk money that rolls,
I have a lazy pencil,
a book that won't open,
a mouth that whispers,
I have a zipper that doesn't want to,
homework that won't work,
and a hand that throws crayons.
I have a shirt that's out,
shoelaces that won't tie,
And sometimes I wet my pants—
but never on purpose."

Miss Chalkdust... this is a day for all the love you have to give.

Cover crisp, tart apples with crunchy cereal.

Cover with crispy cereal

Crispy fall apples dipped in caramel and coated with something crunchy are just right to greet Halloween spooks and spookettes.

Young hosts can help turn out these treats for their "ghostly" friends joining them for a Halloween party. These are dipped in mellow marshmallow, butter and caramel sauce and rolled in cereal for an extra crunch. Select apples that are fresh, crisp and tart such as Macintosh Select or Granny Smith as a contrast to the sweeter coating. Better make extra caramel apples for the older Halloween apple fans.

- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 2 tablespoons water
- 8 wooden skewers
- 8 medium-sized apples
- 1 1/2 cups 100 per cent natural cereal, coarsely crushed

apple. Coat apple with caramel mixture. Drain off excess. Roll and press caramel apples firmly in cereal, coating bottom and sides. Place on lightly greased wax paper to set. Makes 8 caramel apples.

Melt together caramels, marshmallows and butter with water in small saucepan over low heat, stirring occasionally, until mixture is smooth. Keep caramel mixture over very low heat while coating apples. Insert wooden skewer into stem end of each

Some dry-cured hams (hams rubbed with salt and other dry curing agents) need soaking and/or simmering before baking. Hams such as these are usually referred to as country or country-style.

Youth gets going in game business

By DAN McDONALD
Associated Press Writer
DALLAS (AP) — A 17-year-old West Texan who says he wants to be rich is finding out that you don't have to own mega-ranches and oil fields to be able to profit from them.

Clayton Fowler isn't playing games, but if enough other people want to play a game he invented, he'll realize his ambitions.

Fowler is the inventor of Texas Tycoon, a board game that allows players to amass and lose fortunes consisting of such things as East Texas oil fields and the King Ranch.

Fowler, game in hand, came to Dallas and made a beeline for the prestigious Nieman-Marcus department store.

He arrived early enough to be able to watch the store lights turned on and the display cases stocked.

Clad in light grey suit and matching shirt, black tie and black shoes, Fowler went to the office of stationery buyer Jane Hardenbergh.

When he walked in all he had with him was a handmade sample and an idea.

Mrs. Hardenbergh said, "But he handled himself with ease."

The buyer ordered 72 of the games, which will be sold at $11 each, threw in a few pointers on product manufacturing, then watched Fowler head south to Houston and another prestige store, Sakowitz.

"I had already decided that if I could sell my game to the two best stores in Texas, I could sell it to anyone," Fowler said.

Marilyn Lawrence of Sakowitz said she couldn't believe Fowler had done it all on his own.

"The guy has guts," she said.

She ordered about 300 of the games, then invited Fowler to a store festival next month.

Bob Sakowitz, the store's president, took time out to meet Fowler, and Miss Lawrence drove Fowler to catch his plane back to Amarillo.

"I was higher than the plane on the way back," Fowler said. "My mother didn't believe me when I called from Houston to tell her what I had done."

Since those two exhilarating experiences, things have become more down-to-earth as Fowler begins to set up production.

"The cards have been misprinted, the boxes cut too long and money trays incorrectly sized," he said.

And business is hampered by classes at his 125-student school in Silverton, Tex.

Ben Boothe, a 29-year-old executive at the First National Bank in nearby Tulia, loaned Fowler $6,000, but said he doesn't feel the loan was much of a risk.

"If we can't back someone like him, then this country is just not right," Boothe said. "I just hope he makes it as big as he wants to."

Fowler says he plans to sell one of his first games to Boothe.

Problems mushroom for Campbell

By JOSEPH R. TYBOR
Associated Press Writer
PRINCE CROSSING FARM, Ill. (AP) — For years Campbell Soup Co. enforced a disciplinary code for migrant workers on its mushroom farm here and provided them with nearly every service expected of a town government.

A recent federal court ruling may force some changes on the 201-acre Du Page farm some 35 miles west of Chicago.

Judge George N. Leighton ruled that Campbell had violated the workers' First Amendment guarantees. He said he would decide within the next few days whether to put his order into effect.

Graham Sudbury, a Campbell spokesman, said Tuesday the ruling was being appealed and the company could not comment directly while the case was pending.

He said, however, the company "does not infringe on the personal liberties of employees of Prince Crossing Mushroom Farm in any manner." There are, he said, "certain limitations on visits by nonemployees for security, safety and other reasons."

Sudbury said the company will review its visitors' policy.

In 1974, the Illinois Migrant Council filed suit after its workers were turned away from the camp and threatened with arrest when they arrived to explain vocational and educational programs which are funded under federal law.

Leighton originally dismissed the case but it was returned to him on appeal.

Last week, the judge ruled that Campbell's policy "had the effect of prohibiting political canvassing, political campaigning, communications concerning day-care programs, adult basic education, medical services and dissemination of information by federal government employees about vocational training."

He rejected the company's claim that the farm was private property. He said Campbell provided "the common amenities found in any municipality," including a cafeteria, dormitories and housing units, recreation facilities, water, heat and garbage collection.

"More important is the fact that the company enforces a disciplinary code in Prince Crossing, and metes out penalties through a system it administers," he said.

Sudbury said the company gives workers "freedom of choice" to live at the farm and those who choose not to are given a wage differential. He said 88 workers live on the farm and 49 live elsewhere.

EPA says safe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal officials say there is no reason for concern over increased radiation in air and milk following passage of an air mass contaminated with radioactive debris.

The Environmental Protection Agency stressed Tuesday that higher radiation levels resulting from a Chinese nuclear detonation are well below danger levels.

Debris from China's nuclear bomb test Sept. 17 passed eastward over the United States last week at 30,000 to 40,000 feet and cleared the East Coast on Saturday.

The unemployment problem

Sylvia Porter

(Fourth of five columns)
FACT: After more than 2½ years of sustained recovery expansion, the rate of unemployment in the U.S. is still sticking above 7½ per cent, which translates into close to 7 million real-life people. And these in turn translate into additional tens of millions hurt directly because they are dependents or indirectly because their earnings are tied to the incomes of these jobless.

