

Committee may not get Called 'warehouse for retarded' energy bill this year

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional conferees are making progress toward a compromise energy bill, but the pace is so slow that doubts are being raised over whether the task can be finished this year.

"At the rate we're going, we'll be lucky to get natural gas resolved by Christmas," said Sen. Bennett Johnston, D-La., leader of the Senate conferees.

The administration has placed a major emphasis on getting a bill this year. President Carter has said the reputation of his first year's domestic program hinges on what Congress does with energy.

Johnston acknowledged the possibility that Congress may not finish work on energy until next year. "There's no particular magic in Dec. 31 versus Jan. 1, although we still hope to finish this year," he said.

Some of the biggest differences between the two chambers — including natural gas price regulation and energy taxes — have yet to be dealt with.

The conference panel that has been meeting for five weeks on non-tax aspects of the energy bill made some headway Thursday in resolving an impasse over electric rates.

The conferees approved Thursday a measure encouraging but not requiring states to consider conservation factors in setting electric rates.

It was a compromise between the House bill, containing President Carter's proposals for mandatory federal rate-making standards, and the Senate bill, which left rate-making entirely to the states.

Carter wanted to require electric utilities to charge lower rates for power used during off-peak times and higher rates when demand was heavy. He also wanted to end rate discounts for big industrial users.

Under the compromise, state regulatory agencies would still have to consider these standards but would not be required to adopt them. However, they would have to explain a failure to do so to the federal government.

Some electric rate issues still must be resolved, including whether special "lifeline" electric rates should be given to the elderly, reducing their electric bills by as much as 40 percent.

That provision was approved earlier by the Senate but not the House.

There is a chance that the tax differences between the two houses may not be resolved until conferees finish work on natural gas — which some congressional leaders say could take most of December.

The conference committee must reconcile the House vote to keep price controls on natural gas, as requested by Carter, with the competing Senate proposal to lift the controls after two years.

The House passed three Carter-proposed taxes: on crude oil, on fuel-inefficient cars and on industrial use of oil and natural gas. The Senate approved the industrial use tax but rejected the other two, voting instead for more than $40 billion in tax incentives for energy conservation and production.

LACONIA, N.H. (AP) — The grim collection of buildings overlooking Lake Winnisquam is named "Laconia State School and Training Center." But critics say it is New Hampshire's warehouse for the retarded.

Consider Marc, 20: He came to the school 12 years ago, retarded and self-abusive. Nevertheless, he could jump and run then. Now, after years of being shackled to a bed or wrapped in a strait jacket, he cannot walk.

His feet are deformed from pulling against the shackles. Marc's parents say he received no physical therapy, so the muscles of his legs and feet atrophied. Marc is reduced to pushing himself around in a wheelchair with his twisted feet.

Consider Jim, about 18: Despite signs of normality, he is often violent. Because the school cannot afford to give him psychiatric counseling, officials say he likely will stay in the back wards with men who can barely speak and who constantly abuse themselves.

Parents of some patients say years of indifference have left the school no more than a place to hide helpless humans. Ten of them asked the civil rights office of the Justice Department and the FBI last month to investigate whether the constitutional rights of their children were being abused.

They say they were driven by "total frustration with the indifference of the legislature and Gov. Meldrim Thomson." The FBI says the investigation will take at least until the end of the year.

The 4-year-old institution has had a history of keeping retarded adults in the solitary-like confinement of windowless rooms and in restraints such as shackles and strait jackets.

Such remedies are less common now, but the hospital still houses many of its 640 residents in bare concrete block rooms. In many wards, one attendant oversees up to 24 patients, many of whom need help to eat, to use a toilet, to control their flailing limbs.

Superintendent Jack Melton says he took his job two years ago with the realization "that I would probably get sued for conditions here."

Patients often are outfitted with helmets and gloves to keep them from hurting themselves. Some, prone to epileptic fits, are restrained in wheelchairs.

For the hopelessly retarded, the school has no regular psychiatric care, no counseling, no training programs. There are far too many patients to be helped by the school's two occupational therapists and two physical therapists.

