EATS RECORD TO SET RECORD

"I did it for Old Chicago" said John Patrick, munching a chunk of "Who's Sorry Now," washed down by a sliver of "Deep Purple." Beth Stephens, seated at University of Chicago, watches Patrick eat a phonograph record and give all to shade Eastern ecclesiastical, who merely swat-away goldfish to prove something or other.

Railroad Commission Hears Many Protests

Rose Removes McGraw, Boy To Prisons

Sheriff Cal Rose left Pampa this morning, taking with him Clyde McGraw, who is under a 99-year-sentence in the state penitentiary at Huntsville on a murder charge, and a 15-year-old boy convicted on a charge of theft in connection with the taking of an automobile. The youth is being taken to the state reformatory at Gatesville.

AUSTIN, April 4 (AP)—Members of the legislature from many oil producing counties of West, South and Southwest Texas strenuously protested today the April prorator order of the railroad commission which drastically slashed allowable of those areas.

At an informal hearing before the commission, the state representatives declared the order would result in confiscation, unemployment and great waste of oil.

They urged that the order, promulgated by a divided commission with Chairman Lon A. Smith and member Jerry Sadler constituting the majority, be suspended until further hearing on special conditions in the affected fields could be had.

AUSTIN, April 4 (AP)—Oil men protesting allowable slashes in the April prorator order for Texas crowded capitol corridors outside the offices of the Railroad Commission today preliminary to another conference with that regulatory body which members of the legislature also planned to attend.

Reports continued many operators were planning to seek court injunctions to set aside the order if relief they have been asking since the order became effective April 1 was not forthcoming.

Co-signer of the order with Chairman Lon A. Smith, G. A. Jerry Sadler, commission member since January 1, in a statement said:

Increase of wells to more than 80,000 in Texas and continuing increase made adjustments in allowable between wells and fields necessary to eliminate discriminations.

Complaints of discriminations had been reaching the commission for a long time and made the April adjustment necessary.

No oil group has been satisfied with conditions for a year or more and protests against the order were in line with previous protests.

Statewide Problem "Should oil production continue on the same basis as in the past, in a few months the Texas oil fields will be gone, and to save this situation, whereby all would lose, it was necessary for the commission to act."

City To Take Curve Out Of Street Here

Intersection On Francis Avenue Will Be Widened

One of the most dangerous intersections in the city will be eliminated through widening of the street where North Hobart street intersects Francis Avenue and Alcock street.

City Manager W. T. Williams announced today that the city had purchased 25 feet of property at the northwest corner of the intersection from Eli Wilfitts of Dumas in order to reduce the sharp curve Mrs. T. D. Hobart had previously given the city 35 feet on the southwest corner which will mean moving the two large concrete posts leading to the Hobart house.

Widening of the curve on the Hobart plot is under way along with preparing two block of North Hobart street for paving.

The work is being done as a Works Progress Administration project.

Widening of the North Custer street bridge is also progressing rapidly as part of the city wide paving program. As soon as warm weather is assured, topping of more than 25 blocks will be started.

Iraq's King Killed In Automobile Crash

MOSUL, Iraq, April 4 (AP)—G. E. A. C. Monck-Mason, British consul at Mosul, was assassinated at noon today by a mob which rushed the consulate and burned it.

Marital law was declared and order was restored four hours later, at 4 p. m. (7 a. m. CST.)

The reason for the outbreak was not at once made clear.

It occurred during frenzied mourning for young King Ghazi, who was killed in an automobile accident a few hours earlier.

BAGHDAD, April 4 (AP)—King Ghazi the first, of Iraq, died early today of a skull fracture after his automobile crashed into an electric light pole.

The 27-year-old monarch was returning to the palace about midnight when he lost control of the car.

Ghazi's four-year-old son, Crown Prince Feisal, promptly was proclaimed King but will rule under a regency headed by Emir II Ali, brother-in-law and cousin of the late King.

Ghazi acquired a liking for motorizing during his three-year stay in England as a student at Harrow, one of the most aristocratic of Britain's "public schools." He liked to drive fast.

During his five and one-half year reign he did much to develop friendly relations between Iraq and Great Britain. His near eastern kingdom controls the Iraq pipeline through which Britain receives much of her vital supply of oil, and the British have long maintained a large force of warplanes in Iraq.

The King, educated at England's Harrow school, succeeded his father, King Feisal, Sept. 8, 1933, after Feisal's death of a heart attack at Bern, Switzerland.

Ghazi married his cousin, Princess Aliyah, daughter of the late King Ali of Hejaz, a week after his coronation.

Italy Warned To Stay Out Of Albania

LONDON, April 4 (AP)—Great Britain dropped a strong hint to Italy today not to copy Germany's expansionist tactics by marching into Albania.

Informed British quarters said any Italian action in Albania affecting that country's independence would be a violation of the British-Italian agreement.

This statement followed unconfirmed reports in Rome that Italy had massed troops at Italian ports nearest Albania's border in order to strengthen her control over that little neighbor.

The statement was made as Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax concluded the first of talks with Polish foreign minister Joseph Beck designed to cement Poland into a European front against further German aggression.

A British official spokesman stressed that the foreign office was unable officially to confirm reports Italy had massed troops around the port of Brindisi preparatory to shipping them to Albania, which long has been under virtual Italian domination.

While Britain opened conversations with Beck, United States Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy and Mrs. Kennedy lunched with Prime Minister and Mrs. Chamberlain Kennedy will have an opportunity to talk with Beck tomorrow.

The Polish foreign minister was reported to have told Lord Halifax that Italy was waiting for an opportunity to march into Albania.

Italy was freed from the Turks during the world war and recognized as an independent state under British mandate. It is a mesopotamian kingdom with an area of 116,600 square miles and a population of 15 million.

House Passes Law To Put 'Hot' Check Artists' In Prison

AUSTIN, April 4 (AP)—Stringent penalties for the passage of worthless checks—taking the offense out of the misdemeanor class and making it a felony—overwhelmingly passed the house last night.

Rep. Alvin Allison of Levelland, author of the bill, warned the House Texas "doesn't want to make it so easy for swindlers that it will invite them to Texas."

His bill would provide for a fine not to exceed $1,000, imprisonment in the county jail not to exceed 12 months or imprisonment in the state penitentiary not to exceed three years.

Pleads Guilty To Smuggling Marv's Gems

One-Year Sentence Suspended By New York Judge

NEW YORK, April 4 (AP)—Jack Benny, noted radio and screen comedian, pleaded guilty today to smuggling charges today and was fined a total of $10,000 and given a suspended sentence of one year and a day in prison. He was placed on probation for two years.

Benny was accused of smuggling $213 worth of French jewelry into this country with the aid of Albert N. Chaperau, who was indicted with him and who previously had pleaded guilty. The jewelry was a gift by Benny to his wife, Mary Livingstone, who appears with him on the radio.

Judge Vincent Leibel ordered Benny who paid $50,000 income tax last year, to "stand committed" until he paid the fines, which were $5,000 on one count and $2,500 each on the other two in the three-count indictment.

Burns Fined $8,000. George Burns, also a famous radio and stage comedian, pleaded guilty to virtually the same charges last Dec. 12. He was fined $8,000 and given a suspended sentence of one year and a day.

Albert N. Chaperau, a co-defendant with Burns as well as in the indictment against Benny, pleaded guilty to the same charges and is still awaiting sentence. Both Benny and Burns purchased jewelry which he had brought into the country.

The government at no time contended the two comedians had actually done any smuggling.

