COFFEE FOR CANDIDATE—Mrs. Wylene Curtis, left, Sen. Hank Grover, Republican candidate for governor, and Mrs. Katie Key, wife of Gray County Republican Chairman Julian Key, discuss the issues this morning at the first of a series of coffees to introduce Grover to the voters. Mrs. Curtis was hostess for the event. Two more coffees were to be held today, one in Borger, and three are scheduled for Friday. The coffees are open to anyone interested.

GOP Governor Nominee Makes Stump Swing In Gray County

Henry C. "Hank" Grover, the Republican nominee for governor, kicked off a round-robin of campaigning in Gray County with a coffee for Republican women at the home of Mrs. Wylene Curtis, 1928 Grape.

Coinciding with the current events, the question most frequently posed this morning seemed to be the effect Democratic party affairs might have on a Republican state race.

"I think it will help us," Grover said, adding, "But the impetus to elect a Republican governor in Texas was already a rolling force."

He cited the experience of Paul Eggers as an example of how far back the potential for a Republican chief executive in Texas existed, noting that Eggers polled 47 per cent of the vote against a one-term governor and that before the scandals in Austin came to light.

A one-time Democrat, the Republican standardbearer said he saw no about face for the Democrats. He felt speculation that, after McGovern, the party would switch to conservative candidates was wishful thinking.

"The action of their convention this year was not a great revolution but a big step along the route they have been taking for the past several years and I predict no turning back."

He used this to prompt Republican women to welcome Democratic voters into the fold promising that they would be there wanting to vote conservatively.

Asked how effective a Republican governor would be with the legislature, Grover spoke from his years of experience in the legislature and said, "It's political philosophy that counts in Austin—not party labels. The majority of those men down there vote their convictions."

Grover thinks there should be an immediate reform of educational spending citing certain corporate and personal state income tax as the alternative. He reminded his listeners that, in the last regular session of the legislature, corporate income tax failed by one vote. He warned that a personal income tax would follow shortly after that move.

He is opposed to gun legislation without reservation. He said he felt that current laws would be struck down as unconstitutional if they were ever seriously challenged.

Grover opposes any new taxes citing the recent special session as a pattern for a fiscal program for the state.

"We simply made the budget fit the money at hand."

Grover will speak to the Lions Club at noon today and to Kiwanis tomorrow at noon. He will make a side trip Thursday afternoon to Borger for a coffee.

He will move on to Dalhart Saturday for the XIT celebration there.

U.S. Negotiator Criticizes Hanoi's Demands At Talks

Porter Repeats Appeal For Vietnam Cease-fire

PARIS (AP) — U.S. Ambassador William J. Porter said today the Communist seven-point peace plan seems "more remote than ever from political and military reality," and repeated the U.S. appeal for an immediate cease-fire in Vietnam.

The secret meeting Tuesday between President Nixon's adviser Henry A. Kissinger and North Vietnamese negotiators did not appear to have altered the Communist position in the talks.

Hanoi's Xuan Thuy stuck firmly to his demands that the United States end the bombing, pull out of Vietnam and stop supporting President Nguyen Van Thieu.

The American negotiator criticized the Communist demand for what he called "dismantling" much of the Saigon regime as a "precondition to negotiations," adding that "the psychological and practical obstacles to such change stagger the imagination."

Porter again urged acceptance of Nixon's May 8 proposals for release of prisoners of war and a cease-fire which would halt the bombing.

Assailing the American air war, Thuy told the 153rd session of the peace talks: "To launch saturation bombing raids with the B52 strategic bombers, to use napalm and toxic chemicals, to wage a war of genocide and biocide in South Vietnam, this is in fact the most barbaric invasion in history. The bombing of the dikes and dams to cause floods, a disaster for millions of North Vietnamese, is to commit crimes more monstrous than those of the Fascist Hitlerites."

Thuy said the Vietnamese people "have done no harm to the United States. On the contrary, the U.S. has waged a war of aggression in Vietnam for many years now, and the Nixon administration is pursuing that unjust war with unprecedented cruelty and perpetrating war crimes surpassing the gravity of those already condemned by the Nuernberg tribunal."

Mrs. Nguyen Thi Dinh, the chief Viet Cong delegate, rejected the American demand for an immediate cease-fire, saying this would mean "the cessation by the South Vietnamese people of their just struggle for self defense" while leaving in place "the U.S. installed administration with its huge machine of repression and coercion."

Mrs. Binh told U.S. Ambassador William J. Porter the American peace proposals "are aimed at maintaining the U.S. neo-colonialist domination."

Both Thuy and Mrs. Binh scoffed at President Nixon's claims that bombing of North Vietnamese dikes was accidental. Thuy said that on July 29 Hanoi's water conservation

Bremer Recounts Attempt

UPPER MARLBORO, Md. (AP)—A step-by-step account by Arthur H. Bremer of how he planned and failed to assassinate President Nixon in Ottawa, Canada, was read to a hushed jury in Prince Georges Circuit Court today.

As Bremer buried his head in his arms, Benjamin Lipsitz, his attorney, read page after page from Bremer's diary that told of his failure to get into the hotel where he thought Nixon would be staying, his failure to get into the airport where the President was to land and finally, his failure to get a shot at the President's car rushed by.

The diary related that Bremer, the accused assailant of Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, had only a glimpse of Nixon as the President's motorcade from the airport sped by on the way into Ottawa during a visit in April.

"He went by before I knew it," Bremer wrote in the diary.

"A dark silhouette rushed by in a black car."

"All over."

"I had missed it. The best chance to get him was over."

Lipsitz, who had read the first 35 pages of the 114-page diary at a late night session Wednesday, picked up where he left off as the trial on state charges entered its fourth day today.

Bremer has pleaded innocent by reason of insanity to 17 charges stemming from the shooting of Wallace and three other persons at a Laurel, Md. political rally May 15.

Lipsitz is reading the entire diary to the jury, apparently hoping it will back up his contention that Bremer is legally insane and not responsible for his actions.

Excerpts from the diary read today went into great detail about Bremer's trip from Milwaukee to Ottawa with two guns in his car.

The document related that once Bremer got to Ottawa he asked for the finest hotel and tried to get a room there.

Cowboys, Cowgirls Continue To Compete For 'Big' Prizes

By LARRY HOLLIS

The 26th annual Top O' Texas Rodeo got off to a good start Wednesday night with some of the best action seen at the Pampa event in recent years.

Competition was close in the first half of the first go-round action in most events as some of the highest ranked RCA cowboys and cowgirls tried for the prize money.

Performances will be held at 8 p.m. today, Friday and Saturday as cowboys and cowgirls compete in the Rodeo Cowboys Association sponsored event.

Gary Payne of Cimmaron, Kan., took the lead in the professional bareback riding event with a score of 68 points. Chick Elms of Stephenville was second with 63.

Raymond Hulin of Wichita Falls and Mitchell Wood of Houston were tied for third at 59.

The four were the only ones to qualify in the event last night.

In the amateur bareback riding, only two cowboys qualified. Vic Bridwell of Pampa was leading with 60 points, while Monty McCloy of Shamrock was second with 54.

Clyde Bullard of Comanche, Okla., took the lead in calf roping with a time of 11.9 seconds. Another Comanche guy was second as Terry Phillips marked a time of 12.5.

Buddy Geter was ranked third with 14.5 while Sherrill

Overturf of Lubbock rated fourth with 16.5.

In the girls barrel race, Jo Russell of Shamrock was leading with a time of 17.92 seconds. Lanita Smith of Canton, Okla., had second with 18.09.

Third was Pam Eichelberger of Walnut Springs, Colo., at 18.29, with Connie Davidson of Edmond, Okla., fourth with 18.82.

Only three cowboys received points in the saddle bronc riding event. Leo Anderson of Brenham led with 69 points, with Jon Day of Eldorado, Kan., second at 56. Bob Crill of San Angelo was third with 52.

Larry Dawson of Craford easily led the steer wrestling with a fine time of 4.3 seconds, over six seconds better than his nearest competitor.

Bob L. Walker of Palmer was second at 11.1, with Buddy Cockrell of Pampa third at 12.3. Rush Herrington of Palestine was fourth with 13.2.

In the bull riding event, Randy Magers of Comanche, Tex., led with 72 points, with Jerome Robinson of Brandon, Neb., close behind at 71.

The other two places were close as Jack Faulk of Canyon gained 66 points while Spanky Browne of Wilburton, Okla., had 65.

The first go-rounds for the calf roping and steer wrestling events were completed after the other events in the show.

Money winners for the first go-round in steer wrestling were: 1. Larry Dawson, Craford, with 4.3 seconds; 2. Jim Smith, Okemah, Okla., 8.8; 3. Leon McCoy, Paden, Okla., 9.7; 4. Bob L. Walker, Palmer, 11.1.

The best riding club award went to the Pampa 4-H Riding Club, with the Boys Ranch Honor Patrol ranking second.

The Glen McConnell tractor and trailer was selected as the most attractive commercial entry.

City Waste Treatment Proposal Receives Favorable Consideration

By TEX DEWEESE

A definitive plan for upgrading the quality of effluent discharged from BEAUTY CONTESTANT Leccrea Howard, 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Howard, McLean, is the latest contestant in the Miss Top O' Texas Beauty Pageant. A junior at McLean High School, Miss Howard is interested in twirling, cooking, sewing and playing piano. Her sponsor is Pampa College of Hairdressing.

Pampa's waste treatment plant was given favorable consideration when city officials met yesterday afternoon in Austin with the Texas Water Quality Board.

City Manager Mack Wofford said today the plan, one of three proposals, was presented at yesterday's two-hour session and Pampa was given until Sept. 1 to submit to the board a construction timetable for implementation of the sewage plant.

Representing the city at the Austin meeting were Wofford, Mayor Milo Carlson, City Commissioner R. D. Wilkerson, Gene Barber of Merriman and Barber consultant engineers, and Frank Honeycutt, project manager, and John Di Filippo, staff specialist of the Dallas engineering firm of Forrest and Cotton.

They met with Timothy L. Morris, Texas Water Quality Board chief of field support, and members of his staff.

The plan discussed with the TWQB was the third and possibly least expensive method of modification consisting of expansion of existing oxidation bonds and aeration of existing ponds as recommended by Forrest and Cotton engineers.

Following the discussion by both sides, the Water Quality Board asked the city, during the remainder of August, to determine the most feasible method of plant modification and submit to the state board by Sept. 1 the timetable for completion of the modifications.

