The must-carry provision requires cable operators to set aside part of their channel capacity for commercial and public broadcast TV stations.

The telecommunications bill signed by President Clinton earlier this month extends that provision to telephone companies that provide cable television services.

More than 60 percent of American households subscribe to cable television. New cable networks are being created so rapidly that there is heavy competition for space on cable systems.

Congress enacted the mustcarry requirement because smaller, independent broadcasters not affiliated with a network feared cable companies would drop them without such a rule. They then could lose advertising and face going out of business.

A three-judge federal court upheld the law in 1993, but the Supreme Court last year ordered further study. The high court said cable TV operators have greater free-speech rights than broadcasters, but not as much protection as the print media.

The lower court upheld the must-carry provision again last December by a 2-1 vote. All but about 50 of the nation's 11,000 cable TV companies are monopolies. Congress in 1992 ordered Federal the Communications Commission to enact regulations to ensure reasonable cable TV rates.

LUBBOCK (AP) — Redfaced officials say a computer error led to a $1.3 million Medicare reimbursement one that was more than 700 times too big.

Connie Nutt, administrator for Hospice Family Care Inc., sent the money back after receiving the overpayment last week.

Her agency had billed Medicare only $1,834.81 for a patient's care.

"They sent me a million dollar check without blinking," she said. "But I guess that's the government."

Tornado aid workshop set for Saturday

Residents still seeking aid to recover from the June 8 tornado may apply for assistance Friday from Panhandle Regional Planning Commission.

Applications will be taken from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the Green Room of M.K. Brown Memorial Auditorium.

In October, the Texas Department of Housing and Com-munity Affairs awarded the city approximately $183,000 to distribute for repairs of as many stormdamaged homes as possible.

Given the limited amount of grant funding, the city will have to prioritize the use of these funds, according to a PRPC press release. To do so, the city will target homes that were uninsured or underinsured at the time of the disaster. Beyond that, the city will evaluate assistance requests based upon the income, age and physical limitations of the homeowner or displaced renter making the request.

The city developed a set of selected criteria approximately six weeks ago. As administrators, PRPC will hold the applications up against those criteria and prioritize them, PRPC spokesman John Kiehl said. The Pampa City Commission will make the final evaluations, he added.

Letters were sent to residents PRPC had identified as needing aid. In those letters, Kiehl said, residents were told if they weren't able to attend the workshop, PRPC could come to their homes directly to get the information. Those residents who cannot attend should contact Community Services Director Bill Hildebrant or the PRPC, however, to make accomodations.

In addition to the relief workshop, representatives from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, the Rural Economic and Community Development program and several local lending institutions will be on hand to visit one-on-one with interested residents about the housing programs they oversee.

Many people, the release asserts, have the impression that housing programs are only intended for the very low income.

"The general session [will] try to make the public more aware of various housing programs," Kiehl said.

The housing program workshop is open to the general public and runs from 1 to 5 p.m.

For more information, contact Hildebrant at 669-5750.

Shamrock woman charged with manslaughter

SHAMROCK - A 22-year-old Shamrock woman remains in Wheeler County jail in lieu of bond today accused of manslaughter in the death of 32-yearold Wesley Welch.

Robbyn Griffin, 22, 304 S. Oklahoma, Shamrock, was arrested Monday. Her bond was set at $35,000 by Wheeler County Justice of the Peace Guy Hardin. Welch, who lived in the 200 block of Texas Street in

Shamrock, died as a result of injuries sustained when was thrown from a 1991 Ford Topaz on Magic City Road in rural Wheeler County on March 8.

Welch was air-flighted from Shamrock General Hospital to Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo, where he died Feb. 11 after being removed from life support systems.

Griffin is the owner of the car from which Welch was thrown when he sustained the fatal injuries.

Welch sustained massive head injuries, including large skull fractures, subdural and epidural hematomas, according to Dr.

Sparks Veasey, forensic pathologist of Lubbock.

Veasey ruled out any other source of Welch's injuries after the autopsy, said 31st District Attorney John Mann.

Dan Luna, 32, 206 S. Main, Shamrock, stands charged with aggravated assault on Welch in connection with an incident two days before Welch's fatal injuries.

