

Kennedy's Arkansas Trip Is a Disappointment

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI) — The Arkansas Republican party today seized upon what it said were "disappointing" crowds during President Kennedy's whirlwind tour and claimed he would be in trouble politically in the state in the 1964 presidential campaign.

At least one pro-administration Democrat agreed. Another top state Democrat disagreed.

Kennedy dedicated the $46.7 million Greers Ferry Dam at Heber Springs, Ark., Thursday and then went 84 miles northeast to Little Rock to make a speech.

William L. Spicer, GOP chairman in Arkansas, said "it was the second time in two years President Kennedy has been in Arkansas and both times he has gotten very disappointing crowds. It again indicates the trouble he may be in politically in our state."

Calls Trip Disappointing

State Rep. Hardy Croxton, an unannounced Democratic candidate for governor, said "that (the trip) was very disappointing. I don't think there is any doubt but what the President is in disfavor in Arkansas. I think he has his work cut out for him."

Croxton has favored the Kennedy administration over Gov. Orval Faubus' state leadership.

The president spoke to 10,000, about one-third of what officials anticipated, at the dedication of Greers Ferry Dam and returned to Little Rock to address a crowd which officials said was 30,000, but veteran observers placed closer to 10,000.

Arkansas is one of only two states (the other one is Georgia) which has not gone Republican since the Reconstruction era.

The President's other appearance referred to by Spicer was in Fort Smith in 1961 when Spicer said a crowd of 50,000 was expected and 20,000 turned out.

Tom Harper of Fort Smith, chairman of the democratic party in the state, disagreed with Spicer and Croxton. He said the crowds were good and the President showed strong personal appeal.

Faubus Springs Surprise

Gov. Faubus said Kennedy got a "good reception," but the governor also brought the biggest surprise of the day when he attacked Kennedy's proposed civil rights legislation in front of the President on the speaker's platform at Greers Ferry.

"We observe a great deal of time and effort being spent in sponsoring unworkable proposals for the solution of certain social and political problems—proposals which would go so far as to deprive a citizen of the right of trial by jury, interfere with the right of an individual to operate and control his own private business and even his own home," Faubus said.

"To abridge or destroy these basic rights would constitute civil wrongs," the governor said.

Later, Faubus said he attacked the measure "because I feel I would rather say it with him here than after he left."

ON STRIKE — Members of the United Packinghouse, Food and Allied Workers Union have walked off their jobs at Armour & Co. in Kansas City, Kan. About 2,000 producing and maintenance workers are affected by the strike. Strikes have also been authorized at Armour plants in St. Paul, Minn., St. Joseph, Mo., and Mason City, Iowa. In Algerian Dispute

Rebels Refuse Negotiation Offer

ALGIERS (UPI)—Berber mountain fighters who have rebelled against President Ahmed Ben Bella's one-man rule rejected his offer of negotiations to end their uprising today and began building up their defenses.

They moved armor plate and barbed wire to their hideouts in the Kabylia Mountains 60 miles east of Algiers. Rebel trucks moved freely within the area, although Ben Bella's troops have cut it off from the rest of Algeria.

There has been no bloodshed since the uprising started Sunday, and Ben Bella, in a speech after receiving emergency powers to deal with it Thursday, said "any problems must be discussed without the use of force."

Rebel trucks were loaded with machine guns.

But the military leader of the insurgents, 65-year-old Col. Mohamed El Hadi, was defiant when he talked to newsmen in his hideout Thursday.

"We are the last chance for Algeria to get on the path to democracy," he said. "For that, we are ready to sacrifice everything."

The assumption of full powers was the latest in a series of steps Ben Bella has taken against the Berbers, a separate nationality from the Arab majority in Algeria.

Since the dissidents rallied behind El Hadi and Ben Bella's former deputy premier, 34-year-old Hocine Ait Ahmed, Ben Bella has accused Morocco of aiding the opposition movement and has nationalized all remaining French-owned land. The latter move was considered a means of gaining public support for his regime.

(In Paris, French sources said the government is seeking an early conference with Algeria to halt the deterioration of relations. The government has not yet followed up a statement threatening possible reprisals for the seizure of the farmlands.)

(Government sources said Paris may cut the amount of aid it has promised Algeria and use the money to indemnify French farmers who lost their property. Under the agreements granting Algerian independence, France undertook between $250 million and $400 million in aid annually.)

America's First Space Program Comes to a Close

By WILLIAM CLAYTON
United Press International

HOUSTON (UPI)—Before Gordon Cooper clambered into Faith 7 last May to start his 22-orbit flight, ground flight controllers were put through nearly 200 simulated orbits to test their abilities, the national space agency said today.

In many of the simulated orbits National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) officials deliberately made things go wrong to see if the men at the control stations were ready for any problem.

Details of the pre-flight work of Project Mercury were told today in scientific papers at the project summary in Houston's Coliseum.

Today's program concludes the two-day conference that officially ends America's first space venture five years almost to the day from its inception.

John D. Hodge, assistant chief for flight control at the NASA Manned Spacecraft Center said an actual-time simulation of 19 orbital passes was performed for ground controllers to check the network of operations for any difficulties.

On some of the practice runs at Cape Canaveral and Bermuda flight control stations errors were introduced simulating too great an orbit and loss of signals. One of the simulated missions had a fuel pressure problem.

Another simulated an astronaut's heart attack.

None of these simulated troubles actually came up in Cooper's 34-hour flight but there were

Col. Lopez Named As Honduras' One-Man Junta

Relations With Honduras Suspended

WASHINGTON (UPI)—All U.S. aid, but officials said this was done automatically when the Honduran regime fell.

The State Department fought a losing battle to prevent the Honduran coup. It even sent a high-ranking military figure there in an attempt to dissuade leaders of the Honduran armed forces.

Castro Defies Moscow on Pact

LONDON (UPI)—Cuban Premier Fidel Castro is defying Moscow and withholding his signature from the partial nuclear test ban treaty, according to diplomatic dispatches reaching here.

The dispatches said Castro was believed to be using the test ban issue as a bargaining element. Among his demands is believed to be stronger Russian pressure on the United States to ease its restrictions on Cuba.

The State Department was withholding, probably until later today, an official announcement of suspension of relations and aid.

As in the military takeover of the Dominican Republic on Sept. 25, all U.S. aid disbursements to Honduras have been halted and the new regime has not been recognized by the United States.

C. of C. Directors Approve Survey

Chamber of Commerce directors approved the C of C industrial committee's recommendation today to employ the Texas A&M research team to make an economic-industrial survey of Pampa.

Frank Culbertson, chairman of the industrial committee, made the recommendation in a called meeting of the C of C board of directors in the chamber office.

The survey will cost about $5,000 and will be a complete community analysis with definite recommendations for an industrial program for Pampa. These funds will have to be raised by special contributions from local business and professional people, according to C of C officials.

It was announced that officers and directors of the chamber will be installed Oct. 10 in the Coronado Inn during the C of C directors' and officers installation dinner and that the All-Texas Air Tour is scheduled to stop in Pampa Oct. 8.

Earlier, U.S. Ambassador Charles R. Burrows had voiced similar objections. But there had been indications Honduran military leaders somehow thought U.S. military men would support them.

The two military takeovers presented Washington with a major policy problem of how to prevent or discourage similar coups from taking place in such countries as Venezuela, Colombia, El Salvador and perhaps Brazil.

Not Soon Enough

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (UPI) — A motorist stopped Thursday and told state trooper Carl Young that he had passed a car that was weaving along the road.

The warning did not come soon enough. The car approached, swerved off the road and slammed into the rear of Young's parked auto.

The driver, John N. Norwood, Urbana, Ill., was charged with driving while intoxicated.

30 Persons Killed During The Revolt

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (UPI) — The armed forces which deposed and deported President Aman Villeda Morales today named Col. Osvaldo Lopez Arellano as a one-man junta to run the country through executive decree. He was the former chief of staff.

Lopez put the country under a state of siege — partial martial law — and dissolved the chamber of deputies.

He called on all government workers to return immediately to their jobs.

Military leaders said the only remaining resistance to Thursday's coup, in which, officially, more than 30 persons were killed in clashes between troops and loyal civil guards, was in the foothills around Tegucigalpa.

They said some Villeda Morales supporters had taken up guerrilla warfare in the outskirts and were under siege by the army.

Tegucigalpa was outwardly normal today and army leaders said the same condition applied elsewhere in the country. Business houses reopened and the streets were heavy with vehicular and pedestrian traffic.

Public and private schools and colleges were told they could reopen Monday.

A military communique emphasized anew that Thursday's coup had no political connotations.

Flown Into Exile

Villeda and Modesto Rodas Alvarado, government candidate for president in the election that was to have been held a week from Sunday, were flown into exile in Costa Rica late Thursday.

Radio stations in Tegucigalpa were silent for undisclosed reasons, but the army was broadcasting from at least three provincial points.

Army broadcasts described the coup as a purely military action, meant to eliminate the civil guard and halt Communist infiltration of Honduras. They said the army had no political motives.

The broadcasts promised that he coup eventually would produce the coup eventually would produce

Sugar Prices Are Rising

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sugar prices have been rising in recent weeks in spite of "more than ample" supplies and prospects for record year-end stocks in this country, the Agriculture Department said today.

The department said most of the U.S. price rise came after Sept. 16 when the Soviet Union announced it would purchase $500 million worth of wheat from Canada.

"This news spurred the advance in sugar values on the theory that if the grain crop was damaged, the (Soviet) sugarbeet crop also may have suffered," the department said.

Government experts noted, however, in a sugar market review that on Sept. 25 a Soviet sugar industry journal reported that Russian beet sugar factories would have greater supplies than a year ago.

The department said that sugar inventories at the end of the year may reach 3.5 million tons, and will be swelled by domestic production of another 250,000 tons shortly after next Jan. 1. Stocks on hand at the beginning of 1963 were 2.75 million tons, the highest on record for the date up to that time.

In the face of this supply situation, the department said, prices for raw sugar have risen from 6.5 cents a pound a month ago to 8.02 cents Sept. 25 and 8.5 cents Oct. 2.

Archbishop Beran Is Freed After 14 Years

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Prague Archbishop Josef Beran, freed from 14 years of Communist confinement in Czechoslovakia, may come to the Ecumenical Council, high Vatican sources said today.

The news of Beran's release came Thursday night out of the Vatican and then out of Czechoslovakia itself.

It spurred hopes that the other famous churchmen still in Communist confinement—Josef Cardinal Mindszenty of Hungary—eventually may leave his exile in the U.S. legation in Budapest and go to the West.

Along with the 74-year-old Beran, the Czechs announced the release of four bishops — the last churchmen of that rank still held in Czechoslovakia after a campaign of repression that began in 1948 after the Communists seized power.

Franziskus Cardinal Koenig of Vienna, who has played a major role in Vatican negotiations with Communist governments in the past seven months, told United Press International:

"I hope the bishops will come to Rome. It will be best for them."

Wage Increases Getting Smaller

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Union-negotiated wage increases in major collective bargaining agreements have been getting smaller ever since 1957, Labor Department figures showed today.

A new study by the Bureau of Labor Statistics indicated that the average wage boost in 1962 was eight cents an hour compared with a minimum of 10 cents an hour in the 1955-57 period.

Although the department did not give any reasons for the drop-off in bargaining gains, many labor economists believe it reflects the higher unemployment rates of the past five years.

