KITCHEN CAUCUSES were the order of the day in Iowa Monday as citizens gathered to select their choice for party candidates in the 1980 presidential candidates in the nation's first "straw vote" effort. Mrs. Joe Gazzo assists senior citizen Jesse

Carter, Bush take Iowa

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — George Bush led Ronald Reagan in returns from the Iowa precinct caucuses and claimed an upset victory that gave a solid boost to his campaign for the 1980 Republican presidential nomination.

Meanwhile, Jimmy Carter renewed his political love affair with Iowa Monday night and thrashed Sen. Edward M. Kennedy in their first official confrontation.

With results from a non-binding straw poll of Republicans showing him leading Reagan, Bush said he would leave today for New Hampshire "and we'll do better there."

The New Hampshire primary on Feb. 26 is the next major test of the campaign.

With 1,985 of the Republican precincts reporting, Bush held a 30,536 to 24,792 lead over Reagan in the straw poll.

Sen. Howard H. Baker was third with 12,908. John B. Connally, 9,024. Rep. Philip Crane, 6,578. Rep. John Anderson, 3,806. Sen. Bob Dole, 2,478.

Both the Democratic and Republican vote counting will be resumed Wednesday.

The Republican caucuses chose delegates to represent their precincts at county conventions but the delegates were not bound to candidates by Monday's outcome.

Results from 2,442 of the 2,531 Democratic precincts gave Carter 59 percent, Kennedy 31 percent, uncommitted 10 percent. The Democratic party in Iowa did not release vote totals, just percentages.

Based on those figures, Iowa's 50 delegates to the Democratic National Convention in August would be divided 29 for Carter, 15 for Kennedy and 5 uncommitted. One is yet to be awarded.

From the earliest Monday night returns, Carter jumped to a two-to-one lead over Kennedy and held it throughout the night.

It was Iowa that gave Carter his boost out of obscurity in the 1976 race and as soon as his 1980 victory was assured, the president issued a statement at the White House saying, "I deeply appreciate the vote of confidence from Iowa Democrats. Their expression of support is particularly welcome in these difficult times."

Kennedy met with supporters at his campaign headquarters in Washington and vowed to remain in the race.

"The reasons I run for president still remain," said the Massachusetts senator, who once led Carter two to one in public opinion polls, a margin that reversed in recent weeks.

"Tonight, according to my count, Kennedy told supporters, "President Carter needs 1,643 (delegates) more to win the nomination. We need 1,657 and we're going to get it."

Reagan was in California and had no immediate comment on the Iowa results.

But John Sears, his national campaign manager, said, "George Bush has done something right. He has spent a lot of time in Iowa."

Reagan made few campaign appearances in Iowa and refused to participate in a debate with other Republican candidates.

A poll taken for the Des Moines Register immediately after the debate, showed a sharp drop in Reagan's standing though he still led other candidates.

This year, Carter was no longer unknown, but as the campaign got under way the president was running far behind Kennedy in the public opinion polls.

But Kennedy's entry into the race nearly coincided with the takeover of the U.S. Embassy in Iran and in the ensuing weeks, the polls began to turn around. Kennedy's campaign got off to a rocky start and the nation rallied behind the president and his efforts to free the American hostages in Tehran.

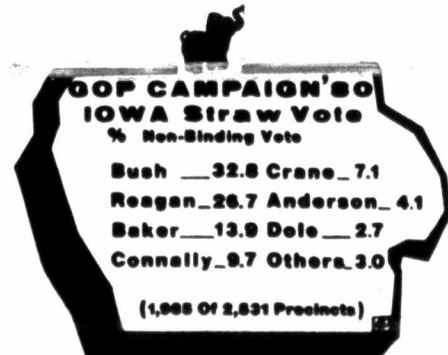

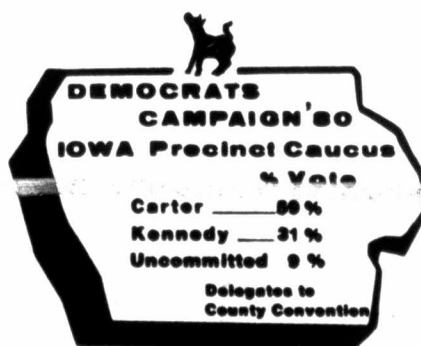

Citing the crisis in Iran and later the Soviet intervention of Afghanistan, Carter remained in Washington, cancelling all plans to campaign outside the capital. He also pulled out of a debate with Kennedy and Gov.

Edmund G. Brown Jr. of California.

Then, two weeks before the caucuses, a Des Moines Register poll showed Carter favored by 57 percent of Iowa Democrats while Kennedy had the backing of only 25 percent.

The senator, finding himself in an underdog role, began saying that anything less than 50 percent would be a severe setback for Carter. When the final returns were reported, Carter had 59 percent.

Brown had urged his supporters to support uncommitted delegates

CARTER AND BUSH WIN IN IOWA as a result of caucuses which were conducted statewide Monday. Iowa marks the first state to precede with voting patterns in preparation for the 1980 presidential election. President Carter trounced Sen. Edward Kennedy and called his victory a vote of confidence in this time of crisis. Bush took an early lead in the non-binding straw vote as Iowans choice for Republican candidate. (AP Photo)

Injured in Phillips blast

Three refinery workers hospitalized

PHILLIPS - Three employees injured in what has been described as a series of explosions at the Phillips Refinery Sunday morning are still hospitalized today in Borger and Amarillo hospitals.

Jerry Norman of 4129 S Philview was listed in satisfactory condition early today in High Plains Baptist Hospital in Amarillo after he suffered a severe eye injury and lacerations from flying glass in Sunday's accident.

Also listed in satisfactory condition at North Plains Hospital in Borger are 57-year-old Warren Reed of Box 104 Stinnett and Johnny Kelly, 61, of 1301 Baker Street, Borger. The two men were hospitalized after the explosion.

One other employee and three residents of Phillips were also admitted to North Plains Sunday. Director of nurses Gay Smotherman said today the four — Reba Burris, Marvin Tucker Jr., Geraldine Dillard and William Browning — were released.

The explosions were believed to have originated in one of the petroleum product tanks behind cracking units 22 and 23 at the refinery. Norm Berkley, a Phillips spokesperson, said Sunday.

There has been no official confirmation on the number of blasts from Phillips.

However, no one from Phillips was available for further comment on the explosion today.

The concussion rattled windows and shook homes as far away as Pampa early Sunday morning.

The major damage — unofficially estimated in billions of dollars worth — occurred in the two units and to the nearby residents of Phillips. Roofs collapsed and windows were broken for two miles around the site. Flying debris and insulation fell in a four mile radius from the point of the explosions.

Store fronts in downtown Borger, two and one-half miles from the blast site, littered sidewalks.

Berkley had said earlier that it was possible experts from Bartlesville, Okla. will be coming to the plant to inspect the ruins and find a cause for the blasts.

Two men were killed last October while working on Unit 22 when they were overcome by a deadly gas. Phillips was fined $15,000, and cited for four safety violations as a result of the accident.

Soviets jail "dissident"

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet government today stripped dissident leader and Nobel Peace Prize winner Andrei Sakharov of a series of state awards. Dissidents said Sakharov had been arrested.

The Tass news agency said Sakharov had been deprived of the awards and titles because of years of "subversive work against the Soviet state."

Shortly before the Tass announcement, an anonymous caller telephoned The Associated Press to say Sakharov had been arrested.

The caller said Sakharov's wife, activist Yelena Bonner, soon would be taken into custody as well.

Reporters reaching the Sakharov apartment building reported finding two uniformed Soviet policemen at his door. The police escorted the reporters back to the elevator and said "everything will be explained."