The school has a 2-to-1 patient-staff ratio, but the 300-odd attendants are stretched over three shifts. Melton says the school, even after adding 160 attendants next year, will be able to care adequately for only 300 residents.

The rest are consigned to custodial watching: wandering around fluorescent-lit rooms, huddled in corners, sprawled on floor mats.

Melton says private institutions spend $20,000 a year to care for each of their retarded patients. Laconia spends half that.

Davis jurors still 'not sure'

By DON HARRISON
Associated Press Writer
AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — For the cowboy, the typist, the grandmother, the fruit company foreman and eight other West Texans, it is time to pick up the lives they left four months ago.

The nine men and three women were thrown together about three months ago by the judicial process and asked to decide if one of the nation's richest men should live or die.

They became of one mind Thursday, after 13 grueling weeks of testimony and a scant four hours and seven minutes of deliberations, and found Fort Worth millionaire Cullen Davis innocent of capital murder.

The dark-haired industrialist never took the stand in his own defense. Afterward, two of the 12 jurors surprisingly refused to flatly proclaim Davis' innocence.

At a fashionable pub where Davis and a host of friends were celebrating, juror James Watkins conceded: "I have it in my mind that he possibly could have done it, but there were other things in my mind that said somebody else could have done it." "There was doubt," added the fruit company foreman. "I can't sentence a man to death unless I know he's guilty."

Marilyn Haessly, the first juror selected in the case on June 29, said, "The decision for me to acquit came very hard."

Asked if she is convinced Davis is innocent, she paused for several moments and stammered: "I can't, I can't answer that question."

The department store clerk said the four and one-half month ordeal has given her a "negative" impression of the judicial process. She refused to elaborate.

Several days before the verdict, a local psychologist expressed concern about the jury's ability to think rationally because of their lengthy confinement.

He posed the question: "Will they make a decision out of desperation?"

Not so, said jury foreman Gilbert Kennedy Jr. "There were many deep questions and deep deliberations," he said.

Kennedy and Watkins said they thought the 13-day stint on the witness stand by Davis' estranged wife, one of two wounded in the 1976 shooting spree at the Davis mansion, hurt the prosecution's case.

Miss Haessly said she found the blonde socialite's story only "partially convincing."

"It's really hard to think now," she said. "I'm just glad this is over."

It was the second unanimous decision of the day.

Police chief's got troubles

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The police chief who moved the American flag out of his office, invited homosexual police officers to "come out of the closet" and attended a "Hookers' Ball" says, "Sometimes I bring about my own problems."

Charles Gain has been surrounded by controversies since taking over as chief of San Francisco's 1,700 police officers 20 months ago.

Tongues were set a-wagging after a newspaper published a photograph of the broadly smiling chief standing between Margo St. James, founder of the "prostitutes' union" COYOTE (Call Off Your Old Tired Ethics), and a person identified only as "Wonder Whore."

Critics led by Police Officers Association President Gerald Crowley demanded the chief resign. He refused and brought the controversy before the Police Commission Wednesday night. He was cleared of charges of "unofficer-like conduct."

"Some of my friends say to me, 'Why do you do things like that? It just defeats some of the good things you're doing,'" the 54-year-old chief said in an interview Thursday.

"I went to the Hookers' Ball with no intention of any photograph being taken whatever. I was astounded when I saw the thing in the paper. Ninety-nine per cent of the 10,000 people there were non-prostitutes. I was just exercising my philosophy of relating to all segments of the community," he said with a sigh.

Mayor George Moscone, who appointed Gain, supports the chief.

Gain and Moscone insist that the chief is making substantial progress in reducing serious crime, reducing departmental racism and upgrading professional police standards.

Moscone pointed out that before Gain became chief, a federal lawsuit was filed charging overt racism in the police department.

"Just four months before he took office, that same police department, behind the leadership of a handful of malcontents, had plunged San Francisco into the first police strike in its history," Moscone added Thursday.

