High Official Reveals Bishop Cannon Sure to be Tried by Methodists

ACTIVITIES IN WALL STREET ARE CHARGED

No Announcement of Trial Is Made in Dallas

WEDDINGS TO BE DIFFERENT

"Serve" and "Obey" to Be Stricken Out of Rites

DALLAS, May 15. (AP)—A prominent member of the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, said today that the episcopal committee of the conference last night decided that Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of Washington, D. C., should be brought to trial for his speculations on the stock market.

Members of the committee, sworn to secrecy, declined to deny or affirm the report, which was given credence because of the source.

It had been believed that the final vote on the matter would not be taken until tomorrow's meeting, which was decided upon as the committee adjourned late last night.

No information could be obtained as to when the committee would present its report.

DALLAS, May 15. (AP)—Striking the words "serve" and "obey" from the marriage ceremony, enlarging the charges upon which a minister may be charged, and retaining the present unwritten limitation of four years on the terms of presiding elder, the quadrennial conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, settled down today to a steady grind of work.

Delegates interpreted the memorial enlarging of the ministerial misconduct charges as the most important legislation of the day. It would provide that when charges of immorality are brought and cannot be substantiated, the minister may be found guilty of gross immorality or highly unministerial conduct with the punishment a reprimand, suspension or expulsion.

Before adoption of the memorial, the only charges upon which a minister could be tried were improper words and temper and immorality. In the latter case, unless the charges could be fully proved, the jury was perforce obliged to acquit him, even though the evidence clearly showed that his actions had been highly improper, and even though his superiors were convinced of the truth of the immorality charges.

There was scant opposition to the proposal to strike the words "serve" and "obey" from the marriage ritual, its proponents advancing it as a change which would be approved universally as in keeping with the trend of the times.

"NOT GUILTY" IS VERDICT IN TRIAL OF COX

Verdict Is Applauded by Audience Last Evening

SELF DEFENSE PLEA ACCEPTED

Two Jurors Wished to Give Suspended Sentence

For the first time during the trial, Gilbert Cox and his mother smiled last night at 10 o'clock—smiles that wrinkled the corners of the youth's eyes and brought a little color into the gray, drawn face of his mother. The smiles which grew larger despite the tears that glistened in the eyes of the woman and her son, occurred just at the moment when Dr. W. C. Mitchell foreman of the jury, finished reading from a slip of yellow paper this acquittal verdict, "We the jury find the defendant not guilty of murder as charged in the indictment."

The jury returned the verdict at about 10 p. m. The twelve men retired to the jury room at 4:30 p. m. A large crowd that had waited in the courtroom cheered and applauded when the verdict was read. Judge W. R. Ewing was compelled to rap for order several times.

Cox, a 20-year-old drifter of oil wells, was charged with shooting Ralph Watkins in front of the latter's home in South Pampa, April 20. The defense lawyers, Ridgell and Saunders, in their arguments, although insisting that the youth killed Watkins in self-defense, devoted much of their speeches to a detailed account of the relations which existed between Cox's wife and Watkins before the shooting. The defense claimed that Cox had the right to go to Watkins' house on the morning of the shooting and demand information concerning medicine which Cox testified Watkins had given his wife. They declared that Watkins attempted to wreck Cox' home.

Cox on the witness stand said that he shot Watkins when the latter said, "I'll have her (Cox' wife) if I have to kill you and her whole family." Cox said Watkins reached for his hip when he made that remark.

State's attorney C. G. Engledow and special prosecutor Curtis Douglas, hired by Mrs. Helen Watkins, step-mother of Ralph, introduced testimony intended to show that Cox killed Watkins from motives of jealousy.

The first ballot was 10 to 2 for acquittal, it was learned. The dissenting jurors wanted to give a suspended sentence, but at length they yielded to the will of the majority.

DEHARSAANA, India, May 15. (AP)—Police this forenoon nipped in the bud Mrs. Sarojini Naidu's projected civil disobedience leadership by surrounding her and a large party of volunteers as they started to raid the salt depot here.

The police action indicated the government's determination to practice firm methods against the salt raid.

Mrs. Naidu had assembled her followers early in the morning, volunteers flocking to the scene just outside this town.

Tom Rose returned Wednesday from a trip to Oklahoma City.

Twitty Will Get Insanity Hearing in County Court

Whether Menace Twitty has the mental capacity to make a rational defense to the criminal charge against him is being decided by a jury this afternoon in 21st district court. A "no" answer to the question would be a verdict of insanity. Dr. V. E. Von Brunow, the chief witness against him, declared that Twitty "is feigning insanity. He eats and sleeps well and he is not insane."

Sheriff Graves, deputies and prisoners testified the man was insane.

