Will Democrats hold convention?

CORPUS CHRISTI. Texas (AP) — President Carter has no active opposition for the Democratic presidential nomination, so Texas Democrats will not hold a Presidential primary in 1980, but both of those conditions are subject to change, state party leaders

The 62-member State Democratic Executive Committee decided Saturday to use a state convention to choose its delegates to the national nomination convention in August 1980.

That was the recommendation of the SDEC*s rules committee. but rules committee chairwoman Carrin Patman of Ganado said the party will change that position if a valid contest develops. "I call it a look before you leap standpoint." Mrs. Patman said

"It'll perhaps prevent us from being in the foolish-looking position of backing out if there is no race." The SDEC agreed that if a race develops, they will vote next spring to conduct a non-binding presidential preference primary.

which state party chairman Billy Goldberg said would be as good as a binding vote Goldberg, of Houston, said he would "do all in my power to see that the results of that vote are followed in the delegate selection

There was lengthy debate over the primary issue, but when it was put to a vote, the delegates adopted the rules committee's recommendation by a two-thirds majority

Several SDEC members claimed failure to conduct a primary would force conservative party members into the Republican polling booths. The Texas Republican Party already has decided to conduct a presidential preference primary in conduction with the May primaries, and two Texans — John Connally and George Bush — are announced candidates, heightening interest among Others at the Saturday meeting argued against a state convention, claiming it would be more easily influenced by special interest groups than a statewide primary

But Goldberg said voters are not being deprived of a choice by the Texas party. "It's because there is only one candidate in the field." he said. "We can't create the contest. We can't tell Teddy Kennedy or Jerry Brown to run

The SDEC also adopted an affirmative action plan for 1980, to increase participation in party activities by ethnic minorities, the physically handicapped and other groups described as traditionally under-represented

Concert violence leaves one dead

CLEVELAND (AP) — Shootings, stabblings and beatings erupted in the pre-dawn darkness on a hot, muggy night preceding a "World Series of Rock" concert Saturday at Municipal Stadium. One man was killed, police said.

Before the concert began, Joseph Went, 18, of Cleveland, was robbed and fatally shot, officers said. At least three other shootings, numerous stabbings and beatings and at least 14 robberies also were reported.

Police said the violence and vandalism began as thousands of music fans, who had arrived early from throughout the country, partied or waited for the gates to open for Saturday's all-day World Series of Rock.

At least 75 persons were arrested on charges ranging from robbery to disorderly conduct.

Some of the arrests were related to rock-and bottle-throwing which started as officers moved in to break up a fight at about the time Went was

The concert at the 75.000-seat stadium featured Ted Nugent and the groups Aerosmith. Journey, Thin Lizzy and AC-DC.

Police said some of the incidents involved confrontations between groups of whites and blacks, and that a rash of robberies among the crowd contributed to the violence.

The eight-hour concert ended shortly after 7 p.m. EDT and attracted more than 65,000 persons. Cleveland police Capt. Ed Rossmen said there were only minor problems during the actual performances.

JOHN MOORE, 17, of Akron, Ohio, was among those beaten in incidents of violence Saturday before the start of a World Series of Rock concert at Municipal Stadium. He was reported in fair condition at Lutheran Medical Center.

Inmates arrested after jailbreak

EL PASO. Texas (AP) — Two inmates accused of stabbing a jailer Monday, through the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service. Sheriff Ray Montes said

The suspects. Joseph Edward Smith. 20. and Dave Anthony Silva. 30, both of El Paso, were arrested early Saturday at a motel in Juarez, Mexico, just across the border from El Paso, Montes said. Mexican authorities said they confiscated a quantity of marijuana and a kitchen knife when they arrested the pair.

Smith and Silva allegedly stabbed jailer Luis E. Romero twice in the chest with a five-inch kitchen knife as they emerged from the El Paso County jail's freight elevator Friday morning, the sheriff said.

The men reportedly hopped into the elevator when jailer Armando during an escape will be handed over to El Paso County authorities Chavez was distracted by another prisoner. Montes said Chavez has been suspended for 15 days without pay pending an investigation. Montes said Mexican authorities would deport the two as undesirable aliens, turning them over to the INS, which would in turn hand them over to his deputies.

Smith had been convicted of armed robbery, and Silva had been arrested on several charges, including auto theft.

Romero is hospitalized in stable condition. Montes said. About 50 law enforcement officers had taken part in the search for the escapees, who fled the jail on foot.

What Did He Say

Did you listen to Jimmy Carter Wednesday night? We did and we still don't know what he said except that a windfall profits tax on oil is the magic wand that will save America.

Yes sir folks, this tax on those bad oil companies will create jobs, develope alternate energy sources, protect the poor, rebuild confidence in the United States both at home and abroad, curb inflation, and dozens of other wondrous things except cure the common cold - and they're working on that.

Remember, too, that these wondrous and amazing feats will be performed before your very eyes by the people that brought you the Post Office, Amtrack, and dozens of other delightful comedies.

The grim message that is overlooked is that the government will have almost complete control over all energy sources within this country from exploration to production and even distribution. This is very close to nationalization.

But then they wouldn't do that, would they? This is America, not Britain or Sweden or China. It can't happen here:

Every day the government takes more control over our lives not to mention our money. Look back one year or 10 years and see if we're not right.

Where do you think it will end? Now what was it he said.

Dog-Gone

Have you seen a big black dog lately?

I am sure many Pampans have been asked if they have seen their neighbors' pet or a stray dog around their house — and many have.

There is a growing problem, a new litter every eight to ten weeks, of stray dogs in and around Pampa.

Our local citizens lob numerous complaints each day at local authorities about packs of dogs roaming lose on our city streets.

One major complaint with our animal control personnel is they never seem to respond to a call until after the animals have left the area or have returned home.

But let us not condemn the men and women who collect the stray animals off our streets, for there are always a number of animals in the local shelter and many are put to death each week.

There are some problems, however. As in all government organizations, there is a communication problem.

The police dispatcher receives the flood of stray dog calls each day, but they are placed on a low priority unless there is an immediate danger to life or property. So when the animal control officer checks in at the police station they pick up the calls and respond to them

I am sure, with all the tax dollars we pay and the problem growing as serious as the one of stray dogs is, the city could afford a phone directly at the animal control shelter. The officers spend a great deal of their time in the Hobart Street Park facility caring for

A quick response in a few cases would end our problem, or a least

We might even be able to let our children play outside without worrying about them being attcked by a pack of these stray

If we are paying for these services with our tax dollars, then don't give us 10 cents worth of service for our shrinking dollar.

Looking back

Pampa broke a four - day water storage deficit and came back strong with 1.145.000 gallons gained in the 24 - hour period ending at 7:30 this morning

Yellow parking places for delivery trucks and longer parallel parking spaces were among the items discussed by the publicity and education committee of the Citizens' Safety Commission this morning in Johnson's Cafe.

Today the 1964 Traffic Count stood at 335 accidents and 74 injuries with no reported fatalities, bringing Pampa to exactly 850 consecutive deathless days.

The soaring heat and drouth which has gripped Pampa was broken yesterday and this morning when a fast moving cool front dumped from .30 to 1.15 inches of precipitation in various sections of the city.

The thundershowers also touched off strong winds in some parts of the city.

Gray County Clerk Charlie Thut said today that 13 absentee ballots had been cast to date in the August 5 proposed amendment election.

Sterling Gibson. Pampa School District's head basketball coach, was employed today as assistant principal at Pampa High School replacing Weldon Trice. After a completely dry month. Pampa received 36 of an inch of precipitation during a late Sunday afernoon shower and it fell again this morning. The amount brought the year's total to 6.10 inches.

Pampa area residents will have a chance to get up to date information about the Community Day Care Center when the board of directors holds its regular meeting at 7 p.m. teday.

Nevada claims vast government lands

Nevada's legislature passed and Governor Robert List signed in early June a State law of such mind-boggling magnitude that it makes inflation and energy issues picayune by comparison. The state of Nevada has laid claim to over 49 million acres of land "owned" by the Federal Government.

Central to Nevada's challenge of federal claim to western lands is the "equal footing docrine" which describes the admission and status of new states on a basis of constitutional equality of right and power with the original States. The doctrine prohibits Congress from imposing, by consent or otherwise, conditions on admission to statehood which infringe upon the equality of the new state in relation to the other States.

The Nevada law flows from a Senate Bill No. 398, dated 25 March 1977, drafted by Attorney T. David Horton, Counsel, Committee to Restore the Constitution, a Colorado non-profit corporation.

