

Store robbed, two abducted

By JOHN PRICE
Pampa News Staff

Pampa police are searching for a man who robbed a local convenience store early this morning, abducted two juvenile females and raped one of them at gunpoint before the girls escaped.

The robbery occurred at Allsup's Convenience Store at 500 E. Foster. The man was described as a white male, about 25 years old, standing five feet five inches with a "very chubby build." He has blue eyes, medium-length brown hair and a brown mustache, and was wearing a blue shirt, blue jeans and black boots.

The man was reportedly driving a late-model red Ford pickup truck, possibly equipped with four-wheel drive.

According to police, a 16-year-old store clerk and another 16-year-old girl were inside the store at approximately 2:15 a.m. when the man entered, looked around for a few minutes and pulled out a small caliber handgun. He took an undetermined amount of money from the cash register and forced the girls into his truck.

The man drove to the overpass on Loop 70 east of the city, where he stopped, threatened the girls and raped one of them. The other girl reportedly started running from the scene, distracting the man. The rape victim then also ran. The man reportedly fired two shots at the girls, and when they didn't stop he drove away.

The girls apparently split up, and the one who had not been assaulted went to a nearby house and telephoned police at about 3 a.m. Meanwhile, an officer on patrol had stopped at the Allsup's store and found no one inside. Police were looking for the missing clerk when they received the girl's phone call.

A patrolman found the rape victim walking alone down a street in the southeast area of the city. She was taken to Highland General Hospital, treated and released.

Chief Richard Mills said police have a suspect in the case. "We've taken physical evidence at the scene, interviewed victims and we have a possible suspect," Mills said. "An officer is being sent to Amarillo to get more information on him."

Police plan to get a more detailed description of the criminal from the girls, and put together a composite drawing of the suspect sometime today.

This morning's crime was the eighth convenience store robbery in Pampa since January - compared to a total of eight such robberies in 1978 - and the second reported rape. Mills said there is no evidence linking the latest robbery to the others.

"I don't see any connection between this and the other robberies," he said. "I would say this was more of a spur-of-the-moment thing."

To keep state bar in same form House risks veto on bill

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Openly risking a veto, the House has tentatively approved a bill preserving the State Bar of Texas in essentially its present form, including mandatory membership by all lawyers.

The bill advanced, 118-17, on Thursday. Final passage was expected today. That would return the bill to the Senate for action on changes made by the House.

But House members overwhelmingly voted, in effect, to ignore Gov. Bill Clements' threat to veto the bill if it failed to do two things:

—Force the bar to put its money in the state treasury, where it could be spent only as appropriated by the Legislature.

—Make the bar an agency of the executive branch, with a nine-member board of directors entirely appointed by the governor.

If the bill does not become law, the bar would go out of business as a state agency in 1980. It probably could continue as a voluntary association. Some believe the Texas Supreme Court can re-establish it as it now exists and require all lawyers to belong.

Rep. W.S. Heatly, D-Paducah, tried to compel the bar to deposit its members' $65-a-year dues in the treasury. His amendment was trounced, 101-39.

"There has been criticism of the salary of the executive director, his expense accounts in the saloons of Texas, his transportation," Heatly said.

Former executive director H.C. Pittman made $54,000 a year, plus an expense account and a Lincoln Continental. When Tom Hanna replaced him last year, the bar said the salary would be smaller and the fringe benefits less elaborate.

The House also refused, 112-23, to enable the governor to appoint the bar's directors, who now are elected by lawyers.

An amendment by Rep. Fred Head, D-Troup, repealing the requirement that attorneys belong to the bar was tabled, 111-25.

"I belong to the bar association and I will continue to belong to it but I don't think I should have to... If you believe in the right-to-work law, you'll vote 'no' on the motion to table," Head said.

The bill ratifies the bar's control of its $6 million Texas Law Center northwest of the state Capitol and allows the bar to go into debt.

For the first time, six non-lawyers would be members of the bar's board of directors.

The Texas Supreme Court would pass on the bar's budget, taking ultimate control of finances from the board of directors. The directors would have to hold a public hearing before sending their budget request to the Supreme Court.

House members passed and returned to the Senate for action on changes several other bills resulting from the Sunset process.

They would:

—Merge the Board of Landscape Architects with the State Board of Architectural Examiners.

—Continue the State Board of Barber Examiners.

—Extend the life of the Texas Turnpike Authority.

—Preserve the State Structural Pest Control Board, but connect it administratively to the Texas Department of Agriculture.

The House also voted tentative approval to Senate-passed Sunset bills that would:

—Extend the State Board of Public Accountancy.

—Continue the State Board of Morticians but include four non-mortician members on the nine-member board and add numerous consumer protection features to the law governing undertakers.

—Extend the life of the Texas Cosmetology Commission.

The forecast calls for a chance of thundershowers through Saturday with possibly heavy thundershowers tonight. The high today is expected in the low 80s and the low in the upper 50s.

Missing boy safe

A three-year-old Pampa boy who disappeared from home Thursday evening was found after a massive search involving police and local residents.

The search began when Sammy Dale Carlton of 833 Bradley reported his son, Sammy Jr., had been missing for about 30 minutes. Nine police officers and a large number of residents scoured the neighborhood for three hours looking for the boy.

The story came to a happy ending when Sammy Jr. was located in a field off E. Harvester Avenue by a group of citizens and radio volunteers. He was returned safely to his parents.

In case of groundwater shortage Bill to help Panhandle

By DAN LACKEY
Pampa News Staff

A bill passed by the Texas House of Representatives Monday authorizing the creation of the Ogallala Water Import Authority is "the best opportunity the people of the Texas Panhandle have to get something moving when we are going to run out of underground water," the manager of Panhandle Groundwater Conservation District No. 3 said Thursday.

Felix Ryals said his own charts showed graphic drops in the water levels for the region since the late 1960s when the region began a switch from dry to wet land farming with the help of irrigation.

"In 1956, we had just a handful of irrigation wells," Ryals said. "We were still primarily a dry land farming area. Now we've moved to wet land farming and are much more dependant on irrigation."

He said that increased use of irrigation plus the growth of Panhandle industry over the previous 25 years places the possibility of a severe water shortage "in the early 1990s."

"We're not just talking about import for farms," Ryals said. "We're talking about municipalities and industries, too."

The bill, sponsored by Rep. Bob Simpson, D — Amarillo, was formally passed by the House Thursday and sent to the Senate Natural Resources Committee. It calls for the creation of a master water district over a 43-county area covering the Ogallala aquifer.

A 15-member board would be elected from 15 single member precincts divided according to population. Directors could assess ad valorem taxes for the master water district. The authority would have powers to negotiate contracts for purchase and transport of water from surrounding states.

Ryals said planning for import of water was crucial to wet land farming, agribusiness, and related industry in the Panhandle.

A sampling of water levels in Gray County observation wells, provided by Ryals, showed an average drop of about 33 feet in water level since the late 50s. He said the average depth of "water bearing sands" underground in the county was about 250 feet.

While the drop in the water table has been slower in the North than in the South Plains, Ryals said increased use of water in the Panhandle would create a definite shortage. He said Amarillo was currently pumping 12 billion gallons of groundwater from this district each year.

But a Gray County farmer and member of the board of Water Inc., a non-profit organization which has facilitated several of the public discussions of the bill, says he has reservations about the bill in process.

John Spearman characterized the proposed legislation as "imperfect but still a better bill than we've had before in the legislature, we've got some input and have improved it some."

Spearman said he "had mixed emotions about the bill. There's no doubt that we're going to have to import water sometime in the future."

Spearman said he had reservations about the possibility of the North Plains region being taxed for water benefits received in the South Plains. Simpson said the bill would include a "zone of benefit" whereby areas that benefited least from participation in the water authority would pay less than areas who use it most. But Spearman said he felt the phrase "zone of benefit" was ambiguous.

Some questions have been raised about the proposed authority's power to pipe underground water within its own jurisdiction. But the bill under discussion now forbids the authority from buying, selling, moving underground water within its own jurisdiction.

"I'm for use of surplus surface water from Arkansas for import," Spearman said. "But I don't see underground water as surplus water."

Ryals also favored the restriction of imports to large surplus surface supplies like the Arkansas or White rivers.

"I'm not for pumping one gallon of water to any of these other areas," Ryals said. "That's the reason we have fought other (water import) bills in the past. Piping underground water from here south would not be import water."

Legislation for the creation of a water import authority has been in consideration for more than ten years. Although Simpson said Monday it might be difficult to pass the bill in the Senate because of its lateness on the calendar, Spearman said he was concerned that "after waiting so long to get it presented to the house," it's swift passage there seemed "premature."

"I don't like to see things rushed through, without a lot of debate," he said.

