Politicians are a set of men who have interests aside from the interests of the people, and who, to say the most of them, are at least one long step removed from honest men. I say this with greater freedom being a politician myself.

July Food Prices Upsurge But Jobless Rate Curbed

Rise Said 'Sharpest' In Months

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wholesale prices posted in July the sharpest rise in five months to continue increasing at a faster pace than before President Nixon's Phase 2 wage-price controls, the government said today.

Last month's increase in prices of food and a broad range of industrial raw materials and manufactured goods was eight-tenths of one per cent, the Bureau of Labor Statistics said.

The report said wholesale prices in the eight months of Nixon's Phase 2 controls rose at an annual rate of 5.7 per cent compared with 5.2 per cent in the eight months before the Phase 1 wage-price freeze imposed a year ago.

The bureau also reported that the nation's unemployment rate remained unchanged in July at 5.5 per cent of the work force and total employment was virtually unchanged at 83.4 million.

The jobless rate in June and July was substantially below the rates of around 6 per cent which had prevailed since the close of 1970, the report said.

It added that average hourly earnings of some 50 million non-agricultural workers rose one cent per hour to $3.62 and were up $1.09 per week to $136.47.

Average earnings were up $8.53 weekly or 6.7 per cent over the past year, and after deduction for the 2.9 per cent rise in living costs, the average paycheck was $4.58 per week above a year earlier, the report said.

The report on wholesale prices said food prices rose 2.2 per cent in July, finished goods ready for retail sale went up one per cent, and industrial raw materials rose two-tenths of one per cent.

On a seasonally adjusted basis, the food price increase was 1.8 per cent, finished manufactured goods eight-tenths of one per cent and industrial raw materials two-tenths of one per cent, the report said.

This acceleration was due entirely to sizable increases in prices of farm products and processed foods and feeds in May and June and the particularly steep rise in July, it said.

July wholesale price increases included 3.2 per cent for farm products with sharp increases of 15.1 per cent for live poultry and 11.2 per cent for eggs.

Textile products rose four-tenths of one per cent, leather products five-tenths, fuels three-tenths, chemicals one-tenth, rubber products three-tenths, lumber products 1.3 per cent pulp and paper products two-tenths of one per cent machinery and equipment two-tenths, and mineral products three-tenths.

Water Board To Hold Meet

The Board of Directors of Panhandle Ground Water Conservation District No. 3, South of the Canadian River will hold its regular Quarterly Meeting at 10 a.m. Monday, at the District Office in White Deer.

The main item of the agenda will be the Budget Review and Hearing, approval of the 1972-73 Budget, and setting of the tax rate of 1972.

The tax rate during the past 16 years has varied from three to five cents per one hundred dollars valuation. Taxes for the District are assessed and collected by the various county tax assessor-collectors.

Members of the Board of Directors of the District are Fred Vanderburg and John Spearman of Gray County and Raymond C. Blodgett, Stewart Purvins, and James B. McCray of Carson County.

In addition to the Budget Hearing, other routine matters will be handled. The public is privileged to attend.

PUBLIC HEARING TO BE SET

City Solons To Review 1972-73 Budget Tuesday

By TEX DEWESE
Pampa's 1972-73 fiscal year budget will be formally submitted to the City Commission at its regular semi-monthly meeting Tuesday morning in City Hall.

City Manager Mack Wofford said today, the exact figure, although it will show an increase over this year, will not be known until after a public hearing.

The commission is expected to set the date for the public hearing for Tuesday, Aug. 22.

The city manager added that it has been established that the city tax rate of $1.72 per $100 of assessed property valuation will not be increased this year.

He pointed out that the increased total will be close to a repeat of the current year's budget with two exceptions.

Those exceptions, he said, are operation of the $1.2 million M. K. Brown Memorial Auditorium and the increased costs of operating the new $1.4 million Canadian River water treatment plant.

While it's still one year away, the city manager indicated there was little likelihood the $1.72 city tax rate could be held at that figure in fiscal 1973-74.

The city now has too many new obligations that have been taken on since the $1.72 rate was set in 1967, it was pointed out.

Approximately $650,000 is taken up with new equipment, debt amortization and landfill operation at the sewage plant, Canadian River Municipal Water Authority obligations, city auditorium expense and additional operating costs at the new water treatment plant.

This, Wofford explained, eats up practically all of the income from the city's one-cent sales tax.

The budget to be presented to the commission Tuesday makes no provision for the cost of bringing the city waste treatment plant up to state standards, a problem currently being worked on by consultant engineers following last Wednesday's meeting of city officials with the Texas Water Quality Board in Austin.

The method of funding that project, Wofford said, will have to be worked out later by the City Commission.

Senate Okays SALT Treaty Limiting Spread Of Missiles

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has ratified a historic treaty limiting the spread of Soviet and American defensive missiles.

The 88-2 roll-call vote Thursday cleared the way for later consideration of the more controversial five-year SALT agreement on offensive nuclear weapons.

The treaty was opposed only by Sens. James B. Allen D-Ala., and James Buckley, Con-R-N.Y., who contended it is immoral because it causes the United States to forego an available means of defending its population against potential nuclear attack.

Signed by President Nixon and Soviet Premier Leonid Brezhnev in Moscow last May 25, the treaty limits each nation to 200 antiballistic missiles and just two sites—one at the capital and one in the interior defending an offensive-missile site.

The White House said Nixon was pleased with the ratification vote and "looks forward to prompt action" on the companion interim agreement.

Heated debate is likely as the Senate moves on to consider the agreement, which allows the Soviet Union to surpass the United States in the numbers of land- and sea-based nuclear offensive missiles.

The treaty needed only Senate approval, but the agreement must be acted upon by both chambers.

The agreement places ceilings on both nations' nuclear arsenals, and the Nixon administration has contended it will have the effect of breaking the momentum of the recent Soviet arms buildup.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., challenged that view and announced he will seek to amend the agreement, by adding a warning to the Soviets that any move to increase their offensive capability so as to threaten the American nuclear deterrent would be considered a threat to the United States.

Jackson sought also to put Congress on record as directing the President to seek equality of numbers in the next round of SALT negotiations with the Soviets.

Youth Says He Was Not Struck

Thomas Miller Jr., 17, corrected the police report of a car-motorcycle accident Wednesday night in a statement to Pampa Police Chief Jim Conner, saying he was not struck by William T. Lytton, 52, the other driver involved in the accident.

Chief Conner cited this as an example of the confusion that can be caused by the excitement at the scene of an accident; confusion that works a hardship on officers and on persons erroneously pictured in those reports.

Lytton is hospitalized under coronary care following a seizure at the scene of the accident.

He was stopped on his motorcycle for the control sign at Hobart and 21 St. His bike was struck from the rear by the car driven by young Miller.

Miller was cited for an improper start.

Pair Admits Forgeries

Two men are in city jail following their statements to Pampa police that they forged and passed $125 in checks at Pampa firms.

A Wheeler man, 20, told officers he passed the checks after they were written by a 17-year-old Shamrock youth.

According to the official report, the Wheeler man was apprehended while trying to pass the third check for $50.

Charges against the pair are pending.

Performances continue at 8 p.m. today, with the final performance of this year's rodeo at 8 p.m. Saturday.

Final Arguments To Be Heard Today Before Trial Of Bremer

UPPER MARLBORO, Md. (AP) — Final arguments remain to be heard today before the trial of Arthur H. Bremer, the accused assailant of Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, goes to the jury.

After the dismissal of four counts Thursday by Judge Ralph W. Powers, Bremer remained under indictment on 13 counts arising from the May 15 shooting of Wallace and three other persons at a Laurel, Md., shopping center.

Powers cited lack of evidence as his grounds for dismissing a charge of assault with intent to maim on each of the four persons wounded.

Bremer has pleaded innocent by reason of insanity to all charges arising from the shootings, including four each of assault with intent to murder, assault and battery and using a handgun in violation of Maryland law and one count of illegally carrying a handgun.

If the Prince Georges County Circuit Court jury accepts his plea of insanity, Bremer would be committed to a Maryland mental hospital for an indefinite period.

Bremer still is under indictment on federal charges stemming from the shootings.

Although the defendant did not testify on his own behalf, his father, William Bremer, took the stand briefly Thursday as the fourth and final defense witness. The elder Bremer was not questioned about his son, except to identify him.

The prosecution in its rebuttal put before the jury more psychiatric testimony in efforts to prove that the defendant is legally sane.

The six-man, six-woman jury heard conflicting testimony on the sanity issue from psychiatrists and psychologists put on the stand by State's Atty. Arthur A. Marshall and Benjamin Lipsitz, the defense lawyer.

The highlight of Thursday's session was the reading of the final two-thirds of Bremer's personal diary by Lipsitz.

The manuscript related in detail how Bremer stalked first President Nixon and then Gov. Wallace for about a month prior to the day he was arrested following the shooting of Wallace at the shopping center.

The document repeatedly refers to his belief that he would be captured or killed.

On May 8 he wrote, "I don't know whether it's trial or prison for me or bye-bye brains."

And again, "I hope my death makes more sense than my life."

Nixon's $500,000 Car Is As Strong As Tank

DEARBORN, Mich. (AP) — President Nixon's new $500,000 armor-plated limousine rolls out of a closed shop today and will be trucked to Washington in a closed van with a Secret Service escort.

"It's as strong as a tank. It is so strong that a bomb would only roll it over," the Detroit Free Press quoted one workman as saying.

The taxpayer is only picking up a fraction of the tab for the President's five-ton Lincoln, — about a $5,000-a-year lease fee. Because of the prestige involved, the manufacturer does not charge the full cost.

campaign rally.

The diary, found in Bremer's car, told in his words of his plan to get Nixon at the Ottawa military airport — a plan which failed when he couldn't gain entrance to the airport.

Bremer related at one point in the diary that he considered shooting Sen. George McGovern.

The document repeatedly refers to his belief that he would be captured or killed.

On May 8 he wrote, "I don't know whether it's trial or prison for me or bye-bye brains."

And again, "I hope my death makes more sense than my life."

Much of the extra weight comes from the quarter-inch of armor plate on the bottom, roof and doors.

The limousine was three years in the making but never was near an assembly line. It was hand-crafted by 10 metal model makers, two welders and one stockman who worked from special plans prepared by Ford and the Secret Service.

Two San Antonio Small Girls Disappear; Foul Play Feared

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Foul play was feared early today after search parties spent a full day hunting for two small girls who disappeared two days ago.

