Supreme Court denies stay Spenklink executed

STARKE, Fla. (AP) — Convicted murderer John A. Spenklink was put to death in Florida's electric chair today, clenching his left fist as 2,250 volts of electricity shot through his body. He was pronounced dead at 10:18 a.m.

Spenklink, 30, became the first man executed in the United States since Gary Mark Gilmore willingly faced a firing squad in Utah on January 17, 1977. Before that, no executions had been carried out in this country since 1967.

Spenklink was executed in a drab beige death room at the Florida State Prison. He received the first jolt of electricity at 10:13 a.m.

After the first surge, which singed the skin on his right calf, sending smoke into the death chamber, Spenklink received two more jolts of electricity.

A doctor was then called to check his heart at 10:14 a.m. The doctor looked at prison superintendent David Brierton, stepped back and waited two more minutes, when he again checked Spenklink's heart with a stethoscope and again stepped back. Finally at 10:18, he made a third check, lifted the death hood to look at Spenklink's eyes, and checked his pulse. Spenklink was dead.

State Rep. Andy Johnson of Jacksonville, an official witness, said: "There is no need for it. It is unchristian, it is barbaric. We saw a man sizzle today."

The Rev. Tom Feamster, an Episcopal priest who witnessed the death, said "It amazed me as I stood there. I was looking at the backs of the heads of the witnesses. I thought, 'God almighty, how could somebody want to witness something as barbaric as this.'"

The condemned man had lost his last hope of reprieve four minutes before the scheduled 10 a.m. execution when the Supreme Court in Washington voted 6-2 to deny a stay. Lawyers for Spenklink had presented a petition for a stay to the court clerk at 7 a.m.

After Spenklink had received the first electrical charge and while he was still strapped in the death chair, Feamster, who had visited the condemned man for two years, asked those in the witness room to pray for the dying man "in the name of God."

Also present in the witness room was Spenklink's attorney, David Kendall of Washington. Kendall remained silent and stared with a fixed gaze at Spenklink in the death chair.

The execution, which was to have begun promptly at 10 a.m. was inexplicably delayed until 10:11, when the venetian blinds separating official and media witnesses from the electric chair were opened, showing Spenklink already strapped in the huge oaken death chair.

He was wearing a white gown rolled up at the sleeves and blue pants. A towel was placed under his chin.

A leather harness was placed around his head, over his chin and his arms. His chest, legs and ankles were secured to the chair with wide leather straps.

Spenklink was not allowed a traditional last statement — contrary to promises from prison officials who had said he would make a final speech.

Spenklink was fastened so securely in the head harness that he could not open his mouth and stared impassively at the 32 persons who witnessed the execution on the other side of the glass partition. About a minute after the blinds were drawn, a black hood was lowered over Spenklink's face. Several attendants inside the death room stepped back from the death chair and the first jolt of electricity was delivered.

When the jolt surged through his body, Spenklink clenched his left fist.

Shortly after Spenklink received the first electrical charge his hands began to curl and blacken. He moved only slightly during the entire five-minute ordeal and once he had been pronounced dead the blinds dropped, covering the death room again.

In the hours before his death, Spenklink received final visits by his family and his minister.

The 10 a.m. execution deadline was set arly today after a panel of three judges from the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans removed a stay imposed by an Atlanta member of the appellate court, effective at 9:30 a.m. EDT.

Spenklink's sister, Carol Myers, and his fiancée, Carlotta Key of Jacksonville, visited the condemned man about 5:30 a.m. They were allowed one hug, then they chatted across a table, the prisoner in handcuffs.

"He's hanging in there," his sister said later, breaking down in tears. "He's got faith. He's strong."

At the prison in Starke, officials announced preparations.

The condemned man's leg and head would be shaved. An electrician would ready the heavy wires, skull cap and metal-lined leg strap designed to send 2,250 volts of electricity through Spenklink's body. A minister, a black-hooded executioner, 12 public witnesses and 10 reporters would be summoned to the prison.

As time was running out, Spenklink's attorney, Margie Pitts Hames, had said, "It looks like they're determined to kill him."

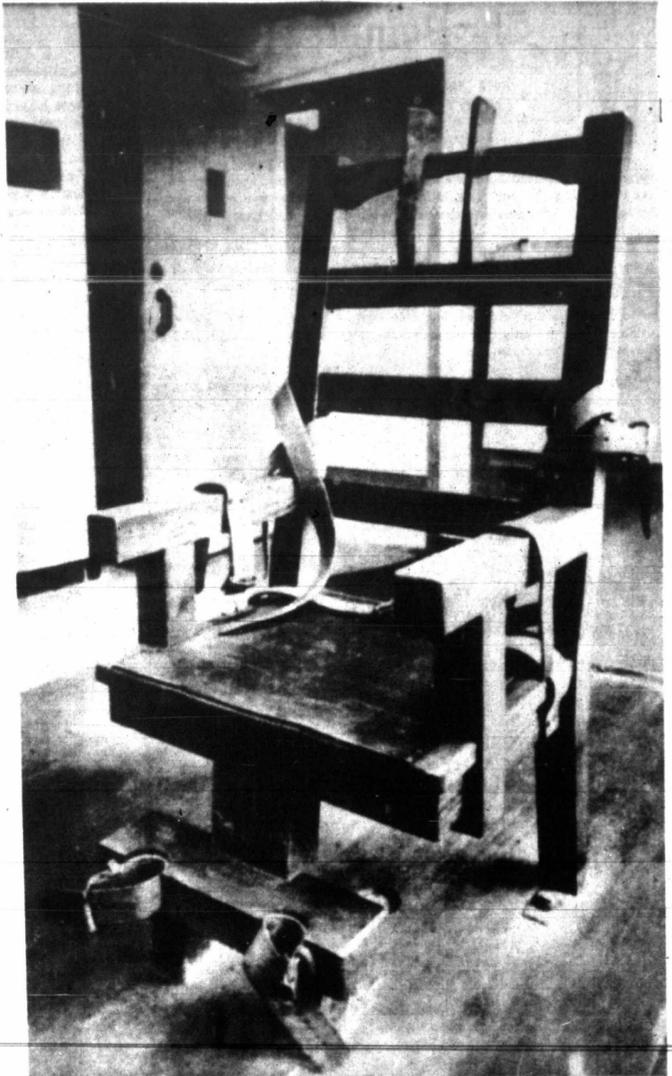

"The overwhelming power of the state is coming down on everybody's head."

Spenklink's Death Row companion, Willie Jasper Darden Jr., was granted a stay of execution Tuesday afternoon when a federal judge agreed to hear his appeal.

The U.S. Supreme Court, which four times previously had rejected Spenklink's appeals, on Thursday set aside a stay ordered earlier this week by Justice Thurgood Marshall.

Spenklink was in a holding cell a few feet from the electric chair at the Florida State Prison. He was visited for two hours by Feamster, who said afterward that the condemned man exhibited no fear. "He's doing very, very well," Feamster said. "He's dealing with this very well."

According to the Rev. Joe Ingle, a supporter of clemency, from about 3 a.m. to 6:30 a.m., Spenklink was visiting with family members. As dawn approached, small fires could be seen flickering inside the prison and inmates could be heard banging on walls and cell doors. About two dozen protesters held signs aloft on a road a quarter-mile from the prison and shouted, "Death Row must go."

Student-teacher ratio considered by School Board

By EUGENE LAYCOCK
Pampa News Staff

In pursuit of creating a lower student-teacher ratio, the Pampa School Board discussed using two portable buildings as teaching facilities at a specially-called meeting Thursday night.

President Al Smith said the board should see what happens with the two unit buildings, which could be purchased for about $20,000 a unit and can be leased for about $600.

In a telephone interview Friday morning, Assistant Superintendent James Trustee said an Amarillo firm gave him purchase estimations of $16,000 for a single unit and $30,000 for a double unit.

Placing all classes for Trainable Mentally Retarded children at Stephen F. Austin School was another possibility discussed by the board. Discussion on moving the boundaries that determine where a child attends school as a means of lowering the ratio was dismissed, however.

In other action, the board approved the purchase of $6,523 worth of equipment for the high school metal trades program by a unanimous vote.

The metal trades program will add a geared radial drill and bender for bar stock to its facilities.

The equipment had been requested in February 1977 and will be charged to the Metal Trades Equipment account, which has an unencumbered balance of $6,525.

Math competency tests for Pampa sixth graders showed this year's class scoring a larger number of students in the upper percentile.

Several years ago, some elementary teachers submitted basic math skills to be learned. Betty Graham compiled the various suggestions into the skills test, which measures students' midpoint growth in performing math skills.

The higher scores indicated a step in the right direction in teaching the basic skills of math, reading and writing, according to Smith.

After an executive session, the board approved selection of five new high school teachers, including Ricky Palmer as coach and health-physical education teacher and Frances Palmer as English teacher.

Other new personnel will be Charles Tindell, coach and math teacher; John M. Lowe, coach and science teacher; and Rodney N. Bagley, coach and physical education teacher.

Cheryl Greer was added to the special education program at Baker.

The board also accepted the resignations of Karen Lester, Gwendolyn Bray, Sue McMahon and Marv Ann Pinkens.

School's progress outlined

A luncheon was held for Clarendon College - Pampa Center at noon today at Tom's Country Inn Steak House to acquaint members of the community with the school's progress. Two local major industries, which have donated money to the school, were also announced. Complete details will appear in Sunday's edition of the News.

Certification studied

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — A Nueces County grand jury has asked the county attorney to study possible adult certification of five juvenile girls who admitted stabbing another girl at one of evangelist Lester Roloff's child care homes. Such certification could result in their standing trial as adults.

The panel's actions followed more than two hours of testimony Thursday by Roloff. However, he fundamentalist preacher declined to speak to newsmen before or after his appearance before grand jurors.

The grand jury cannot indict the girls because they were all minors at the time of the attack, said Nueces County Attorney Mike Westergren.

If juvenile authorities certify the girls as adults, the matter will be returned to the grand jury for possible indictments in the stabbing of Misty Hardman of Kansas, a former resident of the Rebekah Home for Girls.

Gasoline increase leads way

Prices up 1.1 percent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Led by the biggest increase in gasoline prices in more than five years, consumer prices rose 1.1 percent in April, the Labor Department reported today.