MEANING: Even as strong and healthy as this expansion has been, it has not been strong enough to absorb huge numbers of would-be workers into the economic stream.

FACT: Among the unemployed, 145 per cent are blacks, more than twice the 61 per cent among whites and matching the highest post-World War II level for unemployed blacks. Much worse, the rate among black teenagers is an explosively dangerous 40.4 per cent against 14.7 per cent among white teenagers.

MEANING: This challenge is social dynamic which demands new approaches, ranging from basic education in reading, writing and arithmetic to job-oriented training programs.

FACT: For the first time since the start of the 1960s, American membership in labor unions has dropped — a full 767,000 over the past two years to 19.4 million, of which 400,000 have been women.

MEANING: Although there is no possibility of a reversal in the influx of women into the job market and the two-income family is a key force in our economy's well-being, women remain another obvious target of job discrimination. Much stricter enforcement of our anti-discrimination laws is imperative.

Yet, despite all these grim facts and grim implications, employment has been climbing steadily to a new record of almost 91 million now, with all recent increases among whites, both adults and teenagers. Moonlighting is high, with more than one in 20 holding at least two jobs. And to complete the job crazy-quit, the help-wanted advertising index is at its highest level in 3½ years. This is a sensitive index, measuring the general economy as well as demands for labor.

The perplexing facts we must face are:

Today's unemployment is not a reflection of a sluggish economy. Much of it is hard core, emerges from the changing structure of our labor force. On top of achieving and maintaining a solidly expanding economy that will continue to create new jobs, we must tackle structural unemployment which won't respond merely to an expansion.

Jobs are, indeed, as labor leaders insist, an "overriding issue of the '70s." President Carter and Congress cannot hide from serious consideration of such moves as:

— Subsidies to spur teenagers to return to school to learn-earn environments and to encourage development of public service jobs which cry out for doing and would be meaningful in the real world of work, not just provide paychecks for temporary periods.

— An objective review and possible overhaul of our minimum wage program to meet all criticisms that it adds to teenage unemployment and mold it toward raising workers' standards.

— Programs that would increase the mobility of workers so they can get to where the jobs are and the jobs can be brought to where the workers are; emphasize part-time employment for the young, and older worker, mothers of school-age children; the handicapped; ban discrimination on any basis and enforce this; smooth the transition of the young worker from home and school into the workplace.

— A new Conservation Corps to work on essential national park programs, aid rural development, help our entire economy.

— A national policy to steer more job-creating contracts to businesses headed by minority employers.

And above all, we — as a nation and as individual employers and employees — must stop pussyfooting around the brutal fact that we are into a prolonged phase of destructive cost-push inflation. This leapfrogging of wages over prices, then prices over wages, etc., threatens the very foundations of our society. It is a vicious form of inflation that emerges from rigidities built into our economic system, from excesses committed by power centers in industry and labor that should be condemned instead of tolerated or even ignored, and from our own timidity, if not stupidity.

And that leads back to the evil behind all the other evils: relentless inflation plus a strong psychology of inflation. See tomorrow's column, last in this series of five.

(Fourth in a series)
 By Barbara Hackman Franklin
 WASHINGTON, D.C. — (NEA) — Accidents in and around the home have moved to the foreground as a major family health problem.

An estimated 20 million Americans are hurt each year in accidents associated with ordinary household and recreational products. About 110,000 are permanently disabled, and 30,000 are killed.

Many of those hurt are very young children who can't read labels, don't perceive potential dangers and don't have full physical coordination and control. The cost to the nation is said to be $5.5 billion. The cost in suffering and anguish is staggering.

How do we solve a problem of this magnitude? The responsibility rests with us all — industry, consumers and government. Happily, especially in recent years, considerable progress

Ms. Franklin is commissioner of the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission. This article is one of a series written in cooperation with the Council on Family Health, a public service group funded by the manufacturers of medicine.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Chevy Chase will make his movie debut as the romantic interest for Goldie Hawn in "Foul Play."

Chase, a writer turned performer, won an Emmy for "Saturday Night Live."

Galin Higgins who wrote "Silver Streak" and Harold and Maude, will direct "Foul Play" from his own script.

has been made. But much more is needed. And, as I see it, women can provide the critical impetus.

Women, whether or not they work outside the home, usually manage the household, make most day-to-day purchasing decisions and are primary users of many consumer products. Women supervise children's activities and know first-hand how youngsters use — and misuse — products. In short, women can wield tremendous clout in assuring product safety in the marketplace and in helping to prevent accidents in and around the home.

What can you do? First, recognize that you and your family have a right to product safety. Since 1962 every U.S. president has set forth the "consumer bill of rights." It includes the right to make meaningful, informed choices; the right to be heard — and the right to be assured you receive safe products.

Each right implies a responsibility, too. If products are unsafe or just "don't work," let the manufacturer, the retailer and the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission know about it. Equally important, let companies know when you think they do make, sell and advertise products with safety as a major factor.

Second, check for safety features before you buy. Is the product appropriate for the intended use and user? Is it the right size? Does it have a set of clear safety instructions? Refuse to buy unsafe products.

Third, use, store and maintain products with safety in mind. Always read the label and follow instructions carefully. Take into account hazards such as flammability, toxicity or sharp parts.

In homes with children, make certain medicines, cleaners and poisonous substances are in safety packaging and stored out of reach. Perhaps children should be restricted from the area where you use certain products. Be sure to discard broken toys before they injure your child.

Fourth, take a home safety inventory. Are glass doors and panels marked with decals so that people can see them? Are space heaters, fireplaces and other heat sources guarded? In homes with young children, are staircases guarded at the top with a securely latched gate? Do unused outlets have safety plugs? Are electric cords out of the way so they can't be pulled or tipped over?

Fifth, be prepared in case an accident occurs. Accidents aren't just "something which happens to somebody else" — they can happen to you and your family.

All parents should have at least a basic first aid course. You can find out about courses available locally from the Red Cross or scouting groups. It's also a good idea to have available a first aid chart with instructions about how to deal with home accidents.

You can get just a chart FREE. Just send your name and address to the Council on Family Health, Department FAS, 633 Third Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10017. For additional information, write the Consumer Product Safety Commission, Washington, D.C. 20207. And, keep a list of emergency numbers — doctor, ambulance, hospital, fire department, drug store and local poison control center — right by the phone.