Horton's argument is that the land clearly belongs to the State of Nevada by way of the Constitution; it merely needs enforcement; it is not a matter of the federal government giving or approving 'Article I, Section 8, Clause 17 of the Constitution". Horton says, "specifically restricts federal agencies and prohibits them from having any lands within the boundaries of a state once formed unless: 1. They are purchased; 23. Consent of the Legislature is given; 3. They are used for the erection of forts, arsenals, dockyards or other needful buildings.

Complaints, authorities and provisions of the 1979 Act are set out in seven pages of text. Among its highlights:

SEC. 5. 1. Subject to existing rights, all public lands in Nevada and all minerals not previously appropriated are the property of the State of Nevada and subject to its jurisdiction and control.

SEC. 5. 3. Public lands in Nevada which have been administered by the United States under international treaties or interstate compacts must continue to be administered by the state in conformance with those treaties or compacts.

SEC. 7. 3. All proceeds of fees, rents, royalties or other money paid to the state under sections 2 to 9, inclusive, of this act must be deposited with the state treasurer for credit to the state general fund.

Nevada's Attorney General Robert List (prior to his election to the office of Governor) enunciated the sovereignty of the State regarding unappropriated lands within its border in a sixty-six page opinion, "Equal Foting Doctrine and Its Application by Congress and the Courts",

"The Power of Congress to admit new States into the Union does not carry with it the authority to maintain colonies or territories in perpetuity", said the Attorney General. "The retention under federal dominion in perpetuity of vast areas of public lands within the boundaries of a State by Congress is an exercise of a power after statehood which is denied by the Constitution before statehood. Such a situation places the equal footing doctrine in direct conflict with the Property Clause, a conflict, which if litigated, might well result in a Supreme Court holding that Congress must pursue an active plan of disposal of unappropriated public lands".

Harassed by Bureau of Land Management excesses, mining and ranching interests have spurred Nevada into calling on other western states to join in battle against federal dominion over state lands. Nevada's Legislature has appropriated $250,000 to back their challenge.

The Nevada action involves no less than 87 percent of the entire State. Thats how much is now under federal dominion. In all western states the federal government controls 607 million acres. That much land is more than twice the area of all European countries combined. One-third of the State of Colorado is controlled by the federal' government, and the percentage foor other western states is eye-popping: 96.4 percent of Alaska; 66.2 percent of Utah; 63.7 percent of Idaho; 52.3 percent of Oregon; and 45 percent of California. The U.S. Government claims 65 percent of all land in 13 western states - in contradiction to constitutional prohibitions.

Nevada argues that the U.S. Constitution and historic court rulings show the U.S. government was supposed to hold these new wilderness areas. Constitutionally and historically the law is on the side of Nevada. Sovereignty over lands and resources within the borders of each of the original thirteen colonies, which by constitutional compact created the Union, is clearly set out in the Declaration of Independence:

'We, therefore, the representatives of the United States of American in General Congress assembled...solemnly publish and declare That these United Colonies are, and of right ought to be free and independent states ...; and that as free and independent states, they have full power...to do all other acts and things which independent states may of right do. Significantly, Article II, Articles of Confederation, adopted by the Continental -Congress 15 November 1777, confirmed the sovereignty of each state. "Each State retains its sovereignty, freedom and independence and every power, jurisdiction, and right, which is not by this confederation expressly delegated to the United States... Further, Article IX provided that no state shall be "deprived of territory for the benefit of the United States'

On the sunshine side of that ledger Colorado is oozing oil. Colorado alone has enough to keep all our cars rolling for the next 500 years. It's contained in "oil shale." Early American Indians called it "the rock

With oil $2 a barrel it was too costly to extract oil from shale but at $20 a barrel Colorado is almost ripe!

Our nation is yet a long way from energy independence but we're getting there.

down on gasahol. Most cars will run efficiently without any modification on a 20-80 mix

Oil from coal is yet another option. Several coal-oil or coal-gas projects are presently in development, but it takes four to five years -- in government and environmentalists stay out of the way -- for a blueprint to produce products.

We are not talking here about the more exotic futuristic fuels which may or may not prove practicable. You and I are right now counting chickens that are already

Today in history

By The Associated Press Today is Sunday, July 29, the 210th day of 1979. There are 155 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1959, Hawaii held its first election as a state and elected the first Orientals to serve in the U.S. Congress.

We want to congradulate Martha Sublett on her recent election as a director of the Desk and Derrick Club. Martha is a valuable asset to Pampa and feel that she will do an excellent job in her new post. We have had several compliments on our recent addition of a complete entertainment page on Friday. We hope that evryone with an entertainment event slated for the public in Pampa will give us a call and let us know about what is happening in Pampa.

Many people are still under the belief that no energy emergency exists and that they can still drive as much as they want at whatever speed they want.

Several cars were noticed in excess of the posted speed limits this week. This is not only dangerous but it is also stupid.

Drive only when you must and at the speed posted for your safety. Remember your grandchildren will need energy too.

While we are on the subject of driving, staffers Dan Lackey and Debbie Duke take an interesting look at where the young people of Pampa spend there time. It is worth your time to see exactly what your children are doing at night. It may change your mind on how you let your child chose his or her entertainment.

We want to say that we appreciate any and all comments about our paper whether they are good or bad. Remember though that our job is to report the news, all the news, whether it is good or bad and we will continue to do so.

We know that many people have their feelings about what should or should not be put into print and we like to hear your suggestions and complaints.

There are several things going on in Pampa in the coming weeks and we will try to keep you posted on what is happening. Remember the United Way drive will be starting soon so when you are asked to give do so generously, please.

Today is the best day to start regular attendance at the church of your choice.

A. TAD LOONEY

Yes. Virginia, even a human being as warm and wonderful as your Uncle A.Tad Looney receives an occasional piece of hate mail. This morning I write under the pain of a barbed missive which accuses me of being the illegitimate son of William F. Buckley, Jr. and Erma Bombeck. This, I of course deny- as Bill B. would put it-- categorically. True, the circumstances surrounding my birth are, as the saying goes, shrouded in mystery. But I swear on a stack of Scottish accents that Bucky and Bommy are not me folks, the priggish style and the homely concerns of these tiny essays notwithstanding.

Anyway, that nasty note flung me headlong into the spiritual company of the thousands of Americans, both black and white, who, since "Roots," have been scaling the heights of their family trees. If not actually born in Gary, Indiana, I did in fact incubate there under the chestnut shade of U.S. Steel. But this is as much as

For reasons of national security, I can't write freely about my family history, though many of the salient facts are a matter of public record in reruns of the short - lived "Invaders" TV series. But not to pass by a bed - time story, I may, however, be able to publicly trace my moral roots to a feature known as "Goofus and Gallant." found in an excellent publication known to anyone who has been to elementary school in the last 30 years.

Until, in fidgety panic, I picked up a July '78 issue of "Highlights For Children' last Tuesday morning in the dentist's waiting room, I hadn't thought about this tidy children's educational magazine for almost twenty years. It was part, I recalled with a pin prick of nostalgia, of my mental furniture until about third grade, when I made my total commitment to the Hardy Boys.

Ironically, this issue contained advice on how to paste up pictures of your family tree. But it was the pencil drawn vignette adventures of "Goofus and Gallant" that I remembered best and Probably jekyll - and - hyde versions of the same little boy, Goofus and Gallant personify evil and good, suitably scaled for children under ten. Goofus is wrong - headed, pessimistic, and rude: Gallant is right - minded, optimistic, and polite; the two are a catalogue of every plus and minus of human nature about which a parent or teacher could possibly have occasion to lecture a

The drawings show the boys in very similiar but not necessarily identical situations. In one of the frames in the issue I revisited, Goofus is shown trying to hit his old man up for seven dollars "to buy a present for Jane's birthday." Next door, naturally, Gallant is showing his Dad a small piece of homemade architecture, and modestly admitting, "Dad, see this birdhouse for Aunt Alice? I made it all myself.

In another triumph of ethical one - upsmanship, Goofus is stretched over the back of a school bus seat, tugging on the hair of a little girl. Meanwhile, across the aisle. Gallant sits with legs crossed and arms folded, looking like John Cheever discussing his latest novel on the Dick Cavett show. Later, to round out one of his usual dastardly days, Goofus snootily refuses a hand - me - down baseball suit, while gracious Gallant proudly shows his Mom a pair of "Sol's old skates ... "

As I gallantly downed a shot of novocaine and goofishly groaned as Dr. DD.S. jack - hammered a gray bicuspid, I could not help wondering if the G & G feature had been more than a bubble gum tattoo on my moral development -- a piece of cartoon piety quickly and drastically modified by the rough and tumble of a child's real

In my case, I think I, unfortunately, pored over G & G without the proper adult supervision, weighing the behavior of Goofus and Gallant equally, without, as they say, "any moralistic preconceptions." The result is that today I see in the mirror a confusing alloy of both the good and the bad, varnished evenly with a thick coat of the ugly I see a chivalrous smart - aleck, a gentleman - ogre, a deeply superficial thinker.