Benny's New York attorney, Carl E. Newton, approached the bench when court convened. He looked at Judge Vincent L. Leibel and said: "The defendant asks permission to change his plea."

The judge glanced down at him and at Benny who was waiting nervously.

The comedian was wearing a natty brown suit and wine-colored tie. "How do you plead?" asked Judge Leibel.

"Guilty," said Hollywood's famous voice in loud tones.

"To all three counts of the indictment," "Yes, sir."

The courtroom was packed with an estimated 400 spectators, mostly men.

World Fair Stamp Goes On Sale Here

The dramatic story of events leading up to the first Easter is here retold from the Gospels by Frederick C. Grant, D.D., Professor of Biblical theology at Union Theological Seminary, New York. The reference at the end of each installment is to a Gospel account.

Written For The Pampa News

It was just before Passover when Jesus and his followers came up to Jerusalem. That is, it is spring, perhaps early in April.

The day of the festival was to be March 29 according to the moon moon in the month of Nisan.

Night by night, as the moon grew rounder and brighter, the pilgrims camped out on the hill-sides surrounding Jerusalem. They had come from all over Palestine to keep the feast.

Jesus and his disciples spent their nights at Bethany, a village just to the east. Each morning they rose and went into the city; and here Jesus spent his time teaching in the temple-courts, the area surrounding the shrine itself.

At once he was challenged by the official teachers. They said: "By what authority doest thou these things?" "Who gave you authority to do them?"

And Jesus replied: "Tell me this, was John the Baptist sent by God, or not? What was his authority?"

They saw at once they were cornered by his question. If they replied, "Yes, God sent him," then Jesus would ask, "Why then did you not receive him, and be baptized by him?"

Easter Pageant To Be Presented In Park Sunday

A city-wide observance of Easter is planned for next Sunday when a pageant will be presented in Central park at 8:30 o'clock that morning.

The program will include the reading of the story of Easter, vocal solos, and duets, and choral singing. There will be 12 in the cast.

John Carson is directing the pageant, assisted by Ernest Jones, assistant pastor of the First Christian church, who will be in charge of music. Characters in the pageant will be in costume.

Scene for the pageant was being set up at the stadium which will include a representation of Christ's tomb.

As plans for the pageant have not been fully completed, Mrs. Rosemary Koch, superintendent of the recreation project, said it was possible today to give a complete list of the pageant cast.

Another Easter activity of the recreation project will be the Easter egg hunt to be held at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon on the 17-acre tract in southwest Pampa, which contains the location of the old wells of Pampa's water.

Members of the Junior auxiliary will hide the Easter eggs for the hunt by the children, Mrs. Roach said.

Planes Crash And 4 Perish

EAST BRAINTREE, Mass., April 4 (AP)—Two navy biplanes crashed 2,000 feet in the air today and four men perished as the ships plunged flamingly to earth.

The dead were identified by navy sources as:

Waldo H. Brown, lieutenant commander, naval reserve.

Walter Kirk, aviation chief carpenter's mate, naval reserve.

John Austelo, aviation chief machinist's mate.

Wes Williams, commercial aviator and flying instructor, who was aloft nearby at the time, said the third plane of a group of six flying in formation, dived into one wing of the second plane.

The second plane "fell apart" he said and plummeted downward into a house, setting it afire. The other plane faltered a moment, he added, and then went down in a power dive, apparently striking a second house about half a mile away.

Senate Okays Liberalizing Pension Bill

AUSTIN, April 4 (AP)—The Senate today passed finally and sent to the House a bill liberalizing old age pensions, despite cries of opponents who were putting the cart before the horse because new revenue for pensions was not in sight.

By a vote of 17 to 8, it approved the measure, by Senator Doss Hardin of Waco which authorizes grants to aged persons whose annual net income is less than $360. It also placed pension administration with county commissioners' courts.

The bill sets up A and B classes of recipients, applicants in each class to receive equal payments which would be determined by their previous standards of living.

Against opposition arguments the Senate should delay action on the bill pending enactment of tax legislation for more pension revenue.

Better Facilities For Youth Urged By Elliott Roosevelt

FORT WORTH, April 4 (AP)—Better educational facilities for Texas youth, along with provision for the aged, was urged in a radio address last night by Elliott Roosevelt.

The aged developed Texas and those who are now financially disabled should be provided for," said the son of the President.

What of the youth who is growing up now and who in future years is to displace those presently at the helm of state government, of educational administration and of our vast potential industry; are we to forget them?"

Roosevelt said the overcrowding of schools, particularly in rural areas, has lowered the standards of education.

Wing Of Plane Damaged When It Hits Tractor

A lower wing of the Llano Construction company's Waco biplane was damaged Sunday morning when it struck a tractor being used to level the company's flying field south of the city.

Frank Shaw, veteran Pampa pilot, was taxiing down the field for a take-off when the accident happened, according to F. C. Maddux of the construction company.

A strong wind was blowing dust and sand across the newly graded field and additional dust was being stirred up by the plane and Mr. Shaw was unable to see the tractor, which was also enveloped in dust.

Suddenly the pilot saw the tractor in front of him but he was unable to miss it entirely and one lower wing struck the cab, missing the driver, Mr. Maddux said.

Both top and bottom wings were removed from the ship and sent to Dallas by truck for repairs. A federal inspector will check the ship after repairs have been made.

Complaint Charged In Monahans Death

MONAHANS, April 4 (AP)—A complaint charging murder was filed here yesterday against Hugo White, Portland, Ark., in connection with the slaying of P. G. Weaver, Royalty, Texas.

Weaver's bullet-riddled body was found in the trunk in his (Weaver's) automobile Thursday near San Antonio.

State Highway Patrolman Hill Foreman said White was arrested in Weaver's automobile. Jailed at San Antonio, White was removed to the Pecos county jail after the complaint was filed.

Foreman said he was informed an argument and a scuffle preceded the shooting, which occurred some 400 miles from the scene of the arrest.

RUTHENIAN PEASANTS PAY PRICE OF RESISTANCE

Dramatic proof of what Adolf Hitler's sudden map-changes cost is supplied by this newly-arrived photo of Ruthenian peasants shot and left on the ground near Chust, capital of Ruthenia, after they had resisted invasion by Hungarian troops. GAY SILHOUETTE

Tight little jackets and full swirling skirts make the chic spring silhouette for slim young figures. A simple rayon taffeta frock in a small navy and white check with a full, full skirt is very smart worn under a snug basque jacket of soft navy wool. And one should wear a ruffled lingerie petticoat underneath to show when brisk breezes blow the skirt. This same jacket suit is shown, too, in brown and white and black and white.

The Better Way to Correct Constipation

One way to treat constipation is to endure it first and cure it afterward. The other way is to avoid having it by getting it at its cause. So why not save yourself those dull headache days, plus the inevitable trips to the medicine chest, if you can do it by a simple common-sense "ounce of prevention"?

If your trouble, like that of millions, is due to lack of "bulk" in the diet, "the better way" is to eat Kellogg's All-Bran. This crunchy, toasted, ready-to-eat cereal has just the "bulk" you need. If you eat it every day—and drink plenty of water—you can not only get regular but keep regular, day after day and month after month. At Branches. Ask for Kellogg's in Battle Creek. Dance of Danger!

"The Senorita will dance with me," he said. "Is it not so?" and she waltzed away in his arms. As simple as that was her meeting with the man she had come 2000 miles to capture. What happened is told in a light-action serial of smuggling along Uncle Sam's southern boundary.

Let's Go, America!