City Manager Wofford said today the study will be made by the consultant engineers and their final report will be given to the City Commission for a decision on feasibility and cost estimates.

If the commission adopts the alternative plan and the cost figure is arrived at, Wofford said, the commission then will be faced with the task of determining how the plant improvement will be funded.

Wofford said a full report on the Austin meeting would be given to the full membership of the city commission when it meets next Tuesday in regular semi-monthly session.

Senate Votes To End Role In Indochina

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has voted a second time to halt U.S. combat operations in Indochina, but the battle to make it stick is far from over.

The amendment by Sen. Edward Brooke, R-Mass., was passed Wednesday night in a series of eight intricate, hard-fought votes. The tally on the key test was 49 to 47.

Attached to a $20.5-billion Pentagon procurement bill, the amendment provides for U.S. withdrawal from Indochina, except Thailand, within four months if Hanoi releases American prisoners and accounts for GIs missing in action.

The measure would cut off funds for all war operations except the amount required for withdrawal and the protection of withdrawing forces.

An amendment by Sen. George Aiken, R-Vt., to incorporate President Nixon's conditions for withdrawal from Vietnam was adopted at one point 51 to 47, but was replaced later with Brooke's measure.

The bill itself eventually carried 92 to 5, unlike the foreign-military-aid bill which the Senate killed last week after a similar end-the-war amendment was attached to it.

However, the House version of the procurement bill has no end-the-war provision. A conference between the Armed Service committees of both chambers could kill it.

Federal Ban On DES Hurts Beef Producers

The Food and Drug Administration, Wednesday, banned the use of diethylstilbestrol (DES) in the feeding of beef cattle in the U.S.

The move prompted great tears from beef producers and feedlot operators, budget worries for housewives expecting higher meat prices at the counter and sent opposing congressional candidates to their corners again.

DES is a female hormone added to feedlot rations that, according to its proponents, produces ten per cent more beef per animal for the market quicker.

Opponents contend the added weight gain is only the accumulation of water in the tissues at the expense of human health because laboratory experiments have labeled DES a carcinogen—a cancer-causing substance.

Locally, Gray County Agriculture Agent Foster

Whaley felt the move was not based on sound research citing the instability of testing on rats in laboratories.

"The only residuals of DES found in animals have been in the liver—none in other tissues used for human consumption," Whaley said. "And this disappears following the establishment of a withdrawal period before slaughter. I have had no qualms whatever about feeding my family DES-fed beef."

Rep. Graham Purcell announced plans to try legislative measures to block the ban fearing higher beef prices for the consumer.

Rep. Bob Price, his Republican opponent, felt both beef feeders and consumers should abide by the scientific knowledge of the agencies involved and called on the beef industry to rise to the occasion as they have in other crises in the past.

DANCE PLAYERS—Helen Taylor and her all girl band, the Taylor Sisters, will provide the music for the annual rodeo dance during the 26th annual Top O' Texas Rodeo. Dances will begin at 9 p. m. in the National Guard Armory during the remaining nights of the rodeo.

Taylor Sisters To Play In Nat'l Guard Armory

Helen Taylor, top recording artist, and her all girl band, the Taylor Sisters, will provide the music for the annual Top O' Texas Rodeo dance.

Dances will be held at 9 p. m. today, Friday and Saturday in the National Guard Armory during the rodeo.

A native of the Deep South, Helen is known as the "singer with a tear in her voice." She is considered the nation's greatest female lead guitar player.

The Taylor Sisters recently returned from a 14-week tour of the Far East and Vietnam. While in that area, the girls were chosen the outstanding show group to appear in South Vietnam during the entire month they entertained thousands of the U. S. servicemen.

The group headline shows 16 weeks a year at the famed Golden Nugget in Las Vegas, Nev.

They are on tour regularly with the Grand Ole Opry road shows from Nashville, Tenn. They have co-starred on numerous state fair grandstand shows, including Montana, North Dakota, Nebraska and Kansas.

The unit features solos, duets and trios in addition to comedy routines.

They will also perform as a specialty act during the rodeo performance nights.

Farmers Pay More In '72 For Expenses

WASHINGTON (AP)—This summer a farmer had to pay $6.43 for a pair of overalls which a year ago cost him $6.02, he climbed on a $19,300 combine which in 1971 cost $17,820 and harvested wheat worth $1.32 per bushel, two cents less than a year ago.

The figures, published by the Agriculture Department, illustrate a basic problem for most farmers today: Even if they produce more and prices for some commodities are better—notably livestock—rising costs are eating into family budgets.

Department economists say, however, that higher prices for cattle and hogs this year have generated a trend of improvement and that net farm income is expected to rise by about $2 billion over last year.

Costs of production have risen steadily for several years. In July, the USDA said, the average prices farmers paid for operating expenses, including goods, services, taxes and wages, rose by one per cent—pushing the level to 27 per cent more than five years ago.

The monthly price report included price samples for items commonly needed and purchased by farmers, from men's overalls and combines to bricks and fertilizer.

Briscoe, Orr Back Bentsen For Veep

DALLAS (AP)—U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen of Texas is the choice of Democratic gubernatorial nominee Dolph Briscoe and State Democratic Party Chairman Roy Orr as Sen. Thomas Eagleton's replacement on the national ticket.

"I think it would be very wise of Sen. (George) McGovern to give serious consideration to Sen. Bentsen," Briscoe announced at a special press conference.

"It would certainly be more in the interest of Texans to have Lloyd Bentsen vote for than some fellow from Maine or somewhere," Orr added.

The two state party leaders met here Wednesday to consider calling together the 130 Texas delegates to the national convention to fill three of the six places allotted to Texas on the national committee, which will formally select the party's new vice-presidential nominee.

Briscoe said the special meeting would be necessary since the national committee gave approval Wednesday afternoon for the existing three delegates to vote proportionately to reflect the entire six-member delegation.

Of the four Texans currently on the national committee, Jess Hay of Dallas has one vote, Mrs. Jane Blumberg of Seguin has one vote, while Orr shares a vote with Mrs. Ralph O'Connor.

The Democrats expanded the size of their national committee at the recent national convention in Miami, giving the state six delegates. The Texas delegation had planned to fill the vacancies at its Sept. 19 state convention.

"I have been notified by the national committee that they will meet sometime next week. I was most anxious to check their rules and regulations for our delegates because I wanted to insure Texas will be represented in full strength," Briscoe said.

Orr, in announcing that Bentsen is his and Briscoe's choice, said he felt Texans should attempt to influence McGovern to "balance the ticket" by selecting someone of more moderate views than Eagleton.

School Tax Loss Forces Money Cut

The Lefors school district, last week, eliminated one coaching position and cut teacher salaries $500 in an effort to offset tax revenue losses.

The move grew out of a meeting with the school's consultants in tax matters, Thomas Y. Pickett of Dallas with G. W. James, Fred Blackwell and Edward Bryant sitting as a board of equalization.

Petroleum interests had been paying 95.6 per cent of the school taxes for years with the small remainder coming from local sources. Dwindling profits in oil and other factors have resulted in a $250,000 loss in taxable valuation.

G. W. Miller of the Texas Co. (Texaco) representing oil interests, requested all local property to be placed on county values with the oil companies for the coming year.

The district had been paying $1,000 above the state schedule for teacher salaries. It was felt that cutting this to $500 and eliminating the one coaching salary would forestall an increase in taxes for another year.

The current tax rate is $1.50 per $100 valuation.

A report that 99.09 per cent of all taxes had been collected to date sounded a note of encouragement.

Black-Eyed Pea Contest At Athens

ATHENS, Tex. (AP)—The Second Annual Black-eyed Pea Jamboree—a three-day celebration with ham hock dinners and hillbilly bands—will kick off at 6 p. m. Friday with an "All-Star Pea Parade."

Jack Steed, chairman of the Henderson County event, said participants in the Black-eyed Pea Cookoff, judges and regional musical groups will participate in the opening festivity at what Athens calls "The Black-Eyed Pea Capital of the World."

Steed said some 200 contestants will compete for $2,000 in cash in three categories of "Ree-peas."

The categories include the black-eyed pea as an appetizer, a vegetable and a salad.

Last year's grand prize winner, Mrs. Anita Ship of Quanlan, Tex., is expected to defend her title.

Following the parade and preliminary judging Friday, there will be an all night Gospel Singing Festival at the Athens High School athletic field. The Blackwood Brothers will be headliners for the event along with The Four Galileans, Rosie Rozell and The Searchers.

HOLDING TIGHT—Mike Smith of Lefors holds tight to Just Because as he rides in the amateur bareback riding event at the 26th annual Top O' Texas Rodeo last night. Smith was later thrown from the horse, receiving no score. Another performance began at 8 p. m. today. (See related pictures on Page 1).

More Busing For Austin Schools, Less For Corpus Christi's Ordered

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—More busing for Austin schools and less for Corpus Christi's is the picture presented by an "en banc" decision of the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals Wednesday.

All 15 judges of the appeals court participated in the decision instead of the usual three-judge panel. The "en banc" procedure is reserved for unusual or important suits.

The Corpus Christi case dealt with a district court ruling which called for extensive cross-town busing, which school officials protested would cost them an extra $1.7 million a year and would involve about 15,000 elementary school pupils.

The Justice Department, acting under anti-busing guidelines set forth by President Nixon, asked that the plan be sent back for changes.

In its ruling, the 5th Circuit said constitutional desegregation can be achieved in Corpus Christi without such extensive busing.

"We conclude that a different approach may achieve a constitutional result without involving the conversion of the school system from a non-transportation basis to the extent ordered by the district court," the appeals court said.

The legal question in Corpus Christi, the court said, was whether the Mexican-American segregation in the city is constitutional impermissible.

"We affirm the district court's finding that the Mexican-American children of Corpus Christi are segregated in violation of the Constitution," the court said. "However, we disagree with the remedy prescribed by the district court and require that it be modified."

Austin's plan retained a neighborhood school concept, modified by the establishment of "learning resource centers" and visits between schools.

of busing as a 'permissible tool,' within the court's power to provide equitable relief."

When the government appealed, Nixon intervened in an extraordinary move. He repudiated HEW's busing proposal and re-emphasized his opposition to extensive racial busing.

In reversing, the 5th Circuit said the district judge may not "totally reject the use of busing."

