SCOUT MOBILIZATION IS BIG SUCCESS

TOTAL OF 231 GATHER HERE ON SATURDAY

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT IS HEARD—MANY AWARDS GIVEN

A total of 472 Boy Scouts and many Scouters and parents assembled Saturday in towns of the Adobe Walls council reporting to headquarters here. 8 suits meeting by towns were: Pampa 231, Wheeler 25, Gaymon 13, Borger 73, Perryton 19, Goodwell, Okla., 11, Spearman 22, Keyes, Okla., 11, Follett 15, Tyrone, Okla., 9, Morse 11, Hooker, Okla., 17, Canadian 15. A number of reports will be received later by mail.

THE thrill of hearing the President of the United States address them as "Fellow Scouts" and charge them with the responsibility of a nationwide clothing drive for the needy was a high point in the mobilization of Boy Scouts of Pampa and nearby towns Saturday in the city auditorium.

Fog No Hindrance
Pampa's mobilization included 231 Scouts from the 14 troops of Pampa, Hopkins, Clarendon, McLean, Miami, LeFors, and Skellytown. Despite the fog, Clarendon arrived very early with more than a score of Scouts, and all out-of-town delegations were accompanied by groups of adults.

At the same time, four boys were given the Eagle Scout badge by President A. G. Frost of the Adobe Walls council, who presided. The boys were John King, troop 4; C. A. Clark Jr., troop 4; John Martin, troop 80; and Robert Talley, troop 80. At Borger, Eagle Scout badges were awarded to John J. Dellamater and Roland Black, both of Whittentonburg.

Troop Awards Given
As appointed representative of Mayor W. A. Bratton, who could not attend, Clin E. Hinkle made a short talk of welcome to visiting Scouts and parents. He also presented the President Roosevelt progress awards to troop representatives. Twenty-three troops of the council won these awards. They are as follows:

Troop 4, Pampa; 6, Borger; 7, Borger; 9, Skellytown; 10, Borger; 14, Pampa; 16, Pampa; 17, Pampa; 18, Pampa; 20, Pampa; 51, Spearman; 54, Perryton; 57, Booker; 59, Follett; 61, Gaymon, Okla.; 62, Olympia, Okla.; 65, Fergys, Okla.; 67, Tyrone, Okla.; 73, Shamrock; 75, Higgins; 77, Wheeler; 80, Pampa; 37, Clarendon.

President Post was given a President's award for the entire council—"Uncle Sam" Talks.

The Rev. Gaston Foote, dressed as Uncle Sam, presented Robert Talley, representing Scouts reaching the age of participating citizenship, and made a stirring oration on the theme that "Scouting gives Uncle Sam intelligent, unselfish, moral, participating citizens."

Chris B. Martin, chairman of camping for the area, was assured by 174 boys that they wanted a summer camp. He urged the Scouts to save their money and to make plans to attend.

DEFENSE ATTORNEYS CLAIM DEAD PHYSICIAN WAS IN STUPOR WHEN HE DECLARED HE WAS POISONED

GREENWOOD, Miss., Feb. 10 (AP)—Defense attorneys for Dr. Sarah Ruth Dean, on trial for murder, today sought to tear down the reputed deathbed accusation of Dr. John Preston Kennedy that the woman physician poisoned him with a whisky highball. They contended that Kennedy was already in a dying stupor and not responsible at the time of his declaration.

Having grilled two state witnesses on the point without definitely establishing its contention, defense counsel said tonight they had summoned two specialists who examined Kennedy at the hospital on the night of his statement and who would testify that he was then "unconscious or in a stupor." The witnesses said the statement was made on a Wednesday night, only last August.

"If Dr. A. J. Wilde (an eye specialist) examined Preston that Wednesday night and he was in a stupor or unconscious, then your brother was in a stupor when he made the dying statement. Is that a fact?" Defense Attorney J. J. Braland today repeatedly asked Dr. Barney Kennedy, state witness and brother of the dead man.

Barney Kennedy finally answered, "Yes," then added: "But the statement was made Wednesday night and I'm positive that was not the night Dr. Wilde examined him."

Subsequently, Braland said both Dr. Wilde and Dr. A. E. Gordin, who attended Preston Kennedy, had been summoned as defense witnesses.

'FARMER JIM' FLAYS SOLONS FOR DALLYING

LEGISLATORS ACCUSED OF PARTISANSHIP IN VOTING

AUSTIN, Feb. 10 (AP)—Governor Miriam A. Ferguson and the Texas legislature apparently were definitely at "odds" tonight, after the executive's husband, former Governor James E. Ferguson, accused the legislators of "intense partisanship" in delaying enactment of unemployment relief legislation.

The legislature has been in extraordinary session 12 days and final action on two subjects submitted by the governor seemed far away. Former Governor Ferguson predicted that bills to issue additional state bonds for relief and provide a real estate mortgage foreclosure moratorium would not be approved by the two houses before the last days of the session, which will expire by constitutional limitation on February 27.

The house had not finished consideration of a bill to provide for issuance of additional relief bonds to supplement the $5,000,000 authorized last fall, half of which have been sold. Ferguson said the "prolonged discussion" of the bond bill in the legislature undoubtedly would make it difficult to sell the $2,750,000 lot of relief securities advertised for February 9.

"It seems there will be no response from a hurried vote," Ferguson said, adding that he had been advised that the $300,000 remaining of the first bond sale would be absorbed before March 1.

The house had voted in favor of $4,000,000 bond issue, after the governor told the legislature in her message she believed not less than $10,000,000 would be needed. Also, the lower branch had refused to give the governor more equal representation on the Texas relief commission.

Ferguson also criticized action of the house in voting to increase the tax on horse race wagers from two and one half per cent to 12 1/2 percent, three fourths of the raise to go into a sinking fund to retire the principal and pay interest on the relief bonds.

Sherman White Will Make Race For Re-Election

Sherman White, Gray county attorney, has entered his name in the announcement column for reelection, subject to the will of the voters in the democratic primaries.

Mr. White is basing his candidacy on his close attention to duty while county attorney. He said that he had endeavored to fulfill the requirements of the office without favor or bias, but with courtesy to all.

He pointed out that he had divided his time between the several courts of the county and had made his services available to every deserving citizen. For these reasons, and by reason of the fact that his experience has qualified him to render good service to the citizens of Gray county, he is asking another term.

Grandmother of Pampan Saw Burial—Abe's Socks Had To Be Very Long.

AS the nation prepares to pay annual tribute to Abraham Lincoln, "Sage of the Ages," there are few sources of information about him which have not been probed. A Pampa resident, Willis Price of 321 North Somerville, recalls many things which his grandmother, Mrs. Louisa L. Price, told him before she died a few years ago.

Mr. Price also brought The NEWS an article written by his grandmother for a Monrovia, Calif., paper in 1925. Her article follows in part: "My husband happened to be in Springfield, Ill., when word came of the surrender of General Lee to General Grant, which closed the civil war. He said it was a wonderful display of joy. Men left their businesses and walked into the

CAR LICENSE BILL SIGNED BY GOVERNOR

PENALTIES PAID THIS YEAR MUST BE REFUNDED

AUSTIN, Feb. 10 (AP)—Owners of motor vehicles in Texas were given until March 31 to pay their 1934 registration fees when Governor Miriam A. Ferguson today signed a bill, which became law immediately, fixing that date as the permanent deadline for such remittances without penalty.

The bill had been approved by a two-thirds majority vote in each house, thus making it effective when signed.

Under the statute that the new law replaces those who did not pay each year before midnight of February 1 were subjected to a penalty of 20 per cent of the amount of the registration fee if they operated their vehicles upon the highways.

The new law provided that those who had been obliged to pay a penalty this year since February 1 must be refunded.

SERGEANT AT ARMS REFUSES CUSTODY PLAN

WILLIAM MACCRACKEN NOT ARRESTED BY SENATE 'COP'

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10 (AP)—A guest but not a prisoner in the home of Chesley W. Jurney, senate sergeant at arms, William P. MacCracken retired tonight to sleep in the night shirt his attorney sent him.

