Speaker's testimony postpone early today

opened an investigation Tuesday into an FBI undercover report on alleged insurance kickback schemes will wait until at least Thursday to hear testimony from a key figure in the probe-Texas House Speaker William Clayton.

Originally scheduled to testify Tuesday, Clayton's appearance has been delayed two days. Another important witnesses-L.G. Moore, regional director of the Operating Engineers international Union-also may be granted a delay. His attorney. Michael Ramsey of Houston, is attempting to have the subpoena quashed. His first effort was denied by U.S. Judge Carl O. Bue Jr. Ramsey then filed an appeal which will be heard today in Brownsville

The FBI action, code-named "Operation Brilab", has reached across several states and into the Texas Legislature, the Houston city council, and union locals.

Along with Clayton and Moore, the federal panel also will hear from Sherman Fricks, business manager for the 7,000-member Pipefitters Union, Local 211; John Garrett, a Houston Port Authority commissioner; Jackie St. Clair, executive secretary-treasurer of the Texas Building and Construction Trades Council; and Billy J. SIFTING FOR CASH, FBI agents look where a portion of the cash taken more than eight years ago by legendary hijacker Dan Cooper was found Sunday by a school youngster. (See photo page three of today's News). The worn and decomposed $20 bills represent the first evidence uncovered in the only unsolved hijacking in the country. Agents continue today to search for more of the money along a Columbia River beach.

School boy finds hijack loot

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) - An 8-year-old boy has uncovered part of a ransom missing since the only unsolved hijacking in U.S. history - but officials say the whereabouts of the legendary sky pirate D.B. Cooper is still a matter of conjecture.

The three bundles of weathered $20 bills found along the Columbia River are the first evidence uncovered since Thanksgiving eve. 1971, when Cooper bailed out of a jet over southwestern Washington with $200,000 tied to his waist

It was the first case of a hijacking for money.

The FBI on Tuesday identified the cash through serial numbers. Bill Baker, special agent in charge of the Portland FBI office, said the money was so decomposed it was impossible to determine how much was there, but he said it came to "several thousand

"I think we can only presume at this time that because the money was found clumped together tightly in what we believe was the manner in which it was originally packed, it lends credence to the theory that at least the money did not make it out." he said. "And from there, I would really leave it to conjecture.

Baker said agents would now renew their search. "Of course, we will generate increased interest now in trying to locate D.B. Cooper or any remains that might be in the area," he said.

The money was discovered Sunday by young Brian Ingram beneath a layer of sand as his family picnicked along the Columbia, five miles northwest of Vancouver, Wash

Harold Ingram of Vancouver, told reporters Tuesday he was preparing a fire when his son "ran up and said

'Wait a minute. Daddy.' He raked a place out in the sand and there it was Ingram said he didn't think about the cash being part of the Cooper loot. But he called the FBI because " figured if anybody knew what to do it would be them. Baker said he presumed the money washed downstream, possibly from a Columbia River tributary in the rugged southwestern Washington mountains, where Cooper is believed to have bailed FBI agent Ralph Himmelsbach, due to retire in 17 days after being in charge of the Cooper investigation since the hijacking, said he still believes there is less than a 50-50 chance Cooper survived.

One theory had Cooper falling to his death in Lake Merwin on the Lewis River near Ariel, Wash

New developments revealed in tax appraisal issue

By DEBORAH BRIDGES Of The Pampa News

The current status of the Gray County Appraisal Board situations was presented to members of the Pampa Independent School District

Board of Trustees by the city - school tax assessor collector Two new developments of the controversy surrounding the formation of the county appraisal board as provided by Senate Bill 621 were reported to board members by tax assessor - collector

Dwain Walker These include the addition of the state attorney general to the pleading filed in district court by the city of Pampa and Pampa ISD and the reissuing of a citation to McLean ISD because of a mistake on the title of the deposition.

The developments were the latest in a series of moves by the Gray County taxing entities in their efforts to form a combined county tax appraisal board with equal representation for all parties.

According to Pampa ISD attorney, Jimmy Thompson, in his conversation with him, Walker said, all of the entities - the cities of Pampa, McLean, Lefors and the school districts of Pampa, McLean,

Lefors, Alanreed and Grandview - Hopkins — agreed on a nine member compromise to the issue in a meeting in Lefors last month. All of the taxing bodies, with the exception of Grandview - Hopkins ISD, adopted and filed a resolution supporting the nine - member compormise and rescinding the earlier seven - member resolution passed in October of last year

The seven - member resolution was revoked by Lefors ISD in a resolution prepared by Thompson, he said, and requesting the County Clerk Wanda Carter to proceed with the election of a five member board as first stipulated by Senate Bill 621 since the threequarter majority were no longer on record as supporting the sevenmember board.

A pleading was also filed, he said, in the district court by Lefors. Thompson has no way of knowing. Walker told the board, whether the revocation is legal since the senate bill is silent on this point and

A copy of the answer filed in 223rd District Court by Grandview Hopkins was given to Thompson on Monday, he said, in which they deny any and all allegations made by Pampa City - School.

there is no legal precedent

Another pleading has been prepared by Thompson and approved by city attorney Don Lane, he said. It is pending the recommendations of the city attorney and the signatures of the School Board President Darville Orr and Mayor Ray Thompson.

Contended in this pleading is the three - quarters are no longer on record as supporting the seven - member board and under these circumstances, the Court should issue an order to the county clerk to proceed with the election of the five - member board.

According to Walker, Thompson said the next thing to do is to file a motion for judgement. Based on the lack of three - quarters of the majority of the governing bodies having not adopted the seven member resolution, the motion would ask the Court to order the county clerk to proceed with the election of a five - member board.

No action was taken by board members on the report. In other action, the board approved on second reading the police revisions for 1980 and the adoption of the 1980 - 1981 calendar.

The election order for the April school board elections were approved by the board. Positions to be filled in the spring elections are those of William L.

Bani-Sadr said Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, the leader of the revolutionary regime, appointed the Revolutionary Council "to administer the country" and "when the Revolutionary Council adopts certain decisions, these should be carried out."

Another Tehran broadcast said Bani-Sadr in an interview with the French government radio and TV service also repeated his offer to free the captive Americans if the United States admitted its "crimes" against Iran, recognized Iran's right to extradite the deposed shah and his wealth, admitted past "crimes," and pledged not to interfere in future Iranian affairs.

The U.S. government said after Bani-Sadr first made his proposal during the weekend it would make no admission of guilt. And a spokesman for the militants at the embassy rejected the proposal. saying the president "should not interfere in issues that are not dealt with in the constitution, such as the hostage issue," the Abu Dhabi newspaper Al-Ittihad reported.

The spokesman reiterated the militants' stand that they will free the 50 or so Americans, now in their 102nd day of captivity, only on Khomeini's orders. Meanwhile, Khomeini, in a Tehran hospital with a heart ailment, urged the nation to unite behind the Revolutionary Council until it is replaced by the Majlis, or Parliament, to be elected next month, Tehran Radio reported.

The council announced that the parliamentary elections had been postponed from March 7 to March 14 to give candidates more time to over the last 25 years. He said Iran would also welcome the implementation of U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim's proposal for an international panel to investigate alleged human rights violations by the shah. Finally, he said, Iran would accept a U.N. resolution condemning the deposed monarch as a common criminal. "We are not interested in the shah in terms of flesh and blood. We are interested in concepts, not revenge." Farhang said.