Sixth, lend your support — and leadership — to home safety efforts in your community. Unfortunately, the general level of safety awareness among consumers is low. Get involved to help change this attitude — and the sobering accident statistics.

Every family can use help in adopting better safety habits. And no company or product on the marketplace is immune to the collective efforts of women to assure safer products at a reasonable price.

Exxon dominates payoff lists

WASHINGTON (AP) — Exxon, the world's largest corporation, also holds the record for payoffs to foreign officials, government investigator say.

The Securities and Exchange Commission said in a civil complaint that the Exxon Corp. paid at least $56.5 million to foreign governments, most of it to Italian officials.

Previously, the $38 million by the Lockheed Corp. was the largest total to come out of the government's four-year investigation of bribes paid overseas by American companies.

Exxon, while not admitting any guilt, agreed to a permanent injunction barring it from violating securities laws.

There is no U.S. law prohibiting bribery of foreign officials. The SEC complaint charged Exxon with failing to disclose the payoffs in its regular statements, which are required by the securities laws.

So far about 360 companies have reported paying off foreign officials. The SEC has taken 32 firms to court.

Most of the bribes have been to get government contracts or to speed up action on contracts.

A hurricane that swept through Louisiana on Sept. 29, 1915, claimed the lives of 500 persons.

and are illegal in many of the countries involved.

The SEC said Exxon made payoffs in at least 15 countries. Some $55.2 million was allegedly channeled through Italy by Esso Italiana, from 1963 until at least 1972.

Exxon had maintained the payments were legal political contributions, but the SEC charged much of the money went to political parties and government officials to influence governmental decisions.

At least half the money, it said, was spent by Vincenzo Cazzaniga, who was fired as president of the Italian subsidiary in 1971. The SEC said top-level management knew about these payments, which were allegedly channeled through 40 unrecorded bank accounts or overdraft accounts.

The company said after Cazzaniga was fired, it did not believe it had to disclose its investigation publicly because the Italian payments were not material to its financial situation.

Democratic candidates speak

By ANNA BURCHELL
Pampa News Staff

Two of the three Democratic candidates for the state senate seat vacated by Max Sherman were speakers at Wednesday meeting of the Tri County Democratic Club in the Flame Room of the Pioneer Gas building.

They were Bob Simpson, state representative from the 65th District, and Burk Whittenburg, both of Amarillo.

Announcement was made that Mel Phillips, also of Amarillo, declined the Wednesday invitation. However, the three are scheduled to be in Pampa at the Top of Texas Democratic Club meeting Monday evening.

Simpson said he had traveled throughout the district and has received a "good feel of what people are thinking."

"I tried to conduct my business as a public official and reflect my views in the House. We are conducting a campaign in a positive way," Simpson said.

"My record shows I'm a hard working representative. I listen to those with problems and respond to those needs," he added.

He said he has tried to seek out views of those in his district.

"Our freedoms are based on people I know that people are concerned about farm economics. We at the state level need to understand that problem... we need to find ways to help the farmers," Simpson said. He spoke briefly on water problems in the Panhandle and said "we must find ways to solve that problem ourselves."

Advocating better services for tax dollars, Simpson said he is proud to live in "a government where we can differ — where we have the right to differ."

Simpson said in the next session, legislators will be faced with continuing problems of water, conservation of oil and gas resources, public school financing and fiscal responsibility — to name only a few.

Simpson was elected representative in 1974.

During his turn at the speaker's stand, Whittenburg said, "I don't think what I have to tell you is as important as what you have to tell me. I'll listen carefully and compassionately," he said.

He reminded the group that he announced July 22 — the first candidate to formally enter the race. Five men now are seeking the office, including two Republicans, Jim Brandon of Amarillo and Bob Price of Pampa.

"In the heat of the campaign, the support, and the hard work, you have a chance to look at one's self in a different way," Whittenburg said.

He said he has quit practicing law but remains a member of the Whittenburg law firm.

He emphasized that his motives for running "are purely and simply to make a contribution — I'm in because I feel I can make a long term contribution."

Whittenburg said he favors "an effective water plan for West Texas to insure adequate water supply; reduction of bureaucratic regulations and red tape which waste taxpayers time and money; financing the future of Texas with the existing tax structure; the constitutional right to keep and bear arms; and the use of Texas gas to serve Texas farmers and consumers first."

He told prospective voters that Gray County is as important to him as any other area of the district.

"I have no interests in Amarillo that I don't have anywhere else," he added.

The Senate seat pays $600 monthly year round, plus a $30-per-day expense allowance while the Legislature is in session.

Smoke forces elderly out

By KATHRYN JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer
KENNESAW, Ga. (AP) — When the small, gray cloud of ammonia and smoke from a train wreck drifted toward Shady Grove Nursing Home, officials evacuated the elderly residents so fast one forgot his false teeth.

"They were practically shoving us out the door," said 90-year-old Oscar Hickey, one of 26 elderly residents evacuated on Wednesday to escape the toxic fumes from a burning railroad tank car. Randy Lewis, disaster chairman for the Red Cross, said that when the wind started blowing ammonia fumes toward the home, officials evacuated the 26 residents within 15 minutes. "These people can't afford to be exposed," he said. "A good whiff of ammonia might gag a healthy person, but for some of these people one good whiff could put them over the edge."

Twenty of them spent the day at the Wildwood Baptist Church near this small town about 30 miles north of Atlanta. Six, who were bedridden, were taken to Kennestone Hospital. "Well, it sure didn't scare me none," said blue-eyed, white-haired Mary Singleton, 83. "I just said, 'Lord, if it's for me, it's all right.' Those were my thoughts. He's never let me down." "Oh Lord, we were praying," said Willie A. Nunn. But Mrs. Nunn, who joined in a gospel song while a nurse played the piano, said she was having fun. "I don't get out too often," she noted.