"Whenever possible, we defer to the good judgment of the district judge," the opinion said. "He knows the local situation better than we do. He may not, however, totally reject the use

Frank Phillips College Has Financial Aid Plan

Several sources of financial aid are available for students who need help to attend Frank Phillips College.

Various organizations and companies give scholarships to worthy students, plus several individuals give partial and full scholarships.

These scholarships are granted several different ways. Some clubs and organizations designate the recipient, others take applications and a special committee passes on the applicants.

Several meetings are held in August to survey the applications and make recommendations.

The college will supply application forms for students who are interested. Applications include information on financial need, academic ability and character recommendations.

Short term loans are available on low interest to qualifying applicants.

The Guaranteed Student Loans Plan is a separate plan by which students borrow college expense money from banks and loan organizations and the federal government cosigns the note.

A second loan program, the Texas Opportunity Plan, is part of a federally insured loan program. Students borrow from the state, and the federal government insures the loan.

College jobs are available on the work-study system. Students must be attending class full time. They are allowed to work up to 15 hours per week.

The college work-study program is operated strictly under guidelines and regulations of the federal government. Gross annual income of an eligible student's family may not exceed a certain amount and this must be documented.

Applications for loans or scholarships may be made to the Financial Aid officer of the College. Application blanks are available at the college.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Thursday, Aug. 3, the 216th day of 1972. There are 150 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1492, Christopher Columbus sailed from Spain on the expedition that resulted in the discovery of America.

On this date: In 1780, Benedict Arnold was put in command of the fortifications at West Point, N.Y., during the American Revolution.

In 1881, British troops occupied the Egyptian town of Suez.

In 1914, Germany declared war on France.

In 1943, during World War II, there were anti-Nazi demonstrations in Milan, Genoa and other cities in northern Italy.

In 1951, it was disclosed that 90 cadets had been dismissed from the U.S. Military Academy at West Point for cheating in examinations.

In 1958, the atomic-powered U.S. submarine, Nautilus, made the first undersea crossing of the North Pole.

Ten years ago: In Algiers, Vice Premier Mohammed Ben Bella received a big welcome after winning a month-long dispute over Algerian leadership.

Five years ago: President Lyndon B. Johnson asked for a 10 per cent hike in taxes to finance the war in Vietnam.

One year ago: Cuba closed its embassy in Madrid because of a deadlock in trade negotiations with Spain.

Today's birthdays: Singer Tony Bennett is 46. Former film star Dolores Del Rio is 67.

Worry Clinic

By GEORGE W. CRANE, PH.D., M.D.

Here's a puzzle for your psychological detectives: Despite Fred Lowe's superb sales pressure and logical reasons, his superiors kept using "excuses." These meant they were not verbalizing their inner feelings. Why?

CASE U-552: A few weeks before his sudden death, Fred Lowe and I had lunch in New York.

As Promotion Manager of the JOURNAL AMERICAN, Fred was keenly interested in zooming its circulation.

And he had a keen insight into what readers like.

"George," he grumbled, "your column could bring us almost 50,000 letters per year, for I've seen what it did at other big dailies."

"But I can't persuade the powers that be."

"For they think you are too frank!"

NEWSPAPER HYPOCRISY
"Fred," I protested, "how can they make such a charge against my educational column when right here on the front page they cite rape cases, homosexual orgies and other pornographic episodes?"

"What office case have I described that makes them claim I am too frank?"

Fred said when we got back to the JOURNAL AMERICAN office he'd show me the case on which they based their charges.

And can you readers guess what they objected to so strenuously?

It is to laugh!
For I simply answered the worries of a young, expectant mother, who had asked if she could "mark" her baby by her fears or thoughts.

She had also inquired if the mother's blood circulated in the vessels of her unborn child?

"And if a mother could thus infect her infant prior to birth by diseases she might have at the time."

I had used the terms uterus (womb), as well as the other medical term placenta (afterbirth) and umbilical cord.

That case was almost a duplicate of this week's Case U-550.

The word "sex" wasn't even mentioned nor did I use such euphemistic terms as "erotic" and "erotic calories."

And I had no occasion in that simple medical explanation to employ the phrase "boudoir cheesecake."

So you readers may wonder why a large Hearst newspaper would act so squeamish?

Especially when William Randolph Hearst, Sr., who built up the great chain of Hearst newspapers, had sent a wire to his west coast dailies, urging all of them to use this "Worry Clinic" column.

So why should his New York newspaper suddenly grow so prudish?

And be so inconsistent as to spurge on Page One with rape, assault, homosexual cases, etc., while retching over an innocuous medical case of the sort we use in the schools to explain childbirth.

Well, if you had been enrolled in my "Sales Psychology" courses at Northwestern University, you'd say:

"Dr. Crane, they were citing excuses, not reasons!"

New Flame Retardance Ruling May Give Hotfoot To Parents.

RALEIGH—A lot of American parents are getting a "hotfoot" this week—but it will probably be a year before they feel any heat.

The first federal flame retardance standard on wearing apparel went into effect Saturday (July 29). It makes it illegal to sell children's sleepwear in sizes 6X and below that does not pass tests set by the U.S. Secretary of Commerce.

But untreated garments already in stock or in the warehouse may be sold. And sleepwear makers who have approval from the Commerce Secretary can make untreated garments for one year if they affix a label advising consumers that the item does not meet the standard.

The reprieve is temporary. Come July 29, 1973, mothers shopping for sleeping garments in the affected category will be able to buy only those that have been treated to meet the new standard.

And that's when mom and dad will yell "ouch!"

They'll get the flame retardant sleepwear. But they will pay.

Treating fabrics to make them acceptably flame retardant will raise the price of all garments. The prices of some probably will double.

And as the price goes up, durability and comfort will come down.

"We will make cotton garments that cost twice as much and last half as long," one industry official has said.

There is no insurmountable reason for not making flame retardant sleepwear for children, or any other textile product, for that matter.

"It can be done with cotton, but at a price," says Dr. Leonard Smith, manager of flammability research for Cotton Incorporated, the research, sales and marketing company of America's 300,000 cotton growers.

How much will consumers pay for flame retardance performance?

The durable flame retardants now available commercially cost about $1 per pound dry weight. The amount required to treat fabrics ranges from a minimum of about 35 per cent for lightweight, porous fabrics. It depends on the flame retardant agent being used, the efficiency of attaching the agent to the fabric, and the standard imposed on the garment that will be made from the fabric.

Processors of cotton fabrics say it will cost from 25 to 30 cents per yard to finish cotton goods for flame retardance to meet the new standard. By the time the fabric makes its way to the retailer, and everybody adds his mark-up, the increase in price can reasonably be expected to reach $1 per garment for inexpensive children's sleepwear.

The market for children's sleepwear in America traditionally has been a market for 100 per cent cotton. There are some garments made of cotton blended with other fibers, mostly polyester. Together those two categories comprise 90 to 95 per cent of the total market.

The new flame retardance standard equates some fabrics made of 100 per cent synthetic fiber with cotton that has been treated for flame retardance. Yet treated cotton won't burn, whereas 100 per cent synthetic fibers do burn under certain conditions.

Studies have shown that synthetic fabrics in garments, even large pieces, can burn vigorously—although test specimens cut from the garments can pass the government's test.

"The standard is unfair to cotton," Dr. Smith says without equivocation.

As the cotton growers' expert on flammability research, Dr. Smith petitioned in the name of Cotton Incorporated for amendments to the flame retardance standard before it was ordered into effect.

He asked that knitted sleepers be exempted from the standard. For one thing, they were not involved in the base study on which the decision to order the standard was based. For another, knitted garments are less susceptible to accidental ignition because they fit close to the body. And even if ignited, they burn much less readily than other types of sleepwear.

He asked for a change in the arbitrary selection of 50 launderings as the criterion for measuring the staying quality of flame retardant finishes. The standard bears no relation to the real-life serviceability of garments, and other tests could measure the adequacy of treatment at far less cost.

He requested relief from the requirement that seam testing be applied even to garments that do not burn when supported—such as cotton treated for flame retardance.

He pleaded that the "bone dry" requirement be dropped as unreasonable and unrealistic. In natural use cotton is never bone dry. It absorbs moisture from the air and from the body of the wearer.

And he objected to placing with the Federal Trade Commission the responsibility for establishing conditions of durability tests, instead of with the Department of Commerce.

"The FTC lacks the scientific staff to carry out necessary research," Dr. Smith maintains.

Cotton Incorporated's petition to amend the standard was one of many that came from textile industry organizations. All were denied. The standard has gone into effect.

Children's sleepwear in sizes 6X and below is just the start. Next will come children's sleepwear in sizes 7-14, then children's dresses, blouses, pants, then blankets, curtains, draperies, and so on.

But American cotton growers are not taking the setback lying down.

At the Cotton Incorporated Research and Technical Services Center at Raleigh, N.C., an intensified research program is underway to improve the flame-retardance properties of cotton fabrics at lower costs.

FAMOUS PRINT—One of the well-known Currier & Ives prints, "American Express Train," is among those being shown in the Russell-Remington-Currier & Ives Exhibition at the Amarillo Art Center, Amarillo College. The show, which began July 7, will continue through Aug. 13. The hand-colored Currier & Ives collection, loaned by the Amon Carter Museum, of Fort Worth, represents the great variety of American life of the last century. The works of two great illustrators of that period, Charles Marion Russell and Frederic Remington, are being displayed also.

Psychologists Say: Play Important For Children

By C. G. McDANIEL
AP Science Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — "Just pretending" is more than mere play-acting for children, say two educational psychologists who add that play is an important part of growing up, of learning to solve problems and of getting along with people and environment.

Dr. Maria Piers, dean of the Erickson Institute for Early Education, and Barbara Bowman, co-director, pointed out where there is no feeling of security, there is not much dramatic play — that which involves imagination.

But in some ways, Mrs. Bowman said, children of the "upward-striving middle class" have a more difficult time than children from poverty families.

Mrs. Bowman commented that "there is no need for grand toys" to encourage children to play, although toys may be more necessary in the city than elsewhere because of the lack of "found objects" to play with.

Here's the Answer

AP Newsfeatures
Q.—I bought some welded-wire fabric for use in reinforcing concrete in a project I have coming up soon. The roll is marked 6 x 6, 10/10. What does that mean?
A.—It means the wires are 6 inches apart and are 10 gauge.
Q.—I recently bought some shellac and used it right from the container. It didn't dry properly. What caused this?
A.—It could be that the shellac was too old. But a more likely cause is that it was applied on a very humid day. Did you dilute the shellac with denatured alcohol? This makes it easier to apply and helps it to dry more quickly.