In Washington, Carter administration said they believed Bani-Sadr was maneuvering to gain a political edge over the militants, and that a compromise to free the hostages was not likely until the Iranian overnment establishes its authority fully over the occupied U.S.

In an effort to help Bani-Sadr in this delicate task, the U.S. government curtailed its official comments on developments in Iran.

"Official comment on each and every proposal is neither necessary nor productive," said State Department spokesman Hodding Carter Tuesday. "I will have no further comment today." Khomeini in his statement had made a reference to being "in these last days of my life," and the result was a flood of telephone calls to Tehran Radio from concerned supporters.

NEW YORK (AP) - Eighty years after its introduction as a "wonder drug." plain old aspirin remains full of surprises.

The "pain reliever doctors recommend most" appears to help prevent strokes in some people, may a give some protection against heart attacks and could even aid in diabetes.

This common fever reducer and anti-inflammatory drug is now known to lessen the redness of sunburn and has become part of therapy for a rare and once-fatal

One study suggests aspirin, in regular doses, may avert migraine headaches. It is even being tested for possible use against cancer, in birth control or in preventing the rejection of transplanted organs.

"Aspirin is a remarkable drug. It has been around for 80 years and it's only within the last two or three years that we've really un derstood how it works," says Dr. William Fields, chairman of neurology at the University of Texas at Houston and one of the pioneers in using aspirin to prevent stroke.

With the new understanding, we now are finding new indications for its use I think it's a wonder drug. no question about it," he says.

While few of the new uses are established yet, the rebirth of aspirin is being watched closely by U.S. manufacturers, who grind out 25 million pounds of aspirin a year, and by individual Americans, who swallow the equivalent of 100 aspirin tablets each per Aspirin is getting so much good press lately that many people have begun taking half a tablet a day the same way some people take vitamins. This is a development that worries some doctors.

Critics point out that the largest and latest study of aspirin and heart disease - released last week showed no benefit of aspirin to people who had suffered at least one heart attack.

But others respond that the study may have been flawed, and another large study due for release next week will show more positive results.

Regardless of the outcome, most doctors agree that aspirin or drugs like it will be important weapons in the pharmaceutical arsenal of the 1980s.

This probably would have surprised Felix Hofmann. the German research chemist who set out in 1893 to find a remedy for his father's rheumatoid arthritis.

Hofmann dug through pharmacopoeias looking for other salicin relatives until he came on acetylsalicylic acid, synthesized by another German chemist in 1853 but unappreciated at that time. Hofmann found a cheaper and simpler way to make acetylsalicylic acid. and it gave his father the first relief he'd had in 10

Hofmann wanted to call his new drug "a-salicin." But his employers at the pharmaceutical firm Bayer & Co. overruled him, and the drug was christened "Aspirin" when it was launched in 1899. It remained for John Vane and his colleagues in 1971 to discover how aspirin works. Vane, of the Royal College of Surgeons in London.

Aspirin does this by blocking an enzyme known as prostaglandin synthetase or cyclo-oxygenase. The body needs this enzyme to make precursors for most of the half-dozen known prostaglandins and a few other key substances as well

Among the prostaglandins that are blocked are those that make it easier for nerve cells to pass pain signals from one to another; those that raise fever in the body's thermostat in the brain; and those that promote the swelling of inflamed tissue.

But the key to many of aspirin's newest uses is something that was once considered its main drawback its ability to increase bleeding.

Aspirin does this by inhibiting the blood cells called platelets from making a prostaglandin derivative called thromboxane which allows the platelets to clump together when a blood vessel is injured.

These clumps of platelets lay the foundation for a more substantial blood clot formed of fibrin fibers and red and white blood cells. Thus, platelets initiate blood clotting, but clotting can still proceed when there is serious injury, even if the platelets are stilled.

Since the body continually replaces platelets, repeated doses of aspirin are needed.

Unfortunately, if the dose of aspirin is too high, it will also inhibit another prostaglandin - prostacyclin made by the blood vessel walls. Prostacyclin has the opposite effect from thromboxane - it dissolves clots. apparently to keep the platelets from clumping dangerously on healthy blood vessel walls.

Now a number of researchers are investigating whether this anti-clotting action can be used against a range of diseases in which blood vessels are damaged -including strokes, heart attacks and diabetes. NEXT: The Studies crime indictments have been returned naming 11 persons in what is being described as the largest vehicle theft ring in Texas history, the Dallas Morning News reported today.

Vehicle theft ring cracked in Dallas

The ring has been responsible for 200 or more vehicle thefts each year for the past two years since four Texas Department of Public Safety officers began an investigation, the newspaper said in a copyright story.

Most of the stolen vehicles were light trucks and 4-wheel drive vehicles, investigators

Although the indictment names 11 persons, only three have been charged. One of them has been tried and convicted. The other two are in jail.

Merritt Jack Dunavan, 58. received a life prison term as a habitual criminal earlier this month based on earlier convictions. He was convicted DALLAS (AP) - Organized in connection with the theft of one vehicle, but officers said he was involved in others.

Others charged and named in the indictments were Billy Jack Walker and his wife, Betty Walker, both of Delta County. They are being held in the Dallas County Jail in lieu of bonds amounting to $400,000.

The Walkers are named with three other persons who were said to have delivered a vehicle with altered serial numbers to Dallas for sale.

Hopkins County District Attorney James Chapman said Dunavan was charged with the theft of an $8,000 pickup stolen from an Ennis automobile dealer last August 7. It was offered for sale for $4.500. Chapman said. He said the plates on the stolen truck matched the plates of a 1976 pickup the same color as the stolen truck Chapman said Dunavan demolished and used it's serial number on the stolen truck.

The theft ring has cost insurance companies and Texas residents millions of dollars, the newspaper said. Many innocent persons who bought the "bargain" vehicles were left owing bank notes for the vehicles after officers seized the stolen cars.

The DPS has seized 16 stolen vehicles so far and expects to seize 70 to 90 more in the coming weeks, the newspaper said.

Most of the vehicles were stolen from Dallas County and other areas in North Texas and North Central Texas, officers Officers said the vehicles were stolen and mechanics changed the serial numbers. The vehicles were then sold below market value to unsuspecting persons.

Chain of events changes context of Clayton future about counting Clayton out He said he would attend a probably would resign if AUSTIN, Texas (AP) -

Until Friday night, it looked like a two-way race for House speaker in 1981, with moderate-to-liberal Rep. John Bryant of Dallas challenging incumbent Bill Clayton.

Suddenly, legislators and lobbvists are thinking about the chance of a speaker election in August, with Clayton out of the picture. and candidates are multiplying.

Rep. Lynn Nabers. D-Brownwood, said Monday he thought Clayton would resign before the August special legislative session if an FBI "sting" operation against Clayton results in an indictment.

Clayton faces a grand jury in Houston on Wednesday He has admitted accepting a large cash ''campaign contribution" from a Houston union leader who brought a man posing as a Prudential Insurance Co. agent to his office in November. But he said he took the money only to avoid embarrasing the union man. L.G. Moore, and intended to return it.

The "sting" was part of an FBI operation called Brilab. for bribery-labor

"I don't think Billy wants to hurt anybody, and he would do anything he could to keep from hurting anybody. I don't believe he would do anything to hurt the House members." Nabers

Nabers said he spent the weekend lining up support for a speaker's race in the event Clayton either resigns or decides not to run, after all, in 1981. House members elect the speaker, or presiding officer, from their ranks.

