Carter: 'I need your help'

'Crisis of American spirit' noted

Somber president asks for assistance

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — President Carter said today that in an unparalleled peacetime commitment, the United States will spend $140 billion on his new energy security program "so that never again will our nation be hostage to foreign oil.

That outlay would come over the next decade, and Carter said the money must come from his windfall profits tax on the oil industry

"It's now more critical than it ever was that Congress swiftly pass a strong. permanent windfall profits tax," he told the National Association of Counties.

He asked all Americans to put pressure on Congress for action on that levy.

In a campaign-style followup to his somber Sunday night address to the nation. Carter said American confidence and unity can and will be restored as the nation works to battle its energy woes.

Declaring that "we can and will regroup," Carter thus took his new energy program to the nation, calling it the key to rallying Americans and restoring the faith

Carter repeated his vow to hold U.S. oil imports below the levels of 1977, when 8.5 million barrels were imported. "We will have to succeed both by conservation and will never import one more drop of oil than we did two years ago," he said.

He went beyond that, to say that the import quota for 1979 will be an average of no more than 8.2 million barrels a day. Carter recalled that two years ago he had pronounced the energy crisis the moral equivalent of war. He declared it again, in tougher terms

"Now the battle has been joined," he said. "This time there can be no delay. This time there can be no retreat.

While Carter did not mention nuclear power in his Sunday night address, he said today that nuclear energy "must play an important role in the United States to insure our energy future.

After announcing the $140 billion price tag. Carter itemized once again the specific measures in his new energy plan:

 An Energy Security Corporation. outside the federal bureaucracy," free to use independent business judgment to curb oil imports by developing alternative - An energy mobilization board to cut red tape and obstacles to increased energy production.

- A shift from oil to coal by U.S. utilities.

customers to finance conservation improvements.

- Improved mass transportation programs and research on more efficient automobiles. at a cost of $16.5 billion over

- A sharply expanded program of assistance to low income Americans to help them pay increased energy bills. Carter said he is tripling the size of that program, but gave no figure.

 An effort to produce 20 percent of U.S. energy from solar power before the end of the century, with a new National Solar Bank to help finance the program.

Carter said producers of natural gas from Alaska's North Slope have "dragged their feet" on financing a pipeline to get the fuel to market. Carter said the government will call them in "and get them going.

"I'm going to keep these initiatives moving." Carter said. "Every one of us must keep up this pressure for progress.

While energy was his theme. Carter also dealt briefly with the economy, saving he will not hesitate "to take action to avoid a serious recession

Americans listen, then give feedback to Carter

By The Associated Press

President Carter spent 10 days at Camp David formulating a plan to handle the nation's energy and inflation problems. "And then I left Camp David to listen to " he said in his other Americans ... nationally televised speech.

America listened A farmer in Missouri, a retired couple in Miami Beach, a coal miner in West Virginia, an oil company executive in Los Angeles, a Baptist theologian in Massachusetts, a representative of gasoline dealers in Connecticut, and an independent truck driver in Birmingham.

And they spoke their minds.

An Independent Trucker BIRMINGHAM, Ala. - John Brigman, an independent truck driver, was looking for a solution to problems within the trucking industry. "He didn't seem like to me he's come up with a solution," the 41-year-old trucker said of President Carter. "He sounded like a Baptist preacher wanting us all to get Brigman said: "I wanted to hear that there'd be more fuel available and this thing would level off. I don't think that's in the future

"He didn't say anything about inflation." he remarked.

Brigman's wife, JoAnn, said, "I don't think he's going to get people's cooperation by saying cut down on as small a thing as your fuel in your home and park your car one day a week

"That's the type of thing people are going to ignore. Do you think anybody's going to get up in the morning and cancel their vacation?

"I don't think it took that many days at Camp David to come up with that speech," said Mrs. Brigman. She added that the "crisis of confidence" was in the president

A Coal Miner

CHESAPEAKE, W.Va. - Coal miner Grant McGuire says President Carter's plan to place strict limits on imported foreign oil should be good news for the nation's coal industry. "I would have liked to have seen coal pushed up (in priority)," said McGuire, 52, who ha been a miner for 33 years. "But if he is limiting imports of foreign oil, the nation will have to use more coal. McGuire, a Democrat, said he voted for Carter, but addded that his confidence in

But once Carter got down to specifics. Nadler approved: "I think it's the best speech that Mr. Carter has ever made. I believe that he gave us a program that I could go along with.

Nadler and his wife Jean, who live on their savings and Social Security, said they support most specifics of Carter's planned assault on the energy crisis. He said Carter failed to mention nuclear energy, which Nadler attributed to the political sensitivity of the issue And Nadler said Carter's call for massive government spending upset him.

Disturbance leads to stabbing

What apparently began as a small disturbance led to the stabbing of a Pampa man Saturday night.

A.T. Golden, 68, of 1830 N. Banks was arrested in connection with the stabbing of Michael Lee Daley, 30, of 1824 N. Banks. Daley was listed this morning in stable but critical condition in the intensive care unit of Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo.

According to police, Golden allegedly stabbed Daley in the stomach, inflicting a diagonal cut near the ribs. The stabbing, which occurred at about 10:30 p.m. Saturday, reportedly resulted from a disturbance created by a group of children in the street near Golden's house. Police said Daley is the father of one of the children.

Golden called police to complain about the disturbance, and then called again to report the stabbing. Officers believe a knife was used to stab Daley, but no weapon has been found.

