Chicago Gangsters Scatter Over Nation as Huge Clean-Up Continues

"That's gold in these here prairies."

Pampa fact: Pampa has two oil refineries in operation, two under construction, and another planned; never say Pampa lacks industries.

And this isn't a hick town, although badgers appear in the business section and coyotes may be heard at night. The scream of the wildcats in the oil territory adds to the menagerie, but we are more civilized than Chicago, where they shoot reporters and scare the columnists half to death.

It is hard to make distant folk believe, however, that we do not smother negroes every few weeks and generally act out the traditions of the Woolly West. Ranger Captain Tom Hickman has to make a trip to London to tell the Englishmen that the Sherman episode was the exception, not the rule. We trust Captain Hickman will have no cause for saying anything in the way of an excuse for Pampa.

WHILE HE IS ABROAD, CAPTAIN HICKMAN MIGHT DO A GOOD TURN FOR JOHN BULL BY QUIETING A FEW RIOTS IN INDIA.

This will acknowledge receipt of $1 each from P. R. Pond and D. C. Moore for the milk fund. The destitute children will appreciate it a lot.

The News will attempt a "fight party" this evening, and you are all invited to hear the blow-by-blow, inside account of the Sharkey-Schmeling championship bout. This free party will be an accommodation for the many fans who will not be able to hear the broadcast account. It also will be a protection for the radio audience should static prevent satisfactory reception. Frankly, the radio has taken all the profit out of fight parties and "extras," but there are still many followers of the sport who like to be in a crowd when the fight gets exciting. You are all invited to be at The News building at about 7:30 o'clock this evening. The main event will be at 8 p. m., Pampa time.

The Pampan will not soon forget the fight party The News gave soon after it became a daily back in 1927. The results of the Dempsey-Tenney battle were received by radio, with the writer perched on top of the old News building, ear-phones, megaphone—and a rain-gown, mingling. The static became so heavy that after the rain and wind struck the Pampan's fingers sparkled on every contact with the roof and the ear-phones crashed and roared like the deuce. The bulk of the crowd stayed to the end, and many fans remained to read the more reliable, but slower account in the "extra."

TWINKLES
Of course it was best for Dan Moody to stay out of the gubernatorial race, but recitals of the Battle of the North Fork would have been much more zestful with him to shoot at in the telling.

And speaking of politics, Pink Parrish is definitely "in the net" with us until he explains why he did not retire and leave West Texas strength undivided.

The Pampan has gone back to an old love—tennis. Not that he has given up golf, but that he needs more strenuous game for a few weeks in order to get in condition to stand the annual vacation.

We may not get the railroad, but we have not given up and we aren't licked by a plenty.

Maybe it was a good thing that long styles came back before Farmer Jim had to run for governor behind his wife's petticoats again.

BIG SHOTS OF CITY ESCAPE POLICE RAIDS

Kansas City Tries to Keep Gunmen on Move

"VAGRANTS" ARE SWELL BIRDS

Police Without Clue in Murder of Reporter

CHICAGO, June 12. (AP)—Gangland's head men, the big shots listed by the crime commission as "public enemies," remained at large today while 640 minor hoodlums and racketeers fell into the overnight police search for the assassin of Alfred "Jake" Lingle, Chicago Tribune crime reporter.

None of those listed in the "who's hoodlum" was arrested, and either the gang leaders were keeping under cover from the picket detectives, returned loose to corral them or they were leaving the city.

It was learned that airlines were carrying capacity loads with some extra planes pressed into use, but there was no evidence that the surplus passengers were hoodlums, and the police made no move to stop any air voyages.

In the meantime, an elaborate funeral was held for the victim of the assassin, who may have been an avenging gang or may have been a hoodlum with a personal grudge. Absence of information as to just what enemies his connections with the underworld in a professional way might have brought about left the police without any well defined trail to pursue.

KANSAS CITY, June 12. (AP)—Two men were taken into custody here early today as a part of the police department's campaign to keep alleged Chicago gangsters "from lighting in Kansas City."

The two men gave their names as Ben Green, 28, and Joe Condi, 38. Both men were said to have told police that they had left Chicago "because of the heat."

NEW YORK, June 12. (AP)—Six "sporting gentlemen from Chicago," arrested last night as they arrived for the Sharkey-Schmeling fight in hope they might know something of the murder there of Albert Lingle, reporter, were freed of vagrancy charges today.

Their sartorial elegance and the $60,000 they had in their pockets belied the vagrancy charge.

Police said they gained little information from the six, all disclaiming any knowledge of the Lingle slaying.

Frazier to Give Night Lessons in Music Instruments

A large group of men and boys and several professional women who are too busy during the day for music lessons and band rehearsals wish to take lessons at night, according to R. E. "Pop" Frazier, head of the public school music department.

So many requests for evening classes have been received that Mr. Frazier is considering holding lessons on Tuesday and Thursday nights. The classes are to be conducted entirely separately from Mr. Frazier's school classes, which are partly supported by salary from the school ward.

Officers of the American Legion post have informed Mr. Frazier that any man or boy who becomes proficient will be welcome in the Legion band. Prospects are good for the organization of a women's band later, the director said.

Gray County Republicans Decide Not to Place County Ticket in Race—Creager Is Eulogized in Resolution—Tariff Opponents Are Flayed

The executive committee of Gray county Republicans decided not to nominate candidates for county offices at a meeting held yesterday afternoon at the courthouse. Candidates for Republican administrative offices of the county will be named later.

The candidacy of Hugh Exum of Amarillo, Republican district chairman, was unanimously endorsed by the chairmen of precincts No. 2, 3, and 4. Dr. V. E. von Brunow, county chairman, presided.

A resolution commending the national committeeman from Texas, R. B. Creager of Brownsville, for an efficient administration was adopted and a copy was forwarded to him. Presidents Hoover's attitude toward the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill was commended. It was stated that this bill, if passed, "would restore agriculture to its rightful place as one of the American industries."

In stating why he favored the tariff, Dr. Brunow said that Henry Ford is against the tariff and is issuing propaganda against it because he is gradually abandoning the manufacture of his motor vehicles in the United States and is erecting factories in European countries in order to take advantage of the low wage scale prevailing in Europe. The same thing could be said about John J. Raskob and General Motors company, he declared.

Senate Group Asserts It Ought to Have Papers

WASHINGTON, June 11. (AP)—The senate foreign relations committee today adopted a resolution asserting its right to the London naval papers denied it by President Hoover. The vote was ten to seven with three members not voting.

A copy of the resolution was transmitted to the president and to Secretary Stimson.

The committee then adjourned its consideration of the London naval treaty until tomorrow.

Chairman Borah and four other Republicans of the committee supported the resolution, which was presented by Senator Black, Democrat, Alabama.