The reported arrest of Sakharov, a physicist once known as the father of the Soviet H-bomb, could not be independently confirmed, but shortly after the first call a second caller identifying herself as Irina Kaplun said Sakharov was arrested on a Moscow street.

Reporters said many plainclothes policemen were milling about in the street near the Sakharov building on the southeast edge of downtown Moscow.

Sakharov, 58, won the Peace Prize in 1975, but was not allowed to go to Oslo to collect it. His wife, then an eye patient in Italy, went and received the prize for him.

Sakharov has two children, Alyosha, 23, and Tatyana, 29, who live in Boston, Mass.

His first link with the Soviet dissident movement came in 1966 when he joined a group opposing the political rehabilitation of Joseph Stalin's memory.

He then came to the attention of Soviet police after the 1968 publication of his manifesto, "Progress, Coexistence and Intellectual Freedom," which catapulted him to the forefront of Moscow's dissident community.

Since then, Sakharov has used his public appeals to the Western world in a human rights campaign against the Kremlin.

Amnesty International, the London-based human rights organization which won the Nobel Peace Prize in 1976, said recently it had counted more than 40 Soviet dissidents arrested by Kremlin officials since last September.

Some observers here believe the roundup may be an effort to quell dissidents in the months before the Olympics this summer. Some dissidents have suggested that it was also to keep them from speaking out against the Soviet intervention in late December in Afghanistan.

Sakharov has said he and his wife have often been subjected to anonymous threats, house searches, obscene and cruel mail campaigns and other harassment.

Canada deports Soviet attache as spy against United States

OTTAWA (AP) — The Canadian Government has ordered the Soviet Embassy's military attache, his deputy and a chauffeur out of the country for spying on the United States.

Foreign Secretary Flora McDonald said Monday the Soviets met secretly with an American in the Ottawa area for 16 months and paid him more than $100,000 for information. She said the American was not in the U.S. government or military service but was "in the kind of establishment that would have been used by government."

She said the Royal Canadian Mounted Police completed its investigation last week in cooperation with the U.S. Federal Bureau of Investigation, and that the FBI had been helped by the Russians' American informant.

The American was not identified. Nor was it clear whether he had acted as a double agent from the beginning of his contacts with the Russians or changed sides when the espionage was discovered.

Soviet Embassy spokesman Victor Mikheev denied the three Russians were spies and charged that their expulsion was in retaliation for the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan. Miss McDonald said there was no connection.

The foreign secretary said although the Russians used Canada "as a base from which to conduct espionage operations against one of our allies," the Soviet government could send three replacements and keep the embassy staff at 64 persons.

The three officials were navy Capt. Igor A. Bardeev, the embassy's military attache; his assistant, Col. Eduard Aleksanjan, and chauffeur V. I. Sokolov.

They were the first alleged Soviet spies expelled in two years.

Meanwhile, a telephone caller Monday night threatened "dramatic action up to and including assassinating certain diplomatic people and the ambassador of the Soviet Union within 45 hours" unless the Soviet government closes its embassy.

Commission passes resolution to adopt tax appraisal board

By DEBORAH BRIDGES

Of The Pampa News

A resolution calling for a nine member Gray County tax appraisal board was adopted by city commissioners in the regular 9:30 a.m. meeting at city hall today.

Mayor Ray Thompson presented the resolution to commissioners as agreed in the Jan. 17 meeting of representatives of the eight county taxing entities.

According to the resolution, five members of the board will collectively represent the city and the Pampa Independent School District.

The four remaining board members will represent McLean and McLean ISD, Lefors and Lefors ISD, Grandview - Hopkins ISD and Albrecht ISD.

The members will be selected and appointed, the resolution says, by majority vote in a joint session of each of the entities.

The resolution will become effective, it stipulates, after the seven other entities pass similar resolutions and submit them to County Clerk Wanda Carter.

Bids were opened for roof repair on M. K. Brown Auditorium which was badly damaged in a recent storm.

The commission has agreed to accept bids on two types of repair: the patching of the sloping roof and reroofing the flat area or on reroofing all of the auditorium.

Ninety percent of the roof area was described to the commission as having a "huge" amount of bubbles and a "lot" of the gravel was washed away. Acting city secretary, Pat Eades opened bids from Lydrick Roof Company in Amarillo, Parsley Roof Company in Pampa and Construction Service of Amarillo. The bids ranged in price from $24,895 to $48,450.

City officials decided to go over the bids and specifications before awarding a final bid on the roof repair.

Dwain Walker, tax assessor-collector for the combined School - City Tax Office presented a report to commissioners on the partial budget for the fiscal year ending on Sept. 1, 1980.

It was described as an approximate 70-30 percent split with the cost to each based on the ratio of the city and school's evaluation of the total of both entities.

According to the budget report, the city's cost for the partial year beginning Jan. 1 and ending Sept. 1 will be $66,539.

A new lighting plan for Central Parking using the low pressure sodium lamps as suggested by Southwestern Public Service was approved by commissioners. City Manager Mack Wofford explained, "The capital cost is greater, but we'll receive twice the illumination for half the wattage used." After the initial investment, he said, the lighting will cost only about $30 per year.

The proposed area for the new lighting will be in Central Park between Duncan and Cuyler streets.

In other business, a public hearing was held on proposed zoning change from single family to single family and mobile homes for the 600 and 700 blocks of N. Banks; a resolution was adopted authorizing the city to become a member of the Panhandle Employment and Training Alliance (CETA) and designating the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission as the administrative unit for the program; and a final reading on the ordinance allowing the east side of the county court house to be used for county parking and the south and west sides to be opened for two-hour parking.

Weather

The forecast for Tuesday calls for cloudy skies becoming partly cloudy through Wednesday. Winds will be 10 to 15 mph diminishing during the evening and becoming warmer on Wednesday. The high for Tuesday will be in mid 30s with an overnight low in the mid 20s. Wednesday's high will be in the upper 40s.

Olympic games source of pride to Russians

DENTON, Texas (AP)— Economic sanctions against the Soviet Union may have their impact, but a boycott of the Olympic Games would be "almost devastating," a political science professor says.

Milan Reban, a teacher at North Texas State University, was in Russia when the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan began.

"The Soviet people have more money to spend now than ever before, but something like the boycott of the Olympics would be almost devastating, psychologically," said Milan Reban, a North Texas State University teacher who was in Russia when the Soviets invaded Afghanistan.

"It would probably hurt the Russian people more than any other action that could be taken. The people of Russia are looking forward to the Olympics very much. Very much. It is very important to them."

Reban, 46, visited the Soviet Union in late December and early January in a group of U.S. professors and students and said anticipation of the games was obvious.

"You could see it in the proud wearing of lapel pins. Young Russians are obsessed with these lapel pins that point to the Olympics in Moscow," Reban said.

"To the people in Russia, getting the Olympics was a very important statement in terms of their arrival in international respect."

Reban's classes focus on Eastern Europe and the Soviet Union. He is a native of Czechoslovakia who came to the United States in the 1950s.

"I felt even before coming to this country how much importance the Russian people assign to international sports and how much they feel achievement in it contributes to their international prestige," he added.

The Soviets are trying very hard to prepare for the Olympics, he said, and the Soviet people proudly pointed out to visiting Americans the various new stadiums and hotels being built to accommodate the Olympics.

Reban said the American party he was with entered the Soviet Union the same day the action in Afghanistan started, but that he only learned of the scope of the invasion by calling a friend at the U.S. Embassy.

"The Soviet media, at least during our presence, did a good job of masking the magnitude of the operation and also the global reaction."

"Among the Russian people themselves, my impression was the majority... probably are feeling a degree of helplessness about influencing foreign policy and probably could care less," Reban said.

