

Jury deliberates Cullen Davis' fate

By MIKE COCHRAN
Associated Press Writer

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — A large white wooden door with a bullet hole was brought into the jury room today as nine men and three women pondered the fate of Fort Worth millionaire Cullen Davis.

Davis, 44, is charged with the slaying of his 12-year-old stepdaughter, Andrea Wilborn, the night of Aug. 2, 1976, at his $6 million residence that was at the time the home of his estranged wife, Priscilla.

Mrs. Davis' live-in lover Stan Farr, 30, was killed in the shooting spree by a "man in black" that Mrs. Davis said, also shot and wounded her and a visitor to the mansion, Gus Gavrel, Gavrel's girlfriend, Beverly Bass, survived unharmed.

Forty minutes after the deliberations began early today jurors asked for a drawing of the door showing where Farr was wounded, but Judge George Dowlen ordered that the whole door be brought to the jurors.

The door has one bullet hole. Mrs. Davis testified it was through that door that Farr was shot the first time. He was later shot three times.

The jurors also requested all the testimony of Mrs. Davis and other statements and other witnesses, but Judge Dowlen asked them to be more specific about which parts of the testimony they needed.

About one hour later, the jurors asked for the Aug. 3 statement Miss Bass gave officer C. R. Davis, but Judge Dowlen told them the statement had not been entered as evidence.

The requests for the statements and testimony appeared to indicate the jury would spend more time than observers anticipated reaching a verdict.

Dowlen said the jury was giving "solid consideration to the case. Obviously, this is not going to be a 'one-hour' verdict.

They are seriously considering the evidence.

He added the jurors would deliberate until he was "100 percent convinced" that they cannot get a verdict.

"Nobody wants a hung jury," he added.

The jury has three choices: capital murder, murder, and acquittal. The first carries only two penalties, death or life in prison. Murder is punishable by 99 years or life.

Prosecutor Joe Shannon and his team are basing their case on circumstantial evidence because there were no witnesses to Andrea's shooting. However, ballistics experts testified for the state that a bullet found under Andrea's body matched the slugs removed from Farr and there was an eyewitness to Farr's shooting — Mrs. Davis.

"I think if you believe that Thomas Cullen Davis shot and killed Stan Farr you have no choice and you've got to find him guilty," Shannon told the jury.

"If the same gun that killed Andrea Wilborn killed Stan Farr then you've got to believe beyond any reasonable doubt and with a moral certainty that the same person pulled the trigger."

Defense attorney Richard "Racehorse" Haynes attempted to discredit the eyewitnesses, concentrating on Mrs. Davis whom he called a "Mrs. Jekyll and Hyde."

"She is the Machiavellian influence behind this whole evil thing," he said. And he called her a "queen bee" who attracted young people to her "other world" drug-filled lifestyle along with "brigands and scallywags."

"She has corrupted lives. She has influenced this trial," said Haynes, his voice rising like a preacher's. "This grown woman has come into the court and has told lies."

But Shannon said Mrs. Davis was not on trial, although he accused the defense of building half its case on her divorce problems.

"I don't care if you take her home to dinner or not," Shannon said in an exaggerated Texas drawl. "No matter who she is, it don't matter. It didn't give anybody the right to go in and kill the 12-year-old girl."

Shannon hammered away at what he called "the A-B-C defense — Anybody But Cullen."

He spoke derisively of the "illusions" offered by the defense.

Davis never took the stand but used the testimony of his girlfriend Karen Master as his alibi. She said he was in bed beside her at her home when she awakened at 12:40 a.m. on the night of the shootings.

The testimony placed the time of the shootings shortly after midnight. Mrs. Master's house is six miles from the Davis estate.

Haynes had thrown out a number of names of people he said might have motives for the slaying of Farr, who the defense has contended was the primary target.

"They float all these balloons by you and maybe you'll buy one," Shannon said. "A good defense lawyer is a master of illusion."

Shannon was said one of the illusions was the surprise testimony by Uewayne Polk, a Fort Worth nurseryman. Polk said he saw an intruder inside the mansion that night as he was trying to repossess $677.94 worth of plants for which he said he had not been paid.

Polk said he could not identify the man but it was "definitely not Davis."

"There is Andrea Wilborn lying dead. Do you see the blood on her face and ear? How does a person lying on her back get blood on her head?"

Then he explained.

"When she fell, she fell on her stomach and he came up and turned her over to see if she was dead. He was dripping with her blood as he came up the stairs."

Returning to what he called the "character assassination" attempts by the defense of the prosecution witness, Shannon said, "What you see here in court is an attempt to run over anybody who gets in this man's way, just as he was going to run over anyone who got in his way Aug. 2.

"People were in his way. He fixed their clock. That's what he meant to do."

United Way exceeds goal by 13 percent

By STEVE WILLIAMS
Pampa News Staff

Smiles and congratulations all around highlighted United Way's press conference at the Coronado Inn this morning as Campaign Chairman David Fatheree announced total contributions of $173,033.68, or $23,603.68 more than the announced goal of $149,500.

Paying special tribute to Celanese and Cabot, but including "the hundreds of people who became involved and worked so very hard in making the campaign a success," Fatheree noted that the total amount exceeded the goal by 13 percent, and was 21 percent over the amount contributed in 1976's drive.

Celanese's effort resulted in a 40 percent increase in employee contributions, from $5,600 a year ago to $7,800 this time around. The corporation also contributed $5,000, and another $1,800 was contributed by corporations dealing directly with Celanese, for a total contribution of $14,600.

Cabot employees this year pledged $33,644, and the corporation matched that gift dollar for dollar in long-standing corporation policy for a total contribution of $67,288, an overall increase of some 46 percent over 1976. The Machinery Division led Cabot employee contributions by a wide margin, pledging $22,425.

A news release from the United Fund board noted that the total contributions reflected "an overwhelming response of the community to the needs of all the member agencies." The board will meet with all the agencies prior to Jan. 1 to begin preparing for allocation of the excess funds.

Member agencies and the amounts they received from the 1976-77 campaign are:

American Red Cross, $22,297; Boy Scouts, $23,358; Salvation Army, $30,260; Genesis House, $19,111; Milk Fund, $1,271; Epilepsy Association, $2,336.

Gonzales Warm Springs, $531; Southwestern Diabetic, $414; USO, $319. New member agencies who will share in the proceeds from this year's campaign are the Pampa Day Care Center and the Pampa Family Service Center.

Food cost continues up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Food prices will continue their "seemingly inexorable rise" next year, with the average family's food budget increasing 4 to 6 percent, a government economist says.

Kenneth R. Farrell, acting chief of the Economic Research Service in the Agriculture Department, said most of the increase will be due to higher costs for transporting, processing and selling food after it leaves the farm.

Another important factor will be higher sugar prices and their effect on a wide range of products, including soft drinks and bakery goods, Farrell said in a speech prepared for delivery to the annual Food and Agricultural Outlook Conference. The conference concluded today.

Price predictions for 1978 are tentative. They may change due to a number of uncertain factors, including the weather, energy costs and the impact of food legislation, he said.

For example, a new price support program for U.S. sugar producers has just been implemented, and President Carter has imposed new duties on imported sugar. Congress is considering ratification of an international sugar agreement aimed at boosting global sugar prices.

Farrell said there is little doubt that the new domestic price support program, aimed at guaranteeing domestic producers the equivalent of 13.5 cents a pound for sugarcane and sugar beets, "will significantly influence U.S. food prices" next year.

"It has been estimated that increasing the sugar support price to 13.5 cents per pound of raw product equivalent alone will increase domestic food expenditures in 1978 by one-half of 1 percent," Farrell said.

The Carter administration also has announced its intention of curbing grain plantings next year by requiring farmers to set aside 20 percent of their wheat land and 10 percent of their corn acreage from crop output.

Department officials say, however, that those programs will not increase consumer food prices because of huge reserves of U.S. wheat and corn.

Prospective large exports of grain to the Soviet Union and rumors that China may want grain are not expected to affect food prices significantly.

Overall, retail food prices this year are up 6.5 percent from 1976, he said, compared with a gain of 3.1 percent last year. Retail food prices soared 14.5 percent annually in 1973 and 1974 and then slowed to an 8.5 percent increase in 1975.

Farrell said grocery store food prices this year are expected to average about 6 percent more than in 1976, while food eaten away from home is up about 8 percent.

"Coffee prices alone will account for about half of the 6 percent rise in average grocery store prices in 1977," Farrell said. "The entire imported foods and fish group will contribute over three-fifths of the total."

But for 1978, he said, "It appears that most of the pressure on food prices will be derived from increased costs in the marketing sector and relatively less from imported foods and fish."

But the visit in itself will represent unprecedented recognition by an Arab leader of the state of Israel.

Begin announced the visit shortly after Sadat returned from Damascus, where he failed to win President Hafez Assad's support for the visit.

Assad called the visit a source of "deep sorrow." The trip has also come under fire from Iraq and Libya.

Egypt's official Middle East News Agency said that when Sadat returned to Ismailia, he received the official Begin invitation for the visit through U.S. Ambassador Hermann Eilts. It was accompanied by a message from President Carter, the contents of which were not disclosed.

Sadat accepted. At the same time, Egypt's of-icial Middle East News Agency announced that Sadat's foreign minister and key aide since the 1973 war, Ismail Fah-my, had resigned, a move that could indicate deep opposition within the country to the Jerusalem visit.

School meeting changed

The regular meeting of the Pampa Independent School District Board of Trustees has been changed from 4 p.m. to 7 p.m. Monday and will be in the Pampa Junior High School cafeteria instead of the board room at Carver Center.

The changes reportedly were made to more easily accommodate a large attendance of citizens expected to present the board with a petition opposing the closing of the middle school.

According to the petition being circulated by parents of some Pampa schoolchildren, signers oppose "the placement of sixth graders at junior high school and the closing of Pampa middle school."

At a meeting in October, voted to move sixth graders from elementary schools to Pampa Junior High School, move to close Hoston Middle School and move seventh graders to the junior high, and move ninth graders to Pampa High School.

Herbert Brasher, Pampa school district architect from Lubbock last week showed plans for an addition to Pampa Junior High School to the school board.

The trustees accepted the plan. He put a tentative price tag of $270,000 on the project. He told the board he would have other drawings ready for the Monday meeting.

Did you quit smoking today?

By The Associated Press

Smokers across the nation were urged today to stop puffing — at least for one day and possibly forever — in support of the "Great American Smoke Out," sponsored by the American Cancer Society and some local government and health organizations.

A spokesman for the society said the group hoped to get 10 million of the country's 54 million smokers to give up their cigarettes for the day. He said that in a similar program in California, 10 percent of those who quit for a day stopped smoking permanently.

Local society volunteers have been distributing "I Quit" pledge cards and petitions for people to sign and rallies and special programs were organized in many cities.

Celebrities and public officials in Detroit scheduled a "Smokeout Burnout" — a bonfire in which they pledged to toss their cigarettes. Georgia organizers planned a drawing for a "Cold (frozen) Turkey" for people who promised July 4th to give up smoking and have kept their word. Comedian Shelly Green, chairman of the anti-smoking program in Nevada, set up a "Great Smokeout Race."

A cancer society spokesman in Albuquerque, N.M., said the local organization's main effort would be concentrated in schools since the group feels "the big problem is among teenage girls and young women."

According to health authorities, there are 30 deaths every hour attributable to smoking. Causes of death linked to smoking include heart attacks, lung cancer and emphysema.

Joseph A. Califano Jr., secretary of health, education and welfare, endorsed today's program. In a telegram to the American Cancer Society, he urged all smokers "to discard their cigarettes today, as I did two years ago, for a longer, healthier and more productive life."

Among those who have promised not to smoke today is Joel Wachs, 38, a Los Angeles city councilman and chain smoker for 20 years. Wachs has stopped smoking before — his longest no-cigarette period was eight months. "But I always took that one cigarette," he said. "Hopefully, people will realize, and in my own case too, that if you can stop for one day, you can stop for one day longer."

When persistence pays

A Pampa couple, in their 60's, were attacked by two white males near Furr's Food Store on North Hobart Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. George Batman of 614 N. Davis were entering Furr's when a juvenile and an 18 year old grabbed Mrs. Batman's purse.

Mrs. Batman held on to her handbag and was dragged down, causing injuries to her elbow, leg and hand. The purse was not taken. Batman grabbed one of the suspects and held him until officers arrived.

The 18 year old was charged with robbery and placed in jail. The juvenile was released to the custody of his parents.

OSHA widens its loop

The federal Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) had, until recently, limited its activities to safety and health matters—advising farmers to "talk softly to cows," and that "wet manure is slippery," requiring family owned and operated small businesses to install "his and hers" separate toilet facilities, and the like.

Now, however, under its new chief, Eula Bingham, OSHA is beginning to swing a wider loop, taking it upon itself to decide what does and doesn't constitute discrimination and dictating pay standards in industry, matters which, heretofore had been considered the mandated territories of other meddler agencies.

Industrial workers accompanying and aiding OSHA agents making plant inspections must now be paid by their employers for time so spent as if they were performing productive work; rules Mrs. Bingham, reversing a previous OSHA ruling, otherwise, so goes her reasoning, said employers will be guilty of discrimination.

Under a 1970 law, workers are guaranteed the right to have one of their representatives accompany management representatives and OSHA officials during inspections of a workplace, and unions have long contended that workers participating in such "walkaround" tours, which often last for weeks, should be paid as if they were at their work stations. However, OSHA, recognizing that workers thus engaged were not employed at productive work, had previously ruled that employers didn't have to pay them as if they were, and a federal appeals court had upheld that OSHA ruling.

That was before the advent of Bingham at

OSHA. As reported by the Wall Street Journal, the new OSHA chief chose a union convention during this past August to announce her new policy which not only reverses a prior OSHA ruling but, in addition, flies in the face of the federal appeals court decision.

Henceforth, she told the assembled union hierarchy, "if employees complained about not receiving walkaround pay, OSHA would consider the complaints as valid job - discrimination cases."

Challenging the ruling requiring employers to pay for work not done, the U.S. Chamber of Commerce has taken OSHA to court. Charging that the Bingham ruling violates the Constitution, the 1970 Federal Occupational Safety and Health Act, other laws and court rulings, the Chamber suit points out that the ruling intrudes on the collective bargaining process and will hurt small employers, particularly in that it will force them to pay for time not spent on the job.

