SALT II opponents make plea for changes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two of the most influential opponents of the strategic arms limitation treaty made a final plea to Congress today to make substantial changes in the pact or refuse to ratify it.

Paul Nitze, a former secretary of the Navy, and retired Army Lt. Gen. Edward L. Rowny, formerly the chief representative at the arms control talks for the Joint Chiefs of Staff, told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee they believe the SALT II pact is fatally flawed and should be amended.

Meanwhile, a Senate Foreign Relations Committee staff report said failure of the Senate to ratify SALT II might well damage the internal unity and military strength of the NATO alliance and would be a serious setback to plans to modernize allied theater nuclear forces in Europe.

Senior political figures in both England and Germany agreed in characterizing rejection of SALT II as a potential "disaster," the report said.

It quoted senior European political figures as saying the failure of SALT II would create a serious prejudice about the ability of the United States to conduct its own affairs and lead others.

And it portrayed Western European political leaders as anxious about growing Soviet military power on the continent and uncertain about the capacity of the United States to meet the Soviet challenge.

Because of that concern, the allies now regard the ratification of SALT II as a major test of U.S. reliability as leader of the West, the report said.

The study, written by John B. Ritch III and Alfred Friendly Jr., underpins the view of senior Carter administration officials who contend SALT II is seen by the allies as a necessary step toward managing the arms race, both on a world-wide basis and in Europe.

Secretary of State Cyrus Vance and Defense Secretary Harold Brown had been expected to make a final appearance in behalf of the treaty before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee but will appear Wednesday instead.

Sens. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., and Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., chairman and vice chairman, respectively, of the Senate Intelligence Committee, also will report then on their panel's report that ratification of SALT II would enhance the capability of the United States to monitor Soviet strategic activities limited by the pact.

The highly classified report on U.S. monitoring capabilities Goldwater and Bayh were presenting is the product of a two-year committee study.

A 10-page unclassified version, made public Friday, concluded that in the absence of the SALT II treaty, the Soviet Union "would be free to take more sweeping measures, such as unrestrained concealment and deception, which would make monitoring (its) strategic forces still more difficult."

The White House and the Defense Department said the report virtually ends the heated debate over whether or not Soviet compliance with the pact is verifiable.

No other alternative

Economists say Board's action aids recession

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Reserve Board's stepped-up attack on inflation should deepen the expected recession, say three leading economists. Yet, they add, there is no alternative.

Treasury Secretary G. William Miller, meanwhile, called the board's sweeping initiative "good news" and pledged to back the actions with other steps, if necessary.

He told a New Orleans bankers' convention Monday the United States is "determined" to maintain the dollar's stability around the world.

The Federal Reserve Board's action Saturday came as much to support the beleaguered dollar as to curb excessive use of credit, which fuels inflation.

The dollar did strengthen on world currency markets Monday, while the price of gold fell sharply.

The board's moves, including a hike in its bank lending rate from 11 percent to 12 percent, "guarantees" a recession, said Otto Eckstein, head of Data Resources Inc., of Cambridge, Mass. "But the truth is we need it."

He and Michael Evans of Evans Economics in Washington predicted the prime rate banks charge their best customers will reach 15 percent by December, compared with 13.5 percent now.

This would force many businesses to curtail hiring, cut production and lay off workers, they said.

George Perry of the Brookings Institution said, "The recession will be deeper than it might have been." But, he added, "The board didn't have a great deal of choice."

Miller said he does not believe the tight-money moves will deepen the recession, but he cautioned: "We are in the midst of a modest recession peculiar in shape. What we have to guard against is believing that a bounce back in the third quarter (July through September) means we are heading toward a nice recovery."

He pledged to "take other, complementary actions when and if appropriate," but he was not specific.

However, he rejected applying mandatory credit controls on consumers and businessmen as an anti-inflation step.

Credit controls could range from banning credit cards to setting minimum down payments for automobile purchases to limiting a business' ability to borrow.

Miller said current methods of dampening credit could work better than controls.

Besides imposing higher interest rates, the Federal Reserve Board is increasing reserve requirements on banks, which should shrink the funds they can loan.

New rate 14 1/2 percent

NEW YORK (AP) — Chase Manhattan Bank, the nation's third-largest bank, raised its prime lending rate a full percentage point to 14 1/2 percent today, a reaction to the government's credit-tightening moves announced over the weekend.

Other banks were expected quickly to follow Chase's action. The prime-lending rate has been rising steadily in past weeks, setting records with each increase. Only a month ago the rate was 12 1/2 percent.

The prime rate — the rate charged a bank's most credit-worthy corporate customers — does not directly affect consumer loan rates, which are limited by law in many states. But it is regarded to be an important indicator of trends in interest rates in general.

Banks use the prime rate as the basis for setting interest rates on almost all business loans.

Street lighting agreement approved by commissioners

Pampa City Commissioners ratified an agreement with Southwestern Public Service Company Tuesday morning on power rates for city street lighting.

City Manager Mack Wofford said, "While the fixed rate will be lower, the actual cost of the lighting will be about the same due to the fuel adjustment rate."

Joe Gidden of the SPS Company explained to commissioners the reduced rate was a result of the Public Utility Commissions' requirement to take the fuel cost out of the base rate of the lighting.

"The overall cost to the city will be higher due to the fuel cost adjustment," he added.

"The rates were modified to meet Public Utility Commission guidelines," Gidden explained. He said the rate structure was constructed six months ago but, because of a six month waiting period before it goes into effect, the rate change is just now coming to the attention of the commissioners.

Wofford said the increase had already been allowed for in the new budget and that it would not affect individual rates in any way.

After discussion about the possible use of a high pressure sodium street light, the agreement with SPS was approved.

An ordinance prohibiting parking of vehicles on the 300, 400, and 500 blocks of South Cuyler Street was presented and approved by the Commission on first reading.

Also approved on first reading was an ordinance concerning the prohibition of parking in areas of the downtown business district after midnight. Wofford said this ordinance should help keep the area clear for the street cleaners to do their work.

"This is a long-standing problem," Wofford said of the alley within one block of the Harvester Park Addition between Charles and Russell street.

As read by Mayor Ray Thompson, the ordinance will make the alley one-way. It was approved on first reading.

In other commission business, several areas of land were approved for annexation and zoning changes on the first reading of two ordinances concerning the matter. The public hearing for the proposed zoning changes discussed in the last commission meeting was reaffirmed for Oct. 23.

Approval by the commissioners of the current accounts payable concluded the meeting.

Craddock describes south side problems

By DEBORAH BRIDGES
Of The Pampa News

A sobering speech was delivered by Lt. David Craddock of the Salvation Army to a meeting of the Pampa Jaycees Monday evening.

Lt. Craddock described to the Jaycees the problems he encounters on the south side of Pampa and some of the solutions he feels will help.

"There is one thing I find in common with these people and that's frustration," Craddock told the gathering. "These people feel alone, like the city is moving to the north and leaving the south behind."

One of the most common complaints, according to the Salvation Army head, is the dirt streets, which make it difficult for south side residents to keep their homes neat.

He said he often hears, "We cannot get the police to come when we call...the police don't seem to be concerned about what happens out here."

Lt. Craddock pointed out that the Youth Center's $15 a year fee is more than many of the families can pay, because it's all they can do to get the next meal on the table. It is also too far away for children who rarely have transportation at their disposal.

He told of grandparents who are trying to care for their grandchildren on their Social Security checks.

