

Eastside HD Club Has Program On Meat Production

McLEAN, May 10.—Eastside Home Demonstration club met recently in the home of Mrs. C. A. Myatt with county agent, Mrs. Julia E. Kelley, giving a talk on "Production of Meat for Home Supply."

"Meat supply can be varied by using fowls, beef, pork, mutton, and some salt sea food purchased at the rate of 10 pounds to each person per year, making a total of 175 pounds of meat per year for each individual," Mrs. Kelley pointed out.

Mrs. Kelley also stated that tender meat is obtained by fattening an animal right out, but re-fattened ones will produce tough meat. Hogs and chickens especially should be penned for fattening to create a better flavor of meat. About a week's time should be given for penning fowls and feeding them starchy food or milk.

Another important food supply is tomatoes and it was learned that members of the club present had already planted 12 varieties, including Porter, McGee, Mariagebe, Wilt Resistance, Esrlama, June Pink, Large Yellow, Rear Red and yellow, Stone, Golden Globe, and Jonathan.

Mrs. Kelley stated that the smaller tomatoes were recommended for West Texas because the stem is shorter and the pollen is spread better.

The business session was in charge of vice-president, Mrs. Olen Davis. Reports were made by the recreation and exhibit chairmen who announced a recent social and the exhibit made at the dairy show in Shamrock at which club members received three ribbons from four exhibits and one member, Mrs. Luther Petty, received awards for being third place winner in judging dairy products, milk, cream, and butter and also of judging dairy cattle. Miss Hettie Burr gave a cornell report.

Present were Mrs. A. Lebetter, Kate and Buster Stokes, C. A. Myatt, Luther Petty, Julia Kelley and Miss Burr.

Junior Magazine Club Name Changed To Litera Recently

HIGGINS, May 10.—The Litera club was the new name chosen for the Junior Magazine club recently changing from a Junior to a Senior club. The theme for the program given recently at the home of Mrs. Elvie Dearing, Jr. was Arbor Day and kinds of trees were named in response to roll call.

"Trees" by Joyce Kilmer was the solo sung by Mrs. C. G. Fitzgerald. Mrs. R. B. Tyson discussed "What Arbor Day Means" and Mrs. Walter Word "How to Know Our Home Trees." Mrs. Lee Malsberger read "Facts about Growing Trees."

Those attending the meeting were Mesdames Frank Cheatham, L. R. McAdoo, Louis Davis, John Moreland, Joe Williams, Duane Fuqua, Paul Trenfield, John N. Merriman, and Perry Garinger.

Sigma Gamma Has May Breakfast At Home Of Mrs. Coffey

McLEAN, May 10.—Annual May breakfast given by members of the Sigma Gamma was held recently at the home of Mrs. T. J. Coffey with members of the Ladies Auxiliary of the First Presbyterian church serving the breakfast.

Tables were centered with sweet peas and corsages of sweet peas were placed at each plate.

Mrs. J. W. Story offered the invocation. The welcome was given by Miss Rosalie Carter, club president, with response by Mrs. W. B. Swim. During the meal, music was furnished by Misses Willie Louelle Cobb and Ermael Floyd, high school seniors.

Guests attending were Meses. C. G. Willson of LeFors, G. B. Heath of Canyon, G. M. Shaw of Littlefield, W. B. Swim, Donald Beal, D. C. Carpenter, J. W. Story, Roger Powers, J. E. Kirby, T. A. Landers, Gall Adams; Meses. Wilma Jarrell of Pampa, Mildred Slough of Wellington, and Ruth Ansley.

Club members present were Meses. Julia Slough, Ruby Swim, Ima Nellie Gill, Helier Heath, Jewell Johnson, Dale Smith, Rosalie Carter, Myrtle Marion Shaw, and Eunice Stratton.

HAIR NETS ARE IN AGAIN

Today's smartest women avoid any suggestion of windblown effects, choosing sleek, neat but softly feminine coiffures to top up-to-the-minute costumes. An invisible hair net, especially designed and shaped to keep the coiffure within bounds, but not to flatten or in any way mold its charming contours, is suggested by an important milliner. Decorating the net with flowers, beads or ribbons to match the trimming on the hat is her novel idea. For informal evening parties, a glorified net smooch is just the thing for complete coiffure control.

