Like it rare?

Meat shortage real possibility

By JOHN PRICE
Pampa News Staff

No matter how they like it cooked, beef-eating Pampans may soon find their meat rare.

Local cattle feedlot managers are predicting that beef will quickly become a rare commodity on supermarket shelves if the independent truckers strike continues for long. And although prices may or may not rise for consumers, they are falling for producers, causing a depressed market.

Meat packers are having difficulty transporting slaughtered and packaged beef to the stores, and are reducing or temporarily shutting down operations. As a result they have almost stopped buying fattened cattle from the feedlots.

"The packers don't want to buy any of our cattle," said Ray Etheredge, manager of International Cattle Systems. "We're not buying any cattle, and therefore the market is becoming very depressed."

"It's sure going to hurt things on the price of cattle," Bill Stockstill, manager of Heaton Cattle Co., said. He said the price of fat cattle "has already gone down about $10 a hundred since the high in the latter part of April."

Rex McAnelly, who manages Moody Farms Feedlot, said the strike is making it difficult to get young feeder cattle from the south, where most originate.

"We're caught in the squeeze," McAnelly said. "It's got everybody in a real 'don't know what to do' attitude."

The managers said the lots haven't become backed up with cattle ready for slaughter yet, but a back-up of animals could develop.

"Fortunately, there's just not a lot of cattle that are ready to go (to the meat packers) now," McAnelly said.

The men agreed the strike will soon be felt by both consumers and producers.

"If it keeps up — if they manage to block all movement of meat — then it will disappear in the food markets," McAnelly said.

"It's going to show up in these supermarkets pretty soon," Stockstill agreed.

The lots have their own trucks, and so have had little problem obtaining grain and fuel for their operations.

Gray County Extension Agent Joe Van Zandt said the strike could also affect the local wheat harvest, some of which is moved out by truck.

"Anything that slows up moving the grain is going to have some effect," Van Zandt said. "I think right at the present time it's not having any drastic effect."

Much of the wheat is transported out of the county by rail, Van Zandt explained, but there are not enough rail cars for the entire harvest. The wheat has to be moved because storage facilities within the county are inadequate, he said.

Van Zandt said he thinks wheat farmers have enough diesel fuel to power their tractors and plowshares "for a while," but he said he doesn't know if they are having trouble getting the fuel.

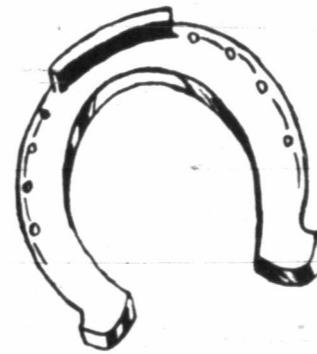

If the farmers can't get diesel, he added, "it can bring it all to a halt."

SHE'S NOT a thief yet, but this young raccoon certainly looks the part. She and her built-in mask paid a visit to the Pampa News offices Tuesday morning. "Madame X" seemed unperturbed by the attention she was getting and stood still just long enough to allow this photograph. (Staff photo by Gary Clark)

No tough queries directed at Carter

SHIMODA, Japan (AP) — Taking a holiday from summitry, President Carter held a "town meeting" today that developed into a seminar on child-rearing, the family and race relations.

Questions put to Carter by ultra-polite Japanese gathered in a steamy junior high school gymnasium dealt largely with everyday human concerns — a far cry from the tough queries about energy, inflation and foreign policy that have marked similar sessions back home.

The visiting president did manage to touch on the two issues that will dominate the seven-nation Tokyo economic summit that begins Thursday: energy and the plight of Indochinese refugees.

Energy was a primary topic today in pre-summit discussions as Carter returned to Tokyo. Carter administration officials took sharp exception to French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing's pointed criticism of U.S. energy policy and Carter was understood to be angry and disturbed.

The French president said in a Newsweek magazine interview that the United States had failed to start reducing energy consumption, comments that a U.S. official, requesting not to be identified by name, called "accusatory and somewhat confrontational."

At the outset of the hour-long meeting in Shimoda, Carter called once again for the industrial democracies to reduce oil imports, achieve greater conservation and develop solar power and synthetic fuels.

On the refugee problem, Carter said: "I hope that the United Nations will very quickly arouse interest among all 150 nations on earth to receive refugees, and that all of us might focus our criticism or influence on Vietnam to relieve this growing problem at its source."