The Russian economy is healthy enough to weather economic sanctions by the U.S., Reban said, but such actions would still bother the Soviets.

ROBERT DUGGER, driver of a van which smashed into a pinto car in 1978 killing three teen-agers and bringing charges against Ford Motor Co. enters Pulaski Circuit Court in Winamac, Ind., to testify Monday. Dugger said the Pinto was traveling 15-20 mph, and his van was traveling at 50 mph when the crash occurred. Dugger was not charged in the fiery deaths of the three girls, however. The automaker is charged with three counts of reckless homicide. (AP Photo)

US, Mexico close to agreement on responsibility of oil spills

WASHINGTON (AP)— Robert Krueger, ambassador-at-large for Mexico, has confirmed that the U.S. and Mexico are close to an agreement on how to respond jointly to any future offshore accidents like the massive Ixtoc 1 oil spill.

"The agreement would not be focused on existing but rather on future potential problems," the former Texas congressman replied when asked whether the spill in the Bay of Campeche would be affected.

The final agreement should be forthcoming within 90 days at the latest, he predicted.

Discussions began after President Carter and Mexican President Jose Lopez Portillo met last September and agreed that mutually shared air and water pollution problems should get a high priority.

The talks on a joint response team did not touch the question of liability. Krueger confirmed, but discussions have started on cross-border air and water pollution in general.

The agreement now under study by officials in both countries would form a joint response team to handle any offshore accident in the waters of one country that would be likely to affect the waters of the other.

Both offshore drilling accidents and spills caused by ship collisions would be covered.

The agreement includes a provision that one nation would notify the bordering nation if an offshore accident posed a mutual threat.

Each country's response team would be set up to use standards agreed upon by both nations.

Witches trial underway

PLAINVIEW, Texas (AP)— A teen-ager who drove past Loy Dean Stone's house about the time a 15-year-old girl was shot there has testified a woman warned the carload of boys to leave or she would shoot them.

On cross-examination, however, Emilio Sandoval admitted he had left the incident out of two written statements because he was scared.

Stone, 50, is on trial charged with the Halloween 1977 shotgun slaying of Roxanne Casas. Miss Casas was slain as she sat in a pickup that had pulled into Stone's driveway near Dimmitt in the Texas Panhandle.

His wife, Louise, 49, also has been charged but may be tried separately. Both have pleaded innocent. The murder charge carries a sentence of 5 to 99 years, or life in prison.

The Stones both are high priests in the Church of Wicca, a witchcraft group that believes in reincarnation and psychic phenomena. They say they do not believe in Satan or hell.

EVER STRIVING FOR TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by a government, with the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property and secure more freedom and keep it for themselves and others.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guide expressed in the Covington Commandment.

Tis the season for the delectable apple

By Oscar Cooley
Today I write about apples, a pleasant and a seasonal subject.
It is the world's best-known fruit, some 700 million bushels being harvested yearly. This is a good apple year in the United States; we'll pick 100 million bushels or more.
Apple trees thrive almost everywhere in the temperate zone, as long as the thermometer does not get down to -40 F. They do not thrive in the tropics.
The apple is a versatile fruit. When ripe, it's best eaten raw, just as nature made it.

But it can be baked, stewed, fried, or made into pie, dumpling, strudel, apple butter — you name it. Applesauce is a proper supplement to roast pork.
And the apple comes in a myriad of flavors. Some 7,000 varieties have been identified in the U.S. But you'll probably find only five or six varieties in your food market. These run the gamut from the early yellow Transparent through the mid-season McIntosh red to the winter varieties such as Stayman Winesap and Delicious. One-fifth of the apples grown in this country are of the Delicious variety, which is quite sweet. One-tenth are McIntosh, which are more tart, also juicier, and have a piquant flavor.

In old orchards — and apple trees bear for years, especially if pruned and sprayed — one can find antique varieties, not available in the stores. Among the early favorites used to be the Red Astrachan, which has a very red skin but a very white flesh. Ripening later is the Hampshire sweet, a big, yellow apple, very sweet and good to bake. Baked sweet apple, sliced in bread-and-milk, is smacking good.
Unhappily, some of the best old varieties do not keep well and so are not practical for commercial production. To suit the conditions under which apples are marketed, the plant breeders have developed varieties that look good and keep well but are not quite so tasty or juicy. Among these are the Winesap, Red Delicious and Rome Beauty.

In Europe, where more apples are produced than in the United States, a great many are crushed for the cider. When canned, this keeps indefinitely and is a good fruit drink. If not preserved, it quickly ferments and becomes "hard cider," which has considerable alcohol content. Apple juice, or sweet cider, is becoming an increasingly popular beverage in the U.S.

Applesauce, put up in cans or jars, also has become an important commodity. The best applesauce is made by combining apple varieties, each contributing its characteristic flavor. Canned apples for making pies also are popular with the housewife who does not want to pare her own.

The apple is believed to have originated in the region south of the Caucasus Mountains. It likes hilly country, perhaps because the air drainage in such a locale disposes of blights and bugs. The ancient Romans liked their apples. Cato was familiar with at least seven varieties.

In the early 1880s a nurseryman named Jonathan Chapman, migrating west from Pennsylvania, planted apples all along the way through northern Ohio and Indiana. He got the nickname of Johnny Applesed, which implies that he planted apple seeds.

But any fruit grower will testify that apple seeds do not grow into trees that bear the same quality of apples as the one planted. Every young apple tree has been budded or grafted with a scion from the variety desired. Jonathan Chapman, professional grower that he was, surely knew this and budded his little seedlings before he set them out. Otherwise the apple-hungry settlers would have been very disappointed.

In recent years, New York City has acquired the nickname of "the Big Apple." Why I don't know, unless it is after a dance of the 1930s known as "the Big Apple." In this dance, the participants form a circle. A leader calls figures, such as "Shag!...Suzy Q!...Truckin'!" and the dancers, who know each figure, follow his call.

What New York, or this dance, has to do with apples escapes me. Can someone explain?

Indian Ocean base a bulwark for 80s

When the United States negotiated a naval base on the British island of Diego Garcia in the Indian Ocean in 1971, military concern was centered on Vietnam.

Coaxing funds from Congress for development was a painful process. So far, about $173 million has been spent, including the salaries of construction battalion personnel and the 1,500 Navy people currently stationed there.

But recent events have accomplished a sudden change in the congressional outlook. The seizure of the U.S. Embassy in Tehran by Iranian militants and the detention of American hostages, the takeover of the mosque in Mecca as part of a reported plot to overthrow the king of Saudi Arabia and the military operations in Afghanistan by the Soviet Union have brought the Persian Gulf into focus as the site of potential confrontation or conflict with the Russians.

And the Navy's show of carrier force in the gulf must be supported today from the base at Subic Bay in the Philippines, 6,000 miles away. The Pentagon is likely to win approval of a request for another $173 million to build up air and naval support facilities on Diego Garcia over the next four years.

The sudden Soviet airlift of troops to Afghanistan and the coup that replaced one Soviet Communist regime with another in Kabul give urgency to the issue. It is apparent that Moscow is furthering its uncertain interests by force despite a flow of reprimands from the Carter White House.

The interests of the United States — of the Western world in fact — are certain. The oil lifeline originates in the Persian Gulf nations and remains unscarred primarily through the efforts of Saudi Arabia. It is not far-fetched to suspect Communist string-pulling behind the persistent agitation for an Iranian style "religious" revolt that could result in strangulation of the oil-dependent American economy.