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

FRIDAY, AUGUST 4

Your Birthday today: Open a wide field test of your ability to move into a quiet situation and bring about changes. Nothing can remain as it was if you are to grow. Emotional ties need care, willing expression of feelings. Today's natives are lucky but restless, often given some special concern with orphans.

Aries [March 21—April 19]: By accepting people as they are, you can get to them with sound advice. Family, romantic interests are alive and in mixed conditions.

Taurus [April 20—May 20]: You have an opportunity to reconcile past differences. You can gather support for group projects. News from far places provokes discussion.

Gemini [May 21—June 20]: Being yourself may bring on a confrontation, a chance to state your case clearly and achieve sound adjustments. Be practical.

Cancer [June 21—July 22]: Work alone on important issues. Would-be helpers mainly to get in the way. Get medical and other technical advice.

Leo [July 23—Aug. 22]: All you have to do is listen to new information, draw some inferences from talkative friends. An interesting new activity begins readily.

Virgo [Aug. 23—Sept. 22]: Expect competition; just do what you planned to achieve without prior discussion or explanation to those who might hinder your way.

Libra [Sept. 23—Oct. 22]: Complexities in family and group concerns yield to a determined effort at isolating the problem and getting people back into communication.

Scorpio [Oct. 23—Nov. 21]: This is the time to get what you really want. Advice and agreements are within ready reach, promise long-term benefits.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22—Dec. 21]: You must meet the other fellow a little more than half-way to get the needed contact. Distant contacts may be more important.

Capricorn [Dec. 22—Jan. 19]: Get things done in the morning, fill in details later in the day. Change pace and scene to deal with family life in evening hours.

Aquarius [Jan. 20—Feb. 18]: Experiments are in order. Hobbies yield useful approaches to old questions. Cooperation is smooth.

Pisces [Feb. 19—March 20]: The tide turns your way and much can be done with diligence. Materials may be a bit short; improvising teaches new methods.

Dear Abby

Sex without love cheap, meaningless

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am male, 46, married, and the father of four children. My wife and I have been married for 25 years, and we hope to be married for at least 25 more.

Abby, so often I read letters in your column from distraught wives and husbands (mostly wives) who have just learned that their spouse has been "unfaithful." They just describe how "hurt" they are, and wonder if they can ever "forgive" him.

Abby, how stupid can these people be? I think I speak for 99.9 per cent of all red-blooded American men when I say I'd hate to be married for 50 years and never have sex with a woman other than my wife.

I am a devoted husband, I love my wife, and nothing will change that. And having sex away from home is not being "unfaithful" to her. It doesn't take anything away from our home life. If anything, it adds a little spice, and at our ages we can use some. My wife enjoys a change once in a while, too. We've even taken a trip. It isn't the kind of sex which involves love. It's purely a physical desire satisfied. It's like a good game of golf or tennis.

I am good to my wife and family. I deprive them of nothing. I don't squander my money on other women. I don't rent them apartments or buy them gifts. If I see another woman it's because I enjoy her and she enjoys me. Now, Abby, you tell me, who is hurt?

HAPPY AT HOME

DEAR HAPPY: In your case, nobody. But not everyone shares your (and your wife's) attitude about sex. To some, sex without love is hollow, cheap, and meaningless. And what assurance have you that while you're gathering "a little spice" one of your playmates won't become emotionally involved with you? Or you with her? It's happened, you know, and there are a lot of broken hearts and broken homes to prove it. Better arrange a good game of golf or tennis. The stakes aren't as high.

DEAR ABBY: My sister-in-law recently invited me and some other women over to see her new home.

I had already sent her a very nice housegift, but I never like to go anywhere empty-handed, so I brought her a box of my favorite chocolates, which I know she likes, too.

When I arrived I handed it to her. She thanked me for it and put it aside. A while later I hinted that I wished she'd open the candy. She ignored the hint. Finally I said, "Why don't you open my candy and pass it around?"

She said, "I'm serving a nice snack. I'm saving the candy for later."

After the snack, I said, "Well, is it late enough to open my candy?"

She laughed and said, "It's not YOUR candy. It's MINE. And I prefer not to open it right now."

I let the matter drop. Tell me, was she rude or not? Wasn't the candy mine? I brought it. ANNOYED

DEAR ANNOYED: The candy was yours until you gave it to her. Then it became hers. After she ignored your hints you should have given up.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I were divorced six years ago. We had a son who now lives with his father and stepmother. (He is 8 years old.) I went to see the boy last summer, and his stepmother suggested that I write to him now that he is old enough to write.

I signed my first letter "Mom" although he calls his stepmother that. They told him while I was visiting that I was his real mother.

Soon I received a very nasty letter from the boy's father telling me not to sign "Mom" to my letters anymore.

What should I do? MOM

DEAR MOM: Since he knows that you are his real mother, I suggest that you sign your letters, "Mother." (Almost anything but "Mom" will do.)

CONFIDENTIAL TO "NOWHERE TO TURN": Yes, a 12-year-old girl most certainly CAN become pregnant. If you positively refuse to go to your parents, please call your local PLANNED PARENTHOOD office and tell them that ABBY promised they would counsel you.

Problems? Trust Abby. For a personal reply, write to ABBY, BOX 97706, L. A., CALIF. 90009 and enclose a stamped, addressed envelope.

Marketing Report

COLLEGE STATION—If you're looking for food values, check local markets this week. Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt, consumer marketing specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, said:

For best meat values, Mrs. Clyatt advised checking beef sections for featured items. In general look for round steak and roasts, chuck roasts and steaks, ground beef and liver.

According to the home demonstration agent, retail pork prices are gradually easing upward. Price tags generally mark hams, picnics, end cut chops and loin roasts and shoulder roasts and steaks as best pork values.

"Fryer chickens make an excellent choice, price-wise," the agent said, "even though prices have advanced some in recent weeks. For economy and good eating, invite friends over for backyard barbecued chicken."

Mrs. Clyatt added that egg prices range about the same as last year. Grade A large sizes offer the best combination of economy and quality.

Pampa Art Students Win Ribbons At Fair

Steve Nichols, 12, was all-round winner in the art division of the 1972 Free Fair, at Phillips High School, sponsored by the Phillips Lions Club, receiving a first-place blue ribbon for each of his 10 entries. He was awarded, also, an "over-all prize" of $5.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Nichols, 1001 E. Browning, he is a third-year art student of Mrs. Alva Satterwhite, 814 E. Browning.

Other young students of Mrs. Satterwhite placing in the art show were Mickey Barbarre, winning five awards on five entries, one being a blue ribbon, Jill Lewis, a blue ribbon for an oil painting, Mary Clark, blue ribbon for an oil painting, Dona Preston, blue ribbon for a china painting; Dana Preston, second place ribbon in sculpture, Bill Combs, second place ribbon for oil painting; and Ted Atwood, who won three awards for three entries.

Adult students receiving awards were Mrs. Don Minnick, first place in sculpture and an "over-all prize"; Mrs. Nell Clark, first place for a pastel painting; and Mrs. Lenore Preston, second place for a pallet knife painting.

Betty Canary

I have never really believed in the so-called War Between the Sexes. Oh, I would admit to a skirmish or two, but I wouldn't believe it was an outright battle.

I relegated the War to the same category I reserve for stepmothers and mothers-in-law myths. It was all simply a ploy used by playwrights and cartoonists when they ran out of premises.

Not that I haven't seen lots of ammunitions in case one wanted to wage war. For example, how about the woman who says to her husband, "I am only human" and he answers, "You're only telling half the truth!"

Or the woman I know who insists that a husband is a lover with the nerve extracted.

Just lately I discovered that those who believe in the War have medical evidence to back up their statements.

The evidence? A report saying there are His and Her illnesses.

Apparently a man who knows he has peptic ulcers should send his wife to a doctor. Why? Because she probably has rheumatoid arthritis.

If a woman is positive her ailment has been diagnosed as rheumatoid arthritis, she should call in an internist for her husband. Chances are, he has peptic ulcers.

The premise here is that marital hostility contributes to rheumatoid arthritis in the wife via resentment and depression and to peptic ulcer in the husband via unmet needs for emotional support.

At least that's what the doctors are saying. And if lends credence to old sayings such as, "You're a pain in the neck!" or, "You're a real headache!"

In other words, if your spouse says, "You make me sick," chances are he's telling the simple truth.

The tent dress is what everyone is talking about for fall. It's cut high at the armholes, tightly over the bodice and has a swirling hemline a few inches over the knee.

WIN AT BRIDGE

Overlooks a Sure Line

Table with bridge hand details: NORTH, WEST, EAST, SOUTH (D), and bidding information.

By Oswald & James Jacoby "Maybe I am going to qualify for the unlucky expert category. It seems I am already an unlucky student," complained the student.

"West had to get off to a lead of ace and another heart. I drew trumps; led a diamond to dummy's king and lost the diamond finesse. West led back a diamond and when the suit failed to break I was still able to lead a club to my king only to have West produce the ace. Wasn't I better than a four to one favorite to make my contract?"

"You were on your line of play," replied the professor. "You had a certainty with the correct line."

The professor was right as always. After drawing trumps the student should have led a low diamond from dummy and played his eight spot. This might cost him an overtrick but at the same time it would have insured his contract.

West would have won the trick with the 10 or nine. South would score his king. Should he lead a heart the student would ruff in dummy and discard his four of clubs, and should he lead back a diamond the student would win with his jack; cash his ace; enter dummy with a trump and discard a club on the king of diamonds.

This Sandwich Is for Baking

By AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

A baked sandwich for summer lunches or a hurry-up supper is a pleasant change from the normal daily fare of cold cuts. Try a ripe olive and Cheddar cheese combination seasoned with mustard, onion and chili powder. Serve with coleslaw, cherry tomatoes and fresh orange slices for dessert.

TOASTED CHEESE/RIPE OLIVE SANDWICH

- 1 cup canned pitted California ripe olives
- 2 cups grated Cheddar cheese
- 1/2 cup mayonnaise
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 2 teaspoons prepared mustard
- 1 teaspoon onion powder
- 1/2 teaspoon chili powder
- 12 slices firm-textured bread
- 1/2 cup butter or margarine

Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Chop olives coarsely. Mix together cheese, mayonnaise, lemon juice, mustard, onion powder and chili powder. Stir in olives. Trim crusts from bread and spread 12 slices with butter. Spread cheese-olive mixture thickly and evenly on the 12 slices. For each sandwich, place three slices, cheese side up, on top of each other. Press lightly together. Place on flat baking pan.

