Four stages in Travis Elementary School auditorium, 2300 Primrose, will envelop the audience and make it a part of the musical action when "West Side Story" is presented in-the-round in a matinee performance at 2:30 p.m. Saturday. Six other evening performances are planned for Nov. 20-22 and Nov. 24-26. "And," choir director Bill Davis added, "if there is enough demand, we may give an afternoon performance Nov. 22."

WAR PROTESTERS

Thousands Rush Nation's Capitol

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Thousands of persons came to the nation's capital from every state today to protest the Vietnam War. The government was ready. The protesters planned to step off in the dusk tonight from the Arlington National Cemetery, where many of the nation's dead from other wars lie, and walk, one by one, for 40 hours, across the Potomac River, past the White House and to the Capitol. It was a "march against death," which the antiwar demonstration sponsors, New Mobilization Committee (New Mobe) called "a Vietnam memorial." The signs they were to carry bore the names of the nearly 40,000 American Vietnam dead. On Saturday, with last-minute permission from the Nixon administration in exchange for a pledge of nonviolence, a group that may reach 200,000 will march from the Capitol up historic Pennsylvania Avenue—to within one block of the White House. Then they will cut around in back of the White House and gather at the Washington Monument. The objective of the march, as well as of all three days of demonstrations, is: The United States' immediate and total withdrawal from Vietnam. Security was tight. Federal buildings along Pennsylvania Avenue were sealed off. The telephone company took steps to ensure communications would be maintained. A security force of nearly 40,000 persons—mostly hidden from view—were scattered (See PROTESTERS, Page 2)

Viet Cong Welcomes Moratorium

SAIGON (UPI)—Hanoi Radio said today North Vietnamese peace organizations "warmly welcome and support" this weekend's antiwar demonstrations in the United States. The broadcast monitored in Saigon said the groups resolved in a meeting Tuesday that the U.S. protests represent "a just struggle by tens of millions of Americans who traditionally love peace, freedom and justice." "We consider the American people as our friends in arms," said Professor Hoang Minh Giam, chairman of the Vietnam Committee for Unity with the American people. "They have a common aim of countering the attitude of aggression and war by the Nixon administration."

Price Urges Support Of Nixon's Plan

Congressman Bob Price, before he left the Panhandle Wednesday to return to Washington, urged his 18th District constituents to continue showing their support to President Nixon's efforts to bring peace with honor to Vietnam. In a statement released from his Pampa office yesterday afternoon, Price said: "In gatherings throughout the nation on Veterans Day millions of Americans paid tribute to our war dead. "In addition to that tribute, loyal Americans everywhere demonstrated their support to the American commitment to freedom and to President Nixon's efforts to bring peace with honor to Vietnam. "During the remainder of National Unity Week I urge all concerned Americans to continue to show their support for our President and for our soldiers who are risking their lives on the battlefields for the cause of freedom in Vietnam. "I urge all loyal Americans to totally reject and disavow those radical peaceniks who would dishonor our country and our commitments by calling for America to surrender to the Communist forces in Vietnam."

Launch Crews Win Time Race

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—Launch crews won a race with time today, replaced a leaky hydrogen tank in the Apollo 12 moonship and aimed toward an on-time start Friday of America's second lunar landing mission. "We look real good now," reported launch operations manager Paul C. Donnelly. Astronauts Charles "Pete" Conrad, Richard F. Gordon and Alan L. Bean, confident that everything was under control, took the morning off to go flying in T38 jet trainers at nearby Patrick Air Force Base. Under a suddenly revised set of rules, the three Navy commanders must set out for the moon between 11:22 a.m. EST and 2:27 p.m. EST Friday or they and thousands of support personnel will have to wait until Dec. 14. There is no second chance this month.

U.S. Said Ignoring Protests

PARIS (UPI)—North Vietnam accused the Nixon administration today of trying to crush the anti-Vietnam War movement in the United States. U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge said the majority of Congress was behind the administration. The clash over public support of the Vietnam policy of the Nixon administration came at the opening of the 42nd session of the peace talks and on the eve of more anti-Vietnam demonstrations in the United States. Xuan Thuy, chief North Vietnamese negotiator, a claimed antiwar demonstrations.

Amarillo Firm Gets PHS Remodeling Bids

Pampa school trustees today accepted the low bid of $441,898 from Wiley Hicks, Jr., Amarillo, to construct four major Pampa High School projects. Hicks' bid was the lowest of five ranging from his base bid of $454,481 to $494,700 by another Amarillo contractor. After considering the base bids and two alternates, trustees voted to accept Hicks' base bid of $434,481 and deduct $14,200 and add $1,437. The deduction would eliminate contractor's doing the library remodeling. The addition would add installation of a folding partition between two biology rooms. The partition will enable teachers to have small and large class lectures. After considering costs of library remodeling with the construction, trustees agreed it would be cheaper for the district to do the work than to contract the job. Hicks' bid is $16,898 over the board's original cost estimate, when the $900,000 bond issue was approved by voters in March. Hicks has contracted to finish the project within 270 days of the date the bid is accepted. The project would construct a new band and choral music building separate from the present high school building; divide present first floor girls gym into a library and science wing; construct a new girls gym. The present girls gym would be split into two levels, with the first floor designated as the library media center and the second level used for science classes. "The new music hall would be a similar brick and stone construction like the present Pampa High School building," Herbert Brasher said. Brasher, (See FIRM, Page 2)

Three Gunmen Get One-Million Plus In Heist Of Wells Fargo Transport

NEW YORK (UPI)—According to Wells Fargo rules there are only two reasons their armored trucks can make unscheduled stops while transporting valuable cargo. One is for employee trips to the bathroom. The other is for meals. Wednesday, when Wells Fargo guard Thomas Rafferty, 35, got out of a company truck for a quick lunch break, three armed young men in a smooth and daring operation held up the armored car and escaped with more than $1.3 million in small bills being transported from Aqueeduct Race Track to a Manhattan bank. It was the second largest cash robbery in this country.

after locking the three guards in the vehicle and looting the truck of most of its cash. Detectives investigating the case said Rafferty had just given the secret knock and the door had been opened by guard James Kerrigan, 50, when three armed men described as in their 30s stepped up and jabbed pistols in Rafferty's back. When Kerrigan reached for his revolver one bandit asked: "Do you want to live to enjoy your pension?" Kerrigan dropped his weapon. Two of the bandits climbed into the truck while their companion got into the cab and drove the vehicle a few blocks away to a residential section of Brooklyn. There the robbers transferred 10 bags of money to their car, ignoring other bags containing heavy coins. The men then sped off after manhandling the guards and locking them in the back of the truck. A housewife, curious about the bags of money being transferred in a residential neighborhood, called police, who came and released the guards. Roadblocks set up at tunnels and bridges leading from Brooklyn failed to intercept the robbers, who, police said, had used a stolen car in the holdup.

Long Underwear Weather Due

It might be a good idea to get out and put on the long underwear tonight if you are planning to attend a football game or just going to be outside. There is a 20 percent chance for snow flurries tonight, which if you look at it another way there is an 80 percent chance there won't be any. But the Weather Bureau says that temperatures are to dip to the mid-20's tonight and Friday the high shouldn't get past the mid-40's. This will be quite a charge after a high of 69 Tuesday and an overnight low of 38. An arctic front pushed over the Rockies today and headed for extreme Northwest Texas but there was no threat of bad weather to the rest of the state.

FBI Questions Four Persons About New York Bombings

NEW YORK (UPI)—FBI agents and police today arrested three men and a young woman after a bomb exploded in the Criminal Courts Building. The blast was the fourth in two days on "establishment" buildings in populous Manhattan. The four were charged with conspiracy and held for arraignment later today but it was not immediately known whether they had any connection with Wednesday night's bombing of the Criminal Courts Building. The FBI said two of the men arrested were picked up while in the act of putting dynamite time bombs in U.S. Army trucks at a National Guard armory in Manhattan. They said the bombs were set to go off at 4 a.m. today. The explosion in the fifth floor men's room of the Criminal Courts Building occurred while night court was in session three floors below. Some 250 persons were evacuated from the building. One woman was treated for shock. As in the bombings early Tuesday of the RCA building, the General Motors building and the Chase Manhattan Bank headquarters, United Press International received a special delivery letter ostensibly from the perpetrator. Each letter specified accurately where and when the bombs would explode. The letters were mailed before the blasts took place. However, in Wednesday night's explosion the bomb planter failed to telephone a warning that the building would be bombed, as he did in the Tuesday bombings. In both letters to UPI the writer stated that a "warning to evacuate will be given."

Today's letter to UPI was received at 7 a.m. and apparently was mailed Wednesday night from the Grand Central station of the post office in midtown Manhattan. There have been eight bombings in six months in New York, including three in Manhattan corporation skyscrapers early Tuesday morning. On Wednesday alone, police said they received more than 70 bomb scares—including one that forced the evacuation of some 15,000 persons from the 38-story Pan Am Building. No bombs were found.