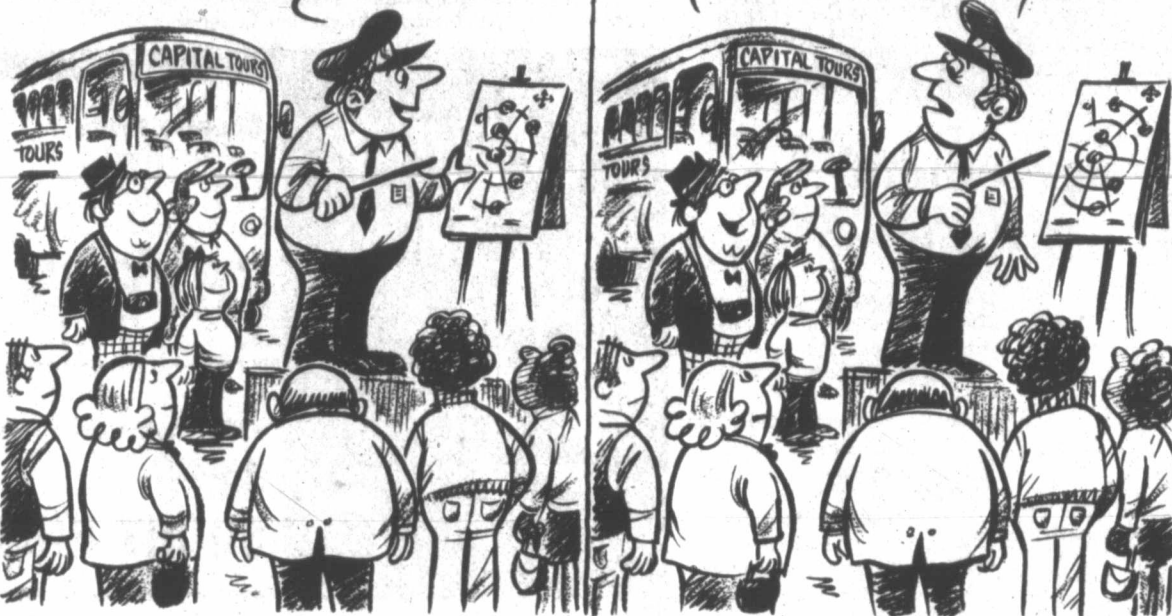

Expansion of the Diego Garcia base is part of the essential U.S. response to the Soviet show of muscle.

Tourists - Y'all come here

by Paul Harvey

For Americans to travel overseas used to make sense. The American dollar was worth more — would buy more — in most other countries.

And those countries needed our dollars.

That situation is reversed now.

Tourist money buys more goods in the United States and now it is we who need international income.

Yet our country is doing almost nothing to encourage foreign tourists to spend time and money here.

International travel is a $155 billion business and the United States is getting less than 5 percent of it.

If we could double the number of foreign visitors to our country we would create 270,000 home-front jobs and we would ease $3 billion worth of red ink on our nation's foreign trade deficit, and we could "knock some cents" back into the Yankee dollar.

Yet little Belgium spends more money attracting tourists than we do.

Canada spends twice as much as we do. The tourism business tends to employ more women and minorities; especially in the cities this could help solve a major unemployment problem.

Louis Gerstner of American Express says the travel industry in the United States is grossly underappreciated.

It employs six times more people than the Post Office.

It employs 50 times more people than our banking and insurance industries combined.

And, says Gerstner, where it costs $239,000 to create one new job in the auto industry, and $105,000 to create one new job in the steel industry, every $29,000 spent by tourists creates a new home-front job.

And tourism is a solid, stable, reliable industry.

It continued to grow even through each of our last three recessions, now accounts for 7 percent of our nation's total employment.

Double that — and our nation is back in the black!

How do we promote inbound tourism? Mr. Gerstner says since both our country and the travel industry would get a quick payback from increased tourism, both should contribute to promoting it with a National Tourism Corp.

Congress has promised to think about it.

A new IRS Tax form

What will cost $1.2 million, take two years to complete and have us reading at the ninth grade level?

The simplified tax forms that the Internal Revenue Service is under congressional mandate to produce and that it is now commissioning a team of private consultants to develop.

The intended result is a form the taxpayer can comprehend and complete more easily than the present version, which supposedly was designed for those who read on an 11th-grade level.

The convenience of the taxpayer is not the real reason for the change, however. That's a matter of dollars and cents.

The complexities of the present forms are held largely responsible for roughly 5 percent of returns that contain errors, and these cost money to correct. The new forms are expected to reduce the error percentage and thus save money for the IRS, not the taxpayers.

It figures.

Today in history

By The Associated Press
Today is Tuesday, Jan. 22, the 22nd day of 1980. There are 344 days left in the year.
Today's highlight in history:

On Jan. 22, 1901, Britain's Queen Victoria died and Edward VII took the throne.

On this date:
In 1917, President Woodrow Wilson proposed a league of nations.
In 1944, Allied forces began their landings in Anzio, Italy.

In 1973, former President Lyndon Johnson died at the age of 64.

In 1979, Iran's military chief called on the national army to defend the civilian government of Shapour Bakhtiar against the backers of the Ayatollah Khomeini.

Ten years ago, an Israeli task force captured the Egyptian island of Shadwan at the entrance to the Gulf of Suez.

Five years ago, House Democrats swept three Southern chairmen from their committee posts in the biggest setback for the seniority system in more than half a century.

One year ago, a remote-controlled bomb in Beirut killed eight people, including Abu Hassan, the man said to have planned the massacre at the 1972 Olympics in Munich.

Today's birthdays: Comedian Ann Southern is 69. Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., is 52.

Thought for today: Take the world as it is, not as it should be — anonymous.

Arms buildup

Throughout most of the 1970s, Iran was by far the biggest overseas purchaser of U.S. military equipment. But that era ended abruptly when the shah was toppled last February. The new leader is Saudi Arabia.

In the six months following the overthrow of the Iranian government, the Saudis bought almost $3.7 billion worth of armaments. That's 11 times more than the second largest purchaser, a NATO supply agency.

Saudi purchases represented more than 58 percent of all foreign military sales, according to Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., who is concerned about the massive arms buildup.

Other major purchasers were: Thailand, $813 million; Israel, $229 million; Jordan, $229 million; West Germany, $189 million; North Yemen, $181 million; Great Britain, $155 million; Turkey, $149 million; and South Korea, $134 million.

Coping with your taxes

Unmarried couples to get income tax break

EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the second in a series of five articles entitled "Coping With Your Income Tax." They were written to help taxpayers prepare their 1979 tax returns.

By GLENN RITT
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — "Why are you making us live in sin?" the angry taxpayer asked. "Why can't I deduct this charitable contribution?" another writer wanted to know.
Day in and day out, letters stream into the Treasury Department. Come tax time, the stream becomes a deluge.
The federal tax system doesn't invite sin, but it permits married couples only a $3,400 standard deduction (now called a zero bracket amount). Unmarried couples can take standard deductions totaling $4,600.

For many two-income couples, that's enough reason to stay unmarried.

And, of course, you can deduct charitable contributions, but only if you itemize. Otherwise, says Treasury, it would be a windfall to nonitemizers who get a standard deduction anyway.

Following are several complaints, or questions, taxpayers frequently bring to Treasury's attention.
"Even after withholding so much, I still owe taxes."

The IRS tries to match the amount withheld with the amount owed, but this is not always possible. You may earn additional income that isn't subject to withholding, or you may forget to claim the proper number of withholding exemptions at work.

Having too little tax withheld is a particular problem when both the husband and wife work — a very common situation in these inflationary times when two incomes are needed to make ends meet.

Withholding tables assume that each spouse is the sole wage earner and that the other spouse has small or no earnings. So at the end of the year, a couple may owe more taxes than the total withheld by their separate employers.