Twitty presented a spectacle when brought before Judge Ewing this morning that puzzled the judge and the attorneys in the case. With difficulty he was brought from the jail on the fourth floor of the courthouse to the district court room by deputies and Sheriff Graves. Although the judge called his name several times and the sheriff urged him to speak, not once did Twitty raise his eyes. His long hair fell over his face and he slumped in his chair. His fingers traced patterns on his overalls. When his head was raised by the sheriff his eyes were dull and flat, mere slits between his almost closed lids.

Sheriff Graves, who is now convinced that the man is insane, reported that Twitty has not spoken a word in eight days. He eats very little and plays with his food before he hurfs it over the jail. He sits for hours playing with ants. At the least provocation he will fly at the prisoners, making guttural sounds and attempting to injure them.

With the completion of the cement work of the foundation for the new city hall now being erected on Albert Square, workers are now ready to begin building the above ground foundation and the walls Tuesday morning, according to John T. Glover, contractor. The remainder of this week will be required to assemble building material on the site and to remove the forms from the cement.

COLLIERS WINS LIBEL SUIT BROUGHT BY CREAGER—SECOND ACTION FINDS MAGAZINE READY

COURTHOUSE, Brownsville, May 15. (AP)—A jury in federal court here today returned a verdict in favor of the defendant, Crewell Publishing company and P. F. Collier and Sons Distributing company, in the $500,000 libel suit brought by R. B. Creager, Republican national committeeman for Texas.

The committee man based his suit on an article in Colliers magazine, "High Handed and Hell Bent" by Owen P. White, which dealt with the political situation in Hidalgo county and in which Creager's name was mentioned.

The case was given to the jury late yesterday.

During nine days testimony was heard concerning Hidalgo county and Creager's asserted political alliance with Sheriff A. Y. Baker's Democratic administration, accused in the magazine article with bossing some 60,000 people.

Most of the witnesses testified about political conditions, many testifying for Collier's that it was "generally known" the state's Republican leader and the Hidalgo county's Democratic chieftain had an understanding to the effect that Creager would discourage local opposition to Baker if Baker would return the favor for the Republican at National election time.

The committeeman himself denied the charges from the stand.

Creager left the courtroom quickly after the verdict and made no statement. His counsel would not say whether an appeal would be made, explaining that it had six months in which to decide.

Charles E. Kelley, chief attorney for the magazine, declared his side was ready to try at any time a companion suit, also asking a half million dollars, on another article printed, called, "A Job for Jack."

Contracts For School Buildings to Be Let Soon

Bids for the erection of the new school building at the end of North Frost street and for the construction of additions to Central high school and to the ward schools will be received toward the last of this month, according to present plans of the school board. The board expects to let the contracts about June 1.

Architect's plans for the new building and additions were approved in the main by the school board this week, and except for a few details, the structures will conform to the sketches recently finished by W. R. Kaufman.

The new building to be built at the end of North Frost street on the east side of the street will resemble the other ward buildings in general. The principal difference is that the entrance in the new building will be on the corner instead of on the side. It will cost around $40,000. The additions to the other schools will conform to the architecture of the present buildings.

The program, to which the public is cordially invited, will open at 8 o'clock.

The girls' glee club, under the direction of Thomas Fannell, will open the program with "Dear Old High School," by Sparks, one of its most popular numbers.

The girls' quartet will sing "The Nightingale," by Kjerulf, with Mrs. Thomas Fannell playing the piano accompaniment. Members of the quartet are Audrey Noel, Doris Price, Rutah Wakeman, and Yvonne Thomas.

The senior members of the society are: Delbert Larsh, Vivian Vickers, Eileen Pengra, Violet Schafer, Florence Baer, LeFors Doucette, Florence Ward, Tom Braly, and Audrey Noel. The junior members are: Albert Lard, Frances Campbell, LaVelle Meyer, Yvonne Thomas, and Dary Meador.

Army and Navy Fliers Rescued in Hawaiian Waters

HONOLULU, May 15. (AP)—Two of the twelve army and navy fliers who were caught in the rough shark-infested waters between the islands of Maui and Hawaii when their planes were unable to effect takeoffs, were rescued early today by the mine sweeper Pelican. Eight previously were picked up. The other two are unaccounted for.

The Pelican picked up Lieutenants U. G. Jones and Walter Myers from their helpless amphibian army plane, one of the three aircraft which landed in the dangerous channel yesterday in an attempt to save the four fliers of a big army bomber which had been forced down.

The amphibian had drifted about 40 miles from the spot where it landed, and was found 20 miles southwest of the island of Kahoolawe. The crews of another army amphibian and of a navy seaplane containing four naval fliers and two of the ill-fated bomber's crew were picked up last night by the steamer Hawaii.

