

White House Announces Korth's Resignation

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Naval Secretary Fred Korth resigned today after a series of differences with Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara, climaxed by McNamara's rejection of Navy proposals to build a new nuclear-powered aircraft carrier.

In announcing Korth's resignation effective Nov. 1, the White House said the top Navy civilian post would be taken over by Paul H. Nitze, a long time State Department and Defense Department expert on international affairs.

Nitze is now assistant defense secretary for international security affairs and will yield that post to his deputy William P. Bundy. The latter is a brother of President Kennedy's assistant for national security affairs, McGeorge Bundy.

Korth was among Defense Department officials who figured in the explosive Senate investigation of the TFX warplane contract award.

The President, in a "Dear Fred" letter, praised Korth for his "real contribution to the advancement of United States national security interests." He asserted:

"The nation is in your debt for your many years of public service, including this last period of almost two years when you have worked so devotedly to strengthen the United States Navy."

The White House announcement said that Nitze would be replaced in his sensitive security post by William P. Bundy, currently his deputy assistant.

Korth was questioned for days on end by Senate investigators in their TFX inquiry, and there were suggestions both within and outside the subcommittee of a possibility of conflict of interest on his part.

Korth was executive of a Fort Worth bank before he became navy secretary. Testimony disclosed that General Dynamics Corp. successful bidder on the multi-million dollar TFX contract, obtained a loan from Korth's bank before he took the Pentagon job.

At the request of two Republican congressmen, the Justice Department conducted an investigation of the possible violation of conflict of interest regulations and concluded that there was none on Korth's part in the TFX case.

Kennedy's letter to Korth said he deserved "particular credit for the manner in which you conducted the comprehensive review of the organization of the Navy Department."

The President said this resulted in "far-reaching improvements in Navy readiness and management."

Kennedy said that many of the innovations implemented by Korth resulted in "saving millions of dollars."

The President also praised him "for the steps you have taken to improve the quality of education in the Naval Academy and for your untiring efforts in behalf of the recently enacted military pay bill."

Korth said he was leaving the secretaryship "with great regret in view of my dedication to the (See RESIGNATION, Page 3)

Reports Conflict Over New Landslide Danger

Without Border Incident

Soviets Let Convoy Pass

BERLIN (UPI)—A U. S. Army convoy rolled from Berlin to West Germany today, cleared speedily by Soviet guards outside Berlin at the checkpoint where another convoy was held up for 33 hours last week.

No trouble was expected at the second Soviet checkpoint at the West German border, where last week's blocked convoy spent another 19 hours.

The difference was the size of the convoy. The United States permits its men to dismount and be counted voluntarily when the convoy is large, but insists that they be counted in their vehicles when it is small.

Last week, there were 61 men—by U. S. standards a "small" convoy, but apparently by Soviet standards a large one, because they held it up for two days in a vain attempt to force the men to dismount. Today's convoy was large enough to dispel any doubt—149 men in 26 vehicles.

Informed sources said there was no intention of holding off troop movements to and from Berlin, which are guaranteed under Four-Power agreement.

To avoid a repetition of the incident, all convoys from now on will be clearly larger or smaller than the figure of 75.

Today's group, for example, was 149 men in 26 vehicles.

The sources said officials in Washington made it plain they

Mao May Quit As 'Active' Chinese Leader

LONDON (UPI)—Mao Tse-tung may quit soon as active leader of the Chinese Communist party, according to reports circulating in Communist circles today. But the change was not expected to soften Peking's hard line.

Mao, who will be 70 in December, turned over the presidency in 1959 to Liu Shao-chi, his close collaborator for more than 20 years. Liu was considered the most likely candidate to succeed him in the more powerful party post.

Mao considers himself the "Chinese Lenin" and is believed to want more time to work on Marxist-Leninist ideology. Stepping into the role of elder statesman would enable him to do this.

Ideology figures strongly in the Sino-Soviet split. Peking contends its Communist are following the true doctrines and the modifications introduced by Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev are "revisionist" heresy.

To Hold Conference
(In Moscow, informed sources said Sunday that a summit conference of the world's major Communist parties would be held there next month to review the split with Peking.)

(The meeting may lead to the expulsion of Peking from the Moscow-led Communist camp, the sources said.)

The prospective change in Chinese Communist leadership does not appear to hold out any changes for an easing of the Soviet-Chinese conflict.

For one thing, Liu is as firm as Mao in advocating war and violent revolution "to extend world communism, and as bitter in his attacks on Khrushchev's peaceful co-existence.

For another, Mao could be expected to remain a formidable figure in the background after retirement, giving advice and guidance to his successor and having the power and prestige to make it stick.

Nevertheless, the prospects of a change revived speculation about the possibility of a split in the ranks of Peking's leaders over the dispute with Moscow.

Last week, Premier Chou En-lai made a comparatively mild speech on the Sino-Soviet conflict. Chou, it has been suggested, agreed at least in part with ousted Minister of Defense Marshal Peng Teh-huai, who

Schmitzer Goes To Denver Meet

City Manager Harold Schmitzer is in Denver, Colo., attending the International Convention of City Managers.

The city manager left Saturday and will not return until Wednesday or Thursday, according to members of his office staff at City Hall.

Judge Gets Warning

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The receptionist in the Superior Court Jury Commissioner's Office warned the man who came to return his jury summons that "we don't excuse people because of their jobs."

But when she learned the reluctant prospective juror was Judge Elmer D. Doyle, who presides in a courtroom just around the hall from her office, she wrote on the summons: "Permanently excused from jury duty."

Communist Leaders To Hold Moscow Meet

MOSCOW (UPI)—World Communist leaders will meet here next month to begin talks which may lead to Peking's expulsion from the Moscow-led Communist camp, informed sources said Sunday.

The world's major Communist parties—with the probable exception of Communist China and its allies—are sending high level delegations here between Nov. 7 and 15 for the 46th anniversary of the Russian revolution.

The sources said the parties would make one more effort to bring about another Soviet-Chinese meeting to try and resolve the dispute. Such a meeting, however, is likely to be as unsuccessful as last summer's ideological talks here.

If this last attempt breaks down, the sources said, a call will be issued for a final meeting of the world's 86 Communist parties to take up the question of China's expulsion.

Western observers calculate that the Soviets have the support of at least 72 of these parties. But expulsion of Peking would be bound to create a rival international, headed by China and containing its supporters—including at least North Korea, North Viet Nam, Albania, and the Japanese Communist party.

Pravda, the Soviet Communist party newspaper, partially confirmed the report of the November meeting Sunday when it published a speech by French party leader Maurice Thorez, who is expected to head the French delegation here.

He said "we shall decisively support the convocation of the forthcoming international conference which will again confirm the principles of the policy of the Communist movement."

400 Expected At C of C Banquet

Chamber of Commerce officials report 250 tickets have been sold and about 150 remain to be sold for the annual C of C membership banquet at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Robert E. Lee Junior High cafeteria. About 400 people are expected to attend.

Dr. Leslie E. Munneke, professor of business management, University of Houston, will be guest speaker and music entertainment will be provided by the Pampa High School Dance Band under the direction of Fred Stockdale.

Since Chamber officials expect tickets to be sold out by Wednesday, they urge delegates who expect to attend to make reservations now.

Secretary Freeman Estimates $200 Million Will Be Saved By Soviet Wheat Deal

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman estimates the United States will save about $200 million in storage costs by selling U. S. wheat to Russia.

Freeman's estimates are based on pending Soviet purchases of between 150 to 200 million bushels, which would only make a dent in the 1.2 billion bushel U. S. surplus stockpile now stored in American granaries.

The Agriculture Department indicated today that Russia and other Communist countries might purchase as much as 250 million bushels of U. S. wheat.

A weekly publication by the department's Foreign Agricultural Service said that "inquiries in recent weeks have indicated that around 250 million bushels may be involved, with the Soviet Union apparently interested in about 150 million."

Appearing on a television program Sunday, Freeman said he was convinced the sale would be advantageous to the United States by improving wheat farmers income, reducing the U. S. balance of payments deficit and strengthening wheat prices.

He termed as "a bit ridiculous" Richard M. Nixon's criticism of the sale. Freeman implied that the unsuccessful 1960 presidential candidate was trying to use the issue to inject himself into the 1964 election campaign.

Freeman also discounted the contention of Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., that political considerations such as Russian removal of her troops from Cuba should be attached to the deal.

Such provisions, Freeman said, "would be a deterrent toward the strengthening and improving" of U. S. - Soviet relations.