The same predicament may face a person who takes a second job.

The IRS recommends that, in the future, you either reduce the number of exemptions claimed for withholding purposes, request withholding at the higher single person's level, or ask your boss to hold back for taxes an extra amount of your salary each week.

"I purposely had less tax withheld each week; now I learn I may have violated the law."

The IRS requires that you estimate and pay what you owe by the end of the year. This assures a regular flow of revenues into the Treasury to pay for government expenses.

It also keeps those who underwithhold from having an unfair advantage over other taxpayers. Otherwise, they could take that money and invest it, earning interest that Uncle Sam doesn't offer.

"Why should unemployment benefits be taxed?"

This is the first year that some unemployment compensation can be taxed. Generally, only people earning substantial other income will be affected.

The government taxes one half of the unemployment compensation that brings your adjusted gross income above $20,000, if you file individually, or $25,000, if you file jointly.

For example, if you earned $19,000 in 1979, and then received $2,000 in unemployment compensation when you were laid off, you will be taxed on $1,000 of that compensation.

"Inflation is killing senior citizens on fixed incomes. What tax breaks do we have?"

There are numerous provisions aimed at reducing the tax burden of people 65 or over. Social Security and railroad retirement benefits are not taxed. A person also gets a special tax credit and an additional personal exemption worth $1,000, if they are age 65 or older.

In addition, anybody 55 or older can exclude, for once-in-a-lifetime, up to $100,000 of the gain on a home sale.

"It's hard enough to save today. Why isn't interest on savings tax-exempt?"

While it isn't exempt this year, the odds are improving that it may be soon. Congress is considering numerous plans to help the small saver. One proposal, for example, would exclude $200 in savings interest for an individual and $400 for couples filing jointly.

Until such a law, however, here's the official Treasury explanation:

"Excluding some or all interest income from taxation would pose significant equity problems by giving it a preferential status compared with income from wages, salaries and other sources. In addition, most of the benefits from the preference would go to higher income taxpayers."

"Am I eligible for an Individual Retirement Account?"

If you are not covered by a company retirement plan, you can sock away either $1,500 or 15 percent of your 1979 earned income (whichever is smaller) in an Individual Retirement Account and subtract that amount from your gross income.

If your spouse is not employed, he or she may do the same. If your spouse doesn't work, you can set up an IRA of $1,750 at any bank, savings and loan association, credit union or brokerage house.

Of course, you must itemize your deductions.

MENDING MATURE MARRIAGE

By Louise Pierce

My second most important basic is warmth, right next to food. Sometimes I think that if I had to choose between heating and eating during a blizzard, I'd take the furnace. I believe I could starve more comfortably than I could freeze.

All kinds of warmth are necessary to my happiness, as I'm sure they are to yours. We need physical, mental, spiritual, social and marital comfort, the most important of which, in my opinion, is our older-marriage warmth.

Haven't you visited couples our age and been aghast at the coolness between the mates and, consequently, toward their guests? Some years ago we had friends who stayed married until they died — but who picked on each other constantly, even during meals they shared with us at our house or theirs. We had as few dinners as possible with them as they got older because their bickering was almost unbearable. We always left in annoyance and usually with indignation.

When this couple's ranking became intense, which was most of the time, the husband carried the bitter chill of it to his office. His staff knew whether his luncheon conversation had been pleasant or unhappy. If he and his wife had shouted at each other, patiently and smilingly, which was rarely, they knew his noon meal had not stirred up his anger — either because his wife was less abusive than usual or because he ate alone.

Their marital ice carried to every other facet of their existence. I could never understand how they stayed together as long as they lived. But perhaps their wretched dispositions would have been equally bitter with any other mates. Or maybe they enjoyed fighting and making up, though they were old enough to have outgrown that enjoyment.

We no longer have time for card parties, but we used to have great fun playing bridge. However there were a few couples who got invited only once because they killed the early camaraderie by scolding each other loudly for any unwise plays they made. Their fusses made the whole group uncomfortable.

Hopefully these are isolated cases I have known. I hope the great majority of you maturely-married couples feel as warm toward each other as Otis and I do.

When we were married, almost 43 years ago, I told him that I could go hungry if necessary in those Depression years — but I hoped he would never let me suffer from the cold. He didn't.

Our first winter was in Kansas and our little house was heated by a coal stove without a damper. (We meant to install one but the first snow storm hit before we got around to it.) So Otis banked the fire every night and got up to re-fuel and re-bank several times before morning.

During a blizzard, friends stayed all night with us and reported at dawn that they got no sleep because, as the husband put it, "Ote was shaking that stove every 15 minutes, so hard that it shook the whole house and almost threw me out of bed!"

When I complained that the front door, which faced north, let in the wind and snow that winter, Otis remedied the situation. He cut up old underwear and fashioned his special brand of weather-stripping in the cracks. It shut out the cold completely — and the door as well, until spring.

He's kept me warm all these years, not only physically but maritally as well. As I sit looking at him as he snores in his big chair in the evenings, I always feel a loving warmth enveloping me. When he wakes up and our eyes meet, his hold the same feeling for me. If you don't have this kind of glow in each other's presence, work at finding it and don't give up until you do. Nothing will hold your marriage together better.

DEAR LOUISE: A friend told me that my husband and I are silly because we hold hands at church and other public places. Are we? G.N.

DEAR G.N.: You certainly are not silly. You are a warm, loving couple who show your affection spontaneously and without embarrassment. Keep it up. We do, and we always will.

DEAR ABBY

DEAR ABBY: Our very pretty and bright 18-year-old daughter (I'll call her Nancy) graduated from high school last May. She decided to stay home and work for a year before going to college. Nancy met a 29-year-old professional man about six months ago and they started dating. (I'll call him Paul.) They never actually went steady, but Paul gave her a big rush.

Well, for Christmas, Paul surprised Nancy with a beautiful one-karat diamond ring. It came as a big shock to Nancy because she wasn't even considering marriage with Paul. In fact, she told me she hated to kiss him because he had a bad case of halitosis!

When Nancy saw the ring, she told Paul she didn't think she should accept it, but he started to cry, so she kept it because she didn't want to hurt his feelings.

Nancy is sure she doesn't want to be engaged, but every time she tries to return the ring, Paul cries, and talks her into keeping it.

Nancy is very tender-hearted and Paul is very persuasive, so do you think it would be alright if Nancy's father returned the ring to Paul?

POST-CHRISTMAS DILEMMA

DEAR DILEMMA: No! Nancy should return the ring to Paul herself, and if he cries, he cries. It's time Paul learned that he can't buy whatever he wants with tears and diamonds. And Nancy needs to learn that people who "give in" in order to avoid hurting someone's feelings, usually end up hurting themselves. (P.S. About Paul's halitosis: Someone should tell him.)

DEAR ABBY: I have a 76-year-old aunt to whom I have been very close ever since I was a child. She has a heart condition and is making preparations for her last will and testament.

My problem is that I am not mentioned in her will. She has a lot of property and assets. She came right out and told me that she was leaving everything to her two sons and their children! I know this for a fact because she has discussed it with me.

Abby, since my aunt moved to Florida, I have taken her out to dinner faithfully, once a week. (She is a widow.) I have also taken her shopping every weekend. I handle all her paper work, pay her bills, cash her checks and even look after her home. (I wallpapered her home.) I could not have been more attentive to my own mother.

I am very hurt to think that she is not leaving me a dime. Should I tell her how I feel, or keep quiet? And, by the way, Abby, whom do you think she asked to drive her to the lawyer about her will? You're right — me!

HURT IN ORLANDO

DEAR HURT: Keep quiet. Your disappointment is understandable, but it's her money and she has the right to do whatever she wishes with it.