"We have a real problem with medical care," Craddock said. Although the Salvation Army receives a grant of $5,600 a year from Gray County, he said it will not go very far in helping defer the tremendous medical costs generated by the indigent and elderly.

"Only two doctors in town will take Medicaid," Craddock explained. He said the hassle is too great for most doctors, and they disagree with the federal regulations in regard to their fees.

Craddock told the assembly the Hospital Corporation of America requires the county to pay 100 percent of the indigent patients' bills, where previously it was only 50 percent.

"Indigent grants are now voted on by the county commissioners," he said. "We've had many cases turned down at the hospital because they have no insurance and no way to make a down payment."

Craddock further stated the money the Salvation Army receives is just not enough to help all of them.

Craddock also said the new senior citizen apartments will not be able to help all the elderly. "I've been in some homes so bad, that if you sneezed the wall would fall in...I went into one lady's home where the floor was still wet from the last rain we had."

Many of the elderly do not feel welcome at the Senior Citizen's Center. He said they feel out-of-place, not good enough to be there.

The quiet assembly listened as Craddock related the pride of the people he encounters. They are many times too proud to ask for help.

"These people have a deep sense of pride in themselves," he commented, "but they are frustrated because they feel the city has closed its eyes, hoping the problem will go away."

Craddock said one way to help these people is by thorough public support of Meals on Wheels, by getting the streets paved, and by helping the Salvation Army build a community center.

The center would be a place where the elderly could get meals and where all could have fun and fellowship, he said.

"In Pampa I see a lot of potential, but I also see a lot of apathy," Craddock said, "like an ostrich with its head in the sand."

In closing, Craddock stated, "Let's not forget the people who are in need... who have made this town something... who have been here a lot longer than we have."

Local and area news roundup

Chamber drafts letters to government officials

President Carter and other top officials are being urged in a letter by the Pampa Chamber of Commerce to abandon Carter's energy policy and the "Windfall Profits Tax".

Floyd Sackett, Chamber of Commerce manager, said approximately 120 original letters were sent to the president, the vice-president, to Department of Energy Director Charles Duncan, the 100 senators, and several representatives. They were signed by Luther Robinson, Pampa Chamber of Commerce president, in behalf of the Executive Board of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce.

In essence, the letter states the President's Energy Program and the "Windfall Profits Tax" are a threat to the nation's free enterprise system. It recommended the decontrolling of crude oil prices. A plea for fewer government regulations, less government control and the opportunity to let free enterprise work was included in the missive.

A paragraph from the letter states: "It is not the large oil companies that will suffer from this bill but the thousands of small, independent oil producers who operate stripper wells that average one to three barrels of oil per day."

It goes on to say these operators are the "backbone" of the oil and gas industry. Further exploration by the large oil companies will be discouraged, it says, and adds, the combination of these two factors will make the country more dependent on foreign oil imports.

City seeking community development grant

City officials met with two members of the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission last week to discuss a pre-application for a community development.

"After three unsuccessful tries in previous years, the city is again trying for the Community Development Block Grant program," City Manager Mack Wofford said Wednesday.

City officials met Wednesday morning with Tom Plumlee, Regional Planner of the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission and Gary Pitner, Administrative Assistant to the Regional Planner, to discuss the grant. Wofford explained the grant is for housing rehabilitation, replacement of water and sewer lines, and the paving and drainage of unpaved streets. He said if the City should get the grant, it is intended for the southern area of Pampa.

"The grant is funded by the Federal Department of Housing and Urban Development," Plumlee said Monday. He added all cities under 50,000 population compete with each other for the grant. "The smaller Panhandle cities have a hard time getting it," he said. "It is geared to a more urban type city with a deteriorated area. It is a very competitive type grant. "There are about 100 pages of criteria the city must meet before it can become eligible for the grant." Wofford stated earlier. He listed some requirements as proving the area population averages a below-median income and contains a certain concentration of minority residents.

At this time, Wofford said, the city has not yet decided whether to send in a pre-application or not. The decision depends, he says, on if the city feels it may meet the required criteria and if there is a good chance of getting the grant.

"Lawyers may try to achieve water qualities with show-cause orders, but eventually the answers will be provided by engineering and scientific efforts."

"Federal funds are becoming tighter and we must make good use of every dollar we get. Traditional approaches to water problems no longer work and we must find new answers."

Martin Lang, president of the 27,000-member federation, said the nation's quality mission "is largely in the hands of lawyers who regard engineers with wary skepticism, and who are more comfortable with injunctions, fines and other legal penalties."

"The congressman, chairman of the House subcommittee that handles all water-related legislation, said some sections of the nation will face water shortages in the future unless Congress can come up with a plan to move the fluid from areas of abundance to sections of shortage."

He said most Americans are not aware of this problem, nor do they understand how much money is needed for solutions.

Lone Star's light is burning out

NEWTON, Kan. (AP) — The Lone Star's light is burning out. The highballing headlamp that signals the passenger train's travel through Kansas has lit the Plains for perhaps the last time.

To train cook William Harrison, who dished up fried chicken and hot biscuits on wood-burning stoves for 31 years, the Lone Star meant the certainty that Tuesday night he'd be home in Chicago and Saturday night he'd be in Houston.

Now that Amtrak has won permission to stop operating the train, at least temporarily, Harrison, 60, says, "I'll never know when I'll go out or when I'll get home or which direction I'll be headed next."

U.S. Supreme Court Justice Byron R. White gave Amtrak permission Monday to stop running the Lone Star and two other passenger trains, the North Coast Hiawatha, linking Chicago and Seattle, and the Floridian, between Chicago and Miami.

Amtrak, claiming the three routes lose money, originally intended to eliminate them Oct. 1, but that was delayed by lawsuits. A federal appeals court will hold a hearing Oct. 26 in Denver on Amtrak's decision to cut the trains.

To Harrison, the end of the Lone Star also means the loss of a tight-knit family. "Now I'll go on the extra board," he said, meaning that he can be assigned to any train.

The death of the Lone Star means a personal defeat for conductor Bob Gorman of Kansas City, Kan., who spent several hundred dollars out of his own pocket for a petition drive to save the train he loved.

And Clyde Billingsley, a 44-year-old train baggageman from Wichita, says he already has "stood with tears running down my cheeks watching them cut two trains out from under me in the last 13 years. I don't want to be near the tracks to see the third one die."

Amtrak says "no significant environmental benefit would be realized by operating the Lone Star." But in a suit, Kansas argued otherwise.

Most Americans unaware of water crisis facing them

HOUSTON (AP) — A congressman, a federal official, and a New York City engineer agree that the American public is not aware of the dangers of a water crisis or of how many billions of dollars it would take to solve the problem.

Rep. Ray Roberts, D-Texas, said at the 52nd convention of the Water Pollution Control Federation Monday that the United States is facing a water crisis. "That must be solved or the energy shortage will look like a tea party."

The congressman, chairman of the House subcommittee that handles all water-related legislation, said some sections of the nation will face water shortages in the future unless Congress can come up with a plan to move the fluid from areas of abundance to sections of shortage.

He said most Americans are not aware of this problem, nor do they understand how much money is needed for solutions.

"Federal funds are becoming tighter and we must make good use of every dollar we get. Traditional approaches to water problems no longer work and we must find new answers."

Martin Lang, president of the 27,000-member federation, said the nation's quality mission "is largely in the hands of lawyers who regard engineers with wary skepticism, and who are more comfortable with injunctions, fines and other legal penalties."

"Lawyers may try to achieve water qualities with show-cause orders, but eventually the answers will be provided by engineering and scientific efforts."