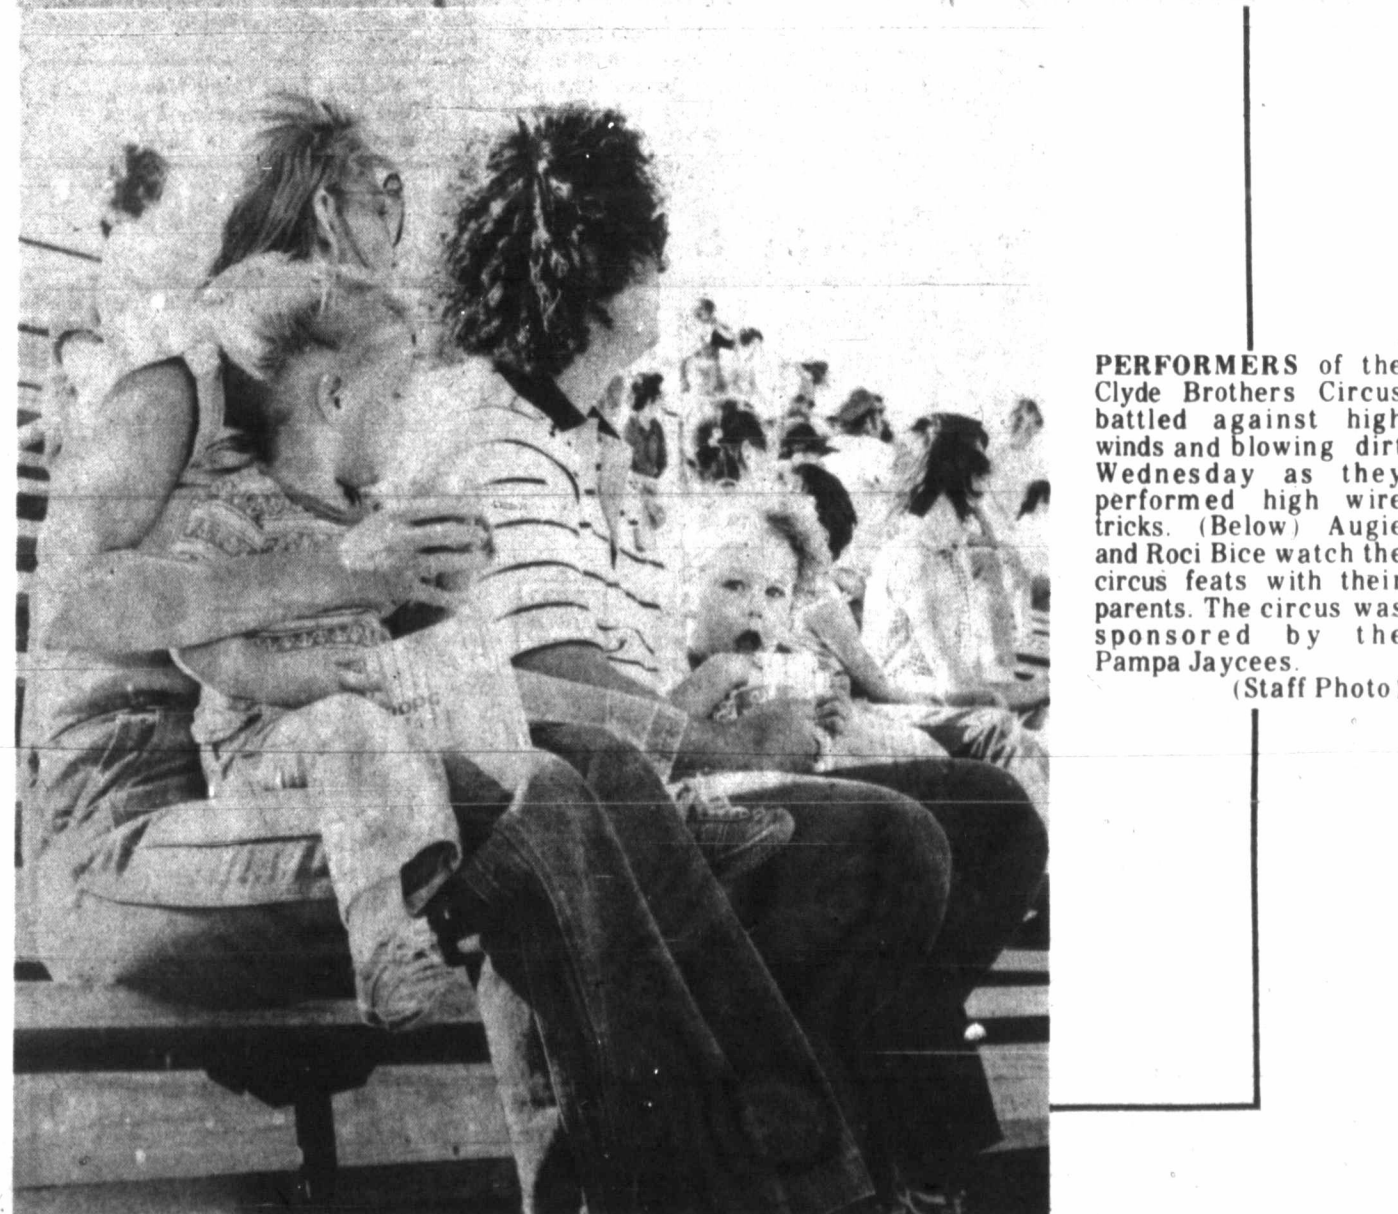

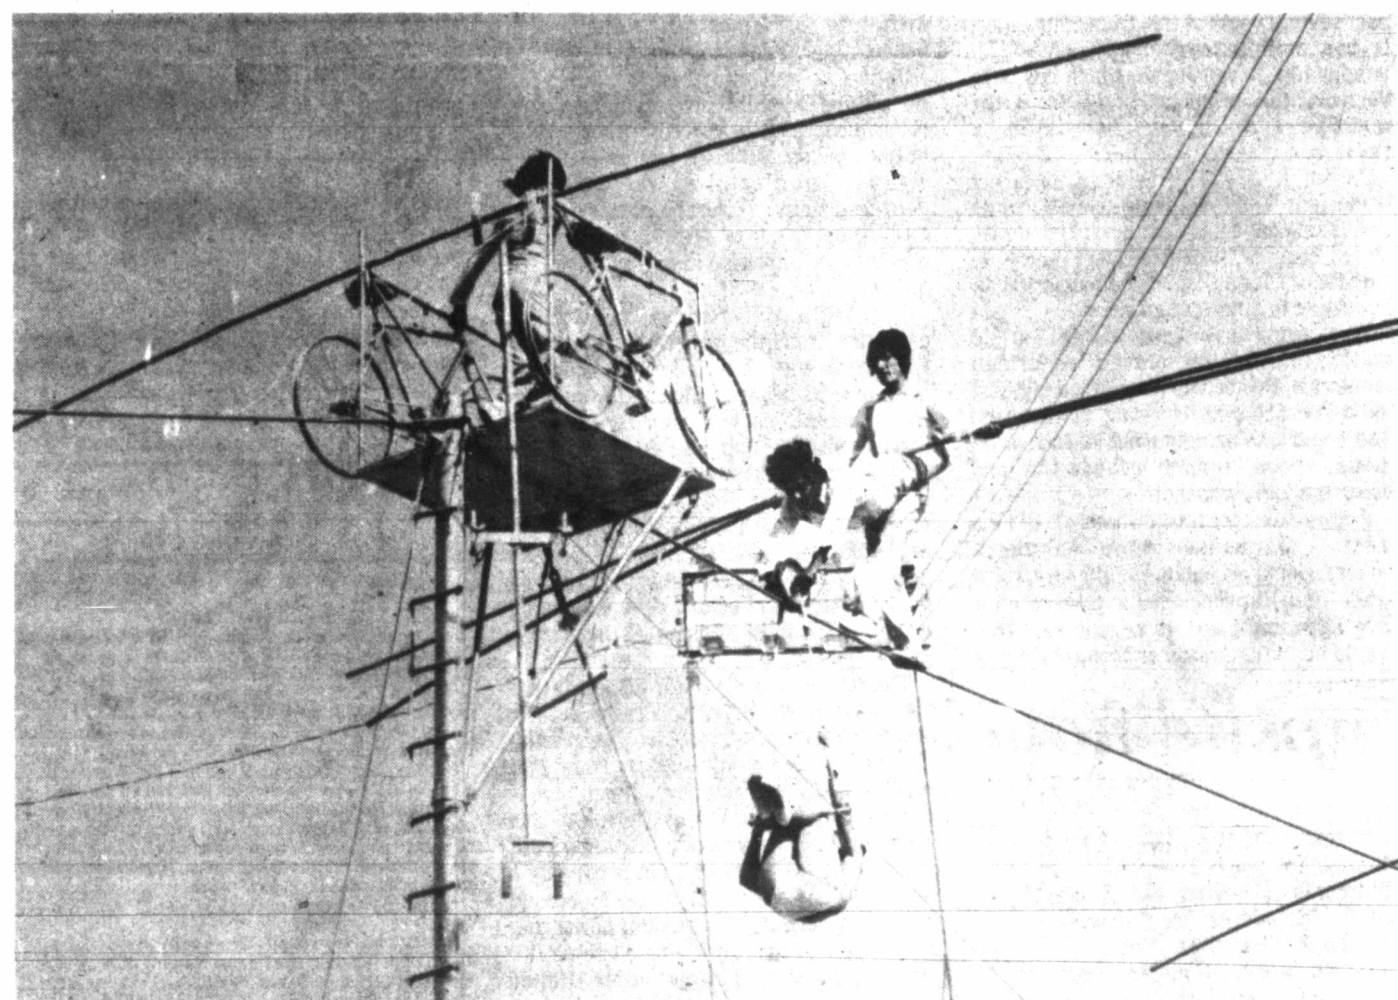

The ceiling on the ad valorem tax that could be levied by the import authority is 50 cents per $100 of assessed valuation. But Ryals said he did not think a master water district board would levy a tax above the current rate of the Groundwater District of 5 cents.

The Panhandle Groundwater District No. 3 includes portions of Gray, Potter, Carson, and Armstrong counties. About 65 percent of Gray County is included in the district.

Spearman said the tax should "probably be a mill tax" because of the size of the proposed district.

If the bill passes the Senate, voter ratification in participating counties would be required. Ector County and Odessa were excluded from the authority in the House bill. Roberts County commissioners recently voiced opposition to entering the district.

Gray County commissioners in March voted a resolution stating "serious reservations" to the bill in its then-present form.

EVER STRIVING FOR TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by a government, with the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property and secure more freedom and keep it for themselves and others.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guide expressed in the Coveting Commandment.

OPINION PAGE

If all mankind

If all mankind minus one, were of one opinion, and only one person were of the contrary opinion, mankind would be no more justified in silencing that one person, than he, if he had the power, would be justified in silencing mankind.