Tech Student Says Beating Was Untrue

LUBBOCK, Tex. (UPI)—The top-ranking ROTC cadet at Texas Tech University admitted Wednesday his story that he was beaten by seven hooded men was not true. Col. Maxwell C. Murphy, chairman of the military science department at Texas Tech, said a board of officers would look into the incident to see if Cadet Col. Ira D. Walker should be removed from the corps. "Cadet Col. Walker informed me the events as he reported them did not occur," said Murphy. "He said he was solely responsible." "In view of what he told me, and in accordance with Army regulations, I am convening a board of officers to investigate his retainability in the Army ROTC." Walker told police Monday night he was beaten by seven men wearing white robes, masks and black arm and head bands. The student, 22, was treated at the emergency room of a local hospital.

Seven Arrests Made In Burglaries Of Pampa Homes And Businesses

Pampa police have cleared up seven of 10 burglaries reported to the department since Wednesday morning and hope to clear up the other three today.

Bond of $2,000 was set by Justice of Peace E. L. Anderson on Homer Alen Capell, 19, of 545 S. Barnes, in connection with the burglary of Heavy's Package Store, 538 S. Cuyler.

The liquor store was broken into sometime after midnight Tuesday and several bottles of liquor taken. According to the police report a rear window was broken. The burglar reached through bars in the window and took the liquor.

Several bottles, all full, were recovered by police Wednesday afternoon when they were investigating a house burglary at 533 S. Russell.

Mrs. Jim Herd reported to police that two piggy banks containing $70 to $80 had been taken from her residence.

Police found the banks in a dumpster in the alley. The liquor in a pillow case was located near the dumpster, also. Two boys, ages 12 and 11, were questioned in connection with the piggy bank thefts, admitted taking them and were then turned over to youth authorities.

A 21-year-old Tulsa, Okla. man is being held in city jail for investigation. Pampa police chief Jim Conner said burglary charges would probably be filed against him later today.

The man was being questioned in connection with burglaries of three Pampa help-yourself laundries early Wednesday.

Hair dryers at Nolte's Laundry, 708 E. Frederic; Day and Nite Laundry, 916 W. Wilks and Speed Queen Laundry, 601 Sloan, all reported money missing from hair dryers. A total of $55 was taken.

Clyde Underwood and his wife Glenda, 18, and another man, being held in Panhandle, were taken into custody in Panhandle Wednesday when they reportedly took $200 in dimes and quarters to a bank and tried to get them converted into bills.

Conner and Gray County Sheriff Rufe Jordan went to Panhandle Wednesday afternoon, questioned the trio and returned the man and woman to Pampa.

Two persons were being questioned about the theft Wednesday of two tool boxes, assorted tools and an electric drill, taken from a garage at the Dan Montgomery home, 531 S. Russell. Value of the items was placed at $400.

Jury Favors Plaintiff In Wreck Case

Gray County Grand Jury ruled in favor of the plaintiff in the personal injury case of John Guill and wife versus Leon Thornton, San Springs, Okla. Mr. and Mrs. Guill of McLean asked for $10,000 personal injury and automobile damage in the suit.

The jury agreed that $1000 for personal injury and $301.92 automobile damage be awarded to the plaintiff.

Mrs. Guill was injured in an accident involving her automobile and a vehicle operated by Thornton on June 14, 1968. She was traveling on McCartney St. in McLean and had pulled away from a stop sign at the intersection of McCartney and Highway 40 when struck by the Thornton vehicle traveling the wrong way in a one-way zone.

The suit contended that Thornton was negligent in operation of a vehicle.

PAMPA DAILY NEWS PAMPA, TEXAS 62nd Year Thursday, November 15, 1956

A CASSEROLE FIT for Thanksgiving.

Thanksgiving Cooks Plan Casserole Dish

The Old Yarmouth Inn at Yarmouth Port, Cape Cod, Mass., is widely known for food, graciousness and beautiful surroundings. It closes in October.

But every year at Thanksgiving time the owner-managers, Kathryn and Harry Rudelt, invite at least 40 relatives to the inn. The oldest and the youngest guests are Mrs. Rudelt's 80-year-old mother and her most recent of 17 great grandchildren. Everyone stays for three days.

"Our food is old-fashioned New England. Thanksgiving dinner is a wonderful feast because it gives us a sense of belonging as we gather together to ask the Lord's blessing," Kathryn Rudelt enthusiastically reports. The Rudelts and their talented daughter Joan do all the cooking for visiting kin.

There are two 35-pound turkeys. Also many homemade rolls and cornbread, jams and pumpkin pies and a special casserole of several vegetables in a delicate sauce. "It saves a lot of passing at dinner," Mrs. Rudelt explains.

"Harry starts the turkeys 4 a.m. Thanksgiving morning. His stuffing is sauteed chopped turkey livers and sausage, celery, onion and a tiny bit of garlic, seasoned with salt, pepper, and half sage and half poultry seasoning. He fills the neck cavity with link sausages," the hostess with the mostest kinfolk reveals.

KATHRYN RUDELTS THANKSGIVING VEGETABLE CASSEROLE

- 1 medium-sized head cauliflower, broken into flowerettes
- 2 1/2 cups fresh green beans, cut into 1-inch pieces
- 4 medium-sized carrots, quartered
- 1/4 pound fresh small white onions, peeled
- 4 cups water
- 2 sprigs fresh parsley
- 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
- Pinch of black pepper
- 2 tablespoons cornstarch
- 2 tablespoons cold water
- 1/2 cup grated Cheddar cheese
- 1/4 pound fresh mushrooms, quartered
- 1 tablespoon butter or margarine. . . .

Cook vegetables separately. Place in saucepan. Add water, parsley, salt and pepper. Bring to boil and cook, uncovered, 12 to 15 minutes or until crisp-tender. Drain and reserve liquid (approximately 2 cups). Keep vegetables warm in serving dish. Mix cornstarch in water. Add to reserved vegetable liquid. Bring to boil, stirring constantly; cook until thickened. Stir in cheese. Pour over vegetables in casserole. Saute mushrooms in butter, 4 to 5 minutes. Garnish vegetables in casserole. Serve hot. Eight servings.

Frozen Turkey Simplifies Dinner Planning

Thanksgiving brings family and friends together to enjoy a festive meal and exchange the latest news. The bountiful table may be in grandmother's dining room or in the small apartment of the newly marrieds. Whatever the location, it is an exciting moment when the turkey appears for carving.

A new homemaker can be just as confident of the success of her first turkey dinner as though she had prepared them annually. The secret is to select the turkey that comes already stuffed with an old-fashioned bread stuffing.

Frozen pre-stuffed turkey greatly simplifies dinner arrangements. The body and neck of these birds are filled with a delicious bread stuffing, flavorful with celery, onion and sage. Drumsticks of this stuffed turkey are tucked into a slit of skin at the base of the breast bone so there is no fussing with trussing. The handsome turkey goes from wrapper to roasting pan in a matter of minutes.

The turkey carver in the family will thank her profusely for selecting a turkey with the major leg tendons pulled. Onion "mums" blossom on the platter beside the turkey. They are a flowery garnish to be served hot with the tender slices of turkey.

- #### GLAZED ONION-MUMS ON APPLE SLICES
- 5 medium-sized onions
 - 3 cups ice water
 - 3 large apples
 - 1 cup granulated sugar
 - 1/2 cup water
 - Butter. . . .

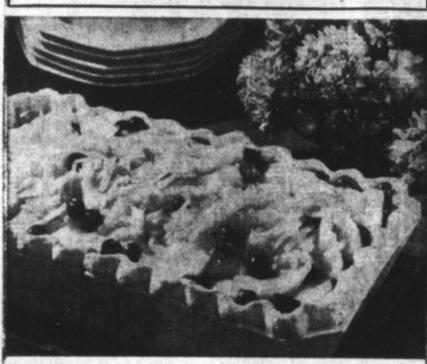

(To Make Onion-Chrysanthemums): Peel and cut the top of medium-sized onions. Use a sharp knife to cut down through the onion almost to the bottom to make 1/4 inch slices. Cut crosswise in the same way to make 1/4 inch squares. Keep onion in the original round shape. Place cut-side down in ice water. Refrigerate over night. Onions will blossom like flower petals. Remove. Drain on absorbent paper.

(To Make Glazed Mums on Apple Slices): Wash and core apples. Cut into 1/2 inch slices. Dip apple slices into lemon juice to prevent discoloration.