There were reports that former Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes was drumming up support for Nabers. Barnes said that while he supported Nabers. he had been too busy with John Connally's presidential campaign to seek votes for

Rep. Tim Von Dohlen. D-Goliad, agreed with Von Dohlen that Clayton Von Dohlen recalled the 1971 legislative session in which Speaker Gus Mutscher was the target of allegations he conspired to accept a bribe. The session was tumultuous, from start. to finish, with continual political jockeying and attacks on Mutscher, who responded with an attempt to use the redistricting bill to eliminate some of his enemies from the Legislature.

Clayton "would not put the House through that sort of ordeal," Von Dohlen said.

Von Dohlen has shown interest in running for speaker when Clayton no longer wanted the job but said Monday he is not seeking pledges of support in view of the changed situation. "I'm not working on anything. I'm watching, as everybody is, to see what will happen," he said.

Rep. Gib Lewis, D-Fort Worth, also has accumulated expressions of support from conservative House

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by a government, with the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property and secure more freedom and keep it for themselves and others.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guide expressed in the Coveting Commandment.

Reversing reserve discrimination

When asked to decide if reverse discrimination is unconstitutional the United States Supreme Court handed down a decision that had all the strength and definition of a blob of jello.

The now famous Bakke decision did not solve any of the basic questions: the aftershocks are just now being felt.

The Supreme Court is supposed to be above politics, yet the current court cowered when confronted with a tough issue like the constitutionality of using racism to aid minority advancement.

It is a clearcut issue and it is likely that political considerations prevented the high court from meeting the issue head on. The Bakke decision concluded that quota systems are not constitutional, nevertheless race may still be considered as a factor, among others, when deciding who shall be admitted to universities. The contradiction

Recently a state court of appeals took the strong stand the United States Supreme Court was afraid to do. Instead of trying to please both sides, the Third District Court of Appeals, in clear language, stated 2 to 1 that any consideration of race violates the California Constitution's guarantee that no group of citizens can be granted "privileges or immunities not granted on the same terms to all citizens." The judges did not hedge; not only was it decided that the law school in question was wrong for using race as one of its criteria for admission in a specific case, but that race is not a proper matter of consideration in any case.

The California judges left no room for doubt. Merit, according to Judge George Paras of the Third District Court, should be the sole determinant in admissions: race, Paras emphasizes, is not merit. The Third District Court judges are not less candid about their thought of the Bakke decision. They think that in the Bakke case, "the Supreme Court justices intellectualized themselves into decisional obscurity.

The clarity demonstrated by these California judges should applauded; the political pressures on them were as great as those on the U.S. Supreme Court, but they did not cave in. More importantly, minority citizens in this nation deserve the recognition that this nation believes they can make it on their own. The idea that someone must be given special treatment in order to succeed is an insult at best. The judges' decision, if upheld by the California Supreme Court, will in the long run have an incredibly beneficial effect on the wellbeing of Racism is a blight on America's history, but the best way to equalize the rights of today's citizens is not to let individuals believe that government is going to do something for them. The government has not been able to accomplish any of its social goals, and if someone waits around for the state to improve his situation, he is going to be left behind. Instead America must move forward, intolerant of racism and dedicated to the proposition that every individual has the right to progress free from irrelevant governmental restictions

Carter's promises which weren't kept

News from Washington suggests that President Carter will, during the coming election months, be promising spending programs to every interest group that can be bought off. Being the primary season, the first people he will try to satisfy at the taxpavers' expense are those who might be attracted to Sen. Kennedy — and their appetite for government spending is enormous

The public is just now being treated to the first massive new spending proposal of the election year considered by the administration. We predict many more will follow

As is often the case with high-sounding plans for spending billions of tax dollars, the current scheme results from the study conducted by a prestigious task force. This task force, headed by Vice President Walter Mondale. studied the problem of vouth employment for nine months and came to the conclusion - you guessed it that the federal government needs to spend billions more to solve the problem.

The federal government already spends. directly. $4 billion per year for youth employment programs, and now the administration, advised by its prestigious task force, will likely call for increasing that to $6 billion

After 20 years of massive social spending programs one would think that someday one of these task forces would suggest something else. In the case of youth joblessness, for example, the task force discovered that functional illiteracy was the weightiest part of the problem. With half of the 4 million unemployed youths still in school, it would not be unreasonable to assume that the task force might zero in on the failure of tax-supported schools and suggest that they start doing their job. No. a suggestion like that would focus on the failure of government agencies (the schools), thus undercutting the idea of expanding the government as a solution.

The reason many young people can't find jobs is that they can't read and write. If that be the case the government is already spending hundreds of billions on the problem, because that is what is being taxed from the people in the name of educating their children. Pouring in a few billion more, which is essentially what the administration is proposing, is the height of absurdity. But this idea is not so ridiculous to a man who is running for president and needs to secure his left flank

We expect many more collectivist proposals to surface during the primary campaigns. Already, Carter has called for new tariff policies to protect specific industries from foreign competition, at the consumers' expense of course. What is being witnessed is a natural product of the coupling of democracy and a mixed economy. This is the basic reason Carter will not be able to keep two of the more flamboyant promises he made in his last campaign First, Carter promised he was going to balance the budget. Well, there is just no way he can been that promise in light of all of the group ng to buy off during his campaign. That p. ... ise has likely been forgotten Secondly. Jimmy Carter told the American people he would never lie to them. He likely never meant that one,

Faith, integrity and shame

By Hal Watkins Whatever happened to shame? We have lived long enough to see people from all sectors of the population line up at the government trough to beg for tax dollars from the hands of self-serving politicians at all levels of "public service." And they do it without shame! If you are not getting yours from some governmental bureau or agency, there are other agencies established to help you find a law or clause or loophole to open the cornucopia of limitless "bread" looted from the hapless taxpayers and funnel it right into your pocket.

In the little town where I live in rural American one of the forward-looking citizens came up with the idea of sprucing up Main Street, through which a lot of tourists pass during a year. Businesses were called upon to voluntarily fix up the fronts of their building with needed repairs and paint, soap and water. The idea caught on and people began to sign up as participants. But, not more than two weeks passed when one of the socialist-minded localites discovered a federal bureau that is programmed to dispense funds for just such an enterprise. Now several of the businessmen have decided to wait until the paper work for the anticipated largesse has been cleared. This is only one example of many pipelines for tax dollars into our community, and it is typical of hundreds of thousands of raids on the treasury without shame!

About 2500 years ago there lived a man named Ezra. Like a misplaced Vietnamese, he was an exile from his homeland, and he organized a pilgrimage of his people to return to the land from which they had been led away captive. Being a man of faith he said. "I proclaimed a fast, so that we humble ourselves before our God and ask him for a safe journey for us and our children, with all our one and that all the rest were phony, and possessions." If Ezra had been our contemporary instead of occupying such a remote spot in history he would have found bureaucrats standing in line with financial aid, trucks, buses, ships, planes or whatever he might think he needed. In those days, as you can well imagine, the state patrol was not cruising the freeway at the beck and call of distressed pilgrims. They had to traverse hostile country to arrive at Jerusalem, their destination. There was some safety in numbers, of course, but without an organized army they were in jeopardy, especially in view of the large quantities of gold and silver they were transporting.

Temptation Resisted

Ezra resisted what must have been a strong temptation to ask for a detachment of military support and protection. "I was ashamed to ask the king for soldiers and horsemen to protect us from enemies on the road, because we had told the king, The good hand of our God is on everyone who looks to him, but his anger is against all who forsake him.' So we petitioned our God about this and he answered our prayer" (Ezra 8:21-23).