The two missing fliers were members of the bomber's crew of four. Which two they were was not known here.

Increase Percentage Is 959, Official States

TOTAL IN 1920 WAS ONLY 987

Several Thousand in Area Just Out of City

Pampa's official population within the city limits is 10,453, The News learned this afternoon.

This is an increase of 959 per cent over the total of 1920, which was officially 987, according to Nat S. Ferrine of Amarillo, assistant supervisor for this territory.

In offering congratulations on this remarkable growth, Mr. Ferrine asserted that in his opinion Pampa had a very good chance to lead the nation for cities of 10,000. He said he knew of no other city with so great an increase.

He pointed out that the records showed many persons, roughly estimated at 1,000 lived immediately outside the city limits, while many others live within a 5-mile radius in what might be described as the Greater Pampa. He made special tabulations in order to give The News the official total today. The last report on the six Pampa census districts was mailed late yesterday and received in Amarillo this morning. Previous reports already had been tabulated.

Local census enumerators stated that they found 630 persons in the Talley addition, beyond the city limits.

The Greater Pampa total, expected to be between 13,000 and 15,000, will not be finally estimated until the county enumeration has been completed, and in which an extension of time has been granted.

Scott Barcus, local enumerator, estimated the Pampa population at 10,452 when all data had been collected, missing the official mark by one. He did not know how many cards and coupons had been mailed to Amarillo, nor how many names had been duplicated.

Brady's Wife Blames Girl for Judge's Plight

DALLAS, May 15. (AP)—Forcing an occasional smile through her tears, Mrs. John W. Brady took the stand in her husband's murder trial here today and sobbed out a story of a clandestine love affair between her husband and Miss Lelia Highsmith whom he stabbed to death in Austin last November.

Mrs. Brady testified that this affair had wrecked her home and had transformed her husband from a once brilliant jurist and lawyer to a man of unsteady mind.

At the end of Mrs. Brady's testimony, the defense closed its case on condition that they might rebut any further evidence the state might offer.

Silence fell over the packed courtroom as the wife of the defendant took a seat on the witness stand. Newspaper reporters were instructed to halt their operations at the press table.

Appears Nervous

She was shaking noticeably and nervously fingered her wedding band as defense attorney Ted Monroe asked her when she married Brady. She gave her age as 28 and that of the defendant as 60 and said they were married 30 years ago. She was dressed in a black silk coat and wore a close-fitting straw hat.

Mrs. Brady said she met her husband 20 years ago when he was a law partner with John Peeler in Austin. She was working in the office at the time. Peeler is one of Brady's attorneys.

"Has your married life been happy?" she was asked.

"Yes, always—nearly always happy."

Twin Brides-Elect Are Honorees of Bridal Shower at Noelette

A charming courtesy was extended Misses Margaret and Frances Fields Friday evening, May 9, when Mrs. J. Fred Curry and Mrs. W. B. Tinsley, the latter a sister of the girls, entertained with a surprise bridal shower in the home of Mrs. Tinsley in Noelette.

The honorees, who are twin daughters of Dr. and Mrs. C. L. Fields, well known pioneer residents at Groom, had been popular members of the faculty of the Skellytown schools for the last two years. The twin brides-elect will be married in early summer. Miss Margaret will become the bride of Mr. J. Lawton Thomas of Pampa and Miss Frances will wed Mr. Roy Moseley of Wink.

The living room presented a lovely setting for the party. Pink, orchid, and green were featured in the decorations. Spring flowers, colorful streamers, and wedding bells were used in artistic profusion. A miniature bride and groom, correct as to detail, centered the living room table.

A clever original poem announcing the bridal dates was read by Mrs. Nels Walberg, Mrs. Carson, Mrs. George Flescher, Mrs. T. L. Law of Okmulgee, Okla., was a visitor.

Fred Curry, and a cunning little groom, Master Dick Polyack, nephew of Miss Violet (Babe) Polyak of Skellytown, advanced with a prettily decorated wagon of gifts for the honorees.

Following the presentation of the gifts, the guests were favored by two vocal selections, "I Love You" and "Congratulations," by Miss Ruby Florence Sciaef, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Sciaef of Skellytown and pupil of Miss Frances Fields.

A lively game of progressive "Hearts" was next enjoyed. Mrs. James H. Fields of Memphis, Tenn., received the high prize, while Mrs. J. B. Priddy of Portales, N. M., was consoled for low score.

The NEW Goodyear Heavy Duty Balloon

A really STUNNING TIRE

you ought to see

It isn't enough to call the new Goodyear Heavy Duty Balloon an extra-mileage tire—it's an extra-style tire as well.

Once your car is shod with them, it takes on a new and smarter look; it stands proudly on a more solid and distinctive foundation.