Workers are not as militant about seeking pay increases in such a period, these economists reason, but are more concerned about preserving job security.

The new government figures do not reflect the value of so-called "fringe benefits" such as pensions, longer vacations, welfare plans and other common contract provisions.

Cotton Surplus Is Climbing Higher

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The nation's cotton surplus is climbing again this year in spite of a sharp recovery in cotton sales.

The trend was outlined today by the Agriculture Department in a report which could result in stepped-up pressure for new legislation to promote cotton consumption. A congressional source predicts that a cotton bill will be called up for House debate before the end of October.

The department's report today estimates that the carryover of surplus cotton next Aug. 1, the end of the current marketing season, will be up to 11.9 million bales. This would be an increase of 700,000 over the size of the surplus on Aug. 1, 1963.

The increase is expected because farmers are reporting record per-acre yields on their 1963 crop, erasing most of the effect of a cutback in federal acreage allotments.

Pampan to Show Terriers In Amarillo Show

Two prize-winning Bedlington Terriers have given their owner Mrs. Don Robinson, 620 N. Wells, one trophy, five first places and 14 ribbons and will try for awards from the Panhandle Kennel Club All-Breed Dog Show and Obedience Trials scheduled for tomorrow at the Tri-State Fair Park Coliseum in Amarillo.

During their two-week vacation, Mr. and Mrs. Robinson entered two of their dogs in the Sioux Empire Kennel Club All-Breed and Obedience Trials in Sioux Falls, S.D. and in the 22nd annual All-Breed and Obedience Trials of the American Kennel Club, Sioux City, Iowa.

In these two shows, the male terrier, Lambeth Salty Foxe, won eight ribbons, a trophy and a point toward his championship. His awards were two winners, two best of breed ribbons and a trophy for best of breed.

"We were most surprised with the performance of my little one, Bo-Na's Elizabeth Lee," Mrs. Robinson said. "Beth is only 11 months old and this was her first show, but she rated two winners, two firsts and two best of opposite sex."

In the Sioux City show the terriers competed against 589 dogs. In the Sioux Falls competition, 537 dogs were entered. Most were professionals, but the Bedlington Terriers are amateurs.

Salty Foxe, 21 months old, has appeared in three shows. When he was "just a puppy, not even a year old," he won nine ribbons.

In the Panhandle Kennel Club fun match and obedience trials in Amarillo Sept. 22, "Foxy" placed first for best of breed and second for terrier group.

"Beth" placed second in the Bedlington Terrier group at the fun match. Tinto, Mrs. Robinson's two-year-old Chihuahua, won third in the Chihuahua group.

"It was his first show," Mrs. Robinson said. "Since the only time he had ever been on a table was at the vet's, he was scared to death, afraid he would get hurt."

The Bedlington is described by Mrs. Robinson as looking "like a lamb, with a high arch like a greyhound and a soft coat like a poodle."

At birth, the Bedlington's coat is black, but turns to ice-blue when it is six to eight months old. By the time they grow to their full size, 16 inches and 22 pounds, their

Pampan Re-Elected
As State Director Of Cancer Society

Mrs. Jack P. Foster, 1228 Williston, was re-elected as director on the American Cancer Society
State Board of directors at a district three north ACS meeting in Dumas Tuesday.

Mrs. Foster, elected by acclamation, will serve another year. Others elected as director were Charles Wright of Canyon and Dr. A. B. Goldston of Amarillo.

About 50 volunteer cancer workers, representing 10 counties were told of a new tumor clinic which will begin operation in Amarillo this month. The new clinic, located in the City Health Department Bldg., 411 Austin, will secure and maintain records on cancer cases in the Panhandle.

The ACS has set aside a $6,000 grant to operate the clinic, which will set up records for follow-up studies of each cancer patient in the Panhandle. Doctors will hold regular meetings to discuss and study each case. This consultation service will be conducted without extra charge to patients.

Dr. Sam R. Hall, administrator for research on the pathogenesis of cancer for ACS, was featured speaker and explained present theories on the causes of cancer and what is being done in nation-wide cancer research programs.

Dr. Hall received the Rockefeller Public Service award in 1955 for organizing the group which

Dear Abby... Says Coffee-Date Is A Very Good Idea!

DEAR ABBY: My problem is the so-called "coffee date." I am 26, bright, attractive and have a good sense of humor, so I can't be considered a pill. I have been called by many men who are friends of friends and would like a blind date. I am not flattered to be taken to the corner drug store for a cup of coffee and a quick "size-up." One of these gentlemen had the nerve to tell me that I was sweet and pretty but I wasn't exotic enough for his tastes. I don't regret the loss of future dates with heels like him, but I'd like to know—what's the gimmick? This routine is very depressing, and I hesitate to accept any more blind dates. This has happened to my girl friends, too. What do you make of it?

Mobeetie TOPS Plan '42' Party

The Mobeetie TOPS Square Shooters met Sept. 30 with 12 members present, reporting a total of 25 pounds lost during the past week. Mrs. Lottie Eva Demison was Queen for the Day with a loss of 19 pounds. Mrs. Mae Helton was welcomed as a new member.

Mrs. Margaret Trout, leader, was in charge of the meeting. The TOPS pledge was given, after which Mrs. Thelma Harrison gave the program which was titled, "Foods — What They Do For You and What Damage is Done Without Them."

Plans were made by the club to hold a "42" party in honor of their husbands. The next meeting will be held Monday with roll call being answered with "Nobody Loves A Fat Girl." The program will be on "obesity."

Pampa Art Club Sponsors Show

The combinations of the traditional and contemporary marks Eleanor Auderwold and Ethel Eller are on exhibit in the Hospitality Room of Citizens Bank, with the Pampa Art Club acting as sponsor of the two-man showing. Using the oil media, the two artists have shown how form occurs space with the control of line and color. The traditional paintings by Eleanor Auderwold, using flowers and landscapes as subjects, are well done. Each object in the paintings is held in place by the elements of art. She has studied with Charlie Bunnell of Colorado Springs and the Dord Fitz School of Art in Amarillo. Her work has been exhibited in New York and in Amarillo.

Ethel Eller, in her modern contemporary painting, has used line and shape, tone and color, to create planes in space. She has studied with Elaine De Looning of New York City, Charlie Bunnell, and the Dord Fitz School of Art. She has exhibited in Oklahoma, Amarillo and New York City.

The Pampa Art Club invites the public to see the showing.

Immaculately polished sliding glass doors let in the outdoor vista without posing a safety problem. The doors are made of new tempered glass which will not shatter under heavy impact of playing children or forgetful adults.

Glass Doors: Hazards

By KAY SHERWOOD
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

There are times when fingerprints on the glass doors are a positive aid to the preoccupied homemaker. More times than I care to think about I have been prevented from walking into a glass door by the smudged handprints that warned there was glass ahead. If I were a better housekeeper, I might have lost an arm before now.

The sliding glass doors in our rented house are ordinary glass—the kind that breaks in jagged pieces and has caused so many door accidents in the past.

With home improvement plans under way for autumn I have suggested to our landlord that we might share costs and install new tempered safety glass doors. Many cities throughout the country are requiring the use of safety glass in sliding doors and bath enclosures.

Tempered safety glass is not new. The latest step in the development of this technology is the adaptation of a new process for tempering large pieces of glass of varying thickness.

Safety glass, as I understand it, is stronger than ordinary glass, with greater resistance to impact from running children and absent-minded adults. If it does break, under impact, it crumbles into small granules rather than large pieces.

Changing glass doors isn't cheap but in our household with so many children and animals running in and outdoors, this is a safety measure I would support.

TOPS Members Report Progress

Members of the Pampa Pound Pirates of TOPS found they had lost a total of six pounds as they weighed in at a recent meeting held in the Hospitality Room of Citizens Bank.

The pledge was given by the members and the group sang the TOPS song. Three guests were introduced to the members. Mrs. R. R. Jordan presented the program with Mrs. Kirk Smith, guest speaker, using the subject, "Your Face Shape and Hair Style."

Mrs. Eugene Leigh, the president of the chapter, reminded all members present that the September Queen will be crowned and measurements taken during the next meeting.

The motion was put before the group for study concerning prizes to be given in the event contests for a three-month Queen and a six-month Queen are established. The group will put the recommendations to vote during the next meeting, to be held Oct. 7 in the Hospitality Room of Citizens Bank.

Flu Bug Attacks G'n G Gridders

Flu has racked up the Pampa Harvesters prior to the Tascosa game tonight, with one offensive starter out and several other players still weak from the bug. End Terry Criss will not start on offense, reported coach Otis Holladay, although "Terrible Terry" will see some action, and is expected to start at defensive half-back.

Ricky Goodwin was down with the bug and missed several practices, but has recovered and will start. Larry Watson, who was out last week, has returned to action, but Jocko Neslage, rated "Harvester of the Week" for his outstanding play against Palo Duro, retains the starting left guard spot. Carl Johnson is another flu victim who has been weakened and will see limited duty.

Mike Bridges will get his first starting chance, in Criss' place. Mike, rated potentially an outstanding pass receiver, has seen little action behind the rugged Criss this season.

Phil Smith will take the right corner and Rick Stewart the left, with San Williams and Criss the defensive halfbacks.

Although Tascosa coach Pat Patterson declared that the Rebels were almost completely horsed combat, the only starting change appears to be at left guard, where Jerry Henderson will replace Bill Doane, with Stan Robinson taking Doane's defensive tackle spot.

Holladay reports the Harvesters' attitude is good, with the Green Gold itching to take out last week's loss on the district leader.

Pro Football Roundup

By United Press International
 World Series or not, the show goes on this weekend in the National Football League where the Cleveland Browns and Chicago Bears feel they face battles as vital as the Yankees and Dodgers.

The Browns (3-0) take on the tough Pittsburgh Steelers (2-0-1) Saturday night at Cleveland in a showdown for the early Eastern Conference leadership.

And the Bears (3-0) make their season's debut before the home fans on Sunday in a game against the Baltimore Colts (1-2).

Cleveland and Chicago are the NFL's only perfect-record teams.

The rest of the Sunday program finds the champion Green Bay Packers (2-1) at home against the Los Angeles Rams (0-3); the New York Giants (2-1) at Washington against the Redskins (2-1); the Detroit Lions (1-2) at home against the San Francisco Forty Niners (0-3); the St. Louis Cardinals (2-1) at Minnesota against the Vikings (2-1), and the Philadelphia Eagles (0-2-1) at home against the Dallas Cowboys (0-3).

Saturday night's Browns-Steelers game will be televised to New York, Washington and Chicago, as well as to Pittsburgh.

The Steelers' solid defense, which has yielded only 31 points and one rushing touchdown in three games, will be put to a tough test against Jimmy Brown and the Browns. Cleveland leads the league in points scored with 98.

Jimmy Brown is off to a brilliant start with 489 rushing yards and 6 touchdowns in 3 games. His average is a superb 8.6 yards per carry. And his ball-carrying has been complemented by the fine passing of Frank Ryan, who has thrown for 6 TD's.

Comments coach Buddy Parker of the Steelers: "The Browns — and the Bears — have shown the most improvement in the league. Ryan has completed 64 per cent of his passes. That, along with trying to contain Jimmy Brown, makes our task doubly difficult."

