

Truckers hold line in Texas

From staff and wire reports
Truckers' demands are well outlined by the striking driver on the far right. Texas truck drivers are planning to take their protest over diesel fuel costs, the 55 mile per hour speed limit and uniform weight and length regulations to Austin Wednesday. They're hoping to meet with Gov. Bill Clements to discuss their plight.

Ron Terzich, president of the Texas chapter of the Independent Truckers Association of America, said convoys from San Antonio, El Paso, Dallas-Fort Worth, Houston, Lubbock and East Texas will head for the meeting with Clements, tentatively scheduled for 11 a.m.

"Gov. Clements is supposed to speak to us on the steps of the Capitol," Terzich said.

While a tentative plan by local independent truckers to shut down all Amarillo diesel pumps was called off last night, about 25 protesting ITA truckers blocked the pumps at a Weatherford truck stop Monday, then continued their trek east to Rockwall.

Scattered violence dots trucker strike

By CHARLOTTE PORTER
Associated Press Writer

A trucker was shot in North Carolina, seven rigs were burned in Massachusetts, and Tennessee offered a reward to protect working truckers as scattered violence continued in the strike by independent haulers.

Striking truckers picketed Nebraska beef packing plants and New Yorkers worried about a shortage of meat. Wholesalers in the Chicago area said the shutdown is sending produce supplies dwindling and prices soaring.

Meanwhile, Mississippi Gov. Cliff Finch drove an 18-wheeler away from the governor's mansion in Jackson early today on a cross-country trip to learn first-hand the problems confronting the nation's truckers.

And North Carolina Gov. Jim Hunt asked truckers Monday to get back on the roads while he works to meet their demand for uniform weight limits from state to state.

On Monday night, James Potter, 35, of Leesburg, Va., was shot in the arm shortly after he drove his rig into North Carolina from Virginia. He was listed in satisfactory condition today at Northern Surry Hospital in Mount Airy, N.C.

In Pennsylvania, state police reported two rock-throwing incidents on the Pennsylvania Turnpike west of Valley Forge early today, and there were some reports of panic food-buying in the Pittsburgh area.

As the truckers' protest of high diesel fuel prices and the 55 mph speed limit entered its third week, some drivers pledged to expand their blockades. In other areas, however, the strikers were slowly going back to work.

In Georgia, 4 million pounds of watermelons moved to market and agriculture officials said produce shipments were returning to normal. But about 15 trucks kept vigil today at a Savannah port, blocking shipments of container cargo.

Strikers also slowed deliveries from some Michigan oil depots today, and there were reports of egg-throwing and nails and broken glass being thrown on the pavement at one terminal.

In Indiana, truckers dismantled a blockade of service stations, blaming a lack of support from drivers in neighboring Ohio.

In addition, one Missouri fuel terminal blockade ended when a judge issued a temporary injunction against the truckers. And in Florida, amid whoops and embraces, fuel haulers agreed to accept a rate increase and end an eight-day strike that led to long lines at service stations.

However, a spokesman for the Utah Independent Truckers Association cautioned that reports of the strike ending should be discounted "unless it comes out of Washington." Some Florida drivers vowed to stay on strike, and pumps at all but two of Connecticut's seven major truck stops remained closed Monday.

The violence that has plagued the strike continued Monday. An Iowa trucker parked his rig after telling police he had been shot at twice in one week.

Few bids on containers

Pampa moved one step closer to a container garbage collection system when the city commission accepted bids this morning for trucks and containers.

Although the city solicited bids from several container manufacturers, as well as local truck companies, only one comprehensive bid was submitted. A Plainview firm, Emco, bid a total of $940,100 for 3,400 three-cubic-yard containers, 100 one-and-a-half cubic yard containers and six trucks.

City officials were somewhat perplexed by the absence of competitive bidding, and decided to study the situation before taking further action on the containers.

"I think for a purchase of that size we ought to go back and see why nobody bid on it," said Commissioner O.M. Prigmore.

In other action, commissioners adopted a resolution delaying until 1980 city application of a new state formula for taxing agricultural land.

House Bill 1060, recently enacted by the state legislature to implement the Tax Relief Amendment, requires that agricultural land be taxed by productivity rather than market value. The legislation provides for guidelines and appraisal manuals to be prepared for use by tax assessor-collectors.

The guidelines have not yet been prepared and the city is now putting together its tax roll. Mayor Ray Thompson described the need for postponement of the new taxing procedures as "pretty obvious."

City Manager Mack Wofford was authorized by the commission to contract the annual city audit with the Amarillo accounting firm of Peat, Marwick, Mitchell and Co. Wofford said the audit should be completed by the end of September, and will cost an estimated $15-17,000.

Today's brief meeting was concluded when the commission adopted two ordinances concerning food service sanitation within the city. Both were designed to bring Pampa's regulations in line with those of the state.

The first ordinance, dealing with health certificates, requires that persons in food service furnish physical examination and laboratory test results to the city health officer. Formerly, the city provided the examinations and tests.

The ordinance also extends the life of the certificates from six months to one year.

A second ordinance adopts Texas Board of Health rules on food service sanitation, replacing rules adopted by the city in 1945. It raises the cost of a city food service permit from $3 to $15.

The commission will meet in closed session at 9 a.m. Thursday to continue its hunt for a new police chief. According to Wofford, a long list of applicants for the job has been narrowed down to about seven candidates.

Crash claims six lives

UMBARGER, Texas (AP) — A violent crash between a crowded car and a pickup truck that killed six persons was caused when the car apparently ran a stop sign, state police say.

Eight others were injured from the crash south of this Panhandle town Monday. They were all in serious to critical condition.

The dead, which included two children, were all from Amarillo.

The Department of Public Safety said a car loaded with 11 persons traveling southbound on FM 168 failed to stop at a stop sign and struck a truck with three persons going west on FM 1062.

The impact knocked the two vehicles into a field. The victims killed were all riding in the car.

The dead were Antonio Yruagus, 27, the driver of the car; his wife, Yolanda Moreno Yruagus, 24; Ester Moreno, 17; Raquel Moreno, 22; Roel Moreno, 2, and Joanne Gonzales, 5.

Dale Scott, 47, of Hereford, and his two sons, Jason, 8, and Mike, 12, were in the pickup truck.

Waiting on autopsies

Final report on plane crash open

By DAN LACKEY
Pampa News Staff

A final report on the possible cause of the fatal crash of a private Beacraft airplane Saturday is pending on autopsies of the two victims, Frank Roth, air safety investigator for the National Transportation Safety Board, said this morning.

Pampa businessman C.L. Roberts and his wife Marion were killed shortly after noon when they crashed into the north wall of a 20-foot gully in a field six miles north of Pampa. The bodies of the victims have been taken to Amarillo for autopsies.

Investigators from the NTSB, the Federal Aviation Administration, and from Beacraft and Continental (makers of the plane's engine) were in Pampa Sunday and Monday attempting to discover the cause of the crash.

Roth said the investigation had so far shown that the plane's engine "was not running" at the time of the crash. But he said the investigation had not uncovered "any reason for a mechanical failure of the engine."

Witnesses had reported that the plane's engine was "sputtering and missing" before the accident.

Roth said investigators disassembled the entire engine at Perry Lefors Airport Sunday, testing all the parts. "Each part was tested separately, and all were functioning," Roth said. "It would have been more difficult if something had come off the airplane, but all the parts were there. From wing tip to wing tip."

Roth described the Continental as "a six cylinder, horizontally placed fuel injection engine commonly used in different airplanes."

The NTSB investigator said a thorough investigation had been made of the plane's controls and entire structure, and that all parts were found in order.

Although the small craft was ablaze when rescuers arrived, Roth said that the plane had no inflight fire and that it had not "exploded" on impact with the ground. He said the fire was probably caused by a spark from an electrical short after the rupture of the fuel tank on the right side of the plane.

The investigator said that the fuel tank had been "fully serviced" shortly before takeoff, and that the fuel in the tank was "good, clean fuel."

At least three witnesses to the crash were interviewed by investigators, Roth said. A pilot who had taken off shortly after the Roberts plane said he had received radio information that "something was wrong" but that the voice of the pilot "was not excited," Roth said.

Investigation indicated that the pilot had manned the controls to the position that he wanted them before the takedown, Roth said. Other investigators have speculated that the craft missed making a safe landing by about 30 feet.

The Beacraft airplane was purchased by Roberts last fall, and showed 68 hours of flight time, Roth said.

The NTSB investigator said he did not know when a final report on the accident would be available. "We're waiting for the autopsy reports, and those take time," he said.