The former assistant secretary of commerce and the official who for two days had attempted to arrest him, talked about the weather before Jurney provided sleeping accommodation, but no warrant for his arrest. Apparently MacCracken intended to remain until a habeas corpus hearing Monday.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10 (AP)—William P. MacCracken, cited by the senate to answer contempt charges, offered to surrender tonight to the senate's sergeant at arms, Chesley W. Jurney, but the latter did not have the warrant for MacCracken's arrest and the offer was not accepted.

MacCracken, former assistant secretary of commerce whose arrest was ordered by the senate following the removal of important papers relating to air mail contracts from MacCracken's office, appeared at Jurney's home tonight and made his offer.

Jurney said later he rejected the offer because the warrant for MacCracken's arrest was locked in Jurney's office at the senate and it would not be available before noon Monday.

Frank Hogan, attorney for MacCracken, announced the surrender of his client. He left almost immediately for the home of a justice of the District of Columbia supreme court to apply for a writ of habeas corpus. His attorney did not know that Jurney did not have the warrant in his possession.

MacCracken refused to appear before the senate yesterday to stand trial with three aviation company executives. He has been missing since then.

They are charged with removing letters from files in the office of MacCracken—an attorney for several large aviation companies—which they were under subpoena by the senate mail contract investigating committee.

A short while after MacCracken had appeared at the home of Jurney, Justice O'Donoghue issued the writ of habeas corpus which Hogan sought. The writ is returnable Monday at 10 a. m.

Later a deputy marshal of the court was sent to Jurney's home to effect MacCracken's release. There he found, however, that the former government official was not being held after all.

The fact that Jurney did not have the warrant with him was regarded as indicating that Jurney intended to arrest MacCracken "on his own terms," as he put it earlier in the day when he declined to negotiate with Hogan for a surrender.

Had MacCracken's surrender been accepted tonight, there would have developed a question of jurisdiction between the District of Columbia court and the senate. That was one thing Jurney sought to avoid.

Informed shortly after issuing the writ that the sergeant at arms had declined to take MacCracken into custody, Justice O'Donoghue said he had taken the action on evidence presented by MacCracken's attorney that his client was under arrest.

LAW OF LOVE: Love worketh no ill to his neighbor; therefore love is the fulfilling of the law.—Romans 13:10.

NATIONS, like individuals, seldom like to see themselves as others see them. Our neighbors' viewpoint is never like our own and we feel that they do not do us justice and that they are prejudiced. Perhaps the most important thing about it is that we are really ignorant of the basic elements in each others lives and are prone to judge mainly by confusing externals. You are probably as wrong about your neighbor as he is about you. That explains a lot but it doesn't excuse as much. Out of these differences spring fears and jealousies which may lead—and often do, to serious trouble.

We in America have a new deal. Other nations do not fully understand it and its meaning and dangers to them. Neither do we understand it. Several countries in Europe we also do not understand. The less understandable to us is the U. S. S. R. set-up. Soviet Russia is a one party government in which Joseph Stalin is the dictator. A central committee is the executive body. It has "state capitalism." The end of Czar Nicholas was the beginning of the world's most important social and economic experiment. In Italy we see Victor Emanuel III still a ruler but with dictatorial powers in the hands of the former socialist editor of Milan, popularly known as Il Duce—"the chief." Twelve years ago Benito Mussolini marched into Rome at the head of his Black Shirts and then into full control of the fascist party. In Germany, Adolf Hitler, youngest of the three dictators is building a government to operate from the top downward. The nazi storm troops constitute a dominant military group with branches in nearly every town. We as a nation are somewhat distrustful of these dictators even while setting up a temporary dictatorship of our own.

What other nations think of us as a people and as a government was recently summarized by the Associated Press foreign correspondents. In brief here are some of the findings:

England—The average Englishman recognizes Americans as cousins but the average Englishman doesn't care much for cousins. When the Englishman thinks of America he thinks of such issues as who won the war, war debts, rum running, the gold standard, foreign trade, and the world economic conferences. Old ideas die hard. American films have convinced Londoners that the Indian has been replaced in the wild and woolly country by machine-gunning gangsters, with about the same general effect. Many Englishmen admire Roosevelt but they are having a hard time making up their minds about Mae West.

France—This recent ally is said still to believe: 1. Uncle Sam is a Shylock. 2. American food is atrocious. 3. Marriage in America is a joke, and divorces are the usual thing. 4. Gangsters are decimating themselves but the survivors are turning to kidnaping. 5. Despite their own ideas of French morals, French are said to believe that young Americans are wild. 6. All Americans were rich once and will be again, although deaths from starvation in the midst of plenty are said to be astounding in our cities.

Russia—Russians who were once universally poor and who expect eventually under communism to be universally well clothed and fed are contemptuous of the American economic system which stresses destruction and curtailment of crops. Ivanovitch, their average soviet citizen, is taught to have a high regard for American industrial efficiency and technique. Figures on production in American factories are constantly used to shame him in his clumsy efforts to change from a poor peasant to a skilled industrialist. But the United States is held up to him as a nation ruled by a handful of wealthy men who grind laboring classes under their heels. Russia, the one class country, believes that America is a nation of two classes, wealthy men and poor workers—and his knowledge and experience do not permit him to understand the ambitions of Americans who, though poor, wish "to get ahead" through individualism. Persecuted and held in economic slavery as a class, freed by their common opportunism, Russians are content to work out their destinies as a single class, although human nature is leading them further toward seeking of individual opportunities than they realize.

Japan—While recognition of Russia undoubtedly promoted friendly relations with America, it had the opposite effect in Japan. The Japanese regard America as a land of great wealth, huge naval programs, and far-flung imperialist ambitions. The serious Tokio citizen regards the United States as a problem and a menace. Japanese like our movies, and the names of our publicized favorites, are well known by the Nipponese. The military party in Japan constantly stresses that Japan must keep a strong navy to protect herself from American expansion.

Italy—Italian newspapers have finally decided that since so many American gangsters are Italians they should give less space to news of America's criminals. They also are tinging down their lavish admiration of American films. They consider NRA as an imitation of the fascist idea and are thrilled. They condemn Roosevelt's money policy and they use stress on American unemployment to show that by comparison the Italian situation is good. Lindbergh, alone, of American public figures, retains his popularity. Italy hopes to sell us much of its wine as a result of repeal of prohibition.

Germany—Germans who were seriously burned by their inflation experiments are tremendously interested in America's inflation policy. Germany wants no more monetary experiments. Senator William Borah is a hero in Germany because of his comments against the Versailles treaty and the creation of the Polish corridor.

OUT OUR WAY By WILLIAMS

THE "HOT" SPOT.

American boxing is watched because of Max Schmeling. Sweden—the man on the curb in Sweden looks toward America with a great deal of confusion. You can't exactly blame him for failing to understand Greta Garbo's salary, gangsters, sky-scrapers, racketeering, and marriage on roller skates. He laughs at our over-emphasis of wealth and record breaking. We are regarded as lacking in culture and tradition, but the younger generation likes American music and movies and adopts a great deal of Yankee slang. Sweden, which has socialist leanings, feels very kindly toward president Roosevelt and his policies. The country is very proud of successful Swedish Americans, particularly Charles A. Lindbergh.

CROSBY HELP DAVIES MAKE MUSICAL PLAY

MUSICAL SCORE IS SAID TO BE UNUSUALLY TUNEFUL

With the opening of Marion Davies' latest Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture, "Going Hollywood," at the La Nora theater, another outstanding musical-screen production has been contributed to the theater public, with Bing Crosby, top notch radio crooner, assisting Miss Davies in the musical merriments.

The new film, directed by Raoul Walsh, possesses a lavish background of merry melodies and scenic spectacles.