Repeat Of Flooding Is Possible

By ALDO TRIPPINI

BELLUNO, Italy (UPI)—Conflicting reports of a new landslide behind the Vajont Dam today created fear and confusion among rescue workers and survivors of last week's flood disaster.

Although Osvaldo Martelli, deputy mayor of the vacated village of Erto, had warned over an amplifying system that another slide was coming, other authorities at Belluno said there was no danger.

A UPI reporter who flew over the area in a U. S. Army helicopter said he could see a constant movement of rocks down the side of the mountain but that it was impossible to tell from the air whether there was any large-scale landslide under way.

The warning early today was that another slide was moving down Mount Toc at the rate of a foot an hour and that if it hit the water remaining in the upper part of the Vajont Dam reservoir it might cause a backwash wave similar to that which roared into the sleeping valley below the dam last Wednesday. Later, other authorities denied that a new slide had started.

An estimated 2,500 persons died in last week's disaster. Originally, officials had believed the death toll might run as high as 4,000, but it turned out that many of the listed inhabitants in the villages were in other countries as migrant workers at the time.

Cut In Two

When the original landslide, estimated at half a billion cubic meters, hit on Wednesday, it virtually cut the reservoir in two. Some of the water still is backed up behind the dam, but another lake has been formed behind the natural dam of the landslide. The lakes are at two different levels.

If a new landslide came down, it would hit the second and higher lake. Its waters could be pushed backwards and could hit the towns of Casso and Erto, already partly destroyed by the tidal wave backwash of the original slide.

No special precautions were being taken in the Piave Valley below the dam, where Italian troops are clearing away the wreckage left by last week's disastrous flood.

Some villages above the dam were partially destroyed by the flood. They have officially been vacated, but a number of people are camping out in the near-

Commissioners Plan Meeting With Highway Commission

County Commissioners announced today they would attend a hearing with the State Highway Commission on widening state highway 60 west of Pampa to Carson County line.

The present two lane highway will be widened to four lanes, according to County Judge William J. Craig.

The bills for September include $34,498.16, Highland General Hospital; $5,506.11, salary fund; $7,575.95, general fund; $1,049.57, miscellaneous fund; $2,115.70, road and bridge fund; $3,022.63, precinct two; $9,670.44, precinct three and $1,554.47, precinct four.

Representatives from the Chamber of Commerce, Celanese and Cabot plants and all commissioners plan to attend the hearing to ask the State Highway Department to initiate the survey and work up plans to widen U. S. Highway 60 west of Pampa city limits to Carson County line.

Speculation Increases On Possibility of Nixon Running

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Week-end political developments increased speculation today over whether Richard M. Nixon is a candidate for the 1964 Republican presidential nomination.

Nixon, who lost a close race to John F. Kennedy in 1960, said in Hershey, Pa., Saturday that he could not conceive of himself as the GOP nominee again next year.

But the top contenders for the Republican nomination said they believed Nixon was a candidate, and political observers here refused to rule the former vice president out of the picture.

Rockefeller said, "I think he's a candidate. He has been making consistent comments on international affairs and taking a greater part in national and party affairs. He sounds like a candidate."

Goldwater said he had thought all along that Nixon was in the running for the GOP nomination. Goldwater said that "any man who lost the presidency by a fraction of a percentage point" should be considered a possible contender.

Political observers here felt that it still was too early to assess Nixon's impact on the 1964 presidential race. They said it would depend on whether the Goldwater boom continues.

May Turn To Nixon

If a deadlock should develop at the GOP convention and Goldwater is unable to muster enough votes to get the nomination, these observers said, the delegates might well turn to Nixon again.

Nixon's disavowal of any presidential intentions next year was supported by at least two major party figures.

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower is understood to feel that Nixon will not be a candidate again, although his former running mate will maintain an active voice in party affairs.

GOP National Chairman William E. Miller said in Eugene that he thought Nixon "says what he means and means what he says and is not a candidate."

"As I travel around the nation I find no semblance of effort for Dick Nixon — no one is committed to him, no one is getting delegates for him and no one is raising a single dollar for him," Miller added.

Nixon, attending a birthday party for Eisenhower in Hershey, said that if his name were offered in any state primary requiring the consent of the candidate, he would not give it.

WEATHER FORECAST

Pampa and Vicinity—Generally fair through tomorrow. A little cooler tonight, with the low tonight near 50 and the high tomorrow in the upper 70s. The high in Pampa yesterday was 82. Low this morning was 60.

Discussion Of Gas Rates To Highlight Meet

Further consideration of Pioneer Natural Gas Company's request for an approximate ten per cent increase in its general rate for gas service in Pampa will highlight tomorrow's regular meeting of the City Commission.

The company's request for the rate increase was filed with the city late in August.

Commissioners also will be presented with a petition, signed by approximately 100 persons, asking for additional taxicab service in Pampa. The city presently is served by only one taxi company.

Other items on tomorrow's agenda include consideration of an ordinance adopting and approving the city engineer's estimates, rolls and statements for improvements on portions of streets, avenues and alleys, fixing the time and place of a public hearing and directing the city secretary to give notice, and declaring an emergency. Streets involved include the 1200-block of Decatur and the 1700-block of N. Sumner.

Also up for action will be acceptance of delivery of a front end loader from International Harvester Co. and authorization of payment for the equipment in the amount of $2,596.12.

The commission will be asked to approve current bills for September and to open bids for furnishing meals to city jail prisoners.

Listed on the agenda is a statement from City Commissioner L. P. Fort.

The commission meets at 8:30 a.m. tomorrow in City Hall.

If it comes from a hardware store we have it. Lew Hdw. (Adv.)

The Lighter Side

'Lady Cops' From England Are 'The Essence of Stability'

The Lighter Side By DICK WEST

United Press International WASHINGTON (UPI) — In view of all that has been happening in England recently, it was reassuring to chat with three policewomen from that country.

The lady cops, who were here in a goodwill visit, were the very essence of stability and respectability.

I could tell that if they caught someone like Christine Keeler swimming in the nude they would pinch her immediately. As who wouldn't?

In fact, Miss Jean Stewart, who is a police superintendent on the Lancashire County force, brushed aside my query about the sex problem in England.

She made it plain that the average Englishman still preferred cricket, so we talked about police business instead.

The superintendent and the other two policewomen, Winifred Cross and Sheila Crigall, were driving an MG sports car, which is the same type of vehicle they use for patrol work back home.

Miss Stewart said lady cops in police-equipped sports cars were quite common in England. The Lancashire County force, which is the second largest in England, has been using policewomen on general duty since 1914 and now has 122 in its ranks.

Miss Stewart said lady cops work out quite well because England has less crime than the United States and even the male police usually go about unarmed.

"We don't work through strength," she said. "We work through tact."

Not The same I told Miss Stewart that if the police in Washington left off their guns every bank in the city would be emptied by nightfall. Miss Stewart said things were different in England.

"If we carried guns, it might encourage others to start carrying them," she said.

I asked Miss Stewart how they could apprehend a lawbreaker without being armed and she said they used persuasion.

"Courage isn't physical in the British police," she said. "It's mostly patience."

Because there are relatively fewer crimes, police in England have more time to serve the public in other ways, she explained.

"We get a lot of calls from women who imagine that someone's putting bricks through their letter boxes," she said.

One of the other lady cops commented that police in England also are kept busy investigating complaints from people who claim they have seen "strange lights."

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW

United Press International HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The British, who have been having a funny year no matter how you look at it, may be bringing some of their spice and vinegar to American television.

With their satirical "Beyond the Fringe" troupe conquering Broadway, and their ribald movie "Tom Jones" sure to rock filmgoers with delight, the bland video networks here in the colonies also seem to be competing for some of the action.

On Saturday, for instance, three members of another notable satirical British group, "The Establishment," did their stuff, though modestly, on the season premiere of NBC-TV's "Exploring," which ranks with "Captain Kangaroo" as the best children's show on television.

And Sunday night, CBS-TV's Ed-Sullivan scheduled a company of players from "Beyond the Fringe," and "The Establishment," along with the American comedy team of Bob and Ray, for some spoofing on his hour. He has promised that this act, titled "What's Going on Here?" will return from time to time.

The idea for "What's Going on Here?" grew out of a special half-hour television show of the same name, presented in May on a local New York station. And the New York "What's Going on Here?" was inspired by the amazing success of Britain's wildly irreverent program "That Was the Week That Was," which mercilessly satirizes current events and people.