It was the third consecutive month in which consumer prices have risen by 1 percent or more. The March increase was 1 percent, and February's was 1.2 percent.

If consumer prices continue to rise in the next nine months as fast as they did from February through April, they will produce an annual inflation rate of 13.9 percent, the department's figures show.

That is nearly double the Carter administration's official target of a 7.4 percent inflation rate for 1979, and well above the 9 percent rate for all of 1978.

In a related report, the Labor Department said inflation and taxes had combined to reduce further the buying power of American workers. The amount of money workers have to spend fell 2.4 percent in April, the Bureau of Labor Statistics said. So far this year, the decline was 4.5 percent.

The report on the Consumer Price Index indicated that the greatest price increases in April involved transportation, up 2 percent for the month, and housing, up 1.1 percent. Both figures reflect large increases in oil products.

Patrick Jackman, an economist who heads the consumer price branch at the Labor Department, said about 22 to 23 percent of the price index increase was "due to gasoline."

Food prices, which began moderating somewhat in March, rose 0.9 percent in April. Most of the increase was attributed to continued high beef and veal prices.

The report indicated, however, that pork prices declined and poultry prices were steady, giving consumers more reasonably priced alternatives to beef. Fresh vegetable prices also dropped.

Still, food prices were nearly 12 percent ahead of April 1978. Labor statistics show.

The Consumer Price Index stood at 211.5 in April. This means that items that cost a consumer $100 in 1967 now would cost $211.50.

Before the price index was released, anti-inflation official Barry Bosworth had indicated there might be some relief in food prices, adding that "hopefully, the worst of the fuel price increases are behind us."

While the government was releasing the latest consumer price figures, the AFL-CIO was releasing the first report of its nationwide "price watch" begun in April.

Early returns from the monitors reflect a continuing upsurge in the prices on all sorts of consumer goods," the labor organization said in a statement.

Meanwhile, Agriculture Department figures indicate higher middleman expenses may account for almost 68 percent of a $22.8 billion increase in consumer food bills

EVER STRIVING FOR TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by a government, with the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property and secure more freedom and keep it for themselves and others.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guide expressed in the Coveting Commandment.

Free enterprise really does work

There is nothing quite so gratifying as the free enterprise system at work; a good job done with an appropriate fee paid leaves both buyer and seller in good spirits.

Free enterprise, in its purest form, happens every day in the county and many area residents may actually be taking part in this rapidly-becoming-rare experience without realizing it.

A good example of this is found by answering a "Jobs Wanted" advertisement in the classified section of any paper.

A "buyer," someone seeking to have a service performed, contacts the individual advertising; an agreement is reached on a price for that service to be performed; the service is performed and payment made.

Direct and simple with both parties ending up with something they wanted: the "buyer" with his service performed and the "seller" with his fee.

It's too bad that all market transactions cannot be this uncomplicated and gratifying; frustration and seemingly unsolvable problems arise only after someone or something, most notably government, interferes with the process.

Many senior citizens are fond of remembering the "good old days" when Americans took pride in their work and a "buyer" could be reasonably certain that the product would be acceptable.

Nowadays, however, with the advent of government interference and regulation of private enterprise, it seems that the phrase "Caveat Emptor" - "Let the buyer beware" - was never more appropriate.

Hopefully, someday we will see an end to government interference in the market and a "buyer" and "seller" can conduct good old-fashioned American business in peace.

Collection Olympics

The Health, Education and Welfare Department has slashed outstanding student-loan defaults through a series of measures, including cash awards to star loan collectors. HEW hired 800 part-time employees to go after ex-students who defaulted on the federally guaranteed loans. On top of their pay, they can draw awards of from $50 to $300 for nabbing the most ex-students in a given area over a given time period. Among other measures, HEW has retained a private collection service and has gone to court in 6,500 cases.

The result: Today 290,000 former students are in default on $300 million, down from more than 400,000 ex-students and $450 million outstanding just 10 months ago. Winning collectors in Denver and other regions have single-handedly recovered $10,000 for Uncle Sam in just one month.

"At the rate we're going, we will be down to a limited, negligible number" of defaulters by January 1981, an HEW official promises.

Nation's Press

The ghost of reconstruction

Wall Street Journal

Houston and Dallas, the nation's fifth and seventh largest cities, would like to hold municipal elections. But the U.S. Department of Justice won't let them. You may wonder how and why the federal government has acquired such a stranglehold over purely local affairs.

The answer lies in Washington's abuse of the Voting Rights Act of 1965. This act may well have been the most successful social legislation of the Lyndon Johnson presidency; the healthy change it brought to Southern politics can hardly be overpraised. As originally passed, the act was to expire in 10 years, but it was extended and revised in 1975. Since then its enforcement has gone far beyond an attack on the shabby history of black disenfranchisement to become an "affirmative action" program for city councilmen. The Justice Department has been devoting itself to maximizing the number of minority officeholders, no matter what.

The law requires Southern (and some other) cities and jurisdictions to get "pre-clearance" from the Justice Department if they make any changes in voting practices that might "dilute" the minority vote. This provision is being applied whenever Southwestern cities exercise their powers to annex newly developed areas on their boundaries. In fact, in Houston, and in a similar case in San Antonio two years ago, some statistics suggest that the annexations have had almost no impact on the Anglo proportion of the vote, which continues to decline from demographic pressures. But Justice has used its pre-clearance powers to refuse to approve the additions unless the cities redesign their electoral systems to suit Washington's tastes.

In particular, Washington objects to the election of councilmen at large; it wants all council members to represent single-member districts. In Houston all eight councilmen have been elected at large, though five of them must be residents of particular districts. Dallas has three councilmen at large and eight from single-member districts. With about a quarter of each city block, Houston has one black council member and Dallas has two. Mexican Americans, with 8 percent to 12 percent of the population, have no council members. So Justice has brought the electoral process to a halt.

It may well be that single-member districts are more just; at-large voting admittedly could work against election of minority members, such as blacks, Republicans, or as it may shortly transpire in increasingly Hispanic San Antonio, Anglo-Americans. And we have no objection whatever to increasing the number of "minority" officeholders, many of whom impress us as being more sensible than the white liberals they replace. But who is the Justice Department to say Dallas voters, who approved the present setup by a 2-1 margin in a 1976 referendum, can't elect three of their 11 councilmen at large?

The Houston case has produced even more absurd results. By halting elections, Justice is close to halting the city's capital improvements, since referendums are necessary to issue new bonds. On the other hand, local tax protesters have gathered the signatures to force a referendum cutting the real estate tax to a third of the present level, which would slash city revenues by 26 percent. This referendum is also blocked, leading the protesters to think that City Hall and the Justice Department are in cahoots.

Houston Mayor Jim McConn has in effect been given an indefinite term courtesy of the Justice Department, but he isn't too happy about it. He thinks there are times when public officials ought to be allowed to get out. Indeed, he is clearly dispirited by an extortion scandal in which the city purchasing agent has already been indicted and he himself has been questioned by a grand jury. "I know at least one member of the council who doesn't want to be here for five years," he says, "and that's me."

Congress may never have intended to put local politics into such a deep freeze, but that is what Justice has been doing with the Voting Rights Act. Even if enforcement of the act turns more reasonable, many of the nation's cities would need Washington's permission to annex land, redraw election boundaries, issue bonds or carry out other ordinary municipal functions. Even worse, here we have the U.S. Department of Justice preventing voters from exercising their honored right as the old saying goes, to throw the rascals out. It's ironic that a law once so successful at expanding the right to vote has wound up restricting self-government.

Remedy for shortage is freedom

By OSCAR COOLEY
Considering America's demand for a strong energy industry, the prevailing chaos in the oil market is disturbing, to say the least.

Motorists in California are filling their tanks with the greatest of difficulty. Elsewhere, there is talk of weekend closings of service stations. One group of station owners is threatening to close entirely the weekend of May 17-20 as a protest against the ceiling on the dealer markup.

President Carter wants to take off government oil price controls gradually over a two-year period. His fellow Democrat, Sen. Edward Kennedy, weeping salty tears for the poor who might have to pay more for their gasoline, opposes this. Carter dubs Kennedy's words "baloney."

Also opposing decontrol is a labor group headed by the socialistic president of the machinists' union who wants the government to go into the oil business and take over the importing of oil.

Carter has asked Congress to empower him to ration oil, giving each motorist ration coupons in proportion to the number of cars he owns. Congress demurs.

There's more, but that is a sample. If our energy is not scarce, it soon will be at the rate this turmoil is consuming it.

The truth is there is no call for the president, Congress, labor unionists or other politicians to get into the oil act.

There is no absolute scarcity of oil. There is only a contrived scarcity - generated and contrived by the controls the government has imposed on the industry. This scarcity would evaporate like a snowflake on a hot stove if and when the controls were taken off and the oil industry allowed to do its job.

Just about every good thing in the world, except air, has a price tag. It's that scarce. But to him who can and will pay the price it is not scarce at all. He can buy all he wants.

Who sets the price? In a freely operating market, nobody. The demand by the buyers pulls up the price to a point where the quantity brought to market equals the quantity demanded. This is the price point - the point of equilibrium. The exact amount of the equilibrium price is not nearly so important as the fact that the product is plentiful.

In short, a market is self-regulating. It requires no government regulation. Further, government regulation is a positive evil since it interferes with automatic self-regulation. It does not regulate; it dislocates.

The reason governments enter markets and interfere with prices charged and quantities offered is to enforce terms of trade which will benefit favored consumers, allegedly "the poor." In short, the purpose is to redistribute wealth.

Whether or not this result is accomplished, one result, we may be sure, will be that the production of wealth is reduced. There is then less to distribute and redistribute.

The reason there is less is simple. The plans of producers are upset. They can no longer count on hitting the profit target they aimed at. Hence, they become cautious and slow down their rate of production. They stop, look and listen for what may be coming. Any prudent person would do the same.

Government controls over markets are like monkey wrenches thrown into machinery. The notion that they help the poor is a fallacy. Nobody suffers so much from government's interference with markets as do the poor, for they, having little money, have little command over goods. When goods are scarce, whether as a result of acts of nature or of government. It is the poor who feel that scarcity first and most. General abundance enables the poor more than the rich to increase consumption.