Unlike many musical numbers introduced from the screen, the Brown and Freed songs were written especially for the dramatic episodes in which they figure within the picture.

Bing Crosby plays the convenient role of a radio crooner who goes to Hollywood to make a motion picture. It places him doubtly in an advantageous position to sing several of the numbers in many of the scenes. Also, he shares song numbers with the blonde star.

Hollywood and her dazzling film studios provide the locale for the story, which is based upon an original written by Donald Ogden Stewart. Also, it provides ideal opportunity for the presentation of many dance ensemble spectacles, directed by Mme. Albertina Rasch.

In rounding out the picture in its completed form, Director Walsh utilized obvious advantages in screen

BLOND GODDESS

A New Serial by HERBERT JENSEN

SYNOPSIS: Frank Grahame, the explorer, who is in the jungles of Yucatan searching for Bill Langston, his missing aviator pal, but found instead the movie star, Janice Kent, whom he loves. She had been captured by the Sublevados, and was being held prisoner at the top of an ancient Mayan pyramid with her press agent. The latter is asleep in their hiding place; Frank and Janice are discussing their situation.

Chapter 29 THE RAID

"I had hoped," Frank explained, "to make friends with the natives and get information through them. The chieftain, the men who gather chewing-gum sap, cover this country rather thoroughly, and see some strange things. I thought, perhaps, to learn enough through them to give me a clue to the spot where Langston had crashed. If he fell here they would surely know."

He shrugged his shoulders, and continued: "There's not a chance getting anything from these buzzards, however. Nothing short of a squad of men with machine-guns could make any impression. If I get out of this cave, I'm coming back, no foolin'."

He interrupted himself to smile. "I mean when we get out of here," Janice shook her head. Her eyes glowed and her chin was firm, but there was a hint of discouragement in her voice as she spoke.

"They're terrible. They're cruel. You should have seen—" She suppressed a small shiver. "When they appeared from the jungle, they stood calmly and shot our men down like, like..."

"We left Merida, Mr. Greene, Hogarth our director, and Wallace and Bill Jaehne, the two cameramen. Ortega guided us. We had eight natives to do the work, and take care of the burros that carried our costumes and film stuff. We didn't need many props as we were only going to take long shots here, and some authentic jungle footage with native types."

"We trusted Ortega. He said McGrath, who was our production man, had gone ahead to prepare quarters for us. He—"

"I know about that. Tell you later. What happened?"

"We came into one of those open meadows, savannahs I think they're called. Without any warning we were surrounded by these people and they began shooting. It was just at the edge of these ruins, on the other side."

"I think Hogarth and the two cameramen were killed instantly. They were almost blown off their burros. Mr. Greene's burro ran away and threw him. At first they thought he was dead, but found he wasn't. They were going to shoot him then, but they decided to take him in with me alive."

"As we left that spot, I could see—of occasional shot. I think they were shooting our poor Mexicans."

"What of Ortega?" asked Grahame already knowing the answer.

"That beast! He was smoking a cigar when we came into the clearing. He was smoking the same cigar when we left. He watched everything with those muddy eyes of his, sitting quietly on his burro, and smiling a little. I think he would have helped the attackers if his arm hadn't been wounded."

"Ah," breathed Grahame. "I gave him that. A pity I didn't hold more to center."

He answered her question by telling her of his trip with Ortega and their parting. He spoke of the boy Juan who had traveled with him to the spot, and of their meeting with McGrath.

"He was bush-whacked, the same as your party was. It seems to be a custom of the country. As far as I can take out, these people are living in this old city like a race of human spiders, luring people in here for robbery and—"

He broke off to stare at the floor. "But why didn't they kill me, then? They took the jewels I carried around my neck in a chamouis bag, but they seemed—"

Her eyes widened as if with a sudden thought. Her teeth caught license to give the production every benefit of the freedom which its plot enjoys and in the presentation of the musical offerings and their colorful backgrounds.

Six catchy musical numbers are sprinkled liberally throughout the picture—and which soon will be hummed, whistled or played over every radio set. They are "Our Big Love Scene," "We'll Make Hay While the Sun Shines," "After Sun-down," "Temptation," "Going Hollywood" and "Ondevilla's Fella."

at her lower lip, and she drew a deep breath. She essayed a pale smile. Her hand reached toward Grahame until the fingers rested upon his arm.

"But we'll get out of here, won't we? I'm not a bit worried, really, Frank."

A rifle crashed! In the narrow confines of the room the sound flattened against his ear drums with a noise that was painful. Grahame felt a shock against his back, and was flung sideways. The stone wall spun weirdly about him. His automatic thudded toward the entrance through which semiclothed figures poured. His shooting arm was numb. Vaguely, through his dizziness, he realized that he was firing with his left hand.

He was on his back. Above him was the roof-opening. He saw a man's naked legs dangling above him, and the heads of other men outlined against the sky. He fired upward. A body crashed upon him.

He heard Janice scream. "Frank! Frank!" Dully he saw her striking a savage face with a stone. An object thudded against his head, and he plunged through a flare of light into darkness.

Frank first became conscious of two major pains, and several minor ones that were mere discomfort by comparison.

His right shoulder, below his neck throbbled potently, and there was a great ache in his head that seemed to be intensified rather than lessened by the cool moistness upon his forehead. A drop trickled down the side of his nose into the corner of his mouth. He licked at it thirstily with parched tongue.

"Oh!" exclaimed a voice at his ear. "The Governor of South Carolina has a thirst." He felt a cup at his lips and he drank greedily.

"Julio, Greene," he said thickly, opening his eyes. Pain stabbed at his shoulder and head as he struggled to a sitting position.

"Take it easy, fella," cautioned the other. "You've had a nasty wreck on the old bear and your shoulder isn't the most pleasant thing I ever looked at."

"Where's Janice? What happened?"

"She's in the building here, somewhere. A big pile you picked out. They carried us from there tied up like three Christmas packages. As a matter of fact you looked like something that wouldn't be opened 'til Christmas and a long time after."

"They shot you from the hole in the roof. Square bunch of guys. Shot you square in the back. Made a nice long trench from your shoulder to the small of your back, up high. Luckily, God gave you a shoulder blade. However, bullet's out, and you're doing as nicely as a young mother."

Mr. Greene grinned. His countenance was streaked with dirt and one eye was blue-black with puffiness. He looked, thought Grahame, like a man who had taken a considerable mauling. He glanced at the smaller man's hands. About the knuckles, they were caked with dried blood and dirt.

"You haven't a smoke about you, have you, Grahame? No? They cleaned me too. Have another drink."

Grahame reached for the extended cup, and paused as he saw Mr. Greene eye his eyes with puffiness. He looked, thought Grahame, like a man who had taken a considerable mauling. He glanced at the smaller man's hands. About the knuckles, they were caked with dried blood and dirt.

"You're a liar," charged Grahame.

"Who, me?" Greene's voice was filled with injury. "That's a hell of a name to call a man. Certainly is." He moistened his lips stickily.

Grahame reached for the water jar. He winced with the pain the movement caused him. He glanced within and saw that only a cupful remained. The sides of the jar were moist an inch above the water-level and he was convinced that Greene had given him everything the jar had contained. He had been about to give him the remainder.

He pointed at the cup that Greene held half extended toward him.

"Drink it yourself," he said. Greene shook his head. "Drink it, you little squirt, or I'll dump it on the floor."

Greene sighed, and put it to his lips. "Now what?" he asked, wiping his mouth.

"Do you know where we are?"

"In a long stone building, just a little away from the pyramid. Looks like a barracks, but it's probably the jail. Janice's here, too. She called to me a little while ago and I yelled back that you were O. K."

MANY NOTABLE STARS USED IN 'NIGHT FLIGHT'

MONTGOMERY IS SERIOUS SOME MOMENTS IN FILM

John Barrymore, Helen Hayes, Clark Gable, Lionel Barrymore, Clark Montgomery, Myrna Loy—such is the notable collection of stars assembled by Clarence Brown for "Night Flight," thrilling story of the air mail, now playing at the Rex theater for 3 days.

