A DUTY OF ALL LAWYERS

Most lawyers are straight and dependable. Some are not. Earl W. Evans, president of the American Bar association, ably defines a good lawyer.

Here is the program he suggested for budding lawyers:

Make speeches which show that you know the law; go to church so that the "best citizens" will see you; take part in public affairs; join the chamber of commerce and a service organization; get known as a public-spirited citizen; be a man of strong convictions; engage in bill collecting, as that's a good way to make contacts; join bar associations; get a thorough knowledge of accounting, engineering, and chemistry.

As a guide book for fledgling lawyers, this is probably a very handy bit of advice. But to the layman it is rather remarkable for the things that it does not say.

The modern lawyer often gets in a very peculiar dilemma. His duty to his client, and to himself, can cut directly across his duty to society as a whole. He doesn't perform his functions in a vacuum, but in a highly complex and delicately integrated society where his deeds can have effects that he neither desired nor foresaw.

The lawyer, for instance, who specializes in keeping gangsters out of jail eventually may, through no wish of his own, fill a role which is actively anti-social.

The lawyer who advises great financiers how to evade income tax payments and side-step government regulations designed to control the activities of high finance can become a man who does society much more harm than good.

The lawyer who shows a stock speculator how he can get around the rules which cover stock exchange activities can become something little better than a parasite on society.

This peculiar criss-crossing of the lawyer's public and private duties raise a complex problem which, so far, the legal profession hardly has attempted to solve. Advice to budding lawyers—so the laymen would suppose—might properly touch on it a little.

'Smoky's Picture In State Capitol Is Fading Fast

AUSTIN, Feb. 23.—"Smoky" Henderson's portrait on the first floor of the capitol rotunda is fading. One can barely see that when the painting was done he had an abundance of black beard. His features are almost too dim to give an idea what one of the early-day governors of Texas looked like.

The portrait is of J. W. Henderson, known to his friends of that day as "Smoky," who was chief executive from November 23 until December 21, 1854. He was lieutenant governor during the administration of Governor P. H. Bell, who was elected to congress during his tenure and resigned a few days ahead of the expiration of his term in order to make the trip to Washington. E. M. Pease had been elected governor.

There was another Henderson—J. P.—who served as governor from 1846 to 1848.

Most of the early-day paintings are well preserved but the one of J. W. Henderson apparently will be only a blotch in a few more years. One by one, as they left office, have the painted likenesses of Texas governors been placed in the rotunda until the spaces around three floors have been filled.

Miss Corrie Slagle of Panhandle and Berger was a guest in the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. Hooks yesterday.

'WAS TAKING EVERY KIND OF DRUG FOR CONSTIPATION'

Then ALL-BRAN Brought Relief

Read this very enthusiastic letter:

"I am 34 years old and as far back in my life I have been constipated. I was so bad that I had one bowel movement every five or six days. I was taking every kind of drug known for constipation. For the last two months I have been eating a little ALL-BRAN night and morning and I have at least two to three bowel movements each day."—Mr. Frank Piratzky, 40-66 98th St., Corona, Long Island, New York.

Laboratory tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" and vitamin B to aid elimination. ALL-BRAN is also a fine source of iron for the blood.

"The bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass. Gentle cleansing, not the irritating wastes.

Isn't this safer than taking harmful patent medicines? Two table-spoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. Severe cases with each meal. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

You'll enjoy eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN as a cereal with milk or cream—sugar or honey or fresh fruits added. Or, to use in cooking.

In the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

It Can Not Be Done! You can not drive your car cheaper than 2c-per mile! CONSIDER THESE FARES. Table with destinations and fares. PAMPA BUS TERMINAL, 112 No. Somerville St. Phone 871

LEOPOLD III IS ACCLAIMED AT CORONATION

BRUSSELS, Feb. 23.—(AP)—A new king of the Belgians, Leopold III, was enthroned today when the former crown prince took the oath to defend the constitution before both houses of parliament. He officially became king, succeeding his father the late Albert I, at the conclusion of the reciting of the oath at 11 a. m. The 32-year-old monarch spoke the brief oath in French and repeated it in Flemish before the legislators and assembled dignitaries. A splendid array of foreign representatives and diplomats in the lavishly decorated chamber of deputies cheered the new ruler with the same enthusiasm as did thousands of people who watched him on his ride to parliament from the royal castle at suburban Laeken.

