Ford says he won't enter 1980 race

RANCHO MIRAGE, Calif. (AP) — Former President Gerald R. Ford announced Saturday he will not enter the 1980 Republican presidential race, saying any such move would only divide his party.

"I am not a candidate. I will not become a candidate," Ford said.

"I will support the nominee of my party with all the energy I have," the former president said. Ford made the announcement outside his home in this California desert community.

He called it "the toughest decision of my life because I believe our country is in very deep trouble."

"America needs a new president," he said. "That single fact is more important than anything else."

Ford said, "I have determined that I can best help that cause by not being a candidate for president, which might further divide my party."

Ford had said earlier last week that he would not make a decision on whether to run until after the Illinois primary on Tuesday.

But many of his closest advisers and friends had told him during a three-day visit to Washington that his chances were slim, that former California Gov. Ronald Reagan already had a large and growing lead in the GOP presidential sweepstakes. Ford was told he might suffer a humiliating defeat at the hands of his old nemesis.

Many also told Ford that to enter the race might divide the party.

Ford and his close political advisers huddled here Saturday morning to make a final assessment of his chances.

They apparently decided that Ford should not make another run for the White House, and he called reporters to his home to make the surprise announcement.

The former president had been saying all week that he didn't anticipate arriving at a decision until after the Illinois primary.

Several Republican moderates, who shared Ford's view that Reagan might be too conservative to win the general election in November, had been urging Ford to run.

One of them, former Air Force Secretary Thomas Reed, had formed a Draft Ford committee, which over the weekend had been working to line up support around the country for a Ford candidacy.

Ford had said he would need broad-based support not only from Republicans but also from Democrats and independents before he would challenge Reagan, the man he narrowly defeated for the GOP nomination four years ago.

That broad-based support did not materialize as Ford had hoped during his visit to Washington, and associates reported the former president left the nation's capital discouraged about his chances for a return to the White House.

Ford, 66, also said his wife, Betty, agreed wholeheartedly with his decision.

She has opposed his getting back into politics, which would mean he would have to give up the leisurely lifestyle the two of them have enjoyed since Ford lost to Carter in 1976.

Following his announcement, Ford took off for a golfing match with Alan Greenspan, who headed his Council of Economic Advisers.

FBI seeking kidnap victim

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — The FBI said Saturday it is conducting a search in Oklahoma and Texas for the kidnapped 88-year-old mother of a bank executive.

Ed Pistey, agent in charge of the FBI in Oklahoma, said Ella Shelton, 88, who was abducted from her suburban home in The Village sometime Thursday morning, was still missing although a ransom was paid Thursday in Denton, Texas.

Mrs. Shelton was abducted sometime between 7:15 a.m. and 9 a.m. Thursday, said Pistey. The woman's daughter, whose name was not released, is an executive at an Oklahoma City bank, he said.

The FBI said the daughter received a telephone call about 10 a.m. Thursday from an individual indicating her mother had been abducted and demanding $25,000.

Several additional telephone calls were received providing instructions at intermediate locations, and the money was ultimately dropped and picked up in Denton about 6:30 p.m., Pistey said.

Since then, no one has been in contact with the daughter, who lived with her mother, and Mrs. Shelton has not been located, Pistey said.

The FBI developed a composite drawing of a man who may have picked up the ransom and released it Saturday afternoon.

The man is described as being white, 20 to 30 years old, with a dark complexion and dark full-length straight hair to the middle of his neck. He had full bushy sideburns and was driving a late-model Chevrolet sport pickup, Pistey said.

Barrios fail to endorse Kennedy

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — An emotional appeal that the people in the barrios want another Kennedy as president failed Saturday to win Sen. Edward Kennedy the endorsement of Mexican American Democrats.

Kennedy, D-Mass., got 787.4 votes, or 61.8 percent, but needed 855-13 votes, or two-thirds, to gain MAD's endorsement.

It was the first time in its four-year history that the organization of nearly 1,300 Mexican-Americans had considered endorsing statewide candidates.