"I grabbed for some things and was in such a hurry I came away without my teeth," said the pajama-clad Hickey, smiling broadly nevertheless. About a dozen other residents in the area also fled, but were allowed to return to their homes Wednesday night. The tank car, which carried anhydrous ammonia, was one of 20 rail cars that derailed in a thickly wooded area when the engines of two Louisville and Nashville freight trains side-swiped. Three other cars, laden with canned food and flour, also caught fire but were quickly doused. Firemen wearing gas masks battled the blaze at the tank car all day before putting it out late in the afternoon. But gas continued to escape, forcing the nursing home residents to stay away. Although workers hoped to stop the ammonia leak overnight, Lewis said: "We can't afford to take a chance with these patients. Healthy people can jump in a car and escape if anything happens to release more gas in the area."

Football lights outlawed

FORT DAVIS, Tex. (AP) — The stars at night are big and bright in West Texas. But nowhere are they bigger and brighter than over tiny Fort Davis — where they even outshine the Friday night frenzy of high school football. Fort Davis is nestled against Mt. Locke, a part of the Davis Mountain range whose most notable protrusion is the University of Texas' world-renowned McDonald Observatory. Scientists the world over like to stargaze at the observatory, and a lighted football field would wreck reflective havoc with the sensitive optical equipment used by the learned lookers. It's not only the Class B football team that pays the price. They play on Friday afternoons to keep everyone happy, but the city's street lights are also a problem. The 900 citizens have few street lights, and no more are planned for the community. "Nobody would like to play under the lights every Friday like we would," said Coach Ronnie Bourland. "But any kind of reflection or strong light from town limits the viewing from the observatory." Bourland said the light restriction causes consternation among visiting teams. "They don't understand why the games are scheduled in the daytime." LOS ANGELES (AP) — Irwin Allen, currently directing the $12 million thriller "Swarm," will produce three one-hour episodes of "The Return of Captain Nemo" for CBS. Jose Ferrer will play Nemo, based on the character created by Jules Verne. The show will deal with Nemo awakening after 100 years of suspended animation aboard his submarine Nautilus.

HEW runs out of money Friday

By BETTY ANNE WILLIAMS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Two of the government's largest agencies could run out of money this weekend unless the House and Senate resolve their differences over paying for abortions with federal funds. A conference committee set a meeting today after postponing Wednesday's session when a House Appropriations Committee meeting tied up some members. Unless a compromise is approved by both houses, the departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare would run out of money at midnight Friday, the last day of the fiscal year. A congressional resolution would then be needed for payrolls to be met. But congressional leaders oppose such a resolution because members could stall even that by attaching an abortion-related amendment. Earlier this week, Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd predicted a compromise within 48 hours of the start of negotiations. Sen Edward Brooke, one of the staunchest backers of the Senate proposal to use tax money for abortions in cases of rape, incest or medical necessity, says Senate conferees will stick to that position in the conference committee session. The House wants kept in force the current law allowing federal funds for abortions only when a woman's life would be endangered by a full-term pregnancy. The head of the Senate conferees, Sen Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., has said that the medical necessity clause may be dropped if the House allows payments for abortions in cases where a pregnancy-connected disease threatened the mother's life or where a seriously deformed baby might be born. Brooke, a Massachusetts Republican and the author of the leave it there temporarily, covered in plastic, until she could collect her thoughts, find out what happened and report it to authorities. "I think I was in a daze or a shock," she testified. "It is something I can't explain." Mrs. Hayes, who said her husband told her after the Sunday night shooting, "It was an accident, but nobody will believe me," testified that she alone buried the body. She later pointed out the grave to law enforcement officers. "No, I never intended to kill him," Hayes said in response to a defense attorney's question during his testimony. Asked if he intended to violate Morales' civil rights, Hayes answered, "With God my witness, I never did." Hayes testified that his shotgun accidentally went off while Morales was struggling for it. He said he intended to release Morales and was taking him to a highway via a short cut when the struggle ensued. Under cross-examination, Hayes said he remembered loading Morales' body into his car, but added that he can't remember anything that happened later. Earlier Wednesday, U.S. District Court Judge Adrian Spears threatened to hold Hayes' attorney, Marvin Miller, in contempt of court if the lawyer continued to ask witnesses about Hayes' sanity. Judge Spears said the court had already ruled Hayes sane.

medical necessity provision, said he had was going to "hold out for my language." Brooke, ranking Republican on the Senate appropriations subcommittee handling Labor and HEW matters, is a key member of the conference panel. The abortion issue is the last impediment to passage of a $60.2-billion appropriations bill to run the agencies through the coming fiscal year. The government paid through the Medicaid program for about 300,000 abortions last year at a cost of $50 million, mostly for poor women.

Soviets launch station

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet government launched a new space station, Salyut 6, today. Salut 6 apparently was sent up unmanned but in preparation for a new series of manned space flights. There was speculation that a crew would be rocketed to it by Oct. 4, the 20th anniversary of the launching of the first artificial space satellite by the Soviet Union. Tass described Salyut 6 as an "orbital scientific station." Another major Soviet anniversary is coming up, the 60th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution on Nov. 7. However, two days ago in Prague three Soviet cosmonauts denied a space spectacular was being prepared for that celebration. Tass said Salyut 6 would be used for "scientific and technical research and experiments and also to work on the construction, on-board systems and equipping of orbital stations." The report said the station was functioning normally and that its data was being received by tracking stations in the Soviet Union and on ships of the Soviet Academy of Science in the Atlantic ocean. Salyut 6 was reported orbiting the earth every 89.1 minutes at an orbital inclination of 51.6 degrees. The distance of the orbit above the earth ranged from 136 miles to 171 miles. The Globe Theater, built in 1598 in Southwark across the river from London, accommodated about 1,200 theatergoers.

