Energy woes drain strength of America

Energy problems are "sapping away the strength of our nation," and Americans have been unwilling or too timid to deal with the problem, says President Jimmy Carter.

Carter's remarks came as some California drivers lined up for 12 blocks to buy gasoline at 99.9 cents a gallon, and New York Gov. Hugh Carey asked motorists to reduce their driving this month by 100 miles and ordered state agencies to cut their mileage by 5 percent.

Meanwhile, there are indications the government is partially to blame for the gasoline crunch in California, a federal official says. And there were signs of new pressure for a world oil price increase.

These and other energy worries add up to what Carter on Tuesday termed "one of the most serious threats to our nation in peacetime that I have seen."

Carter was to meet today with California Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. who Tuesday signed a law to keep gas stations open on weekends in an effort to make an even-odd rationing plan for the nation's most populous state workable.

Brown said state police would enforce his order, but added it would be hard to tell if a station was closed or simply out of gas. And he said it would be "totally inappropriate" for dealers to close their stations in a four-day protest.

"They misread the temper of the people if they think they can close down with impunity," Brown said.

Computer system axed

Gray County commissioners dropped a motion to advertise for bids for a computer voting system this morning, ending consideration of purchasing a $90,000 system which would have replaced the present paper balloting method.

Computer Elections Systems, a Beverly Hills based firm, is currently the only marketer of the system in Texas.

Commissioners had been considering purchase of a computer punch card system for about two months. Lefors Commissioner L. Presley said he did not think Gray County's population merited a switch away from paper balloting. Commissioners had balked at the proposed $90,000 cost of the system.

In other business, the court voted to accept the request of Bill Tidwell and Tom Coffee, of the Rodeo Association, for help in improvements to the County Show Barn. Commissioners voted up to $3,600 toward the finishing of a concrete floor.

Tidwell said the new floor would double the capacity of the show barn.

The project is the first step in proposed long range improvements to the barn. Those improvements would make the structure of more use year round. The show barn is presently being used only one or two weeks a year.

The Rodeo Association proposed spending $2,000 a year for the next eight years, if matched by county funds, for long range improvements at the barn. The changes include air conditioning, heating and renovation of restrooms.

Gray County Judge Carl Kennedy said rent money obtained from the planned increased use of the barn might offset county expenditures.

Although no action was taken, commissioners continued to discuss procedures for the handling of indigent care at McLean and Highland hospitals as well as other increased welfare requests now being received by the county judge.

Commissioners are considering the hiring of an individual to screen requests for welfare aid. The court abolished the Gray County Welfare office in June of 1978.

Kennedy has reported an increase in requests for welfare aid since the leasing of the two county hospitals.

The county judge said his secretary had been screening many of the requests herself.

Father defending Anne Frank diary

LONDON (AP) — Otto Frank at the age of 90 says he is still going to court to fight persons who claim his daughter's diary was a fake.

"At this moment there are four trials going on in West Germany, two in Hamburg and two in Frankfurt, over accusations that 'The Diary of Anne Frank' is a fake," the old man told a reporter.

"I fought this charge in 1961 and won but still the accusations are made and I must fight and fight again."

Written when she was in her early teens, Anne Frank's account of eight Jews in hiding together from the Nazis in occupied Holland became an international best-seller after the war, and a successful play and movie were made from it.

Anne and her sister died in the Bergen-Belsen concentration camp in March 1945, three months before Anne's 16th birthday. Their father, the only member of the family to survive the war, came to London from his home in Switzerland to publicize a memorial program at the Theater Royal on June 12, the 50th anniversary of Anne's birth.

"Nazi sympathizers distribute pamphlets and other things saying Anne's diary is a hoax," said Frank. "I have lawyers engaged in these cases, but I have had to go to Hamburg with masses of documents."

He recalled one trial he said was adjourned after the defense counsel said his client was 70 years old and "too tired" to appear. "Then a young man came into the courtroom and actually handed out some of the pamphlets," said Frank.

In another trial, a court in Luebeck ordered experts to check the handwriting of the original manuscript and to compare the manuscript with the published diary.

"The report of the handwriting expert was 36 pages long," said Frank. "The expert checked every letter and said they were all written by Anne, but even that has not been enough to stop the accusations."

Frank was freed from the Auschwitz camp in Poland by the Soviet Army. Anne's diary was found by a cleaning woman after the Nazis raided the hiding place in Amsterdam, at 263 Prinsengracht, and was given to two girls who had helped the hidden group.

The memorial program on June 12 will include musical numbers and readings from the diary. The money raised will go to the Anne Frank Foundation, an educational trust housed in the Amsterdam hiding place, which has become a place of pilgrimage for young people from all over the world.

"Anne's diary made a terrific impact on me," said the producer of the program, Jan Harris, "and when I found nothing was happening for her 50th birthday, I began phoning around to get this going and everyone I called agreed to do it before I had finished explaining."

He and other theater people arranging the program applauded as Frank with one puff blew out 50 blue candles on a cake.

McLean bond passes

MCLEAN — A revenue bond of $1,028,000 to replace the city's gas lines was approved here Tuesday in a 204-21 vote.

The city will now secure a loan from the Farmer's Home Administration to replace the leaky lines, which were installed in 1926. The loan will be repaid over a 40-year period by annual installments of $60,000.

Repayment of the loan will be made with revenues of the city utility system and will not entail a tax raise, according to Mayor Sam Haynes.

The city has been losing an average of 20 percent of all gas purchased because of leaks in the system, according to city officials.

Baseball rally planned

A short pep rally for the Pampa Harvester baseball team will be held at 4:15 p.m. Thursday in Optimist Park.

Mayor Ray Thompson and Luther Robinson, Chamber of Commerce president, will join parents, boosters and fans in supporting the team in their playoff effort. The Harvesters will face off against the Lubbock Monterey Plainsmen for the second time Friday.

Chemicals found

Pampa police, responding Tuesday to the reported-burglary of a vacant residence at 1705 Coffee, discovered a large cache of legal but potentially dangerous chemicals in the garage.

The chemicals, which included arsenic, had been left in the garage by the owner of the house, who now lives in Amarillo. One of the chemicals was picric acid, a potentially explosive substance. Only a week ago, police had to remove a container of the acid from Pampa High School and dispose of it.

Four officers worked for 2½ hours to inventory the chemicals. The picric acid is being stored in a freezer in city hall, while the other chemicals are being held at a local chemical company. Police Chief Richard Mills, who has contacted the owner of the property, said some of the chemicals will be donated to the high school and the rest will be destroyed.

27 representatives absent for vote

Initiative, referendum bill falls short

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — With over two dozen members absent, the House has fallen short of approving a proposal to give voters the right to propose, pass and repeal laws by plebiscite.

An 89-33 vote Tuesday night kept the initiative and referendum proposal alive, but was shy of the 100 votes required for constitutional amendments.

The roll call indicated 27 House members were not present for the vote on one of the top issues of the legislative session that ends at midnight May 28.

Even if the House eventually approves the measure, its chances in the Senate — at least in its present form — are seen as poor.

Rep. Carlisle Smith, D-Grand Prairie, the sponsor, said the measure probably goes too far for Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, who opposes initiative and referendum and holds the key to its approval or disapproval by the Senate.

"I can't tell you the lieutenant governor can accept anything that will mean anything," Smith said.

But Smith added that he believed Hobby "could position himself" to accept the House measure.

Gov. Bill Clements says he would call the Legislature back in special session if they fail to submit an initiative and referendum proposal to the voters.

The measure that gained a House majority would enable voters to initiate new laws or constitutional amendments and recommend repeal of existing laws by referendum.

Groups wishing to propose a law would have 270 days to collect signatures of 15 percent of the voters — including 15 percent in each of at least 50 counties. If their petition drive succeeded, the proposition would go on the next general election ballot. If a majority of those voting approved the proposition, it would go to the Legislature.

The Legislature would have to act.

If legislators defeated a bill initiated by the voters, the measure again would go before the voters, who could pass it into law despite the Legislature's opposition.

If the Legislature changed the proposal before passing it, the voters would choose between the original and the revised version of the bill, and their choice would become law.

Rep. Luther Jones, D-El Paso, attempted to substitute direct initiative and referendum proposal that would by-pass the Legislature.

He said Smith's measure would require something like 300,000 signatures to put an initiative on the ballot and would take 2½ years to complete the entire process.