Although assisted by FAA investigators, the NTSB is responsible for investigations involving air fatalities.

OPINION PAGE

Beginning of end for guidelines

Even when President Carter announced his "voluntary" wage-price guidelines last October as a sort of administration showcase against inflation, he made a contradiction that may give a final, fatal blow to his program that is largely unworkable in any case. He pledged to bar government contracts from business that did not "volunteer" to go along.

Sadly, it was not business that challenged this mandatory aspect of the guidelines. It was left to organized labor, which was threatened by a weak presidential jawbone, to act against the Carter approach. Restricted in wage negotiations with industries thus forced to hold price increases to 0.5 percent below the average hikes of 1976-77, the AFL-CIO and 10 of its member unions took the government to court.

Their victory, announced in a ruling handed down in a federal court recently, promises to finish off the president's guidelines, which were already crumbling under the onslaught of a 13 percent inflation rate, bureaucratic ineptitude and rationalized wage-contract violations, notably in the case of the Teamsters; but not limited to that example.

U.S. District Judge Barrington Parker's decision was unequivocal: "The program establishes a mandatory system of wage and price controls unsupported by law."

The White House will appeal this decision and may ask Congress for enabling legislation. Neither course offers much hope of a victory for Carter.

Meanwhile, perhaps nothing much will be changed. Rampant inflation long since flooded over and around the guidelines dike. And moreover, even though some economists believe wage and price increases unrelated to increased productivity can contribute to inflation, they are mere symptoms rather than root causes of it. The wellspring of inflation is federal deficit spending — the covering of multi-billion-dollar overdrafts of the U.S. Treasury by printing money and by massive borrowing, which must debase the currency.

Defeat of the wage-price guidelines farce may force the president and the Congress away from placebo economic policies and back to the only cure for inflation — a balanced budget and reduction of the horrendous federal debt.

Turks no longer trust Americans

Recent news from Turkey demonstrates (a) the relative decline in American power in the world and (b) the continuing havoc wrought in Turkish-American relations by the arms embargo imposed against Ankara by Congress in 1975.

The Turks, once unshakable allies, reportedly feel obliged to seek Soviet approval before permitting U.S. reconnaissance planes to use Turkish airspace in electronic monitoring of Moscow's compliance with the prospective SALT II treaty.

The Soviets, evidently oblivious to both the spirit of detente and of arms-control agreements, have suggested their answer may be "nyet."

There was a time when Turkey felt sufficiently shielded by the United States against expansionist designs of the Soviet Union to reject any accommodation with the Russians. Thus bolstered, Turkey stood firm on NATO's southern flank.

That was before events in South Vietnam, Cambodia, Laos, Taiwan, South Korea, Iran and elsewhere called into question the worth of American guarantees. Congress, spurred by the so-called Greek lobby, effected a quantum jump in Turkey's nervousness with the arms embargo enacted after the Turkish intervention in Cyprus.

Now Turkey hedges its bets. That the Turks do so even after President Carter succeeded in persuading Congress to lift the embargo and provide new economic and military assistance only underscores the extent of the damage.

As for the Soviets, their characteristic truculence threatens to undermine chances for Senate ratification of the SALT II treaty. But then, Moscow may be less interested in ratification now that President Carter seems willing to observe the treaty even if the Senate rejects it.

Meanwhile, Ankara may be forgiven its doubts about America's will and wisdom.

Does redession curb inflation?

Do we, as some are saying, need a little economic recession to check inflation? For "inflation" substitute the phrase, "rise in prices," for that is really what most people mean when they say "inflation."

One of the current folk beliefs is that it takes a little bad business, a recession, to promote good business or price stability. It reminds one of the ancient practice of bleeding sick people. They need to lose blood in order to gain health, was the theory. George Washington died after he was bled four times for a quinsy sore throat.

It is true that an economic recession causes prices of goods and services to fall. They fall because of the slump in demand. This does not cure any disease of the economy, such as inflation, any more than blood-letting cured Washington's sore throat.

Prices of goods are comparatively high today for two reasons: (1.) Demand exceeding supply has pulled up prices; (2.) The supply of money being excessive, the prices of goods have risen to absorb it. An economic recession will reduce number one, but it will have no effect whatever on number two. It will curb one component of the tidal wave of rising prices but not the other.

Thus, assuming a recession during the rest of 1979, prices will fall to some extent, or rise more slowly than now, and the man on the street will conclude the recession has curbed inflation, but in fact the true inflation may not have been affected in the least. The money-producing machine, operated by the Federal Reserve Board and the banking system, may be roaring along at the same breakneck speed it has maintained for years and the resulting inflation may be buoying up the prices just as much as at present. The fact is that prices-rising-as-a-result-of-demand-and-supply (number one) is not bad at all. It is not a disease for which the economy needs medicine. It is normal, healthy market activity, beneficial to both buyers and sellers because it equilibrates supply with demand. It is prices-rising-because-of-inflation (number two) which is the disease.

But the medicine that some are hailing — that is, recession — cures the patient of number one. It cuts purchasing power and reduces demand. It has no more effect on number two, the real disease, than cold cream would have on a cancer.

It is for this reason that I take a dim view of the talk out of Washington which equates the high price of gasoline, beef, coffee, homes and labor, with inflation. Warring against these high prices, which are mainly due to market forces, Washington does not even mention the money supply. G. William Miller and his Federal Reserve Board go on over-stimulating the growth of the money supply as they have done ever since Miller came on the job in early 1977. Are the politicians deliberately covering up the real cause of the inflation, hiding the real culprit so they can continue their machinations unhindered?

To those of us who suspect this is the case, the baffling fact is that non-politicians — business executives and many economists — speak in the same terms. The Wall Streeters who chat on Louis Rukeyser's Wall Street Week TV show each Friday evening also talk of rising prices of goods as though these are the same as inflation. They, too, imply that a little recession won't do us any harm — and will cause inflation, as well as sales and profits, to recede. Are there no monetarists in Wall Street?

A recession is a painful thing. The sales of firms shrink. This moves them to produce less. Therefore, they buy less raw material, supplies and tools. They employ less labor and this results first in shorter work weeks, then in layoffs. Unemployment rises. The unemployed have little purchasing power, even with the present rate of unemployment compensation, and so they pull in their belts and buy less. As a result, the sales of firms shrink still more. The weaker ones go bankrupt.

To look upon this as beneficial is a monstrous error. Inflation is an evil thing but hunger is vastly worse. Those who remark that "a little recession will do us good" either do not know what recession is or they themselves do not plan to be a part of it.

Recession is not a cure for inflation. It is not even a palliative. The cure, as prescribed in the monthly Review of the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis — one Federal Reserve unit which has its feet on the ground — lies in "a moderate growth in the money money stock."

Arcane campaign rituals

by martha angle and robert walters

DIXVILLE NOTCH, N.H. (NEA) — Sensible people concerned about matters of more import than the arcane rituals of American politics probably would be baffled by the sight of a presidential candidate trudging through this tiny town.

Dixville Notch, certified in the 1970 census to be the home of precisely 180 people, certainly doesn't have many voters. And "isolated" doesn't adequately describe a community that lies only 30 miles south of the Canadian border, midway between Stewartstown Hollow and Wentworth Location.

But George Bush, a very serious candidate for the 1980 Republican presidential nomination, spent more than an hour here during a recent 1½-day tour of New Hampshire's rugged "North Country."

Bush wasn't the first White House aspirant to visit this year — and he won't be the last. Although more than 10 months remain before the state's first-in-the-nation presidential primary, politicians roaming the White Mountains almost outnumber the deer.

Dixville Notch has special symbolic importance, however, because its claim to fame is a tradition of being the first town in the nation to vote for president, in both the primary and general elections.

Its residents gather for a late-night supper on election eve, waiting for the official beginning of election day at one minute past midnight. Then they vote, immediately count the ballots and notify the news media of the results.

But even for those political early birds, the primary election next Feb. 26 is too distant to bring seriously contemplating which candidate to support.

Like most of his competitors in the already crowded field of GOP contenders, Bush currently is seeking only to increase his "name recognition" among voters so they'll consider him a major candidate when campaigning begins in earnest next autumn.

The Republican hopefuls also are engaged in a strange political mating game, a ritual comparable to the hesitant pairing of nervous partners during the awkward first hour of a high school dance.

The candidates are the suitors and the objects of their attention are the political professionals and party activists needed to provide the leadership and organizational skills during the electoral struggle next winter.

John B. Connally reportedly is on the verge of recruiting as his chief New Hampshire organizer Marshall Cobleigh, who served for many years as the principal political trouble-shooter and organizer for former Gov. Meldrim Thomson.

