When Will Lil Abner Marry Daisy Mae?

"When will Lil Abner marry Daisy Mae?" In a letter to The Pampa News, a disturbed reader wrote to ask that question. To get an authoritative answer to this question, we wrote to Al Capp, who chronicles the doings of Dogpatch and the Yokum and Scraggs families in his famous comic. But Al himself proved helpless in the case. He wrote back to say that the best he could do would be to write to the perplexing principals, let them speak for themselves. And after doing so, Al wrote again: "I immediately got in touch with Dogpatch and am sending to all your Top O' Texas readers the replies of Lil Abner and Daisy Mae. I hope this will clear up the question."

Enrollment for Pampa's annual summer school will begin Monday morning in the high school building under direction of Tom Herod, assistant principal of the high school. He will be assisted by Kenneth Gardner on high school subjects. Commercial school work will be under supervision of Mrs. Frances Alexander. All solid subjects will be taught during the eight-week term which will end July 22. For the first time, commercial subjects will be taught at the summer school, Mr. Herod revealed today. Classes will begin at 7:30 o'clock each morning. There will be three periods a day, 7:30 until 9; from 9 until 10:30; from 10:30 until 12. One of the largest classes in history is expected to enroll for the eight-week term.

Only Gravel Needed Now To Finish Road

Completion of 18 months work on the Pampa-Borger road, resulting in an all-weather highway between these two cities, was imminent today. Only 6,000 feet of asphalt remains to be laid to the Gray county line before the 20.37-mile strip is finished. A carload of asphalt that delayed the finishing of the job Monday, was received at noon yesterday, but some gravel was lacking and the work could not be completed. Information was not available from the local office of the Texas Highway department as to whether or not this gravel had been received. If it has, the road will likely be finished today; if not, by Thursday. The road, a part of Highway 152, will be open all the way between Pampa and Borger as soon as it is completed. Grading and drainage work on the road started in December, 1937. At the same time work was started on the building of bridges and culverts. Preparation of the base started on October 11, 1938, and laying of asphalt on April 4 of this year.

Knife Wounds Kill Convict At Angleton

400 Fellows Stand Nearby; Assailant Unknown To Law
RETRIEVE PRISON FARM, ANGLETON, May 24 (AP)—While some 400 fellow convicts stood nearby, Richard A. Palmer, 26, life-terminer from Liberty county, was fatally stabbed by an unknown assailant in the hallway of the main prison building here early today. Prison authorities, launching an immediate investigation, were at a loss to explain circumstances of the attack. Palmer, who staggered unaided to the prison hospital quarters in the same building before he collapsed, died without giving information as to who his assailant was. Captain H. W. Miller, manager of the farm, said an inquest was being conducted by Justice of the Peace B. F. Cannon of Angleton. He said he notified prison authorities at Huntsville and that an immediate probe would be started. In Houston, Dr. Sidney M. Lister, chairman of the prison board, appointed a committee to work with Captain O. J. S. Ellingson, general manager of the prison system, in the investigation. Members are S. Denver Chesnut of Kenedy, vice chairman of the board, and Walter Dillard, new member from New Braunfels. Captain Miller said the stabbing occurred as the convicts were bunched in the prison hallway to leave for farm duty. He said Palmer, a member of the hoe squad, was to leave just after the plow men. There are 468 men in the prison.

Hears Cry Miller said he was standing outside the main doorway counting the men out when he heard a cry. He said he thought perhaps it was a trusty in the hospital. Miller said he believed Palmer was attacked from the rear. No weapon was found.

Hotel Detective Ends Life When Caught With Dope

HOUSTON, May 24 (AP)—Haley C. Addison, 68, House detective at a hotel and former manager of the retrieve prison farm, shot himself to death today when two policemen found a quantity of narcotics in his possession. A justice of the peace returned an inquest verdict of suicide. T. C. Pickens, patrolman, said he and his partner saw Addison talking to a woman on the street and they accosted him. Pickens said they found a quantity of narcotics in Addison's pockets and told the former prison farm manager they would have to take him to jail. "He jerked out a pistol and fired three shots," Pickens said. "I think he fired the first one at us and the other two into his body." Addison died instantly.

Bergdoll To Arrive In U. S. Thursday

WASHINGTON, May 24 (AP)—Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, best known World War draft dodger, appeared certain today of return to the United States before Congress could pass a law to exclude him. Chairman Sheppard (D-Tex.) of the Senate military affairs committee announced, after a dramatic hearing, that no attempt would be made to rush enactment of a bill, already passed by the House, to bar Bergdoll from this country. He is due at New York tomorrow. Bergdoll's attorney, Harry Weinberger, told the committee Bergdoll would be surrendered to military authorities at once. The exile, member of a wealthy Philadelphia family, refused military service in the war and after being arrested, escaped from federal officers. A five year prison term awaits him.

Lefors Youth Killed As Truck Hits Tree

Jerry Sadler Calls For Oil 'Show Down'
By EDWARD CURTIS. TULSA, Okla., May 24 (AP)—A threat of a crude oil production war came out of Texas to turn the industry's attention from its marketing problems today. Jerry Sadler, Texas railroad commissioner, called for a "show down" on production, complaining Illinois and Louisiana were overproducing and recommended "wide open" flow of Texas wells in July unless the situation was remedied. He said Louisiana and Illinois crude was moving into Texas; largest oil producer among the states. The commissioner's recommendation followed action of a special Illinois legislative committee which reported to the general assembly it considered production laws unnecessary for Illinois at present. Legislation is pending in Illinois to permit continuance of its membership in the Interstate Oil Compact Commission and Charles Orr, commission attorney, is en route to Lansing, Mich., to seek signature of the Michigan governor to the agreement. Oklahoma, Kansas, New Mexico, Texas and Colorado have enacted legislation for their membership.

Crude production increased 35,000 barrels daily for the week ended May 20, the Bureau of Mines reported. Gasoline stocks decreased slightly, with daily runs of crude to stills edging up 60,000 barrels daily. The gasoline market continued firm with some mid-continent and Great Lake refiners professing the brightest outlook for some time. Pump demand made itself felt. Tank wagon prices began to move higher. Field work continued active with 380 completions reported by the Oil

Brooklyn Will Be Sub Hospital Ship

ABOARD THE U. S. BROOKLYN OFF PORTSMOUTH, N. H. (By Wireless), May 24 (AP)—This 10,000-ton craft, newest of the navy's light cruisers, arrived just before noon today after a fog-delayed overnight run from the Brooklyn Navy yard to become the hospital ship for survivors of the stricken submarine Squalus. The Brooklyn, carrying emergency supplies and rescue paraphernalia under command of Captain W. W. Smith, dropped anchor a half mile from the submarine rescue ship Falcon, which sent down a rescue chamber to take men from the depths. Airplanes and flying boats circled in clear skies over the scene of operations and two dozen navy surface craft were grouped about the buoy marking the position of the disabled sub, among them the destroyer Semmes.

Youths Questioned About Boy's Death

LAREDO, May 24 (AP)—Four Mexican youths, ranging in age from 13 to 15 years, were questioned today in connection with the death of Arturo Vasquez, 16-year-old boy whose body was recovered from the Rio Grande yesterday. Officers first had been told the boy drowned while trying to swim across the stream to the Mexican side, but an autopsy revealed Vasquez suffered a broken neck and injuries to his nose, left cheek and an eye. No water was found in his lungs, leading officers to theorize he was dead before striking the water.

500,000 Will See Royalty At Winnipeg

By FRANK H. KING. WINNIPEG, May 24 (AP)—King George VI came today to the center of his great Canadian Dominion to speak to the 500,000 people of his realm on Empire Day, British worldwide holiday. His Empire Day broadcast, the first message ever spoke on a world hookup by a British king away from England, was awaited as the high point of the royal visit to Winnipeg, although the city has been celebrating the coming of King George and Queen Elizabeth for several days and last night staged a two-mile parade of 40 floats tracing the romantic history of the Canadian west. This city is overflowing with visitors from rural Manitoba and the United States. Estimates have been made that 50,000 Americans would swell local crowds along the 26-mile route of the royal drive thru the city this afternoon and see parts of the eight-hour program. In the late afternoon King George will stop at old Fort-Garry, now a Winnipeg park, to take in the unique ceremony of receiving rent from the head of the historic Hudson's Bay Company, founded in 1670. Two elk heads and two rare black beaver pelts were to be paid by the trading company whenever the king or his heirs visited the company's domain. Today offered the first opportunity in history for the payment of the "rent" to a reigning monarch. Once previously it was paid to the present Duke of Windsor, when he visited

Sponsors 'Blue' Over Prospects For Play Center

Pampans who have been working unceasingly for nearly three months to secure a recreation building for the city are no nearer solution to their problems after a mass meeting last night. Dr. H. L. Wilder and his committee were pessimistic this morning that the project would be completed. Several plans for financing the building, to cost in the neighborhood of $70,000, were discussed at last night's meeting attended by 50 men and women. No definite plan was adopted. Many favored a bond election for $75,000. Application for a PWA grant was also suggested and if approved only 55 per cent of the $75,000 would be necessary as the city's part. Raising the money through donations was also discussed. It was suggested that Dr. Wilder appoint a committee to discuss plans with individual citizens, learning their ideas. Dr. Wilder will name the committee later. Building plans call for a large gymnasium with plenty of seating for city play rooms, dining rooms, recreation rooms, meeting rooms etc. Walter J. Daugherty, secretary of the Pampa Credit Association, was named vice-president of the Retail Merchants' Association of Texas, and affiliated groups, at the close of their annual meeting in Galveston last night. William S. Holman of San Antonio was elected president and Charles T. Lux of Austin was re-elected secretary-manager. Ernest E. Fondren of Port Arthur was named president of the Texas Retail Credit Bureau.

Daugherty Elected Vice-President Of Merchants Group

Germany and Italy already have acquired in the Swedish-Finnish plan for building fortifications. In China, 30 British bluejackets withdrew from Pootung, where they had been set ashore yesterday to protect a British-owned cotton mill. Japanese protested that the British had no right to land troops since Pootung is Japanese-occupied territory on the east shore of the Whangpoo river opposite Shanghai.

