CHILDREN REFLECT PARENTS

A looseness in attitude of parents toward laws may result, as it has in the past, in a revival of the cry that "the young folks are going to the dogs." When and if this happens, the NEWS will point out, as it does now, that the parents are basically responsible. The problem ought to be studied concretely.

Here's a sample. Pupils at a large high school in a middlewestern city not long ago prepared to give a big dance. The dean of girls at the high school then laid down a set of rules to be followed at the dance, which was to be held in the school gymnasium.

These rules provided that pupils attending the dance must not smoke on the school campus, must not chew gum on the dance floor, must assume proper dancing positions, must not leave the gymnasium until after the dance was over, and must not go to any public dance or eating place afterward.

Those rules are simple enough. Properly enforced, they would preserve the outward appearance at the dance, prevent the youngsters from sneaking out to parked autos for necking and gin-swaggering, and all of them home promptly after the affair ended.

Now it might be argued that, if such rules are necessary, youth inherently must be pretty wild and boisterous. But when you stop to think about it, you begin to see that the whole business actually is a reflection on the parents rather than on the young people.

After all, a youngster who has had the kind of home training that every parent ought to be competent to give isn't going to lounge around the school building with a cigarette in his mouth, or go to a formal dance with a face full of chewing gum, or introduce a Barbary Coast cuddle to a public dance floor.

If his parents have the right kind of understanding with him, he's going to get home promptly after it's over. It's even possible that his parents will have shown him that necking and drinking in a parked car is messy rather than exhilarating.

The fact that high school authorities have to make rules to cover those points simply shows that the parents have been falling down on their jobs, and right there is the answer to most of this talk about the wildness of youth. It's largely the fault of the older generation, not of the younger one.

When we complain that young people are doing that, and the other thing these days, we're really leveling an indictment at ourselves.

HITLER ENDS FIRST YEAR'S DICTATORSHIP

NAZIS CELEBRATE AS BANDS PLAY WAR SONGS

BERLIN, Jan. 30. (AP)—Berlin teemed with the brown uniforms of the Nazis today in honor of the first anniversary of Chancellor Adolf Hitler's rise to power.

Every storm trooper, whether on duty or in his shop, deemed it a privilege to sport his colors. The Nazi Swastikas and black, white and red flags, mingled with the purple and white of the churches, and the black and white of Prussia helped further to add to the colorful picture.

Before the chancellor's beginning early in the morning rallied a vast throng of people, most of them young persons. They stood and shouted in a chorus "we want our leader, breaking off at times into the Horst Wessel battle song of the Nazi movement.

Adding to the joyous din, a band of members of the Hitler youth movement played the chancellor's favorite march, "Badenweiler."

Hitler, however, who recently had his offices moved away from the Wilhelmstrasse into the interior court, was busy putting the finishing touches on the speech in which he prepared to render an account of his stewardship before the Reichstag.

During the year the Nazis claim they have effected eight major achievements:

The reduction of the number of unemployed from six million to four million; the elimination of Jews from many branches of private life and from public offices; the creation of a large winter relief fund; the smashing of all parties but the Nazis; the killing of a Marxist-Socialist coalition; the abolition of trade unions; Germany's withdrawal from Geneva, and such legislation as sterilization, farm laws, and the licensing of journalists.

Southern Negroes To Attend Balls

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 30. (AP)—While the white folks are dancing in honor of President Roosevelt's birthday tonight, southern negroes will be having their own parties as token of respect for "the man in Washington."

Without any suggestion, so far as is officially known, from any white person or white organization, the negro woman's federated club at Milledgeville, Ga., started plans for a negro dance.

In all, there will be five balls—three white and two negro—in Milledgeville.

In Birmingham, Ala., there will be a tremendous torch light parade. The Golden Rule alliance of Tampa, Florida, has completed plans for a negro Roosevelt ball.

The negroes of Charlotte, N. C., started several days ago telling the world they were going to help celebrate the president's 52nd birthday with one of the best negro balls ever attempted in that section.

Fort Worth reported that the attendance at the negro ball there probably would reach 1,500, while Houston said it was expected that more than 2,000 negroes would attend the dance there.

GARNER ENTERTAINS PRESIDENT, ALSO ROGERS, 'IN STYLE'

ROGERS IS ON HAND TO POKE FUN AT GROWL

COMEDIAN WEARS HIS OLD CLOTHES TO FINE PARTY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (AP)—Take it from Will Rogers, the elaborate dinner staged by the man he calls "Cactus Jack" Garner and his wife for Mr. and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt "sure was a fine party."