"They (the voters) are going to feel we played a dirty trick on them, a dirty joke, and they are going to be pretty mad," Jones said.

His proposal failed, 67-65, when the House adopted Smith's.

The House proposal includes a provision requiring a future Legislature to enact laws guaranteeing that opposing viewpoints on initiative measures have equal access to the news media, exclusive of paid advertising.

OPINION PAGE

Cost no concern to bureaucrats

Fly ash has been bothering the clean air purists for some time. They, with their willing partners in the Environmental Protection Agency, have been responsible for a good part of the rising costs of electricity to consumers. Consumers seldom place any of the blame for increased costs on the backs of the unholy alliance of the purists and the zealots in EPA. For the utility company is the one who does the collecting, it is the nearest and most visible target. To pinpoint the exact cause of their plight, electricity consumers would need to do a bit of research which might spoil first judgments and statements already made. Most of us hate to take the time to dispel faulty concepts and we avoid the necessity to retract expressed ideas, even to ourselves.

Generating plants burning coal have been forced to filter and contain the emission of fly ash. This is an extremely costly procedure which adds to everyone's utility bill. We have never been certain that the benefits come close to being worth the increased costs.

As a point of consideration for perspective we remind ourselves that only three of the volcanos in the world have put more toxic and noxious gases along with fly ash, into the atmosphere than everything man has done since the discovery of fire. Also we note that the oxygen in the air we breathe has not varied one-tenth of one per cent in the past 75 years.

We also have cause to wonder as to what part, if any, fly ash of whatever origin plays in helpful precipitation of moisture. Perhaps someday we may find that man-made fly ash may be assisting the volcanic ash in providing means for more snow and rainfall. We have great doubt that the relative small amounts created by generating plants is causing any great health danger.

But now that the industry has been saddled with spending millions for scrubbers and other devices to keep the fly ash out of the air, have the "purists" slowed their harassment? Not hardly; some electric producers have found a ready market for the contained fly ash. They have had the audacity to sell it for construction purposes, but the EPA again rose to the occasion.

Two of the largest utility companies in Colorado have sold, or have considered contracts to sell, the fly ash for use in making construction materials.

And now, the EPA has declared all such fly ash is to be designated as hazardous material. If this stands one of the utilities will be faced with a capital cost of $250,000 and an annual operating cost of $185,000 in order to provide the "proper" place to hold the ash. So, instead of a gain in selling the material, a large loss will take place.

Not by the greatest stretch of the imagination can this material be shown to be dangerous if used in cement work or in the making of bricks for construction.

Trace elements which might (but probably don't) offer any slight danger, compose only three one-hundredths of one percent of the total fly ash composition. There is simply no way that these elements could concentrate to a greater level if put to the constructive use to which the material is now destined.

Cost is no object when the bureaucracy is out to regulate everything. Hitting an industry below the belt when it is already reeling from governmental controls is fair game for EPA and its supporting activists.

EPA runs amuck

Wall Street Journal

While the President has been earning about all those extra profits that price decontrol will bring the oil companies, the Environmental Protection Agency has dreamed up a new series of regulations that would soak up the profits of the entire industry and then some. Declaring drilling muds, oil production brines, and crude oil residue to be "hazardous waste," EPA has proposed regulations that the American Petroleum Institute says will cost $45 billion annually.

That amount is two to three times the industry's after-tax profits. It's about twice as great as the industry's 1979 budget for drilling exploration and production of gas and oil. It is $6 billion more than our OPEC bill for 1978. Even if ways are found to reduce the API's estimated costs, the EPA clearly will soak up any "windfall profits," eliminating the need for the tax so eagerly being debated in Congress.

For $45 billion EPA will be buying: (1) analysis of mud composition at drilling sites, (2) two-meter fences, gates, signs and security personnel posted around disposal facilities, (3) quarterly reports on groundwater and leachate, requiring four monitoring wells around each drilling pit area, (4) daily inspection of each disposal facility, (5) monitoring and maintenance of security of drilling pit muds for 20 years after a production site is closed, (6) and so forth.

The regulations also prohibit drilling and production operations in wetland (most of the Gulf Coast), active fault zones (California), and "500 year floodplains." In other words, areas known to contain large oil reserves are off-limits under the regulations.

All of this is necessary, EPA says, because it lacks information on waste characteristics of muds and brines, on the degree of environmental hazard posed by disposal and on waste disposal practices and alternatives. The plain fact that we have lived with these wastes for years is apparently irrelevant.

Maybe EPA really can't tell an oil rig from a nuclear reactor. But there are enough economists around who can explain to them the difference between an incentive and a disincentive. Regulation is like a tax, and, thanks to government, neither the oil industry nor the economy is robust enough to absorb $45 billion annually in new taxes. If these regs stick, one dollar a gallon gasoline will rapidly become "the good old days."

Today the economy is struggling to adjust to the higher real price of energy; the EPA regulations would have the same kind of shock-wave effect on energy costs as an OPEC price increase. Surely EPA's proposal is an expensive frivolity. There's already enough being done to drive up energy costs and discourage domestic exploration and production without EPA adding its $45 billion worth.

Perhaps Congress and the President will note that the EPA regs are about to run amuck and preempt the windfall profits tax, thereby depriving them of new revenues. At a time of budget stringency when favorite spending constituencies can't be properly serviced, politicians may put their foot down. Maybe EPA's extravagance will provoke Congress to legislate a regulatory budget limiting the costs agencies can impose on the economy. If so, the new regs proposed by EPA will have served a good purpose.

Editors note: This letter we received is a parent's plea to other parents and a poem written by a student. We thought you might be interested.

How many kids were out of school Friday, April 13, 1979, instead of May 31, 1979?

These are "problem" kids. They've done nothing all year. They haven't tried. The teachers don't want to fool with them. They're trouble-makers. They're too loud, irresponsible. They write notes and love letters in class. They don't pay attention. They don't listen. They push and shove.

They talk too loud and yell a lot. So you want to fool with them? Nobody wants to fool with troublemakers. Do you?

Well, somebody had better start, now! That somebody is you. Mamas and Daddies.

The problem kid had no problem until you gave him yours. That's when the trouble began. You give a kid a problem and he'll find a way to solve it! Nobody but you can solve your problems. Not a kid. So wake up and take notice, mamas and daddys. Now.

Is your child a problem kid? Is he a trouble-maker? You don't think so, eh? Well, neither did the mamas and daddys of all those young people who hang out on Hobart and who drive through Pampa on Friday and Saturday nights. That's the last 10 years of problem kids. Yesterday's problem kids are in the newspapers; robbers, murderers, wife-beaters, rapists, speeders, drunks and dopers and homosexuals.

Where is tomorrow's problem kid? You're getting informed, through the mail that he's failed two months before school is out. The teachers, citizens and mamas and daddys are too wrapped up in their own lives to fool with them. Well, it is time to solve your problems yourselves. Mamas and Daddies. Sit down and listen to and talk with your child. Today and every day! If you do, you'll find out that he's needing you. It's a parent's place to tell a kid to do his homework, don't write notes in class, pay attention, listen, don't push and shove, don't talk that loud, don't yell, don't lean back in chairs and don't slam the door. Don't throw papers and cans on the ground. Put trash in a trash can. These little every day decent common-sense things which we mamas, daddies, citizens and teachers all know were taught to us by our parents.

Nobody is teaching these kids common decency and manners. Nobody wants to fool with them. Nobody has time; mama or daddy has a date or has to work. Teachers can't stand the little brats. Citizens shudder every time they see the trash and mess they leave behind them. They avoid them if they can. Well, we're wrong. We've been partying too long. These problem kids are sweet, good, kind and considerate. Most of them are near genius. They're so sensitive and they care! They worry so much about this, parents, that they can't eat, sleep or concentrate. They care about everyone.

When they get so big that they're not supposed to cry, their emotions burst out by yelling, pushing, shoving and being loud.

Somebody has got to stop and hug his kid and say, "I love you, sit down and shut up. Don't slam the door, be quiet, pick up that trash, hang those clothes up, say sir and ma'am to adults, don't lean back in chairs, be home by 10, do your homework." And that somebody is you — mamas and daddies and teachers and citizens. It's our job to teach young people common decency and manners. Especially the parents; not the schools or police departments.

Your problem — sin — is being visited on your child. If something is not done today, it may be too late!