Fire Damage at Texas Refinery Is Million Dollars

PORT ARTHUR, June 12. (AP)—One man was dead, 35 were injured, 11 seriously, and damage estimated at more than a million dollars had been caused today as a result of an explosion and fire at the refinery of the Texas company here.

Official investigation into the cause of the explosion was begun this morning by Superintendent W. K. Holmes, who said the results would be made public.

An unofficial report was that light oil spilled over an agitator and running over nearby private tracks of the Texas company was ignited by a spark. The engineer and fireman were burned.

Leonard Hatch was fatally burned. Seriously injured were Walter Robert, J. A. Blalock, A. M. Burton, S. C. Schenckmayer, R. B. D. Holloway, Earl Guider, A. B. Cross, R. B. Folk, P. Morris, E. P. Letulle and R. E. Davis. All were expected to recover.

The first explosion occurred at 4:22 p. m. yesterday. The fire spread as it was fed by other explosions at intervals of only a few minutes until the area became a furnace.

SENATOR CLINT SMALL DECLARES STATE MUST TAKE ACTION TO RELIEVE WORKING MAN

DENISON, June 12.—The state must concern itself with the menace of unemployment and pass adequate laws which will protect the laboring man from unfair working conditions, Senator Clint C. Small, Democratic candidate for governor, declared here.

Before an audience composed of farmers, railroad men, bankers and section hands, Senator Small spoke in behalf of his candidacy. He again rapped his political opponents for what he termed "emotional ballyhoo" in their quest of votes and said that the "old time politician is using the same method of vote hunting that was employed decades ago."

For the first time since he opened his campaign in Amarillo May 2, the candidate spoke at length on the labor situation.

"The laboring man is the greatest asset to this commonwealth," he said. "The state must be absolutely fair to his cause and he must be protected with laws insuring reasonable hours, a safe place to work and surroundings that will enable him to improve his status and keep abreast of the onward march of progress."

"Unemployment has done more than anything else to make the working man discontented and discouraged. The state must concern itself with the menace of unemployment and make every exertion possible to bring about conditions that will provide labor and insure compensation in keeping with American ideals."

The senator also discussed the need of laws protecting society from incompetent or unethical persons in all professions. These laws, he said, should apply not only to doctors and lawyers, but to the engineers, the architects and all other professional callings.

"The entry into professional life should be safeguarded by measures demanding high standards of efficiency and moral character," he said.

COCKRELL-MILROY WELL WEST OF CITY IS BROUGHT IN FOR PRODUCTION OF 672 BARRELS

Prospects for oil in the 20 locations made during the last week in the new oil area adjoining the city of Pampa on the west increased yesterday when Cockrell-Milroy oil company's No. 1 Sailor came in for an initial production of 672 barrels of high gravity oil.

The well is a mile and a quarter west of the Talley addition, and one and a half miles west and a quarter of a mile south of No. 1 Castlebury of the same company.

Pay was topped at 3,151 feet, but good production was not found until a depth of 3,182 had been reached. Total depth of the hole is 3,225 feet.

The well is located in the northwest corner of the southwest quarter of the northeast quarter of section 138, block 3, I & G N survey.

This is the third well to be completed in this area, although 35 are drilling. The Castlebury well was developed into a good producer. Operators and geologists predict that none of the wells in this area will be the gusher class, because there is no gas in the pay formation.

LEGGE'S FIRST YEAR TO END ON SATURDAY

Public Wondering If He Will Retain Position

FARM BOARD IS UNDER FIRE

Hoover's Adviser Is One of Sharpest Critics

WASHINGTON, June 12. (AP)—Friends and foes of the man who has been called "Agriculture's Abraham Lincoln" and the "leader of a Socialistic fiasco" were wondering today how much longer he would remain at the head of the government's $500,000,000 enterprise in merchandising farm products.

Chairman Alexander H. Legge of the Federal Farm Board, who has clashed frequently and fiercely with President Hoover's intimate friend and advisor, Julius Barnes, over the board's operations in grain, will complete a year of service with that agency at midnight on Saturday.

How long he would serve was announced as indefinite by President Hoover at the time of his appointment. Mr. Legge, the chief executive there, said, will be chairman of the board "for the first year at least."

While the consensus here is that Legge will serve another year, neither the president nor the chairman himself has given any official indication of what may be expected. On that subject, Legge is smilingly uncommunicative.

"The Big Chief will give out that news," he says and refuses to say more.

When the board launched its wheat stabilization operations, financed by loans from the half-billion dollar revolving fund authorized by congress, it provoked vehement protest from grain dealers who wired President Hoover that their business would be destroyed.

The board continued its operations however, and now is preparing to assist a similar stabilization corporation to relieve the cotton emergency.

The Chamber of Commerce at its annual meeting in April condemned the board's policy of using public funds to participate in business competition with established agencies.

Then, facing his fellow members of the chamber, Legge dramatically denounced their attitude of hostility to the board, declaring they were for farm relief "so long as it didn't work."

But Barnes, who is chairman of the chamber's board of directors, and head of President Hoover's national business advisory council, insisted government financing of large grain operations was an economic fallacy and if continued would prove disastrous.

Both Legge and Barnes are said to have the confidence and support of the chief executive in their respective activities. They are at loggerheads, however, on the questions of using public funds to finance cooperative marketing operations.

Sets Signals on "Stop" Before He Falls Dead

MOUNT CARMEL, Pa., June 12. (AP)—A railroad telegrapher who set the "stop" signals on his block before he dropped dead in his tower, today was credited with averting a collision of two trains.

Stricken with a heart attack, Evan Protheroe, operator at the Mount Carmel Junction tower of the Philadelphia and Reading railroad, managed to flash the fact that he was ill to the train dispatcher at Shamokin. The latter quickly sent back word to set the signals.

Several minutes later a freight train pulled to a stop at the tower in response to the signal and the crew found Protheroe dead in the tower. Another freight pulled up a few minutes later and railroad men said had the signals not been set the two trains would have collided.

MAX SCHMELING VERY NERVOUS, DOCTOR FINDS

NEW YORK, June 12. (AP)—Jack Sharkey will have a weight advantage of nine pounds over Max Schmeling in their struggle for heavyweight supremacy tonight. The German weighed in at 188 pounds and Sharkey at 197 this afternoon.

The fighters did not meet at the weighing in ceremonies in the dressing room at the Yankee stadium. Sharkey arrived on the scene nearly an hour ahead of time and stepped on the scales early. It was after 1 p. m. the hour set for the weighing, when Schmeling appeared.

Schmeling was declared by Dr. William Walker, the boxing commission's official examiner, to be the most nervous heavyweight he has ever examined. His blood pressure was exceptionally high, though apparently due somewhat to temporary nervousness.

"Schmeling looks to be the typically stolid German type," Dr. Walker said, "but apparently this conceals a very high-strung temperament. His blood pressure gives a count of 152-80 as compared with the normal of 120-70. Sharkey was 138-76, only slightly above normal."