Missing were Fara Fazi, 8, and Cherry Lambert, 6, the daughters of two Lackland Air Force Base sergeants. They were last seen playing in the front yard of one of their homes about 4 p.m. Wednesday, officers said.

"We have nothing at this point. I hope there's no foul play, but I'm beginning to suspect the worst," said Sheriff's Lt. Alfred Carreon late Thursday. "I'm beginning to suspect foul play."

Officers said one man told them he saw two girls standing in an area near the scene of the search Wednesday night and saw a car stop. He said he assumed their parents were in the car but was unsure if they got in it.

"That's why we are still searching, because we don't know if the girls were picked up or not," Carreon said.

The ever growing search was massive, with more than 400 persons taking part Thursday, including about 200 trainees from Lackland.

Two helicopters were dispatched to the area on the city's west side, along with six specially trained dogs, 15 horseback riders, several deputies and many volunteers.

Rain hampered Thursday's efforts, much of which were concentrated on a brushy area near the girls' homes.

Fara's parents are T. Sgt. and Mrs. Floyd Fazi. Cherry's parents are S. Sgt. and Mrs. Walter Lambert.

Fischer May Win 10th Chess Match

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP) — The experts predicted that Bobby Fischer would win the 10th game of the world chess championship today, giving him a commanding 6½-3½ lead over Boris Spassky.

Grandmasters Bent Larsen of Denmark and Svetozar Gligoric of Yugoslavia agreed that the American challenger appeared certain to gain a three-point edge when play resumes in the game.

"Spassky is massacred," said Gligoric. "It is unbelievable that the world champion cannot even manage a draw."

"If Spassky loses this game, the match becomes a farce," said British Grandmaster David Levy.

Play was adjourned Thursday night after the 40th move, and Fischer handed his sealed 41st move to referee Lothar Schmid.

With a win counting one point and a draw half a point, Fischer needs 12½ points to capture the championship and Spassky must get 12 to keep it.

Fischer was playing the white pieces Thursday, giving him the first move. It was pawn to king four, an opening he used only once in the three previous times he played the white pieces. Then he went into the Ruy Lopez pattern, but Spassky broke out of it with an exchange of pieces that left the board open for attacks.

Grandmaster Isaac Kashdan, analyzing the matches for The Associated Press, said Fischer after the 40th move "had the material advantage with two rooks against a rook and a bishop. Spassky had the edge in pawns, four against three, but this did not quite make up for the deficit."

Twice Spassky appeared trapped by Fischer's aggressive play, but both times he wriggled out.

When the American's queen threatened Spassky's kingside bishop pawn and then checked, the champion used his bishop to force one of Fischer's rooks to protect his forward pawns, isolated from the mate strike.

Spassky escaped again after one of Fischer's rooks grabbed his bishop and another put him in check.

Shortly before the adjournment, Larsen said the Russian had chances for a draw. But these chances disappeared when Fischer advanced his king and edged his pair of rooks to bear on Spassky's king. This matched a strong pair of rooks against the Russian's rook and bishop.

City Gets Citation For Safety

The city of Pampa has been given a special citation for its pedestrian safety record following the thirty-third annual inventory into that field by the American Automobile Association.

The special recognition was one of 239 awards and citations presented to winners among the 2,146 U.S. cities participating in the AAA safety judging for 1971 according to Sam Bell, general manager of the Panhandle Plains Auto Club, area AAA affiliate.

Evaluations were in each of the prevention areas of safety legislation, enforcement, traffic engineering, community coordination, school traffic, public education and established records.

Nationally, the pedestrian death rate increased five per cent in 1971 over the previous year while the injury rate declined eight per cent during the same period.

AAA is the only non-governmental organization operating nationally in scope to improve pedestrian safety. The program began in 1937.

Court Upholds Contempt Sentences Of Five For Refusing To Testify

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Five witnesses in a federal grand jury inquiry reportedly concerned with gun-running to Northern Ireland have had their contempt sentences affirmed by the appellate court in New Orleans.

A three-judge panel from the U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals upheld sentences handed down by U.S. Dist. Judge Leo Brewster against Kenneth Tierney, Paschal Morahan, Mathias Reilly, Thomas Laffey and Daniel Crawford.

The five were convicted of contempt in June for refusing to testify despite court-granted immunity from prosecution.

They were sentenced to terms not to exceed the 18-month life of the grand jury.

The men charged in briefs sent to the circuit court that Brewster did not permit them to consult with counsel during the questioning and that despite the immunity grant, they would be liable to extradition and prosecution in Great Britain.

"Appellants were, in fact, permitted to consult with counsel during their appearances before the grand jury," the circuit judges said in a 15-page opinion.

They also rejected the other argument, saying, "our view... is that because of the secrecy of the grand jury proceedings, no substantial risk of foreign prosecution is posed."

Lawyers for the witnesses had asked the entire 15-member circuit court hear the case because of the foreign prosecution contention which they

American Party To Pick Candidate For President

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The American Party appeared ready today to nominate Republican Congressman John Schmitz for president, but a movement to draft Alabama Gov. George Wallace still flickered.

"If you want to draft Gov. Wallace, that's your prerogative," national chairman Coleman Andrews told the 2,000 delegates in an emotional speech Thursday. "I would hope you find it advisable to respect his wishes."

Andrews read a telegram from Wallace to the delegates Thursday night in which the governor reiterated he would not be a candidate "under any circumstances."

But short of irrefutable evidence that Wallace would reject a draft, American party leaders could not squelch the final effort.

The difficulty was mirrored in the activity of Tom Turnipseed of Columbia, S.C., who continued to insist that Wallace was available, if pressed Turnipseed held a draft-Wallace gathering Thursday night in a motel adjoining the state Fairgrounds convention site.

Leaders of the draft-Wallace movement said they're determined to push it. As one of them, Bill West of Tulsa, Okla., put it, they hope to get Wallace nominated and let him accept it or turn it down.

Meanwhile, the only other active presidential candidate, Richard Kay of Cleveland, Ohio, asserted at a news conference that a clique of "power brokers" was trying to squeeze him out of contest by choosing an outsider for president.

But Schmitz, the "outsider," contended that since his primary defeat for the Republican nomination in President Nixon's home district of Southern California, his natural shelter and hope for the future rests in the American party.

Schmitz said in an interview that despite marked contrast between him and Wallace, both basically are concerned with "the survival of a non-socialist, non-totalitarian America."

Schmitz, 41, a former Marine aviator, was born in Milwaukee. A former college instructor, he is a Roman Catholic and is a member of the ultraconservative John Birch Society.

Texas Poor People Reach 2.5 Million

AUSTIN (AP) — One out of five—or 2.5 million—Texans are poor, according to a statewide poverty report presented today to Gov. Preston Smith.

The 300-page report was said to be the first such study in Texas. It was prepared by the Texas Office of Economic Opportunity on the basis of a survey of 4,000 households, randomly selected, throughout the state by Louis Bowles and Grace, Inc., of Dallas.

The survey was taken in May 1971, and used the following guidelines to measure poverty: a nonfarm family of one was considered poor if the gross annual income was less than $1,900 and the scale goes up to $2,500 for a family of two, $3,100 for three, $3,800 for four, $4,400 for five, $5,000 for six and $5,600 for seven.

The poverty income for farm families was lower.

The report reveals a statewide poverty rate of 22 per cent, with the region extending from Val Verde County southeast to the Gulf of Mexico having the worst poverty problems. Poverty rose as high as 42.2 per

GOP Sets Early-to-Bed Convention

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans are tuning their three-day national convention to the early-to-bed television audience, not to the insomniacs.

Those making the arrangements promise an "interesting and exciting" convention starting in Miami Beach on Aug. 21, despite the fact the outcome is assured.

"The American people will watch ours," the GOP National Committee chairman, Sen. Robert J. Dole, predicted Wednesday at a news conference.

The five sessions, two afternoon gatherings of two hours each starting at 1 o'clock and three at night scheduled to end not later than 10:30, were arranged, Dole said, so every TV viewer wanting to can conveniently watch them.

"Not just the insomniacs," he added, referring to last month's four-day Democratic convention in which all sessions ran past midnight and two ended at daybreak.

The afternoon GOP sessions are booked for Monday and Tuesday, with the finale starting at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday and ending at 10:30. At that final session the nominees will make their acceptance speeches.

The Monday and Tuesday night sessions will be two-hour affairs starting at 8:30. The nomination for president is set for Tuesday night, and for vice president Wednesday night.

To liven up the proceedings, Dole said, "spontaneous" victory demonstrations of about 15 minutes' duration will follow each nomination. Democrats barred such merry-making from their convention.

Five movies will be shown during the proceedings. None will exceed 15 minutes, Dole said. They will include tributes to former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and Mrs. Nixon, a review of Republican accomplishments, some scenes about "Nixon The Man," and a visual keynote presentation.

The Republicans anticipate no squabbles such as the ones that split the Democrats over credentials, platform and party rules. Their Credentials Committee's first and probably only meeting is scheduled the day the convention opens.

Reaction To DES Ban

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP) — Beef feeders in the Texas Panhandle area were dejected today over Wednesday's federal ban on the use of DES hormone additive in feedlot rations. They said the ban will cost them more to feed cattle and cost the consumer more for meat.

"It makes you feel like you just kissed your sister," said one feedlot owner.

The feeders said their only consolation was that the ban did not exclude the use of an implant pellet, a less efficient use of the hormone.

Jack Carrothers, manager of Friona Feedyards, estimated the feedyards' efficiency will be clipped by at least 10 per cent.

Banning of the additive, which speeds weight gain by cattle on feed could add at least $9 to the price of a fed steer going to the slaughter, cattlemen said. "That increase will go on to the consumer," Carrothers said.

"Both the cattle industry and the consuming public are going to suffer from Wednesday's FDA action," a Purcell statement said.

Bittersweet Memory Of Eagletons

WASHINGTON (AP)—When it was all over, Secret Service men dismissed and vice-presidential campaign plans but a bittersweet memory. Barbara Ann Eagleton said she couldn't care less if her husband never runs for public office again.

"By Sunday I was a basket case," she said. "You lose so much privacy way up there."

Mrs. Eagleton, wife of Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton who saw his career peak and plummet in one short week, said in an interview that she was relieved when he and Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern announced Eagleton would withdraw from the ticket.

