Last Veterans Day in October

A Pampa man strolls by American flags which line downtown today to mark Veterans Day. Disabled American Veterans, V.F.W. and V.F.W. Ladies Auxiliary are sponsoring a parade of flags at Memory Gardens. President Carter was to place a wreath at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington National Cemetery. This is the last year the holiday will fall on different dates around the country. Next year all 50 states return to the traditional Nov. 11. Few states are observing the holiday today.

Latin Citizens protest Hayes' life sentence

By RICK SCOTT
Associated Press Writer
SAN ANTONIO, TEX. (AP) — A group of angry Mexican-American leaders today lashed out at the tentative life prison sentence given convicted killer Frank Hayes, saying it opened the door for Hayes to go free. Hayes, former Castroville town marshal, was convicted by a federal court jury in Waco last month of criminally violating the civil rights of Richard Morales, a 27-year-old construction worker.

Morales was a prisoner in the custody of Hayes when he was shot to death Sept. 14, 1975. Hayes was convicted in state court of aggravated assault in the death and sentenced to two to 10 years in prison.

His conviction on the federal civil rights charge later carried a maximum life sentence.

U.S. District Court Judge Adrian Spears last Friday tentatively sentenced Hayes to life, but first ordered him to spend 90 days at a U.S. Bureau of Prisons facility for study and observation.

Hayes' lawyers have claimed Hayes is acutely depressed. Spears could reduce the sentence after receiving the Bureau of Prisons report.

Ruben Sandoval, lawyer for the Morales family, said Hayes already has received two psychiatric examinations, one before each of his court trials, and been found fit on both occasions.

"We want to demonstrate our opposition that the judge (Spears) has taken a step backwards," Sandoval told reporters at a news conference. He said Hayes, under Spears' procedure, could go "Scott free."

Fed to pay insulation tab

By TOM RAUM
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — House and Senate energy conferees agreed today to provide federal grants to help low-income families, schools and hospitals purchase insulation and other fuel-saving devices.

The conferees, meeting on the Veterans Day holiday to try to write a compromise national energy bill, agreed to make grants of up to $800 available to families earning up to one-fourth more than the national poverty level.

In approving the program, the conferees adopted a provision contained in the House-passed energy bill, which has the support of the Carter administration.

The Senate has rejected most of the President's energy proposals. The conference committee must reconcile the House and Senate differences and produce a final bill.

The conferees also approved a $965-million, three-year program of energy conservation grants to schools and hospitals.

The House-passed bill would give the federal government the power to decide where the money would go, while the Senate voted to distribute it based on state populations.

Senate conferees agreed, 6 to 5, to go along with the House proposals, but with a provision that no state could receive more than 10 per cent or less than one-half of one per cent of the money.

As the conferees began their fourth session of work on the energy legislation, their chairman, Rep. Harley Staggers, D-W.Va., said bickering among committee members could slow down the panel's work.

"We can disagree without being disagreeable," Staggers said. He threatened to have any conferees who engage in angry attacks on other members of the panel removed from the 43-member negotiating unit.

The panel made scant progress in three long sessions last week, agreeing only on a compromise requiring utilities to help consumers insulate their homes — one of the less controversial issues facing the 43-member committee.

This week it will look at President Carter's proposal to force most utilities and industries burning oil and natural gas to convert to coal. The House passed the President's program, but the Senate voted to allow all but the biggest plants to continue using oil.

The Carter administration can be expected to lobby hard for the House version and to try to persuade conferees to adopt a compromise bill resembling it. The Senate rejected most of the major proposals in the Carter energy plan.

The Senate on Tuesday takes up the final part of that energy legislation — its tax aspects.

But the bill sent to the floor by the Senate Finance Committee contains none of House-passed taxes the President has proposed to conserve energy by making scarce fuels more costly.

The committee rejected taxes on crude oil, fuel-inefficient cars and the oil and natural gas used by utilities and factories. Instead, it approved some $40 billion in tax breaks to encourage energy conservation and increased production.

Debate is expected to last all week.

Senate Democratic leaders are hopeful the President's tax program can be salvaged in a conference committee.

But in the meantime, a group of Senate liberals led by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., have vowed to try to kill off many of the tax breaks in the bill.

And several attempts are expected to be launched on the floor to revive some of the taxes before the bill goes to the conference committee.

The House begins debate Wednesday on a bill to rescue the deficit-plagued Social Security System by tax increases that would fall most heavily on higher-paid workers and their employers.

The Senate Finance Committee will continue work this week on its own version of the Social Security overhaul bill.

Votes are scheduled in the House on Tuesday on a bill to prohibit the use of children in pornography and on treaties that would allow Americans in Mexican jails to be sent to federal prisons in this country — and vice versa.

Panamanians okay canal treaties

PANAMA CITY, Panama (AP) — A big turnout of Panamanian voters gave the new Panama Canal treaties overwhelming approval, unofficial returns from the nationwide referendum showed today.

The election tribunal reported 149,178 yes votes to 76,311 noes cast Sunday in 910 of the 3,038 voting districts. This was nearly 30 per cent of the estimated 800,000 eligible voters.

Election officials said most of these votes were cast in Panama province, including Panama City, the seat of much of the opposition to the treaties. Government officials predicted returns from the provinces would raise the total in favor of the pacts to 70 or 75 per cent.

The final official count is to be announced Thursday.

Panama's chief of government, Gen. Omar Torrijos, predicted the U.S. Senate would also ratify the treaties despite the strong opposition in the United States.

Torrijos said the senators must realize the treaties "go beyond their electoral districts. They're playing with the luck of maritime navigation all over the world."

"It's the senators who have to explain to the people, not the people who have to explain to the senators," he added in an interview.

Torrijos voted in the morning and then toured Panama City in a military truck loaded with reporters. Cheering crowds welcomed him everywhere, and his shirt collar was red with lipstick by the time he returned home.

There were no reports of opposition activity during the voting Sunday. A number of rallies had been held in the week before, and opponents of the treaties claimed the plebiscite was fixed. Torrijos denied the charge, and invited three dozen foreign observers to check on the voting.

Everyone 18 and over was eligible to vote. Those voting were fingerprinted, required to present identification cards

The main treaty, one of two signed in Washington Sept. 7 by Torrijos and President Carter, provides for the United States to surrender the canal and the 500-square-mile canal zone to Panama by the year 2000. The second document declares the waterway a neutral zone and allows U.S. intervention in the event of a threat to its security.

Torrijos and his government waged a strong campaign in favor of the treaties, but opponents were encouraged to speak out. It was the first time since he took over the government in a 1968 coup that a political issue in which there was any opposition to the government was debated publicly.

School children turned away

DETROIT (AP) — Health officials said about 6,000 public school pupils were turned away from classes here this morning because they could not prove they had been immunized against childhood diseases.

State law requires that children be vaccinated for a variety of diseases unless parents sign a special waiver form stating that vaccinations are contrary to their personal or religious beliefs.

City health and school officials announced earlier that they would crack down on parents who failed to have their children immunized by refusing to admit the youngsters to classes until evidence of immunization were produced.

Dr. William Clepton, city health director, said there was no precise count of pupils sent home today because they could not show proof of immunization against measles, polio, diphtheria, whooping cough and tetanus.

"It's very difficult to gather a figure since 200 schools are involved," Clepton said. "If I had to make a guess, I'd say about half of those who received letters are being excluded."

School officials sent warning letters to the parents of 12,000 children who were unable to show evidence of vaccination as of two weeks ago. There are about 165,000 pupils in the city school system.

Clepton said about 1,500 students have received shots since last week at public health clinics. An undetermined number of other children has been vaccinated by private physicians, he said.

Town ingenuity wins last laugh

WARSAW, N.C. (AP) — A Columbia, S.C., radio station tried to make this community of 2,700 the butt of a big-city joke, but a little small-town ingenuity rewrote the punchline.

The station, WIS, sponsored a contest in which the first prize was a trip to Warsaw. Second prize was a week for two in New Orleans. The station called it a "No Contest Contest."

In addition to the accommodations in a Warsaw motel, the prize included bus transportation via Turkey, N.C., which was to have been the original first prize destination, but the station found the bus wouldn't stop there.