LEOPOLD III IS ACCLAIMED AT CORONATION

Thousands of Belgians ecstatically shouting "vive le roi" and waving flags and handkerchiefs, hailed Leopold III on his triumphant ride. Some sections along the brilliant route showed less enthusiasm than others, but there were no organized counter manifestations. Scattered anti-royalist elements among the crowds which pressed in a solid, cheering, pushing throng along the streets were drowned out in the roar of acclaim.

SUCCEEDS ALBERT AS CROWNED HEAD OF BELGIUM

For the most part Brussels was in a merry mood. Leopold, himself, was serious and even grim as he saluted his subjects. Expressed for the first time in the full regalia of a lieutenant general, and wearing white gloves, he rode a brown horse, as did the entire gallant company. He was a striking figure as he dismounted to be greeted by a special delegation and escorted to the throne erected in the chamber. After the swearing-in ceremony, the accession of Leopold III to the throne was announced to the waiting thousands outside by flumpeters. They sounded a fanfare from the steps of the parliament building.

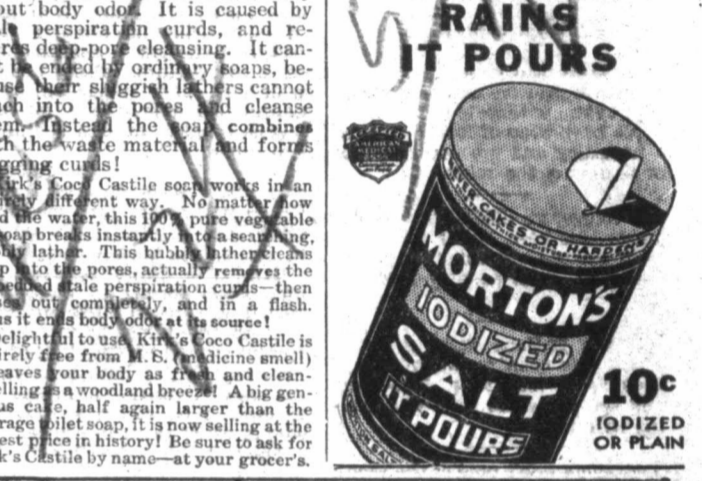

Gives the Laugh to Body Odor!

Advertisement for 'SALZ' salt. Text: 'SALZ' is what a woman asks for when buying salt in Germany. Here in America, 2/3 of all women ask for Morton's because... WHEN IT RAINS IT POURS. MORTON'S IODIZED SALT IT POURS 10c IODIZED OR PLAIN. Gives the Laugh to Body Odor! New Hardwater Way Ends It Instantly—Leaves No M.S. (Medicine Smell) Science has made a new discovery about body odor. It is caused by stale perspiration curds, and requires deep-pore cleansing. It cannot be cured by ordinary soaps, because their slight alkalis cannot reach into the pores and cleanse them. Instead the soap combines with the waste material and forms clogging curds! Kirk's Coco-Castile soap works in an entirely different way. No matter how hard the water, this 100% pure vegetable oil soap breaks instantly into a sea-foam, bubbling lather. This lather penetrates deep into the pores, actually removes the embedded stale perspiration curds—then rinses out completely, and in a flash. Thus it ends body odor at its source! Delightful to use, Kirk's Coco-Castile is entirely free from M. S. (medicine smell)—leaves your body as fresh and clean-smelling as a woodland breeze! A big generous cake, half again larger than the average toilet soap, is now selling at the lowest price in history! Be sure to ask for Kirk's Castile by name—at your grocer's.

knows all about it." And Denison's tennis phenom abruptly broke off his first interview, and left his father, M. M. Marshall, high school teacher, to carry on. "For two years Murray and his partner, Jack Moore, went to the state meet," Mr. Marshall related. "In '32 they were eliminated by San Antonio. In '33 Murray went to the semifinals in the boy's state junior tournament at Waco. Let's see, oh, yes, he and Moore won the junior T. I. A. A. doubles in Fort Worth one year. Comparatively speaking, he hasn't done a whole lot. I suppose he's waited until he gets a little older and heavier. My form's right, he can smash and he has a good head on him."