A slight sprinkle of rain occurred shortly after 1 p. m. (EST). It lasted only a few minutes and the general prospects still were that the weather would not prevent the fight.

King Carol Says Princess Helen Is Already Queen

BUCHAREST, Rumania, June 12. (AP)—King Carol today was reported to have declared the Princess Helen, his former wife to be "already queen of Rumania."

The king told his brother Nicholas and his sister Princess Elizabeth, that when his father, King Ferdinand, died, he, Carol, automatically became king, and Helen became queen.

Since then the divorce was pronounced, but with the parliamentary annulment on Sunday of all intervening events since King Ferdinand's death and his own installation as king, Helen automatically became queen.

King Carol begged Nicholas to give this message to Helen, which he did, when the mother of Crown Prince Michael came to bring their child this forenoon to play.

M'LEAN MAN REFUSING TO MOVE HOUSE

B. T. Watt Fighting Condemnation of Property

BOBBITT WILL SEND LAWYER

Restraining Order Is Granted—Hearing Saturday

After smouldering for six months, the right-of-way dispute between the state highway commission and B. T. Watts of McLean yesterday flamed into a quarrel which promises to attract state-wide attention. Mr. Watts won the first round of the fight to keep the commission from routing Highway No. 75 (U. S. Highway No. 66) across the site where his house and other buildings now stand, when Judge Clifford Bray of the 114th district court granted a restraining order enjoining the commission from constructing the road or condemning the property.

With the State of Texas, R. L. Bobbitt as attorney general, Cone Johnson, W. R. Ely and Gibb Gilchrist were named defendants. Attorney General Bobbitt stated yesterday that he would send an assistant attorney general to Pampa to represent the state in the hearing, which is scheduled to be held in 114th district court Saturday morning at 10 o'clock.

The outcome of the case will likely be watched with interest throughout the state by citizens involved in similar difficulties, since Mr. Watts in his petition for the permanent injunction attacks a custom to which the commission has been adhering in its road building program. In securing right-of-way, the commission has appointed juries of view to assess the value of the land and then condemn it.

Mr. Watts in his petition for the injunction alleges that his homestead is not subject to forced sale under the constitution and laws of the State of Texas and the United States. He states that located on the land which the commission wants as right-of-way are his barn, chicken houses, orchard, six-room home, pipeline, filling station, grocery store, garage, and other improvements, and that condemnation of the property would amount to a confiscation without process of law, and in violation of the laws of Texas and the United States.

The petition stated that on May 13, 1930, the county judge of Gray county appointed T. J. Coffey, A. A. Callaghan, and C. M. Carpenter as special commissioners to assess the value of the land and damages, and that on June 9 the hearing was held at the Gray county courthouse, but was adjourned in order to seek more evidence. He claims that he and his attorneys were denied the right to cross-examine the commissioners or the witnesses who testified as to the value of the land.

He further avers that there is no public necessity for taking his land, as the present route of Highway No. 75 runs parallel with the proposed right-of-way. "The State of Texas, acting through Mr. Gilchrist and defendants are attempting to exceed the authority vested in them under the law, and that each of them is abusing his discretion in attempting to re-locate the high-

NEARLY SIX MILLION PEOPLE

When the census figures are complete, Texas will show a population of fully 5,600,000, judging from the complete returns from 131 counties, which in 1920 had about 52 per cent of the population. The returns from these 131 counties total 3,179,274 as compared with 2,424,376, a net gain of 754,898. Twenty-seven of these counties showed losses, reaching a total of 61,056, but the other 104 counties showed a gain of 815,954. Of this gain 501,261 was accounted for by nine counties, including Bexar, Dallas, Harris, Potter, El Paso, Tom Green, Travis, Taylor and McLennan. These are the counties in which the cities of San Angelo, Dallas, Houston, Amarillo, El Paso, San Angelo, Austin, Abilene and Waco are situated, thus showing an enormous increase in urban population as compared with rural. A total of 123 counties, which in 1920 has a population of 2,238,852, are not included in the completed counties reported above. Among the counties not reported are Jefferson and Tarrant, in which are the cities of Beaumont, Port Arthur, and Fort Worth. It is not unreasonable to suppose that these 123 counties will show an increase of 182,000 in which event the population of the State will be 5,600,000.

It is altogether possible that the completed total will exceed this figure by 100,000, thus making the population of the State 5,700,000, but it seems certain that the total will be 5,600,000. This will mean an increase in population of 931,772, or nearly 20 per cent, during the past 10 years.

The great bulk of this increase will be of urban population, but the State will still be about 60 per cent rural, counting towns of 2,500 or less among the rural population. In 1920 Texas was 67.6 per cent rural, in 1910 it was 75.9 per cent rural, and in 1900 it was 82.9 per cent rural.

It is not expected that the strictly farm population will show a great increase. It is known that many farming counties will show a big decrease in population, though many others, especially in West Texas and the Panhandle, will show a big increase. But the decreases in some counties will be offset by increases in others, and show a small increase besides.

Four counties—Harris, Dallas, Bexar and Tarrant—will have considerably more than one-fifth of the population of the State, probably about 1,200,000.

It must be understood, of course, that with 123 counties still incomplete, these figures for the State as a whole are only estimates. But they are sufficiently correct to warrant making general observations about their meaning. They mean, to be sure that Texas is becoming steadily urbanized, but they do not mean, as many are likely too quickly to conclude, that Texas is becoming "rapidly industrialized." Agriculture still contributes about 55 per cent of the annual production of wealth, and the remaining 45 per cent is divided between mineral production, commerce, transportation and other miscellaneous activities besides manufacturing. It is not even true that Texas is "rapidly growing in wealth." The brutal fact is that our wealth and rate of wealth production have not increased as rapidly during the past 10 years as our population. It is probable that on a strict comparative basis (what the economists call an index basis) the per capita wealth and the per capita income of Texas have decreased during the past 10 years.

In this connection it is pertinent to note that the recently published report of the Committee on Recent Economic Changes, of which Mr. Hoover was the original chairman, shows the per capita income of the West South Central region, consisting of the States of Arkansas, Louisiana, Oklahoma and Texas, as probably lower than that of any other region except the East South Central consisting of the States of Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama and Mississippi. It is significant that the report remarks that one of the causes of this has been a very rapid growth in population.

This circumstance is pointed out because there has been much "loose talk in Texas lately about our "rapid increase in wealth" and our "economic changes," and because the announcement of the census returns is likely to start such talk anew. The most encouraging fact which the census returns, when they are completed, will probably reveal is that our farm population has been checked at last, and that henceforth we may expect greater growth in production and income among the farm population than growth in population itself. This may be expected because of continued growth of the urban population at a much more rapid rate than rural. This will tend to increase, not only our per capita income for the entire population, but for the farm population taken alone.