Remember

Remember the days so full of love, with all the help from God above:

Remember the happiness we shared back then when our whole family cared:

I remember when we were sad because our parents were being bad:

But then we would see your smile, and all that sad didn't seem half as bad:

IN WASHINGTON

Demo rift on debt payment

by martha angle and robert walters

WASHINGTON (NEA) - The growing tension between the Kennedy family and president Carter has produced a potentially serious rift in the Democratic party's supposedly unified effort to pay off its 10-year-old debt.

The deficit, which totalled $8.3 billion in the months immediately following the 1968 presidential election, has been gradually repaid during the past decade and now amounts to slightly more than $1.4 billion.

Virtually all of the remaining amount is attributable to charges incurred by two Democratic contenders in the 1968 presidential campaign - $1 million of Hubert H. Humphrey's costs and $400,000 of Robert F. Kennedy's expenses.

Officials of the Democratic National Committee (DNC), currently controlled by President Carter's political operatives, last year mounted a major campaign to wipe out the deficit prior to the 1980 presidential election.

The key to that effort was a formal decision by the Federal Elections Commission (FEC) to grant the DNC a special exemption from the federal law governing campaign financing, allowing the solicitation of unlimited amounts of money from wealthy supporters.

"Fat cats" closely identified with both Humphrey and Carter, responded with somewhat less enthusiasm than party officials has hoped for, but their contributions nevertheless have been substantial. Donations and pledges now total about $750,000.

But DNC officials privately are bitter about what they view as an unwarranted rebuff of their request for assistance from Stephen Smith, who manages the Kennedy family's finances - political, philanthropic and personal - from the New York City offices of an organization called the Park Agency.

DNC Chairman John C. White "ran into a stone wall when he tried to contact Smith for help," says one Carter political ally who is a party leader.

"The Kennedys didn't produce a single contributor," says another DNC leader, "so we've earmarked all the money we've gotten so far to pay the Humphrey bills. We'll be damned if we'll use Humphrey money to retire Kennedy's debt."

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., Smith's brother-in-law, was invited to a private White House luncheon held last summer for "fat cats" believed to be likely supporters of the debt retirement campaign. But Kennedy's brief visit was derided by one Carter political operative as merely "a cameo appearance."

Although the luncheon hosted by the president was supposed to have been secret, unwanted publicity forced the Justice Department and FFI to conduct an investigation into allegations that the party violated a seldom enforced federal law.

Attorney General Griffin B. Bell's recent report on that questions about both the thoroughness of the investigation and the ethics of the president's aides.

Citing FEC records, the report identified only four lunch guests as donors, giving a total of $155,000. Four other guests, however, pledged to collectively contribute another $225,000 to the debt retirement fund.

Federal agents assigned to the investigation interviewed DNC officials who were fully aware of the additional pledges, yet Bell's report contains no mention of that money.

Among the luncheon guests who have not yet made donations was Armand Hammer, board chairman of the Occidental Petroleum Corp., who three years ago pleaded guilty to federal charges related to illegal political contributions.

Hammer illegally concealed a $54,000 donation to Richard M. Nixon's 1972 presidential campaign fund, lied to a Senate committee about the gift and tried to have his contribution listed as another man's gift.

But that undistinguished record didn't disqualify Hammer from being Carter's guest at the White House.

It began with Brown

By DON GRAFF

"Separate educational facilities are inherently unequal."

In delivering that judgment 25 years ago this May 17th, a unanimous United States Supreme Court did much more than end legal sanction for racial segregation in public schools. It initiated a chain-reaction restructuring of American society of which the end is not yet in sight and may never be seen.

To call the Brown vs. Board of Education decision a landmark is to understate the case by quite a bit. It could be argued that no other single act by any branch of government in modern times has had such a profound and continuing impact upon the nation.

Brown, while socially revolutionary, at the time appeared deceptively simple. It reversed the 1896 "separate-but-equal" Supreme Court decision justifying racially based school facilities on grounds that such principle deprived one section of the population - blacks - of 14th Amendment rights to the "equal protection of the laws."

The immediate effect was limited to 21 states and the District of Columbia where school segregation was institutionalized on either a compulsory or permissive basis. But that was only the beginning. Brown, perhaps as much as any other single event transformed the initially placid presidency of Dwight Eisenhower into a civil rights high noon and a time of testing for the national conscience. It led to federal troops at Little Rock, George Wallace blocking the door at the University of Alabama, decades in which race and rights were the dominant issues in national politics, and a quarter of a century of continuing litigation that has given rise to new issues of a far-greater complexity.

The initial testing of an resistance to Brown was in the South. But that battle, although sharply fought in many instances, was in retrospect brief. The South adjusted more rapidly to the fact of Brown and with less social dislocation than other sections of the country with significant racial divisions.

The frontline has long since shifted, primarily to the Northeast and Midwest where a means-busing-designed to achieve the end of desegregation has become in itself an even more explosive issue. There are those who will argue that busing, and therefore Brown, bears the major responsibility for the deterioration of urban public education. And as a result, by accelerating the flight of the professional and largely white middle class to the less-troubled schools of suburbia and exurbia, has contributed greatly to the decay of the central cities.

At the very least, the busing controversy has enflamed urban politics and added a new dimension to the racial problem. And as an example of the problems arising from the practical implementation of principle, it has given many once-firm supporters of integration cause of question their depth of commitment.

The youngest child of Brown is so-called "reverse discrimination" which has already reached the Supreme Court in another landmark case. Allan Bakke's celebrated and successful effort to gain admission to medical school by invalidating the quota system favoring minority applicants is only the beginning of what promises to be prolonged judicial testing of multitudinous affirmative action programs in education, business, industry and government, the origins of which can be traced to Brown.

In short, the impact of Brown goes on and on. It is, in the opinion of J. Harvie Wilkinson III, author of a current book on the subject, "From Brown to Bakke," much more than a legal and social landmark.

"Brown may be the important political, social and legal event in America's twentieth-century history," he writes. "Its greatness lay in the enormity of injustice it condemned, in the entrenched sentiment it challenged, in the immensity of law it both created and overthrew."

To say the least.

Senators to vote on Clements' veto

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements' expressed hope Tuesday that the Senate will uphold his veto of a local game bill overridden by a 90-42 House vote.

If the Senate supports the override attempt by a two-thirds vote, the bill would be the first passed into law over a gubernatorial veto since 1941.

The measure, sponsored by Rep. Bennie Bock, D-New Braunfels, would allow Comal County commissioners to set hunting and fishing regulations outside of the state uniform code.

Calling the Bock proposal "very poor management practice," Clements said, "It is a sad waste of time to spend more than an hour wrangling over a matter of this magnitude during the crucial final two weeks of the legislative session."

Clements supported statewide uniform wildlife regulations in his veto message Tuesday. "If the Legislature desires that there be no uniform regulation...then the Legislature should abolish all uniform regulations," he said.

Sen. W.E. Snelson, the Senate

sponsor of the vetoed measure, said he was still checking votes late Tuesday for a possible Senate override. He added that a vote probably would be requested Wednesday.

Snelson, D-Midland, said he thought Clements incorrectly assessed the bill, because several counties already are exempt under state law from general game regulations.

"It's no crusade with me, but I think after the House action the Senate should be able to consider it and decide accordingly," Snelson said. He added that override attempts on other vetoed bills might be initiated if the present attempt is successful.

"I don't know what the next bill up would be (for an override) — possibly the appropriations bill," he said.

Objecting to the veto Tuesday, Bock told the House, "The governor never told me about his philosophy at the beginning of the session. This is a little late in the game to be telling us what kind of legislation should be passed."

Bock added, "We've passed out four bills like this one in the past."

Warning representatives to "consider the precedent you are about to set," Rep. Doyle Willis, D-Fort Worth, said, "Every county should be under the authority of the state commission."

Rep. Gibson Lewis, D-Fort Worth, added, "If we get the governor in a situation where he will not sign bills until the end of the session, we may delay legislation that needs to be implemented immediately."

But Rep. Hugo Berlanga, D-Corpus Christi, said, "We should show the governor that we will not allow local bills to be shot down."

An initial override vote failed by a 90-46 margin. But when a House majority agreed to reconsider, several representatives either disappeared from the floor or changed sides. The second vote was passed with six tallies to spare.

Rep. Milton Fox, R-Houston, was the only Republican to vote in favor of overriding Clements' veto. "I just voted my convictions," he said.