Yes, Virginia, I fear it's true, your Uncle A. Tad Looney, is, in a phrase, a Gallant Goofus-- in fact, if you'll pardon the pun, darling, a walking oxy - Moron.

'What's an ox-- an ox marooned, Uncle A. Tad?' "Be a gallant gal. Virginia, look it up. And fix us some gallant hot cocoa before you bring me my slippers. I'll be lodged in the den, dear, kissing the flypaper of my past goodbye.

Texans return to flooded homes

HOUSTON (AP) - Thousands of flood-weary Texans, chased from their homes along the upper Gulf Coast by the worst floods in 18 years, returned Saturday and began placing water-logged carpets and sofas out to dry.

"I've lived in Dickinson almost 28 years," said Bill Brady. Galveston County Civil Defense coordinator. "I went through Hurricane Carla. I've worked every hurricane that has hit here in the past 28 years. And I've never seen water like this.

The floods, which were caused by rains of up to 30 inches from the remnants of tropical storm Claudette, subsided enough to allow the remainder of an estimated 5,000 refugees to leave Red Cross

Flood area declared disaster

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter declared a major disaster in Texas Saturday because of property damage from severe storms and flash floods caused by tropical storm

The declaration includes six counties -Harris, Jefferson, Brazoria, Galveston, Orange and Chambers.

Carter's action permits use of federal relief funds for temporary housing assistance and low-interest loans from the Small Business Administration and the Farmers Home Administration.

The White House named former Texas congressman Dale Milford was federal coordinator of relief aid. A spokesman said Milford will set up a Federal Emergency Management Agency headquarters in Houston.

More than 15,000 homes were damaged, and at least six deaths were blamed on the storm, including those of five Baptists who drowned Friday when their bus was knocked into a flooded creek near Centerville, 120 miles northwest of Houston.

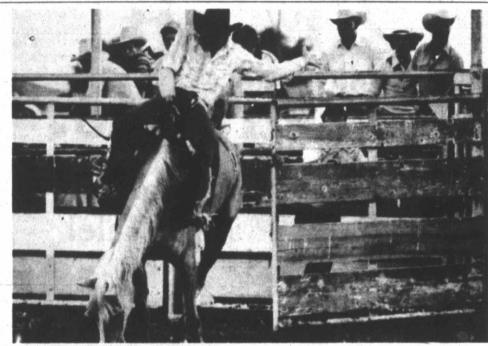

In Washington, President Carter declared the six hardest hit counties of southeastern Texas a major disaster area, allowing federal relief funds for housing assistance and low-interest loans from the Small Business Admnistration and the Farmers Home Administration

Gov. Bill Clements asked President Carter to add Matagorda and Hardin counties to the disaster declaration.

Clements said damage throughout the area could total $750 million, and insuranace industry officials estimated that privately insured flood and wind losses were $11.4 million.

SECRETARIES may seem to belong to the office, rather than in a discussion of home interiors...but they perform almost as necessary a function in the home as in any busy office.

We mean, of course, not the kind of secretary who files her nails and takes dictation, but one of those tall, elegant desks with enough cubbyholes, small and large drawers, shelves and space to handle all the everyday bills, notes, correspondence, photos, etc., that the average household quickly accumulates.

Every home needs a functional desk for the everyday "business" of writing letters, paying bills, keeping records and the like. Yet this piece of furniture is too often an afterthought. It might well be ng the first essentials you should choose.

The tall secretary is an ideal choice, and there are styles to suit almost any decor (you won't go wrong using a handsome period secretary in a smartly contemporary room). But there are many other handsome desk styles that will also work beautifully in your displays...along with everything for your home, from distinctive

Investigator probing plane crash

CHRISTIANSTED, St. Croix (AP) — The chief federal investigator probing Tuesday's commuter plane crash said Saturday his staff will tear down the ill-fated plane's engines to determine whether the fuel system caused the

The crash killed eight persons, including five Americans from Clyde. Texas. Thirteen other persons were injured.

Robert Burgin, who heads the 25-man National Transportation Safety Board investigation, said Friday he found that at takeoff the plane weighed 13.508 pounds, which is 1,008 pounds more than its maximum and 1.134 pounds more than stated on the departure manifest.

The Puerto Rico International Airlines (Prinair) four-engine De Haviland Heron en route from St. Croix to St. Kitts crashed upon takeoff from the Alexander Hamilton Airport

Part of the NTSB team was meeting in Puerto Rico Saturday with Prinair officials concerning the airline's weights and balance procedures. Burgin said.

Airport personnel reportedly observed the plane to be tail-heavy as it taxied for takeoff.

Burgin said the investigation has been delayed because the team has not been able to interview the pilot. Jose Rivera, currently hospitalized in the Veteran's Administration Hospital in Puerto Rico. He is still too weak to met with the team, a hospital physician said

The cause of the crash will not be known for some time but Rivera's account of the mishap could speed up the crash team's report. Burgin

The team, due to stay in this U.S. territory through early next week, said they had not interviewed the crash survivors yet. Some pasengers have told reporters that they felt the plane lurch from side to side as it was taking off while others said they heard a loud bang

Authorities from Charles Harwood Memorial Hospital in Christiansted said four of the injured. Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Fuchs of New York City. Gilbert Webster of St. Croix and Roland Joseph of Antigua, were released Friday.

AUSTIN, Minn. (AP) — Sheriffs in two states are feuding over a bad check for $3.39 that resulted in five days in jail for a woman, $445 in expenses for a county and a round of official buck-passing Sheriff Wayne Goodnature of Mower County, Minn. says if his colleagues in Henry County, Mo., had told him how small the check was, he never would have bothered to jail the woman on a fugitive warrant. Henry County Sheriff Wilbur Schmidt says nobody over tells him the details of these kinds of cases; he just goes ahad and passes along fugitive warrants for fugitives. That sheriff is completely out of shape,'

Schmidt said Saturday. "I'll sue." Goodnature said

Ramona VanOster, a former Austin resident.

was a free woman after Goodnature's office sent a check for the $3.39 to Henry County along with a bill for $24 in costs for the warrant.

Goodnature said it cost $445 to keep the woman in the Mower County Jail for five days last week during extradition proceedings. The warrant said she was charged with the felony of writing a check on a closed account, but the amount was never mentioned.

After Mower County Assistant Attorney Charlotte Peterson contacted Missouri authorities and learned the amount, County Judge Roger Plunkett dismissed the warrant.

"I feel I've been used. I'm willing to serve warrants for other jurisdictions, but for this?" a steaming Goodnature said Friday. "That sheriff in Missouri is going to get a bill for this, and if he doesn't pay it, I'll sue them.'

The oil companies, in particular, chalked up strong gains. Texaco posted a 132 percent gain over the second quarter last year; Getty a 149 percent increase; and Standard Oil of California 61 percent, to cite three examples from among the concerns that made their reports this past week.

Of course, it could be argued that the oil companies are a special case, and that the same factors working in their favor - soaring oil prices and fuel-supply problems - are likely to depress the profits of many other industries.

Flight for airline to end

HOUSTON (AP) - Texas International announced Saturday an agreement that ends a 13-month battle with Pan American World Airways for control of National Airlines.

Jim O'Donnell, Texas International vice president-marketing programs, said his airline would sell its stock in National - about 25 percent - to Pan Am for $50 a share in two lots. When the sales are complete. Pan Am will have about 76 percent of National's stock, he said.

Frank Lorenzo, president of Texas International, said, "I believe that this agreement with Pan American is in the best interests of Texas International, its employees and stockholders. "In light of the Civil Aeronautics Board's preliminary approval of the Pan Am-National merger, which has also been approved by National shareholders, further pursuit of our acquisition efforts would not be in our best interests.

Spending spawns

new group HUNTINGTON, W.Va. (AP) - Convinced that irresponsible spending by the federal government is the cause of inflation, area leaders launched "Proposition 9 Cents" Saturday to "pound some cents into Congress."

The campaign's idea is simple: Collect nine pennies from each of 250,000 area residents, load the four tons of coins into a coal truck and drive them to Washington. The money will be given to the Treasury Department to help reduce the government's $800 billion debt by $22,500.

The nine cents represent the value a dollar lost last year to inflation.

The sponsors hope their idea will catch on in other areas, creating enough attention to force Congress to curb government spending.

"The nine cents idea is a gimmick to grab people's attention about a very serious national problem," said John McCormack, a Huntington advertising man who designed the campaign.

"Every one of us is losing money because the federal government spends more while politicians tell us to live on less - and fuels inflation." McCormack said.

"Proposition 9 Cents" grew from a local bank's plan for a series of advertisements to educate people about inflation.

