PAMPA FIREMEN begin their investigation of an explosion that injured three employees at Cities Service Oil Company's Pampa Plant Thursday morning.

Explosion injures three

Three employees of Cities Services Pampa Plant were injured today when a pump house they were working near exploded.

Identity and conditions of two of the victims were not immediately known, although Department of Public Service officials said at least one of the victims received serious burns during the explosion.

Ralph Peters of Pampa was the third employee injured. Reports said he suffered second degree burns on his face.

A fire department spokesman at the scene said the blast, which virtually destroyed the pump house, occurred at approximately 8:50 this morning in a refrigerated unit of the plant.

"We don't know the cause of the blast. We are just starting our investigation now," he said. "We do have three people that were injured. All were taken to Highland General Hospital by Metropolitan Ambulance Service."

The Highland General Emergency Room said the individuals involved were "still being worked on," but all three appeared to be stable and in satisfactory condition.

Plant employees were mystified by the blast that ripped sheet metal on the building as if it were paper. Employees quickly brought the blaze under control by using dry chemicals to smother the flames from the explosion.

Officials at the plant refused to discuss the accident until further investigation has been conducted.

Harbor collision kills four men

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — A tanker carrying 400,000 barrels of crude oil collided with a freighter, burst into flame and sank in the Gulf of Mexico today, Coast Guard officers said. At least four persons were killed, three from the tanker and one that has not been identified.

The Coast Guard said the ships involved were the Liberian tanker Burmah Agate and the Greek-registered freighter Mimosa, sailing out of Cyprus.

Almost two dozen were injured and at least 39 men were unaccounted for — seven from the Mimosa and 32 from the Agate.

The freighter, ablaze with its engines running, was stuck on right full rudder and was making a wide circle in an area dotted with oil derricks.

"We don't think she'll blow up," Lt. Tom Pearson of the New Orleans Coast Guard said of the freighter. "The only fuel she has aboard is her own. The problem is that she's afire and under way with no one aboard. If she were to collide with one of those oil wells, we'd really be in trouble."

The tanker carried a crew of 38 and the Mimosa carried 28. At mid-morning a Galveston hospital had received 23 crewmen, most of them in satisfactory condition.

The freighter still was under way at mid-morning, but two commercial tugs on the scene told the Coast Guard they think they can keep the Mimosa in line until 4 p.m. when she runs out of fuel.

Chang Ying-Chuang, a 53-year-old crewman on the Burmah Agate, said through an interpreter he was asleep but the loud explosion shook him awake. His cabin was on the opposite side. He said he ran open his portholes after the smoke poured into his room. He then got his life jacket and went up on deck.

"There was fire and smoke everywhere. We could not fight the fire. It was no use. Everybody else jumped overboard. We did not jump so we were saved."

Chuang, of Taiwan, said he and another crewman were lifted from the ship by helicopter. As he sat in the John Sealy Hospital emergency room, his bare feet and face were covered with black oil and soot. He wore only his dark green underwear and still clutched his life jacket.

Bill Snyder at Crown Central Petroleum Corp. headquarters in Baltimore said the tanker was carrying between 390,000 and 400,000 barrels of crude from a trans-shipment terminal in the Bahamas. Snyder said a major portion of the crude was destined for another refiner but that part of the cargo was to have been unloaded at a storage area for pipeline movement to Crown Central's Houston refinery.

The collision occurred about four miles south-southeast of the eastern tip of Galveston Island.

A spokesman at John Sealy Hospital in Galveston said 23 crewmen had been admitted.

Neighbor saves child from burning home

A one-year-old boy was transferred to Lubbock Health Services Burn Center Wednesday night after being severely burned in a house fire at 1200 S. Christy. This morning, fire department officials said quick thinking by a neighbor probably saved the child from a fiery death.

Lucas Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Smith, suffered second and possibly third degree burns to his back and arms during the blaze which caused heavy fire and smoke damage to his home. Mrs. Smith and two other sons (4-year-old Kevin and 3-year-old Cory) escaped from the flames unharmed.

Due to the intense heat of the fire, a neighbor was unable to reach the child, trapped in his crib in the bedroom. Another neighbor, Robert Czesnowski of 1201 S. Christy, probably saved the infant's life when he smashed the window of the bedroom and snatched the child from the flames.

According to Assistant Fire Chief J.D. Ray, the baby could not have survived if left in its crib until the fire department reached the scene. Ray described the bedroom as "gutted" when the trucks arrived, and the crib a "pile of ashes."

The injured child was rushed to Highland General Hospital, where he was treated and later transferred to the Lubbock facility.

Reportedly, the Smiths were renting the residence from Walter Tyler.

Fire department officials said the fire, which began around 6:15 p.m., started in the bedroom closet. The flames were extinguished within five minutes, but firemen remained at the scene until 6:55.

The bedroom and kitchen of the home were destroyed in the fire and the rest of the residence was severely damaged by smoke.

Due to a lack of evidence, Ray said, the cause of the blaze cannot be determined.

A fund has been opened for the Smiths at Citizens Bank and Trusts. Clothes and other donations can be taken to Curtis Well Servicing Co., Inc., where Smith is employed. For further information and clothing sizes, call 669-3235.

Police recover five stolen vehicles

Two suspects have been arraigned and five vehicles recovered after a number of auto thefts during Tuesday night's foul weather.

Officer Lynn A. Brown of the Pampa Police Department arrested two men Wednesday in connection with the thefts of five vehicles. Jimmy Upchurch, 17, and Lynn Don Brown, 19, both listing the Pampa Motel as their address, were apprehended by Brown at the intersection of Lowry and Francis after a brief chase through Pampa streets.

The two men, brought before Justice of the Peace Nat Lunsford Wednesday, were arraigned on two counts of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle. Bond was set at $1,500 each.

Wednesday morning, three stolen vehicles were recovered by Pampa police: a 1976 GMC camper, belonging to Rex Britton of 1229 Darby; a 1971 Ford reported stolen from Jimmy Odell of 1309 Terrace; and a 1968 Ford belonging to Leo Simpson. A vehicle belonging to George Simpson of 1020 Charles was reported missing

Wednesday morning and was found in the driveway of Smiley Henderson, 419 E. Foster.

This morning, Brown and Patrolman Rocky Ferguson found a green 1975 Ford in the alley of 900 Foster. The Ford was reported stolen from Randall K. Cross of 522 N. Starkweather while parked at his residence.

According to Police Chief J.J. Ryzman, all of the vehicles were unlocked with the keys in the ignition at the time they were taken.

THESE CATTLE huddle together while standing in water caused by flooding when a dike broke at a reservoir for Florida Power and Light Company near Port Mayaca, Fla., early Wednesday morning. An estimated 1,700 persons were evacuated from their homes when the flooding occurred.

MAMIE EISENHOWER

Heart failure claims Mamie Eisenhower

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former first lady Mamie Eisenhower died peacefully in her sleep early today at Walter Reed Army Medical Center, officials said.

Mrs. Eisenhower, widow of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, was 82, hospital spokesman Pete Esker said. He noted that her 83rd birthday was two weeks away.

Doctors attributed Mrs. Eisenhower's death at 1:35 a.m. to heart failure, Esker said.

Mrs. Eisenhower, in delicate health and bedridden for months, suffered a stroke Sept. 25, 1979, and was brought to the hospital here by ambulance from her farm at Gettysburg, Pa. The stroke paralyzed her right arm and impaired the use of her right leg. She began physical therapy almost immediately. Just as the world knew America's 34th president by the homely childhood nickname of "Ike," so was his wife recognized simply as "Mamie." Her trademark — from youth through old age, no matter what the fashion — was the way she wore her hair in bangs across the forehead.

Mrs. Eisenhower had lived alone and lonely on the farm, at the edge of the Civil War battlefield, ever since her beloved Ike died in 1969. Their marriage, begun when he was a young lieutenant in the Army, had lasted nearly 53 years.

"I miss this man of mine; he was my life," Mrs. Eisenhower would tell interviewers.

Since Eisenhower's death, his widow lavished her attention on her four grandchildren, the children of son John and his wife Barbara, and her four great-granddaughters.

The Eisenhowers' only other child, a son named Doud Dwight, died in 1921 of scarlet fever at the age of three.

Eisenhower, a West Point graduate reared in Abilene, Kan., and Mamie Doud, who grew up in wealth in Colorado, were married on July 1, 1916, the day he was promoted to first lieutenant. She was always behind him, if not at his side, as Eisenhower rose through the ranks to five-star general and Supreme commander of the allied war effort in Europe in World War II.

Just as easily she stepped into the role of first lady when the military commander became commander-in-chief as the nation's 34th president. She was a gracious White House hostess and often was found on the lists of best-dressed women.

Legislators like it, Clements doesn't

'Legislative review' of state agency rulemaking on ballot

Editor's Note: This is the second part of a series detailing the state constitutional amendments to be voted on Tuesday.

By MELANIE MILLER

Of The Pampa News

Texas Gov. Bill Clements opposes Proposition 2, an amendment authorizing the legislature to enact law establishing procedures for "legislative review" of state agency rulemaking. It almost seems as though Clements is following a precedent; every other Texas governor has been opposed to past attempts at such a review procedure.

Their opposition centered on the ancient separation of powers doctrine. They believed, as Clements does, that only the executive branch should be allowed to check on state agencies, bodies which are operated under their jurisdiction.

If the amendment is passed, it could dictate conditions for agency rules to take effect and could provide for suspension, repeal or expiration of present rules. The amendment could provide for delegation of powers to one or both houses of the legislature or to committees of both houses.

However, the amendment also recognizes that this law would be an exception to the separation of powers doctrine.

State Rep. Foster Whaley approves the proposition and foresees no problems with it. "We're (the legislators) the ones who've fought for it," Whaley said. "There's no separation of powers involved the way I see it."

He added that the amendment would make agencies more careful in the rules they set up and waiting for the Legislature to convene would be no problem in wanting to change an agency rule because of the committee stipulation.

"This would eliminate the current dictatorship-type situation that exists now with state agencies," Whaley said.

Under the separation of powers idea, the legislative branch makes the laws; the executive carries them out and the judicial resolves controversies involving such laws.