Swim Tickets To Go On Sale Here Today

Other Survivors Brought To Top In Rescue Bell

ABOARD THE U. S. S. BROOKLYN OFF PORTSMOUTH, N. H. (by wireless), May 24 (AP)—The salvage tender Falcon reported today there were "about 30 casualties" in the stricken submarine Squalus. The message from the Falcon to this navy cruiser said: "Bell (rescue bell) just surfaced with seven men. Sixteen to go. About thirty casualties." The first message, flashed across the 700 yards separating the two ships, did not amplify concerning the "casualties." The first rescue was effected soon after the Brooklyn arrived after a fog-delayed overnight run from New York to serve as a hospital ship for the survivors. The first survivors reported 25 of their colleagues—including three officers—were still alive inside the submersible, and that still others might have held on to life without their knowledge. This figure placed the likely death toll at 27, inasmuch as 59 had been aboard. Even as from this first definite report came from the rescued men the diving bell was plunged below on a second mercy trip. One of the seven saved was an officer—Lieut. J. C. Nichols of Chicago—and the other six were enlisted men. All appeared in fair condition after their harrowing experience. A great cheer arose from the crew of the rescue ship, Falcon, as the dripping rescue bell arose from the sea and was landed gently on the deck of the surface vessel. Able To Walk. All seven were able to step from the bell without help and walk about on the deck, drawing their first free air since the Squalus was trapped on the ocean floor by an open induction valve during a dive at 8:40 a. m. yesterday. The other six saved first were: Roland Blanchard, a fireman, Hershey, Pa. Harold C. Prebble, a civilian employed by the navy department, Washington, D. C. William Isaac, a cook, Washington, D. C. Theodore Jacobs, signalman, Staten Island, N. Y. Gerald McLees, electrician's mate, Richmond, Va. Charles Yuhas, machinist's mate, New Salem, Pa. The first actual rescue in history from such a depth as 240 feet was accomplished in almost record speed—less than five hours after a dives first touched the sunken craft. Within a matter of minutes after the first seven had stepped to freedom the diving bell was sealed and once more dropped over the side. Naval officers said the reason for bringing up an officer in the first load—in contradistinction to an old rule of the seas that officers save themselves after the enlisted men were safe—was so he could help direct those still left aboard the Squalus. Those at the rescue scene abandoned hope even before the second descent of the rescue bell that all could be saved. The Falcon reported there would be about 30 casualties. "Sixteen to go," said a message after the first seven were saved. On this basis, however, those at the scene figured the casualty list might mount as high as 36, inasmuch as 59 were aboard when the Squalus was disabled. There were approximately 13 navy and coastguard boats at the scene and the cruiser Brooklyn was expected from New York by noon. The rescue ship Falcon was ready to put down a new nine-ton escape bell over the side to bring up the men about eight at a time. To attach the huge rubber cap of the rescue bell to one of the stricken submarine's four escape hatches, studied similar hatches on the Sculpin. It will be the first use of the new rescue chamber in actual rescue operations. Poised on sleek naval craft, and piercing the mists of the morning over their tightly choppy sea, were

Russia Protests Finland Move To Fortify Islands

Russia instructed her representative at Geneva to protest against a plan by Finland and Sweden to fortify the Aaland Islands at the Baltic gateway to the Gulf of Bothnia. Russian opposition arose after the British and French representatives had said they expected no difficulty in getting league approval for the retested change in the 1921 accord which neutralized the 300 islands. But a Soviet broadcast from Moscow last night said the matter was "of the greatest importance to the U. S. S. R. since the fortification of the Aaland Islands might lock the gate of the Gulf of Finland against the Soviet fleet in time of war."

Driller Had Habit Of Chasing Tooldresser Off With Hatchet

By THE ROVING REPORTER. A driller who run off his tooldresser with a hatchet was one of the most interesting personalities Joe W. Johnson, who lives two miles south of Flemington, ever worked with. Other sidelights on early-day oil field workers were obtained from O. B. Myers who said that drillers, tooldressers and roughnecks back in Ohio and Pennsylvania used to amuse themselves in their spare time by fist-fighting. When things became dull they took on the crew of the next rig, or the next two rigs. It did not matter much. The main difference between the first workers in

Dreaded Texas Prison Whip May Be Abolished

HOUSTON, May 24 (AP)—The bat-dreaded whip used in Texas prisons for corporal punishment—may be abolished, Dr. Sidney M. Lister, new chairman of the Texas prison board, said today. Dr. Lister said he would ask the nine-member prison board to abolish corporal punishment for a two-year period as an experiment. Prisoners are whipped in Texas under the supervision of a prison doctor. The chairman branded the bat as "inhuman, antiquated and without a place in modern prison management." "Other states have successfully abolished it," Dr. Lister added. "The real approach to elimination of crime has not been made in Texas, he said. "The answer is in proper training," he continued. "It is easier to rehabilitate children than adults." Dr. Lister, who has been a member of the prison board for eight years, said he had industrialized plan in the prison calls for the printing of all state matter by convicts, provided the penitentiary is given a chance to bid on printing; erection of a textile mill, a tannery and a cotton seed mill. "I feel that the prison system will never be self-sustaining unless he present set-up," he explained. "Unless we are permitted to industrialize we necessarily will have a large deficit every year."

Hopper Poison Available Here

Gray county citizens are not taking advantage of the early opening of the grasshopper poison compound mixing station, County Farm Agent Ralph R. Thomas said today. Although the station, located at the county warehouse in South Pampa, was opened on May 3, a month earlier than the station was opened in 1938, only an insignificant amount of poison compound has been distributed. Exact figures on the total amount were not available to date. For the first two weeks, the amount was less than 4,000 pounds. The grasshopper infestation in Gray county this year has not been as bad to date as was predicted and the hoppers are smaller in size than last year, the county farm agent urges farmers to spread the poison early before crops are too far advanced.

Ranger Plenty Muddy Mr. Johnson started out in the oil field 26 years ago at Electra. He was tooldresser two years. He drilled wells in the Ranger and Desdemona fields, also at Coleman, Fort Stockton, Brownwood, McCamey, Wink, East Texas, Wheeler, Gray and Carson counties. He came here in 1933. Mr. Johnson is now pumping in Hutchinson county. The most mud Mr. Johnson ever

Madonna Class Has Clever Party Tuesday Afternoon

Members of Madonna class of Central Baptist church were entertained at a bad taste party Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. George Berlin.

Entertainment was conducted in rooms decorated in bad taste. Mrs. Dayton White received the prize for the most appropriate costume. Other outstanding ensembles were worn by Mrs. H. L. Dulaney, Mrs. H. T. Beckham, and Mrs. Mable Showers.

A farewell handkerchief shower was given to honor Mrs. White who will make her home in Wichita Falls.

Refreshments of golden glow salad, rice crackers, doughnuts and ice cream were served to Misses G. D. Holmes, H. L. Dulaney, Marguerite Rittenentter, G. C. Stark, Ward, Ada Nacasse, P. A. Smith, Viola Dodd, and Geneva Cook, visitors.

Members present were Misses Dayton White, O. E. Glistrap, Joe Allman, W. T. Broxson, Mable Showers, H. L. Beckham, E. E. Norman, Roy Hallman, Cecil Stanley, John O. Scott, J. L. Barnard, W. R. Martin, George Berlin, Rex Watkins, Joby Gray and W. R. Morrison.

Gifts were sent by Mrs. S. L. Anderson, Harvey Downs, Brady Davis, J. B. Hilburn, Dean, M. C. Chaudler, Moore and John Pruitt.

Country Homes Require Different Landscape Style

Country homes need a style of landscape treatment different from that suitable for town houses, because the atmosphere is different. In the country, much space and a number of outbuildings and constructions besides the house have to be considered. Many native plants may already be growing about the grounds, so an informal planting, which is in keeping with the inviting, free atmosphere of country life is best.

A rise in the ground that slopes away in all directions, having trees grouped near the back of it, makes an ideal location for a farm home. The dust and noise of traffic will not be constant annoyances if the house is set back from the road. The arrangement and planting of the whole farmstead should take account of the fact that the house is the center of interest. No building or planting should eclipse its importance in the landscape picture. For that reason barns and outbuildings should be grouped according to use in an area back of the house. The should help form for the place the sort of background that indicates intelligent farm activities.

The farm housewife's complaint that all her company comes in through the back door may be overcome by some rearrangement of the approach. A turning area and shade for parking near the front may be needed; or if there is a fence, placing the yard gate at the spot where cars must park and providing a wide and inviting walk to the front door might help. Perhaps the front steps could be changed to the side of the porch to make a front entrance more convenient. If the back door is very prominent or is near the entrance at the side, a planting may be arranged that will rather obscure it.

Walks, drives, fences, walls and other structures related to landscape gardening are meant for use, and should be left off unless they are needed.

A lawn is nature's carpet, good sod keeps the soil from washing away; it keeps down dust, and glare, and mud, and weeds. It reduces the summer temperature about the house through evaporation and lessened reflection. It requires less work to keep neat when once it is well established than any other form of yard arrangement.

Baptist Circles Have Programs On Benevolence

Benevolence programs on Buckner's orphan home, Baptist hospitals, and old minister's relief were presented at the meetings of four circles of Woman's Missionary society of First Baptist church this week.

Voyles presented the program which included a talk by Mrs. J. J. Simmons on old minister's relief; Mrs. Baker Henry, Buckner's home; and Mrs. O. R. Wasson, Baptist hospitals. Refreshments were served to 19 members.

At a meeting of circle two in the home of Mrs. Lewis Davis, the devotionals was presented by Mrs. E. V. Edwards after which Mrs. L. A. Baxter conducted the program. Talks were made by Mrs. H. T. Cox on Baptist hospitals; and Mrs. R. W. Tucker, Buckner's orphan home.

Eighteen members attended.

Mrs. E. F. Brake was hostess to members of circle three who met for a program including the devotionals and talk on old minister's relief by Mrs. T. B. Solomon. After Mrs. J. C. Roundtree spoke on Buckner's orphan home, Mrs. W. A. Breining discussed Baptist hospitals.

Refreshments were served to eight members.