When the United States Chamber of Commerce holds its 27th annual meeting in Washington, May 1-4, questions of the most vital importance are to be discussed.

The time is past when this business organization could meet and discuss only detailed matters relating to business organization. Today it meets in full realization that it is a section of a great national picture, and that there can no longer be any prosperity that is not prosperity for all.

"At one time the American system of free enterprise produced a national income of $80,000,000,000. It has since dropped to $60,000,000,000. Why?" asks the chamber's announcement of the convention.

"In what respect did conditions then differ from conditions today?" And it then goes on to ask what part government policy has played, how private enterprise is equipped to correct its own faults and meet its responsibilities.

This readiness to admit that there may be faults both in government and in business is the first step on the part of both toward that resumption of activity which the chamber seeks in its slogan, "Let's Go, America!"

The Dead Hand

Man is so little, his days are so short, that it is as understandable as it is pathetic that he should try to extend his power and influence beyond his own days.

Yet it is almost always a futile gesture, and the dead hand can never rule with either wisdom or power.

Harris Goldman was like a patriarch when he died at 90. Like the patriarchs before him, he tried to keep things according to his liking in the world he was to leave. His will provided that his daughter should inherit from his estate between $35,000 and $50,000 if within a year she married within the faith of her father. If not, she was to be cut off with $5.

The daughter, Adele, is probably like other daughters. She will marry whom she pleases and when it pleases her.

The dead hand can almost never rule the living, even when it holds a gold piece in its extended fingers. But so ambitious is the spirit in man that he will still make these wasteful efforts to enlarge its influence even beyond the allotted years.

The Nation's Press

II. DUCE'S DEMANDS (Chicago Tribune)

Premier Mussolini's speech on Sunday must have been an eye-opener to a good many Americans.

The propagandists in England, France, and our state department have been trying to persuade the American people that the conflict in Europe arrays the powers of light against the powers of darkness. The expectation is that if Americans view the struggle in those terms America will not hesitate to take sides in the approaching war.

Over the heads of his Black Shirts who constituted his immediate audience, II Duce directed his latest remarks to France. What he had to say was really very simple. He said he wanted the French to share with Italy the French holdings in the Suez canal, the port of Djibouti in East Africa, the railroad from Djibouti to Addis Ababa, and the protectorate over Tunis.

These are matters which may be of some concern to Frenchmen but are not of the remotest concern to Americans. None of the demands involves our trade or our welfare. We ought to be as completely disinterested in this quarrel as it is possible for a nation to be. And yet it is over such matters that our colonial-minded administration is seeking to embroil us in another European war.

Mr. Roosevelt's speeches and declarations on foreign affairs, ever since the address at the dedication of the Outer Bridge in Chicago, have sought to align the United States with the so-called democracies in their supposed effort to restrain the dictatorships. Americans do not admire the dictators and abhor their system of government; but it does not follow as Mr. Roosevelt thinks it does that the lives of tens of thousands of American young men and billions of American money must be risked in expressing our distaste for Fascism and Nazism.

Mussolini is not asking for a share in the Panama canal, a slice of Massachusetts, or one of our railroads, and he isn't likely to do so. If he or Hitler or the two of them together started talking that way we should have some occasion for preparing to resist them, but the probability is so remote as to be negligible. If a war comes in Europe it will be over German and Italian claims to territory which the British and the French hold by virtue of prior conquest; and in such a war there will be as much right on one side as on the other.

It is encouraging to find that Mr. Roosevelt's propaganda has not been wholly successful. Many of the members of his own party in congress are out of patience with his effort to embroil us in the next war and the opposition has found a powerful spokesman, also, in Senator Borah. Mr. Borah has reason to take pride in the part he played in keeping America out of the league and the world court and he is not going to allow those victories to be undone now. And there is no doubt that once the country is awakened to the real meaning of the Roosevelt diplomacy, the proposed entanglements will be rejected.

Mr. Borah rightly calls attention to the absurdity of joining Britain in a quixotic crusade against the dictatorships; Britain which has consistently cooperated with Hitler and strengthened his hand. France and Britain refused to join us to prevent the Japanese aggression in Manchuria. They gave Italy a free hand in Ethiopia. They allowed Germany to rearm and militarize the Rhineland. They sided with the dictators in Spain. They took no steps to protect Czechoslovakia, though France was bound by treaty to do so. To speak of the "democracies" as the enemies of dictatorship is absurd. To speak of them as the owners of territory which the dictators covet is realistic but for us irrelevant.

Mr. Roosevelt's meddlesome diplomacy is of precisely the sort which landed us in the last war from which we obtained nothing and for which the world is suffering today. He has on his side the Anglophiles and Francophiles of the state department and the Long Island set. Against him are arrayed the common sense, the prudence and the experience of the American people. It is to be hoped that congress will force the issue, for if Mr. Roosevelt is allowed to make any more secret airplane deals with the French and write many more angry notes to the Germans and Italians, it may be too late to rescue the country from war.

Sharing The Comforts Of Life ---

ELEVEN MILLION BALES OF COTTON

The President, in asking for a subsidy so that cotton could be sold cheaper to workers abroad than it is to workers in the United States, said in his address that we now have eleven million bales of cotton in storage; that the carrying charge on this is costing $45,000,000 a year; that if the present rate of export continues to the end of the fiscal year, in August, 1939, the exports of our cotton will be the lowest in 50 years.

The question is why should we export cotton so that the people living abroad can buy clothing cheaper than our workmen can buy it at home. It certainly seems absurd to any rational person to think that we subsidize people for producing commodities which society, on an open market, says, by the price they are willing to pay, that they do not want such large quantities and then we tax the man who is producing something that society says it does want, by the prices it is willing to pay the producer, that enables him to have a profit left.

It certainly is ridiculous to tax a man who is doing what society wants done and is able to pay wages better than the cotton workers can produce, and then subsidize people for producing farm produce which is out of proportion in production with other commodities and services which people want produced.

And, yet, we have spent more on public education than any other country in the world and we do foolish things like these and permit our legislators to ship our wealth out of the country to benefit foreign workers at the disadvantage of our own workers.

When a man as the President does, recognizes the importance of reducing tariffs to permit wealth to come into the territory, it seems hard to conceive how he can rationalize the idea of shipping wealth out of the country and thereby wasting the human energy of men in the United States to the advantage of workers in other countries.

And the simple reason for all this foolishness is the belief, largely sponsored by the Federation of Churches, by the politicians, by public education and by the retail business men, that wages can be established arbitrarily—that they need not be on a competitive basis. And these arbitrary wages have put the cost of the products of industry so high that we cannot ship the product abroad or the farmers cannot buy them. As a result, we have millions of people who are not employed in industry, but would be employed at better wages than they can earn farming if the public did not believe that wages can be set by wishes or by force, rather than that wages must follow natural laws.

TEST OF SINCERITY

One of the best tests of sincerity and honesty is whether or not a man will answer questions directly on plans he advocates for the general welfare. If he continues to advocate plans or schemes, when he will not answer direct questions as to how his theories can be worked, it seems to be logical to draw the conclusion that the man is either ignorant or dishonest. In either case, his plans should be given little heed. But instead of disregarding the advice of these men and women who will not answer questions we have been trying to put their wishes into effect. And we are paying a terrific penalty for trying them. Beware of those people who will not answer questions. They are not sincere. They are the workers' worst enemy.

A concrete illustration of honesty in this matter is the record of Robert Peel. He went into the English Parliament strongly believing in protective tariff. But when Cobden presented the case, put up some questions for him to answer and he could not answer them, he immediately changed his position and discontinued advocating protective tariff and joined with Cobden in getting the Corn Laws repealed so that the workers could have a better living standard.