If an administrative agency is given power to make "rules and regulations" that govern conduct of individuals or businesses involved in a certain area, the agency has an administrative power.

Many legislators have begun to believe the "rule by bureaucracy" — as agency rule is considered — has become unmanageable and more suggestions for legislative review of agency rules have emerged. With such suggestions, however, have come constitutional challenges on the basis of separation of powers.

Under current state law, every proposed agency rule is referred to an appropriate committee of each house; the committee then informs the agency as to support or opposition to the rule's adoption. But with the Legislature only convening every two years, this law has had very little effect.

Whaley believes the amendment would be good, if only because as the governor can veto a legislative bill — thus checking the power of that body, legislative review of agency rules would serve as a check on the executive branch.

"This is a fine move to make the government more responsive to the public's needs," he said.

New rule opposed by grain producers

Ever since the birth of the New Deal under the presidency of Franklin D. Roosevelt, the United States Department of Agriculture has been noticeably out in front in making some of the major steps this country has taken toward the full embrace of socialism.

This is documented in fact in the daily press of that era and since in all the media.

One can delve into the events and the changes in the American way of life during the past 46 years and find the indelible imprint of the USDA in socialism's advance in this country.

Some of the most horrifying departures from the principles upon which this nation was founded were projected by leaders in the USDA during the early years of the New Deal — and later, too.

Since those early voyages into near-Marxism, there have been some secretaries of agriculture of more stable stuff, more akin to Americanism, but they often succumbed to the trend or weakened under pressure of the bureaucracy which continues in its awesome, burgeoning power to negate the authority of the elected officials and the people.

The USDA itself has spawned one of the most widespread and effective segments of the federal bureaucracy.

Its growth has been insidious. And just as insidious has been its reaching out for more control.

The Department of Agriculture affects the lives of more individuals than just those in agriculture. It has its hand in the lives of multiplied millions. For example, it is an authoritative factor in the handing out of the American dole, which includes food stamps.

On the agricultural front, though, two recently aired ambitions of the USDA have come to our attention. One is that it is considering a new regulation, which, officials of the national Grain Sorghum Producers Association, headquartered in Lubbock, said, would be very detrimental to future participation in farm programs. According to the grain association officials, the proposed rule would require that farmers be approved by the Soil Conservation Service prior to their participation in government programs such as the feed grain set aside and price support program.

Said the grain association official, "GSPA supports good conservation practices. However, to attach such requirements with the complications and red tape inherent in such a plan, to the price support programs would destroy the producer's interest in participation. Production control programs are essential to maintaining a balance in supply and demand. It is important to have as many farmers as possible in the program for it to work effectively."

This is not to debate the merits of a price support or production control program. They, too, are USDA dominated activities, in this case, and therefore within the province of USDA control, at least to an extent. We do agree with the grain association official, however, that the Soil Conservation Service, itself a USDA spawned bureaucracy, should keep its hands out of the grain producers' business.

And then, too, there is the cattlemen, traditionally an individual much apart from the government. The Independent Cattleman's Association of Texas is taking a strong stand against a draft bill proposed by Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland which would expand the secretary's powers, allowing him to quarantine livestock in case of an "extraordinary emergency" due to existence of any communicable disease. An official of the association said, "We find this a very dangerous bill because we don't feel the agriculture secretary should be given the ultimate authority to control the intrastate movement of livestock and interfere in the day-to-day business of producers. We are just as concerned as the secretary is in preventing the spread of disease in our cattle but we already labor under too many government restrictions."

One of the most important purposes of ICA is to monitor all legislation that is introduced by government agencies to prevent passage of bills which might harm the livestock industry. More power to it. More power, too, to the grain association as it prevails against the USDA.

Check one, please

Forget the big-name candidates for president.

Dig deeper than most political analysts so far have, into the Federal Election Committee's two filing cabinets full of material on declared presidential candidates, and you'll come up with men worthier of support than Carter or Connally or even Jerry Brown.

Among the unknown candidates of substance is Ernest Carlson, a 71-year-old Denver osteopath. We like his platform: abolish federal taxes.

Another likely choice is Carter's fellow Georgian, Carl F. Freeman, a 60-year-old TV repairman from Decatur. Freeman's also a one-issue man: "put folks back on the farm." (Not a bad idea, especially if they raise peanuts.)

But the one issue we naturally champion is that of candidate Lawrence W. Goldberg, Being from Media, Pa., what choice does he have other than running on a freedom-of-the-press platform?

We're not too certain about J. John Gordon of Worcester, Mass., who filed his declaration to run in 1980 on Dec. 2, 1975, from a jail cell in New Hampshire, but really could go along with trucking periodicals publisher Earl Vern Blackjack Stevens of Lebanon, Mo. He would allow citizens to reject legislation passed by Congress via postcard vote.

For those who think the energy crisis could be alleviated by grounding the president from jetsetting around the world, here's a candidate: Garrett Trapnell, serving two simultaneous life sentences in the federal penitentiary at Marion, Ill., for aircraft hijacking.

One 1980 candidate doesn't know his party's already in power. James H. Boren of Amandale, Va., is running not for president, but vice president, under the banner of the Bureaucrat Party. Should Boren and K. Core Seaman of Denver, representing the God and Country Party, turn up as final selections in the general election, we would have to endorse the latter. Seaman promises to cut the federal budget and work force in half.

But, before anyone gets our vote, we're going to check carefully into the campaign conducted by Texas' John (Who Else But Kels?) Kelso out of the Soap Creek Saloon in Austin.

Then, there is always Abe Snake. How about you? Any suggestions?

Carter may leave imprint on court

Ten years ago the U.S. Supreme Court was entering a period of drastic change in its membership. Between 1960 and 1971, Richard Nixon as president was able to appoint four new justices, among them Warren Burger to replace Earl Warren as chief justice.

It was presumed that the judicial pendulum would be swinging from liberal to conservative, from the activism of the Warren court to the "strict constructionist" philosophy Nixon was looking for in his appointments.

Today it is hard to pin a label on the court which now has opened its 1979-80 session. Except for the replacement of Justice William O. Douglas with Justice John Paul Stevens in 1975, it is the same court that took shape in the beginning of the decade. Yet the Burger court has become far less predictable in its decisions than the Warren court.

Last year especially, its decisions in the areas of job discrimination, school busing, abortion and women's rights could be characterized as more liberal than conservative. The court has been splitting 5 to 4 frequently on such sensitive issues, but with a varying mix of justices on the majority and minority sides. No justice or group of justices has emerged as enough of a commanding presence on the court to impart a consistent philosophical point of view to its decisions.

This has led to decisions that are more narrow than sweeping in their application. Both the Bakke and Weber decisions have stopped short of defining clearly how far affirmative action programs can go in advancing the interests of minorities before infringing on the rights of the majority. Last term, the court upheld the right of a criminal defendant to exclude the press and public from a pretrial hearing, but left hanging the obvious question of whether the same exclusion can clear the courtroom at the trial itself.

The coming term affords an opportunity for the court to clarify some of these ambiguities. As full as its agenda is, the court in coming months will be refining the law on old issues rather than tackling any major new ones.

This period of backing and filling comes as the Supreme Court may be approaching another period of change in its membership. Five of the nine justices are now past 70, and two have been ailing. It is possible that Jimmy Carter will have an opportunity to leave an imprint on the court with at least one appointment even if he is a one-term president.

In perspective of history an appraisal of the Burger court is still difficult to make. Its caution and hair-splitting on some major issues have been exasperating to those looking for clearer mandates. Yet, given the trauma that often accompanied decisions from the more activist Warren court, a group of justices splitting narrowly over gray areas of judicial interpretation can be a relief.

"Rosalynn, have you seen my whip anywhere?"

In 1973, Leon Jaworski was named special Watergate prosecutor.

In 1976, the campaigning ended as Americans prepared to go to the polls to choose between Jimmy Carter and Gerald Ford.

Ten years ago, the Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts granted Sen. Edward Kennedy the right to a closed inquest into the Chappaquiddick incident.

Five years ago: President Gerald Ford, on a political visit in the west, visited former President Richard Nixon in a California hospital.

One year ago: the Federal Reserve Board and Treasury announced strong new measures to bolster the dollar. The currency soared — and on Wall Street, the Dow Jones Industrial Average gained a record 35.34 points.

A fish story

by Paul Harvey

You can boat any man with an 8-pound test line.

That statement is going to start more arguments among fishermen than I could possibly settle without some assistance, so I brought a friend.

Jack Barlow, my late friend and neighbor and fellow fisherman.

He had overheard conversations around the tackle counter and the bait shops for years about "the big one that snapped my 20-pound test line."

Jack insisted that, "It's a poor fisherman who has to use more than an 8-pound line in fresh water. And, for most fish, in salt water."

I listened from the sidelines as this rhubarb repeated itself wherever the subject came up.

Joe Foss was with us at the house one evening. Joe is an outdoorsman who actually prefers sleeping on the ground to sleeping in bed. He has hunted and fished the corners of our continent, but when Jack repeated his assertion that, "You can boat any man with an 8-pound test line!" Joe was ready to bet his brand new tackle box it couldn't be done.

Finally Jack Barlow's hand had been called.

In the days that followed he tediously prepared a head-gear for a man to wear in the water. It had a chin strap underneath and a loop on the top for attaching an "8-pound" test line.

One afternoon, a score of the cronies who had challenged this argument for years gathered at the poolside at Jack's fashionable downtown club to watch.

The club's strongest and best swimmer was to "play fish."

The only rule was that he had to "play fish" realistically.

He was not allowed to grab the line with his hands or entangle and snap it with his feet. Otherwise he was free to maneuver as violently as he might like, in deep water or shallow, while Jack "played the fish" on the end of an 8-pound test line.

Jack stood on the diving board. "The fish" jumped in. The fight was on.

Well, sir, the powerful 200-pounder on the end of that line lunged and plunged and jumped and dived and jerked his head and shook himself so violently, it was unbelievable that the contest wasn't ended within 10 seconds.

But it was still going on after 10 minutes!