Denies intent to kill

WACO, Tex. (AP) — Former Castroville town marshal Frank Hayes has repeated his testimony that he never intended to kill a Mexican-American prisoner. Only the jurors and the locale were different this time. Hayes, testifying in his own defense at his federal civil rights trial, said Wednesday that the Sept. 14, 1975, shotgun slaying of Richard Morales was an accident. Hayes was convicted of aggravated assault by a state district jury in San Angelo and sentenced to 2-to-10 years in prison for Morales' death. Jurors later said they signed the wrong papers and meant to convict Hayes of a more serious offense. His testimony Wednesday was substantially the same as that given to the state jury in the summer of 1976. Alice Baldwin, Hayes' sister-in-law who faces federal civil rights charges along with Hayes and his wife, was due to take the stand today as defense attorneys concluded their case. The prosecution contends Mrs. Baldwin and Mrs. Hayes took Morales' body to the Hayes family farm in East Texas, where it was unearthed from a shallow grave two days after the shooting. Morales, a robbery suspect, was gunned down on a lonely road while in Hayes' custody. Mrs. Hayes testified Wednesday that she and Mrs. Baldwin took the body to East Texas, but added that she intended to

IRS leads line at uninsured busted bank

WINNSBORO, Tex. (AP) — Ever since Melvin Cain killed himself Winnsboro residents have been trying to recoup the deposits they lost when the Cain Banking Co. failed. But now the Internal Revenue Service has stepped in and is trying to get any money that might be available. Unfortunately for the 3,500 depositors, the IRS can move right to the head of the line. The deposits in the private bank were not insured. When Cain committed suicide he left a note saying he was leaving his estate to the troubled bank to help make up for his "gross mistakes." One of those mistakes involved an East Texas contractor who owed $986,000 when the institution went under. H.L.

Quinn was the bank's largest debtor and efforts to collect the money ended in his bankruptcy. Early this month the IRS filed a $51,557 claim against Quinn's assets for unpaid Social Security and withholding taxes. Other claims are pending. If upheld, those claims could deplete Quinn's estate, leaving no money for the bank, not its former depositors.

Lee Ray, former Winnsboro mayor, is among the unhappy local people. "We've got some people here who are 70, 75, 80 years old who lost as much as $27,000 in that bank — just about everything they had in their lives. My own mother lost $7,000 in the bank, and she's lying flat on her back," Ray said. But local residents, including

Winnsboro News editor and publisher Grayford Jones, know the IRS has first crack at the money. "The IRS is going after the tax payments for Quinn's employees because they're probably owed," Jones said. "But let's face it, the depositors have been paying Quinn's employees salaries for the past two or three years."

DeBakey says results good from bypasses

HOUSTON (AP) — A Houston heart surgeon says he and his associates are disturbed at what he called "the many misleading and confusing" stories about the effectiveness of coronary bypass surgery.

Dr. Michael E. DeBakey said Tuesday his surgical team reported "striking findings" after analyzing 1,542 patients who had the heart treatment procedure more than five years ago.

DeBakey said 90 per cent of the group not only survived at least five years after surgery but today "remain free of chest pain or are greatly improved" and 80 per cent of those patients under 65 can work and lead normal lives.

DeBakey, who performed the first successful coronary bypass 14 years ago, responded to a study among 13 Veterans Administration hospitals. That study of 596 heart patients showed at the end of three years no significant difference in the survival of those treated medically and those who had surgery.

The Houston surgeon said not all heart ailments are severe enough to require surgery. He said it is misleading to compare the survival rate of patients treated with medication with more serious cases that required surgery.

"We are not challenging the VA study," DeBakey said at a news conference. "I'm sure they presented the facts quite correctly. What we are indicating to you is that this does not cover the field of coronary disease and the bypass operation."

"It is misrepresentation to take the results of that study and say this applies to all forms of bypass operations and surgical procedures."

DeBakey, president of Baylor College of Medicine, said he wanted to "set the record straight" about coronary bypass operations. The procedure involves taking a large vein from the patient's leg and using it to bypass obstructions in coronary arteries.

He termed coronary bypass "just one good form of surgical treatment for a portion of patients with coronary artery disease." He stressed it was not the only one.

He said the 1,542 patients at Houston's Methodist Hospital whose cases were followed for five years or more were divided into two groups. One group of 434 was studied to determine the merits of the hospital's surgical techniques, and the other group of 1,108 was studied to determine the quality of the patients' present lives.

DeBakey said there is no way to put a price tag on the economic contribution to society made by the 80 per cent of under-65 patients who were able to resume normal work and active lives.

The 1,108 patients ranged in age from 26 to 75 years with the mean age at operation being 50 years. DeBakey said just over 90 per cent of the group were men in their prime production years.

The surgeon said that 90 per cent of the 1,108 patients lived for five years—including 59 per cent who had had heart attacks before surgery. He said the 41 per cent without pre-existing problems were exceeding their normal life expectancy since their operations.

For the folks of Groom and Wheeler, it's undoubtedly THE GAME of the year. No matter what Oklahoma did to Ohio State, or what Army does to Navy. It's what happens between the Mustangs and Tigers that counts for the residents of those proud Panhandle towns.

Last year, Groom nipped the Mustangs 12-9 in Tiger Town, and Wheeler coaches and players have been thinking about revenge in the 12 months since.

"We've been working toward this game ever since we started two - a - days in August," said Wheeler coach Preston Smith. "We've been working our offense against their defensive set (split six) a little each week."

"Let's face it, everybody thought that this game would be for the marbles and it looks that way," Smith said.

Groom has also been aiming for the Sept. 30 date, but Tiger coach Russell Roberts feels that Wheeler may have had more time to prepare for the big one.

"I'm sure the open date (two weeks ago) gave them more time to practice against our system. I'd say that also we played tougher teams in Miami and McLean than they have," Roberts said.

Both teams are physically fit, with nobody ruled out of the game. And both are coming off big wins Friday: Groom whipped McLean, 40-0, while the Mustangs warmed up against Lefors 56-0.

Talent abounds on both of these Class B teams. Wheeler has an all-state running back candidate in Marvin Grimes. Grimes, who gained 800 yards as a sophomore last year, is probably the fastest back in district 1-B.

Rarely playing in the second half, he has scored four touchdowns and rushed for 240 yards in the three games.

Other standouts include quarterback Bobby Guthrie, fullback Dell Ford, split end Myron Jolly and strong tackle Tim Patterson (6-2, 215).

Patterson, an all-district selection last year, should make all-state this go-round.

"What worries me," said Roberts, "is that Wheeler has such a balanced offense. They have a great tailback (Grimes) but can also throw extremely well."

"The only way to defend them is to have good player recognition. Football is just a game of hunt and chase, and the team that chases the quickest usually wins," Roberts said.

Defending Groom will also be no easy task for Wheeler. Tiger halfback John Krizan and fullback Kent Reed have each gained over 200 yards in a game this season.

"We've got to keep the football so that they (Groom) can't figure out our defense," said Mustang mentor Preston Smith. "If we let them keep the ball for drives of 10 or 12 plays, we could be in trouble."

Obviously Smith believes in the old football axiom that the best defense is a good offense.