"Even more objectionable than the costs," the Chamber suit emphasizes, "is the manner in which OSHA summarily reversed itself, which denied business due process."

"OSHA Chief Bingham," the Journal story noted, "issued the change in policy without holding any hearings or inviting written comment from affected groups."

Bureaucratic power at its arbitrary worst and apparently accountable to no one.

Little wonder, what with more and more people paid for work not done, and with industry beset with horde of meddlers, that prices are headed for outer space.

Cost of the D.O.E.

Reminiscent of the Kennedy Administration's use of the FBI to intimidate the steel industry, James Schlesinger is reportedly making use of his new found clout as Energy Secretary to indulge in a little arm - twisting of his own.

According to an item in the current issue of U.S. News and World Report, oil industry officials have received this ultimatum from President Carter's energy czar: "Support the Administration's proposed tax on crude oil - or else face tougher regulation and a possible drive to break up the oil companies."

And that, of course, is not only a threat against the oil companies per se, but a threat, as well, against the millions of American citizens who have invested their savings in oil company stock. "Jawboning" with a vengeance, backed up by the threat of the federal regulatory club. In more polite circles that politics and the bureaucracy it would simply be called blackmail.

That's one already emerging "cost" of the newly created cabinet level Department of Energy (DOE), an increase in the practice of government by threat.

Other costs monetarily speaking, are just beginning to be grasped.

The new Department of Energy will consolidate the functions of the Federal Power Commission, Federal Energy Administration, and the Energy Research and Development Agency, as well as acquiring energy functions from four cabinet departments and one "independent" agency. It will employ, at the beginning, 19,767 people and dispose of a fiscal 1978 budget of $10,600,000,000.

Since most people can't begin to grasp what a budget of over ten billion dollars really means in terms of wealth taken away from the taxpayer public to be disposed of by a government bureaucracy, and in view of President Carter's expressed concern over the high cost of energy, the "Oil Jobber News," published in Denver, has put the DOE's budget in easier to understand terms. Consider the following:

- 1 It represents $500,000 per Department employee
- 2 It represents $50 for each and every member of the total U.S. population (212 million)
- 3 It represents $266,871 for each of the 39,763 wells drilled in 1976
- 4 It represents $58.35 for each of the 181,855,700 feet drilled in 1976
- 5 It represents $3.59 for each barrel of domestic crude oil production in 1976
- 6 It represents $1.67 for every barrel of petroleum products consumed in 1976
- 7 It represents 10 cents for every gallon of gasoline consumed in 1976
- 8 It represents $0.3434 on every barrel of proven crude oil reserves as of December 31, 1976 (30.9 billion barrels)
- 9 It exceeds 1975 capital and exploration expenditures by the petroleum industry to explore for and produce domestic crude oil, natural gas and natural gas liquids, and it is almost three - fifths capital expenditures in all U.S. petroleum sectors that year
- 10 It exceeds the 1974 profits of the 7 largest oil companies - profits which were called "obscene"

"And wait until you see how much it will increase each year."

In the U.S. alone there are more than 1,000 species of grass.

Galbraith and public squalor

(Wall Street Journal)

Back in 1958, John Kenneth Galbraith published "The Affluent Society," bemoaning "private opulence and public squalor." While Professor Galbraith had not yet come out of the closet as a socialist, he suggested that U.S. society should spend more on the public sector.

In the two decades that followed, of course Professor Galbraith got his wish. Public spending in the U.S. has quintupled since he wrote his book. At $700 billion, it is about 37 per cent of the Gross National Product, compared with 26 per cent then.

But a strange thing has happened on the way to Galbraithland. "Public squalor" didn't go away. In fact, Secretary Califano feels this is a "disgrace." But then his department only has $160 billion at its command.

It hardly seems necessary to go on with the recitation by discussing the long - term deterioration of postal services or the creakiness of public transit or the time consumed trying to do business with the public sector. We doubt that many people need to be persuaded that the Galbraithian dream of a well - financed, streamlined public sector, delivering its services to the public with a smile and cheerful salute, still is some distance from reality.

It seems a fair question to ask how government can so vastly expand its share of the national product with so little visible effect. One answer is that government, in addition to creating inflation also suffers some of the most devastating effects of it. Highway construction costs have doubled in the last decade, for example. So have government worker salaries, not to mention the sharp escalation of fringe benefits.

And it is true that squalor has been banished indeed in a few areas. In public higher education for example, spending has risen over twelvefold since Professor Galbraith wrote his book, which may account for why so many college professors think highly of public sector spending. We are hard put to think of any other service supplied directly by government that has fared as well. Whether the quality of higher education and the competence of college graduates would correspond to the spending increase is difficult to say.

But the final explanation of where all the public sector money went reflects the change in government from a deliverer of services to something much more ambitious, an instrument for reordering society. Government transfer payments, the taking of substance from one person and giving it to someone else, have climbed eight - fold since "The Affluent Society." And this is an understatement, since some government services, such as higher education, involve transfers not registered in the statistics.

Putting it another way, the general services government provides to everyone still are afflicted with squalor. The benefits government yields to certain discrete groups, the aged, academia, contractor industries, etc., have grown mightily. We've come a long way from 1958, but the rapid growth of government has hardly provided the answers that were promised in the Galbraith vision.

Later by the second

For years the Bulletin of the Atomic Scientists has featured a "doomsday clock." This is a printed representation of a clock measuring how close, in the scientists' opinion, mankind is to a nuclear holocaust. (The hands have usually hovered around five minutes to midnight.)

Now people who worry about the world's growing population have their own doomsday clock, although the Environmental Fund, which just unveiled it outside its headquarters in Washington, D.C., doesn't call it that.

Appropriately for these fast-changing times, however, the 10-foot by 3-foot clock is a digital counter, whose flashing fluorescent figures tell us that there is a net addition of three new human beings in the world every second.

Like the atomic scientists' clock, the Environmental Fund clock doesn't tell time. It just tells how late it is.

Help for the whistle-blowers

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—During his campaign for the presidency, Jimmy Carter scored a lot of political points at the expense of the federal bureaucracy.

Candidate Carter seldom had a kind word for Uncle Sam's desk jockeys or the Civil Service system which keeps them in harness. But he made one not able exception.

The A. Ernest Fitzgerald case, "where a dedicated civil servant was fired from the Defense Department for reporting cost overruns, must never be repeated," Carter vowed.

Fitzgerald, in case you've forgotten, is the government's most famous whistle-blower. Back in 1969, he exposed $2 million in cost overruns on the C5A transport plane and was fired for his efforts. After years of court battles and a $400,000 outlay for legal fees, he finally got his Pentagon job back — although not his old responsibilities.

To the hundreds of government employees who regard Fitzgerald as a folk hero, Carter's campaign rhetoric seemed to signal a new era in which whistle-blowing would be regarded as a virtue, rather than a sin.

Their optimism, it now seems, was premature. Nine months after taking office, neither Carter nor his new Civil Service Commission chairman has taken the first step to encourage and protect government employees who blow the whistle on mismanagement, corruption or other types of wrongdoing within the bureaucracy.

Tired of waiting for an administration initiative, three members of Congress have finally stepped forward with legislation to provide a safe outlet for whistle-blowers.

Sen. Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., Rep. Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz., and Rep. Paul Simon, D-Ill., think it is high time government agencies start addressing the problems pinpointed by conscientious civil servants instead of attacking and harassing the bearers of bad news.

Earlier this year, Leahy's office conducted an intensive study of whistle-blowing in the federal government. The senator's findings were disturbing, to say the least.

In scores of cases, Leahy's aides discovered, employees who called attention to wrong-doing or mismanagement saw their complaints ignored or dismissed by their superiors while they themselves became the targets of disciplinary proceedings and occasionally outright dismissal, a la Fitzgerald.

"Almost without exception," Leahy said, "the problem originally raised by a whistle-blower very quickly became secondary or even irrelevant as the bureaucracy decided how to handle the person who created the disturbance."

"We've got to change this. Whistle-blowers are honorable men and women. They don't want to destroy the government, they want to save it."

The legislation introduced by Leahy and his House colleagues offers a good starting point for protecting whistle-blowers. It would set up a special board within the Civil Service to receive and investigate allegations of wrongdoing brought by government employees, protecting where possible the identity of the complainant.

If the employee's charges prove to be justified, the board would refer results of its own investigation to the Justice Department or other appropriate agencies and receive monthly reports on the actions taken.

Any employee who is harassed or fired for making a good faith allegation, even if it is not substantiated, could seek relief directly from the courts without wading through the miles of administrative red tape that now entrap whistle-blowers.

It's not a perfect solution. It does not totally shield employees from retaliation for whistle-blowing. But it's better than nothing, which is all the civil servant has now.

Women from 20 countries meet

HOUSTON (AP) — As a prelude to the U.S. national women's conference, women from more than 20 countries are preparing to tell their American sisters about the problems they face in achieving equality.

The consultation, which is bringing women from as many as 24 nations to Houston on Thursday, is sponsored by the State Department's Agency for International Development. The day-long session is focusing on a "human needs approach" to development and women's participation in the development process.

Arvonne Fraser, who is AID's coordinator for women in development, said five areas are being emphasized: food and agriculture, the female-headed household, legal rights for women, education and women's organizations as a political force.

The consultation precedes by a day the formal opening of the national women's conference, a federally-funded venture designed to identify the barriers to equality in the United States and make recommendations as to how they can be torn down.

This conference, which may bring more than 20,000 persons to Houston including about 2,000 delegates, is sponsored by the National Commission on the Observance of International Women's Year. Its recommendations will go to the President and Congress.

The AID consultation is planned on a much smaller scale. About 35 international visitors will participate with a larger number of women from the United States.

They are in a position to describe first-hand how economic and social development can upset the traditional division of labor between men and women in their countries.

Some observers complain that development experts from industrialized nations may try to impose their ideas of appropriate roles for women and men upon developing nations which have different traditions.

For example, women have done from half to three-fourths of the farming in many parts of Africa on tribal lands. They have been responsible for feeding their own children.

The men cleared the land, hunted or tended grazing animals.

But a development scheme where a cash crop would be substituted for food crops could lead to malnourishment and hunger.

Land reform where men instead of the tribe would claim ownership, but where women could not, would be effective only until death, divorce or desertion. Then a woman and her children would be without land or a man to provide for them.

AID estimates that women contribute more than 40 percent of the world's food supply and cites an estimate by the Economic Commission for Africa which maintains that 70 percent of agricultural production there is carried out by women.

Education poses another problem. The ability to read is a basic qualification for entrance into the modern, technological world. But nearly two-thirds of the world's illiterate population is female, AID estimates. The numbers, although not the percentages, are growing.

Among the reasons for this literacy gap are the tendency by some parents in developing countries to keep girls doing domestic work at home instead of going to school and the problem of education for women coming to an end once the women begin bearing children.

The problem of education is linked to one of female-headed households.

AID maintains that the problem of the female-headed household is growing and cites an estimate that 30 percent of the world's households are headed by women. Such households are usually poor because women everywhere earn less pay than men and women usually assume responsibility for children once a marriage breaks up.

Educating women would not only make them self-supporting but also enable them to better support their children or enable them to help support a spouse and children in marriage.

The women the State Department has brought to the U.S. to discuss these problems have had a chance to visit various parts of this country and make some comparisons with their own.

Many have been in the United States more than a month. Each has had an opportunity to talk with Americans who are working in her field of interest.

Chija Kim Cheong, a senior researcher with South Korea's Institute of Family Planning, said that cultural traditions in her country are so strong that they are a barrier to achieving equality.

In South Korea's "man-dominated society," "The doors are open to women. But still, they feel awkward," she said in an interview.

"Even more than men, they will think, 'Oh, you're a lady. Why are you so aggressive? Are you taking a job opportunity from men? Why don't you stay home and take care of your family?'"

Many of the international visitors have a strong interest in the fate of the Equal Rights Amendment which is three states short of ratification.

Gagoitwe Sethoko Sechele, a Botswana coordinator of the Girl Guides Association, said she heard arguments on both sides of the issue.

"I feel it is very necessary after observing what is going on and what I have read I think the same things should apply in our countries."

She said that passage of the ERA in the United States would be a "guiding symbol" for the rest of the world.

Trinidad Conchu de la Paz, a doctor and administrator of a medical school serving 10 million persons in the Philippines, agreed.

"The American women have always been, whether they like it or not, a model for the developing world," she said.

"The women in the developing world look up to the women in the United States and are following closely the developments here."

Texas weather

By The Associated Press

Dense fog lowered visibility levels to zero early today in parts of Southeast Texas while the rest of the state was covered with clear skies.

The fog spread inland from the Gulf coast as far as 150 miles. The forecast called for the fog to vanish as temperatures rise.

Meanwhile, a weak cold front moved into northern regions of Texas. The front lowered temperatures behind it to the 30s and 40s.

Ahead of the front readings were in the 50s and 60s.

Weathermen said the front was expected to cover the northern half of the state before it became stationary later today. The front was expected to gradually dissipate later today and early Friday.

The forecast called for more mild temperatures today along with clear skies over the state.

National weather

By The Associated Press

Long cold fronts on opposite sides of the continent threatened continued wet weather for wide areas of the nation today, with Montana and Idaho bracing for a major snow storm.

Heaviest accumulations were expected in the western mountains of Montana, with temperatures expected to drop into the teens in some parts.

A Rocky Mountain cold front contributing to the Idaho weather dropped temperatures into the 30s in the eastern Plains, bringing light snow to scattered areas of Colorado. More snow, somewhat heavier, is expected over the weekend.

Wetter weather was good news in southern California, where firefighters contained a forest fire after a three day battle. They attributed their success, in part, to the weather which became warmer and more humid today. The blaze, near Malibu, about 30 miles west of downtown Los Angeles, consumed more than 1,300 acres before the weather took its turn.

Rain with snow over the mountains and cooler temperatures was expected to cover the Pacific Northwest today.

The other cold front, out of the eastern Great Lakes, and a warm, moist southerly flow of air ahead of it are helping keep temperatures mild in the southeast while spreading thunder-

Shah to oppose oil hike

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Shah of Iran, who earlier this week said his country would "remain silent" on the question of raising oil prices, now says the oil export cartel should "give a break" to consumer countries and for go any increase at least for a year.

The Shah said President Carter talked him into changing his position from one of neutrality to openly opposing a price hike.

"After perusing the world economic situation, we have come to this conclusion to give you a break," the Shah told reporters.