Baked sandwich with ripe olive/cheese spread offers different taste.

Bake about 10 to 15 minutes, until lightly toasted and cheese is bubbly. Cut each stack into 4 slices and serve at once. Makes 4 servings.

CALIFORNIA CHICKEN SALAD

- 3 cups cooked, diced chicken
- 1 1/2 cups chopped celery
- 3 Tbsp. lemon juice
- 1 cup almonds
- 1 1/2 cups white seedless grapes
- 1 cup good mayonnaise
- 1/2 cup light cream
- 1/2 tsp. salt
- Dash or two of black pepper

Pour the lemon juice over chicken; add celery, grapes and almonds. Combine cream with mayonnaise and add salt and pepper. Mix with the chicken mixture. Serve on crisp lettuce and sprinkle paprika on top. 8 servings.

AVOCADO ASPIC

- 1/2 cup cold water
- 1 envelope unflavored gelatin
- 1 cup fresh grapefruit juice
- 2 ripe avocados, mashed
- 1 Tbsp. minced onion
- 1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
- 1/2 cup good mayonnaise
- 1/2 tsp. salt

Soften gelatin in the half cup of cold water in a small pan. Place small pan in a larger pan of near boiling water and stir until dissolved. Add grapefruit juice. Chill until it begins to thicken. Add remaining ingredients and beat with electric mixer until smooth. Pour into a mold and place in refrigerator until firm. Unmold on greens. It may be garnished with fresh grapefruit sections.

APPLE BUTTER

- 5 pounds apples
- 3 quarts cider
- 1 Tbsp. ground cloves
- 2 Tbsp. cinnamon
- 1 Tbsp. ground allspice
- 2 pounds sugar

Peel the washed apples and slice. Bring the cider to a boil and boil 30 minutes. Add apples and cook until tender. Add cloves, cinnamon, allspice and sugar. Cook the liquid until it is as thick as a soft paste. Stir frequently as it might scorch. Pour into jars or crocks. I have read that folks used to say it should be cooked in a cooper kettle - and others say a copper penny placed in the mixture would keep it from scorching. Salads Slip Into Main Menu Spot And Satisfy When Meat Is Added To Bowl

Spring showers and sunshine have produced salad days. Organically crisp lettuce and other salad bowl favorites such as spinach, cucumbers, tomatoes, celery, carrots and green beans are in excellent supply and of high quality.

These garden fresh vegetables make appealing salads. However, it's when meat is included that a salad achieves entree status. Men consider a salad more than mere "rabbit food" when it contains strips, cubes or slices of beef, pork, lamb or sausage. Meat produces a salad that satisfies as well as stimulates appetites, says Reba Staggs, home economist of the National Live Stock and Meat Board.

Lone Star Salad

- 2 cups julienne strips of cooked beef
- 1 can (16 ounces) red or pinto beans, drained
- 1 cup chopped celery
- 1/2 cup mayonnaise
- 1/4 cup chopped onion
- 1/4 cup pickle relish
- 2 tablespoons chili sauce
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 4 large tomatoes
- Lettuce

Mix meat, beans and celery in bowl. Combine mayonnaise, onion, pickle relish, chili sauce and salt; add to meat mixture and toss lightly to combine. Cover and chill 1 hour. Cut each tomato into 5 or 6 wedges (do not sever at base) and place on bed of lettuce, spreading wedges flat to form star shape. Spoon salad into center of each tomato. 4 servings.

Chef's Special Salad Bowl

- Head and leaf lettuce
- Spinach
- 4 slices cooked smoked ham or roast beef
- 4 slices summer sausage
- 4 slices bologna or liver sausage
- 4 slices American or Swiss cheese
- 4 tomatoes, quartered
- 2 hard-cooked eggs, sliced
- Salad dressing

COOKING IS FUN

UTTERLY DEADLY PECAN PIE

Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings named this pie and the recipe is adapted from one of hers.

- 4 eggs
- 1 1/4 cups dark corn syrup
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 1/4 cup butter, melted
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 1/2 cups broken pecan halves
- 1 unbaked 9-inch pastry shell

In a medium mixing bowl beat eggs slightly. Stir in corn syrup, sugar, butter, vanilla and pecans. Pour into unbaked shell. Bake in a preheated 400-degree oven for 15 minutes. Reduce oven to 350 degrees and continue baking until crust is browned and filling is puffy - 40 to 45 minutes. Filling will be slightly less set in center than around edges. Cool.

Advice to the misunderstood, from America's most misunderstood soft drink.

Dear Dr. Pepper, My Claude was just an average boy until he started drinking Dr. Pepper. Now I know that Dr. Pepper is just a refreshing soft drink. But it has ruined Claude's life. Once a delightful little ne'er-do-well and lout, he has now degenerated into a straight-A student who plans to be a chemist. He spends his days in the laboratory attempting to analyze and identify all the twenty-three mysterious flavors that make up Dr. Pepper. Claude and I have so little in common now that I find myself spending all my time with my pet monkey Arthur. Arthur and I have had our difficulties, but we have finally begun to accept each other for what we are and work our way through to a mature relationship. Still, I miss my son. What can I do to win him back?

Home-Style Good Humor

By AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

A few more laughs at mealtime could ward off many digestive problems. So if the youngsters yak it up while eating, don't call for total silence. Kids love riddles, especially in the pre-teen years, and love to spring them on the family when eating. If you hear a riddle for the umpteenth time, take heart and encourage the fun. According to child-care experts, the ability to laugh and make other people laugh is one of the most enviable traits a young person can acquire. Elizabeth B. Hurlock in her book "Child Development," points out that a child soon discovers having a sense of humor is a highly valued characteristic. Children who are popular almost always have this quality. And it can be nurtured. So smile along. There is a new rash of riddles sweeping the younger set. So if you're armed with riddles like, "Why is it hard to talk with a goat around?" you'll get laughs with the answer: "He keeps butting in." Keep the home humor rolling with Frosted Ice Cream cups, replete with a generous supply of riddles.

Young people enjoy riddles via Frosted Ice Cream cups. riddle cups. Cover and freeze until hard. If desired, top with your favorite chocolate sauce. Makes 8 servings.

United States Still Leading Soviet Union In Strategic Missiles

Editor's note—This is the last of three articles assessing the comparative military strength of the United States, the Soviet Union and their allies in Western Europe.

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nuclear weapons race is far from over, despite the recent U.S.-Soviet strategic arms limitation agreement. That pact does put a lid on the number of strategic offensive missile launchers and anti-missile defenses on both sides. But it does not curb the number of hydrogen warheads that may be carried by offensive missiles. Nor does it ban development of improved offensive weapons.

While this race continues, the United States has conceded the Soviets a wide lead in ground combat forces by cutting the U.S. Army to its smallest size in a generation. Further, the Soviets have been outbuilding the U.S. Navy by a margin of 2 to 1 in recent years and are reported on the verge of an even greater naval effort.

When the arms limitation pact was completed, Dr. Henry A. Kissinger, President Nixon's national security adviser, acknowledged that "technological change...is one of the great driving forces of the arms race at this particular point."

Kissinger has indicated that U.S. negotiators will try during the next round of U.S.-Soviet talks to settle this and other still unresolved issues of nuclear arms control.

It took about 2½ years for U.S. and Soviet diplomats to come to terms on a treaty to restrict anti-missile defenses and on a parallel first step agreement to limit numbers of land-based intercontinental ballistic missiles and submarine-launched ballistic missiles.

With that precedent, it is reasonable to expect years of wrangling before the United States and the Soviet Union can reach accord on ceilings for multiple warheads, bombers, and shorter-range missiles—if they ever do agree.

Meanwhile, Pentagon officials are certain the Russians will work hard to overcome a strong U.S. lead in deploying multiple independently targetable warheads—MIRVs.

MIRVs are warheads which launch in clusters aboard a single missile, then separate to hit targets up to several hundreds of miles apart.

Since the arms limitation agreements were signed in late May, U.S. reconnaissance satellites have detected a new series of Soviet research and development tests of MIRV-type devices.

Analysis of the tests showed the Russians are making progress toward perfecting MIRV guidance technology and all-important accuracy which have eluded them in the past.

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird told Congress June 20 that the Russians could move into the next stage, flight-testing of MIRV warheads, as early as six to nine months from now.

Over-all, it should take the Russians several more years before they can have a significant number of combat-ready MIRVs on their missiles.

The U.S.-Soviet agreement assures the Russians of a 2,359 to 1,710 lead in ICBMs and submarine-launched ballistic missiles.

Among its other weapons, each B1 could hurl as many as 20 nuclear-tipped short-range missiles to knock out Soviet radar and anti-missile sites and then attack Russian cities and military complexes.

Most U.S. bombers are B52s. The Air Force testified in March that 172 planes, nearly 40 per cent of the B52 force, may have structural defects. Affected are models built back in the 1950s.

Regardless of this, the administration is facing rough weather in Congress because the B1 prices out at about $46 million a copy for 241 proposed bombers.

The Russians never went in heavily for long-range bombers. They still have only about 140 compared with 511 in the American fleet.

But the Russians could be changing that strategy; they are known to have test flown a new supersonic swing-wing bomber code-named Backfire.

The anti-missile treaty has aroused little controversy so far.

In essence, it limits each side to one ABM site for defense of its national capital and one site for protection of a field of intercontinental ballistic missiles.

The pact stipulates a ceiling of 100 ABM interceptor missiles at each site, and restricts associated radars.

The Russians have had an

ABM complex with 64 launchers in place around Moscow for some time. The treaty would allow them to thicken that shield with 36 more defensive missiles.

The Soviet ICBM site to be protected under the treaty will be one located at least 300 miles from Moscow.

On the U.S. side, construction will continue on an ABM site to guard Minuteman missiles based in the area of Grand Forks, N.D. Work on the Washington site has not yet been authorized by Congress.

This country's early mastery of MIRV technology is largely responsible for giving the United States a 5,700 to 2,500 margin in strategic nuclear warheads.

Both Air Force and Navy missile forces are well along in conversion to multiple warheads.

Counting bomber loads, the United States will have an awesome 8,500 nuclear warheads in its strategic forces when the Minuteman and Poseidon conversions are finished within the next five years.

The Minuteman has a range of about 6,000 miles. The Polaris and Poseidon each range about 2,800 miles.