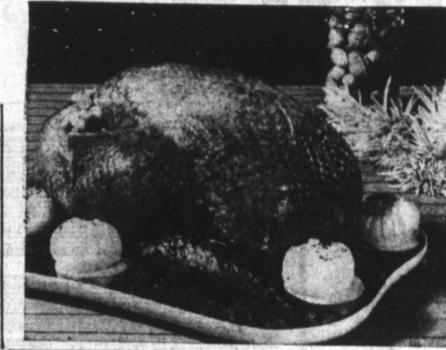

Place apple slices in baking dish. Top with onion mums which have been dotted with butter. Meanwhile, heat sugar and water in sauce pan to boiling. Pour syrup over onions and apples. Cover.

Bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees) for 25 minutes until onions and apples become tender. Baste occasionally with syrup during baking time. Remove cover. Continue to bake for 15 minutes, basting frequently. If desired, place under broiler heat 2 to 3 minutes to brown tips of onion mums. Serve on turkey platter. (Yield: 8 servings).

CRAN-APPLE SURPRISE

Cran-apple surprise—an exciting way to prepare cranberries with apples and cinnamon in a new Cheddar cheese crust.

Surprise Bridge Guests With Cran-Apple Dessert

Thanksgiving just isn't Thanksgiving without cranberries. But here's a new way to prepare them as a dessert that's really "the berries." Start by making the crust. Wait a minute. This is no ordinary pastry. A generous helping of Cheddar cheese is the flavor secret here — and what a taste difference it makes.

Now you're ready for the luscious filling. . . sliced juicy cooking apples and bright red cranberries spiced just right with cinnamon. Turn into crust and it's ready for baking. The hard part is in the waiting. While still hot from the oven, sprinkle your creation with more shredded Cheddar cheese. Serve as a fancy dessert, or a sweet treat for the afternoon bridge club.

CRAN-APPLE DESSERT
Crust:
Pastry for double crust pie

- 1/2 Cup shredded Cheddar cheese
- Filling:
- 5 Cups pared, sliced cooking apples
- 2 Cups cranberries
- 1 1/2 Cups sugar
- 1-3 Cup regular all-purpose flour
- 1 Teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/4 Cup shredded Cheddar cheese. . . .

To prepare crust: Prepare pastry adding 1/2-cup cheese to dry ingredients. Roll dough into 11x15-inch rectangle. Place in 1 1/2-quart shallow baking dish; fold extra dough over and build up on edge of dish; flute edge. To prepare filling: In a large bowl combine apples, cranberries, sugar, flour and cinnamon; turn into crust. Bake in a preheated 400 degree oven 40 minutes or until done; remove from oven and sprinkle 1/4-cup cheese on top. Yield: 8 servings.

Phi Sigma Alpha Studies Methods To Prepare Salad

Suds Create Sleep

Teens who can't snooze off on the night before a big test, should try a "lullaby" bath to help bring on sleep. First fix the bed so you can hop between the covers right afterwards. If you're hungry, have a light snack. Then, in a tub of mildly warm water, suds slowly with a washcloth. Using a deodorant soap for the job will wash away dirt and help eliminate odor-causing bacteria as well. Lie back and let the mild temperature soothe your nerves. Blot dry. Then slip into bed and you're half asleep.

Bridge Inspires New Yorker To Write Pumpkin Pie Recipe

Not Plymouth Rock but the Verrazano Bridge across New York harbor inspired this Thanksgiving pumpkin pie. It's the recipe of Sally Cole of Staten Island, distinguished home economist, with no claims on New England.

You may have seen this recipe before. We reprint it every year at harvest time as what we think is a public service.

- #### SALLY COLE'S PUMPKIN PIE
- 1 unbaked 9-inch pastry shell
 - 1/2 cup sugar
 - 1 tablespoon cornstarch
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 1/4 teaspoon ginger
 - 3 eggs
 - 1 1/2 cups canned pumpkin
 - 1 1/2 cups (one 14 1/2-ounce can undiluted evaporated milk. . . .

Combine sugar, cornstarch, salt, ginger and eggs in mixing bowl. Add pumpkin and milk; blend well. Strain. Pour into pastry shell. Bake in 400-degree oven 15 minutes; set oven control at 350 degrees. Bake until knife inserted into filling two inches from edge comes out clean, about 30 minutes longer. Center of pie will be soft, but will be firm when pie is cool.

Highway Accidents Total 21 For October

The Texas Highway Patrol investigated 21 accidents on rural highways in Gray County during the month of October according to Sergeant Jim Dalrymple, Highway Patrol Supervisor of this area.

These crashes resulted in one death, six persons injured and an estimated property damage of $25,675.00.

The rural accident summary for this county during the first ten months of 1969 shows a total of 171 accidents resulting in seven persons killed, 115 persons injured, and an estimated property damage of $153,791.00.

Traffic wise, November and December are noted as dangerous months for pedestrians. During the last two months of 1968 in Texas there were 86 pedestrians killed and 943 injured in collisions with motor vehicles. Some of the hours of darkness, bad weather, holidays, and lack of drivers' and pedestrians' attention.

The veteran patrol supervisor listed some tips to aid both pedestrians and drivers. Always wear something light colored when walking after dark. If possible carry some kind of light and walk on the left side of the road facing traffic. If you have a dark colored raincoat or overcoat, put a strip or two of reflectorized material across the back and front when walking on the street or highway.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Reports submitted to the American Public Health Association this week provide new evidence that air pollution causes respiratory ailments and other maladies that sometimes prove fatal.

Maybe there are still some skeptics around, but I personally am now convinced beyond all doubt that breathing is hazardous to your health.

If such statistics were available, they probably would show that the rate of respiratory ailments among heavy breathers is 100 per cent greater than it is among nonbreathers.

Okay, then, why not quit breathing? Well, dear boy, that is easier said than done. For most people, it is almost as hard to quit breathing as it is to quit smoking.

Has Become A Habit
 Breathing has become such a habit with most of us that abstaining probably would do more harm than good. People who quit breathing often become nervous and irritable, and may have other adverse reactions.

In other words, the side effects of not breathing may do more damage than the pollutants we inhale. So it is doubtful you will be able to refrain from breathing.

If you exercise a little will power, however, you can cut down on your breathing. And it stands to reason that a light breather runs less risk than someone who is a chain breather.

Try skipping a breath at regular intervals with the aim of working up to the point where you are only breathing after meals. Anyone who does that will be a long way toward having the problem licked.

A year or so ago, I devised a series of shallow breathing exercise instructions under helpful in reducing my air intake.

Strengthens Nose Muscles
 These exercises are designed to strengthen the muscles of your nose so that you can keep one nostril closed, thus decreasing the amount of air that reaches the lungs.

(Anyone who is interested may obtain a copy of the exercise instructions under separate cover. Enclose a self-addressed envelope and $9.90 in cash or money order to cover the cost of packaging and mailing.)

Another good rule is to avoid situations that promote heavy breathing. Men, for example, are advised to stay away from Raquel Welch movies. Women should give up Jacqueline Susann's books.

Along with creating health hazards, air pollution also is having a political impact in America. It is, in fact, the main reason we have a "great silent majority." People are saving their breath.

NO MORE EXPERIMENTS
NAIROBI (UPI)—The director of Kenya's national parks announced Wednesday that wildlife enthusiasts George and Joy Adamson no longer will be allowed to experiment with big cats in the nation's parks.

The Adamsons tamed the wild lioness Elsa, later made famous in Mrs. Adamson's best-selling novel, "Born Free," and lately have been engaged in experiments reintroducing tame animals to the wild.

The park director, Perez Omondi, said the action was decided upon by the national park trustees. No official reason was given.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—The market seems to have entered a technical phase where day-to-day movements are being influenced to a considerable degree by chart interpretations. W. E. Hutton & Co. says. So far only a few "cracks" have appeared in fast growth stocks and most of them continue to earn their keep for traders buying on strength, the firm notes, but the inevitable consequences of too much money chasing too few issues cannot be disregarded. High multiples leave little room for error in earnings estimates or any sort of adverse development, the firm warns.

Any real progress toward ending the war or cooling the economy seems to be as elusive as ever, Goodbody & Co. says, and investors' patience and confidence continue to be tested. They are likely to remain "highly critical of earnings disappointments," and market interest most likely will center on equities of companies whose near-term earnings prospects are most clearly defined and favorable.

The market is showing classic early bull action in being insensitive to bad news, Hoppin Bros. & Co. says. Some of the "sleeping giant" blue chip companies may turn out to be among the better stock market values, the company observes. Some of them seem on the verge of becoming dynamic once again.

"Even allowing for a continuation of the present level of hostilities in Vietnam for some time to come, many stocks appear attractively priced in relation to conservatively estimated earnings," Shearson, Hammill & Co. says. Many issues have adequately discounted lower-than-anticipated earnings, the company adds.

Students Protest Tattling On Sex Activities

KENILWORTH, England (UPI)—Warwick University students today protested against the school telling its 72 cleaning women to report on dormitory sexual activity.

