Metro motorists on odd-even ration plan

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Motorists in Houston and the Dallas-Fort Worth area will have to look at their license plates Monday to see if they can buy gasoline.

Gov. Bill Clements declared Tuesday the state would try odd-even gasoline purchase restrictions in Harris, Dallas and Tarrant counties in an effort to ease long lines at service stations.

He said the restriction might be applied to other cities later.

The Republican governor also called on Texans to raise their air conditioner thermostats to 76 degrees, instead of the 80 suggested by President Carter, and to abide by the 55 mile-per-hour speed law. He also asked for more car pooling.

"Let's make this a 'No-Tie Summer,'" Clements said in an official proclamation, taking off his coat and tie while it was read at a news conference.

"None of these gas restriction actions will bring additional supplies," Clements said, "but the regulations are needed to preserve good order and make the limited supplies available in an optimum way."

Houston and the Dallas-Fort Worth area have 38 percent of the state's vehicles, Clements said.

"I have considered this fact carefully and am doing what I feel is the minimum required at this time," he said, adding that he expected the restrictions to last at least until September.

The odd-even plan would let cars with a license plate number ending in an even number, or a last letter from A to M, to purchase gasoline on even-number calendar days. Licenses ending in odd numbers, or letters from N to Z, could get gasoline on odd days of the month.

Other features of the plan for the three counties, effective June 25, would:

—Set the minimum purchase amount at $6, unless a vehicle's tank held less than 10 gallons.

—Set the maximum purchase at 20 gallons, including any boats pulled on trailers.

—Limit filling of any auxiliary containers to two gallons.

Death warrants signed

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Lawyers for Charles W. Proffitt and Robert A. Sullivan, whose death warrants have been signed by Florida Gov. Bob Graham, say they are confident neither man will be put to death as scheduled next week.

Sullivan's attorneys Tuesday asked the Florida Supreme Court to delay the executions scheduled for 7 a.m. June 27. Proffitt's lawyers said they would file a similar request in Tampa circuit court this week.

If appeals fail, the men will become the second and third to die in the electric chair in little more than a month. On May 25, Florida State Prison inmate

John Spenklink became the first man executed unwillingly in the United States since 1967.

Proffitt, 33, was sentenced to death for the 1973 murder of a Tampa high school wrestling coach. The coach, 23-year-old Joel Medgebow, was asleep when Proffitt plunged a breadknife into his chest.

Sullivan, 31, was sentenced to death for the 1973 shotgun slaying of motel and restaurant manager Donald Schmidt, who was abducted and murdered in the Everglades.

"They're not at the end of the road," said Proffitt's attorney Jack Boger of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People's Legal Defense Fund. "Neither of these cases should result in execution anytime soon."

Both men lost appeals after their trials, but are allowed by law to try a second round. Neither has completed those appeals, which lawyers said generally deal with whether a trial met certain constitutional standards.

When those appeals end, the two men could press similar contentions in federal court. That approach spared the life of Willie Jasper Darden Jr., who had been scheduled to die along with Spenklink.

"It's pretty easy to say it's not an imminent thing, but it's difficult for my client to contemplate that they're going to execute him in a week," said Sullivan's lawyer, Roy E. Black of Miami.

Proffitt, a slightly-built man, has said he would rather die in a hospital as a guinea pig for research than "cook" in the electric chair.

"I mean, you stick a guy in a chair, he's hot. He can't help anybody," Proffitt said in a 1977 interview.

Sullivan, a former law student, once said if he had to die in the electric chair he wanted it shown on television.

Truckers strike begins to pinch public

By CHARLOTTE PORTER Associated Press Writer

Vegetables rotted in fields, meat remained in packing plants and motorists lined up for tightening gasoline supplies as businessmen and governors strove to overcome a shutdown by independent truckers with National Guardsmen, convicts and lawsuits.

Violence flared again, with police in Utah reporting two trucks hit by gunfire today after four such incidents Tuesday. No injuries were reported.

The leader of the Independent Truckers Unity Committee urged the nation's 100,000 owner-operators to stop driving at midnight to protest high diesel fuel prices and the 55 mph speed limit.

Minnesota Gov. Al Quie declared a state of emergency Tuesday, saying he would call out the National Guard and law enforcement officers to shepherd truckers who wanted to keep driving.

Gov. Otis Bowen ordered police to restore gas deliveries to fuel-starved northern Indiana. And National Guardsmen were to refill storage tanks to keep some Alabama service stations open.

Troopers along the East Coast today were to escort a convoy of trucks hauling produce from Florida to markets in the Northeast.

A spokesman for Florida Gov. Bob Graham said states along interstate highways 75 and 95 had agreed to protect an estimated 100 truckhauling watermelons and other freight.

"We don't want to hurt the people," said Florida gasoline hauler Jim Dailey. "But somebody's going to suffer when the stations aren't getting any gasoline. You can't get around if you don't have any gas."

You can't get any produce if the produce haulers aren't delivering."

Some businesses went to court to make sure their products would be delivered. East Highland Co., an Alabama sawmill, filed suit against 10 men accused of shutting down the mill in connection with the protest. The company wants $75,000 for each day it's closed.

The Armour pork processing plant won a temporary restraining order to keep truckers from blocking its Worthington, Minn., plant. The firm closed Monday due to a lack of trucks, but the plant manager said he hoped to have 400 workers back on the job Thursday.

South Dakota's largest meat-packing plant, John Morrell & Co., was holding 2 million pounds of meat Monday because there were no trucks to take it to market. By Tuesday, "the list is so long it scares me," said President Donald Slotkin. Layoffs were threatened.

In Michigan, Gov. William Milliken ordered state officials to draw contingency plans for moving food and medicine to areas paralyzed by the strike.

Meanwhile, William J. Hill, chairman of the truckers' council, estimated 40 percent of the nation's drivers were idle as the two-week-old protest continued.

In other developments Tuesday: —The Interstate Commerce Commission said truckers will be able to collect a 6 percent surcharge on shipments this week because of the increased price of fuel. The initial surcharge last week was set at 5.6 percent, but ICC Chairman Daniel O'Neal Jr. said it will be increased as fuel prices rise. He said an eventual surcharge of as much as 9 percent was possible.

—Washington cherry growers switched to rails for shipment of their crop. "We've had enough trucks up to now, but from now on it's going to be very tight," said Walt Shields, manager of the Yakima Valley Growers-Shippers Association.

—Food distributors in Buffalo, N.Y.,

predicted shortages could begin by the end of the week.

—Most service stations were closed in the Alabama cities of Huntsville and Decatur, said state Service Station Association director Sam Spivey. Some corn harvesting was forced to a halt.

—Long lines developed at some Minnesota service stations. Gov. Quie urged state residents not to drive next weekend so supplies could catch up, but one striking driver warned, "By Friday, there's not going to be a drop of gasoline to be had anywhere in Minnesota."

—North Carolina agriculture officials said the blockade has already cost state cucumber farmers $500,000 and could mean a loss of $4 million if it continues another week.

Fund established

A fund to help defray the medical expenses of Rhonda and Jamie Danner has been established at the First National Bank in Pampa.

Mrs. Danner's husband, Terry, was killed in a head-on collision Sunday night near Fairview, Okla., when the car she was driving struck another vehicle head-on. The driver of the second vehicle, Reid Briggs of Enid, Okla., was also killed in the crash.

Mrs. Danner and the couple's 2-year-old daughter, Jamie, are still in St. Mary's Hospital in Enid. Donations to their expense fund can be taken to Glenda Anderson at First National.

After 47 years in Pampa

Dr. Overton ready for retirement

By DAN LACKEY Pampa News Staff

Dr. M.C. Overton, Pampa's senior physician, will be retiring June 30, ending a five-decade career which includes 47 years of surgical and general practice in Pampa.

Dr. Overton, who has divided his time between surgical duties at Highland General Hospital and general practice at the Overton Clinic in the Hughes Building, says he will devote his retirement to travel and attention to his New Mexico ranch.

"The ranch and travel have been my recreation," he said in a recent interview in his office. "I still plan to live in Pampa, though, I like Pampa very much."

Dr. Overton graduated from Texas Christian University in 1924 and attended Baylor Medical School through 1929. He opened a private practice in Slayton before coming to Pampa in 1932 to practice in and administrate the Combs-Worley Hospital. He has been a staff doctor at Highland General Hospital since its opening.

"building a practice takes time," Dr. Overton commented, adding that his long time friend and colleague, Pampa physician R.M. Bellamy, helped him get a foothold here by giving him a few surgical cases. "McLean and Miami doctors also sent me their surgery, and I was able to begin building a practice. Word of mouth is the way a physician acquires patients," he said.

After 47 years, Dr. Overton says he considers "most of my patients my friends. I don't see them socially, but I regard them as friends, and they see me the same way."

The doctor says he has not accepted many new patients in the last 10 years unless they were referred by another doctor or he was requested by another doctor to take them.

But with a seven-day work week and world traveling vacations, the doctor says he might know less about the city than many newcomers.

"It's true that I've only been in stores in town — other than drugstores — only twice in all the years I've been here," Dr. Overton said. "Once I went to Montgomery Wards to buy a lawn mower, and once to the supermarket."

Dr. Overton said he has been alternating his surgery schedule with his clinical practice, scheduling office visits on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays and surgery on Tuesdays and Thursdays. Until recently, Saturday was a scheduled surgery day as well.

Rising at 5 a.m. on a surgery day, Dr. Overton said he may perform as many as five or six operations in a single day. But it's the avalanche of medical paper that is encouraging his retirement, he said.

"I might have continued a year or two longer," he said. "But the paper work is just becoming too much of a burden. I have to work Sundays to keep up with it all."

Commenting on medicine today as compared to medicine when he began practice, he said, "It's easier to stay healthier today. The main medical event during my career has been the discovery and use of antibiotics and sulfur drugs."

In local medical care, Dr. Overton sees the construction of a new hospital as an absolute necessity. "The present facility (Highland General) is obsolete from the day it was built," he said.

Medicine runs in the Overton family. Dr. Overton's father-in-law was a doctor, and his own father practiced medicine for 54 years. His son, Marvin C. Overton, is a Fort Worth neurosurgeon, and son Todd is an obstetrician in Amarillo.

Dr. Overton is a Fellow of the International College of Surgeons, and member of the American Medical Association, the Texas Medical Association, and the Industrial Medical Association. He was Chief of Staff at Highland General for one year.

Although Dr. Overton says he has enjoyed "keeping a low profile" throughout his years of practice, friends and colleagues are planning an appreciation for the physician at 7 p.m. June 28 in the Heritage Room of M.K. Brown Auditorium. Tickets for the event are available at the Chamber of Commerce, Citizens Bank and Trust and the First National Bank.

EVER STRIVING FOR TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by a government, with the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property and secure more freedom and keep it for themselves and others.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guide expressed in the Covering Commandment.

How Johnny Doyle dealt out rationing

Every time I hear somebody say, "Well, gas rationing worked during World War II," I think of Johnny Doyle.

Johnny was a B-17 pilot who'd had his brains rattled in an emergency landing, so they took up his flight jacket and made him an assistant adjutant at a Southern California air base. There is almost nothing an assistant adjutant has to do that can't be done by a guy whose head has come apart, and Johnny came to work every morning and signed the papers they put in front of him like a good boy.