"He felt the same way I did," Mrs. Eagleton said of her husband's comments to her after the dramatic press conference Monday night. "I was on the phone when he got home. He came over and kissed me. He was sort of philosophical about it. He knew if George McGovern thought this was the best course to take, then it was fine with him."

Mrs. Eagleton said she was neither depressed nor disappointed by the decision that made her husband the only American ever to accept and then reject a major-party vice-presidential nomination.

"I was hoping this would be the decision they'd come to, frankly," she said. "I think a presidential election is too important to spend three months talking about what happened six years ago."

Curling her bare feet under her in an easy chair in the living room of their two-story colonial-style house in Chevy Chase, Md., Mrs. Eagleton said of the week's events: "It was kind of like a dream where I kept thinking, 'This is all going to be over within a couple of weeks. I know.'"

Then, running a hand through her streaky blonde hair, she said with an ironic chuckle. "Well, I was right...."

The reaction in California was great," she said, referring to the whirlwind campaign swing that reached from Missouri to Honolulu right after Eagleton disclosed July 25 that he had been hospitalized three times between 1960 and 1966 for psychiatric treatment, including electric-shock therapy.

"But when I got back and started reading the newspapers and saw what was going on the tube, I said, 'My God, this is bad, really bad.' I was surprised that it had become what I used to call lightly a 'cause celebre.'"

Mrs. Eagleton, 39, said she was worried about the reaction of their 13-year-old son Terry who was away at camp when the news broke. Before he had left, Mrs. Eagleton said, she explained to him that during an election year, politics can be rough on the families involved.

A day and a half after the final press conference, Mrs. Eagleton said, he called her son to explain why his father was no longer the vice-presidential nominee.

"I said, 'Dad was sick, as you know and I told you about. It seems to have become somewhat of a cause celebre now. He said 'why?' and I said, 'well, I guess the American people are not willing to accept mental illness in their elected officials.'"

Christin, their lively, blonde 9-year-old dubbed "Dynamo II" by the Secret Service, "hasn't reacted at all," her mother said.

"Everyone asks how did I stand it. How was I so cool?" Mrs. Eagleton said. "My only response is that obviously I hadn't been sitting around being waited on all my life."

Sen. Bentsen Sets Hearing On Benefits

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Sen. Lloyd Bentsen has ordered hearings Aug. 8-9 before a special Senate Armed Services Subcommittee, into benefits for widows and children of retired servicemen.

Sen. Bentsen was recently named chairman of the special subcommittee, which will investigate benefits for widows and children of military retirees and certain active duty personnel, by Sen. John C. Stennis, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee.

"At the present time, our nation provides no benefits to the widows and children of most of our military retirees, beyond those benefits offered through social security," Bentsen said.

"For too long, they have not received the benefits available to civilians in government or to workers in many segments of private industry."

The special Senate panel is considering a measure that is closely patterned after the survivors' benefits program presently offered by the U.S. Civil Service. The bill has already been approved by the House.

Bentsen noted witnesses before his subcommittee are expected to recommend several revisions to the House bill.

SIGNS
NEW YORK (AP)—Project Health, the new program which teaches businessmen how to recognize and avoid potentially serious health problems, reports that potential alcoholics display five early on-the-job signs.

They are higher-than-average charges on expense accounts; early arrival and/or late departure from company functions where there's free liquor; marital problems, divorce, or separation; psychiatric help for children; and high rate of illness or accidents in the family.

Canada's newest province is Newfoundland, which became a province in 1949.

Senate Unit Urged To OK Bill Amendment

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Sen. Lloyd Bentsen has urged the Senate Finance Committee to approve an amendment to the Revenue Sharing Bill that would remove the so-called state income tax inducement from the measure.

Sen. Bentsen is a co-sponsor of the amendment.

"The state income tax inducement—which might more accurately be termed a 'coercion'—discriminates against Texas because it has no state income tax," Bentsen said in testimony submitted to the Committee.

Bentsen pointed out that Texas ranks 50th in revenue to be shared with state government on a per capita basis, in the existing Revenue Sharing measure.

"Yet, he pointed out, 'We rank 27 in total Federal tax contribution.'"

The Senator also noted to members of the Committee that the state income tax formula is harmful for other reasons, too.

The Senator also noted to members of the Committee that the state income tax formula is harmful for other reasons, too.

"The Congress should not use revenue sharing as a club to force states to adopt any particular means of taxation.

Manufacturers Directory Now Available At BBR

AUSTIN — If you don't have the new 1972 Directory of Texas Manufacturers, you might not know the following items are made in Texas:

Armañillo novelties, wooden nickels, buck scent, dam gates, football dummies, mouse bait, electronic dog trainers, pinatas, tree shakers, snowmobile sleighs, flea powder, grandstands, dumbwaiters, barbell benches, lights for taxis.

Those and thousands of other products are listed in the directory which is revised and published annually by The University of Texas Bureau of Business Research.

Now in its 23rd edition, the Directory of Texas Manufacturers reflects to some extent the growth of Texas business. For years the publication fitted nicely into a one-volume format. Since 1970, however, the directory has expanded into two volumes, now with 780 pages.

Volume I includes:

- An alphabetical section listing all Texas plants by firm name.
- A geographical section, wherein firms are arranged by cities. The listing includes the name and address of the firm and also the name and title of the principal officer, partners, owner or plant manager.
- An organization reference section, which lists the parent companies of Texas manufacturing plants.

Volume II contains a lengthy product section that groups products according to Standard Industrial Classification numbers. It also carries an alphabetical index of the more than 3,800 Texas-made products.

Dr. Stanley A. Arbingast, director of the Bureau of Business Research, says research for the 1972 directory "could not have been carried on without the constant and willing help of the manufacturers themselves and the city and regional chambers of commerce."

Copies of the Directory of Texas Manufacturers sell for $22.50 per set (plus $1.13 sales tax) and are available from the Bureau of Business Research, The University of Texas, Austin, Texas 78712.

What's he earning?

Money, of course! Sometimes the money a boy earns as a Junior Independent Merchant makes quite a difference in the kind of clothing, toys, trips, and education he gets.

But, just as often his parents are doctors, lawyers, school administrators, and successful business executives. Money is not as important to them. And while every boy gets satisfaction from being able to buy things for himself and others without going to his parents, money is not the primary reason these parents encourage their sons to become newspaperboys.

Much More than Money! The development of poise, while many of his classmates are still "all thumbs"; the ability to get along with all kinds of people; the capacity for taking responsibility; and the knowledge that he is a salesman. These will pay far greater dividends in the years to come.

And this is why successful men, many of whom were newspaperboys a generation ago, so strongly recommend to their sons that they get the greatly improved "basic training" provided for today's newspaperboys.

If you think your son might profit by newspaperboy route experience, our Circulation Department would like to discuss the matter with you.

Cosmetology Offered At PHS

Instruction in Cosmetology will be offered to junior and senior students at Pampa high school for the first time beginning this fall.

No tuition charges will be made for instruction at the Pampa College of Hairdressing through arrangements with the college and the Pampa Independent School District.

Funds for the tuition are being acquired from the Texas Education Agency, said Don H. Nelson, Vocational Coordinator.

Girls or boys of junior or senior classification who are seriously interested in becoming a licensed cosmetologist should apply before August 10 with the Vocational Counselor, Miss Geraldine Rampy, at the high school.

Students must be able to arrange a three hour block of time in their schedules in order to enroll. Three credits will be granted per year. As the State Board of Cosmetology requires 1,000 hours of practical training, two years are necessary for completion of the instruction. Senior students who enroll must be willing to provide the cost of their second year of instruction from their own means.

Pampa high has places for 20 students through the arrangements. Students must provide their own transportation, to and from the college and the high school.

Cosmetology provides training in the area of hair styling or beauty operator, manicuring, wig specialist salon management and other related areas. Mrs. Irene Mulanax, licensed cosmetologist

Worry Clinic

By GEORGE W. CRANE, PH.D., M.D.

Janet is an unmarried "Women's Lib" advocate. If she became the wife of a normal, virile male, she'd recognize her present arguments as romantic dreaming by an uninitiated female. You wives can answer her, without our medical reasons!

CASE U-553: Janet C., aged 27, is an ardent Women's Lib fan.

"Dr. Crane," she began, "why do you so positively state that men are endowed with more erotic hunger than are women?"

"For you have said women are about 75 per cent maternal in their natural inclinations and only about 25 per cent erotic."

"Meanwhile, however, you insist that men are about 75 per cent sexually oriented and only about 25 per cent paternal."

"I disagree, for I believe women are just as passionate as men are!"

"Although I'm not married, I relish romance and would enjoy dating and dancing every night."

Instead, they are compensating for fright at being an "old maid" at the age of 29, or because they are sterile wives or have lost their uterus or breasts via surgery.

WOMEN'S LIB
"Dating and dancing" every night are merely the romantic "sauces" that girls relish.

Men are more interested in the real "meat and potatoes," meaning sex.

They will endure dancing for a time as a part of the usual social "sales palaver" required in romance.

But you wives can answer Janet very positively and tell her that your mates (like Dagwood in the comic strip) must be dragged to a dance!

Dancing is thus a youthful muscular outlet by which to drain off the extra erotic energy that married men expend in their boudoir!

If you were to make a random survey of 1,000 men (without knowing who were single and who were married), you could easily detect the husbands. How?

Just by asking them if they'd like to join Janet in "dating and dancing" every night.

Women are noted for being "poetical" and "romantic," for these are the erotic frills and vague sexual stimulants that people of weak libido require to generate real erotic union.

Remember, it's the diffident eater who needs scalloped edges of the grapefruit and mustard, tabasco sauce, plus other exotic relishes, to whet his weak gastric appetite.

The man with a normal masculine hunger for food doesn't care to waste time with appetizers or frilly folderol at the table!

Same goes in the erotic realm!

The very fact that wives keep asking for a romantic build-up before the erotic union, is proof itself that women are weaker in their libido than men.

Indeed, even the nymphomaniacs (who cohabit with every Tom, Dick and Harry they can seduce) have a weak libido.

For such supposedly sexy females are still not motivated by a prurient erotic urge.

Fun Glasses Important As Fashion Accessory

COLLEGE STATION—Fun glasses have become an important fashion accessory for men and women.

According to Becky Dunlap, clothing specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, an endless variety of exciting designs and lens and frame colors have contributed to the acceptance and popularity of this accessory item.