Golden was arrested and charged with aggravated assault with a deadly weapon. He was released from the county jail Sunday after posting $25,000 bond set by Justice of the Peace Nat Lunsford.

EVER STRIVING FOR TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by a government, with the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property and secure more freedom and keep it for themselves and others.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guide expressed in the Coveting Commandment.

Where we are; where we're going

There comes a time every now and then when all of us must look back a short distance to see how far we have traveled lately and what we are doing right and what we are doing wrong

At the Pampa News, we will take this space to see where we are at the moment and where we hope to be in a few months or a year

In the past year or 18 months, we believe, we have tried to use our editorial page to challenge our readers to think about the behavior of politicians, government and tax spending. We have also pointed out how private firm's are creating real, permanent jobs for people and how government, not just in Washington but here in Gray County, continues to grow at the expense of taxpayers.

There is much being said here of late about the news media in Pampa. There is even a little wind from the south boasting of telling some news from this area.

As this area's largest circulation newspaper which serves the entire eastern Panhandle and carries news and advertising from adjoining areas, we are grateful to our readers and advertisers for their support

The Pampa News is, unlike government, a voluntarily supported organization. Our readers, which we estimate at up to 30,000 in number, expect us to give them complete news coverage.

We have an actual obligation, as we see it, to ask questions of politicians and the powers that be in Pampa, Canadian, Miami and the surrounding areas. Our readers also expect us to comment in our editorials about what we see daily as we make our "beats" although certainly not all of them will agree with us.

The Pampa News is the only news-gathering organization in this area that is willing to "make waves" by asking questions of those who tax us and hold sway over our liberties. It would be a lot easier on the nerves at times and less trouble to take everything we are told at face value. But we don't, we dig and ask questions. This newspaper does not treat politicians and tax-supported government and schools as "sacred cows". They exist on tax dollars which are not voluntarily given as in the case of voluntarily-supported schools and private enterprise. And so we "make waves" "ruffle feathers" or whatever if that comes with the job we must do. Taxpayers are being squeezed as never before both in terms of a loss of wages and a loss of freedom to the government. But we will not spend the rest of this space patting ourselves on the back. There are some areas we see we could be stronger in and expect to make improved efforts in these areas.

Sometimes we think a particular news story could have stood a few more details. Or dispite our news staff being the largest in the Pampa area, a busy day will cause us to not spend just a little more time getting even more details just before press time. But that only happens occasionally.

We also believe that letters to the editor are a good avenue for our readers to respond to news events and happenings with their own

Hopefully, we will continue to have the support of our readers, who not only desire but also expect us to assist them in finding out what's going on in the Pampa area, the state, nation and world. If we do the best job we can, we trust that area readers and advertisers will continue to keep us the largest media in this part of the Panhandle and the one that sometimes "rocks the boat" by

Full speed ahead

And Americans think we have it tough in the energy crisis. Consider what may be asked of West Germans - the first ever speed limit on the autobahns.

That superhighway network is not only a source of national pride but a means of letting out national aggressions now that Germans no longer make war. The equivalent of 100 miles an hour is almost crawling when a car can do 120 and hundreds of thousands of drivers want to do

For the foreign driver adventurous enough to join the traffic flow, the experience can provide an inkling of what it must have been like with the Panzer

Nevertheless, the Bonn government is cautiously suggesting that Germans accept a limit as their contribution to the West's energy-saving effort. Germans - drivers. auto clubs, manufacturers, politicians well aware that drivers vote - have reacted with rage and the government has retreated, for the time being

The proposed maximum speed is 130 kilometers an hour, a bit more than 80 mph. Imagine the reaction if German drivers were being asked to accept the 55 mph their American counterparts are supposed to from a list of the top ten job-producing states in the country from 1967-1977 Of the top ten states, nine of them have outlawed forced unionism and the tenth California, barely made it on the list. The report, using federal statistics, shows the Buckeye State, which has not outlawed compulsory unionism, lost almost 58,000 manufacturing jobs during the period, or a 4.1 percent decline in ten years.

More than half of the non-right to work states showed industrial job declines over the ten-year period.

According to the National Right To Work Committee, itself based in the south, many people think job gains in most southern states are due to the "sunbelt" theory but instead it is due to the fact that most southern states have right to work laws.

Texas, the first state which put right to work laws on the books, had the biggest gain, with 232,700 new jobs created during the period Other states which have outlawed forced union membership include North Carolina, with a gain of 115,500 jobs: Florida, up 82.200 jobs: Tennessee, up 71,300 jobs: Mississippi, up 63,000 jobs: South Carolina, up 60,400; Arkansas, up 56.800 jobs: Alabama. up 54.800: Virginia. up 54.000; Georgia, up 5l:200; Arizona. 79,100; Louisiana, 28,900; Kansas, 24,700; Utah. 23.700: Iowa. 23.300: Nebraska. 10,900; Nevada, 8,300; South Dakota, 7,600; North Dakota, 6.300; and Wyoming, 2.000.

As the figures clearly show, not all job gains were made in the south, but in some western states which have done what most southern states have done...outlawed

States like Ohio which have continued to uphold forced unionism that takes away worker rights have often done just the opposite...gone downhill

Such states as New Jersey. Illinois. Pennsylvania. New York have all lost more than 100,000 industrial jobs during the ten-year study period

A strike in reality is a rebellion

By OSCAR COOLEY

Again, with the strike of the independent truckers, it becomes clear that a "strike" is not just a laving down of tools but a war. complete with shooting, bombing, blockade and disregard of non-combatants' rights and welfare

The truckers' strike is unique in that there is no employer. The truckers are independent; they employ themselves. Against whom are they striking then?

