HCA unveils designs for new hospital building

By MELANIE MILLER

Of The Pampa News Pending approval by the Texas Health Facilities Commission, construction on the new Pampa hospital should begin around March 1980, according to Guy Hazlett. administrator of Highland General Hospital

At a breakfast this morning, Hazlett unveiled an architect's plans for the 126-bed facility, which is expected to be completed by November 1981 at a projected cost of $13,239,000. The hospital, to be owned by the Hospital Corporation of America headquartered in Nashville, Tenn will be located on a 50-acre tract of land north of the city and west of the intersection of Duncan St. and Highway 70.

The land, owned by a local land investments company, is under purchase option to HCA and will be purchased when the company's certificate of need application is approved. Hazlett said.

The application, which says the medical facility is needed and does not duplicate services in the area, was filed with the Panhandle Health Systems Agency and THFC Oct. 1. The Panhandle organization has 60 days to review the application and make recommendations to THFC. The state group must reach a final decision on the application within 90 days of PHSA's recommendation.

When the application is formally approved, construction will begin, Hazlett said. General contractor for the hospital is Joe M. Rogers and architect is Earl Swenson, both of Nashville, Tenn.

An official name for the replacement hospital for Highland General has yet to be chosen, although Hazlett said, "it looks like the name will be Coronado Community

It will be a smaller facility by over 10,000 gross square feet but there will be more space in patient areas plus room to expand the hospital, the adminstrator said.

There's a lot of wasted space in Highland General, especially in corridors and storage areas," he said. "The semi-private rooms are so small that you can barely fit one bed in them.

The number of private rooms will rise to 56 compared to 48 in the present facility but semi-private rooms will drop from 78 to 70. In addition, an alcohol-drug isolation room will be added in the special services rooms.

One of the two proposed delivery rooms will be equipped with special Caesarean section equipment, Hazlett added.

Replacement of Highland with a new facility will cost less and take less time than renovation of it would, he said.

"It would take 20 months and $16,355,000 to renovate this hospital but it'll only take 18 months and $13,239,000 to replace it," Hazlett explained. "We'd have more costs in tearing things down to renovate them such as making semi-private rooms into private rooms - than we will by replacing the whole facility."

HCA began working on the architect plans in May and took approximately six months to complete. Department heads at Highland helped draw up plans for their respective areas, he said.

Highland General and McLean Hospitals were leased to HCA in April for 30 months for $2,275,000 with a contract understanding that a new hospital would be built within that time. The company also purchased the current assets of the WASHINGTON (AP) — Small businesses will be hit hardest — and first — by rising interest rates, economists say. Many won't find credit. • while others may pay more than 16 percent interest in coming weeks.

Small manufacturers, particularly in the Midwest, will be most vulnerable, these economists say. But stores that sell specialty items and long-lasting consumer products also will feel the credit pinch.

As a result, many part-time retail workers will be laid off, the economists say. And since women hold many of these jobs, they can expect tough times ahead, the forecasters add

People who buy, sell and build houses also will be some of the first victims of rising interest rates. Economists say prospective homeowners will find it more difficult to get mortgages, which in turn will slow homebuilding.

- The Federal Reserve Board last weekend increased its bank lending rate from 11 percent to a record 12 percent and tightened its control on the availability of money and credit.

The moves generated immediate upsurges in other short-term interest rates. The overall effect resulted in stock prices recording their steepest drop in more than five years Tuesday.

Chase Manhattan Bank on Tuesday boosted * the prime rate to its best customers by an entire percentage point, to 14.5 percent

Small businesses, however, rarely qualify as "best customers." They usually must pay 2 percent to 3 percent above the prime rate, said economist Richard Landry of the U.S. Chamber

That is almost as much as consumers pay on credit-card interest, and it makes borrowing very difficult for most small businesses with sales below $500,000 a year, Landry said. Moreover, he added, there are growing reports that smaller, regional banks are hesitant to extend loans

Consumers who want loans also will face difficulties, say economists,

"I would think that it's going to be a little harder to get a car loan, a little harder to get a mortgage," said economist William E. Gibson of the brokerage house Smith Barney Harris Upham & Co. Inc.

"It will be very tough to buy or sell homes without mortgage financing available," said bank analyst Jonathan E. Gray of Sanford C. Bernstein & Co. Inc. "It's difficult to see institutions funding mortgages one or two months in advance when the cost of money is so

The tight mortgage market is expected to slow homebuilding. And that is likely to mean slower sales and rising inventories for makers of appliances and home furnishings as their major market shrinks, economists explain.

Most of the small makers of machinery parts for appliances and cars are located in the Midwestern states.

In a credit crunch, small businesses suffer hardest because they lack the avenues to borrow open to larger companies. Few small companies can issue stock to attract funds, nor do they have long-range lines of credit with their banks.

Suit may be filed against Pampa PD

A complaint may be pending against the Pampa Police Department after the arrest and detention of a Pampa man Monday

Randall Enterline, 30, of 1523 Hamilton filed the complaint after he was arrested by Officer Stanley Belt of the Pampa PD for public

According to Enterline, who is an unstabilized diabetic, he went into insulin shock while driving Monday evening and slid into a ditch about a mile south of the Memory Gardens Cemetery. He said he was en route to his grandparents for a soft drink to offset the possibility of an insulin reaction when the incident occurred.

Enterline told a reporter he thought he had passed out when he was picked up by a patrolman. He said he vaguely remembered being 'jerked out' of his vehicle before he passed out again.

Enterline next remembers being handcuffed and dragged by two officers into the jail and pushed against his will into a cell, which "smelled like urine." According to Enterline, he was only vaguely aware of what was going on, but remembered being questioned and beaten before passing out completely.

Diane Enterline, his wife, said she was called by Officer Belt at midnight. Belt told her that her husband was in jail for public

"He can't be! He's a diabetic," she replied, and said Enterline needed something sweet. When she asked if there was a soft drink machine there. Officer Belt reportedly replied that there was, but couldn't guarantee there was anything in it. According to Mrs. Enterline, she went to the police station immediately, where she waited long enough to move her car twice and drive to a convenience store on Alcock for a soft drink and call her mother. When she returned, Officer Belt immediately let her into the jail where she tried to revive Enterline with a soft drink. Mrs. Enterline reportedly told Officer Belt she needed to get him to the hospital, and the officer replied she probably needed an ambulance. After unsuccessfully trying to revive Enterline, she asked if the officer had called for an ambulance. Belt reportedly said no and told her where a phone was.