A meeting of circle four was held in the home of Mrs. Lewis Tarpley with Mrs. T. F. Morton in charge of the business session.

Roll call was answered with scriptures or facts concerning Baptist institutions. Mrs. E. L. Anderson discussed Baptist hospitals while Mrs. Mary Blinford spoke on old minister's relief and Mrs. A. L. Prigmore on Buckner's orphan home.

In the social hour refreshments were served to 27 members.

Dumas Rodeo To Be Friday And Saturday

DUMAS, May 24 (Special)—Final touches are being put on arrangements here for the big Dumas Rodeo and Old Settlers Reunion, to be held Friday and Saturday of this week.

The Dumas show will be opened by a mile-long parade depicting the color of the southwest, the days of pioneer settlement of the Panhandle, chuck wagons, pack horses and mounted riders from famous ranch outfits near and by bands and colorful delegations from the leading cities of this territory.

The parade, which gets under way at 11 a. m. Friday, will feature delegations from Dalhart, Amarillo, Clayton, New Mexico; Clarendon, Texline, Sunray, Guymon, Okla.

Best band in Friday's parade will receive twenty-five dollars, second, fifteen and third, ten. The same scale of prizes will be given for decorated floats and best dressed cowboy and cowgirl will receive a substantial cash prize.

A full three-hour rodeo arena program will be held Friday and Saturday from 2 to 5 p. m., featuring top cowhands of the Southwest in bulldogging, calf-roping, broncho and steer riding. Tin Horn Hank, famous rodeo clown, will supply the fun and expert trick riders and ropers will vary the program. Admission to the rodeo has been held to fifty and twenty-five cents and food and restaurant prices in Dumas will remain on the regular scale.

A Grand Frontier dance will be held each night beneath flood lights on Dumas streets, especially treated with a new preparation found highly successful in other celebrations. The dance will be held in a flood-decked stockade. There will be plenty of Midway attractions for those who do not like horses.

Caravans of more than one hundred cars each are coming to Dumas from Dalhart and Amarillo and more than ten of the outstanding bands of this section will be in the parade.

The visitor will see a composite view of the colorful XIT of Dalhart, the glory of Pampa's Fiesta, the leading colorful figures of Guymon's Frontier Day and the dash and verve of Amarillo's cowboy host intermingled with hundreds of real cowboys whose leather-tanned faces can not be imitated.

fields, but he now believes that the most dangerous one was the Cross-cana field where slayings, fighting and all kinds of vice soared for a short time.

However, Ohio and Pennsylvania oil field workers in the early days were different from the Southwest types, Mr. Johnson believes. The oil fraternity used to be top-heavy with workers of Irish descent, and free-for-alls were the rule, not the exception. The oil field workers around Brodner, Ohio, used to stage some marvelous brawls, featuring fists, he remembered.

Made Berger Boom

Mr. Myers made the Berger boom, but it wasn't at all bad. "But if you want my honest opinion," he added, "all oil boom towns are bad if you want to be bad. However, I do want to say this for the Panhandle field. It is my favorite. It is the first field I have ever lived in where I have stayed long enough to enjoy the improvements like paved highways."

Mr. Myers came to the Panhandle field, working in the Berger area, in 1926, and he has been here ever since. He is a cable tool driller, but has worked on rotary rigs, too. He lives at 701 S. Barnes.

C-C Manager Flays Denison Dam Enemies

WASHINGTON, May 24. (AP)—Witnesses favoring the proposed $54,000,000 Denison dam are expected to testify today before a senate appropriations subcommittee considering a house-passed bill providing $5,700,000 to start construction of the Red river flood control-power project next fiscal year.

T. Bone McDonald, manager of the Durant, Okla., Chamber of Commerce, said he testified yesterday he believed data furnished by private power interests "engineered" the opposition of witnesses representing Oklahoma's Governor Leon Phillips to the dam.

McDonald appeared in behalf of the appropriation after the committee heard three representatives of Gov. Phillips condemn the project. They were C. C. Hatchett, Durant attorney; W. O. Coe, Oklahoma City; Dean Phillip S. Donnell of the Oklahoma A. and M. college school of engineering.

"The present governor of the state during his campaign," McDonald said he told the committee, "to say the least, soft pedaled any opposition, not only to the Red river reservoir but to any other outstanding program of the national administration, and not until his nomination and later his election in November did he give vent to the sentiments in his heart."

McDonald said he further testified he was "not unmindful of the fact the only opposition comes from men who are paid $500 a month each out of the governor's extraordinary fund to give vent to the governor's thoughts that have been engendered by inaccurate data furnished, I believe, by the Oklahoma

Cops Thrust Dies Witness Into Chair

WASHINGTON, May 24. (AP)—The house committee on un-American activities was developing today the detailed story of a fledgling movement to unite anti-communist organizations in the United States with those in Germany and Italy.

The committee got first information about the movement yesterday, after a turbulent beginning, from George E. Deatherage of St. Albans, W. Va., national commander of the Knights of the White Camellia.

Deatherage threw the hearing into momentary confusion first by demanding assurances he was taking a "Christian oath," then by challenging Chairman Dies, democrat, Texas, to "come over here and make me sit down."

Two husky capitol policemen quickly thrust him into the witness chair. Thereafter, the tall, sandy-haired construction superintendent, gave the committee detailed testimony regarding his association with Maj. Gen. George Van Horn Moseley, retired, whom he described as being

Gas & Electric Company and allied power interests.

To his certain knowledge, Coe said he testified; Governor Phillips had gone on record against the Denison dam as long as two years ago, when Oklahoma state legislation was considered pertaining to the Red river.

Hatchett earlier testified the dam probably would "result in an increase of flood hazards," and that there was a flood below Buchanan dam on the Colorado river of Texas last July because the flood control features of the dam seemed "to have been largely forgotten."

Negro Infant Dies

Charlie Dean Dunn, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Thelmas Dunn, negro, died at the family home here yesterday. Survivors are the parents.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon in the Negro Holiness church by the Rev. Ed Wadson. Burial will be in the negro section at Fairview cemetery under direction of Pampa Mortuary.

Hospitalization Plan Announced By Dallas Physicians

DALLAS, May 24. (AP)—A statewide hospitalization plan, designed to reach moderate and low income groups, was announced today by Dr. J. Groseclose, superintendent of Methodist hospital. Dr. Groseclose and Bryce Twitty, superintendent of Baylor hospital, were named to lead the organization at a meeting in Austin yesterday.

The plan may lift appreciably the burden of charity cases in both privately owned and government owned hospitals, they predicted.

Dr. Groseclose, president of the State Hospital Association, was named president of Group Hospitalization of Texas, Inc., and Twitty was named administrator.

The Austin meeting had been ordered at an April session in Fort Worth of the State Hospital Association.

Army Ahead In Ticket Campaign

The army's out in front. Yep, the army boys passed the marines and sailors without looking back and are now way ahead in the ticket selling campaign for the Veterans of Foreign Wars picture which starts at the LaNora theater tomorrow and runs for three days.

The VFW boys are sponsoring the showing of the picture "Three Smart Girls Grow Up" featuring Deanna Durbin, Charles Winneger and other top stars.

A ticket selling campaign started two weeks ago when the sailors and marines of the post challenged the rest of the gang. The deep water boys started out strong and roared away to a lead but the army gang held back and at the last minute rushed to the front.

It marked the first time in history that a marine and a sailor got together, amicably, and according to late reports today the alliance is about to split wide open. The ticket campaign won't close until the last showing of the picture Saturday night.

saw was in the Ranger field. Cars actually sunk clear out of sight on the streets of Ranger, and mud was knee-deep in most places. Mr. Johnson remembers a sight that became familiar to all who made the Ranger boom—the man who operated a horse-drawn sled on which people could ride across the street for a nickel.

Mr. Johnson, wildcatted in the Ranger area before the boom. He was supposed to drill the first Ranger well, but instead he drilled the Wayland well. Mr. Johnson spent 10 years in the Ranger field.

He is both a rotary and cable tool driller. Mr. Johnson once worked with an old-time driller of Irish descent who never said a word while on tower. "You could tell by looking him what he wanted you to do," drilled in Gusher.

Mr. Johnson drilled in his biggest well at McCamey. It gushed 20,000 barrels.

The Ranger field was extremely tough only a short time, Mr. Johnson said. Then the laws got it under control. He remembers that Desdemona is located on Hog Creek and that oil field workers called it Hot Town.

Mr. Myers worked on his first well in the Van Buren, Ind., field in 1906. He worked at the Prairie Depot, Ohio, field in 1907; the Robertson field in Illinois in 1910, and later in Oklahoma, Delaware and Kentucky fields.

Women On The Jury Probably it will come as a surprise to most readers to learn that in only 25 states have women the right to sit on juries.

Illinois and Montana have just taken the required action. Of these 25 states, only 13 make jury service compulsory for women as well as for men.

We'll bet a good many people, if asked about this question, would have said, "Why, that was all settled back in 1919 when the constitutional amendment giving women the suffrage was adopted." But not so.

For instance, in Illinois, all that was necessary was to insert "of both sexes" into the existing jury law. You see, the law had provided that jurors should be chosen from the voters. That would seem clear enough to the lay mind.

The old arguments are still being advanced; it would cost too much to provide special quarters for women jurors, women lack logical judgment and make their decisions on sentiment, and so.

New Minority Problem When Hitler seized Czechoslovakia it was freely predicted that he was letting himself in for a new racial minority problem. For within the "German" area, he then incorporated millions of non-German Czechs with a national life and culture that never can become German.

These problems are already coming to the surface. The clamps of German ways of living and working, of Berlin decrees governing prices, wages, hours, and the status of Jews are being closed on the Czechs.

The Czechs are in no position to resist forcibly. But the trade union movement has been driven into unity since March 15 by hints that high production, faster work will be demanded by the Germans in order to speed up the expert trade which Hitler has said Germany must have or die.

It will remain to be seen just how far Hitler will be successful in dealing with an antagonistic and sullenly-hostile racial minority, the problem which has been the ruin of so many central European governments. Immediate prospects are none too rosy.