But the outstanding fact is that Texas has been growing more rapidly in population than in wealth production, income and total wealth. This means the per capita of all of these has been reduced, and that the standard of living, taking the population as a whole, has been tending to decline. Mere population growth does not mean economic progress. It is necessary for wealth production, income and total wealth to increase faster than the population to have real economic progress. That is what we need in Texas. In doing some very natural crowding over our population growth, it would be well to keep this in mind.—The Texas Weekly.

Specify SWP and engage a good painter

Why SWP costs less on your house than any other paint

What will it cost to paint your house? This is what concerns you—not what the paint costs per gallon.

While fine old SWP costs more per gallon, it costs less on your home than any other paint. Why? Because one gallon of SWP will thoroughly paint almost twice as much surface as a gallon of cheaper paint. Therefore fewer gallons of SWP are needed.

So—ignoring the fact that SWP lasts twice as long as cheaper paint, and that its weatherproof colors retain their beauty to the very last—the first cost of painting your house with the world's best house paint is actually less than that of cheaper paint. Buy your paint on a job basis and save. Let us prove it to you by simple arithmetic.

SWP House Paint

Helium Engineer Talks to Rotary

C. W. Seibel, supervising engineer of the Helium plant in Amarillo, entertained Rotarians and guests at the luncheon yesterday with interesting demonstrations with liquid air and a discussion of the manufacture and use of helium.

He explained how it was possible to lower the temperature of air enough to make it liquid and showed the many possibilities of its use in that state. He showed many experiments including freezing of alcohol, freezing mercury and freezing flowers in a moment's time.

That helium is now being manufactured at a cost to the government about the same as hydrogen was explained by Mr. Seibel. The fact that it is not inflammable makes it more desirable for dirigible use.

He was to start the financial campaign more desirable for dirigible use.

"ONE OF THE STANDARD MAKES"

EVERY so often someone refers to the leading tire companies as "the big four," and to their tires as "the standard makes."

Candidly we feel this is a grand "break" for the other three, but something of a hardship on Goodyear.

The fact is, Goodyear builds more tires than any other manufacturer — more than one-fourth of all the tires sold in America, the remainder being divided among some forty other companies.

Goodyear reached this position of world-leadership not by building tires that are "one of the standard makes," but by building tires that are emphatically and conspicuously super-standard!

There is only one reason why year after year "more people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind," and that is because year after year Goodyear Tires are better tires to ride on.

They are provably superior — super-standard — and the whole world knows it, which is why you should visit your nearest Goodyear Dealer without delay!

It is only natural that a product so conspicuously popular as Goodyear Tires should be widely copied, but, as is always the case, such attempts to copy its excellence have served only to emphasize the unique value of the original.

ODDS ON JACK SHARKEY TRIMMED TO 7-5 MARGIN TODAY

GERMAN HAS GOOD CHANCE BUT IS GREEN

BY ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, June 12. (AP)—The New York town today with its rush and roar as the background for a world's heavyweight championship match between the youthful German from Hamburg and the hope of the home-bred, a Lithuanian-American from Boston.

Tonight, some 45 minutes from the heart of Broadway, where the old-timers bellowed defiance at each other, Jack Sharkey and Max Schmeling swap punches for 15 rounds or less, each seeking the same object—recognition as the heavyweight king and successor to the retired ruler, Gene Tunney.

At the ringside, perhaps in evening clothes, Gentleman Gene was expected to see the new monarch of maul crowned to restore once again the line that has seldom been broken since John L. Sullivan became the first world-recognized king of glove-fighters.

With fair weather assured, close to 75,000 spectators, featuring a notable ringside assembly, figures to pay something like $750,000 in the interests of charity and for the privilege of seeing a fresh chapter unfolded in heavyweight history.

Millionaires Behind It
The scenes, the times and the gladiators in this fisty extravaganza promoted by a corporation whose directors are millionaires, and whose stock is sold in Wall Street, represent a far cry from the June night at Coney Island, 31 years ago, when James J. Jeffries won the heavyweight title from freckled Bob Fitzsimmons before a crowd of 10,000.

Arrangements have been completed for The Pampa Daily News fight party this evening beginning at 7:30 o'clock. The News will have the high speed Associated Press wire from ringside, and all who do not have access to a radio, or who wish to be with a crowd of fans as the report comes in, are invited to attend the free megaphoning at this office on West Foster avenue. Descriptive sidelights and results of preliminary bouts will be announced in addition to the blow-by-blow account of the main event.

On that memorable occasion, the chief of police was at the ringside to stop the bout "after the first hard blow," but he said everything was "all right" after Jeffries, then a 22-year-old kid, knocked out the veteran Fitzsimmons in the 11th round.

In the spacious American league ball park tonight, seven times as many people as witnessed the Jeffries-Fitzsimmons encounter, hoped to see many a "hard blow" struck in return for their devotion to the box-office to the extent of paying from $2.10 to $26.25 or more at the speculators' price, for a seat.

Little Ol' New York has seen, appraised, cheered and even booed the heavyweight champions from ancient to modern ring times. Fitzsimmons, Jeffries, Corbett, Willard, Dempsey, and Tunney all have fought in the big town for the most prized of all fisty titles.

Tonight's was the eighth heavyweight championship affair brought to some corner of the metropolitan acreage. It was the first, however, to involve two contenders for the title, vacated two years ago by Tunney. Its only parallel in ring history since Sullivan's era was the fight in Sydney, Australia, in 1908 when Jack Johnson whipped Tommy Burns for the crown cast aside by Jeffries.

Sharkey Still Favored
Sharkey ruled the favorite to beat the challenge of his youthful German antagonist, keep the line of title succession in the United States and climax his own erratic fisty career with a victory. The ex-saltor fumbled his two previous chances, in 1927 and 1928, to battle his way into the championship spotlight. Temperamental and uncertain though he has been, the majority of experts picked Sharkey to win. The gamblers backed him at odds pruned from 2 to 1 down to 7 to 5.

Boxing skill and experience were on Sharkey's side, with a vicious punch to support them. Courage, ambition, and an equally dangerous wallop were the main assets of Schmeling. Both possessed the stamina for a hard fight, if necessary, to the limit of 15 rounds, with a referee and two judges to cast the final verdict.

The Sharkey of four or five years ago, when he was scrapping courageously for heavyweight recognition against any and all foemen, would have gone into the big test as an even bigger favorite than he has been. Sharkey fought then for his living—for 'im and 'er and it—as Kipling phrased the situation. Today Sharkey was spurred on by ambition to reach the goal previously denied him, but with wealth and even social position already in his possession, it seemed that some of the old vital urge was missing.

Concede Max a Chance
Youth and its compelling forces were on Schmeling's side this time. In the reversal of the situation, in the do-or-bust spirit of the underdog, many of the experts forsook the German's best chance of triumph. They envisioned Max in the same position as Dempsey at Toledo, as Tunney at Philadelphia, fighting against odds but also with an excellent fighting chance.