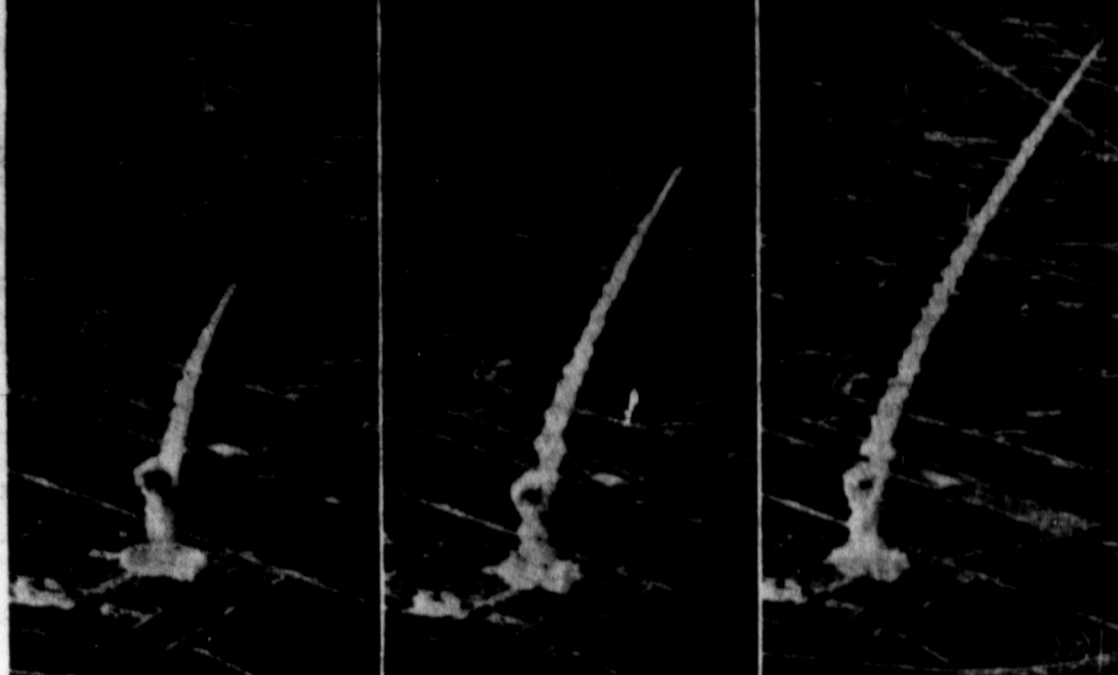

Now comes word that NBC-TV will offer on Nov. 10 a one-hour special previewing a planned American version of "That Was the Week That Was," which has been known in television circles for some time to be a hopeful entry for next season. Probably this special is in the nature of a test.

Undoubtedly the American version would be dominated by American performers. Mike Nichols, of the team of Nichols and May, would be an occasional participant in the shenanigans as well as being a creative consultant. Leland Hayward is the executive producer.

"That Was the Week That Was" has been blue-pencilled a bit this year, according to reports from England. And unless some miracle occurs, it seems obvious that the sponsored nature of U.S. television will not allow for the latitude given the English program, which appears on the non-commercial British Broadcasting Corp.

Baby, Intrigues 'Up-Stage' Jackie

MARRAKECH, Morocco (UPI)—Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy today discovered that the birth of a Moroccan baby and the intrigues of North African strife were getting more attention than her visit here.

The First Lady arrived Sunday night from Athens for a three-day private tour. But the city she chose for her "rest" vacation reverberated with both merry-making and the tramp of troops.

Mrs. Kennedy was reported to have asked that no official receptions be planned so she could quietly recuperate from the death of her infant son, Patrick. Both Moroccan and American officials said she could "just go where she would like to go."

But American officials were privately worried about the timing of the visit. The Algerian-

Moroccan border dispute has turned Marrakech into an armed camp.

And exuberant tribesmen shattered the quiet of the Moroccan night by firing their rifles in celebration of the holiday Friday marking the 40th day after the birth of King Hassan II's son, Prince Mohammed.

Thousands of Moroccans applauded Mrs. Kennedy Sunday night as she and her sister, Princess Lee Radziwill, drove through the narrow streets of this ancient walled city to the Bahia Palace, where they were the guests of King Hassan II.

Five Injured In White Deer Traffic Accident

Five persons were taken to Highland General Hospital with "superficial injuries," and two cars were totally damaged as a result of a two-car collision at the intersection of Highway 60 and Main St. in White Deer about 12:30 p.m. Saturday.

According to Highland General Hospital authorities, two of the persons, Mrs. Clifford Nunley of Nash, Okla., and John McCamey of Pampa, were in "satisfactory condition" today. Three persons, Clifford Nunley and his two children, a boy and a girl, both under four years old, were released yesterday.

According to highway patrolman Dan Self, who was a witness and investigated the accident, McCamey was going west on highway 60 and made a left turn directly in front of the Nunley car, which was going east on the highway.

"McCamey was trying to turn too early," Self said. "He was 80 feet east of the intersection and on the wrong side of the road. He hit the Nunley car head on and both cars were totally demolished."

"I don't believe there were any critical injuries, just severe, but superficial cuts and bruises," Self said.

McCamey was taken to Highland General in a Poston Funeral Home ambulance and a Duenkel - Carmichael ambulance took the Nunley family.

May Gas Ruling Will Stand Says Supreme Court

WASHINGTON (UPI)— The Supreme Court refused today to reconsider its decision on May 20, 1963, upholding the "area method" for regulation of natural gas producer rates by the Federal Power Commission.

When the commission was regulating only pipeline rates, it considered separately each company's cost of service and allowed a return on the investment.

But when producer rates came under FPC jurisdiction following a 1954 Supreme Court decision, the commission adopted an entirely new formula of price fixing on a sectional basis.

California asked the high court to re-examine the issue. "This... approach is fraught with so many constitutional statutory and practical difficulties, that at this date it is still generally considered to be visionary," the petition said.

Answer to World's Protein Problem May Be Chickens

CENTER, Tex. (UPI)— The answer to the world's animal protein problem could be chicken—fried, broiled, baked or boiled.

Growers in East Texas and elsewhere have learned how to raise broilers for as little as 13 cents a pound. It does not require much space and 8½-9 weeks after a chicken is hatched, it weighs 3¼-3½ pounds and is ready to eat.

Partly automated processing plants slaughter, dress and pack birds in ice by the thousands an hour. They send everything to the grocer except a broiler's feathers, neck, feet and most of his insides.

All of the waste, including the feathers, is ground up, mixed with grains, vitamins and minerals and fed back to new generations of broilers.

Millions of poverty-stricken human beings throughout the world never get enough animal protein, which they need for energy and mental alertness.

Frazier thinks the very efficiency of the U.S. broiler industry is what caused the European Common Market to impose a tariff of more than 13 cents a pound last year on U.S. poultry imports. The U.S. broiler industry lost $46 million last year because of the tariff.

European growers have studied U.S. broiler production methods thoroughly enough to understand them, Frazier said. But they have never been able to completely apply them. It costs some European producers twice as much to produce broilers as it does American growers.

United Fund Support Urged

If the Pampa-Lefors area does not meet its goal of $62,000 to support the activities of the United Fund, the activities of these agencies will be impaired and their ability to meet the needs of the Pampa-Lefors area will be restricted, according to Clyde Carruth, United Fund drive chairman.

Carruth also stated "these coordinated efforts to raise operating funds for our welfare and character building agencies make fund raising more efficient and equitable."

The United Fund slogan is "Go All the Way—Give One Day's Pay."

Cigarette Firms Win Appeal Suit

WASHINGTON (UPI)— The Supreme Court refused today to consider an appeal by a Louisiana widow who unsuccessfully sued two cigarette firms on the ground they were responsible for her husband's death of lung cancer.

The action was taken at the court's first working session of the new term featured by announcement by the justices of various appeals they were either accepting for argument, or rejecting.

Immediately after announcement of the court orders, the justices began hearing arguments on the first of five Negro sit-in cases that might have far-reaching impact on the right of private business to practice racial discrimination.

The smoking case was brought to the Supreme Court by Mrs. Victoria St. Pierre Lartigue. She sued the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. and the Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co. after the death of her husband in 1955.

In seeking damages, she charged that the sale of cigarettes by the two makers implied a "warranty of wholesomeness."

A New Orleans federal jury ruled against her and the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals upheld the finding on April 19 of this year. The Supreme Court's brief order today let the lower court findings stand.

An investigating committee, whose members were assailed as "murderers" on their arrival here Sunday, convened today to try to determine the cause of the disaster that killed an estimated 2,260 persons last week.

"Murderers, murderers" screamed 500 survivors Sunday when President Antonio Segni arrived by helicopter at the town of Longarone, where most of the victims were killed.