Iran wields considerable influence in the 13-nation Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, which meets Dec. 20 in Caracas, Venezuela, to discuss proposed price hikes.

Most other producing countries favor some price increase. Iraq has proposed raising the current world oil price of about $12.50 a barrel by 23 percent.

Experts calculate that the price of gasoline in the United States rises one cent for every 8 percent increase in the OPEC price.

The Shah said eventual increases are inevitable unless the consuming nations begin strong conservation measures and new sources of energy are discovered.

The Iranian monarch outlined his position during a news conference as he ended his 32-hour violence-marred state visit here.

On Monday, the Shah told interviewers that Iran would let other OPEC members "carry the ball" at the Caracas conference.

He noted in that interview that Iran has been called a "hawk" on past price hike proposals. Last year, the country backed a 10 percent increase.

The monarch's visit here took place amid marathon demonstrations in support and in opposition to his regime, but there was no repetition Wednesday of the outbursts of violence that marked the first day of his visit.

In contrast to the 124 injuries and 18 arrests resulting from Tuesday's violence, police reported only 10 injuries requiring hospital treatment and 10 arrests Wednesday.

As demonstrators arrived at Dulles International Airport on Wednesday night to board charter flights home, police set up a security check and said they confiscated dozens of baseball bats, hockey sticks, shovel handles, pipes and other implements.

In one incident Wednesday afternoon, an angry crowd of pro-Shah militants charged anti-Shah demonstrators near Capitol Hill, but police kept the rival groups apart.

Throughout the day Wednesday, the Shah traveled to and from his appointments around the city amid extraordinarily heavy security.

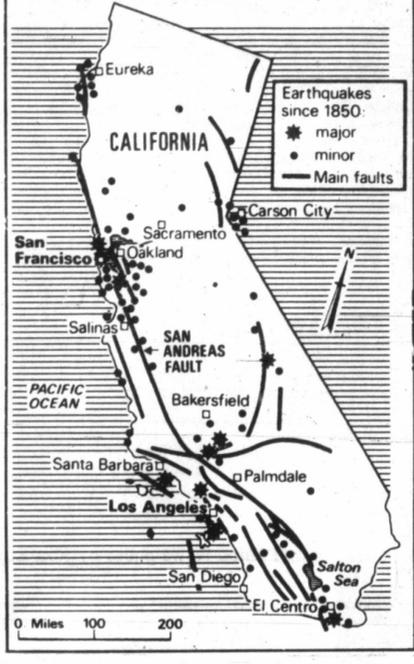

The Shah, who flew to Paris

Wednesday night, held his news conference at Blair House, across Pennsylvania Avenue from the White House.

He bitterly assailed the thousands who had come here to denounce his regime, saying they represented the forces of "international chaos and disorder and world revolution."

Press Secretary Jody Powell said Wednesday that no major decisions were reached on the sophisticated weaponry Iran wants to buy from the United States. Carter and the Shah met for 80 minutes earlier in the day.

Powell said the two leaders discussed the human rights situation in Iran and reviewed a series of measures that country has taken in recent months to ease political repression.

Quake warnings

Earthquake concern in California currently focuses on the so-called Palmdale Bulge northeast of Los Angeles where rising ground near the San Andreas fault signals subsurface stress. Seismologists warn that a major quake, registering eight or more on the Richter scale, could come within a decade.

Police shackled naked Biko

PRETORIA, South Africa (AP) — Black leader Steve Biko was shackled naked for 48 hours during police interrogation and later driven naked to a prison where he died, police witnesses say.

Another police witness Wednesday said Biko attempted suicide while taking a bath in a prison hospital four days before his death Sept. 12.

Sydney Kentridge, a lawyer representing the Biko family at an inquest into the activist's death, asked what right police have to keep a man chained for 48 hours.

Col. Pieter Goozen, security police chief at Port Elizabeth where Biko was detained, replied he had the authority to do that to prevent detainees from killing or injuring themselves.

He said that also was the reason for keeping prisoners naked.

To reject electric rate control

By TOM RAUM

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House-Senate conference committee is ready to reject President Carter's request that the federal government oversee how electric rates are set, leaving that power entirely to the states.

Congerees were expected to formally replace the administration plan today with a mild substitute setting guidelines for electric rate structures but not requiring states to follow them.

Carter's plan, now abandoned by its House defenders, would have forced utilities to charge lower electric rates during periods of low demand. It also would have ended most discounts to big industries.

House negotiators gave up their fight for the mandatory federal standards on Wednesday, yielding to Senate demands to leave the rate-setting authority with state regulatory agencies.

The House negotiators sacrificed the section to break an impasse that threatened to deadlock the committee, which is trying to resolve differences in energy bills passed by the two chambers.

Their retreat was a setback to Carter's hopes of salvaging in the conference committee those parts of his energy program that were rejected by the Senate.

"We've clearly made a major concession," said Rep. Philip R. Sharp, D-Ind., an administration ally. Conference Chairman Rep. Harley Staggers, D-W. Va., called the move "almost capitulation."

Carter's plan, which he said would conserve electric energy by making rates more accurately reflect the cost of producing power, would have affected the nation's 200 largest electric utilities, which generate 90 percent of the electricity used in the nation.

Under the so-called "peak-load pricing" system, utilities would have been required to offer lower rates to consumers who use power during "off-peak" hours — between 10 p.m. and 10 a.m. — as well as during winter months and other times when demand is low.

And the president would have generally ended the common practice whereby utilities charge decreasing rates to industries as they use increasing amounts of power.

Meanwhile, conferees on tax portions of the energy program agreed Wednesday to drop $6 billion to $7 billion in tax incentives passed earlier by the Senate by making four business tax deductions available only through 1982 rather than through 1985.

The reduction was made at the suggestion of Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., chairman of the Senate conferees, and no one objected.

The reduction still leaves about $40 billion worth of tax incentives in the Senate version of the bill. Most are for business, although some would go to individuals who insulate their homes, to elderly Americans and to people who heat with oil, propane or electricity generated with imported oil.

Brush fire stopped

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A brush fire that charred 1,350 acres in the Santa Monica mountains has been halted three miles from expensive coastal homes near Malibu.

"The fire is almost dead," said Barry Hesel of the county Fire Department Wednesday night.

Exhausted firefighters put in three days of round-the-clock efforts to battle two separate blazes. The first was contained Tuesday after burning 1,200 acres, about two square miles, in Topanga Canyon, about 15 miles to the east. That fire burned down six buildings and forced evacuation of hundreds of residents.

"The weather is on our side," said Hesel. "Today was fairly warm, but the humidity came up."

The humidity had been an extremely low 18 percent during the second fire's first day, when 200 acres an hour were blackened by a wall of flames and sparks leaped from ridge to ridge and ignited the tinder-dry brush.

Most of the 700 firefighters who stopped the blaze had gone home by Wednesday night, leaving fewer than 200 manning the fire camp and patrolling the hills to watch for flare-ups.

Six firefighters were injured, including 25-year-old Mike Eubanks, who underwent surgery at Westlake Hospital for multiple injuries suffered when a tractor rolled over him. The others suffered minor injuries.

The fire started Tuesday by embers from a smoldering fire in an illegal dump and was fanned, by dry, gusty desert winds.

Hesel said the only structures damaged were a studio dwelling and several small hillside sheds. A boat and a car also were destroyed.

He said about 180 youths evacuated from two juvenile detention camps were expected to return today to the facilities, which were unharmed.

Firemen strike; tensions mount

LONDON (AP) — Tension and destruction mounted today in Britain's four-day old firemen's strike as militants tried to prevent hastily trained soldiers from fighting the nation's blazes.

The Home Office reported 12 fire-related deaths so far, including five children in Northern Ireland on Wednesday and today, but said none could be blamed on the walkout.

Tempers flared during a London power station blaze Wednesday when nonstriking senior fire officers commanded a foam engine from a nearby firehouse.

The strikers seized it back, but troops later moved in and drove it away.

A team of part-time reserve firemen was kicked and spat upon when answering an emergency call. Militants also sabotaged some of their own trucks Wednesday and jammed fire station doors to prevent troops from taking the equipment.

The Greater London Council, the British capital's governing body, said it blanked out a strikers' pirate radio network in retaliation for earlier jamming of a key channel linking an emergency control center with mobile firefighting units.

The Council said it also cut off telephones at striker-held firehouses.

The firemen, making an average $115 a week, want a 30 percent pay hike. But the government refuses to back off from its counter-inflationary pay curbs-limiting increases to 10 percent.

No dictionary allowed

He explained that dictionary definitions are not the same as legal definitions. "We don't know what they might want to look up, and they might come up with the worst possible definition," he said.

Goldstein, 41, of New York, James L. Buckley, 33, of Stockbridge, Mass., and their Milky Way Productions, Inc., of New York are charged with mailing 11 issues of their tabloids Screw and Smut to Kansas, and with conspiring to mail obscene matter into Kansas.

Names in the news

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Olympic figure skating gold medalist Dorothy Hamill was released from Cedars-Sinai Medical Center after treatment for inflammation of the upper intestine.

The 21-year-old skating star will rest at home until her scheduled return to the Ice Capades on Tuesday in Oakland, a hospital spokeswoman said.

Miss Hamill, who has been on a leave from her Ice Capades contract, was admitted to the hospital last Thursday complaining of stomach pains. She was released Wednesday.

NEW YORK (AP) — Film director Franco Zeffirelli says one of the toughest decisions he's ever made involved winnowing down a field of 600 to 39 semi-finalists for the Jackie Cooper role in a new version of "The Champ."

Six hundred boys from all over the metropolitan area, aged 7 to 9, answered a casting call two weeks ago. The original movie was made in 1931.

After interviews with the 39 semi-finalists, Zeffirelli will choose 10 or 11 boys to read scenes from the script. Eventually all will be eliminated except three — one to play the Cooper role and the others to play his pals.

The reason the elimination process was tough, Zeffirelli says, is that "the kids in New York are so streetwise, they're like small adults." He says he found it "really incredible at the age of 7 to have such wisdom. And they have such beautiful, expressive eyes. That's what I zero in on."

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Mormon Church President Spencer Kimball and his wife, Camilla, spent a quiet day at home marking their 60th wedding anniversary, a church spokesman said.

Kimball, 82-year-old spiritual leader of the 3.7 million member Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, and his wife were married Nov. 16, 1917, and are the parents of four children.

Spokesman Jerry Cahill said the couple expects to celebrate the anniversary in December when their children and grandchildren visit during the Christmas holiday.

CLEVELAND (AP) — Reporters thought they had a big story when Sandy Kucinich, the wife of Cleveland's mayor-elect, opened a news conference by saying: "I'd like to announce that I'm expecting..."

After a pregnant pause, she went on to say Wednesday that she was expecting to help out at City Hall and she was quitting her teaching job to have more time for such things as volunteer work, assisting in promotion of the arts, beautification of the city and representing her 31-year-old husband, Dennis Kucinich, at civic functions.

Mrs. Kucinich, 27, has taught at Berea High School for four years.

Advice

Dear Abby
By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I'm still in shock from a telephone call I just received from a young woman informing me that I had an 18-month-old granddaughter! I was speechless. My only child is a 25-year-old college graduate. He's not married, not living at home, and he works 600 miles away. I see him only three times a year.

I phoned him and told him about the disturbing call I had just received. He calmly said, "It's possible." Then he told me he doesn't see the girl anymore, he's never seen the baby, and he has no plans to.

The baby's mother says she is 25 and still loves my son, but they decided a marriage wouldn't work out.

Abby, can I be a grandmother if my sons accept no responsibility for this child? The young mother invited me to visit her and see the baby.

Will I complicate matters if I go?

STILL IN SHOCK

DEAR STILL: First, get together with your son and find out why he is treating the matter so casually. From what he says, he may not even be the baby's father. Once his legal and moral obligations in this situation have been established, you can decide what role you want to assume in it—if any.

DEAR ABBY: You were too quick to agree with RIPPED OFF, who complained because a co-worker had bought a purse for a fellow worker as a gift from the office gang, and claimed it cost $21. RIPPED OFF later learned that the purse had been marked $16.98!

Consider these figures, Abby:

$16.98.....purse
1.02.....6 per cent sales tax
2.00.....fancy gift wrap
1.00.....gift card
Total.....$21.00

This doesn't include the time spent shopping or the cost of transportation. And the poor woman probably skipped her lunch to boot.

This should serve as a warning to others who shop for a group: Get receipts for everything!

NO RIP OFF

DEAR NO: You're right. I shot from the hip on that one. Rip off my epaulets and demote me to buck private.

DEAR ABBY: My heart aches today for my 14-year-old daughter who went to a school dance last evening and wasn't asked to dance one dance.

When her older brother was her age, and popular with the crowd, I always encouraged him to ask the not-so-popular girls to dance, impressing upon him how much it could mean to a girl who might not otherwise receive one invitation to dance during the entire evening.

I was proud that he followed my advice. I wish other mothers would tell their sons the same thing. Will you help spread the word, Abby? It could mean so much to the girls.

ACHING MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: You bet I will. An ounce of thoughtfulness can ease a ton of heartache.

Ask Dr. Lamb

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB—I am 33 years old and have been having a noticeable scalp problem for the last three years. My scalp gets very greasy, little sores like pimples appear at different parts and sometimes my hair is very sore at the roots.

My hair is coming out. I have used such medications as Denorex, Tegrin, Selsun Blue—all to no avail. I also have washed my hair every night, but the very next day, the oiliness returns. Can you help? What is sebum?

DEAR READER—I would strongly recommend that you see a dermatologist. Home treatments for oily scalp often do work and are helpful, but there is always the exception when other measures are required.

I suspect from your description and question that you have very active sebaceous glands. These are the oily glands that form a natural skin oil. They are common over the face and scalp. The oily secretion they produce is called sebum.

In some people, the oily secretions cause acne, and in others, irritation of the skin (dermatitis) called seborrheic dermatitis. This can spread somewhat like an eczema to other parts of the body. The skin irritation, if not controlled, can damage the hair and cause hair loss.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 8-2, Acne Can Be Treated, to give you a better understanding of acne and sebum. What you have is something more, but you will get some benefit from this information. Nevertheless, you will need to see a dermatologist to really get some useful help for a complicated problem like yours. Others who want more information on acne, black heads, and white heads can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, B.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB—Can you suffer a heart attack without it showing on an electrocardiogram? Could it happen more than once?