"Fun glasses may be worn year round to coordinate with every possible mood and costume," Miss Dunlap said. "But don't confuse fun glasses with sunglasses. They aren't the same."

Fun glasses are easily distinguished by their light lens colors that range from softest pastels to bright colors. On the other hand, sunglasses in dark sage green or neutral gray colored lenses, give optimum color perception and glare protection.

"Secondly," the Texas A&M University specialist said, "fun glasses are more commonly plastic, while sunglasses are glass."

Price is another important factor. Fun glasses often cost less than sunglasses. However, some designer-styled fun glasses may be as expensive as good quality sunglasses. Although it costs the manufacturer more to produce an excellent product, price isn't always a sure indication of top quality, according to Miss Dunlap.

"Fun glasses may be worn to achieve a particular fashion look for street wear and light-colored lenses for indoor wear," she said. "They protect the eyes against grime and dirt in the air—a feature that is of special value for contact lens wearers. They also help break the glare and keep it from irritating eyes."

As the name implies, fun glasses are mostly worn for fun—for looking and feeling great.

The specialist warned that fun glasses shouldn't be worn to protect the eyes from glare of the sun or during outdoor sporting activities when maximum vision is needed.

Miss Dunlap gave these pointers in selecting fun glasses:

Examine the frame carefully. Do the hinges seem strong enough to withstand normal use? Is the material itself smooth, free of rough spots and sturdy enough to withstand the treatment it will receive?

Look for metal cores in the earpieces of plastic frames that allow bending for a comfortable fit. Whether metal, plastic or wire, frames should fit so comfortably that they may be worn all day without awareness of their presence.

"Neutral-colored frames are a practical and versatile choice that blend well with a varied wardrobe," Miss Dunlap said. "Personal coloring is a useful guideline to use in selecting a becoming neutral frame. For example, a tawny tortoise will harmonize with light brown hair. Black, dark tortoise and smoky brown look attractive with dark hair. And blondes may find a smoky blue, light tortoise or amber tone flattering."

Bright and boldly colored frames are also popular choices for fun glasses. Miss Dunlap said to remember that these frames will remain as bright every time they're worn. They may overpower facial features and be limited with wardrobe selections.

"Individual facial shapes and hair styles influence the shape of the frame to choose," she said. "To determine your face shape, stand in front of a mirror with your hair wrapped in a towel and pulled back from your face and hairline. Trace the outline of your face on the mirror with soap or shaving cream."

Is the resulting shape triangular, diamond, heart, oblong or round? The most desirable shape is an oval which wears any shape of frame well.

"A round face will appear less round in frames with a squarish or elliptical shape," the clothing expert said. "For an oblong face, choose a gently rounded or oval frame. It's best to avoid sharp edges or pointed shapes."

A frame that's narrower than the width of the forehead and has fairly straight lines flatters a heart-shaped face. And a large, bold square-shaped frame contracts the facets and center-span of a diamond-shaped face. A square-faced individual best wears round-shaped frames that are as wide as the broadest part of the face.

"Tailor the size of the frame to individual face and body sizes," Miss Dunlap advised.

For example, choose a small thin frame such as wire rims to complement delicate features.

Austria Studies Health of Kids

VIENNA (AP)—Despite daily confrontation with air pollution and other health hazards, children of city dwellers are healthier than those from Austria's rural districts.

The legend of the healthy, red-cheeked country kids was contradicted by examinations conducted by the state-run Lower Austrian Health Insurance Co.

Nearly a third of the examined youths suffered—without knowing it—from some ailment, and had to be sent to physicians.

Posture troubles, circulatory ailments, bad teeth and stomach disorders were main ills.

"The rural population has to be taught to live healthily," Dr. Oskar Lachner of the company explained.

The figures in Lower Austria Province were matched in other Austrian rural districts. Army records were almost identical.

In 1970, 79 per cent of young men from rural districts were fit for military service, the percentage was 84 for city youths.

Doctors offered an explanation for this, saying one reason was the hard work the pregnant wife of a farmer still has to do before giving birth.

Women in urban districts have to do less hard work, and once the baby is born they also are entitled to a maternity leave, something unheard of in a farmer's household.

Besides doing their chores around the farm house, these women also are often too far away from medical centers where they would be able to receive advice on child care and also have their young examined regularly.

Capless Wig

By HELEN HENNESSY
NEA Women's Editor
NEW YORK—(NEA)—There are times when what's on your head is as important as what's in it. One of those times is when you find a really comfortable wig.

At a recent charity "do" in New York, the Air-Light dinner dance, 50 socialites attended wearing wigs built on a new capless, stretch framework that allows air to circulate freely. The wig maker gave the party and a substantial contribution to the New York Council of Fine Arts, too. The hostesses, Nan Kempner, Didi Shields and Maggi Newhouse, wore wigs that closely resembled their own tresses.

Mrs. John R. McLean 2nd of Palm Beach, didn't wear the family jewel, the Hope Diamond, but she sparkled plenty anyway in a long, blond wig.

The new capless wig should be a boon to the working girl. But it was just marvey to hear all those beautiful people express delight that they could scratch their heads through it. Weighty problems, maybe?

Doctor Recalls Disappointment Turned into Great Opportunity

BALTIMORE (AP)—Thousands of babies may owe their lives to the fact that Dr. Helen Brooke Taussig specialized in pediatrics 48 years ago and, 20 years later, helped find a cure for the fatal infant heart defect known as "blue baby."

"It was one of those times in life when what seemed to be a disappointment later proved to be a great opportunity," Dr. Taussig, a retired staff physician at Johns Hopkins Hospital, said.

Dr. Taussig, 73, was denied an internship in medicine after her graduation from the Hopkins School of Medicine because one woman from her class already had been accepted for the post.

The school would not put two women in the same field, Dr. Taussig explained, so she decided to intern in pediatrics.

She stayed in the field for a half-century and despite her official status as professor emerita of pediatrics, still puts in eight hours nearly every day at Hopkins.

"Retirement has one meaning to me," she once told an associate. "You sink into your bed at the end of the day, exhausted, and hope that the phone doesn't ring until morning."

"I have slowed down a bit, but if you call retirement sitting still and doing nothing, I'll never do it."

Dr. Taussig, named in March as the first woman master in the American College of Physicians, specialized in pediatric cardiology after she joined the Hopkins staff in 1924.

In 1944, she helped develop the first successful operation for "blue babies," so-called because they are born with a constricted artery connecting heart and lungs. The lack of oxygen in the blood gives the skin a bluish hue.

Dr. Taussig had read about a surgeon in Boston who had tied off a vessel leading to the lung. "Not being a surgeon," she said, "it gave me no difficulty to ask, 'If you can tie off a ductus, why can't you build a new one altogether?'"

When Dr. Alfred Blalock, a surgeon, came to Hopkins, Dr. Taussig worked out the details of the operation with him. The first successful "blue baby" operation was performed nearly 30 years ago.

Though her life's work was with children, the white-haired physician never married.

"A person can't do everything she wants to in life and I've had other experiences that I wouldn't have had if I had married," Dr. Taussig said. "Besides, I think I've been more of a success with what I've done than I would have been with marriage."

Betty Canary

By BETTY CANARY

I hold firmly to the belief that we can change our lives and the world around us. This belief, a smattering of psychology and a book called "How to Instruct Successfully" has helped me through numerous situations as well as while teaching adult education classes.

It hasn't done a thing to help me get across a few basics to children.

The truth is, some children never learn certain things. Your list might not be the same as mine, but years of experience have proved to me how children are incapable of learning.

That water faucets are designed to be turned off.

That permission to paint one bedroom chair purple does not include painting the walls, ceiling, lamps, bed and two chests purple.

That even the most loving mother can endure just so much piano practice.

That all the running in the world will not help a kite fly inside a house. Also, motorized airplanes are not designed for flying inside a house.

Children must be born with certain mental blocks.

Why else, for example, would they always park your car in the driveway but only when the gas gauge reads "empty"?

Why hang around for three hours asking, "What's for dinner?" then disappear five minutes before dinner is served?

Why does a baby jabber incessantly until you want him to say something to grandma over the telephone? All he does then is sit and let the saliva build up in the corners of his mouth.

Why do they think you "wouldn't mind" if they turn your dining room drapes into a curtain for a backyard theater?

Why do they think you "wouldn't mind" if they took all the cookies from the freezer and sold them at a backyard carnival?

Why do they think you "wouldn't mind" if they charged neighborhood children three cents each to come in and watch your new musical cuckoo clock?

Beauty Expert Counsels Teen-Agers

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Although long-time beauty expert Lucille Bouchard studied to be a school teacher in her native Montreal, and became instead an electrolysis technician, she is using her teaching abilities to make young people more aware of their grooming needs.

In addition to conducting beauty seminars for New York State's Board of Cooperative Education (BOCES), a program that helps potential drop outs learn a trade as they attend regular school classes, she treats and comforts a great many young people who have extreme hair and skin problems.

"The incidence of excess hair growth on girls' bodies has increased fifty-fold in the last few years," she notes. "Some girls have hair lines that grow almost to their eyebrows, others have hair on their faces."

Such problems have existed in other generations, but many people are baffled as to the cause of the large increase in excess hair growth, she comments. In her opinion it is caused by overexposure to the sun—excess hair is nature's way of protecting the skin, but she says in many instances the problem is hereditary or caused by glandular disturbances.

Many young people make the hair problem worse by treating it themselves with bleaches and waxes or by shaving the skin or tweezing the hair. Mrs. Bouchard warns young people to consult doctors if they need hair removal as there are many inexperienced people doing electrolysis work. Some doctors may consider such treatments expensive and tedious, but Mrs. Bouchard feels every woman wants to be pretty and "the greatest morale builder for a woman is to be admired."

This beauty consultant often has to start from scratch and teach her clients to wash their faces properly. In doing so, she explains that skin is the largest organ of the body, and that its real food comes from within by activation of the skin. Exercise, warm water, ice, and applying cream or patting the face will bring blood to the surface that will nourish the skin. When she suggests a cream for problem skin, it is applied after the pores have been opened with hot towels.

In teaching the BOCES group, she stresses personal grooming because "they may never go into the beauty business doing nails and hair, but at least I will have taught them how to be well-groomed for their own satisfaction."