Shimoda was chosen as the site for the meeting because Commodore Matthew Perry came here with his gunboats 125 years ago and opened Japan to trade with the United States.

Some 5,000 to 10,000 Japanese lined the curbs as Carter, wife Rosalynn and daughter Amy traveled about the city. The turnout was smaller than expected, perhaps because of intermittent rain and the presence of 5,500 police.

In the gymnasium where Carter spoke, about 70 of the 500 people on hand were plainclothes police officers.

Still, the Carters seemed to get closer to the Japanese people here than in sprawling Tokyo. They popped their heads through the open roof of the presidential limousine and waved to onlookers who wagged small Japanese and American flags.

The free-wheeling Yankee tradition of a "town meeting" was unprecedented in Japan, and the traditionally formal, polite Japanese seemed uncertain how to react, and careful not to embarrass their guest.

Before Carter arrived at the school a White House advance man asked for a show of hands from those who planned to question the president.

When only a single hand went up, he said, "I am begging you" to volunteer. The courteous Japanese responded affirmatively.

Only two of the questions put to Carter were provocative, and mildly so at that.

One woman said she understood "formal segregation" still exists in the United States and asked if Carter would marry a black woman "without any resistance."

Sneed indicted

PERRYTON — Ochiltree County grand jurors indicted Benny Joe Sneed Tuesday on a murder charge in connection with the May 10 shooting death of Lonnie Mead, 39, of Meade, Kan., in the Sneed residence.

The grand jury returned the indictment after charges against Sneed were dismissed early this month at an examining trial in justice of the peace court.

Sneed was rearrested Tuesday morning, then released from jail after posting $10,000 bond. Mead died of a gunshot wound which penetrated his back and pierced the aorta, the main trunk artery from the heart.

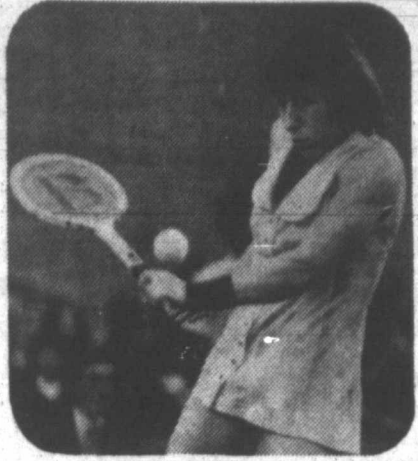

Sneed was arrested at the scene after Perryton police had been called to the home on a disturbance complaint.

PAMPA'S STREET - SEALING PROGRAM began this morning and should be completed within four days, weather permitting. This map shows the street sections being sealed. Everything south of the railroad tracks will be sealed today, and those streets north of the tracks and south of 18th Avenue are set to be sealed Thursday. The area north of 18th Avenue is scheduled for sealing on Friday and Saturday. City officials urge residents of these areas to keep their vehicles off the streets until work is completed.

Strictly a Tennis Matter

Martina Navratilova, who is currently defending the women's singles title she won last year at Wimbledon, learned to play tennis in her native Czechoslovakia. Her teacher was her grandmother, who once was the number two-ranked player in that country. Martina's mother also played tennis. So does her sister. Since defecting to the United States in 1975, Navratilova has become one of her sport's top players. She said she decided to leave Czechoslovakia because "I felt that if I didn't get out I could not become the best player in the world. Politics had nothing to do with my decision. It was strictly a tennis matter."

DO YOU KNOW — Who won last year's men's singles title at Wimbledon?

TUESDAY'S ANSWER — Ecuador and Venezuela are OPEC members.

Truckers trek to Austin for meeting

By The Associated Press
Texas truckers revved up for a meeting with Gov. Bill Clements in Austin today, after a spokesman for independent haulers assured truck company executives the independents want to settle their problem peacefully.

Truckers traveling in convoys from San Antonio, El Paso, Dallas-Fort Worth, Houston, Lubbock and East Texas were scheduled to meet with Clements in his private office at 11 a.m.

One security officer said the Department of Public Safety had received reports that as many as 2,000 trucks might converge on the Capitol in a busy downtown area.

Gov. Cliff Finch of Mississippi was riding with truckers to California to get a first-hand look at their fuel problems and was in the Dallas-Fort Worth area Tuesday.

In recognition of the truckers' protests against rising diesel prices, the Texas Railroad Commission held an unprecedented statewide meeting in Austin on Tuesday to discuss problems of the transportation industry.