Why, against all of us. Against our lawmakers, representatives who ordered the 55-mile-per-hour speed limit. Against the government commission that refuses to let them charge shippers as much as the traffic will bear. Against the Arabs whose price-hiking led to the scarcity and rising price of oil. Is it a strike or a rebellion?

There is some justice in the grievances of the truckers. They are independent entrepreneurs and each wants to run his own business. He does not want to be treated like a child, incapable of making his own decisions.

Truckers know their vehicles and what they will do — the speed they can safely maintain. They know the roads from their

As for saving fuel by driving more slowly, that, too, the truckers think, is their business. And it is. Each trucker buys his own diesel fuel with his own money. Naturally he will not deliberately waste it. especially at today's price.

But would he drive at, say 30 miles an hour, to save fuel? Probably not. There is another important consideration: the time it takes to deliver his load to its destinations. This may well affect his profit more than the cost of the fuel does.

A trucker's rates are his selling price. How can one pretend to be independent to be in business for himself - who is not free to determine the price at which he will sell? The Interstate Commerce Commission can make or break him, and he resents this.

Then there is the oil shortage, which renders uncertain whether or not a trucker can get the fuel he needs, when and where he needs it. With the price of diesel fuel rising daily, and he forced to operate under

Just as these complaints are, they do not justify warfare on the highway, with striking truckers in pitched battle against non-striking truckers, with trucks being forced off the highways, set afire, overturned.

These complaints do not justify shooting. wounding and killing. They do not justify forced wastage of fruits and vegetables, meats and milk, for want of trucks to haul them to market.

Nor do they justify the closing of factories because raw materials are not trucked in or finished goods out, or resulting disemployment of employees of these plants, or the higher prices we all must pay for goods because of these frictions and shutdowns

These evils and more have been forced on the nation during the last month by the militant method of the truckers. There are civilized and peaceful ways of presenting grievances of a group such as the truckers and getting relief. It is not necessary to get

The strike is not recognized for what it is: a holdup by an organized group which as much as says. "Your money or your livelihood." There are no peaceful strikes. Violence, overt or threatened, is always

Even those who realize this is true try to gloss over strikes on the ground that workers have no choice, that the strike is their only recourse

This is not true in the United States. where the right of free speech is fundamental and people can always speak their grievances. Further, every American is free to choose his own occupation. An independent trucker makes his living that way because he likes it better than any other way. Neither government nor tradition forces him to submit to the disadvantages of that occupation.

No group has a moral right to upset and even endanger the lives of millions of Americans simply to call attention to his peculiar troubles. Nor could groups do this if it were not for the tolerance with which Americans look upon the strike.

It is not necessary to outlaw strikes but rather to see them for what they are, a privilege inconsistent with a peaceful society. Laws and regulations that make strikes easy and that extend to strikers the right to use force should be repealed. To strike then will become unpopular and disgraceful, as it deserves to be.

membership was 121,000.

It's almost like the old days. Passenger terminals are crowded, trains are jammed and a reservation for a peak travel period can be the hottest ticket in But it's not the good old days.

With the exception of a few refitted blue-ribbon runs: equipment is dingy to decrepit. Schedules are erratic, service is so spotty that it may no longer be possible to get from here to there and the condition of most roadbeds gives new meaning to the expression "roughing it"

But travel we will, and a considerable chunk of the gasoline-short public is rediscovering the railroads as a means of doing so. There is even some talk that the energy shortage may bring about what eight years of Amtrak reorganizing and federal subsidizing have failed to achieve-rehabilitation of nationwide passenger service.

That might almost qualify as a happy ending to the energy crisis, but don't expect it to be written. If recent history-the aftermath of the 1973-74 oil embargo--is any guide, the rush of new customers will as rapidly rush away from the trains and back to autos as soon as the fuel supply

And if it does not, if the shortage proves to be for the very long haul as we are warned, it is unlikely that trains could be the most effective means of meeting the nation's changed mass transportation

Thanks in a large part to decades of neglect of what once was a prime national asset, rehabilitation is now much more than a matter of extending routes and providing new rolling stock. Before passenger service could be restored to anything resembling operating efficiency. the existing freight-oriented rail system would have to be thoroughly restructured and millions of miles of track renewed. Even with such a multibillion-dollar investment, trains would not be providing the most passenger value for our money. The private auto, at least the fuel-hungry powerhouse we have been accustomed to, may well be on its last wheels. But for moving large numbers of people long distances in a fuel-tight economy, buses and the superjets have the advantage. Trains could not pay their way. To be fare-competitive, they would continue to require subsidies.

That may well be worth it to relieve traffic congestion in the heavily populated urban corridors. But elsewhere the passenger train has become an expensive anachronism. The current energy shortage has only temporarily slowed its final journey into history.

If it's good old days we hanker for we might more realistically hope that the oil producers will open the taps again and lower the price as look for a railroad renaissance

Lunsford given $25 per month travel expenses

Gray County commissioners approved a $25 a month travel allowance for Precinct 2 Justice of the Peace Nat Lunsford Friday, after considering the JP's request for a switch to a flat rate reimbursement in closed session.