Lang, a former New York City water engineer, also said. "The public has not been adequately informed about water pollution problems." Neither the federal Environmental Protection Agency, the news media nor elected officials have been able to convey to the public the cost of water pollution control, he said.

He said the federation had always been concerned about the clean water act passed by Congress in 1972.

"It promised to provide fishable, swimmable waters virtually everywhere in one decade. It could not be done and we knew it."

Adelene Harrison, a regional director for the EPA, told the conference that the public has not been convinced of the importance of water pollution control or proper sewage treatment.

She said, "Three of every four municipal treatment plants in the southwest region do not meet minimum requirements. No longer can we be content to simply make plans and pour concrete. We have simply failed to sell our program and this is a necessity."

The EPA official said the federal government cannot handle the situation alone and "we must have public participation."

"We have been using our dollars wrongly and we must understand that each community has a different problem and a different need."

There are 12,000 delegates attending the five-day conference, where many technical aspects of water control are being discussed by experts from 50 states and several foreign countries.

Willie Nelson and Dolly Parton

Nelson, Rogers blue-chip winners

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Willie Nelson, an "outlaw" with an ace up his sleeve, joined Kenny Rogers and his hit "The Gambler" as blue-chip winners at the nationally televised Country Music Association awards show.

Nelson won the prestigious entertainer of the year award Monday night, while Rogers raked in three honors at the 13th annual awards show at the Grand Ole Opry House.

Rogers, host of the show, won top male vocalist, album of the year for "The Gambler" and duo of the year with Dottie West.

But Nelson, called an "outlaw" for his commitment to recording music as he prefers rather than the way the country music establishment dictates, pulled his ace and outpolled Rogers and three others for the top award.

"I was in shock," the bearded, pony-tailed Nelson said after the show. "I expected Kenny to make a clean sweep. It was a good year for everybody."

Joining Rogers as a triple winner was the Charlie Daniels Band, which won single of the year for "The Devil Went Down to Georgia," instrumental group of the year and instrumentalist of the year for Daniels, a vibrant fiddler.

Barbara Mandrell was voted female vocalist of the year and veteran singer Hank Snow and the late talent agent Hubert Long were elected to the Country Music Hall of Fame.

The Statler Brothers won vocal group of the year for the seventh time in the past eight years. "The Gambler," by Don Schlitz, won the song of the year.

Rogers, a former rock singer with the First Edition, said he was not disappointed at losing the top award to Nelson.

"How can you be disappointed when you win three awards and lose to someone like Willie Nelson," he said.

Snow, who has done charity work during the past two years to fight child abuse, is best known for his 1950 hit "I'm Movin' On" which was No. 1 on the country music charts for 26 weeks.

Among those he thanked was fellow pioneer Ernest Tubb, who helped him get on the Grand Ole Opry in the late 1940s.

The petite Miss Mandrell, who choked back tears during her acceptance speech, said later, "To know that everyone likes what I do was the best feeling in the whole world."

Daniels dedicated his single of the year award to the late Ronnie Van Zant of the rock group Lynyrd Skynyrd, which lost several members including Van Zant in a plane crash last year. "I know Ronnie Van Zant's watching from somewhere," Daniels said. "This is for you."

A non-winner this year was Crystal Gayle, who was a finalist for entertainer of the year and female vocalist. She was voted top female vocalist the past two years.

Dolly Parton, entertainer of the year in 1978, was not a finalist for any of the awards.

The selections were made by the 5,000 singers, musicians, songwriters and others in the country music business.

You may be wasting money heating your house this winter

More than half the money you spend to heat your home this winter may be wasted. And it doesn't have to be. Your dollars leak through cracks around windows and doors. They flow from attics that don't have enough insulation. And they v. ish, like smoke, up the chimney.

Terms like thermogram, energy audit and payback period are becoming household words, as consumers — faced with warnings of fuel bills that could be double last year's — try to find ways to cut costs by saving energy.

Utility spokesmen say anywhere from 10 percent to 60 percent of the heat produced to warm U.S. homes is wasted. That means that you may be throwing away from $1 to $6 of every $10 you spend on heating.

The cure may be something as simple as setting back your thermostat at night. Or it may require a major insulation effort.

The Department of Energy estimates that 40 million single-family homes — a little less than two-thirds of the total — are not properly protected against the weather.

Regulations being developed under the National Energy Act of 1978 will require large utilities to help you find out where you are wasting energy and suggest ways you can save. The utilities also will have to help you arrange to pay for and install energy-saving devices.

Some states already require this kind of effort by utilities; in other areas, companies have voluntary programs to encourage customers to add insulation, caulk and weatherstrip windows and doors, etc.

Pacific Gas & Electric Co. of California, for example, has offered energy audits to its three million residential customers since last November. By the middle of September, the company had completed 14,000 audits, according to spokesman Mike Willhoit. By the end of the year, it expects to finish an additional 6,000 audits.

Utility-sponsored conservation programs vary: some are free, others cost from $3 to $10. Some utilities send a trained inspector to the customer's house; others require the homeowner to do his or her own checking. In most cases, however, the end is the same: A computer analysis that tells you what you can do to cut energy use, how much it will cost, how much it will save and how long it will take you to save enough to cover the expense.

Utilities in Iowa are using thermograms — infrared photographs taken from the air to show where heat is escaping — to boost conservation. The Skyscan program run by the Iowa Utility Association began in the fall of 1977 and spokesman John Lewis said about 35 percent of the major communities in the state have been surveyed.

Once the thermogram for a city is finished, customers are invited to look at the prints, to see whether their houses are losing energy. "We have had excellent results," said Lewis. About 35 percent to 40 percent of the customers have viewed the thermograms and about one-fourth of those have done something to plug leaks.

Lewis said he doesn't know how much energy is being wasted in Iowa homes. "Almost any home you might pick, there is something that could be done in the way of insulation," he said, adding that "60 percent to 65 percent need to do something substantial."

The federal government offers help in several ways. Tax credits are available both for basic conservation equipment and for things like solar systems and wind-powered devices. The credits apply to work done on the taxpayer's principal residence after April 19, 1977 and through 1985. Information is available in Publication 903 from Internal Revenue Service Offices.

Legislation pending in Congress would expand the tax credit. The revenues lost by the federal government would be offset by President Carter's proposed tax on the increase in oil company earnings resulting from deregulation.

Low-income homeowners and renters can qualify for grants of up to $800 for materials and labor used to insulate ceilings, install storm windows, etc. To get more information, contact your local Community Action Agency or the state energy office and ask about grants under the National Energy Act.

Osborne receives Demo award

A Pampa woman recently was commended by the Texas Democratic Party for her continuous support of that political organization.

Mrs. Ruth Osborne, Gray County Democratic Chairman, has been active in the county party for more than 40 years.

"We're just beginning to roll again," says Mrs. Osborne, referring to a typical non-election year lull at the county Democratic office.

"Every day I hear people ask, 'who do you think will be the next president?' or 'who am I for?'" she says, also explaining that a few people drop by the county office daily, with requests for information, addresses or other assistance.

She keeps her preferences during a primary race to herself, working instead to get people to vote. After the primary election, she supports the Democratic candidate on the ballot.

Her other responsibilities as county chairman include handling correspondence, studying proposed legislation, and informing the public about bills up for consideration in the Texas Legislature.

Mrs. Osborne, a Pampa native, was appointed county chairman in 1976 and was elected for another two-year term. Before that, she served six years as district committeewoman, a job in which she logged a lot of miles within the 26 counties of District 31.