DEAR READER—The term heart attack can be used for several disorders of the heart, including attacks of rapid heart rate, transitory heart pains and for serious damage to the heart muscle (myocardial infarction). Today, it seems to be used mostly for the last condition.

If you mean myocardial infarction, the answer to both of your questions is yes. People do have the severe chest pain of a heart attack and may not have electrocardiographic changes for several days, and sometimes not at all. In other cases, the changes do not last, and the electrocardiogram may return to normal—even though we know the disease in the arteries that caused the problem is still there. Finally, we have people who have a heart attack and never know it. The changes are first noted on the electrocardiogram, and that is the first anyone knows that the person had a heart attack. About one-third of all myocardial infarctions are silent, or cause so few symptoms that they go unnoticed.

And you can have several attacks of chest pain from heart disease without severe muscle damage. The shortest ones of these we call angina pectoris. These heart pains may not always produce electrocardiographic changes and may occur several times.

POLLY'S PROBLEM

DEAR POLLY—I have a mesh playpen that has become gray looking as when it was used I often left it outdoors. Please tell me how to clean and whiten this as I have tried several household cleaners and used a brush but to no avail. I simply cannot get it clean looking. —JEANNINE.

DEAR JEANNINE—I would try scrubbing the playpen mesh with a laundry detergent that has a special brightener and hot water. If this does not do the job then scrub with diluted bleach water, rinse and put in the sun to dry. I had great luck doing this to gray looking white canvas on a terrace chair. —POLLY.

DEAR POLLY—Those who are troubled with weevils in flour, etc., should put a bay leaf or two in any container when it is opened, as this will repel them without harming the contents at all.

Those who use steel wool pads infrequently will find the rust can be deterred by placing them in an airtight container such as a small empty glass jar or an empty plastic margarine container. —EMMA.

From South Africa to Pampa

Nation varied - primitive to urban

By PATTI HOAG
Pampa News Staff

"It isn't anything like you've heard it is," Lois Teel, 1801 Grape, said of South Africa. She has visited her daughter and son-in-law, Kay and Ricardo Pallavicini, when they lived in Johannesburg.

The story behind it all is unusual.

Kay Teel and her mother were touring Europe and while in Rome, they went to the American Express to pick up their mail. Ricardo Pallavicini was standing in front of Kay, and they struck up a conversation and friendship that led to marriage.

Pallavicini has lived in South Africa since he was 16, and is originally from northern Italy.

Mrs. Teel and the Pallavicinis tell an interesting story of life in the Dark Continent.

The way to describe Africa would be "very primitive to urbanized," Pallavicini said.

Beginning with the primitive, the hundreds of tribes are divided into three main groups. The first group is the Zulus, who are warriors and are recognized as being bigger and darker than the other tribes. The Zulus, when they leave the tribe, take jobs such as policemen because of their warrior background.

The Basutus are more skilled and have a completely different language than the others. They often work in industry or skilled labor.

The third tribe is the Xhosas. These tribes have interesting traditions and superstitions.

The Pallavicinis had a 300-pound girl working in the house who put her bed on bricks. This is because they believe in a little man called a Tokalosh who gets into all sorts of things. The Tokalosh is 2 or 3 feet tall, and when the bed is put on bricks, the man can't bother people while they sleep.

They said that a lot of South Africa is like it is pictured; many Africans still walk the streets with a baby strapped to their back and carry objects on their heads.

Some of the tribes believe in witchcraft. When someone is sick, they cut the face with a razorblade and put powder inside the cuts.

Some tribe women wear long skirts and paint their faces. A maiden paints her face yellow while a married woman wears red makeup.

Mrs. Teel believes that blacks in Africa are well taken care of. "They are given a salary, food, uniform, and medical care," she said.

Pallavicini remembered an article in Time Magazine which stated that the blacks in South Africa own more cars than in all of Russia. This is just another indication that the country is not poor and rundown.

South Africa has at least as high of a standard of living as the United States. Pallavicini said, "South Africa has the largest concentration of golf courses in the old world."

Although they have a high standard of living, they are not as modern as the U.S.

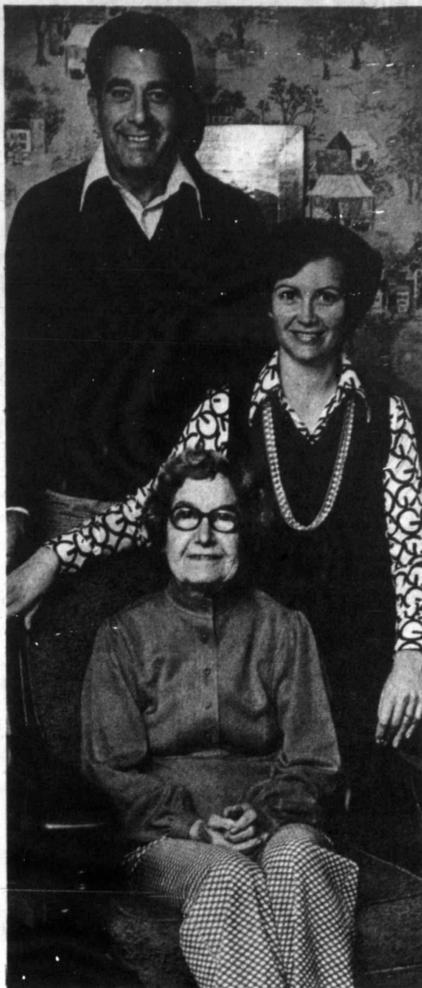

Two years ago television was introduced to South Africa. The programs are all in color and "very beautiful." South African T.V. has no commercials. Shows include documentaries, news in English and African, and children's programs. "There is a strict censorship in South Africa," Pallavicini said.

A big attraction in South Africa is Kruger National Park. The park covers 8,000 miles and "you can drive for days and not get out of the car." Kruger is run by the government. While going through the park, you can see every kind of wild animal imaginable.

Mrs. Pallavicini recalled an episode with a baboon. She had a banana and a baboon came up from behind, showing he was

The majority of the Cartilaginous family of fish, such as the sawfish, shark and the ray, can inflict a swift death on victims, but few are belligerent enough to be dangerous to man, unless they are provoked.

Writer Edgar Allan Poe died in 1849.

Mrs. Lois Teel, seated, and Kay and Ricardo Pallavicini feel that South Africa "isn't anything like you've heard it is." The Pallavicinis have just moved to Pampa from Johannesburg.

For Thanksgiving feast, bring-a-dish

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

Conversation recently turned, as it will, at this special time in the fall to plans for Thanksgiving dinner. "Thanksgiving," one person said, "means turkey." Another chimed into the conversation with, "it's the only special holiday anymore that's really a holiday. In my family we just laze around all day."

Every family seems to have a special Thanksgiving routine, often worked around a very important high school, college or pro football game. And, even though family members and friends seem to come and go as their Thanksgiving schedules permit each year, it still is a "family" event with the family more often than not including new neighbors and friends.

Just as those who join hands at the Thanksgiving table in a blessing may have changed with the years so has the attitude toward preparing the very special meal. Few rise at 3:30 in the morning anymore to put the turkey in the oven and make all the fixings. Yet, everyone wants that old-fashioned turkey dinner. This is an ideal time to turn that Thanksgiving feast into a bring-a-dish affair so family and guests truly can just "laze" through the day.

FESTIVE TANGERINE PUNCH

- 6 cans frozen concentrated tangerine juice, undiluted
 - 1 1/2 cups light corn syrup
 - 1/2 cup lime juice
 - 5 quarts gingerale or champagne, chilled
- Tangerine segments

Combine tangerine juice concentrate, corn syrup and lime juice and mix thoroughly. Just before serving, add gingerale or champagne and float tangerine segments in punch. If desired, tangerine segments may be placed in sections of ice cube trays covered with gingerale and frozen. The tangerine ice cubes make an interesting "float" in the punch bowl. Makes about 50 half-cup servings.

- ## MUSHROOM CANAPES
- 2 tablespoons olive oil or salad oil
 - 1/2 cup chopped onion
 - 3/4 pound mushrooms, chopped (4 cups)
 - 4 1/2 teaspoons lemon juice
 - 2 tablespoons sour cream
 - 2 tablespoons chopped chives

- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon Tabasco pepper sauce
- 1 tablespoon dry white wine (optional)
- 1 Melba toast rounds

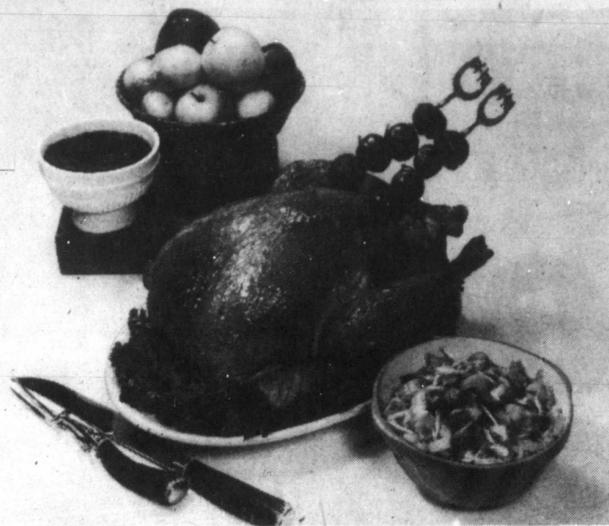

Heat oil in skillet. Add onions and cook them until transparent. Add mushrooms and cook until tender. Remove from heat and stir in lemon juice, sour cream, chives, salt, pepper sauce and wine. Chill. Drain off liquid and serve mushroom mixture in small bowl surrounded with toast rounds. Makes about 8 appetizer servings.

BROCCOLI QUICHE

- Pastry for single-crust 9-inch pie
- 1/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese, divided
 - 2 cups chopped fresh broccoli
 - 1 cup shredded Swiss cheese
 - 1/4 cup sliced scallions
 - 3 eggs
 - 3/5 cup chicken broth
 - 1/2 cup heavy cream
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 1/4 teaspoon Tabasco pepper sauce

With pastry, line 10-inch quiche dish or 9-inch pie plate. Prick bottom and corners of pastry with fork. Bake in 450-degree oven for 5 minutes. Remove from oven and sprinkle with 2 tablespoons Parmesan cheese. Layer half the broccoli over the Parmesan cheese. Continue with layers of half Swiss cheese and scallions. Repeat with remaining broccoli, Swiss cheese and scallions. Beat eggs; add chicken broth, cream, salt, and pepper sauce. Mix well. Pour over broccoli mixture in pastry shell. Sprinkle with remaining 2 tablespoons Parmesan cheese. Bake 10 minutes at 450-degrees. Reduce heat to 325-degrees and bake 20 to 25 minutes longer or until knife inserted in center of pie comes out clean. Let stand 5 to 10 minutes before cutting. Makes 10 to 12 appetizer servings.

- ## GRAPEFRUIT-AVOCADO CHANTILLY
- 4 avocados, halved
 - 4 Florida grapefruits, sectioned
 - 1 cup halved seedless green grapes
 - 1/4 cup sliced scallions
- Scoop out most of avocado and cut into cubes, leaving a shell. Combine cubed avocado with grapefruit sections, grapes and scallions in bowl; mix lightly. Spoon into avocado shells and serve with Grapefruit Tarragon Dressing. Makes 8 servings.

APPLE GLAZED TURKEY in delicious variation on the traditional Thanksgiving dinner centerpiece.

*To section grapefruit: Cut slice from top, then cut off peel in strips from top to bottom, cutting deep enough to remove white membrane. Or cut off peel round and round spiral fashion. Go over fruit again to remove any remaining white membrane. Cut along side each

- ## GRAPEFRUIT TARRAGON DRESSING
- 2 eggs
 - 2 tablespoons tarragon vinegar
 - 1 tablespoon grapefruit juice
 - 1 teaspoon sugar
 - 1/4 teaspoon dried leaf tarragon
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 1/2 Tabasco pepper sauce

dividing membrane from outside to middle of core. Remove section by section over bowl to retain juice.

In top of double boiler beat eggs until frothy. Beat in vinegar, grapefruit juice, sugar, tarragon, salt and pepper sauce. Place over boiling water and cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens. Remove from heat and cool completely. Fold in whipped cream. Makes about 2 1/2 cups.

- ## APPLE GLAZED TURKEY
- 1/2 cup butter or margarine

- 1 1/2 cups chopped celery
- 1 cup chopped scallions
- 8 cups diced raisin bread
- 1 cup chopped pecans
- 2 eggs
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 Grated rind of 1 orange
- 1 turkey, about 15 pounds, thawed if frozen, giblets removed
- 1/4 cup soy sauce
- 1 can (6 ounces) frozen concentrated apple juice, thawed and undiluted

In a skillet, heat 1/2 cup of the butter and saute celery and scallions for 5 minutes. Pour mixture into a bowl and stir in raisin bread, pecans, eggs, salt and orange rind. Sprinkle turkey inside and out with salt and pepper. Use raisin bread mixture to stuff turkey. Sew or skewer opening. Roast turkey in a preheated 325-degree oven or until meat thermometer registers 190 degrees, for 4 to 4 1/2 hours or until leg can be moved up and down easily. Mix concentrated apple juice and soy sauce for the glaze. One hour before turkey is ready, spoon some of the glaze mixture over the turkey. Spoon every 15 minutes. Serve garnished with parsley and spiced whole crab apples. Makes one 15-pound turkey.

- ## SAVORY STUFFING
- 1 pound bulk sausage meat
 - 1/2 cup butter or margarine
 - 2 large onions, chopped
 - 1 can (13-3/4 ounces) chicken broth
 - 2 loaves (1 lb. each) firm-type bread, cut into 1/2 inch cubes
 - 1 cup chopped parsley
 - 2 cups sliced celery
 - 1/2 teaspoon thyme
 - 1/2 teaspoon sage
 - 1 can (12 ounces) kernel corn, drained
 - Salt and pepper

Cook sausage meat until browned and crumbly. Drain excess fat. In large skillet, melt butter. Sauté onion until golden. Add broth, heat. Meanwhile, put bread cubes into large bowl. Pour butter, broth mixture over bread. Stir in parsley, celery, thyme, sage, corn and sausage meat. Add salt and pepper to taste. Cover and chill until ready to stuff turkey.

(To heat leftover stuffing, pack it into a greased casserole, cover with greased foil and place in oven about 1 hour before the turkey tests done.) Makes enough for 15-pound turkey for 10 to 12 servings.