Editor Mike Newman of the school magazine said the cleaning women were told to report on student "bedroom irregularities."

He said "male and female students sleep together regularly. The number is not very great. These are couples who are engaged or courting seriously."

"There is certainly no question of any mass orgies here," Newman said.

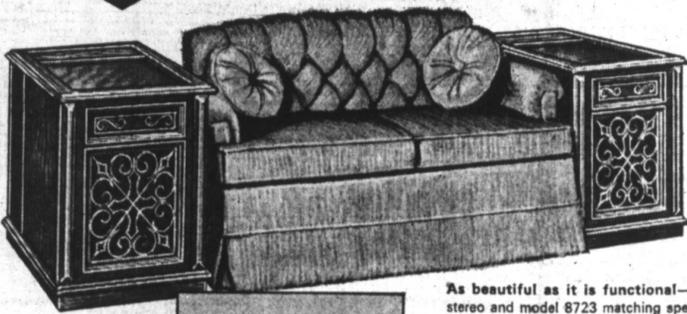

In 1492 Christopher Columbus noted in his journal the use of tobacco among the Indians in the new world, the first recorded reference to tobacco.

In 1806 Explorer Zebulon Pike sighted the mountain peak that later was to bear his name.

In 1920 the first assembly of the League of Nations was called to order in Geneva, Switzerland.

Attempt To Oust Indira Gandhi From Congress Party Thwarted

NEW DELHI (UPI)—Prime Minister Indira Gandhi won a vote of confidence from a majority of the ruling Congress party members in parliament today, crushing an attempt by old guard party leaders to oust her from office.

Mrs. Gandhi pledged after the vote to "rededicate myself and until the end of my days" work toward reuniting the party and improving the life of her 530 million fellow Indians in the world's largest democracy.

The vote came at a special meeting of party parliament members called by Mrs. Gandhi and her supporters. The old guard faction, which succeeded in having her ousted from the party Wednesday, denounced the meeting and asked members to boycott it.

Party officials loyal to Mrs. Gandhi said 337 of the 431 Congress parliament members were present and expressed full confidence in the premier's continued leadership.

An official count showed 250 attended, still enough to keep her in power with their unanimous support.

"The Congress party has passed through many crises and will pass through this crisis also," Mrs. Gandhi told the meeting. The daughter of the country's first premier, Jawaharlal Nehru, Mrs. Gandhi has held her post since Jan. 19, 1966.

Her supporters cheered her and unanimously adopted a resolution condemning the attempts of party President Siddavanshali Nijalingappa and his old guard faction to remove her from office.

The 21-member working committee of the party expelled Mrs. Gandhi from party membership Wednesday for committing what it called "grave acts of indiscipline." It culminated months of infighting within the party leadership.

Nijalingappa, 68, and his backers announced plans to hold their own meeting of party members of parliament, at which they said a new premier would be elected before parliament opens Wednesday.

The infighting within the Congress party has been simmering ever since July, when, in a break with the old guard faction, Mrs. Gandhi nationalized the nation's 14 major domestic banks.

Altrusans Hear Heritage Talk By Army Recruiting Sergeant

"Our Heritage" was the program presented by Sgt. Alvin E. Lawrence, USA army recruiting sergeant, who was recently wounded and returned from active duty in Vietnam, at a luncheon meeting Monday of the Altrusa Club of Pampa in the Starlight Room at the Coronado Inn.

American flags given to each Altrusan to fly from the antenna of her automobile were placed at each luncheon plate.

Altrusans gave a standing ovation to Sgt. Lawrence at the conclusion of his program.

"America the Beautiful" was sung by the club and guests.

Following the business session, Vermell Meador, program co-ordinator and vice president, introduced Charles McIntosh of Amarillo, executive director of the Top O'Texas T.B. Association which is composed of 26 Panhandle counties.

McIntosh said: "Only $300 has been received so far from Christmas seal sales in Pampa, but several thousand dollars are needed to do the job adequately in Pampa. For each case of TB discovered, it is suspected there is one case that has not been found. Pampa is the only major city in the Panhandle district that does not have the Tuberculin test in the schools. In the district there were 300 new active cases reported last year. There are many more TB problems than people realize."

Guests introduced were Jean Gattis, co-owner of the Gattis Shoe Store; and Lillian Snow's granddaughter-in-law, Patricia Pryor.

Announcement was made of a new club organized in Exeter, England. The organization dinner will be held Nov. 13.

Jay Flanagan, Senior Citizens Center chairman, reminded Altrusans to bring two gifts each for Seniors to the annual Christmas Party for the Senior Citizens to be held the second Thursday in December.

Television In Review

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—NBC-TV Wednesday night gave viewers a taste of what might well become a part of television's future—a prime time lineup composed entirely of special programs.

The network offered four one-shot shows: One by Bill Cosby, another by Johnny Carson, a third by Diana Ross and the Supremes, and the fourth a musical-variety tribute to artist Norman Rockwell.

Cosby's show, a half-hour cartoon entry based on characters from his monologues, was entitled, "Hey, Hey, Hey—It's Fat Albert," and was charming. Furthermore, it was a unique contribution: The first animated network show this viewer remembers in which virtually all the characters were Negro—certainly a development that is important for black children, who usually find no one who represents them in video cartoons.

The basic plot of Cosby's Wednesday show, for which he did various voices, concerned efforts by neighborhood kids to get big. Fat Albert to play on their side in a football game against some cocky challengers. My own favorite part of the show came when the boys went to see a triple feature "Wolf Man" movie presentation at the local theater. It was here that Cosby's remarkable feel for boyhood memories was just plain delightful, and true.

Carson's hour, meanwhile, was all comedy, with George C. Scott, Maureen Stapleton and Marian Mercer rounding out the exceptional cast. There were two high points. One was Carson's famous "Deputy John" routine, about a television children's show host who turns up for work with a terrific hangover.

The other, surprisingly, was a wholly serious, brief vignette showing a video pitchman in one of those offensive ads in which children are exhorted to tell their parents to go out and buy them an expensive toy—say $25 or $30. As the camera pulled back from the television screen, it showed a Negro mother and her children in their home, where obviously no one could afford $25 or $30 toys.

The Carson hour also had excellent moments in an awards ceremony for sleazy films. But at other times, the cast was often superior to some of the material it got to work with. All four principals are fine farceurs, and Neil Simon should have been the head writer.

Miss Ross and The Supremes, meanwhile, teamed again with The Temptations in an hour musical aimed right at their large following. And the Rockwell tribute had its best moments when the personable, modest artist came on to chat with host Jonathan Winters, and when his drawings were seen. Dick Smothers and Michele Lee joined with Winters in various numbers built around the famous illustrations.

'Feds' Looking For Man Who Put Snakes In 'Grass'

MIAMI (UPI) — Federal agents in Miami are looking for the man who put snakes in the "grass."

It was like a psychedelic freak-out when customs agents pried open some crates at Miami International Airport and found 50 boa constrictors coiled on a bed of high-grade marijuana.

The snakes, along with some monkeys, exotic birds, 150 baby iguanas and a lone ocelot, arrived in six crates Monday from Colombia. They were stuffed in linen sacks, with about 100 pounds of marijuana in other sacks for bedding.

Agents said the marijuana would be worth about $48,000 on the retail market.

Authorities would not reveal the name of the man the animals were consigned to pending his arrest.

The animals, 940 in all, were turned over to the humane society. Society Director Ken McGovern said it wasn't the first time drugs have been found in shipments of animals.

YOUR BIRTHDAY FRIDAY
Be alert for new directions. People who can't take advantage of special opportunity may open the door for you at unlikely moments. Seek further education or self-improvement as a consistent campaign. Your will and your work take on stronger emotional quality. Friday's natives are aspiring and proud, usually fortunate in material gains.

ARIES (March 21-Apr. 19): — Start early, prepared to cope with a confusing day of mixed signals. New contracts are promising. Your money sprouts wings with any opportunity. Patience with loved ones is needed.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20): — There is no point in worry or tension — nobody you care about will be cooperative or sympathetic until they see that you are serene and steadily working out your own plans. Relax early.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): — You can get an unusual break from somebody new, while a long-time associate lets you down on some trifle. Plan for contingencies in the evening just to have some direction in case the unexpected comes to pass.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): — Where you lead your relationships with emotionalism you generate distraction and confusion which hinders your work efforts. Keep life simple, your comments brief and to the point.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): — Older associates, relatives develop limitations. You can turn some of this tendency to advantage in getting more freedom of choice and personal responsibility.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): — Temporary conditions exist which are very helpful to your economy. Make the most of them while they last. Make no promises about shared funds or group resources.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): — If you do not expect expansive progress, this can be an excellent day for your regular work and emotional satisfaction. Find a good show at night for a change of pace.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): — Take into account the coming chances for a general increase of your activities while concluding a new agreement.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): — Reasonable endeavor and goodwill are all you need for a calm and successful day. There will be enough drive left over for a quiet party if you wish.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19):

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Study works for a large company, and as you know there is a pecking order in all companies. The chairman of the board is apple-polished by the vice presidents, the vice presidents are apple-polished by the department heads, the department heads are apple-polished by the buyers, and so on down the line. Well, whenever Rudy's company has a party, they have an orchestra and dancing. Rudy is a very good dancer, but I never get to dance with him. He spends the entire evening dancing with his bosses' wives, so the bosses will be free to dance with all the cute young things. Rudy says I am not to complain because this is "legitimate apple-polishing," which is a part of his job.

a beautiful large doll. I set her in the chair and I sometimes talk to her.