"We need justice," the crowd howled. "What do we do now... we are completely lost... our homes are destroyed."

Segni appeared pale and shaken as he toured the area and listened to the sobs rising from a funeral Mass in Belluno. At times he had to be steadied by aides.

Police Enjoy Quiet Week End

Pampans apparently were on their good behavior during the week end, according to the few reports and complaints filed with police from Saturday midnight until mid-forenoon today.

Police Captain Denny Roan said the period covered comprised one of the lightest week ends from a police standpoint in many weeks.

"We had only a few minor complaints," Roan said. "These included such things as boys throwing rocks at each other and a missing juvenile who has been missing several times before."

NEW YORK — Pete Rozelle, commissioner of the National Football League, absolving former New York Giants quarterback Charley Conerly of any wrongdoing in transactions with an accused gambler: "Conerly is, and always has been, a credit to the National Football League."

NEW YORK — Oil Facts reports that although offshore oil and gas wells account for less than 1.4 per cent of all wells drilled in the United States, expenditures for these wells amount to nearly 10 per cent of the petroleum industry's total drilling costs.

During 1961, the last year for which complete figures are available, 606 of the 43,988 wells drilled were offshore.

Total drilling costs were $2.4 billion; the cost of drilling the offshore wells came to $331 million.

E. F. Hutton & Co. says that "if the market averages are to keep moving ahead, strength will probably have to flow into the standard groups as the specialty and glamour issues have done more than their share thus far this year."

WASHINGTON — President Kennedy, commenting on Sen. Barry Goldwater's probable campaign for the Republican presidential nomination: "I think Sen. Goldwater has a trying seven or eight months (ahead of him) which will test his endurance and his perseverance and his agility."

Live-at-home coed converts her bedroom to the dormitory studio-style room by leaning toward more tailored furnishings. The brightly striped bedspread is ruggedly washable. Narrow bookcase in corner holds doll collection and books.

'Dorm' Life At Home

By KAY SHERWOOD
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
A new wrinkle in back-to-college education these days is the number of students who live at home and commute to junior colleges, state or city colleges or specialized schools.

I've heard parents discuss the pros and cons of stay-at-home college experience. One regret I hear (mainly from mothers) is that while such arrangements are economical, the student misses something in not going away from home—sorority life, or dormitory living with a roommate, and the self-reliance and independence that are also part of college learning.

Some families I know encourage a more collegiate spirit by increasing their child's allowance and the items it must cover to acquaint her with money management.

One move student and family often make is to realign the household, especially her bedroom, to fit more into the dormitory spirit and to provide a place where new friends may meet.

College pennants will go up in the family room; records of current campus fame will appear by the phonograph and times for entertainment will be staked out when young brother is not to heckle.

The "cute" girl's bedroom may shift to a more tailored, grown-up appearance. William Stark, designer of bedspreads for a well-known firm (Bates), points out that the live-at-home student usually gives her "dormitory" room the appearance of a studio room. The easiest and least expensive way to change a room's look is to change bedspreads and draperies. At the same time, some of the toys of yesteryear should be shelved, although most teenagers we know still cling to a favorite stuffed animal as No. 1 decoration.

A studio-type bedroom can take a bright solid color, plaid, check or striped spread just as in a true dormitory. Tailored draperies may be matching or made from an extra spread of a co-ordinating solid color. The student will also need extra shelving for books.

To save hours of scouring, boil a solution of one tablespoon of cream of tartar and one quart of water in a blackened aluminum pan.

Dear Abby... Don't Take Good-Humored Guesses Serious

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Several days ago my friend had her first child, a boy. Three weeks before she had the baby her doctor told her that, according to her heart beat, she was going to have a girl. My friend believed the doctor and gave away all the gifts she received for a girl, thinking she'd have no use for them. Now that she has a boy she is very disappointed and angry because she gave away many things she could have used. Don't you think her doctor should be held responsible for what she lost out on?

A FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND: There is no way to foretell the sex of a child before birth. Some doctors will take a good-humored guess, but their predictions are rarely taken seriously. Nor should they be.

DEAR ABBY: I think you gave that 17-year-old sinner a bum steer when you told her to quit her job because a lecherous middle-aged man tried to kiss her. If she quits a job every time she runs into that, she'll be looking for a new job every week. Why not stop him cold with, "No more of that! You're too fine a man to behave that way!"

MADELINE

DEAR MADELINE: Are YOU kidding? That wouldn't stop a high school freshman. There's only one way to straighten out a lecher, short of using a baseball bat—and that's to remove yourself from the scene.

DEAR ABBY: Something happened last night and I'm still shaking. My fiance and I were driving through a residential district at exactly ten o'clock. There were no lights, and the speed limit was 15 m.p.h. We were doing about ten. Suddenly, out of nowhere, a small boy, no more than nine years old, appeared in front of us on a bicycle. We came within inches of hitting him. There was not a single light or reflector on his bike and he was riding it right down the middle of the street. Slow as we were going, we might have killed him. He didn't seem the least bit disturbed about his close call. He just laughed and went pedaling

W.M.U. of First Baptist Church Holds Circle Meetings in Homes

Circle meetings were held by the Woman's Missionary Society of the First Baptist Church Oct. 9. The Ann Coffman Circle met in the home of Mrs. E. E. Brown. The prayer calendar was read followed by prayer by Mrs. C. E. Pennington. During the business session conducted by Mrs. Brown, officers for the circle were appointed. The mission book, "Mandelbaum Gate," was taught by Mrs. Ophelia Morris. Following the program, coffee was served to 11 members. The next meeting will be in the home of Mrs. Bob Allen, 2209 N. Sumner on Oct. 23.

GREAT DAY

FOR GETTING THINGS DONE BY PHONE

So maybe the rain is coming down in sheets. Lightning flashing. Thunder booming. No matter how wretched the weather, you can keep right on using your telephone. Some years ago, bad weather might have affected your telephone service. Today, things are different. Most telephone cables are now filled with pressurized dry air. If a cable springs a leak, the force of the escaping dry air holds out moisture and keeps phones working. An alarm automatically tells repairmen the location of the break. Usually, the trouble is fixed and you never know anything was wrong. So go ahead and use your phone when the sky opens up and the rain comes down. Pressurizing telephone cables to give you stormproof dependability is another improvement made with you in mind. Our never-ending goal is to improve your telephone service and make-it more valuable to you.

Coach Pleased With PHS Play

The long-awaited first win of the season brought smiles to the faces of Pampa football coach Otis Holladay and his staff Sunday as they reviewed films of Saturday night's Caprock game.

"There were a few mistakes," admitted Holladay. "There always are, win or lose, but on the whole we were well-pleased. Our defense held them to 143 yards rushing and 50 passing, and we're proud of that. Sam Williams, Ricky Goodwin, Phil Smith and Rickey Stewart, as you said, did a tremendous job on defense. So did Terry Criss and Billy Quarles. Quarles had six unassisted tackles and 12 assists.

"We were tickled to death with the improvement in our pass defense. They only hit on six of 15 throws. We were giving them the short ones too, we were defending the long bomb, and we did.

"The two-platooning of backfields did very well, too, and it looks like we'll go with that. Hebert led Eugene Madrid, Larry Gregory and Stewart the first half, and they gained very well, especially Madrid with 60 yards and Gregory with 45. Then we put in a fresh backfield in the second half, Keith Griffith, Ronnie Oler and Jerry Garrison. Griffith, who did one of his best jobs this season, picked up 60 more yards and Oler 25 and Garrison 26. With Hebert gain-

Jimmy Brown Rides Again for Cleveland

By NORMAN MILLER
UPI Sports Writer

Mike Ditka did the job with his hands, Charley Johnson with his arm and Herb Adderley with his chest, but Jimmy Brown outdid them all with his incredible churning legs.

Brown was simply superb Sunday when he broke loose for two long third-period touchdowns that sent the Cleveland Browns on to a 35-24 victory over the New York Giants in their battle for first place in the Eastern Division of the National Football League. It was Cleveland's fifth win without a defeat.

Ditka caught four touchdowns passes as the Chicago Bears extended their record to 5-0 in the Western Division with a 32-14 rout of the winless Los Angeles Rams.

Johnson helped the St. Louis Cardinals remain in contention behind the Browns when he completed two last-period touchdown passes, the winning one with six seconds left to play, in a 24-23 squeaker over the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Blocked Field Goal

And Adderley, a defensive back with a remarkable knack for hitting the headlines, blocked a potential game-winning field goal try by the Minnesota Vikings, permitting teammate Hank Gremminger to pick up the loose ball and run 80 yards for a clinching touchdown as the defending champion Green Bay Packers won, 37-28.