BORGER BEATS SHAMROCK IN SECOND GAME

ALLISON'S ACE CAGER SUFFERS SPRAINED ANKLE

Hedley's Owls, early favorites to sweep the district 2 basketball tournament here, fell before the Allison quintet last night in the opening game. Allison emerged from the wild melee with a 28 to 20 victory. Borger had little trouble swamping the Shamrock Irishmen, 27 to 12, in the second encounter.

Referee Davis Hill dished out 33 penalties in the wild opening game. Hedley drew one less than Allison. Three Hedley players left the game and Allison lost two. Gatewood, big Hedley center, left the floor before the whistle blew for the half.

The Owls, conquerors of the Harvesters, appeared cocky as they took the floor. Allison missed several easy shots in the first few minutes and the Owls became more confident. Then Allison showed a flash of brilliant play that Hedley was never able to equal.

Passing Is Good

Markam, Jones and Hays bore the brunt of the Allison attack and were on the receiving end of some beautiful passing from Traylor and Garner. Hays was taken from the floor with a badly sprained ankle during the last five minutes of play.

Evans, the boy who singlehandedly defeated Pampa in Hedley recently and who caused the Harvesters plenty of misery here, was held to eight points. He looped only two field goals and made his other counters on free throws. Allison kept him out of his "favorite corner" most of the night. Shaw, flashy guard, was badly off form but Armstrong played good ball until forced out of the game. Coach "Dumb" Newman used nine players.

Borger's Bulldogs started slowly but gained momentum as the game progressed. During the last quarter they were looping counters from all angles. Dunaway, midget center, went high in the air and was about the fastest player on the floor. C. White, forward, made four nice field goals of the Heiskell variety. Hanna, a guard, played a steady, hard-fought game, particularly on the defense although he managed to score seven points.

Center Is Brilliant

Bland was the outstanding performer for the Irishmen. He is a tall, rasy lad who commanded the tip and scored nine points. Carmen, guard, made the other Shamrock counters. The Irish guarded close-

DETTON PLANS A DEFENSE TO STOP MUELLER

SYSTEM INVENTED TO RENDER HEADLOCK HARMLESS

Schoolboy Dorry Detton of Utah has spent nearly two hours of each day this week working on a system he hopes will stop Doc Mueller's famous chiropractic headlock when the two maulers meet here in a main event "rasslin" match at the Pla-Mor auditorium Monday night. Detton has been using Clingman, Mantell, Koderick, and Roy in his experiments, and he believes he has succeeded.

Mueller has not been seen in a local ring in more than a year. He met such stars as Clingman, Watkins, Koepke, Rose, and others on his last trip through this country. All looked alike when he got his clutches on their neck, from behind.

The San Antonio wrestler says the hold is legal and has been using it frequently in Texas. Pampa fans have always wondered.

DETTON PLANS A DEFENSE TO STOP MUELLER

SYSTEM INVENTED TO RENDER HEADLOCK HARMLESS

The semi-final should just about steal the show. Lou Koderick, the "pint-sized giant" who refereed the main event last week, will be on the mat with Pat Garrison, reformed Pampa bad boy. They are on the card for a 30-minute time limit affair. Koderick, an Englishman by birth but an American for the last 12 years, is absolutely unknown here but he made a real hit with local fans when he appeared in the ring last week.

Koderick is built "close to the ground" with no neck and a pair of shoulders about as wide as a door opening. His legs are short and stocky. He once allowed cars to run over his body, and did other strong man stunts. Recently he has been striking to wrestling.

The Pampa entry in the event will just about have to get on his knees to get hold on the strong man. Garrison will be at least a foot taller than Koderick. The local Irishman has turned over a new leaf. He is going to stick to wrestling and forget the "dirty work." Garrison can wrestle cleanly and everyone knows he can.

The show will start at 8:15 o'clock with Harry Dowler, Andy Gump to Pampa folks, meeting Lobo Brown, Amarillo sheik. The Amarillo bad boy downed Andy here a few weeks ago.