John Stuart Mill

Whats in a name

Down through the years we have been called many names, some unprintable, such as Communist, Fascist, anarchist and now a McDonaldland Cookie. It is really gratifying that we can be so many things for so many people. It also keeps us on our toes researching dictionaries, encyclopedias and other more abstract books trying to find out just what it is we are supposed to be.

Most people seem to have forgotten that America was formed by a group of people trying to get away from excess government, a group who wanted to be free and independent to lead their lives as they saw fit. America was not founded by a group asking to be taken care of, nor asking for handouts or to be led by the hand.

The Spirit of '76' was basically a libertarian spirit. Perhaps a more easily understood concept will express this better. Morality.

This is a word which Pampans undoubtedly use constantly when trying to convey thoughts, ideas and emotions on everyday topics ranging from the national to local experience.

The Pampa News, being a Libertarian newspaper, believes, like all Libertarians, that morality is a personal concept.

Additionally, however, we must also state that morality plays a key role in our philosophy of self-control as opposed to government intervention.

In the Libertarian scheme of things, the concept of morality is ruled by what we call boundaries: everyone and everything has these boundaries.

It is the crossing of boundaries through physical or psychological force or coercion which we and other Libertarians believe constitutes immorality: something our readers will identify with in most cases but not necessarily in all.

Under this concept of human boundaries — what communications experts sometimes term "personal" or "intimate" space — human beings are boundaries in and of themselves.

If someone grabs or hits you without your consent, they have crossed your boundaries and therefore committed an immoral act under the Libertarian philosophy.

That is easy to understand.

However, under our philosophy, property and even money also have boundaries and are bound to you under the Libertarian ideal of absolute ownership (the belief that your property is to do with as you and only you can decide.)

For anyone to take something which is yours or enter your property without consent also constitutes an immoral act.

Again a simple concept to understand.

Now to the main point of this editorial: Since you have earned your money, and under the ideal of absolute ownership it is yours to do with as you please, mandatory taxation by government is an immoral act.

Why? In simple terms because, in most cases, you have not given the money (your property) over willingly and would do other things with that property if given a real free choice.

Instead, the government uses coercion in the form of tax evasion laws and authorizes its strong-arm agency, the Internal Revenue Service, to cross your boundaries at will, and see that you comply, whether you want to or not.

It is because of these ideals that the Pampa News and other Freedom Newspapers around the country, constantly opposes government control and all the forms of immoral coercion which accompany it, such as taxation.

We remain committed to the goal of self-control, self-determination and absolute freedom of the individual to grow and prosper without interference.

Now some will argue that taxation supplies us with many needed services which, otherwise, we would not be able to obtain; in other words, taxation is for our own protection.

This, as we have stated on these pages before, is just a ploy expounded by politicians and others seeking to gain and keep control over other people's freedom.

Being believers in the free market system, we feel that the money taken forcibly by us each year in the form of taxes could be better spent by self-determining, totally free individuals who would be allowed to choose which services they desired.

Yes, people will be hurt if the Libertarian system ever becomes reality. But, by the same token, no system, be it Democracy, Republic, Socialist, Communist or whatever, will be perfect. People will get hurt and bad things will occur as long as human being occupy the earth.

But for the rose known as humanity to bloom and grow in the sunlight of greater prosperity and freedom, the hands of government must not be allowed to pick it off before it has time to reach its greatest potential beauty.

As I noted in an earlier column, the President has authority to suspend mandatory price controls on domestic crude oil and dismantle the complex system of allocations, entitlements, and three-tier pricing which were imposed by Congress. After having first announced that he would not do so in the face of further OPEC price increases he has come to his senses and presented a plan for phased decontrol between now and September 30, 1981, when controls would automatically expire anyway.

While his proposal is correct in so far as decontrol is concerned, it is incorrect in that it includes, if not actually depends upon, a call for an excess profit tax on the oil industry. If he gets that it could effectively negate the impact of decontrol on production and assure a continuation of the distress many citizens in California are now experiencing with the partial rationing which exists there.

President Carter expects decontrol to result in increased prices for refined petroleum (gasoline, jet fuel, heating oil, etc.) and increased profits for the oil industry. In fact, the President wants prices to rise to stimulate a reduction in consumption. We've seen this desire expressed before in his call for a wellhead tax on crude oil - a measure which was rejected by Congress in 1977. In that case the government rather than the oil companies would have benefited from the expected higher prices. Having failed on the wellhead tax he now asks for decontrol and the excess profits tax. Clearly it's not the higher prices he's worried about - he wants the higher prices. It's the idea that the oil industry might make more money which motivates the flow of rhetoric we've been getting from him lately.

In a recent speech the President charged that the oil companies were "grabbing", "profiteering", and plotting "the biggest rip-off in history".

Wonderful! Magnificent! These silly remarks are not only undermining the political thrust for crude oil price decontrol, they are also generating further evidence that Mr. Carter may be the most ignorant, demagogic, and mischievous man to ever occupy the White House. Why? Because decontrol of domestic crude oil prices cannot, in and of itself, cause prices of refined petroleum products to rise nor can it cause the profits of the industry as a whole to rise.

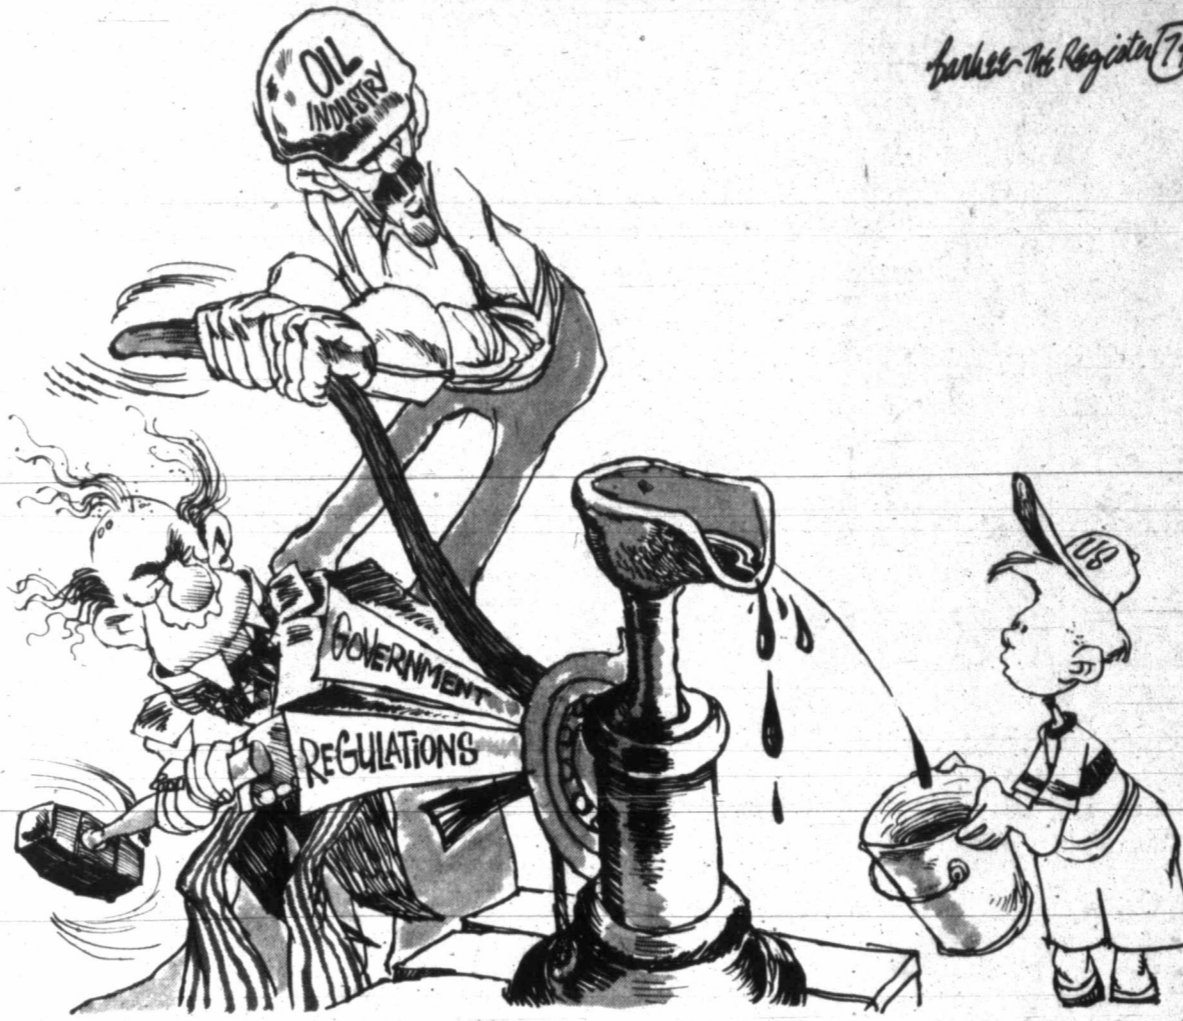

In order for decontrol to generate price increases to the consumer it must cause one of two things to happen: it must cause demand to increase or supply to decrease. No one argues that price decontrol will cause demand to increase. Thus the presumed connection between decontrol and price increases must rest on the assumption that allowing the price of domestic crude oil to rise to world levels will result in less rather than more domestic oil being supplied. The assumption is absurd on its face.

The price we now pay at the gasoline pump is the price set in the world market by the OPEC cartel, not the price set in Texas by EXXON. Price controls have not protected the consumer. By refusing to allow domestic oil to sell at the world price we have only succeeded in reducing domestic production and increasing our dependence on imports. As a percent of consumption, imports have risen not fallen, since price controls were imposed in 1971 so that now imports account for nearly half of all oil used in this country. Clearly it is imports, not domestic oil, which set the price we pay.

The current high prices accrue principally to the OPEC cartel, deepen our balance of payments deficit, weaken the value of the dollar, and increase the price of foreign goods - especially the more fuel-efficient foreign cars which higher gasoline prices make more desirable. It is all truly a vicious circle.