The limber bamboo rod and the sensitive thumb on the reel patiently played the "big fish" (who, it must be remembered, weighed only a minute fraction of his 200 pounds in the water) until finally the victim began to tire.

The rules agreed upon in advance stipulated that the rod tip would be the gaff. When the "fish" was touched by the rod tip, the contest was over.

It was over in 17 minutes.

There is a further moral to this story which has to do with how a gentle, patient, constant "tug" accumulates to equal and overcome a tremendous force.

Anyway, though some of us still go after the big ones with heavier lines—and they still get away sometimes—we don't boast about it anymore.

Letters

Hello!
I am a teacher of high school in Seoul, Korea.

My pupils are very eager to find pen friends in your country. I am writing this in the hope that you can help them get in touch with young people in your country. They would like to exchange information about student life and various kind of topics in everyday life and to discuss current international problems.

I think this kind of direct communication between friends of about the same age will help both to learn about each other's country. It will also help my students to brush up their English. I also think they might have fun in swapping items in their hobby collections.

I hope you can perhaps publish my name and address in your esteemed paper. Then we will anxiously wait letters from your country. Thank you very much for your time and kind consideration.

The pain of the one eye which was removed was very excruciating these past few months and the depression has been gaining ground with him and now the complete loss of the eye has set in on him and it is a very very saddened thing.

I think if he knows his family is taken care of and a lot of moral and spiritual help is offered he may in time overcome some of grief. I guess we all take our eyes for granted but living in complete darkness after seeing all the beauty in this world it would be a tragic blow to no longer see but just to feel and wonder if its green, blue or gold.

Maybe this will explain the Special Fund for J. J. Roach.

Cutting horse finals open tonight

More than 100 of the nation's top cutting horses and their riders are in Amarillo for the National Cutting Horse Association (NCHA) World Championship Finals.

Prize money for the competition, which is at the Amarillo Tri-State Fairgrounds Coliseum, is more than $40,000. Preliminary go-rounds began this morning.

Sponsors, with each contributing $10,000 to the purse, are The Outfit Club of Amarillo and NCHA, which has its headquarters in Fort Worth. The sponsors' contributions, along with the $200 entry fee assessed each horse, make up the prize money.

Competition includes both the "open" and "non-pro" divisions. The open division welcomes any competitor, while the non-pro is restricted to riders who do not train or show cutting horses for pay, except for premium money.

Five judges, working independently, will score each competitor between 60 and 80 points.

The non-pro finals will be Friday at 7:30 p.m. with the open finals set for Saturday at 7:30 p.m. Tickets, available at the fairgrounds coliseum, are $5 per person per day, with single evening performances $3 each. Children 12 and younger will be admitted free.

Kane sentenced to five years

Randall Wayne Kane, 19, was sentenced to five years in the state penitentiary for the Feb. 8 aggravated robbery of an Allsup's convenience store by a District 223rd jury Wednesday.

Kane, formerly of Pampa and now of Sacramento, Calif., was charged with robbing the Allsup's store at the intersection of Foster and Starkweather. The jury set punishment in the case.

District Attorney Harold Comer said Kane wore a ski mask and a coat and used a pistol to rob the store. It was being supervised by Sally Parson Young, a clerk, at the time of the 2:30 a.m. robbery.

He tore the telephone wires out of the wall before escaping on a motorcycle driven by a juvenile.

Tri-Plains not involved

Monday's Pampa News included a story concerning the sentencing of five men guilty of stealing two engines from Cabot Corporation and hiding them at Tri-Plains International. Jerry Gardner, owner of Tri-Plains, said he did not know the stolen engines had been hidden there and was not aware of anything being amiss until the five men were arrested.

According to Gardner the men, two of whom were employees of his company at the time of the theft, hid the engines in a storage trailer at the back of the store's building. He said the two men had keys and knew the trailer was seldom used. The engines were later removed from the trailer and sold to two men in Lamar, Colo. Only after this did Tri-Plains know of the incident, Gardner said.

The News apologizes for any misinterpretation of Monday's story.

Slimnastics course offered

A morning class of Slimnastics for Women, a slimming exercise program, is now being offered by the Pampa Center of Clarendon College.

The four week course will begin Nov. 6. The one and one-half hour class will start at 9:30 a.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Tuition for the Slimnastics program will be $10 per person. The Pampa Center also wishes to announce there is still available space for children ages 10-12 in the Drawing and Painting for Children class.

This course begins Saturday morning at 9:30 a.m. The eight week class costs $12 per child.

Pushmobile Derby Saturday

It's like the World Series, Indy 500 and Super Bowl all rolled into one. It's the fifth annual Coca-Cola Adobe Walls Council Cub Scout Pushmobile Derby, and the action begins at 2:30 Saturday afternoon at the Pampa Mall.

Cubs will register their vehicles at 1:45. Registration fee is $2 (25 cents per Cub Scout), and dens must have eight Cubs in order to race. Ribbons for first, second, third and fourth places will be given after each heat. Trophies will be awarded to the winning car in each age group, and every Cub on the winning car will receive a medal.

There's even a large traveling trophy for the Grand Champion (winner of the final race between 8-, 9- and 10-year-old champs). A special award will be given in each age group for the best-made, best-looking car.

Extortionist escapes with over $200,000

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Banker Richard Poynter had a feeling something was wrong when he arrived at Danny Smith's home at 7 a.m. to pick him up for a business trip.

"I honked, but Danny did not come out. He stood in the doorway and motioned me inside. I didn't know what was up," said Poynter, who shrugged, turned off the ignition and entered Smith's house.

"Just as I went through the entryway, Danny said, 'Don't get excited. We have someone else here, a visitor,'" Poynter said.

The visitor had held Smith, president of the Arlington Bank of Commerce, his wife and their two children hostage at gunpoint all night. After Poynter arrived and was also taken hostage, the gunman forced Smith to raid his own bank's vault and later escaped with more than $200,000 Wednesday.

The hostages were released unharmed. A manhunt was launched for the robber, but law officers admitted by the time they had set up roadblocks the extortionist had probably already fled the area.

"We had a perfect roadblock system set up, but we were just too late," said Deputy Police Chief Marion Rettig.

Officers said Smith, his wife Linda, and their 8-year-old son and 5-year-old daughter, were confronted by the masked gunman in their home Tuesday night after the intruder apparently broke in through an unlocked door about 8:30 p.m.

Poynter said the gunman ordered Smith, 31, to get $250,000 after telling the bank president if he alerted police or did not return with the cash within 35 minutes he would shoot his wife. Smith complied.

Police Capt. Mike Johnston said, "After the money was delivered the suspect then took Mr. Smith hostage in his automobile and they drove around for a short period of time in Fort Worth. Mr. Smith was put in the trunk of the vehicle, and the suspect left the car and Mr. Smith somehow got out of the vehicle and notified us."

Smith answered "shaky" when asked how he felt after the ordeal was over, but otherwise declined to talk to reporters. He had managed to free himself from the trunk, which was shut but not locked, about 10 a.m.

Crab fisherman had threatened Viet brothers

SEGUIN, Texas (AP) — A Seadrift crab fisherman slain in a summer "crab war" with Vietnamese refugees had angrily threatened Vietnamese crabbers several times before his death, once vowing to cut their throats, according to testimony in a murder trial here.

Nguyen Van Sau, 21, and Nguyen Van Chinh, 20, two Vietnamese refugee brothers who became crabbers in Seadrift, are on trial for murder in the Aug. 3 shooting death of Billy Joe Aplin, 35.

They face maximum 99-year prison sentences if convicted by a jury of 12 whites, including two retired Air Force officers who served in the Vietnam War.

The trial was moved 90 miles inland to Seguin because of the still-simmering tensions and the threat of violence in the tiny coastal fishing town of 1,400.

Defense attorney Pat Maloney contends that the 5-foot-5, 110-pound Sau shot the much-larger Aplin in self-defense, only after repeated threats and only after Aplin had beaten and slashed Sau with a knife. Chinh, he claims, tried only to calm his brother.

The defense maintains that the shooting, which touched off violent reprisals against Seadrift's Vietnamese community, took place in an atmosphere of hostility, fostered primarily by Aplin.

Prosecution witness Nguyen Duc Bang, 20, a friend of the brothers and a former Seadrift crabber, testified Wednesday that he and four other Vietnamese got into an angry confrontation with Aplin while crabbing in the same area about four weeks before the shooting.

The dispute over territorial crabbing rights occurred while the Vietnamese and Aplin were trying to harvest crabs in the lush crabbing grounds at the mouth of the Guadalupe River.

Under questioning by District Attorney William Day, Bang said Aplin took Vietnamese traps aboard his boat and jumped on them.

"He (Aplin) just cussed us and had his knife out. He said he was going to cut everybody's throat off," Bang testified in halting, heavily-accented English, drawing his finger across his throat in imitation of Aplin's alleged threat.

"He tried to run over our boats, but his wife and children stopped him. I saw them crying. He said this water belonged to him. He said this was his country," added Bang.

Aplin's widow, Judy, testified that the Vietnamese had cursed her husband and bumped the Aplin boat while circling it with their own boats. Her husband waved a knife, she said, only after Bang brandished the knife he had clinched in his teeth.

Asked if her husband ever vowed to cut the refugees' throats, she replied, "Not that I know of. I was trying to quiet two younger children at the time."

Four prosecution witnesses testified Tuesday that Sau, a former South Vietnamese Marine, deliberately shot Aplin a short time after being beaten by the 6-1, 195-pound American. They said Aplin approached Sau because he was upset about the confrontation on the water.

All said they didn't see slash wounds on Sau, but Bang and a defense witness testified Wednesday that shortly after the incident, Sau had blood on his chest from what appeared to be cuts.

Tuition increase to be considered in January

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A tuition increase might be in the offing for students at tax-supported universities and junior colleges.

The Texas College Coordinating Board "probably will consider" a tuition increase recommendation at its January meeting, said Dr. Kenneth Ashworth, state higher education commissioner.

"There is a lot of talk among board members that this is something they should look at," Ashworth told reporters Wednesday.

Only the Legislature can change tuition rates, but a recommendation from the board would carry considerable weight. College costs are rising at a time when lawmakers have cut state taxes and are under pressure from Gov. Bill Clements to make further reductions.