Thomson remains unaligned, but many observers believe he's most likely to end up as leader of Ronald Reagan's organization in the State.

Newly elected Sen. Gordon Humphrey, R-N.H., also hasn't publicly committed himself. But many politicians here assume he'll join forces with Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-Ill., the presidential candidate most active in support of Humphrey's long-shot candidacy last year.

Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., has lined up Stewart Lamprey, former speaker of the state's House of Representatives, as his state campaign chairman.

Bush is reported to have scored an especially impressive coup by securing a still-unannounced commitment from former Gov. Hugh Gregg, one of the state's most respected politicians whose credentials include the chairmanship of Reagan's 1976 primary campaign in New Hampshire.

In addition, Bush already has the public support of Rep. James C. Cleveland, R-N.H., the chairman of former President Gerald R. Ford's 1976 primary campaign in the state.

Although that process will continue through the spring and summer, it seldom attracts the attention of voters with better things to do.

But it's crucial to the candidates, especially in one of the very few states where mass rallies and television commercials still haven't supplanted personal contact as a critical element of successful presidential campaigning.

The fourth branch

By ANTHONY HARRIGAN
To the executive, legislative, and judicial branches of government has been added a fourth — the federal bureaucracy.

This is the view of former Sen. James L. Buckley of New York.

In an address to the United States Industrial Council in Colorado Springs, Colo., Sen. Buckley said that the federal bureaucracy "in practical effect now constitutes a fourth, extra-constitutional branch of government."

Sen. Buckley pointed out that this bureaucracy "is manned by insulated and sometimes imperious officials who wield an enormous influence over virtually every facet of American life." He added the bureaucrats are "possessed of the broadest discretionary powers exercisable in pursuit of the most loosely-defined goals."

Former Sen. Buckley's important address ought to help the American people develop a clearer understanding of the danger of bureaucratic rule. With his gift for precise statement, Sen. Buckley compared the vast numbers of bureaucrats loosed on the land with Thomas Jefferson's complaint that King George III had "created a multitude of new offices, and sent hither swarms of officers to harass our people, and eat out their substances."

Sen. Buckley said he didn't suggest that the American people march on Washington in protest, "but I do suggest we take seriously the dangers to individual liberties and to truly representative government that is posed by these latest swarms of non-elected officers."

Too often the federal bureaucracy is treated as a nuisance. Its edicts are regarded as frivolities. But the non-elected officers are a serious threat to constitutional government.

As Sen. Buckley noted, HEW "can and does coerce schools into acceding to the most outrageous proposals. SEC will force compliance with demands of doubtful legality." The EPA has attempted to deny free speech to business.

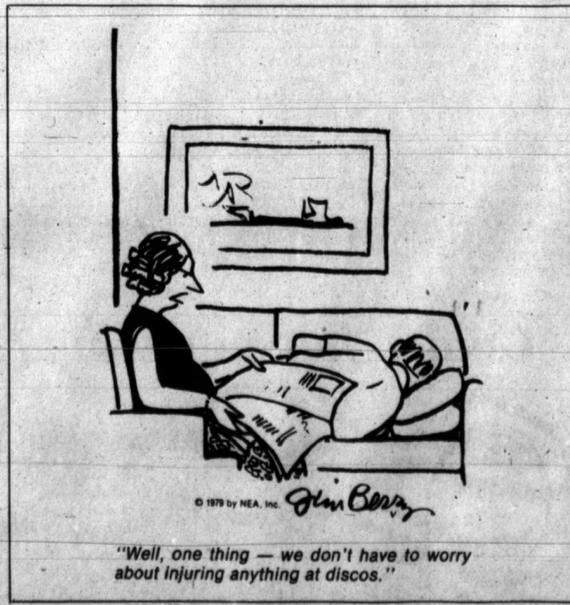

Sen. Buckley also observed that federal regulatory agencies "deliberately adopt dilatory tactics that are designed to spend their victims into submission." He said this process is called "deep pocketing." He reported that agencies will wage a war of procedural attrition that will force an opponent to reach deeper and deeper into his pocket, until his resources are exhausted.

Setting these bureaucratic abuses in perspective, Sen. Buckley warned that the federal regulatory activity "undermines the safeguards the founders so carefully wrote into the Constitution."

Sen. Buckley not only cited these evils but suggested ways to prune federal authority and to restore constitutional safeguards. In the main, the need is to give citizens effective due process in actions brought against them by federal agencies. For example, the taxpayer ought not to be presumed guilty until proven innocent.

Though not in public office today, Sen. Buckley remains an important national voice. His judgment commands respect among thoughtful citizens. His wise comments, reflecting concern for constitutional process, makes clear the quality of his continuing leadership.

Estes attorneys take prosecution witness to task

DALLAS (AP) — Attorneys for Billie Sol Estes Monday grilled prosecution witness M.L. Copenhaver about his role in the manufacture and sale of 36 mysterious steam cleaners.

Defense attorneys claim at least eight of the cleaners existed, that the sales were made in good faith and that the rest of the equipment would have come into existence if Copenhaver had lived up to his end of the deal.

The federal government has charged Estes and co-defendant Raymond K. Horton with making more than $500,000 from the sale of steam cleaners that never were delivered and that did not exist.

But the defense says Copenhaver failed in his obligation to manufacture the equipment even though Estes and Horton paid him more than $30,000.

Copenhaver said Monday he was asked merely to provide brochures, invoices and "expertise," not to manufacture the cleaners. Copenhaver said he was told Horton would assemble the cleaners with the help of his expertise.

Copenhaver said he asked Estes for more money when he realized the project was a "flim flam" and that he was "sticking his neck out" by allowing his company name to be used in the scheme.

In later testimony, however, Copenhaver said he wanted the money so that he could manufacture the steam cleaners.

Estes not only refused to give him the money, Copenhaver said, but he also threatened to kill him if he did not provide the brochures, invoices and expertise.

Copenhaver admitted that he had pleaded guilty to one count of the conspiracy charge before the trial started. Copenhaver said he agreed to testify for the government hoping he would receive a light or probated prison sentence.

Copenhaver first denied that anyone representing Estes and Horton ever came to his San Antonio plant to check on the progress of the cleaners. But later he said a representative did come.

Roloff girls home loses 20 occupants

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — Embattled evangelist Lester Roloff's Rebekah Home for Girls lost 20 occupants Monday night to an uncertain future in Hattiesburg, Miss.

As the busload of girls left, state officials prepared to arrive to check the progress of Roloff's agreement with Texas Attorney General Mark White.

Roloff agreed to allow the group to visit to make sure the home no longer is housing more than five girls under 18 who are not blood relatives of home employees. The agreement with White is the result of a long battle by Roloff against state licensing and allows five girls under 18 to remain at the Texas home.

A Department of Human Resources inspection team might arrive in Corpus Christi today or as late as Friday, DHR official Marlin Johnson said.

Roloff's Anchor Home for Boys and Lighthouse Home for Boys were empty; their occupants sent home to their parents, leaving the Rebekah Home alone in the spotlight.

Smiling and singing, the group of girls from the Rebekah home boarded buses and headed toward Roloff's Bethesda Home for Girls in Hattiesburg, which is not required to have a state license.

Mrs. Hubert Barnwell, the wife of the Bethesda superintendent, said, "We are not going to put them up for the summer. We don't have any room here." She said the home has about 50 girls residing there now.

One of the Rebekah evacuees who chose to remain unidentified said, "We'll miss the (Rebekah) home, but we'll be back."

Roloff is in the process of restructuring his church to encompass the home and skirt the state license requirement.

It was not known how many girls remain at the Rebekah Home awaiting transfer, but it has been estimated that the home housed as many as 150 girls.

Rebekah Home superintendent Wiley Cameron said the group of girls will live in mobile homes at the Hattiesburg home.

The evangelist remained unavailable for comment as the transfer to Hattiesburg was made Monday night.

But Roloff's troubles aren't over yet if the Nueces County Attorney Mike Westergren has his way.

Westergren says he will seek a grand jury indictment against the fundamentalist preacher on misdemeanor charges of operating a youth home without a license.

Westergren said Roloff "intimidates everybody" and called his recent agreement with White "a scandal."

"If he is going to be allowed to defy the law, then I am not going to be a part of it," Westergren said. "He intimidates everybody from the governor's office down and gets away with it."

Director of blind commission lacks experience

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The new executive director of the State Commission for the Blind has an international business background but no experience in programs for the blind.

Commission members Monday named Evans Wentz to replace Burt Risley, who announced his early retirement this month after the state auditor criticized his handling of commission funds.