General counsel Walter Caven of the Texas Railroad Association said fuel costs rose by 307 percent from 1967 to 1978 and "have been climbing by an unbelievable rate since January."

"If the railroads stopped running," Caven said, "this country would be completely paralyzed in less than 30 days."

Railroad Commissioner Mack Wallace said as a result of the energy shortage, "We are perhaps in more peril today than at the beginning of World War II."

Bill Hoadley of the South Texas Independent Truckers Association said independent truckers are "completely and totally shut down in the state of Texas because it is not profitable for us to operate."

Robison back on TV as agreement reached

DALLAS (AP) — James Robison, a crusading evangelist whose television series was canceled after a program critical of the homosexual lifestyle, told an overflow crowd at Dallas' First Baptist Church Tuesday that he has reached an agreement allowing him to return to the airwaves.

Robison was canceled by WFAA-TV in Dallas, citing the Federal Communications Commission's fairness doctrine. His Feb. 25 telecast sparked protests from the gay community.

"We never objected to his being on the air," said Louise Young, president of the Dallas Gay Political Caucus. "We objected to his derogatory use of homosexuality in a political context."

She said the caucus would not object to Robison's reinstatement but would "urge him to stick to the Bible and not the political."

Robison said he did not regard his agreement with WFAA-TV as a victory. "I'd like to just say God has answered prayer," he said.

The agreement was hammered out at the church just prior to services, a Robison aide said.

"I don't have to compromise my message or my convictions. We have a full understanding together. I feel like I can abide by any policy they have without compromising my message. They feel the very same way."

The agreement allows WFAA-TV to preview Robison shows prior to airing.

WFAA-TV general manager Dave Lane, who was in the church when Robison announced the agreement, said the pact was not finalized in that the date of Robison's return has not been pinpointed.

Sentencing delayed

The sentencing of a Pampa man, found guilty last week in 31st District Court of possession of more than 4 ounces of marijuana, is pending on a report from the adult probation office.

Judge Grainger McIlhoney said he wanted to study a report of the background of Michael Eugene Reddell, 22, convicted of possession of 5 pounds of marijuana, before sentencing.

Reddell was tried before the district judge after requesting a non-jury trial last week. Earlier, Reddell's attorney, James Bowers, had filed a motion for suppression of evidence, charging that a substance alleged to be marijuana was obtained with faulty search warrant. But the motion was not granted by McIlhoney, who said that while the warrant "may have been defective in some particulars," it did not constitute an illegal search and seizure.

Reddell was arrested by Pampa police Nov. 12 at a room in the El Capri Motel, 321 E. Brown, after officers received a report from Mrs.

Dorothy Gist of the motel that her husband had discovered what appeared to be marijuana in a room rented by Reddell.

Pampa Police Detective Lynn Brown testified that after obtaining a search warrant, he and Lt. J.J. Ryzman went to Reddell's room at the El Capri. Brown said Reddell answered the door with a burning marijuana cigarette in his hand. He testified that officers found what appeared to be several plastic bags of marijuana in the room.

Skylab's fall date narrowed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's Skylab watchers now predict the big space station will fall to Earth between July 11 and July 19.

That was the latest from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration Tuesday in its daily report on the Skylab death watch. The prediction represented a narrowing of the Monday forecast, which said there was a 95 percent probability the end would come between July 11 and July 21.

Party for reading program scheduled

Elementary school children who have read five or more books for the "In Search of Texas Treasures" reading program will celebrate with a midway party at 10 a.m. Friday at Lovett Memorial Library.

Preschool children who have had three books read to them can also take part in the fun, said librarian Winifred Crinklaw.

The first through sixth graders involved in the program began their reading June 4 and should have read 10 books by Aug. 1.

Certificates then will be awarded to those who have completed reading the proper number of books in the program, which is sponsored by the Texas Library Association and the local library, said Crinklaw.

The participants may read any book within their own age group, according to librarian Dan Snider, and the library provides a selection of books for children who want assistance.

The purpose of the program is to acquaint the children with the library and reading skills, said Crinklaw.

Three performances will be given in honor of Friday's midway celebration, and refreshments will be served as another treat.

The library staff will present a puppet show, and Shane Raulston and his friend, Hank, will entertain with a ventriloquist act.

A group of local girls, called the Gymnastics of Pampa, will add to the morning activities with their performance.