All the peoples of that day were religious; most of them, including the Babylonians, the Medes and the Persians, worshiped idols. Even Artaxerxes, king of Persia, bowed to man-made gods and consulted astrologers in order to communicate with the metaphysical realm. But Ezra and his people worshipped a God who could not be seen with the physical eye, and for this reason they were at times called atheists by the idol worshippers.

Ezra claimed his God was the only real now he was going to get a chance to "put your money where your mouth is." It was, then, with some fear and trembling that he led his people back to the land from which they had been exiled for 70 years. Having bragged about the faithfulness and power of Jehovah, he was ashamed to ask help from a heathen king, the most powerful in the world at that time.

Obviously, Ezra was a man of faith and integrity. He trusted God and prayed to him because he believed in him. The testimony of his forefathers and the prophets had impressed him so deeply that he was still a believer, even though he and his people were exiled captives in the hands of a heathen king. Furthermore, he was honest enough to admit that he couldn't have it both ways. Either he would walk by faith all the way, or he would admit his God was not worthy of trust.

Ezra, come on back; we need you. Most of the "Christians" of our day pay lip service to God, but they petition the Government for just about every material thing. And they do it without shame. They ask for commodity foods, food stamps, tax breaks for churches and other non-profit organizations. They go to government agencies for welfare, medicare, pensions and so on. We have arrived at the point in time where the people of this nation whose coins bear the inscription, "In God we Trust." have turned their backs on God and their faces to Government. The Government even publishes a virtual library of books detailing how every citizen may petition Big G for help of all kinds. Big G will tell you how to raise bees, make charcoal, buy a car, insulate your house (and pay you to do it!), save gas, raise a garden and can its produce, on and on. You may even subscribe to publications that tell you how to get more money out of your Government or God?

We as a people have petitioned our Government so long (nearly 50 years) it is really mockery to talk about our "faith in God." As Government has grown in power and has come to dominate every facet of our lives. God has diminished in the hearts and minds of each of us. We can't serve God and Government in the same way at the same time.

The sense of shame Ezra felt at the mere thought of petitioning the government of his time is what we need in Americans today, but shame- is almost totally non-existent among us. In fact, the converse is true; millions of our people tend to think first of the Government whenever any need arises. "There must be some agency to dispense the funds we need for this project!" What are you planning to do? Build a bridge? Educate your child? Insulate your house? Pave your streets? Kill your mosquitoes? Vaccinate your hogs? The Government can do it for you! PTL (praise the Leader).

The conviction is growing in my heart that until Americans lose faith in 'Almighty Government" and turn back to Almighty God, there is no hope for the survival of this republic. Faith in Government as the all-powerful one to whom all should pray is rank humanism, and the epitome of it is found in Soviet Russia, the "People's" Republic of China, and all the peoples republics of the world. Their "hearts belong to Daddy," "Big Daddy Government," and their minds are being conditioned to send all petitions inothat direction. They become slaves, mind and body. They are schooled in scarcity and can only dream for fleeting moments of the abundant life that Jesus came to give us. As we turn all our responsibilities over to Government we develop a scarcity of everything but bureaucrats, who sit around like vultures grabbing whatever else we are allowed to produce. The next step, of course, is Why are we in this sorry mess? Someone has rightly said we get the kind of government we deserve. Unless we can have a resurgence of men like Ezra, there will be no change for the better. We need a restoration of faith and integrity. We need to re-educate the conscience of the American people to the place where they can again experience shame instead of blatantly asking Government to rip off their neighbors on their behalf at the point of a gun. Queuing up at the Government pipeline is legalized stealing, regardless of the euphemistic title given it by the G-men. Federal aid is a transfusion from one arm to the other - through a leaky tube. Those who ask for it because it is legal are still immoral, and it should be stressed that legality and morality are not synonymous.

Because of Ezra's faith and integrity he became involved in a tremendous reconstruction project. If it's not too late. we too can become involved in the restoration of a glorious republic composed of responsible, free men and women who will be ashamed to petition the Government for any kind of financial help. But it takes faith and integrity no much as it did 2500 years ago.

"The white flag? It means we give up."

Drafting women

by ART BUCHWALD

WASHINGTON--There is a lot of talk these days about reinstituting the draft. The kicker this time is that women may have to register, and it's a political nightmare for anyone running for public

When I discuss the subject with parents and young ladies the response is quite

Most of them say things like, "I don't want my daughter in a foxhole," or "I couldn't stand the thought of being up to my hips in mud with a bunch of smelly men.

Very few reply. "I don't want my child flying an F-16 fighter plane," or "I'll be damned if my girl is going to stand watch on the bridge of an aircraft carrier," or "I'm not ready to work in a messhall and cook meals for a bunch of jughead marines. For some reason, everyone seems to associate the draft with foxholes, dirt, grime and foot-slogging. Also, while no one will say it out loud, most people equate military life with promiscuous sex. For all our toughness, we still put our American princesses on a pedestal, and the thought of them living in tents with men is more than most of us can stand

Which brings us to the subject of equal

As to taking on combat roles, generals and admirals are against it. One general was recently quoted as saying that the American GI is still chivalrous and would spend all his time protecting a female buddy instead of getting on with the war. Phyllis Schlafly, the mother of the anti-ERA movement, has been protesting for years that if women had equal rights they would wind up in the trenches. Recently she's been appearing on television crowing that her prediction is now going to come true.

But what does one do when the Russian bear starts rattling its saber (according to CIA reports, the Soviets have now trained bears to rattle sabers). The answer is that the American woman must let the Kremlin know that it will not only have to face the America doughboy in a confrontation, but also the America doughgirl.

I rarely agree with Ms. Schlafly on anything, but I have never doubted her patriotism. And I believe when the chips are down she'll go into the trenches with everybody else.

My favorite fantasy these days is to picture Pvt. Schlafly in a foxhole, her face covered with charcoal, helmet sitting back on her head and eating a cold can of field

SAN ANTONIO. Texas (AP) — A federal civil rights report, critical of the Immigration and Naturalization Service's actions in Texas, says there is "convincing evidence" some illegal aliens have been physically and psychologically abused by INS officers.

The 68 page report which

The 68-page report, which is to be formally released today by the Texas Advisory Committee to the U.S. Civil Rights Commission, sharply criticizes the troubled agency's enforcement procedures and hiring practices in Texas.

INS Acting Regional Commissioner William Zimmer countered that the committee's study was slanted by a general anti-INS bias. He said the committee ignored the agency's beneficial services, but instead used isolated instances — both real and simply alleged — to reach general conclusions.

"We regard the tone of the committee's report as accusatory without firm basis." he said in a letter.

But the report recounted testimony before the committee 18 months ago about alleged physical, psychological and sexual abuse of some illegal aliens by Border Patrol agents.

The troubled INS has been plagued with problems nationwide, including similar allegations against the Border Patrol all along the U.S.-Mexico border.

"While the design of the open (committee) meeting was not intended to be broad enough to establish patterns of discrimination, several problem areas tended to recur in the testimony." the report said.

The report said the INS relies on its agents to report abuse by fellow officers. a self-policing policy the committee said is of questionable effectiveness.

Poorly-educated, frightened aliens are also unlikely to report abuse, the report added. "Even if the alien should decide to complain, it becomes the word of a noncitizen against that of a federal officer," it said.