Salvation Army changes with times

National Appreciation Week for the Salvation Army, which began Monday and will continue through Friday, marks over a century of a work which combines missionary zeal with social welfare.

Lt. David Craddock, in speaking of the modern brick building on Cuyler St., said "the Salvation Army has had to change with the times."

It's a far cry from 1878, when General William Booth began his "army", equipped with uniforms, flag, brass band, and martial music, through the streets of London's East End. Booth's "army" was persecuted at first, but it survived to become the seed from which nearly 20,000 Salvation Army centers have spread over the earth. That includes more than 1,000 community centers in the United States.

The Salvation Army officer is both an ordained minister and an administrator who combines Christianity with direct social work.

The Salvation Army is funded about 60 to 65 percent by United Way, Craddock said, with other support coming from private donations.

In Pampa, the Salvation Army operates the Thrift Store, is involved with summer camps, scouting activities and helps, when possible, in attaining lodging for transient persons.

The Salvation Army is also regularly involved in a variety of welfare and charitable projects. The religious and charitable organization received some $5,600 in county funds last summer to supplement its welfare program.

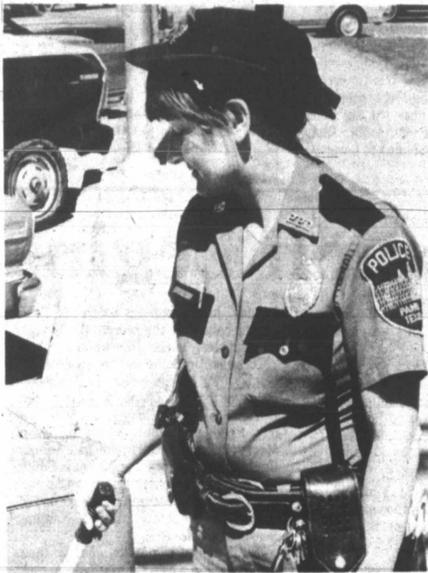

Lt. Craddock describes the help the Army provides as "usually temporary," something to "get people back on their feet."

But with today's Salvation Army, it's not just the downtrodden who receive the aid and influence of the organization.

Summer youth camps are now being planned in conjunction with the Army. A camp for "Junior Soldiers" will be held June 6 to 11 for boys and girls from 7 to 13 years of age.

Craddock says he expects about 20 youngsters to take advantage of the camp, which provides activities and lodging in Midlothian.

Two other camps will be held in June, including a Youth and Music Camp, for children 11 and over, and a Girl Guard Camp. The Girls Guards are roughly equivalent to the Girl Scouts, and the camp provides an opportunity to earn badges in virtually every kind of outdoor activity.

SANDY JONES, traffic control officer, first started with the Pampa police department in 1975 as a dispatcher. She attended the regional law enforcement academy and became a commissioned officer. A native of Borger, she is currently attending Frank Phillips College there. Her husband Alvin is employed by Pioneer Natural Gas Company. They have two children, ten-year-old Sheri and seven-year-old Missy, who attend Wilson School. Jones is active in Girl Scouts, and her hobbies include camping, boating and hairdressing.

At choir banquet

Gattis awarded Payne scholarship

In March, three Pampa High School choirs took sweepstakes awards at the University Interscholastic League Choir Contest in Canyon.

Tuesday night, at the annual choir banquet, senior Debbie Gattis became another sweepstakes winner by being awarded the three top honors given to choir members each year.

Debbie received the American Choral Directors Association (ACDA) award, the Hugh Sanders Achievement Award and the Nona Payne Scholarship. The awards are given for outstanding ability, achievement and attitude.

The winner of the ACDA award is elected by Concert Choir members, while the Hugh Sanders winners, usually a boy and girl, are selected by director John Woickowski. The $1,000 Payne Scholarship recipient is selected by the scholarship fund trustees, and must be a person planning a choral career.

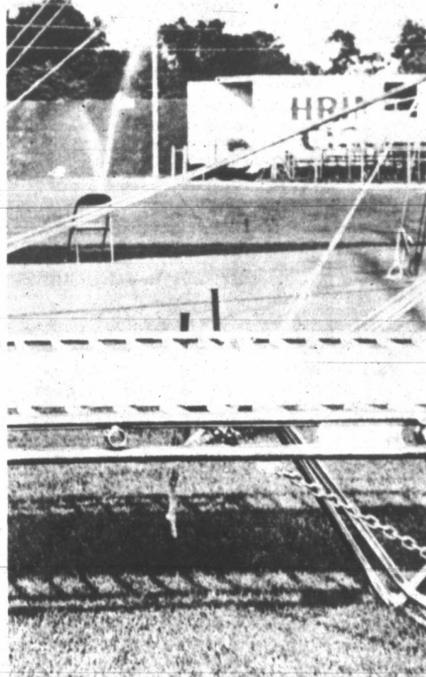

Tuesday night Woickowski announced a split decision between Gattis and Dianne McNeely for the female half of the Sanders award. Tommy Bruce was the male recipient. Besides receiving plaques to take home, their names will be engraved on a permanent award at the high school.

Senior Concert Choir members were given certificates and framed color photos of the choir at the banquet. Each member of the Concert Choir also received a copy of "The Professional," the biography of J.B. Saunders, Saunders, who admired the choir's recent performance at the National Cowboy Hall of Fame, personally inscribed each book.

The Concert Choir followed an annual tradition by presenting $25 savings bonds to Woickowski's daughters, Elizabeth and Ivanna, for their education. To help Woickowski attend a choral directors workshop in Colorado this summer, the choir gave him a $100 check.

Woickowski and Gattis received gifts from the Freshman Choir, and the director also was given a present from the Treble Choir. Mr. and Mrs. Don Lane, who headed the choir booster club this year, were awarded a plaque of appreciation.

Choir officers for 1979-80 were announced. They are Marvin Goad, president; Jeff Fussell, vice president; Pam Homer, secretary-treasurer; and Amy Lewis, historian.

CLOWNS, elephants and other entertainment are in store for Pampa this evening when the Clyde Brothers Circus opens at the rodeo grounds, courtesy of the Pampa Jaycees. Performances are scheduled for 5 and 7:30 p.m. tonight, with tickets available at the door. (Special photo to Pampa News)

Filibusters hit Senate

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Time helped a Senate minority block a presidential primary bill, but a post-midnight vote carried senators into their second filibuster within 12 hours — on a measure raising the legal interest rates on home loans from 10 percent to 12 percent.

At midnight, Senate rules cut off debate on a filing fee bill some senators feared could be broadened to set up a March 1980 presidential primary, two months before the regular party primaries.

Several senators, taking turns, had blocked a vote on the bill for more than 10 hours.

After that measure was temporarily shelved, Sen. Bill Meier, D-Eules, moved at 12:07 a.m. to debate the controversial loan bill and won a 21-8 vote.

The Senate rejected five proposed amendments, then voted 17-12 to restrict debate to a single senator, Bill Patman, D-Ganado, a longtime crusader against higher interest rates.

"The floor's all yours," yelled Sens. Bill Moore, D-Bryan, and Tom Creighton, D-Mineral Wells. They clapped and jeered and walked off the floor, with Moore, shouting over his shoulder, "Excuse me, I'm going to go to sleep."

Patman was left virtually alone on the Senate floor at 1:30 a.m.

He had come onto the floor at midnight, apparently after having rested, and put on fresh socks and jogging shoes about an hour later. He had two white bags on his desk and occasionally nibbled from them.

When Patman indicates he is ready to quit, other senators will be notified to return to the Senate, probably for a series of immediate votes that could send the loan bill back to the House for approval of Meier amendments.

The House-passed bill by Rep. Jerry Donaldson, D-Gatesville, provides for a "floating" interest maximum. Lenders would be permitted to charge 2 percentage points above the average monthly rate for 10-year U.S. Treasury notes but no more than 12 percent.

The bill has a "Sunset" provision that says the new interest maximum automatically will expire on Sept. 1, 1981, unless the Legislature extends it.

One surprise was the vote of Sen. Lloyd Doggett, known as a consumer advocate, to bring up the bill. Doggett, D-Austin, told reporters he feared if interest rates were not allowed to rise above the current 10 percent usury limit, home loans would dry up.

A Patman amendment to prohibit the charging of "points" — or extra interest — to sellers or buyers was rejected, 19-10.

Also rejected, 20-10, was a proposal to allow Texans to vote on a November referendum on whether they favored the higher interest rate.