TAXING PRODUCERS OF HAPPINESS

"Strange as it would seem, for a quarter of a century, in the United States, we have been taxing those people who produce happiness, instead of those people who enjoy the comforts of life which make them happy. This, on the face of it, seems too absurd to be a reality. To think that the people of the United States are so shortsighted as to believe it wise to tax a man who produces what we all want—happiness!

We tax a man who produces happiness when we tax a man who produces something that makes it possible for the consumer to get more of the comforts of life for a given amount of work. This taxing the production of happiness retards the man's ability to produce more happiness. Where we have made the mistake is that we should tax the man who consumes happiness instead of the man who produces it. The man who consumes it is getting something—is enjoying the fruits of society.

The man who furnishes tools and, thus, makes a profit undoubtedly has happiness as a by-product of this service, but the man for whom the service is produced and enjoys it to the exclusion of others, is the man who should pay to the government for the right of this happiness as a result of consumption. Taxing adding to the wealth of the world is just an arbitrary method of using force and we are paying the penalty for this coercion—this force that the people are using to their own detriment. It is a short-sighted method of collecting taxes. The longer it goes, the more disastrous it becomes. In every business transaction, both people should be benefited, if the transactions are to continue. And when the government taxes a man for adding to the happiness of the world, it is giving him nothing in return and retarding him in his ability to serve his fellowman. It is a violation of the fundamental laws of nature.

Instead of taxing the man who produces happiness, it would be natural to tax the man who got the exclusive benefits of consumption.

POLICIES OF NEW DEAL PARALLELS SUPERSTITION IN RELIGION

As we see the present administration advocating things that they do not understand and cannot explain, nor can anyone explain them, we are reminded of a statement made by Matthew Tindal in his great book, "Christianity as Old as The Creation."

After reciting the evil effects of superstition in religion as compared with the great blessings of a natural and rational religion—of nature—Tindal says:

"There are two ways which never fail to make superstition prevail: mysteries to amuse the enthusiasts, especially the pretenders to deep learning, and all that admire what they do not understand; & gaudy shews & pompous ceremonies, to bewitch the vulgar; and the Popish Church, whose conduct shews how well they understand their interest, may vie with the old Egyptian Church for mysteries; and Pagan Rome must yield to Christian Rome in such shews, rites, and ceremonies as dazzle the eyes of the people, & insensibly gain their hearts; and the more there are of these in any Church, the more the Clergy, the holy dispensers of them, are revered; not to say, adored by the unthinking multitude, as they are in the church of Rome."

The New Dealers are just like these leaders of superstition in religion. They had the unthinking crowd paying tribute to them. The New Dealers put on a great show, claim to be great humanists, very much interested in the welfare of the poor man; but they live on the fat of the land themselves and pretend deep learning and admire what they, nor anyone else, understands.

We are simply going through under superstition in religion, for hundreds of years.

Behind The News Of The Day

Pampa News Washington Correspondent BY BRUCE CATTON

WASHINGTON, May 23—It will be six months or thereabouts before the Department of Agriculture knows whether the food distribution stamp idea, now being tried out in Rochester, N. Y., is really coming up to expectations. And even then, the way the relievers use the stamps to buy food won't be the determining factor.

In the long run, this plan will stand or fall by the degree to which it boosts retail food sales to non-relief people.

Since non-relief people won't be getting any of the orange and blue stamps, the plan doesn't directly affect them at all. Indirectly, however, Agriculture Department economists hope that it will affect them very much.

Will Prices Do a Drop?

In effect, the stamp scheme adds 50 per cent to the weekly food-buying power of the relief clients. In Rochester, where 20,000 families are getting some form of relief, an extremely rough estimate has it that the grocers will sell something like $15,000 worth of food a week beyond what they have been selling.

As the demand rises, the grocers will naturally handle a greater volume of the various foodstuffs officially designated as "surplus," hence, they will be able to reduce their margins and cut prices. As they do this, non-relief buying of these commodities can be expected to increase.

LEANING UPON A REED

Around Hollywood

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—This week, when all studios held back on their major new offerings, affords an opportunity to give the clan of Hardy something of its due.

It is a sturdy clan, more than holding its own in competition with the movie Joneses (originators of the "family series" films), and it began, like the Joneses, from a single feature based on a stage play.

For the Hardys, it was Aurania Rouveroff's "Skidding" that turned the trick. Released as "A Family Affair," this story established the Hardys as a group to be reckoned with—even though it was six months before Metro did any more reckoning.

"A Family Affair" was not big box-office, but it whipsawed things to exhibitors, and the exhibitors wrote in.

The Hardys (slightly revised in personnel) came forth in "You're Only Young Once"—and after that they were a series. Lewis Stone had taken Lionel Barrymore's place as the Hardy mother, Judge Hardy role, and Fay Holden replaced Spring Byington (still the Jones mamma) as the Hardy mother. Julie Hayden, the "big sister," was married off in the first and has not been replaced. Mickey Rooney and Cecilia Parker have continued through all of the six pictures now completed. Biggest moneymaker: "Love Finds Andy Hardy," which was also Metro's biggest profit last year.

The Hardys are a substantial, respected, middle-class family in the little town of Carvel—and from picture to picture they are made to do the things and live the way thousands of families over the country know, which is the secret of their appeal.

In this newest adventure, they realize the secret dream of many more thousands by unexpectedly falling heir to $2,000,000.

The family—including Aunt Milly (Sara Haden)—pack off to Detroit, take over the lavish home of their late benefactor, and proceed to come a-cropper, each in his own way. Andy (Rooney) ecclesiastically plans a career as a "millionaire playboy," dreams of chorus girls and race horses and yachts. Marian (Cecilia Parker) defies her conscience by buying a $265 evening gown. Mother (Holden) shops and shops, but ends up by buying only an iron frying pan. Aunt Milly deserts her plain schoolteacherish modes for dignified smartness, gets giddy over a friendly, smooth-talking, bumptious salesman. And Andy, faithful to his family attitude toward cigarettes and liquor, has a hard time actually being a "man of the world," especially when faced with a live chorus girl (Virginia Grey).

Judge Hardy (Stone) meets his supreme test when he discovers the money really shouldn't be theirs—and then the family, back in Carvel, rallies around to resume the old substantial, respected, middle-class life.

The early reels are frequently hilarious, with Rooney gratifyingly over-acting all his adolescent reactions to wealth, while Stone, for all that, presents the best, most solid performance. The film—probably because the loss of $2,000,000 is hard to take even on the screen—ends from that point and finishes on a not-so-funny, because forced, exchange between Andy and girl-friend Polly (Ann Rutherford).

The Hardys, rest assured, are all had already begun a price-cutting experiment in one of the "surplus" commodities.

People You Know

By Archer Fullingim

This one has a new whiskers' hero. Hugh (Red) Breeding has topped off the pedestal, and Vernon Stuckey (no kin to the preacher of the construction company of that name) has taken his place. Vernon's hairy face is distinctive for several reasons. First he is the only barber in town that's growing any sort of new whiskers, and that's something when you get down to thinking about it. Then Vernon is not merely growing a small patch of hair at the tip of his chin, or a thin line of sideburns. No, sir. He ain't shaving nuthin' off! If he shaves one hair off his face, he'll shave 'em all, he says. Then last but not least, Vernon is a married man, and he has to brave the domestic wrath, but in spite of the taunts of his fellow barbers, and other slams, he's going to keep that beard until the Fiesta's over with! So here's a toast to Vernon! He's a real hero.

And here's another pat on the back for Don Childers, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Childers, 402 No. Hobart. This year Don finished the eighth grade at the age of 14, and during the nine years he has gone to school (including a year of kindergarten) has not been absent or tardy! That almost equals Bob Andis' record of attending school ten years without being absent or tardy. Don will be 15 in July. They used to give diplomas for perfect attendance, but they have quit that. Don has six. Bobby also has six. This one thinks those perfect attendance diplomas are a good idea and should be continued.

Mexican Hopes To Break Air Record

MEXICO CITY, May 24. (AP)—Francisco Sarabia, Mexico's ace civilian pilot, took off from Mexico City today on a non-stop flight to New York which he hoped would break the existing record by five hours.

Flying a low-winged, 1,000 horsepower monoplane, Sarabia expected to reach New York nine hours after his takeoff at 5:50 a. m. CST. The established Mexico City-New York record, set by Amelia Earhart in 1935, is 14 hours, 19 minutes.

noble about not getting the money after all. In fact, they're too noble to be real. Despite this disappointment, the new picture has much to endear it to audiences. It isn't top-notch Hardy, but will do until the next one comes along.

with these figures, statistics will be obtained, running a couple of years back, to show how those commodities move ordinarily.

Plan's Spread Expected Meanwhile, the department is gathering data on other cities where the experiment may be started. Use of the stamps is to get under way in Dayton, O., probably within a fortnight; beyond that, no city has been definitely selected, although 35 or 40 are under consideration.

The Family Doctor

Dr. Morris Fishbein

Vaccines to be used for the prevention of the common cold are called "shots." The usefulness of these so-called shots has been a matter of argument among the medical profession for a good many years. The authoritative bodies, like the Council of Pharmacy and Chemistry of the American Medical Association, and the writings of most physicians incline to believe that their real value has not been proved.

All sorts of experiments, have been made on small and on large groups of people to establish the usefulness or lack of value of "cold shots." At one time studies were made on the employes of the British post office department, and the authorities were convinced that the shots against colds did not do much good.

Another study was made among employes of one of the leading American life insurance companies, and here again the authorities did not seem to feel that the vaccines did much in preventing the common cold.

It, therefore, occurred recently to Drs. I. J. Hauser and M. J. Hauser to make a study of this matter on students in the University of Michigan who were willing to participate in the study. During the years 1935-1936, there were 10,000 students enrolled. During that same period, 4,000 of the students went to Student Health Service to be treated for coughs and colds on more than 6,000 separate occasions. During that same period, 600 students lost a total of nearly 4,000 days from their work because of colds and their complications. The common cold is the most important single cause of absence from work because of illness.

When the doctors made their test, they gave one group of students the ordinary vaccine or shots that are used against colds, making the injection under the skin; another group were also given shots, but the injections were made into the skin instead of under the skin; the third group were given injections of ordinary sterile water.