Along with the bus tickets came a warm carton of milk, a cheese sandwich, a used pillow and an old magazine. Joe and Joy Wilson won the trip, and Wilson had to admit that at first blush he was disappointed not to have won second prize instead.

But residents of Warsaw didn't like what the contest had done to their town's image and decided it was up to them to make the Wilsons forget what might have been in New Orleans.

The Warsaw people told the Wilsons to tear up the bus tickets and instead sent Milford Quinn to pick them up Friday in his private airplane.

When they landed in Warsaw, the Wilsons were met at the airport by 200 cheering residents. Officials handed them certificates signed by Gov. Jim Hunt which made them "honorary Tar Heels."

Then the Wilsons went to their motel for more surprises.

"We walked into the motel and it was lined with flowers, buckets of champagne and baskets of fruit," said the amazed Wilson, 30, an installer for Western Electric. "That's really hard to describe."

After that there was a key to the city from Mayor Johnnie Powell, a "pig picking" barbecue in their honor and tours of Warsaw, Kenansville and even Turkey.

"We are a great little town," said Frances Steed, who gave a Saturday luncheon for the Wilsons. The contest, she said, was looked upon at first by townspeople as "a cruel, nasty joke."

But in the end, she said, the station "did us a big favor. Now people have heard of us and know a little more about us."

Jury selection begins

Jury selection began in 31st District Court this morning in the trial of Kishan V. Thakrar, accused of soliciting a kickback while chief accountant at Highland General Hospital in Pampa.

Forty-five prospective jurors were called, and at press time the first 12 had been seated in the jury box and were undergoing examination by District Attorney pro tem Otis Shearer. Booker

District Judge Grainger McIlhenny is presiding in the trial, which is being heard on the third floor of the Gray County Courthouse.

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by a government, with the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property and secure more freedom and keep it for themselves and others.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guide expressed in the Coveting Commandment.

How to kill a product

The most compelling argument we've read yet against the airbags Transportation Secretary Brock Adams has ordered installed on all automobiles by 1985 comes, believe it or not, from a man who would seem to have everything to gain, monetarily, from their mandated installation and whom, one would think, would be enthusiastically in favor of a law making them mandatory.

Department of Transportation (DOT) had played a more restrained role in encouraging this product, the airbag would by now be a commonplace on the highway. When the mandate was issued, we had an active program of cooperation with the manufacturers of 80 per cent of U.S. automobiles. Much has been said about the hostility of the auto makers to the airbag. Let me make it clear. We did not find them hostile to the airbag, but rather to the prospect of having it rammed down their throats.

million airbags a year. And if the government forces that kind of irrationality upon industry, the result is certain. There will be an unacceptable number of malfunctions, and public attention will focus on them, the public will lose confidence in airbags and become hostile to the mandate. And the DOT will reverse its decision, as it was forced to do with the ignition interlock.

'So, what's a sunroof? That's the door!'

A little light on energy

We have suspected that it is not the people in general of the northeast part of our nation who are against development of resources in their region. Those who oppose any industry engaged in bringing all of us our basic needs may be a little more noisy than their counterparts elsewhere. Or perhaps the majority may be a bit more quiet in expressing their beliefs.

"Most people in the Southwest and West think that people in the Northeast all graduate from Harvard, wear button down shirts and are against the oil and gas industry." The problem he said, "is that the ultraliberals are a hyperactive group and we have a liberal press in the East. The conservative element likes to lead a quiet life."

production means higher prices and higher earnings for oil companies. Who cares if someone makes a profit? Isn't that the incentive in free enterprise?"

Here tomorrow Stereo AM radio

By Ed Orloff
Copyright Crown Syndicate, Inc. 1977
A weekly report on new developments in the marketplace that are expected to affect your life

RADIO: AM radio stations have not been exactly happy over the fact that millions of listeners prefer FM stereo broadcasts. So much so that a majority (52 per cent) of night-time listeners play FM stations. Which is why, by 1979, you're going to be hearing a lot about AM stereo. The Federal Communications Commission is expected to approve such systems sometime next year. And while the FCC is pondering the matter, engineers are working out the details. You, the consumer, can expect a big pitch to buy AM stereo car radio.

READING: Watch for more and more best-seller books to turn up in newspapers in comic strip format. The purists would argue that this is a desecration of books (and they may well have a point), but you also can get the argument that the comic strip versions will spur readers to get the book. The best sellers lined up so far are all the adventure variety.

DRUGS: Millions of people are dependent on steroids—drugs of hormone origin. Cortisone, ACTH, estrogens are examples. All of which brings us to barbasco, an extract of the Mexican yam that is the starting point for synthesizing many of these essential medications. It seems barbasco supplies were being withheld to force prices up, and up they went—fourfold.

SHELLFISH: Crab, shrimp, and lobster shells needn't be wasted. Reason: They contain a substance called chitin which can be used in a number of remarkable ways. One derivative of chitin, chitosan, can be used to treat industrial waste (it absorbs heavy metals). It also can remove metal contaminants from drinking water and radioactive heavy elements from nuclear plant wastes. It can stick to glass, rubber, and other nonmetallic substances, and so has applications in adhesives and coatings. Because of growing emphasis on saving the environment, it's likely that ways will be found to save the shell waste at shrimp and crab processing plants and utilize chitin in products yet unheard of.

CARS: Efforts to develop a truly workable electric car have been discouraging. Generally, they haven't lived up to their advertised capabilities. Those on the market have shown a limited range (about 30 miles at 50 mph, sluggish acceleration, trouble on hills). But there is an inevitability about electric cars as commuter vehicles because of dwindling oil resources. So keep an eye on two federally-funded experiments: (1) The General Electric car, which will use recovered braking energy to charge the batteries, and (2) the AiResearch car, which will use a flywheel energy storage system that can be tapped when the vehicle has to climb hills or accelerate. Scientists also think high-energy batteries can be developed in the next decade.

A reader's right

And readers write

Dear Friends
For the pioneer Pampa families who have taken such pride in the beauty of Fairview Cemetery (once second to none in the Panhandle) it is a sickening sensation to be made aware that the cemetery is once again being systematically decimated of trees and shrubs until parts of it are beginning to look as bare as the plains did when the cemetery was first begun in 1904.

The last wave of this outrageous tree murder was in the late 1960's when over 400 trees were cut to the ground within a few days time. Every week more and more have disappeared with sand poured over the stump to hide the disappearance.

The perpetual care endowment funds have been so unwisely invested as to provide insufficient income for water and tree maintenance, then plot owners should be advised by the cemetery board and given an opportunity to do what is necessary to save the landscape of these sacred precincts. Those of us who saw the late T.D. Hobart and W.A. Crawford and others haul water in barrels to water those trees to keep them alive during the dust bowl days cannot remain indifferent to tree stripping, truck tracks across plots, continued theft of Veteran's flag stands etc.

We hope all plot owners will protest this desecration.

Sincerely,
Tracy D. Cary,
President

Financing Social Security on government employes

Sylvia Porter

(Fourth of five columns)
Entirely aside from Social Security's basic financing problems, a Supreme Court decision — striking down a requirement that a husband or widower prove that he was dependent upon his wife to get benefits based on her Social Security record — will cost the system $500 million in 77 and up to $3 billion over five years.

Until the Court ruling, if a man applied for monthly benefits after his wife retired, died, or became disabled, he had to prove he had been dependent on her for at least half his support. A woman, though, was assumed to have been dependent upon her husband and was required to make no showing of support.

The difference in treatment was based on "archaic" assumptions about women as "the weaker sex," etc., said the Court.

Since this ruling Social Security has stopped asking husbands and widowers to prove dependency. You as a man are now treated the same as women applying for a wife's or widow's benefits.

If not entitled to higher SS benefits on your own, you can collect full husband's benefits starting at age 65 (providing your wife is then collecting either retired worker or disability insurance benefits), or reduced benefits starting at age 62. If you are a widower and not remarried, you can get payments starting at age 60 — or at age 50, if totally disabled. (Remarriage after age 60 will not disqualify you, but may change your payment total.)

If you, a man, are entitled to a SS benefit based on your own earnings that is lower than a husband's or widow's benefit, the difference is added to your SS check. In effect, you get the higher of the two benefits, but not both.