I suppose I would never have remembered Johnny if it hadn't been for gas rationing. Air bases were given tons of ration stamps which they parcelled out to military personnel according to an appropriately insane formula which I have forg'ten. As I recall, you got stamps for five gallons of gas per week.

At the end of every quarter, there were bales of excess ration stamps and the rules provided for the appointment of "a disinterested officer" to destroy them. Johnny Doyle got the job.

Up to that time Johnny always stood down at the lowest end of the officers club bar where first lieutenants and waiters were supposed to stand, well down the line from field-grade officers and nowhere near anybody with a star. Occasionally a captain would say, "Oh, errr, hello," to Johnny, wondering who the hell that kid was. But that was the extent of his social life.

But Johnny's appointment as the "disinterested officer" to destroy excess ration stamps changed the whole world for him. Johnny was not strong in the head but he could tell he held in his hand a treasure and reward beyond riches. His fame and popularity became legend. The commanding general used to drop by Johnny's desk every morning and express concern over his health.

I wish that I could say Johnny remained his old, sweet, slightly demented self, but that would be a lie. He became a sly, conniving, mean and treacherous fellow. I was about the only man on the base he trusted - not because of my impeccable character but because I was the only one who had ever voluntarily flown with him and I would never have done that if I had known that one of his marbles had fallen out. Johnny came over one night and told me he had devised a first-rate scheme for getting rid of those excess rationing stamps in a disinterested manner. What he had in mind was a huge midnight bonfire in the middle of the parade grounds. I told Johnny I did not think it was good military form to have midnight bonfires on parade grounds and I thought the brass would ship him to Bongo Bongo if he actually destroyed those stamps.

Johnny kept his own counsel but a week later he held his midnight bonfire and a week after that he got his Section eight, mental disability. Johnny went to a veterans hospital for observation. He wrote me a letter saying he had found among his possessions an old flight cap he wanted me to have so I could remember the terrifying flight we'd taken together - as if I could ever forget.

In a few weeks it arrived in a huge box wrapped in brown paper. Inside, it was gift-wrapped; but instead of string or tape on the box, Johnny had used yards and yards of gas rationing stamps - several thousand, I'd say.

I waited in a cold sweat for the FBI to show up, but they never did. I managed to salvage quite a few of the stamps and put them to good use. I don't know what ever happened to Johnny Doyle, but I am persuaded that rationing is best left in the hands of people like Johnny - people whose circuitry has gone tilt.

Bokassa like Amin

AFRICA TOLERATED THE brutalities of Uganda's Idi Amin for eight years. That was eight years to long. Evidence turning up since Amin was driven from power tends to confirm that the victims of his executioners numbered in the hundreds of thousands.

How long is Africa going to tolerate Amin's brother-in-blood, Emperor Bokassa I? Bokassa is a former French army sergeant who got control of the Central African Republic through a military coup in 1965, and finally had himself crowned emperor as stories trickled out about his ruthless crushing of opposition and dissent.

NOW THE HUMAN RIGHTS organization, Amnesty International, reports Bokassa's imperial guard massacred 100 schoolchildren in April. The children's offense, incredibly, was that they demonstrated against the emperor's decree they wear uniforms to school.

The organization of African Unity professes no concern about the internal affairs of its member-nations. It even made Idi Amin its president. To ignore wholesale murder and violation of human rights is nothing but a cop-out for the OAU, which is the only international organization that could hope to influence the course of events in the Central African "empire." Surely modern African does not have to suffer the barbarity of Jean Bedel Bokassa, not matter what alias he assumes.

ARE WE IN A recession? This is quite possible. The composite index of leading economic indicators turned sharply downward in April, falling 3.3 percent. When this index falls for three months in succession, we are officially in a recession. It fell in January, February and April, but not in March. During the recession of 1974, this index fell for 12 months in a row.

There are 10 indicators in the composite. Of these, eight were down in April. They are: length of work week, job layoff rate, sales, cash and liquid assets, sensitive prices, orders for plant and equipment, factory orders and building permits. The other two, stock prices and money supply, rose.

Other signs that a recession may have begun are a drop in sales of automobiles, the slump in home building and sluggish retail sales.

THE MAN IN THE White House appears not to be worrying. Though his wage-price guideline program has been dealt a severe blow in the courts, he still insists it is working.

When a recession threatens, Congress usually talks about cutting taxes. Carter has all but ruled out a tax cut. Either he thinks the April downturn was not the start of a real recession, or he thinks that it was and that it will be all over before he seeks re-election in the fall of 1980.

There is one other possibility, namely, that poor Jimmy is so bewildered by the job of being president, and especially by the jobs that do not belong to government at all but that he (eager political beaver that he is) has shouldered, that he does not realize what a spot he is in.

Skidding into recession

CARTER'S MAJOR mistake has been his assumption that it is a function of the government to manage the economy. It is not. Nowhere in the basic law of the land is the government assigned that function.

When the Constitution was written, the U.S. economy was so rudimentary that the government might have managed it after a fashion. Today, the economy is so huge and complex that to manage it from the center is out of the question. Yet, every recent administration, Democrat or Republican, has assumed it must. In truth, decentralized ownership and management by millions of individual entrepreneurs and tens of thousands of firms, large and small, is the only practical recourse.

Government, throwing its weight around in the economy, is like a bull in a china shop. Note the confusion, approaching chaos, that government intervention has caused in the petroleum industry.

OIL IS A NECESSITY in these times. Finding oil deposits, drilling, pumping piping, tankering, refining and wholesale and retail distributing comprise a highly difficult, technical and costly process. It is carried out by hundreds of companies, large and small, each specializing, all experienced in the tasks peculiar to the industry. If anyone can keep the people of the world supplied with this vital commodity, this veteran, competitive industry can.

But Carter's government does not trust the private firms to do the job. Ignoring the competition, it treats them as one firm which must be regulated. It sets up a Department of Energy - totally unnecessary, duplicative, obstructive and costly. This department costs the taxpayers more than $10 billion a year, which is the equivalent of nine cents added to the price of every gallon of gasoline sold in the U.S.A.

MEANWHILE, THE government has essayed to make energy cheaper to the consumer by controlling the price. June 1 it began easing that control, but the industry still will be hobbled by it for more than two years. Holding the price of any commodity down artificially acts doubly to make that commodity scarce: It tells the producer to produce less, while at the same time it spurs the consumer to consume more. The result is a shortage which would not have occurred had the government kept out of the act.

The saddest feature of the oil mess is not that the government has tried to manage oil production and distribution but that a vast majority of Americans evidently believe that it can do so efficiently and therefore should. The more Washington bungles, the more faith there appears to be in government management as compared to management by the owners and experts competing with one another. However, the people are slow to assert themselves. It is just possible their final dictum on this matter will not become plain until November, 1980.

IF BY THE AUTUMN of 1979 it appears that a recession actually began in April, the government-engineered shortage of oil energy will have been a contributing cause. The private sector can surmount many difficulties, but the massive confusion in oil and the obstructive effect of government controls over oil may disturb the entire economy so much that unemployment, now 5.8 percent, will increase and the nation's GNP decline. We would all find ourselves skidding on an oil slick.

Does DOE want to know

WASHINGTON (NEA) - Despite the nation's obsession with the need for a continuing flow of imported oil, federal energy officials admit they don't even know the source of a sizeable portion of United States petroleum imports.

The Department of Energy (DOE) has compiled elaborate statistics identifying the country of origin of the more than 5.61 million barrels daily imported last year from 13 nations affiliated with the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC).

The list of non-OPEC sources includes five groups of Caribbean islands - the Bahamas, Netherlands Antilles, Trinidad and Tobago, Virgin Islands and Puerto Rico - that in 1978 accounted for more than 1.15 million barrels of imports daily, almost 14.1 percent of the total.

But with the exception of Trinidad and Tobago, none of those islands has any significant indigenous petroleum resources. They do, however, have major refineries that receive crude oil from other nations, then ship it to the United States in product form. Who is supplying the crude petroleum to those refineries? Although the information could be crucial in the event of a future embargo, DOE officials claim they don't know and are reluctant to ask independent nations about the source of their oil.

But that explanation is hardly plausible in the case of either Puerto Rico, a commonwealth associated with the United States, or the Virgin Islands, a territorial possession.

Another explanation: "We don't want to know," says a DOE official who claim that during the Arab oil embargo 5 1/2 years ago, some friendly petroleum-producing nations used the Caribbean islands as trans-shipment points to quietly supply this country with badly needed oil.

A crucial loss of nerve

by martha angle and robert walters

WASHINGTON (NEA) - The results of a recent national survey suggest that the manufacturers and marketers of consumer goods may not be getting much value for their money when they purchase high-priced television advertising time.

Only 13 percent of those polled said "most television advertising makes them feel more like buying the products advertised," while 16 percent said the commercials actually made them less inclined to buy and 69 percent said the ads "don't affect their buying decisions much at all."

Those surprising statistics are known only to a few insiders, however, because they were suppressed when the results of the survey were made public by one of the nation's most influential polling organizations, Louis Harris and Associates.

Other material highly critical of the commercial sponsorship of television programs also was removed or weakened before public release of the survey, commissioned and cosponsored by a unit of a major television network - the news division of the American Broadcasting Co.

Harris insists the ABC never intervened at any stage of the survey. "If there had been any pressure," he says, "I damned well wouldn't have yielded to it."

But the handling of the survey poses a new problem of the dominant role of network television in shaping public opinion and the reluctance of that industry to provide a forum for ideas and opinions that reflect unfavorably upon commercial broadcasting.

The results of the "ABC News-Harris Survey" on viewers attitudes toward video advertising were made public in March. But we obtained - to the discomfort of the Harris organization - a copy of a confidential draft prepared one month earlier.

Notwithstanding the numerous disparities between the initial and final versions, Harris claims that he personally wrote both.

The original draft said: "When asked directly about TV advertising, the American people were downright hostile." The final version said: "When asked directly about TV advertising, Americans are skeptical."

The original draft said: "The best the public can say about TV advertising is that it is 'a necessary evil that pays for TV a view held by a 64-29 percent majority.'"

Although the question asked by Harris' pollsters specifically referred to a "necessary evil," that phrase was eliminated in the final text, which incorporated a subtle but significant shift in meaning: A 64-29 percent majority believes that TV advertising is necessary to pay for the programs they see.

The initial draft contained a prominent and comprehensive description of the arguments against television advertising aimed at children:

"The Federal Trade Commission has been holding hearings on banning advertising for children, and a decision should be forthcoming in the near future."

"Those who favor a ban claim that manufacturers are taking unfair advantage of young people who are not able to distinguish between products that are good or harmful to them."

"They also charge that these ads can

Cost getting out of hand

HERE IT IS ONLY 1979 and the estimated cost of getting Los Angeles ready for the 1984 Olympics has already escalated for $33.5 million to $14.2 million or more. Why can't a city host the Olympic games without winning the gold medal for cost over-runs?

Mayor Tom Bradley helped sell the Los Angeles bid for the 1984 games two years ago by outlining a "spartan" plan for providing facilities for the various events. Los Angeles would use existing facilities for most events, and build only temporary structures should new ones be needed.

That doesn't jibe with the proposed request for a $141.2 million federal appropriation which the mayor unveiled recently. Even that figure may be on the low side, because it does not include $41.3 million for a new underground parking garage at the Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum which some city officials want to see thrown in.

BRADLEY CAN BLAME inflation only partly for the disparity with 1977 estimates. Some of the facilities originally listed as temporary now have become permanent, at a much higher cost. The "refurbishment" of the coliseum has risen from $4 million to $25.6 million. Has it decayed that much in two years?