A member of the First United Methodist Church, she is a fan of needlework and is involved in the Kidney Foundation, American Heart Association, and the March of Dimes, with which she served as first county chairman in the late '30s. She and her husband, Jake, have two children.

DR. LAMB

Walking won't cause weight loss

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I'm a 40-year-old woman and I'm 5 foot 7 and weigh 225 pounds. Naturally, I'm concerned about my weight. I'd like to know if I walked a mile a day for 365 days, would I lose 36 pounds if I don't change my eating habits?

DEAR READER - Not likely, unless you also decrease your calorie intake. At your weight you will use about 85 calories more every time you walk one mile than you would have sitting still. If you multiply 85 calories by 365 days of the year and divide the year's calorie loss by 3,500, you'll find that's about nine. There are 3,500 calories in a pound of body fat so that amount of exercise would help you lose about nine pounds of body fat. A person who weighed less would lose less body fat by just walking one mile a day.

I'm sending you The Health Letter number 4-7, Weight Losing Diet. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents in check or coin with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. You can use this plan to help control your diet at the same time you're exercising.

Both exercise and a proper calorie control are important in eliminating excess body fat. In your case if you didn't use diet at all, you'd have to walk four miles a day to lose 36 pounds of body fat in a year's time, assuming that your present weight is stable and that you don't change your eating habits.

On the other hand, people who insist on losing fat simply by diet and don't exercise run the risk of losing some of their muscle weight rather than just body fat. That's not very helpful.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I'm writing for myself and many of my friends. Why is it that one doctor prescribes one tablet of estrogen every other day and another one five days a week and still others one tablet a day for 21 days and then off a week?

I went against my doctors orders of 21 on and 7 off and I'm taking one every other day. My breasts were sore on the daily dosage and this seems to work fine for me. Any comments?

DEAR READER - You're going to continue to find this variation for two basic reasons. First, there are different medicines and these are of varying strength and duration of action. Second, one person may need more estrogen than another. That's because even though a woman may have gone through the menopause, her body is still producing some estrogen. In fact, some women produce enough so that they don't need any supplemental estrogen at all.

If a woman is having trouble with her breasts as you described, the doctor often decreases the dosage.

MENDING MATURE MARRIAGE

Housekeeping hint helps

By LOUISE PIERCE

Does your middle-aged husband expect you to keep a spotless house at all times, the way you did when your children used to bring home unannounced and uncourteous teenagers for a meal or a night - and you wanted to show your kids' friends that they were always welcome in your beautifully-appointed home?

If that's your situation, join a lot of other maturely-married women. I pride myself that nobody will be blocked by boxes at our front door. In fact, I pick up every scattered item right after breakfast. I venture to state that anybody stepping inside our apartment and not inspecting corners or crevices would class me as a pretty good housekeeper. However, there are small spots that often escape my attention for a day or even a week. What with extensive writing commitments, frequent addresses in and out of town and unpredictable errands which Otis often dumps in my lap, I really do not have much of what you could call spare time.

Otis loves to jog around the apartment every morning after breakfast, always barefoot. He whoops and hollers and waves his arms, thereby assuring himself that he will not gain an ounce that day. Last week I saw him stepping off the kitchen linoleum and wiping his feet on the living room carpet. I was afraid to ask why, but I did. He said, "Well, there are crumbs on the floor out there." I asked, "Many?" And he said, "Yeah, quite a few. And there are some sticky spots too." I recalled spilling a few drops of orange juice between the sink and the table, an hour before. And I hadn't scrubbed the kitchen since - well, since too long. Otis made no further comment and I didn't need to. That day I shut my eyes to my typewriter long enough to vacuum and scrub the linoleum. The next morning's jog brought sweet appreciation and a sweeter kiss. You can't beat that.

Otis does ditto for me. Sometimes I take my current project to his downtown office, where he often works at night. There's never a place for me to spread out papers when I arrive. But he always clears me a spot and even dusts it for me. He's been known to dash across the street and bring back coffee.

Whatever isn't immaculate from moment to moment can be made so in a very short time. Neither mate should explode about it and expand on the explosion. Unless a husband or wife enjoys pig-pen living quarters, your home is never filthy or over-cluttered - or in need of a house deodorant. All the offended one need do is offer a mild urge toward cleanliness, after which the offender will surely wield a broom or mop or dust cloth. One exception to mildness in this regard might be a wife I once knew who made the bed when she changed the sheets every two weeks - but no other time. She said nobody ever came to see them and nobody would care. I never heard her husband scold her. If we happened by, he shut the bedroom door quietly and without a word of complaint or explanation. Surely there will be a patience- and - forbearance star in his crown in the Great Beyond.

A reader wrote me. DEAR LOUISE: My husband is an avid fisherman and brings home a catch every day or two. But he insists on cleaning the fish into the garbage can just outside the back door and leaving the smell there until the garbage collector empties it, which is only twice a week. The whole neighborhood reeks and some of the people complain. Dogs and cats by the dozen claw at the screen wire over the can, trying to get at the leavings, sometimes rolling the pail all over the yard before I can stop them.

I get so mad that I threaten to leave home at least once a week, and some day maybe I will. I don't even like to eat fish and it makes me sick to cook them for him. But he just laughs when I complain, and he says no wife of 35 years ever left her loving husband over a mess of smelly fish. I say I know one who might, if the mess goes one. What do you say? FISH HATER.

DEAR F.H.: I say you're lucky you don't have to clean the fish yourself. I could name you plenty of wives who do just that - and then cook and eat the fish in total enjoyment. But since you really do need to rid yourself of a reeking backyard, why don't you get the strongest outdoor deodorant you can find (ask at yard and garden stores, at janitor-supply places, etc.) and spray it into the trash barrel as soon as the fish cleaning is done? Also, pet shops should be able to suggest something to eliminate the offensive odor. Kitty Litter and Dogs-Off and their assorted likenesses should do the trick and drive off the predatory pets. Once you're sure that the smell no longer pervades the neighborhood, move the trash barrel to the back fence or the edge of the alley. You'd rather walk a few extra steps with your own papers and garbage than risk the return of the smell of vicious viscera, wouldn't you? Above all, don't let the fish smell separate you two. You seem to love each other in other ways. And a fish a day should not drive you away.

Write problems to DEAR LOUISE, Box 616, Pampa, Texas 79065.

TWEEN 12 AND 20

Party girl needs discipline

By ROBERT WALLACE, ED.D.

Dr. Wallace: Because of a health problem I can't smoke (pot or cigarettes) or drink (beer, wine or hard liquor). I get invited to a lot of parties but the kids don't bug me to smoke and drink because they know of my problem.

It's my parents who bug me. They know if I get stoned that I'll get sick, but they still worry. They also say that I'm too young (I'm 15) to party but all my friends do, so what's the big deal?

What can I do to influence them to let me stay out later and to let me party more? - Dianne, Stockholm, N.J.

Diane: You've got two problems. One is your health, the other is your ego. You have no reason to be at parties where marijuana and alcohol are used. If anything, I think you need more discipline and control.

Dr. Wallace: I'm 15 and my boyfriend is 17. Last week his mom, who is very religious, caught us kissing. She told me that kissing leads to other things and that it is bad. I know for a fact that she is wrong. My boyfriend has his own car, a good job and is very responsible. What should I do? He is really special. - Carol, Merced, Calif.

Carol: It's up to your boyfriend to convince his mother that a kiss is not naughty. Actually, there is nothing you can do!