At this time of troubles in the Social Security system, naturally there is concern about paying out an additional half-billion dollars a year — made more acute by the fact that 213,000 men newly eligible for payments by the Court decision already are covered by other public pension programs. Only about 34,000 men are not covered by any public pension — railroad retirement, federal, state and local civil service pensions. (About 273,000 more are theoretically eligible, but only if their wives' earnings records are substantially higher than their own.)

For a large number of men, therefore, the new benefits are a windfall — but the same windfall available all along to those women who could collect SS wife's or widow's benefits even though qualified by a public pension in their own right.

As an alternative to no dependency test for either sex, the administration now proposes a new dependency test applying to men and women — and also to young widows and widowers applying for benefits payable to surviving spouses with children in their care. The proposal (in the White House's package) is to consider a man or woman dependent upon a spouse if, during the three years just before eligibility for benefits, he or she had a lower income than the other spouse. The proposal would save an estimated $100 million next year and more thereafter — but it would be expensive to administer, costing perhaps as much as $70 million a year.

Another alternative would treat a public pension (such as the federal civil service pension) as if the pension were a Social Security benefit. This, in effect, would give the person the higher of the two benefits — but not both. This might spur earlier action to cover all public employes under Social Security, says former HEW Secretary Wilbur Cohen, and that is the most desirable solution.

But this won't happen soon, argues Minnesota Democrat, Congressman Donald Fraser. He and his wife, Arvonne, suggest a more fundamental change.

Under the Frasers' proposal, married couples would have the option of sharing their earnings for Social Security purposes, just as they now file joint income tax returns. During their married years, the couple would each build up identical SS records, eliminating the need for dependents' benefits. For years that homemakers were not working in covered employment, they would get SS credit through the earnings of spouses who were.

Carter's proposal, says Fraser, would not only perpetuate outmoded concepts of dependency, but also would cost some women their benefits. A husband may decide to go back to school after working long enough to qualify for Social Security. His wife goes back to work to support him and their small children. Three years later, the husband dies. His widow would not be entitled to a mother's benefit because she earned more than he did over those three years.

Tomorrow: Covering government employes too?

By MILLER BONNER
Associated Press Writer
ARMSTRONG, Tex. (AP) — Britain's Prince Charles played the part of a Texas cowboy, participated in a polo match and mingled with Texas politicians Sunday as the man destined to become the next King of England began a three-day tour of the Lone Star State.

The 28-year-old prince began his one-day stay at the 50,000-acre South Texas ranch of Tobin and Anne Armstrong by joining his hosts in a horseback ride through a herd of Santa Gertrudis cattle.

The dark cherry-red cattle, warily eyeing an equally nervous herd of camera-clicking newsmen, passed the prince's inspection.

"He really knows his cattle," said Mrs. Armstrong, the former U.S. Ambassador to England who invited the prince to visit the sprawling ranch during his 12-city tour of the United States.

Prince Charles

"He worked on a ranch in Australia and had seen some Armstrong cattle there. Tobin has been so occupied preparing for the prince's visit that he hadn't had time to have the cattle sprayed and the prince noticed the flies on the cattle's shoulders."

The prince wore a pair of blood-red leather chaps during his dusty cattle tour and rode a Texas pony fitted with an English saddle.

The prince also participated in a polo match Sunday, teaming with a trio of Armstrongs — Tobin, his brother John and John's son, Charles — against four veteran players headed by Bob Beverage of San Antonio, considered one of the better players in Texas.

The polo match, played on the Armstrong's private field, was viewed by a throng of more than 300 invited guests. Included were Texas' two U.S. Senators, Lloyd Bentsen and John Tower, plus U.S. Rep. Kika de la Garza, Texas Lt.

Gov. Bill Hobby and San Antonio Mayor Lila Cockrell.

Newsmen were not permitted to view the entire polo match. "The understanding was that this was his off day to get off by himself and get out of the public eye," politely explained Mrs. Armstrong.

Thus the score of the match became a secret between the Armstrongs and their guests. "It was a lot of fun and a good game," said Katharine, the oldest Armstrong daughter. "I can't give you the score but I'll tell you the match wasn't fixed so the prince's team would win."

Early Sunday afternoon, the prince's jetliner landed at the Naval Air Station in Kingsville where he was greeted by the Armstrongs and local officials. Kingsville Mayor Gilbert Acuna presented the prince with a leather boot case.

He was driven the 50 miles to the Armstrong ranch where he changed into his riding cloths and chaps.

He rode a bay mare named Hortiga during the staged cattle roundup. "Her name translates as ant," said Mrs. Armstrong. "She's a fiery, peppery animal."

A Texas-styled barbecue was held next to the polo field for the prince and guests. Afterwards, the prince and the Armstrong family were to retire to the Armstrong Ranch house for the night.

Today, the prince is scheduled to visit Houston where he will tour NASA. On Tuesday, he travels to San Antonio and tours the Alamo.

"He said his tour of the United States has been very exciting and a great deal of fun," relayed Mrs. Armstrong. "During the ride from the airport to the ranch, he filled us in on his trip so far and said he wished it were going to last longer."

Baker slates fund night for Tuesday

The Baker Elementary School's Parent-Teacher Association will hold its annual Fund Night from 6 to 9 p.m. Tuesday.

There will be a total of ten booths including a "Spook House." Refreshments will include chili pies, corn dogs, cakes, pies, soft drinks and coffee will be served in the cafeteria.

Highlight of the event will be the crowning of the king and queen at 9 p.m.

Gifts, crafts to be shown here Tuesday

Christmas in October, a special program featuring gifts from local merchants and home demonstration clubs, will be held from 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Tuesday at the M.K. Brown Heritage Room.

Gift ideas include crochet, macramé, ornaments, floral arrangements and more. Door prizes will be given through the day.

Three special programs will begin at 10 a.m., featuring demonstrations on quick sewing ideas for Christmas gift giving, machine embroidery and Christmas decorations to make. Demonstrations will be given by Stretch & Sew, Bernina and Sherman County Home Demonstration Club.

Patterns will be available for many of the ideas. Advisers will be available to give instructions for articles displayed.

Half oil needs imported

By MAX B. SKELTON
AP Oil Writer
DALLAS (AP) — Oil imports will account for 45.1 per cent of the nation's petroleum requirements this year, an industry study indicated today.

The Independent Petroleum Association of America study said, by comparison, that foreign oil in 1972, the last full year prior to the Arab oil embargo, accounted for only 29 per cent of domestic supply.

The report added, however, that 1978 imports should drop to 43.1 per cent of total supply.

"The nation's rising dependence on imported oil will stemmed temporarily due to the combined efforts of increased domestic crude oil production, improved efficiency in energy use and greater utilization of domestic coal and nuclear power."

The supply and demand study was released at the annual meeting of the 5,000-member trade group that represents independent operators from more than 30 states.

The report said the 1978 factors that should permit oil imports to drop a bit will not be sufficient, however, to meet the nation's future energy needs.

"Finding and developing U.S. oil and gas resources are essential," the report said.

"Hopefully, deliberations in Congress will lead to adoption of policies which recognize the best interest of the nation will be served by encouraging activities to find and develop this country's potential oil and gas reserves."

The association's tax committee voted Sunday that there is an urgent need for President Carter's energy proposals to be revised to include specific incentives to enable domestic producers to maximize oil and gas explorations.

The tax committee is expected to recommend Tuesday that the trade group vigorously oppose a Conference Committee report on the energy package if it fails to include such incentives.

drought that reduced available hydropower in western states.

"In 1978, domestic demand is forecast to rise to 19.2 million barrels daily, 3.5 per cent or 600,000 barrels per day above 1977," the report said.

"The projected moderation in the rate of increase in U.S. petroleum demand assumes normal weather in 1978, increased contributions by coal and nuclear power, and continued progress is using energy more efficiently."

CONSIDER THE SQUID
WASHINGTON (AP) — Although the squid isn't the favorite dish of many Americans, it is considered a delicacy in many parts of the world.

Dr. Paul Singh of the University of California says Italians, Greeks, Spaniards, Portuguese, Chinese, Japanese, and South Americans have feasted on the squid, which is a good source of protein, for centuries.