The theory that free markets injure the poor, while government controls help them, brings up the matter of wants versus needs. Markets supply what people want, while governments purport to give them what they need.

But just what do people need? Is it the function of the seller to answer this question? Is Washington qualified to say?

It is common for a shopper to say that she bought a certain article because she or her family "needs" it. Maybe it was a loaf of bread, maybe a pizza. Some like pizza, some do not. There could easily be a difference of opinion as to the need. In truth, need is indeterminate.

But want is different. It is in the mind of the "wanter." When a boy wants a Coke, he wants it, and no one is qualified to say he does not. Whether he "needs" it or not could be endlessly debated.

Imagine a supermarket whose policy was to supply only the needs of customers. How would there be determined except by an arbitrary czar? And after being determined, bought and put in stock by the manager, how would he persuade the contrary consumer to buy them?

Merchants long ago found that they prospered to the extent they stocked what people want. They go to great lengths to learn just what those wants are and to satisfy them. The consumer is always right.

The mark of a political democracy is that the people get the kind of government they want, each expressing his preference at the ballot box. Likewise, economic democracy is a society that provides people the goods they want as expressed, not at the ballot box, but in the marketplace. They vote with their buying dollars.

Unfortunately, we often make use of political power to coerce buyers in markets, not leaving them free to satisfy their wants but forcing them to buy or not buy certain things, and at certain prices. Similarly, sellers are coerced by government to sell, not what buyers want and at prices buyers will pay, but what the coersers want to have sold and at their price. The result is that neither buyers nor sellers are satisfied, nor is demand equated to supply as it is in a free market. We have a real shortage.

Since markets are highly regulated by government, we endure many very real shortages in this market and that. The gasoline market is now highly regulated, so gasoline is short and will probably be shorter. To overcome the shortage, gasoline should be promptly deregulated. Freedom is the remedy for shortage.

THE U.S. AND YOU

Some straight credit talk

by William Steif

You want to borrow $100. One lender tells you the interest rate is 7 percent - $7 plus a $1 service fee, and you have to pay back at the end of a year.

The second lender tells you the interest rate is 7 percent, the service fee $1, and you have to pay back $9 a month in 12 equal installments.

It may look like a toss up to you. But it isn't.

The finance charge is the same, but the annual percentage rate you'd pay the first lender is 8 percent, while the annual percentage rate you'd pay the second lender is 14.5 percent. Note that paying back $9 a month permits you to use less and less of your borrowed $100 over the year.

This little lesson comes from a new, 46-page booklet, Consumer Handbook to Credit Protection Laws, which is available free by sending a postcard to the Consumer Information Center, Dept. 659G, Pueblo, Colo. 81009.

The handbook is the clearest explanation in print of consumer credit legislation enacted by Congress since 1968, when the first federal truth-in-lending act became law.

The handbook, compiled by the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, tells you that you:

- Can no longer be refused a credit card just because you're a single woman.
- Can limit your risk if a credit card is lost or stolen.
- Can correct errors in your monthly bill without hurting your credit rating.
- Can't have your credit shut off just because you reach the age of 65.

The handbook's first section gives examples of finance charges and annual percentage rates, and tells you how to shop for what you need.

The handbook discusses the three methods of calculating payments on open-end credit. Some companies charge interest on your adjusted balance; they deduct the payments you've made from your previous balance and charge interest only what you still owe at the end of a monthly billing period.

Other companies charge monthly interest on your previous balance, whether or not you've made any payments during the month. That's more costly to you.

Still other companies charge monthly interest on average daily balance, adding your balances for each day in the billing period and then dividing by the number of days in the billing period. That costs less than paying on the previous balance, more than on the adjusted balance.

The difference in one month's interest cost can be considerable. The point is that companies tell you when finance charges start on your credit account, so you know how much time you have to pay your bills before paying interest. Some firms will give you a 30-day "free ride."

The handbook describes leasing costs and terms, and gives you a rundown on "open-end leases" and "balloon payments," those hefty charges at the end of a lease.

Home settlement costs are covered under a separate disclosure law, administered by the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

RESPA, by the way, stands for Real Estate Settlement Procedures Act.

Then the handbook goes into the problem of applying for credit, noting that creditors normally look for "the three C's" - capacity, character and collateral.

But creditors are barred by law from discriminating the way they used to do. You still have to pass the test for credit, but the creditor must apply the tests fairly. That means no discrimination.

The booklet tells you what to do if you've been turned down, how to build your credit rating, what to do about mistakes and where to complain. Get it.

Coercion of farmers

By ANTHONY HARRIGAN

One of America's greatest strengths is its enormously productive agricultural system. Whereas the Soviet Union and Communist China are unable to feed their own populations, America's privately-owned farmers give our people abundance and also produce vast amounts of foodstuffs for export.

The essence of American success in agriculture is the freedom of farmers to make their own decisions. This essential freedom is in danger of being impaired by the United Farmworkers Union. The UFW is determined to turn farms into political and ideological battlegrounds.

In California, vegetable producers and shippers have suffered from a strike by the UFW with boycotts against products. Unfortunately, the U.S. has heard little about the ugly attacks directed at farmers and shippers.

M.T. Payne, an official of a farm operation in Salinas, Calif., recently spelled out the issue in the strike, as he sees it. He writes:

"The issue is power and control of people." He says that the contract sought by the United Farmworkers Union enables the union to coerce its members. "It is," he says, "the threat of present or future job loss that allows the union to get people to do anything it wants during this strike.

including the massing in huge groups (of up to 1,500) to invade fields of vegetables, violating private property rights, stoning and clubbing of people who want to work, destruction of property, attacking of law enforcement personnel, etc."

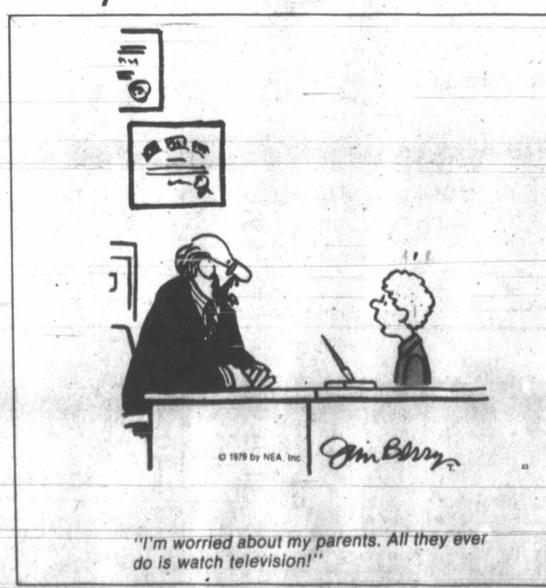

The UFW is demanding language in a contract which isn't permissible under the National Labor Relations Act, but which is legal under the Labor Relations Act of California. This language would make the union the sole judge of good standing of its members. It would give the union power to discharge a farmworker from his job.

If the union gets its way, it could compel farmworkers to slow down, produce poor quality, participate unwillingly in political activities, and picket supermarkets. Currently, the union is demanding that workers contribute a day's pay to the "Citizen Participation Day" and payment into a "Martin Luther King Fund," the beneficiaries of which will not be disclosed by the UFW.

The real danger is that new power the UFW seeks would lead to a form of collectivization of American agriculture. The union would have a veto over growers and shippers and be able to impose political demands on farmworkers.

This isn't compatible with the American system and should be opposed by Congress.

Killer Bees' hosts believed in senators cause

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Ten fleeing "Killer Bees" came to Dora McDonald's house for breakfast, and nine stayed and stayed and stayed.

Mrs. McDonald, administrative assistant to Sen. Carl Parker, referred Thursday to her converted garage — the hideout for nine of the missing senators — as "the now famous or infamous dwelling."

Parker, D-Port Arthur, disclosed publicly Thursday he and eight others had hid for four nights and five days in the west Austin room — 10 minutes from the Capitol — while state troopers searched the state.

Photographers already had secured pictures of the remodeled garage, and Parker said he wanted to stop the "harassment of innocent people" — the McDonalds.

"The first guy who sticks his head in there is going to get it blown off, or at least he'll get a punch in the mouth," said Parker.

The 12 Killer Bees fled last Friday to halt probable passage of a bill to establish a March 1980 presidential primary in Texas, which they said would favor former Democratic Gov. John Connally, now a Republican presidential candidate.

Their departure left the 31-member Senate two shy of a quorum. Parker said Mrs. McDonald fed 10 of the Killer Bees breakfast on Friday at his request.

He said they felt Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby would promise not to make any parliamentary maneuvers to get the primary bill through if they would return, so the Senate could finish out the legislative session, which would close in 11 days.

Parker quoted Hobby as saying, "No deal." "We felt we had no place to go," Parker said.

The 10 bunked in a garage that had been converted into a private room for the McDonalds' daughter, Lori, 18, who moved back into the main house with her parents. One senator left after several hours for Houston.

Another Killer Bees senator was in Oklahoma, and a third reportedly hid on a South Texas ranch.

Parker acknowledged their hiding place was risky, but he said he decided if state troopers came, "I would say, 'OK fellows, you caught me' and give himself up to throw officers off the trail of the others."

Parker added, however, the Killer Bees had not committed a crime, "and it's not against the law to give a missing senator or representative a place to stay."

He said there was not much the Department of Public Safety could do since the Killer Bees were on private property except "shine the light of publicity on us."

He said the nine Killer Bees wanted to stay close to the Capitol so they could get back to the Senate quickly if two of the other three were caught.

Asked about hiding the Killer Bees, Mrs. McDonald said, "We believed in what they were doing."

Asked how she felt, she replied, "Extremely nervous. I felt responsible for nine men doing something that hadn't been done in a long time."

The nine senators spent most of the time sleeping, talking and watching television in their underclothes with only cold cuts and fruit to eat in the one-room apartment, which had a single bath and telephone.

Pair fined $500 in burglary case

A McLean man and a companion from Terra Haute, Ind. were each fined $500 and placed on eight years probation in 223rd District Court Thursday after pleading guilty to charges of burglary in connection with the theft of $3100 from a McLean restaurant.