Send questions to Dr. Robert Wallace, TWEEN 12 and 20, in care of this newspaper. For Dr. Wallace's teen booklet, "Happiness or Despair," please send $1 and a 28-cent, stamped, large self-addressed envelope to Dr. Wallace, in care of this newspaper.

Under Foot

by Gil Phetteplace

After spending millions of dollars, another government agency has handed us profound wisdom: The U.S. Dept. of Energy claims "If only the people would stop buying gasoline, the shortage would be eliminated".

I overheard my oldest son explaining sportsmanship involved in duck hunting to his younger brother. "You always shoot when the ducks are flying so as to give them a sporting chance, except in Dad's case. Whenever he shoots at the ducks, they always have a chance...."

Now is your chance to show sportsmanship with a new pair of Nike shoes. You'll find the widest selection in town at Phetteplace Shoes, Downtown, Pampa.

Is there any truth to the rumor that President Carter is trying to hire the Pope as his new campaign chairman?

DEAR ABBY

Dad's a rat, she's in middle

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: To get right to the point, my dad is having an affair. It's not just my imagination. I'm sure of it.

Dad works nights and Mom works days, and I work five days a week.

When I'm home on my day off, Dad turns the radio on real loud, takes the phone into the bathroom, closes the door and calls someone. He talks real low during these conversations.

I put my car to the door yesterday and heard him say, "Don't worry. Honey, I will tell her, but you've got to give me more time." Then he said, "I love you, too. Goodbye."

Abby, I don't know what to do. I can't stand by and let Dad do this to Mom. If she catches him, and finds out that I knew all along, she'll hate me for not telling her. But if I tell her, Dad could deny it, and I would be the cause of a lot of trouble. So you see, I'm stuck in the middle. Mom has always been a faithful, hardworking wife, and I will never forgive my father for being such a rat.

I'm not a stupid little kid. I'm 18. Tell me what to do, but don't use my right name or mention my town.

IN THE MIDDLE

DEAR IN: I realize that what you have learned has placed a heavy burden on you, but my advice is to say nothing. In the meantime, don't judge your father. As the French say, "To know everything is to forgive everything."

DEAR ABBY: I wish you would print this so other housewives won't get stuck the way I did. It began with a telephone call from a lady who said, "Congratulations! You have just won a free carpet cleaning! Don't move any furniture, our men will do everything. We will be out at 6 this evening to clean your carpet like new - with absolutely no cost or obligation to you."

Well, at 6 o'clock, one man came with a vacuum cleaner and a shampoo attachment. He talked to me for two solid hours trying to sell me the vacuum cleaner. I told him I couldn't afford to buy anything, and meanwhile he didn't make one move to clean my carpet. I was home alone, and kept telling him I wasn't in the market to BUY anything, but he kept right on talking and trying to sell this thing. Abby, I finally got rid of him at ELEVEN o'clock, and I didn't get my carpet cleaned.

I was so nervous and angry by the time he left I could have screamed. Have you any suggestion besides a 7-foot watchdog and an unlisted telephone number to prevent such practices?

MRS. K., SALT LAKE CITY

DEAR MRS. K.: Yes. If anyone calls you to "congratulate" you on having "won" something, say "thank you, but I don't want anything for nothing." And don't let anyone in your home without first checking them out with the Better Business Bureau.

DEAR ABBY: I am engaged to a guy who enjoys playing cards. He plays for money - just to make it "interesting." Personally, I don't care much for cards, but I can play a fairly decent game if I have to.

All of Larry's relatives play cards night and day. They think it's terrible that I don't go crazy over cards the way they do.

Abby, I love this guy, and I have really tried to like cards, but there is no use fooling myself. It's boring. Besides, some of Larry's "interesting" evenings have cost him more than he can afford to lose.

Now I am being told (by Larry's relatives), "If you intend to marry Larry, you'd better learn to like cards."

Don't misunderstand me. I think it's all right to play once in a while. But all weekend, and every night?

LARRY'S GAL

DEAR GAL: You mention Larry's relatives, but how does Larry feel about it? Gambling can become an addiction as serious as liquor, tobacco and other undesirable habits. Take a second look at Larry just to be sure your joker isn't too wild.

Getting married? Whether you want a formal church wedding or a simple do-your-own-thing ceremony, get Abby's new booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." Send $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents) self-addressed envelope to Abby, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A University of Texas professor will be the featured speaker Wednesday at a Capitol luncheon honoring the nation's Hispanic scholars.

The professor, Americo Paredes, teaches in the university's anthropology department. He is one of 11 scholars selected for recognition by the National Endowment for the Humanities.

The endowment and the Congressional Hispanic Caucus are sponsoring the luncheon.

Rep. Edward Roybal, D-Calif., and Joseph D. Duffey, the endowment's chairman, also are scheduled to speak.

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — An 18-year-old El Paso man died Sunday after falling off a mountain peak near El Paso.

Department of Public Safety Trooper Dan Wilkinson said the man was identified as James Geddis. Wilkinson said a friend of Geddis' saw the victim fall more than 50 feet while the two were hiking on Northwestside Mountain.

JUAREZ, Mexico (AP) — A 32-year-old Juarez radio station engineer is dead after suffering a fall from a 1,000-foot tower.

Dead is Gabriel Cardoza Morales, Juarez police said.

Police said Morales fell while he was trying to dismantle a tower on the lot of radio station XEF. Police said two workers were using torches on the bottom of the tower when Morales fell.

WACO, Texas (AP) — The Texas Farm Bureau will spend $2.7 million to add two stories to its four-story headquarters in Waco, farm bureau President Carroll Chaloupka said.

Chaloupka said construction will begin Jan. 1 and will be completed in the mid-1980s.

The president said more space is needed because the organization is growing rapidly, along with its member services. Chaloupka said the farm bureau's membership has more than 245,000 member families.

New programs added since 1971, when the original building was constructed, include commodity divisions, political education programs, research and legal services and public relations activities, he said.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Harte-Hanks Communications Inc. has acquired National Telecommunications Services of Arlington, Va., said Robert G. Marbut, president of Harte-Hanks.

The service was formed to acquire and build cable television systems. Marbut said the acquisition will complement the Harte-Hanks cable television operation in Houston.

Harte-Hanks owns and operates 28 daily newspapers and 62 non-daily publications, as well as television and radio stations.

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — El Paso County Youth Services workers are looking for the mother of an infant boy left in a cardboard box near a trash can only hours after birth.

Severo Gomez said he heard a baby crying while he was taking his morning walk Monday.

"In this tiny box, I found a baby," he said.

Gomez said he took the baby to a nearby bakery and called police.

Welfare workers said the child had been washed, the umbilical cord cut and the boy wrapped in a blanket.

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — A statewide seminar to obtain funds for the arts will be Oct. 17 and 18 in Amarillo with the executive directors of the state's three art agencies to keynote the sessions along with representatives from Washington.

Former deputy chairman of the Federal Commission on Arts and Humanities Peter Kiros of Washington will address the seminar at the opening luncheon on Oct. 17. Seminars will be conducted Oct. 18.

Three heads of state agencies including Texas Commission on the Arts Executive Director Allen Longacre, Texas Art Alliance Executive Director Susan Moorehead and Texas Assembly of Arts Council Executive Director John Tabor will attend.

The Texas Commission on the arts will have $3.4 million to spend during the next two years.

DALLAS (AP) — Four persons connected with the operation of "nude modeling" studios in Dallas County have been charged with promoting prostitution.

