Estes receives 10 years

DALLAS (AP) — Billie Sol Estes, the former financial wizard whose big-time wheelings and dealings landed him in prison in the 1960s, stood outside a federal courtroom trying to comfort his distraught wife and four teary-eyed daughters.

Estes, 54, appeared calm, even though U.S. District Judge Robert Hill moments before had sentenced the West Texas con man to 10 years in federal prison for concealing assets from the Internal Revenue Service and for scheming to defraud investors.

Hill assessed the maximum penalty of five years on each of two convictions returned July 11.

"I don't feel like asking you for mercy. I know in my heart you'll do the right thing," Estes told the judge before he was sentenced.

"I'm sorry I've put this country through such great shame. But I want you to know that if you send me to prison, you won't be ashamed of me as a prisoner ... I'd rather be in prison in this country than free anywhere else," he added.

Co-defendant Raymond K. Horton, a West Texas entrepreneur, also was assessed a three-year prison term and fined $10,000 for concealing assets from the government.

"I've made some bad judgements. I have no one to blame but myself," the 51-year-old Midland oilman said.

Estes attorney, G. Brockett Irwin, said he "definitely" plans to appeal the sentence. However, Horton's attorneys said they have not made a decision yet.

Hill advised Horton that if he did not file a written notice of appeal within 10 days, he would be required to report to the U.S. Marshal on Aug. 20 for confinement.

Personal recognizance bonds for both men also were continued, pending appeal.

Among the eight witnesses asking Hill for leniency in his decision was J.H. Burkett, a Panhandle farmer whom Estes allegedly swindled out of $50,000 through documents bearing the forged signature of Tyler millionaire Billy D. Pyron.

Burkett, now a used car salesman in Abilene, told the judge he was not retracting the testimony he gave during the four-week trial. However, he said, he had reached a "satisfactory" agreement with Estes to repay the money.

"I hope you will give Mr. Estes that opportunity," he pleaded.

Attorneys for both sides are scheduled to meet with Hill next week to decide on a motion filed by Estes requesting a new trial. Accompanying the motion was an affidavit from juror Ray Loggins, who claimed he was coerced into voting for conviction during deliberations.

Also to be decided is whether the state will retry Estes and Horton on charges they bilked legitimate leasing companies out more than $600,000 through the sale of non-existent oil field steam cleaners.

The jury deadlocked on a verdict, and a mistrial was declared.

Attorney general joins probe

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The attorney general's office has joined five other state and local agencies investigating possible criminal misuse of state funds at North Texas State University.

Lonny Zwiener, head of the attorney general's education division, said Monday he would work with the state auditor in reviewing records of a private foundation that supports the Denton university.

The House General Investigating Committee, the Department of Public Safety and the district attorneys of Denton and Austin also are looking into university finances.

State auditors have said they $182,430 deposited with the found the 43 donors involved intended to the university.

Zwiener told the House comm former or present college officials state for "small" amounts of expenses. The money could be recovered through civil suit, he added.

"One thing that would help would be an audit of the foundation's own funds," Zwiener said. "There has been some investigation by the auditor but not the real audit that might explain some of the items."

The Denton County district attorney's office is keeping foundation records locked in the Denton courthouse.

Rep. Bill Hollowell, D-Grand Saline, asked if the state had authority to audit a private, non-profit corporation.

Workshops for cleaning

WASHINGTON (AP) — Workshop Christi, Texas, to teach bird clean imminent approach of oil from a bl

"Cleaning birds is not like wash amount of skill," Columbus Brow coordinator for the U.S. Fish and W

Officials are hoping, however, n never have to swing into action.

"Prevention is No. 1," Brow program after oil coats birds' plumage could hope for only a fairly low survival rate.

Among other variables, the amount of damage to the waterfowl population depends on where the oil goes and not how big the spill is. A 25,000 gallon spill of No. 6 fuel oil last year in the Chesapeake Bay killed far more waterfowl than the recent crash of two supertankers in the Caribbean.

"Our people probably have to respond to a lot of oil spills people never hear about," Megan Durham, a public information officer for the service, said.

The Coast Guard's efforts to forestall the spill's penetration to the estuaries and sheltered areas of the Laguna Madre where most of the bird habitats are located therefore are crucial.

"First of all, we want to make sure that as little oil gets into these areas as possible," Brown said. "In the event that doesn't work, the option would be to keep the waterfowl out of the area."

Fish and wildlife workers would use "hazing" techniques to disperse the birds from their usual nesting grounds for a time.

Ms. Durham said a 30 percent survival rate would be good if bird cleaning needs to be performed.

"There's a whole lot of things that can affect their survival rates," she said. "They would be lucky to save 20-25 percent."

State and federal employees will be trained at a workshop Wednesday. A session is planned Thursday to train a group of volunteers.