David M. Houser of Terra Haute, and Ira J. Killum of McLean, both 19, both testified that they broke into the Dixie Restaurant between 3:30 and 4 a.m. April 21 by ramming the restaurant door with their car. The two said they had taken about $3100 in cash from a filing cabinet.

During the punishment phase of the hearing, both men also admitted a break-in and theft earlier in the morning at a Phillips service station on Interstate 40. They said they took several knives and about $7 in cash from a Coke machine.

Killum and Houser were not formally charged with the earlier burglary, but the offense was taken into consideration of the punishment in a plea bargaining arrangement.

District Attorney Harold Comer said he had recommended the probated sentences upon the request of the owners of the Dixie Restaurant and the Phillips service station.

The range of punishment for the burglary charge is two to 10 years in the penitentiary and a $10,000 fine.

The two men testified they had driven to Terra Haute following the burglaries, then had driven to California. They said about $600 of the stolen $3100 was stolen from them while they were in California.

None of the rest of the stolen cash was recovered. Under terms of the probation, the two will have to make restitution to the burglary victims.

Killum and Houser said they drove back to Terra Haute from California before returning to Texas on May 3. They turned themselves in at the sheriff's office on May 4.

Houser testified that the two had turned themselves in because "it (the burglaries) just wasn't right." Killum said he had participated in the burglaries because he "needed some money, and I'd heard earlier that night someone talking about money at the restaurant."

Killum said he had intended to use the money to help find employment in Terra Haute.

Houser will seek permission to fulfill the terms of his probation in Terra Haute after conferring with probation officers, his attorney said.

Senators to decide fate of Eddie Chiles

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Senators decide today if they agree with Gov. Bill Clements that Harrel "Eddie" Chiles would make a good regent of North Texas State University.

Action on Chiles' appointment was scheduled today after Sen. A.R. Schwartz, D-Galveston, won a one-day postponement Thursday in order to listen to some of Chiles' radio advertisements.

Afterwards, Schwartz said the brief ads were tame compared to the "good old days."

"I might very well vote for him," Schwartz said after the listening session. "I do not have any reason to vote against him." Chiles, board chairman of the Western Co., has aroused some legislators because of his broadcasts urging Texans to "fire" politicians who do not represent the people.

It will take a two-thirds vote, or 21, to approve Chiles' appointment.

Clements criticized the Senate's decision to delay voting on Chiles.

"Action of this type is deplorable," the governor said.

Only three senators — Schwartz, Tom Creighton, D-Mineral Wells; and Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur — heard the Chiles tapes played at a Senate Nominations Subcommittee meeting.

Chiles declared in one ad, "I think our government should defend our shores, deliver our mail and fire half the bureaucrats today, the other half tomorrow and leave us alone."

Schwartz told Creighton, "This is same business compared to what I was thinking about."

Chiles also told Texans to urge adoption of initiative and referendum.

Most of the ads talk about federal spending and bureaucracy.

"Have you ever looked out your window lately and seen the swarms of bureaucrats?" asked one ad by Charles Simmons, Western Co. vice president.

Parker won a delay on Chiles on last week. But he was gone, along with 11 other "Killer Bees" senators, when the Chiles matter was to have been taken up again Monday.

'Montgomery Ward Bill' dies

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The House has killed, 120-17, the "Montgomery Ward Bill" that would have let department stores sell credit insurance against everything from strokes to credit card thefts.

Montgomery Ward had sought passage of the bill and managed to lobby it through the Senate.

The bill would have enabled department stores to sell insurance that would pay a customer's bill if he died, got sick or lost income because of unemployment or a strike.

The insurance also would have paid bills run up with a lost or stolen credit card. It even would have paid for replacing a purchase that was damaged or stolen.

Rep. Bob Simpson, D-Amarillo, the sponsor, said Montgomery Ward "has indicated it would like the opportunity to offer this. ... I don't know of any other company that has indicated it wants to use it."

"I don't think we have ever dealt with anything that is so special a special interest, where it comes down to one entity that wants this piece of legislation," said Rep. Bob Maloney, R-Dallas.

He said the State Insurance Board wouldn't let Montgomery Ward sell the coverage, so the department store chain came to the Legislature.

Maloney said a customer could not buy just credit life, health and accident insurance but would have to purchase the entire package.

"It's a no-win proposition for the consumer. If a consumer wants credit life, he would have to also buy credit card insurance. If they want a part of the package they have to buy the entire package and have it put on their account and pay 1 1/2 percent a month interest on it," he said.

And, Maloney added, the insurance would be an inducement to add new purchases to one's credit account each month because "you lose your coverage if you ever pay off your Montgomery Ward charge account."

"This is a fraud!" shouted Rep. Betty Denton, D-Waco. Simpson said a bill repealing a law — such as the one against package credit insurance — "that is not in the public interest is not special interest legislation."

He likened the coverage to homeowners insurance, which provides several kinds of coverage in one policy.

If credit life, health, property and casualty insurance were offered separately, they would cost three times as much as a package combining all of them, Simpson said.

Search bill passes Senate

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Legislators sent to the governor Thursday a measure that would prohibit police from using evidentiary search warrants in offices of a newspaper, magazine or broadcast station.

Senators on Thursday passed the bill by Rep. Luther Jones, D-El Paso, 28-1. The only opposition was from Sen. Oscar Mauzy, D-Dallas.

Representatives earlier approved the measure, 108-12. Sen. Ray Farabee, D-Wichita Falls, who sponsored the measure in the Senate, said it would prevent law enforcement officers from searching news office if there was no evidence reporters and other employees were involved in criminal action.

The U.S. Supreme Court ruled last year that police could search a news media office for "evidence" of a crime even though the office's only connection with any criminal activity was through its news coverage.

Since the court's ruling, Connecticut, Nebraska and New Jersey also have passed such laws.

"If the authorities were allowed to search news media offices for 'mere evidence' anytime they wanted to, it would be impossible for the media to investigate public officials because it would not be possible to protect the identities of their vital confidential sources," Jones said.

Harlingen officials upset over TIA abandonment

HARLINGEN, Texas (AP) — Officials in this border city, upset that Texas International Airlines will abandon the local airport on June 1, believe an interstate airline can make money here — if it wants to.

"We are like the east coast of Florida was 20 or 30 years ago," said airport board chairman Robert Dunkin. "Someone took a chance there and they made a killing."

Dunkin's comments came Thursday after the Civil Aeronautic Board decided to let TIA halt flights from here on June 1. TIA has applied for permission to switch its Rio Grande Valley service to Brownsville — 25 miles from here.

"We were on a very low priority with them," Dunkin said. "If they had a flight coming in from Timbuktu and it had an hour layover they would send it down to South Texas."

The TIA pullout leaves Harlingen with only one domestic carrier. But intrastate Southwest Airlines does not fly into major airports in Houston or Dallas — making connections to interstate airlines in those cities difficult.

Dunkin believes that TIA, which had served Harlingen since 1952, committed intentional business suicide here.

"Texas International could make money here if they didn't have flights that came in and left at bad times. They actually tried to destroy the service by giving bad service," he said.

Randy Rickard, manager of Southwest's Harlingen service, agreed that TIA's two-flights-a-day schedule was inconvenient and inadequate.

Southwest will add 17 flights per week from Harlingen beginning on June 1. Rickard said the new flights are not a result of the TIA move.

"The increase is due to our needs and requirements. We regret Texas International's departure and recognize the need for interstate service from here. Southwest will do all it can to help secure another interstate carrier," Rickard said.

TIA officials said the move to Brownsville is aimed at providing better service for the entire Rio Grande Valley.

"Our intention in suspending service at Harlingen and undertaking service at Brownsville is to provide more appropriate service for the entire valley," said public relations director Peggy Dyer.

"With Southwest adding 17 flights, it now appears Harlingen will have an abundance of service," she added.

Dunkin said that TIA never wanted to compete with Southwest in Harlingen.

CAB officials ruled that Southwest passengers can make adequate connections in San Antonio — where Southwest flies into the same airport that serves several interstate carriers.

GIRL SCOUTS (from left) Melissa Mackey, Carolyn Mumford, Jackie Reed and Shannon Allen, all of Cadet Troop 619, all in scouting for seven years and all freshmen in high school, were honored at a dinner Wednesday night for reaching the highest pinnacle in their level of scouting.

DEAR POLLY — I bought some permanent press halter tops for my daughter that had little tags glued on them telling what they were made of. When I removed the tags the glue stayed on the tops. Each one has a sticky circle. I would like to know how to remove this glue so she can wear the tops. — K.T.
DEAR K.P. — Try rubbing alcohol and if that does not do it then soak each spot in hot white vinegar. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — Instead of discarding that old plastic clothes basket cut it off near the bottom and have a waterproof tray to hold house plants. — JOANNE

DEAR POLLY — Grease muffin tins before lining them with paper cups, press the cups against the bottom and sides and they "put" a lot better while they are being filled. — MRS. E.W.M.

DEAR POLLY — Have you ever tried using wornout nylon hose or pantyhose for cleaning off bathtub rings? They really do the job.

This Pointer is for those who have trouble bending over or those of us who get a bit lazy when it comes to dusting the baseboards. Just put a pair of old socks on your feet and dust away — one foot at a time, of course.

Since the odor of fish cooking is so strong I boil a mixture of half vinegar and half water on the stove while I am frying the fish. The mixture is later poured into the frying pan to soak as well as get rid of the odor in the pan. — MRS. J.R.

D. Doug knows all about it

Tartans originally for rank and not clan

NEW YORK (NEA) - D. Doug is en route from London, according to Barry Goldsmith, vice president and general manager of Burberrys (BUR-bries), the far-be-it-from-us-to-dabble-in-the-faddish-English-clothing-house that just opened a handsome five-story branch here.

On arrival, D. Doug will be spirited to her station on the third floor. The Scotch House. (A sister company to Burberrys, it specializes in ladies' tartan skirts, shirts, blazers, capes, caps, waistcoats, trousers (closefitting tartan trousers) and ties. All this is tastefully displayed amid antique furniture and prints, bric-a-brac, animal horns and plenty of glowing, polished wood.)
Ms. Doug has a first name but Goldsmith doesn't know it. He just knows she's middle-aged and highly thought of by the company, which means well-paid although discretion precludes citing actual figures.

And she knows her tartans.