The Dallas County grand jury returned indictments against them Monday as part of a recent push by county law enforcement officials to stop the rapid growth of the modeling studios. A Dallas newspaper had 32 classified ads today for businesses offering massages or nude modeling.

The three businesses named in the indictments send women to a customer's home, office or motel to model nude.

A 40-year-old man and his 22-year-old female partner were indicted for organizing and operating a business out of his Irving apartment. Police officers said they hired out two women from the modeling studio and that the women offered them sexual favors for $50 or $75.

A 28-year-old man was indicted for operating a prostitution-front modeling studio out of his Dallas apartment. An Irving woman complained to police that she responded to a newspaper advertisement seeking models and was told if she wanted good tips she would be expected to "give the customer what he wanted."

Another 28-year-old Dallas man was arrested when models from his studio offered sexual favors in exchange for $99.

(DALLAS) — If the Civil Aeronautics Board approves pending applications for interstate flights from Love Field, the airport's traffic would at least double and could almost quadruple in the next two to three years, officials at Dallas-Fort Worth Airport claim.

At the same time, it would cut the service from D-FW Airport by more than 15 percent, the officials are arguing.

The CAB gave Southwest Airlines approval Sept. 28 for flights to and from New Orleans and Love Field.

It scheduled a hearing for today and said it would rule by Thursday of next week on applications by Southwest for service to and from Chicago and by Air Florida for service to and from Miami and Tampa, Fla.

D-FW officials said opening Love Field to more interstate traffic could lead to as many as 423 new daily flights within two to three years.

October is month for congressional tempers

WASHINGTON (AP) — There's something about October. The leaves begin to turn color, the nights grow nippy and congressional tempers get short.

No one is sure why nastiness seems to creep into House and Senate debates this time of year.

In even-numbered years, October signals the approach of Election Day when voters tend to display an unpleasant ability to recall the wrong votes, the embarrassing speeches. But in odd-numbered years like this one, when no one is up for re-election, the October blahs are harder to understand.

Whatever the reason, this year is proving one of the testiest in memory.

The House and Senate are at war over the congressional pay issue. And when they're not saying nasty things about the House, senators are snapping at each other.

During a recent session Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd, D-W. Va., interrupted a roll call to make a brief appeal for support of his strategy on the pay raise legislation.

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., shot out of his seat: "Can a senator make a speech in the middle of a vote?"

"No," replied Byrd, aware that it was a clear violation of the rules.

The strongest Senate "rule" is the elaborate courtesy members display toward one another. The favored form of address is "the distinguished senator from wherever" — even if the speaker thinks his colleague's only distinguishing characteristic is his abysmal ignorance.

Once again, Goldwater and Byrd tossed aside pretensions at politeness when Byrd wanted permission to offer an amendment to the pay raise bill, a move that could be blocked by the objection of any senator.

NATIONAL

DOTHAN, Ala. (AP) — An apprentice mechanic at the Farley nuclear power plant opened a valve by mistake and a small amount of radioactive gas leaked, an Alabama Power Co. spokesman said.

"There is no danger," spokesman Neal Wade said of the leak that occurred Monday during maintenance at the auxiliary building and was detected about 8:50 a.m. The plant has been shut down since March for routine maintenance. Wade said krypton 85 gas escaped through a vent into the atmosphere, but the leak did not exceed limits set by the federal Nuclear Regulatory Commission.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The National Organization for Women wants to foster greater participation by minority women, NOW President Eleanor Smeal said at the end of the group's three-day convention here.

"We are working with the leadership of women's groups from black constituencies and Hispanic constituencies," Ms. Smeal said Monday at a news conference. "You can't really work to eliminate sexism without dealing with racism. They're part of the same fabric." There were 848 registered delegates at the convention. About 3,000 feminists from the 50 states also attended.

NEW YORK (AP) — A 4-year-old Brooklyn girl has died one day after allegedly being tossed out the window of a fourth-floor apartment by her mother in an apparent exorcism rite, a spokeswoman for St. John's Episcopal Hospital said.

Latacha Gilmore, who had been in a coma after the incident Sunday, never regained consciousness and died Monday, spokeswoman Daphne McKenzie said. The mother, Adele Scott, 23, will remain charged with attempted murder at least until psychiatric tests are completed, police said. Officers said she was trying to "get

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — A 43-car train derailment that forced evacuation of several hundred persons, injured three men and caused more than $1 million in damage "was apparently sabotage," said Southern Pacific Railroad spokesman Rich Hall.

Another spokesman, Tom Buckley, said Monday that the engineer and brakeman saw "lumber and things of that type, stacked up on the track."

OVERSEAS

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The runaway Ixtoc 1 well in the southern Gulf of Mexico has spewed out 103 million gallons of crude oil since it blew out June 3, a top official of the government oil company says.

Jose Luis Garcia Luna, director of petrochemical development for Pemex, said 28 million gallons formed oil slicks in the gulf while the rest burned up, evaporated or was scooped up by recovery ships.

Almond B caught fire in the Tyrrhenian Sea between Naples and Cagliari Monday after an explosion in the engine room, port officials reported.

Thirty-five crew members were rescued by the French freighter Ile de la Reunion.

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — American Moslem leaders are urging their followers to become politically active and demand an end to U.S. aid to Israel, suspension of trade with South Africa and increased government assistance to the urban poor.

Meeting Monday in connection with an Islamic Conference session at U.N. headquarters, the group said it seeks "to divert America's approximately $15 million per day given to Israel to be invested in the economically depressed areas."

SETUL, South Korea (AP) — The Home Ministry says it arrested 20 leaders of an underground organization plotting to foment revolution and install a socialist government linked to communist North Korea. It said 54 more are being hunted.

The ministry said the group, called the Preparatory Committee for the South Korean National Liberation Front, was headed by Lee Chai-mun, 45, who was imprisoned in 1964-66 as a member of another group influenced by North Korea.

When the police raided Lee's apartment in Seoul, he stabbed himself in the chest twice, but the wounds were not fatal, the announcement said.

Also among the 20 arrested was Lim Tong-kyu, who was sentenced to life imprisonment Monday for membership in another subversive group, the ministry said.

Police

Top O' Texas New & Used Cars, 501 Atchinson, reported to police someone had cut 15 tires on 10 different vehicles on their parking lot. The damage was estimated at $450.

A juvenile reported the two front tires of his 1974 Chevrolet were slashed. Approximate value was $75.

Sherry Ann Parks, 521 Montague, told police that a possibly known suspect had written on her vehicle with what appeared to be shoe polish while it was parked in front of her residence.

A purse was reported stolen from the vehicle of Beverly Conley, of 1065 Prairie Drive, when she went into her residence for about five minutes. Conley found the purse in front of another residence with $40 missing from it. There are two suspects in the case.

Fire

10:27 a.m. Sunday — A fire at 1038 S. Reid caused damage to grass and junk car bodies. The cause was unknown.

6:10 p.m. Sunday - A car caught on fire in the 500 block of South Cuyler. Cause of the blaze is unknown.

Minor accidents

A 1967 Ford driven by Evaristo Vasquez Jimenez, 25, of 514 S. Ballard was north bound in the 600 block of S. Talley. He lost control of his vehicle, ran over two chain link fences and stopped after hitting the southwest corner of a garage. Jimenez was arrested for public intoxication, no valid driver's license, and unsafe change of direction of travel.

On the light side

CUERO, Texas (AP) — A strutting Minnesota turkey named Paycheck trotted to an easy second-heat victory in the Great Gobbler Gallop here. But Ruby Begonia — the poultry pacing pride of Cuero — captured the Traveling Turkey Trophy of Tumultuous Triumph.