American Optometric Association discredits belief TV hurts eyes

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

True or false? Watching television is harmful to your eyes.

The answer, says the American Optometric Association, is false, despite the popular belief that long hours in front of the TV set will damage your vision.

The association is quick to add a warning, however. It says television is safe only if it is properly installed and viewed. It also says that too much concentration on the screen can lead to temporary fatigue.

In an effort to help people learn how to watch television safely, the association has prepared a guide, "To View or Not to View." It's available, at no charge. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Communications Division, American Optometric Association, 243 North Lindbergh Blvd., St. Louis, Mo., 63141.

Here are some of the highlights, in question-and-answer form:

Q. Is it safe for children to sit only two or three feet from the screen?

A. It is not likely to do any permanent harm, but it is not recommended — for children or adults. A tendency to sit too close to the TV may be a sign of nearsightedness or myopia. As a general rule, television should be viewed from a distance equal to at least five times the width of the screen. If your screen is 15 inches wide, you should sit 75 inches or just over six feet away from the set. The picture will be clearer and any lines in the screen will be less apparent. You also should try to place your set at eye level.

Million dollar project aimed at teaching kids

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Three things spurred newspaper owner George McLean to start his $1 million experiment.

One, as a former college professor, he had seen high school graduates "go to college when they are functionally illiterate."

Two, he learned that first graders in Lee County schools were scoring below the national average on achievement tests.

Three, he had a formula, which he recites with a chuckle: "If there are no readers, then we won't have newspaper subscribers and without subscribers you don't have advertisers. Without advertisers you're out of business."

McLean, 74, who taught education and education sociology at Adrian College in Michigan and at Southwestern at Memphis, Tenn., back in the early 1930s, said he's preached for years that a thorough grounding in the basic skills of reading, writing and arithmetic is fundamental to all learning.

"Reading is the basis of all education," he said in an interview.

So in 1977, McLean proposed a 10-year reading program for eight northeastern Mississippi schools: He would pay wages for teacher aides who would concentrate on developing pupils' reading skills. He promised $1 million.

The money was his to spend. McLean has done well since his arrival in Tupelo in 1934, when he bought a bankrupt weekly newspaper, circulation 500, and built it into the 35,000-circulation Tupelo Journal.

McLean has kept his promise. He doesn't seem to mind that the cost has climbed to about $150,000 a year, which will push the Journal's total investment to $1.5 million before the 10-year program ends.

"We've seen about a five-month increase in the average child's reading ability," said Billy Crews, a Journal writer who is overseeing the program. "And we've seen some success in reducing the number of retainees in the first grade."

Crews said the teacher aides, who work in six county schools and two schools along the county border, were hired to supplement the regular teachers.

Series depicts father's role in child custody

LOS ANGELES (AP) — In a sense, it's lamentable that "Once Upon a Family," a CBS movie airing this evening, came into being just now. Its themes — child custody and a father's forced awakening to parenting — are shared by "Kramer vs. Kramer," the theatrical movie that has critics and moviegoers frothing in ecstasy.

I suppose that there might be some promotional value in the similarity, the "It's like Kramer" except it's on TV" factor. But working against "Once Upon a Family" is a tradition which holds that when TV and the movies follow like paths, the movies do it better.

TV, historically, is imitative and inferior when it tries to duplicate a theatrical success. Forget that here. The "Kramer"-"Once Upon a Family" connection is coincidental.

More importantly, "Once Upon a Family" stands quite on its own as a superior film, made-for-TV or otherwise. My, what a wonderful movie this is.

Barry Bostwick plays Henry Demerjian, a suburban martyr regretful over having abandoned college and dreams of becoming an architect to marry his pregnant girlfriend and raise a family.

He has created over the years a comfortable, if unhappy, existence, a life that feeds his martyrdom but carries the price of isolation.

Mrs. Demerjian (Marcia Strassman) is his victim, the consummate trapped housewife, "drowning in the life we're living, drowning in the house we're living in, drowning in the people we live it with.... I'm drowning in my own children."

Fired chief may sue

JACKSBORO, Texas (AP) — Former Jacksboro Police Chief Guy Sullivan, who resigned Saturday just hours after the city decided to fire him, may take legal action.

"It was a political deal and I ended up getting caught in the middle," he said. "I'm not necessarily through with it. I may get an attorney and have another powwow. I don't think you can terminate somebody and not tell them why."

Sullivan had called Mayor Bill Kimberlin to tender his resignation Saturday, unaware that city commissioners had conducted a five-hour special meeting that morning, in which they voted to dismiss him.

"I think, by far, it's the best thing for him," Mayor Bill Kimberlin said Monday. "It would just be hard for him to work here now."

Kimberlin declined to specify why commissioners, who had voted to retain Sullivan less than a month ago, decided to fire the chief.

R ALL MEDICINES MUST BE POTENTLY FRESH

You know what happens to a delicious custard if you permit it to be exposed for some time in a warm place. It can turn into a dangerous killer. Therefore you refrigerate custards to prevent this. Many medicines must be protected against a similar change or they too can be harmful.

Pharmacists are taught at college how to store all medicines and to date those which lose potency after a certain time. Some of them must be kept away from heat or light. Others we keep refrigerated till ready for use. When dispensing such medicines which are subject to change we will always inform you if there are any precautions you must observe.

Duke holds off Tech

The Georgia Tech Yellowjackets are one of the Atlantic Coast Conference's weakest basketball teams, but for a while there they were floating like a butterfly and stinging Duke like a bee. "They play their game and don't make mistakes," said Duke Coach Bill Foster. "They are a tough team and they are going to win. They're coming so close, knocking on the door. One of these days, the door is going to open."

The Yellowjackets had their foot inside the door for a while Monday night with a slowdown game, before Duke finally closed it at the end with the help of Mike Gminski's touch. Gminski had 24 points, including five during a game-breaking 11-2 spurt, to help the nation's No. 4-ranked team whip Georgia Tech 56-49.

"Playing against slowdown tactics is one of my least favorite things to do," Gminski said. "It's frustrating. You know it's going to be a close game down the stretch so we just stuck to our game plan and tried to keep from getting erratic with the ball."

The Yellowjackets held Duke to a 22-19 lead at the half with their slowdown techniques, and led 35-33 as late as midway through the second half. But Gminski put the Blue Devils ahead to stay with a three-point play with 10:04 left.

"We took the lead and then lost our composure for two or three minutes," said Georgia Tech Coach Dwane Morrison. "Then Duke controlled it and controlled it and controlled it. That's smart basketball."

Sixth-ranked Syracuse, the only other Top Twenty team in action Monday night, was an 89-83 winner over Detroit as Roosevelt Bouie and Louis Orr scored 18 points apiece.

The Syracuse victory followed a one-point loss at Old Dominion over the weekend and improved the Orangemen's record to 15-1. Syracuse also extended its winning streak at home to 53 games — the longest in the nation.

The Orangemen were losing 46-45 at the half before toughening up their defense after intermission.

"I just felt like we hadn't played really well on defense (in the first half)," said Orr, "and so, coming out in the second half we knew that if we picked up our defense, we'd be okay."

Harvesters welcome Tascosa

The Pampa Harvesters will attempt to keep their District 3-AAAA record intact at 7:30 p.m. tonight against Amarillo Tascosa on the homecourt.

The Harvesters are 10-11 overall and 1-0 in league play following a 77-73 victory over Caprock last Friday. Tascosa is 5-14 on the season and 0-1 in district action.

Expected to start for Pampa are Cedric Parker at center, Ronnie Faggins and Mike Nelson at guards, Steve Glover and Joe Jeffers at guards.