All of the students who volunteered were asked as to the number of colds that they usually had per year; later they were asked as to whether or not they had less colds or more colds following the injections. Some interesting facts resulted.

In the first place, it turns out the average person does not have a clear conception as to how many colds he has during any given year. In the second place, 66 per cent of those who received the sterile water said they had fewer colds after the injecting than in the year before; 64 per cent of those who received the vaccine into the skin said they had fewer colds, and 80 per cent of those who had received the vaccine under the skin said they had had fewer colds.

The differences between the three groups are so slight that they are within the limits of what the statisticians call possible error. Moreover, 90 per cent of those who were injected said they felt so much better they would like to repeat the treatment next year, which, obviously casts still further doubt on the value of such shots as a specific means of preventing common colds.

Book A Day FRANK'S NOVEL IS DISTINGUISHED Certainly one of the most distinguished powerful novels of the year is Walden Frank's "The Bridegroom Cometh" (Doubleday, Doran; $2.75); a story of two sisters whose lives reflect the whole gamut of modern American life. One incident of the 1918 Armistice news is given here, typical of the tone and perception of the book.

In the sweat shop the newsboys' call rising through the racket of the street, through the "L," through the 50 sewing machines, their cliket of steel wheels and needles cutting silk stems of women's shirtwaists, into gray flesh of 50 women's lives: Harry, piece by piece we are paid, Harry, hen, thread and needle hurry, hurry foot and finger . . . was lost. But the newsboys call filtered down the dingy hall and whisper, heart-beat here aloft to the sweat shop fifty pairs of eyes, feet, hands, paused in "The War Is Over"—Harry, by piece we are paid! Each worker in her flesh was cleft. She was the carrier with shrewd eye measuring the needle's march down the hem, hot hands to guide; and in the breast and loins she was the mother needing to "Rejoice! leave your machines and sing! A girl, not 20, got up. "Peace has come! We wasn't work this afternoon." The neediest woman whose sick child lay at home waiting for purchase with the full day's pay of medicine left her spindle with the others, and drew her foot from the tread. The boss . . . watched near the window, took the cigar from his mouth and shrugged his shoulders. "Knock off work just because de war is over? All right . . . If you can spare de money . . . Peace? Less orders?"

The mothers crowded into their coats and shawls. The bloody world of Kaiser and Tsar gone forever! The shining world of President Wilson begins! They counted their money (half-day's earnings) thinking of gala visits to the butcher and baker. The neediest woman argued with herself . . . The world's happiness was made Moshe happy! He will get better from the air. Listen to the shouting! They pressed down the dark stairs to the street full of rumor, the girl not 20 lifting her red mouth. "War is over!"

STORIES IN STAMPS

Florence Nightingale—First Wartime Nurse THE Crimean War broke with a horrible toll in the spring of 1854, but death on the battlefields was only the beginning. The real toll followed in the shambles that served as base hospitals, the Turkish barracks at Scutari.

Reports of the disease and the suffering, and the dying filtered out from Scutari and back to England and the result was intense feeling at home. There was a call for women to nurse the soldiers. Florence Nightingale, daughter of an upper middle-class English family, heard that appeal and headed a mercy expedition which turned the course of history on all battlefields.

Florence Nightingale and a group of 24 nurses arrived in Turkey on the day of the bloody battle of Inkerman. There were 2300 patients in one barracks alone and before night the number had swelled to 5000—victims of Inkerman.

But the number of men was not so staggering as was the army of disease and filth that confronted Miss Nightingale and her volunteers. She found mattresses strewn in the corridors, the wards permeated with cholera, fever and plagues. Men had no adequate diet, wounds were unattended, there was mud in the beds.

That was the task Florence Nightingale faced—and conquered. She reduced the death rate from 42 to 2 per cent at Scutari. At the same time she set a pattern of wartime humanity which has endured for all time. She is shown above on a current Belgian stamp. (Copyright, 1939, NEA Service, Inc.)

Captain H. R. Greenlee reported rescue boats had been unable to make any contact with the torpedo room although communication had been established with other sections of the submarine. While the rescue boat Falcon was anchored over the spot where the Squalus rested in 240 feet of water—trapped by an induction valve that remained open during a dive yesterday morning—new signals were picked up early today from the forward part of the submarine. In dot-and-dash code the entombed men reported they were "reasonably warm" and had plenty of food and clothing. They were entirely without power, however, and the only means of communication remained the humming of signals on the steel hull. ## Townsend Plan May Arrive On House Floor Tomorrow

WASHINGTON, May 24. (AP)—The Townsend plan, an issue in many congressional districts during three election campaigns, is about to have its day in the house of representatives.

The manner of its arrival there, perhaps tomorrow, will be unusual but not wholly new.

Ordinarily, house leaders try to sort out and bring to the floor only those measures they want to see passed. Now and then, bills get enough momentum of their own to force their way to the floor by petitions, in spite of the leaders.

But the house democratic chiefs are deftly clearing the way for a vote on the pension plan, though they themselves are strongly opposed to its passage.

They have arranged for the bill to be brought to the floor from the ways and means committee, without recommendation. They have devised stringent plans to limit debate and prevent amendments from being offered.

All the precautions the leaders are taking are not calculated to help the Townsend plan into the statute books. They hope such a beating as they are trying to arrange will go far toward removing the subject from future elections—particularly from democratic paths.

GOP Support Expected. Those opponents of the Townsend bill estimate more republicans than democrats were backed by Dr. Francis E. Townsend in the 1936 and 1938 campaigns. They expect to see a number of democrats vote for the plan, but figure there will be more republicans voting for it than democrats.

If their desire to give the bill a licking should miscarry, and the bill should pass the house, they believe the senate would defeat it.

Precautions are being taken, however, to guard against such a possibility. The anti-Townsend strategists realize a certain amount of political dynamite lurks in the bill. That is one of the reasons why it will appear on the floor under regulations forbidding any amendment.

The opponents fear if amendments were permitted, the provisions for high pensions might be whittled down, a few other changes made, and the measure would be passed.

As it stands, the legislation is changed considerably from the old days when the white-haired Dr. Townsend was advocating $200 a month for all persons over 60.

His present plan calls for a two per cent tax on all business transactions, the money from this tax to be divided among all those over 60 who would be retired from active employment and promise to spend their entire pension each month.

Senate Must Now Act On Pension Tax

AUSTIN, May 24. (AP)—With the score two to one in favor of the house and the session already in extra sittings, it was the senate's time to bat in the legislature's pension financing argument today.

Passed in amazingly quick time by a house in which opposition melted away, the omnibus tax proposal, pension financing vehicle, was dumped in the laps of the senators yesterday.

The legislature is already 15 days past the constitutionally suggested 120-day period and here is the situation: The senate has adopted a sales-natural resource tax constitutional amendment which the house has rejected four times.

Now the house has passed an omnibus tax bill estimated to yield approximately $16,000,000 for social security purposes and Chairman R. A. Weimer of Seguin has called a meeting of the senate state affairs committee for Thursday to consider the bill.

Also the house has approved a gross receipts tax bill but it has lain buried in a senate committee for weeks and even house sponsors agree it is dead.

Personally opposed to the omnibus bill, Weimer said he would not attempt to keep the proposal from reaching the senate floor although he refused to predict committee action. What the senate would do with the bill should it be reported favorably was still another question.

Shortly after the house approved the bill the upper chamber adopted a resolution providing for sine die adjournment of the session June 3.

Other Bills Pending. Senators opposed to the resolution said it was a move to block a vote on the omnibus bill. Proponents argued the two branches were deadlocked and should take a breathing spell.

High up on the house calendar today was a bill providing for statewide remission to counties of ad valorem taxes. The proposal already has been passed by the senate. It has been engrossed by the house and several amendments added which might necessitate a conference committee.

Also in a favorable position was a senate proposal to create a new division in the department of education which would teach the state's youths the folly of crime. It too, has been engrossed by the house.

The omnibus bill hurled the house by a 108 to 30 vote in about 24 hours after it was brought up. Seldom has such speed been seen on important legislation.

Cardinal features of the tax bill include: One-cent increase in the cigarette tax.

One per cent tax on all motor vehicle sales.

Selective sales and luxury tax.

Increased natural resource imposts.

Substantial increases in corporation franchise and inheritance taxes.

Increased gross receipts taxes on gas and electric companies and on telephone companies in larger cities.

Levies four per cent tax on amusements costing 51 cents or more and on club dues in excess of $15.

Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel, meanwhile, did not comment on the latest tax developments. Neither did his office signify whether the executive would sign the bill passed by the legislature last week liberalizing old age pension qualifications.

Another matter of conjecture was whether the sales tax constitutional amendment resolution was dead in the house. Proponents of the omnibus bill insisted it was while others maintained the amendment might yet be submitted should the senate reject the tax bill.

A move to substitute increased taxes on liquor, beer, wines in lieu of the cigarette tax in the omnibus bill was rejected.

Senate debate on the adjournment resolution was punctuated sharply with references to the tax

REVIVAL LEADER

ENVOY H. MURPHY. A two-week revival will start tonight at the Salvation Army hall, 831 S. Cuyler. Services will be conducted at 8 o'clock each night by Envoy H. Murphy of Austin, Capt. Herman Lambrecht, head of the Salvation Army in Pampa, announced today.

dispute. The house must concur in the proposed date by May 21 for it to be effective.

"If the senate wants to tie its hands and go home without a tax bill it should adopt this resolution," argued Senator Gordon Burns of Hamtsville.

"I believe there are enough votes in the senate to pass a tax bill and take care of persons the people of Texas have said they wanted taken care of. The burden now is on the senate because the house has passed a tax bill."

A suggestion the "wild desire" for adjournment might be prompted because some members "do not want to vote any new taxes" despite pressing requirements, was made by Senator Penrose Metcalfe of San Angelo.

Special Session Hinted. Weimer countered the senate had sent the house a "reasonable and workable constitutional amendment and they sent us a gross receipts tax bill none of them expected us to pass."

A hint of a move for a special session in the fall to wrestle further with social security financing was seen in this statement by Senator Weaver Moore, of Houston, author of the sine die resolution.