Gus Moreland Takes Lead In Houston Meet

STERLING PERFORMERS OF THE GOLF LINKS WILL STAND BY THE WAYSIDE LATE TODAY AND WISH LUCK TO THE FOUR WHO WILL CARRY ON INTO THE SEMI-FINALS OF THE 20th ANNUAL HOUSTON COUNTRY CLUB INVITATION. FOR TODAY, EIGHT OF THE FINEST SHOT MAKERS IN THE LAND STARTED THE 36-HOLE QUARTER-FINAL MATCHES OF WHICH ONLY FOUR WILL SURVIVE.

Leading the way was Gus Moreland of Dallas, king of Texas amateurs, seeking his fourth consecutive invitation championship and making another stand before a Texas gallery before he sails for St. Andrews as a member of the United States Walker cup team. In the champion's wake was Johnny Dawson of Chicago, who gave the tournament its only sensational round yesterday with a sub-par-35-70, one under; Edwin McClure of Shreveport, former Louisiana champion, and David Goldman of Dallas who tied McClure for medalist with 73-76-149.

Victorious over Fred Borsodi of Houston, 2 up and Gibson Payne of Dallas, 3 and 2, the champion faced Leland Hamman of Waco.

Johnny Layton And Cochran In Billiard Finals

NEW YORK, Feb. 23. (AP)—The world's three-cushion billiard championship and $1,500 in cash will be at stake tonight when Welker Cochran of San Francisco and Johnny Layton, of Sedalia, Mo., take their places at the familiar green-cloth table.

It will be the last regularly-scheduled game of the tournament which began Feb. 5 and it will be decisive.

Cochran, who won the crown for the first time last year, and Layton, ten-times holder of it in the course of a long career, reach the climax match with identical records of eight victories and two defeats. The winner tonight takes the championship; the loser automatically falls into a second place tie with Allen Hall of Chicago, necessitating a play for second and third positions.

Willie Hoppe, New York veteran, defeated J. N. Bozeman, young Vallejo, Calif., sensation, 50-42, in the next to the last game of the tournament last night, and wound up in a tie for fourth place with Bozeman. Each won seven games and lost four. They will play off the tie Saturday.

STENDEL NAMED

NEW YORK, Feb. 23. (AP)—Charles D. (Casey) Stengel, former Brooklyn Dodgers outfielder and a coach since 1932, today was named manager of the team for 1934 and 1935, succeeding Max Carey.

Mrs. Tucker's Recipe of the Week

MARSHMALLOW-YAM DELIGHTS

3 cups washed sweet potatoes, cup sugar, 3 tablespoons lard, 1/2 cup milk, 1/4 cup black pepper, 1/4 cup salt, 1/4 cup vanilla.

Wash, scrub and cut up 3 potatoes. Boil in water until tender. Drain and mash. Add sugar, lard, milk, salt and vanilla. Mix thoroughly. Pack in a greased tin. Bake in a moderate oven for 1 hour.

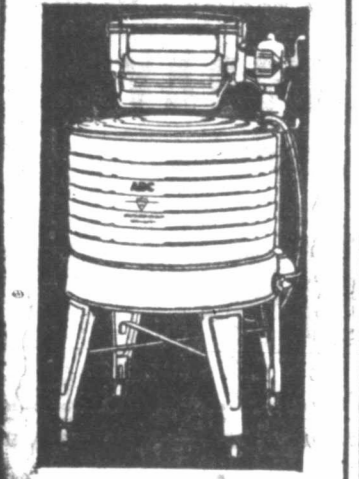

(Mrs. Tucker's shortening does not get hard after use, and is highest in digestibility.)

This winning recipe for Feb. 24 was prepared by Mrs. Sam Starnes, 748 A. M., every Tuesday, at the Pampa Public Office. Write Mrs. H. W. Cherry, 1620 Main St., Lubbock, Texas, for practically any recipe.

Send your recipes to Mrs. Tucker, 748 A. M., every Tuesday, at the Pampa Public Office.

MOBEETIE HAS HAD THREE SITES AND KNOWN BY AS MANY NAMES

MOBEETIE, Feb. 23 (AP) — Mo-beetie, often referred to as "the mother city of the Panhandle," has had three different locations and has been known by as many different names.

After Fort Elliott was established on the banks of Sweetwater creek to protect hunters, ranchers and early settlers against the Indians, the little village of Hildetown was started about two miles away to help accommodate the hide hunters and freighters who came to the fort for protection.

