Babson Says New Deal Can Be Counted Out Political Pot Boils

By ROGER BABSON.
WASHINGTON, April 21.—Two recent trends have helped President Roosevelt politically. These are: One, the fear of a war involving Great Britain and France; and two, the possibility that the republicans may be unable to get together on a strong candidate. A war in Europe would put F. D. R. in line for another four-year term. If he wishes it, without a war and with a strong G. O. P. candidate, he is licked. Remember, business conditions make politics; politics do not make business conditions.

Business conditions are fairly good today as far as retail trade and other statistical indicators are concerned. Measured by the number of people out of work, however, conditions are not much better than when Franklin Roosevelt took office six years ago. Millions of Americans voted for Roosevelt in 1932 because they believed a change in administration would solve unemployment. Millions more voted for him in 1936 because more people had jobs than in 1932. Since then, unemployment has become bad again. What the voters did last fall is a preview of what will happen in 1940 unless jobs greatly increase.

Democrats Badly Split.
Will a business boom and a big gain in employment help President Roosevelt if he runs in 1940? The answer is: "Yes, but it will not heal the split in the democratic party." The New Dealers and the "Old Line" democratic candidate. In addition the gap between them is far wider than the average voter realizes. It looks now as though Mr. Garner and Mr. Farley will determine the democratic candidate. In addition to Mr. Garner and Mr. Farley the leading non-Roosevelt possibilities are Hull and Clark. New Dealers such as Wallace, Hopkins, Jackson, and McNutt today stand no chance of being elected. The New Deal can now be counted out.

If President Roosevelt should run as a third party candidate, he would automatically elect a republican. Furthermore, any other democratic standard-bearer than Mr. Roosevelt would find the going pretty rough. Voters know that the democrats promised recovery during the 1932 house-cleaning and that they claimed credit for it in the 1936 wave. They also know that millions of people are still out of jobs in spite of the fantastic sums of money which have been spent to eliminate unemployment. The law of action and reaction is today working against the democrats as it worked against the republicans in 1932.

Third Term Obstacles.
Recent polls show that President Roosevelt still is personally popular with 68 per cent of the voters. Why, then, could he not win? Answer: Because there is a deep-seated tradition against three terms. More significant than the polls of his popularity is the fact that the polls show that only about half of those who approve of Mr. Roosevelt would support him for a third term. With the hamstringing of the G. O. P. will give him in congress for the next 18 months, with millions still out of work regardless of how much of a business upswing we may have, with no chance for economy or a balanced budget, the present outlook is that President Roosevelt could not win a third term.

The above, of course, is all "ex-war." A big European war is F. D. R.'s real opportunity to come back for another four years. It brought Woodrow Wilson back in 1918; and it saved Lincoln in 1864. "Don't change horses in the middle of the stream" is a powerful political slogan. A European war in 1940, with its involved, could bring Mr. Roosevelt back for four years. A war which even threatened to involve us would make him a heavy favorite. Actually, a European war right now would help the President far more than a roaring business boom. Perhaps this explains much of the war propaganda in the United States today.

Taft and Dewey Lead.
Now, who booms up as the republican standard-bearer in November, 1940? The wise boys here in Washington are focusing on four men—Dewey, Taft, Vandenberg, and Bricker. Taft and Dewey now seem to be well in the lead. They are two brilliant, sound, progressive men—not the Old Guard type which has ruled republican politics in the past. Vandenberg would be an excellent choice; but he lacks the pulling power of either of the younger men. You can forget Landon and Hoover. Both are very able men, but both unfortunately would be flops as vote-getters. From what I have gathered here this week, the current session of congress is a hopeless mess. There is no leadership. New laws will be relatively unimportant—and from all appearances there will be few of them. The railroads may be thrown a few crumbs. The Wagner labor act may come in for a few minor changes. A new neutrality act, however, should be drafted. Business need not fear that there will be any more reform legislation. Reform days are over until the next depression!