Decontrol can break the vicious circle by allowing domestic producers to obtain higher prices for their crude oil. Those oil companies which have access to domestic crude will no longer have to pay those companies which do not have supplies of domestic crude and must depend on imports the difference between the old controlled price and the import price for the privilege of refining their own oil. Instead of taking their profit at the refinery level they will now take it at the well. Their prices for refined products will not change. Those companies which have had their imports subsidized will lose their subsidy and their profits will fall. In all, industry profits will be redistributed by decontrol - not increased. It's no wonder that some oil companies oppose decontrol.

If the President is successful in getting his excess profits tax he will have set in motion forces which deepen our dependence on imports: since domestic production will eventually fall and, with that, tax receipts will fall. We will have higher gasoline prices for sure - not from domestic sources but from OPEC, with the compliments of the U. S. Government.

COMMENTARY

Made in Japan?

by donald f. graff

Americans might well ask themselves exactly what it was they wrought 34 years ago this August on the decks of the U.S.S. Missouri in Tokyo Bay.

A prostrate Japan, having surrendered unconditionally, was theirs to do with as they would. What they did was to blueprint the rebuilding of the defeated nation according to the pattern of a Western democracy. Under American guidance, Japan renounced its martial past and dreams of political empire to channel its considerable energies into the development of a modern industrial economy.

That rebuilding process is long since completed. Japan, although still deeply conscious of its past and devoted to many of its ways, is today a parliamentary democracy, one of the world's two or three richest nations and its second largest economy, a close political ally of the United States and the largest U.S. trading partner.

And as a consequence, relations between the United States and Japan are deeply troubled, the number one item on the agenda for currently visiting Prime Minister Masayoshi Ohira in his talks with President Carter, as they will be again in June when the Carter visits Tokyo in return.

While there are political overtones, specifically as regards policies on China, the Soviet Union and oil, U.S. - Japanese differences are rooted in economics. They have developed and intensified during the past several years of U.S. trade imbalance. It has been a temptation, increasingly indulged in, to see Japan, which has been deriving the principal profit from the massive U.S. deficits, as principally responsible.

Japan, it is widely believed, does not trade fair. While dumping television sets and taking advantage of liberal U.S. duties on a host of products from autos to calculators, it has kept its home market all but closed to American goods.

Washington has been giving ear to complaints of threatened American industries. Protectionist sentiment against Japanese products is rising in Congress and could take an ugly political turn as an issue in the coming presidential and congressional campaigns.

And it could get much worse, should the anti-Japanese mood endanger congressional acceptance of the new world trade pact just concluded in Geneva after five agonizing years of negotiation. That would be the real disaster because the new agreement, in addition to cutting world tariffs by upwards of 35 percent, for the first time cut through the tangle of nontariff trade restrictions that are more responsible than anything else for the difficulty of American exporters in penetrating the Japanese market.

Japan is well aware of the American mood and apprehensive as to possible consequences. It is currently mounting a major public relations effort - Japan Today, publicizing the nation's contemporary cultural, economic and intellectual life - in seven large cities to improve the Japanese image with the U.S. public.

But it is also increasingly resentful of criticism from the American press and politicians, the pressure from Washington to reduce its trade surplus and what from the Japanese point of view is American insensitivity to Japan's own precarious economic situation. Denied significant natural resources by nature, Japan's economic survival in today's world depends upon trade. "Export or perish" has become a virtual national motto during the postwar years of a rapidly expanding economy established upon an inherently infirm foundation.

The real objection to the Japanese is that they have been not just successful in their postwar rebuilding but too successful. Theirs is an economic success story that has certainly been made in Japan, but is not entirely of and by the Japanese. The original blueprint was, after all, American.

And what we have wrought is not only a Western-style democracy and a political ally, but a formidable economic power that is at one and the same time a competitor and an essential partner of the United States.

It is that last point that both Japanese and Americans must keep in mind in the process of adjusting to the changed circumstances of their relationship. Whatever their difficulties, that relationship remains essential to each.

Reserve a campsite now

We're well into spring and it's time to start thinking about summer vacations. Right?

So maybe you and your family are going to hop in the car and tour this vast nation, camping along the way.

You know the trip will cost more this year, with the price of gas and everything else rising. And you know you won't be alone. Millions of other American families will make the same kinds of trips - and compete with you for campsites.

Most of all, you'd like to camp in the national parks, where you know the campsites are good and the surroundings spectacular. But you also know that national park campsites are on the first-come, first-served basis, which means you can't really PLAN on using them.

Surprise! There's a change at the National Park Service. You can make reservations NOW for campsites in five of the most popular national parks: Yosemite and Sequoia - Kings in California, Grand Canyon in Arizona, Acadia in Maine, and Chickasaw National Recreation Area in Oklahoma.

There are five campsites at Yosemite, with a total of 787 places. The daily charge is $4. Sequoia has 200 campsites; daily charge is $2. The Grand Canyon's South Rim Campground has 300 sites; daily charge is $3. In addition, there's a one-time $1.75 fee for each reservation.

You can stay only seven days at Yosemite and Grand Canyon campsites because they're so popular; you get 14 days at Sequoia. You get reservations through Ticketron, a company with nationwide outlets, and you have to mail your request to Ticketron or go to a Ticketron office in person. The company will want a deposit on the spot.

Acadia and Chickasaw take reservations only by mail. The fee at Acadia is $4 daily; it has 300 campsites available. Write the park superintendent, tell him what dates you want to camp and give him one or two alternatives. He'll write back and tell you what's available.

If that suits your plan, send in your money for your reservation. Acadia's address is Rt. 1, Box 1, Bar Harbor, Maine, 04609. The address for Chickasaw is P.O. Box 201, Sulphur, Okla., 73086.

If you hold a "Gold Age Passport," a Park Service card issued to persons 62 or older, you'll get a 50 percent reduction in your campsite fee. That means you can camp a week at Yosemite, for example, for $14. You can't find many bargains like that these days.

Actually, this isn't the first time the Park Service has tried to introduce a system of orderly reservations for park campsites.

In 1974 the Park Service contracted with a company at Cedar Rapids, Iowa, to take campsite reservations by phone, using a toll free 800 number.

The result, a Park Service official recalls was a "disaster." He says:

"For four days it was impossible to make or receive a long-distance phone call in Iowa and western Illinois, the phone system was so badly overloaded. The company went broke. The system was scrubbed."

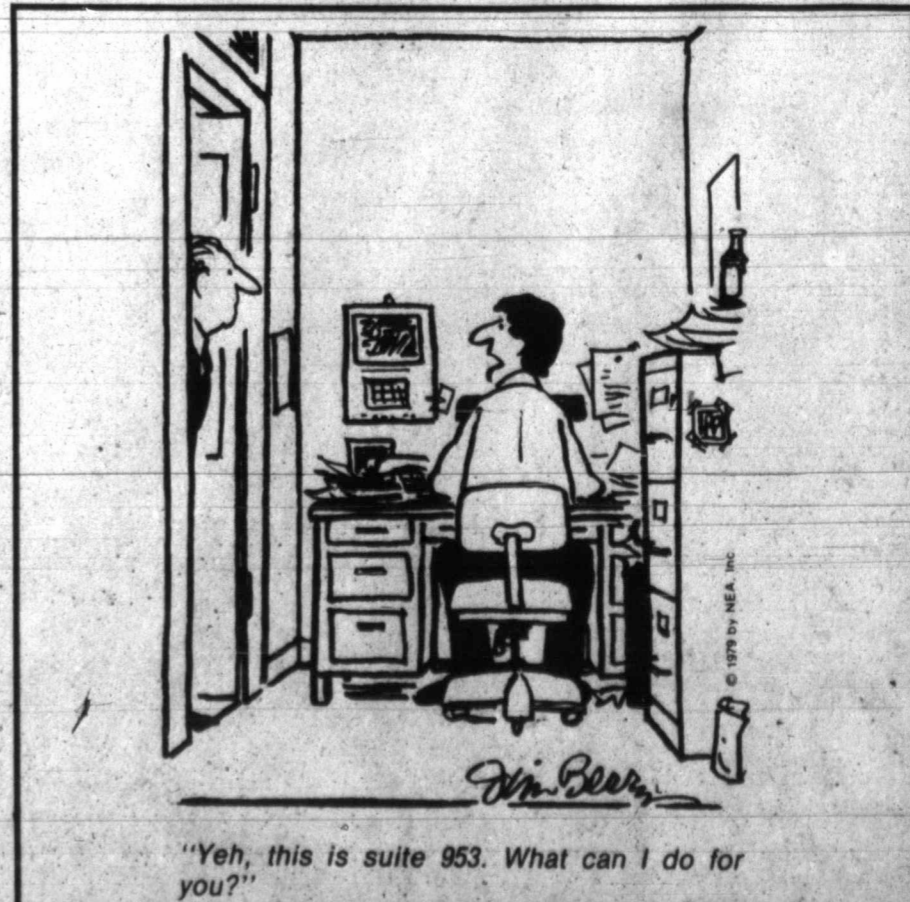

That's why the Park Service is moving rather cautiously this year. But within a couple of years, says a Park Service spokesman, most of the major parks will offer campsites on a reserved basis. The Great Smokies, for instance, almost surely will install a reservations system soon.

Word on the Ticketron system for Yosemite, Sequoia and Grand Canyon already is getting around in California, so you should act promptly. But there are alternatives if the campsites in the national park of your choice are booked for the dates you want.

Ticketron also handles campsite reservations for thousands of campsites in the Agriculture Department's National Forests in California, and for the entire California state park system, as well as some other state park systems.

Some of those alternatives, such as Lake Tahoe Basin, Lassen or Shasta - Trinity National Forests, are well worth considering.

Cradducks remember tornado

Lieutenant David Cradduck of the Salvation Army on Cuyler Street looked at his cluttered minister-administrator's desk and joked, "I don't think a tornado could do anything but help this office."