The JP was formerly reimbursed for travel expenses at 18 cents a mile, but the judge said difficulty in maintaining accurate records was causing him to under - credit himself for car mileage.

Lunsford, who is handling all Precinct 2 JP cases due to the June 30 resignation of Place 2 JP Otto Mangold, said Friday travel records were "were too much trouble to keep track of." He said he often neglected to credit himself for mileage, and "rather than over charge, I'd just let it go."

The judge received travel allowances totalling $17.42 for the months April through June, claiming only a $3.42 allowance in June. Lunsford has estimated that his caseload will increase 50 percent with the combining of the two precinct places into one office. He said the flat rate might amount to a 50 percent increase in travel

"This way it will be a lot easier (to keep track of)," Lunsford said. Lunsford submitted the request to Gray County Judge Carl Kennedy in a letter July 10, but Kennedy said he chose not to make the request a regular agenda item because "we didn't want to embarrass anyone in case the request was turned down.

"I want things to run in a smooth, harmonious way, without causing any hard feelings or undue embarrassment to anyone at the courthouse," Kennedy said, explaining his decision to have the matter discussed in closed session.

Lunsford, who was not present during the discussion, said he did not ask the judge to place the request in executive session.

"After 17 years in politics, you're bound to be embarrassed at least once." Lunsford said. The JP said he did not remember if he had made a request for a change in travel allotment earlier in the year.

Bill Reed, of the State Attorney General's office, said he did not know of any provision under the Texas Open Meetings law which allowed for closed session discussion of such an item as a county official's travel allowances.

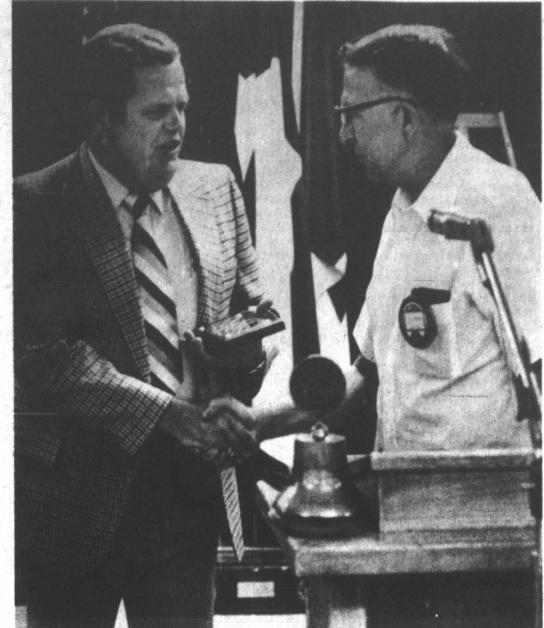

Commenting on the propriety of the closed session, Kennedy said, "The important thing is that the court never takes any action unless we're convened in open session.'

The section under the Texas Open Meetings Law under which executive sessions of the Gray County Commissioners Court are routinely scheduled states that government bodies are not required to hold open meetings in cases involving the appointment, employment, evaluation, reassignment, duties, discipline, or dismissal of a public officer or employee or to hear complaints or charges against such officer or employee" unless the official or employee requests a public hearing.

Pct. 2 Commissioner Ronnie Rice said Saturday there "was no particular reason why the item was discussed in closed session. It after running a stop sign, went could have been a regular item on the agenda, and I don't know why it wasn't. But I don't want to tell the judge how to run his business. I think the request could be considered a personnel matter.

Monthly travel allowences for county employees vary from $150 for the county judge and commissioners to $25 for the county and district

On Carter's appeal

Texas delegation waiting for details

WASHINGTON (AP)- Members of the Texas congressional delegation, generally impressed by President Carter's performance on his Sunday energy speech, are waiting for the details before lining up at his side.

The speech's impact was strong enough to prompt U.S. Rep. Kent Hance to remark. 'Second sermon I've heard today. Bless his heart, he's trying. You can tell he's trying harder than I've ever seen him try before.

The Lubbock Democrat said he was particularly pleased to hear a proposal for an energy mobilization board to speed top priority projects through regulatory hurdles.

The president's critics before the speech did not find any reasons to change their minds.

"I think the American people will feel they've been 'rafshooned' again," U.S. Sen. John Tower said with reference to presidential media consultant Gerald Rafshoon.

The state's Republican senator agreed with Carter that there is a national malaise but said the president's solution took the wrong direction. "The crisis of confidence has been precipitated by government and too much government intervention, and the president missed the opportunity to make comprehensive proposals to lighten that burden," Tower said. His Democratic colleague, U.S. Sen, Lloyd Bentsen, was more impressed. "The president has set forth for the nation some very major objectives. They are difficult objectives, worthwhile objectives, that deserve the support of the Congress and I am going to do my best to help us achieve them," Bentsen said. House Majority Leader Jim Wright said the them." the Fort Worth Democrat said before pointing to the synthetic fuel and windfall profits tax bills already passed by the House.

There are other elements in his program which in my opinion have great merit," Wright said. "All in all, he has challenged this nation to do our best and I believe we will respond to the U.S. Rep. Mickey Leland, a Democrat from Houston, enthusiastically praised the president's call for a patriotic, unified front and said he would be supporting specific programs when they reach the House.

Another Democrat from Houston, U.S. Rep. Bob Eckhardt, said he wants to hear the details

'The president didn't say a word about inflation, and the thing is you can't treat energy as a matter divorced from the word inflation.