Mrs. Enterline also reported that Belt released her husband to her "since he could not smell any liquor on his breath." She then signed for his personal articles and called an ambulance.

Dr. Frank Kelly, who treated Enterline in the Highland General Hospital Emergency Room, confirmed in a telephone conversation Wednesday that Enterline was in insulin shock when he saw him. He also said he noted "abrasions on the wrists and upper back" of

When asked what medical complications would result from lack of treatment for insulin shock, Dr. Kelly said what "could" have happened was unimportant.

But Dr. Jay Nolan Murphy, a Gainsville pediatrician who is a diabetic and sub-specializes in diabetes, told a reporter in a telephone conversation Wednesday that (concerning insulin shock) "if they (the diabetic) did not get food or sugar, they would suffer brain damage and eventually death."

Dr. Murphy also said, "someone would not be able to tell" if they came upon a person in insulin shock. This is the reason, he explained, why diabetics are supposed to wear a chain or bracelet explaining their medical condition.

When asked if he was wearing anything identifying himself as a diabetic. Enterline said he owned a bracelet but did not wear it because, as a motorcycle mechanic, it got caught in his work. He did say, however, he keeps an identification card in his wallet.

Police Chief J.J. Ryzman, when asked to comment on the matter. replied. "Any time there is an allegation, we investigate it." He said he would "rather" no reporters talk to Officer Belt until a complete investigation was made.

"We're checking into it right now, to see if there is anything about it." he said this morning, and added Lt. Charles Morrison of the Pampa PD is investigating the matter. Morrison will report his findings to Ryzman when the investigation is completed.

Ryzman said Belt would remain on duty at this time. The chief commented there is no "blanket policy" in this type of situation, but RANDY ENTERLINE relieving an officer was determined by individual circumstances.

Politics and the bod

At the heart of libertarian philosophy is the belief that the individual owns his body. It is his; he was born into it, and rightfully possesses the discretion to direct its course.

Historically, governments have recognized the sanctity of the human body. However, legislation in that area has been morally inconsistent. On the one hand, men have forged laws prohibiting assault and murder. And yet laws also exist that seemingly would "protect the individual from himself." In some American states, it is against the law to kill oneself. And everywhere laws attempt to control what substances a person may consume.

We advocate that there be no prohibitions against the use of drugs. That position often is misconstrued. People think we encourage or recommend the use of such substances. In reality, we simply recognize the inherent right of the individual to do with his person as he sees fit.

Although it often may seem like a recent phenomenon, the use of drugs is nothing new. People have sought to become intoxicated throughout all of recorded history. In the United States, the consumption of alcohol — a most potent mind-altering drug — is an ingrained social practice. And evidence from pollsters indicates convincingly that marijuana use is more widespread, and socially acceptable, than ever.

If anything, the penchant of some people to use demonstrably or potentially dangerous substances is distressing. It may well be unwise to tamper with the faculities of reason and logic, those almost magical cerebral functions. Of course, many drug aficionados would disagree, citing subjective "benefits" of drug experimentation.

And that's just the point. Disagreement, the privilege to choose one's own poison, as it were.

It saddens us to see individuals destroying their bo dies or minds. This especially goes for children, who have not yet developed the ability to make intelligent choices for themselves. But we say governments will never succeed in preventing individuals from seeking such experiences, no matter how many officers are hired or jails built.

Centralized, organized, and coercive meddling in private affairs hurts everyone. It costs money and serves to color everyone with the same brush rather than nurturing precious individuality. That wound cuts far deeper than the injury a person chooses to risk for him self.

Olympian efforts

There's at least one television commercial that strikes an appropriate note in this age when many people like to turn their problems and decisions over to an all-knowing state.

It's the solicitation for donations to the U.S. Olympic Committee, and it reminds us. 'America doesn't send athletes to the Olympics -

That's true. For the most part, our country dispatches its delegations to amateur sporting events with a minimum of state subsidy and control. That such an undertaking can be successfully managed through voluntary effort, without the tax-funded apparatus common in other nations, is testimony to how strong the private sector can be when left to its own devices.

Of course, for all the inspiration they provide, the Olympics are hardly pure. Particularly on the international level, they are riddled with politics, the type that keeps athletes of some nations from participating because their countries are disdained by the world's ruling cliques. And the grandiose expectations of the International Olympic Committee can easily bankrupt a host city: Los Angeles politicians and promoters are still scrambling to stick somebody with the bill for their "Spartan" 1984 games.

For all its impurities, however, the quadrennial competition is still a glimmer of hope in a world of meanness and power-peddlers. And the American contribution is the brightest light of all. If you're interested. they're taking donations at the U.S. Olympic Committee, P.O. Box 1980 Cathedral Station, Boston, Mass. 02118.

A national shame

By Martha Angle and Robert Walters WASHINGTON (NEA) - Ten years ago, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy was invited to a memorial service in Memphis, Tenn., upon the first anniversary of the assassination there of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Mourners were planning to march around the block past the motel where King had been shot before conducting a service in a nearby church. Kennedy's aides, fearing for the senator's safety in such an emotionally charged atmosphere, urged

"Tell them I'm coming," Kennedy replied. "If anything happens, they can walk around the block twice next year.

Gallows humor. Irish fatalism, foolhardy macho - call it what you will, the reponse was utterly characteristic of the way the last of the Kennedy brothers has consistently dealt with the possibility that one more nut is lurking out there somewhere with a burning urge to complete the score. It was not a bad way to cope, either, as long as Ted Kennedy remained "just" the most famous member of the Senate.

But fatalism is a feeble defense and humor a porous shield against the very real threat that looms now that this Kennedy, like his brothers before him, seems bent on a bid for the presidency.

Kennedy himself recognized as much when he asked for - and immediately received - Secret Service protection even before becoming a declared candidate. But a detail of body-guards, however competent, simply isn't enough to guarantee his safety.

Secret Service agents are the first to admit that given the way presidential campaigns are normally conducted - huge outdoor rallies, open-car motorcades, shopping center walk-throughs and the like - there is no way they can protect a candidate against a determined gunman who is prepared to be killed or captured himself to achieve his goal.

not just to Kennedy but to President Carter and all who seek his job — is to change once and for all the way presidential campaigns are conducted.