Behind The News Of The Day

By BRUCE CATTON

WASHINGTON, April 4.—If the United States should get into a war during the next four years, the navy will be in the hands of a square-jawed gentleman with a hard mouth and a kindly pair of eyes—a man who is famed throughout the service as an organizer and as a driving, energetic executive.

This man is Admiral Harold R. Stark, who becomes chief of naval operations—top officer in the entire navy—when Admiral William D. Leahy returns in June.

For three years Admiral Stark served as chief of the Bureau of Ordnance here, and the desk he used still has on its surface two large printed notes which he stuck there.

One of them says: "When in a hurry, wait a while."

The other one, balancing it, says: "He who will not, when he may, often may not when he would."

SLOW, BUT SURE

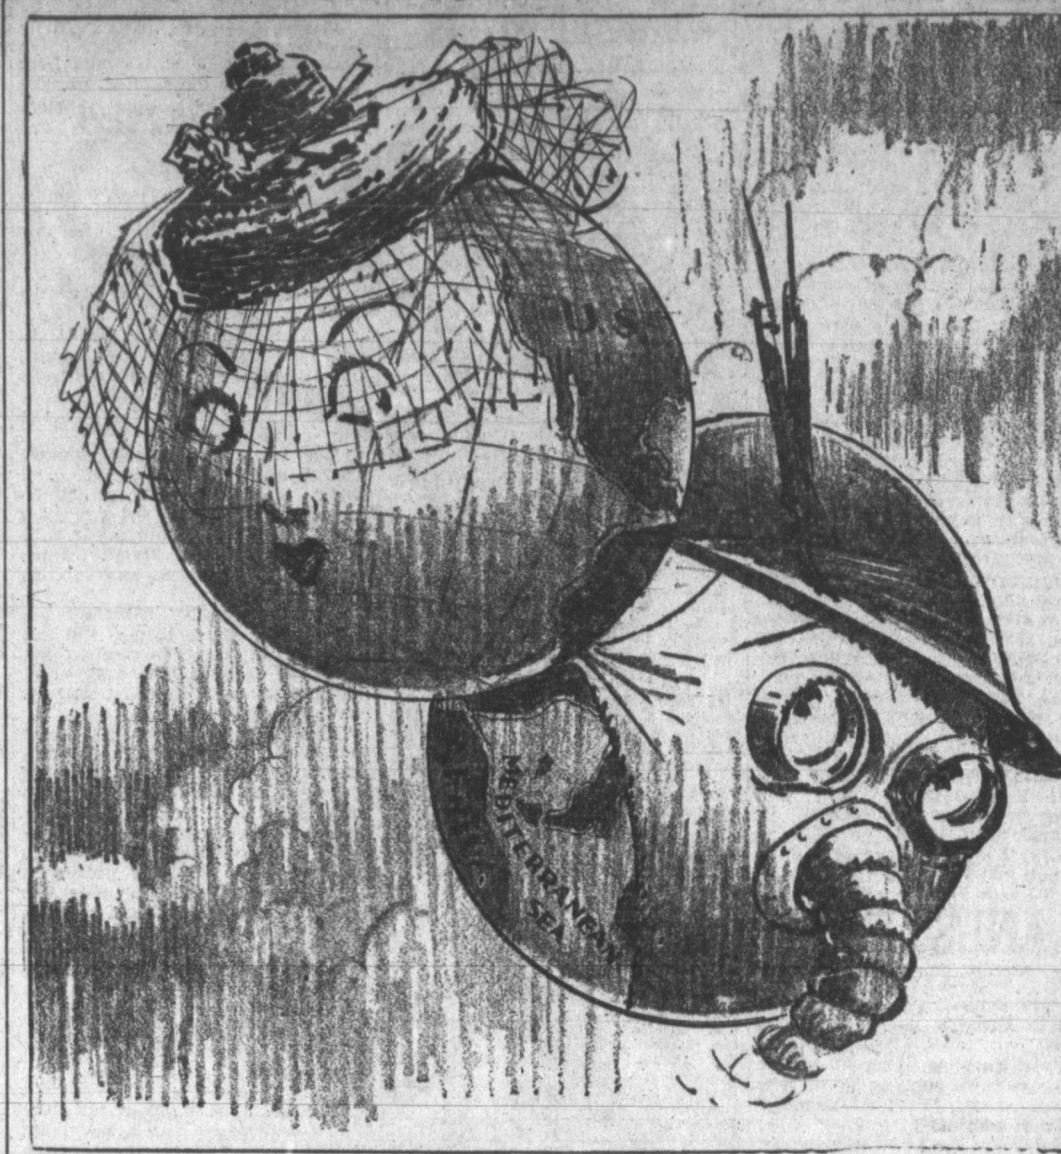

Together, says an officer who knows Admiral Stark intimately, these mottoes give a good key to his character. He isn't rash. He doesn't make snap judgments, or act without studying all the facts. But when he has made a decision he goes to town without any waste motion, and everybody under him has to do likewise.

The chief of naval operations has a job corresponding to the army's chief of the general staff. It's a desk job, and in wartime the glory and fame would probably go to the commander-in-chief of the fleet—Admiral Claude C. Bloch.

But the effectiveness of the navy, both as to Slovakia, though France was bound by treaty to do so. To speak of the "democracies" as the enemies of dictatorship is absurd. To speak of them as the owners of territory which the dictators covet is realistic but for us irrelevant.

Mr. Roosevelt's meddlesome diplomacy is of precisely the sort which landed us in the last war from which we obtained nothing and for which the world is suffering today. He has on his side the Anglophiles and Francophiles of the state department and the Long Island set. Against him are arrayed the common sense, the prudence and the experience of the American people. SPEAKING OF EASTER BONNETS

Around Hollywood

By PAUL HARRISON

HOLLYWOOD, April 4.—The movie's patriotic parade has even reached the field of animated cartoons. Leon Schlesinger's cartoons, anyway. He makes the Merrie Melodies and the Looney Tunes which are released by those busy eulogists of the land-of-the-free, the Warner Brothers.

Thus it may be possible during a single evening in the theater (preferably the evening of July 4) to see a stupendous patriotic feature, a mildly colossal four-reel feature from American history, a patriotic newsreel and a patriotic Porky Pig.

"The Star-Spangled Banner" probably would be heard, too. It already is being played in many of the Warner theaters at every performance by executive order. Nearly all the Schlesinger films are satirical, but "Old Glory" will be played as straight as is consistent with the whimsical notion of Porky sitting on Uncle Sam's knee and listening to stories about Paul Revere, the Bill of Rights and Yorktown.

At the beginning, Porky is lying in the grass trying to memorize the Pledge to the Flag. He finds it difficult—and gives up—to take a nap.

So along comes Uncle Sam, in a dream sequence, and shows him some inspiring flashes from the past. In fact, just about the whole cavalcade of American history is being put into a seven-minute color cartoon.

Tries Anything—Once Schlesinger makes more movie cartoons than anybody else in the business. His output is 42 a year now and the studio is geared for 52—one a week. Walt Disney's huge factory, preoccupied with three features, produces only 18 shorts a year.

The Merrie Melodist doesn't expect ever to be bothered with full-length animations, although his personal slogan is "I'll try anything once." He just doesn't believe that cartoon features will be very popular if they ever get out of the novelty category.