Other problems, said the report, include the process of "breaking aliens" to admit their illegal status, the use of identification forms printed only in English and the "clearly inadequate" detainment conditions of the permanent highway checkpoints.

The report said of the checkpoint detainment facilities:

There is no provision for holding female detainees separate from male detainees. There are usually no female officers or matrons available to search the detainees. There is insufficient ventilation. The detainment cell is often overcrowded. There is no plumbing, and there are frequently no organized procedures to feed the detainees."

The committee also said the agency should require fluency, not just competence, in Spanish for any enforcement or service officer stationed near the border.

The committee also recommended that the deptention facilities

The committee also recommended that the dentention facilities should be upgraded to reflect "most detainees are not criminals, but merely persons who are attempting to improve the lives of themselves and their families."

Women and minorities in the INS' Texas workforce are confined to low-paying, low-ranking jobs because of "insensitivity" by regional officials, the report said.

It should be up to the regional commissioner to correct this discrimination, it added.

Leonel Castillo. a former member of the advisory committee. headed the INS until resigning last October to run for mayor of Houston. The committee saluted Castillo for working to improve the situation in the agency for women and minorities.

The committee also examined the controversial issue of whether to allow illegal alien children to attend Texas public schools without paying tuition. The report said those children should be entitled to a free education, and said sections of the education code preventing that should be repealed by the legislature.

The report also criticized the Texas Education Agency for allowing school districts to bar American citizen children whose parents are illegal aliens.

The situation ultimately should be solved by the restructuring of the school finance system in Texas to redistribute the wealth more evenly, the report said.

South of the border diesel low quality

HARLINGEN, Texas (AP) — Cheap Mexican diesel fuel created expensive headaches for bargain-minded South Texas drivers who filled their tanks south of the border.

South Texas car dealers reported a rash of Mercedes, Cadillacs and Oldsmobiles being towed in Tuesday with clogged fuel systems. And Mexican Highway 85, a main road into Mexico at Laredo, was littered Tuesday with tractor-trailer rigs left stalled in their tracks. The problems appeared to stem from a bad batch of diesel sold at

The problems appeared to stem from a bad batch of diesel sold at stations operated by Pemex, the Mexican national oil company. Pemex sells diesel for about 20 cents a gallon, while American stations across the Rio Grande charge more than a dollar a gallon.

"They (Pemex) didn't put in an additive. It just jelled," said

Mexican drivers also surfered from the bad supply and in Nuevo Laredo, city buses were reported stranded all over town Tuesday. A check of car dealers along the Texas side of the border showed most problem vehicles filled up in Matamoros, across the river from Brownsville. The cars died in an hour or less, they said.

Contradicting testimony plagues collision hearing

TAMPA. Fla. (AP) — The harbor pilot of the oil tanker Capricorn says he was waiting for the Coast Guard cutter Blackthorn to sound a whistle blast or make another indication that it would turn before the two vessels collided. killing 23 seamen.

"I was looking for some sort of commitment that he was going (to turn) down Mullet Key Channel." Harry Eugene Knight told a Marine Board of Inquiry Tuesday. "A radio message. A change in the aspects of his lights. A whistle. Something."

head on and pass left side to left side in what is called a "one whistle passing." One whistle blast is used by each ship to signal its intended path.

"I was where I needed to be to make a one whistle passing," Knight testified. "I was already committed to where I was in the channel.

What had to be done had to be done by the other vessel."

Twenty-three of the Blackthorn's 50 crewmen died when the cutter sank Jan. 28 near the Sunshine Skyway Bridge over Tampa Bay. No one aboard the Capricorn — which is about three times the length of the 180-foot cutter — was hurt.

Knight said he first spotted the Blackthorn when the two ships were about one mile apart. At that point, he said, he made two unanswered radio calls, signaled with his tanker's lights and waited for the cutter

Give your heart away with a homemade treat

St. Valentine's Day is the traditional time to send warm wishes of love to very special people. Most folks choose the greeting card, with thoughts ranging from silly to mushy to sincere, as their avenue of expression. But just as thoughtful is a homemade gift from the kitchen.

For youngsters, consider giving a Valentine party. Upon arriving at the young host's home, the guests can entertain themselves by decorating their very own placemats, cut in advance from white shelving paper. The kids can use cookie cutters, crayons, and their imaginations to start the party off on a cheerful

To entertain the youngsters, try a game of pin-the-arrow-on-Cupid's heart, a variation of the oft-used donkey game. A vigorous game will encourage young appetites.

For refreshments, choose a simple meal such as soup and burgers, prepared traditionally or with a little added holiday flair. Valentine Soup can be made ahead or on the spot.

The children can use heart-shaped cookie cutters to create special hamburger buns out of bread slices, while mom makes the heart-shaped patties to sandwich between. Or cheeseburger Heroes may be your choice to serve with the

Serve heart-shaped Marshmallow Treats for dessert, or the kiddoes might rather have decorated cupcakes or vanilla ice cream with strawberries. A pretty red punch will thrill the youngsters and quench their thirsts.

For elegant desserts for the older set - or a special 'Be Mine' wish - try either the Strawberry Mousse with Rum or the Cheri-Suisse Pie. Each luscious dessert will please any sweetheart, young or old!

VALENTINE SOUP 2 cups cold milk

2 tablespoons butter 1 tablespoon minced onion

3 tablespoons flour

1 teaspoon salt 1/8 teaspoon white pepper

2 teaspoons sugar 2 cups tomato juice

Pour the cold milk into a 2- or 21/2-quart saucepan and set aside; do not heat. In a 11/2-quart saucepan over moderately low heat melt the butter. Add the onion and cook, stirring often, until yellowed; stir in flour, salt, pepper and sugar. Off heat, gradually stir in tomato juice, keeping smooth.

Return to moderately low heat and, stirring constantly, cook until thickened and boiling; boil 1 minute. Gradually whisk the hot tomato mixture into the set-aside cold milk. Quickly heat, stirring often; do not boil.

Serve at once. If the soup is made ahead and refrigerated, it may be reheated, without boiling, and it will remain smooth. Makes 6 servings (1 quart).

DEAR ABBY

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: A woman wrote to say that she "was losing her mind" because she was losing her hair. I read that article as I sat beside my father's bed on the cancer floor of our final stages of leukemia. Another patient, a gentleman in his 40s, obviously wearing a hairpiece, occasionally shuffled past the door in a robe and bedroom slippers. From the elevator emerged a young father, bringing his little family to visit their ailing mother. They were thrilled to see her. Her thinning hair made no difference to them at

Need I say more?

J.M.C.: MIDVALE, UTAH DEAR J.M.C.: Thank you for giving this writer, and several million readers, a renewed appreciation of good health. Your father will have my prayers.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for 19 years and have two teenage children. Our marriage has been a good one. When the children were little I was full-time wife and mother while my husband built up his business. Six months ago I found the stubs of two movie tickets in his jacket pocket. His "movie date" was not with me. It was a night that he had to "work late." When I confronted him, he broke down and admitted that he has been having an affair with his secretary for the last three years. He said it began when she started to confide her personal problems to him. She's a divorcee with two small children and he felt sorry for her He says he still loves me, but if he dumps her she will sabotage his office. She's very competent (a real "Girl Friday"), and has been very helpful to him in his business. He says he wants their relationship to get to the point where she decides she doesn't want to spend any more time waiting around for a married man. That way no feelings will be hurt. He swears he doesn't love her, but he worries about the business should he let her go.