Moreover, Schmeling represents the new Germans. He is the first Teuton to challenge for the heavyweight championship and typical of the youthful generation that has figured in Germany's athletic come-back, one of the most remarkable in history. They have labelled him the "German Dempsey," largely upon a physical resemblance. But he needed the old Manassa Mauler's aggressive courage and punch tonight to gain a fisty footing on the heights occupied for so long by Dempsey.

Fight fans, to whom a heavyweight title affair is a ritual not to be missed, have flocked to New York from all parts of the land as well as from overseas.

ROBINS SHOW HEELS TO BIG TIME RIVALS

BY HERBERT W. BARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Despite a nine-game winning streak by their dread rivals, the New York Giants, Wilbert Robinson's amazing Brooklyn Robins continue to show their heels to the rest of the National league field and confidently look forward to their first pennant since 1920.

Nothing could better illustrate the fast pace the Robins have been setting than the fact that the Giants, despite their long string of wins, still are five games out of first place.

The Giants took Pittsburgh over the hurdles, 9 to 2, yesterday, but gained not one inch of ground as the Robins, behind Dazzy Vance's great pitching, nosed out the Cincinnati Reds, 2-1.

Vance held the Reds to four hits, but it took a pinch single by Al Lopez in the ninth to bring the Robins to victory. Curt Walker's pinch home run in the eighth had tied the score, but in the ninth the Robins filled the bases, and Lopez, batting for Vance, broke up the ball game with a single.

Charley Root's fine pitching enabled the Chicago Cubs to break their losing streak at Philadelphia's expense, 6 to 2. Cuyler's homer with two on in the third gave Root all the runs he needed to win.

In the American league, Washington's Senators advanced to winning a game and a half of first place by whipping Chicago, 3 to 1, while the Philadelphia Athletics were bowing to Cleveland, 6 to 2.

Lefty Grove, Athletics' left handed ace, went nearly two months without losing a game but was charged with his second defeat in as many days yesterday. He was no puzzle to the Indians and retired in favor of Ernie Shores after the seventh inning with Cleveland leading 3-1. Willis Hudlin pitched a strong game for the Indians until the ninth but was removed when the A's made a few threatening gestures. Ferrell finished up in fine style.

Detroit put on a seven-run rally in the seventh to trounce the New York Yankees, 13 to 7. Ownie Carroll, former Tiger pitcher traded to New York, was driven out of the box in the fifth inning and Gomez, McEvoy and Johnson were not much better.

Other scheduled major league games were postponed.

Mrs. Preston Holks of Amarillo is visiting her grandmother, Mrs. J. C. McConnell here.

Clingman Will Meet Kopecky at Amarillo, June 20

Otis Clingman, popular Pampa wrestler, will tangle with his old opponent, Joe Kopecky, in the 30-minute event at the Cal Farley-Jack Reynolds championship match at Amarillo Friday night, June 20.

Kopecky's victory over Clingman was unsatisfactory with most of the fans here, and they contended that Otis' shoulders were not on the mat long enough for Referee Dutch Betke to award the fall to Kopecky. Clingman and Kopecky each had won a fall that night.

In the main event, Farley will attempt to wrest the welter-weight championship from Reynolds.

Magnolia Will Meet Tacks in Amarillo Sunday

The Magnolias will test their excellence in a game Sunday afternoon at Amarillo with the Tackless Texans. The game with Magic City scheduled to be played next Sunday has been postponed.

The Tacks are confident they have the best baseball club in the Panhandle and are encouraged in this belief by Emmer Gober, erstwhile manager of the Pampa Grays. The Tacks are sure they will beat the Magnolias Sunday, and they may, but the Pampa team eagerly accepted the challenge for a game when it was issued. The Tacks recently declared that they would beat every team that entered the tournament as soon as possible. The Magnolias was the first team to enter.

Nobody seems to know just how good the Tacks are. They'll be easy pickings for the Magnolias if they are no better than the Cats who were humiliated twice by the Gulf Cubs. At any rate, the game will see one of the best teams in Gray county in action against a team that claims to be the best in this section.

Whether Burke, Blankenship or Garrouette will pitch has not yet been announced.

Mrs. Schnatol, owner of the Peacock Beauty Shoppes No. 1 and 2 in Amarillo, has purchased the Mercadia Mason Beauty Shoppe in the Brunow building, and has taken charge of the business.

Dr. Robert M. Duncan, assistant professor in government at Texas Christian university is to spend the next three years at Peking, China, as political science professor in Yenching university.

UMPIRE RUNS OUT OF REACH OF MAD FANS

BY GAYLE TALBOT, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

A double victory scored by the Houston Buffs over the Fort Worth Cats and the effect thereof on several hundred fans, who seemed to think Umpire Ballantyne responsible and tried to take him apart, lent a touch of paprika to yesterday's Texas league warfare.

If nothing else, the incident proved that there still are several hundred patrons who take their baseball seriously. It was the first time anything remotely resembling a scene had occurred this season.

The Buffs took the opener, 4 to 0, with such a decisive margin that the Fort Worth bugs scarcely could blame it on the umpire, but the score of the nightcap was 6 to 5, the Buffs pushing across the winner in the last frame, and several of Ballantyne's decisions did not receive popular favor. An indignation committee went after the arbiter after the last out, but by clever foot work he reached the haven of his dressing room without having more than his dignity ruffled.

Ralph Judd, recently of the Giants and Cardinals, allowed 11 hits in the first tilt, but kept them well scattered, while his mates jumped on Hardaway hard in the first four frames. George Payne was credited with the second victory after relieving Rose in the sixth.

The double win enabled the Bigsons to reduce Wichita's lead to six games, even though the Spudgers were taking their final from San Antonio, 6 to 0. Mill Steengrate limited the Indians to six hits, all single, to register his second shut-out with two on and Burns' round-out of the year. Fitzgerald's homer tripper with none on featured the Spudgers' big sixth, when they scored all their runs.

A brace of homers and a single by Chick Shiver featured some concerted batting that gave the Beaumont Exporters a 14 to 7 decision over Shreveport in their closer. In addition to Shiver's two blows, Eckhardt smacked a triple in the second with the bases filled to dislodge Oscar Estrada, who started for the Sports. Burns went all the way for the Shippers and was hit hard, but had nothing to worry about behind his long lead.

Del Pratt's Waco Cubs completed a sweep of their three games at Dallas with an 11 to 7 triumph over Col. Jake Atz's stumbling Steers. A five-run rally in the ninth, started by Hal Stuvenger's homer, put the Cubs over the top. Preacher Harris was credited with the win.

The last lap of the Southern clubs' swing through the upper half of the circuit began today, with Houston at Wichita Falls, San Antonio at Fort Worth, Waco at Shreveport and Beaumont at Dallas.

put your Telephone on Half-pay during Vacation

You'll save money... and spare yourself inconvenience when you return.

The Rumseys are going vacationing.