Rouse a lawyer if neighbors keep you up

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I am at my wits' end. I live in a four-flat building, but my landlady and her two grown, unmarried sons live here, and those sons make so much noise I am about to go stark mad!

What happened to the ordinance about disturbing the peace? I called the police after 10 p.m. to report this racket and they said, "Take a shot, lady, and go to sleep."

I am not a drinking woman, and I am not going to "take a shot" so I can get some sleep.

I have gone to my son's home when things have been so noisy I wasn't able to sleep here, but why should I pay good rent money to sleep somewhere else?

I am a widow and have been under a doctor's care since my husband died a year ago. This landlady told me I could tear up my lease and move any time, but the apartment I want to move to isn't available for another 90 days. So what am I going to do in the meantime?

GOING MAD IN CHICAGO

DEAR GOING: Talk to your lawyer. You shouldn't be expected to pay rent for an apartment in which you cannot sleep.

DEAR ABBY: My older sister Nancy has been married to Joe for a year. About a month ago Joe joined the Navy. He'll be in the Navy training program for nine weeks, during which time Nancy is staying with me and my husband. It's a break for me because I am expecting a baby next month and Nancy is a big help right now. But here's the problem:

My husband's best friend Lenny, who is single, has been dating Nancy regularly. My husband thinks it's okay; in fact, he is pushing it. It's plain to see that Nancy and Lenny are very much interested in each other.

I don't approve of married women dating, and told Nancy how I felt about it, and she said, "Joe told me to have a good time."

I'm afraid if I kicked Nancy out, she'd go stay with Lenny. Yet I don't feel right letting her date. What should I do?

NANCY'S SIS

DEAR SIS: Having told Nancy that you disapprove of her dating, you have done all you can do. Your husband appears to have been the "architect" in this deal. Shame on him. I wonder how he'd like it if YOU dated?

DEAR ABBY: How would you cope with people who barge in on you unexpectedly after 9:30 in the evening? We have these so-called friends who spend every night of the week "dropping in" on victims like ourselves. I say "victims" because in my household (and most others I know about) by this hour we are already preparing to go to bed.

Naturally when friends call, you have to act pleased and sit around entertaining them until they are ready to go home. What would you do?

ANNOYED

DEAR ANNOYED: I would greet them with, "I am so sorry you didn't call earlier to say you were coming. We were just going to bed. Good night."

CONFIDENTIAL TO "JUST ASKING": Technically, the only brother in law you have is the husband of your sister, or the brother of your wife.

Student Says Wolves Are Social Animals

VANCOUVER, B. C. (AP) — A University of British Columbia doctoral student who spent the last six years observing two packs of Alaskan wolves says they probably are the most social of all animals next to man.

And Gordon Haber suspects that behind the organized attack from farmers, trappers and hunters lurks man's "sub-conscious feeling of prehistoric competition" with the shy animal.

Haber began his study in the spring of 1966 in Mount McKinley National Park in the southern Alaska interior while working towards a master's degree at Northern Michigan University.

Since then, he has maintained intimate contact with one 13 member wolf pack that covers 650 miles of hunting territory. Using both a spotter plane and hiking, Haber, 29, became as familiar with their habits as the wolves themselves.

From these observations, he has drawn an account of the inter-relationship between the pack and the animals it hunts — moose, caribou and sheep.

Haber said a wolf pack is highly structured, with a top male and top female. Only the top male and female breed, producing an average of four to six pups each year.

Below the leading couple in a typical pack are a number of subordinate adults. The rest of the pack consists of cubs and the year-old offspring.

His study concluded that wolves recognize the position and duties of each member without quarrelling. He said the social system of wolves works out not only in hunting, but in controlling the pack's population.

It is on the hunts that wolves show some of their most fascinating — and myth destroying — behavior.

In winter, moose are solitary animals, while the other major prey of wolves, caribou and sheep, stay in small herds. Because of the constant sweeps they make through their territory, wolves know all the potentially good hunting areas.

Haber said that since they are not about to waste their energy on fruitless chases after these large and fast animals, the wolves and their prey have evolved a complicated system of messages which zoologists call "releasers."

"There are subtle differences between a healthy and unhealthy moose," he explained. "Perhaps it doesn't stand the right way or makes a different noise."

When a pack sights a solitary moose, it charges and closes in, circling, barking and yelping while watching for telltale signs. If the moose is apparently healthy, the wolves leave it in minutes; if not, the pack closes in for the kill, searching for openings while guarding against the animal's deadly front hooves.

Wigs Can Change a Pretty Girl Into a Delicate China Doll

CHINA STORY—In the Far East or the West, there have always been wigs in fashion. Wigs of silk hid the baldness of Manchu women, and artificial queues spared the lives of conquered bald-headed Oriental men. And now that the door to the East has been re-opened Chinese-inspired wigs are expected to influence the style picture of American women.

Wig designer Armando Ghedini has some suggestions for transforming women wearing existing wig styles into charming China dolls. The results here are: 1. a short, straight page boy with bangs; 2. an update of the queue which can be created from a long fall; 3. a bouffant hairdo made by pinning layers of falls into a wig and then folding the masses under.

Those Garage Sales

No doubt you have noticed with increased frequency those scribbled signs posted around neighborhoods: "Garage Sale." Here is a perfect example of the free market at work, and we can think of no better way for people to examine basic economics than to participate in some way in these adventures.

Established merchants with their huge investments in merchandise, buildings and employes at first thought might view these neighborhood sales as undesired competition. Deeper study however should reveal these exchanges as a stimulus for further buying and selling.

Homeowners who clean out the closets and garages attempt to rid themselves of unwanted "junk." Usually they are planning a move to a new home and want to buy new furniture accessories etc.

There is the adage that one man's junk is another man's treasure, and this is the lure that brings customers to garage sales. An ad in the News' "Mainly About People" column will catch the eye of bargain hunters who will find a "just what I wanted" item for prices ranging from a few cents to a few dollars.

What a garage sale teaches us is a better understanding of human nature. The consumer advocate activists will probably get involved in an effort to curtail these sales one of these days, but so long as they remain free, they present an opportunity to study the wide range of human desires.

Such sales as these conducted in neighborhoods around the country show a basic trust individuals place in one another. The customers browse through the collection, examine items and price tags and dicker some perhaps before making a purchase.

How often has it been said that if only the government were operated as efficiently as private business, the national budget could be cut, the federal payroll trimmed, the public debt wiped out and taxes slashed?

But consider this example of business "efficiency": Newspaper editors, business writers and other journalists across the country recently received a news release from one of the nation's largest conglomerates.

The release was mailed on a Friday—air mail, special delivery—even though it could be expected that it would not be found on their desks by the majority of recipients until the following Monday, if that soon.

Generally there are no claims made for the items being sold. Here is an item the seller no longer wishes to keep. It is an item the buyer wants. The price is agreed to and the sale is made. Both buyer and seller are satisfied, and the free market in operation has provided a measure of happiness for two people.

The simple working of the institution of trade is the foundation for economic life in the society of mankind, if it were permitted to function this freely throughout the world, conflict would tend to disappear between individuals and between nations.

The trouble stems from the artificial barriers erected by political governments. Politicians inject themselves as a third party in transactions between people.

When an individual seeks to satisfy his wants or needs, he seeks another individual, who might be able to supply what he desires. The basic venture here is between two individuals whether it be neighbors bartering at a garage sale or a foreign industrialist seeking raw materials to feed his machinery or seeking to sell his finished product across the borders of the world.

In both extremes, trade is the institution which provides an opportunity to bring happiness to buyer and seller. A dickering over prices and quality is always proper between the two. A free market will generally always provide similar items at cheaper prices or at higher quality or substitutes. And with a world filled with individuals, always there are desires and needs of wide variety, enough to keep the world of trade moving.

If only the politicians would stay out of the way.

Retiree Bill Finally To Get Hearing

Stennis Gets the Message—Panel to Hear Retirees Bill
WASHINGTON—It took nine months, but Senate Armed Services Committee Chairman John Stennis, D-Miss., finally "got the message" on the pigeonholed military retirees survivors benefits bill.

He suddenly announced the appointment of a special three-member subcommittee to consider the long-stalled legislation—shortly after learning that Sens. J. Glenn Beall, R-Md., and Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., proposed to offer it as an amendment to the multi-billion-dollar military procurement authorization measure now being considered by the Senate.

Their plan to force an open showdown on the retirees bill blasted Stennis out of his lethargy and put an end to his protracted foot-dragging—at least to the extent of getting the ball rolling on the measure in the Armed Services Committee.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex., head of the special panel, is losing no time in doing that. He held two days of hearings this week, with the aim of reporting to the full committee before Aug. 18, when Congress recesses for the Republican national convention.

It is Bentsen's hope the full committee will act on the legislation before the recess.

He will do his utmost to bring that about. On that he has the full support of the other two members of the special committee—Sens. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., and Harry Byrd, Ind.-Va.

While the subcommittee is free to act expeditiously, what the full committee will do is largely up to Chairman Stennis—who stalled on this bill for nine months and finally acted only when threatened with having it offered as an amendment to the military procurement authorization measure.

Faced with such a showdown, the Mississippian ran for cover and set up the special three-member subcommittee.

What happens after it reports to the full committee is the big question mark.

If Stennis allows the full 16-member Armed Services Committee (9 Democrats, 7 Republicans) to act promptly, that will be all to the good—and the issue will then shift to the Senate whose approval of the legislation is certain.

But if he again resorts to foot-dragging, then pressure tactics will once more have to be resorted to.

Senator Beall told this column, "If the retirees bill is again stymied in the Armed Services Committee, I am prepared to offer it as an amendment to the military construction measure that will be coming up after the procurement bill is out of the way. We'll have another chance to force a showdown on this in the fall."

Sen. Beall, who offered the measure as a separate bill last December, now has 39 bipartisan co-sponsors. The latest to add his name to the list is Sen. Richard Schweiker, R-Pa., a member of the Armed Services Committee. Other committee members who are co-sponsors are Sens. Thurmond, member of the special subcommittee, and John Tower, Tex.

In appointing the special subcommittee, Chairman Stennis set no deadlines. It might well have been a pointed intimation to the subcommittee to take its time.

Sen. Bentsen apparently has no intention to stall. Shortly after being named head of the special panel, he scheduled hearings and announced two leading witnesses—Assistant Defense Secretary Robert Kelley and Lt.-Gen. Leo Benade, deputy assistant Defense Secretary for military personnel policy.