"Let's go home, take a deep breath and then in the fall maybe just before hunting season—"

He did not finish the sentence. The constitutional amendment question would be out of the way at a special session since they may be submitted only at general sessions.

The senate passed a house approved bill to tighten Texas' hot check laws. It was approved after a spirited fight to amend it by striking out a section which makes it prima facie evidence of a felony for a person to seek credit, then pay with a worthless check. The amendment was rejected.

Britain Makes New Proposal To Russia

LONDON, May 24. (AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain announced today that the British government was making new proposals to Soviet Russia for her adherence to the British-French front and he had every reason to hope it would be possible to "reach full agreement at an early date."

He said that as a result of conversations at Geneva between Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax and Ivan Maisky, Soviet ambassador to London, "all relevant points of view and now been made clear."

Speaking in the House of Commons, the prime minister reported on the latest stage in the long-drawn negotiations between Britain and Russia for their projected mutual aid accord.

Earlier a two-hour cabinet meeting had heard a detailed report of Lord Halifax' talks at Geneva with Maisky and French Foreign Minister Bonnet.

Eye Injury Suffered By Queen Mary

LONDON, May 24. (AP)—Queen Mary suffered injury to one eye when her automobile overturned yesterday and spent a restless night, her doctors said today.

The Physicians Bulletin said: "Her Majesty Queen Mary has passed a restless night partly due to injury to one eye which although painful is not a source of anxiety. "Her majesty's general condition is satisfactory."

Queen Mary will be 72 years old Friday.

Sir Richard Cruise, famed specialist who is surgeon-oculist to the queen, called on her last night and again today with other physicians. Doctors attending the queen mother remained at her residence, Marlborough House, for more than an hour before issuing the bulletin. No other bulletin was expected today.

In addition to Sir Stanley Hewett and Lord Dawson of Penn, who signed last night's bulletin saying the queen had suffered bruises and shock, the physicians in attendance were increased by the visit of Sir John Weir, the first homeopathist to be appointed to the royal family.

In 1923 Weir treated the then Prince of Wales but there was no indication today's visit was suggested in telephone calls the Duke of Windsor made from France during the night, inquiring as to his mother's condition.

All Queen Mary's children now in London called at Marlborough House—the Duke of Gloucester and Kent, with their wives, and the Princess Royal, Countess of Harewood, and her husband.

The six left soon after noon for Epsom Downs to see the derby. Queen Mary was to have gone along but all routine engagements for the next few days had been cancelled.

Thirteen-year-old Princess Elizabeth, daughter of King George VI and Queen Elizabeth, wrote her grandmother a letter of sympathy.

Lord Dawson went to Buckingham palace, after seeing Queen Mary, to draft an official cable of the doctors' bulletin for King George and Queen Elizabeth on tour in Canada.

It appeared likely the queen mother's birthday party planned for Friday, would be cancelled along with other engagements.

Mann Rules Abstract Assessable For Taxes

AUSTIN, May 24. (AP)—Abstract books are assessable for ad valorem taxes, Attorney General Gerald C. Mann ruled today in an opinion requested by County Attorney O. Kennedy of Freestone county.

The opinion set aside one rendered by the attorney general's department in December, 1938.

It held abstract books as prepared and maintained under modern conditions constituted personal property.

Pampa Led Favorite In Green Belt Tournament

Blue Peter Wins 155th Derby At Epsom Downs

EPSON, Eng., May 24. (AP)—Blue Peter, Lord Rosebery's 7 to 2 favorite, burst from the mease of 27 three-year olds at Tattenham Corner and dashed down the home stretch to win the 155th derby by four lengths today.

Edward Esmond's Fox Cub, also well backed at 10 to 6, was second and Lord Derby's Heliopolis, one of the choices at 100 to 1, third as William Woodward's Hypnotist, only American-owned horse in the field, wound up seventh after challenging the leaders mid-way of the mile and a half journey.

While close to a half-million people shrieked his name, the husky son of Fairway out of Fancy Free, gave the lie to those who had said he was not a stayer. Touched by the whip two and a half furlongs from home, Blue Peter ran away from the field. Heliopolis, early pace setter, faded in the final drive.

Blue Peter was clocked in two minutes, 36 4/5 seconds, well behind the stake record of 32 3/5, established in 1916 when the race was run at Newmarket.

Only two Americans held tickets on the winner in the Irish sweepstakes but there were five each on Fox Cub and Heliopolis. Altogether about $2,184,026 spread across the Atlantic on the race, most of it in consolation and residual prizes.

Heavy betting on the winner was said to have cost the bookmakers close to $5,000,000.

Eleven Teams Enter Pampa Softball Loop

Eleven teams have entered the Pampa softball league and unless another team enters or one drops out before Friday, a schedule for 11 teams will be drawn up. It was decided at a final meeting of team representatives last night.

Officers will not be elected until after a schedule has been completed and final list of teams recorded. Ten of the 11 teams were represented at last night's meeting, only Skelly-Schafer not being present.

Any team desiring to enter the league may contact Jack Beck or J. C. Christopher. Mr. Beck is Panhandle commissioner of softball and Mr. Christopher is chairman of the Junior Chamber of Commerce softball committee, which organization is sponsoring the league.

Only one team will be organized this year.

President Praises 'National Sport'

COOPERSTOWN, N. Y., May 24. (AP)—President Roosevelt called national-wide attention to the hundredth anniversary of baseball in a letter made public today by the National Baseball Museum.

The museum and Doubleday field, named for Major General Abner Doubleday, who "invented" the game in much the same form as it is now played at Cooperstown in 1839, will be dedicated June 12.

"The President's letter said that 'baseball has become, through the years, not only a great national sport, but also the symbol of America as the melting pot. The players embrace all nations and national origins and the fans, equally cosmopolitan, make only one demand of them: Can they play the game?'"

He is only 15. Hits in 70 times at bat for a .215 average.

ARMSTRONG TO FIGHT Roderick Tomorrow

NEW YORK, May 24 (AP)—Henry Armstrong puts his world welterweight championship on the block against Ernie Roderick in London tomorrow, and as far as the opposition left on this side goes, the opponent is well let Ernie have it.

Henry is likely to have a hard time finding a profitable welter fight if he comes back with the crown. Apparently there's nobody much left but Davey Day, and Armstrong already has looked Davey up.

Day, a technical knockout victim of Hammering Hank, turned around and did the same thing to Pedro Montañez in eight rounds at Madison Square Garden last night. The Puerto Rican, considered the No. 1 title contender, succumbed to a badly cut left eye and a steady pounding after 2 minutes and 39 seconds of the eighth. Referee Frank Fullam called a halt to prevent serious eye injury.

A crowd of 7,122 paid $14,703.75 to see the fight.

Reds Playing Ball, Snaps McKechnie

CINCINNATI, May 24 (AP)—All this talk about "what's got into the Cincinnati Reds" is so much hoop-la to the man responsible for whatever's got into them to bring their eight victories in a row.

"They're just playin' ball," snapped Skipper Bill McKechnie today. "Nothin' got into them. They were just a bunch of bums those days when they were losin' games after they'd made a blankety-blank seven or eight runs themselves."

He was referring to the baskets of three games the Reds dropped every so often on their first eastern trip and before.

"In those blankety-blank games when we get runs we're supposed to win," he continued. "If we're goin' to lose those we might as well fold up and quit."

Armstrong To Fight Roderick Tomorrow

NEW YORK, May 24 (AP)—Henry Armstrong puts his world welterweight championship on the block against Ernie Roderick in London tomorrow, and as far as the opposition left on this side goes, the opponent is well let Ernie have it.

Henry is likely to have a hard time finding a profitable welter fight if he comes back with the crown. Apparently there's nobody much left but Davey Day, and Armstrong already has looked Davey up.

Day, a technical knockout victim of Hammering Hank, turned around and did the same thing to Pedro Montañez in eight rounds at Madison Square Garden last night. The Puerto Rican, considered the No. 1 title contender, succumbed to a badly cut left eye and a steady pounding after 2 minutes and 39 seconds of the eighth. Referee Frank Fullam called a halt to prevent serious eye injury.

A crowd of 7,122 paid $14,703.75 to see the fight.

Track Meet Records Due For Drubbing

DENTON, May 24. (AP)—Fleet Texas runners and field performers gathered here to compete tonight in the revived district Southwestern Amateur Athletic Union track and field meet indicated records were in for a bad drubbing.

Last minute entries of at least three Lone Star conference champions and one all-time record holder from the East Texas State Teachers college bolstered interest in field events.

Winners of the district meet, last held in Dallas in 1936, and of more than 40 other regions will be eligible for competition at the National A. A. U. meet in Lincoln, Neb., in July.

Coach Choc Sportsman of North Texas Teachers college, director of the meet, said Coach Bob Berry of ETSTC signified he would enter Wither, Lone Star conference champion in the 100-yard dash; Ramsey, LSC high hurdle champion; Tully, LSC javelin champion, and Hunt, LSC champion and record holder in the high and broad jumps.

Addition of Wither completed a fast field for the 100-meter dash, in which have been entered Jack Cooley of Kaufman, Texas Inter-scholastic champion in both the 100 and 220-yard dashes, and Dodd and Williams of the Denton Eagles, both of whom have bettered 10 seconds this year.

At least seven other records are in for a bad strain if they are not broken. Morris Farmer of Texas Tech has done better than the 15.1 mark in high hurdles. The Eagles' Jim Bone, who has sailed 13 feet in the pole vault, about 10 feet to pass the 11 foot, 5 3/4 inches in the high jump and 23 feet, 8 1/2 inches in the broad jump. The meet records in those events are 6 feet, 3/4 inches, and 21 feet, 4 inches.

Blaine Rideout, Denton's LSC mile champion, might best the meet time in both the 800 meter and 1,500 meter runs if entered in both. Claude Everett of North Texas, LSC low hurdles champion, has done better than the meet time of 57.5 in the 400-meter hurdles.

Wayne Rideout, great Eagle miler, who has been sundering from a jured leg, will not run, Sportsman said.