It is a brutal fact, however unpleasant to face, that anyone who is very powerful, very famous or both is in real danger in this country when exposed willy-nilly to crowds of unscreened people. Indeed, police forces . in Washington and elsewhere on the pope's schedule are currently having a nervous breakdown about insuring his safety during his U.S. visit.

A public figure need not inspire great passion - be it love or hate - to become an assassination target, although men who do. like the Kennedys and George Wallace, are probably in extra jeopardy. Nobody felt strongly about Gerald Ford, and yet he was the target of two unsuccessful assassination attempts during his short

Kennedy has said that if he becomes a presidential candidate he will not campaign from a television studio. No one is suggesting that he should. But he and President Carter and every other candidate can exercise more caution than has been shown in the past.

They can hold indoor rallies, where metal detectors can be used to screen the audience as it arrives, instead of outdoor meetings. They can ride in closed cars along unpublicized routes when traveling to and from events. They can do more "wholesale" courting of votes - through press conferences, meetings with community leaders, televised debates and the like - and less "retail" shopping for support.

Yes, it is a national shame that such precautions should be necessary to protect a candidate Kennedy or a President Carter or anyone else from being shot at as he goes about the business of seeking popular support for the highest office in the land.

But it would be an even greater shame to allow the bullet to replace the ballot in determining who will occupy the White House in this democracy.

By Harold C. Gordon

Legislation is brewing in Congress to restrict business mobility. Under bills introduced by Sens. Williams (D-N.J.) and Riegle (D-Mich.), and by Rep. Ford (D-Mich.), practically any concern outside the "mom and pop" league would have to run an Indian gaunt let to change its locale.

First. it would be obliged to give up to a year's notice (including full disclosure of its "economic circumstances") to the Secretary of Labor and all "affected parties"--such as unions and local governments. Second, it would have to justify the move at public hearings. Third, it would have to provide for all laid-off workers: to resettle those who wished to follow the company to its new site, and to guarantee that those who remained behind would receive 85 percent of their closing salaries for up to one year, and that company health and welfare benefits would continue for the same period. Finally, it would have to compensate local governments by paying them 85 percent of lost tax revenues

If all this sounds as if the real object is to discourage companies from moving altogether, it is precisely that. It is no accident that the proponents of this legislation represent two of the most heavily unionized states in the country. The unions want to stem industrial migration from the North to the right-to-work states of the South and West. They claim that "their" jobs are being lost to nonunion workers in these areas.

But the "runaway shop" is a red herring. According to Dr. Richard, B. Mackenzie, professor of economics at Clemson University, a mere 1.5 percent of employment losses in the North between 1969 and 1972 were caused by the out-migration of business. The great bulk-the remaining 98.5 percent of job losses in this region--were caused by the death or contraction of firms that stayed

These stark facts," says Dr. Mackenzie, "suggest that many of the economic problems of the North may be attributed to misguided public policies, not to wage and other attractions elsewhere."

Certainly, the union shop has backfired on the very workers it was supposed to benefit. Excessive wage demands, coupled with featherbedding and antiquated work rules, have imposed burdens too heavy for some employers to bear. In addition, costly and unproductive social programs have raised taxes in the North to levels significantly higher than those in other

Church asks court to block licensing efforts

PAMPA NEWS Wednesday, October 10, 1979 3

LAREDO, Texas (AP) - Citing constitutional guarantees of freedom of religion, the People's Baptist Church has asked a federal court here to block state licensing efforts at homes for troubled children operated by evangelist Lester Roloff.

Eight parents of former Rebekah Home for Girls residents, two girls and four staff members of the Corpus Chrisit facility maintain in their suit that the state has deprived them of due process of law and religious freedom.

Roloff refused to comply with a court order to permit the licensing of his Rebekah Home, the Lighthouse Home for Boys near Corpus Christi, and the Anchor Home for Boys at Zapata. Instead the evangelist closed the homes.

At that time the homes were an operation of Roloff Evangelistic Enterpises. The homes now have been restructured under the auspices of the People's Baptist Church. The suit was filed Friday by William Ball, a Harrisburg, Pa.,

The main thrust of the argument is that any attempt by the state to take over and regulate the church is unconstitutional "We recognize the very legitimate interest of society to provide for the welfare of children," said Ball, adding that "the church has different ways of taking care of children.'

In the suit, the plaintiffs maintain the minimum requirements of the state "substantially limit and interfere with the religious mission of the church through its homes.

The plaintiffs also contended licensing denied the "church freedom to select its staff, programs and disciplinaary methods and to set out set out its own philosophy in effecting the regeneration of children."

The suit named Gov. Bill Clements, Attorney General Mark White and Secretary of State George Strake as defendants. White said his office is studying the Roloff reorganization plan. He said restructuring the homes under the church is not necessarily a way to get around state child care licensing laws. "State law simply does not make an exemption to operate a child care facility without a license simply because it is operated by a church," said White.

DiBona said gasoline stocks are now about 11 million barrels higher than a year ago "and in a comfortable range.

August gasoline demand, he said, was 10 to 11 percent below year earlier requirements, adding there is indication the not yet available September statistics will reflect a similar trend.

Club treated to McBride's humor

By TINA McCLOY Of The Pampa News

A bit of political humor by a Hollywood gag writer received a round of applause last night during the opening dinner meeting of the Top O' Texas Knife and Fork Club.

'Mascara can be compared to Ted Kennedy,' said Mary McBride. who has written jokes for Phyllis Diller and Joan River. "You're not sure when, but you know they're going to run.'

A 55-year-old homemaker-from Janesville, Wis., Mrs. McBride was top gag writer for 18 years for Phyllis Diller, handling most of the writing not done by the comedienne herself.

Mrs. McBride, who collaborated with Diller on three best-selling books, now has her own newspaper column and syndicated radio

"The first thing I did was send in a remark of one of my children to Art Linkletter, for his book, 'Kids Say the Darndest Things'," related the mother of five grown children. Linkletter published the anecdote in the book and continues to share it with his audiences.

"Then I started selling gags to cartoonists," she said. "I had many harassed - mother type cartoons.