Criswell dynasty may last until death

Dallas Baptist church is 20,000 members strong

DALLAS (AP) - A chorus of 200 voices backed by a full orchestra swells to an explosive finish. The audience bursts into applause punctuated by "Amens" and "Praise the Lords."

The man in white stands. There is silence. He strides to a pulpit flanked by microphones and beams into the four television cameras trained on his unlined face. He bows his head and 2.500 members of the congregation follow suit.

Dr. W.A. Criswell - pastor of the largest Southern Baptist Church in the world, spearhead of admittedly ultra-conservative Bible teachings, commander of a multi-million-dollar religious empire, overwhelming influence on the spiritual lives of more than 20.000 worshippers - is completely at home:

The Criswell dynasty at First Baptist Church of Dallas is legendary.

The membership roster at First Baptist Church of Dallas is sprinkled with the famous, in both the religious and secular worlds. Evangelist Billy Graham has been a member since 1953. After converting from Catholicism, Dallas Cowboys place kicker Rafael Septien became the church's 20,000th member earlier this year. That same night. commentator Paul Harvey became the 20,001st member.

At the age of 70 and on the eve of his 35th anniversary at the helm of the church - his 51st year as a preacher - Criswell shows no signs of slowing down. In fact, he is being touted as a candidate for the presidency of the Baptist World Alliance ("The only feather he does not have in his cap," said one local Baptist) and says he is going stronger than ever.

Perhaps that is why speculation abounds in the Southern Baptist Convention that Criswell will never retire. and will die in the pulpit. It is speculation Criswell does not

"I believe in what I try to do. I want to do what I do all my life. I have just loved doing it," he said, repeating a phrase he has used often from the pulpit. "I would rather do what I do for nothing, than do what anybody else does for money.'

In keeping with that philosophy, and his uncanny flair for publicity. Criswell announced five years ago that he will give back "every penny" he has ever earned at First Baptist — a figure he estimates is in excess of $600,000. He said he has been plowing his salary back into the church since that time, and has "consummated my plèdge in my will.' Income in the six-figure realm may sound like a lot to a country preacher, even to the pastor of a large urban church. But for First Baptist, it is a mere pittance.

Business director Gene Clowe said the church already has gone over its $5 million budget for 1979, and projects the budget will exceed $6 million next year. In the latest of a series of building projects, the church is about to construct a parking garage with a price tag between $5 million and $6 million.

With the kind of money First Baptist commands, it is not unexpected that its ministry is vast and varied. That ministry follows precisely the thinking of Criswell, known to everyone as The Pastor.

Under Criswell's leadership, the church has become an almost all-encompassing force in the lives of many members.

The 15 grades of Sunday School classes have an enrollment of more than 11,000. The classes are set up so that theoretically, an expectant mother could enroll her unborn child in a Cradle Roll class, and that child could continue study

There are special classes ior Japanese members and the Chinese, Koreans, the underprivileged and the deaf have their own pastors. There are special classes for the Movies occasionally play in mentally handicapped and for doctors, nurses and other medical personnel. There is even a special silent paging system in the sanctuary for doctors and each service is for deaf members. A complicated radio-television hook-up broadcasts services to overflow congregations via closed-circuit television and local stations have aired the Sunday services for years. Two specially-built control booths and four cameras are operated by volunteers.

interpreted into sign language

The church sponsors a full-time music director who coordinates an orchestra, a group that plays handbells, and more than 15 choirs. He also directs a lavish "Family Night" program at the State Fair Music Hall each fall.

The high school choir has traveled around the world and the music division cuts several records each year. Music director Gary Moore said he can robe "something like" 16,000 singers. There are more than 100 pianos in various Sunday School

For recreation, the church owns two gymnasiums, an indoor track, a sauna, steam bath, whirlpool, racquetball courts and a bowling alley.

· church auditoriums. But all that is not enough for -Criswell, who would like the church "to consume the interest of every individual in the church.

"My idea of a church is one that reaches all aspects of a family ... all the interests, avocations in their life (would be) the church," he said.

"You can't do that without a tremendous outlay. To have a program for reaching these people, and there are thousands of them, is an enormous expenditure.

First Baptist is unique, even when compared with other big business churches, in that it is located in the heart of downtown Dallas. In fact, the church is one of downtown's largest property owners, holding the title on about six blocks of prime land and multi-story buildings. including its first sanctuary. which has been declared a historic landmark by the state of Texas. "On the books, the total church property is worth about $18 million," Clowe said, "But in million and $50 million.

Because of the tax-exempt status afforded churches, First Baptist paid only $150,000 in property taxes last year on the few spaces it rents to businesses and a local university.

The two schools started by Criswell, the First Baptist Academy and the Criswell Center for Biblical Studies, pay no rent for the space they occupy in church-owned buildings. While the chools teach what Criswell calls bedrock Southern Baptist fundamentalism and are populated heavily with its members, they are operated separately from the church

First Baptist is funded entirely by contributions from its 20,000-plus members, who give to the church in a spectacular service every spring. Contributions have far exceeded the budget every single year since Criswell came to Dallas from Oklahoma.

"This year, the gifts. including tithing, the building fund and special gifts, will total close to $7 million," Clowe said.

THE FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH of Dallas is the largest Southern Baptist Church in thw world. Located in downtown Dallas, the church is funded entirely by contributions from its 20.000-plus members, who give to the church in a spectacular service every year.

Heavy rains from Claudette reduce rice yeilds

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) - Heavy rains from tropical storm Claudette have reduced the rice yields along the upper Texas coast, according to Dr. Daniel C. Pfannstiel of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Harvesting had been under way in some areas, he said.

Meanwhile, the wheat harvest is virtually complete in the Panhandle, and record yields have been reported in parts of the plains and North Texas, particularly on dryland. The sorghum crop has been good in South Texas and the Coastal Bend. Good yields also are expected in the cotton and corn harvests now are getting into full swing there. Scattered rains over parts of the state are continuing to give a boost to crops and forages, Pfannstiel said, although some areas need moisture. Dryland sorghum is beginning to suffer from lack of moisture in some central and western counties.

Forage looks good in most areas except for a few dry spots and grasshopper damage in the plains. Gasshopper control programs are

Hay production has been good and second cuttings are being baled, with prospects good for additional cuttings, Pfannstiel said. Third cuttings of alfalfa are being harvested in western areas.

The continuing peach harvest is netting a generally good crop, both in quality and quantity.

Fall vegetable preparations are active in the Rio Grande Valey and Winter Garden, Pfannstiel said.

Reports from district Extension agents showed the following conditions:

PANHANDLE: Wheat harvest is virtually complete, with above-average yields. Cotton is squaring and corn and sorghum look good. Onions and potatoes are being harvested in Deaf Smith County. Pastures and ranges look good although grasshoppers continue to cause some damage

SOUTH PLAINS: Cotton is growing well though late. Most fields are squaring, with early fields blooming. Wheat harvest is complete, with good yields. Sugar beets, soybeans, corn and sunflowers look good. Some vegetables are being harvested. Peach harvesting is active in Gaines County. Grasshoppers remain a problem in ranges.

ROLLING PLAINS: Scattered rains have helped cotton and sorghum. Cotton is about three weeks late. The wheat harvest is complete, with yields ranging from 20 to 66 bushels per acre. Some third cuttings of alfalfa are under way, with excellent yields. Gasshoppers continue to damage ranges and are now moving into

NORTH CENTRAL: Wheat harvest is virtually complete, with yields averaging 28 to 32 bushels per acre, the best since 1973. Most crops look good though insects are heavy in cotton. Peach harvesting continues, and pecans look good. Second cuttings of hay are in NORTHEAST: The wheat crop is thebest in years, and corn and sorghum look good. Good quality peaches are being harvested, and pecans looks good. Forage and livestock conditions are good. Diesel and gasoline supplies are tight.

FAR WEST: Recent heavy rains damaged some crops, but the moisture will help dryland crops, pastures and ranges. Potatoes and cabbage are being harvested in El Paso County, and melon and cantaloupe harvesting is nearly complete in Presidio County. Some lambs and calves continue to move to market.

WEST CENTRAL: Some locations received good rains which will boost dryland crops and ranges. Cotton is squaring, with insects light so far. About half the sorghum crop is headed. Baling of alfalfa hay continues. An excellent peach harvest is under way and pecans look good. Irrigation has been slowed by high cost and short supply of

Chicago capital of black business

CHICAGO (AP) — They call Chicago "the capital of black business in America," and black executives say it was built up thanks to black drive, black cooperation - and discrimination by whites. According to the magazine Black Enterprise, Chicago is home to three of the nation's top 10 black businesses, the two largest banks and two of the top four insurance companies. "Chicago is the center for black business in the United States," says Earl Graves, publisher and editor of the magazine. In talks at the National Urban League's annual convention last week and in interviews beforehand, black leaders cited several reasons for the strength of black business in Chicago.