"The" tornado is a subject into which he can easily slip with some faint hint of nostalgia.

Weeks after the Wichita Falls disaster, Cradduck still seems to recall the experience as if it were yesterday, even though he wasn't there when the tornado hit, and says what he saw of its aftermath has taught him he "never wants to be around when one arrives."

"Well, as you know, it hit on Tuesday, the 10th, and I went down on Thursday, the 12th, arrived about 5:30 in the afternoon and by 7:30 was working in one of the canteens, helping serve food. I worked all night for four nights, catching sleep in one of the motel rooms the Army had down there."

Cradduck stayed in Wichita Falls until April 29, working in one of the Salvation Army's six canteens for four days, then moving to Harrell's School where he helped dispense clothing, food, and household items.

His wife joined him for five days after Easter.

"When something like that happens," Lt. Cradduck said, "most of the people decided that they just had to go on. The attitude was 'There's nothing we can do about it now'. The spirit was really great."

Mrs. Lieutenant Cradduck said reactions to the tornado varied according to age groups.

"I felt that a lot of the children thought it was a picnic," she said. "They could go to the canteen and get a free Coke whenever they wanted one."

"The younger adults had the attitude of 'Now we have to pick up the pieces.' And I think the older adults thought they'd been through a lot before."

"I think the teen-age children, the ones in between children and adults, were the most confused and hurt by the situation. They really didn't know just how to behave, like my experience during the Alaska earthquake."

Lt. Cradduck said the Salvation Army was handling about 200 families a day, and estimated the cost to the religious-charitable organization came to about $350,000. He said the relief program is continuing in Wichita Falls.

Cradduck, who assumed his post as a Salvation Army officer last August in Pampa, said he had the privilege of watching his new colleagues working under pressure.

"It gave me a chance to see the real men and women," he said. "I was able to make some new friends."

Lt. Cradduck described the Salvation Army aid as a "tiding over" operation. "We were able to give clothing and food until people were settled," he said. "There were a lot of amusing things that happened, in spite of it all. The people kept their sense of humor."

One family brought back all the clothes we had given them and said they didn't need them anymore. They found their closet. Their house had been completely destroyed but they found their clothes closet two or three blocks away."

Both felt the experience that had stayed most firmly in their mind was the courage of an 8-year-old boy who had lost his father to the storm.

"His mother was in critical condition and his leg had been impaled on a piece of wood. His aunt told us that boy had taught her more about faith in God than anything else," Mrs. Lt. Cradduck said. "I guess it was the faith of a child."

But the Cradducks were still slightly amused at some of the eternal vagaries of human nature.

"You'd be surprised how many people turned down furniture because it wasn't new," Lt. Cradduck said. "I told one lady, if she wanted new furniture, she could go on down to the store and buy all she wanted."

Attebery's will brings questions

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Ira Attebery wrote a will April 22, five days before he sprayed thousands of Fiesta parade spectators with deadly gunfire. In the first line of the handwritten document, he wrote, "I am of sound mind."

Steve Gross, an attorney acting as temporary administrator for Attebery's estate, said Thursday that the document was discovered Tuesday in a safety deposit box at a local bank. It was written in ink on ordinary lined paper and dated April 22.

Attebery, 64, was under the influence of the powerful drug PCP — "angel dust" — when he killed two and wounded 30 from his parked motor home, the Bexar County medical examiner said after conducting toxicology tests on Attebery's body.

Relatives and acquaintances said Attebery had suffered paranoid delusions about police officers for several years.

Attebery had received psychiatric treatment from the Veterans Administration Hospital in Poplar Bluff, Mo., but was never admitted to a mental hospital, records show. From 1974 until 1977, he was regularly prescribed a "maintenance dose" of Thorazine, a powerful tranquilizer.

Twenty other spectators suffered injuries in the melee April 27. Six police officers were among the first wounded. Attebery, armed with 15 guns and hundreds of rounds of ammunition, killed himself after a furious exchange of gunfire with police.

Gross turned over the will to the Bexar County clerk's office as required by law, but no application for probate was filed. The will, therefore, isn't public record.

"I'm not going to probate it," said Gross. "First, I don't think any of the assets would go to the heirs because of all the damage suits. Second, it wouldn't be worth the trouble and expense to get someone down here from Missouri to prove up the handwriting."

Wrongful death suits have been filed by the families of Amalia Castillo, 49, and Ida Dollard, 27, the sniper's two victims. Three of the six wounded officers have also filed suit for damages.

Another probable reason for not probating the will is that it would be difficult to prove Attebery's claim to be of sound mind, said another attorney who asked not to be identified.

Gross said he will report in a court hearing next week the value of Attebery's car, motor home and guns. The attorney said he expects Attebery's possessions to be auctioned off in four or five weeks, with the proceeds going to the sniper's victims.

Gross said there was nothing unusual about Attebery's will. "He misspelled a few words, but that's all," he said.

Fed cattle marketings down

AMARILLO — "Marketings of fed cattle were down 10 percent from a year ago, according to the USDA Cattle on Feed Report issued Monday — but things aren't as bad as they appear," says Bob Price, Texas Cattle Feeders Association market analyst.

"To industry observers who've been saying cattle are being over-finished, this report seems to be the proof they've been looking for, because lower marketings usually mean cattle are being backed up," says Price.

"However, other factors tend to temper that conclusion. Marketings in April 1978, at 1.7 million, were a record for any April — that tends to exaggerate comparisons."

"Comparing April with the previous month, feedyards continued to market more cattle than they placed on feed, so the total number of cattle on feed as of May 1 was down four percent." Price noted.

The seven-state report indicated feeders placed 1.475 million cattle on feed, marketed 1.535 million head, leaving 7.668 million head on feed May 1.

Feedyards in Texas appear to be current, according to Price. The May 1 inventory of cattle on feed in the state declined six percent from the previous month, because marketings were up one percent while placements dropped rather dramatically. But Price says many feeder cattle were being grazed during April and most will likely be moved to feedyards this summer.

Seniors receive honors

Each of Pampa's seniors graduating in the top ten percent of their class were presented with a Certificate of Merit for Outstanding Accomplishments in Scholarship at an honorary dinner for them last night.

The dinner, held in the Starlight Room of the Coronado, featured guest speaker Al Smith, the president of the local school board.

"Excellence" is the thrust of any group rated in the top ten percent, he said and continued to explain its importance.

In the ladder of achievement, ideas must be sold and priorities must be kept straight, he said in conclusion.

Clements not afraid

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — After suffering the first legislative override of a veto in 38 years, Gov. Bill Clements says he would not mind doing it again.

"It feels good," the Republican said Thursday after senators followed the House in defying his veto of a local bill and voting the measure into law.

Weather

Texas weather
By The Associated Press
Scattered showers and thunderstorms forecast for most of Texas today. Thunderstorms moved across the Texas Panhandle and into Western Oklahoma during the night.

Although rainfall amounts were not immediately available, the National Weather Service said heavy showers fell east of Amarillo during the night.

The only shower activity in the state during the pre-dawn hours today was in the Guadalupe Mountains of Southwest Texas.

Highs today were expected to range from the middle 70s in the Panhandle to the 80s in Northeast Texas to the 90s in South Texas.

Early morning temperatures ranged from the 50s in the mountains of Southwest Texas and in northern sections of the Panhandle to the 70s in South Texas. Extremes ranged from 53 at Dalhart to 71 at San Antonio.

National weather

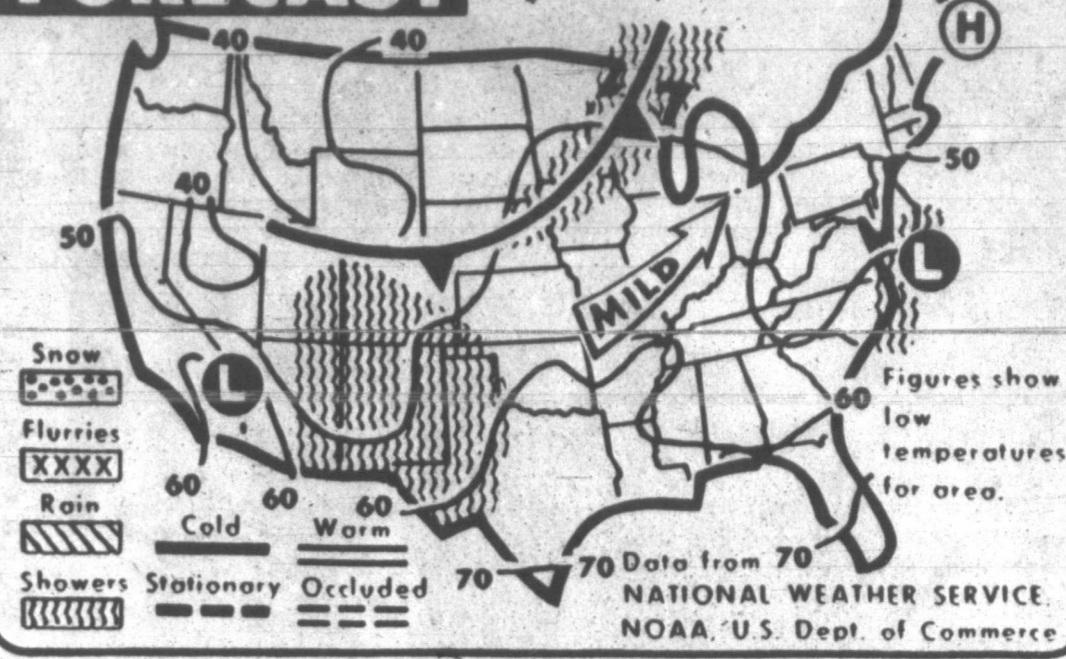

Temperatures were expected to be cool over the central and northern Rockies, the northern Plains and the central high Plains. Readings in the 90s were expected in much of the desert Southwest.