Spring Travel Cheering To Oil Industry

By EDWARD CURTIS. TULSA, Okla., May 10. (AP)—Spring's travel call to motoring millions sounded a somewhat cheering note to the oil industry today. In the mid-continent area, prices for gasoline at the refinery have edged up an eighth of a cent since Thursday, and along with the higher prices, refiners report the market strong and demand heavy with the beginning of travel.

Texas Today

(By The Associated Press) Importance of May 19 is overlooked by many Texans, although it is the day when major differences with the stormy nineteenth century Mexico were ended. The war with Mexico is regarded as part of the history of the United States rather than of Texas, but revolutionary troubles with Mexico certainly never closed until this decisive war was fought. To that extent it is Texas history.

THE War of the Revolution waged by Texas apparently closed when Santa Anna was captured at San Jacinto in 1836. But in 1837 Mexican agitators were organizing sensational programs for the recapture of Texas. Internal revolutions, however, prevented anything developing from these plans for aggression, but Mexico certainly never regarded Texas as free.

When she finally accepted annexation proposals, Mexico felt that a double-cross had been perpetrated. Right or wrong, hostilities ceased and the United States sent Zachary Taylor and Winfield Scott to Texas with a well armed force. Eight thousand Texans under Governor Henderson (who retired to become major general) marched with the federal army.

During the life of the Republic of Texas, Mexico had considered the border of Texas to be the Nueces River. Texas regarded it as the Rio Grande. As long as this condition existed no settlement could be expected.

As Lou Gehrig broke his consecutive game record at 2130, Babe Ruth, the other half of the New York Yankees' famous home run twins of other years, coached girls' softball teams in batting at St. Albans, Long Island. The Bambino is shown casting a critical eye at the stance of Millie Deegan of the Roverettes.

Safe Driving Rules Listed For Tourist In Summer Traffic

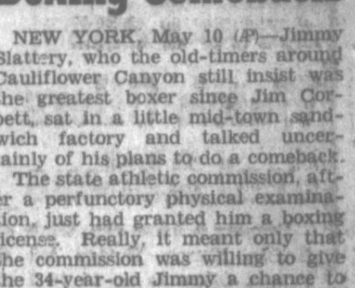

PLANT, Mich., May 10.—With the advent of the touring season and the prospect that more motorists will take to the road this year than in many years past, Charles A. Chayne, Buick chief engineer, today listed the following safe driving suggestions compiled as a questionnaire submitted to six veteran test drivers.

Do not pass cars on grade or blind turns, and stay on your own side of the road at all times. Do not drive on the wrong side of the road when driving in reverse. Do not attempt to make destination when tired or sleepy. It is bad practice to read street addresses while driving a car.

Hailstones Of Golf-Ball Size Fall At Eldridge

ALANREED, May 10.—The Eldridge community was visited by a hail storm Saturday night, doing some damage to the fruit and gardens. Some stones were as large as golf balls, but most of them were smaller. The hail came first and was followed by a good rain which was very much appreciated as the four-inch rain that Alanreed received last week did not reach out that far.

Slattery To Try Boxing Comeback

NEW YORK, May 10.—Jimmy Slattery, who the old-timers around Caullflower Canyon still insist was the greatest boxer since Jim Corbett, sat in a little mid-town sandwich factory and talked uncertainly of his plans to do a comeback. The state athletic commission, after a perfunctory physical examination, just had granted him a boxing license. Really, it meant only that the commission was willing to give the 34-year-old Jimmy a chance to see if he could get himself into any kind of shape.

Overpass Will Be Built Near Borger

That tail-spin turn south of Borger on Texas highway 117, will be revamped during early middle of next month, when work of constructing approaches and an overpass will start. Contracts are to be let in Austin by the Texas Highway department on May 23 for the relocation of a portion of highway 117 and the construction of an overpass over the Panhandle and Santa Fe railway tracks.

SERIAL STORY BORDER ADVENTURE

BY OREN ARNOLD
COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday, the Border Patrol moves out to catch Barro, and Betty waits at the radio station for word. Then suddenly she leaves and calls a taxi.

CHAPTER XXIX

SHERIDAN STARR was young. But he and H. B. Kildare had been assigned many weeks earlier to get Luis Barro, and so on this night the district chief ordered Sherry himself to take full command, directing even the older officers. It was not an unusual situation.

"You gentlemen understand that this is not likely to be easy," the young Sheridan Starr of the United States Border Patrol was saying. "It is practically certain that we shall have to fight."