The closest vote on the defeated amendments was 17-13 on a proposal to eliminate penalties for pre-payment of a loan.

"This bill has to be brought up at a time when most people are home asleep," said Patman.

"If you have anything to say that will shed any light on this dirty legislation of yours, I'd like to hear it," Patman told Meier.

Toxic road oil case under probe by House

WASHINGTON (AP) — Shipping records of three Texas companies have been subpoenaed in connection with a congressional investigation into the alleged spreading of road oil contaminated by hazardous chemicals.

The House Commerce Committee's subcommittee on oversight and investigations will hold a hearing May 30 in Corrigan, Texas, near the site of the first complaint.

The Texas Department of Human Resources said possibly contaminated sludge from Browning-Ferris of Houston was spread on roadbeds in 15 Southeast Texas sites. Subdivision developers were able to obtain the material without cost.

"We intend to find out where the breakdown in the system occurred and why," U.S. Rep. Bob Eckhardt, subcommittee chairman, said Tuesday. "We have a serious situation here in which the public is entitled to know just what happened, how much of this activity has gone on and whether or not there may be still other 'Corrigan's as yet undiscovered.'"

Subpoenas were issued Monday night to Browning-Ferris of Houston, Sonics International Inc. in Dallas and Conservation Services Inc. in Port Arthur, Texas.

Close's bill may shift funds

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Most state agencies that maintain their funds separately from the State Treasury would be required to transfer them to the treasury under a House bill tentatively approved Tuesday.

The measure needs a final vote before going to the Senate. Only public-junior-colleges, colleges and universities and the banking, savings and loan and consumer credit departments would be allowed to keep their money out of the treasury.

Rep. Bob Close, R-Perryton, sponsor of the bill, said the bill would bring 59 agencies and $250 million into the treasury.

Among those, he said, were the boards that regulate public accountants and real estate agencies.

Rep. Lance Lalor, D-Houston, said the advantages would include annual interest of at least $18 million from investment of the agencies' funds by the state treasurer.

He said the bill also would curb "very serious abuses of the public trust and public funds

Weather Texas weather

By The Associated Press — Another day of warm temperatures — with some rain — was in the offing for Texans today.

The National Weather Service said temperatures would hit the 80s and 90s across the state and possibly pass the century mark in the Big Bend.

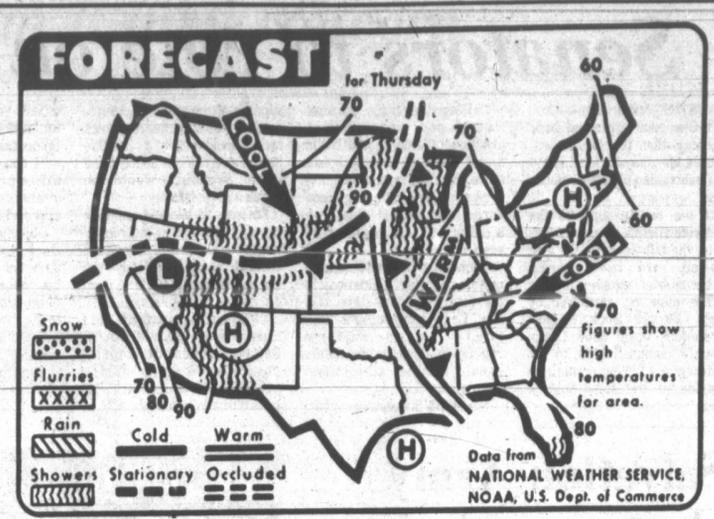

Tuesday's highs were about that. Presidio was Texas' hottest spot with its high of 97.

Winds across the state were southerly to southeasterly this morning, with wind speeds very light over the eastern sections, but expected to get up to 15 and 20 mph in portions of West Texas.

The weather service said thunderstorms were expected to develop tonight in portions of Northwest Texas.

Texas forecast

West Texas — Mostly cloudy and warm southwest with chance of showers or thunderstorms through Thursday. Fair over most other sections becoming partly cloudy with widely scattered showers or thunderstorms through Thursday. No important temperature changes. Highs mid 80s north and mountains to lower 90s south, near 100 Big Bend. Lows mid 50s north to lower 60s south. Highs Thursday mid 80s north and mountains to lower 90s south and near 100 Big Bend.

SHOWERS ARE expected for portions of the Southwest, Midwest, upper Midwest, the Ohio River Valley and southern Florida for Thursday, according to the National Weather Service. Clear skies are forecast for the rest of the nation.

Rig investigation begins

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — Five men who escaped with their lives when an oil drilling platform toppled into the Gulf of Mexico were expected to testify today before a Coast Guard board of inquiry investigating the collapse that apparently claimed the lives of eight other men.

The shadow of that disaster still hung over the proceedings as the floating body of one of the missing workman was discovered near Freeport Tuesday even as the board was beginning its first session. Six men were still missing today.

The first lawsuit connected with the incident was filed Tuesday, a multimillion-dollar action on behalf of one of the missing men aboard the rig that plunged into the Gulf after a support leg gave way.

The body found off Freeport, about 40-50 miles from the spot where the oil rig sank, was identified as that of Cruz Paigomarez Jr. of Fresno, 27, an employee of Halliburton Services.

"The motor vessel Orka was anchored about 7 1/2 miles southwest of Freeport when the body was spotted floating on the surface," said Coast Guard Petty Officer John Cook.

"She was too big to pick him up, so the crew boat Alicia was called in," Cook said. "She picked him up at 9:45 a.m. and took him to the Coast Guard station at Freeport, where he was identified on the dock by Frank Kinley of Halliburton Services."

Coast Guard and private vessels rescued 26 of 34 men aboard the drilling rig when one of its three legs collapsed late Thursday, dropping the platform into the ocean 12 miles south of Galveston.

Civilian divers found the body of Eddie Fredericks of Babberville, La., at 5:20 p.m.

Sunday, just 10 minutes before the Coast Guard called off the search and brought home the buoy tender, Blackthorn.

Those still missing include Lawrence J. Guidry, 35, of Lafayette, La., offshore surveyor for John Chance and Associates; Barton Sealy, 22, of Houma, La., Southwest Oil Products; John Perkins, 24, of Merryville, La., electrician for Atlantic Pacific Marine Corp.; and Dennis Smith, 19, Walter Fontenot, 29, and Clarence Hanks, 50, all of Morgan City, La., and all employed by International Hammer Services of Lafayette.

It was Hanks' wife, Billie, who filed the $2 million suit in a New Orleans federal court on behalf of her husband and herself.

The suit alleges that Mitchell Energy and Development Corp. of Houston, the firm leasing the rig, and Atlantic Pacific, the rig's owner, "failed to provide a safe place to work and perform duties."

Nudists shed cares with clothes

ALVORD, Texas (AP) — To take to the rough in the buff may not be easy, but after the initial shock, managers of Texsunair Camp say, its nothing to look twice at.

Texsunair, located about 65 miles northwest of Dallas, is a place where it is common to see six or more persons sitting around a picnic table. And even though no one wears a stitch of clothing, the grounds look like any other weekend campsite.

"There's only one purpose of this camp, and that's to be able to pull your clothes off," said

Vernon, one of the camp's managers. "You've got your own personality when you're naked, and you can communicate better."

Vernon, who believes last names are unnecessary, had five heart attacks before he shucked his business and his clothes for the life of a nudist.

The 66-acre camp, one of seven chartered nudist colonies in Texas, was founded in the early 1960s by a retired federal judge who wanted a place to take his friends to relax. Today, there are about 275 members — from small children to grandparents.

For a mere $175 they can swim, dance, play volleyball and horseshoes, and enter the Texas Amateur Nudist Olympics.

"It has nothing to do with how much money you make or your social position," said M.L., the camp's gatekeeper. "We have everyone from truck drivers to millionaires. What we judge people on is their personality and how they relate to other members."

Although the camp doesn't attract much attention from the ground, it gets a lot from the air.

"We get quite a few buzzers," said M.L. "People in helicopters and planes sometimes fly so low, they clip the tops off the trees. Normally, we don't mind the flights as long as they keep their distance."

Many people are uneasy about taking their clothes off, said M.L., "but after they've been here 15 or 20 minutes they loosen up and shed their clothes."

New arrivals — often referred to as "cottontails" — are the easiest to spot because of the lack of color on certain parts of their bodies, he said.