Temperatures around the nation at 3 a.m. EDT ranged from 39 degrees in Williston, N.D., and Bradford, Pa., to 80 in Phoenix, Ariz.

Texas forecast

West Texas—Considerable cloudiness through Saturday with widely scattered mainly afternoon and nighttime thunderstorms. Possible heavy thunderstorms Panhandle tonight. Highs middle 70s. Lows lower 50s to upper 60s.

FORECAST

SHOWERS are forecast for parts of the Southwest with fair skies predicted for the rest of the nation.

House panels to probe gas shortage

WASHINGTON (AP) — Is there a real gasoline shortage? Are motorists being overcharged? Two House panels are launching an inquiry seeking answers to these questions "once and for all."

Public suspicions about the reality of fuel shortages "are at their highest level since the Arab oil embargo of 1973," says Rep. Bob Eckhardt, D-Texas, chairman of the House subcommittee on oversight and investigations.

Eckhardt said Thursday many Americans still don't believe the fuel shortage is real. His panel and the House energy and power subcommittee were holding a joint hearing today to look into the present West Coast gas shortages and the chance they soon will spread east.

He said the Carter administration — which now is predicting a 5 percent gasoline shortage this summer — has done little to effectively persuade Americans that oil shortages aren't contrived by big oil companies.

"We intend to get beyond the rumors and fiction to put the facts on the public record for once and for all," Eckhardt said.

Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., chairman of the second panel conducting the inquiry, claimed that "gasoline pricing violations appear to be at a record high equalled only by public suspicions of the oil industry's responsibility for current shortages."

Meanwhile, Dingell said he sees considerable congressional support for a proposal by Rep. Toby Moffett, D-Conn., that would require motorists to leave their cars home one day a week to conserve fuel.

The new plan, being drafted with the encouragement of the White House and House leadership, also would tentatively limit gasoline sales nationally to at least $5 per car to keep motorists from "topping off" their tanks with small purchases.

Under the proposal, car windshields would have to bear stickers displaying a number from one to seven indicating the day of the week the vehicle couldn't be driven. Motorists would pick the day and states would distribute the stickers.

It would be illegal to drive a car on the day indicated by the sticker and motorists doing so could be arrested or ticketed.

Moffett said that, unlike the president's rejected standby gasoline rationing plan, his proposal can be used to ease gasoline shortages this summer.

Moffett proposed his plan after the House last week overwhelmingly turned down President Carter's standby plan for gasoline rationing.

minor accidents

A vehicle driven by Lanny R. Robbins of Rt. 2 reportedly made an improper right turn and was involved in a collision with a vehicle driven by Ramona F. Rumbo of 420 N. Wells.

Platform repaired before fatal accident

HOUSTON (AP) — The ill-fated Ranger I oil drilling platform underwent extensive repair before it was taken into the Gulf of Mexico, where it collapsed May 10, apparently taking the lives of eight of the 34 workmen aboard, a driller has testified.

James W. Sasser, 27, of Bogue Chitto, Miss., told a Coast Guard board of inquiry Thursday the rig was in a Mobile, Ala., drydock from Feb. 15 to April 24, and underwent more repair later at Fouchon, La.

He said all three legs were cut off and worked on at Mobile, and the stern leg of the three-legged jack-up platform was cut off twice.

Witnesses testified earlier it was the collapse of the stern leg that sent the rig to the bottom of the Gulf of Mexico 12 miles south of Galveston. Six of the 34 men on board still are missing. Two bodies have been found.

Dear Abby

by abigail van buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a 17-year-old high school junior. A year ago I was raped on my way to school. I believe I have dealt with the situation very well, but my problem is this: Am I still considered a virgin?

I realize that technically and physically I probably am not, but since this was done without my consent and cooperation, in another way of looking at it I'm still a virgin. (I never "gave" myself to anyone. My virginity was taken from me.) This question has bothered me a lot and I hope you can give me an answer since I respect your opinion very much. I am signing my real name, but if you print this, please sign it...

WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: Putting the physical and technical aspects aside, you are as virtuous as a virgin. And you certainly may consider yourself virginal.

DEAR ABBY: I am a married woman, expecting my first child in three months.

Last month my husband's grandfather died. He was loved and respected by all who knew him. The entire family felt a tremendous loss.

My husband's family has let me know that our child is to be named after Grandpa Albert. If the baby is a girl, she will be named Alberta. I am told.

I, too, loved Grandpa Albert, but I hate that name. If offered a compromise, saying I will use Albert or Alberta for the child's middle name, but not for the first name.

My husband and his family insist that it has to be Albert or Alberta.

Can you help me?

EXPECTING

DEAR EXPECTING: It appears to be you against your husband and his family. I think they are unfair to demand that you give your child a name that you dislike. Your compromise seems fair enough to me. Stick to your guns. If you lose, your child will bear the name of one of the world's most brilliant scientists.

DEAR ABBY: Yesterday our 4-year-old daughter disappeared suddenly. One minute she was beside me in the kitchen, and the next minute she was gone. I nearly went crazy looking for her in the yard, in and out of the neighbors' houses, searching frantically with tears in my eyes and a lump in my throat.

Finally, just before sundown, when I was nearly exhausted and hysterical, a neighbor spotted an old refrigerator stored in the corner of our garage! He opened the door and out tumbled my daughter, blue and practically lifeless. With the help of a quick-thinking neighbor and the fire department, the child was revived, and thank God, now she is all right.

Abby, please urge parents to position discarded refrigerators with the doors turned toward the wall so kids can't open them. If anything had happened to my child, I'd never have forgiven myself.

THANKING GOD

DEAR THANKING: I appreciate the timely reminder. Parents, please REMOVE the doors from stored refrigerators, cabinets or other potential "coffins" for curious and adventuresome children.

Dr. Lamb

by lawrence e. lamb, m.d.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Would you please tell me something about triglycerides? My husband has it. The first time it was 390 and now it's 230 and the doctor put him on Cofibrate. What kind of diet can we use so he can get away from the pills?

DEAR READER — Triglyceride is just a chemical name for the common form of fat. The blood examination in your husband must have shown that the amount of fat in his blood was too high.

With the initial enthusiasm about triglycerides as related to heart disease, many doctors thought that the proper diet was to cut down on carbohydrates. That has a lot to do with some of the really wild things that are said about sugar these days, particularly as related to heart disease. A more discriminating look at the problem and some careful studies showed that the big problem was obesity from too many calories of almost anything.

Of course sugars and starches and concentrated carbohydrates are excellent sources of large numbers of calories so eliminating these substances in the diet tended to decrease the calorie intake. When the calorie intake is decreased enough to eliminate obesity, many patients have a significant decrease in triglycerides. Your husband's diet should eliminate any of the obesity that he has.

He should increase his exercise GRADUALLY until his body composition is changed. It doesn't matter so much what a person weighs as long as it's all muscle. But even if you don't appear to weigh very much and have a lot of fat under the skin, that's not so desirable.

If a person is in top-notch physical condition so that he can exercise rather extensively at least every other day, the exercise is a good way to lower the triglyceride level. If your husband has not been doing any exercise, he should start gradually with a simple, daily walk and slowly build up his exercise capacity. He should be able to walk an hour at a fairly good rate without getting excessively tired before he tries to do anything more strenuous.

At that point he could start jogging a few steps at a time in the middle of his walk and then gradually build up the number of steps he jogs at a rate of 10 jogging steps a day. This gradual build-up will slowly develop his capacity to exercise.

Because men are so competitive, I find it necessary to continually remind them that when you talk about jogging, you're not talking about speed. Most of the people who get into trouble jogging are the ones who are trying to jog or run too fast. A slow, gentle jog that covers a lot of distance is worth a lot more to your body than an all-out effort to beat your previous time or to beat your buddy. Speed and kill.

A sensible dietary and exercise program that eliminates high cholesterol, high triglycerides and elevated blood pressure could drastically reduce the incidence of heart disease and strokes.

Wrong name but right sound

Dire Straits, the new English band whose first album by the same name (Warner Bros.) is on its way to platinum, is in anything but dire straits these days.

One of the latest wave of British musicians to hit these shores, Dire Straits has arrived with all the force of a tidal wave.

Dire Straits fits into no set category. They're sharp but not savage, mellow but not mawkish.

Although shadows of Jim Morrison and Bob Dylan may be heard in the voice of lead singer-composer Mark Knopler, the group's haunting, seductive sound, as evidenced by their hit single "Sultans of Swing," is unique.

At the recent SRO concert in NYC's Bottom Line, the four-man band presented a stage presence that was as well-received as their music. Their infectious good spirits were buoyed by their obvious camaraderie.

With only seven months on the charts, the first album is hitting No. 1 around the country. A new LP is in the works, to be released late this summer.

SOPHISTICATED SOUND is the specialty of Britain's Dire Straits.

Religious roundup by the associated press

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — A Lutheran educator says that throughout the world "Christianity and the Christian religion in their traditional forms are being downgraded and expelled from culture and society, slowly but surely."

The Rev. Dr. Ulrich Becker, director of education for the World Council of Churches, told a Lutheran studies commission that the common view is that Christian education proceeds in a "secular society."

But with the trend to exclude Christian faith from modern culture, he said that "today we are no longer so sure whether we can describe this phenomenon as secularism. Maybe this is too simple."

With processes going on in almost every part of the world to remove Christian marks from public life, he said, "Christian education has to be education that creeps" into parts of this "secular context."

MONROVIA, Calif. (AP) — A Christian relief organization says its new 250-foot, 1,100-ton freighter, Seasweep, is scheduled to sail from Singapore next month in a renewed effort to save lives of boat refugees fleeing Vietnam.

The ship has been purchased for $250,000, with an additional $50,000 for improvements, by World Vision International, a Christian humanitarian agency. It made a similar effort last year in a slower, smaller chartered boat.