"Double bills promise to be pretty generally abolished one of these days," he said, "and that's going to boom the shorts market. We may make a few two-reelers here, but nothing longer. I think 650 or 700 feet (about 5 minutes) is the ideal length. Hit 'em and run, leaving 'em wanting more. The best compliment anybody can pay me is to say, 'Your stuff is too short.'"

The cartoon factories all are rather remarkable for their lenient, generous treatment of employees and the co-operative spirit they foster. The reason is, of course, that hand-made movies are an especially exacting, nerve-racking task requiring rest periods and relaxation. Also, the sponsor-material, personnel, organization and strategic functioning would depend largely on the chief of naval operations. And Admiral Stark seems to have the qualities which the job demands.

His friends point to the record of the battleship West Virginia as an example. Stark was named executive officer of the West Virginia when that ship was commissioned, a few years after the war. As such, he was responsible for seeing to the proper organizing and operating of all departments aboard the ship.

Navy people say that if a ship is well organized and directed at the start, things go well with it ever after. And the West Virginia, from the first, has been the crack ship of the fleet.

HIS SHIPS ARE HAPPY

Organizational and executive jobs have come Stark's way often. During the war he had charge of the personnel office for Admiral Sims in London. In effect, the navy had an operations office overseas and Stark had charge of all the details of it. Years later, he served as chief of staff of the destroyers of the battle force.

People You Know

One of the prettiest sights in town is the peach tree, now in full bloom, next to the house in Mrs. Emma LeFors' front yard. It's fragile, pink beauty is the quivering heart of spring. Has winter gone? That is a question many would like to have answered. You look at the plum and peach and pear trees and you think that surely winter is gone. Yet a year ago next Thursday the worst blizzard of the year swept over the Panhandle. That was the storm in which it was feared that several school buses were lost. That storm killed all the fruit. Winter may not be over here yet. It'll be weeks before tree owners can breathe easily. One thing that may be rather ominous is that the mesquite, which they do not show a sign of life until the last vestige of winter has passed.

tanity and zip of these short films depends a lot on the enthusiasm of the many departments through which they pass.

Coach Inspires Cartoonists

Schlesinger is a good boss with the inspirational talents of a football coach. His staff of 200 is smaller, compared to annual output, than that of any other animator. Yet he is the only one who actually is ahead of his production schedule.

He was the first to inaugurate the five-day week, and his plant never has worked Saturdays or Sundays except for the many shifts of cameramen who work every day and night.

This studio, unlike Disney's, also gives screen credit to its producers, directors, writers and animators.

Every outgoing picture is subjected to the criticism of every employee. They file into the theater and are handed printed forms for their comments. These forms are not signed when they are filled out. On the strength of these opinions Schlesinger has held back many a film for revisions.

He let me see a picture made last winter for the studio's annual Christmas party. The staff worked on it secretly for weeks in its spare time, and the film is a pretty biting satire on the organization's morale and its esteem for the big boss. Schlesinger is prouder of it than if it had been a fulsome tribute on a golden scroll.

The first yacht club in America was organized at Foughkeepsie, N. Y., in 1861, and held regattas and races on the Hudson river.

A moving object will be detected by the lidless eye of a snake even when the snake is asleep.

He put in a term as boss of the navy proving ground at Dahlgren, Va., where all of the guns and armor plate used in the fleet are tested, headed the navy's ordnance department, commanded the cruisers of the battle force, and served as aide to Secretaries of Navy Adams and Swanson.

Among the rank and file of the navy, Stark is known as a man whose ships are "happy"—that is, the organization runs smoothly and there is fair treatment for all. He is sympathetic and considerate; but he has a mind of his own, and when he issues an order, it gets obeyed pronto.

All in all, the man who for the next four years will have the supreme responsibility of seeing to it that the fleet is ready for instant action shapes up as the sort of man who is well fitted to do precisely that. He knows materiel and he knows personnel, knows how to organize them properly and has the force and the drive to see that they function well, when organized.

Married and the father of two girls, both of whom are married, Admiral Stark recently bought a home in Spring Valley on the edge of Washington.

THE EASTER BUNNY arrived early this year out at the Boy Wonder's house. . . One of his ardent admirers presented him with a gorgeous, live white rabbit Sunday, and the household has been in pretty much of an uproar since—even to the point of bedtime trouble because the rabbit is not permitted to keep the Boy Wonder company as he sleeps.

Now a pretty good place for a rabbit is in a wired-in box out in the back-yard, but not so with this rabbit. . . The Boy Wonder decided right off that no place was too good for this rabbit, so he has to be kept in a box in the house, or else. . . Rabbit fanciers will tell you that keeping a rabbit in the house presents its difficulties, particularly if the rabbit's keeper insists on taking him out of the box to exercise him in the living room.

THIS PARTICULAR snowy-white fellow has a kick like a mule, and every now and then he lets the Boy Wonder have it. . . This, of course, breaks up a perfectly good friendship for a few minutes while the Boy Wonder tries to figure out how come the rabbit smacked him like that when all the time he thought they were getting along like Damon and Pythias. . . Sunday night the house seemed to be haunted. . . In the middle of the night, the rabbit got out of his cage and thumped all over the place in an eerie sort of manner.

Then, on top of all that—for the second time within a week, somebody prowled around the outside of the house. . . About 1:15 a. m. somebody tapped lightly on the front door, which didn't help matters any. . . and then state silently away into the night to go down the street and take off in a car which had been parked a half block away. . . Who was that, anyway? . . . Will the party please make himself known and ease a frayed curiosity?

IT GOT TO the point where we finally called the police when a "mysterious coupe" parked almost in front of the house, shut off the lights and then nobody got out of the car. . . The police investigated and found it was somebody who was driving a neighbor home, and they were just sitting there talking, innocent of the hub-bub that had been going on in the neighborhood for the past hour.

You've heard of how nervous people get after they've seen funny actions and heard strange sounds at night. . . Well, it might be a good idea for you to hang a lighted lantern around your neck if you call at our house after 1 a. m., lest we might get jittery, get down the family shot-gun, and let you have both barrels. . . But, if the fellow who tapped on our door at 1:15 a. m. Monday will take himself known, he'll make it a lot easier for me to get out these nights.

"If it is for each to utter that which he sincerely believes to be true, and add his unit of influence, and let the results work themselves out."—Spencer. Contributors are urged to confine their articles to 300 words

Editor's Note: The following is the THIRD prize winning article in the senior group in the contest, "What is a Fair Wage?"

Perhaps the most overworked words in the vocabulary of our laboring class are "a living wage." This is what we all desire, but this should work both ways; there should be a "living wage" for both the employer and the employee. I have often thought that we should have a better understanding of life if we were married first and single afterwards. In the same vein, I am positive that the workers would be more sympathetic toward their "capitalistic bosses" if they had undergone a seige of meeting payrolls, coping with competition and the multitude of worries that beset the executive on every hand.

The only workable method of wage distribution is the production method. Wage scales do not reflect the generosity of the employer, but are worked out on a very definite basis. If wages are advanced and production remains the same, nobody benefits. Prices rise correspondingly. They are bound to, and we find ourselves no better off with the increase. If we increase the wages of a worker, then we must also increase his productivity. His raise will then mean something.

Or, as Alfred P. Sloan so aptly puts it: "While we cannot take more out of any production unit than we put in, we can get more out, if we put more in."

This system may seem to favor the employer, but it is high time more of us realized that what is good for our employer is good for us. If he prospers, we prosper. What we don't realize is that if we continue to "soak the rich" in order to bring him to the status of the poor, we merely reduce the poor to a lower level of poverty. It is an established fact that if we have more success, we will have less failure. The production basis gives both the employer and the good employe a break. The person who doesn't want to produce a day's work should not be compensated on the same basis as one who does.