"Naturally," said a fellow officer, one of 35 men assembled.

"We are almost certain they'll be at New Channel Crossing within the next three or four hours. We have inside information about that. We were signalled that the cavalcade had already started. But on horseback, Barro's force necessarily will move much more slowly than we have moved in cars. He does not even have a road."

"Have any idea about how many of them to expect, Mr. Starr?" one man, a veteran in the service, asked.

"Yes, sir, a hundred at least, perhaps a few more."

"Whew!"

"That's what I'm trying to make clear—it isn't just a case of our stepping out to say 'Hands up!' Or a case where two or three aliens decide to shoot a little and we have to bat down their ears. This almost surely will amount to a battle, with the numerical odds against us three to one, so here's my idea of how to do it, and I've been thinking about it hard. New Channel Crossing is two miles down the river from this point where we are now. If we go any closer in cars, or even on foot, we stand a good chance of being seen by Barro's spies on this side. If spies do see us, they'll darn sure signal across to Barro. Now, Barro probably will be bold enough with 100 armed men to try to force his way over anyhow, and then again he might not be. He's tricky. So we can't just go to our side of New Channel Crossing and wait for him, you see."

"Then how will we manage it?" asked another officer.

"Well, the river isn't more than neck deep anywhere along here, at this season. There are tules and willows growing, and some rocks, along the shore. I think we can get right in the water about here, wade silently downstream—clinging near the American shore—and come out of the water there where the river dammed up its old channel and made a new one. Understand?"

"There's quite a bit of brush, larger rocks, and such stuff on New Channel Island proper," one man remarked then. "Barro's men would be protected there in event of fighting. On our side of the river the land has been cleared and left clean for quite a ways."

"Exactly," Sheridan answered. "That's why I say we have to work a little trickery of our own. Now here's the point—"

"The night had been favorable for smugglers at 8 p. m., and Luis Barro had observed that with satisfaction. Most of the sky was clouded, and when the earth did catch a glimpse of the moon she only as a negligible curved line.

But by 10 o'clock nature had diabolically joined the American forces, Barro noted, cursing. Clouds had settled down beyond the mountains as if to sleep the night through. Stars had become veritable lanterns. Murky haze at the ground level had disappeared.

"Is no matter," he snapped at Gonzales, his assistant and interpreter. "No matter if it was full moon, even. We have strength tonight. We send the strangers over as planned. I like the chance to see gringo officers shot down before we leave anyway, eh Jose?"

"Si, Don Luis. But I am anxious to be gone."

"We shall hurry. We have a fast car all ready. We have steamship tickets even. We have plenty money. Tonight we start, and in two days we shall be on the ocean for grand trip, hah!"

"It is good," agreed Jose Gonzales.

"Now, you and I—we do not cross the river tonight, we stay always on the Mexican side. Los federales cannot cross the international boundary. It is strict law. The boundary line is down the center of the stream, as they well know. If something has slipped and they should be waiting for us, they would have to be on the other side, and would be only six or eight, maybe 10, anyway. I have never known more than 12 Border Patrol officers to be in one group. And we have big number tonight."

"Si, senior. It will be easy."

Barro halted his cavalcade about a mile from the river. Several of the riders, especially some women who had never ridden a horse before and who had been in dire straits at this night adventure, had begun muttering in complaint. Barro's interpreters and assistants were forced to give them a few final words of encouragement.

"It is a few minutes now until you are in the United States," Barro promised them. "Then your troubles will be over, for there is the land where everybody get rich and have no worry."

He had led them to believe, ever since his spotters first contacted the aliens, that through his influence entrance to America was safe and easy, and residence there was almost utopian once they were actually in. He did not, of course, mention that any alien can be arrested in America and promptly deported, no matter how he has slipped in. Deportation can follow days, months, or even years after entry.

"The river where we cross is no deeper than a horse's knees," Barro went on. "You could wade across on foot, easy. Just be quiet and ride right on eastward. Nothing will bother you. And anyway you have guns."

A very definite but silent tension crept over the entire personnel of the cavalcade as they approached the water. Barro and Gonzales leading. Only the sound of the animals' hoofs on stones, reins rattling, an occasional snort or a clamping of bits—marked the progress of the column.

"Here is the old river channel, dry," Barro pointed out to Gonzales, whispering, as they rode on across it. "The river now is eastward a short distance."