Both played important roles in the drafting of the retirees bill the House passed last October 372 to 0.

"There is no reason we can't wind this up quickly," he told this column. "A great deal of spade work has already been done and we should be able to dispose of the matter without delay."

Time will tell!

PRACTICING WHAT WE PREACH
Many of us have seen and heard of fathers and mothers who have told their children what was the right thing to do, but then the father or mother would do the opposite thing, themselves. In short, they weren't practicing what they preached.

Many parents, today, tell their children not to smoke while they take a deep puff of nicotine; they tell their sons not to drink liquor while they're bending their elbows and they tell their kids not to cheat while they're lying about their friends.

Today's youth have pointed out that many parents don't practice what they preach. This is probably the greatest contribution that our young people have made in today's world: Searching for the truth.

How can we help them in that search and how can we prove that we believe what we say? We can stand up for the truth by speaking out on it at every opportunity, whether in the office or in the auditorium, whether on the patio or in the pulpit.

It is of prime importance that we speak out for the truth, but just as important as preaching is practicing and most important of all is that the two are the same. We must practice what we preach.

If we speak for limited government, we can't support an advocate for an all-powerful government, even if he offers us a political plum. We can't speak for law-and-order while trying to fix a traffic ticket. We must bear in mind that our actions speak so loudly that people can't hear what we're saying.

Diabetics Often Misdiagnosed
By Dr. Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—As I recall it, in an article some time ago, you said that diabetes was often wrongly diagnosed. Is it possible to be diagnosed as being diabetic when one is not?

Dear Reader—Yes, it certainly is and it often happens. Years ago some patients were diagnosed as diabetic merely because they had sugar in the urine. Actually anyone can have sugar in the urine from eating a large amount of sweets, which are absorbed quickly. The excess sugar will be washed out through the kidneys. This is one of the mechanisms that the body has for controlling the level of the blood sugar.

Today, I think the most common cause of an incorrect diagnosis is related to the way the blood sugar levels are tested in the laboratory. Many diabetics have a normal fasting blood sugar and to detect those a glucose tolerance test (sugar tolerance test) is often done. After a fasting blood sugar specimen is taken the person drinks sugar water. Since it is liquid it moves quickly to the intestine and is absorbed directly into the bloodstream. This causes the blood sugar level to rise sharply.

In a normal person by two hours the blood sugar level will be approximately the same as the fasting level. A diabetic will have a high blood sugar level which stays higher than normal past the two-hour period. All of this indicates that there is not enough insulin for this person to clear the blood of the excess amount of sugar; hence, the diagnosis of diabetes.

The problem is that there are other things besides diabetes that can cause the blood sugar level to go too high and stay too high past the two-hour interval. The most common one of these is carbohydrate starvation. Many people, when they get ready to go to the doctor for an examination, try to lose weight before the doctor sees them. To do this they eliminate sugar and carbohydrates from their diet. If the body is not accustomed to metabolizing carbohydrates, it gets lazy and quits producing as much insulin as it usually does. In this relatively dormant state when the patient drinks a lot of sugar water the body doesn't put out enough insulin and as a result the sugar tolerance test looks like that in a diabetic test even though there isn't really anything wrong with the patient.

To avoid this problem three days before you go in for actual testing eat a diet which contains a reasonable amount of carbohydrates. This includes bread, potatoes, things made with sugar including desserts or even candy bars. This way the body will be able to speed up insulin production and can handle the sugar in the test. A normal individual will then have a normal sugar tolerance test.

The known diabetic under treatment should not elect to eat lots of carbohydrates and sweets before going in for an examination.

Address Correspondence To Pigeon Forge, Tennessee 37863

After exhaustive research on George McGovern's political career, I have found a position on which we agree: Full financial disclosure by all members of Congress. And, I would hope to go much further: Full financial disclosure for all elective office-holders. Naturally, a good place to begin the disclosure would be with Senator McGovern.

How did this poor, struggling politician manage to buy a $115,000 Japanese home in Washington, a country home on Maryland's eastern shore, as well as keep a house back in Mitchell, South Dakota? Are speaking fees that lucrative, or did he win a house or two in a crap game maybe, or did one of his get-to-the-left-of-him-and-you'll-fall-off-the-world multi-millionaire backers bestow one or more of the pads on him? And, if so, who, and why, and what's in it for him?

Then, after that, the ultra-leftist from South Dakota would doubtless want to ask the ultra-nothing in the White House how he parlayed the vegetable department in his daddy's store into multi-millions.

Most informed Americans already know how a young Texas schoolteacher named Lyndon Johnson borrowed the train fare to get to Washington to take his first political job. On the public payroll all the way, he's not only now worth an estimated $20 to $30 million, but he's costing you—unless you're one of the untaxed rich or untaxed poor—$1 million a year in retirement! We pay $1 billion yearly to retired political frauds who layed away plenty while tending the public trough. Four non-President members of the Johnson family lapped up $50,000 of the taxpayers' money annually on various "jobs" and assignments. That $50,000 didn't include travel.

Never forget, Welfare State means the politicians get well and you pay the fare. Habitually violated is the unequivocal law against Congressmen engaging in private law practices which are doing business with the government. Many Congressmen and Senators are guilty. Defense contractors are solicited for advertising in political party program books which sell for the outrageous price of $15,000 a page. The $100 a plate dinner is a well-known and condoned political racket. Businessmen who buy tables at these affairs sometimes end up with government contracts. No connection, of course.

Considering our gross national product, most of these thefts are penny ante. Maybe that's the reason they've come to light.

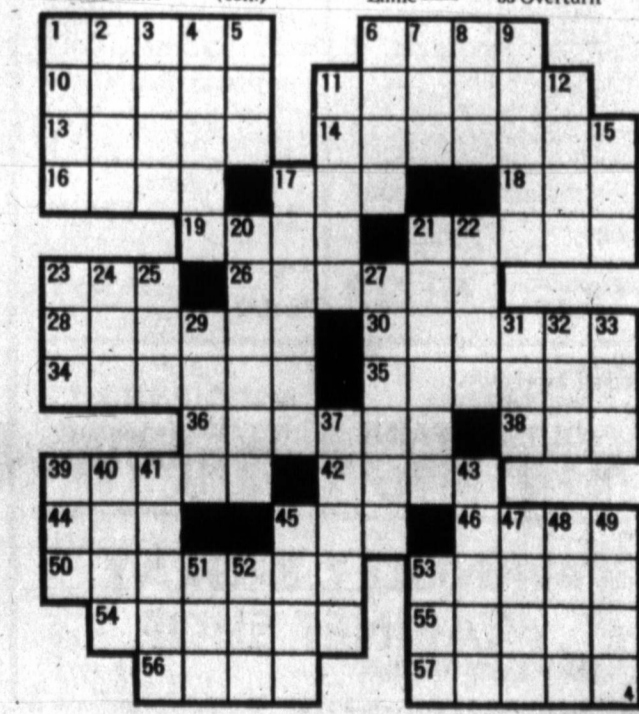

The big steal is still secret. It involves the illegal use of money in buying elections and votes. "Justice" now is for sale to the highest bidder. Under federal law, as most Congressmen know, corporations and labor unions are prohibited from contributing anything of value to candidates in federal elections.

You must admit that the dollar, although worth only 41 cents, is still something of value. The unions have bought and paid for most members of the House and Senate, Democrat and Republican alike. As the head of AFL-CIO, George Meany once said: "...I don't buy the idea, and there is nothing in the record to sustain the idea, that labor needs the Democratic Party. I am sure it is the other way around." And that was long before anybody, even George McGovern, imagined George McGovern as the Democrat standard-bearer.

Reckon someday Congress might turn honest and insist upon a public disclosure of all the contributions made by the organizations to influence legislation on federal, state and local levels?

Don Rorris To Be Ordained Sunday

The Rev. Don Rorris will preach at the morning worship service at First Baptist Church, Sunday.

Rev. Rorris, a former member of the church is a candidate for ordination to the full gospel ministry — the service to be conducted at 7 p.m. at the church.

The ordaining council will meet at 3 p.m. Sunday in the parlor of the church. All ordained men are invited to sit on this council.

The Rev. Roy Korngay, minister of education for First Baptist Church, Amarillo, will preach the ordination service at the evening hour.

Rev. Rorris is attending Central Baptist Theological Seminary, Kansas City, Mo. He is being ordained by his home church at request of the Santa Rosa Baptist Church, Westbury, Mo.

The ceremony of ordination, practiced by most of the religious bodies in America, is considered one of the most beautiful rites practiced by the church.

Based on scripture, it is the act of setting aside a young man who has felt a divine call to special service in the religious field.

In Baptist churches it usually marks the time when a young minister is called to his first pastorate. He has surrendered his life and this is one of the significant steps in the realization of a special vocation before God.

It is impressive in its simplicity, a thing of beauty by its very sincerity and second to the candidate, holds its greatest impact for the person seeing such a service for the first time.

DAVID POLING, D.D.

The Moral Lesson Of Eagleton Issue

By REV. DAVID POLING

The disclosure that Democratic vice-presidential candidate Thomas F. Eagleton had intensive psychiatric care on three occasions during the past decade raised a difficult question for millions of people. And it says as much about the pressures of public office as it does about the mental balance of a particular candidate.

The office of president has been a crusher and the man or woman in precarious mental or physical condition will be sorely tried when serving in that high position. Two of the last four men to reside in the White House struggled with heart conditions. Indeed, Eisenhower seemed to be in Walter Reed Hospital the better part of a year. Johnson lived through the rigors of the presidency with the shadow of a heart condition that flattened him when he served in the Senate.

The issue of Eagleton's candidacy was distressing for several reasons. First, there are millions who have, like the senator, journeyed through the painful land of psychiatric care. A great majority have returned to their normal activities, employment, family and home. The emotional problems of living can be overcome and the progress of personal counseling is reflected in the skill of thousands of clergymen who do most of the professional work in this area.

But every pastor, psychiatrist and clinical psychologist knows that his client must learn to live with himself and the pace and burden of life. New and trying tasks coupled with constant pressure and demand are not the best guarantees of mental balance for those who have worked out of earlier crises.

The second and more glaring difficulty in this hot election year was the negligence on the senator's part in not revealing to Senator McGovern his medical history. There are those who have said that it is a private affair; the nervous breakdown is over and the discussion is without merit. Also, is it fair to those thousands who, like Eagleton, have gone through the valley of mental depression to hear that they cannot be trusted in new and larger responsibilities?