In the first place this new Heavy Duty Balloon is bigger, handsomer, more massive; and around its sleek black side-walls runs a single identifying stripe of silver.

Then the outer rows of All-Weather blocks on both sides of the deep-cut extra-thick tread are prised down into the side-wall, a touch as arresting as anything in modern sculpture.

The essential merit of this tire of course is in its capacity for extra mileage—it is made stronger and tougher in every part to withstand hard, fast, rocky-road driving.

Before you buy your next tire be sure you see this stunning Goodyear Heavy Duty — you owe it to yourself not to overlook its remarkable advantages.

Goodyear can give you greater tire values because Goodyear builds more than of all the tires sold in America, the remainder being divided among some forty manufacturers. "More people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind."

WRIGHT HITS GREAT WITH NEW MATES

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR. Associated Press Sports Writer
Among the trades which made a good many baseball fans think that the Brooklyn Robins were getting the worst of the bargain were those which brought Glenn Wright and Adolfo Luque to Brooklyn. Wright came in exchange for a good pitcher, Jess Petty, and was useless last year because of a bad arm. Luque, a veteran of 14 years with Cincinnati, arrived in exchange for some much younger baseball material.

These two went a long way toward justifying Wilbert Robinson's confidence in them yesterday as they formed an alliance which put the Robins in third place in the National league. Between them they defeated Cincinnati 7 to 4.

Luque pitched his first complete game of the year and won his second victory in four contests. He has yet to be defeated. In the third inning, Wright tied the score with a home run with one on base. And in the course of the rest of the game he added two triples, and a single and scored one more run.

With the aid of a lot of rain and cold weather, the Brooklyn victory straightened out the National league standing a trifle, all but two of the games in the National league and all in American league were postponed. As Brooklyn went into third place, Cincinnati dropped into a tie for fifth while the St. Louis Cardinals, victorious for the eighth successive time, came up to take fourth.

The Cardinals moved into the first division by beating the league leading New York Giants 7 to 3 as Al Grabowski and Herman Bell gave just four hits. Bell earned the major share of the laurels and received credit for the victory when he took up the pitching job in the fifth inning and allowed just one more hit in five frames. Grabowski had yielded the three runs in the third when he walked the bases full and allowed Bill Terry to hit a double.

'Rooster' Does Not Crow

Clingman in New Pose

LANKY OHIOAN IS HERE FOR HARD MATCH

As modest as a rooster is not, Rooster Rawls arrived in Pampa this morning for his match with Otis Clingman at the Pia-Mor tonight. Mr. Rawls explained that the derivation of his name did not have anything to do with crowing about what he did to this wrestler and that one. Sports writers, says he, gave him that name because it aptly describes the way he wrestles.

Mr. Rooster did not make any newspaper clippings with him. He didn't have any threats to make which indicates that he's a different kind of wrestler. Judging by the looks of him, Baby Face Clingman is going to have quite a party tonight. "I'll let 'em talk after I leave," Rawls grunted.

Le Monsieur Rooster is reminiscent of one Joseph Pilsudki Kopecky, who is thoroughly despised in these parts. Like Joseph, the Williamson county cotton picker, Rooster is long and lanky. Back in Ohio where he comes from, sport writers say he is master of a thousand holds. He has been known to apply more than a dozen different kinds of toe-holds on his opponents.

Rooster may have started the gossip but it's said that Rooster is the only lump-ear that Jack Reynolds, the welter-weight champion, really fears. The rumor is to the effect that Reynolds won't sleep in the same town with Rooster.

Rob Roy will be Dan Golphino's necking partner in the 30-minute match at the Pia-Mor tonight. It was first announced that Young Sampson of Berger would meet Jack Mitchell of Shreveport but the latter broke his arm in a match at Dallas last week. Both Golphino and

Carnera Faces Long Suspension

CHICAGO, May 15. (AP)—Primo Carnera, giant Italian heavyweight, who has traveled to and fro over the United States scoring 16 knockouts or technical knockouts in as many bouts, today faced indefinite suspension by the National Boxing association.

Major General John V. Clinlin, chairman of the Illinois State Athletic commission, and chairman of a committee appointed by Stanley M. Isaacs, of Cincinnati, president of the N. B. A., to investigate the 16 knockouts, last night recommended that Carnera and his quartet of managers be indefinitely suspended by the association. Concurring in the recommendation were Walter Ligner, of Milwaukee, secretary of the Wisconsin Boxing commission, and Thomas Donohue, of Hartford, Conn., former president of the N. B. A. the other members of the investigating committee.

In his report to President Isaacs, Clinlin stated the members of the committee believed a definite "build-up" policy to establish Carnera as one of the outstanding heavyweights of the world had been followed.