I am worried. Is anything wrong with me? Why did I buy a doll at my age? Should I give it away or just let it set there? Thank you.

WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: You bought a doll at your age because you wanted one. And there is nothing wrong with that. But you really should get out a little more, see people, and perhaps team up with a companion. Too much solitude can be depressing.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): — If you do not expect expansive progress, this can be an excellent day for your regular work and emotional satisfaction. Find a good show at night for a change of pace.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): — Take into account the coming chances for a general increase of your activities while concluding a new agreement.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): — Reasonable endeavor and goodwill are all you need for a calm and successful day. There will be enough drive left over for a quiet party if you wish.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19):

DEAR ABBY: In our office there is a girl who has been "single" ever since the death of her husband two years ago. The boss lost his wife about a year ago, and these two have been very chummy ever since. They've even taken out-of-town trips together just like married folks, and have recently announced (to the surprise of no one) that they are "engaged" to be married!

A large wedding is planned and I have heard that all of us in the office will be invited. How can I tactfully turn down this wedding invitation? I don't care to attend the wedding of people who have lived in sin for a whole year.

RUDY'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Rudy doesn't need polished apples for all the applesauce he's giving you. No man should dance with another woman unless his own wife is occupied. (A little "henpecking" could have a legitimate place in this pecking order.)

INDIGNANT

DEAR INDIGNANT: Simply decline. You are not expected to explain why. P.S. You could be wrong about this "sin" charge, you know. Are you "indignant" enough to quit — Concentrate on matters that require little cooperation and little discussion with people having emotional investments in the success or failure of your enterprises.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): — Activities in public places require larger expenses. Give people a clear chance to confirm or relinquish their emotional ties — clinging too tightly may spoil something of potential beauty.

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar. 20): — Think of the impact of your comments about people, and stick with the unquestionable facts rather than indulge in speculative opinions or gossip.

Grid Season Ends Friday For Several

The 1969 football season will come to a close Friday night for McLean, Wheeler and Canadian but White Deer, Groom and Lefors still have a while to go.

Wheeler, who just missed the District 2-A title and is assured a second place finish after being picked third, will host Claude, winners of two straight games.

The Mustangs are 6-3 for the season and 3-1 in the district while Claude sports a 2-7 season mark and has climbed to 2-2 in district competition. But Claude has knocked off McLean and Happy in that order and may have risen from the dead.

Wheeler's scoring duo of Roy Don Chick and Dave Britt will be out to add to their area scoring list with Chick battling to be the area scoring champ.

McLean, who found new life last week in Tommy Dunningen, who went on a five touchdown spree, ends its season at home against unbeaten Clarendon, the District 2-A champion.

The Bronchos will pit its 9-0 season and 4-0 district mark against the Tigers, 3-5-1 season and 2-2 district marks. McLean has a habit of winning when it isn't supposed to and no punches will be pulled tomorrow night.

Canadian will be shooting for its best finish in three years but the Wildcats, too have its work cut out for them. Canadian, 2-6-1 and 1-2-1 journeys to Sunray where the Bobcats are at their toughest.

Sunray has lost just once in nine outings this year, to White Deer, and haven't gotten over the shock of being the second best team in District 1-A.

Canadian has played well defensively this season but the offense has never come around to expectations.

White Deer ends regular season play at home and the Bucks will be facing a toughie in Sanford-Fritch. The Bucks are 7-2, having lost to Clarendon and Panhandle but have beaten all four district foes.

Sanford-Fritch has won two straight to bring its season reading to 3-5-1 and conference mark to 1-2-1. The Eagles have been scoring points of late but haven't played a defense quite like the Bucks nor met backs that can run like Lonnie Lane and David Guinn.

Lefors has its second Friday of the season off but Groom will be out to cop its ninth game of the season without defeat. The Tigers play at Follett, who may be just a little mad after being upset last week by Texline.

But Follett will have to come up with some kind of defense to stop the likes of Dal Howerton, Johnny and Mark Britten and David Blackwell.

Coaches Rare Breed, But A Good Type

Coaches, all kinds, are a funny breed. They are usually a cut above the average person. They are also some of the most dedicated people there are.

I guess that is why I've always held most coaches in awe and always had so much respect for them. Their job is very demanding, the hours are long, the pay is just so-so but the rewards are usually great.

Texas Governor Preston Smith has finally had someone put a bee in his bonnet and has proclaimed Friday as "Coaches Day" in the State of Texas. The governor signed his proclamation today honoring coaches across the state for their efforts.

I think that next we should have a day for the coaches wives, who suffer just a little more, probably, than their husbands do.

Unlike some sports writers I have tried to never second guess a coach or put him on a spot or wonder out loud why he didn't play this guy or that guy or run this play or that play or pass when he should have run or run when he should have passed.

I've never thought that this was a part of being a sports writer and I'd just as soon leave all that to our fans, and we have some who are quite good at it.

I know one guy that I've never heard say a good word about anybody and he is really hard on Pampa coaches, especially if they are losing.

There could be a 100 different reasons why the coach doesn't play this boy or that one or run this play or the other one. Fans don't realize,

You Don't Say...

By RON CROSS

or least enough of them, that the coach is a lot, lot, closer to the players and the plays than they are.

There are several situations, even the most common ones, that I doubt we understand everything about.

The most satisfaction to a coach doesn't come from winning. It comes from knowing that he has made a man out of a boy, a gentleman, that maybe he has helped some young man further—his education, that he has gained the respect of his players.

A coach does not have 8-5 hours. During his season, he will spend 14-16 hours a day on his job. This isn't just the head coach it is his assistants also. His work week is seven days long not five or six. His meals are irregular also.

Some coaches I suppose deserve the criticism they get but all coaches are trying their best. None of them like to lose. I'll never understand how anybody can criticize a coach. They are all doing what they think is best.

In his proclamation Governor Smith says: "It is not easy to measure the true value of a high school coach, in any sport. Records mean little. Athletic coaches in the state of Texas can be measured by the deeds of their players, both on and off the playing area. While persons put forth the cry of "do your own thing," and while some people follow that slogan, forsaking reasonable control and discipline, the athletes and managers under the discipline and control of your athletic coaches generally do follow instructions, they generally do follow proper course, they generally make fine, productive citizens after their athletic careers end."

"While sports fans all over the country celebrate the Centennial Year of collegiate football, it seems appropriate that recognition is long overdue to the many thousands of dedicated and sincere men who have made schoolboy athletics in Texas what they are today. From the first recorded high school football game played in Dallas in 1900 to the Friday afternoon "pep rally" of today, the lives of those thousands of schoolboy athletes have been altered significantly to the better, by the one man who often is the only voice of authority, reason and discipline ever heard—the coach."

We have 20 coaches in the Pampa school system. They are all dedicated men, they all care, they all work hard and thank goodness somebody has finally recognized them and the others.

FRY SAYS HE'LL PLAY

Rumors Have Hixson Out

By United Press International
Imagine this if you will, The proverbial towheaded kid standing outside the practice field of his favorite college football team.

He's heard a rumor—a rumor that's been floating around the city all day—that his team's star quarterback has been injured and will be out the rest of the season. It's too much for a little boy to take.

Finally he sees his man. The kid rushes up and grabs him by the arm—the right arm, and gently—and looks up with pleading eyes.

"Say it ain't so, Chuck," he says. Chuck and his coach say it ain't.

Southern Methodist head man Hayden Fry denied rumors.

Wednesday his quarterback Chuck Hixson, the nation's leading passer, was hurting at all.

Best Day Ever
As a matter of fact, Fry said, the junior from San Antonio had one of his best days ever in practice, and was happy with the overall workout.

Fry also said he expects Saturday's SMU-Arkansas game in Dallas to be one of the best in the Southwest Conference this year. SMU scored 29 points in the final quarter of the game last year, but lost 35-29.

This year, the No. 5 Hogs are 15-20 point favorites over SMU, no 2-6 for the season.

Arkansas Coach Frank Broyles said fumbles, dropped passes and busted assignments contributed to "one of the poorest" offensive practices of the year for the Razorbacks.