Forget Politics and Europe.
My real message, as I leave Washington, is for business men now to forget the political picture. Those who are frightened about "another four years of Roosevelt" are worrying unnecessarily. If we have him, we will also have a war! And a war might be just what the doctor ordered for American business. We would take over world trade, world manufacturing, world financing. Our huge surpluses of wheat, cotton, metals would be used up. Millions of dollars in gold bullion, shipped to this country and Canada in the last six months from France and England, would provide the buying power. Forget politics and forget Europe. We have seen the worst of both for the time being!

Great Grand Nephew Of Houston Slain

AUSTIN, April 21 (AP)—Police today filed murder charges against McCray Campbell of Dallas and Jean Garnett, 27, also of Dallas, in connection with the fatal injury of Wallace Houston, 35, great grand nephew of Gen. Sam Houston, and a resident of Kyle.

Detective Captain Rex Fowler filed charges in Justice of the Peace Sam Reger's court after the woman was arrested here and the man taken into custody in Dallas. Austin officers dispatched to Dallas were awaiting the outcome of a habeas corpus hearing set today for Campbell.

Houston died of injuries suffered in an attack upon him Thursday. Police said he suffered a fractured skull and internal injuries, apparently inflicted by a water pitcher. His body, clad only in shirt and pants, was discovered in a hotel hallway.

Social Events End Congress Of D. A. R.

WASHINGTON, April 21 (AP)—Daughters of the American Revolution saved some of their social events for the end of their congress today—a tea at the White House and a final banquet for the 3,279 delegates and visitors.

In the absence of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, hostesses banded to receive at the executive mansion were Mrs. Cordell Hull, wife of the secretary of state; Mrs. Henry Wallace, wife of the agriculture secretary, and Secretary of Labor Perkins.

The first lady, who resigned from the D. A. R. after Marian Anderson, New York singer, was barred from the society's Constitution Hall, cut short a western trip this week to return east for the funeral of her nephew, Daniel Roosevelt of Boston.

Three Burn To Death In Jail

WORCESTER, Mass., April 21 (AP)—Deputy Fire Chief Fred S. Taylor said today he believed "careless use of matches by prisoners" caused a fire which killed three inmates last night in underground cells of Worcester's 66-year-old county jail. Sheriff H. Oscar Rocheleau, head jailer, said the blaze was discovered in a padded cell occupied by John Raskett, who was serving time for drunkenness. He absolved guards and trustees.

Only four of the 18 cells in the section were occupied. Raskett was the only one to escape with his life. He was hospitalized. The men suffocated by heavy smoke were: Walter Sumpter, 66, Negro, serving a term for drunkenness; Antonio Dotti, 18, charged with larceny, and Thomas Makla, 67, of Gardner, serving a term for drunkenness.

Editors Consider Fate Of Press In The Event Of War

WASHINGTON, April 21 (AP)—Members of the American Society of Newspaper Editors considered today predictions voiced by H. L. Mencken as they gave attention to possible means of averting censorship in event this country should become involved in war.

Mencken told the editors conditions of government control of the press in event of war would be "even worse" than the World War when, he declared, "every newspaperman in the United States did his work under threat and duress."

Walter Harrison, managing editor of the Oklahoma City Oklahomaian, said he intended to bring up the subject of press freedom at a meeting of the resolutions committee.

"We recognize the drift all over the world against individual freedom," Harrison said, "and we possibly ought to reaffirm our faith as Americans in the fundamentals of freedom guaranteed in the constitution. We ought to continue to fight for them regardless of what happens."

After a private conference with President Roosevelt last night, the editors occupied a good part of their day with meetings bearing on the possibility of conflicts abroad.

Oilers Will Play Huber Sunday Afternoon

Game To Be Here; Seitz Cuts Squad

Pampa baseball fans will have their first opportunity to see the Pampa Oilers, entry in the West Texas-New Mexico baseball league, in action Sunday afternoon when Manager Grover Seitz sends his youngsters against the Huber Blackaces of Berger.