The next regular legislative session is in January 1981, but Clements plans to call a special session next year.

Ashworth and Beryl Milburn, coordinating board chairwoman, were interviewed after a meeting of the Special Committee on Higher Education Financing, headed by Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby.

Ashworth told the committee average tuition increases at Texas state universities and junior colleges rank 46th in the nation and would rise to only 39th — between Louisiana and Tennessee — if tuition were doubled.

Tuition is $4 per semester hour, with a minimum of $50 per semester. Fees vary among the universities and junior colleges.

Ashworth took no position for or against a tuition increase but said if one is passed, the additional money should not be used to construct new buildings.

Senior colleges and universities would insist that junior college tuition be increased by the same amount as that of the senior institutions, he predicted.

"I believe the senior colleges would feel that an economic differential in costs to students for tuition would encourage more students to attend junior colleges and thereby depress the senior college enrollments even further," he said.

He presented figures showing college enrollments are growing more slowly than in recent years and are likely to increase at only about 1.4 percent annually between now and 1987.

Human error blamed in plane crash

MEXICO CITY (AP) — A landing on the wrong runway was blamed for the crash of a Western Airlines DC-10 at the Mexico City airport in which 74 persons were reported killed.
 "It was definitely not structural; there's no question about that," said FAA spokesman Dennis Feldman in Washington.
 The airport was shrouded in fog when the plane from Los Angeles landed before dawn Wednesday on a runway that was closed for repairs, hit a truck and crashed into two buildings. Officials said 71 of the 88 persons aboard the jetliner and three on the ground were killed.
 Seventeen others aboard Flight 605 survived. Three were in intensive care, nine were reported in satisfactory condition, and five were released after first-aid treatment.

The pilot, Capt. Charles Gilbert, 53, of Rolling Hills, Calif., was among those killed.
 Mexican officials said the runway on which the plane landed had been closed for two weeks for repairs and was dark, while the adjacent, parallel runway that was open was well lighted.
 Tail marks on the runway indicated that the pilot tried to take off, officials said, but the plane's landing gear hit a truck, killing the driver. The impact sent the airliner sliding across to the other runway and it crashed through a mobile lounge and slammed into an Eastern Airlines building, killing two people in the building.
 "Everybody didn't die right away," said Pandora Drickensen Scott, 19, of Chico, Calif., a passenger who survived the crash. "Some were trying to get out. Some of them...they were crying 'Help, Help!' then they were either calm or something must have happened to them."
 In Washington, the FAA officials said after talking with Mexican officials that the crash was caused by an "unknown approach-and-landing error." Searchers found the black box of recorded conversations between the plane and the control tower and among the cockpit crew, and officials hoped to learn from it what caused the landing on the wrong runway.
 Among those killed was Ken Luycoff, 31, a news producer for ABC, who was en route to El Salvador to cover the political violence there.
 Two of the injured in intensive care, Rafael Martinez and his wife, Rocio, were from Los Angeles. The third was a Mexican, Ernesto Legoretta.

Government to seek $1 billion for Chrysler

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration, sharply increasing its proposed aid package for the struggling Chrysler Corp., is about to announce it will seek more than $1 billion in loan guarantees to keep the No. 3 automaker afloat, sources say.
 The package, which must be approved by Congress, is about double what the administration previously has indicated it would recommend to keep Chrysler from bankruptcy.
 The sources, who requested anonymity, said they expected Treasury Secretary G. William Miller to detail the loan guarantee plan — the largest in U.S. history — today or tomorrow, after the administration takes its case to congressional leaders.
 The White House has been under increasing pressure from some members of Congress to put its proposal on the table before Chrysler's financial troubles become insurmountable.
 The automaker's third quarter losses, announced Tuesday, were a staggering $460.6 million, the largest deficit ever for any American corporation. It brought the firm's losses for the first nine months year to $721 million. Losses for all of 1979 are projected at about $1 billion.
 The administration's proposal is in line with others circulating among members of a House subcommittee studying the bailout.
 Sources who asked not to be identified said the panel, which was beginning work on shaping the legislation today, had before it proposals for $1.2 billion to $1.4 billion in loan guarantees.
 The administration aid package approximates the $1.2 billion in loan guarantees Chrysler officials had sought in September. The company subsequently trimmed its request to $750 million after Miller said $1.2 billion was too high.
 The administration altered its stance after reviewing independent consultants' reports that $750 million would not be enough to keep the company afloat.
 Details of the administration proposal were outlined to United Auto Workers President Douglas Fraser Wednesday night at a White House meeting that was intended to have been kept secret.
 Also at the session were Vice President Walter F. Mondale, Miller, Labor Secretary Ray Marshall and Stuart E. Eizenstat, President Carter's top adviser for domestic affairs.
 Fraser was summoned from Kansas City, where leaders of UAW locals at Chrysler plants endorsed a proposed three-year contract providing an estimated $403 million in savings to the automaker because of UAW concessions on wages and pensions.
 The contract, which also gives Fraser a seat on Chrysler's board of directors, must be ratified by the company's 110,000 UAW-represented workers.
 The firm expects to lose nearly $500 million in 1980, but predicts it will return to profitability in 1981 and could repay the loans.

DEAR ABBY

Sis chooses to let family control her

By-Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have been seeing my lady for three years and want to marry her. "M" is 55 and I am 62. I have a nice home, no financial worries and live alone. My problem is getting "M" away from her family. She works eight hours a day as an accountant while caring fully for her 94-year-old mother who is blind and incontinent. "M" also has a 65-year-old brother, recently retired. He's a loner, smokes incessantly, is 100 pounds overweight and has an unexplainable control over "M." I can see her only a few hours on Saturdays. Brother is so possessive that I am not even permitted the pleasure of washing and waxing "M's" car! I want a wife, not a part-time lover.

I really need her, Abby. Her family has had her 55 years. She does all the housework, laundry (in an antique washer), cooking and baking, and she's always tired. She's had four operations for kidney stones and she's not strong, yet she continues to take this beating. She spends her vacation at home washing walls, floors and curtains. I don't feel accepted in the family. I'm never invited to dinner—even on holidays. "M" says she loves me but can't marry me until her mother dies. I question whether "M" can ever break away from her brother. I don't want to take him on our honeymoon, but I feel he is psychologically "married" to my lady. Please answer me.

MR. X

DEAR MR. X: The longest wait in the world can be waiting for someone to die. Your lady is not a prisoner of her family—she has chosen to take a beating, work herself to a frazzle and let her brother control her. SHE isn't the victim—YOU are for meekly accepting her terms.

DEAR ABBY: As non-smokers, you and I are paying too high a premium for fire insurance. No one is permitted to smoke in my home, yet I am charged the same premium as the chain smoker who falls asleep with a cigarette in his mouth.

I am looking for an insurance company that recognizes the fact that 40 percent of all home fires are started by cigarettes, and therefore will allow a substantial discount to those who ban cigarettes from their homes.

Do you have any leads?

N.A. IN BINGHAMTON, N.Y.

DEAR N.A.: No. But after this hits print, if there is such an insurance company, I may.

If you need help in writing letters of sympathy, congratulations or thank-you letters, get Abby's booklet "How to Write Letters for all Occasions." Send $1 and a long, stamped (25 cents), self-addressed envelope to Abby: 132 Lanky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Stretch, then relax for energy exercises

If you'd like to feel refreshed, relaxed and energetic—as well as reshaped—perhaps you ought to re-think the way you exercise.

According to an exercise program put together by Sheer Energy, the pantyhose people, exercising for energy is just a little different from the usual program.

To feel energetic, you must feel relaxed and in control, both in body and mind. The exercises in the program were chosen because each gives the effect of instant energy.

They were adapted from hatha yoga and use to the greatest advantage the tension that's always present in your body, instead of letting it block your energy or turn into nervous jitters.

S-t-r-e-t-c-h, then r-e-l-a-x, are the keys to exercising for energy. Stretching your muscles correctly and then relaxing can help clear tension accumulated in muscles and joints. Do each exercise slowly, then relax completely and you'll feel energy flow through your body.

The word s-l-o-w-l-y is an important instruction: stretch slowly and hold the position, but never bounce or strain. You can adapt this pace to regular calisthenics for much the same effect.

Try concentrating on each exercise—closing your eyes will help. You may find you will sleep better as a result of these stretching exercises, and, if you are tense, do a set before bedtime. (As a general rule, before starting any exercise program, see your doctor first.)

The following exercises are part of the special Exercise for Sheer Energy program. The entire program is available on a mini-poster by sending 25 cents postage and handling to Sheer Energy Books, Dept. A., Box 458, Winston-Salem, N.C. 27102.

The upper body warm-up, shown top, left, relaxes shoulder muscles: clasp hands behind your back, holding them away from your body. Gently bend backward from waist, stretching as far as possible without strain and hold for count of 10.

Then, slowly bend forward as far as possible, keeping your hands clasped and relaxing your neck. Hold for count of 20. S-l-o-w-l-y straighten up, unclasp hands, and relax.

The easy breathing exercise, shown in the bottom illustration, should give you a feeling of energy, mental alertness and clarity. It can be done sitting or lying without the arm movements.

Stand with your arms at your sides, exhale through your nose, emptying the lungs completely. Slowly inhale through the nose to a count of 10, pushing out your abdomen and chest as you inhale.

At the same time, slowly bring your arms overhead and rise on your toes. Hold for a moment. Then, slowly exhale to a count of 10, lowering arms and feet at the same time. Repeat three to 10 times.

MENDING MATURE MARRIAGE

Don't ignore each other

By Louise Pierce

You know I don't encourage older, married couples to quarrel. But if I had to name something worse than throwing verbal darts, it would be acting as if each other did not exist.

Some years ago when I lived in Kansas, I drove to a nearby town to have lunch with a college friend. She and her husband had a nice farm home and, I thought, a serene and supreme life. So I was puzzled when only my hostess and I sat down at the dining table to eat. I heard her husband walking around in the kitchen and I asked, "Isn't he coming in for lunch with us?" She said, "No. I fixed him a plate on the back porch. He didn't even finish high school, much less go to college. He wouldn't know what we were talking about." I asked, "Why did you marry him?" She sighed. "He was kind to me when I lost my folks. And there wasn't anybody else I wanted to marry. I suppose I love him in a kind of detached way. But when I have guests like you, I don't subject them to his dull conversation. I just pretend he's not here."