Congress must decide how much the federal taxpayer unwillingly must contribute to the cost of the Los Angeles games. Perhaps it will treat Bradley's new budget with the "spartan" spirit that seems to have been lost at Los Angeles city hall. An athlete with that kind of flab would be sent to the bench in ancient Sparta.

Roloff seems certain to lose state licensing battle

By SUSAN STOLER
Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — One more signature from State District Judge Charles Mathews today and Lester Roloff's three South Texas youth homes will be closed after years of court battles.

Mathews gave Roloff until Tuesday to apply for state licenses, which the evangelist says would invite anti-Christian control over his facilities.

The judge must sign final papers, or writs, before state welfare workers and state police carry out orders to remove the homes' 400 children. The youths will be returned to their parents or placed in foster care settings.

"We intend to enforce the order tomorrow morning," Assistant Attorney General David Young said Tuesday.

Roloff's attorneys Tuesday unsuccessfully asked two state courts and a federal appeals judge to keep Mathews from closing the homes.

The Texas Supreme Court and the 3rd Court of Civil Appeals in Austin refused to interfere with Mathews' order. Judge Tom Gee of the U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals also rejected Roloff's request.

While lawyers for the Corpus Christi preacher scrambled from court to court, parents with children in Roloff's homes told Gov. Bill Clements they want their sons and daughters kept in the facilities.

But Clements told them he lacked power to stop the closings.

"I have no recourse at this point," Clements told 200 parents and ministers gathered in the Capitol rotunda.

"At his point, it's in the hands of the attorney general's office. He's in charge of enforcing the law," the governor said.

Clements told the group his efforts to help Roloff resist state licensing laws failed in the 1979 Legislature. The governor said the issue would be back before the next legislative session and parents asked him to call a special session to help Roloff.

Spokesmen for the parents and ministers said the group came from 26 states and attended a rally in Corpus Christi Monday night. They said they drove to Austin in cars and buses to protest violation of their parental rights.

Signs proclaiming, "Lester Roloff Today, Your Church Tomorrow" dotted the crowd.

After Clements left, Pastor Earl Little of the Miller Road Baptist Church in Garland said it was not a small group that supported Roloff.

"It's not a little isolated, kooky group on the fringe side," he said of the evangelist's following.

"Now there's been talk of violence. There are a lot of swords out there — the sword of the spirit," he said as the crowd held up their Bibles.

Roloff has told girls in the Rebekah Home in Corpus Christi to resist state workers and police who try to move them.

Little said his church decided to turn in its state license for a day care center. Roloff has urged all church-run facilities to reject state permits.

After a prayer and two verses of "Amazing Grace," approximately 100 parents and ministers walked a half block to Attorney General Mark White's office.

White was in Aspen, Colo.

After a 20-minute wait, his information assistant, Nancy Puentes, met with the group.

"We're very, very concerned about our constitutional rights being infringed," said Wayne Ticer, a parent. "We placed our children in the homes of our choice and now the state is going to take our children away. We just don't understand that."

Mrs. Puentes said she would tell White about their concerns. The group then left.

The flurry of activities follows at least 5 1/2 years of court fights between Roloff and the attorney general's office.

Then-Attorney General John Hill issued a legal opinion in September 1973 that state licensing laws apply to children up to age 18. Roloff and Lester Roloff Evangelistic Enterprises Inc. were held in contempt of court afterward for operating a child care facility without a license.

Since then, the case has been up to the U.S. Supreme Court and back.

Roloff developed a following with a radio program and takes in contributions nationwide.

However, his schools continue to generate controversy.

The Nueces County Grand Jury is investigating an incident where one girl allegedly was stabbed by seven others this year at the Rebekah Home. The girl recovered but left the home.

The incident was not reported to police.

Several youths have left the Roloff homes and later complained of excessive corporal punishment and solitary confinement. Roloff confirms that students are paddled and temporarily isolated at times.

Optimists crown baseball queens

Tammy Carter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Carter, and Kim Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Smith, were named queens of the Optimist Club-sponsored Babe Ruth and Little League baseball programs in ceremonies at Optimist Park Tuesday night.

Miss Carter represented Grant Supply of the Babe Ruth league. Her team raised the most money of any Babe Ruth team, qualifying her for the queen's crown and robe.

Doretta Bruce, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Bruce, was runner-up in the Babe Ruth contest. She represented the Lion's Club team.

Miss Smith represented the Gate Valve team of the Little League. Carrie Carter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Alexander, was runner-up. She represented the Moose Lodge team.

All four girls received savings bonds and all queen candidates received engraved charms. Kim Albin, the 1978 queen, crowned the winners.

"The queen's fund-raising project was very successful this year, but without the help of the teams and the community at large, we would not have been successful," said Optimist Club President Calvin Lacy.

Winning a bicycle in the popcorn sales contest was Clint Allen of the Family Pharmacy team. Top popcorn sales awards went to Clifton Pitman, Kim Smith and Jeff Chisum. Top team in the popcorn sales was 1001 Auto Parts, while Cameron Iron Works was second.

Plaques were presented to Truman Lowrance for coordinating the baseball program; Jessie Watson, Babe Ruth League Chairman; James McKinney, American League Chairman; Bill Harwood, National League Chairman; Richard and Sandra Igau, Farm League Chairmen; David Lee, Chief Umpire for the Babe Ruth League; and Bob Lowrance, Chief Umpire in Little League.

Lillie Fowler, C.W. Huff and E. Hildebrand won drawings for grocery certificates, while Harold Lawley took home a hind-quarter beef donated by the Grant Supply team and butchered by Lewis Epps.

BASEBALL QUEENS from the Optimist Club-sponsored Babe Ruth and Little League programs were announced Tuesday night in ceremonies at Optimist Park. Kim Smith (left) was named queen of the Little League program, while Tammy Carter won the crown and robe of the Babe Ruth League.

Motorists find gas supplies dwindling

HOUSTON (AP) — In this summer of discontent for motorists, Texans are finding gasoline supplies dwindling more and more with each passing week while the price for the precious liquid continues its inexorable climb.

In its weekly survey of 423 service stations across the state, the American Automobile Association found that, compared with last week, almost twice as many stations were out of at least one grade of gasoline or were limiting purchases this week, especially in the large cities.

The AAA also reported that price increases this week were the largest in the seven-week history of the survey. Prices were up an average of 1 1/2 cents per gallon for most grades, it said.

Of the stations surveyed, the AAA said, 11 percent were out of one or more grades of gasoline and 3 percent were limiting customers' purchases by dollar or gallon amount. Last week, just 6 percent were out of some grade of fuel and 2 percent were limiting purchases.

And more stations are closing weekday nights and Sundays, the AAA said, with 73 percent shutting down by 8 p.m. weekdays and 74 percent closing this Sunday, compared with 68 percent on weekdays and 73 percent on Sundays a week ago.

Nearly 100 percent of the 128 stations surveyed in the state's two major urban areas — Houston and Dallas-Fort Worth — are now closing nights and Sundays, and about 20 percent are out of at least one grade of gasoline, the AAA said.

The association report said Beaumont also was harder hit with 80 percent of its stations closing weekday nights now compared with 44 percent last week.

Across the rest of the state, two-thirds of the stations surveyed said they were closed on Sundays and 72 percent were closing by 8 p.m. on weekdays. Last week, 60 percent were closing on Sunday and 67 percent were not open weekday nights.

The AAA said fuel availability was best in the state along interstate highways and in small cities and rural areas.

The current average full-service prices across the state and last week's price were reported by the AAA as: Regular 81.7 cents a gallon this week, 80.3 last week; unleaded 85.5, 84.0; premium 87.2, 86.4. Self-serve prices are: Regular 79.3, 78.7; unleaded 83.4, 81.9; and premium 85.7, 84.1.

Lawyer claims LBJ paid off

DALLAS (AP) — A lawyer defending Billie Sol Estes in his fraud trial said in federal court here the paroled swindler made payoffs totaling upwards of $10 million to former President Lyndon Johnson.

Defense attorney G. Brockett Irwin did not introduce evidence to back up his claim, but he did play a secretly recorded conversation between Estes and an undercover Internal Revenue Agent in which the alleged payoffs were discussed.

Estes, in the tape made in the summer of 1977, confided to undercover IRS agent Walter Perry that he gave late president about $500,000 in exchange for multimillion dollar government grain contracts.

Irwin contended he could show $10 million went to Lyndon Johnson as business expenses. "But U.S. District Judge Robert Hill sustained a prosecution objection that any payoffs Estes' may have made were irrelevant to the charges against him."

Estes, and his Midland business associate Robert K. Horton, are accused of concealing assets from the federal government and conspiracy to defraud investors in an alleged scheme involving investments in non-existent oil field cleaning equipment.

Texas weather

By The Associated Press

A weak frontal system moving slowly eastward along a line from Childress to Lubbock southwestward did little today to break up the pattern of hot, humid weather across Texas.

Ahead of the front, skies remained cloudy during the morning in the Hill Country and in South Central Texas. Most of the state, however, had mostly clear skies and continued warm temperatures and high humidity.

Forecasts made no mention of rain. Highs were expected to be mostly in the 90s. Readings in far South Texas were expected to approach the 100-degree mark and in the Big Bend area of Southwest Texas the mercury was expected to reach near 105.

Early morning temperatures ranged from the middle 50s in the Panhandle to the lower 80s in the Lower Rio-Grande Valley.

Extended

Friday through Sunday

West Texas — Near seasonal temperatures Friday through Sunday with highs mostly in 90s to near 105 Big Bend Valleys. Lows in 60s north to 70s south.

Texas forecast

West Texas — Generally fair through tonight. Warmer Panhandle. Partly cloudy to clear Thursday. Highs in the 90s except near 105 Big Bend valleys. Lows 58 to 75 except near 52 mountains.

SUNNY SKIES with warm weather in most areas are expected in the forecast period for the western half of the nation. Cool weather is forecast from the northern Rockies across the northern Plains. Rain and showers are forecast from the central Gulf states to the Great Lakes.

Henley's lawyer predicts third trial

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — While prosecutors tried to convince a judge that Elmer Wayne Henley voluntarily told police about his part in the Houston mass murders, a defense lawyer was boldly predicting that Henley will get a third trial.

"I would wager money on it if I had any," Will Gray of Houston told reporters Tuesday.

Henley, 23, is being re-tried here on six murder counts stemming from the homosexual torture and death spree that left 26 boys dead. He had been convicted of the killings at a 1974 trial. But Gray successfully argued on appeal that the defense had been improperly denied a change of venue hearing. The conviction was thrown out.

"We've got all the record we need for (a successful appeal)," Gray said. "The rest is just window dressing."

Gray believes State District Judge Noah Kennedy has committed an error that could force a third trial if Henley is convicted. He claimed that several jurors were improperly seated. He forecasted that "we'll do it again in two or three years."

But Harris County District Attorney Carol Vance said that he found nothing wrong with the jury selection process.

"The judge was very cautious in the jury selection. It's not the easiest thing to get a jury in a case with world-wide publicity."

Kennedy Tuesday began hearing testimony in a pretrial hearing to determine the admissibility of a written statement Henley gave police after his 1973 arrest. The defense wants the statement suppressed.

After the eight-man, four-woman jury was sequestered, Vance began calling witnesses in an attempt to show that the statement was not coerced.