Luna is accused of beating Welch at his home on Feb. 6, said Deputy Rick Walden of the Wheeler County Sheriff's Office. Luna is free on $15,000 bond.

Texas Tech's president to take new job

LUBBOCK (AP) - Texas Tech University lost its president on Presidents Day, when Robert W. Lawless was named to the top job at the University of Tulsa.

"My presidency at Texas Tech has been incredibly rewarding, and leaving there is difficult," Lawless said Monday. "My career path, however, has been paved by an attraction to new situations and challenges."

The 59-year-old former Southwest Airlines executive will take over in Tulsa after having served since 1989 as president of Tech and its Health Sciences Center. Lawless earned a $177,000 annual salary at the 24,000-student university in Lubbock.

Donaldson announced his resignation last June from the 4,400student school in Oklahoma. More than 150 candidates were attracted to the opening.

Fulton Collins, chairman of the Tulsa search committee, said the decision was unanimous.

"His varied leadership and management experience as well as his reputation as a strong communicator are at the top of a long list of exceptional qualities that, remarkably, matched all of our criteria," Collins said.

Funded research at Tech and the health sciences center has doubled to $30 million, from $15 million when Lawless arrived. The number of endowed presidential scholarships grew from seven to 304; admission standards climbed on par with those at the University of Texas and Texas A&M University.

And the Red Raiders enjoyed unprecedented success in sports during his tenure. The women's basketball team, currently ranked No. 6, won the national championship in 1993, while the men's team rose to No. 9 in Monday's poll.

"I'm sorry Bob's leaving, but he has done a good job," said regent Alan White.

Officer admits kidnappings, apologizes to victims

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (AP) — A retired army captain wanted in the 1982 kidnapping and torture of six students admitted his guilt and apologized to his victims, but did not volunteer to surrender himself for trial.

The apology was part of a onehour previously recorded interview broadcast Monday on radio station HRN. Joya also used the occasion to accuse human rights groups of backing terrorists in Honduras, a charge the groups angrily denied.

Joya and two other former officers have been fugitives since Oct. 17, when a judge ordered their arrests in the abduction and torture of the university students. The students were eventually freed.

Seven other soldiers are charged in the case, which would be the first civil trial of Honduran soldiers accused of human rights abuses.

Administrator wins Olney Pancake Race in 73 seconds

OLNEY, England (AP) — Defying snow and a biting wind, Dawn Gallyot beat seven other women to the finish line in the annual Shrove Tuesday pancake race.

In her first race, the 38-year-old school administrator made the 415-yard dash with a frying pan and pancake from The Bull pub in Olney's market square to the Church of St. Peter and St. Paul in 73 seconds.

That was 9.5 seconds slower than last year's pace, when the women of Olney won their annual competition with the women of Liberal, Kan., giving them 23 victories to Liberal's 22.

Each woman must flip a panand at the finish of the race. The record is 58 seconds.

Liberal, which runs its race later in the day, joined in rivalry with Olney in the 1950s, after seeing a picture of the Olney race in Time magazine.

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) - Finally deciding a con- President Clinton had no major opposition. test fraught with uncertainty, New Hampshire mary. For Bob Dole, the fragile front-runner, the ballotin; was a crucial test of strength.

For Pa Buchanan, it was a bid to stay atop a wave of support from social conservatives and blue-collar Republicans that has driven him past other, better-financed rivals.

"We're bringing people into the Republican party, working men and women," Buchanan said today on CBS "This Morning." "... These are Democrats. We're bringing them home."

Elizabeth Dole, making an eleventh-hour pitch for her husband on the same talk show, said the Senate majority leader is a man to trust while Buchanan is divisive.

"Bob Dole is a person who brings people together," she said. "I think that Pat Buchanan's positions are polarizing and they are extreme."

Mrs. Dole also addressed the issue of her husband's age, 72, that would make him the oldest first-term president to take office: "Anyone who knows Bob Dole knows he is a man who has the energy of 10 people," she said.

Dole told supporters at the Kansas senator's elec- a-half stroll in Portsmouth to a waterfront park. tion-eve rally that he hoped for a big win, but would "settle for one vote."

Going into today's balloting, poll data showed Dole fighting Buchanan for first, with former Tennessee Gov. Lamar Alexander in close pursuit. Publisher Steve Forbes has seen his lead steadily sink to fourth.