President Carter — touted as having appointed three times as many Mexican-Americans to political jobs as any other president — got 382.75 votes, or 30.04 percent.

Those who want to remain uncommitted in the Democratic presidential race got 103.8 votes, or 8.15 percent.

No one appeared to speak for Gov. Edmund Brown of California, who is on the non-binding May 3 presidential primary ballot in Texas, along with Carter, Kennedy and uncommitted.

MAD by voice vote unanimously endorsed Jim Hightower, former Texas Observer editor, in his race against incumbent Jim Nugent for the Texas Railroad Commission.

Rep. Buddy Temple of Diboll was endorsed by voice vote over Railroad Commissioner John Poerner but some of the 215 MAD members at the meeting abstained.

The 215 members represented a voting strength of more than 1,270, which meant each person present represented more than one vote.

Other MAD endorsements included: Jim Wallace of Houston over two others for Texas Supreme Court, Place 1.

C.L. Ray of Texarkana, Supreme Court, unopposed, Place 4.

Marvin Teague of Houston, Texas Court of Criminal Appeals, unopposed, Place 1.

W.T. Phillips of Waco over two others, Court of Criminal Appeals, Place 2.

There were no endorsements for Places 2 and 3 on the Supreme Court nor Place 3 on the Court of Criminal Appeals.

San Antonio City Councilman Bernardo Ureste said, "If you walk the streets of the barrios, you find the support is there for Kennedy."

"The people in the barrios need help, and Kennedy is the only one who can do it," said Travis County (Austin) Commissioner Richard Moya.

Leonel Castillo of Houston, former commissioner of the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service in the Carter administration, said Kennedy had won one state in the primaries and Carter had won 13.

"I do suggest," Castillo said, "that it's not a good idea to get on a boat just as it is sinking."

"There is a significant tide to the right in this country, and it is our responsibility, coming where we come from, to sail against the wind," said state Rep. Albert Luna of Houston.

"After Illinois, he (Kennedy) will be figuratively dead, politically dead. I'm sorry to use those words," said Israel Galvan of Houston.

In supporting Kennedy, said Maria Garcia of San Benito, "We might be holding onto the idealism of the 1960s, and we cannot live with idealism in the 1980s — it's impossible."

"We've got to stand up and understand that the tokenism we have received under the Carter administration is nothing but tokenism," shouted Ben Reyes, a Houston city councilman.

Castillo said he expects Carter to appoint a Hispanic to a cabinet-level post if he is re-elected. "We can win without sacrificing any integrity," Castillo said.

"It's better to die on your feet than die on your knees," state Rep. Paul Moreno said in Spanish, which was translated by another MAD member.

Speaking for the uncommitted, Greg Luna of San Antonio said Mexican-Americans had "turned Texas into a Carter camp" in 1976.

"We want our fair share, and we're not begging for it — we deserve it," he said.

Cities face cut in Revenue Sharing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Many towns and cities will be forced to fire workers or raise already-high property taxes to cope with President Carter's proposed $1.7 billion cut in federal revenue sharing, local officials say.

And some human services financed by this money may have to be shifted to beleaguered local budgets if they are to survive intact, these officials warn.

"Many of our cities will be faced with serious disruptions of their budgets," said John Gunther, executive director of the U.S. Conference of Mayors.

President Carter on Friday proposed to slash 75 percent of the states' $2.3 billion revenue sharing portion. This will help create the largest federal budget surplus in more than 30 years — a move designed to cool double-digit inflation.

However, that is little comfort to localities that have grown increasingly dependent on revenue sharing.

Carter chose not to touch the $4.6 billion in revenue sharing money that would go directly to localities. However, many states pass through all or part of their portion to counties, cities and towns or provide services to them.

Cynthia Pils of the National League of Cities said the proposed cuts "virtually guarantee layoffs or property tax increases."

"Many communities will have no choice because it's become impossible to raise taxes in this Proposition 13 climate," added Bernard Hillebrand of the National Association of Counties.

Since 1972, municipalities have used revenue sharing primarily for police and fire services, public works, transportation and recreation. States use much of their portion for education and welfare programs.