The answer is direct. There are few jobs in the world like the office of president of the United States. The public and the party must put forth the strongest person possible. This may rule out those with heart conditions, recovered alcoholics and individuals who have had extensive psychiatric care.

All of this is not to say that people who have undergone shock treatment, a trip to the Mayo Clinic or extensive counseling will not find both joy and recovery in this world. But it does suggest that part of the getting well is to know one's limits and the warning signals that sound when we approach the edge. Eagleton pushed himself over this line in the frenzy and excitement of the convention. He admitted that he was too elated to think about discussing his medical history with McGovern. This was an error, and if allowed to continue, would damage the McGovern cause beyond all repair.

Many years ago, the world-renowned scholar and theologian, Richard Niebuhr, announced to his classes that he would be away "for about a month." His students realized he was talking about his admittance into New Haven Clinic for treatment of chronic depression. They understood and accepted with affection and regard his need for help. This acceptance was the result of Niebuhr's willingness to accept the limits of his emotional make-up. It was an approach that could serve as an example for everyone with a similar problem.

Tour To Be Described

Two young women from Pampa; Carol Rose and Debbie Norton; will be featured in a program Sunday evening at the Church of the Brethren.

The two Pampa High School students recently toured four European countries with the Nimitz High School choir of Irving.

Concerts were presented in Switzerland; Austria; Germany and Italy.

The two young women will speak, giving highlights of the tour and show slides of points of interest in each country.

The Rev. Bryce Hubbard pastor said this program is open to anyone interested in hearing these girls speak.

Singers Coming

The Ambassadors 12 — a sacred singing group — will be featured at the evening worship service Sunday at Bethel Assembly of God Church; according to the Rev. R. C. VanAmber, pastor.

Comprised of high school and college-age young people; the singing group has a special appeal to young people; Rev. VanAmber noted.

On behalf of his congregation the pastor extended a welcome to all to hear this special song service beginning at 7 p.m. Sunday.

Bethel Assembly of God Church is located at 1541 Hamilton.

Revival Set

The Rev. James Rowton, Amarillo, will begin a series of revival services Monday night at Bethel Assembly of God Church.

Services will begin each evening at 7:30. There will be special singing each evening, says the Rev. R. C. VanAmber, pastor.

Revival services will continue each night through Friday.

Catholics Review Divorce

NEW YORK (AP) — Through the years, countless numbers of Roman Catholics who have divorced and remarried have been prohibited — to their distress — from receiving church sacraments, including Communion. But approved ways now are gradually developing for them to do it.

Some dioceses are welcoming them back into full participation — if they themselves assert a "good conscience" about it.

Bishop Robert Tracy, of Baton Rouge, La., recently announced that his dioceses was setting up procedures for recognizing "good conscience" cases when divorced and remarried Catholics sincerely believe their first marriages were invalid, in spite of the apparent impossibility of getting it officially annulled by the Church.

The trend apparently arose because some priests occasionally have started counseling divorced, remarried Catholics to return to the sacraments.

The matter also currently is under study by a U.S. Bishops' Pastoral Research and Practices Committee, although neither it nor the Vatican has issued any official modifications of the long-standing rules.

Church Pews
Pews did not appear in churches until about the 13th century. In earlier days, people stood or knelt for the various parts of a service of Christian worship. In Europe, the Eastern Orthodox churches, in many instances, are not equipped with pews, but the people stand for the long liturgical service.

The Valley Of Decision valley of decision." Joel 3:14
"Multitudes, multitudes in the valley of decision: for the day of the Lord is near in the valley of decision: for the present time? Never were there so many decisions called for concerning religious doubts, social problems, and political questions than there are today. Neither is there so much searching of heart about the right way of life as prevails in these times. Someone has said, "the mark of the present age is a question mark." The battle between good and evil, light and darkness, right and wrong, righteousness and unrighteousness, is as always still raging.

There are choices in life to be made. Life is full of choices. There is no way of escaping. We are constantly coming to a point where two roads meet—we have to make a choice as to which one we will take. No one else can choose for us and all of our life we will be faced with the matter of choosing. The question all men have to deal with is whether they mean to live their life in God's way, their own way, or the devil's way. Drifting will get us nowhere. We must choose, and our choice in time to come will justify itself by its fruits.

The valley of decision is not the kind of place in which we enjoy lingering. It is much easier to take the way of least resistance. Many of us are like Bunyan's "Mr. Facing-Both-Ways", who hesitates to commit himself and keeps a foot in both camps. He is quite at home in the church of the Laodiceans and falls under the bitter condemnation of those who are neither hot nor cold.

We Christians cannot afford in these days to be half-timers. John Wesley said, "the people I am most afraid of are the almost Christians." Christ said, "he that is not for Me, is against Me." Double-mindedness and half-heartedness join together to make for unhappiness and moral weakness.

Let us all make the choice Joshua made when he said, "choose you this day whom ye will serve; but as for me and my house, we will serve the Lord."

YOGI BERRA hit more home runs as a catcher than any player in history, clouting 358 in 18 seasons with the Yankees, and one abbreviated year with the Mets, where he now manages. Three times the American League's Most Valuable Player, he drove in 1430 runs and had a lifetime batting average of .285. Berra played in 14 World Series and has more series hits than any other player.

PRO CHARTS

by MURRAY OLDERMAN

National Conference: Western Division
1—LOS ANGELES RAMS

Tommy Prothro

PROSPECTUS—Things are happening, starting at the top. Carroll Rosenbloom acquired club, and he's used to winning. Tommy Prothro's had a year to convince the guy his ways are right. But got quick score with collapsed lung of Roman Gabriel. Winning drive hinges on "be because behind the 's nothing. Prothro also says, "Schedule appears to be better than last year." Lots of hope all around.

Offense

QUARTERBACK—This is fourth training camp for John Walton, QB of future. But for present it's got to be Gabriel or the Rams can forget '72. Rating—B.

RUNNING BACKS—Change in regime brought out best (1000 yards) in Willie Ellison. Set NFL single game record of 247. Has it all. Tough NFL types are Les Josephson, Larry Smith, who shared time at fullback. Rams got most long runs in dozen years in '71. Bob Thomas is sleeper to help out, along with rookie Jim Bertelson. Rating—A.

WIDE RECEIVERS—Gabe's got to start throwing more to Lance Rentzel. Favored familiar Jack Snow last year. They've both got good size for split ends. So does Matt Maslowski, last year's spare, who is valuable on special teams. Long shot is ex-Redskin John Love. Rating—B+.

TIGHT END—Got one too many. Bob Klein figures to start because he's super blocker but doesn't catch much. UCLA product Bob Christiansen could make Pat Curran trade bait. Rating—B.

LINE—Running game pleased Prothro most in '71, and this is where it starts. Stable unit which adjusted to new system of flopping guards and tackles. All-pro honors generally go to Tom Mack but other guard Joe Scibelli, grades out even higher. Rookie with chance to stick on squad is Bobby Childs of Kansas. Rating—B+.

Defense

LINE—Fearsome foursome of old 50 per cent gone. Merlin Olsen'll feel lonely without Deacon Jones alongside. But Fred Dryer, ex-Giant, will match Deacon's quickness if not size. That's if he beats out Jack Youngblood. Weak spot is at tackle, where Merlin's little brother Phil needs lots of developing. Coy Bacon a standout end. Rating—B.

LINEBACKERS—Enough to stack three teams (started training with nine vets). But Isaiah Robertson, rookie whiz, has no competition on weak side. Marlin McKeever's got to be back in middle off '71 showing, with Jack Reynolds his stand-in. Open battle for strong slot. Rating—B+.

SECONDARY—Switched Dave Elmendorf from free to strong safety; Kermit Alexander vice versa. That's only to get Elmendorf set for his career, while Kermit, at 31, winds down. Gene Howard satisfies at one corner spot. Other could use help. Rating—B.

KICKING—At 34, Pat Studstill no longer counted on to catch passes and will have to hustle to stick as punter. David Ray hangs on as field goal specialist. Rating—B.

SPECIAL TEAMS—Ace returner Alvin Haymond could have tough time sticking. Travis Williams will have to produce to hang on, too. Rating—B.

Prediction

First in division. Providing, of course, Roman Gabriel comes back to full strength.

South Wins Coaches Tilt

HOUSTON (AP) — Joe Washington Jr. of Port Arthur Lincoln changed his shoes at halftime and suddenly the South All-Stars got new soul (sole).

Washington ripped off a 75-yard kickoff return late in the third quarter—the second longest ever in the Texas High School Coaches Association extravaganza—that turned the tide and helped the South down the North 15-12 for the fourth straight year Thursday night.

The kickoff return by Washington, the overwhelming choice for most valuable offensive player, set up a game-tying 15-yard touchdown run by Ken Harrison of Beaumont South Park.

Washington used his feet again seconds later to kick the decisive extra point. The South later scored a safety with 19 seconds left for the final margin.

"I had to change my shoes at halftime," the Oklahoma-bound jitterbug said. "I had trouble standing up in the first half. I took off my cleats for the second half and it really helped."

Equipped with his new shoes, Washington finished with 62 yards—36 in the second half—rushing and had two kickoff returns worth 94 yards, before the disappointing crowd of 20,081 in the Astrodome.

The North had taken a 6-0 halftime lead on the first of two one-yard touchdown plunges by quarterback Scott

Hill of Hurst Bell.

That stood until Mike Barber of White Oak picked off a lateral in mid-air and ran to the North eight-yard line. Ernest Bean of Kirbyville didn't take long to capitalize on the break, going the final eight yards on the first play.

The North shot right back with Hill's second TD but on the following kickoff, Washington provided the turning point with his 75-yard return.

"That kickoff return was what killed us," said North head coach Tommy Watkins of Andrews. "Their depth at running back was just the whole ball game."

While changing his shoes didn't hurt the South's chances, Washington said togetherness was the determining factor.

"We never put our heads down," he said. "Things just didn't go our way in the first half. But it showed how close a team we were to come back in the second half."

Amarillo's Rick Fenlaw of the North won the most valuable defensive player award by two votes over the South's Byron Franklin of Arp.

Alvin Bowers of Wharton led the South with 13 carries for 78 yards, also tops for the game.

The victory narrowed the North's lead in the series to 21-14-3 and left the Yanks feeling about the way defensive tackle Guy Thomas of Dallas Jefferson did after trying to tackle Washington: "I dove at him once and ended up on my face."