Singh regards the squid as a valuable source of protein. He cites studies that estimate the potential global catch for squid may be from 100 million to 300 million tons a year, without depleting stocks. In 1976, the international catch totaled half a million tons.

Joe Lewis hospitalized

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Joe Louis, the former heavyweight boxing champ whose devastating punches earned him the nickname "The Brown Bomber," was today after being admitted to the hospital with chest pains.

A spokeswoman at Sunrise Hospital said the tests were being conducted to determine whether Louis, 63, had suffered a heart attack. He was admitted to the hospital late Saturday night, and doctors said the testing would take two or three days.

"He was alert and talking," said spokeswoman Rena Lees, "but he is a sick man." He was listed in guarded condition.

Louis, who set a boxing record with 25 successful defenses of his title, has lived in Las Vegas for several years and works as a greeter at Caesars Palace hotel on the Strip.

A native of Lexington, Ala., Louis won the world heavyweight title in 1937 by knocking out Jim Braddock in eight rounds in Chicago and lost only once before his first retirement in 1949. Max Schmeling stopped him in a non-title bout, but Louis later knocked out Schmeling.

He made unsuccessful comebacks in 1950 and 1951, losing to Ezzard Charles and Rocky Marciano, respectively.

Louis was elected to the Boxing Hall of Fame in 1954.

The former champ's adopted daughter is in the same hospital. She has been in intensive care for three weeks since falling into a swimming pool at Louis' home.

Acquittal tightens border tensions

AGUA PRIETA, Mexico (AP) — Tensions along the border have continued to build following the acquittal of two southern Arizona brothers in an alien torture case, with the latest development an advertising campaign for a boycott of border shops.

The daily newspaper in this border town adjacent to Douglas, Ariz., has begun printing quarter-page ads urging Mexicans not to shop in American border towns "until justice is done in the Hanigan case."

Patrick and Thomas Hanigan of the Douglas area were acquitted Oct 7 on charges of kidnapping, beating and torturing three Mexican aliens who said they were crossing the Hanigan ranch in search of work in August 1976 when they were assaulted.

Antonio Palomares, editor and publisher of La Verdad de Agua Prieta, said the advertisement also is being reprinted on posters to be distributed throughout the city. He said the ad was placed by the Manzo Area Council of Tucson, a community agency which provides services to Mexicans. The ad urges a boycott every Saturday and a picket line to discourage Mexicans from crossing the border.

The council organized a demonstration along the border to protest the verdict and push for federal intervention in the case a week ago.

The Hanigan verdict has outraged some and pleased others, but it has rarely been ignored.

In Cananea, Mexico, about 43 miles southwest of here, a furniture store owner, Miguel Padres, said residents mostly feel the Mexicans got a bad deal.

"It sounded like, well, the United States is supposed to be a leader in human rights, but if you have enough money, you can get around human rights," he said.

"The trouble is that none of us down here really know the truth of what happened. The only thing we know is what the Mexican newspapers publish. I wouldn't say there is any strong sentiment against Americans here, but I hope things don't flare up."

Douglas City Councilman Francisco Barraza, who helped promote the boycott, said it could seriously harm border business. So far, there has been no indications Mexicans were participating in the boycott.

Lionel Valenzuela, owner of the Papagayo Club in Naco noted, "As far as I can see, there's no change in my business — it's been bad ever since I can remember. This place is so dead all the time, it's hard to tell the difference if things slow down."

But Jim Sill, owner of a clothing store in Bisbee, said his business has improved recently after he advertised on radio stations in Cananea. He said no customers have mentioned the Hanigan case.

Several residents of southern Arizona expressed sympathy for the Hanigan brothers during the trial because of a rash of burglaries in the area blamed on Mexican aliens.

The Mexicans testified they were looking for work when the Hanigans and their late father, George, abducted and tortured them, threatening them with castration, burning them and shooting at them.

T.J. "Jim" Wilson, a former Cochise County sheriff, said he feels persons in Tucson and Phoenix are more concerned that border-area residents.

"Each side is building more fire, but it's not being fanned by people from around here," he said.

Meanwhile, the FBI has begun an investigation of the case to determine whether the Mexicans are entitled to protection under the U.S. Civil Rights Act and whether their rights were violated.

Fair attendance record

DALLAS (AP) — Attendance at this year's Texas State Fair set a new record as 3,178,455 persons visited the 92nd edition of the fair.

The previous record, according to fair officials, was 3,176,028, set in 1975.

On Sunday, the last day of the fair, 248,197 visitors swarmed through the fairgrounds.

The record one-day attendance came in 1971 when 355,000 persons visited the fair.

Fair officials also reported $327,000 was spent on Fletcher's corny dogs while over 10,000,000

HHH gets hurra in Minnesota

WASHINGTON (AP) — The President and the vice president of the United States stood back, all but ignored, while the senior senator from Minnesota waded into the welcoming crowd to shake hands.

Andrews Air Force Base on Sunday were for Hubert H. Humphrey, back in the capital for the first time since Aug. 18, when doctors determined his cancer was inoperable.

Getting back to work, Humphrey said, would be good therapy. And he said he was ready "to raise as much hell as I can."

Humphrey will walk into the Senate chamber at 2 p.m. Tuesday to be welcomed back by his colleagues. Carter said, "I figure we'll be ready to adjourn in about a week with Sen. Humphrey on the job."

The senator, 66, appeared gaunt and he walked with a halt. But the smile was as broad as ever.

Carter had stopped in Minneapolis as he returned from a 2½-day cross-country tour to bring Humphrey to Washington aboard Air Force One.

"I am happy to report to you that I do feel so much better," Humphrey said. "Everything, of course, is relative. I'm not quite as good as I was when I was 50, but I am doing mighty good considering what we have been through. Getting back to Washington is going to be good therapy. That is what my doctors have told me."

Carter's praise for the man who failed three times to be elected president could hardly have been more effusive.

"This is one of the great days in my life to be able to come back to Minnesota to join with the greatest American that I know, the No. 1 Democrat in our country, and a man who has been admired and is admired throughout the world," the President said in Minneapolis.

Lebanese build forces

TYRE, Lebanon (AP) — Christian and Moslem militias that fought in the Lebanese civil war are rebuilding their forces.

Both the Christian rightists and the Moslem leftists are recruiting and arming new fighters openly and without interference.

The two opposing factions are estimated to have a total of 45,000 trained, armed men, not including the Palestinians.

This is more than 10 times the 4,000 experienced, loyal soldiers claimed for the Lebanese army. But the Christians and Moslems are estimated to keep only about 3,000 men each on active duty.

The Mouraboun (Ambushers), the independent Nasserite Movement's militia, swore in 700 recruits in Tyre Sunday in the name of "Arab Lebanon" and the Palestinian cause.

Commandos, teen-age boys, nurses and a unit of frogmen paraded before leftist dignitaries and foreign correspondents in a vacant lot.

The Mouraboun started as a rag-tag gang of street fighters who battled alongside Palestinian guerrillas and other leftist factions during the civil war. They have become the second most powerful leftist force, exceeded only by the Palestinians.

More than 600 of the most experienced fighters have been trained in Vietnam, Cuba and friendly Arab countries since the civil war, sources in the militia revealed.

Earlier this month, the Christian Tigers held a similar ceremony in East Beirut. Their leader, former President Camille Chamoun, said his militia would continue to expand as long as the Palestinian guerrillas remained in the country.

Three killed in shooting in tavern

BAYTOWN, Tex. (AP) — Three men were killed Sunday night when an argument broke out at a tavern in this Southeast Texas city, police said.

Bar owner Raul Tamayosa, 63, was shot to death as were two brothers in the lounge — Jesus Hernandez, 28, and Jose Hernandez, 25, both of Baytown.

Witnesses told police Tamayosa argued with two men who wanted him to serve a 16-year-old boy they accompanied in the bar. During the dispute, the youth allegedly pulled a .45 caliber automatic pistol.

Two other men were wounded in the fray.

About an hour after the midnight shooting, Baytown police arrested the 16-year-old boy, who was identified as a Mexican national, along with his companions.

Names in the news

WALLA WALLA, Wash. (AP) — Ron Nessen, a former presidential press secretary and NBC television reporter, says broadcast journalism is "stagnant and simplistic."