Eckhardt said "I think he's right that we have a great system that can meet these problems, but I'm not at all sure he's outlined what can be done to meet them. I hope he will. U.S. Rep. Jim Collins said Carter projected powerfully enough to remind him of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt. "It's the greatest presentation he's ever made." Collins

The conservative Republican from Dallas remained as hostile as ever, however, to any plan that smacks of too much government. "All I can remember is they started this Energy Department with the same song," Collins said. "They've got to gt the government out. His solution is to put the government in

By The Associated Press A weak cold front clashing with another round of summer temperatures in the 90s over Texas was causing thunderstorms to develop today across the Lone Star State. Thunderstorms were widely scattered Sunday night and earlytoday throughout West Texas, but no significant precipitation was reported.

The National Weather Service said a weak cold front across the northern portion of the South Plains and moist low level air flowing southeasterly over the entire state gave indication of more thunderstorm development this afternoon, as temperatures headed upward.

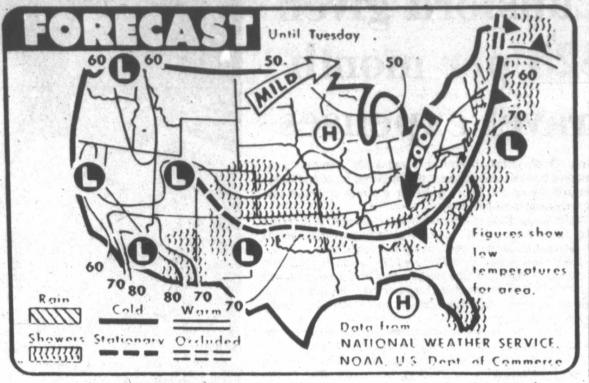

Partly cloudy skies prevailed over all of Texas during the night, as temperatures and humidities remaned high.

At 4 a.m., temperatures ranged from the middle 60s in the Panhandle to near 80 in the lower Rio Grande Afternoon high temperatures today were expected to range mostly in the 90s except near 100 in the lower Rio Grande Valley and near 105 in the Big Bend area.

National

Showers and thunderstorms were expected across much of the Northeast and the South today as some residents of eastern Kentucky waited for floodwaters to subside so they could return to their homes.

SHOWERS ARE EXPECTED across the country from the Southwest to the Atlantic coast until Tuesday morning. Milder weather is forecast from the northern and central Plains to the upper Mississippi Valley. The remainder of the nation is expected to range from warm in the East and South to very hot for the Pacific coast.

Premier Bulent Ecevit said no concessions were made to the guerrillas, who surrendered Sunday morning after freeing unharmed the remaining nine of their original 17 hostages, including Egyptian Ambassdor Ahmed Kamal Olema.

Ecevit told a news conference the raiders would be brought to trial "if the public prosecutor deems it necessary. ... There can be no exceptions to anyone in the Turkish legal system.

After a few sessions he prescribed Norpramin, I rebelled at trying to find peace of mind in the pill. He said something about a chemical imbalance in the brain causing depression. Just what is Norpramin and its purpose? I take one of these pills daily. How will they affect the brain? Is it necessary to continue them for a period of six months? After three months, how can I tell if I'm learning to cope or if the inner turmoil is being subdued by a pill? I have a healthy respect for this doctor and for the medications available, but I do not beleive in their indiscriminate use. I am just not satisfied with the amount of knowledge I possess. Any help will be greatly appreciated. DEAR READER - If you truly have respect for your doctor and Depressions aren't something that people treat or solve themselves. Sometimes they run their course or the circumstances which cause them change, but very frequently a person needs professional help. You were very wise to seek it. Because there are so many misconceptions about depression and you want more information. I'm sending you the Health Letter number 10 - 10, Depression: The Ups and Downs of Life. Everyone has some ups and downs of life. It's when they're painful or incapacitating that they become inportant and become a depression that requires help. There are quite a few things people can do to avoid depressions. These include staying involved with your family and friends and in the mainstream of events. It includes having goals that make life meaningful. Even with the measures you can take, there's still a chance that you're not able to handle yourself. Often it doesn't require a long period of professional help to provide real benefits and the new medicines that are available have really been helpful. Of course, you have to be selective in which medicine you use for which case.

In the last analysis, all of our bodily reactions involve chemistry or electrical events related to chemistry. That's particularly true of the brain. As we learn more about brain chemistry, we learn more about how we can chemically affect its

How long and how much medicine you'll need to take depends upon your individual case and you should depend on your psychiatrist to evaluate how you're doing and whether you need to continue the medicine or not.

Dubious convert hesitates about Jewish circumcision law

DEAR ABBY: I am not of the Jewish faith, but I am engaged to marry a Jewish girl. I have agreed to convert to Judaism, but I was told that in order to convert I must be circumsised.

Abby, I am 44 years old and really not too eager to go through something like that at my age. Can you please tell me if it's absolutely necessary? NEEDS TO KNOW IN NEVADA

DEAR NEEDS: All Orthodox and Conservative rabbis adhere to the ancient Jewish law which demands that the man be circumcised in order to convert to Judaism. But here's a suggestion: Some Reformed rabbis are more lenient than others, and do not insist on circumcision. Find a liberal Reformed rabbi if you prefer to remain intact.

Pharmacist is usually Clark Kent type person

By JOE GRAEDON The pharmacist behind your drugstore counter is probably a Clark Kent type of person: mild - mannered, hard - working, and unassuming. Although he may not leap tall buildings in a single bound, he has a very important responsibility. Besides filling your prescription accurately and labeling it clearly, the pharmacist plays a crucial role in preventing dangerous drug interactions. His professional vigilance could save your life.