"Until we got her in our store in Knightsbridge," he said, "everyone was telling us we had the wrong colors in this tartan or that, and it was very difficult. Ms. Doug can quote quite a few tartans off the top of her head."

If should she get stuck, say, on the Campbell clan tartan (black watch — green, navy and black with a yellow vertical line), she can refer to the firm's fat swatch book.

Or to "The Clans, Septs and Regiments of the Scot-

KAREN MASTERS and Fort Worth industrialist Cullen Davis, shown in this 1978 file photo, were married in Fort Worth shortly after midnight Wednesday. This was as soon as the law allowed after the 30-day waiting period following his divorce from Priscilla Childers Davis. Davis still faces three felony charges in connection with shooting deaths that occurred at Priscilla's mansion in August 1976.

(AP Laserphoto)

Highlands" by Frank Adam, which rests beside it on a table near an assortment of tartan yard goods.

In all, Goldsmith says, The Scotch House stocks between 300 and 400 tartans. "We have 60 here and there are 1,000 in all, although some of them only exist on old garments and in pictures."

"Tartan," however, doesn't exist at all in the Highlands, according to Mr. Adam's book. But "breacan" does. That's Gaelic for the checkered garment worn by ancient Britons, Celts and Irish as well as the Scotch Highlanders who made what they needed, living up in the mountains as they did.

"Every good farmer's wife" could spin cloth and dye it with vegetable coloring, Mr. Adam notes. But sometimes you want to a local weaver for a tartan. He — not she — wove whatever pattern or "sett" you wanted, a sett being a repeated design done in a square and distinguished from other setts by how the warp and weft are placed and where the color changes occur.

To make sure he got it right, you'd hand the weaver a measuring-stick that had the precise number of threads wound around it. Servants probably didn't hand him anything, since they were only allowed to wear one color centuries back. But rent-paying farmers were allowed two, officers got three, Druids and poets six, and the king could wear seven. Except during religious services when the priest wore an eight-color tartan to show the king where he really stood.

All of which means that tartans originally denoted rank and not the clan you belonged to. That happened later on and became nicely complicated.

To start with, there's the clan tartan, which all members of the clan or tribe may wear. What they may not wear is the Chief's Dress Set. Only he and his family can do that.

Then there are Hunting Tartans which are usually brown-based and subdued, and a change of pace for clans with brightly colored clan tartans when they ride in the chase.

Dr. Lamb

by
Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Does the thyroid gland influence the amount of cholesterol in the blood? If a person is low in hormones would that influence the cholesterol level? I'm a female, age 55, and have taken thyroid for 30 years. My concern is that my cholesterol is 365.

At 43 I had a hysterectomy and at 52 I had a third of one breast removed because of fibrocystic disease. This is the second time I've had to have cysts removed so the surgeon recommended that I quit taking hormones completely. As a result, the menopause has started again for me. My bones are aching and I'm always tired.

that causes these individuals to lose weight. The typical person with an overactive thyroid may eat a lot but he often uses more calories than he consumes and depletes the body's fat stores.

By contrast, a person with an underactive thyroid tends to get fat even on a low-calorie diet and the cholesterol level may become elevated. I'd like to point out,

Most doctors would agree with your surgeon that if you have lumpy breasts, you shouldn't take female hormones. Women with normal breasts can often use hormones without any difficulties unless, of course, they develop a lump and at that point the hormones are usually stopped. Of course, you needn't worry about cancer of the uterus since you've already had a hysterectomy

Truck stops becoming self contained towns

WASHINGTON (AP) — Truck stops, once a Mom and Pop business with Mom turning out a minimal menu and Pop pumping gas for anyone who had the cash, today are a $10-billion-a-year industry, reports the National Association of Truck Stop Operators.

Not only are some of the nation's 6,500 truck stops likely to have been built by large corporations, but the person who runs a truck stop often is a new breed also, says NATSO chairman Charles Floyd.

"He can just as easily be a former banker or lawyer as an up-the-bootstraps man," Floyd says. "But, on the average the operator is basically a business executive, with one twist — he runs a 24-hour-a-day, 365-day-a-year business that caters to automobile passengers as well as truck drivers."

The changes in the industry have been enormous, he points out. If Mom and Pop were able to survive on two gas pumps and a cigarette machine, today's operator can't. A large truck stop pumps more than 6 million gallons a year of fuel alone.

"But fuel is not the only attraction for motorists," Floyd adds. "The truck stop today is fast becoming a city unto itself. They offer everything from motels and posh restaurants to saunas, laundromats and mini-department stores."

At some stops a driver can roll in at 3 a.m. and find a check-cashing service, a communications center, a barber-shop or beauty salon to visit while a vehicle is being repaired. At one stop, in Doswell, Va., there's even a live disc-jockey radio show produced for instant entertainment.

The family is not overlooked at truck stops, Floyd notes. Many have installed self-service diesel pumps on a "cash and carry" basis for recreational-vehicle owners, and have added items to their retail stores to woo trade from other highway establishments. And some locations have opened grocery stores for campers and pleasure drivers, and have installed waste-disposal areas for recreational vehicles.

Generally, truck stops are located on Interstate highways and primary highways at intersections with state highways. Those on the Interstate system are situated on an average of 12 acres of land, and can generally park more than 100 trucks and cars, Floyd says. Several stops cover 20 to 30 acres and can accommodate several hundred vehicles.

But prime interstate locations are not cheap. According to NATSO, the independent businessman located on Interstate-highway property has paid an average of $9,378 per acre.

About 35 percent of the truck stops in the nation are operated as part of a chain. The other 65 percent are independents. So sophisticated has the industry become that NATSO now stages seminars for its members that range all the way from "Retail Store Management" to one seminar that has been dubbed "Trucker vs. Truck Stop Operator" which allows both sides to air their gripes in an academic-type environment.

Dear Abby

by abigail van buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow, 79. I live in the same apartment building with a very fine gentleman. We've become very good friends. He is married but has a legal separation from his wife. She won't consent to a divorce unless he gives her a very large settlement, which he doesn't want to do as he figures he may outlive her. (She's 82 and he's 83.)

I am not entirely at ease with this man since I am afraid his wife might sue me, and I have a pretty nice savings account. She's very clever and I have heard that she still watches him like a hawk.

He takes me out to dinner, and I have him in for meals. We play a little cards, watch a little TV, and when it comes to romance, he is unbelievable! I think you get the picture, but I'm not looking for trouble — just companionship.

BEA IN THE BRONX

DEAR BEA: Ask your lawyer how much "companionship" the law allows a man in your neighbor's circumstances. I think I get the picture, but if you aren't careful, you could get the frame.

DEAR ABBY: A reader in Tuscaloosa, Ala., asked about yawning, and you said, "It's usually an involuntary opening of the mouth when you wish others would shut theirs."

On the contrary, Abby, yawning occurs when we are most interested in what is being said. When we are tired and wish to stay awake, we yawn to get extra oxygen to keep us alert. Please abolish forever the false notion that yawning is rude. And from now on when a speaker sees someone in his audience yawning, he can be assured that his talk is worthwhile!

E.S.R.

DEAR E.S.R.: Yawning in itself is not rude, it's leaving an open mouth uncovered that's rude. However, my wide-awake experts assure me that yawning is a sign of fatigue, drowsiness or boredom.

DEAR ABBY: I've been married less than a year and already realize it's not going to last.

My problem is what to do with all the lovely wedding gifts. Our silver isn't even tarnished yet, but the cash has been spent!

I feel guilty keeping the presents, knowing that this marriage was a mistake from the start. Now all we need is the courage to tell our family and friends.

Is it proper to return the gifts? How about the cash?
IT'S OVER IN OHIO

DEAR OVER: According to "The New Emily Post's Etiquette" by Elizabeth Post (1975):

"Once the wedding has taken place, gifts are not returned, no matter how short the marriage. Strictly speaking, the presents belong to the wife, but the usual procedure is for the husband to keep those items that came from his own family and friends, and those particularly meaningful or useful to him, while his wife keeps the others."

CONFIDENTIAL TO "ANYONE FOR WHOM IT IS NOT YET TOO LATE:" The gestation period of a mother's advice is anywhere from one week to 50 years. Losing one's mother before having thanked her for the many precious things she taught you is one of life's greatest tragedies.

Wedding bells in your future? Whether your lifestyle is bridal gown or blue jeans, Abby lays it all out for you in her booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." Send $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents) self-addressed envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Caldwell to speak at Bethel Assembly

The Reverend William Caldwell, Lit. D., of Tulsa, Okla., evangelist, author and head of Front Line Evangelism, a worldwide missionary agency, will be the guest speaker in revival services to be conducted nightly at 7:30 P.M., May 29 through 31 in the Bethel Assembly of God, at the corner of Hamilton and Worrell Streets, it was announced by Paul DeWolfe, pastor of the church.

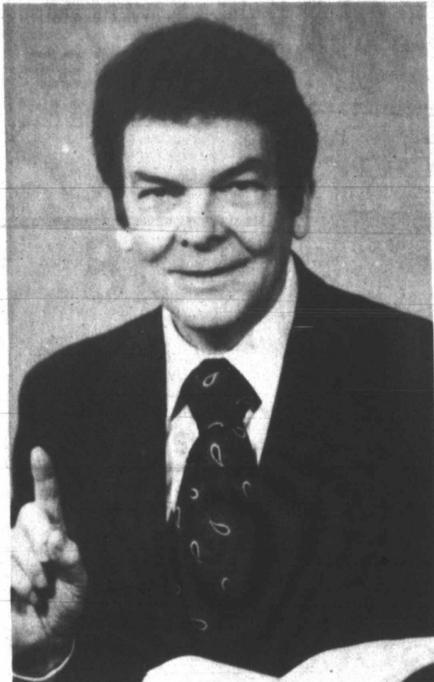

The gospel themes will be salvation for the soul, divine healing for the body, the baptism in the Holy Spirit for all believers, and the second coming of Christ.

Doctor Caldwell's ministry has taken him to all fifty states and many foreign countries. Some of his books are among the all-time best sellers.

His most recent overseas crusades have been in Korea, Sri Lanka (Ceylon), Peru, Ecuador, Singapore, the Philippines, India and Australia, having just returned from holding crusades in Communist Eastern Europe.