"Game time will be 3 o'clock, at Road Runner Park, with admission 40 cents."

"With his squad reduced to 18 players, Seitz will send his strongest line-up against the Blackaces. His main concern is to get some experimenting, especially with his pitchers, but for the most part will use boys he believes can make the team."

British Polo Team Best In Recent Years

NEW YORK, April 21 (AP)—Contestants continue to arrive every few days from the west, flinging themselves from their lathered ponies to shout the British are coming. This is a warning to the American polo set that the International matches at Mendocino next month are going to be hotter than a branding iron.

The relay of polo Paul Reveres is necessary, because for 25 years there have been nothing but false alarms. Tommy Hitchcock and his fellow defectors of American polo supremacy have grown so accustomed to these wild rumors about the Redcoats that they are difficult to rouse by ordinary means.

But this time it seems to be on the level. The British have four cracking good players in Gerald Baldwin, Aidan Roark, Eric Tyrell-Martin and Bob Skene, the last a newcomer from Australia who has been so impressive in practice matches he already is being conceded a nine-goal rating by next year.

All except Skene have played so much on this side in recent seasons they are thoroughly adept at the American style of game, which in the last decade has borrowed important features from football and ice hockey, as well as free-style wrestling.

What is perhaps even more important, this British delegation does not expect to be out-mounted. Its players are of the best Argentine and Indian stock, and there are plenty of them.

The British have been practicing on the west coast for months.

Femmes Will Wresle At Arena Monday

Women wrestling fans will be given a break at the Pampa Athletic arena on Monday night when two of their own sex wrestle a finish match for the welterweight title of the world. And women will be admitted for 10 cents.

The women grapplers will be Champion Mildred Burke of Memphis, Tenn., and Challenger Ruth Owens of Phoenix, Ariz.

The men won't be forgotten either and an overflow crowd is expected to be on hand to see Mickey Durano, the great Argentine grappler, meet wild Frankie Hill of Wichita, Kan., in another finish match. The pair went two hours with only one fall two weeks ago in the wildest battle ever staged in Pampa.

Opening the night of hostilities at 8:15 o'clock will be Sugi Hayamaka, Japanese ace, and Ernie Peterson of San Francisco.

Pampa Amateur Boxing Team Wins At Canadian

Plenty of Catching for Pirates
CANADIAN, April 20.—Pampa's boxing team won the toss and with it a large trophy as winner of the Canadian Tournament of Champions last night in the Canadian city hall auditorium. Pampa, Shamrock and Canadian tied with two champions each but Canadian withdrew and Pampa and Shamrock flipped with Trainer Cliff Chambers of Pampa winning.

Pittsburgh trading Al Todd for Ray Mueller, above, made it plain that the Pirates were not satisfied with their backstopping. And the idea of this fan picture is to bring out the fact that Mueller asserts the Buccoers plenty of catching.

Pampa Relay Team Batters Claude Mark in Practice

Pampa high school thimblets will leave early tomorrow morning for Canyon where they will meet the best track and field stars in the entire Panhandle in the regional meet. Coach Odun Mitchell will take nine boys who won the district title here last Saturday.

Unless a dark horse appears on the horizon, Pampa and Claude are expected to battle for supremacy in the regional meet. Other cities, however, are expected to enter one or two specialists who could topple either team from the favored list.

Behind The News Of The Day

By BRUCE CATTON

John Scharbauer Directs Ranching Empire From Fort Worth Building

By E. C. SLOAN
Associated Press Staff
Probably no other Texan his age holds the helm of as great a ranching empire of his own building as John Scharbauer, 37-year-old president of the Scharbauer Cattle Company.

Paradoxically, the fortunes of the famous cattle company were founded on a flock of sheep in the days when cowmen regarded the "woolies" as an abomination destined to destroy the freedom of the open range.