A major factor cited was Chicago's record of discrimination - the city has sometimes been called the most segregated in the nation. Black leaders say this pushed blacks to build their businesses without much help from whites.

"It necessitated people setting up their own antities, being independent, being self-reliant," Graves said. "In some areas New York doesn't even begin to hold a light to Chicago."

Black leaders also pointed to the close-knit nature of the black business community in Chicago, as evidenced by the reaction to the failure of two black-owned banks earlier this month. A few hours after the banks were closed by federal and state officials, they were purchased by the Independence Bank of Chicago, the nation's largest black-owned bank. On Monday the two bank offices were open for business as usual.

'That was black history. That was a first," Graves said at an Urban League meeting.

Funeral services set for drowning victims

CLEVELAND, Texas (AP) — Separate funeral services were set for Sunday for Elizabeth Bazar and Pamela Fitch, both 14, who drowned with three other persons on a church bus when it was knocked into a flood-swollen creek

The body of David Williamson, 14, was taken from Centerville, where the accident occurred Friday, to San Antonio where his grandparents live. Services were set for Tuesday morning.

Funeral plans were incomplete for Wayne McGee, 31, and his wife Betty, 30, of Splendora, about eight miles from Cleveland. McGee was driving the small bus, one of two van-type buses carrying members of Cleveland's First Baptist Church to a youth conference in New Mexico. But he had stopped on Texas 7 because it was blocked by flash floodwaters at the Beaver Creek crossing A truck carrying chickens struck McGee's van, knocking it into the creek. Seven persons managed to get out and swim to safety.

Associate Pastor Shafer Parker, who was in the other 15-passenger bus, said most of the survivors of McGee's bus "kind of rescued themselves. Three bodies were recovered in the bus when it was hauled out of the creek. Two bodies were carried downstream about a quarter of a The truck driver. Bobby Lee Smith, 23, of Lufkin, was charged with criminal negligent homicide. Department of Public Safety officer Ronald Wood said Smith crested a hill leading to the Beaver Creek bridge, passed a car in the caravan, and apparently was unable to Wood said the truck brushed an oncoming car, hit McGee's bus, knocking it into the water, and then hit a trailer attached to Parker's bus.

Germany leaves pleasant memories

"I don't want it to sound like a dream, but ..."

Tracy Rice found herself apologizing for a dreamy description of her American Field Service trip to Germany.

However. Rice has no regrets about the good times she had and is anxious to return to Germany, where an AFS host family took her into their home in the village of Klein - Rheide.

Rice had gone to the northern German village a year ago with no prior knowledge of its native language or its people. She returned to the United States last week with some affluency in the language and memories built around some holiday and leisure time experiences.

Her host family had spoken the German language a majority of the time and thus enabled her to learn it more quickly. "I dreamed in German," she said and explained the dream probably was an indication of learning the language well.

Surprisingly, her Christmas was devoid of any homesickness, she said and added that she had been given some nice gifts. "They gave me wooden shoes (the German kind), woolen sweaters and other typical German possessions.'

The large Christmas dinner served with wine was complemented with the largest snow covering the village had had in years, she said. School was cancelled several days because of the large amount of snowfall, she added.

Phingsten, a holiday honoring Christ's ascension to heaven after the resurrection, gave Rice a couple of free days to sail on the Baltic

Sea in a friend's yacht. Rice later participated in the jubilation of Keil Week, which attracts people from around the world to the city for sailboat racing.

The town had parties day after day, she said. On free days, Rice's host family exposed her to the larger German cities such as Hamburg, Muenster, Frankfurt and Nunberg.

Her favorite, Nunberg, was a Bavarian city with old castles surrounded by legend, she said.

The print of a horse's hoof is molded in a gulley about 1000 feet below Nunberg's Aldstadt Castle, she said, and supposedly was imprinted when a mounted prisoner of the stone structure dropped into the valley to escape.

For entertainment, *several evenings were spent chatting with friends at a local pub or hopping at the "Wagenrad." a discotheque. she said

Even school time was part of the good times despite Rice's deficiency of the German language. Teachers expected little from her because of the language deficiency, she said, and one class, English, assigned to her some enjoyable British novels and other literature. The tension of learning another language was ended when Rice was placed in a third graders' German class. The children, who she remembered as "darlings." enjoyed a new person in their room.

As for physical fitness, no extracurricular activities were offered toward its development, although physical education is a required course, she said. However, some athletic events occurred after the daily, five - hour classes ending at 1 p.m., she said.

Rice participated in gymnastics, while her host sister played German handball, a game resembling soccer with the exception that hands are used in it. "I played with the handball team a lot," she

Fun and games and just a plain good time prevailed in all Rice's memories of Germany. Furthermore, she still was able to meet her trip's goal of finding and making a better Tracev Rice.

"I became more independent and sure of myself," she said. "That is important to me.

She also remembered the cultural experience as invaluable and said, "You learn you can't generalize.

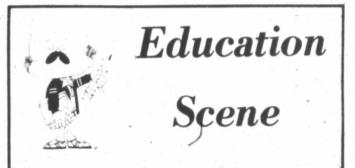

"Germans are ordinary people" who vary in their lifestyles as much as Americans do, she said, and stereotypes of cultures are inconsistent with real life people.

However, she did find that Germans had one enjoyably unique cultural trait - a serving of coffee and cake every day. "It was delicious, but fattening," she said. Her German dream of pleasant times has another added sweetness. Five of her German friends returned to the United States with her and will be visiting for a short while She concluded with the hope that she could make her friends' stay as enjoyable as her visit was.

COLLEGE STATION -Cooperative education in engineering at Texas A&M University usually means extra money for students on graduation, according to a recent survey

"Students who receive degrees in engineering with cooperative education experience start at better salaries," says Dr. Charles A. Rodenberger, assistant dean of engineering.

He found in a survey of companies who recruit engineers from Texas A&M that "co-op" participation leads to $600 to $1,200 a year more in starting salaries.

Cooperative education combines a student's college studies with institutionally supervised work experience with cooperating organizations.

A&M's Colleges of Agriculture. Architecture and Environmental Design. Liberal Arts. Science and Veterinary Medicine (biomedical science) also have embraced the work study program.

Alternates were also selected. They are: Regina Benyshek. Douglas Eubanks and Ruth Wood.

Research shifting to energy

WASHINGTON (AP) - World governments are beginning to shift their scientific research priorities to energy and other socially beneficial goals, but military programs still take the biggest share, says a research group study.

The report released Saturday by Worldwatch Institute, a private, non-profit organization focusing on global trends, said $150 billion is spent annually around the world on research and development.

"But military R&D swallows up about one-fourth of this investment - three times the amount devoted to the development of new energy technologies, and more than is spent on energy. health, food production and environmental protection combined." the report said.

Solutions coming for energy needs?

HOUSTON (AP) — W.T. Slick Jr. says solutions will soon take shape once Americans accept the fact an energy problem really exists.

The citizenry has to be rallied to the cause," said the Exxon Co. USA senior vice president

"Hopefully, that process has been set in motion."

Slick said President Carter laid out an ambitious program in his energy messages

"Whether all his goals are fully attainable is less important than the president's determination to meet the energy problem head on.'

There can be disagreement about the specifics and emphasis of policy, but none about the need to take action. Slick said there is need now for a united national effort to deal realistically "with the situation this country has gotten itself into." We have become dependent on other countries for almost 50 percent of our crude oil supply." he said.

The fundamental cause of gasoline lines, he said, is a crude oil shortage and supply shortfall complicated by substantially increased demand for gasoline.

"The reality of the situation is Americans want more petroleum products, including gasoline, than can be obtained from the crude oil. supplies we have available," Slick said.

Although the supply outlook fluctuates almost weekly, we have scant hopes for a miraculous increase in supply. Slick said there are several things that can be done right now, at no great expense, to reduce the ever-increasing dependency on high cost foreign oil. They start with conservation," he said.

This means, he added, obeying the 55-mile speed limit, moderate thermostat settings, inducing airlines to carry more passengers, and intensifying production and use of the domestic energy resources now available, such as the substitution of coal for oil wherever possible, especially in power plants.

People:

The "drag" — merely a strip of pavement running from Hobart to Francis to Cuyler to Foster and back to Hobart again.

It looks like downtown between the hours of 8 and 5 — housewives shopping, gossipping and frantically fighting for a place to park. But at 8 p.m. the area becomes a 'teen heaven.' Just like Dr. Jeckyl and Mr. Hyde the hustle and bustle of downtown turns into the horn honking and laughter of "the drag."