Since she did not ask, and apparently did not want my opinion or advice, I could not offer them. But, for me, her misty-eyed reminiscences about dormitory days were overshadowed by her determination to pretend that her marriage did not exist. I ate her delicious lunch, but it tasted like sawdust to me.

My conclusion was that the woman was lucky she had a husband who let her push him around. I couldn't ever have got by with that, and I wouldn't have wanted to. I always invite Otis to share his sprightly conversation with any guests I have. If I didn't ask him, he'd come bouncing in anyway and charm every lady present.

We're both so voluble that friends sometimes ask, "Who listens at your house?" We tell them, "We both talk a lot and listen a little. It works out fine." Neither of us has ever been ignored by the other, and I'm sure we never will be. Sometimes when I ask if he wants me to go along on a sales appointment, he says, "Not this time, honey. You'd monopolize the talk. And I want to do that tonight."

If your mate ever looks at you without seeing you, you'd better try to improve your communication with each other.

DEAR LOUISE: My husband, Lem, has been treating me like I wasn't here, for years. He goes to his office the minute he eats breakfast, which he does behind his paper and without a word to me. He eats lunch and dinner downtown, goes back to the office and works until after midnight. I waited up for him when we were younger, but he'd always head for bed without seeming to see me—so now I'm always asleep when he gets home. We haven't gone out together in ten years, not even to church or to see our son and his family who live less than 500 miles from us. Holidays mean nothing. All Lem cares about is working and making money. If I eat out or go anywhere, it's always alone. Isn't a workaholic as bad as an alcoholic? And shall I leave him? TESS.

DEAR TESS: No. An alcoholic is sick. And a workaholic is only mesmerized. It is often possible to reason with the over-dedicated worker, make him understand that he is missing half his life and will be a non-person if he continues to do all work and no play. Sometimes if the argument is strong enough, he will change, at least halfway.

Don't forfeit your marriage because you seem to be by-passed in favor of your husband's business. Ask him if he loves you and wants you to stay married to him. He's fairly sure to say yes. He's had no time for flirtation and likely hasn't wanted any. If he says that of course he loves you, ask him for one evening a week to prove it. If he won't give you a night a week, try for an evening a month or even three months. Tell him you love him so much and miss him so desperately when he's gone that you must be with him sometimes. Cite cases in which men he knew were suddenly struck down by tension or heart trouble or cancer or high blood pressure. Tell him you'd rather have him alive now than spend his hard-earned money after he's dead. If he loves you at all—and I'm betting he does—he'll listen.

By Joe Graedon

Indigestion is as American as apple pie. Last year we spent almost $500 million on products that pop, fizz or just melt in the mouth in order to relieve our dietary indiscretions.

It is hardly surprising that we belch our way through life. Every day one-third of the adult population eats out and of those, approximately 28 percent do it on the run in fast food places. No wonder the burgers bite back.

Considering the way Americans casually consume antacids you would think that they are completely safe and totally effective. And for the most part they do tame our troubled tummies without complications. But like any medication, antacids can have side effects, especially when used for long periods of time in large doses.

Sodium bicarbonate, or baking soda, is a popular old standby. It is an effective acid neutralizer and is found in products like Alka Seltzer, BisoDol powder, Soda Mint and Rolaids (as sodium carbonate). While it usually brings relief from overeating or indigestion, sodium bicarb can be a real problem for millions of people who suffer from high blood pressure or heart trouble.

Most people with hypertension are cautioned to reduce their salt intake. Even a modest cut back can decrease or even prevent high blood pressure in some people. A moderate sodium restricted diet usually means no more than 1,000 milligrams per day. The usual dose of Alka Seltzer, however, contains 1,042 milligrams of sodium and the maximum dose suggested on the label amounts to 4,168 milligrams.

Although there is a warning on the label that says "Do not use this product except under the advice and supervision of a physician if you are on a sodium restricted diet," most people don't take the time to check or may not be able to read the fine print. Prolonged use of this sort of antacid could aggravate high blood pressure or precipitate heart failure in susceptible individuals.

Calcium carbonate is another common ingredient in heartburn remedies. It is found in Alka 2, Alkets, Dicarbosil, Titrilac and Tums. While it's fast acting and safe in small doses, regular use can lead to constipation. There is also concern that large amounts of calcium carbonate may actually cause increased gastric acid secretion after three or four hours. So ulcer patients may want to forego the temporary relief this antacid can provide.

Aluminum hydroxide is one of the most popular constituents in antacids. It is available in Amphojel, Digel, Gelusil, Maalox and Mylanta. Like calcium carbonate, aluminum could cause constipation in large doses. Most aluminum-containing remedies don't however, because they usually contain magnesium as well, which has a counteracting laxative effect.

Of greater concern than constipation is the possibility that long-term use of aluminum will deplete the body of phosphate. This can cause muscle weakness, loss of appetite, fatigue and in extreme conditions, even heart failure. Low phosphate levels disturb the calcium balance in the body which in turn can lead to softening of bones. For women after menopause this can be a particular problem since they are already more susceptible to osteoporosis.

Antacids can also interact with many other medications. Tetracycline antibiotics may not be absorbed adequately if a person also takes something for indigestion.

The absorption of a number of other drugs can also be affected. Anyone taking digitalis heart medication, major tranquilizers or a drug called levodopa (Dopar, Larodopa, Parda, Sinemet) used for Parkinsonism should check with his doctor before relying heavily on an antacid.

Kreps leaving 'Noah's Ark' behind

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a town that ranks almost everything, Juanita Kreps has been regarded as a first-rate administrator of a second-rate department.

But Mrs. Kreps, who leaves the capital at the end of this week after 33 months as secretary of Commerce, takes exception to the characterization of her agency.

"Anyone who says that has not very good touch with reality," she said in an interview, "especially in their understanding of what is going on in the world, where commercial matters are so central."

It is a defense she has been making since she was sworn in as the first woman and first professional economist to head the $3 billion agency on Jan. 23, 1977.

Now, she says, she hopes her successor — expected to be named by President Carter this week — "will keep the momentum... make use of the excitement and enthusiasm" she senses at the agency.

Mrs. Kreps, 58, has acknowledged to friends that her resignation was due in good part to concern about her husband, Clifton Kreps Jr., who attempted suicide earlier this year.

She says she is eager to "have more time with him" at their home in Durham, N.C. After a vacation in Bermuda and holiday gatherings with their three children, she adds, she will select a job "that combines both higher education and the corporate world."

Before joining the Carter administration, Mrs. Kreps was vice president of Duke University in Durham, where she had also taught economics and written a number of books on labor and working women.

She served on numerous corporate boards of directors — among them the New York Stock Exchange, R.J. Reynolds Industries, J.C. Penney Co., Eastman Kodak Co. — often as the first woman in the post.

Close colleagues at Commerce describe her as "a Southern lady" but caution that her soft-spoken demeanor should not be misread.

"She is clearly above average among the Cabinet officials the Carter administration has had — male or female," said Jack Carlson, executive vice president of the National Association of Realtors and a former vice president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce. "It's going to be a hard act to follow."

Critics don't complain about Mrs. Kreps but about a department they believe has outlasted its usefulness.

"The job of secretary of Commerce has never been that much of a heavyweight in the formation of national policy," said a Treasury official who asked for anonymity. "There's almost no excuse for a Department of Commerce — or a Department of Labor — anymore. Business and labor can take care of themselves."

He also said he thought Mrs. Kreps "has been disappointed for a long time because the position doesn't give her enough clout."

Some of the "clout" was removed late in 1977 when W. Michael Blumenthal, then treasury secretary, cut Mrs. Kreps and Labor Secretary Ray Marshall from the interagency Economic Policy Group, which advises the president on domestic priorities.

"Yes, I did feel cut out," she said this week. "But the boys' breakfast club is not the only way one could have some impact on economic policy. So I spent my energies on trade and economic development rather than fretting about not being invited to breakfast."

She lists what she considers her greatest accomplishments with enthusiasm: —Calling attention to the heavy U.S. trade deficit and the need to expand exports.

—Working for expansion of the Economic Development Administration, which this year will have its funds for business projects more than quadrupled from last year's $628 million.

—Shifting more of the responsibility for day-to-day promotion and policing of trade from State and Treasury to Commerce.

—Improving communication among what she called "a loose conglomeration of agencies" with responsibilities ranging from control of shipping to business loans and weather forecasting.

Mrs. Kreps also could have cited the half-dozen successful overseas missions she conducted for Carter. The most recent, in May, saw her initial an agreement with China that has become the basis for re-establishing trade relations after a 30-year lapse.

She has described Commerce as being like Noah's ark, but with only one of everything.

Her staff apparently wanted her to remember the variety: gifts at her farewell party last Friday included a lobster pot, complete with live lobsters.

asphyxiated in their stranded automobile. They have been identified as Ray and Mary Sawyer of Roswell, N.M.

Voters age to make difference

CHICAGO (AP) — More than half of voting-age Americans have grown up since the Great Depression. That, says Professor Michael Boskin, can make all the economic difference in the world — and probably will.

Boskin, in his early 30s, one of the new breed economists who have far less faith than their predecessors in the ability of government to manipulate the economy, explains:

Much of American political and economic thinking was influenced by the experience of the 1930s, especially that of unemployment. Voters saw government as their savior, and trusted it to pump the economy.

Views were cast with that dismal experience in mind, and elected officials never forgot it. Government spent heavily and it ran up deficits. The top priority was the reduction of unemployment.

Then came the post-depression voters. Their experience has been different: it includes inflation, taxes, regulations and, more recently, stagnation. They have been hurt by continued deficits.

Their economic view is different, as different as that of some of the young economists who grew up in the past three decades, said Boskin, of Stanford University.