The fleet-footed Worthington, Minn., bird scrambled through the course in 1:39 Sunday, defeating Ruby Begonia by 40 seconds.

However, Ruby Begonia won by a minute and a half during the running of the first heat at the King Turkey Day Celebration last month in Worthington.

The Minnesota margin of victory was enough to send the traveling trophy back to Cuero for the first time since 1975.

Look Out Detroit

MEROM, Ind. (AP) — To passing motorists, it looks like a Ford with a boiler in the trunk. But to Berlin Bogard, it's his hot water hardtop.

"There's not another one like it in the world," the 71-year-old farmer says proudly of his steam-powered car. "I built it from scratch, right here from my mind, not a blueprint."

Bogard uses a garden hose to fill the 15-gallon tank to fuel the boiler, which juts out of the trunk area and produces 500 to 600 pounds of steam pressure. A burner powered by diesel fuel heats the water in boiler coils to about 900 degrees, he said.

"Two-thirds to three-fourths of this is hand made," Bogard said. "It took more time to figure out than it did to build."

Although he hasn't had a chance to test the car extensively, Bogard estimates it gets about 15 miles per gallon of diesel fuel and reaches top speeds of 50 to 60 mph.

"I've been a steam man all my life," he said. "I used to run a steam threshing machine for my dad."

Relief is just tiger bone away

PEKING (AP) — The state-run pharmaceutical houses in the People's Republic of China are fast can3 to our pill-popping western society in packaging the ancient tiger bone patent medicines available in capsule and liquid form.

A modern and always crowded drug counter in the lobby of the capacious Peking Hotel does a bustling business dispensing ginseng antler pills, swallow pear nest syrup, dog skin pluste tiger bone liquor and similar tonics and emulsions that have brought relief to billions since the Ming dynasty.

In the downtown business district a much larger and far more lavish People's Drug Store, unrelated to the Washington, D.C. chain of the same name carries a full line of aphrodisiacs, emetics, expectorants, "mind refreshers" and something called "Purple Gold Cubes," which according to the label is good for "sore throat, toothache, abdominal flatulence, food and drink poisoning and diarrhea."

The downtown drug emporium is always jammed with middle-aged Peking citizens who worry constantly about heart palpitations and flatulence the way the French go on about their livers and the Americans count calories.

The lobby drug store, restricted to foreigners like the hotel itself, caters in constant chaos to the hypochondria of the overseas Chinese, mostly from Hawaii, Hong Kong and Singapore and the various Chinatowns from London and New York to Augusta, Ga., and San Francisco who can outscore the home team when it comes to worrying about intestinal gas and a fluctuating pulse rate.

The Chinese medicine men have learned to pander to the evers and chills of their large pill-purchasing population with catchy slogans and portentous prose that seem to owe a lot to aspirin in commercials on American TV.

"At the first sign of a cold or abdominal flatulence take anti-pestilence Kan Mao Tao," advises an ad for an ancient herbal remedy in a slick patent medicine catalogue.

Next to a full page color photo of a satisfied-looking tiger, the makers of Hu Ku Chien—"Tiger Bone Medicated Liquor"—attest that it is "most effective in relieving flatulence and assuaging pains, promoting blood circulation and relieving sinews, having won great popularity from users at home and abroad."

China apparently has a pure food and drug law requiring full disclosure of the ingredients on the label.

The Tiger Bone liquor, for instance, discloses in the small print that it is "refined by infusing tiger bones and various kinds of precious Chinese medical herbs in top grade mellow sorghum wine. Ingredients: Kaquang wine 77.1 per cent, sugar 10.4 per cent, tiger bone extract 12.5 per cent."

Our Chinese guides were unable to ascertain how many tiger herds had to be boiled up annually to promote blood circulation and abate flatulence in a nation of 900 million.

Signs don't indicate recession

NEW YORK (AP) — In the past few days Americans learned that September unemployment declined to 5.8 percent from August's 6 percent, consumers added to their debt, and purchasing agents expressed optimism.

Taken together, these bits of intelligence hardly convey the idea of recession, which some economists maintain already has us in its grip and which many more say will pounce upon us before the end of the year.

Albert Cox Jr., president of Merrill Lynch Economics and former White House economist, is among the latter.

Did the news in recent days shake his recession theory? "No," he replied. "If anything, it strengthened my conviction that the recession will wind up deep and long."

In fact, said Cox, he was already this Monday morning writing a reprint raising to 60 percent the likelihood of a severe downturn. He said it will come by yearend, and reach its depth in the first half of 1980.

By the third quarter of next year, he maintains, unemployment will have reached 8.9 percent, and retail sales will be off badly. It will, he said, be "pretty wicked," almost as bad as in 1974-1975.

What is it that makes men such as Cox so concerned? "The underlying trends," he said. Factors such as the flattening out of employment increases, sluggishness in productivity, consumer buying weakness.

"The trend is weakness," he said. "Inflation is eating away at incomes and confidence." September's figures mightn't look bad now, he said, but over the long term they'll be seen as oddities in a pattern.

Cox believes they might even deepen the recession by giving business and consumers a false sense of hope. Purchasing agents, for example, might be inclined to build up inventories, which then cannot be sold.

That situation occurred in 1974. During the first six months of the year companies built their inventories to "wildly excessive" levels. "I fear it is happening again," he said. During July, he points out, inventories grew about about $90 billion, the biggest ever for a month.

FOCUS

Canada's New Parliament

Canada's Parliament is scheduled to meet today for the first time under the country's new prime minister, Joe Clark. The previous Parliament was dismissed last March, so that national elections could be held. In the elections, Clark's party, the Progressive Conservatives, won more seats in Parliament than any other party. The election victory gave Clark the chance to form a new government. One of the problems Clark's government faces involves the province of Quebec. Most Quebec citizens speak French, while most other Canadians speak English. Quebecers are expected to vote in a special election next spring, to decide whether they want their province to become an independent country.

DO YOU KNOW — Whom did Joe Clark replace as Canada's prime minister?

MONDAY'S ANSWER — The department of writers at a newspaper is called "editorial."

by bernice bede osol

October 10, 1979

This coming year could herald the conclusion to many things which no longer serve any productive purpose in your life. Your position gets stronger as each occurs, allowing you to develop new things which will add to your growth.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Depression need not overcome you today if you feel your ideas are being thwarted. Redirect yourself. Find a different route of expression. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in the year following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) In joint ventures today it's best that you take a back seat. Let others run the show. There is a strong possibility your ideas are on the wrong track.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Personal strivings for attainment must not take precedence over the needs of those with whom you're involved today. You could be labeled selfish.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) More concrete knowledge could be necessary before you take on a major project today. Double-check all your ways and means with someone in the know.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Before making plans involving your friends, find out what they think about the activity. Surprisingly, they may not agree with what you had in mind.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Placing your mate's interest above your own today could avoid a domestic spat and, in the long run, have he or she catering to you. Try it, you'll like it.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Strive to be cooperative rather than critical today. Sincere compliments will go a long way where harsh remarks could cause problems.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Temptations might arise today to encourage you to buy things you don't need, or perhaps can't even afford. Live within your means.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Take care of domestic responsibilities early today. If you don't, when you later want to do something for yourself, you won't be able to.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Chances are you won't have all the facts on an important matter and could jump to conclusions prematurely, causing needless frustration for yourself.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Unless you are prepared to alter your thinking concerning a financial matter today, you could suffer an irreplaceable loss. Keep a flexible mind.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) This is not a day to throw caution to the winds and bank of speculation. Deal with the realities in life, not the rainbows.