The strings-attached money has proven crucial to communities, which have found it legally or politically difficult to increase property taxes, or are have seen their revenue sharing dollars shrink by 40 percent since 1972.

'Green Bar Bill' to highlight scout banquet

The Adobe Walls Council of the Boy Scouts of America will be hosting its annual Leadership and Eagle Recognition Banquet at 7:30 p.m. Friday, March 21, at the Heritage Room of M.K. Brown Auditorium.

This year, the keynote speaker will be the world-renowned Scouter William "Green Bar Bill" Hillcourt.

Hillcourt, retired director of Scoutcraft of the Boy Scouts of America, and a contributing editor of "Boys' Life" magazine, has written handbooks for scoutmasters, boy leaders, and scouts. His articles on Scoutcraft subjects are widely read.

Born in Denmark, Hillcourt is now an American citizen. He was a scout and patrol leader in his native land and advanced to the Danish equivalent of Eagle Scout.

His interest in science led him to study pharmacy and he went on to receive a Master of Science degree in that field. His interest in writing led to a career as author of books on camping and outdoor life, and his interest in scouting led him to become a member of the National Council Staff of the Boy Scouts of America.

Hillcourt has written extensively on Scouting subjects for "Boys' Life." In this magazine he became popular as "Green Bar Bill." He is the author of the "Field Book of Nature Activities and Hobbies" and a dozen other books. His definitive biography of the founder of the Boy Scout movement "Baden-Powell: The Two Lives of a Hero" was published simultaneously in the United States and Great Britain in 1964. His most recent book is "Norman Rockwell's World of Scouting."

He is an outstanding speaker on all phases of scouting, outdoor living and world traveling. He has traveled in all of our 50 states and in 43 foreign countries on numerous tours of Europe and around the world. He has participated in 10 world jamborees and in all national jamborees of the Boy Scouts of America.

He has been honored by scout associations around the world for his work. The Boy Scouts of Japan presented him the Hawk Award and the British Scouts Association awarded him its highest recognition, the Silver Wolf, the British equivalent of the American Boy Scout movement's Silver Buffalo Award. He is the recipient of the Silver Beaver and of five George Washington Honor Medal Awards, presented by Freedoms Foundation of Valley Forge. He also has received the Distinguished Eagle Award. Hillcourt is the only national staff member, past or present, to receive this award.

Other features at the banquet will be the annual recognition of the 1979 Eagle Scouts and the 1980 Silver Beaver Awards. The Silver Beaver Award is the highest award the Boy Scouts of America can award an adult volunteer working in a local council.

The public is invited to attend the banquet. Tickets may be purchased at the Council office in Pampa, 815 N. Sumner.

The Adobe Walls Council is composed of 12 Texas and three Oklahoma Panhandle Counties with Pampa as the headquarters. Council president is Paul Husen of Borger and Scout Executive is Joe Chambers. The Adobe Walls Council has the responsibility of bringing the scouting program to the cubs, scouts and high school explorers of the Texas and Oklahoma Panhandles.

Pampa pepper popper is Vegas showstopper

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — Pampa's "pepper popper" Ron Farmer broke his pepper-popping record here Saturday by eating 112 jalapeno peppers in 16 minutes. His first response after the feat was, "I felt like I just gave birth to a 12-pound pepper."

Farmer did not meet his goal of eating 110 in 10 minutes, but exceeded his past record and any previous records.

Farmer got off to a slow start when he sat down to the table and the table tipped, causing some of the peppers to fall off the table.

Farmer nearly got sick about three times during his record-breaking feat and was sweating, red-faced with tears streaming down his face. He wiped his face repeatedly with a white towel.

He was on stage at the Sand's Town Casino, backed by a Pampa band, the Wells Fargo Express, who played the Orange Blossom Special throughout his 16-minute venture.

Members of the audience cheered Farmer on by standing on the tables and the casino's bar and clapping while he popped the peppers.

People left the game tables and slot machines to see what the commotion was about and ended up joining in the cheering.

After Farmer finished, he stood up, wiped his face and the table before being led out of the casino by two paramedics who were standing by.