Walker, who won the medalist's prize on a flip from Cotton, didn't even survive the first round. He lost to young Ross Magee of Quanah, 2 to 1. Cotton did a shade better, but won his morning round with C. M. Day of Childress on the twentieth hole. But in the afternoon he went down to Lyle Holmes of Shamrock by a thumping 5-4.

Also eliminated Tuesday were such stars as Roy Farrell of Vernon, a former champion; J. D. Mitche of Childress, the veteran B. F. Holmes of Shamrock, and Carl Harrison, the long driver from Memphis.

Henderson Leads East Texas League

(By The Associated Press)

The Henderson Oilers strengthened their hold on first place in the East Texas league last night by downing Jacksonville, 8 to 2, behind the six-hit pitching of Gene Hinrichs. It was his fifth victory of the season.

Texarkana's Liners were dropped into third place when Longviews Pat Beasley allowed them only four hits and took an 8 to 1 decision.

Palentine defeated Kilgore, 2 to 0, when Grover Miller bested Fred Isert in a mound duel.

The combined eight of their 10 hits with six Marshall bobbles in the first five innings to win 8 to 4.

Today's games—Longview at Texarkana, Tyler at Marshall, Jacksonville at Henderson, Kilgore at Palestine.

Wright Thinks He Has Chance To Win

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., May 24 (AP)—Tommy Wright, 23-year-old Knoxville pro whose sensational 132 qualifying round for the National Open tournament surprised the golfing world Monday, thinks his chances for copping the crown at Philadelphia next month are as good as the next fellow.

"The way I'm hitting the ball now, I think I've got as good a chance of winning the title as anybody," the shy, gangling youth who learned the game as a caddy, said today.

"The way I'm hitting" was good enough to slice eight strokes off par on Atlanta's East Lake links—the course made famous by Bobby Jones.

Although his great qualifying score headed his name into the nation's headlines for the first time, Wright is no newcomer to golf. He won the Tennessee State amateur championship in 1936 before turning professional.

Poffenberger Fined And Suspended For Breaking Training

CINCINNATI, May 24. (AP)—Cletis Elwood (Boots) Poffenberger, eccentric right-hander of the Brooklyn Dodgers, was fined $400 by Manager Leo Durocher and indefinitely suspended without pay.

Two fines were slapped on him, each for $200, one for insubordination and the other for staying out of the Dodgers' hotel last night until 3 a. m.

The pitcher had not reported at the ball park here today when other members of the team arrived for the contest with the Reds.

"When Poffenberger didn't show up at 1 o'clock this afternoon, the time all players are supposed to report," explained Durocher, "I held a meeting and announced to the players I fined Poffenberger $200 for being late. That was an act of insubordination. I then fined him another $200 and suspended him for not coming into the hotel until 3 o'clock this morning."

Baseball's 'Doghouse' Has Three New Members

Pastor Leaves Bicycle at Home

They'll have to enlarge baseball's "doghouse" to make room for all the candidates who clamored for admission today.

Chief among the newcomers who won non-popularity contests either from their losses or the opposition were (a) the New York Yankees, (b) the Glauks' Walter Brown, and (c) the Dodgers' Cletis (Boots) Poffenberger.

The Yanks are in for the simple reason that they're too good. Apparently it finally has been proven the only thing that can stop them is the weatherman. The Cleveland Indians were the party of the second camp yesterday in watching the world champions win again.

This was the twelfth straight victory. They did it by a 7-3 score and though it's only May it's getting harder and harder to find a new way of writing, "the Yankees won another one."

Messrs. Henrich, Gordon, Dickey, and Rice were the siege gunners who pumped balls out of the park. Quite a show they put on!

Looks as though Brown, the Giant pitcher, had carved a big niche for himself in the doghouse, the way Bill Terry made him stand out there and take it in that eighth inning uprising the Pirates put on.

Terry waved his bull pen pitchers to quit warming up, so Walter dodged a hail of baseballs, good for eight runs, that enabled the Pirates to win by 13-4 what had, up to then, been a very respectable ball game.

Brother Poffenberger, the other nose seems to have moved permanently to the kennels. Manager Leo Durocher slapped a pair of $200 fines on him for keeping late hours and insubordination and the only thing the eccentric right-hander could say offhandedly: "I know I'm stubborn, but I'm not going to the game."

Apparently the Cincinnati Reds were just as stubborn, only they all attended the fray and won from the bootless Dodgers, 3-2. Johnny Vander Meer was in rare form for his third victory.

Meanwhile, Cardinals, afraid to lose or be overtaken by the Reds, kept the league lead with a well carved 6-1 win over the Phillies. It was Bill McGee doing the pitching and it was good enough for the Gassets to take No. 5 in a row.

Otherwise, the Cubs and the Bees slugged it out, with the Cubs winning 15-8. Buck Newsum, ex-Bronx, gave his new Tiger bones a victory by scattering 11 Red Sox hits for a 7-2 triumph, the Athletics took the Browns 7-3 and two runs in the ninth were enough to give the White Sox a 5-4 decision over Washington.

Twenty-two of the Amarillo hits were batted in on base hits. Two came on force-out plays. Two were the result of an error. One was counted on a wild pitch. And one was pure theft with Bobby Holt swiping home in the fifth, while Sanders was doing the same at second.

Eight of Amarillo's 21 hits were doubles. The five Pampa twirlers gave up 12 bases on balls and made five wild pitches. All of which being appreciated by the Gold Sox as they gleefully pounced on every opportunity offered.

Baer's Left Hook May K. O. Nova, Says Boxing Expert

By DILLON GRAHAM, AP Feature Service Sports Writer.

PERNDALE, N. Y., May 23.—Madcap Maxie Baer is still a sucker for a left.

Here at his Grossinger Lake training camp, high up in what is facetiously known as the Hebrew Himalayas, Max is conditioning on one left jab after another.

A pair of slim boxers, fast on their toes and possessing darting lefts, jab Maxie and run before he can uncork his right. And then comes a dusky destroyer named Elza Thompson, a big bruiser whose lefts are grown-up jabs that take a little of the joy out of your life.

That's the six-round ring diet that Maxie is thriving on as he prepares for his June 1 meeting with young Lou Nova at Yankee stadium.

Max has never seen Lou fight but he knows that the Alameda Adonis has a nifty left jab. And he is trying to learn to get away from it.

"He's really improved," explained Trainer Izzy Kline. "You should have seen him two weeks ago. He took every left that was thrown his way."

Maybe Baer has improved but when I saw him work the only left that missed him was the one Thompson threw while he was shadow-boxing on the other side of the ring.

Once out of the ring Maxie smiles and talks a good game. He figures Lou is a fair boxer—for a young fellow.

"But he's just starting. Hell, I've been fighting for ten years. He just hasn't a chance to pick up the experience and ring generalship that I have," he says.

SERIAL STORY

DATE WITH DANGER

BY HELEN WORDEN

Yesterday, as Mary Franklin tracks on the French case, the Duke meets two new victims, Clem Shirley and Jack Burden.

CHAPTER XII

THE following afternoon a florist's boy rang the service bell at 919 Park Avenue. "Miss Clem Shirley live here?" he inquired, as a man opened the door.

Clem, who hadn't got to bed till four that morning, was lying on the chaise longue in her sitting room trying to read the Sunday papers. She made a brilliant picture as she stretched out on the cream taffeta cushions, in her shining gold satin negligee. The sitting room, like herself was vivid and exotic. The walls were a tawny yellow and the furniture Venetian red. A very good 18th century Italian drawing done in red chalk hung over a handsome black oak Medieval cabinet, and on either side of the hooded plaster fireplace were Italian primitives, one an Andrea del Sarto, the other, a Bellini Madonna. Jim Shirley, Clem's father, had gone in for primitives when he became president of the International Brake Company. This private apartment on the top floor of the Shirley home was his gift to his daughter on her eighteenth birthday. He had hung two of the best pictures in his collection in her living room.

This afternoon a knock on her door provoked an anger. "Who is it?" followed by, "Oh, come in," as the servant timidly entered with the florist's box.

"They must be big flowers," she exclaimed, jumping up as her eyes lit on the huge package, "or there must be many of them. Open the box, Bailey, and give me the card."

Her expression changed to one of excitement as she slit the tiny white envelope and glanced at the signature. The handwriting was large and bold, yet at the same time immature. "What about cocktails this afternoon? Duke Martin. Call me at the Dove."

SHE was surprised to get the flowers and see the signature but still more surprised at the excitement they produced in her. Why should she care? "Where shall I put them, Miss Clem?" asked the footman as he lifted up a great mass of American Beauty roses.

Clem wondered whether she ought to send them back. The boys she knew didn't go in for American Beauties. Her eyes turned a little uncomfortably from the bowl of white gardenias which Jack Burden had given her to Duke's roses.

"Put them in that black crystal vase by the fireplace," she said. "And see that they have plenty of water."

Clem searched the telephone book for the Dove's number. She read the card again. How could she accept that invitation? But then why shouldn't she, if she wanted to? Jack wouldn't mind—he knew she loved him.

If she had stopped to answer her own questions she would never have reached for the telephone. She acted quickly in order to be a traitor to herself. "Is Mr. Martin there? Oh, hello! Yes, I should like to come. I was just going to thank you. They're marvelous! What? Yes, I'll be there in half an hour."

She sang as she dressed. How exciting life was! The appearance of her maid interrupted her thoughts.

"I couldn't have done so well, Mademoiselle," said Marie casting critical eyes over Clem's toilet. She looked like a precocious but beautiful child in her smartly fitted black velvet suit with her brown curls just showing beneath a crazy little black velvet turban.

TWENTY minutes later she was facing Duke across a table in the tap room of the Dove. His dark blue serge, though carefully tailored, served to heighten the impression of powerful muscles beneath. This pugilistic strength seemed oddly at variance with the white silk handkerchief neatly tucked in his breast pocket and the gold link bracelet watch on his left wrist. Clem thought there was a sinister fascination in this incongruity.

"Have you been breaking any hearts today?" he inquired with heavy humor.

"I haven't had time. When your flowers came, I was still recovering from last night."

He raised his glass. "There's something about you I can't resist," Clem flushed under the ardor of his eyes. She felt them stripping her.