"In the past several months, the crime rate in San Francisco, which had been steadily rising, has decreased by 6.6 percent," Moscone said. "It seems to me that this is a much better barometer of the effectiveness of Chief Charles Gain and of the department that he heads."

The committees have the responsibility of promoting cooperation and mutual support among agencies, organizations and groups involved in agriculture and agribusiness.

Judge revokes probation for two men

Two Pampa men had their probations revoked by District 31 Judge Grainger McIlhany in the Gray County Courthouse Thursday.

Wayne A. Saul had been convicted of burglary on March 3, 1977, and placed on probation for a period of five years. Thursday the probation was revoked and Saul was sentenced to five years in the Texas Department of Corrections.

Chris Ward Kelly had been convicted of burglary on April 21, 1977, and had been placed on probation for a 10-year period.

In both cases, District Attorney Harold Comer filed motions to revoke probation for "other offenses". Kelly was sentenced to 10 years in the Texas Department of Corrections.

Nazarene missionaries to be topic

"Lifting Up Christ" will be the name of the service of music and speakers at 10:50 a.m. Sunday at First Church of the Nazarene, 500 N. West St. in Pampa.

The services will stress the church's missionary work in 60 countries.

Sunday school is at 9:45 a.m. and evening gospel hour is at 7 p.m., according to Robert L. Williams, pastor. He said the services are open to all.

Community service speaker

Dr. C.M. Ward, educator and radio evangelist will be speaking at the Annual Community Thanksgiving Service at the First Assembly of God Church at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday. Dr. Ward, president of Bethany Bible College in Santa Cruz, Calif., is the radio evangelist for "Revivaltime," the international radio voice of Assemblies of God. The service will also feature special music by the First Baptist Church Choir.

Youth to give service

The youth of Grace Baptist Church will handle the services beginning with 10 a.m. Sunday school. David Watkins, Danny Reagen, Ricky Koramo and Tommy Parks will preach at the 11 a.m. service.

Garrison to be speaker

Dr. Gene Garrison, former Pampian, will be the featured speaker for the Palo Duro Baptist Associational Church Training "M" Night Rally. Dr. Garrison is a former member of the First Baptist Church of Pampa. He is presently pastor of the First Baptist Church in Oklahoma City.

The adult-youth rally will be at 7 p.m. Monday in the First Baptist Church of Lefors. Also included on the program are the Joy Puppeteers of Lefors, the Youth Choir of the First Baptist Church of Pampa, John Glover of Pampa and the Rev. Rick Wadley of Lefors.

In conjunction with the adult-youth rally, a special children's rally is being planned under the direction of Gary Schwalk. The children's rally is for grades one through six.

Drama group sets service

A five member drama group known as the Covenant Players will be at First Methodist Church for the service at 6:30 p.m. Sunday, and then they will present a workshop at 7:30 p.m. in the sanctuary.

The evening service will consist of a series of short one-act plays based on several themes which have been selected.

Lamar sponsors pastor, singers

Jerry Phillips, college pastor at Trinity Church in Lubbock, along with a singing group called Jeremiah's Commission will be at Lamar Full Gospel Assembly at 7 p.m. Sunday. The Rev. Gene Allen, pastor, invites everyone to attend.

Full Gospel to meet

The Full Gospel Business Men's Fellowship will meet at 7 a.m. Saturday in the Pioneer Natural Gas Flame Room.

LONGING

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

To every child there comes a time when they begin to wonder . . . Where did I come from? Who made the trees? Who made the mountains?

EVERYONE has a desire to know their creator.

*"O GOD, thou art my God;
early will I seek thee: my soul
thirsteth for thee..."*

This longing for knowledge of God should be satisfied at an early age.

"Train up a child in the way he should go: and when he is old, he will not depart from it."

Plan NOW to attend church with your family.

Hoopsters host Plainview tonight

'Dogs invade fieldhouse

By TOM KENSLE
Pampa News Sports Editor
The 1977-78 Hustling Harvesters season unveils tonight at 7:30 in the fieldhouse, and Pampa coach Gary Abercrombie has mixed feelings about opening with Plainview.