"We have profited mightily from our experiences last year," says the Rev. Stanley Mooneyham, the agency's president. "Finding and helping refugees even with a much smaller and slower vessel proved that we know where to look and how best to serve their needs."

The new ship will patrol the South China Sea in international waters off the coast of Vietnam in 25-day runs through next October, and beyond that if the flow of refugees warrants it.

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) says it won't be among U.S. religious bodies receiving compensation for property confiscated in China 30 years ago because such property was turned over to Chinese members in 1950.

"If there is any accounting to be done, it must be between the Chinese government and Chinese Christians," says the denomination's East Asia secretary, the Rev. William J. Nottingham.

Thirty other American religious organizations are to be compensated a total of $19.4 million for property confiscated in 1949 by the People's Republic of China. The amount represents about a fourth of the $80.5 million the Chinese government has agreed to pay American claimants.

Religion in the news

NEW YORK (AP) — The "religions" of America have become a vast, miscellaneous swarm, ranging from the historically rooted faiths to the new and strangely exotic ones.

The "Discordian Society" worshipping Eris, the goddess of chaos, and dedicated to anarchy; the "Psychedelic Venus Church" idolizing drugs and sex; the "Never Dies" who maintain they are endlessly reincarnated with their same identities.

"I haven't verified whether they've been able to pull that one off," says the Rev. Dr. J. Gordon Melton, a United Methodist minister who is probably the most widely and directly informed expert on the nation's modern religious potpourri.

"Thou wilt shew me the path of life:

PSALM 16:11

HERE IS THE PATH

Man's triumph over a Menace to Life...

Sharks have always been man's enemies in the sea. They are a danger to the shipwrecked, and occasionally threaten the lives of swimmers along our coastal waters. Sharks are only one of the many dangers that man faces every day. The world, today, is in a turmoil and we must be alert and on guard for the enemies' moves. Now is the time to trust in the Lord and to seek His help.

"Unto thee, O Lord, do I lift up my soul. O my God, I trust in thee; let me not be ashamed, let not mine enemies triumph over me."

Psalm 25, 1-2

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Stored under reserve program

House members miffed by release of wheat

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some members of the House Agriculture Committee are miffed about the release of wheat that had been stored under the government's three-year reserve program.

The Agriculture Department late Wednesday announced that the farm price of wheat had risen enough so that farmers, if they choose, can pay off price-support loans and sell the grain on the open market. More than 400 million bushels of wheat — equal to more than 20 percent of last year's harvest — are stored under the program, which is intended to keep the grain off the market until prices go up.

Rep. Dan Glickman, D-Kan., and others on the House committee indicated Thursday that they want an accounting by USDA of why the wheat was released at this time. Harvest of the 1979 crop will begin soon in the Southwest and will be in full swing in Kansas — the leading producer — by mid-June.

The program provides that farmers can store wheat — also corn and other feed grains — under the department's loan program for as long as three years and get federal payments to help defray the storage costs.

But if the market price of wheat, in the meantime, rises to 140 percent of the loan rate of $2.35 a bushel — a trigger point of $3.29 a bushel — farmers then, at their option, can pay off the loans and sell the grain for cash.

In announcing the release of stored wheat, the department said the average farm price had risen to $3.31 a bushel, two cents above the trigger point.

Department officials said a full explanation of the decision to release the stored wheat is being prepared for delivery to Glickman and other members of the committee.

One official, who asked not to be identified, said the decision to release the stored wheat was "very borderline" and that Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland does have discretion under the rules on whether to abide by the formula's 140 percent trigger point.

The prices used in the decision involved a five-day average of wheat prices at major markets, including an allowance to translate those into an average price at the farm nationally.

Wheat and other grain stored under loan — the amount farmers can borrow from USDA by using their grain as collateral — cannot be sold unless the loans are repaid.

Another method used to figure the release of wheat is the use of the mid-month price calculated nationally at the farm level. This price is announced usually on the last day of each month, reflecting the average farm price as of the preceding 15th.

In this case, if the mid-month farm price of wheat is 145 percent of the loan rate — $3.41 a bushel — the department has no discretionary authority and must issue orders releasing the stored wheat so farmers can pay off their loans and sell their grain if they choose.

Thus, according to department officials, some parts of the program allow discretionary authority on the release of the grain and, in the case of the mid-month formula of 145 percent, some do not.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill that would raise this year's target prices for wheat and feed grains by 7 percent has been approved by the House Agriculture Committee.

The committee approved the measure Thursday by voice vote.

Rep. Richard Kelly, R-Fla., who called the bill "unadulterated government-imposed inflation," unsuccessfully tried to secure a recorded vote.

A move to raise the rates by 9.5 percent, because of recent jumps in fuel prices, was defeated, 22-10.

The 7 percent bill, sponsored by Rep. Glenn English, D-Okla., would raise the target price on 1979 wheat from $3.40 a bushel to $3.63 and on 1979 corn from $2.20 to $2.35. Rates for other feed grains are based on the rates for corn.

The Carter administration opposes the bill. Under the target-price system, the Agriculture Department sets a target price that farmers should expect to receive for what they grow. If market prices are lower than the target, the government pays the farmers the difference.

The cash payments are made only to growers who have cooperated with the Agriculture Department's production-control programs, already announced for this year's crops. The main wheat harvest is beginning and corn is being planted.

The department did not raise income-protection rates for farmers this year. A record 1978 corn crop had added to surpluses.

In major central markets, wheat prices this month have averaged between $3.65 and $3.85 a bushel. The farm price of wheat averaged $2.98 nationwide in April. Last month, farmers got an average of $2.24 a bushel for their 1978 corn.

English said he chose the 7 percent figure because President Carter used it for his voluntary anti-inflation wage and price guidelines.

Astro-Graph

by bernice bode osol

May 19, 1979

Your hopes, and that which you aspire to this coming year, will be achievable because they will be realistic and you know the steps necessary to make your dreams a reality.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Select wisely those whom you would like to socialize with today. Getting mixed up with the wrong group could turn out to be a negative experience. Your new Astro-Graph Letter tells you what lies ahead for you from your birthday on. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth sign.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your image is a trifle fragile today. Be doubly careful how you conduct yourself. Do nothing for which others could put you down.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Negative thinking could be your worst enemy today. Turn your head around with positive thoughts should this occur.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) If you have an old debt, try to clear it up today before the person comes to you. It could spare you future embarrassment.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Independence is an admirable quality, but try not to carry it to extremes today. Be a team player rather than a lone eagle.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Putting off responsibilities which you have already postponed is not the answer. They won't go away on their own.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Accept your friends for what they are today, faults and all. Displaying intolerance will cause them to think less of you in return.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Lead by example today if you hope to get a message across to your family or children. Doing otherwise will bring results you won't appreciate.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 18) Have all your facts ready today if espousing ideas you want others to buy. Unless they're certain you know what you're talking about, they won't believe you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Keep your budget in balance today. Before taking on any new financial obligations, be sure to clean up the old ones first.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Today you could be easily influenced by the company that you have. Share your time with persons who are positive and hopeful, rather than negative or petty.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Normally you're not averse to helping others. Today, you may not feel as compassionate as usual and miss the opportunity to assist someone who truly needs your aid.

Real estate prices up for Pampa

Real estate values for Gray County residences will continue to exceed the inflation rate for 1979, according to Roy Sparkman, vice president of Security Federal Savings and Loan Association.

Although first half of 1979 figures from the Pampa Multiple Listings Service will not be available until July, Sparkman predicted an increase of 25 percent in cash sales over the $5,071,925 figure for the second half of 1978.

The second half of 1978 figure was based on reports of 152 sales, most of which were properties which included houses, Sparkman said. Sparkman estimated 90 percent of the sales included homes, with the remaining sales being commercial properties or vacant lots.

Sparkman said that the average sale would probably be with "two or three" percent of home values, since the largest volume of sales involved houses.

The average sale for the second half of 1978 was $33,367, up from $28,385 for the first half of the year.

The average property sale for the year 1978 was $31,042, with 285 sales at $8,847,241. The average sale for 1977 was $25,603, with a total of $6,810,642 for a total of 266 sales.

The Multiple Listings Services records virtually all real estate transactions in Gray County, Sparkman said.

He said the 25 percent cash increase in sales for the first six months of 1979 would be offset by an estimated 15 percent inflation rate, leaving a substantial increase of 10 percent in real estate prices.

Sparkman said he did not think increase in the number of sales would count significantly in the estimated 25 percent increase in total cash sales.

The rate of increase and decrease in the price of single family homes per year or month is not compiled except in selected state urban centers, according to a spokesman for the Texas Real Estate Research Center at Texas A & M University in College Station.

McLean student wins award

Jeanette Brown, McLean High School Senior, scored a 98.2 out of a possible 100 points to win first place in the State University Interscholastic League Shorthand Contest in Austin held earlier this month.

Brown, named valedictorian of her graduating class, is the first winner of this event from McLean in several years. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Brown.

IT'S RECITAL TIME. Pampa private music students are preparing for spring recitals this weekend. Guitar, organ and piano students of Bill Haley (including Cathy Parr and Matt Turner) will appear in two recitals Sunday, May 20, at 2 p.m. and 7 p.m. in the auditorium of St. Vincent's Catholic Church. Compositions to be performed by nearly 60 students include music by Mozart and Bach. Piano students (including, from left to right, Chris Wilson, Shelli Teague, and Mickey Mendoza) of Mrs. Phil Pirkle, 1421 Charles St., will demonstrate their musical prowess at 3 p.m. Sunday at the First Baptist Church parlor. The recital will include the work of 22 students, most of whom are beginning pianists in elementary or middle school. There will be a reception following the recital.

Choral Festival set for tonight

More than 700 choral students from Pampa schools combine voices tonight at 7:30 for the Annual Choral Festival at the Pampa High School Fieldhouse.