"We don't require anyone to take their clothes off except in the pool," he said. "But anyone who comes to a nudist camp and goes around with clothes on will be stared at like a nudist in the outside world."

Against auto dealers

Consumer protections killed

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — House members have turned down two attempts to give consumers new protections against auto dealers, while voting to extend the life of the Texas Motor Vehicle Commission.

The bill continuing the commission, which licenses new car dealers advanced Tuesday on a voice vote and must be considered once more before it can go to the Senate.

The commission will go out of existence next year unless the Legislature and Gov. Bill Clements approve the bill.

House members eliminated, 72-61, a section that would prohibit a governor from appointing to the commission anyone who had contributed $1,000 or more to his campaign.

Rep. Matt Garcia, D-San Antonio, said it was "embarrassing" to impose such a restriction when every governor swears he has not promised any office to any supporter or contributor.

Rep. Lance Lalor, D-Houston, the sponsor, said the restriction resulted from testimony to the Sunset Advisory Commission.

He said the commission was told some state occupational licensing boards were packed with "pals of the governor" who were out of touch with both the regulated occupations and the public.

House members also rejected, 107-25, an amendment requiring dealers to give customers 30 days' notice before repossessing cars and to seize the autos only between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m.

"It's unconscionable to take your car late at night while you are asleep," said Rep. Jerry Benedict, D-Angleton, author of the amendment.

"Basically it means repossessions are not going to take place at all," Lalor said of the amendment.

The bill requires that two of the six commission members represent the public at large instead of new car dealers. It also requires quarterly status reports to consumers on the complaints they have filed.

Dealers would have to inform customers in writing of their right to complain to the commission if warranty work is not done properly.

Rep. Tom Uher, D-Bay City, failed, 42-92, to add an amendment prohibiting new car dealers from requiring used car customers to waive their implied warranty that a car is serviceable.

Dear Abby

by abigail van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I was adopted as an infant. All my life I have wanted to know my natural mother. About two years ago I began my search. Fortunately, my adoptive parents willingly gave me what little information they had. With that, plus what I gathered from various other sources, I located my mother in Iowa. I was so thrilled and excited that I couldn't wait to phone her! I didn't realize what a shock it would be for her to hear from the child she had given away 32 years before.

After a brief conversation she suggested that I write to her, so I wrote immediately, telling her all about myself, my life, and how I was ready to fly to Iowa to meet her as soon as she gave the word.

A week later I received this reply — no date, no salutation and no signature:

"You now have a life that adoption made possible so count your blessings. I don't understand how you could believe that contacting me would not make trouble. I have had guilt and shame all my days — and now this whole mess has been reopened. Count your blessings. No need for further communication!"

Abby, I can understand her shame, guilt, suffering and sorrow. The entire episode involving me is like an open wound that has been festering for 32 years. Obviously she has never learned to deal with those feelings. But what about MY feelings?

Abby, my mother wasn't an innocent teenager who "got caught." She was a 27-year-old Navy nurse in World War II. I want to know who my natural father was, and all about the relationship between him and my mother. I can find out only through her.

I don't want to disrupt anybody's life. I just want the facts that I feel I have a right to know. Am I asking too much?

I am not a bored, neurotic housewife. I've been happily married for 14 years and have an 11-year-old daughter and 7-year-old son. I'm active in volunteer work and have returned to college, so I'm not looking to make trouble.

Your advice and the opinions of others who have been through this would be deeply appreciated.

MRS. G. IN CALIFORNIA

DEAR MRS. G.: I understand your feelings and appreciate your "right" to know your natural parents, but they, too, have rights. And one of those rights is the right to be left alone if they so choose. (Many girls gave up their babies for adoption only because they were assured their identities would never be revealed.) Many natural parents would be thrilled to reunite with their children, but we cannot assume that ALL are.

I fully approve of searching for one's natural parents, but I think a go-between should make the contact and the reunion should be effected only if all parties want it.

DEAR ABBY: I have read many letters in your column from the family of the bride resenting bitterly the family of the groom paying off their social obligations by inviting all their shirt-tail relatives, friends, neighbors and business acquaintances to a wedding paid for by the bride's parents.

I recently returned from the Orient where I attended a wedding, and was informed of their solution to the wedding-guest problem. Each family invites as many guests as they wish and each family PAYS for its own guests. Clever?

WORLDTRAVELER

DEAR TRAVELER: Very!

Dr. Lamb

by
Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I would appreciate it if you could tell me something about hives. When I went in for my complete physical which I have every year I bloomed all over. My doctor changed my blood pressure medicine but he said he felt sure that wasn't the cause. He gave me a prescription for Librium but I still get hives. He told me I had to go to a dermatologist and recommended one but I haven't gone. I can't understand why I should go to a dermatologist.

I do enjoy a cocktail before dinner and that's why I don't take but one Librium in the morning. Believe me the cocktail works better.

This doctor and two others before him have said I am tense and need to relax but I don't know how. What do you suggest?

DEAR READER — You probably have a communications problem with your doctor since he's told you that you have hives and your description certainly sounds like it. He probably knows full well that most hives are caused by an allergy.

The most likely reason that he didn't want you to have allergy testing is that most causes for hives are related to food allergies and the way you identify them is from an elimination diet. All the foods that are thought to be related to allergic reaction are eliminated and then different foods are added one at a time to see if any reaction occurs.

Some people who are sensitive to animal dander can have contact with fur or any product from that animal and develop hives immediately. As a good example, an individual who is truly allergic to bees may develop hives simply by eating honey and the swelling of the lips will occur immediately. You can also develop hives in relationship to heat, cold and sun rays. They can also occur in response to certain drugs and chemicals that a person takes.

The Librium may make you less tense and help you to relax but other than that it won't do anything to relieve the allergic response producing hives.

Polly's Pointers

by
Polly Cramer

DEAR POLLY — I have purchased many old magazines and books at sales of various kinds but some of the books have a very musty odor. I have kept them in the garage all winter where they got fresh air and have used the baking soda treatment but the odor lingers. Some of these books are rare finds so I do hope someone can help me. — L.M.

DEAR L.M. — I am sorry I have not been able to obtain much encouraging news for you. Any mold or mildew should be wiped off the pages with a clean soft cloth. You might put corn starch or French chalk between the pages, close the books and leave them for several days and then brush them off. This would be slow and painstaking work but should be well worth a try for any first editions or other rare books. Readers, do you have any other suggestions? — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — I use a few moth balls to get rid of any moldy or musty smell. I keep several in the basement. When the bottom of a dresser drawer was moldy I sponged it off with cold water several times and that did it. Cold water is good for so many things when used immediately after an accident — whether it be a baby or a pet. — ANN

DEAR POLLY — When making jelly or jam, I shave enough paraffin in each jar so it will cover when melted, pour the jelly right in on top of it and it will melt and seal. I have used this method for years and find it safer than using hot melted paraffin. — MRS. R.B.M.

METALLICIZED SILVER AND turquoise nylon tricot - Larry LeGaspi designs a skintight jumpsuit worn under a billowing cocoon coat which features trapunto detailing on wrists, and collar-to-hem banding.

A STARRY EYED maiden in the year 2000 might wear this pink Caprolan nylon confection. Graceful tiers of sleek shimmery fabric float down the torso to end in a sweeping train effect. Contrasting metallic fabric with trapunto styling forms face-framing collar.

Larry LeGaspi's designs

Love that Flash Gordon stuff

NEW YORK (NEA) - Flash Gordon strained against the ropes and glowered at princess Aura. She was radiant in her skintight parade dress, the gilded collar framing out behind her to fanne her cold, beautiful face.

"Stop struggling, Earth man," she said. "You're ours, now!" She regarded him triumphantly, her arms folded, one lacquered talon smoothing her shimmering sleeve. Then she jerked her head. "Take him away," she commanded. Suddenly, as the guards moved, there was an ear-piercing explosion and...

That's what designer Larry LeGaspi, 29, grew up on as a boy in New Jersey. "I was always fascinated by science fiction and the future, and I loved those Flash Gordon and Buck Rogers reruns. And I would lie down and look at the planets and daydream..."

But that's not LeGaspi's fault. He's been pushing the future in clothes for at least six years. And how did women react? They stared. And they said, why are you making those Halloween costumes? So LeGaspi languished. "There was one summer when I existed only on peanut butter and jelly," he says.

No one wanted the future with its anxieties and uncertainties, especially when the past was there for the taking.