Whether it is the building of a business house at Hobbs, N. M., capital to be invested in a Dallas corporation, or the sale of a few thousand head of cattle, "Uncle John" makes the decisions. He is assisted by his nephew and vice-president of the company, Clarence Scharbauer, who resides at Midland and manages the ranches.

Comrade... WANT TO BUY A NEW CAR?

"Here it is, Comrade, just the thing to run down to the Crimea over the week-end in to see the folks! Yes sir-ski! She's guaranteed to do fifty-five on a level pavement with a good tail wind and she's got the very latest improvement -- four-wheel brakes! None of those dizzy capitalistic gadgets, either, like shatter-proof glass, wipers, defrosters, knee-action, stream-lining or silent transmission -- no ma'am! This is a REAL car -- 1938 model -- made right here in Russia. And boy, they're pouring 'em off the assembly line at the rate of twenty a day!"

THIS snappy little sedan is the latest wrinkle in Moscow. It delivers for about $1200, spare tire and bumpers extra. If you're a Soviet citizen you can get it for less—provided you have got a Communist Party card, show up promptly for your twelve and-a-half hour shift at the factory and have a drag with the right people. But if you are late for work they may crack down and take it away from you.

It's an ancient old crock; just the kind they were making in Michigan when Coolidge was President. But as a Russian citizen you can be glad you don't have to take the street car.

Funny, these Russians. Are they all satisfied to bump their bones in a 1927 crate masquerading as a modern car? Probably not. . . . But what are they going to do about it? The higher-ups figure a car like this is good enough for the common folks. It's the only kind the government Auto Trust makes for home consumption and they can take it or leave it.

Well then, maybe Stalin drives a car like this, too. Does he? . . . HE DOES NOT. Stalin rides a sixteen-cylinder job four months out of the shops in Detroit. But then Stalin's different. He's boss.

You see, Russia is a Dictatorship. And in a Dictatorship -- ANY Dictatorship—the government makes all the rules. One of the first rules they make, usually, is that they're going to knock the stuffing out of Business; there's not going to be any nonsense of Business Competition with everybody trying to make a better motor car, refrigerator, radio or pair of shoes than his neighbor. No, sir! Business Competition is wasteful. It results, for one thing, in Advertising. And Advertising puts ideas in people's heads like wanting to have a new and better kitchen range every now and then, or an improved heating plant, or a more efficient electric fan, or a faster automobile. Advertising makes folks want to decorate the living room or visit the movies or wear new fall bonnets when they should be home raising kids to be soldiers in the next war.

Advertising is a bad thing—for Dictators. It keeps people so busy raising their standard of living that they don't want to go out and lower someone else's.

Advertising makes the home folks dissatisfied with old-style radios and refrigerators and reading lamps and bedroom sets and sports dresses and cars. It makes them want new ones, improved ones, and then the manufacturers have to break their necks putting out better products every year. And that means buying raw materials and it means fatter payrolls. And both of these mean prosperity with everybody well-fed and happy—and when people are well-fed and happy how in farnation are you going to get them interested in Crusades—like fighting capitalists or conquering Ethiopians or warring on Chinese or cracking down on Jews or Catholics or people who wear blue neckties? No. When people are well-fed and happy they won't even say Heil or Doochay and pretty soon Mister Dictator goes out on his ear.

Now, we dunno. Maybe a Dictatorship would be a good thing for THIS country with everybody paying great big enormous taxes and goose-stepping and sending letters to Uncle Joe and Cousin Charlie at concentration camp. One of the fastest ways to get it is to crack down on all business. Just give it the works. And then cut out advertising. Eliminate it entirely. We'd soon have a sure-enough, first-string Dictatorship then, and when we weren't pulling in our belts another notch and trying to find somebody to blame it on we could all go out riding in our new four-cylinder 1927 sedan, price $1200 f.o.b. Flint, Michigan, spare tire and bumpers extra.

That is, we could if anybody had $1200 left to spend on a car.

BORDER ADVENTURE

BY OREN ARNOLD

Yesterday the officers... with Harry for Betty Mary...