Why, said Rogers, speaking loud enough for Senator McNary of Oregon and Representative Egan of New York to hear him, "there was just enough republicans there for disturbance purposes." He added that for his part of the dinner he had "embarrassed" everybody, but no one seemed to mind.

The vice president and Mrs. Garner had the honor of being the first to entertain the president and Mrs. Roosevelt at dinner this season, and as proof of their social success the party lasted until nearly midnight.

Staged on the glassed-in roof of one of Washington's smart hotels, with the interior warmth accentuated by the coldest weather here in years, the party was lent more brilliance by celebrities and a "down-the-line" menu.

Rogers, who flew here with his wife from California just to attend, even had a joke on himself. He was the only one not wearing "white tie and tails."

The president jerked him by the coat tails, he said, and asked him where were his clothes. Rogers replied he wasn't on the program and "for once in my life I didn't bring my banjo." But he did give one of his monologues, poking fun at "all of 'em."

Rogers said Lewis Douglas, director of the budget and one of the guests, was called on to add a column of figures, but "he couldn't do it because the wasn't, but he never had so few making up the budget."

The Harvesters have not lost a game at home, though they have tied one.

It's time the classes had some activities? How about it?

From the looks of some of the impersonations, Mr. Gull is going to have a good dramatics class this semester?

Many students in the commercial department of P. H. S. are well qualified to do extra work for business offices in town after school and on Saturdays?

P. H. S. is getting pretty hot on quarters?

P. H. S. SPORTS

The Harvesters are having their share of close scores these days. Their greatest scare came in the game with McLean just after one of the first string players was dropped because of the eight semester rule. At the close of the game the score was tied 22-22. In the extended time the Harvesters clinched the victory by running up four points almost instantly.

Their second scare came last Saturday when the Plainview Bulldogs were in the lead at the end of the half. In the last half, however, the Harvesters forced into the lead holding it until the close of the game, which ended 30-20. The Harvesters rather ran away with the first half of the game with Lubbock Friday night, but the Westerns picked up in the last half, and the final score was 20-13 in favor of Pampa.

This week's schedule includes conference games Tuesday night here with both the McLean boys' and girls' teams and Thursday night with the LeFors teams. This will complete the county competition. The Harvesters will go to Lubbock Friday night and to Plainview Saturday for return exhibition games.

The Harvesterettes and the boys' B team went to the Canadian tournament Friday and Saturday. The girls lost to Mobotie, 14-13. The boys were eliminated 34-20 by the Stratford team, who won the tournament.

CLOSE BATTLES WITH McLEAN COACHERS ARE EXPECTED HERE THIS EVENING

GUARDS MUST STOP TIGERS' AGE FORWARDS

HARVESTERS MUST WIN TO KEEP SLATE CLEAN

Coach Odus Mitchell's Harvesters will have to stop Dow and Courtney, McLean forwards, tonight if they hope to keep their conference slate clean. The two McLean boys "ran the Harvesters ragged" in McLean last Thursday night when it took the Harvesters to the last minute to win.

The Harvesters' guards will also have a big job on their hands in stopping Oleta Back, McLean's sharpshooter. The little star can loop baskets from all angles and is fast and tricky. De Ann, Felskell partially covered the Tigerette but she made 12 points. Her teammates pass the ball to her accurately and often.

Coach J. H. Duncan and his LeFors Pirates will be here Thursday night to wind up the conference race. The Pirates have been stepping to the front the last few weeks. They slipped up on McLean two weeks ago and won a close game. The LeFors girls have also been playing good ball recently. They lost Greer, star forward, recently, and were disorganized for a while. The stellar player married and moved to Arizona.

The girls' games will start at 7:30 o'clock and will be followed by the boys' encounters. Large crowds plan to come from both McLean and LeFors to see the games.

Admission will be 25 cents for adults and 15 cents for students.

Browns To Keep Blaeholder, Is Weise Verdict

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 30 (AP)—A firm "no" to all trade talk involving Geo. Blaeholder is the answer of Louis B. von Weise, president of the St. Louis Browns, to recurrent reports that the big right handed pitcher might go to the New York Yankees.

"Blaeholder will be retained by the Browns," von Weise said today. "Refusal of the Browns to part with Blaeholder, long sought by the Yankees, is believed virtually to close the door to a trade between the clubs, since the pitcher is the only Brownie in which the Yanks have shown any interest."

The Browns, von Weise said, "would like to trade, if by so doing we could strengthen the team," but he doesn't see how parting with Blaeholder could possibly serve that purpose.

His recent visit to New York, von Weise said, was not connected with baseball, but with the affairs of an ice and fuel company, of which he is an official.