The "amazinn'" New York Jets defend their Eastern Division lead against the Boston Patriots Saturday night, and the undefeated San Diego Chargers resume their American Football League feud with the Denver Broncos on Sunday.

There are two other games on this weekend's full schedule, the winless Buffalo Bills entertaining the Oakland Raiders Saturday night and the defending champion Kansas City Chiefs making their formal debut in their new home against the Houston Oilers.

Boston is a 3-point pick over New York and Buffalo is 4 over Oakland Saturday night; Kansas City is 5 over Houston and San Diego is 8 over Denver on Sunday.

The Houston-Kansas City game will be televised to eastern and central time zones (with Kansas City blacked out). The San Diego-Denver game will be viewed in the mountain and Pacific time zones (with Denver blacked out).

The Jets and their fans, many of them carry-overs from the baseball Mets, are agog over the team's 2-1 record and first-place in the East. Under coach Weeb Ewbank, the Jets have shown a coordinated attack, with lanky Dick Wood at quarterback, Bill Mathis and Mark Smolinski as running backs, and Bake Turner, Don Maynard and Gene Heeter as pass-catchers.

Hebert Second In Loop Offense

Pampa rates fifth in total offense and a lowly seventh in defensive statistics for District 3-4A, released yesterday.

Kenny Hebert, the Flying Frenchman, opened a bid in defense of his total offense and punting crowns, being rated second in both departments following the Harvesters' opening game with Palo Duro.

Hebert punted for an average of 37.3, second to Anderson of Caprock with 37.8. With six completions in 18 passes for a total of 92 yards, Hebert is rated first in that department. However, Daily News statistician Myron Aftergut credits Hebert with seven completions in 18 passes for a total of 112 yards. Checking of play-by-play statistics show that Hebert was apparently not credited with a completion on his last pass of the game, a successful one to Jesse Washington who lateraled to Shotgun Gregory, with Gregory gaining 20 yards before losing the ball on a fumble. This should be counted as a completion, which would give Hebert 112 yards in the air.

Pat Harkins of Tascosa, with 103 yards rushing and 82 passing, leads the loop in total offense. Hebert, with 39 rushing, is second with 131, and actually has 151.

Terry Criss and Jerry Garrison also ranked in the individual stats, both in pass receiving. Terrible Terry with a 36-yard reception, is third in that category, and Garrison, with three for 36, is fifth in total yardage.

Eugene "The Bandit" Madrid, with the Harvesters' sole loop TD, is tied for fourth in scoring.

Amarillo B Ties Shockers, 12-12

By JEFF COHANE
 Pampa News Sports Editor
AMARILLO—The Pampa Shockers and the Amarillo High Yagnigans battled to a 12-12 tie here yesterday in a B team district game.

With 48 seconds left in the game, Amarillo, which had four second-half drives stalled by the Pampa defense, scored on a 13-yard pass play to tie the game. Lolan Ellis, who had been a one-man gang on defense, broke through to tackle the quarterback in the conversion attempt and foil the Yagnigans' try for the win.

The first half was all Joey Roden as the blond-headed halfback ran all over the field for 20 and 66-yard touchdown runs, but the second half was all Yagnigan quarterback Dana Jewett as he ran and passed the hosts into a tie.

After an opening exchange of kicks, Pampa took the ball on its own two-yard line, and drove 96 yards in six plays. Pampa drove into the middle of the line twice and then Roden, "Little Butch" Crossland and quarterback Larry Daniels began moving behind the blocking of Lolan and Duckwalk Ellis and Teddy Bird.

Defense led by Wayne Hill, Larry Eckroat, Bird, Duck Ellis, Daniels and Roden blunted several Amarillo drives and Pampa threatened again late in the quarter, when Crossland went 37 yards on a scam right behind Lolan. Roden, on a nice fake by Daniels went to the Yan 45, and then down to the 37 behind Hill.

A penalty killed the drive, and as the quarter ended, Amarillo recovered a fumble on the Pampa 20.

Jewell passed to Mike Burkett in the end zones on the first play, but a penalty wiped out the score and moved the Yans back to the 35. Jewell went to pass, couldn't find a receiver, and would in and out all the way to the goal line. Lolan broke up a conversion run attempt by Fred Chapel.

Pampa took the ball on their 20 and Daniels and Crossland moved for a first down. Roden broke up the middle from the 34 and simply ran past everything in sight, shaking off the safetymen and hitting paydirt 66 yards away. Daniels was unsuccessful on the conversion.

Led by Roden, Pampa threatened again before time ran out, moving to the Amarillo 37.

The tide of battle turned on the first play of the second half. Jewett intercepted a pass on the Shocker 40 and ran it back to the 11, and the Yans started two quarters of knocking on the door, only to have the Shocker defense slam the lock until the final minute.

Pass defense led by The Bird and Little Butch broke up the first threat. After Pampa punt, Amarillo drove inside the Pampa 50, only to have Lolan break through and spill Jewett for a big loss.

Early in the fourth quarter, Amarillo drove to the Shocker 30, where Davis Blackmon recovered a fumble to stop the threat. Again Amarillo moved and again Lolan made Jewett eat the ball.

Lolan and Daniels moved the ball from their 20 to the 35, the only first down made in the second half, but Amarillo recovered a fumble. A pass moved them to the Shocker 20, but a defense led by Daniels, Eckroat and Hill again took the ball on downs with three minutes left in the game.

Pampa failed to move and Daniels went back to punt, but Amarillo broke through to block it and took over on the Shocker 12.

Again Lolan broke through and a penalty moved the ball to the 10. Amarillo moved to the eight, but was penalized back to the 13. With less than a minute to go, Jewett then lofted the ball to Burkett for the score.

Amarillo recovered a fumble seconds later, but failed on two pass attempts for a winning score.

Grady Burnett Worried About Esteline Bearcubs

WHEELER (Sp) — The winningest coach of the winningest team in the Top O' Texas must be getting cautious as his victory string lengthens, as Wheeler coach Grady Burnett warned that tonight's game with winless Esteline "could be a tough one."

Tough one? Wheeler has played four games, three with higher-classification teams, and scored a total of 132 points to the opponents' six. Esteline has lost four straight games, losing 18-0 to Miami and 40-4 to Price College, the only two victories for those teams.

NEIL ROGERS ... line cruncher

Burnett broke down and admitted that on paper, Wheeler should be able to name the score, but explained "if you bill it as a walkaway, our boys are liable to get overconfident. They got way up for Follett last week, they'll have to get way up for McLean next week, and if they get too cocky in between, well, there have been bigger upsets recorded in football. Esteline is primarily a freshman and sophomore ball club ... they're a tough little bunch of kids and they don't quit. If the boys don't take the game seriously, you can't ever tell what will happen."

Burnett reported that Wheeler is in fine physical shape. Halfback Bobby Vanpool, ace punt return specialist, is completely recovered from his broken finger. Brother Terry is still bothered with a bad knee, and will probably see only limited duty tonight to rest up.

"We'll try to use our own freshmen and sophomores tonight, if it looks as if we can, so we can rest the seniors for McLean," said Burnett.

The bald Mustang mentor praised the Wheeler effort in the resounding 40-0 district opener over Follett. "Neil Rogers played a fine of his better defensive games. Jamie Moore played his best defensive linebacking game of the year. Gene Watson and Kent Sims again played fine ball and Deo Burks made lots of tackles."

"Mendall Hunter and Dunc Porter did a tremendous job, both on pass defense, and on offense, both of them on running and Porter with another great blocking effort. ... they did about 75 per cent of the backfield work. Richard Wallace quarterbacked another good game."

"All in all, I was tremendously pleased with the team's play on both offense and defense, except for a lack of blocking in the first half, which was quickly straightened out in the second half. They did real well."

"Seriously, Esteline has a fine little sophomore quarterback and a tough bunch of kids. They're not going to lay down and let us walk over them by any means."

Reapers Shut Out Canadian

The Lee Reapers sowed the whirlwind yesterday as they cleared the bench and used three different teams in shutting out the Canadian B team, 20-0.

Canadian threatened in the opening minutes when they recovered a fumble on the Reaper 15 and drove to a first down on the five, but the Pampa defense threw up a stone wall headed by James Matney, John Budd, Jack Williamson and David Smith and took the ball away on downs.

Gary McCarrell then raced 80 yards into Wildkitten territory, and went over from the 11 two plays later.

The second unit came on the field for the Lee 9th grade, and Budd went 30 yards for score number two. Tommy McDonald running the conversion.

The third unit climaxed the scoring when they drove 30 yards for a TD. Ricky Roach going over from two yards out.

Canadian threatened via the air, moving to the Lee 20 before de-

TOT Holds Drag Races Sunday

The Top O' Texas Car Association has announced a full day of drag racing at the TOT strip Sunday, five miles south of Pampa on Highway 70. There will be both stock and unblown gas racing.

TOT officials hope for an even bigger crew of entrants than at their last race, which drew 200 entries in over 40 races. Time trials will be held from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., with races beginning at 2.

A $50 prize will be given to the top eliminator. Prizes of $25 each will be awarded to top gas eliminator, top little eliminator, and top stock eliminator.

Dumas Demons Play Carlsbad Cavemen

By United Press International
DUMAS Demons and Carlsbad, N.M. Cavemen, the No. 1 teams in their respective states and both boasting their state's longest winning streak, collide tonight in the feature game of the Texas schoolboy football program.

Dumas, seeking its third successive Texas Class AAA title, has a 16-game victory skein working, while Carlsbad has now gone 26 games without defeat in building up the top rank in New Mexico.

Their contest at Carlsbad is just one of a "bakers dozen" games matching undefeated teams on this weekend's Texas high school gridiron schedule.

Probably the most important of all these is the Class A struggle involving the division's second-ranked New London and Hallsville. It is a district game and Hallsville unexpectedly comes up to this contest with an unbeaten, untied, unscored-on mark. None of the others are district games.

The schedule also has other important contests involving rated or undefeated teams.

Champs Face Test
 Included in this group are such AAAA games as Corpus Christi Miller at Odessa Permian, defending state champion San Antonio Brackenridge vs. San Antonio Lanier, and Port Arthur at Orange in AAA. Nederland vs. Port Neches, Corsicana vs. Jacksonville, Bay City vs. Houston Davis and Graham at Burkburnett.

Top-rated Denver City of AA is at Littlefield in an attempt to bounce back from its levelled defeat of last week, while CLASS A's No. 1 team, Albany, goes to Cisno.

Other feature AA games include Dalhart vs. Perryton, Sinton vs. Beeville, Katy vs. Humble, Olney vs. Electr, Rockdale at Brenham and Plano vs. Lancaster.

Rudolph Tops Whitmarsh Golf Open

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Mason Rudolph, "rewarded" by accurate driving and sharp putting with a first round five-under-par 67, paced the field at the start of today's play in the $125,000 Whitmarsh Open.

The 29-year-old Rudolph, who was edged out in a "sudden death" playoff in the recent Portland Open, finished strong Thursday to shoot into the lead over 20 other pros who fired the low-par first rounds over the 6,807-yard, par-72 Whitmarsh Valley Country Club.

Phil Rodgers of Perdido Bay, Fla., was the early first leader with a 68 but his prediction that it "wouldn't stand up" in the quest for the $26,000 first prize was borne out by Rudolph's late afternoon charge in which he scored an eagle on the 495-yard, par-five fifth hole and added five birdies, four on the back nine.