Oakland takes advantage of Miami mistakes for 13-3 NFL victory

OAKLAND (AP) — The Oakland Raiders' defense had a right to feel overworked.

But Ted Hendricks was only kidding when he described his thoughts on the interception which played such a big part in Monday night's 13-3 victory over the Miami Dolphins.

"That's my first interception for a touchdown," said the linebacker who has intercepted 23 passes over 11 National Football League seasons.

"I don't like to see us get touchdowns on defense. It means we have to go right back onto the field again," he added. "I was thinking of stepping out of bounds at about the 5-yard line."

The tall linebacker ran 23 yards into the end zone, however, for the Raiders' second touchdown in the opening minutes of the third period. Miami, held to 35 net yards in the first half, was down 13-0 and a few offensive errors were yet to come.

Delvin Williams plunged 1 yard for a touchdown late in the third period, but the third-down play was nullified by a motion penalty. Linebacker Phil Villapiano knocked down a pass and the Dolphins settled for Uwe von Schamann field goal and their only points in the nationally televised game.

The Raiders, 27-3 winners over Denver last week, evened their season record at 3-3 and dropped the Dolphins to 4-2. Oakland is back in the AFC West race while Miami is tied with New England for the AFC East lead.

"We made little mistakes, but they took on great magnitude," said Larry Csonka, whose running accounted for many of the yards in the drive from Miami's 25-yard line to inside the Oakland 1.

"Our special teams made errors again, serious errors. We have to get untracked and do the things that win football games," said Coach Don Shula.

A week earlier, in Miami's first loss of the season, a blocked punt gave the New York Jets a touchdown. In the Monday night loss, Tony Nathan fumbled the ball away as he returned the second-half kickoff and the Raiders scored four plays later on Ken Stabler's 14-yard touchdown pass to tight end Raymond Chester.

Jim Breach missed the extra point attempt, kicking wide to the right, and the Raiders' offense gained only 56 yards over the final 26 minutes of the game.

Texas, Oklahoma exciting Akers says

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — This is the time of the year — Texas-Oklahoma time — when college football gets exciting and serious, says Texas Coach Fred Akers.

Asked jokingly if Texas was ready to play Arkansas this weekend, Akers smiled and said, "They (football games) usually get exciting — if not before, at least by this time of the year."

Akers described the Texas-Oklahoma football game as the top game in college football, and he said it will be "intensely fought."

Oklahoma and Texas will match unbeaten and untied records at the Cotton Bowl in Dallas Saturday before a sellout crowd of 73,032 and a national television audience.

Kickoff will be at approximately 3 p.m. CDT. No. 3 Oklahoma is 4-0 and has averaged 45.5 points a game even with its regulars resting in the second half. No. 4 Texas has yielded only 18 points — and one touchdown — in three victories.

Akers said at his regular weekly news conference Monday that Oklahoma is better offensively than the OU team that defeated Texas, 31-10, last year.

He also said Texas has a better team than it did in 1978, but he added, "We have to get some things straightened out, especially on offense."

"Oklahoma has a fine football team. They have one every year — and so do we," said Akers. "I don't see much change in the circumstances ... It's the No. 1 game in the country, and it's going to be an intensely fought football game."

Akers was told Oklahoma had lost 11 players to pro football this year, and he said, "Apparently they've got high-quality replacements. It doesn't seem to have slowed them down much."

Asked if the Oklahoma defense might be weaker since Colorado had scored 24 points and Rice 21, Akers replied, "They didn't do it in the first half."

Oklahoma led Rice 42-0 at halftime and demolished the Owls 63-21 on Sept. 29. By comparison, Texas led Rice only 16-3 at halftime Saturday night and struggled to a 26-9 victory.

Akers said the Oklahoma offense, featuring 1978 Heisman Trophy winner Billy Sims at running back, "hasn't been extended. I haven't put a pencil to it, but they probably have the largest offensive line in the United States — any league — they've got to average 260 pounds."

Asked how Texas might stop Sims, Akers replied, "I don't know that. I know this — you can't just concentrate on Billy Sims, because they have sufficient quality that if you concentrate on him, the others can kill you."

It was mentioned that Oklahoma usually has fumble problems early in the season, and Akers replied, "Oklahoma fumbles against everybody, then they get serious against us and don't fumble."

"I hope we do the same thing with moving around (motion penalties) — it's time to get serious."

Asked about Texas' numerous five-yard motion penalties in the Rice game and Texas' inability to score touchdowns this season, Akers said, "It's lack of execution. It's not always at the same point. It's not always the same person or the same play."

Borg to play in China exhibition

HONG KONG (AP) — Four-time Wimbledon champion Bjorn Borg will play Australia's top ranking player, John Alexander, in an exhibition match in Canton next month, it was announced here today.

Organizers said the match, to be held on Nov. 5, has been approved by the International Tennis Federation and the All-China Sports Federation.

The match will be played in a newly completed 6,100-seat stadium and televised live throughout China.

Richard Avory of International Management Group (IMG), one of the sponsors, told a press conference a special court has been ordered from the United States for the match. The court will remain in China as a gift from IMG, he said.

Prior to the singles match, Borg and Alexander will play a doubles match involving two top Chinese players to be named later, he said.

Avory declined to give the amount of money involved in the Borg-Alexander match, but said "the initiative to play in China" came from the Wimbledon champion.

The match followed an agreement between IMG and China whereby IMG will handle worldwide television rights sales to Chinese sports events.

The match coincides with the autumn Chinese Commodities Exports Fair, China's industrial shop window, which usually attracts tens of thousands of foreign buyers.

HOW MANY LADDERS does it take to put up one sign? These two workmen seem to have all the ladders they need as they repair the sign of a local business.

WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Rev. Jesse Jackson says the Palestine Liberation Organization "is not merely a terrorist gang, even though it has engaged in some terrorist acts."

Instead, Jackson told reporters the PLO is "a government-in-exile... a broad-based coalition... the cause celebre in the Arab world." Jackson commented at an impromptu news conference Monday after meeting with Ambassador Robert Strauss, President Carter's special representative to the Mideast peace talks. The black civil rights leader from Chicago said refusal of Israeli government officials to meet with him during his recent trip to the Mideast showed "a certain racial insensitivity."

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new study indicates $25 billion or more in federal assistance is needed to upgrade urban water supply and sewage treatment systems in 11 Northeastern states.

The study released Monday says the states don't have the money to do the work themselves. The report, sponsored by the Consortium of Northeastern Organizations, concludes that lack of concerted effort by government officials, in the 11 states "has meant that national policies have been skewed in favor of the claims pressed by other regions."

WASHINGTON (AP) — A man said by police to be carrying three automatic pistols, two knives and a large supply of ammunition while waiting in a crowd gathered to see Pope John Paul II has pleaded innocent to weapons charges.

Timothy Robert Burgess of Gainesville, Fla., who was arrested Saturday, entered his pleas Monday. District of Columbia Superior Court Judge James A. Washington Jr. ordered a mental examination for Burgess.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department has decided that the evidence does not warrant continuation of a criminal investigation into possible price-fixing by the steel industry.

However, the department said Monday it will continue inquiries that could lead to a civil suit. Of the criminal investigation, a Justice Department official who asked not to be identified said: "It just didn't pan out. You don't want to be accused of abusing the grand jury system."