I believe they'll be contenders with Monterey in that district," Abercrombie said.
"In some ways I'd rather open with a couple of easy games to get rolling, but you never know what you have unless you play somebody good."
Abercrombie respects first-year Plainview coach Richard O'Hara, having coached him at Southwest Oklahoma State and later facing his teams in the Oklahoma prep circles.
He said the trademark of O'Hara - coached clubs has been a deliberate offense and a well-disciplined defense, which is always tough on the boards.

The Bulldogs are expected to field a lineup of Greg Jacobs (6-0) and Jackie Edwards (6-2) at guard, Ray Martin (6-3) and Ricky Johnson (6-3) at forward, and 6-4 Morrill Crear at the post position.
First-line reserves will include football players Jamie McAlister and Larry Williams, the lone returning letterman.
"I'll be playing a lot of people," said Plainview coach Richard O'Hara, "because I need to find out who the ballplayers are even if it costs us early games."
Plainview scrimmaged Tascosa Tuesday night, and O'Hara said the Bulldogs played much worse than he expected.
"We're real young and just aren't consistent at all. I just hope we can play decently up there because I know Pampa has some talented players."
Pampa will counter with an offense directed by point guard Steve Duke, with Doug Skaggs and Tim Reddell at the wings and stalwarts Rusty Ward and

Abercrombie was satisfied with the Harvesters' offensive performance in their scrimmage against Altus, Okla. Tuesday night. Pampa lost two games by a narrow margin, but scored in the 70's both times.
But he was somewhat disappointed with Pampa's overall defensive play. "We played good defense in spots but weren't consistent, especially when Altus ran patterns for a long period of time."
"We've got to work on mental toughness and not give up the easy bucket."
The Pampa coach was also displeased over the rebounding of the guards and wings.
"They were horribly outrebounded and must learn to block out because of their size. I'd like to play man-to-man against Plainview, but may be forced to switch to zone if our guards get hurt inside."
Sophomore and junior varsity teams from the two schools will square off at 4:30 p.m. and 6 p.m. respectively.

"Dirt" Winston stalks Dorsett

PITTSBURGH (AP) — "Dirt" meets Dorsett here Sunday.
That's middle linebacker Dennis "Dirt" Winston of the Pittsburgh Steelers and Tony Dorsett of the Dallas Cowboys — rookie starters via far different routes in the National Football League.
"He's got a job to do. I've got a job to do. The one who does his best will probably come out the winner," Winston said after practice Thursday.
Similarly stops there. Dorsett left Pitt with a dozen NCAA records, one Heisman Trophy and a million-dollar contract. He'll make his first NFL start because Coach Tom Landry now agrees with Cowboy fans that Dorsett's too good for part-time work.

Winston played fullback, offensive tackle, defensive end and linebacker at Arkansas. He won four letters and his nickname. "When things would get rough, I was a little nasty sometimes," he explained.
Pittsburgh drafted him on the fifth round.
"I thought I was going to Dallas. They contacted me quite a bit," said Winston.
"When Pittsburgh picked me I thought, 'What could they want with me?'"
The Steelers already had Jack Lambert, backed up by Marv Kellum, and the club's top draft pick was linebacker Robin Cole.
But Lambert spent most of preseason in a holdout, and Winston got the playing time he needed to oust Kellum.
With Lambert nursing a knee injury last Sunday and Cole just back from an arm fracture, Winston started against Cleveland. He'll also probably open against Dallas.
"Dennis' contribution has been good," said Coach Chuck Noll. "It hasn't been flawless, by any stretch of the imagination, but he does things very well. Part of it is his enthusiasm for hitting."

conservatively speaking, from ticket receipts, TV rights, parking, concession and program fees, Michigan will make about $515,000 for banking helmets with the Buckeyes. The merchants of Ann Arbor will make even more.
Ohio State's cut totals approximately $322,000.