Kissinger has projected that "We will have about three times as many warheads" as the Russians at the end of the five-year freeze on offensive missile launchers.

It is during this five-year period that the two sides pledge themselves to negotiate for more comprehensive limits on nuclear weaponry.

But U.S. defense officials are doubtful the Russians will agree to any curbs on MIRV until they have caught up with the United States in multiple warheads.

Nixon administration leaders believe the first stage on limitation agreements came about because the United States bargained from a position of strength.

Thus, they argue that the United States must push ahead with qualitative improvements in its offensive weaponry in order to maintain that strength.

Nixon said on June 22 that, unless Congress approves what he called a continuing offensive program, "the chance for a permanent agreement to limit such weapons would, in my opinion, be totally destroyed."

But Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee told Laird June 21 that "it will destroy the whole spirit of the agreement if you persist...in seeking an advantage" with advanced strategic weapons.

The Nixon administration's plan for upgrading U.S. deterrent power contemplates replacing the oldest Polaris submarines, which cannot be converted to Poseidon, with 10 of the much bigger Trident subs. Each Trident would mount 24 missiles compared with 16 in the Polaris boats.

The Trident missile would have about twice the reach of the most advanced Polaris weapon.

If Congress approves, the first Tridents could be in operation in 1978.

But congressional budget cutters are gaggling at the $10-billion cost estimate for the Trident.

South Beat North 72-71 In Houston

HOUSTON (AP) — Ira Terrell of Dallas Roosevelt got the glory but Gaylord Davis of Houston Wheatley got the victory and he's satisfied with that arrangement.

Terrell, the two-time all-state center with a 32-point scoring average, hit 26 points and grabbed 16 rebounds and earned most valuable player honors in the 27th annual Coaches North-South All-Star basketball game Wednesday night.

But Davis poured in 21 points of his own, including a crucial free throw in the final seconds to engineer the South to a hair-raising 72-71 victory over the favored North.

"He surprised me," said South Coach Ron Truitt of Cypress-Fairbanks. "He's so quick and he's such a great leader. They didn't really look good in practice but what surprised me was the way they pulled together after only seven workouts."

Davis hit three early baskets as the underdog South jumped to a 6-9 lead before 9,490 fans in the University of Houston Hofheinz Coliseum.

The North fought back to take a 34-32 halftime lead and it took some fancy scrambling by the South Stars to win it in the tense final minute.

The North battled back from a 63-56 deficit in the fourth quarter and tied it up for the last time at 69-all with 2:38 left.

David Brown of Silsbee hit a bucket with 1:03 to go and the South never trailed again. Davis hit a free-throw with 31 seconds left to make the North's final bucket at 18 seconds worthless.

The North missed an opportunity to win it in the final two seconds when Gary Brewster of Midland missed the first shot on a one-and-one charity attempt.

David Marrs of Houston Lamar got the rebound and held it the final seconds.

Truitt praised Rick Bullock, the big center from San Antonio Jefferson, who scored 15 points and grabbed 12 rebounds.

"He's so strong when he steps toward the basket you just get out of the way," said Truitt, who was coaching his final game before becoming an assistant principal.

The victory pulled the South to a 14-13 deficit in the overall series played as part of the Texas High School Coaches Association coaching school, which ends today.

Marrs was the only other double figures scorer in the game with 10 points.

Hall Of Fame Inductee

EARLY WYNN won 300 games and lost 244 in a 23-year big league career that began in 1939. He pitched for Washington, Cleveland and the Chicago White Sox, recording his best season in 1954, when he had a 23-11 win-loss mark with a 2.73 earned run average. He pitched in 691 games and appeared in two World Series.

North-South Football Provides Sneak Preview

HOUSTON (AP) — A sneak preview of some of the state's most promising college freshmen football players will be on display in the Astro-dome tonight for the 38th annual North-South All-Star football game.

It is the wrap-up to the 40th annual Texas High School Coaches Association Coaching School and some 25,000 fans are expected to watch the all-stars play their final game as school-boys.

Premier running backs abound on both squads with Wichita Falls' great Ronnie Littleton of the North and Joe Washington Jr. of the South the most publicized.

They were two of the most widely sought blue chippers in the state before Littleton decided on Texas Christian and Washington went to Oklahoma.

"He's so elusive and he's got the power to go with it," North Coach Tommy Watkins of Andrews said of Littleton.

South Coach Jack Hays compares Washington to Colorado's Charlie Davis, who played under Hays at West Columbia High School.

"I don't think Joe is as big but he's got excellent moves and body control," Hays said. "And Davis could change directions in mid-air."

Joining Washington on the South's starting backfield will be Alvin Bowers of Wharton at running back, Keith Thomas of Tomball at wingback and all-star Marty Akins of Gregory-Portland at quarterback.

Akins will have an able target in receiver Richard Osborne of San Antonio Lee, who helped the Volunteers win the Class AAAA state crown with 42 catches and 10 touchdowns in 1971.

The South's offensive line will include Edgar Bell of Aldine Carver and Robert Johnson of Austin McCallum at tackles, Mark Olbrick of Rosebud-Lott and Jimmy Norman of Ennis at guards and Billy Gordon of Port Arthur Jefferson at center.

Tommy Ingram of Copperas Cove will be the tight end and Osborne will start at split end.

Scott Hill of Hurst Bell will start at quarterback for the North along with Wayne Morris of Dallas South Oak Cliff and Littleton at running backs and Pat Thomas of Plano at wing-back.

Mike Podzemny of Canyon will be the wide receiver and Billy Wayne Lee of Henderson will start at right end.

Dennis Smelser of Odessa Permian and Will Willcox of Houston Spring Woods will start at tackles, Sammy Pool of Kilgore and Steve Merritt of Idalou will be the guards and Rick Burleson of Fort Worth Richland will open at center.

The South won the game 65-0 last year at Fort Worth but the North leads the overall series 21-13.

Baseball Roundup

By Associated Press

American League

The Milwaukee Brewers were working over the Detroit Tigers Tuesday night but the game was called after six innings because of rain. The Brewers finished the job Wednesday night.

Milwaukee, a city known for beer and a baseball team known for its hold on last place in the American League East, pounded Detroit for 16 hits and nine runs Tuesday night. Brewer pitcher Skip Lockwood also limited the East-leading Tigers to one hit.

The team returned to Tiger Stadium on Wednesday but didn't take the normal pregame batting practice. Manager Del Crandall believes this may have helped as the Brewers collected 18 hits and beat the Tigers 13-1.

"They must have decided to use the game as batting practice," said Crandall. "At least my players aren't clock watchers."

Indians downed the Orioles 6-3 in the nightcap.

Jim Palmer pitched a four-hitter for his 14th victory and Boog Powell, Bobby Grich and Johnny Oates hit homers for Baltimore in the first game at Cleveland. In the second game, Chris Chambliss blasted a three-run homer and Roy Foster hit a two-run shot for the Indians. Paul Blair homered for the Orioles in the nightcap.

Catfish Hunter pitched a five-hitter for Oakland. It extended the A's shutout string to 29 innings. Joe Rudi collected three hits, including his 12th homer. He also scored two runs and drove in two. Kansas City produced a bases-loaded threat in the ninth with three singles but Hunter escaped with his shutout.

Bobby Murcer hit a three-run homer for the Yankees and Steve Kline won his 11th in the Boston day game. Rico Petrocelli homered for the Red Sox run.

In the nightcap, Ben Oglivie hit a two-run double in the fourth inning for Boston. Danny Cater also drove in two Red Sox runs while John Ellis blasted a three-run homer for the Yankees.

Pitcher Terry Forster's two out, two-run single in the seventh scored the decisive runs for the White Sox. California scored twice in the ninth on Vada Pinson's triple to cut Chicago's lead.

A two-base throwing error by Minnesota pitcher Ray Corbin paved the way for three Texas runs. Corbin's errant throw to first scored two runs and allowed another runner to reach third. Ted Ford hit his ninth home run for the Rangers' fourth run. Danny Thompson's RBI double drove in the Twins' run.

Cesar Cedeño continues to feed on National League pitching—and Wednesday night, had a feast at home plate.

"I wasn't thinking about hitting for the cycle. I was just trying to get a hit," said Cedeño after drilling a single, double, triple and home run to lead the Houston Astros past the Cincinnati Reds, 10-1.

Cedeño's splashy performance included a double in the first inning, a two-run homer in the third, an RBI single in the fifth and a run-scoring triple in the eighth and fattened his league-leading batting average to .353.

Don Wilson, the Houston pitcher who benefitted from Cedeño's one-man show, had to give the outfielder's performance some deep thought if Cedeño himself wasn't thinking about it.

"When you get 10 runs, it makes it a lot easier," said Wilson, who hasn't gotten that kind of support recently.

In the other National League games, the St. Louis Cardinals beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 10-5 in a 6½-inning, rain-shortened affair; the Philadelphia Phillies trimmed the New York Mets 5-3; the San Diego Padres beat the Atlanta Braves 5-0; the Los Angeles Dodgers turned back the San Francisco Giants 12-11 and the Chicago Cubs downed the Montreal Expos 5-4 in a game cut short after six innings by rain. The contest was the scheduled opener of a twin-night doubleheader.

American League results: Oakland 5, Kansas City 0; Chicago 10, California 9; Milwaukee 13, Detroit 1; Texas 4, Minnesota 1; New York 5, Boston 1 in the first game of a day-night doubleheader and Boston 7, New York 4 in the second; and Baltimore 7, Cleveland 0 in the opener of a twin-night doubleheader and Cleveland 6, Baltimore 3 in the nightcap.

The big Houston right-hander then fashioned a six-hitter as the Astros trimmed the Reds for the first time in the Astro-dome this year.

Palmer Still Wants To Win

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (AP) — He's like an aging fight champion, going after the men who occupy the throne that once was his.

Week after weary week he musters his forces to make another challenge, looking for the knockout, seeking a return to lost glory — and week after frustrating week he absorbs his painful, ego-bruising beating.

"Sometimes," Arnold Palmer said with a tired sigh, "I feel like I'm fighting Cassius Clay every weekend."

He hasn't won this season, doesn't have any idea when he will and admits to being dead tired as he went into his fifth tournament in five weeks in three countries.

Still, his head was up, the adrenalin pumping through 42-year-old veins, the muscular forearms writhing like tormented snakes as he clinched his huge, farmer fists in preparation for today's first round of the PGA national championship.