"I see that bloc of voters changing how we view economic policy," he said in an interview following his address to the U.S. League of Savings Associations — the home mortgage lenders — meeting this week.

Boskin threw a barrage of unpleasant statistics at his audience of 7,000 people, most of whom were associated in some way with savings associations, which hold more home mortgages than any other group.

For example: Disposable income per person rose 2.4 percent a year from 1947 to 1973, but in the next four years it only half that.

And more: In 1947-1967 U.S. inflation averaged only 1.6 percent a year, but in the next 10 years it averaged 7 percent. The latest U.S. rate is 13.2 percent, but in Germany last year it was only 3.

The impact of inflation, economic stagnation and double taxation on savings (when earned and again when interest is received) has cut sharply into the ability to save, said Boskin.

Again the statistics document it. Last year the savings rate was 5.8 percent of personal income, but in the third quarter of this year it was only 4.1.

Contrast those figures with a 1973-1977 personal saving rate in Japan of 24.9 percent, France 15.2 percent and West Germany 17.7 percent, and you understand something of the dollar's decline.

Boskin explained that private saving serves two crucial purposes:

"It is the major source of finance for new investment, and hence expansion of jobs, productivity and standards of living."

"And it is the vehicle by which citizens transfer resources from one stage of their lifetime to another, such as from peak earning years to retirement."

Jordan to pay for parking privilege

WASHINGTON (AP) — In another month, Hamilton Jordan and other top aides to President Carter will begin paying $32.50 a month for the privilege of parking inside the White House fence.

Carter's principal assistants hold assigned parking slots right beside the White House West Wing. For many years, these slots have been provided free of charge as a fringe benefit to presidential aides.

Last April 1, Carter announced that regular fees would be charged for these and thousands of other parking spaces allotted to federal workers in the Washington area.

If parking costs money, Carter reasoned, bureaucrats might be motivated to take public transit or join car pools. The objective, of course, is to save energy.

Carter said the fees would be imposed Oct. 1 but, perhaps predictably, the red tape involved has delayed implementation of the fee system until Dec. 1.

At $32.50 a month, staff chief Jordan's parking tab will be a bargain. Commercial rates near the White House run to $5 a day or more in many cases.

The imposition of parking charges represents such a jolt to the personal budgets of many federal employees, however, that a decision has been made to have a one year, half-price transition period. After 12 months, the fee for parking inside the White House compound will jump to $65 a month.

Although located closest to the seat of power, parking spots like Jordan's won't be the most expensive under White House jurisdiction. The stiffest charge — $80 a month after 12 months — will be levied a block away at the underground garage in the New Executive Office Building.

The $15 price advantage at the White House is compensation for exposure to rain and snow.

One of the most hazardous chores a White House staff aide can perform is to walk into a press center crowded with expectant reporters and begin distributing texts of major presidential speeches or documents. A person can get crushed or bowled over doing that.

Astro-Graph

by bernice bede osol

November 2, 1979
 This coming year will be an exceptionally active one in your work, bringing with it opportunities to finally get some long-desired items. Your rewards will be proportionate to your efforts.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
 Someone may be seeking to steal the limelight by trying to take credit for your accomplishments. Keep him or her off your stage. How to get along with other signs is one of the sections you'll enjoy in your Astro-Graph Letter which begins with your birthday. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
 Your happy-go-lucky spirit could get into trouble today if you're not discriminating with your social invitations. Be choosy regarding with whom you spend your time.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
 Don't bring home your outside woes and inflict them on your family. Keep your conversation light and breezy, and all will be laughing in no time.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)
 This is definitely not the day to rehash a smoldering unsettled issue with anybody. Don't bring up topics of conversation that relate to unresolved problems.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)
 Your chances for having a most profitable day and bringing home a fatter-than-usual paycheck are excellent. Use the extras to clear up obligations.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
 Your enthusiasm about something important to you may not generate the excitement you desire in one with whom you're closely associated.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
 Be prepared for a lot more responsibility or work than you bargained for when you volunteer to do a job today, unless you get the complete picture beforehand.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
 Someone you may encounter socially today has a chip on his or her shoulder. You're just the person who might decide to knock it off.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
 Your family is going to be very upset today if you look out for only your own interest and forget theirs. Walk the middle ground carefully.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
 Keep your temper if another tries to throw cold water on an idea you're all steamed up about today. You won't need his or her approval anyway.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
 Your enthusiasm is commendable involving a shared project. However, don't go so far as to carry the entire financial burden.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
 You could get a little miffed today because a person for whom you are bending over backward won't show you the same consideration.

Gun club launches membership drive

Pampa Rifle and Pistol Club has launched a membership drive and persons interested in joining the 26-year-old organization may call 669-6931 for more information. Rumors that new members must pass a three-week safety course before joining the club are not true, said club president Mack Courtney.

"A person does not have to pass any type of course to join our club," Courtney added. "It's open to anyone."

Courtney said the club does conduct hunter safety classes in conjunction with the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, and also sponsors the Top Of Texas 4-H Rifle Club.

Members can also compete against each other and other clubs in pistol, hi-powered rifle, and smallbore rifle matches.

"We have teams in each of these divisions, but a person does not have to have any experience with a gun to join our club," Courtney said.

Other club officers are Bill Campaigne, vice-president; R.L. Cox, executive officer; Don Butler, secretary-treasurer, and Al Phillips, chief instructor.

Cougars overshadowed by club

HOUSTON (AP)—Houston Coach Bill Yeoman says his Cougars have yet to reach the level of the 1978 Southwest Conference champions but Texas Christian Coach F.A. Dry retorts by saying he hopes he's not there the day it happens—like this Saturday in Fort Worth.

"We had a heckuva team last year and this one hasn't progressed quite to the point where that one was," says Yeoman of his unbeaten, untied 1979 power.

Dry says "Houston has everything in the world but a seven-foot punter."

He adds "They've got two outstanding tackles in Leonard Mitchell and Hosea Taylor. David Hodge is a quality linebacker and he's got plenty of help, too."

"Offensively, Houston has speed and that causes problems for us whether they're running or throwing. They are one of the top four teams in the country... What else can I say? That speaks for itself."

The oddsmakers have installed the Cougars as 16-point favorites over the Horned Frogs, who have shown signs of life the last three weeks.

"TCU has been playing hard and well," says Yeoman. "There is no question in our team's mind that it is going to be a real battle. TCU will be all cranked up on homecoming."

Houston is 4-0 in the SWC and is followed closely by idle Baylor 4-1, Arkansas 3-1, Texas 2-1, Texas Tech 2-2, and SMU 2-3.

In other games, Texas is a 14-point pick over Texas Tech in Austin; Texas A&M is a 16-point favorite over Southern Methodist in a regionally televised game from College Station; and Arkansas is a 21-point nod over the Rice Owls in Houston.

Arkansas Coach Lou Holtz said "I'm not sure where this team is going but the first thing we must realize is where we aren't going. We will not win a national championship this year. We played hard to make it to the Cotton Bowl. Now, we have to play for the sake of enjoying the game of football."

Texas Coach Fred Akers said Tech is stronger now than at any time this season.

"They have a lot of ability and they are well-coached," Akers said. "They will be coming to play."

Houston and Texas meet next week and the Cougars can all but nail down their third visit to the Cotton Bowl in four years with a victory.

Huntsville tailback honored

Huntsville Coach Joe Clements' scrapbook of individual performances by Hornet tailback Lloyd Archie got another entry last Friday in a 32-6 victory over Channelview.

Archie rushed 25 times for 222 yards and four touchdowns, hit four of five passes including one touchdown and kicked a pair of extra points to account for all 32 Huntsville points.

Archie's touchdown runs went 3, 1, 44 and 61 yards and his TD pass was for five yards. The versatile senior also doubles as a defensive safety and intercepted his fifth pass of the season.

The effort earned Archie mention in this week's Associated Press Schoolboy Honor Roll but Clements won't call it Archie's career best game.

"That was an outstanding effort for Lloyd but it wasn't his best game," said Clements, who has accurately catalogued Archie's exploits the past four years.

"His best game was as a sophomore when he caught seven passes for 244 yards and three touchdowns. He's had some great games but we all feel that was his best."

Archie has rushed over 100 yards in seven of Huntsville's eight games. He gained 88 yards against Houston Furr and did not play in the second half.

For the season, Archie has 1,249 yards rushing on 196 carries and has 164 yards on eight of 13 pass completions. He has scored 19 rushing touchdowns passed for three more, kicked 23 extra points and one field goal to account for 140 of the team total 225 points.

"His greatest asset in college will be as a receiver," Clements said. "He's got good speed, great hands and he is more comfortable there than anywhere else."

In other outstanding performances last week:

—Jack Bailey of Refugio rushed 157 yards on 16 carries and touchdowns runs of 16, 39 and 2 yards, caught two passes for 48 yards and returned an interception 35 yards in a 48-7 victory over Odem.

—Terrell wingback Jamie Harris made the most of four pass receptions, gaining 147 yards, including a 66-yard touchdown, in a 13-10 victory over McKinney.

—Pittsburg, the No. 2 ranked Class 2A team in the state, blasted Jefferson 31-14 on the rushing performance of Gary Hashaway, who ran 217 yards on 34 carries and scored on runs of 2 and 36 yards.

—Louis Landry keyed Beaumont Hebert's 42-13 victory over Jasper with 195 yards rushing on 16 carries and touchdown runs of 6, 32 and 95 yards. Landry also caught a 14-yard touchdown pass.

—Landry out-duelled Jasper's Terry Scott, who rushed 191 yards on 23 carries and ripped off a 75-yard touchdown run on the first play of the game.

—Billy Ray Thomas of East Chambers scored touchdowns on runs of 11, 80 and 58 yards and caught a 26-yard TD pass in a 49-19 victory over Kountze.

Milwaukee wins ninth in a row

MILWAUKEE (AP)—It was a night the players enjoyed playing, the fans enjoyed watching and the Milwaukee Bucks really enjoyed winning.

"This is what the NBA should be about every night," said the Bucks' Marques Johnson, who scored 25 points to help Milwaukee beat Los Angeles 110-106 and record its ninth consecutive National Basketball Association triumph.