But LeGaspi persevered with his cocoon coats and bodysuits and then "Star Wars" exploded and suddenly people said, look, he's making clothes like that movie!

Chic ladies with good builds started coming to his Madison Avenue boutique for his clothes that "streamline the silhouette" and extend it with fins and yokes "for a sculptured feeling." Costumes like a one-shoulder lycra body suit whose sleeve extends into a sterling silver finger guard (to ward off whatever you must). Plus, on the other side, a custom-made sterling silver breast cup, price $1,500. "I do a lot of one-time custom work for parties," he says.

That keeps him solvent and lets him do ready-to-wear like a workaday black leather jacket ($395) with tight sleeves and corded shoulder yoke that stands out like armor plating, and baggy black leather jodhpur pants ($395) with a matching yoke at the hip.

Everything is skintight at some point, but evening wear often comes with floating panels to accommodate skin that can't afford close accommodations.

Even his terry playwear for the beach hugs something somewhere. And, of course, his "fin" suit grabs it all. That's strapless and looks just like a bathing suit except for the structured fins sticking out at the hip ($80 in turquoise, purple, yellow, etc.). The gear for the woman who dares dip into the sea beyond and then lie on the beach and think about Flash Gordon who never had a problem with tummy bulge.

Tower says treaty can be defeated

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, says opponents of the new strategic arms limitation treaty should be able to muster more than enough votes.

A total of 34 senators against the treaty with the Soviet Union would be enough to keep it from going into effect.

"I would say that the absolute optimum vote against would be 51," Tower, an opponent, said Tuesday. A more realistic estimate would be 41 or 42 against, he added.

He counted 26 Republicans solidly against ratification or leaning that way. The senator joked, however, that "all such estimates are subject to change without notice."

Tower, chairman of the Republican Policy Committee, held a news conference after the panel's weekly meeting.

Five Republicans are undecided, five are leaning toward ratification and five are outright supporters, he said.

Tower estimated the highest number of Democrats opposed to the treaty to be 20.

Among his reasons for opposing the treaty were its provision allowing the Russians to maintain defense systems the United States could not develop, the "break-out" capability it would give the Soviets at the treaty's expiration and the question of verification.

He said it is virtually certain that amendments will be offered to the treaty once it is presented to the Senate. President Carter and Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev are scheduled to sign SALT II next month in Vienna, Austria.

The Texas senator is the ranking Republican member of the armed services committee.

He said the committee probably will hold hearings on the military implications of SALT II as it did with the Panama Canal treaties, even though the foreign relations committee will be considering the treaty before it reaches the Senate floor.

Spec 4 Billie D. Williams, son of O. L. Williams Jr., 502 Oklahoma St., Pampa, Texas, recently was presented the Air Assault Badge upon graduation from the Air Assault School at Fort Campbell, Ky.

Trainees learned to rapidly and safely exit a helicopter from a variety of difficult situations. Whether descending into tree tops or lowering themselves or injured soldiers down sheer drops, the graduates are highly proficient.

Upon completion of the course, Williams returned to his home unit at Fort Hood, Texas.

He entered the Army in September 1975.

The specialist is a 1965 graduate of Clarendon (Texas) High School.

Williams wife, Sandra, is with him near Fort Hood.

60 participated in annual dance revue

WHITE DEER — "Dance Around the World" was the theme when Linda Germany's School of Dance presented their 14th annual revue last Saturday night.

Approximately 60 students from White Deer and Groom performed ballet, tap, jazz, acrobatic, hawaiian, character and novelty numbers.

Among those who won awards was Christy Frost who received her 10-year certificate. Also honored was Grace Dominguez, this year's graduating senior.

The show was sponsored by the White Deer's two Beta Sigma Phi chapters with all of the proceeds going to Muscular Dystrophy.

Large strides are likely to be made this coming year where your work or career is concerned. You may experience some minor roadblocks, but they can be easily surmounted. TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Take time to size up the consequences before speaking your mind, especially to the boss. Even if you are right, it may not be smart to prove your point. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in the year following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth sign. GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Steer clear of philosophical debates today. Nothing will be resolved, anyway. All you'll accomplish is to ruffle someone else's feathers. CANCER (June 21-July 22) Outsiders may try to impose on your good nature today. If you think their actions will trespass on your family's rights, don't let them get away with it. LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Before you accept another's words as gospel, analyze carefully what this person says AND his or her basic motives.  VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If undertaking do-it-yourself projects today, keep your thumb out of the way of the hammer. Large tasks should be left to professionals.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You're very generous today with your personal belongings. This is good and proper, but be wary of lending something to anyone that isn't yours. SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Family harmony will prevail today the larger issues are concerned. Should any flareups occur, they will be due to trivial matters. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Trying to divide your attention today could cause you unnecessary headaches. Keep your priorities in order. Tackle one task at a time. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Financial conditions are mixed for you today, but the good will be greater than the bad. Nevertheless, count your pennies wisely. AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Directives that you issue to your family today could confuse them, because you may tell them to do one thing and expect them to do another. PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Problems which may at first appear unsolvable won't prove that difficult today if you put your splendid imagination to use. The answers you need are there. ARIES (March 21-April 19) Keep an open mind. Go along with the wishes of the majority today. You'll win their approval and save money in the end, as well.

Takes 1-0 series advantage

Monterey blasts PHS

By JERRY GUNTER
Pampa News Sports Editor
For several years now, Lubbock Monterey has been a powerhouse in baseball circles. Tuesday, the Plainsmen displayed that awesome talent against Pampa at Optimist Park.

The Plainsmen of District 4-AAAA grabbed an early lead and was never headed as they took a convincing 10-3 victory over the 3-AAAA champion Harvesters in the first of a three game bi-district series.

Monterey now leads the series 1-0 as the two teams travel to Lubbock for the second and possible third games. Friday's game will start at 2 p.m. at Lowrey Field and should another game be needed, it will be played immediately after the first one. It too, will be in Lubbock.

Though there was no scoring until the second inning, Pampa threatened in the bottom half of the first frame. But the Harvesters were unable to push anything across.

The Harvesters had the bases loaded in that first inning as Richard Wuest, Rick Dougherty and Greg Koch all got on safely. But Keanan Henderson struck out to end the inning.

It was while Henderson was batting that Monterey coach Bobby Moegle decided to replace starter Kent Potts with Rick Pinkerton. Pinkerton went the rest of the way and picked up the victory.

Pinkerton and the Plainsmen only allowed five base hits for the day. Of that five, three were home runs. Greg Koch got two homers, while the other was by Henderson.

But other than that, the Harvesters just couldn't come up with enough base runners to make much a threat. Tough defensive play by the Plainsmen stopped the Pampa crew throughout the day.

Monterey got its first of three runs in the second inning on a throwing error by Pampa third baseman Greg Quarles. His high throw allowed a base runner to score and the Plainsmen led 1-0. Kelly Smith singled in the next tally, while the third one came on a sacrifice by designated-hitter Steve Coleman.

After Pampa went down in order in the bottom half of the second inning, the Plainsmen scored three more times in third.

Andy Barron walked before Pinkerton doubled to left. That set up the stage for a devastating home run over the left field fence by Tom Bevins. That put Monterey in command at 4-0.

In the fourth inning, it looked as though the Harvesters were getting their act together. After Rick Dougherty had flown out to deep right, Koch and Henderson hit back-to-back home runs to cut the Monterey lead to 6-2. But the Harvesters could get no closer the rest of the way.

Monterey scored once again in the fifth on a throwing error. In the sixth, the Plainsmen scored three times. With one man on, Coleman ripped a home run over the left field wall. Then David Faulkner gave the Lubbock crew its 10th run of the game as he scored on an error from second base.

Steve Stout, who lost the game, gave up seven hits for the day. John Davis relieved Stout in the seventh and retired all three batters that he faced. With the loss, Stout is now 8-2 for the season.

The final run of the contest for the Harvesters came in the sixth frame as Koch hit second homer of the day.

Koch had an excellent day as he was three-for-three. In addition to his two home runs, he got an infield hit in the first inning. Henderson got one hit on a homer, while the only other base hit came by Steve McDougall on a single to right in the seventh inning.

With the loss, Pampa now stands 19-6 for the year. Monterey will carry a 25-7 record into Friday's contest at Lowrey Field.