Woody, Bo make big bucks

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — In two more days, the annual Bo-against-Woody, good-guys-against-bad-guys, good-against-evil showdown will be staged before more than 100,000 persons and a national TV audience.
This will be the biggest money game ever at Michigan, Athletic Director Don Canham said proudly.
He should be proud. He personally worked tirelessly to make it that. And the numbers are staggering.

Quarterback woes plague NFL

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer
The list of starting quarterbacks, usually replete with "Who's Who" names in the National Football League, takes on more of a "who's he?" look this Sunday.
The Minnesota Vikings, who had Fran Tarkenton scrambling the opposition's defenses for virtually all of their 17 years, will have either Bob Lee, a veteran reserve, or rookie Tommy Kramer calling the signals against the Bears in Chicago.
Minnesota Coach Bud Grant says he may wait until Sunday before making up his mind. Tarkenton is out for the season with a broken bone in his right leg, suffered last Sunday against Cincinnati.
In San Diego, the Chargers may go with untested rookie Cliff Olander against the Oakland Raiders if James Harris' foot injury hasn't healed. Harris, hurt late in last Sunday's game against Denver, returned to play after Bill Munson suffered a broken leg.
The Green Bay Packers, who were counting so heavily on Lynn Dickey to restore them to contention, will now have to rely on either rookie David Whitehurst or recent acquisition Brian Dowling in Monday night's game against the Redskins in Washington. Dowling was cut by the Redskins during the preseason.

Sunday's other games are the New York Jets at Baltimore, Dallas at Pittsburgh, Los Angeles at San Francisco, Atlanta at New Orleans, Denver at Kansas City, Philadelphia at St. Louis, Cleveland at the New York Giants, Miami at Cincinnati, New England at Buffalo, Tampa Bay at Detroit and Houston at Seattle.
The Vikings, 6-3, have a two-game lead over the Bears and Detroit in the National Conference's Central Division. Chicago will be trying for a season split against the perennial division champs, having lost to them 22-16 in overtime a month ago.
Trying to turn around their fortunes against Oakland will be doubly tough for the Chargers with a healthy veteran quarterback at the helm. They haven't beaten the Raiders since 1968, an 18-game span, and were routed 24-0 in this season's opener. Oakland, 8-1 and still tied with Denver for first place in the American Conference West, has won four in a row since losing to the Broncos.

The Packers' biggest accomplishment this season, it would seem, will be avoiding last place in the NFC Central, thanks to Tampa Bay. Green Bay is 2-7. It holds a 13-9-1 edge over the Redskins but in the teams' last meeting, three years ago, Washington won 17-6. The 'Skins, thanks to Mark Moseley's club-record 54-yard field goal with 3:32 to play in Philadelphia, are still in the NFC playoff race with a 5-4 record.

The Jets can't wait for Richard Todd to return as their No. 1 quarterback. He sat out last Sunday's game against Seattle with a knee injury and watched as Marty Domres and rookie Matt Robinson combined to complete just 6 of 18 passes for 52 yards and 3 interceptions in the loss to the Seahawks.
The Colts, with Lydell Mitchell only 14 yards short of breaking Lenny Moore's all-time Baltimore rushing record of 5,174 yards, are still battling to retain their one-game lead over Miami in the American Conference East. The Dolphins face a Cincinnati squad out to rebound from a 42-10 shellacking by the Vikings.

Coach Tom Landry says Dallas' No. 1 draft pick, Tony Dorsett of the University of Pittsburgh, will start when the Cowboys visit the Steelers.
The Cowboys' lead over St. Louis in the NFC East was shaved to two games by the Cardinals last Monday night and Dallas' inability to generate an offense until Dorsett entered the game prompted Landry to go with the Heisman Trophy winner in place of Preston Pearson.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — No. 1-ranked Texas, playing with a fourth-string quarterback and possibly without star kicker Russell Erxleben, is strongly favored to take revenge Saturday on the Baylor Bears.
Baylor, usually not even an also-ran in the Southwest Conference, humiliated the Longhorns last year, 20-10, holding them to 14 yards rushing — lowest total in the history of the Orange and White.
And nobody at Texas is downgrading Baylor this year after the Bears' 21-6 victory over Kentucky, now ranked No. 7 nationally. Baylor also held No. 8 Arkansas to 96 yards rushing although they lost the game, 35-9.
Texas beat Texas Christian last week, 44-14, but Coach Fred Akers didn't waste any time exulting in the score.
"We're going to have to be better this week than we were last week to win," he said Wednesday in his weekly talk to a group of Texas boosters called the Longhorn Club.