"I call those my whine and dine days," she added. With cartoons published in several magazines, Mrs. McBride has sent numerous cartoon ideas to George Lichty, of 'Grin and Bear It' fame. She said she was lucky, since the first idea she sent to a "Saturday Evening Post" cartoonist was purchased.

She showed off her humor in a letter to Phyllis Diller after reading a "Saturday Evening Post" article about her. After six months, the letter finally caught up with the comedienne and Mrs. McBride launched her gag - writing career.

She receives the same price today — $5 — that she first got from Diller, but also receives a royalty from her collaboration on three Diller books: "Phyllis Diller's Housekeeping Hints", "Phyllis Diller's Marriage Manual" and "Phyllis Diller, The Complete Mother"

Mrs. McBride has her name on her own book, "Everybody Wants to Build a Better Spouse Trap" - a humorous beauty manual. With her 27-year-old daughter, who also writes for Diller and Rivers, she's writing a humorous book on child-rearing, called "Please Don't Call Me Collect at the Nursing Home"

Mrs. McBride started her public speaking career a number of years ago when she addressed a women's club in her hometown. She related that she told her husband she was hesitant about public speaking, since she had no experience in that area.

With a little homespun humor, he encouraged her by saying she had an extra amount of experience in speaking in private. She now speaks about three times a week to civic groups and conventions around the nation and conducts college and university workshops on writing comedy. A native of Janesville, Mrs. McBride gained a respect for humor from her father, who joked with the ambulance crew after he suffered a heart attack. "I was never with him one time when he didn't have me laughing."

she said. "He was really an inspiration." Author of her high school humor column, she uses her children as a main source for her gags.

"I have given them permission to insult me if there's a profit in it." laughed Mrs. McBride, the widow of a high school teacher. "I hope with my humor people will say, 'That's about it'. My material pretty well hits everybody — it's general. "I have the radio on all day at home and I twist phrases into something with a different slant," said Mrs. McBride, who said Phyllis Diller had helped her develop the art of listening for the humor in anything she hears.

Her newspaper column - "Moments with Mary McBride" - and the radio show revolve around child-rearing, housekeeping, romance and beauty tips, many times concluding on a serious note. The book she is writing with her daughter will be published in about six

Krishnas win State Fair fight

DALLAS (AP) - For the second time in a year, the Hare Krishna religious sect has won court approval to solicit donations at the State

U.S. District Judge Patrick Higginbotham issued a preliminary injunction Tuesday ordering officials to admit members of the group to the fair. Since the fair opened Friday, the group had been soliciting outside the fair's gates.

The sect won the right a year ago after a protracted dispute with fair officials, who contended the Krishnas were harassing fair visitors and obtaining donations through deceptive practices.

After Higginbotham's ruling last year that fair officials could not exclude the Krishna solicitors or restrict them to booths, a message was recorded and played through "Big Tex" reminding fair visitors they were not obligated to give donations.

Higginbotham said evidence indicates the group's solicitations are close to being "pure commercialism" and weakens the sect's arguments they are practicing freedom of religion.

They wear wigs to cover their shaved heads and often distribute a flower, a small flag or a Big Tex button for which they seek a donation without offering any religious conversation, the judge added. But he said the group's freedom-of-religion argument still has enough substance to force a ruling in its favor.

Avoid trichinosis by cooking

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR, LAMB - I've been married for 10 years and consider myself a fairly good cook. One evening I cooked pork chops and I know how careful one should be with pork. Halfway through the dinner, I noticed that my daughter had just about finished her pork chop. The meat around the bone was quite pink - almost red. I'm sure the middle of the chop was cooked because I cut it for Anyway I'm quite upset and worried. I called my pediatrician and he assured me that in this day and age I wouldn't have to worry about it. That was two weeks ago and I'm still upset. All the material I have read tells me to worry. Everything I read says that whenever the pork is eaten raw or insufficiently cooked there is a danger of trichinosis or tape worm.

Would she have already been sick? And is there something I should be doing for her or not? I do not know how pork is inspected or if it can be inspected for the diagnosis of these dangerous worms.

DEAR READER - I don't blame you for being upset and I wish I could reassure you but I can't.

Trichinosis is caused by little worms and these parasites are in pork. It's true that the amount of infected pork has decreased in the United States to about one-third what it used to be but that still allows for an enormous amount of infected pork to be on the market

Routine meat inspection doesn't always tell you that it's infected either, and the skin tests that were tried to detect infected pigs haven't really been successful. The only real safeguard against ingesting some contaminated pork is thorough cooking. That means that all of the meat should be cooked to an internal temperature of 60 degrees centigrade (140 degrees Fahrenheit) for at least 30 minutes and none of the pork should be pink or raw.

The first stage of the trichinosis involvement is when the male and female worms unite in the intestine. The intestinal phase may cause diarrhea and digestive symptoms. One form of treatment is given to eliminate any more of the adult worms that might still be in the digestive system. The second phase is the migration of the larvae into the circulation and throughout the body, particularly forming little cysts inside the muscles.

Wink's Meat Market

Quality Meats Are Our Specialty

Open 8:00 p.m. to 6:00 p.m. Monday through Saturday

Whether we like it or not changeable world conditions are dramatically affecting our lifestyles. Fuel shortages are influencing our attitudes about the kinds and numbers of cars we drive, and how to best spend whatever money and leisure time we have.

To overcome the problem of coping with affordable living space, Armstrong interior designer Cathy Erb conceived a "great room" from borrowed space.

Turnabout was fair play when Miss Erb converted a carport into an exciting living center, decorated in a botanical theme. This 'better - served" space is featured in a recent issue of Armstrong's "Good Ideas for Decorating" magazine.

A horticulture theme was natural since the basic idea was to literally stretch the house out from its kitchen to the great outdoors.

"The home furnishings market is sprouting with all kinds of botanical motifs," according to Miss Erb. "There are fabrics, linens, wallcoverings, dinnerware, cookware, and accessories.

For her color scheme she chose earthy browns. bittersweet, terra cotta, biscuit - 'n - basket tones, and combined them with the fresh growing greens of live herbs.

Culinary herbs have been significant in medicine and folklore for ages, and have now become, once more, part of daily living. As easy to grow in pots on a windowsill as in a backyard garden, few efforts are less troublesome or more rewarding. Nothing adds as much zest to cooking

Now - they add a new dimension to decorating. Their ornamental value is evident in the way they're displayed in decorating trends. A favorite spot for growing herbs is in the kitchen. Hang some at the windows, staggered at different lengths for unusual looks.