In March, Gov. Bill Clements named Wentz executive director of the Governor's Committee on Aging. Wentz, 45, had worked for corporations, the U.S. State Department, banks and accounting firms in the Middle East, Latin America and Africa.

He received a master of business administration from Columbia University and for six years was financial director of a bauxite company in Guinea.

The businessman takes over as the agency tries to correct the charges of mismanagement raised in the auditor's report. He will make $37,100 annually.

However, Wentz' inexperience in working with the blind angered Texas officials of National Federation for the Blind.

"I consider this to be truly and totally a political appointment," said Larry Streeter,

Texas vice president of the National Federation for the Blind. "He has no background, no experience in programs with the blind."

Commission chairman Charles Sapp said he learned of Wentz when he called the governor's office and asked for suggestions to replace Risley.

The departing director said June 8 he would take an extended vacation and sick leave immediately until his retirement became effective Feb. 6, 1980.

However, the board voted to terminate Risley effective Monday.

Colin Carr, commission attorney, said the board's action meant Risley would not receive all the sick leave he claimed but would be paid a lump sum for vacation time.

Risley's role as treasurer of the private Visual Research Foundation of Fort Worth was questioned by State Auditor George McNiel.

The audit report documented instances where organizations received commission money and donated some of it to the foundation. The third parties reported turning over funds to the foundation at the commission's direction.

Commission board members ordered their financial officer Monday to audit the Visual Research Foundation.

Five more counties to join plan

Gas rationing to be expanded

By The Associated Press
Texans with even numbered license plates had their chance to fill up today under a three-county gasoline sales restriction plan, with five more counties scheduled to join the plan at midnight Wednesday.

Gov. Bill Clements' energy adviser said Monday Brazoria, Collin, Liberty, Ellis and Montgomery counties will join the odd-even gasoline rationing plan, the first in the state since World War II.

Ed Vetter, head of the Governor's Office of Energy Resources, said he expects Texas to have 20 million more gallons of gasoline in July than in June. The increase, based on refinery reports to the federal government, "gives me some basis for very, very cautious optimism," Vetter said.

Gasoline lines in Dallas, Tarrant and Harris counties were shorter Monday, he said. Those metropolitan areas were the first to be placed under the odd-even restriction.

"We have been in contact with some of the retail sales organizations as well as major suppliers who have company-owned stations in Texas regarding the first day of sales restrictions in Dallas, Tarrant and Harris counties. It is their consensus that lines have been shortened materially and that there are not enforcement problems at this point," Vetter said.

He said Exxon polled 25 to 30 of its stations in each of the three counties and found their lines were 25 to 40 percent shorter.

"I want to emphasize that one swallow does not make the summer. It may take two weeks before this system settles down," Vetter said.

He also said that by the end of the week, service stations will have flags to indicate their supply situation — green for all products available, yellow for emergency use only and red for nothing available.

Vetter said violation of the governor's order — which established the odd-even sales system and placed upper and lower limits on gas purchases — is a federal offense.

"Citizens who believe there is a willful violation may call toll free (800-424-9246) and report to the Department of Energy representative as specifically as possible the nature of the complaint," he said.

Meanwhile, Texas drivers and businesses tried to find ways around the gas shortage. But while a few drivers tried to skirt the rationing plan on day, service station workers said customers were policing themselves.

A Dallas discotheque is fighting the gasoline shortage by providing rides to and from the club in radio dispatched vans. Da Vinci International is offering the transportation nightly to North Dallas residents.

Some station operators gave the few violators the benefit of the doubt.

"We've been informed not to get our heads blown off," said Roger Chapman, an attendant at an Exxon station on Houston's Eastex Freeway.

Two drivers with even-numbered plates came to the station, he said. "I checked their gauges, and they were empty, all right," Chapman said he filled their tanks.

The rule requiring a $6 minimum purchase seemed to cause more problems than the odd-even rule, an informal survey of stations showed.

Some stations charged $6 even if the actual cost of the gas was less. Others charged the amount of purchase, but warned customers about the new rule.

Nick Catsinas' Exxon in Houston limits individual purchases to 10 gallons. All even-numbered cars were turned away, a spokesman said.

Lines still were fairly long at Catsinas' station and Everitt's Texaco in Houston, but they were moving faster than last week.

Everitt said he "chased off" three customers with even-numbered plates. He said, however, the cars were from Mexico and the drivers couldn't speak English. The new rules do not apply to cars with foreign or out-of-state license plates.

IBP facility reopened today

Employees at the Iowa Beef Processors (IBP) Inc. plant east of Amarillo were scheduled to return to work this morning, a company official said Monday.

IBP, the nation's largest beef packer, gave 2,000 local employees a day off Monday when it suspended slaughtering and processing operations in reaction to the independent truckers strike. Charlie Harness, IBP media relations manager at the company's headquarters in Dakota City, Neb., described the move as a "one-day shutdown."

"Our coolers were full and we just took this day to get some trucks in there and clear them out," Harness said. "We have posted notice for the first shift to work tomorrow. "It's just a one-day shutdown in Amarillo, we hope. The trucking strike doesn't seem to be letting up, at least from what we can see."

Harness said the local plant would operate at least the first shift today. "We are making decisions on a shift-by-shift basis."

Amarillo was the only plant to be shut down, Harness said. Other plants have been cutting back on employees' hours for the last week.

The Pro-Family Forum is a non-profit organization dedicated to educating people on issues which effect the moral and spiritual welfare of families and restoring decency and morality in the nation, Mrs. Greene said.

Although regular meetings of the new chapter will not be held until the fall, memberships are now being accepted. A one year membership costs $10, with $8 going to the national organization and $2 for the local organization.

Mrs. Peggy Brandon of Amarillo is the Panhandle Regional Director of the Forum.

Persons interested in joining the chapter should write Ann Greene at: Rt. 1, Box 62, Pampa. Those wishing to send money for membership should make checks out to Pro-Family Forum.

Texas weather

By The Associated Press

Scattered showers and thunderstorms were forecast for much of the northern half of Texas today.

Forecasters said the showers and thunderstorms would spread eastward from the Permian Basin to the Louisiana border.

Skies in the western half of the state were to be mostly clear with skies to be mostly cloudy in the eastern half.

Highs today were to be mostly in the 80s and 90s except for the Big Bend area of Southwest Texas where readings were expected to reach the 100-degree mark.

Scattered showers and thunderstorms lingered in Central Texas early today after a shower dumped 1.19 inches of rain at Waco. Dense fog during the night reduced visibility to near zero in eastern sections of the Texas Panhandle.

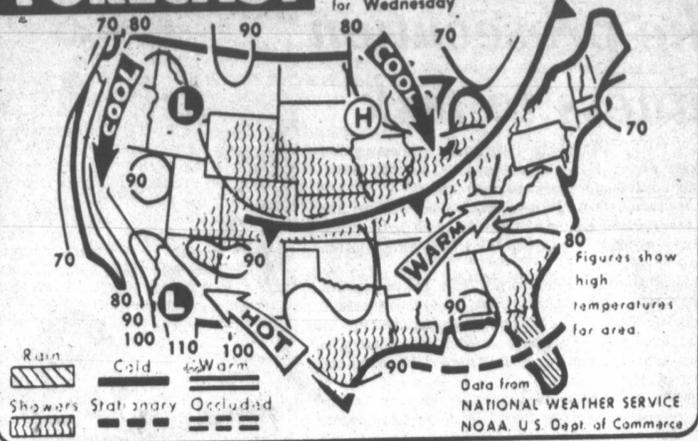

Showers and thunderstorms moved across portions of West Texas, North Texas and the South Plains late Monday. A tornado was sighted near Abilene and a funnel cloud was sighted near Nevada.

A flash flood warning was issued after one storm drenched Abilene with about two and a half inches of rain in only 30 minutes.

Other showers and thunderstorms were reported in Far West Texas, the Davis Mountains, the coastal plains and in the Lower Rio Grande Valley.

Highs Monday ranged from 81 at Amarillo to 102 at El Paso.

FORECAST

RAIN AND SHOWERS are predicted Wednesday for the Southern Coastal states from the Carolinas to Texas, and showers are forecast from the Great Lakes through the Central Midwestern states to the Rockies, according to the National Weather Service.

Stockpiles of heating oil at historically low levels

NEW YORK (AP) — The nation's stockpiles of heating oil for the winter remain at historically low levels and oil company executives say they may not be able to build them up enough to reach the government's target before winter.

The companies say they are trying to maintain a precarious balance to satisfy both gasoline and heating oil demand, but that producing enough heating oil may mean less gasoline this summer.