Out of this galaxy pops the good-looking, perky face of Robert Montgomery as the subject for a character sketch.

Did you ever see a small boy with a new toy? Robert Montgomery has that same enthusiasm. He is six feet tall, has brown hair, blue eyes, and gives the impression that he is still growing. There is a certain breeziness about his manner which makes people doubt if he is ever serious. . . . between scenes and at home he pores through books.

"She asked about me?" Grahame was curious.

"And nobody else." Mr. Greene's eyes bore a twinkle.

Grahame arose and walked stiffly about their prison. It was not unlike the conventional prison cell, but larger. There were several stone benches arranged against the walls.

COLONIAL TEA AND CLUB RECEPTION LIKE THE SOCIAL WEEK

Dates Set For Annual B. P. W. Spring Style Show

THEATER WILL BE PLACED ON MARCH 8 AND 9

Spring Frocks Accent 'Femininity'

AFTERNOON frocks for early spring are marked by slender, graceful lines, with skirts falling in soft folds. Femininity is the essence of this line, designed by Maggy Rouff, of crisp, navy blue taffeta. The flower-like neckline is faced with American beauty red. There is a possibility that neck lines will be lower than during the winter.

GRACEFULNESS CHARACTERIZES DESIGN OF NEW AFTERNOON DRESSES FOR EARLY SPRING

PARIS (AP) — "Femininity" is the edict for the afternoon frocks Paris has designed for early spring wear. A slender flower-like grace characterizes their design. Some are fashioned with rolled draped necklines cupping the face like a flower, presaging a possible tendency to drop the neckline a bit. Others follow the winter's higher design, molding the throat into a slender stem. Their silhouettes follow a slim, sinuous line, their skirts falling in soft folds. Sleeves vary from elbow to wrist length.

Dark colors such as navy blue lit with a flash of color like American beauty red or gold are favored. Other models appear in spring-like tones of chartreuse green or soft, grayed, hyacinth blue.

Maggy Rouff makes one striking frock of dark blue taffeta with a neckline which rolls back and is faced with brilliant American beauty red taffeta. Another of black faille has a higher neckline faced with gold lame.

Augustabernard shows a black crepe frock with a streak of bright red crepe running from the deep vee neckline to the hem.

Prints in Vogue Other striking include a frock of grayed hyacinth crepe designed with a bishop sleeve and a draped neckline which cups just below the base of the throat, and a black satin which has a vest of bold rose satin.

Prints are appearing again in such designs has rose beige crepe splashed with black and light blue Chinese figures, and black and white serpentine patterns.

Necklines May Fall As signs of spring appear, there is evidence that necklines may be due for a drop.

Clothes, both for day and for evening wear, have shown a pronounced tendency this winter to follow the edict that necklines in front must rise almost to the throat.

Nevertheless, a few of the newer gowns have low décolletés. Some designers believe a vogue for low necks is not far away.

DISTRICT CLUB PRESIDENT TO VISIT TUESDAY

TWILIGHT TEA WILL HONOR WOMEN'S GUEST

A TWILIGHT tea for Mrs. W. P. Avriett of Lamesa, president of seventh district federated women's clubs, will be the chief event here next week. It will be given at 4:45 Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Avriett will be a visitor that day, accompanied by Mrs. Towles, district secretary. She will speak at the tea, to which all federated club members are invited. Executive boards of Pampa clubs will be hostesses.

This will be Mrs. Avriett's first official visit to Pampa since her election and club women will be ready to welcome her, hear her discuss her plans for the district, and also bring statewide plans to their attention.

The tea will follow a group of regular club meetings which will follow on Tuesday afternoon.

In P. T. A. News

Mrs. T. A. Cox, above, was named publicly chairman of the Horace Mann Parent-Teacher association last week to succeed Mrs. J. N. Williams, who has left the city. Mrs. N. F. Maddux, below, was a speaker at the association meeting Thursday, when national founders were honored.

BOTH FORMAL PARTIES WERE FRIDAY EVENTS

CHURCH AUXILIARY AND MUSIC CLUB AREA HOSTESSES

TWO lovely formal events were given Friday, the colonial tea of the Episcopal Auxiliary at the home of Mrs. C. P. Buckler in the afternoon, and the open house musicale of the Treble Clef club at the city club room in the evening.

Both were annual events, the tea open to all women of Pampa and the open house to all federated club members, of importance in the mid-winter social program.

Guests at the silver tea were greeted by Mrs. Julian Bennett, auxiliary president, and other officers: Mrs. Roy Walrabenstein, John Cunningham, Earle Scheig, and Buckler, dressed in colonial costumes.

Mrs. S. G. Surratt presided at the guest book, and tea was poured by Mrs. M. K. Brown and Mrs. Alex Schneider. They, with other members of the hostess group, also wore costumes.

Tea By Candlelight. A lace cloth over red covered the tea table, which was set with silver appointments and centered with red sweet peas. Candles lighted both the dining room and living room, where red sweet peas and knapdragons filled bowls.

Program numbers were popular songs by a quartette, Misses Hester Lester, Erdine Denton, Marjory Enloe, and Maurine Pierce; a minuet by Misses Kathryn Vincent and Dorothy Jo Moore, in costume; violin numbers by Miss Helmina Stover and Roy Walrabenstein, accompanied by Mrs. May F. Carr; songs by little Billie Valle, who was appearing at a local theater, accompanied by Mrs. Carr; and violin duets by Miss Willie Reese Taylor and Mr. Walrabenstein, accompanied by Miss Ann Sweetman.

Treble Clef Entertains. Officers of the Treble Clef club formed the receiving line at the evening party. They were Mrs. M. K. Brown, Mrs. W. A. Garman, F. L. Stahlin, W. A. Bratton, Walter Stein, Carl Sturgeon, and Miss Lorene McClintock.

Valentine decorations of hearts, flowers and soft lights had been arranged by Mrs. O. Wirsching, hostess chairman, and her assistants, Mrs. E. W. Voss, Alex Schneider, Harry Nelson, Sam Irwin, Walter Stein; Misses Doris Price and Dorothy Dodd.

Upholstered were Mrs. H. C. Price, C. C. Dodd, and H. A. Mundy. Mrs. Sturgeon, club reporter, had charge of the registry, decorated with hearts, which 175 registered.

The lace covered table was beautifully set with a punch service and center piece of var-colored sweet peas and fern surrounded with lighted tapers in heart shape.

Plates of heart shaped mints and cakes arranged on the lace cover decorated with red cupid's made an attractive picture.

Program numbers. Mrs. Wolfe, president, welcomed the guests and introduced Mrs. Bratton. (See PARTIES, Page 5)

TALK ON HOME IS FEATURE OF P. T. A. PAGEANT

Purchase of Chairs For Auditorium Ordered

Influence of beautiful and peaceful home surroundings on a child was the fitting subject of an address preceding the founders day pageant at Sam Houston Parent-Teacher association Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. V. E. Fatheree, first president of Pampa Parent-Teacher council, conducted the pageant. She paid tribute to Mrs. Phoebe Hearst and Mrs. Alice Birney, national founders, and lighted a candle in their honor.

Candles were also lighted for parents of our country; for Miss Anna Gray, president of the national teachers association; and for teachers in Sam Houston school.

Birthday Cake Served. The birthday cake was cut and served and a silver offering was taken for the program.

Mrs. John Hessey was the speaker. She urged that each home meet the needs and interests of each member in physical arrangements, appointment of equipment, time schedule for activities, and recognition of each member as a personality. In this way the home becomes the source of affection, protection, and guidance for the child.

Nominators Appointed. In the business session Mrs. Price and Mrs. C. Surratt were named to serve with Principal A. L. Patrick on the nominating committee. Members decided to spend $125 for auditorium chairs. This fund was increased by a chili supper sponsored by the association Thursday evening. Thanks were expressed to the school orchestra and its director, Estill Foster; to girls from high school home economics classes who served to the Marris wholesale grocery for donating coffee and to women who donated pies and candy.