"I still want to win, as much or more than I ever did," said Palmer, the man generally acknowledged as being the guiding force behind golf's emergence from the private preserve of the idle rich to a game played and followed by millions.

"I still think I can win.

"There's nothing wrong with me physically. I just can't seem to make anything happen."

Victory has escaped him this season.

"I've had several chances to win. Greensboro I just threw away on a bad shot," he said. "I could have won (the Bob) Hope and I hit one out of bounds."

"I could have won (the U.S.) Open. I should have won it. There was another, where was it? The Byron Nelson? I should have won."

6. The Second Serve

Do I serve from the same position?
Yes, because your problem remains the same. You still want to be in the best position to cover your half of the court.
Should my second serve be as hard as the first or should I just poop the ball in if that is the only way I can be certain of not double-faulting?
If the only way you can get your second serve in is to poop it, then by all means do that because at least you get the ball in play. But if you must "poop" the second serve, then try to get it in as deep as possible. With a weak second serve, you should try that much harder to get a high percentage of your first serves in.

Try not to give the receiver a shallow second serve because he may drive it down your throat or your partner's.

One of the worst mistakes you can make in any doubles match is to double-fault. It's a cardinal sin, like walking the pitcher in baseball. Why give your opponents the point? If you get the ball in the court, at least your opponent has to beat you and perhaps he might make a mistake.

Vols, Uvalde Rated Tops In The State

HOUSTON (AP) — It would be hard to vote against the San Antonio Lee Volunteers successfully defending their Class AAAA schoolboy state football championship, so Texas coaches and sports writers didn't.

Lee, which surprised favored Wichita Falls 28-27 in the 1971 title game, was given the go-ahead for another title in a projected playoff bracket compiled by Texas sports writers who cover schoolboy football.

Six of the seven head coaches in Dist. 31-AAAA named Lee to win the district title with Lee coach John Ferrara picking his Vols third.

High school coaches throughout the state selected the district favorites in each district and the sports writers took the favorites and projected the championship favorite.

The projection has Lee defeating Houston Westchester in the championship game. Lee is favored over Port Neches and Westchester over Arlington in the semifinals games.

Lee has ample credentials to assume the favorites role with 20 lettermen and 17 starters back from last year's 14-0-1 team including all-state quarterback Tommy Kramer and second team all-state receiver Pat Rockett.

Kramer completed 163 of 289 passes for 2,731 yards and 26 touchdowns in Lee's title march. Rockett snagged 42 passes for 884 yards and 10 touchdowns.

Westchester, the other projected finalist, returns eight starters and 19 lettermen from a 10-1-0 season in 1971.

Class AAA Uvalde has joined its South Texas neighbor San Antonio Lee in being picked by Texas sports writers to march to a state schoolboy championship this season.

Lee was named earlier to repeat as the Class AAAA state champion in a projected listing by sports writers who cover high school football in the state.

Uvalde, which won the Dist. 14-AAA crown last year, is favored to defeat Ennis in the Class AAA state championship game. Ennis will beat Dumas and Uvalde will down Brenham in semifinal game predictions.

Uvalde also must defeat last year's runnerup Gregory-Portland in a predicted quarterfinals game.

Uvalde is expected to have the stiffest opposition in its district from Cuero, the defending East Zone champ. Both teams are expected to field powerful offensive teams and battle once again for the title.

Fullback Mike Paradaux and halfback Oscar Mireles are expected to be cogs in Uvalde's offensive show. All-West Texas tackle Ronnie Rogers, 6-foot-4, 220, will head up the line.

HOUSTON (AP) — It would be hard to vote against the San Antonio Lee Volunteers successfully defending their Class AAAA schoolboy state football championship, so Texas coaches and sports writers didn't.

Lee, which surprised favored Wichita Falls 28-27 in the 1971 title game, was given the go-ahead for another title in a projected playoff bracket compiled by Texas sports writers who cover schoolboy football.

Six of the seven head coaches in Dist. 31-AAAA named Lee to win the district title with Lee coach John Ferrara picking his Vols third.

High school coaches throughout the state selected the district favorites in each district and the sports writers took the favorites and projected the championship favorite.

The projection has Lee defeating Houston Westchester in the championship game. Lee is favored over Port Neches and Westchester over Arlington in the semifinals games.

Lee has ample credentials to assume the favorites role with 20 lettermen and 17 starters back from last year's 14-0-1 team including all-state quarterback Tommy Kramer and second team all-state receiver Pat Rockett.

Old-Timers File Suit

PROVIDENCE (AP) — Pioneers of the National Football League have filed a federal court suit to win full NFL pension benefits for the league's charter members.

In an action brought in U.S. District Court in Rhode Island, the NFL Alumni Association asked Wednesday that its membership of more than 1,000 retired pro players be included in the league's pension plan, begun formally in 1962.

"This is a sad day for me," said Leonard Hart, the president of the alumni group, as he jointly announced with an attorney the action against the NFL Players' Association.

Hart, an end with the Detroit Lions in the 1950s and now a Detroit businessman, said step was taken "with great reluctance, but firm resolve" after repeated fruitless efforts to work out an "amicable solution" with the NFL and the Players' Association.

"After much soul searching and deliberation, the NFL Alumni have decided that the only way we can correct the injustice which has been done the oldtimers is to proceed in court," Hart said.

The suit asked that alumni members be included in the pension plan on the same terms as players already eligible for its benefits, or that the defendants set up a separate fund for the oldtimers on the same terms as the current plan.

The alumni group, representing players who retired prior to 1959, maintained that, with few exceptions, none of its members is included in the pension program.

Hypertension Tragedy

Some 23 million Americans suffer from high blood pressure or hypertension. They suffer to varying degrees, but most have one thing in common: They don't know it.

Since high blood pressure is the leading cause of stroke and congestive heart failure — stroke alone kills some 200,000 Americans yearly — the problem is significant.

The tragedy of these deaths is that if current knowledge is applied, moderate hypertension can be controlled.

Dr. Edward Freis, senior medical investigator for the Veterans Administration Hospital, Washington, D.C., has been working on hypertension for longer than 25 years.

He has found that drug treatment for moderate hypertension can reduce the death rate by more than 50 per cent. He has also found that drug treatment is 67 per cent effective in preventing major complications—such as stroke, congestive heart failure and kidney failure—that arise from cases of even moderately high blood pressure.

For his work in this area Dr. Freis was recently honored with the 1971 Albert Lasker Award for Clinical Medical Research. Accepting the prestigious award, Freis stressed the "need to develop adequate mass screening for the detection of hypertension as well as more effective programs in public education."

Let Freedom Ring!

Foreign aid to both friends and enemies has almost bankrupt our country and it may do so in the years ahead. Foreign aid promoters say that foreign aid costs U.S. taxpayers only one cent out of each tax dollar. But they are lying. The actual cost is more than eight cents. And this is the visible cost.

Unknown to most Americans, our government actually borrows money to give away for foreigners and pays interest on the money it gives away to others. You, the taxpayer, actually pay 10 billion dollars a year in interest on the money your government borrowed to give away to foreign nations. This foreign giveaway racket now accounts for fifty-three percent of our total national debt.

Much of this money has been given away to groups of nations to spend as they please. Few if any in our government know, or apparently care, what they do with the money. How much of this hard-earned tax money ends up in Swiss bank accounts for the benefit of a few so-called "leaders" is anybody's guess.

He called for a "greater effort on the part of national and local governments to provide the facilities and personnel for the detection and treatment of hypertension in the general population."

Freis also chided the federal medical bureaucracy for lack of action.

"No new antihypertensive drugs have been approved by the FDA in the past 10 years. This is in striking contrast to the situation in Europe where several new drugs have been used and are being used with benefit by European physicians. Public pressure is needed to restore a climate in the FDA where new drug research in hypertension will be encouraged," he said.

Recent public health surveys have indicated that only about 20 per cent of the patients with persistent high blood pressure in the United States are receiving effective treatment.

"I call upon the medical profession, the news media, the voluntary health agencies and the public itself to apply now the knowledge we already have for conquering one of the great killers of man," the Lasker Award winner said.

With more than 10 per cent of the country's population suffering from high blood pressure, the doctor's call is one that must be heeded. Dare we ever admit that we could have saved thousands of lives but didn't try?

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Should We Have Dropped It Or Not?

By DON OAKLEY
NEA Staff Writer

A question which can still start a debate among many Americans is whether the United States should or should not have dropped the atomic bomb on Hiroshima on August 6, 1945. Books continue to be written about the hows, whys and what-ifs.

A new book, however, focuses on a related and even more sensitive question: Was it necessary to drop a second bomb three days later on Nagasaki? The book, by journalist, editor and author Joseph Laurance Marx, is, in fact, entitled "Nagasaki—The Necessary Bomb?"

Marx approaches the question with a solid background, having previously written a book on Hiroshima called "Seven Hours to Zero." It was while writing about the Hiroshima bombing, he says in the preface to this latest book, "that I learned some things I hadn't known about the bombing of Nagasaki. Questions were raised in my mind and I arrived at a certain conclusion."

The chief question was whether an early end to the war could have been achieved without the use of the second bomb, without the estimated 75,000 casualties at Nagasaki. Or was it that two bombs had been programmed and no one thought to stop the second one after success of the first?

American and the Allies could have won the war without the atomic bomb, he agrees. Japan was thoroughly beaten, though still dangerous, before Hiroshima and Nagasaki. But whether the war would have been won without months of bombing and shelling and suffering, culminating in the projected invasion of Kyushu in the spring of 1946, is another question.

His chief conclusion: Given the military, historical and psychological situation at the time, it was necessary to drop the second bomb.

Many members of the "Enola Gay," which carried the Hiroshima bomb did not expect the second bomb to be used at all, says Marx. After seeing what they had seen, they expected that by the time they got back to their base, the war would be over.

"They did not count on the reaction of the Japanese military, who did not believe the reports, who felt the incident must have been a fluke, who were not convinced that there was more than one bomb, and who did everything possible to keep the actual news from the people of Japan."

The bombing of Nagasaki did not end the war. But it did give the emperor a means by which to convince the military that the Potsdam surrender terms had to be accepted. It became a method of saving face for the military.

Yet even after Nagasaki, some die-hard militarists hoped to prevent the emperor from accepting the surrender terms. A palace coup was attempted on the very eve of the announcement. Marx devotes some 200 pages to tracing in laborious detail the efforts of those who would have involved the entire nation of Japan in a Kamikaze-type immolation.