The festival, which has been held since 1935, will highlight this year a special rendition of the state song "Texas, Our Texas", written by William Marsh. Some 20 different choirs from Pampa elementary, middle, and high schools will merge under the direction of the nine local school directors. For the first time, the choral festival will engage the services of a guest conductor, Dr. Hugh Sanders, former Pampa High Choir Director, now Dean of Fine Arts at West Texas State University.

The various school choirs have rehearsed separately for the annual event and will rehearse together for the first time this afternoon.

The choirs will combine for several patriotic numbers, but will perform separately or in various combinations throughout the program.

Respectfully Yours...

Seattle eliminates Suns

SEATTLE (AP) — Power, poise, balance, a good bench and luck.

The Phoenix Suns agree that Seattle has all those ingredients and that's why the SuperSonics are in the National Basketball Association finals — and not the Suns.

"It just shows you it takes more than one or two men to make a basketball team. If you have 11 men playing in harmony, you can be successful," said a happy Seattle forward John Johnson after the Sonics edged the Suns 114-110 Thursday night to win their second straight Western Conference title.

The triumph gave the Sonics a 4-3 edge in the best-of-seven series and sends them into the NBA final series against the winner of tonight's Eastern Conference championship game between the defending champion Washington Bullets and the San Antonio Spurs.

"Wow, what a nightmare that would have been if we lost it," said Sikma, the Sonics' 6-foot-11, second-year center who finished with a game and career-high 33 points and 11 rebounds.

Sikma was referring to a seemingly insurmountable 100-85 Sonic lead with 6:04 left in the game that dwindled to just two points before it was over.

An 8-0 Suns run cut Seattle's lead to 105-101 with 2:07 to play. Dennis Johnson followed with seven straight free throws for a 112-104 Sonic cushion with just 20 seconds left.

Walter Davis hit a basket for Phoenix and then stole the ball from Sonic reserve Joe Hassett and fed Paul Westphal for a jumper with eight seconds left. Another Seattle reserve, Wally Walker, lost the next possession, again to Davis. Westphal scored again to cut the lead to two points and was fouled by Walker.

Major League roundup

Cubs score 22 runs-and still lose

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

They say you can never score enough runs in Wrigley Field, and no one knows it better today than the Chicago Cubs.

They scored 22 Thursday — and still lost the game.

"It's unbelievable," said a weary but happy Mike Schmidt after leading the Philadelphia Phillies to a hit-happy 23-22 victory over the Cubs in a 10-inning game that tied a major league home run record. "I don't even know what the final score is — honest, I don't."

Schmidt's two homers — including the game-winning blast in the 10th — were among 11 that soared out of Chicago's notorious hitter's paradise, tying a record held by many teams.

The total of 45 runs was four shy of the major league mark of 49, ironically set by Philadelphia and Chicago on Aug. 25, 1922. Chicago won that game 25-23.

In addition, the 49 hits through the first nine innings were two shy of the major league record for hits in a regulation game by two teams. The Phillies and Cubs collected a total of 50 hits in the game, two short of the National League mark for extra innings and eight shy of the major league mark.

"After we scored seven runs in the first inning I looked over to Mick Kelleher and told him this thing could end 20-20 because we both wear a number 20," Schmidt said, grinning. "Sure, I'm tired but it's nice to be on the winning end. You have to give them credit for not giving up."

The Cubs were losing by 12 runs at one point, at 21-9, and had they come back to win, they would have broken the record for the greatest comeback in major league history.

Braves 6, Dodgers 3
Barry Bonnell's two-run homer in the sixth inning led Atlanta over Los Angeles as knuckleballer Phil Niekro gained his 201st career victory.

Pirates 6, Mets 5
Willie Stargell's two-run homer in the eighth inning led Pittsburgh over New York.

Giants 3, Astros 0
Ed Halicki hurled a two-hitter and Larry Herndon keyed a three-run seventh inning with an RBI triple as San Francisco beat Houston.

Expos 2, Cardinals 2
Tony Solaita hit a solo home run in the ninth inning, lifting Montreal into a tie with St. Louis in a game suspended after 10 innings by agreement of both clubs. The curfew was agreed upon to permit St. Louis to make flight connections.

Twins 7, Royals 6
An infield single by George Brett put the potential tying and leading runs aboard before Amos Otis hit back to the mound and into a game-ending double play as the Twins held on for the victory.

Red Sox 6, Orioles 2
Jim Rice hit a two-run homer off Steve Stone in the first inning and Butch Hobson hit a solo shot in the second as the Red Sox beat Baltimore.

White Sox 5, A's 1
The A's losing streak reached seven games — they have scored just nine runs in that stretch — as Ken Kravec and Mike Proly limited punchless Oakland to just two hits.

Angels 8, Brewers 5
Bert Campaneris drove in three runs with a sixth-inning sacrifice fly and a single in the eighth as the Angels swept their three-game series from Milwaukee.

Indians 8, Blue Jays 3
Toby Harrah led Cleveland's long-ball assault against the Blue Jays with two-run homers in the sixth and eighth innings.

Spring practice continues

Spring training for football players at Pampa High school is in full swing at this time and coach Danny Palmer is pleased with the progress that has been made.

"We still have a ways to go," pointed out the Pampa High mentor, "but we're going to get there. It looks like we are going to have a pretty good offense and defense. But we're not there yet."

Palmer said that he is not sure when the annual spring game will be held, but it is possible that it may take place sometime next week.

the bad things. Things are at a high tempo."

Palmer said that the spirit among the players is real good at this time and he commended the baseball players on the tea saying, "It's not easy for them to play baseball on a through spring training as well. But they are the type of kids that will do what it takes."

The Pampa mentor had good words for many of his graders including Clifford Anderson, Bobby Dorsey, Doug Smith, Doug Kennedy, Arthur Williams, Dewayne Avery, Danny Buzzard, Mickey Bynum and Derrick Eldridge.

There seems to be a tough battle brewing at the quarterback position according to the Pampa mentor. However, he noted that Greg Quarles is still the top candidate at this time. Sam Edwards is improving each day, while also making progress are Derrick Young, Mark Qualls and Clay Coffey.

Last Saturday, the Harvesters held their first filmed scrimmage. Palmer talked about the results saying, "I was pleased with the scrimmage until I reviewed the film. Technique wise, we were poor, but enthusiasm overshadowed WILDLIFE SHOULD REMAIN WILD LUBBOCK—This is the time of the year when most species of young animals and birds are seen by people fishing, hiking or camping in Texas.

There are several reasons these young wildlife should be left in the field since it is not only illegal, but it is always harmful or even fatal to the animal itself.

Texas law prohibits confining or penning game animals or birds and most persons do not know who or what to feed the young wildlife once it is at their residence.

Even if the young wildlife adapts to the human surroundings, they often become dangerous to their captors, pets, children and property when grown the biologist continued.

Young animals are rarely abandoned by their parents. Most are hidden while the parent goes off to feed where it can keep a watchful eye on its offspring.

Many animals and birds are natural carriers of disease and insects which can become hazardous or even deadly to humans.

Most of these cute animals have sharp teeth and will bite in self-defense. Usually, the young children at home are the recipients of these attacks.

If a person knows the animal is orphaned or abandoned, such as a road kill, contact the nearest Texas game warden or P&WD office giving location of the animal to be rescued.

P&WD PUTS OUT FISH

CANYON—Many lakes in northwest Texas are now receiving stockings of non-native game fish such as walleye, striper and striper hybrids, and smallmouth bass which will fill the acres of water not used or inhabited by our native species of fish.

The goal of 40-50 million walleye eggs is high, but a good season at Lake Meredith and additional eggs from other states should fill our stocking needs.

Many lakes will or already have been stocked with walleye including: Fort Phantom Hill and Clyde Lakes near Abilene; Moss Creek City Lake near Big Spring; and White River and Buffalo Springs Lakes on the South Plains according to Kraai.

One of the biggest news items among fishermen in Texas is the Florida strain of the largemouth bass stocked in several lakes in our state. Most of the large Florida largemouth have come from central or east Texas, but the P&WD has already stocked these fighters in Lake Theo at Caprock Canyons State Park near Quitaque and more will be stocked in Greenbelt Lake near Clarendon.

Smallmouth bass fishing is growing with a new state record now on the book. Both Lake Theo and White River Lake will receive stockings of these scrappy fighters this spring.

The stripers and striper hybrids continue to make news at many West Texas lakes. Lake Diversion near Wichita Falls will receive these fast-growing hybrids this spring.

HONORED Thursday night as the most valuable players of the 1979 Pampa High baseball team were Rick Dougherty (left) and Steve Stout. The ceremonies took place at Jim's Steak House during the annual Harvester baseball banquet.

Monterey tests PHS

By JERRY GUNTER Pampa News Sports Editor

LUBBOCK—Today is an important one for the Pampa Harvester baseball team as they try to sweep two games away from the Lubbock Monterey Plainsmen.

But the pressure is on Pampa at this time as it is vital to win each of today's games in order to proceed to further playoff action.

Action is slated to begin at Lubbock's Lowrey Field at 2 p.m. A third game, if needed, would be played immediately after the first contest of the day.

The District 3-AAAA champion Harvesters fell to 4-AAAA titlist Monterey Tuesday in Pampa, 10-3. In that game, a superb job by relief pitcher Rick Pinkerton proved to be of importance. He came into the game with the bases loaded in the first—retired the side—and proceeded to pick up the win for the Plainsmen.

It is expected that either Pinkerton or Steve Coleman will get the nod on the mound today for Monterey. For Pampa, it appears that either Steve Stout (8-2) or Rick Dougherty (8-1) will hurl in today's contest.

Should Monterey win the first game, that would end the series. However, a Harvester victory would force a third game later today after the first one.

Pampa will carry a record of 19-6 into today's game, while Monterey stands at 25-7.

The winner of this bi-district series will take on the victor of the series between districts one and two. That would involve schools from the city of El Paso.

If Monterey sweeps the series today, it would be the sixth time in the last eight years that has happened.