A short devotion by Mr. Patrick opened the meeting. Mrs. Peddicord's pupils entertained with a clock game. Secretary and treasurer reports were approved, and members accepted recommendations of the executive board meetings of February 2 and 8.

Mrs. Sam Irwin announced a school carnival to be held next month. Mrs. Peddicord's room had 20 parents registered, and received the attendance award.

Education-Grams.

By MRS. J. A. HILL, Seventh District Chairman of Education, T. F. W. C.

"No intelligent person will deny the gravity of the present economic situation, but millions of persons challenge the argument that indiscriminate slashing of appropriations for education is a desired procedure.

They feel a very careful study made by competent and courageous people shall precede any vital curtailment of school budget.

At this time it is obviously the duty of every individual member in our federation to know and to understand the public schools in her community and to reserve her judgment and criticism concerning those schools until she has reached her conclusions wisely and constructively."

—Mrs. F. L. Pigeon, National Chairman of Education, G. F. W. C.

School officials crave the public's sympathetic understanding of their problems.

AIMS OF P. T. A. EMPHASIZED ON FOUNDERS DAY

Horace Mann Group Lights Candles For Program

The seven-point program of national Parent-Teacher congress was emphasized as national founders were honored in the annual founders day pageant of Horace Mann association Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. J. M. Turner, president, paid a tribute to the founders, Mrs. Alice Birney and Mrs. Phoebe Hearst. She pointed out the fitness of honoring their vision of united parenthood and teacherhood.

Mrs. Robert Seeds lighted the white candle in their memory, whom she said "lighted the way for us in our work for welfare of the children of our nation."

Mrs. H. V. Patterson, leader, explained the seven cardinal objectives accepted by the national congress as a permanent platform, to give a broader basis for interpreting the child's growth and an enriched program for home, school, and community.

Honor National Objectives. Mrs. A. L. McDaniel lighted the red candle of health, honoring the P. T. A. sponsor's health program which brings living conditions to a higher level.

Mrs. E. O. Smith lighted the blue candle of wholesome home life, stating that not merely material things make our homes, but joy, confidence, understanding, and sympathy which enrich lives and enable character.

Mrs. Clyde Johnson, lighting the gold candle of learning, stated that parents realize the need to study problems of childhood and stand ready to fit themselves better as parents.

Mrs. H. E. Crocker lighted the gold candle of citizenship training, urging parents to be more of comrades and friend to youth, helping them to work out intelligently their own problems, and inculcate justice, good will, and loyalty in all dealings with childhood.

Mrs. A. L. Burge asked that parents and teachers help the child to know the joy in work, in lighting the blue candle of vocational guidance.

Mrs. C. D. Hunter lighted the red candle of well-spent leisure, Wisdom in using newly won leisure, she said, adds to life's happiness.

Mrs. K. T. May lighted the last candle, that of spiritual vision and ethical character, urging parents to seek for insight which raises life above the material.

Aims of Association. Mrs. Patterson concluded the program by saying, "We of Horace Mann P. T. A. meet to devote ourselves to securing for every child that goodness which comes not from rules but from deep inner motives ingrained in the soul, which stand as a rock in temptation, enabling him to keep his standards high and become a constructive force for good."

Sports, Health Are Topics For Camp Fire Girls

Sports as a hobby was discussed at the Camp Fire Girls program Thursday afternoon. Shirley Johnson, Edith Beckham, and Catherine Culberson were in charge.

Shirley Johnson gave the talk, and a round-table discussion of baseball as a favorite game concerned its rules and its health value.

Continuing a series of health talks, Neal Smith spoke to the members on care of the feet, and the importance of well fitting shoes. The foot, eye, and hand are the most important external members of the body, he said, and badly treated feet will wrinkle on the face.

He showed a skeleton of a foot, and demonstrated correct walking posture. All the girls were found to be wearing shoes of the best type for walking and playing.

A Valentine tea celebrating the Camp Fire birthday and honoring mothers of local girls will be given Saturday at the home of Mrs. V. E. Fatheree. Plans will be completed at a meeting Thursday.

Margaret Vaughn and Virginia Havens were visitors Thursday.

REVIVAL OF HANDICRAFT ART IN U. S. IS MACHINE AGE PARADOX

BY ELEANOR ROOSEVELT

WE ARE surrounded on every hand by evidences of the machine age and the problems created by this development. Of late, however, we are hearing more and more about the development of handicrafts. It almost seems as though the machines are driving people back to work with their hands. All pioneer communities have handicrafts because people have only their hands to use; therefore, in the more remote parts of the country where modern machinery has not come into use, we still find the old handicrafts flourishing and of late years it would almost seem that, because of machine development, people have turned back to these old occupations as a refuge from speed and monotony.

First of all, the pace of life in general has become too swift and some people are thinking that a simplified form of living is preferable: a form of living which would force the return, in small communities, to many of these old handicrafts and provide relief from the present strain which has proved too much for many.

Secondly, machines have afforded people more and more leisure and in order to spend this spare time satisfactorily, they have begun to cast around for creative hand work which will sometimes be done in the home and sometimes be salable and thus add to other earned income.

Thirdly, the education of people generally has progressed so far that an appreciation of simplicity and good workmanship has grown up and brought a realization that these were the earmarks of the early handwork. Moreover, this knowledge has brought about a revival, for purposes of actual sale, which could have occurred before the public taste had been educated.

The revival of old-time American handicraft began with an effort to improve rural life, first in the mountains of the south. There it grew steadily in individual units until the Southern Highland Handicraft Guild was formed. The workers do gold carving, weaving, needle work, pottery making, block printing, and furniture making of a crude type.

There is some question, now that handicraft products are being turned out by more or less the organizations in different parts of the country, of having these workers comply with certain rules and regulations prevalent in other industries, but as yet this has not had to be worked out as most of the articles are still made and sold on an individual basis. There are a number of other places where work of this kind is done, notably New Hampshire where the League of Handicrafts has been formed for the purpose of developing the educational and economic value of handicraft products.

Obviously, all those working in their own homes cannot have equally good pa terms and good taste; therefore, though some things would be salable, some would not. The poor individual whose time and effort had gone into the making of the articles would be at a loss as to why his particular bit of work had not sold as well as that of his neighbor. This point has presented a difficulty and another problem has been the developing of a steady market.

Since handcraft is almost entirely a rural community activity, it has been primarily a woman's enterprise. In summer the women on the farms are extremely busy, but the long winter months mean time for various kinds of hand work. Consequently, men have been gradually drawn into wood working, pewter making and iron work projects. Furthermore, it is but rarely that people engage in this work entirely for the financial return. There is a natural human craving to create finished articles which express individual personalities and scenes of the centers, developed in our cities, have been primarily for working people whose ordinary occupations are of the routine variety. For instance, a man in a factory who repeats some one process for seven or eight hours a day, finds relaxation and interest in the creation of some piece of hand-work which he sees grow from his inception to its completion within his hands.

However, it has been found necessary to educate these individual workers to the end that their tastes may be in conformity with the popular demand or market for the articles they produce. At the same time, it has been thought that in a number of places there would have

SPRING GARDEN PLANS INCLUDE TREE PLANTING

CLUB TO URGE CITY RESIDENTS TO SET TREES

A TREE planting program which they expect to widen to include the entire city was started by the Garden club Friday morning, in its first meeting of 1934. Monthly meetings were resumed after a mid-winter vacation.

Suggestions for spring tree planting were made to members in a program directed by Mrs. Lynn Boyd, Mrs. A. B. Zahn and Mrs. Emmitt Dyer assisted on the program, and a paper by Mrs. G. C. Malone, who was out of town, was read.

Trees should be set in large holes, with roots well watered so the soil will cling to the roots and keep out air pockets, members were told. Cherry and apple trees were named as fruit trees best suited here.