Alice Berkner, executive director of the bird rescue research center that formed after the famous 1969 Santa Barbara oil spill, is scheduled to assist with the training and the cleaning.

Ms. Durham said the techniques of bird cleaning are complicated enough to mean that trained workers are significantly more successful.

The science, after all, is only 10 years old.

The Texas Gulf Coast species causing the most concern right now are the brown pelican, on the endangered list, and the state-protected least tern. Ms. Durham said.

Sandy water factor in Hawaii drownings

HONOLULU, Hawaii (AP) — Water in the lungs is not the only danger to near-drowning victims, say radiologists at Tripler Army Medical Center here.

They warn that if a victim is near a beach where waves break and mix with sand, it's possible that there is sand, as well as water, in the lungs and breathing passages.

The sand, easily seen on X-ray studies, must be quickly washed out to avoid complications, or even death, in those near-drowning victims.

Doctors say they were alerted to such "sand drownings" when X-ray studies of a 23-year-old drowning victim showed pronounced definition ("marked opacity") of the windpipe and bronchus. The autopsy showed these were packed with sand.

In another case, a 20-year-old man was struck by a wave and pulled under but was rescued.

He was totally alert and breathed normally but a chest radiograph showed inflammation indicating sand in the bronchus. A bronchoscope was used to wash the area with a saline solution.

MENDING MATURE MARRIAGE

Readers have retirement problems

By Louise Pierce

Several recent letters have dealt with the problems that develop without warning and harass marital happiness when one of you retires and the other continues to work. You both went to offices or plants or stores or schools at 9 a.m. and usually drove home together at 5 p.m. for 25 years or more, each eager to discuss the day's activities with the other. Now, all at once, only one has news. The other is sick of being alone all day, jealous of the other's lulling pleasure and exhausted from resting too much. Here's what you've written me:

DEAR LOUISE: Will you believe that my own husband retired me at sixty and hired my cousin, 20 years younger, to be his secretary? She's a widow with two kids in college, and he said she needed the job worse than I did. I'd been his right arm for 35 years — and I love the office. I offered to give her half the work and all the salary — but R said he wanted me to be home. How would you feel if you were I? — CONFUSED

DEAR LOUISE: I'd realize that my cousin wouldn't accept my total salary without total work. I'd be glad that R wanted to help my needy relative. And I'd conclude that he might want me to have spare time and new interests of my own at last. If he showed no appreciation of that effort, I'd try to get him to approve my taking a 9 to 5 somewhere else.

DEAR LOUISE: I'm a lot younger than my husband and I was promoted to a top executive position in a big company three years ago. I like the job and the salary and the people I work with. If I stay there until I'm 65 (only 15 more years), I'll have a terrific pension, and that's what I want to do. But my short-sighted Phil has yelled at me to quit my job ever since he retired last year. He says we could be together all the time and take trips and enjoy life — and that he may walk out if I don't stay home. I say he's being unreasonable and selfish. What do you say? — LIKES JOB

DEAR L.J.: I say you're both selfish. And you will both have to give a little if you want to keep your marriage intact. He needs new work to occupy his mind and hands, whether you stay home or not. Try to get him interested in growing a rose garden or doing repair work around the neighborhood or playing dominoes and cards a few times a week. As for you, what will it profit you if you retire rich and alone at 65? If Phil refuses to take up new activities, you'll have to rearrange your working life. See if your present job can be reduced to half days, provided Phil agrees to that adjustment. If it can't, and he won't, then try to compromise on a half-day job somewhere else. If that doesn't work out either, go home and plan a life that you two can enjoy together. I have several friends who took early retirement from good jobs to share the golden years of their older husbands. Some garden or go fishing together. In other cases the wife enjoys short trips to short tasks in nearby towns and the husband enjoys the treks with her. They've got the solution to their problems — because they elected to stay together above all else.

If you or your friends need to solve problems, write to DEAR LOUISE for help, at Box 616, Pampa, Texas 79065.

Dr. Lamb

by

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Will you please explain the difference between arthritis and gout? Is Indocin the best thing for either? My doctor gives no encouragement in either case. My husband has gout and takes Indocin.

DEAR READER — Gout is caused by high levels of uric acid production by your own body cells. Uric acid salts can cause acute inflammation of the toe. On a long-term basis, it can settle in joints and cause gouty arthritis. Thus, gout is the cause of one type of arthritis.

I'm sending you The Health Letter number 2-3 on gout and uric acid to give you more information about this problem. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents in check or coin with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me at P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Arthritis includes a long list of conditions. The two main forms of arthritis are osteoarthritis, the degenerative type most often seen in people past middle age, and the other common type is rheumatoid arthritis which is a generalized disease associated with inflammation of the joints.