The recipe file

BUCKWHEAT BREAD
No eggs or fat are included.
2 1/2 cups buckwheat flour
1/2 teaspoon baking powder
1 1/2 teaspoons baking soda
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup firmly packed dark brown sugar
1 1/2 cups buttermilk
1/2 cup cut-up (raisin size) pitted prunes

Stir together the flour, leavenings, salt and sugar. Add the buttermilk and stir until smooth. Stir in the prunes. Turn into a greased 9 by 5 by 3-inch loaf pan. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in the center comes out clean — 50 to 60 minutes. Turn out on a wire rack to cool. This bread has a heavy, compact texture and a flat top with a few cracks; it slices well, but the flavor is definitely for buckwheat fanciers. We adapted it from Stella Standard's interesting cookbook, "Our Daily Bread."

1/2 cup sliced pimiento-stuffed green olives
1 small red onion, thinly sliced
Salt and freshly ground pepper to taste

Shake together the oil, vinegar and garlic; let stand at room temperature for several hours or longer; discard garlic. Just before serving toss together the remaining ingredients with the oil mixture. Serve at once. Makes 4 servings.

ALFRED SHELDRICK'S SODA BREAD
No fat, no egg!
1 cup unbleached all-purpose white flour
1 cup stone-ground (fine) whole wheat flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 teaspoon cream of tartar
1 1/2 teaspoons salt

1 1/2 teaspoons sugar
1 tablespoon caraway seeds
3/4 cup (about) buttermilk

In a medium bowl stir together the flours, leavenings, salt, sugar and caraway seeds. Make a well in the center and pour the buttermilk into it; mix well. Knead about a dozen times in the bowl; if too dry to shape into a ball, work in a little more buttermilk — we used 1 tablespoon. On a greased cookie sheet flatten the ball to a 7-inch-wide round. With a sharp knife cut an X about 1/4-inch deep through the center and to the edges. Bake in a preheated 400-degree oven until browned — 50 minutes. Serve this deliciously crusty loaf warm or cold with lots of butter. Makes 1 round loaf — enough for 4 servings. Recipe may be doubled.

BUTTERNUT BISCUITS
Good way to use a little leftover squash.

1 cup buttermilk baking mix
1 1/2 tablespoons sugar
3/4 teaspoon apple-pie spice
1/2 cup mashed cooked butternut squash
2 tablespoons (about) milk

Stir together the baking mix, sugar and apple-pie spice. Add the squash and enough milk to make a soft dough. Roll out 1/2-inch thick; cut out with a floured 2-inch cutter. Place slightly apart on a greased cookie sheet. Bake in a preheated 425-degree oven until golden brown — about 15 minutes. Serve at once with plenty of butter. Makes about 10.

BULGUR STUFFING
The fine bulgur makes a compact stuffing.

1 cup fine bulgur (cracked wheat)
2 chicken bouillon cubes dissolved in 2 cups boiling water
1/4 cup olive oil
1 small onion, finely chopped (1/4 to 1-3rd cup)
2 ribs celery, finely chopped (3/4 cup)
1/4 cup dried currants
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper

Gently boil the bulgur in the bouillon, covered, until it is soft and the water absorbed — about 10 minutes. In the oil, gently cook the onion and celery until the onion is golden; mix with the bulgur, currants, salt and pepper. Use as a stuffing for a 4-pound roasting chicken. Roast stuffed chicken in an oiled shallow pan (minus rack) in a 425-degree oven, shaking pan often to keep chicken from sticking, for about 1 1/2 hours. Makes 6 servings.

ORANGE OLIVE SALAD
We've added olives to the old orange-onion combination — with good results.

1-3rd cup olive oil
3 tablespoons tarragon wine vinegar
1 clove garlic, peeled and smashed
1 quart salad greens
Membrane sections from 3 medium oranges

Thanksgiving

(Cont. from p. 8)

PERFECT GRAVY
Pan drippings from turkey
1/2 cup all-purpose flour
1 can (13 1/4 ounce) chicken broth
Salt and pepper

Pour drippings through sieve into a 4-cup measure. Let stand a minute or two for fat to rise to top; skim off fat and reserve. Add enough water to juices to make 2 cups. Measure 1/2 cup of the fat into a saucepan. Add flour; cook, stirring constantly, until mixture bubbles. Gradually stir in pan juices and the chicken broth. Continue cooking and stirring until gravy thickens and boils 1 minute. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Reduce heat to very low; cover pan; simmer, stirring often, 10 to 15 minutes for a very smooth gravy. Makes about 4 cups.

VARIATIONS:
1. Wine Gravy: To Perfect Gravy, add 1/4 to 1/2 cup dry vermouth or white wine. Simmer a few minutes, stirring often.
2. Creamy Gravy: To Perfect Gravy, add 1/2 cup light cream and 1/4 to 1/2 teaspoon leaf thyme, crumbled; simmer 5 minutes, stirring often.

FRESH CRANBERRY SAUCE
4 cups (1 pound) fresh cranberries
2 cups sugar
2 cups water

Mix cranberries, sugar and water in large saucepan. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until sugar dissolves. Bring to a boil and boil 5 minutes, or until cranberries begin to pop. Serve warm or cold. Makes 4 cups.

MASHED POTATOES AND TURNIPS
4 medium white turnips, pared and quartered
Water
2 1/2 teaspoons salt, divided
4 medium boiling potatoes, pared and quartered
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons finely chopped fresh onion

Combine molasses, sugar, butter, spices and orange juice. Pour over sweet potatoes and apples in baking dish. Bake in 350-degree oven 45 minutes, basting occasionally. Makes 8 servings.

ORANGE PUMPKIN PIE
1 9-inch unbaked pie shell with high fluted edge
1/2 cup light molasses
1/2 cup sugar
1 1/2 teaspoons grated orange peel
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 teaspoons cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
1/2 teaspoon ginger

1/4 teaspoon cloves
1/4 teaspoon allspice
2 large eggs
1 can (13 oz.) evaporated milk
1 1/2 cups canned pumpkin
Orange Whipped Cream
Orange peel for garnish (optional)

In large mixing bowl, combine molasses and next 9 ingredients and stir until well blended. Gradually beat in evaporated milk, then the pumpkin. Pour into pie shell. Bake in a preheated 375-degree oven for 1 hour or until slightly puffed and brown. Cool on wire rack; then chill. At serving time make up Orange Whipped Cream. Spoon onto pie. Garnish with orange peel, if desired. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

ORANGE WHIPPED CREAM
In medium bowl, combine 1/2 cup heavy cream with 1 tablespoon confectioners' sugar. Beat until stiff peaks form when beaters are lifted from bowl. Fold in 2 teaspoons Cointreau or 1 teaspoon orange extract. (Note: Store-bought 9-inch pie shell is too small for this pie. Use homemade 9-inch pie shell.)

AP Newsfeatures
The current appearance of 1978 calendars is a sure sign that Christmas and New Year's Day are coming up fast. As for camera fans, there is a fine assortment of photographic calendars to choose from, either for gift giving or for personal enjoyment.

Photographer Sherry Suris has compiled, designed and published as a personal venture two new calendars which assure a month-by-month, year-long exposure to fine art photography. One, "PHOTOGRAPHY - 12 Master Images - 1978," provides visual inspiration by a dozen contemporary photography artists. They include: Henri Cartier-Bresson, W. Eugene Smith, Wynn Bullock, Imogen Cunningham, Andre Kertesz, Jacques Henri Lartigue, Josef Sudek, Ralph Steiner, Minor White, George Tice and Shelley Burden.

Second, "WOMEN - Images by 12 Women Photographers," shows how noted female photographers view other women. They include: Eve Arnold, Lilo Raymond, Eva Rubinstein, Sonja Bullaty, Dena, Abigail Heyman, Helen Levitt, Mary Ellen Mark, Holly Maxson, Barbara Morgan, Suzanne Opton and the publisher, Sherry Suris.

Both calendars are printed for fine photographic reproduction on quality coated stock with lettering and titles in distinctive calligraphy. They are spiral bound, measure 12 1/4 by 9 1/4 inches, and are designed for either wall hanging or desk decoration. The calendar boxes are roomy enough for daily notations, reminders and appointments.

Aware of collectors and their pursuit of photographic art, Miss Suris adds a first in calendar publishing: a special, limited, signed edition of 100 copies of each calendar. In these, individual photographic pages are photographed by the living photographers.

The calendars ($5.95) are available nationally from many major photographic galleries and from the national chain of Brentano and Rizzoli book stores. For information about the signed, limited editions, write: SherArt Images, 60 E. 12 St., New York, N.Y. 10003.

Another calendar of historic photographs, several of them dating back to the 1850s, is entitled "The Photographer's Calendar - 1978." It has been compiled and designed by Liliane De Cock and published by Morgan & Morgan, Dobbs Ferry, N.Y. 10522. ($4.95).

Fourteen photographs are included in this wall-hanging calendar, selected from the collections of the Library of Congress, George Eastman House, W.D. Morgan, the State Historical Society of Colorado and Barbara Morgan. The photographers represented are: Gertrude Kasebier, Walker Evans, Frederick H. Evans, William H. Jackson, David Octavius Hill, Russell Lee, Laura Gilpin, Robert Howlett, J.C.H. Grabill, Doris Ulmann, John Vachon, Charles Currier and Barbara Morgan.

Subjects range from a pre-1850 study of "The Sisters" by Hill to Walker Evans' study of a photographer's studio window in 1936, and from Jackson's cover photo of his assistant guiding their equipment-laden mule along a mountain ledge to Grabill's panoramic view of a Sioux Indian encampment in South Dakota in 1891.

Along with nostalgic photos, "The Photographer's Calendar" includes information and birthdays of historical interest in photography. Distribution of the calendar is through camera stores, book and gift shops.

Photo calendar art for 1978 offers this mystical image of "Sea Palms" by Wynn Bullock, a multiple exposure of a scene on the Pacific coast. It is one of the illustrations in "PHOTOGRAPHY-12 Master Images," a new calendar of contemporary photographs published by Sherry Suris.

"Photographing America Desk Calendar - 1978" is a handy household appointment-calendar book to keep track of daily commitments for next year interspersed with beautiful photographs and helpful photo tips. Bound in hard cover and measuring 8 1/4 by 11 inches, it's a Kodak publication.

The format of the calendar year is week by week in full pages. About 100 color photos in a wide variety of subject matter illustrate the weekly calendar pages, effectively demonstrating top-notch picture taking. The photographs were all previously published in "Photographing America," a hard cover book distributed last year by Kodak and Crown Publications. The photos often provide a peg for photo suggestions and information.

The desk calendar (publication No. AC-97) is available from many photo dealers ($6.95) or from Eastman Kodak, Rochester, N.Y. 14650. Of course, there are the annual animal calendars by Walter Chandoha, outstanding animal and nature photographer. For 1978, there are two wall calendars published by Hallmark, Kansas City, Mo., featuring Chandoha cats and Chandoha dogs ($4 each). In addition, there are photo calendars which cater to devotees of varying interests like tennis, golf, fishing, yoga, the women's movement, quilting, wildflowers, houseplants and the latest in space action - "Star Wars." In short, calendars become daily reminders that photography is part of our daily life.

Grease thieves have slick racket

HOUSTON (AP) - Representatives of Houston fast-food restaurants and rendering plants say there's a slick racket being conducted by grease thieves.

What they do is steal containers of kitchen drippings from restaurants and sell them to rendering plants.

Local rendering companies said the unlikely-sounding crime has grown to major proportions in Texas' big cities this year.

One Houston renderer said grease thefts cost her company $80,000 a year, and hers is but one of 80 rendering companies in Texas. She guessed statewide losses run "several million dollars."

However, local police and the district attorney's office expressed surprise at the report.

"I had never heard of it," one officer said. "Either we're not having many thefts or the restaurant owners and renderers aren't reporting it," another said.

Law enforcement representatives to a seminar on grease theft problems were told of the racket Tuesday.

They said restaurants, particularly fast-food outlets that do a lot of deep-frying, discard their waste kitchen grease into containers behind their buildings. The drippings are usually collected in 55-gallon drums, and the drums are purchased and picked up on a regular basis by rendering plant route trucks.

The rendering plants, in turn, resell the grease to brokers who forward it to refiners for processing into additives for products ranging from soap to plastics to animal food.

However, restaurant owners say grease thieves, with increasing frequency, are making the grease collection routes after hours and carting away the loaded drums.

They say the grease is sold, sometimes back to the renderer originally scheduled to pick it up, for $30 a barrel. The drums are sometimes sold separately for another $20 apiece.

All this adds up to big-time crime, said Vernon Stewart, director of the Texas Renderers Association in Austin. He said a big city grease thief can make $200 a night and as much as $50,000 a year.

Several renderers said they had tried various types of locks and special containers but it didn't help much. They argued that better police patrolling would cut the crime.

But Lt. J. D. Peyton of the Harris County Sheriff's Department, "We're too short on men to check every truck at every restaurant."

Prosecutor Richard Trevathan of the Harris County District Attorney's office told the restaurateurs they should build protective sheds for their unsecured grease barrels. The burglary that would then be involved in the theft would be easier to prosecute than simple theft, he said.

Wheat deal exposed

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) - An Oklahoma congressman says he has learned "by accident" of the sale of 20 million to 50 million bushels of American wheat to China.

There has been no confirmation of the sale from the U.S. Department of Agriculture in Washington. The State Department also has declined to comment on the report.

But Rep. Glenn English, a Democrat, told The Associated Press in a telephone interview Tuesday that "a highly placed USDA official has confirmed to me that the department is aware" of the transaction.

Grain companies are required to report to the USDA any sales to foreign countries within 24 hours after a transaction is made.

English, who is touring his wheat-rich western Oklahoma district, said he understands that intermediaries are being used by the American grain companies and that the sale has not been officially reported to the USDA. He said he did not have details of the sale or the companies involved.

English said an aide "learned of the sale by accident" during a discussion with representatives of the Foreign Agricultural Service.

He said he contacted the USDA and "a high official confirmed the fact that the USDA knew a sale of this size has been made."

English said he hoped the sale would help raise the price American farmers get for their wheat. The price per bushel has steadily climbed since dropping below the $2 mark last summer, but English said farmers are still receiving well below "the break-even price," of about $3.50 per bushel.