America today is living evidence that the production plan can and will work. Now is what we need is a plan whereby an employe's wages are pro-rated over a year. Business should be set up so that the worker receives 52 equal pays, rather than large seasonal ones, with nothing to fall back on when he is unemployed. Big business could do that if they were certain that "sit-down" strikes and the like were taboo. Production schedules could be set up and really lived by, but we workers must cooperate if this is ever to be a reality.

It is my humble opinion that we have "sit-down" long enough. It is high time we "got-up" and did a day's work which would give our employers a production basis on which they could afford to pay us "a living wage."

The answer to this mathematical-fact problem is 7, and is obtained as follows:

Subtract the year of the burning of Rome, under Nero, from the number of regular schedule games won by the New York Yankees last season.

Now divide by the number of men in a basketball team.

What's the process—in figures? (Answers on Classified Page)

Book A Day

Assuming that you are looking for something a bit different and decidedly better than most of the current fiction, excluding the brilliant historical novels that have marked the season, you might very well turn to two books written by newcomers in the field.

The more adventurous of the two is "Wine of Good Hope" by David Rame (Macmillan; $2.50). The other, an equally forceful story, is "Marginal Land" by Horace Kramer (Lippincott; $2.50). In subject they are as far apart as the two poles. In the matter of sheer story characterization they are closely kin.

Rame's story, briefly, is the saga of Tony Lemaire, who left his great, white-gabled farm home on the Cape of Good Hope to find his own strength in the world of war. Tony encounters incredible adventures in that quest; revolution in Brazil, more trouble in Malaya, London.

Tony also meets the girl of his dreams and there is considerable chaffing about it on her account alone, including the incident in New York and Maine. In the end of course, Tony finds both himself and his love but he has managed to chalk up a story of far wanderings in the meantime.

Kramer's "Marginal Land," on the other hand, is the story of Iral Stephen Decatur Randall, who went from Chicago and a bookkeeper's job to wrestle with drought and dust, and adversity on a South Dakota farm.

Randall loses one wife and gains another in the struggle, but, unlike most heroes of this mid-western fiction, he makes a fair success of farming. Here is no "dust bowl" fadout.

But it is nonetheless dramatic. Kramer has a fine feeling for the sensibilities of his Dakota folk. The result is a story, credible in its own approach and understanding as well.—P. G. F.

Sheriff Rose Threatens To Jail Two Wrestlers

Sheriff Cal Rose threatened to jail both wrestler Billy McEwin and referee John Nemanic last night after the last fall of a bloody slugfest at the wrestling arena.

The sheriff also told Nemanic that if the latter couldn't referee the matches, that he, the sheriff, could. "I'm the law in the ring," answered Nemanic.

The rather heated discussion took place in the dressing room behind locked doors. All of the wrestlers on the night's program were present and most of them took part in the argument.

Sheriff Rose who sat in the west stands throughout the wrestling card, followed McEwin into the dressing room after the last fall which Mickey Durano, favorite here, won. The sheriff indicated his disapproval of Nemanic's actions while McEwin was pounding Durano's nose with his fist.

McEwin was the object of prolonged and continuous booing and hollering after the bout, and part of the spectators remained to find out what was going on in the dressing room.

Hostilities opened with Nemanic toying with Robert E. Lee of Amarillo in the preliminary and winning in 12 minutes with an arm strangle. Buck Davidson was unable to appear against Nemanic because of an attack of influenza.

Things became more lively when Ernie Peterson and bearded Lem

Strecklin and his coon entered the ring, the pair didn't get exactly dirty but they got plenty rough in a fairly nice way. Peterson finally won in 22 minutes with slams and a smother. Peterson lost several earlier chances to win when Strecklin maneuvered him into the corner where his coon was tied.

The main event ended as the bloodiest brawl of all time. Durano, Argentine favorite, finally winning two out of three. Durano won the first fall in 25 minutes after slaming and slugging McEwin all over the ring and then falling on him. The second fall saw McEwin completely lose his head and go after Durano with everything but the ringside seats. The cowhand battered Durano into submission in 30 seconds after each had been on the mat three times from Sonnenbergs. McEwin led with a left to finish the fall.

Continuing to go berserk, McEwin had Durano in a bad way most of the third fall. Soon McEwin had blood streaming from Durano's nose which had received a terrific pounding. McEwin charged again to make the kill but found himself lying on the canvass and Durano on top with a Japanese crab. McEwin patted the mat.

John Nemanic had about as tough an evening as the maulers.

Boston Bruins Get Ready For Toronto

BOSTON, April 4 (AP)—Past playoff experiences with the Toronto Maple Leafs were very much in Manager Art Ross' mind today as he prepared to revise the Boston Bruins' tactics for Thursday's opening Stanley cup clash against their hockey nemesis.

The fact the Bruins beat the Leafs in five out of eight games during the regular season was discounted by Ross, who learned long ago that Toronto teams come down to the playoffs at top strength. The Bruins and Leafs have clashed in four previous playoffs but it will be the first time the two clubs have met for the Stanley cup. Toronto won all four previous series.

Big Gate Predicted For Louis' Fight

LOS ANGELES, April 4 (AP)—Promoter Tom Gallery alleges he expects to "turn 'em away" from the customers' gates on the night of the Joe Louis-Jack Roper heavyweight championship fight at Wrigley field April 17.

Gallery said there has been no let-up in a brisk demand for tickets.

Gallery said Buddy Baer, younger brother of former heavyweight king Max Baer, apparently does not want to fight on the Louis-Roper card and that he has about decided to look elsewhere for a supporting cast.

Harvesters Wreck Exes' Aerial Circus 6 To 0

Launching a touchdown thrust midway through the second quarter and staging a defensive masterpiece with a minute to go, the 1939 Pampa Harvesters won a 6 to 0 scrimmage from the Ex-Harvesters yesterday afternoon.

The Harvesters touchdown drive started from their own 40-yard line when on a third down and three yards to go, Warner Phillips passed to Bert Isbell who slithered to the exes 7-yard stripe before being downed.

Exes Threaten Twice
The exes threatened in the first minutes of play when Auld stepped back and fired, three consecutive completed passes to Andis and Kyle. The drive, however, stopped on the Harvesters 4-yard line after Andis had taken a 25-yard heave from Auld.

With a minute to go, the exes took the ball on a fumble on the Harvesters 20-yard mark. Auld faked a pass and John Kidwell slithered through for 12 yards. Red Watkins, Auld's and Kidwell carried to the 4-yard mark for a first down and then the Harvesters held like a stone wall, taking over on a completed touchdown pass when an offside was ruled against the exes. One play later the scrimmage ended.

Grover Heskell played only five minutes of the game because of a hip injury. Isbell replaced him and showed flashes of brilliance in carrying the ball and receiving passes. Glen Nichols, a tackle last year, was at a halfback position and along with James Carlisle gave the secondary plenty of power. Pete Dunaway, who has gained 10 pounds and can use it to advantage, rounded out the starting backfield, doing the passing and punting. Clarence Matthews flashed in the ball carrying department as a reserve.

Harvester Line Strong
Coaches Odus Mitchell and J. C. Prejan started Green and Clements at ends, Candler and R. Phillips at tackles, Fide and Giddens at guards and Terrell at center. They used nearly every boy on the bench during the scrimmage.