To carry out this responsibility, the pharmacist needs the cooperation of the patient and the support of other health professionals. The years of education and special skills should command the respect of customers and colleagues alike.

Unfortunately, sometimes the pharmacist goes unappreciated. In fact, he may even be punished. Alan Bookstaber, a pharmacist in northern New Jersey, was fired not long ago for refusing to compromise his professional ethics.

A customer presented prescriptions for five different drugs which had the potential to interact in an adverse way. Besides Valium (diazepam), there was a barbiturate combination called Tuinal (secobarbital and amobarbital). two antidepressants called Elavil (amitriptyline) and Triavil (amitriptyline and perphenazine) and to cap the whole thing off there was an amphetamine diet pill called Dexamyl (dextroamphetamine and amobarbital).

Now this collection of drugs is not only dangerous, it could be deadly! Valium in combination with barbiturates could turn a person into a zombie, and in high interfere with respiration. No pharmacist should have filled this combination without first checking with the doctor.

However, when our hero did exactly that, the physician refused to discuss the matter. Faced with incomplete information the druggist was placed in a terrible bind. New Jersey law requires the pharmacist to record all drugs being used by each customer (called a "patient profile") in order to prevent incompatible prescriptions from being filled. The law also prohibits a pharmacist from dispensing any medications he judges injurious to the health of a patient. Taking these factors into consideration. this pharmacist believed his legal obligation was to not fill

Brewer manager credits wives with recent surge

By the Associated Press Milwaukee Manager George Bamberger believes that behind his team's recent success is a wife - or 25 wives in the Brewers' case.

Last week Bamberger told his team that if it didn't improve, he would hold practices during the All-Star break, depriving players of the three-day holiday they normally would spend with their families.

Sunday, triples by Sal Bando and Robin Yount, and doubles by Buck Martinez and Ben Oglivie highlighted a seven-run second inning that powered Milwaukee to a 10-4 victory over the Cleveland Indians.

That gave the Brewers a 54-38 record and a five-game winning streak.

Milwaukee pitcher Lary Sorensen, 11-9, got the victory but needed relief help in the ninth inning from Bob Galasso.

Red Sox 3, A's 2 Boston scored two runs in the ninth inning on only one hit, a leadoff single by Jim Rice, to come from behind and edge Oakland. It was the A's 20th loss in 23

Rice led off with a single and Carl Yastrzemski hit a grounder to third. A's shortstop Dave Chalk then bobbled a grounder, loading the bases, and Carlton Fisk's forceout sent home the tying run.

Orioles 6, Mariners 1 Ken Singleton drove in three runs with a double and a two-run homer and Dennis Martinez threw a four-hitter to give Baltimore its victory over Seattle. Singleton's home run in the fifth gave Baltimore a 4-0 lead.)

Angels4, Yankees 3 Bobby Grich slammed a two-run homer in the bottom of the ninth inning to boost California over New York.

It was the second straight game in which California came from behind in the final inning to beat the Yankees. New York had taken a 4-0 lead with two-run homers by Chris Chambliss in the first inning and Jim Spencer in the second.

Royals 4, Rangers 3 Run-scoring doubles by Todd Cruz snd George Scott backed Paul Splittorff's five-hitter as Kansas City edged Texas.

The victory snapped the Royals' seven-game losing streak and was only the second in Kansas City's last 15 games.

Twins 9, Blue Jays 4 A grand slam home run by Dave Edwards and John Castino's three-run double powered Minnesotu over Toronto. The Twins also got a solo homer from Butch Wynegar, his sith of the year. Castino's double came in the fifth inning off reliever Balor Moore. Tigers 14, White Sox 5 Steve Kemp rapped out five hits and Lance Parrish added four of Detroit's 20 hits to lead Detroit over Chicago.

Kemp and Lou Whitaker drove in three runs each and Jason Thompson, Tom Brookens and Parrish all drove in two apiece to give right-hander Jack Morris, 8-5, his fourth triumph in his last five decisions.

Expos 4, Padres 0

Montreal, with a three-game lead over Chicago and Philadelphia in the National League East, got a two-run homer from Ellis Valentine and two solo shots from Andre Dawson to beat San Diego Sunday for their second victory in six games.

"This game is a big lift for us going into the All-Star break," said Montreal Manager Dick Williams after the power of Valentine and Dawson backed the combined five-hit pitching of Scott Sanderson and Elias Sosa.

Cards 3, Astros 1 "I don't know if, with three days off, we'll score more runs when we come back or not, but we do need a rest," Houston Manager Bill Virdon said

The Astros have managed just 14 runs in nine games and have been shut out three times in that span while winning just once. The Cardinals got five-hit pitching from rookie John Fulgham, who lost his shutout on a ninth-inning homer by Jose Cruz. Mike Phillips' single drove home the Cards' winning run in the seventh. Phils 10, Dodgers 3

"This may be what we all need," Tom Lasorda, manager of Los Angeles and the National League All-Stars, said of the three-day break. It'll give the Dodgers a chance to mull over Philadelphia's eight-run third inning that dropped them 21 games under .500.