Special Education children had a party today to complete their reading program. The fun included a presentation of certificates, a puppet show and refreshments.

Snider said the special education program is ending before the student's last day of school, which is in the near future.

Estes trial continues

DALLAS (AP) — A Tyler financier Tuesday denied signing a power of attorney giving swindler Billie Sol Estes and an associate authorization to sign leases, even though a handwriting expert said the signature on the document was genuine.

The testimony came during the fraud trial of Estes, and featured testimony from Billy Pyron.

Prosecutors said the document was forged and used to make potential investors think Pyron was backing Estes.

The document carried Pyron's signature and gave Estes associate and co-defendant Sue Goolsby permission to sign Pyron's name as a guarantor of five commercial lease agreements.

Frankie Franck, a handwriting expert for the U.S. Postal Service, testified that Pyron's signature on the power of attorney was valid.

Pyron said he was assisting Estes in several other deals during the time in 1976 when Estes is accused of fraud.

Estes attorney G. Brockett Irwin contends that if anyone was bilked in the process of lending money to Estes in a business venture, the fault lies at least partially with Pyron.

Estes is accused of selling non-existent oilfield steam cleaning equipment.

Dr. Lamb says

See specialist for head pain

DEAR DR. LAMB - I am a 74-year-old man. I am 5-foot-7 and weigh 170 pounds. For the last nine months I have been having severe head pain. I wouldn't call them headaches. I wear glasses so I thought I would have my eyes tested. I got new glasses but that didn't solve my problem so I saw an ophthalmologist. He went through all the tests and said my eyes were O.K.

He sent me to an ear, nose and throat specialist. I had X-rays of the sinuses. He said that my sinuses were normal and not infected, but he didn't know what caused my head pain.

I get the head pain when I wake up in the morning. I get up and move around and they leave me and I do not have any head pains the rest of the day or night. But when I wake up in the morning, I have them again. My blood pressure is normal.

DEAR READER - I'm not at all sure why you think a pain in the head isn't a headache. There are many causes for head pain, if you wish to use that term, and it's true that they can be caused by sinus problems, which apparently you don't have.

Your mistake is in not seeing your family doctor or a specialist in internal medicine. You need someone to look at your total medical status and see what might be your problem. In any case, you should have some medicine to help relieve the pain if it's that severe.

You should know that headaches are one of the most common complaints that people have. Sometimes they're related to life situations, tension, sinus troubles, migraine headaches, and many other factors. To give you a better appreciation of the problem, I am sending you The Health Letter number 2-9, Headache: Man's Most Common Pain. Other readers who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Even the time of day for your head pain may be important. Although you've said your blood pressure is normal, it's interesting that headaches associated with high blood pressure and migraine headaches commonly occur in the early hours whereas headaches associated with eye problems are more apt to occur in the latter part of the day or even in the evening.

Dear Abby
by abigail van buren

DEAR ABBY: I've been living in an apartment for the last eight years and have gotten used to the noises that occur. However, I have recently encountered a noise I don't know how to deal with. It's most annoying since it usually occurs late at night or early in the morning. If you haven't guessed by now, it's my upstairs neighbors' squeaky bed!

A pair of newlyweds recently rented the apartment above me. Their bedroom is directly above mine and it's extremely difficult for me to fall asleep at night or sleep late in the morning.

I have only a nodding acquaintance with the girl, so it's not as though we can sit down for some friendly girl talk.

Meanwhile, I'm losing sleep. My name is Kathy and I live in Atlanta, but sign me...

BLEARY-EYED AND ENVIIOUS

DEAR BLEARY-EYED: Catch the girl when she's alone and give it to her straight: "My bedroom is directly under yours. Your bed squeaks. It keeps me awake. Will you please do something about it?" If you are unable to deliver this message in person, write!

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter became engaged last December. Sarah is 25 and David is 29.

Sarah lives at home and David lives 30 miles from here. He drives over every night to be with Sarah, which is fine, but he shows up regularly just in time for supper. I invite him to have dinner with us every Sunday, but he's here every other night, too.

Abby, he is a successful businessman (accountant), has good manners, and we like him, but I am fed up with his free-loading. Not once has he offered to take my husband and me out for a meal.

I've asked Sarah to say something to him about his, but she's afraid she might hurt his feelings.

I hate to be rude, but I am up to here with having him for supper every night of the week.