Why exactly do teenagers go on the drag?
"There's nothing else to do. There's no where else where you can see all of your friends," says Robert Sykes, 18. Janet Hill, 17, added that the only reason she was out was to "see everybody."

However, many think the drag has slowed down considerably. "It's relly not as much fun as it was when I was in school," says Wesley Drake, 19. "But when we used to come out, we had lots of places to park and talk. Now, most of the merchants on the drag have forbid any parking on their property because of vandalism. I guess they have a point. Nobody wants to clean up the beer cans and stuff before they can open up their store."

Charlie Douthit, a fireman at the Central Fire Department on West Foster said, "I've watched them a long time and I think it has slowed down a lot lately. I'm not sure if the fun is gone out of it or if the gas shortage is just making it nard for the kids to keep driving around."

Granted, the gas shortage could be an enormous factor in the sudden loss of interest. However, there are still plenty of kids spending hundreds of dollars a year driving around and around in a circle. One 17-year-old girl said she probably used a tank of gas a week just riding around.

There is also a slight problem now about parking on the drag. Many merchants have had to put up signs and rope off their parking lots because of the litter that was left.

"For two years I had told the kids about the beer bottles, cans and trash that was left on my lot and lawn," said David Hunter, manager of DeLoma Real Estate at 421 W. Francis. "I love the kids and it really tears me up to see the good kids punished for what maybe a five percent minority does."

Personnel at Security Federal finally had to rope off their parking lot because of the litter that was left for them to pick up.

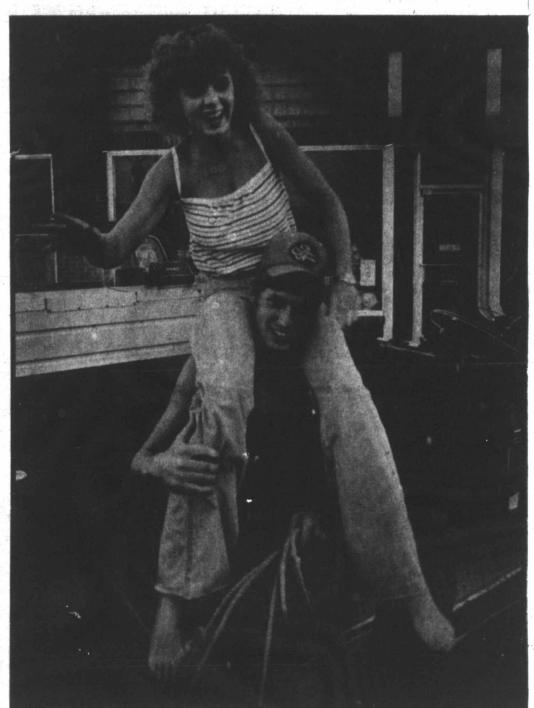

"We had to come up here early every morning to clean up the mess that was left." said manager Roy Sparkman.

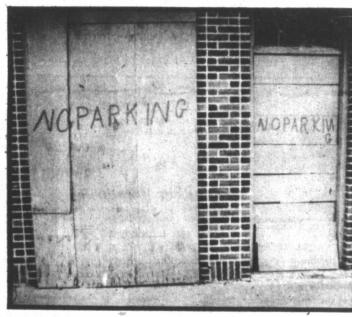

The shooting death of Jess Walker on the drag last summer was enough to make a lot of kids stay off the streets. "None of my friends are out anymore," said Ed Sackett. 18. "They're all afraid of getting shot."

Sgt. Charles Morris of the Pampa Police Department discussed the problem of the drag and the teenagers. "I was a kid once myself and I know for a fact that these young people need a place to go and meet their friends. But some of the kids abuse others' rights and property and in that case, we have to enforce the law. It's only a small percentage of the kids who cause trouble, but we can't just stand by and let it happen."

Morris added that he'd rather see all of the teenagers on the drag rather than somewhere else so he'd know that they were around and safe. "We don't even mind the beer drinking. We just don't want the drunkeness and violence."

"I think the drag is a good thing." Morris said in summation. "The kids need it. With a little cooperation from them, I think maybe we can eventually make everything work out."

Amazing as it may seem, a needy family in Pampa can enjoy a holiday feast next December because of an Englishman's 19 - century vision.

The Salvation Army, founded in London in 1865, blindly is seen by many as a population that only comes alive during the Christmas season, appearing at Pampa storefronts and on street corners to collect donations and ring the timbrels.

But the army, a project of the United Way, daily plays a visible role in Pampa's religious and social communities.

"In the states there's a much larger social program than in a lot of your countries," says Cadet David L. Bowers, on summer assignment in Pampa. "The religion is very vital but we have a large social aspect in the United States

He notes that social work in Pampa is more limited than in many cities, but adds that the army - often called the corps - handles many cases referred by the local ministerial alliance, churches, and welfare denomination," explains Cadet Bowers. "It was derived from the Methodist Church. That happened in 1865 in London, where William

"The Salvation Army is a church of Protestant

Booth, a Methodist minister, had a dream. "He had a vision of some great social plan," says the soul if he was hungry, established a Christian mission in East London, providing "the three S's" - soup, soap and salvation. The Englishman's energies expanded to the United States in 1880, when the "Seven Hallelujah Lassies" accompanied by a chaperone, docked in Philadelphia and set about to spread Booth's ideals.

About a third of the local Salvation Army budget is provided for by the United Way. The corps, a non profit organization, also is funded through private donations, holiday collections and proceeds from the local thrift store.

Commanding officer of the Pampa corps is Lieutenant David Craddock, who at present is vacationing with his wife, Cherry, also is a lieutenant.

The Craddocks coordinate the army's local activities, which include a morning worship service and an evening salvation meeting on Sunday, children's and youth programs, and a women's league. The group also helps with housing and grocery needs

Called on to help during times of disaster, the Craddocks assisted with relief efforts in Wichita Falls after its tragic tornado this spring.

Patterned after the miliary, the Salvation Army structure includes a two - year officers' training school in Atlanta. Cadet Bowers, who has completed the first year of intensive study, next year will graduate as an ordained minister, with a commission as a lieutenant.

William Booth's social and religious dream now has expanded to 82 countries.

DEAR READERS: If you have no interest in improving your health, losing weight, or feeling better about yourself, skip this column. It will bore you.

If you're still reading, have I got an exercise for you! Just plain, old - fashioned walking. Walking improves cir digestion, eases tension, burns calories and, praise the Lord, conserves gasoline. It's less strenuous than jogging or running, and will do just as much for you.

Walking requires no lessons, no skills, no costly equipment, and you don't have to join a club to do it. All you need is a pair of good walking shoes. (Any old pair of comfortable shoes will not do.) Invest in some quality, lightweight running shoes with crepe soles to cushion the shock created by constantly pounding the concrete.

I know you've been walking for a long time, but if you want to start off on the right foot, you should know that there is a right and wrong way to walk for better health and exercise.

Dr. Charles Kuntzleman, in his book. 'The Complete Book of Walking," says. "Each foot should strike the ground at the heel, allowing your weight to be transferred from the heel up along the outer border of the foot toward the toes. Then push off with your toes to complete the foot - strike pattern. As you move from heel to toe you will develop a rolling motion. Avoid landing flat - footed on the balls

When you walk, keep your chin up, head high and back straight. And let your arms swing naturally.

It doesn't matter whether you take long strides or short ones. Take the size steps that feel comfortable to you, but do try to work up to a peppy rhythm and stick to it.

If you're walking for exercise, don't stop to window shop, do errands or visit.

While walking, breathe naturally. It doesn't matter whether your mouth is open or closed, but the faster you walk, the more oxygen you'll need. If you're walking with a partner, you should be able to carry on a normal conversation. And in case you're wondering, yes, you should be able to walk and chew gum at the same time.

Walking should be painless. If you notice any chest pains, neck or back pains, slow down. If the pain persists, see your doctor.

If your heart starts to beat too fast, or you feel lightheaded or dizzy, take it easy. You're pushing yourself too hard.

If you're a beginner and very much overweight, don't wear yourself out walking. And don't try to tackle hills and steep inclines. Walking should be enjoyable — not exhausting. And perhaps I should mention here that walking is not for everybody. If you're not in good normal health, ask your doctor if you should join the walkers.