Gallant Fox Is Sulking in Mud

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 15. (AP)—The probable Kentucky derby field narrowed down to sixteen thoroughbreds today, with three listed as doubtful starters, as owners and trainers definitely withdrew their eligibles, for various reasons, from Saturday's feature race at Churchill Downs.

Gallant Fox still ruled the favorite today to capture the $50,000 added stake, despite a poor workout yesterday in which he showed a dislike for the mud, because of his victory in the Preakness at Pimlico last week.

GUM

The thief that steals your power

is free from harmful gum

GUM in gasolene forms a sticky, gummy, clinging deposit on your valves. When you step on the gas for more power they have to fight to get free. You lose valuable compression—your power is dissipated in a laboring engine.

Insist on Koolmotor—the gas from which harmful gum has been removed. Cities Service experts, realizing the danger of excessive gum in gasolene, devised the mini-gum process which, through extra refining and unusual care, reduces the gum content in Koolmotor gasolene to a harmless minimum.

Keep your valves clean and free moving by keeping your tank filled with powerful, clean burning Koolmotor Gasolene—the gas from which harmful gum has been removed. It's both high test and anti-knock!

World Markets Are Described by Rotary Speaker

Declaring that no country can be sufficient unto itself and that conditions in one country will always affect conditions in all other countries, W. H. Patrick of Clarendon, a director of the Federal Reserve system, showed the importance of international peace and understanding, in a talk before the Rotary club at its meeting yesterday.

He showed that the recent stock market crash was the result of a tense financial strain caused by the commercial relations of the United States with foreign countries. There was an inflation in the production of raw materials which was unknown to most of United States business men.

"The ordinary consumer is unaware of price fluctuations in raw materials, because the labor and production costs which enter into wholesale markets affect it, whereas the retail price is not affected. The condition of the world market determines the price of the wholesale article," he said.

More Trouble For Marines in Prospect Soon

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, May 15. (AP)—United States marines and the marine-officered National Guard have recommended intensive activity in Northern Nicaragua against groups described in an official statement as bandits. In six encounters between May 5 and May 12 sixteen bandits were killed.

Many Persons Are Marooned in River Bottoms

At Waco, American Legion members and Waco police stood ready to assist East Wacoans in moving from their homes should the Brazos river flood that section of the city.

The Husband Hunter

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Natalie Converse tries to conquer the jealousy which consumes her when other women admire her handsome husband, Alan. When he receives a phone call to the home of Bernadine Lambert, a popular night club hostess who has outraged the saug respectability of Westchester aristocrats by purchasing a home among them, Natalie demands that Alan refuse to go and that he give up the brokerage business of "that Lamont woman."

Alan tells her that Bernadine is the widow of a war buddy who had saved his life, and that she is doing the only work she was able to secure in order to support herself and her fatherless boy, Bobby. After a bitter quarrel in which he taunts her for refusing to hear him children, Alan leaves and Natalie spends a miserable evening trying to fight down her suspicions—never dreaming that Alan was listening to a grave-faced doctor who had just told him that Bernadine's recovery is in doubt. She answers the question in his eyes by telling him that she has no relative or dear friend to leave Bobby with, and asks if Alan will take him in the event of her death.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY. CHAPTER III

Natalie! She, who wouldn't have children of her own. To have another's child forced upon her! Alan plainly foresaw a lot of trouble. But he hadn't had to dwell upon the unhappy prospect.

Something vaguely resembling an animated snowman of small stature tumbled into the room all of a sudden and threw itself upon the figure on the daybed.

"Mummy, why wouldn't Nellie let me come in here before?" it cried in a very real child's voice. "What are you staying in here for, anyway, Mummy? Aren't you going downtown?"

The young voice was high with distrust of the situation, the strangeness of it. Why wasn't his Mummy in her room, putting on her pretty dresses and the shiny things that sparkled so brightly in the light? Why was she so quiet in here?

The questions did not really formulate themselves into words in the boy's mind, but they were there, nevertheless, to perplex his young intelligence.

"But, Bobby dear, you were put to bed," his mother reproached him. "Yes, but I waked up," Bobby explained, with evident pride in what he appeared to consider quite an achievement. "You didn't say a very nice good night to me, Mummy," he complained suddenly. "You were too busy with Dr. Wagnall. I knowed you were here. I heard Nellie say so, and I wanted to say good night to you again, so here I is."

With his warm little face pressed close to hers, and his chubby little hands clinging tightly clasped at the back of her neck, Bernadine could not summon the sternness necessary to discipline him.

"Mother's tired, darling," she said tenderly. "That's why Nellie wouldn't allow you to come in."

Bobby drew off and observed her with an air of doubt.