Of goldom's "big four" of Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus, Gary Player and Julius Boros, only U.S. Open champion Boros, who had a 73 failed to come in with a below-par first round.

Rudolph, whose only major tournament victory was the Golden Gate Open in his rookie year of 1957, termed the Whitmarsh layout "the type of course I like to play. You get rewarded if you put it in the fairway."

Nation's Top Two Runners Collide

DENTON (Sp) — The nation's top two ground gainers will be on the field Saturday night when North Texas State and West Texas State square off in Canyon.

Game time in the Buffalo Bowl will be 7:30.

Pete Pedro (5-8, 165) and Bobby Smith (6-2, 190) are the principals in the run-for-yards contest. Pedro, who does his zany stepping for the Buffaloes, is ranked No. 1 with 319 yards on 39 carries for an 8.2 average.

Smith, the North Texas flyer who hit 8.7 in the 100 last spring, trails Pedro in total yardage with 217 for second place in the major college listings.

The best average per carry belongs to Smith, who has lugged the pigskin only 21 times for a 10.3 mean. Both of the seniors have played two games.

"I hope Bobby wins this week," was the response of Eagle Coach Odus Mitchell, who is more interested in the final team score.

A trademark of Mitchell teams has always been that no single player gets assignments that lead to impressive statistics. For current proof, both Dwain Bean and Bill McWatters have carried the ball more times than Smith. And A. D. Whitfield will get his share of calls once he's fully recovered from an injury.

The star of Mitchell's 1959 team was Abner Haynes a halfback instrumental in the Eagles' 9-1 season record. Haynes averaged less than 12 carries a game (116 in 10) but gained 730 yards.

"It's great having a boy like Bobby, particularly when we have these others to go with him," said Mitchell.

Since Whitfield is still limping on a sprained ankle, the starting backfield will be the same that opened against Louisville last week. Smith will be at left halfback, Bean at right half, McWatters at full and Bill Ryan at quarterback.

Bean will probably return to fullback when Whitfield is ready to go at full speed. "I like having some of them knowing more than one position so we can use a flexible backfield," said Mitchell.

Happy Dodgers Seek To Sweep

By LEO H. PETERSEN
UPI Sports Editor
LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The baseball-underrated Los Angeles Dodgers returned home today, counting on the brilliant pitching and timely hitting which crushed the mighty New York Yankees in the first two games to close out the World Series on their own grounds.

While the Dodger players were confident they would do just that — and the oddsmakers now rate them 3-1 favorites to win the Series — manager Walter Alston cautiously observed, "We have to win two more."

He then named his big, fireballing right-hander, Don Drysdale, to pitch the third game on Saturday. Today was an open date for travel.

"It's nice we won the first two," said the conservative Dodger skipper.

"We're not throwing in the towel," said Ralph Houk, the Yankees manager who named his right-handed ace, Jim Bouton, as his third-game starter. "Teams have lost the first two games before and won the Series."

The Yankees did it in 1956 when Houk was a reserve catcher with them.

Third-Game Favorites
Although the Yankees had lost both of the first two games in which they were favored in their own park — and they have been a much better team at home than on the road — the bookmakers made them 11-10 favorites to win the third game. This despite the fact the 24-year-old Bouton, a 21-game winner, never has pitched in a Series game.

The 27-year-old Drysdale, a 19-game winner, has a 1-0 Series record. He beat the White Sox with relief help from Larry Sherry in 1959 when the Dodgers won the Series. He previously had pitched two innings of relief against the Yankees in that 1956 comeback Series for the Dodgers.

Houk insisted he was thinking of no lineup changes — and said that Roger Maris, who was injured in the third inning of Thursday's game, would be back in the lineup.

"That was our best ball club out there in the first two games and that's the one I intend to keep playing," said Houk, angered when a baseball writer suggested the Yankees looked "like Little Leaguers" Thursday.

Houk would have none of that, refusing to fault his club on faulty defensive play which handed the Dodgers two first-inning runs.

A questionable throw by first baseman Joe Pepitone and a mis-bap by Maris led to the Dodgers' scores.

He admitted, however, that "it will be nice to see some right-handed pitching for a change."

The left-handed pitching of strikeout king Sandy Koufax, crafty Johnny Podres and relief ace Ron Perranoski killed the Yankees in the two games in Yankee Stadium.

"I'm afraid we will see some more of them," Houk added, with a smile. And Alston promised that the Yankees would.

Alston said he was reluctant to change his lineup, although he usually platoons against right-handed pitching — putting the left-handed hitting Wally Moon in right field in place of Frank Howard and Ron Fairly at first base instead of Bill Skowron.

"But the way Skowron has been hitting, I might leave him in there," Alston explained. "And I might also leave (Dick) Tracewski at second base."

He also said he didn't want to say anything now on whether Moon will take over for Howard.

Better Defensively
Tracewski has been playing second because rookie third baseman Ken McMullen was kept out of the first two games because of a pulled leg muscle. McMullen will be ready to play Saturday, but Alston may keep him on the bench because his ball club is better defensively with Tracewski at second and Jim Gilliam at third.

DOUBTFUL STARTERS
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defensive players Johnny Sample and Claude Crabb, both hampered by knee injuries, worked out Thursday with the Washington Redskins but still remain as doubtful starters for Saturday's game against the New York Giants.

Up to now, the alleged defensive shortcomings of the Dodgers have not cropped up. Actually, that superlative pitching of Koufax, Podres and Perranoski has held the Yankee power so bottled up that the Dodgers have had few difficult fielding chances.

But the usually flawless fielding Yankees cracked in the first inning Thursday and led to what turned out to be enough runs to win it for Podres, who needed help from Perranoski in the ninth after he yielded a one-out double to Hector Lopez.

The Yankees were not charged with any errors in that first inning although the consensus in the press box was that first baseman Pepitone should have been.

Starts Dodgers Off
Fleet Maury Wills started the Dodgers off against young Al Downing with a single. With Gilliam at bat, it appeared that Downing had Wills picked off first, but the Dodger shortstop lit out for second and slid in ahead of Pepitone's throw, which pulled second baseman Bobby Richardson off the bag.

Wills was credited with a stolen base. He sped to third on Gilliam's single and then came a bad break for the Yankees.

Willie Davis hit a low line drive to right and it looked like Maris would catch it. But Maris slipped as he started after the ball and stumbled again when he got up. By that time, Wills and Gilliam had scored and Willie was on second.

Downing settled down then but the damage had been done.

Heat Still On For Southern Cal Football

By GARY KALE
UPI Sports Writer
The temperature has dropped to the 70s in the Los Angeles area, but the heat still is on for Southern California's football team.

The defending national collegiate champions, who lost to Oklahoma last week in 105-degree weather, attempt to recoup prestige tonight against Michigan State at Los Angeles.

Originally scheduled for Saturday afternoon, the contest was moved up so as not to conflict with the third game of the World Series.

Southern Cal plummeted to ninth place in the national ratings when the Trojans' star passing combination of Pete Bearhard and Hal Bedsole failed to click against the Sooners.

Coach John McKay now will seek the overland route to victory over 18th-ranked Michigan State. The Trojans are a touchdown favorite over the Spartans, making their first trip to California since whipping UCLA in the 1956 Rose Bowl game.

Quarterback George Mira, who directed Miami (Fla.) to a 3-0 win over Purdue last weekend, is expected to make good on the Hurricanes' 16-point edge given them by the oddsmakers against visiting Tulane. The Green Wave has lost 13 straight.

Boston College is a two-touchdown favorite over host Detroit and The Citadel travels to George Washington in other games tonight.

Alabama, 1961 collegiate kingpin and No. 2 in the current ratings, hopes to bypass idle Oklahoma Saturday. The Crimson Tide is a 31-point favorite over Vanderbilt in their Southeastern Conference tilt.

In other Saturday action involving the top 10 teams, third-ranked Texas is a three-touchdown choice over Oklahoma State; Northwestern, No. 4 and touted to win the Big Ten Conference title, is a 7½-point selection over Illinois; sixth-rated Georgia Tech is 7 over LSU; undefeated Navy and "Jolly Roger" Staubach are a touchdown pick to improve their No. 7 rating against Michigan; Pittsburgh (No. 8) is 13½ over California; Ohio State is 6 over Indiana; and Nebraska is 12 over Iowa State.

Old Vet Podres Does 'Er Again

By JOE GERGEN
UPI Sports Writer
NEW YORK (UPI) — After two games of World Series play the Los Angeles Dodgers' battletship is leaning to port side — but it is the New York Yankees who are sinking.

Thursday the Yankees were torpedoed by another left-handed gunner with previous battle experience — Johnny Podres.

Podres proved he still had the technique that stopped New York cold in 1955 for the Dodgers' first world championship when he kept the Yankees at bay for 8 1-3 innings before giving way to still another talented southpaw — relief ace Ron Perranoski.

Coming as it did on the heels of Sandy Koufax' brilliant 5-2 victory in Wednesday's opener, the Dodgers have driven the Yankees into shallow waters, and New York will be forced to stage a tremendous rally if it hopes to repeat as champion for the third consecutive year.

The last time Podres had faced the Yankees in a World Series game was Oct. 4, 1955, in Yankee Stadium when he beat them with a five-hitter, 2-0, to wrap up the Dodgers' first world championship.

Hurls Scoreless Ball
The chunky, blond southpaw was working on a six-hit shutout with one out in the ninth inning Thursday when he was lifted in favor of Perranoski. A crowd of 66,455 at the stadium gave Podres a warm ovation as he headed for the dressing room.

Perranoski lost the shutout when Elston Howard singled to score Hector Lopez, who had doubled. However, Joe Peppitone then forced Howard, and Perranoski fanned Clete Boyer to snuff out the Yankees' belated bid.

The Dodgers climbed on Al Downing, the Yankees' starter, quickly, just as they had against Whitey Ford in Wednesday's opener, gaining a 2-0 lead in the first inning on three hits.

Maury Wills started with a single over second base and, on the first pitch to Jim Gilliam, took off for second base. Wills started too quickly and appeared hung up between bases as Downing threw behind him to Peppitone. However, Peppitone's throw to Bobby Richardson at second base was chest high and Wills, sliding head first, managed to elude the tag for an official steal.

Gilliam lined a single through the right side of the infield and Wills was held at third on Roger Maris' throw to the plate, which enabled Gilliam to race to second. Willie Davis hit a lone line drive straight at Maris, who misjudged the ball, then slipped and fell to the turf. By the time Maris retrieved it, Wills and Gilliam had raced home and Davis wound up at second.

Downing gave up another run in the fourth when Moose Skowron, the ex-Yankee, sliced an outside fast ball into the lower right field stands, just inside the foul pole.

Phillips Raps Pampa Ninth

The Pampa Reapers and the Phillips 9th grade did all the scoring in the first half, and then battled each other on even terms in the last two quarters, but the Phillips lead was too much as they pulled out a 22-8 victory yesterday.

The Reapers drove 60 yards for the opening score, with Larry Stevens passing 20 yards to David Martindale for the touchdown, and then passing to Larry Keyser for the conversion.

Phillips then got going behind big fullback Gary Evard, who rammed through for three touchdowns, while several Pampa drives were blunted by fumbles.

Pampa came to life in the second half with an outstanding defensive effort, but Phillips did the same, and neither team threatened until the final minute, when the Reapers drove to the Phillips 15, only to have the clock run out on them.