Abby, I can't believe this is happening to me. I feel

Am I being had?

UPSTATE NEW YORK DEAR UPSTATE: Not yet. But you will be if you allow your husband to continue in this affair until his secretary decides she's tired of waiting around for a married man. No one is indispensable. If your husband really loves you and is reluctant to let his Girl Friday go only because he fears she'll "sabotage" his office, he'll just have to take that

I'm betting if he tells her there is absolutely no future in waiting for you to either divorce him or drop dead, she'll leave quietly. Especially if he gives her glowing recommen-

DEAR ABBY: I have a boyfriend named Johnny who is really a sweet guy. He's a very unexciting person, and a very poor lover, but his family is in the money.

Barry is another guy I go with when Johnny is out of town (as he frequently is). Barry is a great lover, but he has no money and it is very embarrassing to be seen in public with him in his "55 Chevvy that has no heat, no seat covers and is painted with a hand brush and house paint.
I'm 28 and time is running out. Which should I choose?

DEAR CONFUSED: It's human nature to want what you don't have. If you choose money, you'll miss the sex. If you choose sex, you'll miss the money. Don't make a choice while DEAR READER - You've made a couple of presumptions that are not correct. In the first place, not all soldiers for hikers take salt tablets and they shouldn't. The only people who should ever take salt tablets are those who really lose a lot of salt and that's through copious sweating. That's why salt loss usually occurs only in vigorous athletes or heavy laborers. They 'can get additional salt through food and liquids that contain salt.

Thus, salt tablets are not to keep a person from having to ly to replace the salt lost in opened his chest up so he could breathe.

At the moment he was having the attack, his face turned purple, his eyes watered and he was unable to exhale. He could breathe in but he couldn't breathe it back out. Sometimes he looked swollen around the chest. Could it be his heart? The doctor said he had a slight heart attack a year ago but he hasn't been back to any doctors for any check ups since then.

DEAR READER — You're

a very good observer. Your grandfather apparently had some form of asthmatic attack. Characteristically. these individuals can inhale but they have trouble exhaling. It's the effort they have to make to force the air out of the lungs that causes the wheezing one hears during an acute asthmatic attack

The blueness of the tace was because the lungs were not able to provide enough fresh oxygen to the circulation. We call this cyanosis.

It's possible that your grandfather had the typical allergic attack. But the rest of your story of his previous heart attack raises the possibility of cardiac asthma. This is a term we use for people who suddenly develop fluid in the lungs because of heart disease. In any case, your grandfather should see his doctor right away. If he's having fluid in the lungs because of his heart, the doctor will want to give him some medicine which will help to relieve the condition and should improve his breathing. If he has the ordinary form of asthma, there are numerous medicines that can be used to help, too.

TWEEN 12 AND 20

By ROBERT WALLACE, Ed.D. Dr. Wallace: I need help and fast. My mother makes me sick. If I come home only 10 minutes late she grounds me and won't listen to my reasons

Recently a girlfriend and I went to a teen disco. This girl took off with some guys she knew and left me without a ride

I managed to find a ride home but I was over an hour late. I tried to call but our phone was busy. Well, my mother was furious and slapped a month's grounding on me.

When I tried to explain, my mother said that if I didn't like my home, I could go to a foster home and she would belp me pack my bags.

I feel like taking my mother's advice and leaving home. What do you think? — Cathy, Dixon, Ili. Cathy: Please read the next letter from Sissy

My girlfriend and I have been going together for nine months and we didn't have a problem until basketball

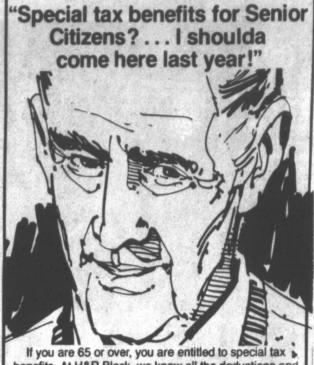

At the games, I get super nervous and uptight and my girlfriend gets mad because I don't hold her hand. She thinks I'm ignoring her. On top of that, her sister goes to the games with us and she is always on my case to kiss my girlfriend. What's wrong with me? - Kevin, Goshen, Ind. Kevin: I'm with you 100 percent. When I go to a sporting event, I want to be a fan and to get involved in the action.

(On the field or floor, that is.) To answer your question, there is nothing wrong with you, but your girlfriend and her sister better learn that in Indiana, high school basketball is No. 1.

Dr. Wallace: I'm 14 and want to be an actor, but if I make it, I'll have to leave my friends behind and I really don't want to do that.

I know that I can't have both but I would rather be an actor. Of course, I could always write to my friends but it's just not the same as seeing them. Please give me some - acting or friends? - Billy, London, Ontario,

Prep fotball stars sign today

Southwest Conference football coaches will fan out across the state today trying to get numerous bluechip schoolboy football stars to sign their name on the dotted line.

Today is the annual letter-of-intent signing day. The day coaches find out just what kind of return they get on the thousands of dollars spent courting Texas' talented prep football players.

Next Wednesday, Feb. 20, the nine SWC coaches and their assistants will get to do it all over again for the national letter-of-intent.

Numerous bluechip stars have already committed orally.

Baylor Coach Grant Teaff will be on hand at 8 a.m. sharp, the legal signing time, in the Waco home of quarterback Alfred Anderson, to sign Richfield's gifted 6-foot-3, 210-pound All-Stater, who ran and passed for 31 touchdowns.

"I'm glad it's all over," said Anderson on the eve of his signing. "This recruiting season was fun for awhile but then it kind of gets to be a drag.

Anderson narrowed his decision down to Houston or Baylor before he decided to stay in his hometown.

There have been some other notable oral committments. Running back Terry Orr, Abilene Cooper's 6-2, 225-pound bluechip running back-linebacker, has said "yes" to Texas as did Mike Luck of Houston Spring Branch.

Lineman Tommy Robison of Gregory-Portland, rated one of the best in the state, says he will join Coach Tom Wilson's forces at Texas A&M.

Highly regarded All-State running back Freddie Wells of Lewisville says he is going to

"I wanted to play in the Southwest Conference at a school where I thought I'd get a chance to play quickly," said Wells.

Southern Methodist was given the nod by quality tight end David Randle of Dallas White, and Highland Park quarterback Lance McIlhenny said he will become a part of 'Mustang Mania.'

The Aggies also got a verbal pledge from all-state placekicker Alan Smith of Texas City. There will be a lot of minds changed between the SWC letter-of-intent and the national letter which is why more league schools have decided not to announce their recruits Wednesday.

Some SWC coaches feel it's bad for the alumni to read they have signed a hot prospect then lose him to a school outside the league a week later. Also, some coaches believe releasing the signees give the non-SWC schools a shopping list.

Pampa gals lose

AMARILLO-Pampa's Lady Harvesters closed out the season Tuesday night with a 48-40 loss to Palo Duro.

The Lady Dons clinched the second-half District 3-AAAA crown with the win and will meet Amarillo High, the first-half winner, in a playoff at 7:30 p.m. in Amarillo College's Badger Gym. Pampa scoring was led by Kellye Richardson with 19 points.

Bobbie Skaggs had nine. Top scorer for the winners was Theola Freeman with 13 points.

Tonya Folsom added 12.

Palo Duro led most of the way, building up a 14-point advantage, 38-26, after three quarters.

The Lady Harvesters close the season with a 6-20 record.