Nessen, former President Ford's press aide, told a conference this weekend at Whitman College: "Television cannot deal in a serious way with complex issues that we all face daily. It does not deal well with abstract ideas, long-term social trends or even the language."

However, he said television does well in portraying conflict, staged or dramatic events.

The power of newspapers, television and radio to ignore an issue or personality was greater than their focusing on persons or events, Nessen said.

"What we see on the 'tube' is what we know of the world," he said. "If we don't see it on television, it doesn't exist."

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Former President Ford's "Republican conservatism" turned out to be not quite conservative enough in a wager with Sen. Humphrey, D-Minn.

Humphrey said Sunday that Ford telephoned him on Friday to make a bet on the football game between Minnesota and No. 1-ranked Michigan.

At first, Humphrey said Ford offered to give him 14 points.

"I called that Republican conservatism and said I wouldn't settle for any less than three touchdowns," said Humphrey.

They compromised on a 20-point edge for Michigan in the $5 wager. Humphrey won, as Minnesota stunned Michigan 16-0.

Humphrey called Ford after the game, and the senator said: "I told him, 'Mr. President, send the check.' I gave him two or three addresses where he can send it so I'd be sure to get it."

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP) — The marriage of Tiny Tim and Miss Vicki, which began before millions on a late night television show in 1969, may end in a courtroom.

A divorce hearing was scheduled for today after a lawyer for Tiny Tim told a judge last week that the falsetto singer was on a concert tour in Florida, and unavailable for divorce proceedings.

"He's accountable to this court first, not to his entertainment calendar," replied Superior Court Judge Paul Lowengrub.

Miss Vicki, the former Victoria Budinger of Haddonfield, N.J., filed for divorce in 1975. The couple separated in December 1973. She is not seeking alimony.

MCCOMB, Miss. (AP) — Investigators are examining engine equipment as the search continues for clues in the plane crash near here that killed six persons, including three members of the Lynyrd Skynyrd rock group.

Rudolph Kapustin, director of the National Transportation Safety Board team which is combing the site along with investigators from the Federal Aviation Administration, said the plane's engines, its fuel gauge and other equipment were removed Sunday for inspection.

The Convair 240 crashed Thursday night in a remote, densely wooded area, minutes after the pilot told a controller in Houston, Tex. he was having fuel problems. The plane was about 10 minutes away from its destination in Baton Rouge, La., where the Southern rock group was to play at Louisiana State University.

Investigators continue to interview the 20 survivors and witnesses who were on the ground, Kapustin said.

He said the NTSB has requested complete records on the plane, described as 30-plus years old, and on the two pilots, both of whom were killed.

Earlier Kapustin said the chance that the plane ran out of gas was a "distinct possibility," although other possibilities are being investigated.

A final report on the crash is expected to take weeks.

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Senatorial candidate Joe Christie says Congressman Bob Krueger tried to scare him out of a race for the Democratic nomination for U.S. Sen. John Tower's seat.

Asked on a radio program, State Capitol Dateline, how hard Krueger tried to do that, Christie replied: "Well, I think ever press release and ever story was designed for that purpose. The fact that the oil companies were going to fall into lockstep and march to the campaign coffers and dump the money in."

"The fact that he put together a group of people in my home district of El Paso—that was more cosmetic really than anything else."

The farm is located near Roseau, Minn., close to the Canadian border.

Although Bergland appeared to enjoy the brief talk about possibly challenging GSA for the right to plant grass, petunias and tulips, there is another irony involved.

Last week Bergland presided at the department's unveiling of its new yearbook, entitled, "Gardening for Food and Fun."

In the book's foreword, Bergland extolls the pursuit of gardening as "one of America's most popular activities" and calls the 400-page volume "a practical book for gardeners of all types."

Bergland's message also mentions that people garden for a variety of reasons, including dietary preferences, as a hobby and out of a desire to save grocery bills.

"But besides saving money, a lot of intangible satisfactions come from gardening and home canning," Bergland said. "Who knows the value of being able to say, 'I raised it myself' or 'I prepared it myself'?"

Bergland's gardening philosophy expressed in the new yearbook, however, will be lost on his own department — unless the General Services Administration decides to let him and his office staff mow the lawn next year.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Once primarily a provider of coffee, sugar and tropical products, Brazil is rapidly emerging as the second largest exporter of agricultural products behind the United States, the Agriculture Department said today.

Although coffee remains its leading export, Brazil in recent years has become the most important U.S. competitor on the world soybean market and thus is now a more diversified farm exporter than it was a few years ago.

Samuel O. Ruff, an economist in the department's Economic Research Service, said that, if export earnings in 1977 turn out as large as they now appear, Brazil could move ahead of France as the second-largest exporter of agricultural products.

Forecasts for the entire year point to a possible 33 percent gain in agricultural exports to a record $8 billion, compared with $6 billion in 1976," Ruff said in a report published by USDA's Foreign Agricultural Service.

By comparison, however, the United States is still the leading farm exporter with about $24 billion worth of products expected to be sold to foreign countries this year.

Coffee exports, ballooned by higher prices the last couple of years, still are the most valuable item for Brazil, estimated for 1977 at around $3.3 billion. Cocoa, sugar and citrus products also are major items.

Soybean exports through mid-year totaled $991 million, up from $753 million in the first six months of 1976, the report said.

Texas weather
By The Associated Press
Forecasters were calling for the wet weather that washed out many a weekend to move into East Texas today leaving the rest of the state with clear to partly cloudy skies and mild temperatures.

The showers and thunderstorms were still present over the southern half of the state late Sunday night and early this morning. However, rainfall was substantially less than for previous nights. Weather watchers, especially in South Texas, still monitored their gauges because of the potential for more flash flooding.

National weather
By The Associated Press
Showers and thunderstorms continued through the night and into mid-morning today over much of the Mississippi Valley and eastern portions of the Plains. Showers also fell along the Gulf of Mexico and the middle Atlantic Coast.

No major flooding was reported, despite the rains over the Midwest the past few days. Flooding was confined to smaller rivers and streams. Skies were partly cloudy or clear over New England and the Northeast. Temperatures dropped during the night, and it was well below freezing at sunrise over much of New England and into the lower Great Lakes area.

Fog and low clouds were scattered along the Pacific Coast with some rain along the northern portion. Otherwise, morning skies were generally clear from the Rockies through the Pacific Coast. Cool temperatures were expected to prevail over the areas with showers and in New England. Florida and the desert Southwest were likely to remain warm, with temperatures elsewhere generally mild.

Advice

Dear Abby
By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am an executive in a company that has a large sales department. A few days ago, the wife of one of our top salesmen came and asked me to fire her husband! She said she had it on good authority that her husband is having an affair with a young secretary in the office. The wife said if I thought her husband was too valuable to the company to let go, I should fire the girl. She said she was sure her husband could easily get another job if he were forced to, and the affair would probably cool off if they weren't working together. Should I get involved in the domestic problems of one of my salesmen? Or do you think if a man does his job well, what he does on his own time is his own business?
NO IDENTITIES, PLEASE

DEAR NO: Call the salesman in, and tell him that word of his alleged hanky-panky with a secretary has reached the front office. And let him take it from there.

DEAR ABBY: I am one of 20 draftsman working in a large engineering office with a lot of female secretaries. Abby, do you think a woman feels complimented when she enters a room and a man whistles at her? One guy here insists that the girls love it. I say no woman wants to be treated as a sex object, and whistling at a woman is an insult. I'd like a woman's point of view.
T.C. IN HOUSTON

DEAR T.C.: THIS woman's point of view is the same as yours. (P.S. Whistling at women also indicates a juvenile mentality.)

DEAR ABBY: My young grandson has a very peculiar way of eating—he will eat only one thing at a time. For example: if there is meat, potatoes, carrots and peas on his plate, he will finish eating all the meat before he even touches his carrots. Then, once he starts eating his carrots, he will taste nothing else until he's finished them. He positively refuses to mix his food. Now isn't that ridiculous? When I try to tell him to eat a bit of one thing and then another, he says he doesn't want to. He refuses to even try. I don't know whether this comes under the heading of etiquette, idiosyncrasies, health or habits, but it just looks peculiar to me, Abby. Please classify this quirk and set me straight.
GRAMPS

DEAR GRAMPS: I would classify this as nitpicking. Children come in for enough criticism during their childhood without having something as inconsequential as this being called to their attention. Skip it. What's the difference? Be glad he's healthy and can eat everything.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY, Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Ask Dr. Lamb
Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB—I am 56 years old and feel just great. However, I was in a department store last week and had my blood pressure taken for a dollar. The attendant said it was just a little high. I live on a pension and cannot afford to go to a doctor all the time to have this problem checked. Can you tell me what I can do daily to keep my blood pressure down as this might be a problem as I get older.