GARDEN STATE OPENS
CHERRY HILL, N.J. (UPI) — The twin double, which has caught on in popularity at eastern race tracks this year, will not be employed during the 26-day Garden State meet starting Saturday.

However, general manager Joseph H. McGrane Jr. of the Garden State Racing Association said the daily program will consist of nine races instead of the usual eight. The track will be dark on Mondays.

White Deer Takes On Rugged Stratford Elks

WHITE DEER (Sp1) — Colie Huffman, the taciturn coach of White Deer, was happy over the Bucks' breaking of their losing streak with a resounding 14-0 win over hitherto-undefeated McLean, but refused to get his hopes high over tonight's clash with Stratford.

"According to comparative scores, they're 68 points better than us," said the White Deer round man, "what else can I say?"

"I haven't seen them play. All I know is the scouting reports, which says that they are a real good, very tough team. That, plus our only common opponent, Lefors. Lefors beat us, 39-0. The next week Stratford beat them, 38-7. Now how can I figure it?"

It was pointed out that the disastrous loss to the Elks by the Pirates occurred after Lefors had lost their quarterback and their leading ground-gainer in the first quarter, and that up to that point, the Pirates had been leading. It was also pointed out that White Deer was a vastly improved club over the one that lost to Lefors, due to recovery from injuries and key changes in positions.

"All this may be true, but I can't go out on a limb and predict a victory," pointed out Huffman. "The kids are rolling now, they know they can win, but 68 points difference is 68 points. A chance? Certainly we have a chance. . . there are only going to be two teams out there and one of them will win, but I don't want to predict which one."

Turning to a review of last week's game, Crying Colie was much more cheerful: "I think the kids played a pretty doggone good ball game. I was real pleased. I hope we can continue to do the same, and to continue improving each ball game."

"I really can't single anyone out for particular praise, they all did well. To be truthful, every boy in there did real well. Larry Marljar was named Most Spirited Buck for his play at offensive tackle and defensive guard. Eddie Kleibrink did a good job in his first game at fullback.

"There were a lot of injuries, but all of the minor variety, nothing to keep anyone out of action tonight. We'll run the same starting lineup, with David Clemens and Roy Armstrong at the half-backs, Larry Elliott at quarterback and Kleibrink at fullback. Clemens still has that bad knee and probably won't be operating at full speed, otherwise we're in pretty good physical shape."

SWC Frosh Teams Play

By United Press International
Freshmen teams from North Texas State, Texas Christian and Arkansas won games Thursday night involving first-year, Texas college football teams.

North Texas belted the Wichita University freshmen 26-0 on long touchdown runs. TCU's Polywogs blanked the Texas A&M Fish 10-0, and Arkansas' Shoots downed the Southern Methodist University freshmen 3-0.

North Texas shocked Wichita with touchdown runs of 66 yards by halfback Mike Holmes and 75 yards by quarterback Charlie Wallace.

TCU scored against A&M on a 40-yard field goal by Bruce Alford and a 11-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Jimmy Duffy to Bob Dogues.

Marty Sikes, an Arkansas recruit from Jackboro, Tex., kicked a 35-yard field goal to seal SMU's doom. The Colts passed up their best chance of the night when a drive stalled on the Shoots' 12-yard line and Don Ferguson's field goal attempt was wide.

Methodist Officials Predict Major Controversy

Religion in America
By ROBERT M. ANDREWS
United Press International

The Methodist Church, for years firmly opposed to alcoholic beverages in any form, has taken a closer look at its followers and discovered a shocker: Many Methodists drink.

Four surveys, including two nationwide, indicate that adult Methodists who drink range as high as 85 per cent. As few as 59 per cent agree with the church's demand for total abstinence.

In view of this, the church has drafted a new policy statement on alcohol for Methodists' study and comment. Final action will come at the church's worldwide general conference next May.

So sharp is the statement's break with the past that church officials freely predict that a major denominational controversy will explode soon, sparked mainly by Midwestern and Southern congregations.

The proposed new stand reasserts the old principle that Methodists should abstain from drinking completely. But it takes a milder view of those who don't, and discards a number of long-cherished reasons for abstinence cited by traditionalists.

The statement was explained this week by Roger Burgess, associate general secretary of the Methodist Board of Christian Social Concerns, which approved it.

Burgess questioned, among other things, the idea that Methodist founder John Wesley preached abstinence. Wesley actually drank beer and wine, he said.

While Biblical scholars agree that Jesus Christ drank fermented wine.

Burgess also noted that abstinence has been "traditional" only for about 100 years. Before that, he said, Methodist leaders in temperance societies were not dedicated to a complete ban on drinking but only to "temperance," meaning moderation.

All these historical reasons are "wrong arguments" today, Burgess said. The Methodist case for abstinence must be based on other considerations besides morals, especially the emotional and mental effects of alcoholism, he said.

The statement itself urges, besides abstinence, an attack by non-drinkers on the problems of alcoholism and a bigger effort to help those with a drinking problem.

"We recognize that there are Methodists who use alcoholic beverages," the statement says. "We also recognize that sincere Christians may differ on this question. The Methodist Church has always upheld the right of individual conscience."

Burgess said many Methodists prefer the Presbyterian stand, which he said encourages abstinence but gives "tacit approval to the practice of social drinking."

But Burgess favors re-stating the Methodist stand "more clearly for the benefit of drinkers and abstainers alike."

As another official put it: "Good Methodists don't drink—but we don't necessarily condemn a fellow Methodist just because he does."

Father John J. Considine, head of the National Catholic Welfare Conference's Latin-American Bureau, said the U. S. church is expected to send 5,000 priests, brothers and sisters, along with more than 1,000 laymen, to Latin America before 1970.

In addition, he said in a Washington, D. C., speech, U. S. church sources are spending more than $10 million, chiefly for personnel there.

Father Considine said the emphasis is on fair wages, higher living standards for peasants and improved social legislation, similar to the goals of the Alliance for Progress.

The weekly Baptist Standard told its readers that American missionaries may be forced to leave newly independent African nations if church members in the United States do not clean their own houses of racial prejudice.

The Dallas, Tex., magazine said many Christian leaders in Africa are talking about taking over mission churches and sending white missionaries home. "If we expect our missionaries to be welcome there, then we must change our attitude toward their kinsmen over here," it said.

The Presbyterian Board of World Missions tells the story of Dr. Floyd O. Woodward, a late convert. Dr. Woodward, 71, is a Methodist doctor who had retired after 30 years' practice in Des Moines, Iowa. He became restless and volunteered for work overseas.

His new post: A Presbyterian mission hospital in South Kasai in the Congo.

Roman Catholic officials are predicting massive new missionary aid for Latin America, already in the midst of what they call a "genuine religious revival."

Rev. Gene Moore Will Conduct Revival At Harrah Methodist

Revival services will begin at the Harrah Methodist Church Sunday and continue through Sunday Oct. 13. Sunday services are at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. Week-day services begin at 6 a.m. and 7 p.m. Breakfast will be served at the church.

Rev. and Mrs. Gene Moore, full-time evangelist from the Northwest Texas Conference, will be in charge of the music and preaching.

A cordial invitation is extended to everyone to attend the revival. World-Wide Communion will be observed Sunday. Millions of Christians around the world will join in this sacred time of worship, prayer and sharing.

The Church of God, Reid and Campbell, is beginning a revival meeting Tuesday evening, at 7:30. The evangelist will be the Reverend Clifton Ratchford, pastor of the West Amarillo Church of God, and member of the State Youth Board. Reverend Ratchford is well known in this vicinity, having lived here as a boy, his father pastoring the church here for several years.

He and his wife are excellent singers and musicians, and will be singing nightly.

This will probably be the last revival held in the old church building, since the congregation has purchased property for a new church on Gwendolyn and North Nelson, at the entrance to the new "London Bridge," recently dedicated. The church plans to begin construction soon on the new brick edifice.

The youth choir meets at 5 p.m. Sunday, followed by Sunday Evening Fellowship at 5:45 p.m., with a light supper for the entire family in Fellowship Hall. At 6:15 p.m. children, youth, and adults will separate for one hour of Fellowship group activities according to interest and needs. The Adult Fellowship group will meet in the church parlor.

The Sunday worship service at 7:15 p.m. will be conducted by the pastor, Hubert Bratcher, who will present a brief meditation followed by an altar time.

Wednesday at 7 p.m., Family Night will be held in Fellowship Hall. A special program has been planned.

Burgess also noted that abstinence has been "traditional" only for about 100 years. Before that, he said, Methodist leaders in temperance societies were not dedicated to a complete ban on drinking but only to "temperance," meaning moderation.

All these historical reasons are "wrong arguments" today, Burgess said. The Methodist case for abstinence must be based on other considerations besides morals, especially the emotional and mental effects of alcoholism, he said.

Father John J. Considine, head of the National Catholic Welfare Conference's Latin-American Bureau, said the U. S. church is expected to send 5,000 priests, brothers and sisters, along with more than 1,000 laymen, to Latin America before 1970.

In addition, he said in a Washington, D. C., speech, U. S. church sources are spending more than $10 million, chiefly for personnel there.

Father Considine said the emphasis is on fair wages, higher living standards for peasants and improved social legislation, similar to the goals of the Alliance for Progress.

The weekly Baptist Standard told its readers that American missionaries may be forced to leave newly independent African nations if church members in the United States do not clean their own houses of racial prejudice.

The Dallas, Tex., magazine said many Christian leaders in Africa are talking about taking over mission churches and sending white missionaries home. "If we expect our missionaries to be welcome there, then we must change our attitude toward their kinsmen over here," it said.

The Presbyterian Board of World Missions tells the story of Dr. Floyd O. Woodward, a late convert. Dr. Woodward, 71, is a Methodist doctor who had retired after 30 years' practice in Des Moines, Iowa. He became restless and volunteered for work overseas.

Rev. Harper Is the New Pastor At Skellytown Assembly Church

The Rev. Dwayne Harper has just become the new pastor of the Assembly of God Church, Fifth and Chamberlain, Skellytown. He was formerly the Associate Pastor of the Sherwood Assembly of God Church, Odessa, Texas.

The Rev. Harper is succeeding the Rev. Robin Byars, who was the pastor of the church for seven years. Rev. Byars has moved to Waxahachie, Tex.

Rev. Harper received his Bachelor of Science Degree for Central Bible Institute of Springfield, Missouri. While attending Bible School, he traveled for the school singing with the Kings Chorales Choir.

Rev. Harper is the third Harper to pastor the Skellytown Church. His father the Rev. J. W. Harper of Odessa, pastored the church in 1935-36 and returned in 1940-41. The Rev. L. A. Harper, brother of the present pastor, pastored the church in 1954-56. He is now the Pastor of the Assembly in be preceded by Training Union at 6:30 p.m. and the subject for the Unions will be, "Planning for Results."

Brother Roy Harper, Minister of Music, will be conducting both Choirs, assisted by Mrs. Don Stafford, accompanied by Mrs. H. E. Winegart at the piano and Mrs. Edith Beighle at the Organ. Sunday morning in Room No. 5 of the Educational Bldg.

5:30 p.m. is the hour for the Youth Supper followed by regular Junior & Senior High Fellowship from 6:30-7:00 p.m. There is also an adult class on "The Gospel of Mark." The day closes with evening worship from 7:30 in the Kelley Chapel.