"Why," he said, "I didn't even see Col. Jacob Ruppert or Ed Barrow the Yankees."

CLINGMAN AND DETTON STAGE FLASHY SHOW

KOPECKY THROWS ROY 2 FALLS OUT OF THREE

The semi-final match between Otis Clingman, local favorite, and Dory Detton, Utah university sensation, stole the show at the Pampa Mor last night. The two middleweight wrestlers put on one of the flashiest exhibitions of wrestling ever seen in Pampa.

Joe Kopecky of Taylor stunned wrestling fans by remaining "within the law" to defeat Roy Roy, pride of Goodnight, two out of three falls. Roy won the first fall in 15 minutes with a new hold, an Indian death scissor. The Goodnight boy got Kopecky's feet crossed and then placed his leg between Kopecky's legs and his foot between the Pole's toes, which gave him so much leverage that Kopecky patted the mat. The hold was used by Indians when they tied victims to the stake to burn them.

The loss of the fall to the youngster made Kopecky mad and he came back strong for the second fall. He clamped a body scissor and Nelson on the Goodnight boy and it looked like certain but Roy came out and slugged Kopecky. The referee warned him and things went nicely until Kopecky hurled Roy to the referee and Roy, and Referee Bill Cassel shot through the ropes into a mass of spectators. Cassel got grossly to his feet and stumbled around the ring to find the wrestlers in a heap in another corner.

Kopecky took a half Nelson and to hold but Roy went off the mat. The Pole came back with a drop toe hold and half Nelson and Roy patted the mat in 17 minutes.

The Goodnight boy went after Kopecky with attempted body slams for the last fall but he proved his doom. Kopecky retaliated with one a lot harder than Roy could produce and Roy's back went to the mat in four minutes.

Roy showed great wrestling ability in the first fall. He had Kopecky worried from the first minute and worked fast and cleverly. His three months in Farmer Burns school were not wasted. If Roy could control the Scotch temper of his he might "go places."

Clingman and Detton went nearly every hold in the wrestling game in their 30 minute draw. Soon after the bout started, Detton got Clingman in a half Nelson which he held for nine minutes, making Clingman's arm practically useless. The veteran then showed his knowledge of the game by keeping out of the ring but he recovered. Clingman's arm was not broken. The sailor put Detton in a drop toe hold but the Mormon came out, much to Clingman's surprise. The two Sonnenbergs each other about the ring but they recovered quickly and went on the offensive. Detton's timing of flying head and body scissors was perfect and dealt Clingman plenty of misery. The former football star looked his part in some of his drives for a fall.

Howard Belsler of Amarillo, Texas, heard of Amarillo's feat. Howard Belsler of Amarillo in the opener when he used an airplane spin and slam at the end of 19 minutes. The boys put on a fast, clean exhibition.

BLOND GODDESS

A New Serial by HERBERT JENSEN

SYNOPSIS: Frank Grahame, explorer, is sailing down the wild coast of Yucatan in the launch of Don Raoul Ortega, who is, he suspects, the man who tried to kidnap Janice Kent, movie star, a few weeks before in Hollywood. Grahame is conducting a one-man search for Bill Langton, aviator, who crashed months ago on the Yucatan coast. Frank has proposed to Janice and been refused. Ortega just has explained why he dodged a Mexican gunboat.

The launch slid between the roots of mangroves that gripped the shores of a lagoon which was like a narrow river except that the water was salt. They chugged along until they were two or three miles inland from the coast, when the passage widened into a lake several hundred yards in circumference.

They edged in toward a small wharf extending at water level several yards from the shore. The water's edge back of the wharf had been cleared and in the clearing were several filmy buildings of palm-thatch. The launch was tied up at the wharf and the hatch unbattened.

Grahame leaped with the unloading. As the first case slid from the deck to the pier he uttered an exclamation. The size and weight of the case was unmistakable.

Ortega and his two helpers passed to watch him.

"Someone is going hunting, I see," he remarked dryly.

Ortega's reply was equally ironic. "In this country," he said, "there is always hunting."

The unloading was accomplished without further comment. Grahame estimated that in the cargo there were cases containing at least two BLOND GODDESSES—Jan. 29 Contained hundreds of rifles and a substantial amount of ammunition. Sufficient, certainly, to equip quite a little army, as numbers went in these countries.

He was puzzled, however, to know what a band of men bent on making trouble could do in this isolated part of Mexico. In the first place, the territory hereabouts was uninhabited according to all reports. Even if the man-poke were available, it would be impracticable for them to strike through the jungles to the nearest civilized state, which was Yucatan.