All in the Top Four have pledged to stick with the race as it moves next to Arizona, South Carolina and the Dakotas. Forbes also plans to campaign in the largely shunned Delaware primary on Saturday. Today's vote was expected to winnow out those stuck at the bottom of the eight-man strength of his campaign to "peasants with pitchpack.

Sue Boulter, a Republican from Manchester, voted for Alexander, saying she believed his message that he can beat Clinton in November.

"I just like him," she said. "Usually my husband and I cancel each other out, but this year I think we'll be the same.'

In the first voting after midnight today in two tiny towns in northern New Hampshire - Dixville Notch and Hart's Location – Dole won by one vote over Alexander.

Dole captured 14 of the 39 votes cast in the GOP primary. Alexander had 13. Buchanan was next with five, and Forbes had four. Dick Lugar and dropout Phil Gramm each had one vote, along with a write-in for Colin Powell.

In the Democratic primary, Clinton got 12 votes. Opening times for polls in rest of the state ranged from 6 a.m. to 8 a.m.

"However it comes out..., I'm going to be doing very well," Alexander said Monday as he finished his 100-mile walk across the state with a mile-and-

Dole's campaign was also refusing to make predictions on the outcome. "This is not a numbers game," said press secretary Nelson Warfield.

Light snow and freezing rain was forecast across most of the state for today. New Hampshire Secretary of State Bill Gardner suggested a high 76 percent of the state's registered voters would go to the polls.

In their final pitches, candidates trumpeted their "visions" for the country even as they continued sniping at each other.

Jet skids off runway on belly after landing gear collapses

HOUSTON (AP) – Continental Airlines officials say Flight 1943 from Washington's National Airport was uneventful until it touched the runway in Houston. That's when landing gear on the DC-9 collapsed, sending the jet skidding down the 10,000foot runway on its belly.

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessings. Only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government, and that men have the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property for themselves and others.

Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereighty of oneself, no more, no less. It is, thus, consistent with the coveting commandment.

Final frontier gets more intriguing

Astonishing new discoveries about our small place in a vast universe are as exciting for what they suggest as what they (reveal. And what they suggest is the most fascinating hypothesis of all: We are not alone.

The possibility of life on other worlds has intrigued humans since they understood that Earth was not the beginning and lend of being, that it was a speck in a much larger system, itself duplicated many times in a span of time and space beyond comprehension.

After a blockbuster meeting of the American Astronomical Society in San Antonio science fiction has further merged with scientific fact, and we can better comprehend the magnitude and possibilities of space.

We know our fragment of the universe as the sun, the incubator of life, and its surrounding planets; there are at least 50 billion suns, or stars, in our galaxy alone. Now - after breathtaking readings from the Hubble space telescope we know there may be at least 50 billion galaxies times more than previously known, of all sizes, shapes and colors.

No one is yet sure of the significance, whether we may have been peering at the formation of galaxies. But in an equation of 50 billion times 50 billion, what is the likelihood of other 'Earths, other beings?

It may be higher than we think because of the discovery in our galaxy of two new planets - three since last fall - orbiting stars very much like our sun, one of them perhaps harboring the warm soup of basic life. It indeed is the dawn of a new era in celestial study, new impetus to seek this Holy Grail of

Is Congress troops' worst enemy?

American troops in Bosnia have avoided fighting, but they haven't avoided casualties. Just recently, two soldiers were injured by some of the countless land mines left behind by combatants. But the U.S. Congress has a solution to the problem - for the American military to stop using mines

Land mines are a lingering scourge in countries from Cambodia to Afghanistan to Angola. They are the main reason that one out of every 236 Cambodians is an amputee. One million children in Afghanistan have been killed or injured by them. Worldwide, there are some 100 million States that you can't go for a stroll in Afghanistan mines buried in the ground, where they will be claiming casualties for decades to come.

When Randolph Churchill had surgery for a benign tumor, Evelyn Waugh remarked that doctors had found the only part of him that was not malignant and removed it. Our lawmakers have adopted the same approach. In a world where many nations and guerrilla groups employ land mines recklessly and indiscriminately, Congress has imposed a ban on the most careful and responsible user.