His sermon subjects include: Meet the Healer, Your Miracle, Gifts of the Spirit, Tongues, the Hillbilly's Pea Patch, Lying Spirits, Samson and Guess Who and When the World Goes BOOM.

The evangelist will pray for the sick at each service. The public is invited to attend.

Rev. William Caldwell

Mens day observed at St. Mark Church

Sunday, May 27th the stewards, trustees and the entire male membership will have charge of the worship services.

"This years program is going to be the biggest in the history of the celebrations," says Rev. C.C. Campbell, pastor of St. Mark.

Highlighting the day long event is a special program at 3 p.m. in the church sanctuary with Don Lane, Pampa attorney as guest speaker. Music will be rendered by a special men's choir.

Following the afternoon program refreshments will be served in the Fellowship Hall.

It promises to be an exciting day and the public is cordially invited to share this event with us. St. Mark Church is located at 406 Elm St.

"Thou wilt shew me the path of life, in thy presence is fulness of joy..."
PSALM 16-11

HERE IS THE PATH

There is a need to look back occasionally to get our bearings for the future. Past experiences often guide future action. What has proved good and profitable in the past will often prove to be the same in the days ahead. Serving God and our country through our churches and through civil and community service has always elevated us as a people and contributed to our image as a free and just country. We will not go wrong in adhering to these practices.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Priscilla, friends blamed

Davis mansion a mess

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Priscilla Davis left a half million dollars worth of damage behind when she moved out of the $6 million mansion she once shared with Cullen Davis, the 45-year-old Fort Worth millionaire says.

Priscilla finished moving out of the mansion about 3:30 a.m. Thursday, actually after the midnight deadline a judge had given her when he awarded Cullen the mansion in the couple's divorce settlement a month ago.

Cullen and his new bride, longtime girlfriend Karen Master, exchanged marriage vows at 12:50 a.m. Thursday, almost as soon as it was legal to do so. Within eight hours they arrived at the mansion, which they plan to move into, to inspect its condition.

They were outraged.

"Paintings are missing, marble statues are broken, silverware is missing—a lot of the better stuff is missing. All of the carpets in the house are ruined," Davis said.

Many of the $2 million worth of paintings and marble statues with which he furnished the mansion four years ago are gone or damaged, and animal excrement covered the floors of virtually every room in the 20-room mansion, Davis said.

The damage, he said, was caused by "Priscilla, her friends and other animals." The animal excrement — apparently from the six dogs and two cats Priscilla took with her when she moved from the mansion hours earlier — spotted expensive white rugs.

The stench "was so strong that it was almost unbearable," an aide said.

Davis estimated it will take more than $500,000 to repair the mansion. A judge ordered him to pay Priscilla $3.4 million in their divorce settlement, and Davis said, "I'll just deduct it (the $500,000) from what I owe her."

His new bride said the house "smelled so bad" when they arrived about 9 a.m. "that we had to open all the doors."

"You know when pigs live in it, it's difficult for humans to move in," Davis' new bride said.

"We were prepared for it to be a mess, in that we knew she and the group she associates with are not like the human race," she added bitterly, pointing to the broken statues and furniture throughout the home.

"She took a lot of furniture she wasn't supposed to take, but that's okay. I wouldn't want to sleep in her bed anyway," the new Mrs. Davis said.

Larry Boswell, an investigator for the Davis defense team, said:

"Dresser drawers were left in a jumble, and there was a lot of trash scattered around. It looks like some of the damage was deliberate."

A newspaper photographer said marble statues and pictures had been removed from walls, and part of the leather covering a headboard appeared to have been pulled off.

Ornamental bronze statues were pulled from their pedestals, and the marble top of a table was broken. Silverware and china were missing, Davis said.

In Eastern Europe

Doors opening to Bibles

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Some doors have edged open lately to the shipment of Bibles into Communist eastern Europe, leading several Christian leaders to discount the usefulness of Bible smuggling.

In some cases, they say, it stiffens the barriers.

While more Bibles are needed in some areas, "this smuggling traffic does harm and creates difficulties" for churches in the Soviet orbit, says the Rev. Paul Hansen, Europe secretary of the Lutheran World Federation.

He says the breaking of customs laws provides "new ammunition" for anti-religious forces, generates hostility toward churches at a time when some Soviet officials are advocating more tolerance and may "in fact be hindering the extension" of Christian faith.

"It leads to discrimination against Christians."

Similar statements have come from other churchmen familiar with the situation, along with the recent officially approved sending of 25,000 Bibles to Baptists and others in the Soviet Union.

The Russian-language Bibles, plus 5,000 Bible concordances, were provided by the United Bible Societies under an import permit granted the All-Union Council of Evangelical Christians-Baptists, the main Soviet body of Protestants.

Altogether, the Bible societies report that since World War II, a total of 12 million copies of Scriptures have been legally distributed in east European Communist countries.

Gas shortage won't stop art and craft show

Persons interested in traveling to Kerrville this weekend for the annual Texas State Arts and Crafts show should not be deterred by reports of possible shortages or a crunch in gas on Memorial Day weekend, according to Audie Hamilton, executive director of the Texas Arts and Crafts Foundation.

Mrs. Hamilton said foundation representatives had spoken with a number of Kerrville service stations, oil marketers and the state allocation office in Austin had been contacted.

All Kerrville service stations will selling gas on Memorial Day weekend, and only three are predicting they will run out, she said. No Kerrville service station will stay closed this weekend simply to conserve gas. Mrs. Hamilton said convenience stores will have have gasoline, and will be able to obtain refills if they run out.

Mrs. Hamilton said Gulf stations have been able to obtain an extra allotment because of the fair. Texaco stations, she said, have been staggering their gas supply to assure a sufficient amount for the weekend.

Kerrville is 58 miles west of San Antonio on Interstate 10.

Church unity still strong

GRAYMOOR, N. Y. (AP) — An ecumenical specialist says there is no substance to the widely held view that the movement for Christian unity has run out of steam.

"There is simply too much going on today, both locally and in the dialogues between the churches," says the Rev. William A. Norgren, assistant ecumenical officer of the Episcopal Church.

Writing in the May issue of Ecumenical Trends, published by the Graymoor Ecumenical Institute, he says in contrast to the pessimistic view, a "second opinion is that ecumenism is having growing pains."

This has "more to commend it," he adds, saying it implies that "in the next stage the variety of dialogues and agencies contributing to the ecumenical movement will enter into closer functional relationships."

The movement "is in no way a passing phase," he says, but "rather an expression" of the church's timeless mandate to renew its unity in keeping with Christ's prayer that all his followers be one so that the world may believe.

Vietnam depending on USSR

ELGIN, Ill. (AP) — U. S. unwillingness to normalize trade or diplomatic relations with Vietnam have thrown Vietnam into dependence on Soviet supplies, says the Rev. William Herod, consultant of the interdenominational relief agency, Church World Service.

Herod, who served in Vietnam four years before the 1975 U.S. evacuation and who has since visited the country, told a meeting of Church of the Brethren pastors that U.S. churches should work to keep the "doors open" to Vietnam.

Abortion resistance increasing

CHICAGO (AP) — Survey data indicate resistance to abortion is increasing, reports the National Opinion Research Center at the University of Chicago.

It finds that the percentage of the population approving abortions for unmarried mothers dropped from 50 percent in 1977 to 41 percent in 1978, while those approving abortion for married women who want no more children dropped from 47 percent in 1977 to 40 percent in 1978.

Bank guard shot

DALLAS (AP) — A bank guard, reported missing when he failed to make a delivery of money, was found shot and handcuffed to the steering wheel of his car on an isolated road outside Dallas, authorities said.

Officials at the First Texas Bank notified police when Robert Fryar, 21, failed to deliver an undisclosed amount of cash Thursday to the drive-in bank.

A grass-cutting crew found Fryar on a road north of Irving with a gunshot wound in his right side, police said. He was admitted to Parkland Memorial Hospital and was reported in stable condition Thursday night.

Fryar told police two men abducted him after a car blocking an alley forced him to stop. One man with a .22-caliber derringer climbed into his car while the other waited in a second vehicle, he said.

A change in your social life is about to take place this coming year when several new persons enter your life. However, make certain you don't forsake old and loyal allies.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You might experience some uncomfortable moments today because you are a bit too touchy. Focus your attention on being nice to others and forget yourself. Find out more of what lies ahead for you for the year following your birthday by sending for your new Astro-Graph Letter. Mail $1 for each and a self-addressed envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify your birth sign.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) This is not a get something for nothing kind of day. The only way you will get what you want is to expend the necessary effort.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Although you might think it is kinder to disguise the truth from a pal, it will not work out to either yours or your friend's benefit. Tell the truth.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Lack of faith in yourself will be your biggest enemy today. If you allow self-doubts to influence you, you will lose out on a marvelous opportunity.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Take care not to be influenced by what others think today. Should you feel changes in your plans are in order, follow through on your reasoning.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) It's nice to be a "good guy" and help out your fellowman, but don't pull another's chestnuts out of the fire at your own expense.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Stumbling blocks might be thrown in your path today by one who is jealous of your accomplishments. If you can share a little of your glory with this person, do so.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Co-workers might need a few pats on the back in order to get done what needs to be accomplished. A little encouragement will go a long way.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Stop and think before you react to gossip or hearsay information. You'll realize its worth if you take the time to study what was said.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Expecting more from others than they are able to give will disappoint you today. Be realistic. You'll accomplish a great deal in unison with them.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be careful what you say and how you say it today. Retracting your words and trying to explain your intent will be a lot harder than you think.

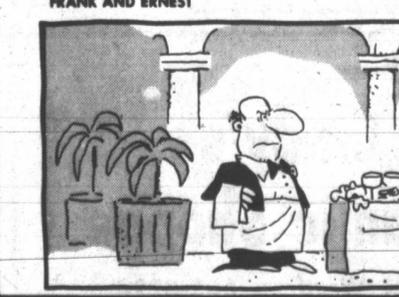

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Something of value could be lost if you don't get your head out of clouds today. It would be a shame to suffer this loss from carelessness.

Indy 500 still at unrest

By MIKE HARRIS
AP Sports Writer
INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — An uncomfortable calm settled over the Indianapolis Motor Speedway today, with one court case set to begin and the threat of other lawsuits clouding Sunday's Indianapolis 500.