Arkansas slips past Aggies

By the Associated Press

Shelby Metcalf and Eddie Sutton didn't see eye to eye on the charging call at the buzzer that gave Arkansas its crucial 45-44 victory over the Texas Aggies in their Southwest Conference battle Tuesday night The Aggies' David Goff fired a desperation shot from near

Pampa shoots down Palo Duro

Pampa presented a textbook lesson in breaking a fullcourt press to make its third straight victory a 59-51 District 3-AAAA decision over Palo Duro Tuesday night in Harvester

The win not only lifted the Harvesters above the .500 mark at 14-13, but it also avenged an earlier 53-49 loss to the Dons and set in motion a district title shot.

"We did a real good job of getting the ball downcourt against their press," Harvester coach Garland Nichols said.

The Harvesters never trailed, jumping off to a 6-0 edge with senior pivot Cedric Parker scoring six of the first eight Pampa points. Parker finished with a team-leading 17 points and was awesome on the backboard with thirteen Parker also threw a defensive blanket around Palo Duro's 6-7 Todd Loftis, who was forced to do most of shooting around the perimeter. He ended with 11 points.

"It was the best game Cedric has ever played," Nichols said. "No doubt about it." A fullcourt press the Dons cast over Pampa was to no avail as the Harvesters dribbled and passed the length of the floor time after time for uncontested layups. That helped Pampa shoot a solid 52 percent (25-48) from the floor

By halftime the Harvesters led by ten, 31-21, and upped that margin as much as 19, 39-21, late in the third quarter. Only some fine second-half shooting by Palo fourth quarter as Palo Duro's press started working. The Dons pulled within four points on two separate occasions, once with 3:39 to go and again with 1:43 left.

Parker, who started fast, finished the same way by scoring five of Pampa's last seven points to put the game out of reach.

Ronnie Faggins and Joe Jeffers gave Parker scoring support with 13 and 10 points respectively. Steve Glover added eight, Mike Nelson and Kyle Bradford, four points each, and Damon Fleming, three.

For the Dons, it ranked as one of their poorest shooting nights of the season with a meager 28 percent (19-66)

In the second and fourth quarters, Palo Duro downed only four of 19 attempts. Both teams were charged with 14 turnovers while Pampa had a 30-28 rebounding edge. The victory keeps Pampa in command of the second-half standings with a 3-0 record. The Harvesters can win the second-half title and force a playoff with the Dons by beating Amarillo High on the homecourt Friday night.

Actually. Willie's nerves wouldn't tingle if he looked down the throat of a lion, but he is realistic about his recently adopted favorite pasttime - sliding down an icy chute on a half ton of lumber and steel at speeds of 80 miles an hour

He knows that one little mistake and the bobsled could careen off the course, sending fragments and bodies flying. People have been known to get killed that

"It's a natural feeling," he added. "Everybody who does something dangerous has to be afraid. If you're not scared, you get loose and make a mistake. Fear keeps you alert.

"If a parachute jumper tells you he's not scared, he's either a liar or a lunatic."

Davenport, a rugged Olympic veteran of 36, is one of the most celebrated personalities in the XIII Winter Games, formally opening here today. In the past four Olympics he has competed in the summertime as a medal-winning, record-setting hurdler. He can show you a gold which he won at Mexico City in 1968 and a bronze won in Montreal four years ago

His chief distinction is that he is the Jackie Robinson of the Winter Games, a black breaking the longtime all-white barrier (there now are two others competing) in the Ice and Snow Olympics. He could become the second American to win gold medals in both the Summer and Winter Games. The first was Eddie Eagen, a boxing champion in 1920 and a member of Uncle Sam's victorious four-man bobsled team in 1932. Davenport is pusher on the No. 1 U.S. four-man sled that includes Bob Hickey, the driver; Jeff Jordan and Jeff Gadley. Gadley is a black from Plattsburgh, N.Y. Canada has a black bobsledder, Bob Wilson.

How did a nice black guy from Baton Rouge, La., of all places, get involved in sliding down a mountainside at break-neck speed, anyhow?

'After all. I didn't live in the South all my life. I was born in Alabama (Troy) but my folks moved to Warren. Ohio, outside Cleveland when I was in the third grade. So I slid down some hills in those old Flexible Flyers. But running was always my bag."he

He never saw a bobsled until last November just after Thanksgiving.

"You know. Mickey King (diver) and I were the first athletes on the U.S. Olympic Committee," he said. "I was at a meeting to set up committees when I met Alan Hatchigan, the bobsledder

Robinson may go to Astros

HOUSTON (AP) - Bill Robinson, the Pittsburgh Pirates' part-time slugger, says he's given permission to Pirate management to be traded to the Houston Astros, but that's as far as a possible trade has gone.

'I don't know where I stand, but if Houston still wants me I want to play for them," the 36-year-old Robinson said. "I want to play everyday and help bring them a pennant.'

The veteran Robinson, with 10 years major league experience and five years with the same team, has veto power over any trade the Pirates

Robinson said his agent told the Pirates on Jan. 24 he'd approve a trade to Houston, but Pirates General Manager Harding Peterson said no such notification had been given.

"First of all, I have to decide whether I even awant to trade Bill," Peterson said. "Two, he then has to give us his okay. Neither Bill nor his agent has given us that okay vet.

Hart Warren, whose name is synonymous with the Pampa Country Club golf course, was re-elected president of the North Texas PGA at the group's annual meeting at the Twin Sixties Inn in Dallas.

Warren, who has also served as secretary and three years as treasurer, has devoted the past 22 years of his life as club pro here. "There's 76 golf pros in this area, so I consider it quite an honor to serve as their president," Warren said. "It's time consuming, but it's

Danny Buzzard. Pampa's two-way lineman, intends to enroll at Texas Tech next fall on a football scholarship. He'll sign a Southwest Conference letter this afternoon at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mark A. Buzzard. Danny was contacted by eleven schools, but he narrowed his choices to Tech. Baylor, and SMU. He used a practical, unselfish approach in picking the Lubbock school.

"I felt comfortable there, and it's close to home. I want my family and friends to be able to see me play." he said.

Tech is showing more brass than many of its peers. More and more schools are refusing to reveal football recruiting lists until after national letters are inked. Coaches fear conference signing lists may be swiped by other schools if printed. Coaches are also worried that signed prospects will want to go somewhere else if they discover who else has signed. Some players, scared of riding the bench, hightail it for other schools with lesser-know talent

Tech officials also announced they have received verbal commitments from Plainview offensive end Kenneth Storey, Borger center Joel Dumas, and Childress quarterback Perry Morren, who was football player of the year in the Panhandle Sports Hall of Fame.

I hope to publish an area boys and girls basketball scoring list including Pampa, White Deer, Wheeler, Groom, McLean, Canadian, Coaches, to make sure your player is included, please put it in the

ABC denies helm changes

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The ABC public relations man anticipated the question. "We have an answer to that," he said, and offered an expletive. "The other answer, the one you can print is, 'No one is going anywhere."

The question: Is Anthony D. Thomopoulos, the man who puts programs on ABC's television network, about to be run upstairs? The rumor took life at about the time CBS briefly pessed ABC for the lead in the season's ratings competition three weeks ago.

Thomopoulos squandered ABC's power advantage at the beginning

Thomopoulos squandered ABC's power advantage at the beginning of the season by taking unnesessary programming risks, the talk went, and he would soon be "rewarded" by being moved up from his powerful and highly visible programming position to the dministrative echelons. Standard gossip, ABC replied. No one is going anywhere.