The measure approved gives the Defense Department three years to stop using anti-personnel mines, except along internationally recognized borders under strict monitoring. If it were in effect today, it would prevent the laying of minefields around outposts in Bosnia where American soldiers are surrounded by potential enemies. It is bound to ularly in the low-level conflicts and peacekeeping operations that we often face nowadays.

And for what purpose? The residents of Bosnia in danger from mines (3 million of them) planted by the former warring parties in the country's civil war. Likewise, it's not the fault of the United or Cambodia without taking the risk of being blown to pieces. Saying that the land-mine problem will be alleviated if the United States gives them up is like saying that the AIDS epidemic would subside if monogamous married couples stopped having sex.

The U.S. military relies on such devices, but it keeps careful track of them and retrieves them once the need is past. It also deploys "smart" mines that disarm themselves after a specified period, eliminating the danger that they will kill innocents years later.

Sen. Patrick Leahy, who sponsored the bill, complains that the latter don't always self-destruct and that, as a result, some people were killed by American mines left behind in Kuwait after the Gulf War. But the Kuwaiti embassy says there were make our soldiers more vulnerable to attack, partic- no U.S. mines placed in Kuwait. The deaths were due to Iraqi mines. Leahy's measure, you can be sure, won't make Saddam Hussein give them up.

The proponents, including House sponsor Lane are not in danger from American mines; they are Evans (D-Ill.), think the United States should set a we already do, by taking great care, but it doesn't seem to have much effect on armies fighting nasty internal wars in Asia or Africa.

Nor is there any reason to think that a complete ban on American mines will after the conduct of underfunded military factions engaged in bitter life-and-death struggles in the Third World. Mines are a cheap, highly effective defensive weapon, and if they were easy to replace, they would not have been in use for the last 135 years.

The problem many of these poor countries have is that mines are laid carelessly, with no records kept of where they are located, and then are never cleared. The best thing the United States could do is provide money and technical help to find them and destroy them. That, unlike this bill, would actually save lives and limbs.

The congressional action comes partly in response to various international efforts to outlaw the use of mines worldwide. The United Nations held a conference in Vienna last fall to explore ways to reach that goal, which has been endorsed by Pope John Paul II and American Red Cross President Elizabeth Dole. Her husband, the presidential candidate, voted for the ban.

But it's hard to understand the revulsion. Wars involve killing by all sorts of unappetizing methods, and there is nothing about mines that makes them exceptionally loathsome. One thing to be said in their favor is that they are purely a defensive weapon, of no use at all to an invader.

Yes, they can claim innocents if misused - but so can bombs, bullets, missiles and hand grenades. That's no reason mines should be abandoned by countries that are capable of handling them responsibly.

The United States is one of those, and we won't good example for the rest of the world. Of course make the world a safer place by giving them up. All we will do is commit a dangerous and futile act of unilateral disarmament.

"IS THERE A CHIP TO BLOCK NASTY POLITICAL ADS ?

Pols who perpetrate legislative sins

As the elections approach, and you start judging legislative candidates, you might keep in mind the three great legislative sins as outlined by American revolutionary Alexander Hamilton.

"It will be of little avail to the people," Hamilton said, "that laws are made by men of ones that do, the federal officers have more than their own choice if the laws be so voluminous that they cannot be read, or so incoherent that they cannot be understood ... or undergo such incessant changes that no man, who knows what the and enforced by local law enforcement officers. law is today, can guess what it will be tomorrow."

That in a nutshell is how America has gotten so fouled up.

Our laws indeed are too voluminous to read. The laws number in the thousands, and their illegitimate offspring – rules – number in the tens of thousands.

In the current issue of Policy Review, former Attorney General Edwin Meese and Rhett DeHart write a simple declarative sentence. They cannot everyone will remain in a state of uncertainty. have written an article about the intrusion of the federal government into local law enforcement.

Congress has created more than 3,000 federal crimes, which in the words of Meese range from "serious but purely local crimes like carjacking and drug dealing to trivial crimes like disrupting a rodeo.

enough to do, enforcing the truly federal crimes, than to get involved in purely local crimes - all of which, of course, are already covered by state law

But to continue, many of our laws are so poorly written that they are incoherent. Judges often end up trying to figure out what in the heck the legislators meant or intended when they wrote the law.