"Long breadbaskets, suspended by chain or cord from window casings, make fine holders for three or four pots," says Miss Erb.

Pole planters are an excellent way to show growing herbs off, while dried ones can be mounted into attractive wall art, or simply hung from ceiling beams. And potpourri - an old favorite - is wonderful in an open jar.

The designer planned for indoor dirt - daubing in a unit between the two areas; a divider offers a potting shed with its own bins for soil and peat moss. Lower drawers in the cabinets hold plant growing supplies and tools. The green - thumb center has its top cabinet fitted with a stone filled tray; it permits carefree plant watering and misting. And wet stones provide humidity for a better growing environment.

Floor - to - ceiling windows in the former 'carports' provide maximum light, and privacy is achieved with trellis - like lattice work." Woodgrain - plank decorates the sloped ceiling along with beams that meet the wall and window architectural frames.

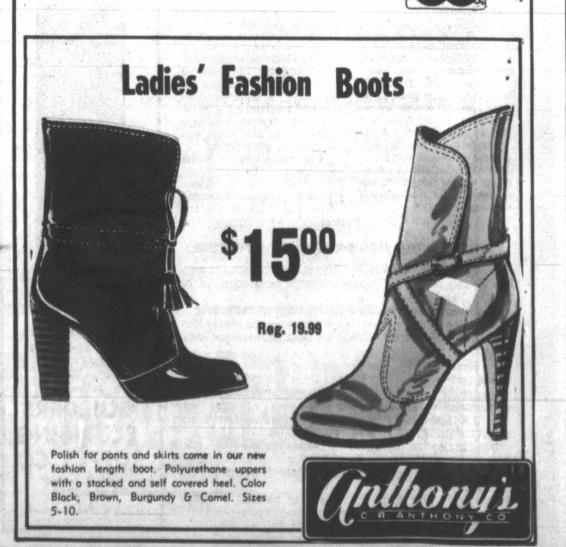

Three tall wicker etageres line up at the end of the family room. They display leisure time needs - stereo, books, hobbies and games stored in big baskets on the bottom shelves:

Slipcovers for modular sofa units are done in the same botanical print fabric as the kitchen tablecloth, which is simply made by cutting fabric to cover the circular top and attaching that top to a floor length shirred skirt.

An area rug is soft and velvety underfoot and appropriate in the sitting area. Underlying the entire room - including the kitchen - is a vinyl corlon floor in a new Armstrong pattern.

If you have a garage or carport adjacent to your kitchen, you can use this space more efficiently today by turning the area into an exciting living space with a garden - like

Insulation

A lack of insulation could be standing between you and lower fuel

. The Department of Energy says Americans could cut heating costs by 20 percent to 30 percent if they installed adequate insulation; in some areas, attic insulation alone can save 20 cents of every heating

Shopping for insulation is complicated, however. How much do you need? What kind should you buy? Can you do it yourself or do you need an expert?

You should start with what's becoming known as the "Fourth R." The "R" stands for resistance and it's the key to measuring how well the insulation prevents the flow of heat from one place to another. Federal regulations taking effect next month require manufacturers to label all insulation with the R-Value at any given thickness.

If you have three inches of insulation with an R-Value of 3 per inch, your total R-Value is 9. Remember: Efficiency does not depend on thickness; two inches of one type of insulation may have a higher R-Value than three inches of another kind. The amount of insulation you need depends largely on where you live. As a general rule, however, attic floors should have insulation with a total R-Value of between 26 and 38; exterior walls generally should have an R-Value of 11 to 13; and basement ceilings or crawlspaces should have from R-11 to R-22. Insulation comes in a variety of materials and forms. The most common materials are mineral wool — which accounts for more than 75 percent of residential insulation, cellulose fiber and plastic. Mineral wool insulation, including fiber glass and rock wool, is relatively inexpensive and easy to apply. It is fire resistant and moisture resistant. It can irritate the skin, however, so it is important to wear gloves and long-sleeved clothes when working with any type of mineral wool.

Cellulose, made from shredded paper, has a higher R-value than mineral wool and does not irritate the skin. It is important, however, to make sure that the cellulose has been treated with a fire-retardant to meet federal standards since improperly-made cellulose insulation is a fire hazard.

Plastics, made of products like polyurethane or urea formaldehyde, offer a high R-value. They are generally resistant to fire, but if they do burn, they can give off a toxic gas. Cleck local fire regulations before you start work.

The forms of insulation include rolls or blankets, batts, loose fill, rigid boards and foam.

Rolls are best for walls or floors with study that are spaced a standard 16 inches or 24 inches apart.

Batts are similar to rolls, but they are cut into four-foot or eight-foot lengths. They are semi-rigid and, like the rolls, are best used in easily accessible areas like unfinished attics and floors.

Loose fill is useful when you want to insulate an odd-shaped space or an enclosed wall cavity that can't be reached wit rolls or batts. It can be poured or blown into place; you will need special equipment if you want to blow it in.

Rigid boards are plastics or fibers pressed into shape. They must be covered with half-inch gypsum board or other finishing material for fire safety. Boards can be used for basement or foundation walls and offer a high R-value for relatively little thickness.

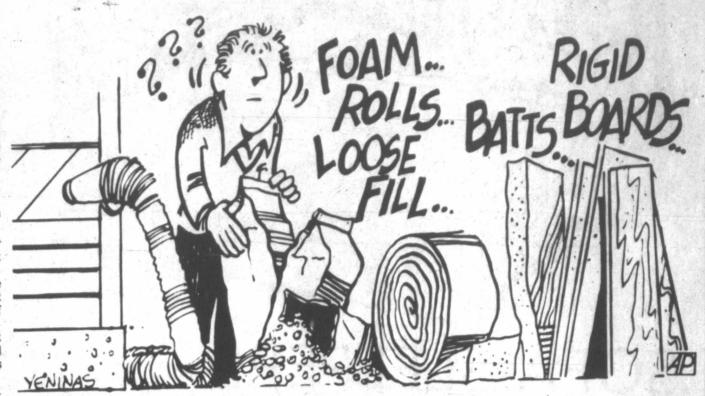

Foam insulation is injected, wet, into walls or other closed spaces. Installation is tricky and should be done by a reputable contractor.