He said, however, he was pleased with the performance of the defensive unit.

Heavy Workouts
"The defense seems to be adjusting to SMU's varied offensive formations," Broyles said. "You have to be very alert or they will get the big play on you."

The Razorbacks are scheduled to wind up heavy workouts for the SMU game today before leaving for Dallas Friday.

At Texas, Coach Darrell Royal of the No. 2 ranked Longhorns said he was a little happier Wednesday than Tuesday. "I think it was without question better than yesterday," Royal said. "We kinda looked like a football team out there today."

Royal said his team was healed from the flu which struck 14 starters a day before the 56-14 victory over Baylor last week-end.

Texas meets Texas Christian Saturday.
The Texas Aggies held a light workout Wednesday for their passing and pass defense in preparation for Saturday's game with Rice.

Coach Gene Stallings said the Aggies were in good physical condition and that no lineup changes would be made for the Rice game.

Series Money Tops Previous Baseball Highs

NEW YORK (UPI)—The New York Mets received record individual shares for winning the 1969 World Series.

The Mets divided $657,473.02 into 35 full shares of $18,338.88 each after winning the National League championship series and world championship. The total, according to figures released today by the office of Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, surpasses the former record winners' share of $12,794.00, awarded to the 1963 Los Angeles Dodgers.

The Baltimore Orioles, who lost the series to the Mets in five games, split $497,564.00 in 32 full shares of $14,908.21, a record for losing shares and also higher than the Dodgers got in 1963 for winning.

Atlanta, the National League playoff loser, had full shares of $6,944.10, while Minnesota, runner-up in the American League, had full portions of $6,460.12.

Other full shares determined by final standings were: Chicago (NL) ($574.94); San Francisco ($612.13); Detroit ($630.80); Oakland ($597.56); Pittsburgh ($204.27); Cincinnati ($203.97); Boston ($179.53); and California ($198.30).

The Mets voted 35 full shares—including 26 players, Manager Gil Hodges, coaches Eddie Yost, Joe Pignatano, Al Walker and Yogi Berra, trainers Gus Mauch and Joe Deer, clubhouse attendant Nick Torman and head groundskeeper John McCarthy.

Donn Clendenon, who joined the Mets in mid-June and was named the outstanding player in the series, and Jack Dmiltz, brought up late in May from the minors, were awarded full shares. Bobby Pfeil, who played most of the season but was dropped before the series, also was awarded a full cut.

The Mets also voted a half share to utilityman Amos Oatis ($9,169.08) and one-fifth share to assistant clubhouse man Roy Neuer. The remainder of the total was divided among batboys, batting practice pitchers and seven minor leaguers who joined the Mets in September.

Baltimore players voted out 32 full shares, including all coaches, trainer Ralph Salvon and equipment manager Clay Reid. The Orioles also handed out a two-fifth share, two quarter shares, a one-fifth share and one three-twentieths share.

powerful Falcon passing game. The Bowling Green air game is paced by junior quarterback Vern Wireman, who has already established 12 Bowling Green school records. He has hit on 114 out of 210 passes for 1,240 yards and 11 touchdowns. Only eight of his passes have been intercepted.

Wingback Fred Mathews has 47 receptions for 455 yards and six touchdowns. The other principal receiver is split end Bob Zimpfer, who has 34 catches for 521 yards and five scores.

Fullback Isaac Wright leads the Falcons in rushing with 274 yards and halfback Jerry Fields has added 203 rushing yards.

All The Questions Due Answer Friday

Can Plainview put the stopper on Pampa's rejuvenated offense and defense? Can the Harvesters keep the momentum going? Is Pampa over the hump as far as all out effort goes?

These are the questions being asked by Pampa football fans and they hope to get an answer to their questions Friday night when the Harvesters host Plainview in a battle for fifth place in District 4-AAA.

Tickets to the contest are selling fast and everybody who had regular season tickets in the reserved section can get the same seats by calling the school business office.

Tickets are $1.50 for reserved seats, 50 cents for students who buy them at school, 75 cents at the gate and general admission tickets will go for $1.25 at the gate Friday night.

Pampa will have a little better offense to throw at the Bulldogs Friday night than they did in the first meeting this season, won by Plainview, 26-6.

Coach Swede Lee realigned his backfield last week against Borger with John Jenkins joining Scotty King at halfback and sophomore Dale Ammons took over the quarterbacking duties and Ray Tindall never ran better at fullback.

The Pampa ground game smothered Borger in a barrage of 332 yards from the four with Jenkins gunning for 136 yards from a position he played like he'd been born there.

Defensively the Harvesters have shown improvement the past three weeks but were never better than they played last week. They did not have the same kind of effort against Plainview in the first meeting.

A victory would end the Harvester season at 4-6 and to a man the Pampa players have their hearts on two straight victories. Strangely enough all three Pampa victories this season have come on the road, making the Harvesters 0-5 on their own home ground.

But an expected capacity crowd is going to see a "new" Pampa team, one that battles you every down and fights you tooth and nail.

Plainview is no slouch and the Harvesters will have their hands full trying to stop the fast Bulldogs. Plainview will bring a 6-2-1 season record to town, fourth best in the district. They ranked fifth among the district teams in total offense, averaging 297.6 yards per game through the air and on the ground.

The Plainview defense was the fifth best in the district as it gave up an average 303.5 yards per contest in four zone games.

In the first meeting Plainview scored two of the first three times it got the ball and forged to a 16-6 halftime lead. The Bulldog offense did bog down in the second quarter with Pampa's defense holding them four times.

But Pampa did a lot to beat itself, giving up the ball on a fumble, pass interception and lost a safety. Then, too, flanker Tommy Hawkins spent the entire last half waiting for passes that never came.

The Bulldogs were stopped on offense in the final two quarters getting only a field goal and the lone second half touchdown came when Pampa was forced to go for yardage on fourth down, didn't make it and gave up the ball on its own end of the field. Plainview then completed its only two passes of the night.

WT Ends Home Season Saturday Against Bowling Green Team

CANYON—West Texas State University's Buffaloes close their home football season at their home football season at 2 p.m. Saturday in Buffalo Bowl by hosting strong Bowling Green.

The Bowling Green Falcons support a 4-1 mark in the Mid-America Conference and have earned second place. They are 5-3 for the year, equaling the standard held by the Buffaloes. Toledo, the Mid-America Conference winner, edged Bowling Green for the title, 27-26.

The Buffaloes, who close their season Nov. 29 in Hattisburg, Miss., against Southern Mississippi, will put their balanced offense on the line against the SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (UPI)—Veteran Tommy Bolt warmed up for today's opening round of the $50,000 PGA Club Professional golf tournament with a 6-under-par 66 in Wednesday's pro-am portion.

The 51-year-old Bolt, who has won nearly $28,000 in prize money so far this year in senior competition and regular tour events, pocketed $250 for his best of the day individual performance.

However, he had to sink a birdie on the par-5 18th to overtake Davis Love of Marietta, Ga., who finished with a 67 and earned $210; Bob Hold, of Inglewood, Colo., and Ed Mergins, of Los Angeles, finished at 68.

Kern, with a stronger supporting cast than rival quarterback Mike Phipps, will give Ohio State its second straight over-Rose Bowl contender Purdue. We like Woody Hayes' Warriors by a 40-21 margin.

Michigan, also contending for the Rose Bowl, should stay in the running for the trip to Pasadena by beating Iowa. The Wolverines get ready for next week's clash with Ohio State by downing the Hawkeyes, 35-21.

Landry Backs Morton As Good Passer

DALLAS (UPI)—Dallas Cowboys Coach Tom Landry takes strong objection to an anonymous National Football League player's report that Cowboy quarterback Craig Morton is overrated and can be "had."

The player, a defensive back who supposedly has played against Morton this year, was quoted out of New York as saying Morton "is overrated...if you can jump on his primary receiver all the time, you can stop him."

Landry, at his regular mid-week press luncheon, seemed to jump at the chance to answer that one.

"You take the primary receiver away from any quarterback in the league and he'll be in for a rough day," Landry quipped. "But, first, you've got to know who the primary receiver is—and that isn't easy."

"I think Morton has been doing a fine job and I think it Morton has one strong point above his other qualities, it is his ability to go to secondary receivers."

"Sure, he's suffered some interceptions in recent games, but in all fairness to him, he has been able to work out very little prior to the games because of his shoulder and finger injuries."

"The more chance he gets to work with his receivers, the fewer interceptions he'll throw—and vice versa," Landry pointed out.

A Lesson For Everyone

There's an old fable which teaches a lesson for all of us. One of our associates dug up the tale, dressed it up a bit and submitted it for consideration. Herewith is the tale:

Once upon a time, long, long ago, there was a village called Zythia. In the village of Zythia, ancient records tell us, there lived men; and, since women have been known to seek out men (or is it the other way?) We may safely assume that Zythia sheltered members of the fairer sex. (Notice, we didn't say weaker; life in Zythia being primitive and uncertain, the weak perished in short order.) And, as everyone knows, where there are men and women, there will soon be children.