The surprising offer by the U.S. Auto-Club to reopen qualifications for 11 cars bumped during time trials last weekend was canceled Thursday when two members refused to sign a waiver to increase the size of the 33-car starting field.

"It was the impossible dream," said Al Loquasto, one of the drivers cut from the race day lineup in a bumped car. "We knew it wasn't going to happen. But I'm a race driver and I want to go racing, so I'll do whatever I can to try and get that accomplished."

"Now, my recourse is to talk to my attorney and see what we can do. I'm sure I won't be alone." USAC heard protests or appeals of rejected protests from several of the barred racing teams Thursday night. The appeals committee listened for four hours, then deliberated nearly two hours before announcing it hadn't reached a decision. Members said they would resume later today but set no time.

No one appeared to believe the earlier rulings would be overturned, that was expected to be merely a formality to exhaust administrative remedies and clear the way for court action.

The one case already on the docket of the Marion County Superior Court was to go to hearing today before Judge Michael T. Dugan. Car owner Wayne Woodward was asking that his disqualified car be re-instated to the lineup by USAC or that the $1 million race be halted.

Dick Ferguson, was not among the 11 given brief hope of another chance. USAC President Dick King said Woodward's car was found in flagrant violation of a technical rule limiting the amount of pressure boost in the engines of the turbocharged cars.

Woodward said, "I didn't cheat. I only did what other people out here (at the Speedway) had done. USAC made some excellent rules to help the little people like me be competitive, but they did not follow up."

"They (USAC) were aware before the first weekend (of time trials) that there was tampering with the exhaust pipes." Woodward's car, along with two others found in violation of the boost rule, were given another chance to qualify. The other two made it into the field, but Woodward's machine experienced engine problems and failed to qualify.

The decision by USAC to allow the other 11 cars bumped from the field an opportunity for one more qualifying run — if those already on the starting grid agreed in writing — was announced Tuesday night.

Nearly two days of scrambling by a group of drivers to find and convince the owners of the qualified cars, produced 31 authorizing signatures. Owner-driver Jim McElreath and owner Don Biederstedt, whose car was driven by Eldon Rasmussen, were the unshakable holdouts.

McElreath, Biederstedt and Rasmussen all kept their reasons to themselves, but both turn-downs were generally attributed to bitter memories and old grudges.

Friends of McElreath said the veteran of 13 Indy 500s told them, "Nobody ever bent over to help me or my son when we needed help. We earned every dollar we made in this sport the hard way."

Major League roundup

Joe Morgan suffers bad night

By The Associated Press
"How many times will you see Joe Morgan make a play like that?" asked John McNamara, manager of the Cincinnati Reds. The play — actually the Reds' latest misplay against the San Francisco Giants — cost the Reds a ballgame Thursday night, giving the Giants their second unearned run of the game and a 2-1 victory.

The answer to McNamara's question is hardly ever. "I've made two errors this year, both against the Giants," said Morgan, who last spring set a major league baseball record for second basemen by playing 91 consecutive games without an error.

He dropped a pop fly by Jack Clark, after backing onto the outfield grass, with two out in the bottom of the seventh inning. Mike Sadek, who had doubled and moved to third on a sacrifice, scored to break a 1-1 tie.

"He slipped getting off the mark, and the wind had to bother him a little," said Giants Manager Joe Altobelli.

Morgan said, "The wind had nothing to do with it. I tripped, then started stumbling and never could get my balance. I had to run on my heels, so I was bouncing. The ball hit right in the glove and bounced out."

The Reds, opening a four-game series in Los Angeles tonight, still lead the National League West. But the second place Giants, 1½ games back, have beaten them in five of seven meetings this season, partly by feasting on errors.

Cubs 9-2, Mets 7-4

Steve Henderson's single in the fifth inning drove in the tie-breaking run and Pat Zachry returned from the disabled list by pitching seven strong innings as the Mets won the second game and salvaged a double-header split.

The Cubs snapped a six-game losing streak in the opener as Barry Foote and Steve Ontiveros hit two-run homers. "We broke our losing streak but got another one going in the second game," said Manager Herman Franks of the Cubs.

In the nightcap, Zachry made his first appearance since April 18, when he was sidelined with an inflammation in his pitching elbow. He allowed four hits, including Dave Kingman's 14th home run.

"This was different than my broken foot last season," Zachry said. "I make my living with my arm, so it was nice to be back, mighty nice. I used my fast ball mostly. I didn't have the proper feeling for my curve. My change-up wasn't working, so I tried to hit locations with my fast ball. I didn't really want to come out, but I reasoned what was I trying to prove?"

Orioles 5, Red Sox 3
Dennis Martinez scattered 10 hits for his seventh consecutive triumph as the torrid Baltimore Orioles defeated the Red Sox 5-3.

Kiko Garcia's tie-breaking two-run homer in the sixth inning capped a three-run rally that lifted Baltimore past Boston. The victory was the 25th in the last 31 games for the Orioles and enabled them to stretch their lead in the AL East to 2½ games over the Red Sox.

Royals 5, Mariners 4

Dennis Leonard was breezing along with a 4-1 lead until Seattle tied it in the top of the eighth on Willie Horton's two-run homer and Bruce Bochte's RBI double. Pinch hitter Steve Braun opened the bottom of the eighth with a bunt single and pinch runner Fred Patek was sacrificed to second. After George Brett, who drove in three earlier runs, was intentionally walked, Otis delivered his game-winning hit.

Brewers 9, Angels 6
Ben Oglivie hit a three-run homer and Sal Bando a solo shot in Milwaukee's five-run third inning. Oglivie crashed his ninth homer of the season after a bunt single by Cecil Cooper and a pop fly by Dick Davis, which fell for a bloop double when second baseman Bobby Grich misjudged it in the wind. Bando hit his third homer one out later.

stretching the lead to 7-0 and chasing loser Chris Knapp.

The Angels broke a string of 21 scoreless innings with five runs in the fifth off Milwaukee starter Moose Haas. Jerry Augustine was the winner with a strong relief job.

White Sox 10, A's 1

Lamar Johnson had a double and two singles, drove in four runs and scored twice as the White Sox beat the A's for the sixth time in as many meetings. Richard Wortham, 5-4, hurled a five-hitter while Matt Keough, 0-7, took the loss.

"What can I say?" asked Oakland Manager Jim Marshall. "We just got clobbered. This club beats us badly, beats us to death. Our club had trouble against left-handers all last year, and we're still having trouble against left-handers."

Moe, vacationing in Las Vegas, said about the fine. "Yes, the fine bothers me. I'm not concerned about the money, though. What gets to me is that coaches aren't allowed to speak out when officials do a lousy job. What recourse do we have?"

The Spurs led the series 3-1, but lost the last three games. Moe was particularly critical of decisions made by referee John Vanak in the seventh game in Landover, Md.

George Maloof to buy Rockets

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Albuquerque businessman George Maloof says he has completed negotiations to buy the Houston Rockets of the National Basketball Association.

Maloof planned to announce the deal today at a press conference in Houston.

Maloof bought the team from Houston Rockets Inc. He plans to keep the team in Houston and operate it under the corporate name of Houston Pro Basketball Co.

The sale is subject to approval of the NBA Board of Governors and the Houston City Council, which must approve a new, long-term lease with Houston Operating Co. for use of The Summit, the 15,676-seat arena where the Rockets play.

Maloof said the final deal calls for him to control 12.5 percent of the lease-option with Houston Operating Co.

Maloof apparently also will have continuing options, rising as high as 51 percent of the arena. And he will have the opportunity to assume the concessions for The Summit, where rock concerts, circuses, auto shows and conventions are held.

The present concessionaire has one year left on his contract, with an option for five more.

"After six years of owning the team, I'll have the opportunity to bid for the concessions," Maloof said. "I just feel real good about the whole deal."

"I'm extremely relieved that we were finally able to negotiate this thing. I'm going to give Houston the best basketball team in the world."

Series even, 1-1

Seattle defense topples Bullets

By GORDON BEARD
AP Sports Writer
LANDOVER, Md. (AP) — Whatever kind of defense the Seattle SuperSonics were using, legal or illegal, it certainly was effective.

Badgering Washington with traps and double teaming — a tactic which some of the Bullets said merely masked an illegal zone — the SuperSonics scored a 92-82 victory Thursday night and evened the National Basketball Association's championship series at 1-1.

The next two games of the best-of-seven series will be played in Seattle, at the Kingdome on Sunday and at the Coliseum Tuesday night, with the SuperSonics now claiming the homecourt advantage.

"The key to the game was defense," said Seattle center Jack Sikma, who had 14 points and 13 rebounds in a bruising battle with Washington's Wes Unseld. "Defense is the start of our offensive game."

"We're not a great shooting team," said guard Dennis Johnson, who had 20 points and six assists, "but our defense is first-class. We work very hard on it. As long as we have the defense working for us, we know we can win."

Johnson's theory was put to a severe test when the SuperSonics, after leading 46-33 midway through the second quarter, missed 14 consecutive shots and fell behind 56-49 early in the third period.

At this point, the Seattle defense stiffened and the SuperSonics ran off 11 straight points for a 60-56 lead. During that stretch, Washington missed five shots, had two blocked, and lost possession once on a steal.

Gus Williams scored four of his game-high 23 points during the streak. Sikma had four and John Johnson three of his 17.

"We had a little lapse in the second quarter," said John Johnson. "We've got to make them give up the ball. When Elvin Hayes or Bobby Dandridge hold the ball for 15 seconds, it's like a surgeon getting ready to operate."

Washington's two high scorers were blanked over the final 10 minutes, however, and the Bullets shot only 38 percent in the second half. Dandridge finished with 21, after going 3-for-11 from the field in the second half, and Hayes had 20.

"We didn't function well against their zone defense," said Washington Coach Dick Motta. "We are going to have to regroup and sharpen up against their zone if we are going to win this series."

Hayes also talked about the zone, but Dandridge took a different view. "It wasn't an illegal zone like Atlanta and

New Jersey use," he said. "It was just double teaming."

Seattle Coach Lenny Wilkens said of the zone talk: "I hate to hear that. It's a terrible thing to say. We trap and double-team, but we don't play a zone."