R-Values can vary from manufacturer to manufacturer, but the Federal Trade Commission says there are generally accepted maximum standards. Be suspicious if you see a claim for an R-value higher than the ones listed below: PRODUCT R-VALUE PER INCH Rock wool batts and blankets 3.1 to 3.6

Rock wool loose fill 2.7 to 3.2 Fiber glass batts and blankets 2.7 to 3.7 Fiber glass loose fill 2.1 to 2.4

Cellulose loose fill 3.1 to 3.7 Urea formaldehyde 4.1 to 4.8 Polyurethane 6.3 to 7.7

No matter what material or form you select, you should use a vapor barrier to control moisture. Otherwise, the water vapor in the warm, moist air inside the house can seep into the insulation, causing it to loose its effectiveness

Save Money

You can save hundreds of dollars if you do-it-yourself when it comes to insulation, but you've got to do it right or your money will be wasted. Here are some do's and don'ts: -DO get the right tools. If you're using batts or blankets you'll need a sharp knife and a straight edge to cut against, a measuring tape and a portable light with an extension cord. DO be careful of electrical wiring. Don't try to pull it or bend it out of the way.

-DO work from the outside to the center of the floor when you're insulating the attic. You'll be able to do whatever cutting and fitting is necessary in the middle of the attic rather.

-DON'T put insulation on top of recessed lighting fixtures, motors or other heat-producing equipment sticking through the attic floor.

-DON'T cover vents with insulation. As a general rule, you should allow one square foot of unobstructed ventilation opening for each 300 square feet of attic

-DO use protective gear - gloves, face mask, long-sleeved shirt or jacket, etc. Wear old clothes; even the cleanest attics are dusty.

-DO insulate under attic walkways, pulling or pushing the insulation into place.

Gasoline lines to return?

HOUSTON (AP) - The president of the American Petroleum Institute rejected Tuesday a forecast motorists may be forming gasoline lines by the end of the month.

Charles DiBona told a group of petroleum and energy writers the inventories of both gasoline and winter heating oils are in the "comfortable" range.

The petroleum industry's chief Washington lobbyist said he had read that a West Coast newsletter on retail gasoline marketing trends had said service station lines are possible by the end of October because of government emphasis on heating oil production.

"I don't think that is a viable prediction." he said. "I just don't know how that would happen. Gasoline stocks are 11 million barrels above a year ago and in a comfortable

DiBona said September figures are not yet available but August gasoline demand was 10 to 11 percent below year earlier

'And two-thirds of that decline resulted from increased prices." he said. "If gasoline had still been selling at about 65 cents a gallon, demand would not have been down.

DiBona said a government objective for fuel oil stocks to hit 240 million barrels will be met long before the end of the

"In fact, the industry may have already passed that level but a new report will not be ready for another couple of

"A week ago heating oil stocks totaled 230 million barrels and were increasing at a rate of about a million barrels a day. On that basis, we ought to feel fairly comfortable.

Right now, he added, no problems are expected for the winter season.

"But I cannot say there willbe no problems because something like another Iranian production cutoff could create problems," he said. DiBona was in Houston to speak at a meeting of United Press International editors. He also told the editors he could not give firm answers on whether there will be sufficient heating oil and gasoline supplies this winter and next spring.

"The only thing I can tell you with certainty is we're in an oil-supply jam and we'll be there for some time." he said.

"As long as small import reductions can lead to serious fuel shortages for many people. this nation will be on the razor's edge of energy supply.

Blues skate past Canucks, 5-2

VANCOUVER, British Columbia (AP) — The St. Louis Blues didn't miss Garry Unger at all Tuesday night as they used superior skating to create scoring chances and easily defeat the Vancouver Canucks 5-2 in the opening game of the 1979-80 National Hockey League season.

Unger missed his first start after playing in 833 consecutive games, the all-time NHL record, after playing out his option and shopping his services around the league. The ironman has reportedly made a deal with the Atlanta Flames.

NHL action picks up considerably tonight with five games, as the New York Rangers play at Toronto; Atlanta meets Quebec; Pittsburgh hosts Winnipeg: Edmonton takes on Chicago and Betroit visits Los Angeles.

On Thursday night, it's Winnipeg at Boston; Washington at Buffalo; Atlanta at Montreal; the New York Islanders at Philadelphia; Hartford at Minnesota and St. Louis at Colorado. The youthful Blues got a good effort from goaltender Ed Staniowski and their penalty-killers as they took period leads of 2-0 and 3-1 in an impressive win over the disorganized Canucks. "It was a good effort by everyone, but especially by the goaltender and the penalty-killers." said Blues Coach Barclay Plager. "We're a skating team and we created two of our goals by skating and being in good position in their end.

St. Louis got goals from rookie Bob Crawford, Blake Dunlop. Wayne Babych. Brian Sutter and Hartland Monahan as the Blues took advantage of the few good scoring opportunities they got.

Sooners to win against Texas

HOUSTON (AP) - Rice University Coach Ray Alborn, whose Owls lost to Texas and Oklahoma on successive weekends, said Tuesday that the Sooners should win the annual slugfest in Dallas if they don't

"Oklahoma has a very explosive offense and unless they leave the ball on the ground (fumble), I don't see anyone stopping them."

"Now if they have trouble pitching the ball, Texas could win but if they get the ball to the corner it could be a long afternoon. If I were going to pick a winner I'd pick Oklahoma."

Alborn has an accurate track record for picking the winner of the annual classic. When the Owls lost to Oklahoma 66-7 and to Texas 34-0 last year, Alborn predicted a Sooner victory. Texas Coach Fred Akers didn't like the forecast but the Sooners did win the game 31-10. Rice improved against UT and OU this season, losing to Oklahoma 63-21 and to Texas 26-9 and Alborn has the same prediction for the

The game shapes up as a battle between the potent Oklahoma offense led by Heisman Trophy winner Billy Sims and the rugged defense of the Longhorns, rated by some as the best in the school's

"Texas' defense tackle to tackle, manhandled us pretty well," Alborn said. "They put a big rush on and their secondary is good. We just couldn't get the ball to our receivers.'

Alborn said the Sooners aren't as powerful offensively as last year and that graduated Thomas Lott was more effective operating the wishbone than J.C. Watts.