Zythia, then, we may further assume, was made up of a number of families; much as is our modern society. With one major difference, however; the people of Zythia had never learned the art of trade and exchange. Each family in Zythia was self-sufficient. Laboring from dawn to dusk, each family fashioned its own crude tools and utensils; built its own single-room thatched hut, soon to be inhabited jointly by its human occupants, a goat or two, and vermin; fished and hunted a bit, and scratched at a small patch of maize. Life in Zythia was rather grim by our standards; still, they lived — after a fashion.

The Zythians were not noted for great intellectual activity; as a matter of fact, they might be called stupid — by our enlightened standards. But, here again, there was an exception. In Zythia, with his family, there lived a man named Zog; and this Zog was a curious sort of fellow. For a number of months the villagers had noted that Zog, while resting between bouts with bow, line and hoe, was wont to sit staring at a distant craggy hill where, from a disappearing spring near its summit, the villagers obtained their water supply.

Actually, Zog, of all things, was thinking. He had a problem of supply and demand — a problem of production — to solve. In short, Zog had an idea; an idea how he might improve the standard of living for the family of Zog.

He had noted over the years — and it took a long time for the implications of his observations to sink in — that each Zythian family consumed an average of an hour a day carrying water from the distant spring. He reasoned that, if he and his family became water supply specialists, devoting most of their waking hours to carrying water to the village, some of the villagers might be willing to pay him for the service; after all, if he relieved them of the chore of water hauling, he reasoned, they could devote the saved time to other efforts.

So, with this scheme in mind, he approached the other Zythians with a proposition. If each family would contract to him one-half manhour of labor daily, he would undertake to keep that family supplied with all the water it needed in exchange.

At first, the Zythians, being unused to ideas, considered killing Zog outright. Then, too, the village witch doctor had warned them that non-conformists who deviated from the "will of the peer group" were dangerous; they might bring the wrath of the Gods down upon Zythian's heads.

day proved too much for some of the villagers and enough of them "signed up" with Zog to convince him that he ought to go ahead with his plan.

His next problem, however, was capital; how would he and his family live in the meantime? If their full labor output was to be devoted to carrying water for others, there would be no time for fishing, hunting and tilling their maize patch. Surely the family Zog would starve.

But Zog was equal to the moment. He called his family together and put it to them like this:

"Now listen, Wife, and you, too, Kids, if we want a better tomorrow, we have got to work harder now. We have got to increase our efforts and put away enough jerked deer, smoked fish and dried maize to feed us while we get our water project going."

And this is what the Zog family did. Up before dawn and laboring far into the night, they accumulated the necessary capital — from savings; created from the unconsumed fruits of their increased labors.

Thus, the Zog Water Co. came into being.

In the meantime, Entrepreneur Zog put the contracted labor to work chipping out a large reservoir from a nearby limestone formation. This finished and filled, he again went to the Zythian villagers; this time with an even better offer. Instead of charging them one-half a manhour of labor daily for water service, he now offered the same service for fifteen minutes of daily labor. And still more villagers subscribed.

He and his family still carrying water for the villagers and keeping the reservoir filled laboriously by hand, Zog now put the contracted labor to building a pipeline, fashioned of hollowed-out logs, from the spring on the hill to the reservoir in the village.

The pipeline finished and a continuing supply of water for the village thus assured, Zog again went to the villagers; this time with an offer to provide water service at a price of only five minutes of labor a day from each family.

The villagers, being somewhat dull, but not crazy, accepted in droves. And why not? Whereas before they had used up a full manhour of time daily getting water for their family needs, they now got the same service for only five minutes of labor. They saved 55 minutes, their profit on the exchange, could now be devoted to the upgrading of their standard of living in other ways.

Did the Zog family profit? You bet your sweet bippie, they did! The labor power thus acquired via the exchange, was turned to keeping the pipeline and water reservoir in operation and good repair; and, of course, with purchased manpower at their disposal, the Zog family no longer had to fish, hunt and farm. Zog's idea, plus hard and protracted labor on the part of both himself and family, and their saved capital, had paid off.

Now the question is this: Was Zog a greedy, water-grubbing beast who mistreated and exploited the Zythians and, as such, a creature to be regulated and looted by the villagers acting in concert under the sway of the witch doctor; or, was he, perchance, a benefactor entitled to the highest honors the Zythians could bestow?

It is a question we, today, had better be asking ourselves — and getting the right answer.

Hopeful Note Reported By Black Leader

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
Washington Correspondent
HARRIMAN, N.Y. (NEA) — A broadly experienced black leader privately struck a note of hope to this reporter which suggests this nation may be slowly drifting away from the severe white-black confrontation that often has threatened virtual open warfare.

There will be no sudden, magic release from strife and strain. In many places, militants and revolutionaries will still ride hard. Eruptions of violence in schools and streets will not end. Reprisals from fearful whites will remain a prospect, and their headlong dash for the suburbs will go on.

Yet, says this leader, who will not be named here, promising signs of change are visible and bigger ones can be brought within range if only enough money for needed effort can be found and wisely applied.

Heretofore, blacks who have "made it" even in a large way by any reasonable standard of achievement have frequently become embittered at the evident lack of acceptance by white-dominated society.

Today, accommodation between whites and blacks is somewhat easier at the higher economic, professional and social levels where it ought to be easy. It is not perfect. Suppressed tension still exists. Says this leader:

"In an interpersonal relationship, each man is wondering if trust can be total. He is very sensitive to every sign that might tend to confirm old mistrust. He examines every word from the other."

The reaching out nevertheless goes on at faster and stronger paces than before. It is helped, this man says, by the fact that so many younger Americans — students and young adults alike — approach each other more naturally. Black or white, they seem to feel less encumbered by the fears and animosities of the past.

Middle-class adult blacks, however, go on having trouble within the business firms and professional organizations they join. The quoted source says:

"Every time I move to a new setting I have to prove my basic competence all over again, and so do most of us. You feel there is always that doubt about your ability to perform. And then if you do prove yourself, there is a tendency among white employers to overpraise you for demonstrating competence they should assume you have."

In spite of these lingering problems, more and more blacks are rising on the corporate and professional ladders, as more are getting elected to public office (nearly 1,500 today).

Here, though, a curious effect intervenes. White business chiefs say few blacks are in high corporate operating posts because they do not take part in the tough in-fighting that brings those rewards. Aggressive though many blacks have become in the public arena, their corporate brethren have not yet plunged into that cruel competition.

The anonymous source says that, whatever excesses may flow from "black power" militancy, its stress on pride and identity may help those struggling for influence in the business, professional and political worlds. The luxury of time still exists at the middle levels, it is suggested, and seems sure to bring fuller accommodation.

The importance of all this is that leadership roles for blacks in U.S. society make the showcase that spells hope for the deprived and the under-educated. But, especially in the school field, the beckoning promise of betterment seems distant.

The source says flatly that desegregated big-city schools turned all black by the white exodus are lost to the cause of "integration." The sole hope there, he adds, is large infusion of money to upgrade steeply the quality of education.

This man says, too, that the white exodus will go on until it is nearly total, unless similar infusions of resources flow to city schools now mixed in racial make-up or soon to be. That, he feels, is the only effective way to meet whites' "rational fears" that a black influx means serious loss of educational quality and a breakdown in discipline.

Why Doncha March And Demonstrate For Your Causes?

A Rebuff To The Young On Vote-At-19 Proposal

By DON OAKLEY
NEA Correspondent
If you want to change what is wrong with society, don't throw bombs at it from the outside. Work with its institutions and within its framework of rules in order to reform it.

That is what the wiser, older generation tells the impatient younger one. In all fairness, however, along with this admonition should go a warning: Faithfully though one may abide by the rules, righteous and just though one's cause may be, there is no such thing as an unconditional money-back guarantee that the system will permit itself to be reformed — either easily or immediately or at all.

A recent case in point was a proposed constitutional amendment to lower the age of voting in Ohio to 19, which was on the statewide ballot in the last elections.

The idea began as a senior class project at Tippecanoe High School in Tipp City, near Dayton, back in 1966. The class began collecting material with which to win friends and influence legislators in the Ohio General Assembly. These included statements from prominent public figures and politicians in favor of lowering the voting age, a petition bearing the names of 30,000 high school seniors throughout Ohio, and the results of a poll the students conducted in Kentucky, which had recently lowered its voting age to 18, showing that the voters were happy with the change.

The Ohio junior citizens were more modest in their goal, however. Fearing a voting age of 18 might be too much to ask of Ohioans, they compromised at age 19.