Linebacker Chuck Howley was a hero in the Dallas Cowboys' first win of the season, intercepting two passes that set up a touchdown and field goal in a 17-14 upset victory over the Detroit Lions.

In the two other games: Son-

Dumas Vs. Lawton Key AAA Battle

By United Press International

Dumas' dandy Demons apparently will be able to carry an untarnished record into their third successive state Class AAA schoolboy playoff if they can clear the hurdle facing them this week.

The Demons, who have won the crown the past two years, play host Friday night to Lawton, Okla., a perennial power in Sooner State circles and one which played AAAA Wichita Falls to a 6-6 tie last week.

After this game, Dumas turns to its district schedule and there does not appear any team in 1-AAA capable of staying within two to three touchdowns of the Demons.

The AAA division has several games of statewide interest on this week's slate in addition to the Dumas-Lawton battle.

Andrews and Kermit meet in a 2-AAA game that could decide the eventual district champ that would face Dumas in the playoffs; Graham plays Stephenville, the team which upset Brownwood, in a crucial 4-AAA game; Nacogdoches and Palestine get together in a tilt involving 7-AAA title contenders; Nederland and Orange figure to settle the 9-AAA issue this week and the same may be true in 11-AAA when Bay City meets Lamar Consolidated although the latter was upset last week.

The top game in Class AAAA pits San Angelo, the pre-season division favorite, against a Midland High team that is bound to be spoiling for a fight after being upset by Abilene and knocked off its No. 1 state ranking.

Other AAAA games of major interest include Port Arthur at Lake Charles, La. La Grange, Lufkin at Port Neches, Abilene High at Odessa Permian and Lubbock High at Borger.

West Texas Was Last Undeclared

By United Press International

There will not be any teams with perfect records this year in the Texas independent college football circles.

The last perfect record team — West Texas State — fell Saturday to Arizona State 24-16. The Buffs' big gun, Pistol Pete Pedro, was on the sidelines with an injury.

Abilene Christian matched West Texas' 3-1 record by beating Northwest Louisiana 28-18.

In top games this week, Houston goes on the road to play Mississippi State, Texas Western hosts Arizona State, and West Texas entertains Memphis State.

In other games, Arlington goes to McMurry, Lamar Tech hosts Sul Ross, Tarleton visits Henderson (Ark.) State, Texas Lutheran goes to New Mexico Highlands, Corpus Christi to Southeast Louisiana and Austin College entertains Ouachita College.

In other games last week, Arizona defeated Texas Western 13-7, Corpus Christi fell to Mexico Poly 27-12 and Sewanee defeated Austin College 29-19. The only other victories earned by independents came when Arlington State, upset Southeast Louisiana 14-13 and Tarleton State blasted Texas Lutheran 31-0.

Other games saw Hardin-Simmons bow 26-12 to Wichita, McMurry absorb a 46-4 beating at the hands of Southwest Texas, Trinity fall to New Mexico State 40-8, Houston lose to Texas A&M 23-13, and Tech fall to S.F. Austin 27-16.

Gindorf Sole TT Cage Grad

LUBBOCK (Sp)—Bobby Gindorf of Pampa, Texas Tech's leading scorer in Southwest Conference play, will be the only 1962-63 starter missing as the Red Raiders begin workouts Tuesday.

Coach Gene Gibson's cagers will work in the gymnasium until Nov. 5, when they will move into the Coliseum.

Besides Gindorf, other lettermen lost by graduation are Gilbert Varnell and Milton Mickey.

Two-year lettermen reporting are Mike Gooden of Lubbock, Tom Patty of Carlsbad, N. M., Sid Wall of Dallas and Mike Farley of Lubbock.

One-year lettermen are Harold Denney of Amarillo, Glen Halm of Brownwood, Bill Murren of Atlantic City, N. J., and Royce Woolard of Midland.

Joe Fox of Gainesville is the lone squadman. Sophomores are James Adams of Midland, John (Dub) Malaise of Odessa, Bob Measels of Seminole, Dave Olsen of Las Cruces, N. M., Norman Reuther of Fort Worth, Russ Wilkinson of Lubbock and Billy Tapp of Lubbock.

Terrific Upsets Throughout Major College Football

By MARTIN LADER
UPI Sports Writer

The topsy-turvy world of college football plays no favorites and its "darling" of last weekend may prove the prize patsy next Saturday.

Texas played a prime role as upsetting a week as the collegians have ever experienced by knocking off Oklahoma, the top-ranked team in the country, 28-7. But the football very possibly can bounce the other way when the second-ranked Longhorns face always-rugged Arkansas Saturday night.

Relief also appears in sight for Alabama, Navy and Nebraska, all of whom meet comparatively weak foes next Saturday. Alabama takes on Tennessee (1-3), Navy plays Virginia Military Institute (1-2-1) and Nebraska is at Kansas State (1-3).

Pittsburgh, which has feasted thus far on three West Coast opponents, tests its powerful offense against traditional and bitter rival West Virginia. The Mountaineers have split four games this season but usually show their best against Pittsburgh.

Wisconsin, favored to take the Big Ten crown, faces a severe challenge at unbeaten Iowa. Penn State will have its hands full at Syracuse and Southern California and Ohio State will collide at Los Angeles.

Potent SD Chargers Rank Western Loop

By United Press International

The San Diego Chargers have mixed age with youth to brew a team that looks potent enough to win them the Western Division title of the American Football League.

Tobin Rote, 35, supplies the age and John Hadl, 23, supplies the youth. And more than a short snort of either is enough to kayo most any rival.

Rote's heroics were mainly responsible for carrying the Chargers to three victories in their first four games. The veteran had his troubles Sunday and so the sophomore quarterback from the University of Kansas came off the bench to lead the Chargers to their 24-20 victory over the New York Jets.

The win enabled the Chargers to take a 1 1/2-game lead in the West while the loss left the Jets only a half game ahead of Boston and Houston in the East.

Jackie Kemp ran for one touchdown and passed for two others to lead the Buffalo Bills to a 35-26 upset of the Kansas City Chiefs and George Blanda threw three touchdown passes as the Houston Oilers defeated the Denver Broncos, 33-24, in Sunday's other AFL games. Boston beat Oakland, 20-14, Friday night.

Jack Kemp scored on a one-yard plunge and passed 63 and 89 yards for touchdowns to give the Bills their victory over the Chiefs. It was a wide-open throwing duel with Kemp connecting on 12 of 24 for 300 yards and Kansas City's Len Dawson on 23 of 46 for 216 yards. Cookie Gilchrist also scored two touchdowns for the Bills.

Blanda passed for three touchdowns, engineered a fourth, kicked a 38-yard field goal and converted on all Houston's touchdowns except one in a brilliant all-around performance.

Great Weekend For SWC Teams

It was a glorious weekend for the Southwest Conference.

But it's time to file away those intersectional scalps, and get ready to defend the family name in four crucial clashes that will go a long way in deciding who will represent the SWC in the Cotton Bowl Jan. 1.

Tremendous Texas, which soundly thrashed the nation's No. 1 team Oklahoma, 28-7, will no doubt inherit the hot seat itself. This should give added incentive, if any is needed, to the Longhorn's opponent this week — twice-beaten Arkansas.

Hogs Upset

The Razorbacks, wounded 14-10 by the upstart Baylor Bears, will be doubly dangerous for the Steers in their long-awaited game at Little Rock Saturday night. Arkansas must win or see any chances of a title just about drip down the drain.

Texas, which cut Oklahoma apart on the ground with the skill of a surgeon, could take a giant step toward the title with a victory.

Baylor and its bulkeye passing ace Don Trull take on unpredictable Texas Tech at Lubbock.

The Southern Methodist-Rice tussle at Houston also will bear watching.

Mustangs Romp

The Mustangs used muscles they apparently didn't know they had in outlasting the nation's fourth-ranked team Navy Friday night in the Cotton Bowl 32-28. SMU's razzle-dazzle offense featuring jumping bean John Roderick, who whipped in and around the Middles like a greased greyhound for 146 yards and two touchdowns, will pose many problems for the Owls.

Rice slept through most of its game with Stanford Saturday night, but finally conquered the Indians 23-13.

Texas Christian, which gave up the ball seven times to the Red Raiders on fumbles and interceptions and still whipped them 35-3, will face Texas A&M at Fort Worth without the services of second string quarterback Randy Howard.

Howard dislocated a rib and will be out about a month.