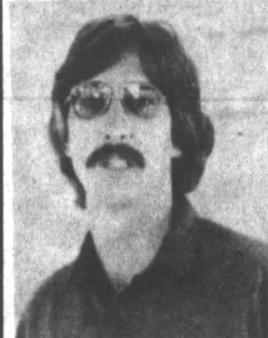

After tonight's homecourt stand, the Harvesters will spend their next four games on the road.

Tascosa rallies past Pampa

There seems to be little justice for Pampa's Lady Harvesters this season as Amarillo Tascosa rallied for a 54-52 win Monday night in a District 3-AAAA tilt at Harvester Fieldhouse.

The Lady Harvesters, who dropped a last-minute game to Caprock Friday night, are now 0-3 in district standings.

Never trailing and leading by as many as nine points in the first half, the Lady Harvesters let victory slip from their grasp in the waning minutes.

With 5:25 to go, Shelley Waltermach tossed in a free shot to give the Rebel girls the lead for the first time in the game, 46-44. The Lady Harvesters never got back on top as they hit only one of nine floor shots down the stretch.

Pampa's final opportunity came with 15 seconds left when Bobbi Skaggs went to the foul line with a chance to tie the score. However, her shot bounced off the rim and Tascosa's Sharon Mack controlled the rebound.

Fouls also took their toll in the final minutes as the Lady Harvesters were whistled down 30 times in the game. Tascosa committed only 16 fouls.

Pampa's Kelly Richardson, who hit 12 of 25 field tries and 12 of 14 foul shots, finished as the game's top scorer with 36 points.

Also scoring for Pampa were Debbie Albin and Paula Baldwin, four points each; Terri Tyrrell, Dwanna Treadwell, Tahmi Minyard, and Nicky Polson, 2 points each.

Sharon Mack led Tascosa with 20 points while Lisa Dawson added 13.

Pampa hosts Palo Duro Friday night in another district matchup.

Pampa lost to Tascosa, 39-7, in the junior varsity game. Keva Richardson scored 4 points for Pampa.

Soccer official says football is number 1

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The country has dropped back to earth, clawing its way out of the hysteria, razz-ma-tazz and heady wine that marks the annual Super Bowl football game.

The pomp, pageantry and paralysis of Super Bowl Sunday — is it really, as they say, America's greatest one-day sports spectacular? "Strictly bush, archaic, not in tune with the technological age," scoffs Bob Kap, a 56-year-old transplanted Yugoslavian. Yet, he sees football mushrooming into a multi-billion-dollar extravaganza that will give the sport global appeal.

Soccer, he insists, is decadent as a spectator attraction — "dry, dull and unintelligent" — whereas American football is "human drama, tactical, fast-paced and requiring the ultimate challenge of the mind and body."

But the game, he says, must move into the technological age.

"Look at those silly chains on two sticks which are moved after every first down," he says. "They've haven't changed since Princeton was playing Rutgers nearly 100 years ago."

And those goalposts sticking up in the air, just like they've been for decades. A 15-yard kick counts the same as one from 50 yards and it's one point whether you boot the ball over the middle or bounce it inside one of the poles.

Kap is a round, pockish little man who migrated to this country 25 years ago, joined Dallas millionaire Lamar Hunt as general manager of the Dynamos hockey team and in recent years has been active in working with soccer style kickers in the NFL.

"They laughed at me when I predicted the conventional place-kicker would be passe," he says. "Now there are only two or three around."

A painter who often illustrates his ideas with murals, Kap says domed stadiums soon will become as obsolete as the straightaway kickers and millions of fans will have their football transmitted to them electronically in three-dimensional holographs.

He foresees the day that the game will be played in a glistening palace with 10 million cardsize screens replacing live spectators, with the fans, in the comfort of their living rooms, through futuristic electronics having the feeling of being on the scene.

Electronic sensors, almost invisible in size, will be attached to each of the players' hands and sewn into the artificial surface to pinpoint the progress of play.

"When something good happens, the screens turn into a bright glow. When the fans are unhappy, they will have a dull, gray look. The players will know it. They also will hear the sounds."

Kap said the modernistic game also could be a financial bonanza for the NFL.

"Imagine 10 million people buying season tickets for $200," he says. "That's $2 billion. This would be multiplied many times over. The NFL could have its own network."

"That's the Super Bowl XXXV in year 2000."

Browder honored as top cager

DALLAS (AP) — Texas Christian guard Darrell Browder, an all-state player at Fort Worth's Dunbar High School, Monday was named Southwest Conference basketball Player of the Week in the closest balloting of the season.

Eleven players were mentioned for the weekly honor, with Browder winning on the strength of his performance in TCU's road win over Southern Methodist on Saturday.

Browder scored a season high 24 points against the Mustangs, hitting 10 of 17 from the field and 4 of 4 from the freethrow line.

He got three votes to lead the crowded field.

Michigan cagers suffer hardships

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich. (AP) — Many high schools across Michigan's vast Upper Peninsula are so remote that scheduling basketball games becomes a problem, but none has it any tougher than here on Mackinac Island.

The island — on which motor vehicles are not allowed — is located in the Straits of Mackinac that separate the state's two peninsulas.

That not only forces the team to use various modes of transportation to cross the sometimes forbidding body of water, but also makes it difficult to convince opponents that it's safe to pay a return visit.

"In December we crossed the straits by boat, now we're flying out and if the ice hardens around February we'll probably go across by snowmobile," said Father Guy Thoren, basketball coach at Mackinac Island School.

"Travel gets to be quite expensive. Nothing is budgeted for athletics, so we've held a dance and a bake sale to raise money."

Basketball is an off-again, on-again proposition for the school, which educates the 101 kindergarten through 12th grade students in the island's 500-member, year-round community.

Thoren, pastor of St. Anne's Catholic Church, a recently-elected board of education member and an ardent sports fan, suggested the district again sponsor a team after not having done so for three years. He also volunteered for the coaching job.

Getting players for the team was no problem, he said. Of the 14 in the high school level of the school, 12 are on the squad. The five boys in sixth, seventh and eighth grades made up a junior varsity.

The boys' varsity uses the same uniform bottoms as the girls' team does, but each squad has different tops.

The biggest problem was compiling a schedule, but Thoren finally came up with a 15-game slate.

"Most of our games are away because a lot of teams are afraid to come to the island in the winter," Thoren said. "Because of the travel, we play games on Friday nights and Saturday mornings."

"The players stay overnight at the homes of the players on the other teams. When teams visit the island, the same arrangement applies."

So far, the team's revival has been less than auspicious. It has lost all three of its games, but it did beat a faculty team in a fund-raising exhibition game.

"The players practice hard and are getting better," Thoren said.

Super Bowl shelved for another year

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The trucks have hauled off mountains of empty beer cups and hot dog wrappers from Pasadena's Rose Bowl, the talk in local bars returned to Iran and the Russians and the price of gas, and the last diehard reveler has finally shaken off the morning after.

Super Bowl XIV, one of the best of the National Football League championship games, is now left to the sports historians and brooding armchair quarterback.

NFL fans and television watchers who feel overused after four preseason games, 16 regular-season games, a minimum of two playoff games and one Super Bowl may feel the way Pittsburgh quarterback Terry Bradshaw does.

"Right now I'm just tired of football," said Bradshaw. Super Bowl XIV's Most Valuable Player whose two long touchdown passes led the Steelers to a 31-19 victory over the Los Angeles Rams last Sunday.

Following the game, an exhausted Bradshaw said he wanted to think about "football and what it means to me." and gave other indications he was pondering retirement. But in an MVP press conference Monday, he said he had no more thoughts of quitting.