Furthermore, it would not be strategic to dominate Yucatan, since that state was isolated, more or less, from Mexico proper. Grahame knew enough of revolutions and their technique, to appreciate that element. Why, then, this warlike equipment landed at this point? Ortega brought up the subject that evening. "There are Indians in the interior here that wish equipment with which to defend themselves. I know what you are thinking. You think because you have heard rumors of revolution in Mexico, that these guns are for the revolutionists."

"Is it not so? True, there is a revolution brewing just now—that is why I avoided the gunboat the other day. They are on the watch for smuggled arms and it would be embarrassing for me to be searched. But this cargo is to be used solely for defense. I have brought many such. I have been well paid."

"How do they pay you?"

"With gold," replied Ortega shortly, and other goods. In the morning we will leave and go farther south. I wish to pick up another cargo, and return to Progreso. When I return here, these cases will be gone and the payment will be in a place I know of."

"I would like to talk to these people who come for your shipment."

Ortega's voice was harsh when he answered. "You cannot do that. Even never see them—only one who, I think, is south of here at Puerto Morelos. It is there I pick up my other cargo that I take to Progreso."

YOST DOUBTS THAT YALE WILL GET ANY MICHIGAN COACHES

Thinks Blott, Oosterbaan, And Kipke Will Again Be At Michigan Next Year.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Jan. 30 (AP)—The rest of the world may think otherwise, but Fielding H. Yost, director of the University of Michigan's athletic destinies for more than a quarter century, believes that "when all the shouting's over" Ben Blott, Oosterbaan, and Jack Blott will both be right here.

Blott is conferring with officials of two eastern schools, while Oosterbaan is in contact with Yale university authorities, but Coach Yost refuses to believe that any of "his boys" will leave the old home-state boys' college.

Through all the recent speculation about Harry Kipke's leaving Michigan, Yost steadfastly insisted that Kipke would remain as head football coach at Michigan. And developments, apparently have proved him correct.

The coaching staff at Michigan today is the apple of Yost's eye. Most of the men on it he literally raised from football swaddling clothes, most of them to all-conference or all-American honors.

"The boys haven't forgotten that fact. Unquestionably their regard for Fielding Yost had some bearing on their decision, as opportunity came to leave Michigan for other schools."

"To Yost Michigan appears to have an unbounded future in athletics. He sees no limit to what 'his boys' can accomplish by staying right at home. Speaking again of Oosterbaan and Blott, Yost said:

"Both boys are giving careful consideration to their futures. They are thinking in terms of five years from now—as well as the present."

Daladier Picks Hitler Foe As War Minister

PARIS, Jan. 30. (AP)—Edouard Daladier, again premier of France, formed a "clean-up" cabinet today to guide his nation out of the mire of the Bayonne pawnshop scandal.

It is a cabinet of "the center," neither radical nor conservative. It is composed mainly of veteran statesmen and, significantly, Col. Jean Fabry, Marshal Joffre's aide-camp during the war, was regarded as a clear indication of the strong defense policy with which France will confront Chancellor Hitler of Germany.

The new cabinet is the fourth which France has seen since Chancellor Hitler assumed the leadership of Germany a year ago.

The new premier dropped all the powerful names of the ministry of Premier Camille Chautemps, the man whom he replaces. He retains only a few minor members whose names are free from all whispers of connection with the pawnshop scandal.

HITLER HURLS USUAL VENOM AT 'ENEMIES'

COMMUNISM, TREATIES ARE SCORED IN ADDRESS

BERLIN, Jan. 30 (AP)—Adolf Hitler, chancellor of Germany, described his Nazi movement as democracy's bulwark against communism in a speech today signaling the first anniversary of his assumption of power.

He declared that now humanity entered upon a period of "searching for timely ideas and realizations that might give humanity a new well being."

His declaration was made in a speech to the Reichstag which assembled in the Kroll opera house shortly after Hitler had gathered his entire cabinet around him.

Hitler praised his regime as having "removed in one year, a world of conceptions and institutions and put others in their places."

This process, he said, was hastened by the world war which, so far as Germany was concerned, "undetermined the stability of authority of leaders of the then Reich and, by the dictate of Versailles, destroyed the independence and freedom of the Reich."

The speaker then bitterly berated the party bickerings following the establishment of the German republic. He launched into the customary Nazi argument against the Versailles treaty, opining that communism had cleverly seized upon the situation developing in Germany as a result of the peace treaty in order to prepare for a communist world revolution.

"Thus," he said, "the Nazi movement deserves not only praise by the German people but by the entire world for stopping a development which would have given a death blow to all hopes for betterment."