There are a lot of other causes for arthritis, including gonorrhea, and at one time tuberculosis was a common cause. Stated another way, arthritis can be a complication of a number of different inflammatory diseases.

Indocin is used to control an acute attack of gout. It is one of several medicines used for this purpose. It is also useful in a number of inflammatory conditions which include some cases of rheumatoid arthritis. As in gout, there are many other medicines that are commonly used in different forms of arthritis and the choice of the medication to be used depends upon which type of arthritis it is and the overall condition of the patient.

DEAR DR. LAMB — What can a person do if he swallows air and can't help it? I tried everything to stop but my mouth gets full of saliva and becomes very tense and itchy. I have to stop, but how do I go about it? My stomach is bloated and I feel full all the time, even when I haven't eaten. It may not be a serious problem but it really bothers me.

DEAR READER — It's uncomfortable to be full of gas, regardless of whether it's in swallowing air or some other cause. My first suggestion would be that you should see a physician. He might be able to give you some medicine that will help keep your mouth dry and stop the excess formation of saliva. That way you won't have to swallow all the time.

The fact that you swallow air and produce lots of saliva suggests to me that you might be a little on the tense side. He may be able to help you with your tension problems.

Aside from those measures, my best suggestion is to learn to walk around with an eraser between your teeth, at least while you're at home and out of public view. It's hard to swallow when you're holding an eraser between your teeth and that will alert you to the fact that you are swallowing and help train you out of the habit.

Klan sponsors 'summer camp'

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — In most ways, it looked like any other summer camp — kids munching hot dogs and playing volleyball. But the guard at the gate was dressed in white robes and packed a pistol, and the kids took time from their games for rifle practice.

A counselor at the camp told the youngsters they were being taught how to fire a rifle because, "Some day you'll be Klansmen in robes and you'll be fighting beside us."

The camp, somewhere north of Birmingham, is run by the Invisible Empire of the Ku Klux Klan. The 47-acre site is owned by Roger Handley, Alabama grand dragon of this particular Klan faction.

Reporters who visited the camp Sunday, at the Klan's invitation, were taken to it convoy-style, over a roundabout route of country roads that made its exact location hard to pinpoint.

Reporter Bob Bray of the Birmingham News was among those who visited the camp. His story appeared in Monday's editions.

Bill Wilkinson of Denham Springs, La., imperial wizard of the faction, said in addition to usual summer-camp activities, target practice and karate lessons, campers attend weekly classes on "what it means to be white. We want to make what the liberal media would call racists out of them."

Tony Anderson, state director for the Klan's Youth Corps program, said after Life magazine printed several pictures of camp activities in its August issue, it was decided that the camp should be opened to other media.

So on Sunday, NBC News showed up. So did a crew from CBS' "60 Minutes," the American correspondent for the Danish national television network and a reporter from a New York newspaper.

They waited for hours under a blistering sun to see youngsters heft a rifle and take two shots apiece at paper plates lined up in a ravine.

"There are people, particularly communists, who would stoop to anything, even attacking kids," Wilkinson said.

Some of the youngsters told reporters that they joined the corps because of harassment and physical attacks from blacks in schools.

"Let's face it," Anderson told the group. "You're Youth Corps. You stand together and you fight together..."

Wilkinson said members of the youth group, which is open to 12-to 18-year-olds, are not Klan members.

Animals may help predict quakes

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Five minutes before one of the strongest earthquakes to hit Northern California this century began jostling the region, an elephant at a wild animal park in Redwood City almost tore her barn door from its hinges.

Scientists studying Monday's outburst by the normally docile beast — and similar behavior among other animals — say it could provide more evidence for a growing belief among Western seismologists that animals may some day help humans predict the fearsome quakes.

The earthquake, which registered 5.9 on the Richter scale as it raced along the Calaveras Fault, did relatively little damage and injured only a handful of people. But it set off strange reactions in many animals.

"It's very interesting, very encouraging news," said Dr. Jack Evernden, a U.S. Geological Survey research geophysicist studying the impact of earthquakes on animals. "With documentation like that, it makes it so much easier to believe. It gives more credibility to the whole thing."

The reactions of the animals at the 65-acre Marine World Africa U.S.A. in Redwood City south of here will be added to a daily record of their behavior being kept to determine, after the fact, whether animals do sense quakes.

The quake began in late morning. Two waves lasting more than 15 seconds each jolted the state over a 350-mile wedge from a point north of here to Encino just north of Los Angeles, according to the California Institute of Technology.

Two aftershocks, registering 3.0 and 4.0 on the Richter scale, came shortly before and shortly after 3:30 p.m. PDT.