Starting Exes were Andis and Kyle at ends, Ripple and Hesse at tackles, Stiles and Parish at guards, Solomon at center, Watkins at quarter, Kidwell and Wear at halves, and Auld at full.

Considering the experience and weight of the exes' line, the Harvesters forward wall did a great job of holding the veterans. The Harvesters were outweighed about 20 pounds to the man and only Candler was a starter last season. Hard, low charging by the Harvesters linemen offset weight and experience.

The game ended the first session of spring football training. The next two weeks all the boys will be out for track and field after which another football session will be started, ending in a night game with the exes.

Middleweights Start Tournament To Determine Who Is Top Man

NEW YORK, April 4 (AP)—Unless we are careful the burning question—you can smell it from here—of just who is the best middleweight in the world is liable to be cleaned up come May.

A lot of fighters, champions and otherwise, have been called the best middleweight.

The general impression is that Freddy Apostoli is the best. We heard Al Weill say so so it must be true.

Apostoli soon will have a chance to know just where he stands. A tournament of nation-wide scope is now under way. All the good middleweights are in it; also Bill Conin, the overstuffed Pittsburgh hero who wants to be a big boy and fight Joe Louis.

It starts tomorrow in Seattle, where Solly Krieger, recognized as champion by the N. B. A., fights Alken Matthews of St. Louis.

This is a non-title fight. All middleweight champions have to fight 99 non-title fights.

Following this the scene will shift to the New York Hippodrome where Popeye Woods, a native mauler, will meet Paulie Mahoney, a Buffalo boy.

But there is more in store. They claim Cerfero Garcia is a better middleweight than welterweight—not to hard a trick—so the bolo puncher is being sought by Apostoli.

If Garcia wins this one it will be a "fox pass" of the first water, for Henry Armstrong beat him and Armstrong is only a heavy lightweight.

As a tuneup to this match Apostoli is thinking of meeting Sid Nichols, a Texan of awesome reputation at

Sacrifice Fly Back In Rule Books Again

NEW YORK, April 4 (AP)—In case you haven't noticed, that batter's pet, the sacrifice fly, is back in the baseball rule book this spring.

This sleight-of-hand was performed at the major league meetings last December but apparently the fans who scrutinize the box scores don't always peruse the mid-winter minutes so thoroughly.

In the "good old days" a batter who produced a long fly to advance a baserunner was not charged with a time at bat. But this interpretation was swept from the rules in a general revision nine years ago, leaving an intentional hunt which advanced a runner as the only sacrifice.

The official guide then commented, "the rules committee wisely concluded that a sacrifice meant something more than twinging for a home run and knocking a fly long enough to permit a runner to score from third."

In spite of this authoritative curse the sacrifice fly always has had its friends and, acting on the recommendation of a committee of baseball writers, the solons have now adopted this rule:

"A sacrifice hit shall be credited to the batsman who, with no one out or only one out, hits a fly ball that is caught but which results in a baserunner scoring, or scored a runner if said fly was dropped for an error in the judgment of the official scorer."

The old rule provided for a sacrifice if a runner advanced to any base, not necessarily scoring.

Judge W. G. Bramham, president of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, has just issued a manifesto that the new regulation is in effect in all organized minor leagues. Some of the circuits were as confused as the fans and were preparing to vote on whether to accept the ruling.

The sacrifice fly was only one of several changes in the scoring code. Another throwback to an old rule allows a runner to be credited with a stolen base at the discretion of the official scorer when a passed ball, wild pitch or balk occurs.

The cheap "run batted in" long awarded a batter who hit into a double play but scored a runner was eliminated. Also a batter who undertakes to stretch a hit and over-slides a base will be credited only with the last base safely negotiated. Thus if he slides past second he will be credited with a single.

A wild pitch, even on a third strike, will not be considered a fielding chance this year in the scoring of earned runs and if a player scores because of it (before fielding chances have been offered to retire the side) an earned run will be charged against the pitcher.

The surgeon who sewed up his instruments inside a patient has nothing on a North Carolina automobile mechanic who left his wrench inside a tire he repaired.

Prospects Out For Practice At Park Yesterday

Several Panhandle baseball prospects reported at Road Runner park yesterday afternoon for opening practice but Manager Grover Selts wouldn't allow them to do anything but throw a few balls because of a cold, damp wind. He planned a long workout for this afternoon but the weather apparently will stop the practice.

Weather permitting, there will be a workout tomorrow afternoon beginning at 2 o'clock at Road Runner park. Anyone in this section of the Panhandle desiring to try out for the Pampa team in the Texas-New Mexico league, professional, will be welcomed at the workout.

Remodeling of the grandstand, rebuilding of the fence blown down by recent high wind and work on the field was scheduled to begin this morning but weather was not favorable.

Several out-of-town players are scheduled to report tomorrow with an additional group to be here on April 10 when spring training will officially open. The season will begin on April 25 with the Amarillo Gold Sox playing here.

Villa Whips Hutchins

SAN ANTONIO, April 4 (AP)—Pancho Villa, the bantamweight champion of Mexico, pounded out a 10-round decision over Red Hutchins of Miami, Fla. here last night. Hutchins weighed 121 pounds, Villa 120.

Immediate Loans Of FSA Available To Gray Farmers

(Special to the Pampa News) WHEELER, April 4-In an effort to further assist the farmers of Gray county, the Farm Security Administration will make immediate loans to those who are complying with the Agricultural Conservation Program so that they may have funds to under-take needed protection of their lands from wind erosion.

"Farmers unable to participate in the 1939 AAA soil conservation program because of lack of funds for material may now secure FSA funds for this work," announced L. H. Hunter, Regional Director, yesterday. "We feel that the farmer needs the money now if he is to undertake the correct land conservation practices. The Farm Security Administration has been designated by the Department of Agriculture to furnish this short term credit to the farmer."

Loans will be made up to 60 per cent of the anticipated Triple A payment. The entire amount of the loan must be used for necessities to prepare the land for a crop, which will also serve as a wind erosion prevention crop, such as sorghum, millets, and sudan grass. These necessities can include machinery, gasoline, oil or other supplies.

"In order to be eligible for these FSA loans, an applicant must be recommended by the AAA county committee and be unable to secure the necessary credit elsewhere," says George C. Jones, local FSA Supervisor. "This is in line with the FSA's policy of making loans only to farmers unable to secure credit from any other source," he said. "The borrower who can get financing anywhere private institution, is not eligible for FSA loans. The farmer also must agree not to execute an assignment of their payment other than to the Farm Security Administration."

Thirty-six hundred farmers in Region XII last year took advantage of these loans. They borrowed a total of $712,292 which was used for soil conservation practices and repaid from ACP payments.

Panhandle Future Homemakers Choose Club's Candidate

(Special to The NEWS) PANHANDLE, April 4-Mary Sue Boyles, president of the Future Home Makers club, was chosen by her classmates as the club candidate to attend the Texas Home Making Clinic which will be held in Galveston this year.

Each year the schools of Texas are given permission to send four delegates; the home making club sponsors a club candidate from both the first and second year clothing classes. The two class candidates have not been elected by the class this far.

The indictment alleged Dietzmann bribed B. Richard Mann, a state's witness against Frank H. Bushick Jr. to leave town on the eve of Bushick's trial. Dietzmann testified Bushick gave him the money with which to bribe Mann.

The earthworms which aerate the soil and improve it are killed off when farmland is flooded by sea water.

LeFors Fine Arts Club To Present Comedy Thursday

(Special to The NEWS) LEFORS, April 4-Members of the LeFors Fine Arts Club will present a three-act comedy, "The Man From Newhere," at 8 o'clock Thursday night in the LeFors High school auditorium.