Distance is important: if you've never walked for exercise, start by walking a mile a day on a flat surface. Then build up to two miles. The ideal daily walk is three miles per day. (More is better.) Try to walk every day. If you can't manage that, force yourself to walk at leas' four times a week for at least 30 minutes. First the good news: studies show that half an hour of steady, brisk walking will burn from 180 to 250 calories. So without changing your eating habits, 180 half - hour walks per year can whittle 15 pounds off your frame. Now for the bad news: If you "reward" yourself with a hot fudge sundae you will have to walk from five to six hours to make up for it! Some people find walking a bore. If you do, recruit some walking partners. Or take a pocket radio along for company If you develop foot problems - blisters, aching arches, "hot spots" that burn your feet - your shoes are wrong. See a podiatrist and follow his instructions Walking (as well as running and jogging) is now the "in" thing for us formerly lazy Americans, and it's high time. The Harris Poll found that half the people in the United States don't get enough exercise. And 47 percent of those polled gave "lack of time" as the reason for their failure to exercise, while others said frankly it was 'lack of concern'

According to a recent article in the Minneapolis Star, we are the best - fed nation on earth, yet our males rank 22nd in life expectancy and our females rank 10th in the world.

If that doesn't get you off your duffs. in men 40 years of age the U.S. ranks 37th in life expectancy. compared with an 11th - place ranking

But cheer up. The fat - fighters, the cardiologists - in fact, the entire medical establishment - sees walking as the best alternative for non - exercisers, many of whom are contributing to the grim statistics quoted above.

So, shape up. America! If you're not already doing something about keeping fit, join the pedestrians and put your best foot forward - again and again and again. I am!

Now I can't vouch for what your doctor said to you but I would like to point out that a person can have very good personal recent times, there's been an epidemic of scabies in all strata of society.

You can get scabies from contact with anyone who has them or from bed linen or towels that have been contaminated. Even the family pets may pass the mites

That's why it's so important if there is someone in the family who has scabies to clean all of the linen, all the towels and all the clothing. Any clothing that can't be washed should be dry cleaned or at least put into the dryer at high temperature for 45 minutes.

At the same time all these measures are taken to kill any of the mites that might be on any substance that has contact with the body, you make an effort to treat the skin itself. A common treatment is Kwell. After hygiene and still develop scabies. In fact, in all the medicine has been applied as prescribed, then you can put on the clean noninfested clothing.

It's entirely possible that you could have picked up the mite from bed clothing or other materials around an apartment house if someone lived there who was infested with scabies.

Use home-drying methods

County Extension Agent

DRYING FRUITS AND VEGETABLES AT Drying food is one of the oldest and simplest methods of food preservation. As foods dry. water is removed and yet the food is not cooked. The low water content prevents bacteria from spoiling the food. Characteristics of dried food are a shriveled appearance, the nutritional content is concentrated and vitamin A and C may be lost. Drying does not replace canning or freezing, but is a useful method.

Popular fruits dried at home are peaches, apples, apricots, berries, cherries, dates, figs, grapes, nectarines, pears and plums. Vegetables include peas, beans, green and red chili peppers, corn, onions, pumpkin, squash and herbs

Successful drying depends on enough heat to draw out the moisture, but not enough to cook the food; dry air to absorb the released moisture; and air circulation to carry off the moisture.

The methods of drying most often used are sun, oven, solar heater and dryer boxes. For sun or oven drying, shallow wooden trays with slatted bottoms or a frame covered with wire ( do not used galvanized screen net or cheesecloth work well

You will need some basic equipment such as an oven thermometer which registers 120 degrees, a steamer and storage containers. Glass jars or plastic bags work well. Coffee cans should be lined with plastic wrap. You will also need a good cookbook such as "Drying Foods at Home" -MP1209, available free from the County Extension Office

Select the highest quality, ready - to - eat product. If its perfect for eating, it's perfect for drying. Handle the food gently and process quickly. Gently wash to remove dirt, bacteria and insect larvae. Cold water will preserve freshness. Wash just before processing and do not let fruit remain in water for long periods as some of the nutrients will be dissolved and lost. Fruits with skins, such as cherries or prunes. must be washed particularly well. Insect larvae cannot be seen on fresh fruit, but may hatch after the fruit has been dried and stored unless they are washed off before drying

Basic steps to dry foods include preparing the food according to the recipe directions, pre treating to prevent discoloration, drying.

school associated with an American oil company conditioning and rehydrating.

Whatever method of drying is used, remember that cleanlinss and safety are important throughout he process. The quality of the finished product can be no better than the quality of the product of the raw material from which it was made. The flavor of the dried fruits and vegetables will be different from the fresh, canned, or frozen counterparts.

One of our favorites is fruit leather. Fruit leather is a chewy fruit product made of pureeing fresh, canned or frozen fruit to a smooth thick liquid which is poured onto a flat surface. As the puree slowly dries, it takes on a leather - like appearance and texture. When dry. fruit leather can be pulled off the drying surface and still hold its shape.

Fruit leather is perfect for lunch boxes during the winter when fresh fruit is expensive or unavailable. Try this recipe:

STRAWBERRY LEATHERS

5 cups halved strawberries one - fourth cup sugar or honey

Place strawberries, one cup at a time, in the blender. Puree strawberries until smooth. Stir in sugar. Line two 15 and one - half by 10 and one half inch jelly roll pans with plastic wrap. Secure edges with tape. Spread fruit puree evenly in pans. Place in 150 degree F. oven to dry. Leave oven door ajr approximately four inches. Place candy thermometer in back of oven. Check temperature periodically to be sure it is correct. If necessary, turn oven off for a while to reduce temperature. Rotate pans every two hours. The leather is dry when the surface is no longer sticky. (Drying time is six to 12 hours.) When dry, remove from oven. Remove plastic wrap. Let cool completely. When cool, rewrap in plastic wrap by rolling up like a jelly roll. Leathers can be stored at room temperature for one month; in refrigerator for three months and in freezer for a vear. Makes two leathers.

To store fruit leather, leave the rolls whole or cut them into four - to - six - inch pieces. Wrap each piece in plastic wrap. Place in a plastic bag or airtight container. Store in the refrigerator. For longer storage, place the bags in the freezer.

For more recipes and information on drying. stop by or call the County Extension Office. We have handouts on drying herbs and flowers in the microwave and recipes for fruit leather

MENDING MATURE MARRIAGE Anniversary is for each mate

By Louise Pierce

land. It will olish history. art and

> Wedding anniversaries are special times for couples at any age. But, most of all, they are an important link to married happiness after we reach middle - age and up. There's no husband wife twosome anywhere that cannot commemorate the day they became one instead of two, provided they want to. Presents can be lavish if you're rich, inexpensive if you're poor. You can eat out in style or at home with only happy memories for your shared gift. Your presence together is present enough. But ignoring the day can be a major disappointment to one of you. A birthday belongs to only one person. But a wedding anniversary is for the two

When we were a Depression bride and groom. there was no money for gifts. We were lucky to pay the bills. On our second anniversary, I hadn't a dime. But I found some goods that a family member had given me and it looked big enough to make the pajamas that Otis needed to replace his old ones that were getting threadbare. I had no pajama pattern but that did not deter me. I used the old ones for a pattern and whacked away. The outcome must have been ludicrous. The legs were not the same length, the sleeves were negligible and there was no collar at all. But Otis exclaimed over the gift and wore it to shreds. He brought me a jewelry box that he'd made from scrap lumber, all sanded and varnished and beautiful. No possession has ever meant more to me.

Our 42nd anniversary, not too long ago, was celebrated in splendor. But the beginning was not really auspicious. The Rotary Club here always entertains members' wives during their anniversary week. But since Wednesday is also Otis' golf day, he said, that morning, "We're playing early so I'd better wear my golf clothes and slip out as soon as I can." I didn't mean to seem disappointed and I didn't say a word, but I must have looked my feelings. When he stopped for me to attend the meeting, he kept on his good clothes. He introduced me to the boys, stayed through the entire program, brought me home -and played only half an afternoon of golf! That night we had dinner at a club, with flowers and friends and fancy food, climaxed by a decorated cake and champagne. As we danced The Anniversary Waltz, I thought, I'm getting more important to him all the time. This is the first time he ever preferred me to golf!

Some of the letters I get about personal neglect are sad. I hope one of them will urge you to feel happy that you are still with your long - loved mate on each successive anniversary.

DEAR LOUISE: We've been married 31 years and my husband has never once paid any attention to our day, April 20. I used to bake a cake and put the number of our years together on it. But he said, "That's silly. I'm still with you. That ought to be all you need." His mother never made any fuss over birthdays or anniversaries, not even much over Christmas. Our kids took their cues from Sim and they don't notice personal days either. I can do without even a card on my birthday, but when Sim won't let me celebrate our anniversary, I get upset. It's getting traumatic with me. Shall I leave him? UNHAPPY

DEAR UNHAPPY: No. not if you love him enough to find happiness in other ways. You must love each other, at least a litte, after 31 years together. Apparently he can't change, so you'll have to do the adjusting. Why not ignore his ignoring of your anniversaries and just be glad for every year you have together? You could have bigger problems, such as serious illness, death or poverty. Loving each other is really all that matters in marriage.