But the Wheeler coach has a defensive unit which has posted two shutouts in three games. Patterson outweighs the Groom guards by 40 pounds and should be an important factor in the contest.

The Tiger defensive trench is equally talented, led by 215-pound Mitch Bralley who may be the strongest player in the district although only a junior.

Adding to the similarities, both squads have a break - away punt and kickoff returner in Groom's Neil Wieberg (three touchdowns) and Wheeler's Duane Childress (one touchdown).

Smith is hoping that playing on Mustang Field will give his team some advantage, but Groom mentor Roberts feels the site is irrelevant.

"I guarantee you we'll have all of Groom in those east stands," Roberts said. "There will be two Grooms in the Panhandle that night - the one on I-40, and the one in the east side stands of Wheeler."

(My call: Wheeler by four in a traditionally low scoring game.)

Wellington at Canadian

The Rockets were soaring until they crashed against Childress (21-6) last week. However, they bombed a team (Phillips) by 20 points which shut out the Wildcats 15-0. Putting two and two together, (which often equals five in football science) I say, Wellington by eight.

White Deer at Sunray

Sunray, a 59-0 winner over Booker, Okla. Friday, should have little trouble increasing its season record to 3-1 with a district 1-A victory over the struggling, but improving Bucks. (Sunray by 21).

Lefors at Booker

Booker had two weeks to prepare for this one and should handle a Pirate team which was worn out by Wheeler. Lefors could make it close with a dangerous passing attack. (Booker by 12).

Follett at Miami

Follett finally got its offense in gear against Higgins (40-6) but the Warriors will be much more physical. Miami should continue to roll after its second - game loss to Groom. (Miami by 22).

McLean at Texline

Texline has a gem in quarterback - kicker Richard Chapman, but Leis mchbger and ave Goa goodbatte fr wMcan u igrom lo ahile last week. Mark down district win No. 2 for coach Bill Coward. (McLean by seven).

Last week's tally: 4-0. Season's calls: 17-3 - 85 per cent.

Mustang flinger

Quarterback Bobby Guthrie (6-0, 180) will lead Wheeler against a strong Groom defense in the showdown Friday night. Guthrie has completed 11 of 17 passes for 228 yards in three games.

Eight prep teams in Pampa golf tournament

Eight teams are signed up to play in the 10th annual Pampa Boys Invitational Golf Tournament which is scheduled for Friday at the Pampa Country Club.

Teams which will compete with two Pampa squads in 18 holes of medal play are Canyon, Berger, Amarillo High, Tascosa, Palo Duro and Caprock. Trophies will be awarded for the first and second place team and individual medalist. Medals will be given for the first place team members.

Each school will enter a team of five players and singles players as desired. The four top scores will constitute the team score.

Pampa will field a Green team made up of the top five Harvesters golfers, and a Gold team made up of the second team.

Scott Barrett, a senior, will lead the Green team. Barrett was district runner-up medalist last year in qualifying for the regionals in Lubbock.

Other golfers expected to play on the first team are Grant Johnson, sr., Dusty Hudson, sr., Chad Darcy, jr., and Barry Terrell, so.

The Gold squad will be picked from Scott Nichols, sr., Ed Sackett, jr., Paul Beck, so., John Noncaster, jr., Jim Hall, jr., Jeff McDougall, so., Mike Warner, so., James White, so., and Blake Howard, so.

Johnson and Hudson were regulars with Barrett on the varsity squad last year. Darcy, Nichols and Sackett had part-time duty on the first team.

Pampa coach Deck Woldt said Amarillo High, defending district and tournament champion, is the favorite. "I expect that Tascosa and Pampa should be right up there," he said.

Grundenstein said FANS will need between 10,000 and 20,000 members, each paying $9 a year in dues, in order to get off the ground.

Peter Gruenstein, a 30-year-old Washington lawyer who will be executive director of FANS, said that because so many professional clubs get tax breaks and public subsidies, Congress might be convinced to require financial disclosure.

"The players and the owners have been dividing the pie for a number of years, so now there's going to be another group that wants to have a say in how things are done," Gruenstein said.

Ali's 19th defense

Shavers fight for title tonight

By ED SCHUYLER JR.

AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Tonight it's Earnie Shavers' turn to take a crack at the world heavyweight boxing title held by Muhammad Ali, who battles his bald-headed challenger by calling him "The Acorn" or "Earnie Shavers."

The fight, 15 rounds or less at Madison Square Garden, will be the 35-year-old Ali's 22nd title fight.

It also will be Ali's 19th title defense in his two terms as champion and it comes one year and one day after Ali's unanimous 15-round decision over Ken Norton in Yankee Stadium.

Hardly anyone expects this fight to go 15 rounds and hardly anyone expects a victory by the 33-year-old Shavers, of Warren, Ohio.

Shavers, whose chin and stamina are questionable, feels he can go 15 rounds, but acknowledges it would be extremely difficult for him to win a decision. His best chance lies in his strength vs strength battle against the 35-year-old champion — Shavers' devastating punch against Ali's ability to take a punch.

"He can't hit harder than Sonny Liston, or Joe Frazier or George Forman," said Ali. "I'll put a lot of pressure on him and if I hit him on the chin he'll go," said Shavers. "He has a lot more wars, tough fights. They start taking a toll on you."

Ali, who officially weighed 225 to 211½ for Shavers Wednesday, preferred to talk about experience and the ability to handle the pressure of heavyweight title fights.

"I'll tell you about this sport," said Ali. "It's like a horse race, like a stock auto race. It's the brains that win, not the physical ability."

Then the champion jumped on the fact that, except for a brief confrontation at a mid-town news conference Monday, the Shavers camp has kept its fighter away from a face-to-face meeting with Ali.

"He's scared," said Ali of the 33-year-old challenger, who weighed-in and left before the champion appeared.

"He seriously doesn't want to see me here. But he'll have to face me in the ring. Then when he hears the national anthem" — Ali then hummed a few bars — "and when he hears the crowd start shouting, 'Ali, Ali, Ali,' he's gonna say to himself, 'I must be crazy. What did I get into?' Then while the referee is giving instructions, I'm gonna reach over and shine his head."

The chants of "Ali, Ali, Ali" should start around 10 p.m. EDT. The fight is scheduled to start about 10 minutes later. It will be televised live by NBC, with no blackout of the New York metropolitan area.