For the Harvesters to be able to advance to further playoff action, they must sweep both games in Lubbock Friday. The winner of this series will play the victor of the playoffs in districts one and two. Those two districts involve schools from El Paso.

It is expected that either Stout or Dougherty will be on the mound for Friday's first game. Dougherty has a record of 8-1. He has not pitched since last Friday when he started against Amarillo High.

GREG KOCH receives congratulations from his teammates after slamming his first of two home runs Tuesday at Optimist Park against the Lubbock Monterey Plainsmen in bi-district action. Welcoming Koch home are (left to right) Keanan Henderson, Mickey Bynum, Joe Jeffers and Steve McDougall. But even with two home runs to his credit, it wasn't enough as the Plainsmen won the contest 10-3. The second and possible third games are scheduled for Friday in Lubbock. The Harvesters must sweep both games in order to advance to further playoff action.

Umps to return to work

NEW YORK (AP) — Major league baseball umpires are expected to return to work this weekend under terms of an agreement that The Associated Press learned was reached between their union and the two leagues Tuesday.

Details of the agreement ending the dispute that has kept the regular umpires on the sidelines since spring training were presented to a joint meeting of the major leagues in Chicago today. The settlement was expected to be announced officially Thursday.

Both sides have been pressing for an end to the work stoppage and meeting almost daily for the last week. It was a marathon bargaining session that started Monday afternoon and lasted into the early morning hours of Tuesday that apparently signaled the breakthrough of the final issues.

Both the National and American Leagues denied that any final settlement had been reached but confirmed that talks were making progress.

"We still have a way to go," said American League President Lee MacPhail. I would prefer not to discuss the issues."

But MacPhail agreed that the atmosphere between the two sides has improved considerably. "We're a lot closer than when we started," he said.

Richie Phillips, attorney for the umpires, said, "We are on the threshold of reaching a comprehensive agreement between the umpires and major league baseball which should satisfy all parties and insure labor peace for at least three years and beyond."

Rangers trip Twins, 9-8

By The Associated Press
Things have suddenly turned sour for Mike Marshall. But Tommy John's pitching is as sweet as ever.

Marshall, the Minnesota Twins' relief ace, has been beaten twice by his former Texas teammates in two games. On Tuesday night he took to the mound in the eighth inning and threw gasoline on a Rangers rally, yielding a run-scoring double by Jim Sundberg and a two-run single by John Ellis as Texas beat the Twins 9-8.

John, meanwhile, continues to work his magic for the New York Yankees. He has won eight games and has yet to lose one. He twirled a seven-hitter against Detroit Tuesday night and rode Chris Chambliss' two home runs to an 11-3 romp over the Tigers.

Yankees 11, Tigers 3
John, who finished with five strikeouts and one walk to match his personal high of eight straight victories, had a three-hit shutout going until the eighth inning when the Tigers scored their runs on a walk to Lance Parrish and singles by Aurelio Rodriguez, Ron LeFlore and Lou Whitaker.

LeFlore, who opened game with single but was caught stealing, singled again with two out in sixth, then drove in Detroit's first run with an infield hit and stole second before Whitaker's two-run single.

Red Sox 3, Orioles 2
Dwight Evans walked, stole second and raced home on Jerry Remy's single to left in the 10th inning to propel Boston past the Orioles.

Indians 5, Blue Jays 3
Shortstop Alfredo Griffin of Toronto threw away Duane Kuiper's bases-loaded grounder in the eighth inning, allowing two runs to score as Cleveland beat the Blue Jays.

White Sox 2, A's 1
Ninth-inning singles by Eric Soderholm, Lamar Johnson and Junior Moore off luckless John Henry Johnson gave rookie Ross Baumgarten and the Chicago White Sox their victory over Oakland.

Angels 2, Brewers 1
Ben Oglivie homered for Milwaukee in the fifth inning, but Bobby Grich hit an RBI double for the Angels in the seventh, then Don Baylor beat the Brewers when he led off the bottom of the ninth with a homer off Mike Caldwell.

Royals 7-2, Mariners 4-6
Clint Hurdle broke a tie with a fifth-inning homer and Darrell Porter hit a three-run blast in the sixth to power Kansas City to its opening-game victory over Seattle. In the nightcap the Mariners came back with four runs in the eighth, the tie-breaker on Ruppert Jones' single and two more on Willie Horton's homer.

Dodgers 5, Braves 4
Dusty Baker provided the power that gave the dodgers their eighth straight victory, slamming a leadoff home run in the 10th inning as Los Angeles defeated Atlanta 5-4.

Mets 3, Pirates 0
Craig Swan scattered six hits, beating the Pirates with ninth-inning relief help from Skip Lockwood. Joel Youngblood supported Swan with a two-run homer in the fourth.

Cubs 7, Phils 1
Former Phillie Barry Foote, obtained by the Cubs in a pre-season trade for Ted Sizemore, slugged the first grand slam home run of his career as Chicago beat Philadelphia.

Cards 1, Expos 0
John Denny fired a two-hitter for St. Louis and Mike Phillips drove in the only run of the game with a two-out single in the ninth.

Padres 2, Reds 1
San Diego got both its runs after two were out in ninth inning to beat Cincinnati. Bill Fahey drew a walk, Gene Tenace singled and then pinch-hitter Kurt Bevacqua laced a two-run double to right.

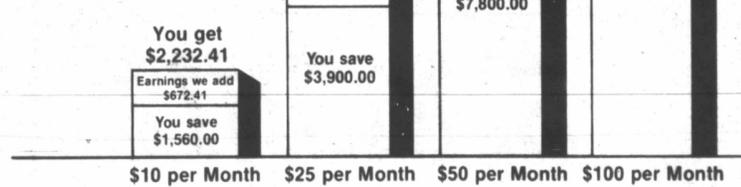

Giants 8, Astros 1
Phil Nasti limited Houston to five hits for his first major league victory. Jack Clark and Larry Herndon supplied the power with two-run doubles.

Senate says election fair

WASHINGTON (AP) — A lopsided vote declaring that Rhodesia's recent elections were fair and open is increasing pressure on President Carter to lift trade sanctions and give the new regime de facto recognition.

The Senate made its judgment Tuesday in a 75-19 roll call on a resolution urging Carter to lift the sanctions within 10 days of the installation of a government headed by black Methodist Bishop Abel Muzorewa, the prime minister-designate.

Supporters of Rhodesia's "internal settlement" regime hailed the vote as a clear victory despite its non-binding nature. They said it sends Carter an unmistakable signal.

Others called the action premature and said it is a "step backward" which will anger the nations of Black Africa.

Rep. Stephen Solarz, D-N.Y., chairman of the House Foreign Affairs subcommittee on Africa, said he believes no House action is likely until Carter decides whether Rhodesia has met conditions set by last year's Case-Javits amendment.

That amendment requires Carter to determine whether Rhodesia has installed a government chosen by free and fair elections open to all political and population groups.

FOCUS

Seward's Folly

William Seward, who was born on this day in 1801, is best known for arranging America's purchase of Alaska in 1867. But Seward almost didn't survive to make his famous purchase. Seward served as Abraham Lincoln's secretary of state during the Civil War. On the night of Lincoln's assassination in 1865, an accomplice of John Wilkes Booth also wounded Seward. But Seward slowly recovered. As secretary of state under Andrew Johnson, he worked out the Alaskan purchase, which some people at the time jokingly called "Seward's Folly." But "Seward's Folly" turned out to be a real bargain. He bought Alaska for $7,200,000, or about two cents an acre.

DO YOU KNOW — From what country did the United States purchase Alaska?

TUESDAY'S ANSWER — Cucumbers are most commonly used for pickles.

El Salvador battles rage on

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — Police expanded their roadblocks around El Salvador's capital after terrorists killed three police officers and troops killed at least two demonstrators north of the city, raising the toll to 44 dead since May 4.

Two of the policemen were guarding the South African Embassy and were killed Tuesday night when at least eight guerrillas of the left-wing Popular Liberation Forces opened fire on them, seized their rifles and escaped in two cars in a hail of bullets from other officers.

Officials said they did not know if the guerrillas planned to raid the embassy. There had been rumors of a plot to kidnap South African Ambassador Archibald Gardner-Dunn, who was inside the mission during the shooting but not harmed.

The other policeman was killed in a shootout with terrorists in downtown El Salvador, and the two demonstrators were killed in a clash with police during a protest in Limon province, 18 miles north of the capital, officials said.