"You don't have to be sentimental," she said, "you're interesting enough as yourself. Tell me about your life. It has had exciting moments."

She thrilled with the intimacy of the occasion as Martin lit a cigarette and blew a few smoke rings into the air. She and Duke and the bartender were the only people in the tap-room. On Sundays the crowd did not begin to gather until after six. The place had the brooding quiet of impending danger. Lit only by a few soft sidelights, Clem could imagine the room being the scene of exciting happenings, she was vague about what they might be, but she knew Duke would be mixed up in all of them. He was studying her face. "You might call my life exciting," he said. "To me it has all been part of the game."

"Skillfully he sketched in his beginning, telling only the side that would stir her emotionally. He spoke of his action, Hell's Kitchen.

"A guy couldn't live in that neck of the woods if he knew what fear meant. You had to be a killer, but that didn't mean you weren't soft-hearted. In between fights my gang was usually rounding up the stray dogs and cats of the neighborhood and dragging them into corner saloons for a feed. That's how we got our name, The Animal Crackers. We didn't mind the kidding. We could take it. We had the upper hand."

"How did you get it?" Clem's elbows were resting on the table, her chin cupped in both hands as she hung on Duke's words.

"By shooting One-eared Mike. He was a tough guy, who lived near me." Martin snapped a finger at the bartender. "Bring us two more Scotch and sodas, Jim."

"Go on," urged Clem.

"We jockeyed horns in a game on 11th Avenue. He wanted a share of my winnings. I couldn't see it. I socked him. That called for a fight. We didn't have guns so we used fists. My gang gave Mike's a devil of a beating. They had to run for their life. Mike was rubbed out."

"What does that mean?"

"Nicked. Punctured. Killed."

"Who killed him?"

"I did."

Clem took a drink. "You must like danger."

Martin smiled. "It's a business. I'll tell you more another time. What about getting hold of Jack Burden and showing the two of you the town?"

Clem hesitated. Wasn't she glad he'd suggested asking Jack? Their tastes were the same. He always shared her pleasures. Was she ashamed to have him find her at the Dove at that hour talking with the Duke? She had done nothing wrong.

"That's a swell idea. We were going to a concert but anything you show us will be much more thrilling. Where will you take us?"

Martin smiled. His self-complacency was magnificent. The little moth had been attracted by the light. With the cunning of a dramatist withholding the surprise until the curtain, he said, "You will learn after dinner. Shall I call Burden and ask him to join us here?"

Service Station Operators Will Take Instruction

A new type of merchandising school is making its appearance in Pampa this week as representatives from the district office of the Magnolia Petroleum company on Tuesday opened a course of instruction here for service station operators in this vicinity.

Paul H. Womack of the district office, who has been especially trained for teaching this course both at the home office and at the refinery at Beaumont, is the instructor. W. S. Norman is district manager for Magnolia in this territory.

The course is presented to dealers in small groups. Specialized equipment is utilized throughout the course. Full length motion pictures give visual instruction in the finer points of service station operation; charts show technical procedure; and the latest improvements for correct lubrication are explained and analyzed.

Those attending the school here are R. B. Burnett, marketing agent; D. L. Allford and Mickey Chilton of the Schneider garage; Dale Pinson and Doc Rodecap of Buckingham's Service Station; Frank Palmittier and Chick Marshall of Flying Horse Inn; Earl Shick, all of Pampa.

J. C. Hix, LeFors; William Erwin, Skellytown; W. C. Brooks, Borger; Ken Brodie and Morris Berson, both of McLean.

'Boss' Owes Million In Income Taxes

KANSAS CITY, May 24 (AP)—The 28-year political saga of Tom Pendergast leads to a prison cell next week with the "boss" owing the federal government nearly a million dollars and his fortune cut to shreds by betting on race horses.

Pendergast was sentenced to a 15-month term and fined $10,000 yesterday on his plea of guilty to income tax evasion in 1935 and 1936.

On the income covered by the indictments he owes the government some $430,000 in taxes, interest and penalties.

In addition, District Attorney Maurice M. Milligan told Judge Merrill E. Otis he had evidence Pendergast evaded payment on a total of $1,240,746 from 1927 to 1938.

Milligan said taxes, interest and penalties on all this would come to $830,494.73 and that the investigation of Pendergast's income over the 11-year period is "not yet altogether completed." However, the statute of limitations bars suit for taxes before 1935.

Pendergast pleaded guilty to evading taxes on $443,500, of which he received $315,000 in a "payoff" in connection with a $9,500,000 fire insurance rate compromise.

O'Malley Next.

R. Emmett O'Malley, former state insurance superintendent, was indicted on charges of failing to pay taxes on $62,500 he allegedly received in the compromise. He is to plead on the indictment Saturday.

Judge Otis granted Pendergast probation on a three-year term assessed on the second count of the indictment on condition he pay the $430,000 he owes.

However, Judge Otis said if Pendergast could prove he did not have that much on the day he was indicted probation would not be denied.

Friends of Pendergast said they doubted he could have paid that much then or now—let alone the taxes, interest, and penalties on the income for other years on which Milligan said he evaded payment.

If this is true, Pendergast will come out of prison bankrupt.

Much of Pendergast's money went to horse race bookmakers.

Milligan said he had evidence the toppled democratic boss bet $74,080

U. S. Vs. Kentucky in Coal Confab?

John L. Conner, left, U. S. Department of Labor mediator, presents his case to Emmett Durrett, Kentucky state labor department representative, as men work for settlement of coal controversy in Harlan county—although reportedly apart on which side is to win. Kentucky is said to support non-union miners, while Conner admits working under instructions of Dr. John R. Steelman, head of U. S. Conciliation Service, who delivered virtual "union shop ultimatum" to Appalachian coal operators.

Shamrock Opens 'Hopper Poison' Station Today

Special To The NEWS

SHAMROCK, May 24.—Wheeler county is ready for the war on grasshoppers and a poison station will be opened in Shamrock today. The station, under direction of Bedford Harrison, Shamrock Chamber of Commerce secretary, will be located in the A. J. Laycock building two doors west of the city hall.

Another mixing station will be opened in Wheeler the latter part of the week. County Agent Jake Tarter will have charge of the Wheeler station, which will be located in the old Wilkinson building just across the street from the post office.

Infestation in the southern part of the county is as bad or worse than last year and farmers are urged to put out the poison bait immediately to avoid spread of the pests.

The poison used is sodium arsenate. It is used on a base of 50 per cent cottonseed hulls and 50 per cent bran. Blackstrap molasses is used to sweeten the mixture and attract the insects. About 20 pounds of the wet mash is sufficient to cover an acre and the cost to the farmer is about 15 cents per acre.

Baptists Compliment Panhandle Graduates

Special To The NEWS

PANHANDLE, May 24.—Complimenting the graduating class, as a farewell courtesy, women of the Baptist church, entertained the seniors with their annual baccalaureate supper, Sunday evening at 8 o'clock in the church parlor.

The parlor was decorated with a profusion of red roses and white honeysuckle, the senior class colors. The quartet tables were centered with red rose buds, and white honeysuckle was given as plate favors.

The following program was rendered: Invocation, R. E. Vaughn; talk by Mrs. A. E. White, "Who Knows But You Are Come to the Kingdom For Just such a Time as This?" Response by Kelsey Walters, class president; Mr. Vaughn expressed thanks to the women for serving the supper; followed with remarks by J. C. Line, class sponsor, who said: "If I have a favorite class this is it, for I have had most of the class members in some of my classes for four years."

Special guests other than the seniors were Supt. and Mrs. R. E. Vaughn, Principal and Mrs. Kellus Turner, the class sponsor, J. C. Line, and Mrs. A. E. White.

The baccalaureate supper is a tradition with the senior class. Each graduation class looks forward to the supper, which is held each year on Sunday evening preceding the baccalaureate services.

Pointing out a price argument is Mrs. Alice Beuster, Chicago housewife, who temporarily stopped national monopoly committee's Washington quiz into billion-dollar industries while she told members difficulties of balancing a very a household budget.

Men Put One Over Women At Friendly

FRIENDLY, W. Va., May 24 (AP)—Nominating conventions, conflicted with school graduating exercises so Friendly's celebrated petticoat administration lost out when the city election ballot was made up.

But Mayor Ella Eddy and her staff of women officials aren't licked yet. Gossip over the back fences of this little 41-year-old Ohio river town is "wait until the final vote is counted."

"We set the date of the nominating conventions months ago," explained the mayor, a 48-year-old woman. "Then our county schools had to close early because of finances and 'someone' arranged to have graduating night on the same date of the conventions."

"Naturally all the mothers went to the school to see their children—and the men took the conventions."

The result is John Fisher will run on the Citizens' ticket for mayor June 6. His Community party opponent will be John Hough. Only Mrs. Elgie Rustemeyer, recorder-treasurer, and Mrs. Gladys Knowlton, council member, will be up for re-election on the printed ballots.

"You can't tell about elections," cautioned Mayor Eddy. "You know names still can be written in."

Just as the men nominated members of their own sex when the women were away, so did the women two years ago when only two men appeared at the Community party convention. A Citizens' ticket later was organized to oppose Mrs. Eddy and her group but the women won out.

"Maybe the men just don't want us," commented the mayor. "But when they take over, they will find the city in the best shape ever.

"We will leave a bank balance of about $200—and my land, just look what we have done."

Mrs. Eddy is a democrat and had a republican council but asserted "those kind of politics don't make any difference in Friendly."

The only publicized tiff during the two years of all-woman rule was enforcement of sanitation laws—especially a pig. The police chief's face was slapped but harmony was restored when the two "made up."

Senator Smith To Go Fishing When Royalty Arrives

FLORENCE, S. C., May 24 (AP)—Senator E. D. (Cotton Ed) Smith (D-SC) expects to go fishing while the king and queen of England are in Washington.

Asked why he was not at the capital waiting for the royal pair, he answered:

"Huh—I'm not about to get messed up in all that going-on. This thing of standing 10 feet away and bowing from your hips looks like a lot of foolishness to me. I believe in shaking hands like ordinary Americans."

The potato originated along the Pacific coast of South America and was introduced to Europe by the Spaniards.