An evening worship service will be held at 7 p.m. Youth Groups for Juniors, Chi Rho, and Christian Youth Fellowship will continue their current series of study: JYF "Workers in Bible Times"; Chi Rho "A Look at our Vocations"; CYF "The World's Great Religions."

At any rate, as the premier said, the U.S.S.R. was in a "difficult position."

For Canada and Australia, one man's loss was another man's gain.

From Ottawa, where U. S. wheat dealers were meeting with a Soviet delegation, came reports that the Soviets wanted still more and would buy up to 200 million bushels from the United States if the U.S. government would authorize it.

Wheat has been on the U. S. list of goods embargoed against sale to Russia and such a sale required a major change in U.S. policy.

There also was the virtual certainty that if the United States sold wheat to Russia some of it would find its way back to Cuba.

But the temptation also was great. The U.S. government held more than a billion bushels of surplus wheat and another billion was on the way.

In the Ukraine surveying the wreckage of what had been hoped would be a banner crop year, Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev delivered himself of another of his proverbs.

"As long as the thunder does not crash," he said, "the peasant does not cross himself."

The remark was interpreted as a suggestion to Soviet planners that they might have done more to foresee this year's disaster which has turned the Soviet Union from a normally grain-exporting nation to one forced to scramble to the world wheat market to meet its minimum needs.

For this, aside from a bitterly cold winter and a long summer drought, the Soviet premier could give himself a large share of the credit, since the direction of Soviet agriculture has been his own particular baby.

His virgin lands project had not been a success and it appeared he now was abandoning a previous belief that the Soviet Union's growing population needs could be met simply by expanding acreage.

Instead, the emphasis now would be on irrigation and a vastly expanded output of fertilizer.

Contributing also to the disaster were the weaknesses which annually plague the Soviet agricultural economy—low incentives, inadequate transportation facilities and a shortage of farm machinery.

More Than Loud Mouth Needed For Auctioneer

BRYAN, Tex. (UPI)—Popular impressions notwithstanding, a good auctioneer has to be much more than a man with a fast tongue and a heavy gavel.

So says Col. Walter Britten, who helps run one of the nation's most unusual schools—an institute for auctioneers at Bryan, Tex.

Britten is one of the country's top auctioneers and is co-owner of the National Auction Institute. The institute holds its classes at Allen Academy in Bryan.

"The major prerequisite for our institute is an interest in being a good auctioneer," Britten said. "A good auctioneer is someone who is capable of being a good salesman. He has a good personality, a good knowledge of the product he is selling and a keen sense of observation."

The institute holds its classes for two weeks in midsummer. Apprentice auctioneers go to classes up to 10 hours a day. They come from all over the country—this year's class of 35 represented several states and, over the years, nearly every state and some Canadian provinces have had students in the courses.

Bidders are as individualistic as the things they buy, Britten says. For this reason, the auctioneer has to remember the certain gesture, the characteristic wink or nod or wave of hand, of his bidders.

Some bidders don't like others to know they are bidding. Others yell right out. Some wave. Others grimace.

"You have to be ready for anything," Britten says. "Oddly enough, not all the students at the Auction Institute come to be auctioneers."

"Sometimes their parents send them to help them gain confidence in their speaking ability," Britten says. "Other times, clerks in sales establishments are sent by their bosses to give them more insight into the business. Often, somebody comes to us to work on a bad speech impediment."

Rev. Ratchford to Conduct Revival At Church of God

The Church of God, Reid and Campbell, is beginning a revival meeting Tuesday evening, at 7:30. The evangelist will be the Reverend Clifton Ratchford, pastor of the West Amarillo Church of God, and member of the State Youth Board. Reverend Ratchford is well known in this vicinity, having lived here as a boy, his father pastoring the church here for several years.

These public spirited firms are making these weekly messages possible — and join with the ministers of Pampa in hoping that each message will be an inspiration to everyone.

A SACRED HOUR

(World-Wide Communion Meditation)