Pasadena policeman J.B. Jamison and Dave Mullican testified that Henley had been advised of his rights and did not ask to see a lawyer. The two men were among the first to arrive at a Pasadena home where Henley said he had killed Dean Corll. Henley claimed the 33-year-old Corll masterminded the death spree.

Mullican said Henley voluntarily led police to burial sites in Houston, San Augustine and High Island where the bodies were dug up.

"He did tell me in fact that he had been involved in killing some of these people," Mullican said. "He told me he felt better by having the thing off his chest."

Mullican also testified that Henley gave detailed descriptions of the murder and torture methods.

"He said it was not as easy to choke someone to death like they showed on television. He said he had to call Dean to help him," the detective said.

He testified that Henley said a "handcuff trick" was used to trap the victims. The trick involved Henley using a hidden key to get out of the handcuffs. The victim would then be asked to try it. Once locked up, he would be fastened to a plywood torture board and homosexually raped.

Gray tried to show that Henley had been influenced to make the statements. The defense lawyer asked the witnesses how many policemen were around when Henley talked about the crimes.

HCA has 20,000 beds in operation

Hospital Corporation of America announced in a recent release that its network of hospitals now exceeds 130 facilities and 20,000 beds.

Thomas F. Frist Jr., M.D., President of the hospital management company, said HCA is the first company in the industry to reach the 20,000 bed figure.

After leasing hospital facilities in Gray County with 145 beds, HCA plans to construct a replacement facility for the existing Highland General Hospital.

Fowler new Methodist minister

Rev. J.B. Fowler, new senior minister of the First United Methodist Church, describes the three main sectors of the ministry as sacrament, sermon, and pastoral care.

In Christianity, sacrament deals with any of certain rites (such as Holy Communion), ordained by Jesus and regarded as a means of grace. Sermons, at least according to Webster's, are speeches given as instruction in religion or morals, especially by a clergyman using a text from Scripture.

The new Pampa minister says he believes his personal strengths lie in pastoral care, which he describes as "counseling, in which most pastors are invariably involved, basically an attempt of the whole faith to address life where people really live it."

"For too long religion has meant church on Sunday. That's a trite way to put it, but it's true," the new minister says.

Although a basic tenet of Christianity is belief in an after life, Rev. Fowler says the church must face its responsibility to the world we live in.

"The church is in the world, we can't deny that," he says. "And we have a basic command to love our neighbors as ourselves. Of course, the particular approach to that is open to debate."

Rev. Fowler believes the church is best prepared to help people deal with what he calls "the crisis of living." But he accepts the assistance of trained psychiatrists and psychologists even though he says he recognizes the largely humanistic (non-religious) underpinnings of these disciplines.

"The basic difference is that they (psychology and psychiatry) don't believe in the basically sinful nature of man."

Rev. Fowler, whose library is filled with contemporary psychological literature as well as classical works on theology, reads widely. On the Bible, he says, "The sufficiency of the Holy Scriptures is that they contain all that is necessary for salvation."

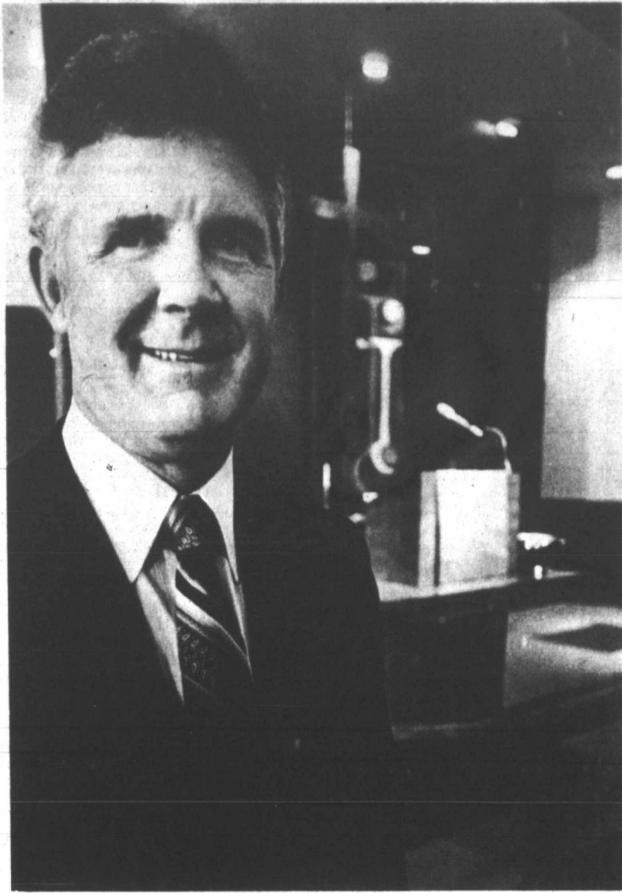

"Scriptural witness is a test of faith," he says. "Matters of faith and belief are tested by the Scriptures. We all believe in the Bible, but obviously we don't all agree. If I got all of my advice from the Bible, I obviously wouldn't need all these books."

Although he says Methodists may be more "liberal" than their fundamentalist brethren, he describes Methodists as "pluralists with different theological stands within the church."

Rev. Fowler, who began his Pampa ministry this month, was minister for four years at St. Stephens Church in Amarillo. Before coming to St. Stephens he pastored two years each at churches in Perryton and Mule Shoe.

He is a graduate of McMurry College, and of the Perkins School of Theology, Southern Methodist University, and is a member of the Mental Health and Mental Retardation Association.

Rev. Fowler says he is "looking forward to being involved in the life of the community. People in town as well as people in church. The advantage of a town this size - you get to know a lot of people."

Dear Abby by abigail van buren

DEAR ABBY: The house is finally quiet. My husband and two teenagers are in bed, but I am so upset I can't sleep.

Our marriage has been so wonderful, plus we are blessed with two healthy children who have always been well-behaved.

We were an exceptionally happy family until about a year ago. So what's the problem? LOUD MUSIC!

Abby, why must music be played so loud today? The only answer we get from our children is, "Because."

The words exchanged between my husband and son tonight were terrible. My husband asked our son politely to please turn down the stereo. Our son ignored him, so his father turned the stereo off and announced that neither of the children would be allowed to play music again until they agreed to keep the volume at a level that was comfortable for us.

I've never seen my husband so angry. The kids are mad and I'm upset.

Do other parents have this problem? And how do they handle it? AM-FM

DEAR AM: Yes, many parents have that problem. And they handle it the same way your husband handled it - by exploding and then finally laying down the law.

The upsetting scene could have been avoided had you laid down the law as soon as the kids started playing music at a volume that was disturbing to you.

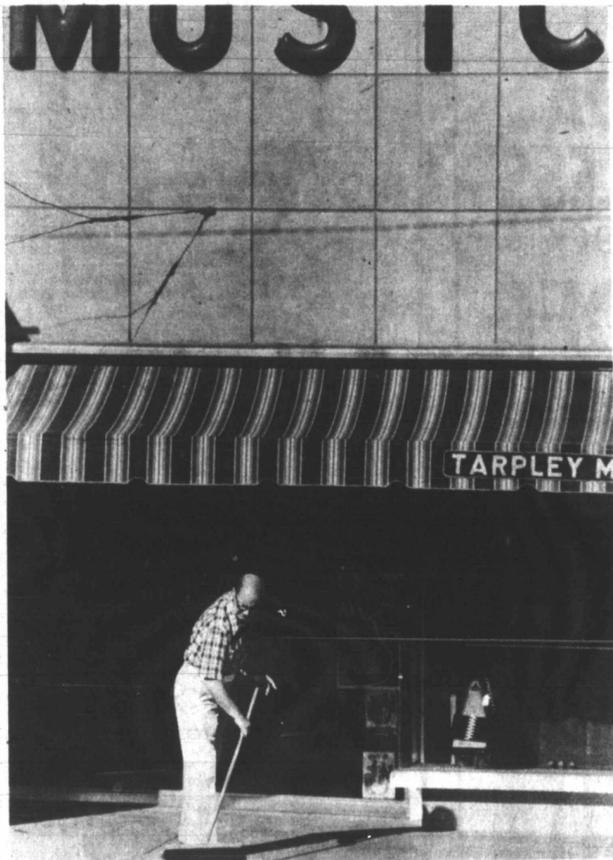

Loud music is "in," but the price one pays for constantly assaulting his eardrums with loud sounds is impaired hearing.

DEAR ABBY: My son has a lot of friends, and lately they have been getting married one after the other. Here is my gripe. He has to lay out $48 every time he rents one of those fancy tuxedos the bridegroom has picked out for him to wear to the wedding.

I think if the bridegroom wants his attendants to wear tuxes, he should pick up the tab for the rental. What is your opinion? PINE BLUFF, ARK., MOM

DEAR MOM: It would be nice if the bridegroom could afford it, but most cannot, so it's customary for each attendant to pay for the rental of his own tuxedo.

Myths about weight loss unadulterated nonsense

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I am 15 years old and I weigh 150 pounds. I have tried exercising but that doesn't seem to help. Most all of my fat is in my legs and hips. I once tried an exercise class for the lower part of my body, but I heard a rumor that if you lose fat in your legs that it will go to your behind. Is this true? If it is, I don't know what I am going to do because my behind is big enough.

DEAR READER - That's pure unadulterated nonsense. If you lose fat from your legs, you'll lose it and it won't go anywhere else.

There really isn't any such thing as spot reducing. If you follow a program that causes you to lose fat calories, it will eventually affect the undesirable fat deposits.

Simply put, that means you have to be on a diet that limits your calorie intake below the level of the amount of calories your body uses. You can affect this relationship in two ways through a diet that decreases your calories or through an activity program that increases your use of calories.

Your resting metabolism is important too because you use calories at rest, but there's a limited amount that you can expect to do about that unless you want to start a weight lifting program and develop muscles. I am sending you The Health Letter number 4-7, Weight Losing Diet. Other readers who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. You can consider this simply as a guide.

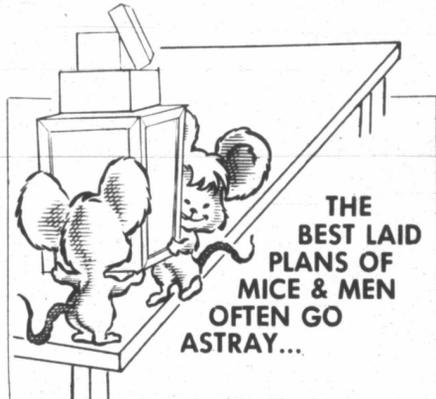

The Health Letter I'm sending you will provide the framework for a balanced 1300 calorie diet. You shouldn't consume less than that amount on a daily basis.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I'm a 36-year-old female. For the past two weeks I've been having hunger pains where my heart is located. About 15 minutes after I eat I feel hungry again. The pains are not intolerable but they are there. If I drink a cup of coffee they go away and start again in about 30 minutes and then I'll eat a cookie or some candy. I'm size 12 now and I don't want to gain weight. Maybe you can help me. Do you think I have an ulcer or is it my nerves or my heart?

DEAR READER - There's no way you'll know for certain what's causing your pain without a medical examination. Since you're a young woman it's most unlikely that the symptoms you're describing are related to heart disease, at least the type associated with heart attacks and fatty-cholesterol deposits in the coronary arteries.

TEXPEX show to be held

Pampa stamp enthusiasts may want to travel to Amarillo this weekend for TEXPEX '79, a showing of almost 40 collections of stamps.