Treasure case out Court says state does not owe alien children

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — U.S. District Court Judge Jack Roberts has granted a motion by the State of Texas to dismiss a suit by the Indiana salvage firm that recovered treasure and artifacts from a sunken Spanish galleon.

Platoro Limited Inc. recovered the treasure in 1967 off the South Texas coast near Padre Island.

The galleon went down during a hurricane in the 1550s and remained under sand and clay and 30 feet of water.

Platoro took the treasure to Indiana, but then Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler persuaded the firm to allow it to be returned to Texas under an agreement to split it 50-50.

Sadler then said he considered it to be Texas property and never intended to honor the agreement.

Platoro sued in Brownsville federal court in 1969 and won there, but the U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals reversed that decision.

Platoro sued in Austin federal court in 1976, but lost on the rule of sovereign immunity.

The firm won permission from the Texas Legislature this year to sue the state.

Roberts ruled Monday that

Platoro had two years from the day of recovery to file suit under a federal statute of limitations.

That suit would have "arrested" the treasure in the jurisdiction where the suit was brought.

"That a suit might not have been maintainable during that period because of a sovereign immunity defense on the part of the other claimant does not mean that the goods could not have been arrested, just as the presence of an affirmative defense does not affect the validity of process in an ordinary civil suit," Roberts said.

He noted the attorney for Platoro in his final argument "disallowed any claim to title and said plaintiff was pursuing only its claim for a monetary salvage award."

He ruled Platoro's suit was barred by the statute of limitations.

Except for appeals from Roberts' decision, Platoro's only recourse apparently is to ask the Legislature for payment for salvage services.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The state does not owe a free education to children who are in the United States illegally, the 3rd Court of Civil Appeals ruled today.

The court's decision came in a case filed on behalf of 10 illegal alien children from Mexico, who were barred from entering Houston public schools unless they paid tuition.

It is directly contrary to a finding by U.S. Dist. Judge William Wayne Justice in a similar case from Tyler.

Lawyers for the Houston children claimed it was not their fault that they were in Texas illegally, and that illegal alien children would grow up to be an uneducated "slave class" if denied a free education.

But the appeals court said, "The child should have no greater rights to a free education, due to his unlawful presence than those rights he would have had if he had not come to this country."

Alien children who are in the United States legally do have a right to a free public education under Texas law.

The court said that to grant a free education to illegals would burden taxpayers and those who are attending school by virtue of the fact that they are citizens or legally-admitted foreigners.

"There are perhaps as many as 5,000 illegal alien children residing in the Houston school district. The testimony was that it is more expensive to educate such children than other children. In that connection, the evidence was that if the illegal alien children were permitted to attend school tuition free, the added cost to the Houston school system could be as much as $8.35 million each year," the court said.

George Abbott, Archbishop of Canterbury and preparer of the King James version of the Bible, was born in 1562.

Personal income up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans increased their personal income by the largest amount in seven months in October, as factory workers increased their wages and government salaries rose, the Commerce Department said today.

Total personal income rose 1.3 percent in October, after rising 0.8 percent in September and 0.6 percent in August, the department said. The October increase was the largest since a 1.5 percent increase in March.

The $22.2-billion increase in October put total personal income for the month at $1 trillion, 580.9 billion, at a seasonally adjusted annual rate.

Private wages and salaries increased $10.1 billion in October after rising $6.7 billion in September.

A 7 percent federal pay increase that took effect Oct. 1 helped overall government wages and salaries increase by $4.2 billion in October, compared with $1.5 billion in September.

Year-end tax strategy

Sylvia Porter

Take Your Biggest Medical Deductions Now (First of seven columns)
Under a tax reform President Carter is reliably reported to be considering, your medical deduction would be drastically reduced. Your future medical expenses may be deductible only to the extent they exceed 10 per cent of your adjusted gross income, against 3 per cent in today's law.

To you, this telegraphs the message: take all possible medical deductions in 1977, meaning before Dec. 31.
"But I can't decide when I'm going to be sick or have an accident," you retort. "How am I going to do that?" True, but often there are expenses you can accelerate into 1977. Perhaps you or another family member is in line for costly dental work, or the whole family is due for eye exams. Have this work done now.

The basic rule is that if you incur the medical expense and pay for it before year-end, it's deductible (as long as other medical costs exceed 3 per cent of your adjusted gross income). This rule puts a premium on the timing of your payments: expenses must be paid in '77 to be deductible in '77.

Payment by check: Say you give your physician a check on Dec. 29, but he doesn't cash it until Jan. 5, 1978. Your expenses are deductible this year. Payment by a good check is considered made when the check is given.

Payment by borrowing: Say your hospital bill for your dependent mother in '77 comes to $4,200. You take out a three-year loan to pay the bill. You do not have to postpone the deduction. For the hospital is paid in '77 and you take the deduction in 1977.

Advance payments: But it won't help your tax strategy to prepay your '78 expenses, for an advance payment for medical services to be rendered in a following year isn't generally deductible in the payment year. The one important exception, though, is that you can deduct a prepayment if you're under an obligation to make it. Say your dependent parent is entering a nursing home and, to gain your parent's admission, you must make a payment to cover your parent's lifetime medical care. This advance payment for future medical services is currently deductible, since your parent's admission depends on it.

Thus, suggests Prentice-Hall, if permanent medical care is needed for a parent, check to see if the institution requires prepayment before admission, and if so, request an apportionment between medical care and ordinary care. Assuming the medical care portion is reasonable in amount, it's fully deductible in the year you make payment.

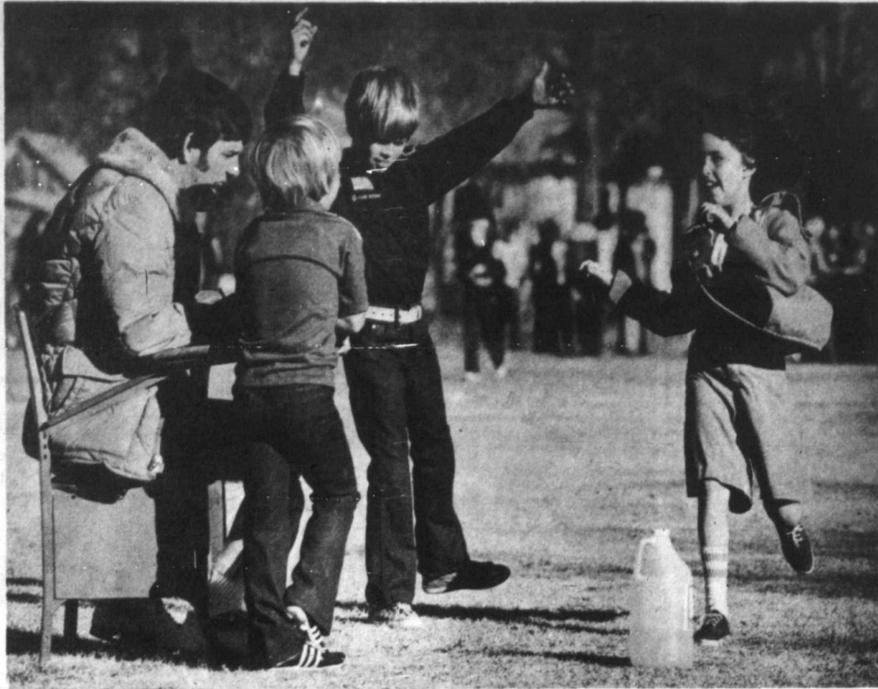

Husband and Wife: You can deduct medical expenses you pay for your spouse — no news to you, of course. But there is this one somewhat different situation: Your spouse incurs medical expenses before marriage and, after you are married, you pay these expenses. You can include these costs in your medical deduction in your payment year.

Home improvement: The cost of a medically prescribed home improvement — an elevator, air conditioner, etc. — is a deductible expense to the extent it doesn't increase your home's value. And it's deductible in the year you pay for it. Don't be frightened by the size of the deduction.

As an illustration, a woman needed to swim daily to prevent paralysis of the spine. One her physician's recommendation, her husband and she added an indoor swimming pool to their home at a cost of $172,000. They figured the pool hiked their home's value by $86,000 and deducted the remaining $86,000 as a medical expense. With a minor adjustment, the Tax Court okayed the deduction, ruling there is no dollar limit on medically essential home improvements.

If you are considering installing a medically related home improvement soon: (1) get a written recommendation from your physician — this is critical; (2) get a written opinion from a competent real estate appraiser stating the amount (if any) that the improvement adds to the value of the property; and (3) keep a record of the amount of your expenses.

Finally, a vital strategy reminder: if you already have a deductible home improvement in place, don't forget this tax break. What you spend in '77 for its operation and maintenance is deductible on the '77 return you will file next spring.

Heavy Christmas buying in store

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Hold onto your wallet. 'Tis the season to be merry in the stores and all the ingenuity of the merchandising fraternity is designed to make you and your dollar welcome.

Late reports suggest that this may be an exceedingly spendthrift Christmas. Retail sales for the year are going to top $700 billion, and something like $75 billion of that is likely to be added up in December alone.

Indicating the trend, October sales leaped 1.8 per cent over the previous month, one of the strongest showings of the year. Unlike in some years, merchants don't have to set a spending mood, but merely prolong it.

Consumers seem to be in an ebullient mood. Credit is the mixer for the holiday cocktail, and consumers have been adding to their installment borrowing at a rate of $2.5 billion a month, bringing the total to about $200 billion.

Does that figure frighten you? It frightens more than a few retailers, and some bankers too, but the truth is it amounts to just 17 percent of disposable personal income, or 1 percent below the record set in 1973.

Should a sharp economic downturn occur it seems likely that some of those bills might be late in being repaid, but few economists expect such an event to take place. Meanwhile, repayments are said to be satisfactory.

Despite the complications, retailers generally are pleased to assist in the accumulation of consumer credit because, as they are ever aware, they have in the Christmas selling season about 30 of the best sales days of the year.

The consumer, on the other hand, has six times that number of days during the next year in which to work toward repaying the bills. To retailers, this adds up to a good deal, especially since many of them sell the receivable account.

Again using last year as a measure, almost all types of retail outlets except automotive dealers, who have their own special selling season, and building materials and hardware stores will share in the spending spree.

Sales of home furnishings and household appliance stores soared last Christmas season, so did sales in apparel and accessory stores, toy stores, jewelry stores, book stores, grocery stores.

Bergland defends Carter's wheat acreage restriction

ROME (AP) — U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland told a 144-nation U.N. food conference Wednesday that excessive grain production wiping out profits is actually a threat to world agriculture despite scarcity in developing nations.

Defending the Carter administration's decision to restrict wheat acreage, Bergland said "we believe that protecting the productive capacity of U.S. agriculture is a major factor in ensuring world food security."

He said recent bumper crops increased carryover stocks, causing sharply lower prices with some grains selling on world markets below production costs.

"We believe that this situation, if it persists, will threaten the long-run production capability of world agriculture by reducing investment incentives," Bergland added.

The former Minnesota farmer said the U.S. limitation on acreage "may have been inadequately understood" and assured the conference that "these actions were taken after careful estimation that world supplies would be adequate at reasonable prices."

Currently, the secretary stated, there is no immediate pressure of world food shortages and the air of crisis that dominated the discussions of four years ago has disappeared.

Bergland also cautioned that despite the increased production the number of malnourished people remains intolerably large and little progress has been made toward the goal of eliminating malnourishment in the poorest developing countries. U.N. food experts estimate the world's hungry at around 500 million.

Bumper crops also allowed the United States, Bergland said, to establish a farmer-owned reserve program totaling 30-35 million tons and a special international food reserve of up to six million tons of wheat.

Artist to visit Pampa

Michael Frary's paintings and book, "Impressions of the Texas Panhandle," will be featured at a gallery show beginning today through Saturday at the Pampa Fine Arts Gallery, 512 W. Kingsmill. The gallery will be open from 7 to 9 p.m. today and Friday and 1 to 5 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. on Saturday. A reception and autograph party will be given from 3 to 6 p.m. Sunday. The above painting is Frary's impression of Mobeetie, called "Spring Green."

Cuba intervenes in Africa

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prospects for full restoration of diplomatic relations and business ties with Cuba appear dimmed following a secret Carter administration study showing that Havana is stepping up its military intervention in Africa.

The study, based on intelligence estimates, does not quarrel with the steps taken by the administration so far to end 16 years of hostility between Washington and Havana. But its judgment is that the pace should be slowed.

Sources here said an estimated 23,000 Cubans, 19,000 of them military, are now in Angola, where the Marxist government is fighting to suppress insurgents who keep a civil war flaring.

The New York Times in today's editions quoted high-ranking administration officials as saying that Cuba has a military presence in 11 other African countries as well and has suffered hundreds of combat deaths in Angola.

The Times said one administration policy-maker said the Cuban actions make restoration of full diplomatic relations "impossible."

The build-up in Angola as described in the administration study contradicts promises given by Cuba during the Ford administration that there would be a general decrease in Cuba's military presence in the former Portuguese colony.

Instead, the Cuban strength is on the upsurge, bolstering President Agostino Neto, who was carried to power partly by Cuban forces in a civil war with pro-western factions.

The administration has registered its concern in Havana over the African intervention. Sources here said the Soviet Union also has been made aware of the American displeasure.

Earlier this week, the State Department estimated that about 550 Cubans have been sent to Ethiopia, all except 150 of them military. The 550 Cubans represent an eightfold increase since May.

In Ethiopia, the Cubans are assisting a Marxist regime fight invading forces from Somalia, which has broken relations with Havana and expelled resident Russian advisers.

Carter said in mid-February he would be willing "to move toward normalizing relationships" with Cuba if he could be convinced that it wanted to remove its "aggravating influence from other countries in this hemisphere" and "will not participate in violence in nations across the ocean."

Beaten wife gets 'sane' ruling

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Francine Hughes has been judged sane, less than two weeks after a jury found her innocent by reason of insanity of the murder of the ex-husband who beat her for years.

Her lawyer, Arvon Greydanus, said Wednesday that Mrs. Hughes had returned to her mother's home in Jackson, Mich., for a week of "rest and relaxation" before making future plans.

"As I anticipated, it was just a formality," Greydanus said. "It's all done as far as we're concerned. That's it. She's just as free as you and I are."

Although Mrs. Hughes could not be reached for comment, Greydanus said "Of course, she's very happy. As far as we're concerned that's the end of the story."

Mrs. Hughes was interviewed for about an hour at the Center for Forensic Psychiatry in Ypsilanti, an examination required under conditions of the Ingham County Circuit Court verdict.