"These were two of the best teams in the league, playing with all-out intensity," Johnson continued, "and it's just enjoyable to play in a game like that. It would have been enjoyable even if we lost, because both teams played so hard and so well."

Milwaukee got the little extra it needed when Dave Meyers and Kent Benson scored four points each in the final 2½ minutes to help snap the Lakers' five-game winning streak.

Los Angeles rallied from an 11-point, third-quarter deficit to tie it 96-96 with 2:50 remaining before Meyers and Benson went to work.

"This meant a lot to us because tonight I think we proved to everybody that we can play," Johnson said. "The Midwest Division has been kind of laughed off as being mediocre. Maybe from second place down it is, but the Milwaukee Bucks showed they can play with the Lakers, who are a collection of all-stars."

In other NBA games, it was Atlanta 102, Philadelphia 97; Boston 116, New Jersey 79; Washington 114, Cleveland 105; Indiana 133, Houston 129 in overtime; Kansas City 125, Utah 108; Golden State 111, Portland 105; Seattle 97, Denver

89; San Antonio 130, San Diego 123.

Hawks 102, 76ers 97
John Drew collected 23 points and Eddie Johnson scored four of his 18 points in the final 42 seconds to power Atlanta past Philadelphia.

Julius Erving had 26 points and Doug Collins 23 for the 76ers.

With Philadelphia leading 3-2, the game was delayed 31 minutes by a wet floor at the Omni in Atlanta. Moisture from the hockey ice underneath seeped up through the basketball boards and players were slipping and falling.

The floor was mopped during every timeout.

Cedric Maxwell scored 25 points and Larry Bird added 18 as Boston pulled to leads of 16-2 and 28-7 and went on to blast New Jersey.

The Nets lost forward Tim Basset after a second-quarter collision that left him with a chip fracture plus stretched ligaments in his left elbow. He is expected to be sidelined 3-4 weeks.

Bullets 114, Cavaliers 105
Washington got 31 points from Bob Dandridge to beat Cleveland and keep the Cavaliers winless in five road games this season. Dandridge made 14 of 21 shots in the contest and scored 25 points in the second half.

Pacers 133, Rockets 129
Joe Hassett scored 21 points, including three three-point field goals, to help Indiana hand Houston its sixth consecutive road loss.

Indiana, unbeaten in five games at home, rushed back from a 15-point first-half deficit with help from Hassett and Clemon Johnson. They tied the game at 119 with 47 seconds left in regulation, then scored the first six points of the overtime.

Mickey Johnson had 27 points for the Pacers while Moses

HOUSTON ROCKET guard Tom Henderson (6) passes the ball into the waiting hands of a teammate after driving the lane on Indiana Pacer center James Edwards during first quarter action of their NBA basketball game in Indianapolis Wednesday night. ## Eckhart pleased with Dolphins' performance

Nine Pampa youngsters emerged as winners, most in more than one category, during the annual Pampa Invitational Swim Meet Saturday and Sunday at the city's youth center.

Richard Steger and Russ Rabel of the Pampa Dolphins dominated every event they entered while Clay Douglass, Susan Darling, Susanna Holt, Richie Hill, Don Braswell, Amy Raymond, and Shonda Corcoran claimed at least one first-place award.

"I was very pleased with everyone's performance, especially the new swimmers who just joined this year," Dolphins coach Mike Eckhart said.

New swimmers include Charlie Nichols, Karen Trogovac, Charles Kane, James Kane, John Edwards, Susanna Holt, Cindy Wells, and Bennie Wells.

"I want to congratulate these new swimmers on an excellent job and I want to urge them to keep up the good work," he added.

Dolphins who placed or participated in the meet are listed below:

Ballot to decide fate of Chinese athletes

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP) - Ballots were sent this week to the 89 members of the International Olympic Committee, who will vote by mail on a plan to bring athletes from both mainland China and Taiwan into the Olympic Games.

A month ago the vote could have gone either way. It involves a loss of face for the Chinese on Taiwan, who have a lot of supporters on the IOC.

But Lord Killanin, president of the IOC, has ordered certain documents to be sent with the ballots, including a letter from the U.S. State Department, and this may swing the vote.

The letter gives a dark hint that if Taiwan continues to compete as the Republic of China, using the old Kuomintang flag, then the Montreal 1976 example could happen all over again when athletes assemble for the Winter Games at Lake Placid, N.Y., next February.

In 1976 the Canadian government refused to grant entry visas to the Taiwanese, who went home without competing.

The IOC executive board has proposed a formula by which Taiwan would send its athletes to Lake Placid as the Chinese Taipei Olympic Committee, with a special Olympic flag and anthem to be approved by the IOC. Peking's team would be known as that of the People's Republic of China, and they would use the national flag.

The Taiwan contingent has said it is unfair to single out its athletes and that the plan is a breach of an Olympic rule that requires countries to present their national banners.

The IOC traditionally deals with sportsmen and tries to keep politics out of its business. But in voting on China it will have to think of this ominous letter, sent by the U.S. State Department to Julian K. Roosevelt, IOC member in the United States.

"Regarding China's participation in the Games, this is a decision for the IOC. As for government contacts, the United States as of Jan. 1, 1979, recognizes the government of the People's Republic of China as the sole legal government of China."

Killanin and his executive board, meeting in Nagoya, Japan, last week, studied the letter and saw the writing on the wall.

GARDENING BY MOON SIGNS

By Lois Boynton

The moon will be increasing: 1-2; 20-30. The moon will be decreasing: 3-19. The fruitful signs are: from 12:30 p.m. the 7th through the 9th (Cancer); 17-19 (Scorpio); 26-27 (Pisces).

The semi-fruitful signs are: 1-2 (Aries); 5th, 6th, and 7th until 12:30 p.m. (Gemini); 10-11 (Leo); 12-14 (Virgo); 20-21 (Sagittarius); 24-25 (Aquarius); 28-29 until 2:00 p.m. the 30th (Aries).

The wet signs are: Cancer, Scorpio, and Pisces. Since it is so very dry, you will need to have your watering program going in full swing during these signs. Your trees and shrubs will be much better fortified to face a severe winter if the soil about their roots has been well watered before a hard freeze.

It is clean-up time in the yard and garden, but don't be so impeccably neat, that there will not be a leaf in sight and all the natural debris has been removed away and maybe deluged to the trash can. This does not necessarily mean that you are a good gardener. On the contrary, it shows that you have no conception of the natural process which land regenerates itself year after year without the need of expensive fertilizers.

Fallen leaves in some areas of the garden look dreadful and should be cleared away. Driveways and paths should not be left covered with leaves. Lawns should not be left covered with leaves for they pack down, smothering and sometimes killing the grass.

Leaves play an important part in the recycling process of nature. They need not be a nuisance to even the most tidy-minded gardener. We should be thankful that we have them and put them to good use after they fall.

We may not all be aware that oxygen is not a free gift that just happens to exist here. It is manufactured for us by green surfaces of trees, plants, grass, and other vegetation.

Our independence on living plants is what conservation is all about. Plants take in carbon dioxide, and through some system not completely understood by man, passes out oxygen for us to breathe. Since this particular gas, carbon dioxide, is an ever increasing problem of air pollution, the presence of trees, and grass in your neighborhood means that the air will be purer around you.

So if there were no other reason for appreciating leaves, their power to filter the air should make us overlook the nuisance they turn into when they fall.

Let some of the leaves remain where they fall under shrubs and on beds raking them off only where it is necessary. By spring you will discover they have decomposed into a rich mulch, adding immeasurably to the fertility of your soil.

You may want to pile them in some out-of-the-way corner, or make an inexpensive wire cage to keep them from blowing about. Water them down well and cover with manure or soil. Nature will take over from there, and nature works fast. The pile will shrink tremendously. From this simple process you will have dark, rich leaf mold, by digging from this pile year after year. And there is nothing better for your lawn, potted plants or growing areas than this home-made leaf mold.

For your Christmas decoration try giving juniper, jew or euonymous the glycerine treatment. Use two tablespoons of glycerine to every gallon of hot water. Smash the last two inches of stems with a hammer and put them in the warm glycerine solution. This turns the evergreen leaves and attractive bronze color, and keeps the needles securely on the jews and junipers.

The vases or containers in which these are displayed should be filled with this glycerine mixture and added when more water is needed.

Complete all planting operations. Trees, shrubs, perennials and bulbs with the exception of tulips which can still be planted until late December.

If you have ordered lily bulbs for planting outdoors, and they have not arrived, cover the area with plants or straw before the ground may freeze. This keeps the area soft and will make late planting possible.

Do not add tough evergreen leaves or pine needles to the leaf mold pile.

This is a good time to turn under coarse organic material. Fresh manure, corn stalks, half rotted leaves and grass clippings, partly decayed compost, etc., can all be turned or spaded under now with good effect. Such material does not have to be nearly as decomposed now as it should be in the spring.

Fall digging or plowing your vegetable garden spot leaving rough clods is particularly beneficial to our heavy soil.

November is the month when many berrying plants are at their best. Pyracantha (Firethorn) is one of the most popular, and a favorite food for the robins. Standing with its bright berries, which when cut and brought inside hold their color all winter and do not shrivel or get soft.

There are number of shrubs that provide brilliant autumn color, either of leaf or berry. Among them are several cotoneasters, C. autumn fire, C. divaricata, and C. aciculata. Euonymus alata compacta, known as burning bush, causes much comment each autumn for its brilliance of foliage. It is interesting not only for its vivid autumn foliage but for its scarlet fruit which attracts the birds all winter. Another shrub, Mahonia aquifolium, popularly known as the Oregon holly-grape has lovely bronze-red foliage in the fall. It does well in north exposures.

All fruits and vegetables have been gathered in from our gardens, it is harvest time. As we count our blessings, let us give thanks and be grateful.

TEXAS

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Attorney General Mark White told a Fort Worth prosecutor Tuesday justices of the peace do not have to be in their offices to warn arrested persons of their rights.

Tarrant County District Attorney Tim Curry had asked for an attorney general's opinion on whether a justice of the peace may issue the warnings in a county jail.

White's opinion said state law does not say where the warnings must be issued.