"I wouldn't be surprised to see Oklahoma start Kelly Phelps," Alborn said

Sims and UT running back A.J. Jones each rushed over 100 yards against the Owls but Sims played less than one-half of the game and Jones played the entire game.

"Jones is a good back, but he's not Billy Sims," h7. "The healing should get better and we expect him to play z5tech's great kicking," he said.

NBA West looking tougher this year

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Seattle SuperSonics have improved significantly since last season, when they won their first National Basketball Association

Yet they are anything but a lock to become the first team in more than a decade to win consecutive NBA titles.

The Sonics will have their hands full repeating in the Pacific Division, by far the NBA's toughest, let alone going all the way. Pacific playmates Phoenix and Los Angeles rate right up with Seattle as legitmate contenders for the NBA title, and San Diego and Portland are both only a couple of players away. Seattle has last year's title team back intact, and has added three players who should make valuable contributions: center Tom LaGarde, who missed most of last season because of a knee injury, and college standouts James Bailey of Rutgers and Vinnie Johnson of Baylor. The Sonics will need them all if they are to become the league's first repeat champion since the 1968-69 Boston Celtics.

In the Midwest, the Kansas City Kings lost their home — the roof fell in on Kemper Arena, forcing a move to older, smaller Municipal, Auditorium - but are favored to retain their division title, although Denver has the firepower to regain the top spot. Pacific Division SEATTLE - The Sonics are loaded. Jack Sikma. Lonnie Shelton, LaGarde, Bailey and veteran Paul Silas share the power positions. John Johnson and Wally Walker are the small forwards. Dennis Johnson and Gus Williams are the best two-way guard tandem in the league, and Fred Brown and Vinnie Johnson are explosive reserves. The coolness of Coach Wilkens and the intensity of the huge Kingdome crowds are other plusses. Minuses? None are apparent.

PHOENIX - A full year from Truck Robinson, who came over from the Jazz in midseason and then suffered an illness late in the year, could be all the Suns need to shine. There are no new faces, with the all-star starting five - Robinson and Walter Davis at forward, Alvan Adams in the middle and Paul Westphal and Don Buse on the back line - again backed up by no-name reserves like Mike Bratz and Joel Kramer.

It was old stuff — a celluloid replay for the Pirates — but every time one of them got a hit or made a throw they let out a deafening roar as if it were a brand new feat. The drenching rain outside, forcing postponement of Tuesday night's opening game of the baseball World Series against the Baltimore Orioles, failed to dampen their unharnessed spirits. Willie Stargell, the 38-year-old bellwether of the NL champions. sat on a sofa, bare-footed, playing a card game called Pluck with teammates Jim Bibby, Grant Jackson and Rennie Stennett.

Who could imagine that this hulking, 225-pound veteran of 17 seasons was originator of the idea of awarding gold crocheted stars to decorate caps of teammates who made some outstanding contribution on the field? Kent Tekulve, the reed-thin reliever, for instance, seems to

Spurs won't move to Dallas

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) - The San Antonio Spurs have resolved their dispute with San Antonio city council members and won't be moving back to Dallas, says Spurs President Angelo Drossos Drossos had created a furor when he told the San Antonio Express-News in a copyright article Sunday that he was looking into the possibility of moving the National Basketball Association team to Dallas because of problems with the city council. He now says he misunderstood the situation.

Drossos met Monday with council members to settle the dispute that had developed over the possible loss of some portable seats in the city-owned HemisFair Arena where the Spurs play The 568 choice seats had been allowed in the past and were pre-sold

City officials, however, said it was understood those seats, which are in violation of the city fire code, would be removed this year because the Arena seating has been increased.

Under an agreement worked out with the fire marshal and approved last week by the council, the Spurs were allowed to install 234 permanent seats in one row of the fire aisle, but not two rows.

Drossos, pointing out that the other portable seats are already sold and were allowed in the past, then attacked the council for non-support and said he feared it was a preview of bad things to

Drossos said he was especially fearful that the team would lose the concession rights when its contract with the city expires in three years. That, he said, would cause the team serious financial

The Spurs president said in the article that he would neet this week with NBA officials to explore the possibility of moving the nchise back to Dallas.

Series still tied 0-0 after rainout

BALTIMORE (AP) — The 1979 World Series still was tied 0-0 today because not even baseball's annual fall classic can fool around with Mother Nature.

* It rained on the scheduled Tuesday night opener of the best-of-seven game confrontation between the Baltimore Orioles and Pittsburgh Pirates. It marked the first time in the 76-year history of the Series that the opener was postponed. And it was the 26th time a Series game bowed to the elements — 25 to rain and one because of cold weather. Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn called off the game at 8:32 P.M., (EDT) just two minutes after the scheduled starting time. The decision was booed by the fans, but justified by the continuing downpour and dire weather forecast for the rest of Tuesday night. There was no way the American League champion Orioles and National League winning Pirates could have played on the sopping wet natural grass and dirt surface. Although a tarpaulin covered the infield, the outfield was full of puddles. · It wouldn't have taken long once the tarp was off to turn the infield into a quagmire. And, the valuable talent on both teams would have been subjected to possible injury. The decision was wise if slightly delayed.

The rain started more than three hours before the nationally televised game was supposed to get begin. The National Weather Service forecasted a 60 percent chance of the inclement weather lasting into today. The forecast for tonight, however, was for clear skies.

As a result of the first World Series postponement since 1976, when the fourth game between the Cincinnati Reds and New York Yankees was heldup a day by rain, the Orioles and Pirates will forego their travel day Thursday.

The Series opens tonight (8:30 P.M. EDT) and continues Thursday night. The teams will hustle to Pittsburgh for a third game Friday night. The fourth game is scheduled for Pittsburgh Saturday afternoon. If needed, a fifth game is scheduled for Pittsburgh

Sunday afternoon, with Monday off and a return to Baltimore if Games Six and Seven are necessary. Managers Earl Weaver of the Orioles and Chuck Tanner of the Pirates, said the rainout would not affect their lineups for the delayed opener. Weaver said Mike Flanagan, whose 23 victories led the majors during the regular season, still would open for the Orioles. Weaver also held to his plan to use Mark Belanger at shortstop for more defensive strength. Weaver said John Lowenstein, a left-handed hitter, would be in left, and switch-hitter Billy Smith at second base, to give Baltimore more offense against Pirates' starter Bruce Kison, a right-hander.