Rose Culture Discussed.

Planting time for roses is almost here, Mrs. Zahn said, as she discussed the social value of these plants. "God's love-letter to his children," roses should be pruned before the bush is set, she said, and plants should be placed where they are shaded part of the day.

She named hybrid perpetuals, rugosa, and polyanthas as varieties best suited to this climate.

February is the month for planning the garden, buying seed, sowing trees, grass, and evergreens to protect them from dry freeze, and planting sweet peas, larkspur, California poppies, and phlox. Mrs. Boyd reminded members. Phlox is the club flower and members are asked to include a bed of that annual in their yards.

Mrs. Malone's paper gave instructions for building and using hot beds and cold frames.

Song Contest In Clubs Sponsored By Pampa Woman

Mrs. A. H. Doucette, chairman of Texas and American music in the seventh district of federated clubs under Mrs. W. P. Avriett's administration, has announced a Texas song writing contest of interest to all club women.

Her announcement follows:

"The most effectual manner in which the music division can function is to take up the study of music for its cultural value. Music stimulates imagination, trains memory, and develops the will."

"I am asking clubs to make a comprehensive study of Texas and American music, placing it on as many programs as possible and using interesting discussions. The programs could be illustrated and given in costumes. Some suggestions for your programs—cowboy songs, Indian music, negro spirituals, and national songs."

"Texas fills a large space in America and Texas music is American. We are particularly rich in folk tales and local color. Everyone at times has strange melodies repeating themselves in his mind that should be remembered and written down."

"At a contest to be held at the district convention in Amarillo this spring I am offering a $5 prize for an original composition of a Texas song by any federated club member of the seventh district. The manuscript must be in ink; there is no restriction as to length of time in performance."

"Please write me if you plan to enter the contest."

Movies Will Be Program Subject

Moving pictures will be discussed from a technical and a social standpoint at the meeting of Junior High Parent-Teacher association Thursday afternoon at 3:30.

John Mullen, first Christian minister, will speak of the effect of movies on a child's character development. Tom Blair, manager of Pampa theaters, will how movies are made.

Entertainment will include a playlet by junior high pupils, directed by Miss Juanita McAllister.

Hoover Parent-Teacher association yesterday expressed its appreciation to members of the Pampa chapter of commerce and other visitors to the box supper which added $58 to the association treasury Friday evening.

Boxes were auctioned to the accompaniment of much fun. The event was at the school building.

A lovely cake, with "Woodrow Wilson Kid Band" written in pink icing across the top, was presented to that organization by women of the Parent-Teacher association.

Mrs. Frank Kechn will accompany them.

GOVERNMENT CONSIDERS CANCELLING OCEAN MAIL CONTRACTS

ARMY PLANES MAY NOT FLY LOAD OF MAIL

IF THEY DO IT WILL BE TEMPORARY MEASURE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10. (AP)—The government tonight was mulling over the idea of matching its wholesale cancellation of airmail contracts with some similar action on the ocean mail contracts.

Even while it was perfecting the organization of an army mail flying to tide over until new air contracts could be let, administration and congressional leaders were quietly checking over the reports of the long inquiry into ocean mail subsidies.

Officials were not inclined openly to discuss the merchant marine phase of the mail subsidy, but indicated definite attention was being given it.

The senate committee which recently reported information on which the airmail cancellation was based has compiled a huge mass of information from months of investigation on ocean mail.

Chairman Black of the committee recently said "the record discloses that the huge subsidies paid by the government to build up a merchant marine have been diverted from the channel and have been largely spent in high salaries, extravagant expense accounts, highly paid lobbyists and huge dividends."

In a press conference during the day, Harley Branch, assistant postmaster general in charge of airmail, was intended only as a temporary measure.

While he worked out the details of the army operations in a long conference with Major Benjamin Foltis, chief of the air corps, and Eugene Vidal, assistant secretary of commerce for aviation, the discussions all were understood to be predicated on the pinch-hitting plan.

There arose, in fact, the possibility that no army plane ever would take off with a load of mail.

It was pointed out—and given substance by officers of the lines themselves—that independent private lines could carry the mail until the long process of advertising for, considering and awarding bids for new contracts had been completed. At least three independents and one present contractor made much offers and each was taken under advisement by the postoffice department.

McHenry Acquires Machine Shop Here

C. E. McHenry has acquired the Pampa Machine Works on South Ballard street and is ready to handle all kinds of general oil field work.

Mr. McHenry had been connected with the Jones-Exbert Machine company for six years before taking over the new plant.

Mr. and Mrs. McHenry moved to Pampa from Shreveport, La. Mr. McHenry was foreman of the Henderson Iron Works at Shreveport for more than three years before moving to Pampa.

MARKET BRIEFS

NEW YORK, Feb. 10. (AP)—A crack-up in aviation shares and a rally from substantial early declines elsewhere featured a busy market for stocks today.

The immediate response to proposed federal regulation and cancellation of the government's airmail contracts as a heavy wave of selling which broke prices 1 to 2 points, but the tide ebbed midway through the session and left comparatively few prominent casualties, these being largely in the aviation and inactive specialty sections. The average net change, in fact, was a loss of only three-tenths point.

In view of the Monday holiday, it was assumed that short covering had played a part in the rally for some traders probably felt the market had become a bit oversold, just as it had recently been overbought. Appearance of substantial support at the lower first hour levels provided a more cheerful note for the extended week-end. Sales reached a total of 2,187,210 shares.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON
NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 10. (AP)—Cotton was extremely active today and prices advanced to new season highs for the seventh consecutive day. The advance was due to heavy trade buying, extensive straddle buying and covering owing to the fact that the New York exchange will be closed on Monday, Lincoln's birthday, and the market here on Tuesday, Mardi-Gras. The close was firm at net gains for the day of 10 to 12 points.

The opening was easier owing to heavy realizing and weakness in Liverpool.

Toward the end of the first hour trading became very active and prices advanced rapidly on heavy trade buying and straddle buying coupled with pre-holiday shorts covering. May traded up to 12.46, July to 12.61 and October to 12.80 or 26 to 27 points above the early lows and 14 to 16 points above the previous close. These were new highs for the movement and season. Prices reacted 3 to 4 points at the end on realizing. March, May and July closed 12 points net higher for the day and October 10 points net higher.

KANSAS CITY LIVESTOCK
KANSAS CITY, Feb. 10. (AP)—(U. S. D. A.)—During the past week, most all classes of livestock reached new highs for the season. Receipts of cattle continued to include a liberal supply of steers with weight and heavy beefs followed the advance on other classes after opening the week on a slow and lower basis. Light weight steers and yearlings are around 25 higher for the week, best offered at Chicago reaching 7.35. Common and medium grade light steers are quotable 25-50 higher, and weighty bullocks are mostly 25 up. Lower grades of cows advanced 25-50, and other she stock sold mostly at 25 higher price.

The feature of the livestock trade this week was the sharp advance in hog prices.

Markets showed gains of 50-75, with most increase on weighty 250 pounds. A late top of 4.75 was reached at St. Louis. Receipts of 318,700 this week compared with 525,533 actual arrivals last week and 396,002 the corresponding week a year ago.

Best woolled lambs closed the week generally 10-15 lower than last Friday. Sheep receipts were limited and sold strong to 50 higher. Choice fed lambs reached 9.35 and 9.75 at Kansas City and Chicago, respectively, to establish new high levels since June, 1931. Fat ewes ranged from 4.50-5.00.

CHICAGO GRAIN
CHICAGO, Feb. 10. (AP)—Soaring of the cotton market to fresh high price records for the season jerked grain values upward late today, more than wiping out early losses.

Advances in wheat, however, were not well maintained in the face of renewed selling at the last owing to uncertainties regarding weather and Washington legislative developments before trading would be resumed on Tuesday.

What closed nervous at the same as yesterday's finish to 1/4 cent higher, corn 3/4 up, oats 1/4 decline to 1/2 advance, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 27 cents.