Barro was keenly alert. His eyes had scanned points beyond the Rio Grande in America for any light signal of warning that his spies might give, but he had seen none. He approached the water edge with field glasses trained. Anxious riders started into the water at once. Elation swelled in Barro. The American shore was clear for at least half a mile in each direction. His aliens could cross unmolested. Barro smiled.

In that moment a rifle shot cracked the clear night air along the Rio.

"ALTO!" a voice shouted. Then others—"Los federales aqui ALTO!"

The shot, and the formal commands to halt, came not from in front of the aliens, but from three positions behind them!

Astor Publishes Views On Danzig

LONDON, May 10 (AP)—A statement by Viscount Astor that "a conference with Nazi pistols pointed at one's head can lead to no good end" appeared today as the British cabinet sought anew for a formula to win Soviet Russia for the British-French front.

The viscount and his Virginia-born wife in the past have been accused by anti-Fascists and have denied heading a behind-the-scenes political clique—the so-called Cliveden set—which at one time favored appeasement of Reichsmarshal Hitler. A letter expressing Astor's views were published in the Times of London. The same issue of the newspaper carried a statement denying an editorial of last Thursday implied a European war over Danzig by pursuing an appeasement policy similar to that of Munich.

The Astor family has large holdings in the Times, particularly John Jacob Astor, brother of the viscount. The Russian problem was near the top of the agenda for today's cabinet meeting. Diplomatic circles expressed confidence Russian dissatisfaction over British security proposals could be overcome.

A German demand for return of the free city of Danzig is one of the principal points of controversy between Germany and Poland. Britain has pledged aid, if necessary, to protect Poland's independence.

Duke's Plea Kept Off Air In Britain

VERDUN, France May 10 (AP)—The Duke of Windsor received hearty congratulations from French officials today for his plea—broadcast "simply as a soldier of the last war"—to "save humanity from the terrible fate which threatens it."

He was greeted by a group of Meuse department officials shortly before he and his American-born duchess began an automobile trip back to Paris after a tour of World War battle sectors.

The French press, like British newspapers, gave prominent display to the duke's brief address but refrained from comment. Semi-official and diplomatic sources in France said the speech was "welcome" and its appeal for the maintenance of peace.

"I speak simply as a soldier of the last war whose most earnest prayer is that such cruel and destructive madness shall never again overtake mankind," the former British monarch said.

The grave anxieties of the time in which we live compels me to raise my voice in expression of the universal longing to be delivered from the fears that beset us, and to return to normal conditions.

"The problems that concern us at the moment are only the reproductions on a large scale of the jealousies and suspicions of everyday life. In our personal contacts we strive to live in harmony with our fellowmen. Otherwise modern civilization could never have come into existence."

"Somewhat, I feel that my words tonight will find a sincere echo in the hearts of all who hear them. It is not for me to put forward concrete proposals; that must be left to those who have the power to guide their nations toward closer understanding. God grant that they may accomplish that great task before it is too late."

(The address was not broadcast by the British Broadcasting corporation. The Daily Mail of London, which said the tone of the appeal was "unexceptionable" and would "resound in all the chancelleries of the world," declared the issue of whether it should be broadcast "would probably not have presented itself as delicate problem" if the royal court had been in London. King George VI and Queen Elizabeth are now en route to Canada and the United States.

BBC-Played. (An editorial in the London Evening Standard said the "error" of the Duke of Windsor in broadcasting while their majesties are en route to America "cannot excuse the stupidity of the B. B. C." In not relaying the speech in England, it added:

"This morning all Britain has read the duke's pronouncement. Why should they not have heard it last night? . . . An attempt to impose censorship which does not gain its object is worse than no censorship at all."

(The radio aboard the Empress of Australia, which is carrying the king and queen to North America, did not pick up the broadcast. Reports from Verdun said the duke had obtained the consent of the king, his younger brother, before making the speech.

Colliding Trucks Kill Two Persons

DALLAS, May 9 (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. John A. Latimer, both about 62, of Joquin, were killed here yesterday when their heavily-laden lumber truck figured in a collision with another truck.

Their machine crashed into a telephone pole while the other plunged into a ditch and caught fire. Driving the Latimer truck was W. I. Edison, 38, of Center, Tex., a friend of the couple.