Garden officials are hoping for a crowd of at least 15,000. Ticket prices were scaled from $100 down to $20.

Ali is getting $3 million, boosting his total purse money to more than $46 million. Shavers is getting $300,000.

The champion's record is 54-2-0, with 37 knockouts. Shavers has a 54-5-1 record, with 52 knockouts. Shavers has been knocked out three times, while Ali never has been knocked out and has been knocked down only four times.

Nader launches fans interest organization

NEW YORK (AP) — Ralph Nader is bankrolling a consumer group for sports lovers because, he says, "There is a rising crescendo from sports fans about the way they are being treated."

The consumer watchdog said Tuesday that he has made a personal loan of $10,000 to launch the group — dubbed the Fight to Advance the Nation's Sports, or FANS.

And while Nader says he will take no policy-making role in the group, he had some ideas about the jobs it should tackle.

Major sports, Nader said, "are heavily subsidized by the taxpayers," and taxpayers should have a say in trading of players, quality of stadium concessions, ticket pricing and accessibility.

He said the group's first move ought to be to force owners of baseball, football and other major pro teams to make disclosure of their costs and profits, so fans can tell whether ticket prices are too high.

Peter Gruenstein, a 30-year-old Washington lawyer who will be executive director of FANS, said that because so many professional clubs get tax breaks and public subsidies, Congress might be convinced to require financial disclosure.

"The players and the owners have been dividing the pie for a number of years, so now there's going to be another group that wants to have a say in how things are done," Gruenstein said.

Grundenstein said FANS will need between 10,000 and 20,000 members, each paying $9 a year in dues, in order to get off the ground.

Yanks' magic number is one

By KEN RAPPOPORT

AP Sports Writer

The New York Yankees are closing the door in the American League East race and have the opportunity to lock it tonight for good.

"It feels lovely," said New York Manager Billy Martin, whose Yankees can do no worse than tie for their second straight East pennant.

The Yankees' enviable position is a result of their 10-0 victory over the Cleveland Indians Wednesday night, combined with Boston's 3-2 loss to the Toronto Blue Jays.

That left the Yankees "magic number" at one for clinching the division title. That can be accomplished with a victory over Cleveland tonight, or a loss by both Boston and Baltimore. The Red Sox host the Blue Jays again and the Orioles play at home to the Detroit Tigers, a team they beat 3-2 in 11 innings Wednesday night.

"No one lost this race — New York just went out and won it," said Boston slugger Carl Yastrzemski, all but conceding the division title to the Yankees, who are playing their most consistent baseball of the season.

Of course the championship does not officially belong to the Yankees yet. Some of the people in the Boston camp are quick to point that out, even in jest.

"New York can lose four in a row, can't they?" noted catcher Carlton Fisk.

Corn crop may be record with 6 billion bushels

By DON KENDALL, AP Farm Writer
Washington (AP) — Although rains delayed field work in many areas, farmers generally have made good progress in harvesting this fall's corn crop, estimated by the Agriculture Department at a record 6.23 billion bushels.

The soybean harvest, however, has been slowed appreciably by rain in some key areas, the department said Tuesday in a weekly weather and crops report.

Officials said that by Sept. 25 an estimated 15 per cent of the 1977 corn harvest was completed, compared with 11 per cent on the same date last year and an average pace of 6 per cent.

Most corn was mature, safe from frost and dry enough to harvest, the report said.

But cool, damp weather has delayed the maturity of soybeans in northern areas and rains have held up harvests in other sections, the report said.

The Ohio harvest was on schedule, but farmers were held back in Indiana and Illinois.

The Iowa soybean harvest was only 11 per cent complete by Sept. 25 and the Minnesota harvest was 12 per cent finished, both about one-third of last year's pace.

Soybean production has been the department on O soybeans and other crops will be issued by the department on Oct. 12.

Other highlights of the weekly report included:

Farm report

Wheat — Final wrapup of the 1977 harvest was delayed by rains and damp weather in Montana and North Dakota, with about 90 to 95 per cent of the crop harvested in the states by Sept. 25.

Planting of winter wheat for the 1978 harvest advanced to 45 per cent completed in the major producing states, compared with 29 per cent last year and an average of 39 per cent on the same date.

Cotton — Above-normal temperatures opened cotton bolls last week, about 75 per cent of the bolls were open in the 11 southern states, except for Oklahoma where about 27 per cent were opened and nearly ready for harvest.

About 19 per cent of the 1977 southern cotton crop was picked by Sept. 25, compared with 5 per cent a year ago and an average for the date of 11 per cent. In the western states cotton picking did not advance much last week but defoliation and harvesting was under way in New Mexico, Arizona and California.

Other crops — about 33 per cent of the sorghum grain in the seven major states was harvested by Sept. 25, compared with 32 per cent a year ago and the average for the date of 26 per cent.

The rice harvest was running ahead of recent years, except in Louisiana. Arkansas growers had to cope with downed rice but the harvest still was twice the pace of a year ago.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union has made progress in harvesting its near-record 1977 grain crop, but there is still some problem in finishing the harvest in at least one major spring wheat area, says the Agriculture Department.

Officials said Tuesday that by Sept. 19 about 114 million hectares or 91 per cent of the Soviet grain area for harvest was cut and swathed. Of that, some 109 million hectares were threshed. One hectare is about 2.47 acres.

The practice in the Soviet Union is to cut and swath grain crops into rows where the grain is threshed afterward. In the United States, combines cut and thresh grain in one operation.

About half the unharvested grain was in the important spring wheat region of northern Kazakhstan, where the harvest was slowed by cool, damp weather, not unusual at this time of year, the department said.

WASHINGTON (AP) — With some relief from surpluses in sight, rice farmers can expect some what higher average prices for their 1977 crop as compared against what they got for their 1976 harvest, says the Agriculture Department.

As it looks now, this year's rice will bring farmers $7 to $8 per 100 pounds, the department said Tuesday.

Police officer tries to prove self-defense

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Defense attorneys planned to put former Houston police officer Terry Denson back on the stand in his murder trial today in an attempt to prove self-defense in the drowning death of a Mexican-American prisoner.

Denson, 27, and Stephen Orlando, 21, also a former Houston policeman, are charged with murder in the death last May of laborer Joe Campos Torres.