SMU linebacker quits

DALLAS (AP) — Linebacker Champ Dickerson, captain of the Southern Methodist University football team, has quit the squad and may transfer to another school, it was announced Thursday.
Officials said Dickerson quit after a disagreement with Coach Ron Meyer.
Dickerson transferred to SMU from Henderson County Junior College last year. Officials said he decided to quit after he skipped a weight training session.

Jazz trounce Sonics

By The Associated Press
You have to hand it to Pete Maravich...for handing it to his teammates.
The New Orleans guard usually does most of the shooting for the Jazz, but Thursday night let his teammates pull the trigger.
Maravich wound up with 15 assists — and the Jazz wound up with a 127-116 National Basketball Association victory over the Seattle SuperSonics.
"We moved the ball on offense tonight," said New Orleans Coach Elgin Baylor.

Wolfe expects tough regional

Town wants to keep obstetrics

MOUNT PLEASANT, Texas (AP) — Some 800 residents of this Northeast Texas town have agreed to launch a letter-writing campaign protesting Department of Health, Education and Welfare guidelines that would do away with obstetrics programs in small hospitals.

The proposed regulations, aimed at reducing medical costs, would eliminate obstetrics in rural hospitals that do not deliver 500 babies a year and metropolitan hospitals that do not deliver 2,000 infants a year.

By HUBERT J. ERB
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The end of the draft and its pressure on medical students has left the military short of doctors, and a spokesman says the situation may get worse.

"I think there's no doubt that all three military services are feeling the effects of the lack of a draft as far as getting physicians in," Vice Adm. Willard P. Arentzen, the Navy's surgeon general, said in an interview.

Military short 1,000 doctors

The services by latest count are short 1,076 doctors. That's almost 10 percent of the authorized medical force of 11,811.

As of Sept. 30, the Army was short 682 doctors out of an authorized 4,738. The Air Force put its shortage at 222 from an allotment of 3,409, and the Navy was short 172 doctors of its 3,664 slots.

"For the next couple of years, maybe until 1980-81, we're all going to be hurting quite badly," an Air Force spokesman said.

While it's still too early to pass judgment on the all-volunteer force, an Army spokesman said, there's no question that the end of the draft in 1972 is having an effect on the supply of military doctors.

"We're in a pinch right now in trying to get folks in," he said, "especially radiologists, obstetricians, gynecologists, psychiatrists and family care (doctors)."

Many specialists have left the services because Congress made them ineligible for bonuses that could have totaled $13,500 a year in some cases.

While money is a factor, Arentzen said, job satisfaction matters too.

He said Navy physicians look outside the service and see that they "don't have to wait for equipment and so forth. They don't have to put up with some of the frustrations that we in government do, and, therefore, they go ahead and get out. It's unfortunate."

"The young doctors of today have been brought up to rely on a lot of instrumentation," he said.

If they find military medicine lacking in equipment and facilities, they quickly become disenchanted, he said.

But Arentzen said an $18.3 million allocation for purchases in the next year should ease the problem.

The expected crunch of the early 1980s, he said, stems largely from the end of a plan that allowed doctors to delay their draft obligation until they completed specialized training.

In the future, Arentzen said, the services will have to rely primarily on scholarship programs, under which medical students agree to join the military after graduation.

The services also must rely on foreign-trained doctors. Arentzen said that of 190 physicians recruited by the Navy in 1977, 106 were trained outside the United States. Seventy-two were aliens.