Corn and coats scored advances after steep loss selling of corn early was absorbed. Shipping demand here for corn showed material enlargement.

Provisions rose with cotton to new high levels for the season.

BOEING: reluctant, but not overly interested. "That's what I've been led to testify."

SENATOR BLACK: "Then, Mr. Boeing, your testimony also showed that your stock originally cost you one-fifth of a cent, and that its quotation once reached over one dollar and fifty cents a share! That's quite a remarkable record, Mr. Boeing; creating stock at a cost of one penny for fifty shares, then after nurturing it with executive ability, disposing of it for $150 per share. That's quite a premium to pay for managerial and executive ability, too, don't you think? To what, Mr. Boeing, do you attribute your success?"

BOEING: (after turning that carcase in a duck turns water, and as naive as ever): "That old adage, Mr. Black, 'Early to bed, early to rise.' You remember it, sir."

And speaking of success, I suppose you've been reading some of the articles on "The Woman's Place in Washington," and "How to Climb the Ladder," and the Horatio Alger tales that one of the self-made secretaries of one of the "big shots" here in Washington is writing. Well, if you haven't, you haven't missed anything; they're not important, being like every other success-conscious formula, diligence, concentration, study, intelligence, and everything else most successful people have either read about or heard of. The important part of this story is the prologue, which incidentally isn't included in the printed versions.

LEGISLATURE ASKS CENTENNIAL STAMPS
AUSTIN, Feb. 10. (AP)—Issuance of five series of postage stamps, to commemorate the 100th year of independence in 1936, by the postoffice department, was asked today by the Texas legislature.

Scenes depicting historical events of Texas' fight for independence would be placed on the stamps, which would be twice the usual size. The resolution requested first sale of the stamps be made March 6, 1936, at San Antonio.

JACK DEMPSEY DEFIES TEXAS OIL OFFICIALS
WILL GO TO COURT TO SETTLE WELL CASE

KILGORE, Feb. 10. (AP)—The state's suit for receivership of the East Texas oil well of Jack Dempsey and Bobby Manziel, former fugitives, ran into legal difficulties over jurisdiction today and will go before a Longview court Monday for part settlement.

Will C. Hurst, district judge of Gregg county, Wednesday appointed C. L. Norton of Longview receiver for the men's No. 1 Victory well at Gladewater on application of Charles I. Francis, special assistant to the United States attorney general, who alleged over-production.

When Norton appeared on the property, he was refused access on the grounds that John Karkmas, uncle and partner of Manziel, already had petitioned Judge Walker at Tyler for a receivership to audit the books, and Allan McClellan of Gilmer was appointed a friendly receiver. The latter action removed jurisdiction to Smith county and the state and government asked for the hearing to settle the issue at Longview Monday.

There was no question of solvency or mismanagement in the state's receivership petition. The state alleged that Dempsey and Manziel were liable to a penalty of $1,000 daily for 15 days for alleged violation of house bill 844, which makes a penal offense of operating an oil well without a permit.

Dempsey, in a long-distance conversation today with Amos Harper, Gladewater editor, from Kansas said: "Independent operators have been harassed in the Texas court until it looks like a concerted effort was being made to drive them from the great East Texas oil field. But we intend to say, if Bobby Manziel wants to drill 50 more wells he can count on me to do my part—and we probably will before we are through."

"It looks like election time in Texas. The local boys probably are hunting notoriety."

"Manziel manages our properties there. I have so much faith in his business ability and integrity that I never question his acts in my interest."

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Doby of LeFors were Pampa visitors yesterday afternoon.

Roy Hawkins of Roxana was a Pampa visitor last night.

In the OIL FIELDS

The 10,000-barrel increase in the Panhandle oil allowable was the biggest news in the Panhandle field last week and for many weeks.

The raise, authorized by the Texas railroad commission, hiked that field output to 32,000 barrels a day. The new output went into effect Tuesday morning and a new schedule was immediately released.

A group of local men, representing the Panhandle Royalty and Production association, presented a petition to the railroad commission in Austin Tuesday morning. She men explained that refineries in the field were unable to secure enough oil to carry on their business and that increased production through new wells had cut the percentage of allowable oil to under 10 per cent. They estimated that in excess of 8,000,000 barrels of crude has been taken from storage under proration.

Production for the East Texas field was increased 15,000 barrels and several other fields hike increases before the Panhandle hike was authorized. It has been learned here. The Panhandle organization has been waging a long fight to help land and royalty owners in the field.

Gray county, which produces 71.1 per cent of the field production, received an increase of 7,499 barrels daily through the new order. Hutchinson county's increase was 1,494 barrels. Carson county got an increase of 888 barrels and Wheeler county's output was hiked 129 barrels.

The potential of the Panhandle field, using the figures of February 1, is 165,574 barrels. The amount of prorable oil is 136,885 barrels. The difference is on marginal or exempt oil. The percentage of prorable oil allowed under the new total of 52,000 barrels is 17.08 per cent compared with the former 9.72 per cent.

Gray county, with a potential of 117,756 barrels, has a prorable allowance of 102,536 barrels. There are 1,853 producing wells in the field.

The field was comparatively quiet last week. Several tests topped the pay but there were no major completions. Locations were also scarce.

Wheeler became excited yesterday when 12 large trucks, loaded with rig material, passed through that town. It has not been learned where the material was being taken, but it was rumored that some tests would be drilled east of Shamrock where a new pool was located two weeks ago by the completed Osborne test, and that a drilling campaign was scheduled between Wheeler and Shamrock.

The Skelly Oil company topped pay on its test on the Schaffer ranch in Carson county yesterday but drilling was postponed until this week.

OPENING GAME SCHEDULED ON HEDLEY COURT

OWLS HAVE 'DOPE' ON PAMPANS GAME TO BE CLOSE

Pampa's Harvesters and the Hedley Owls will meet this week to decide which team will participate in a tournament for district honors. The tournament, between four teams representing the north Panhandle, will be held in Pampa Feb. 23 and 24.

Hedley won the Carson-Donley county play-off Friday night by defeating Panhandle 30 to 21. The Owls won from Panhandle Tuesday night in the Carson county city. Pampa drew a bye in the division play-off.

The team winning two games in the Pampa-Hedley play-off will be champions of division one. The first game of the series will be played in Hedley Tuesday night. The second game will be in Pampa Friday night. If a third game

Heald Quintet Wins Title In Wheeler County

McLean, Feb. 10.—The McLean high school gymnasium was the scene of three great basketball games last night. Heald defeated Twitty for the Wheeler county rural championship, 14 to 10. Each team had previously won a game and the playoff was set in McLean. Close guarding by both teams kept the score down, but the game was interesting from the opening whistle. Heald was presented with a large cup.

Groom's Tigers won 32 to 26 game from the McLean Tigers in the second game of the evening. McLean led until the last few minutes of play when Groom combined to score the winning pointers on the field goals. L. A. Tolliver was back in uniform for McLean.

The McLean independents won a close game from the Groom town team to close the evening of basketball. The McLean team included T. Hunt, C. Hunt, Y. E. McAdams, Van Bravley, and Duellie Ellison.

PAMPANS ROUT ALLISON BOYS IN 35-25 TILT

HARVESTERETTES LOSE TO VISITORS 26-10

BY ARCHER FULGINIM.

The Harvesters basketball team which during this season turned in a brilliant performance, one night and an extremely mediocre one the next, due largely to absence or sickness of players and the loss of Pinnett, due largely to absence or sickness again Friday night, in championship game. The club seemed to have recovered most of the power they lost when Pinnett left the quintet.

The victims were the highly-touted Allison cagers, and the score was Pampa 35, Allison 25. The margin of victory would have been much greater, if a full team of substitutes Coach Odus Mitchell sent in three minutes before the final whistle had carried on in the manner of the first stringers. At that point Pampa was leading the Allison team by 20 points. Coach figured his reserves could hold the visitors, but they didn't.