CHAPTER XIII

HOPE KILDARE arose at 6 o'clock on the morning following the "visit" with Luis Barro in Mexico.

He went outside his landlady's house and, surprisingly, put up a ladder that gave him access to the roof.

But even with his powerful field glasses he couldn't see the Montezuma Hotel in Juarez, because of nearby obstructions.

The Two Republics Building in downtown El Paso seemed to be directly in the way.

He got into his own swift sports coupe then and drove hurriedly around in a large half circle, coming out on the Mount Franklin scenic Drive, a long hill that gave him altitude quickly.

That disturbed him. He watched the window in the haze for several minutes, wondering if Betty Mary could have forgotten to put up her promised signal.

He envisioned her asleep. Would she have the sleeping-beauty type of daintiness?

WELL, there was Sheridan. She had given Sherry the first date. She had given Sherry...

the note last night. Obviously she favored Sherry. What did Sherry have that made him preferable?

He stopped at the house where Sherry lived but learned that Sherry had already dressed and gone to town.

"Sherry Starr was around this morning?" Hope inquired.

"Yes. He went up the tower, to take a two-hour shift and relieve the regular man a little. He's up there now."

"See anything?" Hope asked, without preliminaries.

"You up already?" Sherry greeted. "Now, not a thing. She must have left."

"Listen, you mug, a girl doesn't have to get up at unearthly hours like a 'buffoon' federal cop, hey? Maybe she thinks 9 o'clock is the crack of dawn. Can you see her window?"

"Sure, plain as day now. It's open, but the shade's pulled, against the morning sun I guess."

"I talked the man out of half his shift up here, so I'll have to perch here until 8. Wait for me."

AT 8 Sherry came down looking glum, and the two men ate breakfast in silence at a nearby restaurant. When they drifted back to the office at 9, a special delivery letter, postmarked El Paso, was waiting for them.

"Dear Boys: We made no arrangements for communicating with each other, except the window signals, so I shall cross back to El Paso in a taxicab at daybreak and mail this letter to you.

"Barro escorted me to the Montezuma Hotel at 11 p. m. He told the Mexican maid to take special care of me, and the way he presumed to order her—almost fiercely—made me suspect that she might be one of his hands.

"She is one of Barro's spotters. Being in a hotel, she can watch for aliens and others who might be his customers, and tip him off to a lot of things. He pays her well, she says. She never questioned my status at all. Naturally, she wouldn't since Barro himself brought me there, and I had the secret token. So I pumped her all I dared, posing as a worker also.

"I learned this—that narcotics are going across the river every day, in broad daylight. She, and all of Barro's gang who know about it, are elated with the success of the newest dodges, she revealed. I pretended to be one of those in the know, so I didn't learn everything. But I do know that a woman is bringing some of the dope over. It is cocaine, and somehow there is a child in the plan, too. That's all the hints I could pick up."

"Don't try to answer, or see me. (Unless you want to pose again!) I'll communicate with you somehow. Love—Betty Mary."

"The two officers read the letter together, then Sheridan read it aloud.

"Who?" Hope breathed.

"Could that be the Tefaya woman? With her kid?"

"No, I don't see how. Sherry. She's been arrested twice already, she and her daughter, and both of them searched by the jail matron. In fact I held the little kid's doll while they took her inside. She's a cute kid. No hint of smuggling there."

"They had a clean permit to cross?"

"Yes. Proved she was just visiting relatives over here in Paso."

Smith Testifies Regarding Order

AUSTIN, April 21 (AP)—Chairman Lon A. Smith of the Texas railroad commission testified here yesterday a majority of the commission issued the April 10 order on March 21 without special notice or public hearing on conditions of various fields.

Smith was the only witness during a morning session of deposition taking in a federal court case filed in Houston in which the Abercrombie Oil company and Harrison Oil company obtained a temporary injunction against the commission's appeal order signed by Commissioners Smith and Jerry Sadler.