In about 1878 the town was moved to within half a mile of the fort, and the name was changed to Sweetwater, after the creek on which the site was located. It was learned, however, that a town of that name already existed in Nolan county, so the founders gave their village the Cheyenne Indian name for sweetwater—Mobeetie.

At Mobeetie, the town figured prominently in the early history of the Panhandle, and became even better known in fiction. Many of the famous characters who have contributed to the history of the southwest visited here and some of them participated in the brawls which were common then to every frontier town.

Wheeler county was organized in 1879, and Mobeetie became the "capital of the Panhandle." The affairs of 25 other counties were conducted from Mobeetie, the seat of government of the only organized county in the region. Famous peace officers came here to help conduct court sessions.

When the Clinton, Oklahoma and Western was built east from Pampa in 1929, it was necessary to miss the old fort site and the pioneer town. So the town was moved again—this time to the new railroad where it serves a vast farming and ranching area. There is little left at the old fort site, except the ruins of the adobe buildings.

Duvall Changes Mind Again On 'Jim' Ferguson

BY R. W. BARRY.

AUSTIN, Feb. 23 (AP) — In late strange game of politics many changes take place almost overnight. There is the case of Representative J. C. Duvall of Fort Worth. During the regular and first special sessions of the 43rd legislature he was a friend of the Ferguson administration in legislation sponsored by the chief executive.

Not so this second special session. Duvall was strong for enactment of a law to legalize horse racing in Texas. He conferred with the governor and her husband, former Governor James E. Ferguson, frequently about matters pending before the legislature at other sessions.

This time he fought strenuously against the governor's suggestion that she be given equal representation on the Texas relief board, agency charged with administering money for the destitute. Also, he stood behind an amendment to the relief bond bill which would increase taxes on horse race wagers 10 per cent, although friends of the administration, including the governor's husband, said such a heavy levy would kill the industry.

"What has happened between the administration and Duvall?" many have asked.

"Quite safe," he questioned usually reply with a Mexican shrug.

On the other hand, Representative R. J. Long of Wichita Falls, who campaigned against Mrs. Ferguson and for Governor R. S. Sterling in 1932, fought hard for the governor's suggestion that she be given equal representation on the relief commission.

Another example of "one never knows what another day will bring" in politics.

Whitograms: Members of Texas federated women's clubs and other organizations lobbying with Texas senators they hoped to swing over to vote for the resolution ratifying the child labor amendment to the federal constitution. A tough spot for some of the candidates for state offices.

Numerous Poll Tax Payments Worry Orators

AUSTIN, Feb. 23 (AP) — Politicians are doing some serious reflecting these days as a result of reports that poll tax payments in most counties are greatly in excess of prior years.

They are wondering why there should be such a rush to pay poll taxes and what effect it will have on political matters in general.

Is it because the voting populace has become stirred over the prospect of a finish fight on prohibition?

Can it be attributed to expectation of a heated campaign for the democratic nomination for governor and other major offices?

These two main questions and many others are being asked. The difficulty is that no one has the book containing the answers.

Everett Johnson, assistant attorney general, has come to the rescue of the San Antonio Bar association and furnished the organization with copies of its constitution and by-laws.

The association found recently that the original papers had been misplaced and a diligent search failed to reveal their whereabouts. Johnson heard of the plight and rummaged through his files and found several copies he had made while an official of the association several years ago. He sent them to the association with his compliments and has hopes of being able to find the originals somewhere.

FIFTH AVENUE FASHIONS

By ELLEN WORTH
A Flower Neckline To Your Face

This enchanting little frock sets out to prove the flattery of the new flower neckline — and succeeds. You can depend on its shirred and ruffled outline, its cluster of little buds to do nice things for your face.

The sloping shoulderline, which Paris endorses, is achieved here in a very smart way. And you will like the way the crushed-in waistline brings out the best points in your figure. Size 16 requires 3 3/4 yards 39-inch material. Width about 1 1/2 yard. We suggest the new crepes, printed and plain.

Pattern No. 5443 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20 years, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 bust.