Towns near the epicenter, like Hollister 100 miles south of here, reported damage to buildings, glass and store merchandise. One Santa Cruz County woman fell and broke her leg, and three people in Hollister were hospitalized for symptoms of heart attacks.

In addition, Pacific 1 & Electric reported a few minor power outages, and Pacific Telephone said service was delayed for a time, mostly due to overloaded circuits.

At Marine World, spokeswoman Mary Jo O'Harran said there were reports Sunday night of unusual behavior by llamas, a baby cougar and a 5-week-old tiger.

Evernden said there has been a lot of skepticism about a link between quakes and animal behavior, especially because there has been little documentation of animal behavior before an earthquake.

"There's been a lot of anecdotal things, people saying what their animals did after an earthquake but nothing has been recorded on a daily basis," said Evernden. "This is essentially the beginning of this kind of research. It's nice to get some good examples."

He said similar research is now under way at UCLA and Stanford, trying to validate claims advanced by Chinese scientists, who use animals in their often-successful quake prediction program.

OVERSEAS

TOKYO (AP) — North Korea attacked U.S. plans for a "quick reaction corps" that could be flown to Korea or the Middle East in an emergency. Rodong Sinmun, the North Korean Communist Party newspaper, said these were "dangerous moves for new war preparations."

"The U.S. imperialists bossed by (President) Carter have actually drawn up a plan for another Korean war and are translating it into practice," the official paper said.

It said Carter's decision to suspend the withdrawal of U.S. troops from South Korea "seeks the sinister aim of hastening preparations for another war against the Korean people."

TOKYO (AP) — The Japan Medical Association says Chinese medicine is 30 years behind the profession in Japan and other advanced nations, and it has invited Chinese medical officials to Japan as the first step toward catching up.

A spokeswoman for the association said it invited the Chinese to send 10 medical experts to tour Japanese medical facilities for a week or two during the winter. She added that the association and the Japanese government are discussing the possibility of Chinese doctor studying and working in Japan for periods of two and three years.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Deaf mute kidnapped, drugged

CHICAGO (AP) — Antonio Melendez has indicated to police that he was abducted and injected with a drug. But authorities say they may never determine where he was because the 30-year-old handicapped man is deaf and speechless.

Police found Melendez on Sunday — five days after he disappeared from a grocery near his home. He used signs to tell investigators what happened. "This is going to be a tough case to crack," said investigator Joseph Greco. "We have a 100 percent communication problem, because he can't even make the simplest identifications. We'll just have to be patient and hope for the best."

Man to fight speeding tickets

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Joey Staats says he plans to fight the speeding ticket he received last weekend. His excuse: He and his brother-in-law, John Rossi, were rushing Cecelia Dean to a hospital because she was in labor.

About 1 a.m. Sunday, Ricky Dean discovered his car wouldn't start. So he raced next door. Staats, an ambulance driver, and Rossi rose to the occasion and sped off. They were stopped by police near the hospital and escorted to the emergency room. But shortly after Ricky Dean Jr. was born, Staats was ticketed. Rossi protested and was arrested. "Good guys always finish last," Rossi lamented.

Fishermen plan to fight ban

SEATTLE (AP) — Washington state fishermen, recently returned to work, are going to court to forestall next month's five-day ban on trolling. The ban is similar to a 10-day closure, which expired Saturday, intended to ensure Indians would get their share of chinook salmon. Scott Stafne, attorney for the Washington Trollers Association, said the group wants the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals to consider whether U.S. District Judge William Schwarzer of Portland, Ore., had authority to order the bans and whether he properly interpreted a recent U.S. Supreme Court ruling on Indian fishing rights.

Committee raising funds for Teddy

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Saying President Carter lacks the necessary leadership, the Pennsylvania Committee for a Democratic Alternative has begun raising money and support for Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., as a 1980 presidential candidate.

The committee filed documents with the State Election Commission on Monday allowing it to raise funds. In a letter to prospective donors, the group said, "We have come together for the purpose of demonstrating that a true grass roots movement exists to draft Senator Edward Kennedy as the Democratic nominee next year." Kennedy has said he expects Carter to be the party's nominee.

Newspapers question actors deaths

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — British newspapers are wondering if the cancer deaths of John Wayne and others who worked on the same 1954 film may have been caused by nuclear fallout.

Says one film promoter: "I knew the picture was a bomb, but I didn't think it was that kind of a bomb."

Lyn Unkfer helped promote the movie, "The Conqueror," which was filmed on location in Utah. The film was a pet project of the late billionaire Howard Hughes, and was the last film he produced.

Vietnam bars nine investigating congressmen

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — Vietnam barred nine U.S. congressmen investigating the refugee situation in Southeast Asia because one of the lawmakers accused Hanoi of human rights violations, but the leader of the group said today he was "very hopeful" the trip would take place.