Lone Star Roundup

By United Press International

Texas A&I, well on its way to a successful defense of its Lone Star Conference football crown, will sit back and take it easy this week and see what darkhorse threat Sam Houston State will do as it invades Commerce Saturday to meet East Texas.

Another title contender, Southwest Texas, romped by McMurry 46-6 in a non-league game. S.F. Austin ripped ex-Lone Star Conference member Lamar Tech 27-6 in another non-league battle.

Southwest Texas visits S. F. Austin this week at Nacogdoches, while Sul Ross visits Lamar Tech at Beaumont.

Howard Payne, like Texas A&I, is idle.

Sporting Sidelines

by JEFF COHANE

A LONG-AWAITED and well-deserved win finally got the season rolling for the Pampa Harvesters Saturday night. It was really a team effort, too, as all the boys who were congratulated insisted that someone else should get the credit... the line praising the backfield, the offense the defense, etc. One incident that brought a lot of pleasure to the Ol' Swami and his staff occurred at half-time. As everyone came back to their seats for the second-half kickoff, Pat Patterson, Tascosa coach, called out sarcastically "Hey, Cohane, when do you wind Hebert up and start him running?" Rather nonplussed, I replied offhandedly, "Oh, we just stick a pin in him when it's time." A few moments later, the Flying Frenchman started to roll, going for a touchdown which, unfortunately, was called back. At this juncture, statistician Myron Aftergut called loudly "Hey, Jeff, didn't someone say something about sticking a pin in Hebert?" Dead silence from the coaches' corner.

OTIS HOLLADAY is a very frank and plain-spoken man, except when it comes to strategy. When it comes to new plays like the "lonesome end," or two-platooning the backfield, Otis is either mum as the grave or puts this scribe under a seal of confidence, to insure that other coaches don't get wind of his surprises. However, the Harvesters have been whomping up some new formations in practice lately which appear as explosive as a Titan missile. Since they haven't been used against Caprock, it wouldn't be a bad guess to say that something new may be unveiled against Monterey Friday night.

SPEAKING OF OTIS, that man is as lucky as a Chinese fortune cookie salesman. The Ol' Swami felt rather good about last week's predictions, got the first nine high school games in a row, including such upsets as Mobeetie, Wheeler and Lefors, before being caught short by Abilene's defeat of Midland. Had a nice bulge on the Head Harvester until he started pulling such upsets out of the hat as Notre Dame, Texas and SMU. Ended up with Otis, Brown Smith and myself each 14-6 for the week, Ray Howard 13-7 and Eural Ramsey slipping down to 12-8. Otis picked up a game and now leads the pack with 68-25, Brown and the Ol' Swami trail by five, 63-30, Ray and Eural share the cellar with 62-31. Ouch!

A MAMMOTH HULK yelped Curtis Fletcher dropped in to visit this week end. Fletch is up to 192 pounds and looks strong as an ox, and reports both he and Carl Clark are doing well at McMurry. Carl, up to 225, impressed the defensive coaches by nearly tearing the starting center's head off in practice last week, and made the travelling squad to the Southwest Texas game. Frosh team action for the Indians begins Thursday at Arlington State, with the ex-Harvesters coming home the following Thursday when they play the West Texas frosh at Canyon. Plenty of room for anyone wanting to go down and see how the boys do.

INCIDENTALLY, Curtis almost got shanghaied by Bo Brown of the Optimist Boxing Club. Curt did a little sparring with kid brother Ronnie, who is getting in shape for a match against Liberal this Thursday night, and really racked him up. The show, by the way, is slated to be a good one, with Johnny Ironmonger heading up a ton card. More about that later this week.

A LARGE conclave of scouts from throughout the area was present at the Wheeler-McLean game, and all agreed that Wheeler had one of the finest B teams seen in many years. McLean was, and is, a darn good team, but those Mustang speedboys simply ran past them before they could move. Several of us were dreaming of what a Lefors-Wheeler game would look like, and it appears we'll get our wish next year when the Pirates drop into Class B. With Lefors, Wheeler, Groom, Claude and Miami in the same district, that is going to be rough! McLean and Canadian will get no relief however, as Lefors will be replaced by the potent White Deer Bucks.

Another Hero

Dr. Ray F. Lowry, back in El Dorado, Kansas, has joined our growing list of unsung heroes. He is one more of the many who have refused to send his children to a government indoctrination mill, called a "public school," and insists on educating them at home.

The Kansas Supreme Court has ruled against Dr. Lowry. It says that his youngsters are truant if they don't trot off to the government school each morning, just as the law book says.

But Dr. Lowry says: "We haven't surveyed the situation yet, but we are not at all discouraged. We are sure we will win eventually."

Normally, when the government reveals its mailed fist in connection with schools, the big issue raised is over the qualifications of the parents to teach their own kiddies. It turns out that Mrs. Lowry and her two eldest children, Eldon, 15 and Austin 12, attended a summer class at Emporia State College. Mrs. Lowry, who is working on her master's thesis, has a life teacher's certificate in Kansas. Of course, during the summer the other children, Roberta, 11, Forrest, 10, and Dakota, 8, have been taught at home by their mother in a room especially converted into a classroom.

Says Dr. Lowry: "The question is whether or not we've lost the freedom to train our own children. Does that right belong completely to the state? Do we have any freedom left?" It's a fair question.

"This is no grudge fight," Dr. Lowry continues. "We have no anger toward anyone. It is just a general dissatisfaction with the teaching in public school."

"We figure the children should not be spending the whole day up there and not get any more than they seemed to be getting out of it."

"We were not trying to do anything unlawful, and we think eventually it will all work out because it is a fundamental right. We are fighting for the children of the whole state, of the whole nation."

He is as right as any right can be.

But this is getting to be an old story in this country. The law, which deprives all of us forcibly of some of our money to keep its monstrous school bureaucracy running, also compels every child to attend a school of the government's own choosing for a varying number of years.

But why should this be? If education is as important as most of us think it is, there certainly is no reason to force young people to go. If they don't want to go, it might be better for them to stay until they finally learn what they are missing. Chances are excellent that the law in most states regarding compulsory attendance could be repealed without the slightest harm to the future of the country. Indeed, it would appear that the country could benefit by 1) having fewer children attend but who would be far more interested in school and 2) by having some of those who attend now under duress, learn the real value of schooling so they would hunger for it.

When Plato was trying to set up his ideal of a "perfect state" he envisaged a system wherein children would be taken from their parents at the age of two, to be trained and conditioned by the state. In state institutions (government schools) they could be taught best how to serve the state. This is exactly what Russia has done, tho it doesn't begin at age two. We wonder what would happen in this country if the government approved a general plan transferring care of youngsters to the state.

Would there be other Dr. Lowrys coming forward then to protest and to try to retain custody of their own children? We hope so.

In the present case, we only hope Dr. Lowry and his capable spouse are able to win their point.

Welfare Sandhill

In youthful exuberance most of us have tried running up the side of a steep sandhill and have been convinced by exhaustion that the harder we run the slower we go. Providing security by statute for the American people, through the initiation of costly federal welfare programs of one sort or another is now burdening us with a similar experience.

Public welfare may soon take as many taxpayer dollars as national defense. Ralph F. Moore, writing in the Oregon Voice, observes that we must soon choose whether it is in the public interest to tax away the individual's ability to provide for himself so that, after earning years are past, he must necessarily become a ward of the government's welfare program. Or whether it will be wiser to lessen the earner's tax burden so that he, himself, can provide for his own welfare.

The real value of social security payments for retired people has already been eroded away as our dollars have depreciated through years of federal deficits and inflation. In the long run the government can buy no more than it can pay for. By ignoring this the American welfare state is destroying the integrity of the dollar and the security of the people.

Wearing a clerical collar instead of an astronaut's suit, a 47-year-old New York clergyman made history by travelling only a fraction less mileage than the distance to the moon in one journey over the earth's surface. This globe-trotter is Canon Howard A. Johnson of the Episcopal Cathedral of St. John the Divine, who covered 200,000 miles and crossed the equator six times while visiting 80 countries to see how his fellow Christians live around the globe. During the journey, which lasted 730 days, he slept in 204 beds, flew in 210 airplanes, and endured hundreds of mosquito bites. Canon Johnson flew from below sea level to mountain tops, from frigid to torrid zones. He tells all about it in an exciting book, "Global Odyssey," published by Harper & Row. Everyone enjoys travel books, but here is one that is truly different.

Paul Anderson, 1956 Olympic champion weightlifter, says the Russians will "clobber" us unless we put more emphasis on physical training in this country. He points out that too much importance is given to major sports here, and not enough to participation athletics. He says 60 million Russians are taking part in organized athletics. He urges that schools put gymnastics more in the limelight, not simply because it is a conditioner type of sport, but because more can actively participate. We agree.