The milk's been stopped, the ice man has been called off, and the Man Who Delivers the Newspaper has been instructed to bring no more until further notice.

But the telephone will be left at home, drawing full pay in an empty house! Something should be done about this!

Vacation rates for idle-residence telephones

One solution (provided you're planning a vacation of 30 days or more) is to place your telephone on vacation half-rates while you are away.

It's a convenient way to save money. And—this to folks who sometimes have their telephones taken out—it spares you inconvenience on your return. That's because:

1. You pay just half the regular rate.
2. Service is reconnected quickly after you return—usually within 24 hours after you notify us.
3. You keep your present telephone number. (You'd lose it if you had your telephone removed.)
4. Your name remains in the telephone book.

"Something should be done about this!"

If you wish, while you are away we will refer your calls to another telephone—that of relatives, for instance.

Vacation rates are available for periods of more than 30 days, but not over four months. They apply only to residence telephones.

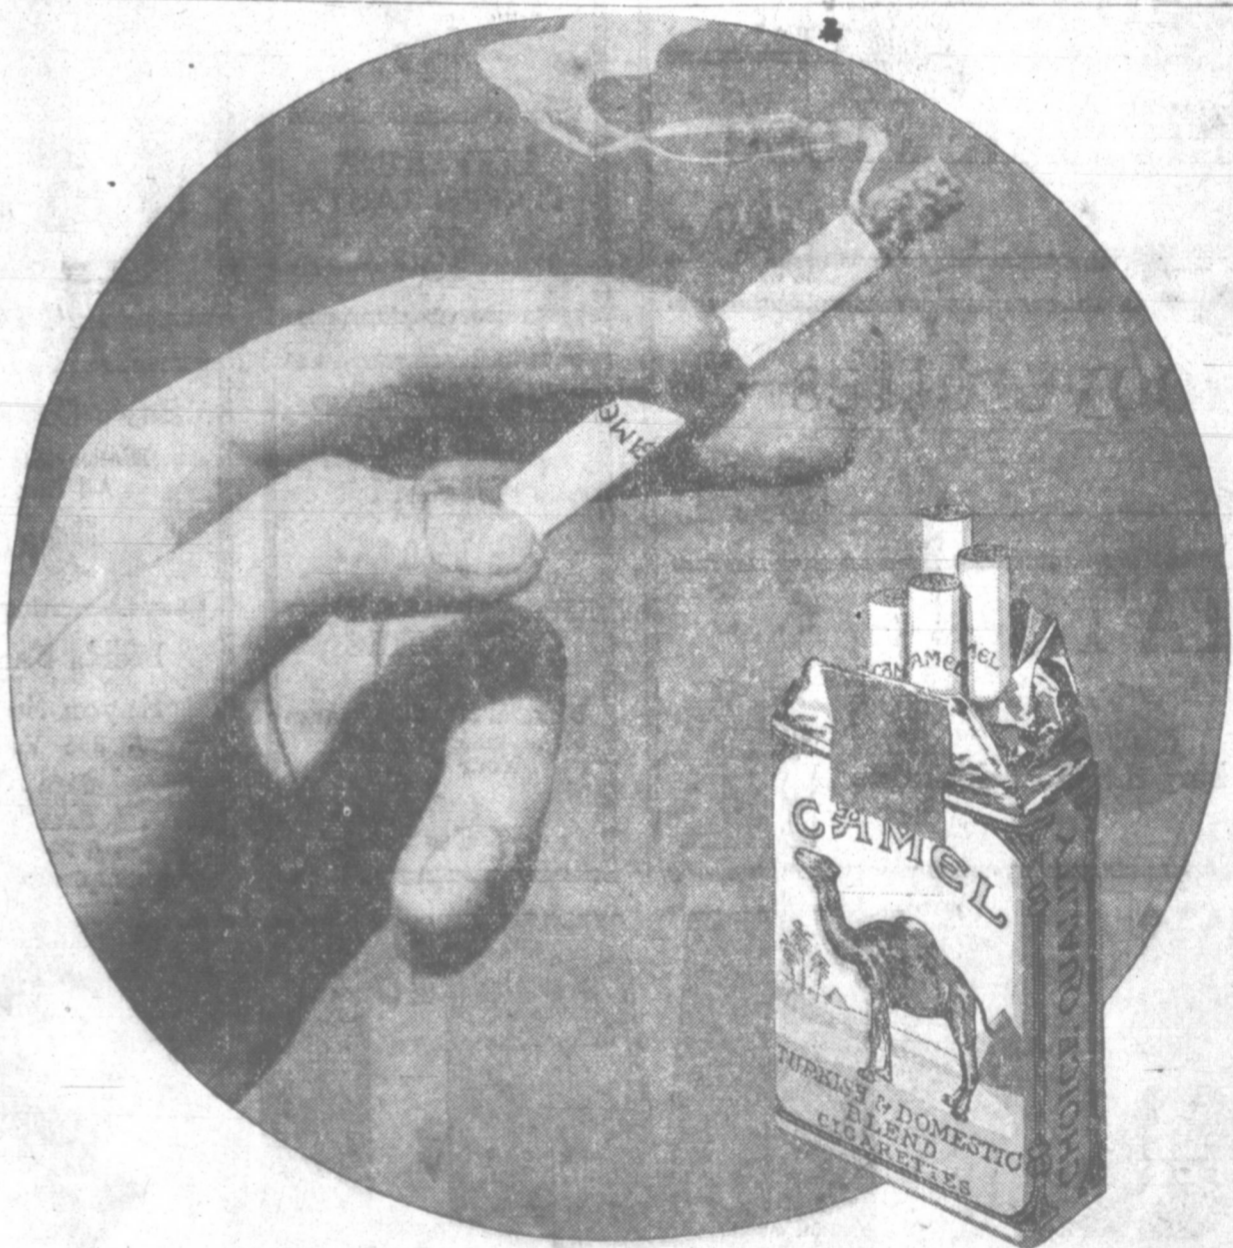

To obtain them, mail the coupon below or telephone the business office.

Manager,
Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.,

way," the petition says. "The proposed change is not done for the convenience of the public, but for the interest of certain individuals who own land along the right-of-way east and west of the plaintiff."

The plaintiff further alleges that the land is not subject to forced sale, and that the defendants did not attempt to agree with him, as provided by law. Mr. Watts states that the jury commissioners were not favorable to the plaintiff but favorable to the defendants, and that the county judge did not use his own discretion in naming them.

The petition claims that the appointment of the commissioners is null and void and that they had no jurisdiction to act. Mr. Watts thru his attorneys, R. H. Templeton of Wellington and A. A. Ledbetter of McLean claims in the petition that the commission has no authority to condemn land for a state highway.

The highway commission is being represented by Cook, Smith and Teed and by the attorney general's department of Texas.

Mr. Watt's property adjoins the city of McLean.