Against that background, a top federal official said Monday in Washington the government will take drastic steps if necessary to guarantee enough home heating oil this winter.

"We're not going to have homes go cold in New England," Deputy Energy Secretary John F. O'Leary told a Senate energy subcommittee. "We are prepared to take drastic action if it's indicated."

O'Leary said such drastic action could include limiting the sale of products such as gasoline and jet fuel.

Even without additional problems, heating oil supplies will be tight and prices may double from last winter's levels.

"Should we endure this gasoline situation and be prudent for winter or should we burn it all now and let tomorrow take care of itself?" asked Samuel Schwartz, senior vice president of Continental Oil Co., in an interview last week.

The nation's refineries cannot produce enough heating oil — one of the petroleum products known as distillates — during the winter months to meet demand. So distillates must be stockpiled from spring to fall to meet the expected winter demand.

The latest figures show distillate stocks at 128.5 million barrels, 29 million barrels below the inventories at this time last year. But the stocks are up from the 114 million-barrel level of March, the lowest point in four years.

The Energy Department, concerned that heating oil supplies will fall short but also worried about being criticized for short gasoline supplies, has asked oil companies to step up refining of both products.

The companies, however, say tight supplies of crude oil — due to the Iranian crisis and a perplexing drop in domestic production last winter — are limiting production of all products.

"We're going flat out," said James H. DeNike, vice president for oil products of Shell Oil Co. in Houston.

The companies say they can handle the distillate problem and stretch gasoline supplies by continuing to limit the amount of gasoline they sell dealers under the monthly allocation system.

Price receives kidney award

A reporter on The Pampa News staff yesterday received an outstanding service award from the Gray County affiliate of the National Kidney Foundation.

John Price was commended for his outstanding service in the fight against kidney disease, and more specifically, for his literary efforts of May 13.

On that day - Mother's Day - he wrote a feature story about a Pampa man's kidney transplant, made possible by his mother.

Price, 22, received the award from Mrs. Georgia Mack, chairman of the Gray County affiliate. The surprise presentation was made Monday morning in the News office.

Price's article related how Mrs. Barbara Minyard donated one of her healthy, compatible kidneys to her son, whose kidneys failed last year. The transplanted organ allows Minyard, 27, to rid himself of a dependence on dialysis machines.

The transplant patient seems to be recovering steadily, says Mrs. Mack, who talked with him on the telephone last week.

"He told me he just couldn't say enough about the Kidney Foundation, because it meant life for him," explained Mrs. Mack. "He's doing fine and has a beautiful outlook on life."

Minyard commutes from Pampa to Dallas every other day for treatments.

Price, a native of St. Paul, Minn., has been at the News about a year. He is a 1978 graduate of the University of Wisconsin, where he received a degree in journalism.

Mending mature marriage

by louise pierce

Do you ever write letters to yourself? I often do. It gets annoyance out of my heart and lets it blow away in the wind of expression. Putting your resentment on paper is usually a substitute for putting it into words. Nobody sees the note but you. If you hoard the worry until you hurl it at your mate, you risk the compatibility you profess to enjoy. I wrote myself not long ago.

DEAR ME: I love my husband dearly and I want to help him do all the things that aid his career, his finances, his status and his health. But sometimes I resent his cutting into my writing time with things he could either do himself or omit entirely. They contribute nothing of personal value. One day he said, "Honey, I need help. I'm bulletin chairman for the Rotary Club this month. You'll need to contact the secretary each week, get the programs and bios of new members, type it up and get it to the printer every Saturday. The first one's due tomorrow. Okay?" I nodded. But it was not okay. It took me all day. And he does this to me much too often. He volunteers me for something all the time, without asking whether I've got time for it. He promised I'd write the Rotary history (fifty years of it with bios of past presidents scattered all over the U.S.) and the history of the Bi-Centennial Year. It goes on and on. How can I keep him from upsetting my planned schedule? LOUISE

DEAR LOUISE: I've thought about your problem for days, you might say for the forty-plus years you've been married. I have to ask you some questions before we make our conclusions. You may add your answers as we go along. Does your husband interrupt your work so often that you fail to meet commitments? (No - because I work twice as fast after I do my stint for him.) Does he seem appreciative of your efforts in his behalf? (Well, yes, I suppose so. He thanks me and tells all our friends that I'm a wonder.) Do you ever ask him to stop what he's doing and help you? (I hate to admit it, but yes, I do. Almost every day I go down to his office to use his copying machine and he always does the work for me. If I'm in the middle of an assignment and we need groceries or medicine, he goes out and gets them.) Does he complain about such tasks? (Sometimes - but not often and never to any real extent.) Are you sorry you complained about him, even in a letter to yourself? (Yes.)

So now we share work, the way we share everything else in our life together, without fretting about who does what for whom. All happy couples learn to. But often the learning is not easy. If it is hard for you, perhaps you are suffering from the same illness that afflicted me - selfishness. In my self-analysis I had to conclude that it was behind my reluctance to share. Others wrote me about sharing.

DEAR LOUISE: I work all day in a grocery store and I'm dead on my feet at night. But when Bill picks me up, I always see that the back seat is full of work he'd brought home from the office, hours and hours of it. We always eat supper out and then go home to work half the night, getting his stuff ready for the next day. When he brings me cake and coffee before we go to bed, I'm almost too tired to eat it. Can I go on babying him like this? W.V.

DEAR W.V.: Who's babying whom anyway? Wouldn't you rather eat out than go home and cook supper and do dishes? And don't you know that thousands of wives would feel loved and cared for if their husbands brought them evening snacks? It's true that he's asking a little too much of you when you're tired (Try yawning a lot so he'll see how worn out you are!)

DEAR DR. LAMB - I am 58 years old and in good health. I had my womb removed nine years ago and have been taking estrogen for 12 years. I stopped taking it two months ago after all I had read about it. I can say I feel so much better in so many ways, it's unbelievable, but the hot flashes are terrible - about every hour night and day. It's really bad. I expected to have them and it's worth it but how long will they last? I'm sure I'm through the menopause. I started at 44. I'm also sure estrogen helped me through it but I want to quit it now. Also what other things happen to the body when you quit? My estrogen was reduced for two months before I stopped taking it.

DEAR READER - There have been so many exaggerations about estrogen and the menopause that it's perfectly understandable that you'd be confused, as are many other readers.

In the first place, since you've had a hysterectomy, there's no way you can have cancer of the uterus caused by taking estrogen hormones. Second, if you don't have lumpy breasts or breast disease and don't develop any, there's no reason to be concerned about taking estrogen and the possibility of breast cancer.

Beyond that, there is a long list of complications that can occur in some women taking female hormones but there are many other women who use them to great advantage. It makes them feel better and it can definitely improve their health. The Food and Drug Administration has now agreed that an adequate amount of female hormones helps to protect against or delay the degeneration of bones that occurs in middle-aged and older women. I might add that a high calcium diet also helps prevent the problem.

I'm sending you The Health Letter number 5-12 on the menopause to give you more detailed information. Other readers who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

In addition to the information in The Health Letter, I think it's important to emphasize some of the beneficial aspects of estrogen. Yes, it will specifically eliminate hot flashes and often you don't need large doses to do this.

If you think about the body before puberty, you'll realize that it undergoes a lot of changes because of female hormones. When these hormones are diminished sufficiently, there's a basic reversal of these changes. As a result, there's a tendency for the breasts to get smaller, the female organs undergo changes, even the soft tissues that line the female organs change.

This is sometimes the underlying basis for inflammation and irritation. This is why various vaginal creams are sometimes useful in certain cases. Even the ability of the tissues to resist infectious agents changes. There may be thinning and changes in cells at the outlet of the bladder. This may be a contributory factor to frequent urinary tract infections.

Dear Abby

by abigail van buren

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter became engaged last December. Sarah is 25 and David is 29.

Sarah lives at home and David lives 30 miles from here. He drives over every night to be with Sarah, which is fine, but he shows up regularly just in time for supper. I invite him to have dinner with us every Sunday, but he's here every other night, too.

Abby, he is a successful businessman (accountant), has good manners, and we like him, but I am fed up with his free-loading. Not once has he offered to take my husband and me out for a meal.

I've asked Sarah to say something to him about his, but she's afraid she might hurt his feelings.

I hate to be rude, but I am up to here with having him for supper every night of the week.

Who should tell him? Or am I wrong for feeling imposed upon? Please help me.

FED UP IN BROOKLYN

DEAR FED UP: Since you feel "imposed upon," tell your daughter that it is her responsibility to find a gentle, loving way to inform her fiance that enough is enough. Also that a gentlemanly reciprocal invitation is long overdue.