"I don't want to sturb you, Mummy," he said. "Nellie said I mustn't. But it's got a special prayer for you to hear tonight."

"Oh, have you, darling? That's lovely, but you must first say how do you do to Mr. Converse. He is a very dear friend of mine."

Bernadine looked beyond the boy's cherub face at Alan. Bobby turned to follow her glance.

Alan had an impression of being put on mental scales and weighed carefully. He felt the scrutiny of owl-eyed candor, and he took it seriously.

Underneath the four-year exterior that was perfectly angelic, Alan saw an earnest little soul who would want to take the world apart, and see what made it go. He told himself that it was a bit silly to feel as he did—that he was glad he hadn't much on his conscience. But in view of the fact that he might some day be the boy's foster father, he thought it was excusable.

"How do you do, Bobby?" he said, with the dignity that is so often denied children.

Bobby was won. He came over and shook hands as much like a man as he could. The faithful Nellie, afraid of the day when she or someone else would have to tell him that his Mummy had gone away on a long trip, already was beginning to prepare him with a feeling of self-independence.

She had told him that he must be a little man and act bravely about anything that happened to him. Her training was taking effect. Bobby often remembered to curb his own childish impulses.

Having told Alan he was glad to meet him, he turned back to his mother, filled with thought of his social prayer that she must hear. She guessed what was on his mind. "What is it, Bobby?" she asked. "Something Mr. Converse can hear?"

Bobby considered Alan thoughtfully for a moment. He appeared puzzled. Then, very seriously, he asked: "Mummy, does Dad ever hear prayers when a feller's just practicin' sayin' 'em?"

Bernadine smiled with her eyes. "Why, dear?" she countered gravely.

Again Bobby looked solemnly at Alan, but now his eyes were beginning to shine with the eagerness of his spirit.

"Because," he burst out rapturously, "I think Dad's answered me 'fore I dot all ready to ask Him to."

He paused expectantly, but Bernadine waited for him to explain in his own way.

"I was going to pray Him to send me a daddy," he went on excitedly, "so I could grow up to be just like him."

Here he stood up and thrust out his chest as though he wanted to let everybody see what a man he'd be if only he had a daddy to emulate.

Alan choked on the laughter that forced itself into his throat, and left the answer to Bernadine. She lay very still and white-faced, until Bobby broke the silence with a pre-emptory "Well?"

"Do you," she said slowly, "think you would like Mr. Converse for a daddy, Bobby?"

Bobby surveyed Alan intently. Then: "I think it would be very good friends," he said gravely.

Alan felt a warm glow around his heart. "Thanks, old man," he said. "I think so, too."

Suddenly Bernadine reached out her arms to him: "You may be sure your prayer was heard, dear," she said softly, smuggling his firm body close. "But God may take a little time to answer it while He considers the best daddy for you. Now run along, darling, and ask Him to let you grow up to be like your own daddy, who loved you very much."

She kissed him and held him away from her. He was surprised by her manner. It wasn't like her to be so unsmiling.

Alan stood up and bent over him when he came and offered his hand. "Good night, Bobby," he said gently. "May I come to see you again?"

Bobby's face brightened instantly. "Do you know any games?" he cried delightedly.

"I'll learn some," Alan promised; "and I'll be back soon."

Alan in the near future. His mother's friends weren't much interested in small boys, he'd learned with infinite disappointment. Surely this must be a daddy.

"Maybe he'll play horsey!" he exclaimed breathlessly to Nellie when she tucked him in.

Before he fell asleep he took a chance on Alan's potentialities as a regular daddy and thanked God "in advance." After that, he told himself, it would be harder for God to back out if He'd been intending to send him a father.

His mother, too, slept with a rare peace of mind. Her trust in Alan was absolute. She was ready now for the long trek. Alan alone was worried, deeply worried. He knew he could never retract the promise he had made that night to look after Bobby. The memory of the relief that had shown itself in the way Bernadine thanked him when Bobby left them would remain with him always.

On the way home he had decided to tell Natalie about it right away and get the issue settled. But Natalie wasn't in the house. Alan rapped at her door, waited, turned the handle and entered her room.

He felt his courage oozing even then. And later it deserted him altogether. He heard her come in, heard her stirring about in her bed room long after he had gone to bed.

He sat up and reached for the silk dressing gown that had been grownup man was coming to visit turned out his reading lamp with a decisiveness that belied the unsettled state of his mind.

He knew he would lose patience with her if she spoke unkindly of Bernadine while the latter's tragic condition was still vividly fresh in his mind. He decided to wait. But he hated uncertainty.

At breakfast he was grumpy and refused a second cup of coffee, although Natalie was down to pour it for him. Her appearance should have induced a better mood in him.