Weaver went so far as to name his starting pitchers for the next three games - Jim Palmer, Scott McGregor and Dennis Martinez. Tanner had disclosed he would use Bert Blyleven and John Candelaria in Games Two and Three, but that was as far as the Pirates' skipper would project.

Tanner said that if Flanagan was the Orioles' starter tonight, he would stick with Bill Robinson in leftfield and rookie Steve Nicosia behind the plate. Both swing from the right side and hopefully would make the Pirates more effective against the left-handed Weaver and Orioles' fans still were concerned about how the non-use of the American League designated hitter rule in the Series would affect Baltimore.

about offense riese concerned

MIAMI (AP) - Bob Griese is concerned about the Miami Dolphins' sputtering offense, but he's not sure what else he can do. Coach Don Shula is also concerned, but he may have an alternative.

Shula said Tuesday he will closely monitor the physical status of backup quarterback Don Strock this week. Griese has yet to consistently move the offense this season and Miami has lost its last Shula doesn't know whether Griese's problems are a result of age - he's 34 - or a bothersome hamstring pull, but he does know the Dolphins aren't going anywhere unless they improve their offense.

"We're so disappointed with the offense," Shula said. "The only thing we can go by is what's happened this year, and the only good half we've had is the second half of the Bears game when we scored four touchdowns.

After Monday night's 13-3 loss at Oakland, Griese said: "I'm not happy about the way things are going. I am the leader of the offense and the offense has not been scoring. That concerns me.

ball games," he said.

All I can do is what I think will move the ball, score points and win For the second straight week, Griese had a weak pass intercepted and returned for a costly touchdown.

Ward tops honor roll

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ AP Sports Writer

, Bridge City Coach Andy Griffin would like to take full credit for developing Bryan Ward, his prize running back, into a lethal offensive weapon.

Alas, Mother Nature gets most of the credit.

"He doesn't have the great speed but he has that natural instinct of knowing how to avoid being tackled and that is something you don't teach," Griffin said. "If he had the great speed, he'd be the best Ward, a 5-9, 178-pound junior, was at his best last week when he rushed 250 yards on 20 carries and scored three touchdowns on runs of 2, 38 and 40 yards in a 34-6 victory over Cleveland. The performance gave Ward 764 yards rushing and 12 touchdowns in five games this season and earned him mention this week in The Associated Press Schoolboy Honor Roll

Although Griffin can't take credit for Ward's instincts, he did have the foresight to bring Ward along slowly. Ward was a junior high phenom and came to the Bridge City varsity his freshman season. "We didn't want to take the chance of destroying his confidence,"

Griffin said. Ward rushed 542 yards his freshman year and came back last season with 1,241 yards on 266 carries. He now has 2,541 career yards but probably won't become the school's all-time rushing leader, a title held by former Texas running back Steve Worster.

Nederland's Billy Butler also earns mention this week for his versatile performance in a 13-3 victory over West Orange Stark in a game where he played quarterback, split end, defensive back and

Butler kicked field goals of 32 and 22 yards, caught a 16-yard touchdown pass and intercepted a pass with 2:53 left in the game to kill Stark's final comeback bid. Butler finished with 23 yards rushing on eight carries, caught five passes for 44 yards and punted five times for a 37-yard average.

"I guess he should have carried the water out too, he did everything else." Nederland Coach Lloyd Wasserman said.

"In analyzing Bob's performance in the Jets game (a 33-27 loss). he had five or six poor throws, which is very uncharacteristic of Bob," Shula said.

Monday night, Griese was sacked six times. Shula said some of the sacks occurred because the receivers weren't open and pass protection finally broke down.

"Other times, our quarterback didn't get the ball off the way he should," Shula said.

Strock, who led Miami to a 27-12 victory over Minnesota after an injured Griese left a 12-7 deficit, has been sidelined with an ankle injury since quarterbacking the Bears game.

"I'm going to have to evaluate the (quarterback) situation. I'll watch Don Strock's physical status. Hopefully, Don will get a good week's practice in. "I'm not going to get into a suspense theater as to who's going to start on Sunday (against Buffalo). I'll evaluate Strock all week long and see how he is." Shula said. The Dolphins have fallen to 4-2 and are tied with the New England Patriots in the American Football Conference East. We're down to a situation now where we're tied for first. It's a sick feeling because we know we've let two games that we had good chances of winning get away," Shula said.

China, says Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby "There's obviously billions of dollars of business to be done." Hobby said at a news conference Tuesday. "Who will get the business and when they will get it depends on the companies. Hobby, two representatives of the Texas Industrial Commission and 12 officers of Texas drilling equipment companies returned Sunday from a 15-day trip to China.

It was the first state-sponsored trade mission to China.

The officers included President J. Ray Pace of Baker World Trade, Inc., Houston, whose company has done $40 million of business with the Chinese in the past year.

Hobby said Baker "was able to secure repeat orders and even more important he was able to meet with high officials that he had not been able

"Our list of business contacts is endless and all Texas businesses should benefit, particularly Texas' oil-related industry, which will most certainly be assured of lucrative business dealings with the PRC (People's Republic of China) in the very near future," Hobby said.

Absent from the mission was any representative of SEDCO, the international drilling company founded by Gov. Bill Clements. Hobby said the Chinese have only about 600 drilling rigs in operation but their schedule calls for about 2,000 rigs to be in operation within the next five years.

The goal of 4-H is to help young people learn useful skills that can benefit themselves and their communities. The 4-H movement started in the United States about 80 years ago, as young people in rural areas formed clubs to learn about canning and growing corn and poultry. Today many 4-H members live in cities, and can be any age between 9 and 19.4-H projects include money management, cooking, sewing, bicycle safety, gardening, photography, woodworking and planting trees. For the new season, the 1980 Buick Century Limited Sedan. Our little limousine.

A rather attractive new Century, wouldn't you say? Indeed, an excitingly roadable, guiet and expensive-looking Buick. And yet, priced far below what you might expect.

It's a car that makes six people very comfortable. With standard amenities like crushed velour 55/45 notchback seating. Cut-pile carpeting. Power front disc brakes and more.

Our little limousine. Stop in and see one today.