DEAR READER—A single blood pressure measurement is not a very good index of what your pressure usually is. That is why doctors often take several determinations if the reading is high. So don't put too much faith in that one reading which was "just a little high." For mildly elevated blood pressure the best treatment is often weight control, exercise and limiting salt intake. That may solve the problem for many.

DEAR DR. LAMB—I have my cholesterol down from 325 to 225, but I have been told that I have bad circulation in my legs and they ache every morning. Is there anything I can do to reduce the hardening in my arteries?

DEAR READER—Your description of your legs aching in the morning bothers me. Leg pains from poor circulation are more apt to occur with exertion, although it is true that in some disorders of circulation muscle cramps can occur without exertion. If you can walk and exert yourself normally I would think that it is less likely that your aching legs are due to poor circulation. I am not disagreeing with your doctor's statement that you have poor circulation but perhaps your interpretation that this causes your morning leg aches is not correct. You might ask him if you can see a specialist in orthopedics to evaluate your leg discomfort. It sounds like you are on the right track in decreasing your tendency to atherosclerosis (hardening of the arteries). It is important to keep your cholesterol level down. That is usually accomplished by diet and exercise. There are medicines that will help in some cases if this fails to do the trick. Keep your weight down, don't smoke, stick to a proper lowfat, low cholesterol diet and, if your legs permit, try to build up your exercise program through walking. If you do not already exercise a bit start walking every day until you can walk about three miles a day—which need not be all at one time. The more you can build up your exercise the better off you will be—assuming you are not planning on becoming a marathon runner or plan to go to extremes. Get rid of any fat that you have under your skin. Your exercise will help there. And cut down or eliminate salt. If you have to have it you might do well with Morton's Lite-Salt preparation since it contains only half as much sodium, but don't go overboard on it either. I presume you don't smoke but if you do stop at once. To give you a better understanding of what controls your blood pressure I am sending you The Health Letter number 1-8, Blood Pressure. Other readers who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

DEAR POLLY—I would like to know if anyone can tell me how to take mildew out of a new bed sheet that I would like to continue using.—BONNIE.
DEAR BONNIE—Old mildew stains are often impossible to remove but since yours is new perhaps the following will work. I presume the sheet is white as you did not say otherwise. Wash in warm suds, rinse and if they still remain soak in bleach water (one tablespoon bleach to a quart of water) and let soak for 15 to 20 minutes. I would put only the spotted areas in this water. Wash and rinse as usual. If stains are not too bad rub with a cut lemon, apply salt generously and put in the sun.—POLLY.

DEAR POLLY—I save money by making a bottle of shampoo last a longer time. When I have used shampoo so that it is down about three inches in the bottle I add hot water and shake it up so it immediately becomes like a brand new bottle and still does a terrific shampoo job. I keep doing this several times during the use of one bottle and do the same with my dishwashing liquid.—CELIA.

They're happy black is back

James Daugherty's polka dot dress, (blue and white reversing to green and white), comes with matching scarf, shown here tied at the waist ($80).

By Ellie Grossman

NEW YORK (NEA)—The buyers were from the Midwest, designer James Daugherty recalls, although this is going back some years so he's not entirely sure.

In any case, he was backstage helping his models dress during a fashion show and when the buyers found out, they got upset and said he shouldn't be there.

"Designers help models all the time," he says. "The buyers objected because I'm black."

They weren't the only ones his color disturbed, although no one in Los Angeles seemed to care when he was growing up. Or when he studied art, or got his first job sketching for Edith Head on "The Ten Commandments."

But then he left Hollywood in the '50s because clothes had gone out of the movies. "And I always knew I was going to be a fashion designer. My father was a janitor and a porter but despite the money we lacked, somehow we were very fashionable people and I was always interested in clothes."

So he came to New York which took one look at him and put him in his place. "In Greenwich Village I was told, we don't rent to blacks. Or I'd call about designing jobs and they'd say, yes, come up. And when I did, I could see they were surprised I was black. Sometimes they looked through my portfolio and sometimes they didn't."

But really, he insists. "Mostly I was treated nicely." After all, he could sketch well, so Bill Blass and others hired him to do that.

When he worked on Broadway, he ran into the kind of exploitation that ignores color. He was an assistant designer. "The designer would say, I need some day dresses or blouses and I'd do hundreds of sketches. Then they'd pick what they wanted and take the credit for them." Still, he's reluctant to complain. "It did sort of drive me up the wall, but there was nothing I could do about it and when I look back, it was a good training ground."

Where else can you learn to design a beautiful dress from fabric costing 90 cents a yard instead of $20?

and by '70, he was a custom designer in Henri Bendel's.

"I was with Bendel's when I won my Coty Award and then I went to Seventh Avenue because I wanted to dress everyone, or so I thought."

He didn't find the chill there Daugherty found, though one time a few stores came into his showroom, discovered he was black and left.

But what he did feel, after going around the country and meeting his customers, was distaste. "I found out they're not interested in clothes so much as things that go into the washing machine and the shirt goes with the pants and they don't have to think about it."

Then, too, every time he wanted to do something in rayon matte jersey, his favorite material. "The money people would say it's too expensive. Use polyester. Well, I refuse to give up matte jersey, so now I'm off Seventh Avenue, doing what I want because the money people are working for me now."

Burrows, whose new business is six months old, does fringe pants in bronze leather, for instance, for $490; sweater dresses for $200. A shearing jacket for $700.

By the time he was back on Seventh Avenue as Jerry Silverman's assistant designer, he knew how to please middle America. But he was still doing it anonymously.

"Shannon Rogers and Jerry Silverman got the credit for what I did for seven years and I made a lot of money for them."

Daugherty sketched and assisted for more than ten years until, finally, he says, "My psychiatrist said, why are you giving me your money if you're not going to try to make a name for yourself? You have nothing to lose."

That was four years ago and now, with a brand new, black-owned company — the only one on Seventh Avenue, he says — he's still satisfying middle America (with reversible polka dot dresses in sizes 4-16, for about $120, for instance) but now they know it.

If Daugherty is a Seventh Avenue designer who happens to be black, Stephen Burrows, he says, is a black designer, which is something else.

"He's great," Daugherty says. "He's a younger person who's free to express himself and I'd say he's a black designer because of the time he came along."

The time was the late '60s when being black was a benefit. Burrows, 33, from Newark, N.J., tall, thin, self-assured, was making a name for himself, black or not. In fact, he's almost startled to find out he is black.

"I just never thought about it," he says. "Do you need more to be a black designer? I don't know. You just luck up on something in a lot of cases. The '70s opened up things for blacks."

And they opened them with a blast. Even before he graduated from FIT in '67, he was working as a designer for a missy blouse company. "They let me do what I wanted," he says, smiling. "Then they'd take my bias and make it straight. I did that for a year and got tired of it."

So he started free-lancing — feathered tunics and teeshirts, patterns on patterns,

Stephen Burrow's two piece rayon matte jersey gown has drawstring neck and waist and is available in black, gold, ruby and green ($270).

Punt block keeps Cowboys unbeaten

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — It was a strange sight in the Dallas Cowboys' dressing room after their 16-0 victory over the Philadelphia Eagles.

The host of reporters wasn't crowding around Roger Staubach, or Tony Dorsett or Harvey Martin, or other stars on the Dallas squad.

The mob scene was around Jay Saldi.

Jay who?

The 23-year-old Saldi, a reserve tight end and special team player, was busy explaining how he blocked a fourth quarter Eagles' punt that turned into the winning touchdown.

Strong safety Charley Waters picked up the loose ball and ran 17 yards for the score that sent Dallas ahead for the first time in the game, 13-7, with 14 minutes remaining.