For people with allegedly seven years (at least) of allegedly higher education, many lawyer-legislators or lawyer-staff members cannot, it seems, throw the net of a paragraph over a thought. It is not uncommon these days for a single law to run to several hundred pages – more pages than a novel. "Let all laws be clear, uniform and precise," advised French writer Voltaire. "To interpret laws is almost always to corrupt them.

The third sin – incessant changes – is painfully This federalization of local crimes is not only a visible when it comes to the tax laws. to repeal Prohibition.

I'll tell you one consequence of all this talk about tax cuts and a flat tax code. Many extremely large economic investment decisions simply have been put on hold. Investments that would have been made, purchases that would have been made, factories that would have been built now don't exist because no one but a fool would make a long-term investment when, to use Hamilton's phrase, no man can guess today what the tax laws will be tomorrow.

All of these problems are our fault. We elect these idiots. And, if we retain idiots and add more, they will continue to increase the volume of laws, continue to write incoherent laws and continue to tinker incessantly with the laws so that These idiots will destroy both liberty and economic prosperity, and probably do it unintentionally. Some of them not only don't know what they are doing, they don't know what they've done after they have done it.

Look for intelligence, clarity of thought and expression, mature judgment, honesty and a good grounding in history and moral philosophy before you vote for a man or woman to legislate. Otherwise, you are shooting your future in the

The Spear Foundation happily reports

In September 1992, while the nation was awash in the foolishness that accompanies presidential elections, an article appeared in an erudite journal which argued that there is an "all but ignored" bright side to the global warming threat.

Mankind will actually benefit from the continued accumulation of carbon dioxide in the air, wrote Sylvan H. Wittwer, professor emeritus of horticulture at Michigan State University, in the quarterly journal, Policy Review.

Yes, there is a greenhouse effect, and, yes, temperatures will continue to rise, but darn it, "the plant life of planet Earth would benefit greatly." How so? Because plants love C02. Tomatoes, cucumbers, lettuce, rice, wheat, barley, oats, rye, corn, sorghum, millet, sugarcane, peas, beans, soybeans - all will grow faster and there will be greater yields.

Now what Professor Wittwer did not say is that icecaps will be melting and ocean levels will be rising and the fields where these plants will be grown will be situated on what were formerly known as prominent peaks - you know, the mer and 40 of the latter, at last count. They say Smoky Mountain Waterfront Farm and so forth but that's neither here nor there.

The point is, you should quit complaining about all the bad news that gets reported. There is always a silver lining, but you have to look for it. One way you can do this is to read reports published by the Spear Foundation. We bring you Comfort News, so that you may go about your clowns. business in good cheer.

Suffice it to say the Spear Foundation is less broken up about his departure than he is.

Then there's the matter of Rush Limbaugh's dimming popularity. His ratings are slipping, and one restaurant in Washington had to close down its "Rush Room" for lack of attendance. Although the government defends its critics. actions, environmental groups, opposition leaders and even King Norodom Sihanouk have raised an outcry.

"Ministers and officials of the royal Cambodian government are heavily implicated in the destruction of Cambodia's forests and are sanctioning activities contrary to the constitution of Cambodia," the environmental group Global Witness charged in a report. Sihanouk has warned that "if this defor-

"I don't have any faith in their political will to re-think their forest policy. Once the heat is off, they'll proceed as before," Patrick Alley, director of Global Witness, said in an interview.

The London-based group, which first publicized the logging deals, says there is not "another instance in the world where such a vast proportion of a country's forests, situated in areas with no effective government control, had been sold in such a short time, and in such great secrecy, to foreign companies."

Following the criticism, which began when The government maintains it is committed of illegal timber being hauled into Thailand the logging concessions were brought to light to protecting the environment. In an interview, he said any logging concessions found to be "against the national interest" would be canceled.

Cambodia's forest cover has shrunk dramatically in the past quarter century, from more than 70 percent of the country to not much more than 20 percent.

Officials say the concessions exclude 8.2 million acres of forest. But many experts believe Cambodia's total forest cover is considerably less than the 24.7 million acres tallied in a government estimate three years ago. Some put the total at about 17.3 million acres, which would leave only about a million acres uncovered by logging contracts.

In addition to commercial logging, forests also are being denuded by poor villagers who need firewood and building materials and by Khmer Rouge guerrillas who sell logs to Thai businessmen to finance their insurgency.