She was a lovely woman. Alan had been wont to think of the word vision in connection with her. Her hair was the color of honeycomb, and her eyes seemed to be the hue of the dress she wore. If it were blue, brown, green, yellow or gray.

People who knew her were always speculating about the color of her eyes. Seen in brown, she was called hazel-eyed. Those who saw her in black swore that her orbs were gray. But all agreed that they were rarely beautiful.

Alan, glancing at her now, thought of a tiger's eyes, sensing, perhaps the feline remark that was on the tip of her tongue.

THIS BUSINESS OF GRADUATING Being graduated by an educational institution is an unusual occurrence. Thousands of young people in every state fail to complete their high school work.

This tendency, however, is lessening as higher education becomes more popular and the business world demands preparation in its recruits. It is not the distinction to finish high school or college that it once was.

Many of the jobs today require technical knowledge or at least special training such as colleges offer. Apprenticeship consists of learning the way one's firm is managed and how it serves its clientele rather than in mastering the technique of individual tasks.

Much time spent in college is wasted, but colleges offer opportunities to prepare for definite goals. Lack of preparation leaves a young man or woman adrift, to catch upon the first job offered, which may not suit their wishes and talents.

It follows, of course, that the seventh grade graduates should press on into high school. That is why the Pampa American Legion sponsors a movement each year to encourage the boys of this grade to remain in school.

It is unfortunate that men of great means do not make available ample loan funds to students who wish to stay in school or go to college. The writer, as the beneficiary of a loan from a well known business man when he was in college, is ample able to testify to the worthiness of the cause.

Graduation time is here for the pupils of the land. It is a period of sweet sorrows, of strange contradictions, as well as thrills of triumphs. Classmates soon scatter, and memories gradually fade. We recall a couplet from a sonnet written by a Teachers college student a few years ago. Thinking of the diploma he was shortly to receive, he wrote:

"Anticipated pleasure waxes lame; I hate to have the thing for which I came." School discussions have dominated this column for several days. The writer has no apology. Education is the biggest business in which any state government engages.

Yes, this is a rainy country, and water plus dirt makes mud. But having been here before brick, we can overlook the present mud and rejoice with the wheat farmers.

My idea of a thoughtless man is one who would attempt to set a cross country record at this time of the year. Mother Nature just will twist and blow at this season, and birds and aviators must take the consequences.

This is the time of year when old grades go back to mama mater and orate on the degeneracy and perversity of the present crop of students. And of course the old-time faculty members, out of hearing of present-day students, solemnly agree that things have gone haywire since the classes of 19... were graduated.

Some time ago we printed daily the claim that Pampa was a city of 12,000. The census facts will bear us out, counting the suburbs. The city inside the limits will approximate 10,500 we learn unofficially.

We should like to hear Moody and Ferguson tangle, but not in the gubernatorial race. Why can't they stage their verbal side-shows outside the big tent? Texas politics has too many rings in the political circus.

It is strange that some fellows who will never write to their closest friends fall for this chain letter craze.

MINERS NOT TO ENTER WEST TEXAS ATHLETICS

EL PASO, May 15. (AP)—The Texas College of Mines will not enter the proposed West Texas conference this year, Professor F. H. Seamon, chairman of the athletic council announced today. He said the decision was made at a meeting of the council.

Our school has too small an enrollment to meet the requirements of the conference, he said. We cannot afford to play without freshmen and to accede to the non-freshman rule would ruin our team.

"John always was kind to me." During the last three years has any change come over your husband?"

"Yes, John has stayed away from home a great deal and has become addicted to almost habitual drinking."

"Did you know Miss Lehlia Highsmith?"

"Yes, she came to my house in January, 1925."

"What was the occasion?"

"She to take dictation from Judge Brady."

"At that time did you know of any unlawful relations between Miss Highsmith and your husband?"

"No, sir, not at that time."

"Who procured a job for this girl as stenographer in the commission of appeals?"

Secured Girl's Job

"I did. I heard there was an opening—she said she was supporting her aged grandmother—I wanted to help her. I called on the judges of the court, and they said they would try to give her the place. Yes, I asked for the job for her—and she got it."

"When did you first learn your husband was living with this girl?"

"One day John telephoned me and told me he was at an apartment house at 210 Tenth. He asked me to come there. Upstairs he told me to sit down and that he wanted to make a clean breast—"

Here the witness faltered.

"Oh, he told me all about it—he said he had been living there in an apartment with Lehlia Highsmith. He said he wanted to make a clean breast of it all and come back home and live right."

"I could see that he was drunk, and I made him lie down. I went to the police station. I wanted to get an officer to take him in charge so he wouldn't get out on the street in his drunken condition. When I came back he was not there. I went to the police station, and they were booking him there on a drunk charge."