"No," Captain Brooks replied. He said that he considered six knots slow speed.

"Did any of the members of your crew jump overboard?" the inspector asked.

The captain said they did because of fright.

First Officer Hunley, who said he had joined the ship only this month and in that time there had been one fire drill, testified that he saw no panic whatever either among the passengers or among the crew. He also insisted that the fire was under control in 20 minutes and that the crew did not require the assistance of passengers although several volunteered to help man the hose.

He said he first saw the tanker 150 feet ahead, although Captain Brooks had estimated 300 feet. He said he saw no running lights or mast lights on the Pinitis. The order "full speed astern" was given at 7:03 p. m. Tuesday night according to the chief engineer's log, which placed the collision at about 7:04.

Wheat Buying Brisk

CHICAGO, June 12. (P)—Rains in Canada giving considerable relief from drought had an early bearish influence on the wheat market today. On the downward swing of values, however, buying increased, and trade was much larger than has recently been the rule. Starting 5-8 to 1 1-4c lower, wheat afterward underwent additional declines, but then rallied somewhat. Corn, oats and provisions were also easier, with corn opening 1-4 to 1-2c off, and subsequently receding further.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Natalie Converse tries to conquer her jealousy for her husband, Alan. But they quarrel over Bernadine Lamont, a night club hostess, who asks him to look after Bobby, whose father had saved Alan's life during the war. Alan seeks sympathy from his secretary, Philippa West, who successfully schemes to arouse Natalie's suspicions, and one day Alan finds her gone. Wounded pride prevents either from seeking a reconciliation, and Alan turns to Philippa, who plays her part cleverly.

Natalie regrets her hasty action, but does not write Alan, hoping he will beg her to return. Her silence spurs him on with Philippa, who helps make him feel neglected and abused. Fearing that he does not mean to propose marriage, Philippa tells Alan that her parents object to her going with a married man, whereupon he confesses to more than friendship for her, and they become engaged. Confronting her family with the news, her father becomes enraged, and Philippa plans to leave home.

Natalie, unhappy and repentant, writes Alan that she is returning to their home, without, however, mentioning a reconciliation. A friendly letter from Natalie's mother leaves Alan hopeful, but baffled as to Natalie's intentions. Philippa, fearful of losing Alan, tells him she is obliged to leave home because of trouble with her father.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXVII

Alan's hand shook, as he laid the telegram he had just read on his desk, and looked up at Philippa. "I'm afraid I can't go with you," he said simply.

Philippa almost lost her role of meekness. "Why?" she said fiercely, sensing that a third person had interfered through the telegram. Then instantly: "Why can't you?" she added more submissively.

"I'm to meet Natalie at the Grand Central at 5 o'clock."

Philippa's face went chalk white. "You're going to meet her?" she asked, and the words were more hissed than spoken.

Alan nodded.

"Alan!" Philippa wailed his name, and sank into a chair, her head on her arms, her shoulders shaking pitifully.

Alan's heart was torn. God, what a mess he was making of things! Here was this girl, who had given him unstintedly of her sympathy and company, and was now about to be kicked out of her home...

...what kind of a beast did she have for a father anyway? Here she was, sobbing her heart out on his account, and he planning to meet Natalie.

But he didn't see how he could help it. Unless... unless he didn't meet Natalie. He glanced down at Philippa, went to her and put his hands on her shoulders. Philippa leaned against him.

He knew he was going to meet Natalie, but he was terribly sorry for Philippa. Yet, as he told her while she grew calmer, it dawned upon him that she might be suffering from nerves more than anything else. What had she to cry over in the fact of his meeting Natalie? It was a natural thing for Natalie to wire him. She wouldn't ask a friend to be at the station. So far as he knew, their separation was still a matter of speculation only among their acquaintances.

And Natalie was the kind of woman who would want to do things up decently, once she was out from under the power of her jealousy. She had a fine, orderly mind.

Thinking of Natalie, he forgot he was comforting Philippa, until he felt her hand creep into his, and snuggle there confidently. Instantly the warm glow at his heart faded. No, it probably wouldn't work out, being friends with his former wife when—the thought came hesitatingly—he was married to Philippa.

Philippa sensed he was in a mood that she could turn to her account. A bit of guilt, a bit of pity for her, a bit of longing for Natalie, a bit of desire to do the right thing for both of them.

"Where shall I look for an apartment?" she stammered, as though speaking were difficult for her. She knew that Alan wouldn't think of any cheap rental districts.

"You'll want something nice," he said, and felt ever so much better, it being the instinct of all gallant men to pay when they make a woman suffer.

"I've looked at ads," Philippa confided. "The nice places all seem to be dreadfully high."

"Yes, yes, I expect so," Alan agreed impatiently. He had been thinking in very large sums indeed when she entered the room; it irritated him to have to bother with the small detail of apartment rental.

Philippa secretly gloated over his evident impatience. "But, Alan, I can't afford anything more than fifty dollars a month. I'd still have to give mother money."

As she expected, he argued that she would have to let him increase her salary. She would have much preferred to have him agree to pay the rent outright. It would have made it so much clearer that it was he who was paying the rent—in case she should wish to make that point clear.

But at least she had gained her chief point. She would be living alone, away from her parents. The inference would be—to a jealous wife's mind—that Alan wanted it so.

And with a place where she could entertain Alan, she would have greater power over him. Having thought it all out before she came in, she realized that Alan might, if he wished to, use the fact that they always had to go somewhere together as an excuse to stay away from her. That is if he wanted to be with Natalie. And Philippa foresaw he might want to be with his wife.

It might be merely expediency that would bring them together at first; but Philippa was certain that Alan cared too much for Natalie to keep away from her. If not, then why wasn't he more affectionate with her? No, even if she hadn't known about Natalie, she could have guessed that there was another woman holding him back.

But it amused her that Alan could not guess how far from irrevocably he was separated from Natalie.

Let him claim weariness now, and she could offer him a resting place. Let him say he needed more sleep, and she could coax him to take a nap. She would fairly smother him with attentions. Cushions just so, a match lighted for him whenever he wanted a cigarette, newspapers and a golf reading lamp—even slippers. She made a mental note to buy him a pair on her first shopping trip after she found an apartment.

She thanked him for the promised increase in her salary and left. She hadn't dared try to stop him from going to meet Natalie. Her tears had failed. He had comforted her, yes—she could still feel his hands upon her shoulders—but he had said not one word to indicate that his decision was changed.

While weeping there at his desk, she had controlled herself enough to know that if he could not be softened by her tears, he would never weaken to stormy pleading. And Philippa was too aroused to plead otherwise. Fortunately for her, she knew it.

Suppose she made a scene? What good would it do her? It was only when the man loved and the woman didn't, that she held the winning tricks. Then she could threaten to break with him. But even that could be overdone, Philippa said to herself, thinking of Natalie's many threats to leave Alan.