What Have Women In Congress Done? 'Plenty' Says Rep. Mary Norton

Just ask Rep. Mary Norton (left) of New Jersey whether women have made a place for themselves in congress. She'll answer promptly that they have, and cite in proof the work of Rep. Florence Kahn (center) of California and Rep. Edith Nourse Rogers (right) of Massachusetts. Busy Mrs. Norton and her sister representatives have been serving since 1925.

WASHINGTON (AP)—If there is one thing that can make Rep. Mary Norton, of New Jersey, "tired" it is the repetition of the old cynicism, "Well, look at the women in congress. What have they done?"

"Sure, we haven't changed the face of the country," says Mrs. Norton as she looks back over the years since 1925. She entered congress that year with Florence Kahn of California and Edith Nourse Rogers of Massachusetts—and all of them are still here.

Convincing The Men
"The critics forget you can't build a tower without laying a foundation," says Mrs. Norton.

"Just how much good would we have been if we had arrived here determined to use the floor of the house of representatives to 'make a name for ourselves'? Not much. We are representatives of voters, after all, and we could either try to swim upstream or work along with the men and get something done."

"That's what we've been doing, and I think the men are convinced now that there is a place in congress for women."

Achievement's The Gauge
There's little guess about that to anyone who has seen Mrs. Norton preside over a committee meeting. She is a handsome, mature figure with sparkling eyes, well groomed, deliberate in action, and sharp of mind.

"Like any woman, when Mrs. Norton 'has a cake to bake,' even if it is the beginning of a new law, she wants to get down to work and have it done. That's the way she looks at her sister representatives. Not, 'How much attention have they attracted?' but 'What actually have they done?'"

"People forget," she says, "the many hours we sit down to untangle the individual problems of people in our districts. Men come here upset by tax refund cases. Widows worry over their pensions. Little of it is ever known—but that is true representation of the people."

"Why, when I see Edith Rogers spend 10 and 12 hours a day listening to troubles, just like a mother, and we could either try to swim upstream or work along with the men and get something done."

No More 'Gallant Gesture.'
"Look at Florence Kahn on the house appropriations committee. Do you think that grand, white-haired woman was named to the committee just as a gallant gesture? Not a bit of it. There is too much work, and she has good, sound common sense they can use in approving the nation's huge expenditures."

Don't forget Ruth Bryan Owen, who is minister to Denmark. She has a woman's sense of human relations, and she is busy making friends for America."

Recently Mrs. Norton was in the thick of the fight that resulted in the house adoption of a District of Columbia liquor control plan hailed by "liberals."

As chairman of the house district committee, the "mayor of Washington," as Mrs. Norton is known, participated actively in the deliberations that sent the approved bill to the senate, both houses serving as a legislature for the district in matters of this kind.

Psychology Did It
Only once has she questioned public life as a career. Her brother had died. She was in the midst of a New Jersey campaign. Suddenly she thought, "I belong home with my family." She hurried down to the party leader, and announced, "I'm washed up."

That man was a shrewd psychologist. He saw a career ahead for this woman who had devoted so much volunteer time to welfare work. He swung in his chair and said:

"So you're yellow."
Mrs. Norton gasped.
"You can't say that to me!" she exploded.

How Are YOUR Nerves?

Whatever your job or position in life, healthy nerves are worth any effort. Yet with many of us jangled, irritated nerves are only too well known!

Check up on your habits—your eating, your sleeping, your recreation, and your smoking. Countless people have turned to Camels and are enjoying a new freedom from jangled nerves. And they are urging their friends to join them!

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS than any other popular brand.

You'll like the taste... the remarkable mildness... of Camel's choice-quality tobaccos. And you can enjoy Camels steadily... hour after hour... without nervous irritation, or the aftertaste associated with the flat or "sweet" type of cigarette.

So change to mild, rich, good-tasting Camels, they never get on your nerves... never tire your taste.

Miss Mary Wiggins, America's most daring Stunt Girl, says:
"I have to be sure my nerves are healthy to do my stunts. As to smoking, I've found that Camels are milder, better in flavor, and do not give me 'edgy' nerves, even when I am smoking a lot."

Mrs. F. R. Bruce, Larchmont, N. Y. Mother, says:
"Healthy nerves are important to me, too. Meeting infinite demands with patience and unruffled nerves—that's a mother's job. And one who is 'on edge' with nerves cannot create a happy home. Smoking is one of my chief enjoyments. I have found that the choice, more expensive tobaccos used in Camels never upset my nerves—and I prefer their rich, mild flavor."