Marx dismisses as nonsense the charge that as a "racist" nation, the United States would only have used the bomb against a nonwhite people.

In the first place, the decision to build the bomb was based primarily on a desire to beat the Nazis to it. During the Battle of the Bulge in December 1944, President Roosevelt called in the Manhattan Project's Leslie Groves to ask whether the bomb could be rushed so that it could be used to stop the German counter-offensive.

The bomb used at Hiroshima and Nagasaki are, of course, firecrackers compared to the many-megaton monsters now in the arsenals of the major powers.

"If these are ever used," says Marx, "we will deserve what we receive. We do not refer to any particular nationality. It refers to us all as human beings."

Eagleton Affair Still Don't Pick VP Ticket Right

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

WASHINGTON (NEA)—A glaring lesson of the Thomas Eagleton affair is that, despite all pretense to the contrary, we still don't pick our vice presidential nominee with the necessary great care and thought.

After John F. Kennedy was assassinated, many shocked politicians in both parties were heard to say that this tragedy underscored the need to choose vice presidential prospects not for short-range political value but strictly on their qualifications for the White House.

Whereupon Sen. Barry Goldwater, in naming New York Rep. William Miller as his running mate less than a year later, seemed to offer in explanation only this: "He gives Lyndon Johnson fits."

And Johnson himself, picking Sen. Hubert Humphrey, was reported to be less concerned with Humphrey's established talent and experience than with heavy pressures from the Democratic party's liberal wing.

Humphrey's 1968 choice, Sen. Edmund Muskie, came out of a

H. L. Hunt Writes

OUR GALLANT ALLIES

Since the frightening days of the Tet offensive by the North Vietnamese hordes, many people in this country and abroad have tended to write off the military and governmental capability of the men and women of Saigon and the hamlets of South Vietnam.

Some high leaders in Washington literally threw in the towel. They all gave up too soon.

The prospects of the South Vietnamese armed forces and people look brighter today than ever before. The determination of the average South Vietnamese soldier has given our leaders and those of Saigon a powerful bargaining hand in peace talks. We do not have to succumb to the pressure of a victorious Hanoi. In short General Giap has been stopped and that took some doing. The brilliant North Vietnamese strategist and tactician had whipped the French soundly in an earlier war.

A firm stance in military policy has helped our allies to recoup and fight another day. A chance to prove their mettle was all they asked and they have performed admirably on the field of battle.

Whatever the outcome of negotiations between the warring factions, we will not have won a clear-cut decision on the field of battle, but neither will the communists. Ten years of indecisive warfare have drained us as well as our allies. Our left hand might have won a decision had the politicians in Washington so decided, but they didn't. Now we look to our air force and navy and our gallant allies to turn the trick and get us out of Asia with some honor.

typical pressure-cooker situation, with the beary-eyed presidential nominee and his beary-eyed advisers hastily weighing prospects. At the time, Muskie seemed a wise selection. But his faltering response to the demands of the 1972 campaign raised grave doubts.

President Nixon in 1968 did in fact take more time in choosing. He had sifted names for weeks, and had actually chosen Spiro Agnew at least 10 days before the Republican convention at Miami Beach.

Yet, curiously, he felt it necessary to go through the accepted charade of appearing to choose his mate by listening to volumes of last-minute advice.

Furthermore, Nixon's judgment was heavily political. Agnew was seen as a "bridge candidate," a man with a northern-urban background but bearing a conservative strain pleasing to the South. The feeling that George Wallace could not make Agnew a target was not a small consideration.

So now we come to Eagleton, another product of high-pressure haste, culled from a list of 30 names.

The senator says he might have told Sen. George McGovern of his medical history but that he did not have time to think on that "hectic day." McGovern's campaign manager, Gary Hart, says it took nearly a week to assemble all the details of all Eagleton's record of hospitalization and treatment for nervous exhaustion and fatigue.

These utterances can only be put down as confessions of laxity. Any observer knows that the California delegate credentials challenge put the McGovern forces under great strain in the final days leading to his nomination. But it does not make sense that they did not detach one or two able men to sift out vice presidential names and investigate, with deliberate care, the top choices.

It is a simple fact that the United States government does a vastly more thorough job of investigating the back-grounds of top and even middle echelon personnel for the federal bureaucracy. Some key positions lie vacant literally for months while the checking agencies grind slowly through the records.

By contrast, we seem generally to select men who might be asked to lead the nation with not much more care than some might use in picking a dinner companion.

On the afternoon of July 13, when he was chosen, Thomas Eagleton was only a hazy figure emerging from the fog of a steam bath. There can be no alibis for such fuzzy choosing.

Clearing House

Editor:
I am hoping there are those who might be concerned about a problem which needs correction. Please consider that this neighborhood, 14 mi. east of Pampa, as surely as many, is greatly disturbed that a permit has been issued for a cattle feed lot to be installed in our front doors; and that proper recognition is not given the pioneer landowner, who brought his farm thru dustbowl, depression, drouth, etc. to one of modern achievement. Priority is given the newcomer cattleman, who usually has strong political backing, who reaps the monetary benefits from his endeavor, while displacing the helpless neighbor.

My father has been on his farm 65 years. Three generations have lived here. He has, with other long-established neighbors, developed this community. New feedlots should not be allowed to force air pollution on a thickly populated neighborhood when land can be bought a short distance away.

We fight for freedom from oppression on foreign soil. Our sons serve their country. Ask not what your country can do for you?

We are not denying our neighbor's contribution, in using his energies and abilities for the betterment of this area; we do ask recourse in forcing him to locate at a different site—not an unreasonable expectation.

There are 8 houses within 1/2 mi.; 6 permanent residence. For a feedlot, what locality in Gray County could be worse?

There are 2 existing feedlots, 2 mi. west, which do pollute the atmosphere. However, there is a difference in being close—a problem occasionally or constantly, a problem miles away or yards away. In addition, comes the problem of whether from one direction or from two.

Government has long exercised its right to condemn property for the greater public good, but to permit one individual to condemn another individual's property, unnecessarily, is neither just nor fair.

We would welcome whatever support can be given. The Water Board, constrained in power, granted a water permit. The Air Pollution Board, far from diligent in the great responsibility they had, to our great dismay, impulsively granted a construction permit.

We had been told we had 4 to 6 weeks before a ruling, and had been promised interviews. We were not able to present our protest fairly. Our building neighbor also has had no serious consideration for us.

An operation permit is yet required from the Texas Air Pollution Board in Austin. If this might be denied, it would be a step in the right direction. Our neighbor has been constructing at an unbelievable rate; but these weeks of work do not compare with the decades spent that we and our families might enjoy living in a free country. We invite anyone to drive out to look at the situation.

Nixon to Attend Olympics?

By Robert S. Allen

WASHINGTON.—President Nixon has still another spectacular trip abroad in mind.

Under serious consideration is a flying visit to the Olympic games in Munich — Aug. 26 to Sept. 10.

An avid sports fan, the President is ardently eager to attend this quadrennial world athletic event. He keenly followed the various elimination tests and trials of U.S. participants, which further whetted his desire for a first-hand look at the Olympic contests.

The President has told assistants he thinks there is an excellent chance the U.S. will establish a new record in winning top honors at these games.

It goes without saying the Presidents attendance at the Olympics would be helpful politically. With popular attention focused on the worldwide athletic competition, his personal interest would certainly be an electioneering plus.

The President's presence in Munich would involve no undue security problems. Firm assurances of that have come from both local and West German authorities — who very much want him to come, even for a stay of only a day.

If the President does decide to do so, it will be after the Republican national convention (Aug. 21-23) and his meeting with Japan's new Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka in Hawaii at the end of this month.

No Pussyfooting
When Republican platform framers finish their job, there will be many significant and striking differences between theirs and the Democrats' — and none more so than on the torrid issue of school busing.

In direct contrast to the Democrats, the GOP plank will be clearcut and categorical against busing to "achieve racial balance."

The Democrats, obviously trying to carry water on both shoulders, cursorily glossed over the volatile issue with two ambiguous statements: "Transportation of students is another tool to accomplish desegregation... must continue to be available according to Supreme Court decisions to eliminate legally-imposed segregation and to improve the quality of education for all children."

In other words, the Democrats are for racially-motivated school busing, but carefully and tortuously try to avoid saying so.

The Republican plank will emphatically leave no doubt of the party's flat opposition to such busing. No one will have any uncertainty about the plank as it is being written.

In draft form, following is what it proclaims as official GOP policy:
—No state shall deny equal educational opportunity to any person on account of race, color or national origin.

—Students shall not be deliberately segregated either among or within the public schools.

—Assignment of students to neighborhood schools is not to be considered a denial of equal educational opportunity unless the schools are located or the assignment made for the purpose of racial segregation.

—Racial balance is NOT required.

—There can be no discrimination in the employment and assignment of faculty and staff.

—School authorities must take appropriate action to overcome whatever language barriers may exist in order to enable all participants to participate equally in educational programs. This would establish, in effect, an educational bill of rights for Mexican Americans, Puerto Ricans, Indians and others who start under language handicaps and ensure that they have equal educational opportunity.

—School district lines must not be ignored or altered unless clearly shown to have been drawn for the purpose of segregation.

—Additional busing must not be required unless no other remedy can be found to correct a particular violation.

Slap At Courts.
Free-wheeling judges who issue sweeping busing edicts are given the back of the hand in the draft version of the GOP plank.

They are told off sternly and sharply. The party declaration calls for legislative curbs on the judiciary, and spells them out. Says the plank emphatically:

"Many lower court decisions have gone far beyond what most people would consider reasonable and beyond what the Supreme Court has said is necessary in the requirements they have imposed for the relocation of school districts and the transportation of school pupils. All too often the results have been the graphic case of the remedy for one evil creating another evil."

"In this case, the remedy for the historic evil of racial discrimination has often created the new evil of disrupting communities and imposing hardship on children—both black and white— who are themselves wholly innocent of the wrongs that a plan seeks to set right. Some of these plans have required that pupils be bused long distances at great inconvenience. In some cases, plans have required that children be bused away from their own neighborhoods to schools that are inferior or even unsafe.

Up to now, the courts have emphatically been left to their own devices in determining appropriate remedies in school desegregation cases. Sometimes the results have been sound, others bizarre and over-all certainly uneven. The time has come for Congress to enact specific guidance."

Through ages, through eternity, what you have done for God, that, and only that,