The collections, along with other items of interest for stamp specialists, will be displayed Friday, Saturday and Sunday at the Amarillo Quality Inn. A 45-page collection of Texas mail from 1833 to 1862 is included in the show.

For those persons interested in buying or selling stamps, or starting a stamp collection, 22 stamp dealers from several states will be available.

Hours for the show, sponsored by the Amarillo Golden Spread Stamp Club, are from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Friday and Saturday, and from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday.

Polly's Pointers by polly cramer

DEAR POLLY - My tiny daughter spilled nail polish all over her permanent press pants (50 percent polyester - 50 percent cotton) so I immediately soaked them in cold water. But that did not work. Next I tried nail polish remover but no results. So what do I do? - MRS. D.B.

DEAR MRS. D.B. - The Home Service Dept. of one of the largest washing machine companies says not to use nail polish remover. Sponge with pure amyl acetate (buy at the drug store) and if stain persists after laundering sponge with rubbing alcohol to which you have added a few drops of ammonia. Test first. - POLLY

DEAR POLLY - The pastry blender in my kitchen seems to be in almost constant use. Naturally it is used for dough and pastry but I use it for chopping eggs to go in egg salad and it works well for breaking chunks of tuna into smaller pieces. Also when I have forgotten to thaw ground beef I empty the frozen meat into a skillet with a small amount of water and cook, scraping off the outside as it works. When it is all cooked the blender is used to break the chunky meat into tiny separate pieces that are so nice for barbecue, casseroles and the like. - SALLY

DEAR POLLY - Have you ever opened a box of brown sugar and found it like one solid rock? I have discovered such a lump can be softened by placing it in a shallow baking dish (remove from the package, of course) and then heating it in the oven for a few minutes. This also works in a microwave oven. - VICKY

DEAR READERS - I, too, am very fond of this way for softening brown sugar but find it must be done just when the sugar is about to be measured or used since mine seems to harden again when it gets cold. - POLLY

DEAR POLLY - I no longer have to worry about my recipe cards getting misplaced or messy while I am cooking because my dear husband nailed a clothespin on the underside of one my wall cabinets and this holds the card at almost eye level. The pin is over the area where I usually do any mixing etc., but is out of the way. - MARILYN

Clarendon sets celebration

Clarendon has scheduled three days of festivities for its Saint's Rost Celebration, set to begin July 4. Independence Day will feature an old settlers' reunion to begin at 10:30 a.m., followed by a barbeque at 11 a.m., a parade at 2 p.m., a fiddlers' contest at 3 p.m., and a rodeo performance at 8:30 p.m. A craft fair will run from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on July 4, also. Rodeo performances also will be July 6 at 7:30 p.m. and July 7 at 8:30 p.m. A wild calf race and scramble will be held each night for the children, and a drawing for a free beef will be held nightly. Open air dances, featuring three different bands, will be staged following the rodeo performances. Books for the rodeo open, for one day only, June 29 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Participants should call 974-2539.

Juneteenth state holiday

A recent ceremony in Austin, where Gov. Bill Clement signed into law a bill proclaiming June 19 as a state holiday in Texas, was a result of several months of work by Rep. Al Edwards of Houston. A crowd of more than a thousand gathered at the state Capitol for the Black Emancipation Day ceremony. "The signing of this bill indicates that it is now time for Blacks and other Texans to take pride in Black culture and to be able to eat watermelon and not be ashamed of it," said Edwards. "Although the bill will not take effect until 1980, many people have already told me that they are planning on closing their businesses on the 19th to commemorate this great day," he added.

Officers installed

New officers of the Skellytown O.E.S. 1066 were installed recently at the Masonic Lodge building. Worthy matron for 1979-1980 is Mrs. Ira Colley. W.I. Colley is Worthy Patron, Mrs. Charles Matson is Associate Matron and John Kenney is Associate Patron. Conductress is Vicki Adkinson, with Mrs. Roy Paul Thurmond serving as Associate Conductress. Mrs. Bill Campbell is secretary. Mrs. Margie Sangster is treasurer and Mrs. John Kenney is chaplain. Marshall is Bill Campbell and Mrs. Betty Crawford, Pampa, is organist. Assisting in the installation service were Mrs. E.E. Crawford, Mrs. C.D. McCloud, Mrs. Bill Campbell, Mrs. Grace Bulla and Mrs. Betty Crawford. Star Points are Mary Veale as Ada, Mary Kramer as Ruth, Minerva Medley as Esther, Mrs. Bernice Hoskins as Martha and Mrs. Sue Owens as Electa. Warden is E.E. Crawford and Sentinel is Clarence Hoskins. Mrs. Vicki Adkinson provided special music.

Pampa women to state meeting

Three Pampa women returned last week from the golden anniversary state convention of the Delta Kappa Gamma Society International. Myra Nell McLaughlin, Gerry Rampy and Essie Mae Walters went to San Antonio, where 900 sister members of the state society convened. They participated in a birthday luncheon, an awards ceremony, education panels, memorial services and instructional sessions. The meeting ended with the installation of new officers. Regional conferences are planned for late July in Dallas to observe the international golden anniversary of the society.

Q. My doctor recently prescribed a blood pressure drug called Ser-Ap-Es. I nearly flipped when I saw the name of this medication on a list of drugs that caused cancer in a scientific study. I'm afraid to stop taking my medicine but I'm worried about the dangers.

A. The list you saw resulted from a National Cancer Institute (NCI) investigation of Reserpine, an ingredient in Ser-Ap-Es. Diures. Hydroses. Regroton. Salutensin. Serpasil and many other blood pressure medications. The two-year study showed that Reserpine causes breast cancer in female animals and an unusual tumor of the male reproductive and adrenal glands.

This is not the first warning we have had about Reserpine. In 1974 three medical investigations were published that linked the drug to the development of breast cancer in women. The research was carried out independently in Boston, England and Finland. All three reports found an increased incidence of cancer in women taking this kind of medicine.

Needless to say, there were scare headlines and there was much concern in medical circles. But subsequent studies contradicted the initial research and seemed to show that there was no cancer danger. Doctors and patients were confused and most people soon stopped worrying about the problem. The new animal data will now force us to reexamine the safety of this widely prescribed medication.

Even if the question of cancer had not arisen there is some debate among practitioners that Reserpine should be considered a primary agent for the treatment of hypertension.

Although the drug is both inexpensive and effective for high blood pressure, it does have some unpleasant side effects. It can cause psychological depression in some people, nightmares, drowsiness, nasal stuffiness, impotence, diarrhea, nausea and stomach ulceration.

In view of these side effects and the new NCI report, you should be advised that many other medications are available for lowering blood pressure, and you and your physician may want to consider an alternative drug, at least until the dust settles on the most recent cancer research.

Q. I've got a large bottle of aspirin that's been sitting around my medicine chest for about a year and a half. Some of the tablets are starting to crumble, and I wonder whether it's still any good. Should I throw it out or keep it?

A. For openers, the last place you should store your aspirin (or any other drug for that matter) is in your bathroom medicine cabinet. Heat and humidity are the worst enemies of most medications, and your foggy bathroom mirror after a shower tells you just how bad they are. Aspirin is particularly vulnerable to moisture and will rapidly deteriorate.

A quick test to tell whether or not your aspirin is starting to go bad would be to remove the cap and smell. If you detect an acid-like vinegar odor you will know it's time to pitch the old bottle. When aspirin starts to break down some of it turns into acetic acid (vinegar) and gives off a distinctive smell.

Before you buy your next bottle of aspirin you should sneak a whiff to make sure you aren't wasting your money. You'd be surprised how many products have started to deteriorate before you even bring them home. And remember, once you've got your new aspirin don't store it in the medicine chest. Look for a nice dry location that's safe from children's reach—perhaps a special spot in a dry closet.

Handicapped opportunities increasing

Handicapped men and women -- our nation's most disgracefully neglected minority -- finally getting access to more jobs and business opportunities and are being increasingly recognized as fully capable of competing for profits and economic advancement.

It's in the field of small business that opportunities are opening most dramatically. And it is under the leadership of the Small Business Administration that assistance to the disabled to become private entrepreneurs is being centered.

In the six years that the SBA has had a business loan program for the disabled, 923 loans totaling $70 million have been made. But in 1978 alone, there were 316 of these loans totaling $24.3 million, reports a spokesman for the SBA's New York district office. This represented a whopping 33 percent increase over 1977, when 105 loans were made to the handicapped for a total of $15.1 million.

"There is a large pool of handicapped people in this country who are ready and willing to start businesses of their own," says Robert Ruffner, of the President's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped. "I find that increasing numbers of these people are interested in starting their own companies rather than being subject to the uncertainties of federal job grants."

But Ruggner warns, the psychology of Proposition 13 is spreading even to programs of this nature, and "many of these grants are in jeopardy." He urges you, if you are disabled prospective entrepreneur, to contact the SBA for help at once.

If you are handicapped, below is how you can qualify for a Small Business Administration loan. First, the eligibility rules:

The business must be 100 percent owned by the handicapped applicant.

You must prove via a physician's certificate the exact nature of your disability, and that it is permanent.

You must demonstrate how your handicap prevents you from competing in the business community.

Other criteria include: you lack funds not otherwise available; you have a good character; proven repayment ability; sufficient equity; some collateral.

When in Rome ... watch out for thieves

ROME (AP) — Increasingly aggressive Roman thieves are working the airports, highways and narrow streets of the Italian capital, and U.S. consular officials report an upsurge of crime against American tourists.

An American couple who came here on their honeymoon were the latest victims, picked clean of passports, money and jewels before they even reached their hotel.

Starting with record crowds during the sun-splashed Easter period, Italy is experiencing a tourist boom with West Germans and Americans leading the pack. An estimated five million Americans are expected to visit Italy this year.

The boom has also brought out the thieves and American officials here say the robbers are becoming more violent in pursuit of loot.

Leslie and Robert Tortolani, married in New York last Saturday night, flew into Rome on Monday morning and rented a car at Leonardo Da Vinci airport, but when they reached the modernistic exposition center on the outskirts of the city, a tire blew.

Tired from their overnight flight and fried by the morning sun, the couple decided to leave the car and take a taxi to their hotel on the Via Veneto, seemingly the wise move.

Mrs. Tortolani carried her shoulder bag containing $800 in cash, both passports, travelers checks and jewelry and sat in the back of the cab while the driver and her husband, a Providence, R.I., costume jewelry manufacturer, got the luggage.

"Suddenly the door of the taxi opened and a man grabbed my bag. I was screaming at him but he kept pulling and he dragged me out of the car. When he got the bag he smiled at me," Mrs. Tortolani recounted.

The thief escaped in a waiting Fiat, the same light green car that Mrs. Tortolani noticed driving behind them from the airport.

The U.S. Consulate said it was the fourth such incident involving tourists who rented a car in two weeks. Last year, cooperation between airport police and the U.S. and several West European consulates helped crack a ring of thieves who followed rented cars into the city, and usually in the area of the exposition center, punctured a rear tire and then pounced on the vulnerable occupants when they had the trunk open and car up on the jack.

Only a tiny percentage of the thousands of tourists here are victimized, but an attack, of course, ruins a vacation often made at considerable financial sacrifice.

This year the U.S. consulate recorded 70 passports stolen in April and 111 stolen in May, compared with 64 in April 1978 and 82 in May 1978, by "scippatori" — thieves usually striking from motorcycles or cars.