Despite Thai government denials, Global Witness says it has compiled evidence including photographs and tape-recordings -

Kennedys meet with Cuban leader, discuss nuclear plant

MIAMI (AP) - Cuban President Cubans were reluctant to share Fidel Castro has agreed to consider other sources of fuel as his country builds a nuclear power plant a couple hundred miles south of Florida, two of President Kennedy's nephews said.

Castro, who has stubbornly maintained that his energystarved nation needs the plant, told U.S. environmentalists and energy-conservation experts that he will look into their suggestions for harnessing energy from sugar cane plants, Robert Kennedy Jr. and Michael Kennedy said Monday.

More than three decades after the Cuban missile crisis and the botched Bay of Pigs invasion, the two met the man who was their uncle's most bitter Cold War enemy.

The sons of Robert Kennedy went to Cuba last week as part of a U.S. delegation to discuss Cuba's energy needs and urge Castro to abandon his nuclear program in favor of safer energy sources.

U.S. lawmakers and environmentalists have warned that the nuclear plant is being so shoddily built that it could unleash another Chernobyl-like disaster, which could threaten Florida and other states along the Gulf of Mexico. Some plant workers who have defected to the United States have issued similar warnings. Robert Kennedy stopped short of calling the plant unsafe, but said he was worried that the Before You Renew Your CD

"No real assessment can be made whether this plant is safe or unsafe until we see the documents. We can say we have a lot of questions," said Robert Kennedy, a senior staff attorney the Washington-based for Natural Resources Defense Council.

At a news conference Monday shortly after landing at the Miami International Airport, the Kennedys discussed their threeday visit to Cuba.

The group toured the Juragua power plant in the southern province of Cienfuegos. The plant, estimated to cost about $800 million, could be completed within a couple years.

The environmentalists told Castro about harnessing energy from the island nation's 156 sugar plants by burning discarded sugar cane, Robert Kennedy said. He said Castro promised to look into the method as an energy source.

School trustee in hot water he sexually assaulted his daughter, over scuffling

VICTORIA (\overline{AP}) — A trustee in the Tidehaven School District has promised to cooperate with authorities investigating an incident between him and a parent during a board meeting.

School board member Jim Davant was apologetic following a special meeting of the board Monday concerning a scuffle between him and Gary Piwonka, father of an eighth grade girl at Tidehaven Intermediate School.

Piwonka said Davant attacked him during Thursday night's meeting in Blessing, 48 miles east of Victoria. Piwonka complained of a scraped cheek, a black eye and bruises on his chest after the incident.

Trustees postponed Thursday's meeting following the altercation until Monday. On the agenda of both meetings was a decision on whether to place Piwonka's daughter in an alternative education program.

The board voted to keep the girl, accused of alcohol possession with other classmates, in regular classes after a seven-day headed to court in-school suspension.

One of the other girls involved, Piwonka said, was Davant's own 13 years since the alleged crimes granddaughter. Davant denied the charge, which he said fueled the altercation.

Both admitted they have engaged in a running conflict over cheerleaders selections, but Piwonka said Davant took it too far.

who later committed suicide.

Larry Gohring is charged with aggravated sexual assault and indecency involving his 15-year-old daughter, Carrie, and two other teenagers.

The father has maintained his innocence throughout.

The girl killed herself in 1992, shortly after Gohring was allowed to move back home. She had been reported to the county's Children's Protective Services office eight months before she overdosed on antidepressant drugs, prompting the agency to undertake an internal investigation.

Gohring was indicted in 1994 in connection with crimes that were alleged to have occurred 10 years before. Some teens have told investigators the abuse didn't end when Carrie was 7 years old in 1984.

The girl was a cheerleader, athlete, honor student and sophomore class president at Dayton High School, 30 miles northeast of Houston.

Hypothermia victim, 95, pronounced dead still alive

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) -Police Sgt. Ben Hellard pulled back the sheet to take a picture of the dead woman - and she started to move.

Helen Fincel, 95, was mistakenly declared dead Sunday after falling off her back porch and lying for several hours in near-freezing weather.

Hellard didn't notice anything unusual at first when he went to photograph Fincel, who was put on a gurney at the hospital and covered with a sheet.