Navy doctors serve 719,000 active duty personnel and 2.12 million dependents, retired personnel and dependents of retirees.

Davis mum on killer

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — Acquitted millionaire Cullen Davis — free after more than 14 months in jail and saying he "probably" knows who triggered a 1976 shooting spree at his mansion — says he plans to return to work Monday.

The 44-year-old Fort Worth industrialist, found innocent Thursday of murder in connection with the slaying of his stepdaughter, conceded Thursday night at a victory party that some people still think he was the gunman.

"I guess there will always be people who think I did it. . . I know I didn't do it," said Davis, who still faces other charges stemming from the August 1976 mansion shootings in which two, including his stepdaughter, were slain and two others were wounded.

Three hours after the end of the longest murder trial in Texas history, Davis was the center of attention at a victory party in a local restaurant-bar. His high-priced defense team, State District Judge George Dowlen and juror Jim Watkins were on hand.

Watkins said the reams of testimony left "too many unanswered questions in my mind."

"I have in my mind that he possibly could have done it. But there were other things in my mind that said somebody else could have. There was doubt. I can't sentence a person to death unless I know he's guilty," Watkins said.

Davis, the corporate head of a conglomerate of 83 firms and the richest man to ever be tried in Texas for his life, said he thinks there was a conspiracy to frame him. He added he "probably" knows who the gunman was, but plans to keep it to himself.

"I can't explain how it feels, it feels good," he said after the acquittal. "I've been fighting this thing for 15 months. I didn't know it felt so good. I can't think of anything except it's a relief of a tremendous burden."

Except for an abbreviated weekend, Thursday was the first time since he was arrested early Aug. 3, 1976 that he has been out of jail. His attorneys posted $650,000 bond Wednesday on the pending charges.

He celebrated with a scotch and water and his arm around his girlfriend, Karen Master. The blonde divorcee stretched across the courtroom rail after the verdict and hugged Davis. She said his only words to her were: "I'm glad it's over."

About the other charges pending against him, Davis said, "There are certain people who have something to gain by continuing with prosecution."

And if "certain people in Fort Worth who have been operating on the fringes of this trial can't see things for what they really are, it is because they don't want to see things as they really are. They have something to gain by my demise," he added.

Authorities smash ring

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Federal authorities say they have smashed a 4-year-old marijuana smuggling ring whose members allegedly flew the drug from Mexico through Texas to California and Michigan.

The ring's operations have been stopped as a result of five sealed indictments returned by a federal grand jury here. The indictments were unsealed Thursday.

Two Waco men were named as the alleged directors of the operation. Both remained at large late Thursday.

Authorities said they had arrested 38 of the 56 alleged conspirators involved in the ring and more arrests were expected.

Federal and state narcotics agents fanned out across Texas early Wednesday, with the indictments still sealed, and began making arrests.

The indictments accused Alvin Broussard, 37, and Robert Holstead Maddin, 33, both of Waco, of being the masterminds of the smuggling operation.

Maddin is accused in two separate indictments.

Year-end tax strategy II

Sylvia Porter

New Tax Breaks for Spouse Who Stays at Home

(Second of seven columns)
As of 1977, the "spousal" Individual Retirement Account has been added to the 1975 breakthrough law creating IRAs. As you know, IRAs allow taxpayers not covered by qualified corporate pension plans, Keogh plans, etc., to contribute up to the lesser of $1,500 or 15 per cent of their earned income to an IRA and take a current deduction for the contribution. The new '77 change allows you, that taxpayer, to make a larger contribution for a spouse who doesn't work outside the home.

Your year-end tax strategy: make a bigger contribution, and nail down a bigger 1977 deduction.

Specifically, if you're eligible to deduct IRA contributions, you can contribute to a spousal IRA the lesser of 15 per cent of your earned income or $1,750 — $250 more than a regular IRA.

You are entitled to the same tax breaks you get with a regular IRA. In addition to a current deduction for your contributions, your spousal account grows 100 per cent tax-free. Each year, more of your tax-free dollars are earning more tax-free dollars — and you have a clear compounding of every cent in your IRA until age 70½.