Who should tell him? Or am I wrong for feeling imposed upon? Please help me.

FED UP IN BROOKLYN

DEAR FED UP: Since you feel "imposed upon," tell your daughter that it is her responsibility to find a gentle, loving way to inform her fiance that enough is enough. Also that a gentlemanly reciprocal invitation is long overdue.

CHRIS EVERT LLOYD of the United States reaches to return a shot from Marita Redondo during their first round match at Wimbledon Tuesday. Lloyd won in straight sets 6-4, 6-2 to advance to the second round. (AP Laserphoto)

Muhammad Ali retires -- again

NEW YORK (AP) — Muhammad Ali, who has announced his retirement a couple of times and has been written off by the press on other occasions, is finished fighting. And this time it's in writing.

"Yes, that's the truth," Ali said Tuesday when asked if he has sent a letter to Mike Mortimer, chairman of the World Boxing Association Championships Committee, announcing that he was retiring as heavyweight champion.

"I'm in a position that I can go no further in boxing," the 37-year-old Ali told a news conference in Newark, N.J., by telephone in Los Angeles. Ali is scheduled to fight exhibitions Friday night in Jersey City, N.J., against Gov. Brendan Byrne and Mayor Thomas Smith.

Ali told reporters in the days leading up to his title defense against Joe Bugner in Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia, July 1, 1975, that it would be his last fight. Three months later in fought Joe Frazier in "The Thrilla in Manila."

Two days after he won a controversial decision over Ken Norton on Sept. 28, 1976, he told reporters in Istanbul, Turkey, "As of now, I am quitting boxing and will devote all my energy to the propagation of the Moslem faith."

"Mark my words and play what I saw right now fully," he said. "At the urging of my leader Wallace Muhammad, I declare that I am quitting fighting as of now and from now I will join the struggle for the Islamic cause."

Ali fought four more times, the last on Sept. 15, 1978, when he regained the WBA share of the title from Leon Spinks.

Larry Holmes is recognized as champion by the World Boxing Council.

Ali first won the title as Cassius Clay when he stopped Sonny Liston in the seventh round on Feb. 25, 1964. He made nine defenses, including a controversial one-round knockout of Liston, before losing a decision to the U.S. government.

On April 28, 1967, he refused to be inducted into the U.S. Army at Houston. "I ain't got no quarrel with the Viet Congs," he said.

He was convicted of draft evasion June 20, 1967, fined $10,000 and sentenced to five years in prison. But he didn't go to prison because of an appeal, and on June 28, 1971, the U.S. Supreme Court, by an 8-0 vote with Justice Thurgood Marshall abstaining, overturned Ali's conviction.

Ali's biggest victory came eight months after he returned to boxing, the climate in the United States concerning the Vietnam War having changed.

On Oct. 26, 1970, he stopped Jerry Quarry on a cut eye in three rounds at Atlanta and on Dec. 7, he knocked down Oscar Bonavena three times and stopped him in the 15th round at New York's Madison Square Garden. That set up "The Fight," a title bid against champion Joe Frazier for the unheard of purses of $2.5 million.

Although it ended in Ali's first pro defeat after 31 victories, it was one of Ali's greatest efforts in a career marked by the unexpected and the spectacular. Ali was knocked down in the 15th round in losing a unanimous decision and there were those who felt his career might be finished.

In the African dawn of Oct. 30, 1974, Ali joined Floyd Patterson as the only man to win the heavyweight title twice by knocking out George Foreman in the eighth round in a shocking upset at Kinshasa, Zaire.

It was one of the greatest of all heavyweight fights, with Ali winning when Frazier, his eyes closed, was unable to answer the bell for the 15th round.

But the most important fight in Ali's eyes was the second Spinks fight. On Sept. 15, he outpointed Spinks.

After the decision was announced, Spinks went to Ali. "I wanted to congratulate him," said Spinks. "He's still Muhammad."

Will there ever be another?

Wimbledon tennis continues

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Two of the reputed bad boys of world tennis were set to meet today in a potentially explosive men's singles second-round match at Wimbledon.

John McEnroe, the second-seeded American known for on-court tantrums, was to play the sometimes abrasive British No. 1, Buster Mottram, on center court.

McEnroe crushed Mottram in the Davis Cup final at Palm Springs, Calif., late last year, and the Briton was seeking revenge for that humiliation.

"He walked all over me in the Davis Cup," Mottram said, "and he is a really difficult man to play."