The Foreign Ministry in Hanoi said the delegation was not welcome because of the charge of human rights violations, and said such violations were not committed, the Vietnamese Embassy in Kuala Lumpur said today.

It said Vietnam invited the delegation to Hanoi Wednesday in hopes the trip would help clarify the refugee issue but that the invitation was withdrawn because the congressmen appeared interested only in criticizing Vietnam.

Delegation member Robert F. Drinan, D-Mass., said during a tour of refugee camps in Hong Kong over the weekend the Vietnamese were driving out the refugees as part of a cruel policy that was one of the worst human rights violations.

Drinan repeated the charge today when the delegation arrived in Kuala Lumpur from Jakarta, Indonesia.

"The whole world knows there are 400,000 Vietnamese people who are in detention camps, who are refugees, who are boat people. The conscience of the world has been shocked," Drinan told reporters.

But delegation leader Benjamin S. Rosenthal, D-N.Y., said negotiations were going on at a "very high level" between the United States and Vietnam in hopes the visit could take place.

"We're still very hopeful that the matter will be resolved since it is in the interest of both our governments, our peoples and the larger world community that our trip proceeds," he said.

Vietnam's acting foreign minister, Nguyen Co Thach, told The New York Times, meanwhile, that Hanoi and Washington reached full agreement on normalizing relations in secret talks in New York last fall but the Carter administration backed down.

Thach said in an interview in Hanoi that the breakthrough came Sept. 28 when Vietnam dropped its demand that the United States agree to a major aid commitment before relations were normalized, but that the United States was more interested in establishing relations with China first.

Richard C. Holbrooke, assistant secretary of state for East Asian and Pacific Affairs who led the American delegation in New York, confirmed a major obstacle to normalization had been removed but said lack of follow-through was due to Vietnam's policy toward refugees, its invasion of Cambodia and links to Russia.

"The Thach account is misleading insofar as we had not reached an agreement... We decided not to move forward because of the regional factors," Holbrooke told reporters in Washington.

Meanwhile, the British freighter Rudd Bank dropped anchor off Hong Kong's territorial waters today, but authorities refused entry to the 124 rescued Vietnamese refugees aboard until officials in London agreed to accept them.

Pro-PLO change could kill treaty

HAIFA, Israel (AP) — Israel warned that a pro-PLO change the United States is reported considering for the basic U.N. Security Council resolution on the Arab-Israeli conflict could scuttle the Egyptian-Israeli peace treaty.

Israeli sources said the message the Cabinet sent to President Carter Sunday threatened Israel might back out of the treaty if language from the Camp David pact referring to the "legitimate rights" of the Palestinians was used to amend Resolution 242.

The sources said Interior Minister Yosef Burg told the Egyptians and Americans at the resumption of the Palestinian autonomy negotiations Monday that any change in the resolution "could well have an effect on these negotiations."

Israeli spokesman Dan Pattir said there was no threat of an immediate breakdown in the talks in Haifa on proposals for Palestinian self-government in the West Bank and Gaza Strip. But he said "Israel will not agree to or accept, under any circumstances, a change in 242."

He called the resolution "the only agreed basis on which one can negotiate."

The Carter administration has been reported trying to attract Palestinian support to the Egyptian-Israeli peace treaty with suggestions that Resolution 242 might be amended to call for a Palestinian homeland and recognition of the Palestinians' "legitimate rights."

The 1967 resolution's only reference to the Palestinians is to the Palestinian refugee question, and Israel fears that anything beyond that would give support to Palestinian demands for a state of their own on the West Bank.

WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rosalynn Carter and Secretary of State Cyrus Vance are expected to have their first personal contact with officials of Nicaragua's new government this week while in Ecuador for the inauguration of President-elect Jaime Roldos.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You can learn much today by observing one who does things in ways you admire. His techniques can be applied in situations which affect you. How to get along with other signs is one of the sections you'll enjoy in your new Astro-Graph Letter that begins with your birthday. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) When you are properly motivated today you will find it greatly enhances your productivity. Look for the rewards that a job well done has to offer.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Should one you know on a purely social basis offer to do you a favor today, take him up on it immediately. He may balk if you vacillate.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Something you've wanted changed to your benefit but have been unable to accomplish could suddenly be brought about through another's efforts today.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You have the gift today to use the ideas or suggestions of others in ways that could personally profit you. Perk up your ears.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) This should be a rewarding day materially from projects or enterprises where you are using your skills or talents on the behalf of others.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Set high standards for yourself today workwise. Not only should you do a good job, but even a bit more than is expected. The payoff will be worth it.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Don't be hesitant to trust new methods or techniques today. They are apt to be the ones that will get the job done for you. Think progressively.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) A matter that could mean something to you financially should not be left dangling today. Delaying things may also hold up or erase your profit.