Bob Boone and Del Unser drove home two runs apiece for the Phillies. The Dodgers' runs came on homers by Steve Yeager and Steve Garvey Reds 3, Cubs 1 Cincinnati Shortstop Dave Concepcion, who had begged out of the All-Star Game because of leg miseries - he says he has a turned ankle and a groin pull - drove in four runs with a homer and a sacrifice fly to help Tom Seaver win his seventh straight game.

Giants 4. Mets 0 Mike Ivie and Marc Hill homered while Ed Whitson, Phil Nastu and Pedro Borbon combined on an eight-hitter for San Francisco to halt the Mets' five-game winning streak, their longest of the year.

Pirates 7, Braves 3 Willie Stargell and Bill Robinson hit consecutive home runs in the sixth inning, the eighth time this season the Pirates have managed the feat. Four Pirate hurlers combined on a three-hitter, with Jim Bibby

Milwaukee Open victor does not fit mold MILWAUKEE (AP)- A typical member of the new finally made it to the top," Peete said of his first tour wave on the Professional Golfers Association tour is a blond, bronzed young golfer who learned the game as a teenager at a country club and honed his game at a university in the South or West. Then there is Calvin Peete.

Black and not all that young - he will be 36 Wednesday - Peete grew up in poverty on a Florida farm, ninth of 19 children his father had in two marriages. He quit school after eighth grade to help out by selling clothes and trinkets to migrant workers, and never played golf until he was 23.

That's why Peete felt a special feeling of accomplishment as he strode the 18th fairway at Tuckaway Country Club Sunday. He was to birdie the hole, capping a 7-under-par final round 65 for a five-stroke victory in the $200,000 Milwaukee Open

"I knew that after a long, hard struggle, I had victory. "If I couldn't make it in golf, it would have been a hard road to make a living.'

Peete recorded the lowest final round by a tour winner this year as he finished at 19-under par 269 for 72 holes. That bettered the previous record for this tournament of 270 by Dave Hill in 1976.

Peete, who had never won more than $20,525 in any of his four previous years on the tour, boosted his 1979 earnings to $81,584. He became the second black ever to qualify for the Masters when he tied for 11th in the U.S. Open last month.

Victor Regalado, who had started the final round tied for the lead with Ed Dougherty, a stroke ahead of Peete, Lee Trevino and Mike Reid, finished in a second place tie at 274 with Jim Simons and Trevino. Regalado shot a 71. Trevino a 70 and Simons a 67 Sunday, while Dougherty had a 72 and tied John

Peete, who taught himself to play golf and studies film of himself to find flaws in his game, credits vastly improved putting for his development this

"I'm not considered a long hitter; maybe average or a little below," the 5-foot-10, 165 pound Peete said. "But I'm a pretty good wedge player and my putting was the key this week.'

Peete sank birdie putts of 12, 10, and 20 feet. respectively, on his second, third and fifth holes, then tapped in a 21/2-foot putt after a brilliant approach on

"To be frank, I never thought of winning the tournament until after the ninth hole when I birdied to go four under for the round and 16 under for the tournament," he said.

Peete played his first round of golf in 1966 in Rochester, N.Y., with friends he met on a trinket-selling trip.

U.S. completes record haul in Pan Am

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) - The United States set a dangerous precedence of excellence in the VIII Pan American Games, which ended Sunday.

Regardless of the accomplishments of future American athletes or the overall strength and improvement in the U.S. amateur athletic programs, their achievements in Pan American Games yet to come always will be measured against the overwhelming. record-shattering U.S. victory in this edition of the hemispheric Olympics.

But future Pan American Games will be harder, not easier, for the United States.

Emphasis on athletic competition is increasing at a furious rate through the entire Western Hemisphere. That fact showed greatly in the increased level of proficiency of all 5,000 athletes from 34 countries international competition participating in these Games. Viewed in that context, the United States' performance this year, can only be categorized as outstanding, according to U.S. Olympic Committee President

"This is by far the best U.S. delegation ever assembled for the Pan Am Games," Kane said.

The United States totalled a whopping 264 medals, and that total could have gone higher except for a Pan Am rule that no country may place more than two medal winners in any category. The previous record total was 247, set by the U.S. in 1975 at Mexico City.

The U.S. haul of 127 gold medals was just short of the all-time mark of 128, also set by the U.S., back in 1967 at

Winnipeg But since then, the Canadians have come on, and Cuba's program was born. The Cubans finished second for the second consecutive time, with a total of 65 golds and 146 overall. Canada was third with a 24-136 gold-total count. There was a big dropoff to fourth-place Brazil at 9-40.

But obviously, it was another Star Spangled Banner production.

Consider some of these American accomplishments: -Swimmers and divers won 32 of 33 gold medals, setting

Games record in 27 swimming events, and three world records. -Although nine National AAU champions were missing, the track-and field teams won golds in 25 of 39 events, including a 10 gold medals. -Pistol, rifle and shotgun marksmen gained 12 golds and set one world record.

The only sport in which the Americans were hurt was gymnastics. The best dozen or so U.S. gymnasts in each category stayed home because they didn't want to learn the unique Pan Am routines, preferring instead to prepare for world class competitions

All-Star starting pitchers to be named today

What a difference a few months make. Especially in baseball.

Bob Lemon managed the New York Yankees to a victory in the World Series in six games last fall over the Los Angles Dodgers, piloted by Tommy Lasorda.

So now comes Tuesday's 50th All-Star game and Lemon is maaging the American Leaguers and Lasorda heads the Nationals.