Mottram's chances of causing an upset did not appear good. The Briton, controversial here because of his right-wing politics, had to find a counter to McEnroe's booming left-hand serves.

"Playing on grass is like Russian roulette," Mottram complained after his first-round win over compatriot Richard Lewis. "I hate it. There is no strategy."

That sort of attitude was unlikely to help Mottram's game against 20-year-old McEnroe who has been christened "superbrat" by the British tabloid press.

Both McEnroe and Mottram behaved impeccably in their opening matches. The young American has vowed not to let his temperament get in his way.

"I don't want any distractions at Wimbledon," he said. "If you get distracted here, you lose."

Top-seeded Bjorn Borg, faced a second-round match Wednesday against Indian star Vijay Amritraj.

Defending champion Martina Navratilova, watched by her mother for the first time in four years, downed the young South African Tanya Harford 4-6, 6-2, 6-1. Mother and daughter were reunited just before the tournament started. They had not seen each other since Martina's defection from Czechoslovakia to the United States.

She was joined in the next stage by second-seed Chris Evert Lloyd who beat Californian Marita Redondo 6-4, 6-2 in less than an hour.

The only seeded woman to lose was Britain's Sue Barker, beaten 6-3, 6-2.

Jimmy Connors and Guillermo Vilas, two of the top contenders for Borg's title, both won in convincing style. Connors, who led by two sets to one overnight, completed a 6-2, 6-7, 7-5, 6-3 win over Jean Francois Caujolle of France, while Vilas swamped British veteran Roger Taylor 6-3, 6-2, 6-4.

The most impressive performance of the day came from No. 8 seeded Victor Pecci of Paraguay who crushed big-serving American Sherwood Stewart 7-5, 6-2, 6-3.

Just one seed bit the dust. Corrado Barazzutti, 16th-seeded Italian, lost a five-setter to Rhodesian Andrew Pattison, who now lives in the United States. Pattison won 6-3, 6-4, 5-7, 4-6, 6-4.

Bobby Murcer traded to Yankees

TORONTO (AP) — Bobby Murcer left New York disgruntled and disillusioned following the 1974 baseball season, but that has all changed now that the Yankees have reacquired him.

The 33-year-old Murcer had the unique experience Tuesday of taking batting practice for an afternoon game in Chicago only to wind up playing a night game in Toronto.

Murcer was in his Chicago uniform and scheduled to start for the Cubs against the Philadelphia Phillies. But a few minutes before gametime, the Cubs swapped him to the Yankees for minor league pitcher Paul Semall and an undisclosed amount of cash.

"I feel like a new man," Murcer said. "I've never been so happy in all my life."

It wasn't easy, but Murcer made it across the border, arriving in the Yankees' clubhouse 15 minutes before their game against the Blue Jays. He dressed hurriedly, played right field and delivered two singles in four at-bats — he also walked twice — as the Yankees crushed the Blue Jays 11-2.

Although he hit 139 home runs in six seasons with the Yankees (1969-74) and was one of the most popular players in New York, Murcer pouted when Manager Bill Virdon moved him from center field to right to make right for the brilliant glove of Elliott Maddox. And although owner George Steinbrenner had promised that he would always be a Yankee, Murcer was traded to San Francisco for Bobby Bonds on Oct. 22, 1974.

The Giants, in turn, dealt him to the Cubs on Feb. 11, 1977, along with Steve Ontiveros for Bill Madlock and Rob Sperring.

Major-League roundup

Pinch-hit double propels Houston

By The Associated Press
It was the eighth inning and the Houston Astros needed a pinch hitter.

They needed Denny Walling's hot bat. But Walling, pinch hitting at better than a .500 clip, was their starting right fielder. And he had already hit a three-run homer earlier in the eighth.

Still, Houston was still one run down. So Manager Bill Virdon sent Jesus Alou — and his .053 batting average — to the plate.

And Alou responded with a two-run double that carried the Astros to a 6-5 victory, over Cincinnati Tuesday night, widening Houston's National League West lead over the Reds to 6 1/2 games.

The NL East leaders, the Montreal Expos, might have used a pinch hitter in the sixth inning — but Manager Dick Williams let Ross Grimsley bat for himself. And the Montreal pitcher came through with a two-run single for the big runs in a 5-3 victory over St. Louis.