Last year, the Embassy issued a travel advisory which said, "Like many other countries, Italy has witnessed a dramatic rise in the level of crime directed against both Italians and foreigners. Although crime involving Americans in Italy is almost invariably non-violent, a victim may at minimum suffer inconvenience and some financial loss."

But says an American consular officer, "This season the thieves are a lot more bloody minded."

Somoza's troops battle guerrillas in slums

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — President Anastasio Somoza's national guard attacked Sandinista guerrillas in the slums of eastern Managua today in a drive to clear the rebels from the capital. "It's going very well for us," said a high-ranking government source. "We expect to finish the operation in Managua today." The sounds of rocket, machine-gun and mortar fire mixed with heavy explosions through the night. The government source said convoys of troop reinforcements left the infantry training school at barricaded positions on the other side of Managua.

The rebels' clandestine Radio Sandino said an attack was imminent on Somoza's heavily fortified headquarters, known as the Bunker, inside the infantry training school. But reliable sources said some guerrillas were pulling out of the capital and possibly heading for Rivas, 30 miles north of the Costa Rican border, which the Sandinistas have vowed to capture and make a capital for the provisional government they named last weekend.

The Sandinistas announced Tuesday night that their forces in the south resumed their attack near La Virgen, south of Rivas. But Maj. Pablo Emilio Salazar, the 35-year-old commander of Somoza's forces in the south, denied the rebel claim in a television appearance.

"We have stopped them at the Rio Pita," said Salazar. "We figure there are now 400 to 600 guerrillas there. We are planning a major offensive."

The Pita River is five miles north of the Costa Rican border.

A Sandinista spokesman in neighboring Costa Rica said there were 600 guerrillas at La Virgen "with the heaviest weapon we have. We have also moved up for the battle all the armored cars and other weapons taken from the national guard."

La Virgen, on Lake Nicaragua, is 12 miles from the border.

The Sandinista commander in the south, Eden Pastora, told a reporter the guerrillas had overrun several barrios in Rivas and were battling the national guard garrison there late Tuesday.

There was no estimate of rebel casualties in the three weeks since the Sandinistas launched their second offensive in 10 months to try to end the 42-year rule of the Somoza family dictatorship. But reliable sources said 80 national guardsmen have been killed and 215 wounded, two of the guard's four Sherman tanks were disabled in Leon, and only five of its 10 rocket-firing Cessnas were still flying.

Child nearly 'eaten alive'

LEBANON, Tenn. (AP) — "She was nearly eaten alive," said the pediatrician who treated Valerie Hearn, a 10-month-old child mauled by rats. "It was more than one rat, it appears. They'd had to be big rats, too."

Dr. Bernard Wiggins, who runs a children's clinic in Wilson County, said the attack that left Valerie in serious condition at a suburban Nashville hospital Tuesday was the worst he had ever seen.

"She had severe rat bites on multiple places of her body — both her hands, her lips, her ears, her nose, her legs and arms, her body, back and shoulders. Her right hand was nearly eaten through. Most of the fat pad in the central area of the hand was eaten out," he said.

However, Wiggins said he believes the child will survive. "Her bites look like they're infected and she's running a fever, but I think she'll come out of it," he said.

"I interned at Washington's Walter Reed Hospital so I've treated rat bites. But this attack is the worst one I've ever seen."

Wiggins said the child might soon have died of malnutrition if her mother had not rushed her to the hospital after discovering the attack.

"It looks like she suffers from palsy. And she's a classic case of a failure to thrive. She's 10 months old and weighs just 10 pounds. That compares with an average weight for her age of 15 to 18 pounds," he said.

The child had suffered from a poor diet and lack of health care even before she was attacked, he said. "It's not an intentional thing. It is just a pathetic thing."

Wiggins said he had treated the girl once when she was a month old, but her mother never returned.

The mother called an ambulance early Tuesday morning after she heard the baby crying and "went right to it," said Wiggins. He said the mother "said she had just seen the baby minutes before it was attacked."

Officials say 19-year-old Carolyn Hearn and her three children lived in a dilapidated downtown neighborhood where Wiggins said he had treated a few rat bite victims earlier.

Joanne Smith, county Human Services Department supervisor, said the other Hearn daughters, ages 2 and 4, would be examined. Attempts to reach the mother were unsuccessful.

Old causeway may be gone

SOUTH PADRE ISLAND, Texas (AP) — It took three years and three million 1960s dollars to link this strip of sand with the mainland of South Texas.

The concrete Queen Isabella Causeway marked the arrival of South Padre Island as a tourist resort. Until its completion in 1954, sun-seekers had to take a boat or the "Sandcrab Taxi" (a half-track vehicle) across the Laguna Madre.

Now, Arnold Samuelson, a pleasant, gray-haired, transplanted Yankee, wants to blow up part of the old causeway.

And he's asking his friends to donate $107,000 for the demolition project.

"The old causeway is a Chinese wall. It's a navigation hazard," said Samuelson, chairman of the Cameron County Recreation and Tourism Advisory Council.

The 15,272-foot Queen Isabella was replaced in 1974 by the Queen Isabella II — a $12 million engineering marvel. The new causeway rises to an impressive 83 feet above the bay waters. That's high enough to let most pleasure craft sail under the crossing and up the bay.

The old causeway — a few hundred yards to the south — is much lower and still locks much seaborn traffic. The larger pleasure boats must make a five-mile out-of-the-way trek around an island in the bay to bypass the old causeway.

"That's why we want to put a cut in the old causeway," Samuelson said. "It's been talked, talked, talked. We finally want some action."

Talk of removing the old causeway began on the February 1971 day when the U.S. Coast Guard granted a permit for construction of the new causeway. That permit required that the old causeway be removed within 90 days of the opening of the new one.

But in May 1974, the permit was amended and the old causeway remained. The two ends have been used as fishing piers since then. And the larger boats have been making the five-mile voyage around Long Island to an old swing bridge in order to sail up the bay.

Washington briefs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Beneficial Corp. has agreed to stop telling customers they will get an "instant tax refund" without saying the money is really a loan from the company, the Federal Trade Commission says.

The consent agreement announced Tuesday is subject to final FTC approval after a public comment period. But it is expected to settle the case against Beneficial, which also sells income tax preparation services. The FTC alleged in 1973 that the firm, one of the nation's largest finance companies, confused the two functions through its "instant tax refund" claim. Finn M.W. Caspersen, Beneficial chairman, said the consent agreement "establishes language which is acceptable to both parties."

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department says Undersecretary of State David Newsom made an unannounced trip to Libya to explore a more harmonious relationship with the African country.

Great grasshopper war begins for farmers

BELVIDERE, S.D. (AP) — The battle begins today in the great grasshopper war with three crop-dusting airplanes dropping insecticides on what South Dakota farmers say is the worst grasshopper infestation in 45 years.

"I think they're as thick as they were in the '30s," F.H. Ireland, a Belvidere farmer, said Tuesday. "But I remember them moving around more then."

In the early 1930s, grasshoppers, which thrive in dusty, dry conditions, devastated a 200-mile area from Pierre to Rapid City, eating everything in sight.

Today as much as a million acres of South Dakota grassland may have to be treated with Sevin 4 Oil, a common home garden insecticide in the news recently because of objections to its use in Maine.

Spraying in South Dakota was to have begun Tuesday, but was delayed a day by the first rain here in five weeks.

Agricultural specialists say crop losses so far have not been appreciable. But the grasshoppers must be sprayed within the next three weeks, the experts say, or the bugs will lay eggs and present an increased threat next year.

"They're just to the point where they're going to develop wings," said Gene Christensen, who ranches 10,000 acres up the White River near Kadoka in central South Dakota. "And if we don't get them now, they're going to be everywhere."

After multiplying for two years, the hoppers have increased to 250 per square yard on Christensen's ranch. The Agriculture Department says eight grasshoppers per yard in an acre eat as much grass as a cow.

"Look at this," Christensen said, pointing to the bustling stubble that several days ago was a thriving alfalfa field. "I can count five in an area about as big as my hand."

Christensen and 15 of his neighbors have put up about $30,000 to spray a two-mile strip along 24 miles of the White River, where the insects have congregated.

The federal government will pay one-third of the cost and the state Legislature this month appropriated $286,000 for programs throughout South Dakota.

The insecticide to be used, Sevin 4 Oil, may cause birth defects in dogs, tests have shown. Its label warns users to avoid streams and lakes.

SOME OF PAMPA'S Little League teams found out what it is like to play on not the most ideal conditions this summer. Several young ball players were forced to play in the lot at the corner of 23rd and Hobart that was grown over with weeds and according to some first hand reports "snake infested." This young ball player keeps a close eye out for unwelcome company while manning center field.

Sugar bill trickling through Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — A long-awaited package of sugar legislation has resumed trickling through Congress after months of strategy mapping among lawmakers and administration officials.

As action reopened Tuesday, the chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee accused the national press of "hostility and ignorance" in reports on pending legislation to raise sugar prices.

An international agreement to set a range of prices and companion bills to hike domestic supports for farmers are aimed at price stability for both consumers and producers, said Democratic Sen. Frank Church of Idaho, a major sugarbeet state.

Church, the panel's chairman, had blocked any movement on Senate ratification of the pact until higher U.S. supports were enacted.

Despite his remarks, the hearing itself was taken by industry and administration officials as a sign the long-delayed International Sugar Agreement and legislation to boost domestic sugar price supports now will move through Congress this summer.

The legislation, supported by President Carter, would add an estimated 74 cents to each consumer's food budget this year and about $1 a year more through 1981. About 80 percent of the sugar consumed is in foods and beverages.

About $60 million in direct subsidies would be paid for by import fees without affecting consumer prices.

The House Agriculture Committee approved a boost in supports almost three months ago. But sharp divisions among sugar producers, processors and users have stalled it in the Ways and Means Committee, where its tariff provisions must be approved, too.

Stories and editorials calling the bill inflationary, but supporting the pact are illogical and "nothing but flagrant propaganda," Church said at the committee's first hearing this year on the agreement, negotiated two years ago.

The administration now uses import duties to keep the U.S. price of foreign sugar at 15 cents a pound. It has a separate program for 14,000 U.S. farmers that assures them 14.7 cents on 1978 sugar and 13 cents a pound on this year's crop.

Because imports amount to 45 percent of the sugar consumed in the United States, the duties raise the cost of all sugar to refiners and then consumers, who now pay an average of about 25 cents a pound for table sugar.

The world raw-sugar price before duties is less than 8 cents a pound, less than half what U.S. growers say they need to stay in business. The pact would use export quotas and stockpiles to hold that price between 11 and 21 cents a pound.

The United States is the largest sugar importer. Assistant Secretary of State Julius L. Katz testified that the other parties are becoming impatient with the Senate's delays.

Church said he now wants ratification papers ready even if the House kills the supports, although he believes "a reliable complementary domestic program which will act as a safety net for domestic producers is mandatory."

He said he still doubts the pact will work because the European Common Market, a major exporter, has not agreed to it.

But if a new supports bill is killed, he said, the pact and a measure to implement it will move separately because "it seems to me we have no other choice."

The House last fall killed such a proposal but the administration has used permanent statutes to put most of its provisions in place while the new bill is pending.

Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland said in an interview he has agreed with Church and others to maintain supports if only the agreement makes it through Congress. Separate subsidies could not be paid, however, he said.