Guess Who We Saw -

Allen-Scott Report
Dominican Junta Ambassador Gives OAS, Senate Committee Alarming Report on Red Infiltration

ROBERT ALLEN
PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON—Despite those carefully planted State Department news stories to the contrary, the military junta that ousted President Juan Bosch did uncover a real Communist menace within the Dominican Republic.

J. A. Bonilla-Atilles, the Dominican Republic's new ambassador to the O.A.S., has turned over shocking evidence of this Communist infiltration to both the Organization of American States and the Senate Armed Services Preparedness Subcommittee, which is probing Communist infiltration in the Caribbean.

His alarming report includes the names of a dozen Communists or fellow travelers and their key roles in the Bosch cabinet or other government agencies including:

Dr. Miguel Angel Dominguez Guerra, Minister of Interior
Dr. Diego Bordas, Minister of Industry

Luis del Rosario Ceballos, Minister of Public Works
Miguel Angel Valquez Mainardi, Secretary of Senate
Julio Martinez, director of government TV-radio station, Santo Domingo

Ramon Alberto Ferreras Manuel, official of government TV-radio network

Of these high-level officials in the Bosch government, the activities of Dr. Guerra were the most blatantly pro-Castro. The Bonilla-Atilles report reveals that Bosch's Minister of Interior greeted Communist agitators from Cuba with open arms, stating:

"Dr. Miguel Angel Dominguez Guerra, Minister of the Interior and Police, is a member of the Partido Socialista Popular (Communist Party) and also brother-in-law of the well-known Communist, Dr. Tulio Hostillo Arvelo Delegado, whom he hid in his residence when the latter was facing deportation by the Consejo de Estado (former government before Bosch) because of his Communist activities."

"During the Bosch administration, when two Communist agitators, Dr. Pedro Mir, and one of the Ducoudray brothers, returned to Santo Domingo from Cuba, Dr. Guerra not only welcomed them but for a time they were his house-guests. Most of the weapons and fire-arms in the hands of the Communists today in the Dominican Republic were smuggled in by Dr. Guerra during the time he was in the cabinet."

CALLING THE ROLL—The reference to Dr. Diego Bordas, the Minister of Industry, who is now in exile in Puerto Rico with Bosch, is just as sensational.

According to the Bonilla-Atilles report, "Dr. Bordas is one of the most active economic backers of the MPD (Marxist - Leninist Party)." He toured the U.S. and Europe with Bosch following the latter's election last year.

The report charges that "Dr. Bordas, at the time of the military take-over, was planning a revolution of his own, in close association with the Communists and leaders of the MPD. Before he was arrested and deported, Dr. Bordas started to place his Communist friends in key positions in government enterprises, including a major cement plant."

Luis del Rosario Ceballos, an engineer and Minister of Public Works in Bosch's cabinet, was portrayed in the report as "an active member of the 14th of June movement." The report said he filled his department with Marxist-Leninists and pro-Castro officials.

Julio Martinez, ousted director of the government's TV-radio station in Santo Domingo, was one of the founders of the Cuban Communist newspaper Revolution. Together with Ramon Manuel, he directed the radio-TV attacks against all of Bosch's opponents, including blasts at the U.S.

DEEP PENETRATION—The military junta's evidence also clearly highlights the deep penetration of the Communists into the congressional as well as executive branch of the government.

Miguel Angel Valquez Mainardi, a Communist active in Venezuela, was appointed secretary of the senate by Bosch. He was associated with Dr. Molina Urena, president of the House of Representatives of the Dominican Republic, who is openly pro-Castro.

One of Bosch's most mysterious advisers, according to the report, was Sacha Volman. He is described as the "two-beak eagle" because of reports that he worked for the CIA and the Russians. Another mystery man was Sanchez Fernandez, former president of Union Civica Nacional. Expelled because of his Communist activities, Sanchez Fernandez is now in Russia.

A second report detailing how the Bosch government paid for trips of Dominican Republic students and government officials to Cuba is being prepared for submission to the OAS and the Senate committee by the military junta.

The military leaders, headed by Armed Forces Minister Elby Vinas Roman, are ready to turn over all this information to the State Department when requested to do so. At the present time, because the new government is not recognized by the U.S., no formal submission of the information can be made to the U.S.

Since ousting Bosch, the military have outlawed the Communist Party and organizations supporting Cuban Premier Fidel Castro, arresting more than 100 officials and deporting them.

FOREIGN FLASHES—Senator George Aiken, R-Vt., member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, is forecasting that the U.S. will recognize the new Dominican Republic regime

Edson In Washington Latins Limp Along Despite $6 Billion U.S. 'Crutch'

WASHINGTON (NEA)—News from Latin America always seems to be the most discouraging and there is much more of it.

This is emphasized by the overthrow of the Juan Bosch government in Dominican Republic and the Ramon Villeda Morales government in Honduras, for being too democratic.

In the past year there has been trouble of some kind in every country from Mexico to Honduras, back up the east coast to Venezuela and across the Caribbean to Cuba.

If there was just one country where the outlook was really bright, there would be hope and more encouragement.

The United States has been pouring aid into Latin America since Nelson Rockefeller took over the Good Neighbor policy in 1940. Twenty years later—after nearly $4 billion had been loaned or given away—this effort really boomed with President Kennedy's Alliance for Progress program.

Some $1.5 billion has been expended on it in fiscal years 1962 and 1963. Another $600 million has been asked for the current fiscal year. This would make the total $6 billion.

Tentative congressional cuts of 25 per cent or $10 million of this year's program have raised cries of alarm from the administration that it will sabotage the program.

But the opposition to it is based on a contention that foreign aid to Cuba did not prevent Fidel Castro from taking over any more than aid to Bosch prevented the generals from throwing him out for being soft on the Communists.

So even if foreign aid is not directly responsible for Latin American instability, the Alliance for Progress may be cut down as a sacrifice on the altars of economy.

Latin American Reaction to this possibility seems to be that whatever is wrong with the Alliance for Progress is primarily the fault of United States bad management. The contention is that the program cannot be run from Washington. They want it run by a Latin American organization and not between the U.S. and each country, separately.

Any thought that the United States will turn over to an international organization the control of wholly U.S. appropriated funds is ridiculous. Congress would never approve.

United States officials have made clear to the Latin Americans, however, that their increased participation in planning the Alliance for Progress would be welcome whenever they furnish the bulk of the resources for development.

In two years, only seven of the 19 Latin American countries have been able to work out their own development plans.

United States aid cannot be so that you can read the 20-20 line on your doctor's eye chart, your eyes are not weak. Neither nearsightedness or any other error in refraction will cause blindness.

If you look through a pair of binoculars and everything is blurred, you adjust the length of the binocular tube and bring things back into focus. When your doctor fits you with glasses of any strength he brings things back into focus for you. Weak eyes? Popycock!

A few women who take this drug complain of such undesirable side effects as nausea, tenderness of the breasts and irritability, but those who are able to take it are relieved of their painful symptoms.

When the drug is taken over a prolonged period there is a gradual disappearance of the abnormal tissue, so that when the treatment is successful a permanent cure can usually be claimed. A few recurrences have been reported.

In the 20 per cent in whom medical treatment is not successful, surgical treatment can still be resorted to. We are justified in saying, therefore, that with skillful treatment this annoying disease can be successfully treated in practically all those who have it.

Q—I am nearsighted. When my eye doctor changed my glasses last month he had to make the lenses stronger. My friends say that this means that my eyes are getting weaker. Will I eventually go blind?

A—The term "weak eyes" is one of the most frequently misapplied phrases in popular use.

No matter how strong the lens "within a month." . . . Speaker John McCormack, D-Mass., has privately urged the President to recognize the new regime and restore the $50 million U.S. aid program to the new government

Question Box
We invite questions on economic and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.

QUESTION: Reduced to the irreducible, what is friendship if it is not: "I will not steal from you in any manner or under any pretext and, if you are truly my friend, you will not steal from me either?"

ANSWER: Friendship is much more than "I will not steal from you." But it would be an insurmountable obstacle to attempt to erect a friendship on any other base than this. Friendship can exist between persons who do not steal from each other. It hardly could endure otherwise. But friendship includes a love, a devotion, an understanding, and a trust that is based with confidence upon respect of the rights of the friend. Remove property rights and friendship will depart at once.