With Cincinnati leading 5-1 in the eighth, a single Cesar Cedeno and a walk to Jose Cruz started the Reds' downfall. Paul Moskau got the next two outs before Walling hit his third homer of the season.

With two men on in the first inning, Moskau had fanned Walling. "I got too anxious in the first," Walling recalled. "Moskau got three high fastballs up in my eyes and I struck out. When I came to the plate in the eighth with two men on, he did the same thing, only this time I was expecting it. I got top of one and it went out.

George Foster drove in four of Cincinnati's runs with his 18th and 19th homers of the season.

Expos 5, Cards 3
"I'll take it in the boxscore, it'll look like a rocket. Whatever it takes to win is good enough for me," Grimsley said after the sixth-inning single off the end of his bat gave the Expos their 12th victory in the last 16 games.

Singles by Terry Perez and Gary Carter and Jerry White's grounder put runners at second and third. After Larry Parrish was walked intentionally, Tommy Hutton's grounder scored Perez to make it 2-2 before Grimsley got his two-run hit off pitcher John Denny's glove.

Giants 6, Braves 5
Darrell Evans was ready to take the night off while Heity Cruz started for the Giants. But in the bottom of the ninth, with the game tied, Evans got the call, batted for Cruz and slammed a Gene Garber pitch over the right field wall for his sixth homer.

It was San Francisco's first hit in seven innings — except for the one Bill Madlock got in with his first.

Phillies 5, Cubs 3
Singles by Greg Gross, Bake McBride and Pete Rose accounted for one Philadelphia run in the sixth inning, then Mike Schmidt drove in three with his 21st homer of the season to beat the Cubs.

Bob Boone added a homer for the Phillies in the ninth inning. Jerry Martin hit a homer for Chicago.

Pirates 2, Mets 1
Bert Blyleven and Grant Jackson teamed to four-hit the Mets while Bill Robinson, celebrating his 36th birthday, hit a tie-breaking homer off Tom Hausman in the seventh inning and turned in a game-saving catch for Pittsburgh an inning later.

With two away and a runner on second in the eighth, Robinson raced back to the wall in left-center field and, with a last-gasp stretch, hauled in Joel Youngblood's drive.

Padres 5, Dodgers 1
Fernando Gonzalez's three-run homer off Los Angeles' Don Sutton in a four-run fourth inning enabled the Padres to halt their four-game losing streak and hand the Dodgers their 16th loss in the last 23 games. Bob Shirley pitched his first complete game of the season — but it didn't come easy. He was tagged for 11 hits by the Dodgers en route to his first victory since May 30.

Royals 7, A's 6
George Scott hit a RBI single in the 10th inning to provide the Royals with a triumph over Oakland.

George Brett doubled leading off the Kansas City 10th against Jim Todd, 2-4, and went to third on a single by Amos Otis before scoring on Scott's single through a drawn-in infield. Al Hrabosky 5-3, was the winner in relief.

After Larry Murray's RBI single made it 6-4 in favor of Oakland in the ninth, the Royals scored two times in their half of the inning to send the game into extra innings. Pete LaCock hit an RBI single and Steve Braun followed with a single that scored Scott with the tying run.

Tigers 6, Red Sox 4
Champ Summers drove in three runs with a homer and an eighth-inning, bases-loaded single as Detroit defeated Boston. Detroit's Jack Morris, 5-4, went the distance for the victory, scattering seven hits and striking out four. Boston reliever Bill Campbell, 2-3, took the loss.

Twins 8, Brewers 7
Ron Jackson scored from first base on a single and Ben Oglivie's throwing error in the bottom of the ninth inning to lift Minnesota over Milwaukee.

Orioles 3, Indians 2
Rich Dauer looped a two-run double into the right field corner, keying a three-run fourth inning as Baltimore defeated Cleveland. It was the 17th victory in 19 games for Baltimore, the American League East leaders and the ninth consecutive loss for the Indians.

Dauer's hit came after Len Barker, 0-1, issued three one-out walks. The ball fell safely when right fielder Bobby Bonds appeared to shy away from the wall just outside the foul line.

Yankees 11, Blue Jays 2
Jim Spencer's two-run homer capped a five-run first inning that powered New York over Toronto. Spencer's sixth home run of the season followed a two-run single by Graig Nettles.

Fred Stanley, who took over at second base in the fourth inning after Willie Randolph was hit by a pitch on the left hip, also drove in two runs for the Yankees with a suicide squeeze bunt and a single.