DEAR ABBY: I'm 43 and my husband, Pete, is 45. Two years ago I had an affair with Pete's nephew. He's 29. He's not a real nephew since Pete and I are living common-law. Since then the nephew met another girl and he's living with her now, so it's all over between us.

In the meantime Pete heard about me and his nephew, so I confessed. Just to get even with me, Pete had an affair with a night nurse. When he told me about it I got mad and had an affair with a cop who had been after me for a long time. Pete had to get even again, so he went to a bar and picked up a girl. Then, for spite, I started in with the cop again.

Now, it's a contest to get even with each other and we can't seem to stop. How can I put an end to all this?

TOO TIRED TO GARDEN

DEAR TIRED: Tell Pete that he is the winner, and declare a moratorium.

If you are thinking about arranging a funeral, you are urged to contact an experienced funeral director. Careful counseling with him can avoid unwise planning.

Sonics pick Vinnie Johnson

NBA holds annual draft

NEW YORK (AP) — Who got the best of the National Basketball Association draft?

Los Angeles, Chicago, New York, Detroit and Milwaukee had the first five picks in Monday's lottery, and all appear to have done well. But Seattle and New Jersey may have done best of all.

The NBA champion Sonics, owning the sixth and seventh picks because of deals, cashed them in for 6-foot-9 center-forward James Bailey of Rutgers and guard Vinnie Johnson of Baylor.

Bailey gives the Sonics a good big man who should fit right in with players like Jack Sikma, Lonnie Shelton and Tom LaGarde and provide extra rest for aging forwards John Johnson and Paul Silas. Vinnie Johnson, meanwhile, is a highly rated backcourtman who will give Seattle depth at that position.

"We feel we got two quality players," Coach Lenny Wilkens said. "Bailey gives us a lot of versatility and Johnson is a take-charge, run-the-show type of guard."

New Jersey would like to have gotten Bailey, a local favorite since the Nets play their home games at the Rutgers Athletic Center.

But they still managed to strengthen their frontcourt with the eighth and 11th picks on the first round, taking highly touted Calvin Natt of Northeast Louisiana and 19-year-old Cliff Robinson of Southern Cal.

Natt, 6-5 and 225 pounds, averaged 24.4 points and 10.9 rebounds per game and drew raves from Loughery.

Robinson, a 6-9, 220-pounder, elected to pass up his final two years of college eligibility to turn pro. He played center in college but the Nets have him penciled in at power forward, and he likes the idea.

Los Angeles, meanwhile, came away from the festivities at the Plaza Hotel with Earvin "Magic" Johnson signed, sealed and ready for delivery.

The Lakers opened the draft by picking the 6-8 guard from Michigan State, and two hours later Johnson put his signature on a contract that reportedly calls for $3 million over five years.

Eight Southwest Conference players have been selected in the annual National Basketball Association draft, two of them in the first seven choices.

All-American guard Sidney Moncrief of Arkansas went to the Milwaukee Bucks as the fifth player chosen in the first round. Two picks later, Johnson of Baylor, was tabbed by the NBA Champion Seattle SuperSonics.

Major League roundup

Montreal keeps gathering attention

By The Associated Press
It's not the national sport in Canada, but the way the Montreal Expos are playing baseball these days it soon could be.

The Expos have won their way into the hearts of their fans, not to mention first place in the National League East.

"We have confidence in ourselves as a ballclub," says first baseman Tony Perez. "This is something we didn't have before. We just have to play the best — and see what happens."

So far, things have been pretty good — a solid 41-25 record which includes two mere victories Monday night. The Expos beat the St. Louis Cardinals 3-2 in the completion of a suspended game, then 8-2 in the second game at Busch Stadium.

"Our club is the club to beat," said Montreal Manager Dick Williams. "I do respect all the other clubs in our division. But the Expos are having fun. They know they can play well; they believe in themselves."

The Expos' victories were their 10th and 11th in their last 15 games.

"The pitching has been good — the bullpen and the starters," noted Perez. "We have as much confidence in our pitching this year as I can ever remember."

Warren Cromartie's leadoff homer in the top of the 11th led Montreal's victory in the completion of a game that was suspended after 10 innings on May 17 to permit the Cardinals to make flight connections.

Larry Parrish belted a three-run homer and Gary Carter chipped in with a two-run shot to pace Montreal's triumph in the regularly-scheduled game. The Montreal victory in the second game featured a seven-hitter by left-hander Dan Schatzeder.

Reds 2-0, Astros 1-4
Tom Seaver and two relief pitchers combined on a three-hitter and George Foster clubbed a two-run homer in the first inning to lead Cincinnati's first-game triumph. Seaver gave up three hits in 72-3 innings before needing Dave Tomlin's relief help in the eighth. Doug Bair pitched the ninth for the Reds, gaining his 10th save.

"I'm very happy with the way I've been pitching," said Seaver. "It was another day at the office and I still enjoy what I'm doing."

Enos Cabell's two-run triple keyed a four-run seventh inning and Randy Niemann scattered six hits as Houston won the second game.

Braves 6, Giants 1

Buddy Solomon and Craig Skok combined on a four-hitter as Atlanta beat San Francisco. Joe Nolan gave the Braves their first run with a homer in the second inning and Jeff Burroughs hit a two-run homer in the sixth off Giants starter John Montefusco, 1-4.

Solomon, 4-2, allowed a line-drive single by Mike Sadek in the third and a bloop single by Larry Herndon in the sixth. Skok earned his second save, giving up a ninth-inning homer to Mike Ivie.

Solomon started despite a bad cold.

Dodgers 4, Padres 3
Joe Ferguson slugged a two-run homer with one out in the bottom of the ninth to lift Los Angeles over San Diego. Ron Cey slugged two homers for the Dodgers, who snapped a three-game losing streak.

Losers: Rollie Fingers, 6-5, who took over for Gaylord Perry in the ninth inning, walked Cey to lead off the inning and after striking out Dusty Baker, gave up Ferguson's 11th home run of the season.

Pirates 8-0, Mets 1-4

Dave Parker and Rennie Stennett drove in two runs apiece to back the five-hit pitching of John Candelaria as Pittsburgh downed New York in the opener of their double-header.

Pete Falcone fired a five-hitter for his first shutout and first complete game in more than two years and Lee Mazzilli hit a two-run homer to carry the Mets to victory in the second game.

Cubs 8, Phillies 2

Jerry Martin's two-run homer capped a three-run first inning and Ivan DeJesus smashed a bases-loaded triple in a five-run second, leading Chicago over Philadelphia. The triumph was the ninth in the last 11 games for the Cubs.

Lynn McGlothen, 7-6, beat the Phillies for the third time this season, allowing eight hits in eight innings, but wasn't very impressed with his performance.

Orioles 3, Indians 2

Earl Weaver didn't have to go and hide when Don Stanhouse came in to pitch, still he couldn't escape the usual agony of another cliffhanger by the Baltimore reliever.

The Orioles' manager, ejected from the game in the eighth inning, watched closed circuit television in nervous wonder as Stanhouse extricated himself from a no-out, bases-loaded jam in the ninth and preserved a 3-2 victory over the Cleveland Indians.

"How many years can you take it?" was Weaver's rhetorical question after the Orioles had won for the 16th time in 18 starts. "I ask him why he does it, but he has no answer...he just keeps winning and saving ballgames."

After Baltimore took a 3-1 lead with three runs in the eighth, two when right fielder Bobby Bonds dropped a fly ball, Stanhouse relieved Steve Stone, 5-5, when Rick Manning singled for Cleveland's third hit to open the ninth.

Blue Jays 3, Yankees 1
Tom Underwood shackled the Yankees on three hits and Al Woods slammed a three-run homer in the fifth inning as Toronto broke New York's four-game winning streak and its own four-game losing skein.

Underwood, 2-10, outpitched Ken Clay, who was making his first 1979 start after 19 relief appearances. Clay surrendered an infield hit to Rico Carty leading off the fifth, then a single to John Mayberry and Woods' blast.

The Yankee run came on Willie Randolph's sacrifice fly.

Navratilova faces tough match at Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Defending champion Martina Navratilova faced a tough first-round match today in the Wimbledon women's singles.

In the opening round of women's competition, the 22-year-old Czech-born champion met 20-year-old South African Tanya Harford, who reached the semifinals at the Wimbledon warm up tournaments at Beckenham and Chichester.

"I would have hoped for an easier opening match," said the Dallas-based Navratilova.

Harford, from Johannesburg, is ranked 117th in the world and had to prequalify here. She won all her qualifying matches in straight sets and is full of confidence.