BLOND GODDESS
 A New Serial by HERBERT JENSEN

SYNOPSIS: Escaping a band of murderous savages in the Yucatan jungles, Frank Grahame, the explorer, and Janice Kent the movie star, fall into a valley from which they cannot get out. Imprisoned with them is the high priest of the tribe they are fleeing, badly injured, and Billy Langton, Grahame's missing aviator friend for whom he has been searching. Langton has been describing his experience with the same tribe of savages.

Chapter 40
NEW DANGER
 Langton concluded reminiscently. "It was quite a scrap. We never did get to the top of the pyramid. I grabbed a gun from one of the guards . . . I used it."
 "I thought I saw the ahkin go down, but I couldn't be sure. Anyway the gun was empty, and I ran to the edge of the cenote."
 "You're much of a swimmer, you know, but I thought I'd rather drown than be cut up. So I jumped over the edge."
 "Funny" in falling I thought how curious it was that I still hung on to my bottle through the excitement . . . Frank I think it was a break that they found that bottle but greater yet was the fact that it got to sea from here!"
 He arose and limped back and forth before the fire. Talking rapidly, almost to himself, he said, "We can't get up the cliffs. It would take weeks to make a rope. We might cut down palm trees. Make a ladder that'd reach to the top."
 "But it might not work. If we did get to the top it would take weeks to cut through the jungle to the coast. Too long. The rains will be here soon again."
 Frank interrupted him. "Janice looks a little sleepy. How about getting a little rest, Janice? Billy and I will chin awhile, then turn in ourselves."
 They over-ruled the girl's protest. Langton hobbled into the small shack after them and pointed out a net hammock he said he'd made from cactus fiber. "It's not the Waldorf type," he said with a wry smile, "but it's comfortable. The deer skins smell a little but they're warm."
 Janice laughed at his apology. "I think it's a lovely bed." She stifled a small yawn and gave them a sleepy good night.
 Back again before the fire, Grahame looked solemnly at Langton.
 "I noticed," he said, "that your fire was chiefly driftwood. Also that your driftwood comes from about the highest level on this little hill."
 "You've seen that, too," Langton replied. "Well, old man, I'll tell you the worst. All it takes is just one heavy storm and a flooded stream to wipe us all out."
 "We thought about it until I would get a little nifty. I thought of building a raft, and when this valley becomes a big bath tub, I'd float until the water went down. It might work, but I believe getting out by way of the cliffs was the lesser evil and got cracked up 'doing' it."
 "I thought of building a smaller raft and floating down the stream through the caverns to the sea, but I couldn't be sure of getting there."
 "Even now, how could I be sure that a man floating on a raft could get through a pop hole in one thing, a man is another."
 Frank said grimly. "It's a chance that will have to be taken by one of us. You don't swim well. Fortunately, I do. So I think I'll elect myself."
 Langton looked at him curiously. "You're a good scout, Frank. But I can't let you do it." For the first time Frank realized the trace of bitterness that underlay Billy Langton's gay humor.
 He continued, "I'm only half a man now. Frank. It doesn't matter what happens to me. I'll make a balsam-wood packet—it's lighter than cork—and do all the floating out there's to be done."
 "You're strong and resourceful. Miss Kent's chances would be improved if you remained behind to make ropes, or ladders, or rafts in case . . . well, bluntly, in case this stream ends below a swamp and seeps upward, or worse, ends in a hole in the ocean floor."
 Frank threw a chip into the fire and watched the small flame with thoughtful glance. He remembered the trip in the launch with Ortega and his two crewmen. They had stopped at half mile or so from shore and dipped up fresh water out of the sea.
 Rivers in this country did tunnel under the beaches and discharge from holes in the ocean bottom. A pop bottle had survived—but could a living breathing man? He sighed and shrugged his shoulders.
 He said softly: "As you say, it's a chance that must be taken. We must try every possible device before the rains come. You put up a good argument, Billy, but I think you and Janice stay here."
 The paralyzed figure of the head-priest made a sound. As of one accord, both arose and stared across from the glowing coals.
 "Water," said the ahkin in Spanish.
 Langton handed him a gourd. The native drank and set down the vessel. He looked at them both with his penetrating glance.
 "Was it imagination, or the flickering light and shadow from the fire? . . . but the high-priest's eyes held a queer mocking light, thought Frank. Although the man's face was impassive, and his body immobile and useless, nevertheless he still was impressive with an intangible power.
 It was as if he alone, of the four in this remote valley, had some knowledge hidden from them. And that knowledge gave him mastery of the fates of his companions.
 In the days that followed, Frank and his machete were indefatigable. In the interval of day between the sudden eruption of tropic dawn over the jungle above them and the quick cloak of darkness that descended at sunset, all busied themselves at their varied tasks.
 Frank chopped and stripped of their thorns bales of long leaved cactus. Janice pounded and soaked them in water, and put the fiber in the sun to dry. They would have plenty of rope for their varied experiments to win safety. He collected timbers of driftwood and split them to make a frame for his raft, and poles and rungs for ladders. Langton, because of his hurts could take no part in the rougher work.