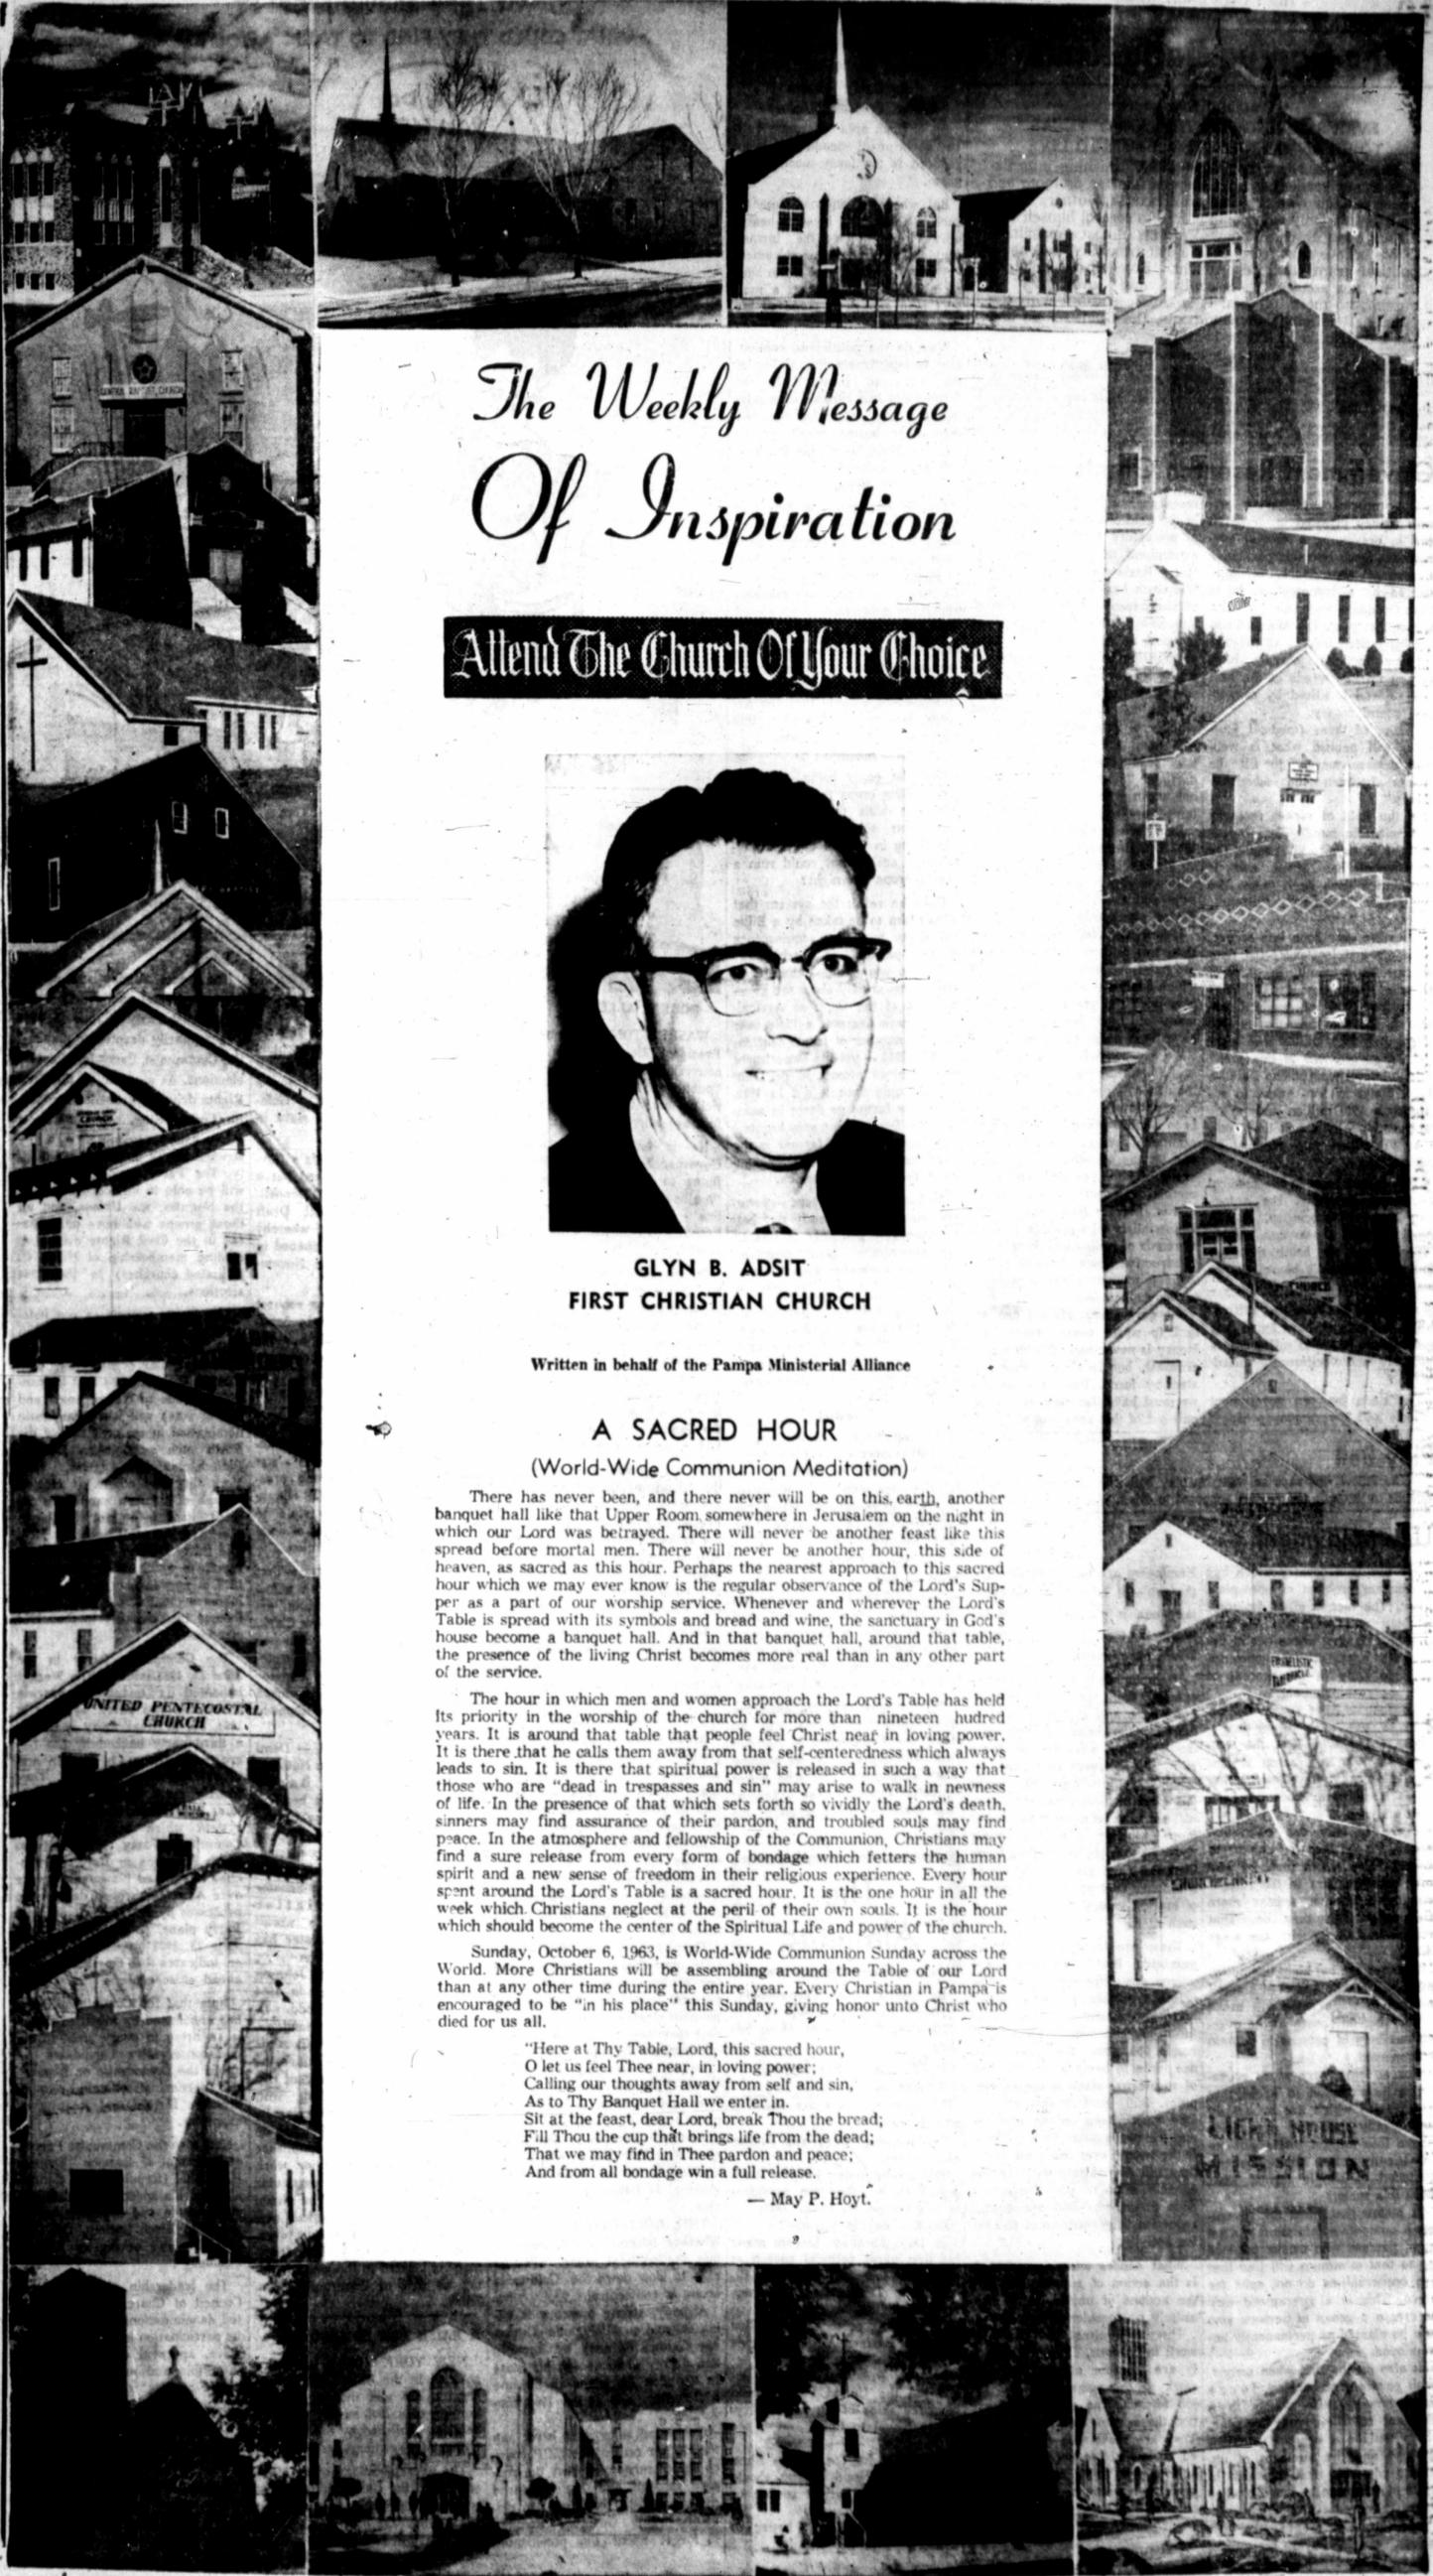

There has never been, and there never will be on this earth, another banquet hall like that Upper Room, somewhere in Jerusalem on the night in which our Lord was betrayed. There will never be another feast like this spread before mortal men. There will never be another hour, this side of heaven, as sacred as this hour. Perhaps the nearest approach to this sacred hour which we may ever know is the regular observance of the Lord's Supper as a part of our worship service. Whenever and wherever the Lord's Table is spread with its symbols and bread and wine, the sanctuary in God's house become a banquet hall. And in that banquet hall, around that table, the presence of the living Christ becomes more real than in any other part of the service.

The hour in which men and women approach the Lord's Table has held its priority in the worship of the church for more than nineteen hundred years. It is there that he calls them away from that self-centeredness which always leads to sin. It is there that spiritual power is released in such a way that those who are "dead in trespasses and sin" may arise to walk in newness of life. In the presence of that which sets forth so vividly the Lord's death, sinners may find assurance of their pardon, and troubled souls may find peace. In the atmosphere and fellowship of the Communion, Christians may find a sure release from every form of bondage which fetters the human spirit and a new sense of freedom in their religious experience. Every hour spent around the Lord's Table is a sacred hour. It is the one hour in all the week which Christians neglect at the peril of their own souls. It is the hour which should become the center of the Spiritual Life and power of the church.

Sunday, October 6, 1963, is World-Wide Communion Sunday across the World. More Christians will be assembling around the Table of our Lord than at any other time during the entire year. Every Christian in Pampa is encouraged to be "in his place" this Sunday, giving honor unto Christ who died for us all.

"Here at Thy Table, Lord, this sacred hour,
O let us feel Thee near, in loving power;
Calling our thoughts away from self and sin,
As to Thy Banquet Hall we enter in.
Sit at the feast, dear Lord, break Thou the bread;
Fill Thou the cup that brings life from the dead;
That we may find in Thee pardon and peace;
And from all bondage win a full release.

TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to do the same. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself, no more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Government Research Grants

The importance of having private money invested in research and in preventing a flow of government funds into this particular avenue of expenditure, is highlighted by a comment made in Post Graduate Magazine for October of last year. Dr. Morris Fishbein is quoted therein as follows: "New medical journals have sprung up like weeds in the lush soil so well fertilized by easy-to-get federal money."

"Many of them (medical journals) will publish what is well-nigh useless merely to fill the spaces between the advertisements."

In the field of rocket research and scientific inquiry into bigger and better ways to kill people, the government has spent and is spending billions each year. The cry is for "security"; "safety"; "protection."

Have we ever been less secure, less safe and less protected than we are as a result, in part, of some of these expended billions? Take the field of medical research. Did you know that in 1960 more than $400 million was spent by the government in this area? For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1964, Congress was asked to appropriate $980 million and may well end up by channeling more than $1 billion into medical research alone.

This is not news to the medical profession generally. The American Medical Association, in an April editorial a year ago, stated: "Huge sums are being spent on doubtful, artificially blown up, occasionally ridiculous projects..."

Those whose basic interest still remains the patient, have found that patient care is apt to suffer unless jealously and vociferously guarded.

The tie-in between government schools and government-sponsored research had led to many abuses in the field of research. A number of professors are given grants to experiment in certain fields. Dr. Harry Harlow of the University of Wisconsin has edited the "Journal of Comparative and Physiological Psychology." He recently resigned his post as editor with a cynical observation in a final editorial in which he advised young scientists who want to get ahead in the world "to obtain the required number of rats and get going on something they can publish and thus gain prestige." Said he, in parting: "Most experiments are not worth doing and the data obtained are not worth publishing."

Dr. Harlow ought to know. In 1961 Dr. Harlow received a grant of $1,889,921 for the purpose of inflicting brain damage in monkeys and a study of monkey behavior afterwards.

It turns out that something more than two million research papers are published every year, some of which duplicate other research papers prepared years ago. A great many of these papers need not have been prepared at all.

We are strongly in favor of research and scientific study. But there is only one way to keep such research and study in check. That is to remove federal or other governmental grants from the field and let the scientists work in the areas of pure research and commercial research under private grants. Private businessmen and industrialists who provide many hundreds of millions each year for constructive research can't afford to waste money on foolish projects or on duplication.

But government always can afford to waste money since the money is never earned by the government, but is always appropriated by force. Private research we must have. Government should pull out of this area and stay out.

Play Ball

The fellow who says he wants to play ball with you means that he intends to throw it and you are supposed to catch.

Unemployment

We live in a country which has a constant problem of unemployment. The fact is often deplored, publicly and privately. We also live in a country where two of the largest agencies in existence struggle daily in the process of creating unemployment.

Economists have known the answer to the problem for many, many years. Why isn't the solution offered? The reason is that it is politically unwelcome. What is so unwelcome about it? Let's look and see.

There is only one overriding reason for the fact that employers do not hire more men, or why new entrepreneurs in the role of employers do not appear more frequently than they do. That reason has to do with the wage rate.

If wages are too high, unemployment will result. And even a small margin in wage rates will make a very big difference in the overall numbers of persons to remain unemployed.

For at least forty years economists have tended to agree that wage rates which are arbitrarily and legally supported at a price above free market levels will automatically cause unemployment. Reduced to simple terms, what does this mean?

It means that when the government compels a minimum wage rate, persons who cannot produce up to that minimum will find that job opportunities do not exist for them. This is a guaranteed way to create a group of persons who can be classified as permanently unemployed.

It also means that when unions, with government backing, force employers to raise wages in a constant spiraling year by year, there will be a constant attrition in jobs and the numbers of unemployed will tend upward in spite of what can be done in other areas to increase productivity.

In short, high wages, like high prices, create buyer resistance.

Employers are buyers of labor. If the price of labor rises too high, they cannot purchase it and the result is that men find themselves out of work.

If employers find, in a given instance, that they can take on more men and at the same time increase the value of their production, they will take on more men. If employers find that by taking on more men they lower the value of their production, they will not take on more men. And if they find that men are laying down on the job, demanding wage increases, and generally acting in a manner contrary to the creation of market values, they will lay off such men.

These are facts that cannot be gainsaid. But governments and unions don't like these facts. The prime argument of both unions and governments is that thru force you can compel the kind of result you want. But you cannot use force to bring about the kind of result you want in the market place. Still, governments and unions must keep up the pretense and the propaganda to this effect. If the people ever learn the truth, they will stop relying on force and agencies of force. And if this ever does occur, you will see a vast reduction in governmental and union activity.

What causes unemployment? It is the action of governments and the actions of unions, taken separately or considered together.

There will always be plenty of work to be done. Thus, there really are jobs for all who want to work at the wage rate that the job affords. The unemployed are not those who can find no job. They are those who are compelled by law not to accept an available job, or who thru personal preference prefer to be unemployed rather than working at a wage rate that is unacceptable to them.

The American Way

By Harry Browne
FARMERS ARE PEOPLE, TOO
 By Harry Browne
 Editor, Freedom Magazine

An obvious area where taxes and government spending could be reduced is the farm subsidy program.