"I've seen dozens of bodies in my 15 years as a police officer," he said Monday. "She looked as dead as any of them."

Only she wasn't.

First, Hellard saw one of Fincel's eyes twitch. When he saw her head turn slightly and her chest slowly moving up and down, he notified a doctor, who confirmed Fincel was still alive.

DEAR HAD MY CAKE: I checked it out, and the second version is the correct one. Quote books attribute it first to Thomas Heywood in 1546. He wrote, "Wolde you bothe eate your cake, and haue your cake?"

Somewhat later (in 1633), George Herbert phrased the saying, "Wouldst thou both eat thy cake and have it?" This popular criticism was also variously rendered: "She was handsome in her time, but she cannot eat her cake and have her cake" (Swift, 1738); "You can't have your cake if you eat it" (J.R. Planche, 1871); and finally, "One cannot eat one's cake and have it, too" (T.H. Huxley, 1880).

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP)

The Atlantic Coast Conference will investigate charges that North Carolina basketball coach Dean Smith directed derisive language toward an opposing player during a game last week against Clemson, league officials said.

Gene Corrigan, ACC com-missioner, will begin to interview the principal parties this week before deciding on what form of punishment, if any, will be meted out, a conference spokesman said Monday.

The latest in a well-documented series of disagreements between North Carolina and Clemson took place Wednesday after Smith admitted that he spoke to Clemson guard Bill Harder with 8:22 left in the Tar Heels' 53-48 victory.

Smith, who accused Harder of grabbing the jerseys of North Carolina players on defense, said he told Harder, "You're a better player than that, move your feet," The News & Observer of Raleigh reported in Tuesday's editions.

Smith spoke to Harder as Harder walked within a few feet of the North Carolina bench after an official's whistle had halted play.

The next day, Harder disputed Smith's account of the exchange and said Smith called him,"a dirty player," an accusation the coach has denied.

NCAA rules stipulate that a technical foul shall be assessed for violation of bench decorum if a coach use "disrespectful or unsporting words, gestures or actions toward an opposing player or coach."

The ACC's Sportsmanlike Code has similar provisions under which a violation could make the offending coach subject to reprimance suspension by league officials.

One issue that Sanders had to resolve before putting baseball on hold was his contract with Nike. However, the shoe company is heavily involved with the Cowboys, so the two sides likely were able to cut a deal.

SOCCER

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) - The European Union on Tuesday welcomed UEFA's belated move to scrap limits on foreign players but warned European soccer chiefs the transfer system must also be immediately changed.

The UEFA European soccer federation bowed Monday to EU pressure and agreed to drop quotas on the number of foreign players allowed at European clubs. The decision came more than two months after the EU's highest court ruled the practice illegal.

"We welcome it with qualified satisfaction," said Willy Helin, spokesman for the EU's executive Commission. "It's only normal."

UEFA had sought to preserve its limit of three nonnationals and two "assimilated" foreigners who have been playing in the host country at least five years.

The European Court of Justice judged that infringed EU laws granting citizens of the 15 member nations equal access to work anywhere within the Union.

Monday's decision means clubs in any UEFA nation, inside or outside of the EU. no longer will be restricted to the number of foreign players they can field.

Clubs playing in quarterfinals of European cup competitions' March 5 say they will voluntarily continue to apply the 3-plus-2 rule for the rest of the season.

NASA ready to handle any problems with satellite cord

By MARCIA DUNN AP Aerospace Writer

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) Suppose, just suppose, Columbia's astronauts are reeling in a half-ton satellite at the end of a 12.8-mile cord when the motor inexplicably revs, yanking the satellite toward the space shuttle like an incoming cannonball.

Or maybe a micrometeorite whizzes by and severs the tether, whipping the cord around the shuttle. Or maybe the cord goes slack and - boing! - the satellite becomes an out-of-control yo-yo.

Maybe, maybe, maybe.

The seven astronauts assigned to NASA's upcoming mission with the tethered satellite have trained for such dire possibilities and more during two years of preparation on the ground in simulators.

"All very hairy," said astronaut Franklin Chang-Diaz, the crew's chief scientist.

It will be the second trip into space for Italy's tethered satellite, which got no farther than 840 feet out the last time and almost had to be ditched. Chang-Diaz and three other astronauts who flew on that failed 1992 mission are back, along with many of the same flight controllers and scientists.