Saldi, a former South Carolina player who was the only free agent to make the Cowboys' squad last year, claimed to be the most surprised guy on the field when Spike Jones' attempted punt struck him on the right arm.

"I'm supposed to open a hole through which Tom Henderson (linebacker) can get through to block the ball," Saldi said. "I think they (the Eagles) busted an assignment."

Saldi explained that the Eagles' guard and a blocking back appeared to get mixed up on the play.

"The guard realized the mistake and came back to get me, but I was already through," Saldi said over and over again as wave after wave of questioners shouldered their way to his overrun locker space.

As for Waters, the defensive back, just shrugged his shoulders and said, "I didn't do anything but pick up the ball and run. Anybody can do that. Jay should get all the credit."

The Eagles' punter, Jones, said he didn't know what happened.

"The snap was good. All I can say is that he (Saldi) got back there and got (blocked) it," Jones said.

The Eagles scored a touchdown in the second quarter on a 12-yard pass from quarterback Ron Jaworski to wide receiver Charley Smith. Horst Muhlmann converted and it was 7-0.

Dallas came back to score on a five-yard run by rookie Tony Dorsett, but Efran Herrera's extra point try was blocked by Art Thoms. It was Herrera's first miss since he joined the Cowboys in the middle of the 1974 season. He had 82 straight conversions.

The Eagles protected that 7-6 halftime edge until Saldi's breakthrough and Waters' run with 13:48 left in the game. Dallas added a fourth-period Herrera field goal for a 16-7 lead, but Muhlmann matched that for the Eagles.

"We're glad to be 6-0 after that one," said Dallas coach Tom Landry after the close call for his unbeaten team. "We were flat after playing St. Louis and Washington back-to-back. That takes a lot out of a team."

Dallas quarterback Roger Staubach, who completed 14 of 25 passes for 170 yards, made the key run to set up the Dallas field goal. Staubach ran 33 yards on a busted play.

Landry explained that Staubach didn't like the Eagles' defensive alignment when he came to the line of scrimmage and called an audible.

But running backs Robert Newhouse and Dorsett missed the change, and Roger was left holding a hot potato. Newhouse was supposed to have gotten the ball. Dallas wound up with a first down at the Eagles' 18-yard line.

Eagles' coach Dick Vermeil was disappointed with his team's fourth loss in six games, but expressed pride in the Eagles' performance.

"We played hard, but unfortunately we got a punt blocked," said Vermeil. "It was the critical play. I don't think many people thought we could win, but I thought we could beat them. We're going in the right direction."

Pate captures Southern Open

By TOM SALADINO AP Sports Writer

It was no secret, but Jerry Pate confirmed it anyway after waiting to the $125,000 Southern Open golf tournament championship by seven strokes, the largest winning margin of the season.

"I knew nobody was going to catch me after the sixth hole," said the grinning 24-year-old from Pensacola, Fla.

What the 1976 U.S. Open champion, in only his second year on the tour, did Sunday was birdie four of those six holes to take a five-shot lead over Johnny Miller, who was second entering the final round only three shots back.

"I was out through six holes and still found myself five shots behind," said Miller, winner of 17 tournaments but winless in nearly 20 months.

"That sorta knocked the wind out of my sails," said the 30-year-old Miller.

It knocked it out of the rest of the field, too.

Pate, winning his fourth tournament in his brief pro career, led from wire to wire, shooting rounds 64, 67, 69 and 66 to finish 14-under-par over the hilly par 70, 6,791-yard Green Island Country Club course.

Miller stumbled in with a 70, bogeying three of his final five holes to gain a share of second place with defending champion Mac McLendon, Steve Taylor and Phil Hancock, a former University of Alabama teammate of Pate's.

McLendon had a 68, Taylor and Hancock had 67s. Another stroke back were Wally Armstrong and Miller Barber. Armstrong had a 69 and Barber a 68.

U.S. Open champion Hubert Green had a 69 for 280 while Canadian Open winner Lee Trevino was at 287 after a 71.

Pate, who suffered a shoulder injury after winning the 1977 Phoenix Open in January—laid off for most of the first half of the tour to rest.

He has earned more than $92,000 with the $25,000 first prize Sunday.

Broncos flog Bengals for 6-0

By BRUCE LOWITT AP Sports Writer

"I don't believe in letdowns," Denver Coach Red Miller shrugged.

Coach Tom Landry and his Dallas Cowboys might do well to listen to the man from the mile-high city.

Miller's 30-7 romp, sky-high after their Marvelous over the Oakland Raiders a week ago, might have been forgiven if they'd turned in a lackluster performance in Cincinnati. But they were as tough as ever, with first and second-stringers kicking in to kick the Bengals 24-13.

That left them the only unbeaten team in the National Football League's American Conference. The Cowboys hold that distinction in the National Conference — but it wasn't easy staying that way. After emotional victories over division-rivals St. Louis and Washington the past two weekends, Dallas looked flat against Philadelphia and only a blocked punt, converted into a touchdown, enabled the Cowboys to nose out the Eagles 16-10.

In Sunday's other action it was New England 17, Baltimore 3; San Francisco 28, Detroit 7; Kansas City 21, San Diego 16; St. Louis 49, New Orleans 13; Oakland 28, New York Jets 27; Pittsburgh 27, Houston 10; Atlanta 16, Chicago 10; Miami 31, Seattle 13; Cleveland 27, Buffalo 16; Green Bay 13, Tampa Bay 0, and the New York Giants 17, Washington 6. Minnesota visits Los Angeles tonight.

"The mark of a good team is when reserves have to come in," Miller said — and he knew what he was talking about.

Craig Morton, who had teamed with Jack Dolbin on an 81-yard go-ahead TD play late in the first half, went out with an injury. The Broncos could have collapsed — but second-year quarterback Craig Penrose kept them moving, directing a 63-yard touchdown drive in the fourth period to lock matters up.

Cowboys 16, Eagles 10

"We're glad to be 6-0 after that one," Landry said of the Cowboys' squeaker in Philadelphia. "We were flat after St. Louis and Washington back-to-back. That takes a lot out of a team."

The Cowboys were sputtering along before Jay Saldi and Charley Waters woke them up. Saldi blocked a Spike Jones punt in the fourth period and Waters ran the ball 17 yards for what turned out to be the winning touchdown.

Patriots 17, Colts 3

"It wasn't the whole season but it was darn close to it," quarterback Steve Grogan said after he completed 11 of 16 passes for 214 yards and a touchdown against the Colts. "I played a smarter game than I have in a long time."

While Grogan had plenty of time to pass, Bert Jones was kept busy by the Patriots' swarming offense and never got Baltimore moving.

49ers 28, Lions 7

Jim Plunkett, calling his own signals for the first time this season, connected with Gene Washington on first-half touchdown passes of 32 and 35 yards to beat the Lions for San Francisco's first victory of the season.

Chiefs 21, Chargers 16

Kansas City took a lot longer before breaking into the win column.

With barely 2 1/2 minutes to play, San Diego led 16-7. But Tony Reed bulled in from one yard out to cut the margin to two points and, a scant 31 seconds later, safety Tim Gray dashed 16 yards with Rickey Young's fumble for the TD that sent the Chiefs home happy.

Cardinals 49, Saints 31

Mel Gray caught passes from quarterback Jim Hart and running back Terry Metcalf for touchdowns and Wayne Morris scored four times on short-yardage runs in St. Louis' wide-open victory. Bobby Scott passed for two touchdowns for the Saints, who wiped out the Cardinals' 21-0 lead, then fell back again.

Raiders 28, Jets 27

Oakland wiped out the Jets' 27-14 lead as Ken Stabler fired his second and third touchdown passes of the game, fourth-quarter strikes to Fred Biletnikoff and Mike Siani. Stabler was virtually overshadowed by New York's young Richard Todd, who threw four TD strikes. A missed extra point by Pat Leahy was the final margin.

Steelers 27, Oilers 10

Pittsburgh quarterback Terry Bradshaw paid Houston back for his injury in a loss to the Oilers two weeks ago. With his left wrist in a cast, his right arm threw two touchdown passes.

Dan Pastorini, the Oilers' quarterback also injured in that earlier game, should have missed this one. The Steelers stole five of his passes.