"My motto is not to give up until you have lost the final point," said Harford, who has lost more than seven pounds since last Wimbledon.

In the first day of men's singles Monday, a man who described himself as "an horrendous grass court player" caused the biggest upset in the men's singles. Pat DuPre, a 25-year-old Stanford University economics graduate, beat fourth-seeded Vitas Gerulaitis 7-6, 6-3, 3-6, 3-6, 6-3.

"That was my best ever performance on grass," DuPre said. "I have never done a thing on grass before."

Born in Belgium, raised in Birmingham, Ala., but now living in La Jolla, Calif., DuPre had beaten Gerulaitis a number of times as a junior.

"I was not intimidated and I felt he was really vulnerable," he said. "I had nothing to lose and he had everything to lose, so I wasn't at all nervous and decided to play aggressively."

DuPre's aggression paid dividends in the final set when he broke Gerulaitis in the first game and then attacked his opponent's serve at every opportunity.

Meanwhile, John McEnroe, controversial 20-year-old new millionaire of American tennis, believes a mental approach can help him to the men's singles title which this year carries a prize of $40,000.

McEnroe, whose path to the final is made easier by the disappearance of Gerulaitis, said: "I did; I really think I had a chance to win the first two years I came here. Now I think I can win — my attitude is very different."

NY rejects trade request

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

TORONTO (AP) — The New York Yankees have rejected Reggie Jackson's request to be traded with a verbal slap at the sidelined slugger while Manager Billy Martin adopted a policy of silence after firing one final shot.

Shortly after the Yankees announced Monday night that "the club has done all it intends to do toward bringing Jackson around," Martin said he would have "no comment whatsoever anymore on that subject."

It was another wild and crazy episode in the on-again, off-again Jackson-Martin feud but this time owner George Steinbrenner was in Martin's corner and the next move was up to Reggie.

In a statement released during Monday night's game here against the Blue Jays, the Yankees disclosed that Jackson had asked the club last Thursday to put him on waivers so that a possible trade could be worked out.

Ironically, Jackson's name — along with six other Yankees — had been put on the American League waiver list two days earlier, usually a routine piece of baseball business, even for star players. The waiver period expired Monday and Jackson's name was withdrawn when he was claimed by several clubs, including the Blue Jays.

"It was not an idle claim," said Toronto club president Peter Bavasi.

"I'm not trading Reggie Jackson," said Yankee President Al Rosen. "unless I can get a Reggie Jackson in return."

The outfielder, asked about the constant turmoil surrounding his dealings with Yankee management said, "It's no fun." Jackson added he has been on waivers before and that the procedure once was explained to him by Oakland A's owner Charley Finley.

"Charley told me I was on waivers once or twice," Jackson said. "He said it was a formality, that sometimes you do that to sneak another player through. Sometimes you have a lesser talented player who you want to waiver. So you lump him with a bunch of others. The other teams figure, 'They're not gonna let those guys go,' so they'll just waiver the whole group. And the one guy you really want waived is slipped through."

Since Jackson did not clear waivers and was withdrawn, his name cannot appear on the waiver list again for 30 days, meaning he will remain a Yankee for at least that long. After that, who knows?

Earlier in the day, Steinbrenner told The Associated Press that Jackson had said 10 days ago that "I don't think I can play for Billy in 1980." At the time, Martin was scheduled to return as manager next season, but two days later he was appointed to succeed Bob Lemon — the man who replaced him last July — and he took command of the team last Tuesday.

"I can forgive but I can't forget," he said Monday after taking special batting practice at Yankee Stadium. Jackson has been sidelined for more than three weeks with a calf injury and the Yankees hope to have him back this weekend when the Boston Red Sox make their first 1979 visit to New York.

Trust fund established for bus
 A trust fund is now in progress at both city banks for the purchasing of an activity bus for the Pampa Independent School District according to booster club president John McGuire.
 McGuire said that the contributions give anyone who wants to help purchase the bus a chance to do so.
 "The cost of the bus will be about $44,000-45,000," said McGuire. "I don't know how long it will take to raise the money but I am hoping we can by the time the next school year is over. I don't see why we can't."
 Though it may take several months to raise the money, McGuire said that the bus will probably be purchased in the near future.

Report says production costs rose

By BRIAN B. KING
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department's annual analysis of production costs for 10 major crops shows that nine went up an average of 6.2 percent from 1977 to 1978 on a per-acre basis, not counting land payments.

In terms of costs per bushel or pound, it said, costs went up 5 percent — an average that reflects changes from an 8 percent decline to a 23 percent jump.

Barley costs per acre rose the most, 10 percent. Cotton costs per acre declined slightly more than 1 percent but rose about 23 percent per pound, according to the study.

The preliminary averages, to be reviewed later this year, are slightly below the overall rate of inflation in 1978. The report predicted larger cost increases this year for each crop but did not forecast 10-crop averages for 1979.

The predictions were made and the report written before the sharp increases in fuel prices this spring. Last year, "rising machinery and fuel costs were the major causes of the production-cost increases," it said.

Cotton farmers, it noted, had the lowest yields since 1957, which reduced ginning costs. They also used less chemicals and fertilizer, accounting for the drop per acre. But the same low yields sent the per-pound expenses soaring.

For oats, unit costs were up 18 percent; grain sorghum, 13 percent; soybeans, 11 percent; and rice, 2 percent.

On the other hand, unit costs for the huge 7-billion-bushel corn crop were down 8 percent. The report said that unit costs declined 7 percent for flaxseed, 5 percent for barley and 2 percent for peanuts.

Wheat costs did not change because of a better yield when all varieties were averaged.

The controversial report is a continuing target of the American Agriculture Movement protesters and others who oppose Carter administration farm policies, saying they don't reflect the producers' financial squeeze or regional problems.

Changes in cost of production are the basis for changes in the government's target prices, or subsidy rates, for wheat, rice, feedgrains and cotton under the 1977 farm act. Land costs are only partially counted.

Critics say that method hurts farmers who bought their land during the rapid rise in values and frequently high interest rates of the 1970s or are renting recently purchased land.

The report showed increases of 10 percent to 13 percent in the average payment on corn land last year, depending on when it was bought.

The report said that extraordinary yields for most 1978 crops, including record highs for corn, barley and peanuts, were responsible for the relatively modest increase in other per-acre costs.

For this year, the long-term patterns suggest that only cotton, rice and peanuts will finish the season with higher yields.

Production costs per acre this year are expected to rise 9 percent for barley, oats and flaxseed, 8 percent for wheat, sorghum, cotton and soybeans and 7 percent for rice, corn and peanuts, it said.

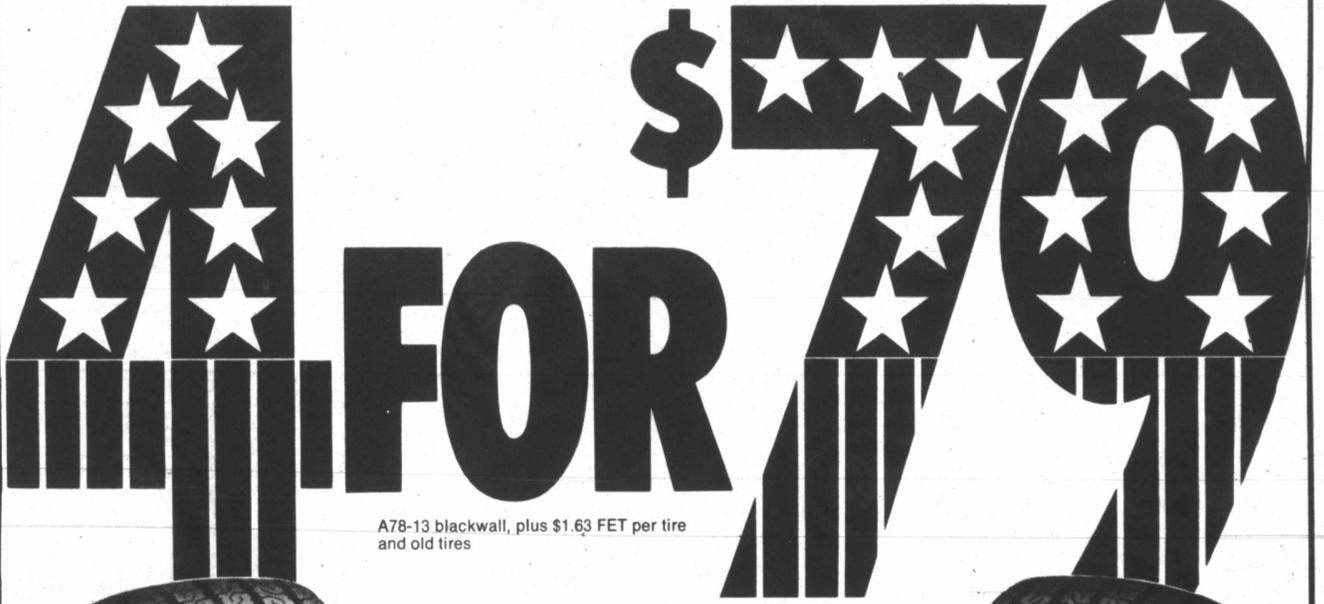

In bushels and pounds, the 1979 cost increases could be 28 percent for flaxseed, 21 percent for barley, 17 percent for corn, 15 percent for oats, 12 percent for wheat, 11 percent for sorghum, 10 percent for soybeans 7 percent for peanuts and 4 percent for rice.