Under questioning of Joe Moore, Houston attorney, Smith admitted the order promulgated March 1 and on April 7 had been issued without taking evidence from geologists on which to base the order.

The commissioner said he, as chairman, had invited Ernest O. Thompson, commission member who did not sign the orders, to attend with him, Sadler and two engineers sessions at which the orders were "worked out," but that Thompson did not appear.

"At those sessions," Moore said, "you just placed some figures with a red pencil next to the fields and issued the order, didn't you?"

"No," said Smith.

"Did you have any evidence of changed conditions in the fields?"

"No." "You just took the allowances from the South and Gulf Coast areas and gave them to East Texas, didn't you?"

"No," Smith retorted, "all we did for East Texas was to lift the Saturday shutdowns."

"Why did you do that?" "We were trying to satisfy the market demand and straighten out inequalities."

Smith denied he and Sadler were "toying" with the order and asserted "it's too big a proposition to play with." He said he and Sadler were "doing our level best to work out previous inequalities in the allowable situation."

The commissioner agreed the old ocean field allowable in Southeast Texas had been "changed." The allowable first was drastically cut, and then boosted upward of its previous level.

Dehydrating Of Vegetables Urged As Possible Industry For Texas

By RAY NEUMANN, Associated Press Staff. Why not develop the vegetable dehydrating into a "big business" in Texas? asks the state planning board. After an extensive survey the board was convinced the state possessed abundant advantages to operate the industry successfully. In this, some experts believe, lies an opportunity to convert an investment into millions of dollars. During the World War, the survey pointed out, an inevitable ingredient of the overseas army cook's mulligan-stew was a canful or two of what appeared to be a colorful assortment of hard chips. In the boiling water the chips began to soften and swell. Soon a savory odor of cooking vegetables was an indication the mixture was ready for blending with chunks of beef. The 60-pound can contained what had been two bushels of vegetables which had been dehydrated to conserve cargo space in the congested troop ships. "Dehydration of vegetables is nothing new," the report says, "but not until World War days did the business of squeezing water out of vegetables and processing them for compactness, really become big business."

wives. They became accustomed to them when the government sold its surplus supplies. They were easy to use—a pot of boiling water, a handful of dehydrated chips and some beef and in a short time there was beef stew or vegetable soup. There were no tops to dispose of, no peeling, no washing. These chores had been taken care of before the vegetables were put thru the dehydrating process. "So," say the experts, "why can't housewives become convinced all over again that this world save many an hour of kitchen work?" "Why not an extensive advertising campaign pointing out this fact and rebuild the market?" When the country returned to normal after the war, the gardens of the nation began to produce more and more fresh vegetables. Arid land was brought under cultivation through extensive irrigation and fine specimens of vegetables began to grow. Prices dropped and the supply was greater than the demand. Thus, the market for dehydrated vegetables was reduced. Nature, however, balancing supply and demand with drought and insect plagues, brought a sharp reduction in the supply with resultant soaring prices. Thrifty housewives turned to the grocery shelves for dehydrated vegetables but, like Mother Hubbard, found the cupboard bare. Industrialists who had stopped dehydrating vegetables, however, lost no time in reconditioning dust-covered machinery and in a short time a steady supply of produce began flowing to the markets. Reserve stocks were increased in years of bumper crops and during the depression the daily fare of many needy was broadened by a ration of dehydrated vegetables. "Today," says the report, "the greater portion of dehydrated vegetables are produced in the east and on the Pacific coast," notwithstanding that Texas is a prolific producer of many varieties. For instance, Texas is the largest spinach producing state in the nation and no other state matches its production of beets. Only California tops Texas in the production of carrots. The planning board says opportunities for beet and carrot processing plants are splendid—that the climate, soils, transportation facilities and natural resources of the state point towards success in such a venture. "The growing seasons for beets and carrots range from 220 days in the north and central portions of the state to 320 days a year in the lower Rio Grande valley," the board says. "However, the raising of beets and carrots in South Texas is carried on primarily with a view to serving the winter markets which bring better prices." Consequently, planting these vegetables is arranged so that the shipments begin in November and run into June. Thus, carrots and beets raised in the "off season" in South Texas probably could be obtained by a dehydrating plant at more satisfactory prices and surpluses over the needs of shippers could be absorbed in winter months and insure a year-round operation. "The value of such a plan to farmers in that section of Texas," the board says, "would be such that wholehearted support for such a venture could be expected from the community in which the plant was located. Transportation facilities in Texas are such that shipments of dehydrated vegetables are possible to all sections of the nation and major ports of the world. Natural gas and fuel oil, a plentiful supply of water and an abundance of the type of labor required for the operation of such plants are factors which, the board says, seem to insure an economical and successful future for dehydrating plants in Texas. Besides vegetables, the survey says, dehydrates could utilize many fruits. "Incidentally," the survey concludes, "Texas is the pivot of the southwest market area, consisting, in addition to Texas of Oklahoma, Arkansas, and Louisiana. This area with a population of more than 12,000,000, has a spendable income of more than $5,000,000,000. In 1930 approximately 1,500 establishments were engaged in wholesale grocery and food distribution, and only six of this number participated in the distribution of dried fruits and vegetables. "Yet, just across the international border, in Mexico, thousands of tons of chick peas are raised annually, dehydrated and shipped overseas by American exporting firms. There is a steadily increasing market for dehydrated vegetables, not only in the United States, but in the countries of Europe where people are turning more and more to foods in concentrated forms. "It is a manufacturing possibility which the State of Texas should not overlook."