This hilarious comedy deals with the mystery man from nowhere who comes to a quiet village where nothing ever seems to happen. This upsets the romance between Anne, the school teacher, and the local bank clerk. After the stranger secures a position in the bank he becomes involved in a terrible scandal. The scenes that follow are painfully tense, and for awhile this situation is desperate. The solution of the town's biggest scandal is the climax of the play.

The play is directed by Misses Clara Anderson and Maude Thompson by special arrangements with the Dramatics Publishing Company. Special numbers will be given between acts.

The cast-Mrs. Craddock, who keeps the boarding house, Mrs. M. G. Armstrong; Hilda Swenson, her maid, Ariel Williams; Anne Royce, Mrs. Rex Reeves; boarders, Dora Fry, Clara Anderson; Professor Anderson, Francis Smith; Miss Prim, Myrtle Lilly; Mr. Graydon, president of the bank, Rex Reeves; Ogden Holt, who works in the bank, Ogden Stroud; Mr. Cox, Alton Little; Rodney Baster, the stranger, Earl Atkinson.

Banquet Given For Panhandle Seniors

(Special to The NEWS) PANHANDLE, April 4-When the softly scented lights were turned on for the Junior-Senior banquet Saturday night, the banquet hall was transformed into a Hawaiian moonlight night, with a blue sky and twinkling stars overhead, and even a Hawaiian moon just rising over a lake of blue.

The Juniors and their sponsor, Miss Mildred Aldredge, wearing Hawaiian leis, welcomed the Seniors, as they were hosts for the evening. To add further to the Hawaiian note, the tables were covered with bright colors of crepe paper, ending like grass skirts over the ends and sides. The place cards were miniature Hula-Hula girls. The motto, "We have crossed the bay, the ocean lies before us," was printed on the cover of the leatherette programs, with a Hawaiian ocean scene above.

The following program was rendered: Toastmaster, Malihini Howe, Honolulu, Mele All; Invocation; Kahona Vaughn; Welcome, Malihini Howe; Response, Kamaina Walters, Laie; Hula-Hula, Ipo; Blue Hawaii, Mele All; Aloha Oe, Mele All; Benediction, Haole Turner.

To complete the Hawaiian atmosphere, the Sons of the West played Hawaiian music during the banquet.

Following the banquet the Senior mothers sponsored a dance in the Legion Hall for the students and teachers.

Younger-Pinkerton Feud Of '70s Brought To End On NTSC Campus

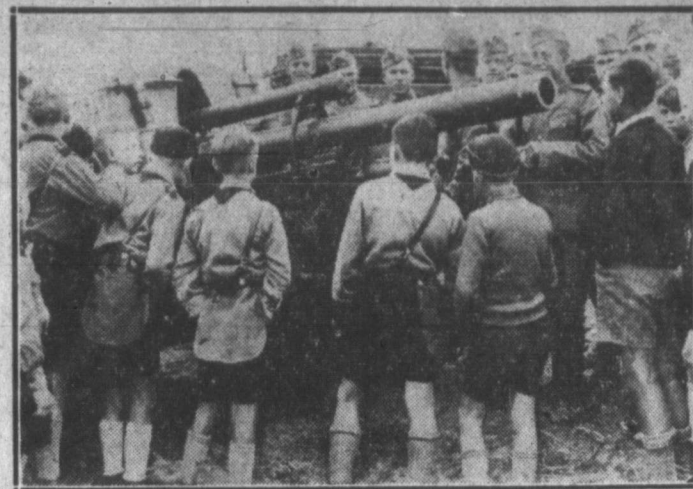

Special to The NEWS.
DENTON, April 4.—A bloody feud that wrote its crimson pages in western outlaw history in the dark days following the War Between the States, reached its final happy chapter at the North Texas State Teachers College here this spring as two Teachers College students clasped hands and bridged a gap of hatred that dates back to the days when Pinkerton detectives hunted the James boys and the Younger brothers back in old Missouri.

Woodrow Wilson Pinkerton, sophomore from Blue Ridge, Younger is a descendant of the famous Younger brothers who rode with the James in the years after the close of the Civil War when the Missouri outlaws were robbing banks and terrorizing railroad companies. Pinkerton is a third cousin of Allan Pinkerton, founder of the Pinkerton Detective agency who went on the trail of the bandits during the period.

when the shooting was over, John Younger and Daniels lay dead and Allen had received a mortal wound. The original Jim Younger escaped, later participated in the famous raid of the James gang on the First National bank of Northfield, Minn., survived terrible wounds to serve a penitentiary sentence, was paroled on good behavior, and finally committed suicide because of a tragic love affair at St. Paul.

Jesse James has been accused of the murder of Will Wallace, a Pinkerton detective. In retaliation Pinkerton agents were said to have bombed the James homestead and blown off the right arm of the mother of Jesse. Newspapers of the day referred to this as the "crime of the century," and the Youngers rode with the James to the fatal Northfield raid.

TWO TYPES OF EDUCATION

Here is a study in two kinds of education: the upper picture shows a scene in Nazi Germany, where millions of children are nourished on a diet of hate and intolerance. They know only what the State wants them to know, think only what the State wants them to think—and guns and cannon become more important than home and family. These children will be the dictator's troops of tomorrow. The lower photograph shows a scene in America, training by the dictation of conscience, how hand in hand with the fun of Scouting go serious objectives. Virile outdoor activities not only teach the Scout to be manly, and keep him healthy, but train individual judgment and action. It is to provide this training for the boys of three Oklahoma and 12 Panhandle counties that the Adobe Walls council is maintained. There are 906 boys in the council area, of which Pampa is the center, who are being trained in the way of self-imposed discipline—the American way.

President Signs Army Plane Bill

WASHINGTON, April 4 (AP)—Geared to wartime speed, the army and navy is ready to start factories producing the 3,000 new warplanes and other munitions authorized in the $358,000,000 expansion bill just signed by President Roosevelt.

Rate Reductions On Oil Pipe Ordered

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 4 (AP)—W. Alexander, traffic secretary of the Memphis Cotton Exchange, said today the Rock Island and Missouri Pacific rail lines had ordered rate reductions on oil pipe to the Shreveport, La., and Texarkana, Texas, territory.

Better Furniture HIGH CHAIRS

Walnut, maple, and ivory are being featured in this year's designs of new and unusual high chairs . . . with or without porcelain trays . . . all constructed of sturdy hard woods. Inspect our complete selection today!

The first planes ordered, officials said, will be giant four-motored bombers such as the existing 20-ton "Flying Fortresses," probably several hundred modern attack bombers, able to speed some six miles a minute, and even faster pursuit planes. The exact number of each type are confidential.

Assistant Secretary Louis Johnson said today contracts with numerous manufacturers would be completed as soon as the first funds become available.

The bill which Mr. Roosevelt signed last night at Warm Springs, Ga., provided authorization for major phases of the $552,000,000 defense program. The actual money must be made available in separate legislation, now before the Senate after passing the House virtually without opposition.

A start will be deferred on planes to be used in training 20,000 college students annually as pilots.

Congress has been informed that if the competitive bid procedure, normally requiring several months, threatens delay, a request will be made by the war department for authority to negotiate contracts.

Under terms of the new act, manufacturers may net 12 per cent profit on both army and navy contracts, averaged on a four-year period.

NOTICE

R. E. and J. T. Johnson are no longer managers of the Johnson Hotel and Johnson Hardware companies and will not be responsible for any bills incurred after April 1. (Signed)