Texas A&P's Douglass To Start For Colts

By Associated Press

The National Football League, which has rarely seen black quarterbacks in the past, will have two of them in starting roles tonight as the first busy weekend of pre-season games gets under way.

Karl Douglass, a rookie from Texas A&I who was on the Baltimore taxi squad last year, is expected to start and go most of the way when the Colts take on the Washington Redskins at Tampa, Fla.

John Walton, in his fourth training camp but still a rookie with Los Angeles, gets the nod as the Rams host the Cleveland Browns in the annual Los Angeles Times Charities game.

In the only other game scheduled tonight, St. Louis plays at Buffalo. Saturday's schedule has Kansas City against Chicago at South Bend, Ind., in an afternoon contest, while at night it's Cincinnati at Green Bay.

Thirsk, Allin Lead PGA

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (AP) — "Men, I'm sorry I made you miss your dinners," apologized Stan Thirsk with a grin, "but I really enjoyed it."

That's the way the virtual golfing unknown from Shawnee Mission, Kan., signed off his news conference after stunning reporters by strolling off the Oakland Hills Country Club course with a two-under par 68 Thursday for a share of the lead with Bud Allin after the first round of the 54th PGA National Championship.

Most reporters had their stories all wrapped up and were ready to go home, having written about another relatively obscure pro, Allin, who came in early with a 68 and appeared certain to stay on top alone.

But the 44-year-old Thirsk—that's T-h-i-r-s-k—birdied three holes on the back nine, including two of the last four, which put him two-under. He was the last golfer in off the course.

Although the 27-year-old Allin's name isn't a household word either among golf followers, he did win $55,786 last year in his first season on the tour and was at least vaguely familiar to the more than 300 writers covering the prestigious event.

Allin and Thirsk are leading such notables as Arnold Palmer, Lee Trevino, Jack Nicklaus and Gary Player.

Palmer was among the early leaders and finished with a one-under 69. The PGA is the only major championship he has not won.

Trevino, criticizing himself for using the wrong club four times, shot a 73 while Nicklaus was in at 72 along with Player.

Joining the one-under group was another nearly unknown pro, Larry Gilbert of Fayetteville, Tenn. Jerry Heard, who has already won two tour events, year, was at 69 also, along with Ray Floyd and Jim Jamieson. Two days of rain prior to the first round made things somewhat damp for the field of 139 and the record first day PGA crowd of 19,200. Brief rains hit again Thursday along with brisk winds at times.

Sam Snead, 60-year-old relic from another era of golfing greatness, was one of a large group matching par 70 over the 7,054-yard layout. Also in the group were Richard Crawford, Rod Funseth, John Miller, Dan Sikes and Jim Wiechers.

Gene Sarazen, marking his 50th anniversary in the PGA which the 70-year-old won in 1922 and 1923, carded a 79.

J. Burt Smith, 55, is the new Michigan State University athletic director.

Los Angeles (AP) — Rob in Cranston, son of Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., has been arrested again. Police said Cranston, 24, was involved in an auto accident Wednesday. He was freed on $190.50 bail. The senator's son also faces trial on a separate charge Oct. 24 after being accused in an indictment last month of drugging a former Playboy bunny.

The women's liberation movement sees programming, commercials, and news in drastic need of moving out of the 1950s and into the 1970s. "During the day, there are very few news programs or serious programs. The networks seem to be saying we'll get the dumb housewife with the game shows and the soap operas. LOS ANGELES (AP) — Rob in Cranston, son of Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., has been arrested again. Police said Cranston, 24, was involved in an auto accident Wednesday. Officers arriving on the scene made a telephone check and found that Cranston had failed to appear after being cited on separate occasions for speeding, driving without a license and having an unregistered vehicle, a police spokesman said. He was freed on $190.50 bail. The senator's son also faces trial on a separate charge Oct. 24 after being accused in an indictment last month of drugging a former Playboy bunny.

Busing Results In Upsurging Enrollment At Texas Private Schools

Record numbers of Texas parents—disenchanted with busing and the attendant problems of public schools—intend to put their children in private schools this fall.

A check of private schools shows applications and enrollments have boomed at religious, military and commercial institutions since court-ordered integration plans hit metropolitan areas two years ago.

Only the private Catholic schools in the Diocese of Dallas have not gained financially because they refused to contribute to the busing backlash and froze their enrollments two years ago.

But to the parents involved, the private alternative is a blessing. To most private schools, it's a financial God-send. To the minority leaders, it's a setback to the integration effort.

Parents are unsure and afraid of an unsettled situation. We have so many applications we can't handle them," said David Cotterill, of Trinity Christian Academy in Dallas.

Cotterill defended private schools and said, "They are not becoming an escape hatch for segregation really. Maybe it was initially stirred up by the busing situation, but it has led to a change in the parents' thinking about education. I like to think a new dimension has been opened to them by God."

George Allen, a black Dallas City Council member, said he feels the swell in private enrollments is "simply a way of avoiding court-ordered integration."

"It's ironic that most of them are called religious schools," Allen said. "You hate to see the church perpetuate bigotry."

Allen explained, "I don't want to blanket all private schools as bad since many of them offer the best prep schooling or religious schooling in the state. But so many of these schools were started in hysteria. Many are profiteering on the emotions of the people. And by perpetuating segregation, they are perpetuating bigotry."

The First Baptist Church in Dallas will be opening a new elementary school this fall. The Rev. Mel Carter, director of education at the 16-million-member church, said Dr. W. A. Criswell had planned a church school "for years."

"But the thing that brought it to fulfillment was busing in that we had so many requests from parents," Carter said.

"There are many other factors involved, of course," he said. "Many parents are just disenchanted with public schools or want a quality education or religious education for their children. Our school will be better because of smaller classes, lack of conflict, better discipline, a lot more attention, better Christian emphasis."

"I think basically the thinking people want their children out of the mess of public education. If the court settles in favor of extensive busing, then more parents will be sending their children to private schools, you can bet on that," Carter said.

Ted Peters started his own school in Fort Worth in 1971 with kindergarten, first and second grades. For 1972 he is enlarging the White Lake Private School to include third, fourth and fifth grades because of popular demand.

"Parents are tired of overcrowded classrooms and unrest in public schools," he said. "Our impetus for starting was within the neighborhood. We needed a place that our children could get what we felt was a quality education close to home."

Mrs. Jane Wynn, 25, sends her 7-year-old son Richard Joel to Tyler Street Methodist Church School in Dallas, which is near her home.

"They get no discipline in public schools any more because the schools and the teachers are all tied up," she said. "We don't know our status yet for busing in elementary schools this fall, but if I have to bus my son, I'd definitely keep him in private school."

Mrs. Wynn has to pay both school taxes and private tuition, but said, "I'd pay both as long as I could if I thought it was best for the child. The public schools are more concerned now with the adults' opinions than what's best for the child. He didn't want to be bused."

To be exempt from taxes and get federal grants, the schools have to be open to minority students. But most minority students cannot pay the tuition—which ranges from $500 at the First Baptist Church to $2,000 for exclusive boarding schools like St. Mark's and Hockaday in Dallas or St. Mary's in San Antonio.

At San Marcos Military Academy in Central Texas it costs $2,200 a year to board a student. There are no black students and no minority applications so far this year, although applications generally are up.

"We want to encourage anyone who wants to attend Trinity to apply if they are doing grade level work," said Cotterill. "We have had some blacks apply from the area, but the pathetic situation is that they cannot make the preliminary testing."

Cotterill said the young school also would like to offer more minority scholarships to avoid economic discrimination, "but we just don't have the money now."

More established schools like St. Mark's and Ursuline Academy do have significant minority enrollments and recruitment programs.

"We must recruit the minorities," said Joe Goetze, director of St. Paul's Lutheran School in Fort Worth. "And we tell parents who specify they are not keen on busing that we have blacks in the school. We have to be open about it so they won't be misled when they see a black in the class on the first day of school."

"It's just one more avenue of escaping integrating schools. It undermines the attainment of a pluralistic society, which integration is trying to achieve by educating blacks and whites, hopefully, together."

Ranger said the private trend can be attributed "to the same fears and antagonisms as the old dual-school systems imposed by the state. It's just more sophisticated. It's a social reaction that will have a damaging short-term and long-term effect on education."

Over 4,000 County Residents Get Social Security Benefits

Social security benefits were being paid to 4,083 residents of Gray County at a rate of $475,000 a month at the close of 1971. Howard L. Weatherly, social security branch manager in Pampa, said today.

Of the social security beneficiaries living in the county, 2,738 are retired workers and their dependents and 946 are receiving benefits as the survivors of workers who have died.

In addition, 345 are getting benefits as disabled workers or their dependents and 54 are receiving special Age 72 benefits.

At the close of 1971, 4,415 county residents were eligible for social security benefits, but either did not claim them or were not paid them because of high earnings and so on.

At the end of 1970 there were 4,337 eligible for social security benefits. The total for 1971 represents a 1.7 per cent increase over the preceding year.

Benefits at the close of last year were being paid at an average of $113 per month. Of the total, 685 persons were under age 60 and 350 were under age 18.

Weatherly pointed out that although most beneficiaries are older people, about one out of every four is under age 60. In Texas, 355,662 people under age 60 are collecting social security payments each month.

Nearly 202,000 are under age 18, receiving payments because a working father or mother has died or is getting social security disability or retirement benefits.

Most of the 35,349 beneficiaries in Texas between 18 and 22 years of age are getting student's benefits under a provision in the social security law permitting the continuation of a child's benefits beyond his 18th birthday and up to age 22 if the child is attending school full time.

Also in this 18-22 age group, Weatherly said, are some other type of beneficiaries, illustrating the broad family protection the social security program provides workers of all ages.

Some are children of retired, disabled or deceased workers who became disabled before they reached 18 and who will probably never be able to work and become self-supporting.

The monthly benefits of these young people, severely handicapped by physical or mental disabilities, will continue indefinitely. Benefits are also payable to the mother if the disabled son or daughter is in the mother's care.

Weatherly said another relatively small but significant group of youthful social security beneficiaries are those who are receiving benefits as disabled work under the Social security disability payments can be paid to a person who becomes disabled for work even if he has less than five years of work under the program. As little as 1½ years of work is required in the case of a worker who becomes disabled before age 24. Weatherly said