Before going on stage, Farmer said he felt like he was going to the electric chair.

Farmer made the Guinness Book of World Records in November 1979 when the 29-year-old plumber ate 100 of the fiery peppers in 14 minutes and 19 seconds.

Square House honors Ryals

PANHANDLE — A reception honoring Square House Museum Trustee Felix Ryals will be held March 23 in Freedom Hall immediately following the film on Red China in the War Memorial Building. Ryals, manager of the Panhandle Ground Water Conservation District No. 3 since 1957, will retire his position April 1, 1980. Programs instituted during his years as manager include: the thickness of the Ogallala formation, the saturated thickness of the Ogallala, decline maps annually since 1961 and depth to the water maps made on a periodic basis. From 1963 to 1977, Ryals wrote a weekly column titled "Panhandle Water" for the Pampa News. A water district publication, "Panhandle Water News," was published by the district for 23 years.

Rules and regulations of District No. 3 were amended several times while Ryals was manager. The amendment in 1977 was very significant in that it limited the number of wells, according to size, that may be drilled in various sections of land. Before coming to Texas, Ryals served 18 years in the public schools of Arkansas as a teacher, coach, principal and school district superintendent. He served as Superintendent of the Arkansas Boys Industrial School, the state school for delinquent white boys under Governors Francis Cherry and Orval Faubus. As superintendent of the reformatory, Ryals was able to persuade the legislature to change the status of all four of the state reformatories from penal to educational.

During the past 23 years, Ryals has been active in fraternal and civic club work. He has served as a trustee of the Square House Museum for over 15 years. He has also served as president of the Pampa Shrine Association, Master of White Deer Lodge No. 1188, Deputy Grand Master of the 99th Masonic District, Texas Delegate to the National Water Resources Congress, Secretary of the Golden Spread Chapter of the Soil and Water Conservation Society of America, Governor Dolph Briscoe's Task Force on Water and Natural Resources, Panhandle Regional Planning Commission Environmental Committee. Currently, he serves as member of the Adobe Walls of the Council of the Boy Scouts of America, the Carson County Unit of the American Cancer Society, Executive Board of District 15, Director-at-Large Water Inc. and Secretary of White Deer Lodge No. 1188.

His family includes his wife, Carolyn; five children, Wilson Ryals, Jefferson, Ark.; Mrs. Carolyn Langston, Houston; Jimmy Ryals, Morgan City, La.; Mrs. MaryLan Gore, Austin; Mrs. Janice Kuhlmann, Austin; and seven grandchildren.

Canadian High School Council

The student council is a traditional organization in American High Schools. Its membership generally includes students who are popular and those considered by other students as possessing leadership characteristic. It is also a fact, that more attention is usually given to the first qualification and less to the second.

In Canadian High School developing leadership skills is a priority of the Student Council. To that end the Council has recently joined the Texas Association of Student Councils, sponsored by the National Association of Secondary School Principals. The council has participated in a leadership workshop at Amarillo, taken part in the selection of District TASC officers and completed a new constitution which is to be presented to the administration and school board for ratification.

The Student Council of Canadian has four officers and sixteen representatives, four from each class. The President of the Student Body is a four year council member, J.W. DeWitt. DeWitt is the 17 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. J.W. DeWitt, he has participated in Drama Club, National Honor Society, U.I.L. Literary Events, and has been selected to appear in Who's Who Among American High School Students. DeWitt has been president of his class for four years. Student Council President is Terry Glen Schafer, 17 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Lynnard Schafer. Schafer participates as quarterback of the Wildcat football team, basketball, track, golf and the National Honor Society.

Senior representatives are Kimberly Morrow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Morrow, Barry Dean Stevenson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stevenson, Doyle Cally son of Barbara Breedon, and Cynthia Waterfield, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Waterfield.

Junior Representatives are Laurie Lyn Mathers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Mathers. Laurie Mathers is also Student Council Secretary, Sondra Bell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Bell, John Shelby Goff, son of Mr. James Goff, Mike Mitchell, son of Mrs. Jackie Powell.