Attorneys for Denson and Orlando sought testimony Wednesday from at least eight persons about the prior conduct of Torres.

"This testimony would be very crucial to our case," said Mike Ramsey, attorney for Orlando.

However, State District Judge James Warren ruled that the jury would not be allowed to hear about Torres' past unless "self defense" can be shown to be an issue in the case.

Denson testified earlier he thought Torres was reaching for him, that he (Denson) stepped back and that Torres jumped from a 16-foot wall into the bayou.

During nearly three hours of questioning Wednesday from Assistant District Attorney Ted Poe, Orlando said he lied when first questioned about Torres' death.

The questioning involved a written statement to police where Orlando said Denson "pushed" Torres into the water.

"But today you say you weren't looking," Poe repeated after forcing Orlando to read portions of the statement. "You lied."

"I guess I did," Orlando replied. "I really didn't see him push him. Let me explain."

He got a chance to explain in an answer to questions from defense attorney Bob Bennett.

Orlando said that detectives taking his statement told him other officers, said Denson pushed Torres. He said they didn't tell him that Denson and his partner, Joseph Janish, told them Torres had jumped.

He also denied testimony from other witnesses who said he beat Torres' shirt with a flashlight after saying, "It's brand new and I want to try it out."

He also denied that he said after the alleged beating, that "I've got this Mexican's blood on my hands."

He also said he never ordered his partner, Carless Elliott, to destroy Torres' medical identification after the prisoner vanished in the bayou.

On the light side

SEATTLE (AP) — Flying isn't what it used to be. Thirty years ago, Air Canada says, these were the instructions to hostesses on flights from Vancouver, Canada, to Boeing Field here:

1. Warn passengers against throwing cigarettes and cigars out the window.
2. Keep the clock wound up in the passenger cabin.
3. Carry a railroad timetable in case the plane is grounded.
4. Keep an eye on passengers when they go to the toilet to be sure they don't mistakenly go out the emergency exit.

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — Farmer George Eaton may not like money, but a jury has ruled he must accept $24,750 from a utility company for an easement across his land. "Money is the root of all evil," Eaton told Butler County Common Pleas Judge Fred Cramer. "It comes between neighbors and relatives. I think you can live without it."

Eaton said he didn't mind granting Cincinnati Gas & Electric Co. a 7.4-acre easement for power lines. He just didn't want the money.

Ohio law requires a jury to set a fair price for easements if the owner cannot come to an agreement on a price with a utility.

Cincinnati Gas officials said it was the first time an agreement could not be reached with a property owner because the owner would not accept money. Although Eaton didn't want the money, his wife told Cramer she would accept it.

BELLEFONTE, Pa. (AP) — She didn't qualify for employment aid under any of the existing categories of underprivileged people, so one Pennsylvania woman created a new class.

She hopped into the Centre County Training and Employment Agency dressed in a frog costume and told her stunned audience: "I hope you don't have your quota of frogs yet."

The ploy apparently worked. Pat Casher, director of the Building Skills program for minorities and disadvantaged persons, interviewed the unusual applicant and gave her a job.

The frog, er, woman, was not identified.

Changes noted in medical staff at Canadian

CANADIAN — Dr. John J. Murphy, Canadian's newest doctor who arrived recently from Ireland, announced the closing of the Murphy Clinic and his relocation to Houston. Dr. Murphy, who began working in the clinic February, stated that he could not establish enough business to justify his staying.

Dr. Murphy has asked patients to visit him concerning transfer of records to the doctors of their choice, and he is encouraging those patients with open accounts to settle them as soon as possible.

The clinic is located at 819 Hillside in Canadian.

Dr. Hoanh Bui will receive temporary authorization for his medical practice which he has been working on for two years. He will receive this from the Texas Board of Medical Examiners, and plans to practice in Canadian. Dr. Bui was a doctor in Vietnam.

Hemphill County Administrator Cary Pittman said that the Hemphill County Hospital is in need of more patients to stay in the black. The patient load has fallen off considerably since April.

HELP

IT'S NOT EASY TO HEAR A CRY FOR HELP

Throughout the country crisis centers have set up phone lines for emergency calls from troubled persons. The problems frequently encountered on these hotlines are the subject of CHOICES: HOTLINE, the Friday column of Dr. Karen Blaker's three times weekly CHOICES. The cries for help on hotlines elicit solid advice from Dr. Blaker, who is experienced in crisis counseling, teaching and therapy. Watch for CHOICES, starting Monday.

'Militant polygamist' sought

By JIM BOARDMAN
Associated Press Writer
SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Authorities in Mexico and this country are seeking the elusive leader of a militant polygamist sect and five of his disciples in the May 10 murder of rival polygamist patriarch Ruon Alfred.

Police said Tuesday they have issued arrest warrants for Ervil LeBaron, 52, and his followers on charges of first-degree murder and conspiracy in the gun slaying of Alfred, 71. The Salt Lake City naturopath had at least six wives and 40 children and police say he led the largest polygamist sect in the country. Federal warrants of unlawful flight to avoid prosecution have also been issued for the six fugitives, police said. Charges against five others were announced earlier, following the arrest of four LeBaron followers in Denver and Dallas last week.

All are members of the Church of the Lamb of God, which Murray Police Detective Sgt. Paul Forbes said has a membership "in the hundreds," mostly in the Southwest and Mexico. Many operate small appliance businesses, he said.

Heading from a prepared statement, David E. Yocom,

Salt Lake County attorney's office, said, "LeBaron is believed to be involved in threats to and has commanded his followers to assassinate other religious leaders and dissident members of his own group."

"LeBaron and his followers usually are armed with handguns, rifles, shotguns and automatic rifles and should be considered armed and dangerous," Yocom said.

LeBaron has eluded police by keeping on the move, Forbes said. The last sighting of him was 30-45 days ago in Mexico City, he said.

In the last few months, he said, LeBaron has been seen in Denver, Dallas, Houston, Oklahoma City, Jackson, Miss., and in Indiana.

Several of the accused, including LeBaron, were also charged with attempted murder in an incident involving Merlin Kingston of Bountiful, Utah. Police declined to elaborate on the incident.

Police declined to say who they think actually shot Alfred or what evidence they have against any of those charged. Alfred was gunned down in his office by two persons described by witnesses as young women.

Charged with LeBaron were two of his sons.