Falcons 16, Bears 10

With about two minutes to go, Chicago appeared to have a one-point victory over Atlanta. But the Bears' Steve Schubert fumbled a punt deep in his own territory. Atlanta recovered and Haskel Stanback plowed in moments from the two-yard line for the Falcons victory.

Dolphins 31, Seahawaks 14

Bob Griese hit Nat Moore with a pair of key passes, one of them for a touchdown, in the Dolphins' rout of Seattle.

Browns 27, Bills 16

Brian Sipe passed for two touchdowns, one of them a deflected 52-yarder to Paul Warfield, in Cleveland's victory over Buffalo. The Bills got 99 yards from O.J. Simpson.

Packers 13, Bucs 0

Tampa Bay, in an instant replay of 1976, remains the only winless team in the NFL. The Packers did them in on Chester Marcol's second-period field goal of 40 and 44 yards and Eric Torkelson's five-yard TD run following a third-quarter blocked kick.

Motley Co. only poll casualty

By The Associated Press

Previously unbeaten Motley County, ranked sixth by The Associated Press among Class B schoolboy football teams, was blasted 34-0 by District 2-B rival Valley Friday night in a major upset.

No other AP-ranked teams lost, but No. 2-rated Jackboro could manage only a 7-7 tie with Lake Dallas.

In Class 4A, top-ranked Port Neches-Groves downed district foe Port Arthur Jefferson 35-15 while No. 2 Temple blanked Corsicana 45-0. No. 10 San Antonio Highlands also recorded a shutout, beating San Antonio Lanier 33-0.

No. 6 Longview had the closest call of Class 4A ranked teams, but overcame Texas-Kanana 13-7.

Top-ranked Gregory-Portland, which has beaten its opponents by at least 20 points all season, thrashed Rockport 70-6 to lead the 3A victors No. 4 Mount Pleasant had a similar one-sided victory, with Gilmer the 72-0 loser.

No. 2 Humble beat New Caney 24-14 to boost its season record to 8-0, while Brownwood shut out Iowa Park 49-0. No. 8 San Angelo Lakeview had the biggest score, but did edge Lamesa 18-14.

to be the most surprised guy on the field when Spike Jones' attempted punt struck him on the right arm.

"I'm supposed to open a hole through which Tom Henderson (linebacker) can get through to block the ball," Saldi said. "I think they (the Eagles) busted an assignment."

Saldi explained that the Eagles' guard and a blocking back appeared to get mixed up on the play.

"The guard realized the mistake and came back to get me, but I was already through," Saldi said over and over again as wave after wave of questioners shouldered their way to his overrun locker space.

As for Waters, the defensive back, just shrugged his shoulders and said, "I didn't do anything but pick up the ball and run. Anybody can do that. Jay should get all the credit."

The Eagles' punter, Jones, said he didn't know what happened.

"The snap was good. All I can say is that he (Saldi) got back there and got (blocked) it," Jones said.

The Eagles scored a touchdown in the second quarter on a 12-yard pass from quarterback Ron Jaworski to wide receiver Charley Smith. Horst Muhlmann converted and it was 7-0.

Dallas came back to score on a five-yard run by rookie Tony Dorsett, but Efran Herrera's extra point try was blocked by Art Thoms. It was Herrera's first miss since he joined the Cowboys in the middle of the 1974 season. He had 82 straight conversions.

The Eagles protected that 7-6 halftime edge until Saldi's breakthrough and Waters' run with 13:48 left in the game. Dallas added a fourth-period Herrera field goal for a 16-7 lead, but Muhlmann matched that for the Eagles.

"We're glad to be 6-0 after that one," said Dallas coach Tom Landry after the close call for his unbeaten team. "We were flat after playing St. Louis and Washington back-to-back. That takes a lot out of a team."

Dallas quarterback Roger Staubach, who completed 14 of 25 passes for 170 yards, made the key run to set up the Dallas field goal. Staubach ran 33 yards on a busted play.

Landry explained that Staubach didn't like the Eagles' defensive alignment when he came to the line of scrimmage and called an audible.

But running backs Robert Newhouse and Dorsett missed the change, and Roger was left holding a hot potato. Newhouse was supposed to have gotten the ball. Dallas wound up with a first down at the Eagles' 18-yard line.

Eagles' coach Dick Vermeil was disappointed with his team's fourth loss in six games, but expressed pride in the Eagles' performance.

"We played hard, but unfortunately we got a punt blocked," said Vermeil. "It was the critical play. I don't think many people thought we could win, but I thought we could beat them. We're going in the right direction."

Torrez free

MONTREAL (AP) — Mike Torrez, who won two games for the New York Yankees in the World Series, will be up for grabs in major league baseball's free-agent draft next month and while his wife would like him to return to the Montreal Expos, the right-hander says will go where the money is.

"I've explained to her that there are many things we have to look into," said Torrez Sunday. "We have gone this far and we have to have open minds."

Valley grid race tightens

By The Associated Press

The Missouri Valley Conference title race remains close. Indiana State and West Texas State will tangle this weekend in the only league game, with the winner getting a shot at the title.

Both teams are tied for third place with 2-1 conference records. Each faces only one more league game after Saturday.

Wichita State had been tied with Indiana State and West Texas, but the Shockers dropped Drake, 47-17, Saturday to move into a first-place tie with New Mexico State.

The Aggies and the Shockers, who are 3-1, only have one remaining league game to play.

Indiana State's Dan Cogger recovered a fumble in the end zone and Dave Vandercook hit a 27-yard field goal to defeat Illinois State, 20-10, in a non-conference game.

Bo Robinson raced for 120 yards and one touchdown to lead West Texas State to a 27-9 win over Lamar University.

New Mexico State barely made it past Texas-Arlington, 7-6. Frank Domanguez dropped on a fumble at the Texas-Arlington 38-yard line and the Aggies scored nine plays later.

Southern Illinois fell victim to Northern Illinois, 28-0.

Tulsa fell to a 0-2 league record when the Hurricane were beaten, 28-0, by Cincinnati in a clash designated as a conference game.

In addition to the only league game this weekend, Drake will host Lamar, New Mexico State will host New Mexico. Tulsa will be at San Diego State, Wichita State will be at Long Beach State and Southern Illinois will be idle.

No secrets in winning chili recipe

ROSAMOND, Calif. (AP) — Some cooked with tequila and chocolate, others threw in racoon or buffalo meat. Many followed family recipes handed down like heirlooms from generation to generation.

But the Las Vegas realtor who simmered up the winning concoction at the 11th World Championship Chili Cook-off was a rank amateur who simply stuck to basics.

"I have no secret ingredients," said Jay Pennington, who was crowned 1977 world chili champ Sunday before an overflow crowd of 35,000 chili buffs at the Tropic gold mining camp, a Mojave Desert ghost town. "I use good meat and keep out the grease."

The award-winning batch of "Jay's Good Ol' Chili" was the sixth ever cooked by Pennington. His first won a Las Vegas Kiwanis chili cooking contest, and his second clinched him the Nevada state chili cooking championship.

Pennington, sponsored by the Circus Circus Hotel in Las Vegas and the Kawianis club, beat out more than 30 other state and several foreign champions, including 1976 winner Rufus Valdez, a full-blooded Ute from Albuquerque, N.M. who brought along 20 Indian dancers for moral support.

Valdez claimed his "Indian's Revenge" recipe included a pinch of chili grown from 2,000-year-old seeds.

The British consul general in Los Angeles, Tom Aston, turned out in a 10-gallon hat and cowboy outfit and was astonished to find his country represented by Jack "Blackie" Barber of Stockegs England, who donned tails and top hat for the occasion.

"My God," Aston said, "I always thought the nearest thing we had at home was muligatawmy soup."

While his friend Joe Michaels looked on, 61-year-old R.S. "Red" Holmes of Stony Brook, N.Y. stirred the New York state pot.

"We were both pilots in the China theatre during World War II," Michaels said. "I came down with symptoms of Malaria. Red had me eat a pot of his chili and two days later I was completely cured."

Leo Wagner of the North Dakota claimed his strong "Roughrider chili" is so strong "it wakes up the dead."

"Roughrider Chili is what squared Teddy Roosevelt's teeth," said Wagner.

Master of ceremonies and chief judge at the International Chili Society culinary competition was C.V. Wood, himself a two-time world champion.