In 1967, a resolution to put the question of a constitutional amendment to that effect on the Ohio ballot was passed by the state Senate. But then the youthful reformers received a practical lesson in how the "rotten" Establishment crushes all that is fine and good. Republican leaders quietly put out the word that the issue was to be killed in the House. They wanted nothing controversial on the same ballot with certain vital bond issues.

In 1968, the next senior class at Tippecanoe took up the cause and again launched a bombardment of propaganda and persuasion against the Assembly. In 1969, they finally succeeded in convincing both chambers to put the question of "Vote 19" before the citizens of Ohio.

On Nov. 4, the citizens of Ohio rejected it, by a small but decided margin, and everyone is still trying to figure out why. There was no logical pattern in the voting. Some rural counties that were expected to oppose votes for 19-year-olds registered majorities in favor of it; some cities which were expected to support it defeated it. One spokesman thinks that "general attitudes" toward college students had a lot to do with it. He notes that in a majority of Ohio counties containing institutions of higher learning, the issue was defeated.

In any event, all these young people had played by the Establishment's rules, had followed the book to the letter — and gotten a kick in the teeth. Time now to pry up the cobblestones and fortify the barricades?

But no. "In spite of this decision, we have an ultimate faith in a democratic form of government and will continue to encourage youth participation through legitimate channels." Volunteers for Vote 19, announcing plans to secure enough petitions to put the question on the ballot again next year.

"It is not a case of will we get the right to vote, but when will we get the right to vote," he said.

If that kind of attitude is all that representative of a young people, the nation has nothing to fear from the future. It may leave much to be desired, but continuing to "waggy serious-minded young adults the right to participate fully in the affairs of the Republic."

Your Dental Health

By DR. WILLIAM LAWRENCE
Freezing Technique Is Important New Step

DEAR DR. LAWRENCE: I heard the gum pockets can now be treated by freezing instead of surgery. What is the name of this freezing process and would it be good for me? My dentist says I need "gum surgery."

—MRS. T. KENT.
DEAR MRS. T.: Freezing tissue is an important new step in treatment of dental disease. It's called cryotherapy and it can be used to repair injured tissue, remove cancerous and non-cancerous diseased tissue, and even eliminate infected gum pockets in periodontal disease.

Treatment of gum pockets with cryotherapy avoids bleeding, reduces much of the post-operative discomfort and eliminates need for dressing.

How does it work? Cryotherapy destroys selective tissue by freezing — just as simple as that. A probe tip with controlled amounts of liquid nitrogen (enough to lower temperature to — 180 degrees centigrade) is inserted into the diseased gum. A brief contact results in death of the tissue which later sloughs off, with new healthy tissue gradually forming.

While not widely used yet, cryotherapy has many adherents who believe it shows promise in selected periodontal procedures.

DEAR DR. LAWRENCE: Two of my wisdom teeth have to be pulled, but the nearest dentist is 12 miles from our home. Do you think I could drive home afterwards?

DEAR MRS. E.L.D.: It would be wise to have an adult accompany you, not only to drive, but for aid and comfort. Wisdom teeth extractions can be complicated and you may need postoperative assistance.

If you plan some type of pre-medication, such as phenobarbital or tranquilizers, or if you are put to sleep for your extractions, you certainly should be accompanied by an adult. You'll need help even if you have only 12 blocks to go.

Please send your questions about dental health to Dr. Lawrence in care of this paper. While he cannot answer each letter personally, letters of general interest will be answered in this column.

Of 'Cookie Jars'— Perkins Blocks OEO Critics
JOHN GOLDSMITH

ROBERT ALLEN

WASHINGTON — For anyone outside of the Carl Perkins, D-Ky., chairman of the Education and Labor Committee, vigorously defending the scandal-riddled anti-poverty program and doing everything possible to continue it unchanged for two more years, is strictly a case of self-interest and feathering his political nest.

Many more millions in anti-poverty funds have been bestowed on his congressional district than on any other in Kentucky.

In the five years the program has been in operation, Perkins' district, the 7th, in eastern Kentucky, has gotten more than $72 million out of a total of upwards of $251 million for the whole state.

Closest to this remarkable record is the 5th District, which has two Job Corps centers, that has received only $41,361,000.

It is a legitimate assumption that Perkins' being head of the Education and Labor Committee, which handles anti-poverty legislation, has a lot to do with his largely rural district being favored so signally. Certainly this factor must have carried decisive weight in the Democratic Johnson Administration — and apparently Perkins is counting on getting same kind of favored treatment in the Nixon Administration from the way he is adamantly protecting the Office of Economic Opportunity from being subjected to critical testimony from state and local officials throughout the country.

Foremost among them is Gov. Louie Nunn of Kentucky.

SITTING ON THE LID — For weeks, Nunn has been strenuously trying to get a hearing before the Education and Labor Committee to air numerous complaints against OEO. Following is an illustration:

"Before OEO," the Kentucky state executive told a bipartisan group of committeemen, "one of our counties had 3,160 on relief. In the last several years, OEO has put around $10 million into that county — to 'eliminate poverty,' so they said. That county now has 6,500 on public welfare. I contend we can't afford that kind of 'poverty elimination.'"

Nunn's efforts to appear before Perkins' committee have been actively supported by influential committeemen — Reps. William Scherle, R-Iowa, Edith Green, Ore., second-ranking Democrat, and Albert Quie, Minn., second-ranking Republican.

Perkins flatly balked. Finally, Scherle bluntly raised the issue on the floor of the full House.

"There are governors, state attorneys general and state auditors who have repeatedly said they want an opportunity to be heard by the committee," he said. "There have been hearings, but all the testimony was from officials of OEO. Naturally it was all favorable. There was not a single witness invited to testify against OEO."

There is widespread bipartisan opposition to OEO in the House. A number of restrictive amendments are certain to be written into the anti-poverty legislation when it is taken up by the chamber.

The Next Minority Is You

By PAUL HARVEY

The next minority is you! There have always been minorities in our New World melting pot. Americans are, in fact, an anomalous cultural phenomenon. All Americans are mostly something else. In the 20th century, politicians, appealing to singular ethnic interest, emphasizing minority "problems," have been a sometimes helpful but frequently divisive influence.

Inevitably, the increasing consciousness of minority differences has attracted outspoken leaders for each group. Some leaders have been men of sociological conviction and conscience. Some have been mercenaries, stimulating the self-pity of specific groups — as the politicians historically have — for personal aggrandizement.

At this moment, another minority is inevitably being created in the United States. It will be the largest and most diverse minority in history. Within two years most Americans will be under 24 years of age. That means the net minority is you.

Two years from now anybody more than 24 will belong to another generation, will be a stranger in his own home. Young people, knowing no previous culture, will be the only native in the new one. What will life be like for you and me — a minority — in a world overwhelmed by youth? Historically, young people have always imagined that they were smarter than their elders. Today's school-agers are the first ever to know that they are and to be able to prove that they are. They are smarter and taller and handsomer and healthier and more capable than any generation heretofore. To them, accustomed to the rapid change of the electronic era, rapid change is as normal and natural as resistance to change was for you and me. When George Gallup conducted his youth opinion poll prior to the 1968 election, he found that they, more than most, supported George Wallace (change) and yet they favored liberal appointees to the Supreme Court (change). Two and one half times as many young Americans moved their residences within one-year (change).

Earth, Moon, Sun Must Be Right For Launch

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—If involving the relationship between the earth, moon and sun, Apollo 12's astronauts aren't launched Nov. 14, they can still go to the moon Nov. 16 but if they're delayed again, they will have to wait a month before getting another chance.
"Launch opportunities—or 'windows' as engineers call them—are the result of a complex combination of factors and 2:28 p.m. Nov. 14. A delay past that time means Apollo 12 will have to wait two days.
The wait would mean that the astronauts would have to aim farther west of the Ocean of Storms. It could be reached with a launch between 2:09 p.m. and 5:27 p.m.
If Charles (Pete) Conrad Jr.,

Richard F. Gordon and Alan L. Bean can't get off by 5:27 Nov. 16, they'll have to wait until 1:34 p.m. Dec. 14.
Apollo 11's astronauts could have been launched on three days in July because they had three potential landing sites on the moon. They only needed one because they got off on schedule.

Busy Beauty Says She'll Wed American Businessman

ROME (UPI)—Italian movie actress Gina Lollobrigida announced today she will marry an American businessman she met three months ago in New York.
The busy actress disclosed her plans to newsmen as she left for New York with her fiancé, George Kaufman. She "shortly" but had not decided exactly where and when.
Miss Lollobrigida said she met Kaufman at the home of friends and "fell in love with him very quickly." Kaufman sat at her side, smiling broadly.
Both Miss Lollobrigida, 41, and Kaufman, 36, have been married once before. This could create legal problems for the actress in Italy which does not recognize civil divorce and could charge her with bigamy. "My lawyers will see to this," she said. "I have so many lawyers."