Under Michigan law, the 30-year-old mother of four could have been held for up to 60 days at the center while psychiatrists determined whether she was mentally ill.

Last week, Mrs. Hughes told television audiences how she set the fire in which James Hughes died last March 9. She appeared on a morning news show in New York and a syndicated show taped in Pennsylvania.

arranges counseling for her children and for herself. He also has indicated she might write a book about her experiences.

Mrs. Hughes' defense during the nearly two-week trial was that she lit gasoline poured around Hughes' sleeping body to defend herself after years of repeated beatings. She also claimed she was temporarily insane.

The trial attracted the attention of feminists, who hoped an unconditional innocent verdict would give added defenses to wives who are victims of abuse.

Dr. Lynn Blunt, director of the forensic center, said he would tell the Lansing court that Mrs. Hughes is not mentally ill.

"I testified during the trial that she was not mentally ill," he said. "That does not mean she doesn't have emotional problems. Anyone who went through that would."

Amin's son in Texas

DALLAS (AP) — The son of Ugandan dictator Idi Amin is one of the Ugandan pilots undergoing controversial training at Bell Helicopter in Fort Worth, claims U.S. Rep. Jim Mattox, D-Dallas.

Mattox said Wednesday that he was informed by "very good exile sources" that Babu Tabani is one of Amin's 34 children by five wives and 30 mistresses.

A group of the pilots confirmed Tabani was in training, but refused to say whether he was Amin's son.

When asked, one Ugandan said, "Where did you get that?"

There are 24 Ugandan pilots and engineers, said to be members of the Ugandan civilian police, training at Bell. Mattox has demanded that the Ugandans be forced to leave the United States.

Mattox alleged Wednesday that the trainees must be members of the military because "the Ugandan police force has no helicopter. All helicopters in possession of the Ugandans are priority military aircraft."

"You are free to come to Uganda and find out" how the helicopters will be used, one Ugandan told reporters Wednesday.

Sadat, Assad disagree over visit to Israel

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — Presidents Anwar Sadat of Egypt and Hafez Assad of Syria openly disagreed today over the Egyptian's planned visit to Israel and Sadat declared: "still I will go."

Assad called the idea a source of "deep sorrow."

The two presidents, allies in the 1973 Arab-Israeli war, spoke to reporters after discussing Sadat's dramatic plan to address the Israeli parliament in Jerusalem. He would be the first Arab leader to visit Israel since its birth in 1948.

When reporters persisted in asking whether he really would go, Sadat became exasperated and declared: "Yes, yes, I am going. I don't say anything that I don't mean."

He later returned to Egypt. Assad said: "It is really painful to me that I was unable to dissuade and to convince him of the seriousness of this trip (to Israel) and its reflection on the Arab cause and on the Arab situation as I see it."

Despite the open disagreement, Sadat denied there was any rift between himself and Assad. The Syrian leader greeted Sadat Wednesday with all the gun salutes and diplomatic fanfare proper to his rank, although informed sources said photographers were ordered not to take pictures of the two leaders when they made their customary embrace.

Assad and Sadat last clashed in public after Sadat reached a separate Sinai agreement with Israel after the 1973 war.

But this time Sadat insisted he was not heading for Jerusalem to make a separate peace. "I'm going to tell the Israelis in their own den. If you want to live in this area, well, here are the facts."

He said 70 percent of Arab problems stem from an "inferiority complex." Asked whether he expected his visit to Israel to lift this complex, he said "Absolutely Absolutely Absolutely."

The proposed visit also drew criticism from a small opposition party in Egypt. The National Progressive Unity Party, a consistent critic of the government, said in a statement: "This visit will only make Israel more adamant and stubborn."

Sadat indicated Assad did not pressure him to reject the invitation Prime Minister Menachem Begin issued in response to overtures from Sadat. But after he took off for Cairo, Assad told reporters his failure to dissuade Sadat was a source of "deep sorrow" to him.

One Arab diplomat suggested that Sadat came to Damascus to tell Assad he was going to Israel "to change the Israeli mentality about Arab intentions, and to show the world who is serious about peace and who is not."

The semiofficial Cairo newspaper Al-Ahram reported Wednesday that the purpose of the trip was to remove procedural obstacles to a new Geneva peace conference between Israel and all its Arab adversaries.

Sadat followed up his overtures that produced the Israeli invitation with a cable Wednesday to a to a leftist, peace-oriented symposium in Tel Aviv. In it, he expressed "the hope that your deliberations will prompt you to see the living reality of the Palestinian people and their inalienable right to statehood."

As Sadat and Assad met at the Syrian president's home, leaders of Assad's Baath Socialist Party gathered for a rally to celebrate his bloodless seizure of power seven years ago Wednesday. All speakers condemned individual peace-seeking moves but did not attack Sadat by name. Assad and Syria's press also have refrained from this.

Assad in 1974 and 1975 strongly criticized Sadat for negotiating agreements with Israel providing for Israeli withdrawals in the Sinai Desert. Assad wanted the Egyptians to hold out until the Israelis agreed to return the Golan Heights to Syria.

Clements enters governor's race

DALLAS (AP) — William P. Clements, Jr., a Republican former deputy secretary of defense who says he has no regrets about supporting Democrat Lyndon Johnson in 1964, has entered the chase for Gov. Dolph Briscoe's job.

Clements, who served in the Nixon and Ford administrations, entered race Wednesday — a week after saying he was considering seeking the governor's seat.

Clements said he did not believe his support of Johnson in the 1964 election would hurt his chances.

"I have no apologies to make for that and I would do it again," he said adding that many others supported Johnson because Johnson "was a native son of Texas."

And, he said, "It gave us the opportunity to elect a Texan president."

The 60-year-old Dallasite may face former state GOP chairman Ray Hutchison in the Republican primary. Former gubernatorial candidate Henry Grover may also enter the race.

Hutchison, a former state representative, has said he intends to make his announcement on Nov. 29. Grover is expected to make up his mind before the first of the year.

Clements said last week he was encouraged to run by prominent Texas and national Republican leaders. His announcement last week that he was considering the race cooled off U.S. Rep. Jim Collins who also had expressed some thoughts about entering the race for governor.

Collins said he would find it hard to campaign against Clements.

Clements served as second in command in the Defense Department for four years during the Nixon and Ford administrations. In Dallas, he leads SEDCO, a large oil-gas well contract drilling and pipeline

Hoopsters rely on inside strength

By TOM KENSER
Pampa News Sports Editor
First-year Hustling Harvesters coach Gary Abercrombie knows what it takes to be a winner. After all, he's been named "coach of the year" six times with three different schools.

And after taking the Harvesters through five weeks of workouts, Abercrombie feels Pampa should be considered a favorite to retain the district crown it won last year with an impressive 25-6 record.

Gone from the 1976-77 championship club are starters Brian Bailey, Don Hughes and district "player of the year" Hayford Young. But outgoing coach Robert McPherson left three players who give Abercrombie a strong nucleus on which to build.

It's obvious that our strength will be our inside game," the Pampa mentor said. "There shouldn't be a team in the Panhandle that (Ricky) Bunton and (Rusty) Ward can't dominate underneath."

Last year, the 6-5 Ward was the only junior picked on the coaches all-district team. And Bunton was one of two juniors to make the second team.

Another Pampa strength will be the point-guard play of veteran Tim Reddell and junior Steve Duke. Reddell, Pampa's sixth man a year ago, is a heady and intense competitor. Duke, whose 5-7 height listing may be stretching it, is an extremely quick and clever ballhandler.

Both Reddell (5-9) and Duke are considered two of the better outside shooters on the team.

Abercrombie terms his attack "a continuity offense" where everybody is in constant motion and where there are few set plays.

"It's a difficult thing to learn because it's a reaction off the ball offense, started by the point guard," Abercrombie explained. "It's not as regimented as McPherson's offense and gives the players a little more freedom."

"But," he added, "we can tighten it up into a patterned offense if the situation dictates that we must."

A key to the Harvesters' success this year will be the play of the wings, who in Abercrombie's scheme, must make the transitional pass from the point guard to the post men.

Pampa coaches Abercrombie and John Randels are looking at several possibilities on the outside. Junior Doug Skaggs (5-11) will play exclusively at wing, while Reddell and Ward should alternate on the other side when not playing their normal positions of point guard and post respectively.

Johnny Hayes, a 6-1 senior, should also see considerable action. Bunton, who averaged 11 points per contest last year, is set at one post position, with Ward slated for the other deep spot. Juniors Steve Stout (6-6) and Darrell Hughes (6-3) will spell them.

"I'm mainly concerned about depth," Abercrombie said. "I'd like to go eight or nine deep, but won't play people who are going to hurt us."

"The main thing is we'll have to keep Ricky (Bunton) and Rusty (Ward) on the floor as much as possible."

Defensively, look for the Harvesters to be a gambling, aggressive bunch. Since Pampa will not match up with many teams because of the lack of backcourt height, the Harvesters will try to pressure teams out of patterns.

"We'll press at least from the halfcourt all the time, and will often press on the in-bounds pass," Abercrombie said.

"Our offense also seems to work better full court off a break than when we set up. The offense is not natural to them yet, and they're a little hesitant. But I expected that for the first few games," he said.

Abercrombie is a strong supporter of the man-to-man defense, but acknowledges the use of zone defense in certain situations.

"Basketball is a game of adjustments," the Pampa mentor said. "You're always forced to change something once the game begins."

Apparently, Abercrombie has been pleased with the progress the players have made in changing from McPherson's system to the new style of play. The Pampa coaches have said their philosophy was to win the first few games on ability, conditioning and aggressiveness, and to win in the district with teamwork.

But they admitted seeing a large dose of the latter in Tuesday's scrimmage with Altus, Okla. High School.

"We played pretty well as a team," Abercrombie beamed. "I can see that leadership won't be a problem because there were several times down there where the game could have gotten out of hand with poor officiating."

"These kids are competitors, and feel like they can beat anybody," Abercrombie added. "But they also know what it takes to win, and are willing to dig and work for it."

Stockton dumps Connors

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — By his own admission, Dick Stockton always seems to play well against Jimmy Connors.

"I have nothing to lose when I go against players of his caliber," said Stockton Wednesday night after edging Connors 6-5, 6-5 in a round-robin match of the $320,000 WCT Challenge Cup tournament at Caesars Palace.

"I'm more relaxed out there against Jimmy than I'd be against, say, the No. 100 player in the world," Stockton, of Carrollton, Texas, reeled off six straight points in the second set tiebreaker to cap a dramatic comeback after Connors, of Belleville, Ill., won three of the first four points. It was the third time this year that Stockton has upset Connors.

"It's not over yet," said Connors. "If I win tomorrow night I just might sneak into the semifinals."

In other matches Wednesday night, Vitas Gerulaitis of Kings Point, N.Y., evened his record at 1-1 with a 5-6, 6-4, 6-4 victory over Roscoe Tanner of Lookout Mountain, Tenn., who is also 1-1, and Ilie Nastase of Romania raised his record to 2-0 by topping Australia's Rod Laver 6-5, 6-4. Laver dropped to 0-2.

Three matches are scheduled tonight: Stockton, 1-0, faces Australian John Alexander, 0-2, who was idle Wednesday. Connors meets Ken Rosewall of Australia, 1-0, who was also idle Wednesday and Nastase battles Tanner.

The semifinals are scheduled Saturday with the finals slated Sunday.

Oiler rookie gets chance

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Oiler rookie Rob Carpenter is a Yankee cowboy who left his boots at home when he was drafted by the Oilers because he didn't want to feel out of place.

Carpenter quickly discovered that Texans do indeed wear boots and the Oilers quickly discovered that Carpenter could feel right at home in the Oiler backfield, whether it be at fullback or running back.

The best one-word description of the bullish runner from Miami, Ohio is ready.

When Ronnie Coleman, Houston's leading rusher last year, was recovering from hepatitis during training camp, Carpenter was ready to soak up all the playing time he could get at running back.

When injuries riddled the Oilers' fullback corps, Carpenter shifted to that position where last week he rushed 120 yards on 19 carries and caught five passes for 46 yards against defending Super Bowl champion Oakland.

"Getting to play in the pre-season helped me more than anything else," Carpenter said. "The coaches gave me more chances and looked at me longer. I got a lot of experience and got a lot of the mistakes out of the way in pre-season that most rookies make during the regular season."

Maryland rookie Tim Wilson went out with injuries several weeks ago, giving Carpenter his chance at fullback.

"Football is a game of breaks and I hate to see anybody hurt, especially friends," Carpenter said. "But I've always been ready to play. That's the type of player I am."

Oiler running back Coach Andy Bourgeois appreciates Carpenter because he's such an attentive listener in practice.

Celts win third straight

By The Associated Press
The Indiana Pacers unexpectedly won a basketball game and unexpectedly lost a player Wednesday night.

While Indiana, the last-place team in the Midwest Division of the National Basketball Association, was upsetting Portland's defending league champions, 111-104, fiery guard John Williamson became upset and walked out on the Pacers.

Williamson, eighth in the NBA in scoring this season with a 23.8 average, disappeared during halftime after collecting only four points in 17 minutes in the first two periods.

"I have no comment on John Williamson," a stunned Indiana Coach Bob Leonard said after the game. "I'm going to keep it strictly a team matter and won't have any public comment about the situation now. After we practice Thursday, I'll have something to say."

Asked if Williamson would be at practice, Leonard replied, "I don't know."

While Williamson was vanishing into the night, the Pacers' offense and defense were shining brightly.

Dan Roundfield came off the bench and led Indiana with a career-high 29 points. Adrian Dantley scored 26 and Ricky Sobers contributed 21.

Meanwhile, the Pacers held Portland to nine points below its season's average in handing the Trail Blazers only their third loss in 13 games.

"We beat the world champs," Leonard said on a more cheery note after Indiana's first victory ever over the Trail Blazers. "It gives us a thrill."

Reserve Larry Steele paced Portland with 21 points and Bill Walton scored 20.

In other NBA games, the Boston Celtics routed the Atlanta Hawks 131-105, the Philadelphia 76ers downed the Seattle SuperSonics 101-96, the Buffalo Braves topped the Houston Rockets 101-97, and the Milwaukee Bucks beat the New Jersey Nets 116-106.