Katz said that domestic supports won't work without the ISA and, without supports, "the ISA may be the only real protection the growers have."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Neal Smith, D-Iowa, has warned Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland that some dairy farmers in his district "take a very dim view" of being compared to members of Congress.

Bergland, a former three-term House member from Minnesota, recently said he had no hankering to return to Capitol Hill because he thinks the lifestyle there is "absolutely uncivilized."

"It's terrible," Bergland said. "Early morning, late at night, seven days a week. It's like the dairy business. I put them in the same league."

Smith, in a brief note to Bergland, cautioned the secretary: "I think you should stay away from any dairy conventions the next couple of weeks until they forget this unfavorable comparison."

Your money's worth

by sylvia porter

Are you aware that the number of states asking for a constitutional convention to require a balanced federal budget is now actually within whispering distance of the magic number of 34?

Do you realize that despite the deafening silence surrounding passage of the pro-convention resolutions in the various state legislatures and despite the absence of any public outcry for this enormously important event, a convention will be called that might unzip our entire constitutional structure?

If it comes about, this would be the first constitutional convention since 1789.

If held, no one — no one — knows what a convention would do to our nation's basic, treasured charter.

The 1789 convention was called just to do a patch-up job on the Articles of Confederation. What happened instead was the writing of a brand new Constitution — under which we live today.

What is happening? One answer emerges at once. An obviously well-financed, deliberately quiet, behind-the-scenes drive is rolling ahead efficiently to get enough states on the line to compel the calling of the convention.

The single name which has been identified with the behind-the-scenes drive is the National Taxpayers Union in Washington, D.C., which claims a membership of 100,000 today against 20,000 as recently as 1976, which focuses on opposing and ridiculing government spending, and which openly boasts of "our" constitutional convention.

The one major public figure who has placed himself on record as favoring the idea is Gov. Jerry Brown, Democrat of California. Even such well-known conservatives as Arizona's Republican Sen. Barry Goldwater have lined up with liberals against the convention.

Suddenly, members of the Senate are awakening to the possibility (if not the imminent probability) that states may hit the required number necessary to call a constitutional convention. To avert this chance that the states ill pre-empt what they consider a right of Congress, the senators are urging Congress to vote an amendment to the Constitution requiring a balanced federal budget.

In a letter to Sen. Birch Bayh (D-Ind.), a bipartisan group of 33 asks the subcommittee of which Bayh is chairman, to vote out the amendment before the July 4 congressional recess, which is slated to start June 30.

Just about every one is in favor of a balanced budget these days. It's basic trend in our nation, has gone far, far beyond the dimensions of a political fad.

But there has been dangerously little debate or even mild discussion on what such a convention could mean — in contrast to the admitted lack of certainty to what it would mean. It COULD mean:

The possible gutting of the fundamental charter of the United States. Tampering with the Constitution — like tampering with an individual's genes — is not to be done lightly.

The creation of an economic straitjacket in which only minor steps could be taken to battle even a chaotic depression with mass unemployment, should that hit us again. Of course, giant deficits do create inflation and we realize it all too well! Of course, a long string of deficits during years of overall prosperity is indefensible and the string must be broken as quickly as possible! But it is nonsense to hold that all deficits are bad in all circumstances.

Higher taxes on you and me as a result of this ban on deficits to wipe out any budget red ink if at some time slashing spending were to prove impossible or politically-economically self-defeating.

Skates on Wheels
 Roller skating has come a long way since Joseph Merlin introduced the pair of skates he had invented in London in 1760. Roller skates made in Germany and France at that time were called "ground skates," and had wheels made of wood. Eventually, fiber or steel wheels were used. Today's skates usually have plastic wheels, and may cost anywhere from $19 to $150. There are currently about 5,000 indoor roller skating rinks in the United States. But roller skating has now become such a popular outdoor activity that traffic problems and even injuries have occurred in areas where skaters must compete for space with pedestrians, bicycles and cars.

Too Tall Jones takes up boxing

NEW YORK (AP) — Remember the idle rumors in the 1960s proclaiming those dream fights — Jimmy Brown vs. Sonny Liston or Wilt Chamberlain vs. Muhammad Ali?

Would you believe Ed "Too Tall" Jones vs. Larry Holmes? It's not quite as far-fetched as it might sound — but don't start lining up at the ticket booth just yet, either.

Brown, once the terror of the National Football League, wound up grimacing at us from movie screens. And Chamberlain, once the scourge of the National Basketball Association, turned his attention to volleyball.

But Jones, until now a defensive end with the Dallas Cowboys, says he has had it after five years of pro football — he never liked it to begin with — and at the age of 28 is pursuing his first love, boxing.

Holmes, picking up a little free publicity for his Friday night heavyweight title fight against Mike Weaver at Madison Square Garden, attended the news conference Tuesday at which Jones, a 6-foot-9, 270-pounder with mammoth hands, announced his intention to become the heavyweight champion of the world.

That was pretty big talk from a guy whose only previous boxing experience was limited to the Golden Gloves while in high school. But Jones pointed out: "I never lost a fight and none of 'em went past the first round."

Jones said he figured it would take about two years for him to be good enough to take on a contender and that his whole ring career probably would run no longer than six years. Boxing, he said, is "where my heart lies. At 28, I don't feel I'm too old."

The 29-year-old Holmes is the "other" heavyweight champ, wearing the World Boxing Council crown while Ali lugs the World Boxing Association title around the world in a farewell tour. "I'm the fightin' champion," he said.

Then, looming over Jones (Holmes was standing; Jones was seated), the 6-3 Holmes assessed: "He's not too tall to fight. And he's not too old. Heck, Archie Moore didn't win the title 'til he was 37.

"I think you'll be ready sooner than two years," Holmes said to Jones.

Jones, who said he decided several years ago to quit football after playing out the option year on his contract, insisted his retirement isn't a ploy to squeeze a better contract offer out of the Cowboys or to get offers from other clubs.

"I never liked football, even though I had the talent to play the game... I enjoyed it the first three years with the Cowboys. I was happy with it. In my second year I made it all the way to the Super Bowl. There's lots of guys who played 15 years and never got there.

Yankee fans welcome Billy Martin back

NEW YORK (AP) — "I'll probably be a little nervous," Billy Martin was saying Tuesday evening as he put on the dark blue cap with the familiar NY on the front. "I'm always nervous when I get ready to go to work."

Billy Martin was about to go back to the job he loves best — managing the New York Yankees.

It was a bittersweet return.

The popular Martin received a two-minute ovation from the crowd of 36,211 — the advance sale was 15,000 until Martin was named Monday to replace Bob Lemon, the man who replaced him last July — but the Toronto Blue Jays put a damper on the celebration with a 5-4 victory over the slumping two-time world champions.

"Just being back in uniform is great," Martin said. "You don't realize how much you miss the game until you're gone for as long as I was."

But the thrill of being back was tempered by a measure of disappointment when the lowly Blue Jays trumped 10-game winner Tommy John with the help of two-run singles by John Mayberry and Luis Gomez, the latter's first two RBI of the season.

"You're never happy after you lose a ballgame," Martin said as he slumped wearily in the chair behind his desk. "I'm not a good loser, so I'm not in the happiest mood right now."

Martin returned looking fit and relaxed and about eight pounds heavier than the drawn-faced manager who resigned in a flood of tears last July after calling slugger Reggie Jackson a "born liar" and owner George Steinbrenner a "convicted liar."

He was greeted by about a dozen autograph-seeking youngsters and dozens of media representatives when he arrived at Yankee Stadium. He went around the clubhouse shaking hands with the players, hugging center fielder Mickey Rivers, and trading good-natured obscenities with catcher Thurman Munson.

Fighter remains mystery

SAN REMO, Italy (AP) — The manager of South African heavyweight Gerrie Coetzee wants his fighter to remain a mystery to Leon Spinks until Sunday's fight, and he carefully checks that no spies from Spinks' camp are around when Coetzee spars.

"You cannot understand all qualities of a fighter from a training session. But I prefer not to have disturbing presences around the ring," manager Al Tucker said Tuesday.

The 24-year-old South African, unbeaten as a professional, fights Spinks, a former world champion, in the nearby principality of Monte Carlo. If he wins, he will get a World Boxing Association title shot against John Tate, assuming that Muhammad Ali retires his crown.

Coetzee has been fighting an average of five training rounds a day against sparring partner Randy Stephens since his arrival in San Remo. He was reported by Tucker "in outstanding physical condition."

"He is fit for the fight and is also psychologically ready for Spinks," Tucker said.

Coetzee received about 4,000 letters from wellwishers and cables from South African fans, a great morale booster.

"He is a professional, but he does not fight just for money. He also thinks of the pride of his country and countrymen," Tucker said.

Coetzee, who began boxing at age seven under the tutelage of his father and had 193 amateur matches, is a natural athlete, and Tucker said he also could have done well in track and field and rugby.

"Boxing, however, is the sporting activity he likes most," Tucker said.

"Boxing is a booming sport in South Africa and could become even more popular if Gerrie defeats Spinks and gets a title fight with Tate," Tucker said.

Coetzee's pro career shows 21 straight wins, 14 by knockout.

"He knocked out many of his opponents before the 10th round, and he is capable of beating Spinks too. We are aware, however, he (Spinks) is a tough nut to crack," Tucker said.

Boosters to buy activity bus

The Pampa Booster Club, with the help of the Pampa Independent School District, will start drives toward buying an activity bus for the upcoming school year.

The boosters, who met Tuesday night at the high school football fieldhouse, reported that the Pampa school board had decided to help out with the expenses. The school will pay around $20,000, which amounts to about half of the total cost of the bus.

After being told what the school board had offered, the boosters approved the contribution.

A committee for the fund-raising of the bus is being formed at the present. Several projects were discussed in Tuesday night's meeting such as selling caps, coats and windbreakers.

President John McGuire said that the booster club will begin to look for a bus very soon. It will be a Continental Trailways. He also noted that the bus would be painted in the Pampa school colors.

Is Ali going to retire?

DURBAN, South Africa (AP) — The statement was in a letter that Mike Mortimer had received from the camp of World Boxing Association heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali. It read: "I, Muhammad Ali, agree to stage my retirement party at Los Angeles Forum on the evening of July 5, 1979." A spokesman for the Forum said he was not aware of any such event scheduled for the arena. Mortimer, chairman of the Championships Committee of the WBA, said here that the letter he received arrived with notification from Barry Frank, senior corporate vice president of International Management Group, which officially represents Ali. "I am enclosing Mr. Muhammad Ali's agreement to retire his heavyweight championship as of July 5, 1979," Mortimer quoted the letter as saying.

When asked to confirm if he indeed sent a letter to Mortimer which contained a letter of resignation from Ali, Frank told The Associated Press in New York on Tuesday: "I have no comment on that. He (Ali) will make the appropriate announcement at the appropriate time. All I can say at this point is his retirement plans are his own." Ali, meanwhile, reportedly was in Libya and has not been heard from while the announcements were being made. However, he has said on several occasions that he would not fight again. Under WBA rules, the 37-year-old champ must sign for a title defense by Sept. 15, one year from the date he regained the title from Leon Spinks. Promotor Bob Arum said over the weekend that Ali had sent a letter of resignation to WBA authorities. However, Ali's attorney Eugene Dibble denied that the champ had sent such a letter.