"Presumably it may be anywhere in the county where the magistrate may be found, including the county jail," the opinion said.

White also said magistrates are not required to travel to a place where a prisoner is being held.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A Dallas corporation operating 17 weight reduction clinics and a Houston firm with three Rio Grande Valley facilities Tuesday were barred from engaging in misleading advertising, according to Attorney General Mark White.

Shapely Lady Figure Salons of Houston was named in a permanent injunction by State District Judge Joe Cisneros of Edinburg.

Health Centers International, Inc., of Dallas agreed to stop advertising White alleged was deceptive.

White claimed Shapely Lady misrepresented its program to 2,500 women in Harlingen, McAllen and Brownsville. He said the company failed to tell customers that Shapely Lady Figure Salons in other parts of the state had gone out of business without making refunds to customers.

The company was ordered to pay a $500 civil penalty to the state and to allow customers to change their membership plans.

The Dallas firm — operating 17 Professional Reducing Centers of America — allegedly misrepresented a drug by claiming it has an effect on hunger and weight loss. White claimed. The corporation agreed to change its customer booklet claims about the drug. The agreement was made before State District Judge Charles Mathews of Austin.

The company agreed to pay $785 to four customers and a $500 civil penalty to the state, White said.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — An Austin nursing home that allegedly used over $18,000 of patients' trust funds was named in an agreed permanent injunction here Tuesday.

Attorney General Mark White had claimed the Flowers Rest Home, Inc., formerly doing business as Cartwheel Lodge of Austin, had violated the state Deceptive Trade Practices and Consumer Protection Act.

State District Judge Charles Mathews' order bars the company from using patients' trust money for its own use and requires the company to keep separate accounts for the trust money.

Loyce Graves, former administrator of the home, was barred from acting as a nursing home official in Texas for three years. He also paid a civil penalty of $1,000 to the state, White said.

The defendants have made full restitutions and have been cleared by Texas Department of Human Resources auditors, according to White.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A rate hike request filed by Lone Star Gas Co. was suspended for 120 days Tuesday by the Texas Railroad Commission. The company is seeking increased rates in 17 communities.

Lone Star's proposed service charge increase ranged from $3.50 to $15, depending on the type of service involved.

The communities are: North Richland Hills, Lake Worth, Tuscola, Westlake, Grandview, Anna, Blooming Grove, Forest Hills, Italy, Kennedale, Crowley, Everman, Benbrook, Lakeside, Westworth Village, Fort Worth and Hamilton.

FOCUS

Forward Pass

Today the forward pass is as much a part of football as shoulder pads and helmets. But when Notre Dame used it to beat Army on this day in 1913, the pass was still unusual. 19th century football was mostly running, kicking, tackling, and blocking. By the early 1900s, it had become so violent that President Theodore Roosevelt threatened to ban the sport unless it became safer. A rule change in 1906 allowed a back to throw the ball forward to another player. The first forward pass was thrown that same year, but it wasn't until 1913 that Notre Dame proved it could be used to win football games.

DO YOU KNOW — What Notre Dame pass receiver became the school's most famous coach?

The Big Bambino bows out

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Frank Rizzo knows they don't all love him, but he's positive every Philadelphian will sorely miss him.

Rizzo, the 59-year-old ex-cop from the Little Italy rowhouses of South Philly, is leaving the mayor's office after two stormy terms, ending eight years of colorful and controversial leadership.

He has chased fire engines, raged at the press, been featured in the "Doonesbury" comic strip, failed a lie detector test in a patronage flap and worn a nightstick in his tuxedo cummerbund.

And he feels no one can fill his shoes. "I will return," he promises "in about six months they'll be begging to have me back."

Rizzo's thoughts about those seeking to succeed him in City Hall in the Nov. 6 election?

"Between them, if you scrambled their brains you still couldn't get a half wit. I've got to vote for one of them, but it's a awful choice."

Rizzo — nicknamed the Big Bambino, the Cisco Kid and Hizzoner in various stages of his police and mayoral career — could retire on a $45,000-a-year pension but says he's considering a run at the U.S. Senate seat held by Republican Richard Schweiker, who is retiring next year.

"If my wife says go, I'll go," Rizzo says. "If my wife says no, I'll talk to her a little bit more. I'm confident if I made that move, I would be successful."

Critics of the mayor say he's sold this city of 2 million down the river, leaving it financially shaky and struggling with high unemployment, fleeing businesses and racial unrest aggravated by his "vote white" crusade.

"No other city in the United States could compare to what's happening in Philadelphia," counters Rizzo. "Last year we had a billion dollars worth of economic development, this year a billion and a half."

"Thousands of jobs? You can't fault me for the job loss. They don't print the truth. The job losses were the federal jobs that moved out of here, and we've turned it around."

The son of a policeman and himself a former beat patrolman who rose through the ranks to become police commissioner, Rizzo prides himself on his organizational abilities.

"I've got my grave already picked, name and all," he says. "All they have to do is chisel the date. I do everything right. I've even got my suit, with tie. I've been through it. I watched families in confusion. I don't want my wife running around."

The 6-foot-2 Rizzo, his muscular frame carrying 270 pounds, has a married daughter and a bachelor son. He lives with his wife, Carmela, in a fancy $250,000 house and likes to smoke expensive cigars, although he declines to be photographed with one. He still suffers pain from a right hip broken when he fell while helping direct rescue efforts at an oil refinery fire in 1975.

Rizzo often jabs the air with his beefy hands as he talks, punctuating his comments with unprintable words and occasional humor.

"My positions are always clear," he says. "You don't have to have a Webster's dictionary beside you to understand me."

Rizzo is both loved and hated here. Much of the ill will stems from his tough law-and-order stance. The mayor was enraged when the U.S. Justice Department filed suit against his police force, in part alleging a pattern of police brutality.

"I'm not saying they are angels," he had said, "but while I'm around, right or wrong, if they're trying to do their job, they're going to be protected, even if they're wrong."

The brutality sections of the suit were dismissed on Tuesday. Much of the evidence of alleged brutality was gathered in black neighborhoods, and Rizzo heightened racial tension last year when he urged citizens to "vote white" in a referendum on whether he could change the city charter to allow a third term as mayor. The bid was rejected 2 to 1.

"I'm no racist," he said. "The black man has done better under me than all of the liberal mayors before me...I'm ultra-liberal when it comes to human rights, but ultra-conservative when it comes to criminals."

Rizzo, who once called Richard Nixon the greatest president America ever had, has stayed on the sidelines in the current campaign, "the dulllest I've ever seen because I'm not in it."

The two major candidates are Republican David Marston, U.S. Attorney in Philadelphia until 1977 when he was fired by former Attorney General Griffin Bell, and Democrat Bill Green, a former U.S. Congressman defeated in a mayoral primary eight years ago. Green is expected to win in this heavily Democratic city.

Rizzo was infuriated when Green and Marston made pitches for the black vote, each promising to name a black to the post of managing director, the No. 1 job in the mayor's cabinet.

"I am so disgusted and sick," Rizzo said. "I never saw such political pandering in my life. That's being a political whore...This election proves what Rizzo said, that blacks vote black. Maybe I wasn't too wrong, that whites should vote white (along with blacks who think like me.)"

CBS '60 Minutes' takes top spot in Nielson ratings

NEW YORK (AP) — CBS' "60 Minutes," which has spent a decade on the air, enjoyed its best season during the 1978-79 television year. But less than two months into the new season, the newsmagazine is doing better than ever.

"60 Minutes" won the networks' ratings race for the week ending Oct. 28, according to figures from the A.C. Nielsen Co., and the strong showing helped boost CBS into the No. 1 spot for the first time since new programming began late last month.

It was only the second No. 1 finish for "60 Minutes" in the program's history. The first came Nov. 26, 1978.

CBS, in fact, listed seven programs in the week's Top 10, and the network's rating for the week was 19.3, with ABC second at 18.4 and NBC third at 17.8.

The networks say that means in an average prime-time minute during the week, 19.3 percent of the homes in the country with TV were tuned to CBS.

The rating for "60 Minutes" was 30.9. Nielsen says that means of all the homes across the country with television, 30.9 percent saw at least part of the Sunday evening newsmagazine.

CBS spent most of the first month of the new season in third place while a surprising start by NBC caught most of the attention. NBC's third-place finish this week was its second in a row, though the network did continue to score ratings points with its series. Both "Quincy, M.E." and "Little House on the Prairie" made the Top 20.

As "60 Minutes" gave CBS programmers reason for joy, NBC's

"Prime Time Sunday" was cause for concern at that network. "Prime Time Sunday," begun in June, was 68th of 66 programs rated.

New series, meanwhile, continued to struggle in the ratings, with only three among the first 30 programs listed — ABC's "Hart to Hart," 15th, "Trapper John, M.D." on CBS No. 24, and NBC's "The Misadventures of Sheriff Lobo" 29th.

In addition to "Prime Time Sunday," the bottom five in the ratings included a CBS movie, "Mind over Murder," 62nd, followed by ABC's "Detective School," "California Fever" on CBS and a movie, "The Bible... In the Beginning," on ABC.

The week's Top 10 shows: "60 Minutes," with a rating of 30.9 representing 23.6 million homes.

"One Day at a Time," 30.6 or 23.3 million, and "Alice," 30.2 and 23 million, all CBS; "Three's Company," 29.3 or 22.4 million, ABC; "The Jeffersons," 27.5 or 21 million, and "Dallas," 26.3 or 20.1 million, both CBS; "Taxi," 26.2 or 20 million, ABC; "M.A.S.H.," 25.4 or 19.4 million, CBS; "Mork and Mandy," 25.2 or 19.2 million, ABC; and "Archie Bunker's Place," 25 or 19.1 million, CBS.

The next 10 shows: Movie, "And Baby Makes Six," NBC, and "Dukes of Hazzard," CBS, tie; "Eight is Enough," ABC; "Quincy, M.E.," NBC, and "Hart to Hart," ABC, tie; "Little House on the Prairie," NBC; "Happy Days" and "Charlie's Angels," both ABC; and "Fat Albert's Halloween Special," CBS, and "Angie," ABC, tie.