One thing was clear to Philippa—if ever Alan got away from her, it would be the end.

She decided to hold him on a possible string. (He might even think, at times, that he was entirely free. This afternoon, for instance, when he met Natalie. What would they do? Make a dinner date?)

Well, by that time she would have an apartment. She would take almost anything, come back before Alan left the office, and make him promise to go with her that night to look at it. He might dine with Natalie—although she would try to prevent it—but he could not remain late with her.

Philippa left the office as soon as Alan had gone out with his friends, Mr. Royden and Mr. Adams, to meet Mr. Payne. She was back at four, with a receipt for a deposit on an apartment in East Fifty-sixth Street.

She had liked it well enough to take it without waiting for Alan's approval. But she did not mean to tell him that she had paid a deposit.

She found him seated before his desk, which was littered with papers, and instantly guessed that he had not been able to concentrate on his work.

She looked at him for the scars of battle. Evidently everything had gone off satisfactorily at the conference and luncheon. He appeared excited, but not disappointed.

She sank wearily into her accustomed seat, the chair by his desk. She had removed the rouge from her cheeks, and left only enough on her lips to give them character. She looked wan, and tired. As she was, for this fight to keep Alan was an earnest one with her. She had worried over it all the night before.

"Any luck?" Alan asked sympathetically.

She nodded. "I think so," she said doubtfully. "There's a place in East Fifty-sixth street. I said we would be back tonight to look at it again."

Alan frowned sharply. "But," he began, and then clamped his lips together.

Philippa was going on in a tone-weary fashion. "It's nice, really,

I hope—you'll like it Alan. Apart from hunting is terribly tiring." Their eyes met, and she smiled wanly, as though she knew he understood what it was that really tired her. It was a good imitation of a brave girl trying courageously to hide her wounds.

It made Alan feel like a brute. Philippa grasped her opportunity—seeing his discomfort—and got up. "I'll rush through my work and leave early, if you don't mind," she said. "I'd like to get a hot bath before dinner. And Alan, I wonder if you'd mind calling for me tonight? I'm sorry—but I had no sleep last night—I'd like to go to some quiet place near home, or in the Village."

Alan fidgeted. He hadn't thought of dining with Philippa that night. "Perhaps it would be better for you to stay at home and go to bed early," he suggested hopefully.

"Oh, Alan," Philippa's voice was loaded with reproach. "It got to Alan like an arrow. 'It was such a terrible row I had with father. He wouldn't want me at the table. And mother's worried nearly to death, as it is. If she thought that—that—' her voice broke, and she turned away with a despairing sob, half choked back by a handkerchief hastily applied to her lips.

Alan felt as though he had slapped a lost child, or kicked a hungry dog.

"I'm sorry," he said quickly. "I'm afraid I forgot about you."

trouble at home, Philippa. Of course, I'll call for you, but," he paused, and avoided looking at her, "I may be late."

Story of Expansion of Kraft's Mint Typical of Pampa's Growth —Frank Soodhalter Is Manager

From a newsboy on his native streets of Des Moines, Iowa, to the ownership and management of a Pampa, Texas, department store that handles 3,000 separate articles of merchandise, all under one roof, is, in brief, the business career of Frank T. Soodhalter, who is re-opening his junior department store in the new Gordon-Denebeim building, on the site of the old store he established here in 1926.

Starting with a small stock of variety merchandise in one of the oldest business buildings of Pampa; unable to secure a longer lease than six months; wiring, construction of a new front, repainting and remodeling being done at his own expense—these were the problems that confronted Mr. Soodhalter when he decided that Pampa was a good business location. Many a good business man would not have been censured for not daring to dare what Frank Soodhalter did. Not only did he possess resolution and a plan of something to be done, but he accomplished his aim: made a theory a fact, and today in his fine new home, one is impressed when he remembers the contrast between that mercantile venture of four years ago and the Kraft's Mint of the present, with stores at Pampa, Shamrock, and Wellington. There were six persons employed in the Pampa store in 1926; today there are 35 on the payroll. Four years ago there were 17 departments in the establishment; today there are 35 departments. In 1926, the floor space measured 24 x 70 feet; today, the business occupies a floor space of 32 x 100 feet, not including the space of the stockroom, basement, and balcony floors. Kraft's Mint is a member of the Consolidated Merchants Syndicate, which has headquarters in New York City; a membership that reflects itself in the economical prices of Kraft's Mint merchandise, whether in the Shamrock store, which was established in July, 1928, or the Wellington branch which was opened in July, 1929, or the parent store here. Fixtures by the "Mint" are by Storecraft of Beatrice, Nebr., and are up-to-date in every detail. Departments of the new business in-

Frank I. Soodhalter was born in Des Moines, Ia., January 23, 1891. He attended the public schools of that city, making his way by selling newspapers, and graduating from high school in 1911. During the summer vacations, he worked at county fairs. After his graduation, he had various jobs, including work in the mailing room of the Des Moines Register and Leader; and as a salesman with the Chamberlain Medicine company and the National Biscuit company. For two seasons he operated concessions at the state fairs of Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas, Louisiana, Illinois, Missouri, Minnesota and North and South Dakota.

In September, 1917, he was drafted, and underwent training at Camp Dodge, Ia., for eleven months. As a member of the 88 "Cloveleaf" division, composed of men from the states of Iowa, Minnesota, North and South Dakota, he sailed for the front, via Liverpool, Southampton, England, and Le Harve, France, in October, 1918. The contingent to which he was attached arrived in France too late to be in action, being scheduled to go to the front on November 13.

After his discharge January 27, 1919, he was on the road as a leather belt demonstrator, and eventually he went to Fort Worth, where he began a partnership with Sam Penberg. The two men opened two jewelry stores in Fort Worth, and in Duncan, Okla. They discontinued business the following year, and Frank again resumed his work of traveling salesman. Six years later he came to Panhandle, Texas, then at the crest of its boom, and once more resumed the partnership when he and Sam Penberg opened a jewelry store in that town. This business was closed the following autumn, but in the meantime the partners had observed Pampa as the coming city, and had decided to locate here. Sam opened the Diamond Shop, and Mr. Soodhalter established Kraft's Mint. There is no hidden secret in the name of the business; Mr. Soodhalter simply desired a name that would be unique and attract attention. The "Mint" part of the name was added in keeping with the slogan, "Where You Can't Buy Money."

On November 23, 1927, Mr. Soodhalter married Flo Cohen of Shreveport, La., in that city, and brought his bride to Pampa, where they have made their home. She has worked with her husband in the business and materially aided its development.

Two episodes of his life are recalled vividly by Mr. Soodhalter. One of these is connected with his boyhood days in Des Moines, when he sold newspapers on the streets. He remembers the rush of business he had when the extras announcing the assassination of President McKinley came off the presses. The other event is of the year 1914, when he traveled from drug store to drug store, all over the west, the Pacific Coast, and into Canada.