Wednesday's sports in brief

TENNIS
EASTBOURNE, England (AP) — Chris Evert Lloyd survived a match point and pulled out a 4-6, 7-6, 6-0 second-round victory over American Anne Smith in the Eastbourne Women's Grass Court Tournament. Top-seeded Martina Navratilova beat Briton Jo Durie 6-2, 7-5. Anne Hobbs beat U.S. Wightman Cup player Joanne Russell 7-5, 6-3. Third-seeded Tracy Austin had a one-sided 6-2, 6-3 victory over Betsy Nagelsen, and will meet another American, Kathy Jordan, who ousted Kate Latham of the United States 6-2, 3-6, 6-2. In other action, Britain's Virginia Wade beat Pam Teeguarden 7-6, 6-4; Wendy Turnbull of Australia defeated Germany's Sylvia Hanika 6-3, 6-3; Anne Kiyomura lost to South Africa's Ilana Kloss 4-6, 6-3, 8-6; Virginia Ruzici of Romania defeated Barbara Potter 6-3, 4-6, 12-10; and Bettina Bunge beat Betty Ann Stuart 6-4, 6-4. SURBITON, England (AP) — Mark Cox of Britain defeated Ferdi Taygan of the United States 6-7, 6-2, 10-8 in the first round of the Debenhams Men's Grass Court Championships. Track and Field HELSINKI, Finland (AP) — Reynaldo Nehemiah of the University of Maryland ran the 110-meter high hurdles in 13.36 seconds and easily won his event at an international track meet. The Soviet Union's top hurdler, Viktor Myashnikov, was second in 13.96. In the other events, Reijo Stahlberg of Finland won the shot put with a toss of 68 feet, 4 1/2 inches, and Arto Haerkoenen was beaten by East Germany's Wolfgang Hanisch in the javelin throw. Hanisch's effort was 289-7 1/2 while Haerkoenen tossed the spear 285-1 1/4. BASEBALL NEW YORK (AP) — Buddy Bell of the Texas Rangers was named American League player of the week after batting .400 last week.

Canadian Open to have strong field

OAKVILLE, Ontario (AP) — Tom Watson, Jack Nicklaus and Hale Irwin top the strongest field ever assembled for the Canadian Open Golf Championship, an event that grows in stature and prestige on an annual basis. "It is a national championship," Nicklaus said. "Any national championship is of very considerable importance." And the event, which gets started Thursday, holds a special lure for Nicklaus. A victory would be of more than normal importance for the man who is struggling through the poorest season of his matchless career. First of all, he hasn't won this season. He needs to win to restore the confidence that has begun to erode in an erratic, unproductive season. Secondly, he'd particularly like to win on the Glen Abbey Golf Club course, a 7,060-yard layout playing to a par-71 which Nicklaus designed in the Toronto suburbs. And, finally, the Canadian Open is one of the few important titles that has eluded him. He comes into the tournament, which carries a $350,000 purse, on a mild upswing and needs a strong, positive performance to set him up for the two remaining major titles of the year — the British Open and the American PGA. Nicklaus had a strong 68, one of his better efforts of the year, in the final round last week in the U.S. Open. But it was too late to lift him into contention. A struggling 77 in the second round took him out of that one. Watson, too, seeks to rebound. The game's outstanding performer over the last 2 1/2 seasons, failed to qualify for the final two rounds of the U.S. Open. It was the result of erratic driving. With a $63,000 prize going to the winner, a Watson victory could make him the first man to go past $400,000 in single-season winnings. He's collected $353,000 and four titles already this year. Irwin, of course, will be fighting a let-down from the physical and emotional exhaustion of his struggling triumph in the U.S. Open.

Major League roundup Martin loses in first game back

By The Associated Press
Billy Martin picked a bad night to come back home to Yankee Stadium. Only two American League home teams were winners Tuesday and Martin's Yankees weren't one of them.

The fiery Martin took over the defending World Champions from Bob Lemon, the man who replaced Martin when he resigned last July, and also coached third base as Toronto edged New York 5-4. The Blue Jays were one of five victorious visiting teams in the AL Tuesday.

"Just being back in uniform is great," Martin said. "You don't realize how much you miss the game until you're gone for as long as I was."

Martin also had kind words for the Yankee fans.

"They're great fans," he said. "I wish we could have given them a victory. I've been a Yankee fan all my life, maybe that's what we have in common."

The Yankees weren't much more effective under Martin than they'd been recently under Lemon. Light-hitting Luis Gomez broke a 3-3 tie when he drove in his first two runs of the season with a bases-loaded single in the sixth inning.

New York almost won it in the bottom of the ninth. Thurman Munson led off with a bloop single to center and Graig Nettles, who had a two-run homer earlier, drove a fly ball to deep right field.

"It was hanging up in the air," said Toronto right fielder Joe Cannon, who was inserted as a defensive replacement the inning before. "I got back as far as I could and got lucky and brought it down. I was really trying to keep it from going out; I think it would have hit the top of the fence."

"It was a good shot but I'm proud of the way I timed my jump."

Martin was proud of the effort his Yankees gave.

"I'm never happy after I lose a ball game," he said, "but we hit the ball hard and executed well."

Toronto's victory deprived Tommy John, 10-3, of becoming the first 11-game winner in the majors. It was the third straight time he had failed to win his 11th game.

"Two checked swings, one anteaater to the infield and five bloopers," was how Martin described the Blue Jays' key hits off John, neglecting to mention the ace left-hander walked six and uncorked two wild pitches.

Tigers 10, Red Sox 4, 14 innings
"They're an awful good club to keep beating in this park," said Boston Manager Don Zimmer. He was right.

Detroit, which lost 9-8 to Boston Monday night in a game that ended at 1:12 a.m. Tuesday, erupted for six runs in the 14th, two on Steve Kemp's single and another pair on Lance Parrish's double.

Orioles 6, Indians 4
A pair of eighth-inning walks, followed by Billy Smith's single, drove in the run that gave Baltimore its fifth victory in a row and its 11th in 12 games. The Indians were the victims of Eddie Murray's tie-breaking homer in the seventh and tough relief pitching by Tim Stoddard, who held Cleveland in check over the final four innings.

Rangers 2, Angels 1
John Henry Johnson struck out 10 Angels in five innings before leaving with tightness in his right leg. Jim Kern finished up a five-hitter. "I was loose and having a good time," said Johnson, 3-8, who was making his first start for the Rangers after being acquired from Oakland last week.

Mariners 7, White Sox 2
Seattle scored a pair of unearned runs in the fourth to spark its third straight victory and 12th in 19 games.

A's 6, Royals 5
Mike Heath, acquired in the trade for Johnson last week, hit his first two major-league homers to lead the A's to victory. Mitchell Page, Wayne Gross and Dave Revering also homered for Oakland, which managed an unorthodox triple play in the sixth.

Darrell Porter singled and George Scott was hit by a pitch. Al Cowens then grounded to third baseman Gross, who tagged Porter and threw to second for a force out. Scott ran over second baseman Mike Edwards and interference was called, accounting for the third out.

Brewers 10, Twins 9
Butch Wynegar's wild throw on an attempted steal in the eighth allowed Cecil Cooper to score Milwaukee's decisive run. Hosken Powell and Roy Smalley homered for Minnesota.

Braves 10, Phillies 4
After getting beamed by a pitch last Friday night, Phil Niekro laid low between starts.

Each week, Wagers' pupils gather at Chambers Landing for 1½ hours and listen to a lecture on some facet of fishing. They are near enough to the water that Wagers can cast a plug to illustrate what he is talking about.

"I can show them right there. In my first class three years ago, without even trying, I caught a bass while demonstrating worm fishing. The class applauded."

Wagers has an ironclad rule: Keep it simple. "I'm not going to get technical about it, which you can do."

For instance, his first class was devoted to tackle — what kind to use and how to use it — and how to fish for crappie. The next week, he will teach his students how to fish for bass, how to use a plastic worm and how to fillet a fish.

"When I came here from Kansas City, I was completely lost. The methods for fishing are completely different up there than they are down here," he said. "I learned by trial and error and by fishing with some good fishermen. I fish every day."

At the end of six weeks, Wagers figures that his students will know enough about fishing to try it. That's what they may be required to do for their final examination, he said.

"They're going to have to practice, but when the fish are biting, they will know how to catch them."

"I just stayed in bed for three days," said Niekro, who was hit in the head by Craig Swan in last weekend's game with the New York Mets. "I didn't do anything against the Philadelphia Phillies."

Then it was business as usual against the Philadelphia Phillies.

Looking as good as new, Niekro beat the Phillies for the sixth straight time with a 10-4 decision.

"It always seems I pitch well against Philadelphia, and I really don't know why," said Niekro, who hasn't lost to the Phillies since August 31, 1977 and holds a lifetime mark of 22-12 over his National League East Division rivals.

The Braves have followed Niekro's lead, holding a 12-5 record over the perennial Eastern powerhouse the last two seasons.

Expos 3, Reds 2
Bill Lee and Woodie Fryman combined on a six-hitter and Lee contributed a run-scoring single as Montreal edged Cincinnati and handed Mike LaCoss his first defeat in nine decisions.

"You know that you're eventually going to get beat," said LaCoss. "The most important thing I wanted was if I had to lose, I wanted to lose with my best stuff and not get shelled."

"I had a little inflammation of the elbow and from the first inning I was kind of leery about my arm. I was feeling my way through instead of concentrating on my pitches."

Astros 3, Mets 1
Joaquin Andujar hurled a two-hitter and drove in a run with a fourth-inning grounder to lead Houston over New York. Andujar held the Mets scoreless through the first seven innings with a one-hitter before giving up two walks and a run-scoring single by Willie Montanez in the eighth.

Terry Puhl scored the Astros' first two runs, in the first after drawing a walk from Andy Hassler and in the third after hitting a single.

Pirates 9, Giants 4
Two-run doubles by Ed Ott and pitcher John Candelaria sparked a five-run, third-inning rally that triggered Pittsburgh over San Francisco.

Most of the Giants' production came on solo homers by Bill North, Jack Clark and Larry Herndon. Phil Garner had a 5-for-5 night for the Pirates, including an RBI triple.

Cubs 7, Dodgers 4
Jerry Martin's two-run single keyed a four-run seventh inning as Chicago rallied to beat Los Angeles. The Dodgers had built a 4-2 lead after five innings as Reggie Smith slugged his sixth home run and Ron Cey his 13th, a two-run clout, before the Cubs came back.

Dick Tidrow, who relieved starter Rick Reuschel in the sixth, earned the victory, with last-inning relief help from Bruce Sutter in the ninth.

Merit Smashes Taste Barrier.

—National Smoker Study

Majority of smokers confirm 'Enriched Flavor' cigarette matches taste of leading high tar brands.

Read what smokers had to say about MERIT in a recent nationwide survey.

Confirmed: Majority of smokers rate MERIT taste equal to—or better than—leading high tar cigarettes tested! Cigarettes having up to twice the tar.

Confirmed: Majority of smokers confirm taste satisfaction of low tar MERIT.

And in research conducted among current MERIT smokers:

Confirmed: 85% of MERIT smokers say it was an "easy switch" from high tar brands.

Confirmed: Overwhelming majority of MERIT smokers say their former high tar brands weren't missed.

Confirmed: 9 out of 10 MERIT smokers not considering other brands.

First Major Alternative To High Tar Smoking

MERIT has proven conclusively that it not only delivers the flavor of high tar brands—but continues to satisfy! This ability to satisfy over long periods of time could be the most important evidence to date that MERIT is the first real alternative for high tar smokers.