Backup role hard

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — The role of backup quarterback with the Dallas Cowboys has gained increasing importance because of two recent emergencies, when No. 1 quarterback Roger Staubach was literally knocked out of action.

Danny White came in to rescue the Cowboys in their first playoff game last December, when Staubach suffered a concussion while Atlanta was leading 20-13. White completed 10 of 20 passes and connected for one touchdown to boost Dallas to a 27-20 victory as the Cowboys advanced toward their Super Bowl XIII loss to Pittsburgh.

It was only his third time in what White calls "the pressure cooker" during three years with Dallas, but all three of his pressure games were Cowboy victories.

Staubach, the National Football League's leading passer in 1978, lay motionless on the field for five minutes after he suffered another concussion Saturday night in early action of the Cowboys' 7-6 preseason victory over Denver.

Third-stringer Glenn Carano shared the relief role with White this time and Carano directed the winning touchdown drive.

White, a 27-year-old who does see action as the Cowboys' punter, said in a training camp interview prior to the Denver exhibition that being backup quarterback with Dallas is "very, very frustrating and gets more so every year."

Like the 37-year-old Staubach, White has a college background as a good runner as well as passer. White was second in total offense among the nation's college players at Arizona State in his senior year and he set seven National Collegiate Athletic Association passing records.

"I need to be playing," White says. "The worst part is right after a game when you haven't played at all, and you are really dejected. Each year they tell me I'm going to get more playing time. But Coach (Tom) Landry usually picks one player at a position and stays with him, whether we're four or five touchdowns ahead or that much behind."

"In the off-season each year I consider the situation and decide if I want to stay on, or ask to be traded," White said. "Right now my feeling is that instead of leaving, I'd rather play six or eight years with the Cowboys — because it's such a first class organization."

"The alternative is to go somewhere else, play 15 years, set records and maybe never get to the playoffs," White said.

"With Roger I think it's a year by year thing," White said.

Cowboys' President and General Manager Tex Schramm sees the team's quarterback situation much the same way.

"Roger has just started a five-year contract, but he's going to play it year by year. If, at the end of a season, Roger doesn't feel he has contributed enough, he'll stay around and help us develop a successor."

"Danny White has a tough decision to make," Schramm added. "If he decides he wants to go somewhere else and be No. 1 with a developing team, then he might be setting himself up to get the hell kicked out of him year after year for five or six years."

Murcer paces NY victory with five RBI

By the Associated Press
When Bobby Murcer thought about his friend Thurman Munson, baseball was the furthest thing from his mind.

Then he thought about Munson again. "If we had been sitting on the bench, and I had said, 'Well, we're not going to play today,' Thurman would have said, 'Hey, you guys are crazy,'" said Murcer.

So the Yankees played a game Monday night — and the result was just as much a tribute to the departed New York captain as the sensitive eulogies that Murcer, among others, had delivered earlier in the day at his funeral.

Emphasizing that "everything I did was for him," a grim and determined Murcer knocked in all the Yankee runs with a three-run homer and a two-run double as New York beat the Baltimore Orioles 5-4.

Murcer's first AL homer since 1974, in the seventh inning, brought New York within one run of the Orioles, at 4-3. And in the ninth Murcer slapped an 0-2 pitch to short left to win the game.

Royals 16, Blue Jays 12
George Brett drove in four runs and scored once while Fred Patek drove in three and also scored once during an 11-run seventh that powered Kansas City over Toronto. The Royals erased a 5-3 Toronto lead with their big rally and gave reliever Steve Mingori the victory.

Angels 5, A's 2
Ralph Botting allowed only three hits over 7 2-3 innings in his first major league start and Bobby Grich drove in four runs with a homer and double, leading California over Oakland.

Botting, 2-0, a 24-year-old left-hander making his sixth appearance with the Angels, needed relief help in the eighth from Mark Clear, who recorded his 12th save of the season.

Mariners 7, Twins 4
Larry Cox drove in three runs with a triple and a single, leading Seattle past Minnesota. Seattle left-hander Rick Honeycutt worked into the seventh before giving way to Byron McLoughlin, who gained his 10th save.

Cox, who came to the plate with two outs and two runners on in the sixth, blasted his triple off the right-center field fence. In the third, Cox followed Roberts' triple with a sharp single to right.

Giants 7, Dodgers 1
Ed Whitson, a 24-year-old right-hander, is often questioned about the pressures of justifying the trade that brought him to San Francisco nearly two months ago.

Whitson came to the Giants in exchange for Bill Madlock, a two-time National League batting champion.

"The only thing I want to do is prove that I'm as good a pitcher as Bill Madlock is a hitter," said Whitson after pitching the Giants to a victory over Los Angeles.