The national averages, before land costs are considered, were: corn, $1.66 a bushel in 1977, $1.53 in 1978 and $1.70 to $1.90 projected for this year; sorghum, $1.77 a bushel, $2 and $2.06-$2.41; barley, $1.88 a bushel, $1.79 and $2.07-$2.28; oats, 99 cents a bushel, $1.17 and $1.24-$1.46; all wheat, $2.46 a bushel, $2.46 and $2.57-$2.96.

FOCUS

Supply and Demand

If representatives of the 13 OPEC countries decide to raise the price of oil again at their meeting today in Geneva, American motorists again will feel the increase where it hurts the most — at the gas pump. Some OPEC officials claim that U.S. consumers are at least partly to blame for the expected increase. According to Saudi Arabia's oil minister, Sheikh Ahmed Zaki Yamani, "the law of supply and demand is the only force now determining the price of oil." The demand for oil, especially in the United States, has continued to increase. But the supply, which OPEC controls, has not. And so the price may go up still further.

DO YOU KNOW — Which two South American countries are OPEC members?

MONDAY'S ANSWER — The Boston Celtics signed Indiana State basketball star Larry Bird.

National briefs

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — A $400,000 restoration-renovation project at the 94-year-old Dexter Avenue King Memorial Church will include a library honoring the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

King was pastor of the church in the 1960s when the civil rights movement was born in Montgomery under his leadership. The church recently was renamed in honor of him. Church spokesman Thelma Rice said the project is being funded by the city of Montgomery, the Alabama Historical Commission and friends of the church. Before the building was completed in 1885, the congregation met in a house once used as a slave trading pen.

PORTLAND, Maine (AP) — Homeowners who think heating with wood is the way to beat the energy crunch may be in for a surprise this year. Maine firewood dealers say supplies are dwindling fast and prices as high as $100 a cord for split and dried wood may be a bargain.

The demand is already about double last year's, and the peak period does not arrive until September and October, said William Rocha of the Rocha & Sweet Fuel Co. in Sanford. Firewood dealers in southwestern Maine indicated that prices for a cord of dried split hardwood now range from a low of $55, with a minimum purchase of eight cords, to about $80, including delivery.

MIAMI (AP) — A 23-year-old California woman, who claims she was unjustly fired as a flight attendant in a dispute over her weight, is suing National Airlines for $1 million and back pay.

Ingrid Fee was taken off flight status April 30 when she weighed 143 pounds, 9 pounds over the airline's 134 limit. She was given until June 11 to trim down to within 5 pounds of the limit. She says she made the requirement but was fired anyway. A National attorney declined to comment. The suit alleges that National "overbooked" its flight attendants' class, cut some probationary attendants before they became union members and falsely represented that the woman lost her job because of her weight.

ATLANTA (AP) — Gallstones can be detected in two hours rather than two days with the use of radioactive compounds, a researcher in nuclear medicine reports.

Dr. Leon S. Malmud, associate professor of radiology and medicine at Temple University, said nuclear medicine can be used to diagnose the condition of the gallbladder, intestines and other areas where digestive ailments occur. His findings are among those to be presented to the Society of Nuclear Medicine, meeting here this week.

Nuclear medicine requires the injection of minute quantities of radioactive tracers, which are absorbed by a particular organ or cell in the body. Sensitive scanning equipment outside the body locates the tracer and produces an image of the affected area.

Washington today

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate subcommittee has decided against giving the Food and Drug Administration new enforcement powers.

The action Monday by the Senate subcommittee on health and scientific research came on a measure aimed at speeding up the government's approval process for new drugs. Before approving the bill, the panel deleted a provision that would have given the FDA authority to impose civil penalties for non-compliance with federal rules. A second provision would have let the agency sue companies, without going through the Justice Department.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress and the Carter administration seem to be working at cross-purposes in efforts to resolve the conflict in Namibia. A State Department official says.

Donald F. McHenry, deputy U.S. representative on the UN Security Council, said Monday Congressional votes against the administration's southern African policy have undermined negotiations aimed at solving the Namibia conflict. He told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee violence may increase there if there is no resolution, bringing the threat of outside intervention by Soviet-backed Cuban troops.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A suspected problem in a control mechanism of the Black Hawk utility helicopters has forced the Army to ground all 11 of its new choppers.

The Army said Monday the helicopters will not be flown for at least two weeks while technicians investigate the suspected defect. The grounding was described as a "precautionary measure." The $3 million Black Hawk is made by Sikorsky Aircraft Division of United Technologies Corp. Company spokesman Robert Carroll said the part is made by Berteau Corp. of Irvine, Calif.

WASHINGTON (AP) — With the trend toward couples having fewer children, American families should be smaller toward the end of the century, the Census Bureau predicts.

In a new report, the Census Bureau said the average family will be between 2.74 and 3.27 persons by 1995. In 1978, the average family was 3.33 persons. Also by 1995, the report estimated the number of households will increase by 28 percent to 41 percent from 1978. A household is defined as a person or group of people living together in a single house, apartment or other housing unit. The report was released Monday.

For the purpose of determining the amount of the gross receipts of the said Company, all at times, be subject to the inspection of the City of Pampa.

ARTICLE VII
All existing and future acts of Congress and the Legislature of the State of Texas and rules, orders and regulations made in pursuance thereof, of the City of Pampa reserves the right to purchase from said Southwestern Public Service Company, its successors and assigns, at any time during the period covered by this franchise that the City of Pampa may so desire, the said electric power plant and distribution systems within the city limits of the City of Pampa at a fair valuation thereof. For the purpose of enabling the City of Pampa to determine whether it desires to purchase said electric power plants and distribution systems, the fair valuation of the same shall be determined by an appraisal consisting of three disinterested persons, all of whom shall be experienced in the valuation of public utilities. One of such board shall be chosen by the City of Pampa, one by Southwestern Public Service Company, its successors and assigns, and the third by the two others listed as above. In the event of the failure or refusal of the two appraisers representing the City of Pampa and Southwestern Public Service Company, their successors and assigns, to agree upon the appointment of the third appraiser, then either the City of Pampa or Southwestern Public Service Company, its successors and assigns, or both, may apply to any judge of the United States District Court for the Northern District of Texas for the appointment of such third appraiser and both the City of Pampa and Southwestern Public Service Company, its successors and assigns, shall be bound by the selection so made. The valuation of said electric power plants and distribution systems within the city limits of the City of Pampa shall be determined by the board of appraisal on the basis of reproduction cost net at the time of the appraisal less a deduction to adjust the reproduction cost net of the various items constituting the electric power plants and distribution systems within the city limits of the City of Pampa to the values indicated by their then condition, which then condition shall be determined by said board of appraisal, and the reproduction cost shall be deemed to comprise all physical and tangible property, both real and personal, including but not limited to, the cost of the installation of said property, in place. In determining the value of said electric power plants and distribution systems within the city limits of the City of Pampa, there shall not be taken into account any value to be placed upon this franchise or the assets of Southwestern Public Service Company, its successors and assigns, and in no event shall gross concern value be taken into account at more than ten percent (10 percent) of the reproduction cost determined by the board of appraisal. When the valuation shall have been determined and agreed upon by the board of appraisal, the City of Pampa shall then have the right to purchase said electric power plants and distribution systems at the price fixed by said board of appraisal or, at its option, reject and refuse to purchase said plants and systems.

ARTICLE VIII
Southwestern Public Service Company shall, within sixty (60) days from the passage of this ordinance, file with the City Secretary of the City of Pampa, Texas, its written acceptance of this ordinance, and upon the filing of its acceptance, this ordinance shall constitute all of the terms of the franchise herein granted by the City of Pampa to Southwestern Public Service Company.