That's in keeping with tradition, but much has changed since the two said goodbye to each other after the Series of the World Champion Yankees on June 19, replaced by Billy Martin. And Lasorda's Dodgers have the worst record among all the National League teams and he might be fired.

The two All-Star managers were slated to name their starting pitchers today and paradoxically, the only 1978 Dodger in contention was Tommy John, the left-hander who played out his option with the National League champions and switched to the Yankees.

Lasorda didn't name a single Dodger pitcher to his list but has 1954 and Detroit in 1971.

The Nationals lost the 1971 homer derby but have won each of the succeeding games and hold a 30-18-1 advantage, winning 15 of the last 16 games.

Nolan Ryan, the California Angels' right-hander who has four no-hitters to his credit, commented, "I'm glad to contribute. I like to be a part of the All-Star game even though it's at the Kingdome."

Ryan was named to the squad by Lemon even though two years ago he refused a late invitation by Martin to take the place of his injured California teammate, Frank Tanana.

One advantage for the Nationals will be at first base where they have .300 hitter Garvey, the Game's Most Valuable Player in both 1974 and 1978. Rod Carew of the Angels, seven times the American League's leading batter, proved the biggest vote-getter of all players, but the American League first baseman will be forced to skip the game because of an injured right thumb.

Cincinnati shortstop Dave

Concepcion and catcher Johnny Bench pulled out of the game complaining of injuries.

Earlier Chicago slugger Dave Kingman and St. Louis shortstop Garry Templeton also had Lasorda chose New York Mets catcher John Stearns to replace Bench but probably will turn starting duties to either Philadelphia's Bob Boone or Montreal's Gary Carter.

Kingman was hit by a pitch last week and Lasorda replaced him with Cardinals first baseman Keith Hernandez.

Erxleben improving on speed of kicking

VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP) - Everyone knew Russell Erxleben could boot a football high and far, and that's why the New Orleans Saints agreed to pay him $300,000 a year to kick for them. Now he's learning to kick faster.

"I have to do it faster in the National Football League because there are faster players trying to block it," he said after a preseason

Special teams coach Whitey Campbell said Erxleben was getting his punt away in about 2.3 seconds last season. He's down to 2.1

seconds now "That doesn't sound like much, but it's definitely important," Erxleben said. Just as important is the time shaved off his field goal kicking.

"On extra points, we want to get the ball away in 1.1 seconds,"

Campbell said. "They don't rush 11 men on field goals because they have to watch out for the pass, so we can get those off in 1.3 seconds.' Erxleben, co-holder of the NCAA field goal distance record with a 67-yarder at Texas, was the 11th player taken in this year's NFL college draft-the highest a kicker has ever gone. Two years ago, he planned to leave football.

"My junior year, I planned to quit. For what reason, I don't know," he said. "I just felt I wasn't making any progress.

"I guess I really got down. I had been doing the same thing for so "But my sister told me, 'Look, you're not going to get this kind of money doing anything else,' so I decided to stick it out.' Erxleben is counted on to replace two pretty fair booters - punter

Tom Blanchard and kicker Rich Szaro. Blanchard ranked fourth in the NFL with a 42-yard average last season. Szaro, on injured reserve most of last year with a pulled muscle, shared the best field goal percentage in the NFL in 1976 with 18 of 23. Szaro is a left-footed kicker, but he booted one with his right foot against Cleveland when his replacement got hurt in practice before the game. Neither Blanchard nor Szaro was in camp this week, but Erxleben said he wouldn't feel the pressure if they were. And he said he doesn't feel any pressure as a result of his high salary or lofty spot in the draft.

"You can't think of that," he said. "You just have to go out and do

"I'm about the least hyper person you'll ever see. When I kicked the 67-yarder. I just stood there. I got excited over the first field goal I made in college, a 43-yarder, but after that, I was just doing what I was supposed to do

"When I kick the first one for the Saints, I may not show it, but I think inside I'll be going crazy. "It will be the start of a new career."

Britz garners Open

FAIRFIELD, Conn. (AP) - This year's "bridesmaid" on the women's pro golf tour finally got to throw the bouquet as a winner Sunday at the U.S. Women's Open Jerilyn Britz, who led but failed to win the LPGA Championship and the Mayflower Classic in the past five weeks, captured the most prestigious event on the tour with a determined confidence.

After making up a three-stroke deficit and taking the lead during the final round, she withstood a late charge by Debbie Massey, posting a 2-under-par 69 for a four-day total of 284, even par at the Brooklawn Country Club. It was the first victory in her 51/2 years on the pro tour for the 36-year-old former college teacher.

A 30-foot putt to save par on the eighth hole "was one of the turning points," she said. She then proceeded to birdie two of the next three holes. Meanwhile, Massey, a third-year pro, was scrambling as she did throughout the tourney. She double-bogeyed the sixth and seventh holes to fall off the pace, before rushing back with birdies on the 12th, 15th, 16th and 17th to tie Britz.

But her drive off the 18th ended in someone else's divot and she was unable to get it on the green. She ended the day with a 74 and a 72-hole total of 286, tied for second with former Open champion Sandra Palmer. Defending champion Hollis Stacy, who was trying for an unprecedented third Open title, finished at 293. Britz's 72-hole total of 284 is the lowest for the event since the U.S. Golf Association assumed sponsorship of the event and 21 below-par rounds were posted, 50 percent more than the previous record. In addition. Washam's last 36-hole total of 139 broke by one stroke the Open record set by Mickey Wright in 1959 and Sally Little in 1978.