Best Personality In City Full Of It Is Bette Davis!

Bette Davis... "doesn't think Bette Davis is different."

By MARIAN YOUNG, NEA Home Page Editor. HOLLYWOOD—So far as Hollywood is concerned, Bette Davis has the highest P. Q. (personality quotient) of any star in the glittering film capital. In a place where good personalities are a dime a dozen, and there's even a surplus of excellent ones, the star of such performances as "Of Human Bondage" and "Jezebel" has the most outstandingly interesting personality of all. She's an exciting, "alive" person, this girl whose P. Q. is so high. And her personality is of that happy variety which "brings others out," and makes their personalities shine, too. Rehearsals of scenes in which Miss Davis plays a part never drag on in a listless manner. A conversation with her is a stimulating experience. When Bette Davis listens, she listens with her mind as well as her ears. It's not as if she really is interested in what others think and why. When it's her turn to talk, she has something to say. She's an inveterate reader, and obviously has trained herself to remember what she reads. She doesn't think it un-feminine to be well-informed. In fact, Miss Davis has little patience with the woman who reads news headlines but never the stories under them, or thinks that editorial pages are written for men only. "I think it's sad for any woman to let herself slip mentally as she walks down the years," Bette Davis declared, the animation of her face emphasizes her earnestness. "If she is in business, she simply can't let herself get into the habit of fuzzy thinking—not if she expects to stay in business—any kind of business. "And the home woman who, at fifty, has no interest in anything outside of her home, is apt to lead a pretty dreary existence. "I hate to use the word 'hobby,'" Miss Davis added, "but the home woman needs something like one—some interest outside of her home and children. It doesn't need to be complicated."

According to the currently popular standard of the so-called charm experts, it's quite possible that Bette Davis wouldn't measure up. She's too definite, too vigorous in her likes and dislikes to meet their specifications. The very strength of her personality precludes what they call a "surplus of tolerance" and which she calls "being wishy-washy."