Write your problem to Louise Pierce, Box 616. Pampa, Texas 79065.

structured, body - hugging styles reminiscent of the '40s and '50s. The key word for fall's constructed, elegant tailoring is control.

Hair follows suit, with restrained, well - shaped styling, say the 12 hairdressers who form the Helene Curtis Hairstylists Advisory Board.

'For short or long lengths," explains Brenda Longhofer of Louisville, "it's the same silhouette: a small, narrow, close - to - the - head form. To achieve balance, proportion and contrast in the style, you have to control the movement of the hair.

According to the advisory board, "control" starts with well - conditioned, well - groomed hair. Grooming is especially crucial for longer lengths, says Rocco Altobelli of Minneapolis: "Long, straight, well - cared for hair is its own fashion statement. If it looks shiny

SOUND COUNTRY

Country music's long-time darling, Dolly Parton, continues to broaden her musical horizons. In addition to pulling her share of the country audience. Dolly has also tipped the top of the ladder in pop and disco music circles.

The Tennessee-born country-girl-made-good has won top honors in country music. She was the Country Music Association's 1978 Entertainer of the Year, the Academy of Country Music's Best Female Country Performer and was awarded a Grammy for her vocal performance of the platinum hit, 'Here You Come Again.'

Dolly will no doubt revive the Jerry Lee Lewis rock 'n' roll standard, 'Great Balls of Fire,' which is also the title song of her latest album.

The cuts, 'Sweet Summer Lovin' and 'Help,' show down-home country, but the rest of the album is cued to appeal to Dolly's pop and disco fol-

South coasts by North

won't be sinking one of his 30-foot bombs for at least a year in the

Riley scored 17 points and muscled down seven rebounds and Turner scored 23 points Friday night to lead the South to a record-smashing 114-88 victory over the North All-Stars in the Texas High School Coaches Association basketball game. The estimated crowd of 5,000 in Tarrant County Convention Center thrilled to the 6-foot-9 Riley's stratospheric rebounding and slam dunks while Turner hit on nine of 18 field goal attempts-several from the Dallas County line. Riley is Texas A&M bound much to the delight of Aggie Coach

Shelby Metcalf who was among the first on the floor to congratulate "Riley is the most multi-talented player in the state," said Texas Tech Coach Gerald Myers. "He is as good or better than any frontline kid in the country. He can play, right now." While Riley will be playing for the Aggies, it was a case of what might have been for the University of Texas. Turner signed a national letter-of-intent with Southern University but said later he wished he had gone to Texas.

"I'm going to Texas after I get one year in at Southern," said Turner. "Texas was the best school I visited. I made a mistake signing with Southern."

Turner was the most valuable player on the South team while David Reynolds of Perryton, who made six of nine field goal attempts for 12 points, was voted the North MVP.

Reynolds is going to Texas Tech and Myers said of the 6-6 forward: "We're mighty happy to have him. He is going to help us a lot. He's a

The 114 points established a new scoring record for one team. The old record of 109 was posted by the North last year. The North now leads the series 18-17.

The South built a 51-49 halftime lead then outscored the North 33-16 in the third quarter.

"I'm sure glad I produced because I had been making a lot of noise in practice." said Turner.

Vinson paces American qualifiers

2:05.24.

MOSCOW (AP) - Stan Vinson anchored the United States men's 1,600 meter relay team to an easy semifinal win at the Spartacade track and field competition on Saturday.

Vinson, a 27-year-old quarter-miler who won the gold medal in the men's 400 meters, held a comfortable lead over Nikolai Chernecky of the Soviet Union as he came down the homestretch, then clearly slowed near the finish.

The U.S. relay team was timed in 3:07.6.

Miler Craig Masbach of White Plains, N.Y., also took it easy in the semifinals of the men's 1,500 meters, qualifying for Sunday's final by placing third in his heat. Andreas Busse of East Germany won the heat in 3:41.70.

Masbach, who was third at Oslo two weeks ago when Sebastien Coe set the world record of 3:49, stayed with the pack throughout the heat and then emerged on the homestretch to secure qualification.

Benn Fields of the United States cleared 7-134 on his first try and easily qualified for the final of the men's high jump. The track and field competition ends Sunday with 10 finals in which the Americans were expected to collect more gold. They have won four events so far.

Two gold medals went to Soviet competitors on Saturday. Sergey Litvinov won the hammer throw at 252 feet 11 inches on his very first throw and Anita Stukane won the women's long jump at 21-1014. beating world record holder Vilma Bardauskiene, who was only fifth at 20-73/4.

AAU and Pan American champion Kathy McMillan of Raeford. N.C., won a consolation round at 21-6, which would have given her second place behind Stukane. She had failed on Friday to get through the qualifications.

McMillan had slumped to a poor 19-101/2 in Friday's qualifications. but she jumped consistently in the consolation round, scoring a personal best for this year.

In diving, Carrie Irish Finneran of Columbus, Ohio, won the silver medal in the three-meter springboard event, finishing behind Irina Kalinina of the Soviet Union.

Kalinina collected 654.495 points on her 10 dives at the new Soviet Navy swimming arena, while Finneran finished with 634.26 points. Tatyana Podmareva of the Soviet Union took the bronze medal with

Finneran was one of only three foreigners in the competition

Both the U.S. men's and women's basketball teams, playing in Vilnius, Lithuanina, scored victories after opening losses in the round-robin tournament. The men downed Yugoslavia 87-75 while the outpointed Alfred Mayes of St. Louis in a preliminary bout.

In boxing, light middleweight Victor Lisicyn of the Soviet Union

In swimming, Alexander Sidorenko of the Soviet Union set a European record of 2:03.46 for the men's 200 meters, close to the world record time of 2:03:29 set earlier this year by Jesse Vassallo of the United States. Sidorenko broke his own European record of

CHAMPION BOB GIESE drives off the 13th tee during Friday's final round of the Championship flight of the Tri State Senior golf tournament held at Pampa Country Club. The 57 - year - old Giese fired a 2 - under - par 69 to come from three strokes off the pace to win in his first - ever try at the event. (News photo by Randy Lightfoot)

Giese dominates Tri State field

By RANDY LIGHTFOOT News Sports Editor

Bob Giese of Amarillo used his chipping irons to perfection Friday as he carded his second two - under - par round of 69 in a row to come from back in the pack and claim the Tri State Senior olf tournament championship in his first try with a four round total of 285.

Giese had started the tournament six strokes off the pace with his opening round of 75 on Tuesday, but had steadily closed the gap on medalist and front - runner Harold DeLong and was tied for second with Web Wilder at 216 at the start of Friday's final round. DeLong had the lead he had held throughout the tourney at 213.

Playing in front of DeLong and Wilder, who tied for second at 290, the 57 - year - old "rookie" took the lead for good when he hit a 120 - yard nine iron into the cup for an eagle on the par 4 eighth hole. He made the turn after nine holes at a 3 under 32 to give him a 248 after 63 holes. DeLong, meanwhile,

After three rounds, DeLong was at even par, but took bogeys. on numbers 3, 4 and 8 and had a double bogey on number nine to fall out of contention. 'Oh my goodness, I'm glad that's over," a relieved, but elated Giese said following Friday's round. "I don't think I've missed so many short putts before in my life. I missed a six foot on number 2, four foot on 3 and a seven foot on 5. At that time I was still even par."

"I didn't feel any real pressure when I found out that I had such a big lead," he added. "I went to sleep on 10 and 11 (with bogeys) and was talking to myself on 12, but after that I started playing pretty well again.

Giese was the only linkster to break par during the warm and muggy final round. Defending champion Roy Peden was never in contention as he finished with a 75-293 for fourth.

In the President's flight, W.W. Gray came from one shot back to win the title with a 301 after carding a 74. Dick Roden, the third were Tom Morris and Chester Darnell at 306.

Jack Perry won the first flight with a 77 and Buck Mundy won consolation with a 79. The second flight winner was John Short with an 82 and the consolation trophy went to Pampa's Dr. Joe Donaldson with a fine 77.

D.D. McBride claimed the third flight title with a 76 and consolation was won by Wylie Reynlds at 81. Z. Steakley carded an 80 for the fourth flight championship and the consolation was taken by Dr. Boyd Stephens with a round of F.L. McAleavev fired a 76 to grab top honors in the fifth flight and V.R. Reeves turned in an 84 for the consolation title. The sixth flight was won by Paul Can with an 86 and Jim Hogland fired an 88 to claim the consolation bracket.

R.H. Will had a 91 for the seventh flight championship and leader going into Friday's round of 89 to claim the finished with a 77-303. tying for consolation division. E.D. Culberson won consolation with Simpson took top honors in the a 99.