Boston Bruin coach jobless

By DICK BRAUDE
AP Sports Writer

BOSTON (AP) — Boston Bruins Coach Don Cherry, bench boss of the so-called workingman's hockey team, is jobless after a feud with his National Hockey League bosses over whether he should answer to players or the front office.

Cherry's close personal ties with the players, and his refusal to act like the brass, caused the split, as the Bruins announced Thursday the coach won't sign a new contract.

Both sides claimed money wasn't the deciding issue.

Bruins President Paul Mooney said at a news conference that the team would have raised the financial ante, but added that "philosophical differences" with Cherry made it useless. The coach was released from his contract that would have expired July 31.

"They thought I was too close to the players," Cherry said from his home. "They thought I wasn't management enough. And it's true. But that's how I won."

"But I've had a lot of different jobs in hockey and anyone who bounces around the minor leagues like I have — well, it makes you tough. You don't change your approach."

The split was finalized during a meeting Thursday between Cherry, Mooney and General Manager Harry Sinden. Cherry denied he has lined up another job.

But he added — perhaps half-seriously — "The best coach in the NHL naturally wants to keep coaching, and they should be standing in line for me."

"We made Don an offer that we felt was in line with the top five coaches in the NHL, (and) we would have been willing to increase that offer to whatever extent was reasonably necessary if, in our opinion, that would have been a determining factor," Mooney said.

Cherry came to Boston in June 1974, after coaching the Rochester Americans in the American Hockey League. The so-called "Lunchpail AC" — the coach's own name for his Bruins team of non-stars — made two trips to the Stanley Cup finals and two to the semifinals.

Susan O'Connor leads LPGA golf

By MIKE HENDRICKS
Associated Press Writer

CORNING, N.Y. (AP) — Susan O'Connor is a 30-year-old Californian who has not made much of a mark on the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour since turning pro five years ago.

She has not won a tournament and her best finish this year was a tie for 30th in the Sahara National.

But Thursday, she was the only golfer to break par on the tough, rain-soaked, 6,203-yard Corning Golf Club Course and she held a one-stroke lead entering today's second round of the $100,000 Corning Classic, a 72-hole tournament with a first place prize of $15,000.

"I'm very thankful for what I've shot today, but there are still three days left and anything can happen on this course," said O'Connor.

One reason O'Connor cited for her improved play was a sore knee which she claimed improved her swing. She also said the rain actually helped her game.

A birdie on the 18th enabled O'Connor to finish with a one-under-par 69, one stroke ahead of rookie Cathy Sherk.

"This course is the kind that keeps you thinking all the time," said O'Connor, who injured her knee three weeks ago at her Palm Springs, Calif., home. The soreness has made her use her shoulders more while swinging the golf club, she said.

UCLA takes tennis title with win over Trinity

ATHENS, Ga. (AP) — The long and the short of it was that UCLA's Fritz Buehning and Blaine Willenborg each won their singles matches and then combined in doubles to give the Bruins their 13th NCAA team tennis title with a 5-3 victory over Trinity of Texas Thursday.

The 6-foot-5 Buehning beat Trinity's Ben McKown 3-6, 6-1, 6-4 in the No. 1 singles. After Trinity's Erick Iskersky evened the match at 1-1 when he beat Mike Harrington 7-6, 6-1, the 5-foot-7 Willenborg put UCLA back in the lead with a 3-6, 6-2, 6-2 victory over Tony Giammalva in No. 3 singles.

UCLA held a 4-2 lead going into doubles play. The Buehning-Willenborg team battled Trinity's top doubles team of John Benson and Giammalva to a 6-6 tie in the first set and then won the tie breaker 5-3 on a scorching backhand return of service by Willenborg. The Buehning-Willenborg team then coasted to a 6-1 second set victory to clinch the team title for UCLA.

In the consolation match, Stanford's No. 2 doubles team of Scott Bondurant and John Corse squeezed by Tom Cains and Mark Vines of Southern Methodist 7-5, 7-6 to capture third place by a 6-2 score.

The two teams split their six singles matches, but Stanford swept the three doubles matches.

Stanford's Peter Rennert and Lloyd Bourne, who also won their singles matches, teamed up to defeat SMU's No. 1 doubles team of Jai DiLouie and Mark Turpin, 6-2, 6-2. Tim Mayotte and Jeff Arons beat SMU's Jeff Turpin and Chris Dlaney 6-4, 6-3 in the No. 3 doubles match.

Meanwhile, tournament officials announced Thursday that Kevin Curren of Texas is seeded No. 1 for the individual competition which begins Friday.

UCLA's doubles team of Buehning and Willenborg was seeded No. 1 for the doubles competition.

Wadkins takes golf lead

By GEORGE STRODE
AP Sports Writer
DUBLIN, Ohio (AP) — It seemed improbable, if not impossible, for Lanny Wadkins. His second shot was buried in a bunker in front of the 17th green, a victim of the deplorable playing conditions Thursday in the Memorial Golf Tournament.

Wadkins needed a par 4 to preserve a 2-shot lead at the time. A bogey was more likely. Instead, the stocky North Carolinian holed the 40-foot wedge shot for a 3-under-par 69, good for a 1-shot lead over Mike McCullough going into today's second round at weather-plagued Muirfield Village.

"I hit it perfect," said Wadkins. "All I could see was the top of the flag. I had to run up the hill to see it go in the hole."

Only four players — Ed Sneed and Mac McLendon had 71s — of the select international field of 105 — mastered par on the blustery, rainy, 50-degree day. That broke the single round record of 5 subpar rounds in the 1976 event for this 4-year-old tour stop.

The victims were some of the game's biggest names. Jack Nicklaus, the main force behind this $8 million layout, had a 73. So did leading money winner Tom Watson.

John Mahaffey, the PGA king, went for 78. Masters champion Fuzzy Zoeller and U.S. Open titleholder Andy North struggled to 79s. Defending champion Jim Simons skied to an 80.

All of the players, even Nicklaus, blamed the high scoring on the conditions.

"You could see your breath," said Watson. He needs just $124 here to reach $300,000 for a third straight year. First prize is $54,000 in the $329,000 tournament.

"It was just a difficult day," said Nicklaus, still searching for his first victory of 1979.

Wadkins, who conquered the winds of Sawgrass to win the Tournament Players Championship earlier this year, is fast building a reputation as a good poor weather performer.

"No," he insisted, "I don't really consider myself a bad weather player. I would rather play in 80-degree sunshine with no wind every time. Maybe I just concentrate better when the weather's bad."

Still, Wadkins birdied three holes in a row on the front side and solved the front nine for a 32, 2 shots off the course record Craig Stadler posted in a pro-amateur prelude Tuesday.

"It's tough to fuss on a day like today, but my putting was not what it should be. I left a lot of birdie putts short. If I'm going to win this week, my putting has to improve," said the double winner this year.

McCullough fashioned the best score he's ever had at Muirfield Village without the benefit of a practice round.

"I didn't expect anything from myself since I hadn't warmed up. No one can come back on tour and be abreast of the game," said McCullough. His appearance in the Colonial last week was his first in five weeks.

LANNY WADKINS urges his putt toward the cup on the ninth hole in the first round of the Memorial golf tournament Thursday. He finished with a three-under-par 69 to take the first-round lead in the tournament. (AP Laserphoto)

Baseball tourney opens

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Top-ranked Texas, a three-time national champion, is the host team for the NCAA Central Regional Baseball Tournament, which includes Western Athletic and Southland Conference winners and at-large entry Pan American University.

The tournament opener between Brigham Young, 48-23-1, of the WAC and Lamar University, a Beaumont, Texas, team and the Southland winner, 43-14-1, was scheduled for 1:30 p.m. CDT.

No. 1 Texas, 50-6, was matched against Pan American, 52-10, of Edinburg, Texas, at 7:30 p.m. CDT.

The winner in the double elimination tournament will advance to the College World Series at Omaha, Neb., June 1-8.

"Everyone here has something to prove — we'd all like to go to Omaha," BYU Coach Gary Pullins told a news conference Friday.

Texas may have lost its apparent edge when all-SWC pitcher Rickey Wright hurt his knee so badly in an intrasquad game last Saturday he will miss the tournament. Wright had won 10 and lost 3 and was a .309 hitter.

Coach Cliff Gustafson said when Wright is "right, he can dominate a game, strike out 15 and throw a one or two-hitter against the best team in the nation. You can't replace a guy like that."

BYU enters the tournament with a team total of 90 homeruns, and all of its regulars are hitting .300 or higher. The attack is built around all-WAC third baseman Murphy Su'a, who is hitting .350 with 22 homeruns.

"He's had an awesome year with the bat and epitomizes our team," said Pullins.

Bert Bradley, a righthander with an 11-2 record, will start for BYU against Lamar, which had its season interrupted by 19 rainouts.

David C. Smith, a 6-foot-4 sophomore who threw a no-hitter against the University of Louisville and has a .94 earned run average, will start for Lamar, which had a winning streak of "20 or more" during the season.

"We have five guys who probably could lay claim to being our No. 1 pitcher at some time during the year," said Coach Jim Gilligan. He said two others also had no-hitters, and a third lost a hitless game when he misplayed a bunt.

Gustafson said he would probably start lefthander Jerry Don Gleanon, the SWC's player-of-the-year, against Pan American. Gleanon is 11-0 and is hitting .375 even though he has had mononucleosis.

Canadian considering gas price hike

CANADIAN - The Canadian City Council is studying a proposal by High Plains Natural Gas Company for a rate increase to the city's burner tip customers.

The council designated consultant Bill McMorries to evaluate the merits of the proposed adjustment, which would raise the average residential gas bill by about $4.25 a month.

High Plains Natural Gas Company President Paul Wilson said Thursday the present rate of $18.23 per 10,000 cubic feet of natural gas would be raised to $22.58 if the adjustment is approved.

Wilson said over a year the average residence probably used about 10,000 cubic feet of natural gas per month.

High Plains distributes gas directly to Canadian users from the city gate station.

Wilson said the proposed adjustment was designed to offset the escalation in price of gas purchased by North Plains from about 86 cents per 1000 cubic feet of natural gas last year to $1.04 in March of this year. He said these figures did not include the cost of service in the delivery of the gas.