Pampa Girls Defeated.

In exactly 2 minutes, after the subs took the floor, the Allison boys had scored 10 points. Mitchell hurriedly showed his first team back onto the court, and the scoring spree ended.

During the first half the Harvesters appeared to be in a class with the Allison lasses in a basketball game that preceded the boys' game, but in the last two periods the visiting girls skillfully and continuously boosted their score, winning the game 26 to 11. The more so the boys was 8 to 6. Last week Allison lost the Hemphill county championship to Canadian girls by one point. The lineups and scores:

Pampa—Neal f, 5; Kentling f, 4 (all free throws); Shields f, 9; Heiskell f, 2; Heiskell g, 4; Hankins piffar g, 1; Williams f, 1; Allison—Funston f, 6; Campbell f, 6; Barnett f, 10; Wesson g, Blackwell g, Mullinax g, Hayes f, 4.

New Referee Pleases.

A new referee, Frank Munroe, regular on one of the late Sam Burford's famed Buffalo teams at Canyon, now a teacher here, officiated at both games, and won the approval of the crowd and teams. His officiating was among the best ever seen in Pampa.

Irving started the scoring in the first quarter with a classy over-the-shoulder field goal. Immediately, Hayes, Allison forward broke away from the Pampa defense and made good a crisp shot. During the first quarter, both teams appeared well matched, with Pampa staying one or two points in the lead. In the second period, the Harvesters widened the margin to five points. The complete rout of the Allison club occurred in the fourth quarter, soon after Everett Woodward entered the lists. He slipped away from his guard and stood under the basket twice to ring field goals.

Heiskell Thrills Crowd.

Heiskell played calmly and unperturbed as usual, gave three cheer-laden demonstrations of distance shooting. He stood near center and at the sidelines to do it. Dunaway also loped a lovely goal from away out. Marbaugh and Green then followed with field goals. Marbaugh controlled the tip, and cooperated in building up a fine pass attack.

The Harvesters were good on distance and difficult shots but they missed numerous set-ups, not to mention every one of the eight free shots except one. Allison made five of their points by the free-throw route. All the Allison players were properly subdued except one—Garner, a guard. He was leaning over, or with 14 points, four of them free shots. But that can be explained. Garner, they had been told, was not the man to watch. The Pampans concentrated on Hayes, Trayler, and Jones, and Garner slipped out of their fingers like water. It was recalled that the recent Harvesters defeat at Halvick resulted from not watching one player. Green led the Pampa shooting with 13 points.

The Allison team has been beaten twice this season, both times by Hedley, the first game by a one-point margin at Allison and the second at Hedley by five points. Allison is favored to be one of the four teams to play in the district tournament here.

'LORD' NELSON LEADS IN SAN ANTONIO MEET

WILL GO INTO FINALS 3 STROKES AHEAD OF FIELD

By BILL PARKER

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 10 (AP)—Byron "Lord" Nelson, 22 year old Texarkana country club professional, showed the old guards the way today when he led the 2,500 Texas open through the first 36 holes with sub-par rounds of 68-70-136, six under par.

Nelson, 17 months a professional, has been touring the country's best courses since the start of the Pacific Coast tournaments, and to date his golf clubs have netted him $105 in prize money. Tomorrow he goes into the final 36 holes three strokes in front of a brilliant field of sharpshooters, and with a marvelous opportunity of taking down the top $750 and a diamond studded medal.

Nelson started his march toward first money Friday when he out-puttered par with a steady 66. His ardent admirers feared for him today when his 37 slipped him one over par on the front nine but he settled down to stables par coming home with a well played 33 for his sub-par 70. He three-putted the eighth green, missing a two footer, and dropped a stroke with a bogey five at the fourth but his birdies at the 9th, 13th and 18th allowed him to finish one under par.

Gus Moreland, amateur champion of Texas who shot a 69 Friday, slipped to 39-33-72 today for a total of 141. It left the Walker cup star in a tie for fourth place with Tom Creavy, National P. G. A. champion, Bill Melhorn, Wiffy Cox, recent winner of the Agua Caliente open, and Jack Burke of Houston, who formerly held the Texas P. G. A. championship. Burke and Francis McDonnell, the latter current Texas P. G. A. champion, shot the lowest rounds of the day. Burke turned in 35-35-68, and McDonnell 37-31-68.

Texas Ponies In Better Shape To Win Match Today

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 10 (AP)—Bent on giving their higher handicap rated California opponents a close contest, the Texas polo team put a week of strenuous training behind it today for the high goal intersectional match at the Midwick Greenward tomorrow.

"The Texas Ponies have improved wonderfully," said Capt. Wesley White, one of the officials of the match, "and will be at their best for the game tomorrow."

The fact that the Texans mounted lacked sufficient acclimation was considered to be one of the contributing factors to the defeat of the invading quartet 15 to 10 here a week ago in the first match of the series.

While polo critics were impressed with the better showing of the Panhandle mounts, the California riders, boasting a four goal handicap advantage over the riders from the Lone Star state, were favored to win again.

BELL TO S. M. U.

DALLAS, Feb. 10 (AP)—The Dallas News said tonight it had learned from authoritative sources that Madison A. President Roosevelt was introduced in the broadcast by Walter W. Head, national president of the Boy Scouts of America. Mr. Roosevelt, who has had 13 years of active Scouting and who is national honorary president, reviewed the work of the boys and called attention to the silver jubilee or 25th anniversary which comes next year. He asked the boys to collect clothing and house furnishings in a national drive.

President Roosevelt was followed by Dr. James E. West, chief executive, who outlined plans for the drive. Local plans will be announced soon and citizens will be asked to cooperate. The tremendous service of Scouts in war time was recalled. Scouts averaged $880 each in Liberty Loan sales.

The New Ford V-8 will do—easily and accurately—over 80 miles an hour. But it is not likely that you will ever need to go that fast. This top speed means that in ordinary, every-day driving you get the ease and safety of great reserve power. It means that your car is not straining itself at 30, 55 or 60.

The New Ford V-8 is mighty smooth in that range because it has the reserve power to go a lot faster. That means efficient, economical running without strain or vibration.

The advantages of a high-speed car are not in the speed.

A car designed to do 80 miles an hour easily must be extra strongly built. It must have a better and stronger steering gear. It must be correctly poised and balanced. Body, wheels, springs, axles, frame, brakes—all must be of the best design and greatest strength. Everything must be up to the 80-mile-an-hour standard to give you superlative performance at lower speeds.

Drive the comfortable New Ford V-8 for 1934 and see how this extra power gives you extra pleasure and motoring satisfaction. And extra economy too.

CWA FACES PROBLEM OF WHAT TO DO WITH 4 MILLION MEN

HOURS MAY BE REDUCED WHEN BOSSES MEET

PWA WILL BE ASKED TO HIRE FOUR MILLION

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10. (AP)—Orders lending new impetus to the drive for increased employment went forward today from two key offices in the government's recovery organization.

In an effort to add at least 2,500,000 men to the pay rolls of industries operating under codes, Hugh S. Johnson, recovery administrator, called a meeting of all code authorities for March 5, with the object of a further reduction in present hours of labor.

At the same time, Secretary Ickes gave out instructions that the public works administration should concentrate upon getting construction actually under way on projects for which funds have been allotted. In an effort to absorb the 3,000,000 employees of the civil works administration by May 1 and put additional unemployed to work as well.

Available funds have been allotted, Ickes said; many additional applications are on file, and state engineers were told to inform states and municipalities that might be considering applications for loans that no further requests can be considered.

An estimated total of 12,000,000 or more workers is now employed by industries operating under NRA codes. Their hours of labor are estimated at an average of a little more than 40 a week. Johnson wants this reduced at least to 32. On this basis of distribution more than 2,500,000 could be put back to work.

If the present upward movement in industry continues, NRA authorities are looking forward to considerable absorption of the unemployed during the next few months quite aside from the influence of a reduction in hours for those already at work.