J. A. Berry, 22, of Dallas, drove the other truck, a member of a convoy fleet. He jumped from the cab as it burst into flames, and with the assistance of other drivers in the fleet, extinguished the blaze before it reached a huge gasoline tank mounted behind his seat.

The front end of the lumber truck was virtually demolished, but Edison escaped with scratches and bruises. Berry also suffered only slight injuries.

Hospitals Kept Busy After Hail Storm

LULING, May 9 (AP)—Luling residents set about today repairing dwellings and business houses severely damaged last night by a terrific hail storm which slightly injured a score of persons. Driven by a high wind, hailstones one and one-half inches in diameter beat out nearly all west side windows in town in a thirty minute barrage. About four inches of rain which fell in 45 minutes flooded streets and some homes in lower sections.

All Methodist Missionary Work May Be United Under One Board

KANSAS CITY, May 10 (AP)—United Methodism's 900 delegates, jamming 75 committee reports into the final three days of their conference, today received recommendations for setting up a 30-member financial commission and uniting all missionary work under one board.

The committee on missions proposed that one board administer all foreign, home and women's missions. This plan is used by the southern and protestant branches.

A minority report suggested a separate board be established to administer all women's missionary activities. It was indicated a second minority report would be submitted, asking separate boards for foreign, home and women's missions. This is similar to the present setup in the northern church.

The committee on membership and temporal economy proposed creation of a general commission on world service and finances to handle all monies for general benevolences, the general administration fund, and the Episcopal fund.

The commission, similar to that now operating in the northern church, would comprise two ministers and two lay delegates from each of the six jurisdictional districts, nominated by the bishops thereof, and six members at large, including two bishops. Members would serve four years.

Filibuster Rumored On Neutrality Bill

WASHINGTON, May 10 (AP)—Reports of a Senate filibuster against the Pittman neutrality bill if it is approved by the foreign relations committee were heard today in congressional quarters.

Senator Borah (R., Idaho) was mentioned privately by some senators as a likely leader in such a move. In response to inquiries, however, Borah would say only he was opposed to the bill.

"I would consider the cash and carry proposition as giving Great Britain control of our raw materials and munitions in time of great emergency," he declared.

Democratic Leader Barkley said he had heard the measure would be "talked about as long as some senators can stand on their feet," but that he could not vouch for these reports.

The Pittman bill would reenact virtually the same "cash and carry" provisions as those which recently expired, except that it would include munitions among the materials which could be sold to belligerents. The present law prohibits the sale of arms to warring nations whenever the neutrality act is invoked, but permits sale of other goods for cash if they are transported in foreign ships.

From 1919 to 1938 United States production of turkeys increased more than 56 per cent—from 17,000,000 birds to 26,000,000.

Leadership Not Division Needed Claims Elliott

PORT WORTH, May 10 (AP)—Texas needs competent leadership rather than a partitioning into several states which might give the area more voting power in Congress, Elliott Roosevelt declared last night in his semi-weekly radio broadcast.

The President's son mentioned that the treaty which annexed Texas to the United States provided that the state at its discretion might divide itself into five separate states.

"But Texas has demonstrated," Roosevelt continued, "not only on those two occasions, but in many other ways that she will remain united as one great state. No, it is not division of our area that we need at the present time; it is competent leadership over what we have."

The fighting leadership of a Sam Houston or a James Stephen Hogg, or the wise and amiable leadership of Stephen Austin."

Division into five states would give the area 10 votes in the Senate instead of two and possibly double the vote in the House, he said, which perhaps would be strength enough to sway the balance of power away from the industrial east, which since the Civil War has kept this area subjugated to the background in such matters as freight rate differentials and disadvantageous farm legislation.

"But what would happen to the heritage of Houston and Austin—that indefinite something responsible for Texas' greatness—if we took the alternative route? It would, perhaps, be destroyed. I do not think that man, regardless of his leadership, could persuade Texas to give up that heritage."

Potter Courthouse Lawn Stripped To Remove Dandelions

AMARILLO, May 10 (AP)—Potter county commissioners couldn't extradite the dandelions marring the green of the courthouse lawn, so they decided to remove the lawn. The commission announces intention of slicing three inches off the surface of the two-acre greenward and using it, dandelions and all, as filler for county roads. The grounds will be summer fallowed so that all dandelion seed left will sprout and be pulled up, and the area planted to grass next fall.

County Commissioner Lon Sellers said dandelions were not native to the plains and were unknown in the county until recent years.