Celtics 131, Hawks 105
The Celtics, after a shaky 1-8 start this season, won their third straight game and handed the slumping Hawks, 8-5, their fourth loss in a row. Rookie Cedric "Cornbread" Maxwell and Tom Boswell each scored 20 points for Boston. Atlanta's John Drew, who tallied 25.

76ers 101, Sonics 96
Julius Erving's 28 points helped the surging 76ers win their sixth game in seven outings since Billy Cunningham replaced Gene Shue as coach. The victory gave the 76ers an overall record of 8-5 and moved them into a first-place tie with the New York Knicks in the Atlantic Division.

Braves 101, Rockets 97
Billy Knight's 38 points and Randy Smith's 29 enabled Buffalo to overcome a brilliant performance by Houston's Moses Malone, who had a career-high 36 points and 29 rebounds.

"He (Malone) can be better than he was tonight," said Rockets Coach Tom Nissalke. "It's hard to believe, isn't it."

especially when you realize he should be a senior in college."

Bucks 116, Nets 106

Dave Meyers' 29 points and 12 rebounds keyed Milwaukee's victory over the Nets, who were led by Kevin Porter's 26 points and 14 assists. New Jersey Coach Kevin Loughery, after being ejected with 41 seconds remaining following his second technical foul, angrily drop-kicked the ball toward the basket.

Jabbar return delayed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Lakers will have to play without the National Basketball Association's most valuable player the past two years for at least a little while longer.

All-Pro center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, who suffered a broken right hand last month, won't return to the Lakers' lineup Friday night as had been previously expected, the team announced Wednesday.

The Lakers said last week that Abdul-Jabbar would probably be able to play Friday when the team entertained the Detroit Pistons.

But Dr. Robert Kerlan's office announced that X rays taken Wednesday afternoon indicated that while the fracture continues to heal, it is still not strong enough to be subjected to heavy contact.

Abdul-Jabbar fractured the fourth metacarpal of the right hand in the opening minutes of the Lakers' season-opener at Milwaukee Oct. 18 when he punched Bucks' rookie center Kent Benson.

Houston Bowl eyes Huskies

TACOMA (AP) — The Washington Huskies and the Southern California Trojans are among teams mentioned as a possible opponent for a Southwest Conference school in the Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl in Houston on New Year's Eve, the Tacoma News Tribune says.

Washington and UCLA are tied for the Pacific-8 Conference lead with 5-1 records. The Huskies would advance to the Rose Bowl if they beat Washington State Saturday and the Trojans defeat the Bruins Nov. 25. UCLA would go to Pasadena if it downs USC by virtue of its earlier victory over Washington.

An agreement under consideration by Bluebonnet officials stipulates that if the Huskies advance to the Rose Bowl, USC would accept an invitation to the Bluebonnet in the Astro-dome if it beats UCLA.

The agreement also stipulates that the Huskies, 6-4 over-all, would accept a Bluebonnet invitation should they finish tied for the Pac-8 title with UCLA but miss the Rose Bowl berth.

Under the plan, Washington would be guaranteed a bowl berth if it defeats WSU — either the Rose Bowl or the Bluebonnet — and USC, also 6-4, would be guaranteed a Bluebonnet bid if it defeats UCLA.

"I'm not sure if any bowl ever has attempted to get two teams to agree to something like this," said Weldon Humble, chairman of the selection committee for the Bluebonnet.

"The one thing we are afraid of is that the Pac-8 (race) won't be decided until Nov. 25, and most bowls can't wait that long. An agreement like this would assure us of two of the country's outstanding football teams in the Bluebonnet."

By agreement, no bowl can invite teams until after next Saturday's games. But to insure a quality attraction, the major bowls and many of the minor bowls will be filled by Saturday night, six days before the Pac-8 champion and runner-up is determined.

"We haven't made any overtures at them (Washington or USC). It's just one of a number of things we're looking at," Humble said.

Kensler calls 'em

by Tom Kensler, sports editor

From the sound of the coaches, the Wheeler-Ropesville Class B bi-district clash in Amarillo Friday night can be termed a small-scale Ohio State-Michigan clash.

Both teams are quick, but physical. Both have backfields which can get the tough short yardage and break for the long gainer. Each team has a stingy defense.

And in the true spirit of Woody Hayes or Bo Schembechler, coaches Preston Smith of Wheeler and Don Parker of Ropes are worried the other team will play 'keep-away' with its ball-control offense.

"Ropes is comparable to Groom," said Smith of the District 2-B champion Tigers. "They are a well disciplined team offensively and a very good defense team."

The Tiger leader is Gary Means, who Smith says will be the best quarterback Wheeler has faced this year. Running out of multiple formations including the wishbone, Houston veer and slot I, Means gained 753 yards.

"Means has been getting a lot of attention from college recruiters, and I consider him an all-state candidate," said his coach Don Parker.

"The threat of Means, helped (Steven) Sims gain 1,003 yards for the season."

Parker said the 177-pound senior signal-caller has a good passing touch, although he has thrown infrequently.

"We only pass when we're forced to and we haven't been forced to very much," Parker explained.

The Ropes mentor gives credit to his offensive line for sustaining the long drives which have been a Ropes trademark.

Led by senior tackles Joel Drake and Tim Berry, the Tiger inner line is huge by Class B standards, averaging 177 pounds.

"Ropes runs out of several different formations, but I consider them mainly a power team," said Smith. "They'll try to keep the ball forever."

But likewise, Ropes mentor Parker must find a way to stop the Mustang's potent "I" offense, featuring running back Marvin Grimes, quarterback Bobby Guthrie, full-back Dell Ford and numerous other threats.

Grimes, only a junior, gained 1,068 yards while sitting out most fourth quarters because of larger Wheeler leads. Ford chipped in 644 yards and threw numerous key blocks from the up position.

Guthrie has capable receivers in Duane Childress, Myron Jolly and Sam Schaffer.

"Wheeler does so many things well that it will take our kids' best game of the year to beat them," said Parker. "Maybe that No. 1 ranking of theirs will give our kids an extra incentive."

Mustang mentor Smith sees turnovers as the key to the game.

"Anytime you get two strong teams together, the team which makes the fewest mistakes usually ends up winning."

Wheeler, Tascosa, Michigan get nods

"I'm also worried about their kicking game. Means is a great punter (43.6 average) and I hope we're not stuck with poor field position the whole game," Smith said.

The winner of the bi-district clash slated for 7:30 p.m. Friday in River Road High School Stadium will advance to the Class B quarterfinals the following Friday.

I'm not familiar with the Ropes Tigers, so I'll have to rely on the polls and stick with No. 1. Wheeler by 13.

In the other game of interest to Pampa fans, I'll take Tascosa to upset District 4-AAAA champ Lubbock Monterey. Monterey has the best player in the area, quarterback Ron Reeves, but Tascosa has sounder personnel overall.

Tascosa by seven.

Tickets for Friday night's Class AA bi-district clash between Spearman and Childress in Harvester Field will be available locally at the gate for $3 for adults and $1.50 for students. Game time is 7:30.

College call:
Michigan 14, Ohio State 13 — These teams (and coaches) are so evenly matched, only the Ann Arbor fans will give the Wolverines a slight edge.

Texas 35, Baylor 21 — Since A&M appears down, it appears to be clean pickin' to the Cotton Bowl for the 'Horns.

Arkansas 36, SMU 14 — The Razorbacks may be out of the Orange Bowl picture, but they'll be in clear view of SMU.

Texas A&M 28, TCU 15 — Aggies, still reeling from last week's loss, will take out some frustration on the lowly Progs.

West Texas State 32, Tulsa 23 — The Hurricanes had their diet of upsets already.

Texas Tech 32, Houston 18 — Fans across the land will be treated to a Rodney Allison Show in some bowl.

Notre Dame 34, Air Force 12 — I don't care what AP writer says, the Irish won't lose this battle even with the Falcons trying to win one last game for Ben Martin.

Other calls: Arizona State 41, Colorado State 12; Washington 34, Washington State 23; Colorado 36, Kansas State 10; Oklahoma State 28, Iowa State 24; Missouri 24, Kansas 18.

Last week's calls: 13-3
Season's tally: 110-20 — 85 percent

In the area small-school picks, I was 4-0 last week for a season call tally of 51-7, or 88 percent. Not bad for a newcomer to the Panhandle, if I do say so myself.

Texas Parks & Wildlife
LUBBOCK — A special 25-foot, steel-hull barge was hauled to Lubbock's Yellowhouse Canyon lakes last week by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department and over 1,000 old vehicle tires were banded and sunk in two of the lakes.

These artificial fish "attractors" are part of a state-wide plan to help replace some of the natural cover that was eliminated during lake construction such as trees, rocks and brush which were considered undesirable in the lakes.

The vehicle tires were used in the Lubbock project due to their availability and all were furnished by the parks and recreation department of Lubbock along with several crews to help in the two-day operation.

Each fish "attractor" consisted of five tires banded together and placed at strategic spots in the two lakes. These areas are accessible to anglers and each "attractor" should concentrate fish for harvest.

For years, management of public lakes for sportfishing consisted of stocking these freshwater lakes with desirable game fish but, many times, the fish were not available to the bank fisherman or were scattered over the lake.

This new management technique assists in improving fish habitat and provides an area where fish can hide from predators, rest, find food, and, in some cases, spawn.

Other forms of "attractors" have been used in various Texas lakes and all should help provide better fishing for state anglers.

LUBBOCK — Texas trappers are preparing for the 1977-78 fur-bearing season and the ranks of these outdoorsmen are increasing as the sale of pelts showed a substantial price increase last year.

The first fur-bearer to head the lengthy list of animals considered as prime targets for trappers is the mink and the muskrat season starts at the same time and continues from Nov. 15-Mar. 15.

Left to her own devices, nature will take her own harvest, far more devastating and complete than the most skilled trapper, and inflicting more pain, prolonged suffering and misery than the most devout anti-trapper would care to witness.

While hunting is the best method of controlling deer and other large animals including coyote and bobcat, it is extremely inefficient for controlling smaller animals such as skunk or raccoon.

Methods of trapping vary across Texas from the traps that instantly kill the animals to those that restrain the animals.

The commercial "killer" traps available to the trapper is the conibear-type traps. This trap consists of two square, metal frames connected by a spring. These type traps are most effective when used for smaller animals such as the muskrat, skunk and etc.

The "live" trap most widely used is the leg-hold trap since it can be used in many ways for both short and long-legged animals and gives the trapper the option of releasing, usually without permanent damage, an animal he does not want to kill.

Leg-hold traps can be set on land or in water and when set properly in water, they can be used as a "killer" trap for the animal is quickly drowned. On land, they can be set near a predator's known target such as hen house, sheep pen, or animal trails.

The banning of the leg-hold traps and trapping in general would actually increase the inhumanity to animals by aggravating their starvation and disease problems caused by a shrinking habitat.

The coyote and bobcat are neither classified as fur-bearing or game animals in Texas. Their pelts, however, are valuable and brought as much as $30 per coyote and $100 per bobcat during the winter of 1976-77.

A few fur-buyers are already purchasing coyote hides but, the prime, winter hair has not yet developed and the prices are near the $15-$20 range.

A major change was made in the export of bobcat pelts by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife through the Endangered Species Scientific Authority (ESSA) prohibiting further export of bobcat fur from the U.S.

The action was taken due to a lack of biological proof that international trading of furs will not endanger a species and since Texas is the biggest producer of bobcat pelts, the state's trappers and bobcat hunters could find less of a demand for bobcat furs this winter.

The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department cannot set seasons or complete management studies on bobcat since the state agency does not have legislative authority to do so.

The final outcome of this federal action is still pending but, unless an agreement can be reached between the state wildlife agencies and ESSA, the price and processing of bobcat furs will surely be reduced.

Ex-Twin Bostock seeking record $3 million pact

NEW YORK (AP) — What price glory?
Would you believe more than $3 million?
That's what outfielder Lyman Bostock is seeking for a multi-year contract.

Should Bostock achieve his lofty goal, he would surpass the highest baseball free agent contract signed last year — $2.9 million by outfielder Reggie Jackson of the New York Yankees.

Bostock, the most popular player in the recent re-entry free agent draft, is basing a great deal of his argument for the huge contract on his strong 1977 season — a .336 batting average, second best in the American League behind Minnesota teammate Rod Carew's .368; 14 home runs and 90 runs batted in.

Bostock, picked by the maximum 13 teams in the draft, is expected to narrow the bidding to six clubs later this week, according to his agent, Abdul Jallil.

Jallil said Tuesday that Pittsburgh and Kansas City already have been eliminated from the Bostock sweepstakes because their financial offers were not comparable to those of other clubs.

"You can't ask a player to consider signing for $1 million less with one club than he can get from another," said Jallil. "Right now, we have five offers of over $2 million and three offers that are better than what Reggie Jackson signed for."

Surprisingly, the Yankees

and California Angels, two of the biggest winners in last year's free agent market, opened their offers for Bostock with low bids, Jallil said. However, since then, both teams apparently have raised their offers and still are in the financial battle for the popular outfielder, the agent indicated.

Other clubs which could be among the finalists for Bostock are Toronto, San Diego and Milwaukee.

Among the other teams who drafted Bostock — the New York Mets, Oakland, Chicago White Sox, San Francisco, Baltimore and his old club, Minnesota — all have sidestepped the big money stakes that the bidding has reached.

And the Texas Rangers already have spent more than $3 million in signing two free agents, outfielder Richie Zisk and pitcher Doc Medich.

"A lot of clubs eliminated themselves by not being competitive," said Jallil.

During Mark Twain's days as a newspaperman, he was editor of a small Missouri paper. One day he received a letter from a subscriber, stating that he had found a spider in his paper, and asked if this was an omen of good or bad luck.

Twain replied: "Finding a spider in your paper is neither good nor bad luck. The spider was merely looking over our paper to see which merchant was not advertising so that he could go to that store, spin his web across the door, and lead a life of undisturbed peace ever afterward."

Currently ranked No. 1 in both the state A.P. and U.P.I. polls, the Mustangs have a district record of 8-0 and a season record of 9-0 and held over 40 percent of opposing teams scoreless. The Wheeler Mustangs, District 1-B Champions, take on the District 2-B Champion Ropesville Eagles tomorrow night in Amarillo's River Road Stadium at 7:30 p.m. The Mustangs are working harder than ever to bring home the Bi-District Championship and earn the right to move into the State Class B Quarter Finals. We know their hard work will pay off again and encourage you to see the game tomorrow night. It will be an outstanding evening of championship football.