Midland Reporter-Telegram

STANTON, Texas (AP) - The inscription on the plaque tells only part of the story about the abandoned monastery behind it, sitting on a hill overlooking this small West Texas town.

The tumbleweeds have found a comfortable resting place against the iron gate. In the summer, the trees surrounding the monastery offer a cool place to rest. The porch encircles the stone and adobe

The front doors are boarded, as are all the windows. A visitor may gain entrance through a back door after the caretaker unlocks a

Inside, a rush of coolness contained within the three-foot-thick stone and adobe walls is felt. Dust four inches thick covers the steps leading to the attic.

In that setting, it is not hard to take a step back, into the past, The day is Aug. 15, 1881.

Five clergymen disembark from a Texas & Pacific Railroad car. Their purpose: to establish a German Catholic colony and found a Carmelite monastery.

They arrive at a place known as Grelton, and decide later to change the name to to Marienfeld ("Field of Mary") to honor the

The pioneer priests pitch two tents and the following Sunday, celebrate the first mass in the remote West Texas wilderness In the fall of 1882, construction began on a two-story adobe building to be used as a monastery. The Rev. P.A. Peters brought in Mexican laborers from Ysleta. Texas. to help, and the symmetrical interior arches they built are in a perfect state of preservation today. The completed monastery soon became a theological center, with priests pursuing their studies under the direction of Father Peters. The years 1884 and 1885 were good, and the town of Marienfeld grew.

Young men from Germany and other parts of the world came here to study for the priesthood. But in 1886 and 1887 summers without rain and winters of blizzards drove many settlers away, and the community began to lose its identity as a colony of German

Between 1887 and 1889 there were more problems. A novice in the priesthood was found hanged in his room. There was conflict between Protestants and Catholics, and under strong Protestant influence, the name of Marienfeld was changed to Stanton.

Then, in 1894, nuns took over the structure and turned it into one of the first schools in the territory. Sixteen pupils attended class that

In 1897, the Carmelite Monks disbanded and sold the property to the nuns, the Sisters of Mercy, who began a building campaign. The new buildings formed a quadrangle, enclosing a courtyard. The nuns brought in chickens and planted gardens and were virtually

In 1910, enrollment in the school rose to 110. Most of the pupils boarded at the school. It became necssary to recruit more teachers, including some from Ireland

In 1925, the academy received an accredited rating as a junior high school, with departments of music, art, and home economics

But more troubles lay ahead. June 11, 1938, was a hot and steamy day. Clouds that had been building all day suddenly massed into one black funnel. A West Texas tornado formed and chewed through the complex.

It destroyed the laundry shack, barns, outbuildings, and windmills, until just the old monastery building itself was the only thing left

The Sisters of Mercy abandoned the school. Later, the property was sold, and for a time it was used as a private It has been sold about six times since it was built, but today it

The cemetery lies a short walk from the monastery building. A striking statue of Christ has been erected in the center. Headstones mark the graves of five of the nuns who taught and worked at the

But over in a far corner near the fringe of the cemetery is a grave that stands alone Surrounded by a rusting iron fence with no gate, it has no marker, but flowers have been placed there from time to time. Perhaps it is the final resting place of the young priest who took his life. In any event, the secret of the unmarked grave is safe in the shadows of the old monastery, whose gables loom above the treetops and, as if giant eyes, look sadly over the town.

HOUSTON (AP) - International Longshoremen's Association workers have refused to load grain on a Soviet-chartered ship just a day after a federal judge denied a request to halt similar activities.

Officials said Tuesday the ILA refused to load the "Orient Express," a 67,000-ton Liberian ship chartered by the Soviets. Workers were asked twice Tuesday to load the ship and refused both times.

'I imagine it (the grain boycott) will go on until the court says differently," said Vincent Lampasas, chairman of ILA Local U.S. District Judge Norman Black denied without comment Monday a request for a temporary injunction to halt the boycott, which has been in effect on the the Atlantic and Gulf Coasts since Jan. 9.

trail of blood leads them to believe that a bandit who shot a jewelry store clerk to death apparently cut himself seriously while looting a smashed showcase.

Detective Capt. Ralph Englert said the body of Sheila Elrod, 20, was found behind a display case with a small caliber weapon, he said.

Justice of the Peace Richard Self said the woman died about 9:30 a.m. Her body was discovered at about 9:45 a.m. by Paul Musick, a co-owner of the store.

Medical examiners said she had been shot three times in the back and twice in the face, but that death was caused by a single bullet that pierced the heart.

A trail of blood leading from a smashed showcase to a parking lot near the stone led police to believe the bandit suffered an "arterial type" cut on the arm when he smashed the glass showcase, said Englert. He said local hospitals had been advised the bandit might seek medical

Cotton exports up 29 percent; biggest gain in half a century

AP Farm Writer WASHINGTON (AP) - The biggest cotton export boom in nearly half a century is helping push total U.S. use of cotton to within 500,000 bales of last year's bumper harvest. According to new Agriculture Department projections announced Tuesday, exports in 1979-80 are expected to total 8 million bales, up by 29 percent from 6.2 million shipped overseas last season.

The new estimate of total use was raised 500,000 bales from a projection made a month ago. the department's outlook board said in a "supply and demand" According to department records, an export volume of 8 million bales would be the most since 8.9 million were shipped overseas in 1932-33. Cotton exports last season totaled 6.2 million bales.

Officials said the prospective 29 percent increase this year is department has said China has been a big U.S. cotton buyer this season, so far purchasing about 2.1 million bales Officials said export sales for the 1979-80 cotton marketing year that will end July 31

actually call for 8.9 million bales and may reach 9.5 million by the end of the season. 'However, about 15 percent of this cotton may not be delivered until early next season," the report said. Cotton farmers harvested 14.9 million bales of cotton last fall, a sharp increase from the 10.9

million produced in 1978. The report said that, based on the new export figures, the cotton reserve by the time the new marketing year begins on Aug. 1 will be about 4.5 million bales, only 500,000 more than bales, the same as in 1978-79 The big export year has been developing for some time, and the administration Dec. 14 announced that cotton farmers identify those nations, the

Meanwhile, it said, retail beef prices "are expected to increase another 10 to 12 percent, about one-half the 1979 increase. Two months ago, in a similar report, officials predicted retail beef prices would go up an average of 7 to 10 percent from 1979 levels. Food prices overall have been forecast by USDA experts to rise by 7 to 11 percent this year. with a "most likely" increase of 8 or 9 percent, depending on weather and economic factors. They gained about 11 percent in 1979. As it has before, the department said abundant supplies of pork and poultry will help dampen this year's increase in beef prices. Hog slaughter was up 26 percent from a year earlier in the first six weeks of 1980, the report said. Although it may decline slightly in the second quarter, hog slaughter still is expected to be 8 to 10 percent larger than a year ago. Broiler chicken output, already at record report said. In the April-June period of last year, those prices rose to a record average of $72.51 per 100 pounds before dropping sharply during the summer. Feedlot steer prices averaged $66.86 in the fourth quarter of 1979, the report said.

Hog prices, which skidded sharply last year as production rose, are expected to average $37 to $39 per 100 pounds through the first half of this year. A year ago they were $51.98 per 100 pounds in the first quarter, on the average, before dropping to $36.39 in the fourth. WASHINGTON (AP) - Turner Oyloe, a native of Brookings, S.D., has been named U.S.