'COMRADES' IN CONFLICT: RED GIANTS BATTLE FOR WORLD COMMUNIST LEADERSHIP

Donna Reed's Own Four Children Are Her Severest Video Critics

By VERNON SCOTT
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Donna Reed has twice as many children at home as she does on her television series, but, thankfully, only half the number of domestic crises.

Viewers have been exposed to her two video sprouts for five years, but Donna and her husband (producer Tony Owen) have purposely screened their own four youngsters from the limelight. Their brood includes Penny, 16; Tony Jr., 15; Timmy, 13, and Mary Ann, 6.

If that were not houseful enough, the family also harbors three birds, including a parrot, and a golden retriever named Susie.

By almost any standards the Owen family is rich. They live well, entertain frequently and lead a delightfully informal life in a one-story English country — style home in Beverly Hills. They own a small house in Palm Springs for vacations and all are avid tennis fans.

Donna is a middle class housewife on her ABC-TV show, but in Beverly Hills she is definitely upper, upper class financially. As a working mother she manages to spend a surprising amount of time with her family.

"It took me a couple of years after we started the show to work out a routine that allowed everything to get done and still preserve my sanity," she says. "The answer is organization."

We're early to bed and early to rise at our house."

Donna has breakfast and dinner with the children every week day, and talks to them frequently on the telephone during the day. Whenever a problem arises the children, including Mary Ann, telephone her at Screen Gems studios to ask for help. Even in the middle of a take Donna sets aside her career long enough to be a good mother.

Because she must spend eight or more hours on the set the Owen household functions with a housekeeper and cook. When there's a party, extra help is brought in.

Most of their entertaining consists of informal buffets featuring Donna's own culinary specialty, Beef Bourguignaise. Often dinner is followed by a movie on the family projection machine with Tony Jr., scientific expert of the family, acting as projectionist. Family conferences are held in a paneled library, hard by a small soda fountain where Timmy mixes outrageous concoctions. There's also a steam room for Tony Sr., who produces his wife's show. A crescent-shaped swimming pool occupies the clan on weekends when each member of the family invites one or two friends over for the day. Frequent guests are Donna's and Tony's brothers or sisters and their families. A couple of out-of-town visitors are common-place, too.

To meet emergencies Donna keeps plenty of ground round steak on hand for hearty barbecue buffets at which Papa Owen and Tony Jr. take turns at burning the hamburgers.

The four Owen children attend different schools, which means that Donna must belong to four different P.T.A. groups and confer with a quartette of school principals and teachers. And Donna interrupts her script studies to help the youngsters with school work.

At 42, Donna Reed — a native of Denison, Iowa, whose real name was Mullenger — sets aside Thursday nights for family viewing of the show. It has its own peculiar repercussions on the Owen forces. If the script calls for one of her television children to do something she would never permit her own offspring to do, her children set up a howl of indignation. Another complication was the confusion of little Mary Ann over her mother's "other family."

Donna admits her youngsters are the show's severest critics. But she listens to their suggestions and on occasion takes their advice to improve the show.

A close-knit family, the Owens take vacations together, too. Last year they all loaded their suitcases for a tour of Washington, Gettysburg and Boston. While visiting the capital Donna impressed the rest of the family with a surprise trip to the White House.

United Press International
The whimsy now is advanced that former President Eisenhower has asked former Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell whether he, Ike, is eligible to be elected vice president of the United States.

It is not suggested that Ike is much interested. But it is stated that he did ask Harry S. Truman got into the act in response to questions in New York. HST said that in his opinion a former president of the United States could seek the vice presidency but that it was a legal matter for the attorney general to decide.

All of this is disturbing to your correspondent's peace of mind, to say nothing of the shattering impact of this silly business on the bright little minds of students who, about now, are contemplating the elements of a course called "civics." Civics relates to citizenship, to civil affairs or, more generally, to the art and science of government.

These students probably will know by now that General Ike has sent Herb Brownell on a child's goose chase and that HST was talking through his hat. The shattering nature of all of this is that the students may suspect that these two statesmen never had read the Constitution which both twice swore to preserve, protect and defend. Or, if they did read it, they didn't understand it.

Might Do It
It is possible that a lawyer could torture out of the language of the Constitution some kind of rule that a two-term president of the United States thereafter could be nominated and elected vice president. A lawyer might be able to do that — a Philadelphia lawyer, maybe, or a Harvard. But I'll lay you a dollar to a dime that Herb Brownell did not learn that kind of law at the Yale Law School.

If Ike and HST had read the Constitution, they could not have missed the concluding sentence of Article 12, proposed by Congress Dec. 12, 1803, and proclaimed adopted Sept. 25, 1804. That sentence reads: "But no person constitutionally ineligible to the office of president shall be eligible to that of vice president of the United States." Plain enough? Bans Third Term
This sentence must be understood in the light of Article 22, effective Feb. 26, 1951, which forbade any person thereafter to be elected president more than twice. The third term amendment. It follows, then, that General Ike is constitutionally ineligible to the office of president and, therefore, is not eligible for election as vice president.

Of course Ike would dress up a stop-Kennedy ticket, even in second place, but the whole idea is balmy and should be filed in the loony bin.

However, we might get a new constitutional amendment requiring a candidate for president to prove he has read the U.S. Constitution before he is put in charge of preserving, protecting the defending same. Seems reasonable!

Foreign Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

Dissimilar though they may be, the dilemmas faced by the United States in South Viet Nam and Latin America have certain things in common.

In both, the United States is so deeply committed that failure in either would be a heavy blow to its prestige and its global policy of giving support to democracies against communism.

In both, despite the vast sums committed, the U.S. finds itself in a role in which it can advise but cannot command. Thus success depends upon each partner acting with equal vigor.

And hence the weakness of the U.S. position in both areas. Let us deal here with Latin America.

The Alliance for Progress now is just over two years old. As outlined by President Kennedy, it called for a $20 billion investment in Latin America over 10 years, half of the sum to come from the United States.

Would Lift Standards
Its purpose is to lift the living standards of 200 million Latin Americans and to strengthen democracy through peaceful evolution as opposed to violent revolution.

An important arm in helping to carry out the objectives of the alliance is supposed to be the Organization of American States (OAS).

The OAS is committed against communism and to defend democratic regimes against attacks from either right or left—whether it be a Communist dictatorship or a military coup.

But it also is committed to a policy of non-interference, making it impossible to bring collective action against Communist Cuba or against a disturbing series of military takeovers, of which there have been four this year and six in the last two years.

Brazil Has Problem
In Brazil, President Joao Goulart has been unable to carry out either his promises of reform or government austerity. Last week he called for and then withdrew his request for declaration of a state of siege. He satisfied neither the political left nor right, nor the army. His government remains a candidate for overthrow.

For the United States the problem daily becomes more pressing. Military regimes provide a natural rallying point for Communists who claim that Castro's is the only way. On the other hand, can the United States automatically condemn a military coup which takes over from a weak government which is its self-potential prey of communism?

Notes From Wall Street

NEW YORK (UPI) — Reynolds & Co. notes that two fundamental factors which may be causing nervousness in the market are the possible postponement of the tax bill and the sale of wheat to Russia.

It says "those who think that the tax cut will be seriously threatened or postponed are reminded that 1964 is a presidential election year and few legislators would risk voting against such a popular proposal. If Russia can give us gold, which we need, in exchange for a commodity which we have an abundance of, then it seems as if this country will be in better not worse shape."

Forbes Investgraphs, Inc., says that "the market, as a whole, has recovered but individual stocks have not. One cannot assume that the laggards will catch up. It is no longer valid to hang onto losers on pure hope. It is vital to look at each holding as of right now, not two years ago, regardless of what you paid for it or how high it once sold."

Thomson & McKinnon says that "business is confident and the statements that his full scale recovery, the average investor, having been subjected repeatedly to statements that his full scale entry into the stock market presages the beginning of the end, is cautious."

NEW YORK (UPI) — Investment advisers Brehman, Cummings & Co. expect that during the rest of October the popular averages will continue to show wide day-to-day price swings on comparatively low volume, "say between 720-750" in the Dow-Jones industrial.

However, it adds, despite the prospect of continued whiplashing and millie-around, "there is the possibility that interest may broaden into the many deserving issues which have gone nowhere since last spring." As for November — the advisers believe the market will be making new highs then.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Joan Whitney Payson, owner of the New York Mets baseball team Wednesday night asked comedian Joe E. Lewis to do her a favor. "I'd like for you to sing the Star Spangled Banner at the opening of our new Mets stadium next April," Mrs. Payson said jokingly after watching Lewis' show at a night club.

"Sing it?" Lewis said. "I'm lucky if I can say it."