It was the fifth victory in 11 decisions for Whitson and his first complete game in the major leagues.

The Giants, who had lost their previous five games, built a 4-0 lead after five innings, scoring three times in the fourth against loser Charlie Hough, 2-4.

Reds 3, Braves 1
Mike LaCoss pitched a four-hitter for his 12th victory and Hector Cruz' first inning double scored the winning run as Cincinnati beat Atlanta.

LaCoss, 12-4, allowed a run scoring single to Bob Horner in the first and held the Braves to two hits in the last eight innings as he lowered his ERA to 2.69, second in the National League.

Tomjanovich vs. Lakers lawsuit opens

HOUSTON (AP)—Mike Newlin, a guard on the Houston Rocket professional basketball team, told a jury Monday his teammate Rudy Tomjanovich lay on the floor with blood "gushing out with every beat of his heart" after being struck during a game with Los Angeles Lakers.

Newlin was the first witness called by attorneys for Tomjanovich and the Rockets in a multimillion dollar lawsuit against the Lakers.

The former Utah University star testified he never saw the blow that hit Tomjanovich, but "I heard it. It sounded like someone slapping a board on the floor."

Tomjanovich is suing the Lakers for an unspecified amount of damages from the blow he received Dec. 9, 1977 from Laker

Kermit Washington. The Rockets are asking $1.4 million from the California organization for the loss of Tomjanovich during most of the 1977-78 season.

Both suits are being heard concurrently by U.S. District Judge John V. Singleton.

Nick Nichols, an attorney for Tomjanovich, told the five-man, one-woman jury that his client was the "victim of one of the most vicious blows ever landed in American sports history" and deserves at least $1 million in damages.

Bob Dunn, attorney for the Lakers, told the jury that Tomjanovich "had rushed into a fight and Washington had thrown a punch only because he thought he was being attacked."

Newlin testified he saw Tomjanovich "ambing toward the fight. I did not see him hit."

The legal actions were filed after a Rocket-Laker game in Inglewood, Calif., on the night of Dec. 9, 1977.

Washington, then a member of the Lakers and now with the San Diego Clippers, allegedly hit Tomjanovich during a fight in the early seconds of the third quarter.

Tomjanovich, 31, suffered fractures of the nose, jaw and skull; facial lacerations; brain concussion; and leakage of spinal fluid from the brain cavity.

Singleton warned the prospective jurors "that this is a rather celebrated lawsuit and I guess most of you have either heard or read something about it. Now you must put aside all of that so a verdict can only be reached on what you hear in this courtroom."

Drop foreseen in cattle price

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department foresees drops in live-animal prices by year's end of $1 to $3 per 100 pounds for cattle and hogs, 6 cents a pound for broiler chickens and 3 cents a pound for turkeys.

Its outlook board said Monday that livestock and meat prices for the rest of 1979 should fall below second-quarter averages as a result of near-record pork production and lagging consumer incomes.

It gave no specific predictions on retail prices beyond a 12 percent to 15 percent drop in pork prices.

It forecast a drop in prices for fattened cattle from the average $72.51 per 100 pounds during the April-June quarter and $65 to $68 this three-month period to $64 to $67 during the last quarter of 1979.

Fourth-quarter hog prices were forecast at $33 to $35 a hundredweight on the average, with the nine-city average for broilers then at 36 to 38 cents a pound and turkeys drawing 58 to 60 cents a pound wholesale in New York.

Preliminary figures from USDA for the week ending July 21 show Choice-grade steers averaged $67.15 a hundredweight, down from $69.16 in June and $74.41 in May.

Barrows and gilts at seven major markets sold for an average of $38.63 a hundredweight, down from $40.29 in June, $43.65 in May and $54.93 in July 1978.

Supplies of red meat and poultry in this half of the year will probably average 6 percent to 8 percent greater than during the first half and 3 percent larger than a year ago, the board said.

Commercial hog slaughter for 1979 should average 14 percent to 15 percent above 1978 levels and as much as 20 percent greater between now and the end of the year, it said.

Average take-home pay, or disposable personal income, meanwhile, "is forecast to continue to increase but at a much slower rate" than since January, the board said.

Strong consumer demand has aggravated two years of sharp hikes in meat prices, basically caused by a decline in cattle herds, USDA maintains.

Ranchers began a sharp culling of herds in 1975 to reverse years of losses. On July 1, 118.5 million cattle and calves were reported on the nation's farms, a drop of 3.2 million in a year.

But producers reported holding back 8 percent more heifers for breeding, and the cow slaughter between January and June was 34 percent below a year earlier.

That suggests "cattle producers are beginning to rebuild their herds," a two-to-four-year process, the board said.

The department also said total exports of livestock, meat and meat products in May ran 33 percent higher than a year earlier, with pork exports up 13 percent.