Girl Was Drinking

"They let me take him home. He was nervous and irrational. He insisted we drive over and get Lehlia. He said he wanted her to apologize to me like he had. There was nothing to do but humor him so we drove by some place where he knew he could find her. She hesitated about coming, but when I insisted she accompanied us back to our home. She was drinking, nearly drunk."

"After a while she came in the room where I was and said she wanted to talk to me. She admitted she had been living with Judge Brady, but she said she wanted to break away—said she knew it wasn't right. She asked me what I was going to do now that I had found out about their illicit relations. I told her I was going to file suit for divorce."

"Lehlia begged me not to do that. She made me a promise to stay away from him. I asked her if Judge Brady was responsible for her downfall. She said he was not and admitted to me that she had engaged in affairs with other men. She promised—but, oh, she didn't keep it."

Killed by Train

MIDLAND, May 15. (AP)—"Dock" Wesson, about 50, was killed this morning when he drove his truck on to railroad tracks in front of a train.

Policeman and Firemen to Testify Concerning Riot

SHERMAN, May 15. (AP)—Firemen and policemen who battled in vain last Friday night to stay the onrush of a maddened mob which set fire to several blocks of property in the negro section, after burning the Grayson county courthouse and with it a negro accused of assaulting a white woman, today were summoned to appear as witnesses before a military court of inquiry.

Colonel L. S. Davidson, presiding officer of the court under martial law, said last night he expected the court to obtain information which would warrant the return of at least 15 indictments against participants in the riots.

Both federal and county grand juries convene here Monday, and he said the military court planned to have considerable evidence available by that time.

Randolph Bryant of Sherman, United States district attorney, said he would ask the federal grand jury to investigate every occurrence in which federal authorities had "any semblance of jurisdiction."

Colonel L. E. McGee, ruler of the city under martial law, called for volunteers to furnish the license numbers or the names of occupants of two automobiles on the streets here Friday night.

One of the cars sought was used to drag the body of George Hughes, accused negro attacker suffocated in the burning courthouse, through the streets. The chain used for that purpose was obtained from the other car, he said.

A few citizens and city and county officers held an executive conference with military authorities and decided to sponsor an invitation meeting today of representative citizens, to discuss plans for meeting any emergency which might arise after the troops depart.

Private School Has Program Tuesday at Close of School Year

Closing exercises for Mrs. A. M. Stewart's private primary school were held Tuesday afternoon in the kindergarten rooms of the First Baptist church, where the school was conducted this year.

Seventeen pupils of Mrs. Stewart and her assistant, Miss Ruth Henry, took part in the program marking their promotion to the second grade. Miss Inez Barrett was in charge of the music.

Contests in reading, spelling, writing, and number work demonstrated the work of the school in these lines. Group songs also were given. Readings by Edith Hazard, Alice Marie McConnell, Jo Jeanne Stewart and Bonnie Lee Rose were enjoyed.

The class included the following pupils: Jack McCallister, Jerry Cleve Stroup, Cecil Love, Billie Priest, Doyle Pollack, Raburn Miller, Kenneth Stapp, Donald Childers, Raymond Hollingshead, Edith Hazard, Jacqueline Davison, Jesse Walker, Jr., Margaret Sullins, Stanley Forker, Alice Marie McConnell, Bonnie Lee Rose, and Jo Jeanne Stewart.

The mothers attending the program and the social hour which followed were: Mrs. Floyd McConnell, Mrs. W. B. Rose, Mrs. J. G. Stroup, Mrs. Frank Stapp, Mrs. Hollingshead, Mrs. A. J. McCallister, Mrs. E. C. Hazard, Mrs. B. C. Priest, Mrs. L. R. Forker, Mrs. Fern Love, Mrs. L. H. Sullins, Mrs. Wade Davison, and Mrs. J. L. Walker.

What Is Stronger

CHICAGO, May 15. (AP)—Notice falling off in wheat shipments from Argentina led to early upturns today in wheat values here.

Opening at one-fourth of three-eighths up wheat later showed gains all around. Corn and oats were likewise stronger, with corn starting unchanged to three-eighths higher, and subsequently continuing to mount. Provisions kept about steady.

R. N. Myers of Oklahoma City was a visitor in Pampa Wednesday.

TO THE CLASS OF 1930
 The Class of 1930, with its 55 graduates, is a credit to the City of Pampa and to Central high school. The young folk pictured on Page 1 and on this page represent the finest of many states and sections.
 It has been a pleasure for The News to report their triumphs from time to time, and now, at the end of their high school careers and the beginning of greater achievements, to congratulate them upon having gained one of their important goals.
 Personally, and on behalf of the entire staff of The Pampa Daily News, I extend sincerest good wishes to members of the Class of 1930 and to the faculty of Central high school.