The countdown for Thursday's liftoff began Monday afternoon.

"It's unfinished business," said astronaut Jeffrey Hoffman, who like Chang-Diaz will be making his fifth shuttle flight. "People know this was the flight that got screwed up the first time, so the whole world is going to be looking, and I hope we can get it all the way out this time."

The tether jammed because of a protruding bolt that NASA had added to the reel at the last minute. That bolt has been removed, and more than 20 safety reviews have been conducted on the improved $443 million tethered-satellite system.

Officials insist neither the crew nor shuttle will be in any added

Two of four Esmor boot camp teens move a set of shelves holding costume fabric for Area Community Theatre I during a day of spring cleaning Saturday. The cadets from the Canadian juvenile facility finished sets for the upcoming production of Bus Stop, cleaned and organized the back stage area and did general spring cleaning, according to Lt. Ace Acevedo, cast as Bo in the play. The show runs Friday and Saturday nights at 7:30 p.m. and Sunday at 2:30 p.m. Tickets are available by calling 665-3710.

Indians draw ire for killing bull elk at feeding stations wrong," Desserault said. The Jan. 27 killing of two bull elk near the feeding station has set off protest meetings and letter-writing campaigns by more than 100 non-Indian residents of the Chinook Pass area, southeast of Mount Rainier in the Cascades.

Yakima County Prosecutor Jeff Sullivan is considering whether to file charges against the hunter. former Yakama tribal police chief Joe Young.

At issue is whether the feeding site - set up by the state to keep the animals going through the winter - is in the tribe's "usual and accustomed hunting area," as prescribed in an 1855 treaty with the U.S. government.

The Yakamas have 8,000 registered members, most of them living on a reservation in the area. hunt year-round within the 10 harvests them."

Young defended his killing of the two elk.

"This treaty gives us our right," he told the Yakima Herald-Republic. "We can hunt, fish and gather roots within our usual and accustomed places. This was within the ceded area."

Non-Indian hunters see if from a different perspective.

"It's more of a moral issue than their ceded rights. The way they're taking these elk right off a feeding station where they're trying to survive, it's not fair to the animal or the sportsman," said Todd Huck, a Naches orchardist and hunter.

"That's why people are upset," said John McGowan, a state wildlife official in charge of the elk feeding station. "It just goes against their sense of morality that we attract them down here Under their treaty, they can and feed them and then someone danger in the two days the tethered satellite is supposed to be generating electricity while sweeping through Earth's mag-netic field at 5 miles per second.

Scientists expect 5,000 volts of electricity to be generated by the satellite and its braided copper, nylon and Teflon tether, just onetenth of an inch thick. A paltry 40 volts were generated last time.

Current will flow from the satellite down the 12.8 miles of tether to Columbia, where electron guns will shoot the electrons back into space and thereby close the electrical circuit. One kilowatt of power should be produced, not quite enough to run a small, portable heater.

If shown to be feasible, tethered satellites could be used to generate power and provide lift for future space stations. They also could drop space-station garbage low enough to re-enter the atmosphere and burn up, and lower experiments to Earth.

NASA is playing down the exotic, futuristic applications of orbiting tethers, such as the space elevator envisioned by Arthur C. Clarke of 2001: A Space Odyssey fame.

The four Americans, two Italians and one Swiss assigned to this flight are also stressing the more practical and immediate benefits of tethered satellites, while warning that surprises will pop up. "As well as we've tried and with as much effort that has been put into it, we know there are going to be some things that we just can't duplicate here on Earth," said shuttle commander Andrew Allen. "We're as humanly prepared to do it as possible.

If the reel breaks, Chang-Diaz and Swiss astronaut Claude Nicollier will take an emergency spacewalk and haul in the tether and satellite by hand or, in the worst case, snip the tether with giant clippers.

If immediate action is needed say, if the satellite starts swinging above Columbia like a way-ward pendulum - Nicollier will activate guillotine-type cutters from the cockpit.

"We have a bit of a delicate problem given that we have an American shuttle and an Italian satellite," Hoffman said. "And if we did get in trouble and it were necessary to cut the tether, who better to do it than our neutral Swiss?'