Imports at the same time rose by 39 percent, to $319.9 million. Boneless beef — half the total — was up 68 percent in price but only 6 percent in volume.

The value of incoming hides and skins, more than half of them lamb and sheepskin from Iran, were more than double May 1978 levels.

Shipments of pork to Japan jumped 87 percent, accounting for 58 percent of total pork exports. That country also took 37 percent of the 2,108 tons of hides and skins.

Hides were 39 percent of the total $261.7 million worth of livestock and products shipped, the report said.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland doesn't "see anything that could be regarded as a menace to our security" in the purchase of U.S. farmland by foreign interests.

Most of the buyers come from Canada or Western European allies where U.S. firms also invest, he noted Monday during lunch with reporters.

A congressional report last week found more foreign purchases in some counties than Bergland's staff found in a random spot check last year. It did not estimate total foreign ownership within the 1.4 billion acres of crop or timber lands.

Bergland said he guesses the total is about 10 million acres but will know better in a few weeks when reports from the owners, required by Aug. 1 under a 1978 law, are processed.

More than 4,000 reports were filed, most at the last minute, he said, with 200 a day now reaching Washington.

Whatever the results, he said, "We're not going to propose any preemption of state property laws." All the information the Agriculture Department receives will be forwarded to governors.

The Carter administration might recommend changes in tax laws that favor foreign investors, however, said Bergland.

He also said the formulas USDA now uses to calculate daily grain prices to decide whether crops should be held or released from reserves don't accurately reflect monthly market conditions and are being recomputed.

Task force endorses wage, price guidelines

WASHINGTON (AP) — A special congressional task force endorsed the nation's wage and price guidelines as the Carter administration prepared to unveil a potpourri of alternatives for the anti-inflation program's second year.

The Council on Wage and Price Stability was to release today a 50-page "issue paper" discussing possible new directions for the guidelines starting Oct. 1.

Carter administration sources said the report and statements from council chairman Alfred E. Kahn and acting director R. Robert Russell would be "honest about the shortcomings of the first year."

The announcement was not expected to include specific wage and price targets for 1980. Instead it should reveal a "wide range of policy options," according to council spokesman Joe Carter.

The voluntary wage guidelines set a limit of 7 percent on pay increases this year. Prices were to be held half a percentage point below 1976-77 increases.

The Carter administration is giving serious consideration to a two-year wage limit that would "reward" workers who stayed within this year's limit. Carter administration sources have told the Associated Press.

The council may, for example, allow wages to increase 15.5 percent for the two years ending Sept. 30, 1980. This would allow workers who received a 7 percent pay increase this year to get 8 percent next year.

The first-year program, announced by President Carter last Oct. 24, has come under increasing attack from both business and labor as inflation has raged at an annual rate nearly double the administration's 7.4 percent target.

However, there were kind words for the program Monday from a House budget panel, which released a 37-point proposal for whipping inflation.

"The wage and price guidelines program developed by the administration has been more effective than is generally perceived," the task force report said. "Its status should be clarified and the program supported."

The task force pointed out that there could be dire consequences if the government were not successful at slowing inflation.

"Unless inflation is brought under control to a much greater degree than is now the case — and soon — our free system of government will be drastically altered, almost certainly for the worse," the panel concluded.

The wage and price council, which monitors compliance with the anti-inflation guidelines, had hoped to release its final recommendations for the second year of the program by Aug. 1.

Kirkland is candidate for post held by Meany

CHICAGO (AP) — Lane Kirkland, the AFL-CIO's No. 2 man for the past decade, says he's a candidate for the labor federation's top job — if 84-year-old president George Meany ever vacates the post.

"I believe George Meany is mortal, although that remains to be proven," Kirkland said with a smile Monday in announcing for the first time that he would run for PRESIDENT IF Meany steps down because of health problems.

But Kirkland, AFL-CIO secretary-treasurer and Meany's heir apparent since 1969, left no impression that he expects the ailing federation president to end his 24-year reign when his current term expires in November.

"If you're talking about some hypothetical future time, undated, when there might be a vacancy, if nominated, I will run; if elected, I will serve," Kirkland, 57, told reporters in Chicago, where the AFL-CIO's executive council is holding its annual three-day summer meeting.

"I don't know any first mate who is worth his salt and who respects his trade who would not like to be captain," said Kirkland, a former officer in the Merchant Marines. "I'm no different."

Meany has been away from work for 3½ months because of a painful hip problem that has kept him from coming to the policy-making council's meeting. His absence has triggered speculation that he will retire.

Kirkland, regarded by most officials in the 14-million-member federation as a shoo-in for Meany's job, said the federation president "is well on the road to recovery" and later this week may return to his Washington office for the first time since mid-April.