But whenever anyone suggests such a thing, the bleeding-hearts always cry that the farmer couldn't live without his subsidies. That, of course, is the worst kind of insult — implying that a man isn't man enough to stand on his own two feet.

Why do the politicians continually underestimate the ability of the American farmer? Is the farmer any less capable of surviving in a free enterprise economy than other businessmen? Is he any less able to provide for himself and his family?

Symbol

On the contrary, the American farmer is the symbol of self-sufficiency. In fact, the farmers have been giving the bureaucrats apoplexy by outproducing demand — no matter how tight the planners apply the controls.

While it's undoubtedly true that many farmers have been carefully maneuvered into a state of dependency upon the government, it is foolish to assume that the average farmer benefits from this whole crazy farm program.

Inequities

Does he enjoy being punished for growing crops that are not in harmony with the bureaucrats' production schedules? Does he like living in fear of adverse government action that could ruin a year's crops overnight?

Does he relish the system that allows him to be taken by a Billie Sol Estes with the acquiescence of his "patrons" in Washington? And do you imagine that farmers are not uneasy about the growing size of the Dept. of Agriculture? There are now a little over half the number of farms that existed in 1935 — yet the Department now employs almost 50 per cent more people than it did in 1935. While the farms go down in number, the Department gets bigger.

It seems that the farmer is the most under-rated and over-regulated creature in America.

And while all taxpayers — farmers included — currently pay better than $150 per year to finance the government farm program, the farmers stand to gain the most from an end to that system.

Once agriculture is part of the free enterprise system again, farmers will be free to compete, to grow, to prosper — without meddling planners to tell them what to do.

Potential

The capable farmer will regain his self-respect — he'll no longer have to defend, or apologize for, his subsidies. And he'll undoubtedly make more for himself — as he competes to better serve the American consumer.

The fair and just private enterprise system will weed out those who should not be farming in the first place. They can then find work in more productive areas, where their talents will earn them more, and where they will contribute to our standard of living.

As a matter of fact, since the total number of farms will go down, the Department of Agriculture will undoubtedly be needing more employees. And who would be better qualified than a farmer that couldn't make a go of his farm?

Thomas E. Dewey, two-time GOP presidential candidate and one of Rockefeller's chief supporters, is advising Nixon on his political strategy. Almost any Sunday they can be spotted as golfing partners in New York.

Dewey is stressing that Nixon should keep his political pipelines open in order to become the party's "unity" candidate should a deadlock develop in San Francisco next July. Nixon, who is now content to try his hand at king-making, is following Dewey's advice.

THE GOLDWATER BOOM — Whether Nixon's active entrance into the political arena will be able to slow down the Goldwater boom is conjectural.

Already, strong pressure is being exerted on Michigan's Governor George Romney by Republican county chairmen in his state to abandon his plans to become a favorite son at the 1964 convention.

Goldwater supporters here say that 70 per cent of the GOP county chairmen now support the Arizona senator and have assured their candidate that they are privately urging Governor Romney to forget about the presidential

Nixon Maneuvering Info Favorable Position To Jump Back Into 1964 Presidential Race

Editor: The special Sunday issue of The Worker, official publication of the Communist Party of June 23, 1963 was primarily devoted to plans of the Communist Party for the 1964 elections. As a result, of the Civil Rights drive spearheaded by Martin Luther King, the Communist Party expects to materially strengthen its influence politically. The Party anticipates that it will be able to influence and lead the Negroes, the unions, and all those groups who have participated in the Civil Rights drive (including membership of N. C. C. affiliated churches) in the 1964 elections.

WASHINGTON — Former Vice President Richard Nixon is maneuvering to get back into the "public eye" of the political hurricane that GOP presidential hopefuls are stirring up.

He is following the lead of Governor Nelson Rockefeller and flying to Europe for a two-week "business trip," including a headline-making meeting with France's President Charles de Gaulle.

On his return, early in November, Nixon plans to come directly to Washington for a round of conferences with Republican leaders both in and out of Congress.

Despite his repeated denials of any presidential aspirations in 1964, Nixon intends to jump back into the national spotlight while in the Capital with one major speech and a press conference.

To stir up additional interest in the Nixon meetings here, efforts are being made to induce former President Eisenhower to join in the talks. Eisenhower's presence also is designed to spike reports about a political rift between the two one-time GOP office holders and running mates.

According to Nixon's friends, the main purpose of the new buildup is to boost his sagging influence in party circles and slow down the presidential boom of Senator Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz.

Nixon hopes to achieve this objective by pushing for a "free and open convention" — urging as many GOP governors and senators as possible to become favorite-son candidates.

In this political maneuver, Nixon has the support of Governor Rockefeller, who privately favors a second try for the unsuccessful 1960 GOP candidate if he can't make it.

Thomas E. Dewey, two-time GOP presidential candidate and one of Rockefeller's chief supporters, is advising Nixon on his political strategy. Almost any Sunday they can be spotted as golfing partners in New York.

Dewey is stressing that Nixon should keep his political pipelines open in order to become the party's "unity" candidate should a deadlock develop in San Francisco next July. Nixon, who is now content to try his hand at king-making, is following Dewey's advice.

THE GOLDWATER BOOM — Whether Nixon's active entrance into the political arena will be able to slow down the Goldwater boom is conjectural.

Meanwhile, Pennsylvania's Governor Scranton has worked out a private deal with Peter O'Donnell, chairman of the National Draft Goldwater Committee, whereby no headquarters will be opened in his state until after the November elections this year.

O'Donnell agreed to the request after Scranton appealed to Senator Goldwater that such a move could split the Republicans wide open in Pennsylvania and clear the way for the Democrats to make gains in local elections.

Governor Scranton, who is being urged by Nixon and Rockefeller to become a favorite-son candidate, is under strong pressure by the largest GOP financial contributors in his state to head up a Goldwater slate of delegates to the 1964 convention.

So strong is this pressure that Senator Hugh Scott, R-Pa., a former GOP national chairman, arranged with Senator Joseph Clark, D-Pa., to have Senator Goldwater as a guest on their weekly statewide radio-TV show. Senator Clark agreed after Scott promised to "star" with President Kennedy at a later date.

POLITICAL FALLOUT — Democratic strategists on the National Committee believe that Barry Goldwater's name at the head of the GOP ticket in 1964 would boost chances of Senator Stephen Young, D-O., of being re-elected. They cite Senator Young's upset victory in 1958 over then-Senator John Bricker, when the latter came out for "right to work" laws. In the past, Goldwater has championed this legislation.

Vice President Lyndon Johnson has agreed to campaign in 1964 for Senator Thomas Dodd, D-Conn., a close political friend. Former Vice President Nixon is working on several magazine pieces dealing with his recent trip abroad and his discussions with such luminaries as Gamal Nasser, Konrad Adenauer and Charles de Gaulle. And a book publisher wants him to do a major work on foreign policy with particular emphasis on Cuba. The Nixon family have moved into their new apartment on Fifth Avenue overlooking Central Park. The apartment is located in the same building as that of Governor Rockefeller.

A RAISE FOR SOMEBODY

NEW YORK (UPI) — Office salaries in the United States and Canada are still moving up, according to a 1963 survey of office salaries published by the National Office Management Association.

The average salary of an office worker in the United States is $80 a week, an increase of $3 over the $77 average in 1962. The average salary in 1961 was $75 a week.

Down South

By THURMAN SENSING
 Nashville, Tenn.

The most sacred thing in the lives of millions of people in this country is their religion. Indeed the ancestors of many of us came to this land in order to enjoy religious liberty. By this, our forefathers meant not merely the right to worship but also the right to have one's religion kept free of politics.

For this reason it is profoundly disturbing to many Protestants that the National Council of the Churches of Christ in the USA (NCC) should have in the 13 years of its existence grown into an ambitious political organization that runs counter to the deepest beliefs of numerous persons in the member denominations.

The most recent cause for dismay among concerned churchmen was the role of the NCC's Commission on Religion and Race in organizing the Aug. 28th march on Washington and in demanding that Congress take specific legislative action. Many members of the denominations that belong to the NCC were shocked to discover that the Commission placed newspaper ads in cooperation with the Freedom House organization in New York City. They discovered, many of them for the first time, that members of this NCC Commission included Harry S. Ashmore, formerly of the Fund For The Republic; Ralph McGill, ultra-liberal newspaper editor, and Victor G. Reuther, brother of the United Auto Workers' chief. They were equally shocked to discover that the NCC had affiliated itself in the advertisements for the Washington rally with such individuals as Roy Wilkins, head of the NAACP, and Paul G. Hoffman, director of the U.S. Special Fund, which is currently aiding Fidel Castro's government with American funds contributed through the United Nations.

Other Protestants were startled to discover that the NCC had gone on record as favoring "a massive federal public works program." They were amazed to find that the NCC published statements in the language of leftwing radical extremists, repeating baseless charges about "police brutality" and people working "at slave wages."

What has all this to do with religion? asked many concerned churchmen. This is the same question that other citizens asked in 1959 when the World Order Study Conference, sponsored by the NCC, proposed recognition of Red China and its admission to the United Nations.

Other churchmen here in mind the fact that the NCC's Department of Church and Economic Life had been helped into existence by funds provided by the United Auto Workers Union, of which Walter Reuther is president. In addition, the NCC received funds from the Philip Murray Foundation and the Sidney Hillman Foundation, organizations established in memory of former leaders of the CIO. The NCC's consistent record of favoring the same political objectives as Big Unionism has to be thought of in connection with these gifts.

There is a strong wave of protest within Protestant churches that is directed against the NCC. Many individual churches have registered a dissent from NCC stands. But local churches often are unable, because of complicated organizational arrangements, to individually remove financial support from the NCC. Within the NCC itself, a small group of leaders holds great power.

The record of NCC officials becoming involved in radical causes is a continuing insult to responsible church members whose churches are, willy nilly, caught up in membership. Dr. Edwin T. Dahlberg, for instance — former head of the NCC — has been a signer of innumerable radical petitions. For example, he lent his name in 1961 to the Conference of Greater New York Peace Groups which opposed nuclear defenses for America's allies. Other signers included Cyrus Eaton, the industrialist who boasts of his friendship with Nikita Khrushchev; W. E. DuBois, the late founder of the NAACP, who openly joined the Communist Party a year ago; Owen Lattimore, an advocate of appeasement in Asia; and Norman Thomas, longtime socialist leader.

The average Protestant churchmen believe that the NCC's role should be restricted to missionary and other related charitable work. Deeply feared and resented is the development of the NCC into an organization that not only calls on Congress to pass radical legislation but that becomes militantly involved in the organization and direction of mass movements that many citizens and churchmen regard destructive of law and order and the intelligent conduct of the public business.

The current partisan role of the NCC is a reminder that church leaders mixing in politics betrays the real character of religion.

DON'T STUMBLE
 NEW YORK (UPI)—Watch your step — around the house. Falls are one of the leading causes of injury on the home-front, according to the Association of Casualty and Surety Companies.

Keep stairs, hallways, walkways and driveways clear of children's toys, cleaning materials, gardening tools and other objects that invite a tumble or stumble.

In large dinosaurs, it would have taken an appreciable amount of time for a nerve impulse to travel up the trunk to the brain and back again, with consequent problems in co-ordination. In certain types of dinosaurs, the spinal cord shows an enlargement in the hip region, larger than the brain, indicating a high development of local reflexes.