Miss Davis is, in fact, an extremist. If she's interested in a subject at all, she's intensely interested. When she hates, she hates. When she loves, she loves. She doesn't specialize in lukewarm acquaintanceships. It's real friendship—the warm, loyal, growing kind—or none. You always know right where you stand with Bette Davis. Miss Davis' personality belies, too, the theory that frankness is the quality you seldom find in a woman—and practically never in an attractive woman. Bette Davis rates A-plus in attractiveness and A-double-plus in intellectual honesty. She's never coy. She never has been known to substitute the little white lie for sound, reasonable argument in order to win a point. That is, an important point. Bette Davis, who was born in Lowell, Mass., and became a star only after years of hard work and small parts, can be impersonal. You've heard, all too often, that discussions with women aren't any fun because women take every remark personally. Well, here is one woman who does not. She can listen to someone generalizing about women without looking hurt or saying, "Why, I do not do that."

Furthermore, Bette Davis has a sense of humor. A real sense of humor which means that she can laugh at herself. She takes Bette Davis seriously only when Bette Davis has a job to do, a part to play. Otherwise, she takes Bette Davis pretty lightly. And she does NOT think that Bette Davis is different!

Wrenn Library Curator Known As 'Sherlock Holmes Of Printed Page'

PAINT ROCK, April 21 (P)—A native of Paint Rock, Miss Fannie Elizabeth Ratchford, librarian at the University of Texas, recently was given a second Guggenheim fellowship, which, like the first, will permit her to study abroad. The first fellowship allowed Miss Ratchford to study unpublished manuscripts of Charlotte Bronte, and as a result she published "Legends of Angria," compiled from Charlotte Bronte's early writings; two poems, "Love's Rebuke and Remembrance" by Emily Bronte, and several articles on the Brontes. Miss Ratchford's fellowship is to be in connection with investigation of forgeries of rare books. The work is done in England. In 1936 Miss Ratchford received the Texas Centennial Award of $500, made by a group of ex-students and friends of the University of Texas for delivery of a series of lectures in Texas colleges. During 1934-36 she was the recipient of grants from the Rockefeller Foundation funds to assist in making a study of Texas homes constructed before the civil war. In 1937 the Book Club of Texas, Dallas, published her "The Story of Camp d'Alsie."

Miss Ratchford, curator of the world-famous Wrenn library at the university, is known on the campus as a feminine Sherlock Holmes of the printed page. The university named her to make an inventory of the $5,000,000 collection of the late Miriam Stark, which was presented to the university. Her great-grandfather, Capt. William Finley Rose, was a veteran of the Battle of New Orleans. He was a native of North Carolina, but moved to Texas and established a huge plantation which included the present country club site at Marshall. Preston Rose, her grandfather, built a plantation on the Victoria-Indianola road in South Texas, naming it Buena Vista. Miss Ratchford's mother, Linda Rose, was born there. Also Buena Vista is the place where Miss Ratchford's grandmother equipped Dr. January's company with 7A-branded horses, for service in the Civil war. On the steps of the plantation home, where the Confederate company flag was presented, a northern officer later read a proclamation of freedom to Buena Vista slaves. Linda Rose was married to Major James Wylie Ratchford, a South Carolinian, who came to Texas at the close of the Civil war. He settled in Concho county, helped organize the first church, was government land surveyor for years and taught the first school. Fannie Elizabeth Ratchford is seventh in a family of nine children. She was educated in part in the Paint Rock schools and by her father when she entered the University of Texas at 15. She taught school several years, but returning to the university to take two degrees, was made librarian of the newly arrived Wrenn collection, bought at Chicago by the late Major George W. Littlefield at a cost of $250,000. To this collection later was added the Alben collection bought in London. Subsequently the library received the Stark collection of rare books and bindings, assembled by the mother of Luther Stark, a regent of the University of Texas.

Barbers Bill Vetoed By Author's Request. AUSTIN, April 21 (P)—The governor's office said today Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel's message to the legislature vetoing the barbers bill by which minimum prices on barbers' services would be fixed, was being held up at the request of the proposal's sponsors. Rep. Travis B. Dean of Hamilton this bills author, said he was considering asking the House and Senate to recall the proposal, after which he would offer amendments to eliminate features which Attorney General Gerald C. Mann had ruled unconstitutional. A tree overhanging a clear stream casts a reflection, but over a muddy stream it casts a shadow.