"Mary's got a cold again"

Vitamins instead of "tonics"
 —that's newest health advice
 When children catch cold easily, it is usually due to run-down condition. To build up, the advice of modern authorities is—eat more vitamins and get more rest. That's easy now—thanks to recent discoveries.
 In 3 chocolate-covered tablets you can now get all the vitamins of 2 teaspoons high grade cod liver oil. Not only that, but these same tablets bring you other important minerals (calcium and phosphorus). Youngsters take these tablets readily—no fishy taste!
 Save the children at once on these tablets. Ask the drugist for McKesson's Vitamin Concentrate Tablets of Cod Liver Oil. Be sure you get McKesson's because they are the ONLY ones bringing you vitamins in addition to vitamins. See the package in market "Dicalcium Phosphate, 1 Grain."
 McKesson's Vitamin Concentrate Tablets of Cod Liver Oil are a food, not a medicine! Give them to the children . . . make them yourself . . . after meals. Next time before you had such an easy means of building up resistance. See how after a few weeks children have fewer colds, greater resistance to disease, more appetite, more pep and vigor!

International Sunday School Lesson

BY DR. J. E. NUNN

General Topic: The Twelve Sent forth.

Scripture Lesson: Matt. 9:35-10:8; 10:23-32

Matt. 9:35. And Jesus went about all the cities and the villages, teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the gospel of the kingdom, and healing all manner of diseases and all manner of sicknesses.

36. But when he saw the multitudes, he was moved with compassion for them, because they were distressed and scattered, as sheep not having a shepherd.

37. Then saith he unto his disciples. The harvest indeed is plentiful, but the laborers are few.

38. Pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest, that he send forth laborers into his harvest.

Matt. 10:1. And he called unto him his twelve disciples, and gave them authority over unclean spirits, to cast them out, and to heal all manner of disease and all manner of sickness.

2. Now the names of the twelve apostles are these: The first, Simon, who is called Peter, and Andrew his brother; James the son of Zebedee, and John his brother; Philip, and Bartholomew; Thomas, and Matthew the publican; James the son of Alphaeus, and Thaddaeus;

4. Simon the Cananaean, and Judas Iscariot, who also betrayed him.

5. These twelve Jesus sent forth and charged them, saying, Go not into any way.

6. But go rather to the lost sheep of the house of Israel.

7. And as ye go, preach, saying, The kingdom of heaven is at hand. Heal the sick, raise the dead, cleanse the lepers, cast out demons: freely ye received, freely give.

32. Everyone therefore who shall confess me before me, will I also confess before my Father who is in heaven.

33. But whosoever shall deny me before me, him will I also deny before my Father who is in heaven.

Golden Text: The harvest indeed is plentiful, but the laborers are few. Pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest, that he send forth laborers into his harvest.—Matt. 9:37, 38.

Jesus' First Commission To The Twelve. Matt. 10:1-8.

These twelve Jesus sent forth and charged them, saying, Go not into any way of the Gentiles, and enter not into any city of the Samaritans. But go rather to the lost sheep of the house of Israel. And as ye go, preach, saying, The kingdom of heaven is at hand. Heal the sick, raise the dead, cleanse the lepers, cast out demons: freely ye received, freely give.

Jesus' Final Commission To The Twelve. Matt. 28:19, 20.

Go ye therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost: Teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you: and, lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world.