New tax sections always create new tax questions. Here are Prentice-Hall's answers to the most important queries:

Q. I already have an IRA. Do I have to set up a new spousal IRA or can I just increase my contributions to my existing IRA?

A. You don't have to but it's wise to set up a separate IRA for your spouse. The reason is that while the law allows a regular IRA to be converted into a spousal IRA with two subaccounts, the IRS isn't expected to issue guidelines before the end of 1977.

Before year-end, establish two separate IRAs. Your bank or other sponsoring institution can use its existing government-approved IRA setup for the new spousal IRAs. And by filling out Form 5329, you alert the IRS that you are taking advantage of the bigger tax break for spousal IRAs.

Your deduction can never exceed twice the smaller amount of your contribution. So be sure that your contribution is equal — $875 on behalf of yourself and $875 on behalf of your spouse — and you get the maximum $1,750 deduction.

Q. My spouse works part-time and makes just a few dollars a year, the only work she does outside the home. Does that mean I can't set up an IRA for her?

A. That's exactly what it means, for if he or she makes one cent of earned income, you cannot set up a spousal IRA. (However, there's no restriction on investment income.)

But you may be in line for an even bigger writeoff. Assuming your spouse doesn't become a member of a company retirement plan, he or she can contribute up to 15 per cent of his or her earned income or $1,500, whichever is less, to a regular IRA. So if you both contribute to regular IRAs, you could deduct up to $3,000 on a joint return.

Q. Suppose I set up an IRA in my spouse's behalf this year and she gets a job next year. What happens to the spousal IRA?

A. No problem. You and your spouse can convert your spousal IRAs into regular IRAs. The tax law says the same IRA can be a spousal IRA one year and a regular IRA the next. You and your spouse just fill out Form 5329 and let the Treasury know you're making the switch.

Q. What happens to my spouse's IRA if she gets a job with a company that has a retirement plan and she joins the plan?

A. Your spouse's IRA becomes, in effect, a frozen trust. The account balance will be held in abeyance for later distribution according to the account's terms.

Another new IRA tax break for '77: you can deduct on your '77 return contributions you make to your IRA (spousal or regular) as late as Feb. 14, 1978. And if you haven't yet set up an IRA, you can both create it and make contributions to it as late as Feb. 14, 1978, while taking your deductions on this year's return. In previous years, you had to set up and contribute to an IRA on or before Dec. 31.

Tomorrow: Protect your dependency deductions.

News to use

By RANDOLPH E. SCHMID
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Looking for land? Study the property report first.

Developers offering more than 50 lots are required by the Department of Housing and Urban Development to provide such a report. It is not a legal document. It does not constitute government approval.

It does, however, give you an idea of what you can expect. And if the report misrepresents the land or its condition, it can provide the basis for a lawsuit.

Among things to look for in the report:

—How do local zoning ordinances restrict building on the lot?

—What sort of mortgages or liens are there?

—What utilities and recreational facilities are available?

—When will municipal services like police and fire protection be available and what will they cost?

—What about access to the lot?

—Are there any unusual conditions?

The Better Business Bureau also advises consumers against buying any land without a personal visit. Check the condition of the land and the topography of the area to make sure you don't wind up with a lot that's under water.

Do not assume anything you have been told orally is true. If it's not written in the contract, it may not be true. Most contracts state "no representations, oral or written, are relied upon which are not set forth in this agreement."

Do not sign any contract unless you understand everything in it and unless it is completely filled in with no blank spaces.

DATSUN RECALL — The importer of Datsun automobiles has announced that 173,000 of the 1977 models are being recalled because of emission problems.

Nissan U.S.A. said owners will be contacted and dealers will install clamps on possibly faulty valves and replace hoses without charge to overcome the problem.

HEALTH PAMPHLETS — Concerned about physical fitness, your weight, your teeth or mental health?

Government agencies have a variety of pamphlets on the subjects. All are available from the Consumer Information Center, Pueblo, Colo. 81009.