"I know I talked about retiring after the game," said Bradshaw. "But later on I had a meeting with Jack Lambert and Joe Greene, and," he continued, smiling, "considering how important my health is to me, I am definitely going to play for the Pittsburgh Steelers next year and have officially ended all thoughts of retiring."

Although perhaps anti-climatic, there is one NFL game left in the "1979 season," next Sunday's Pro Bowl in Honolulu, with Bradshaw one of the competing all-stars.

In Monday's separate press conferences for Coach Chuck Noll, whose Steelers have collected four Super Bowl rings in the past six years, and two-time Super Bowl MVP Bradshaw, each was asked if he considered the Steelers a dynasty.

"Dynasty? Isn't that someplace you eat?" Noll joked. Then he added, "The facts speak for themselves."

Bradshaw tiptoed around the question too, pointing out that there are too many good teams in the NFL and mentioning Dallas, Los Angeles, Houston and New England.

But asked his definition of a dynasty, he smiled and replied: "Winning the Super Bowl four times in six years."

The Rams, moving to a new location — Anaheim Stadium — next season, are already thinking about Super Bowl XV in New Orleans.

"We didn't get it this time, but we'll get another shot at it," said Rams Coach Ray Malavasi.

"Pittsburgh was one or two plays better," said Los Angeles offensive tackle Doug France. "But we proved we can play football with anybody, and we know we can beat anybody. We'll be back."

Young Rams quarterback Vince Ferragamo, who completed 15 of 25 passes with one interception in a poised Super Bowl performance, said, "We'll get another chance...and it would be nice to get another chance at Pittsburgh."

Boxing team discouraged from Moscow trip

By FRANK BROWN
AP Sports Writer

A 12-member Amateur Athletic Union boxing team was to leave for Moscow today to begin a three-city exhibition tour — though a State Department spokesperson said such trips "should be discouraged."

"We tried to make it clear to the kids that if they had any reservations, don't go," said Col. Don Hull, boxing liaison officer for the AAU, who disclosed heavyweight Jimmy Clark of Philadelphia had exercised that option.

"Jimmy told me this afternoon he thought he'd sit this one out," Hull said Monday by telephone from Arlington, Va. "It was a personal choice. I didn't pressure him or make a big deal out of it."

Attempts to reach Clark for comment were unsuccessful.

The tour slates matches in the Soviet cities of Moscow on Jan. 26, Tbilisi on Jan. 30 and Vilnius on Feb. 2, and Hull said. "The latest information we had was there was no (governmental) objection" to the team completing the trip that has been scheduled since January 1979.

However, President Carter called Sunday for the movement, postponement or cancellation of the Summer Games if Soviet troops are not removed from Afghanistan within a month. And State Department spokesperson Susan Pittman said Monday: "The boxing competition in the Soviet Union is the type of bilateral activity which we believe should be discouraged."

Meanwhile, worldwide reaction from athletes and government spokespersons alike remained uniform only in its adamance. Virtually all respondents — whether for or against a prospective American Olympic boycott — were clear in their stance.

"There's no way I want to be part of a boycott of the Moscow Olympics," said Irish miler Eamonn Coghlan. "I keep my political opinions completely separate from my athletic aspirations."

"There's no way they can move the Games," said Coghlan, who set a world indoor record of 3:52.6 for the mile last February. "The International Olympic Committee has had a binding agreement with Moscow since 1974 and there's no way they can break the contract. Millions and millions of dollars would be lost if they did."

That, essentially, has been the position of the IOC all along — a sentiment that was underscored Monday by two IOC officials.

"It is the USOC (United States Olympic Committee) that has to decide whether American athletes will take part in the Games, not the U.S. government," said IOC President Lord Killanin, who labeled "a hasty decision" the policy Carter announced Sunday.

"I am not foolish enough to say politics don't exist in sport. What I do say is that sport should not be used for political ends," continued Killanin.

IOC Director Monique Berlioux, a former French swimming star, said an American boycott could lead to a rethinking about Los Angeles as the site of the 1984 Summer Games.

Other reaction was a rainbow of emotion.

An Associated Press-NBC News poll indicated Americans favored not sending a team to Moscow 49 percent to 41 with 10 percent undecided.

Of the 1,595 adults interviewed, 66 percent favored moving the Games from Moscow, 26 percent opposed and eight percent were undecided.

Vladimir Popov, first deputy chairman of the Moscow Olympics Organizing Committee, said, "We are calm people, but we think that all the anxiety that people from the outside are injecting into the Olympics is hardly helping the Games."

"If one is to use sports terminology," Popov continued, "one can say that the Olympic annals will recall Carter as a man who erected, rather than cleared away, hurdles and that Carter's decision will, in the long run, doubtless prove a goal he scored into his own net."

Further developments may be expected after the USOC meets at Colorado Springs, Colo., this weekend to map strategy. The National Olympic Committees meet in Mexico City on Feb. 4.

Lakers explode to rout Knicks, 132-114

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The New York Knicks had a first-hand opportunity to learn about the explosive tendencies of the Los Angeles Lakers. It wasn't a lesson they appreciated.

Los Angeles trailed New York 79-69 midway in the third quarter of Monday night's only scheduled National Basketball Association game, but the Lakers then went crazy, outscoring the Knicks 43-18 over a 13:07 span en route to a 132-114 victory.

The Knicks had scored 10 of the first 22 points in the second half to take their 10-point lead in the first game between the teams this season, but then the roof fell in on New York.

"The Knicks played excellent offensive basketball but it was only a matter of time until we got our running game going," said Los Angeles Coach Paul Westhead, whose team has now won six straight games and 10 in a row at home. "Good defense helps our running game, which helps our team because we played much harder when we're running.

"Our guys are having more fun giving the ball up than scoring."

The loss was the seventh straight for the Knicks, who dropped to 22-28. The Lakers, meanwhile, are 2-3 at home this season and 35-15 overall.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar led Los Angeles with 25 points and 14 rebounds. He had plenty of help as five other Lakers scored in double figures.

"Although we're playing better, they're too strong and we couldn't defend against their run," said New York Coach Red Holzman. "Kareem is playing his best basketball ever. We tried to double-team him but he has too many other good shooters playing with him."

The Lakers made 53 of their 87 field goal attempts, a 60.9 percent performance. Abdul-Jabbar led the way by hitting 11 of his 15 shots.

Los Angeles got excellent guard play as Michael

Cooper made eight of his 11 field goal attempts in scoring 18 points and also had eight rebounds and eight assists; Norm Nixon had 19 points and nine assists and Earvin "Magic" Johnson had 16 points, six rebounds and seven assists.

Johnson didn't start and played only 25 minutes. The Lakers' rookie is still hampered by a groin injury that caused him to miss two games last week.

Another rookie, Bill Cartwright, led the Knicks with 21 points and seven rebounds. A key to the game was the Lakers' 44-29 rebounding advantage over New York. Michael Ray Richardson also had 21 points for the losers.

The first half was close all the way, with neither team leading by more than six points. Los Angeles led at halftime 65-61.

The Lakers were in the middle of their big run as the third quarter ended — they held a 96-88 advantage entering the final period. Shortly later, it was 112-97.

Pistol Pete likes Philadelphia 76ers

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Pete Maravich, one of the NBA's consistently high scoring guards, is still looking for a home, but he's definitely interested in joining the Philadelphia 76ers, a team spokesman says.

Pat Williams, the 76ers' general manager, said Monday that Maravich would talk to the Boston Celtics today before making a decision.

Maravich, who suffered a knee injury in 1978, was in Philadelphia Monday for medical tests at Temple University Hospital. Williams said "our doctors cleared him physically."

Williams said he talked with Maravich for three hours Monday afternoon.