Four Lists of the Twelve

The Twelve are listed also in Mark 3:16-19, Luke 6:14-16, and Acts 1:13. If these four lists are written in parallel columns the curious fact will be noticed that in each there are three quaternions, and that, with a considerable variety in the order of succession, Peter heads the first quaternion in each list, Philip the second, and James the son of Alphaeus the third. Judas Iscariot is always at the end. The corresponding groups invariably contain the same four persons. It seems reasonable, therefore, to suppose that the apostles were divided into three companies, each with a recognized leader.

The Twelve were drafted into Jesus' service by several steps. They followed him of 4:22—immediately upon their call, or conversion—will have been occasional; a day or two or a few days, at a time, to learn more about him and his message. Later (Mark 3:14; Luke 6:13) they were ordained—as we would say—to exclusive service and constant association with him. In our lesson they are further consecrated and commissioned, given additional grace and power.

"Peter and Andrew His Brother," vs. 2

The first, Simon, who is called Peter. He was a fisherman of Bethsaida, then living in Capernaum. Christ, when he first called him, named him "Peter," a "rock," seeing in him the sturdy fidelity which he needed for the foundation of his church. Peter was always the leader of the Twelve, a bold, outspoken, impulsive man, yet a man subject to deplorable fits of weakness and cowardice. "Such men are always striking twelve either in some high noon of glorious action or in some midnight or dismal failure. It is never nine o'clock in the morning or three o'clock in the afternoon with them—they are at one extreme or the other. We have to take people as we find them, the rough with the smooth, the Dean Charles R. Brown.

"And Andrew his brother," Andrew had one specialty. He was an expert in the gentle art of bringing other people to Jesus. He was the original personal worker. Every glimpse we have of him shows him in the act of leading somebody else to Jesus.—Rev. Bernard C. Clausen, D. D. It was he, for instance, who brought Peter to the Saviour, and in that one act did far more than most of us accomplish in a lifetime.

James "and John His Brother," vs. 2

"James the son of Zebedee." Also a fisherman, as were all of the first four named; for Christ found his helpers among the poor and lowly, being poor and humble himself. James, like his brother John, was a man of fiery disposition (Christ called them "Boanerges," or "sons of thunder"), which may have led to his becoming the first hand he meant that he, the founder of it, the long-prophesied Messiah, the Son of God, was in the flesh, dwelling among men. The climax of all the ages had arrived.

"Heal the sick, raise the dead, cleanse the lepers, cast out demons." Christ gave them his own supernatural power, which they were to use as proof that they were from the Messiah and that his kingdom was actually at their doors. "Freely ye received, freely give." This does not mean that any of the Twelve had been miraculously healed. It means that the power to heal was given them for nothing, and that they must not take payment for healing. This is not at variance with the principle that the laborer is worthy of his food (1 Cor. 9:7). To accept support from those to whom they ministered was allowable, and it was the duty of those who accepted the ministry to give the support; but to make a trade of their miraculous powers was not permitted.

Simple Service. Matt. 10:9-15.

Our Lord's instructions to his disciples for their first evangelistic tour insisted on supreme trust in God's provision and entire simplicity of life. In both these particulars modern Christians may well follow their example spiritually if not literally. They were to set forth without money or food, they were not to carry an extra coat, simple sandals were to protect their feet, and in each village they were to make one house their dwelling, as they were gladly received, and were not to make ceremonious visits from house to house. Theirs was to be a businesslike journey, with no junketings. So may we realize that "the King's business requires haste," and make Christian service the chief aim of our lives.

The Servants' Reward. Matt. 10:40-41:1.

The Saviour would not allow his final word to his departing apostles to be the stern teaching about cross-bearing. His closing message was the bright promise of rewards.

Even though their service was no more than giving a cup of cold water to a little child, they should be rewarded. That Christ did not tell them just what the rewards would be was really an intensifying of the promise. They were too glorious to express in language. They were spiritual joys in this world and they were even greater and eternal delights in the world to come. With these exhilarating hopes before them, the Twelve set out on their first mission; and we have the same hopes before us in every errand on which Christ sends us.

PREFERS PLATINUM

LONDON—Lady Mount Temple, wife of a former minister of transport, wants the plain gold wedding band abolished. She told the national jewelers' association at their annual dinner that it was a "monstrosity," and she appealed for its deposition in favor of the much more beautiful gem-set ring or the plain platinum circlet.