The councilman at large is Susan Ramp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Ramp.

Sophomore Representatives are Janae LeAnn Schafer daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Schafer, Ronnie Keith Schafer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lynnard Schafer, Kenneth Wayne McPhearson son of Mr. and Mrs. C.H. McPhearson, Sherry Lynn Sansing, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mack Sansing.

Freshman Representatives are Tim Eldon DeWitt, son of Mr. and Mrs. J.W. DeWitt, Mary Alice Parnell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sid Parnell, Carol Suzanne Cooper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E.B. Cooper, Tony Lloyd, son of Mr. and Mrs. Phil Lloyd.

Red Deer Creek project hits snag in meeting

Gray County Commissioners met in regular session Friday. Among the items discussed was the review of easements for the Red Deer Creek Project.

The Red Deer Creek Project has been contemplated for almost 13 years. Once again commissioners were faced with discussions concerning the actuality of the project. Landowners were present to submit their opinions to commissioners.

The Red Deer Project would establish a series of dams in Gray, Hemphill and Roberts Counties. The dams would control water especially during high rain periods. Though the water problem is more vital to the Roberts and Hemphill Counties, Gray County would start control in the upper areas. The project was started originally by local land owners and not the Soil Conservation Service, which is now executing the project, according to Lee McDonald, who was present at the meeting to provide recent information concerning the project.

The four landowners present at the meeting, told commissioners of the problems they foresee if the dams are built. Weed infestation was mentioned, landowners felt that the weed problem may be more than they can handle. Public use of the dam areas without any control from owners presented many objections from the four. The possibility of future government intervention were among the main objections of the landowners with the way government is handling land use programs the four saw the possible loss of their rights concerning their own property.

The project calls for six sites in Gray County and the land owned by the four at the meeting would be the sites for four of the dams.

The four told commissioners they were opposed to the project and would like the issue dropped from further discussion.

Lee McDonald of the SCS had some points to make with the commission concerning the future of the project. "No. 1," McDonald said, "The Watershed was started by the local landowners and therefore was important to them at one time. No. 2, According to George Marsh, SCS leader, the project will not continue for the other counties if Gray County cannot receive rights for two of the sites. No. 3, Downstream neighbors are definitely in favor of the project and future completion of the dams depends on Gray County."

By finding an alternate site for one of the dams, the project in Gray County may take a positive turn. The SCS will now take the project back to the drawing board to see if the new site meets any objection. If two sites in Gray County can be obtained the project may have some future. Commissioners agreed to look at the alternate site and work to secure the easements.

Discussion continued as to the positive effects of the watershed project. It was brought out that water is continuing to be a problem in this area, and future availability could present some real problems. The dams would provide a place to store water for future use. The availability of water can greatly increase land value for owners.

McDonald told commissioners that the Federal budget cutbacks may endanger the project, if work is not started soon.

In other business commissioners approved a time deposit from the Courthouse and Jail fund to be made in the sum of $50,000 for 90 days.

Retired teachers will hear doctor

Dr. Frank J. Kelly, medical director of the Pantex Mason and Hanger Corp. will speak on "Living for Tomorrow" at a meeting of the Pampa Retired Teachers Association, March 17 at 2 p.m. at the Pampa Senior Citizens Center.

Members of the American Association of Retired Persons will be guests.

Dr. Kelly is associate clinical professor at Texas Tech School of Medicine and past president of Scott & White Clinic Alumni Association. He has served as medical director of the American Oil Co. in Indiana and General Electric Co. in Chicago.

Presently on the Energy Technology Committee of the American Occupational Medical Association, Dr. Kelley also is consultant to the Department of Energy on medical accident investigation and acts as consultant to industry on occupational medicine.

Wheeler roundup

Wheeler County Commissioners met in regular session Monday to discuss the certification for the right of way for highway 83. The right of way has been acquired in accordance with Federal and State laws.

Phillips Petroleum was granted a permit to construct a telephone line along sections in Wheeler County. The remodeling of Wheeler County's old jail was considered by commissioners. After inspecting the old jail building, commissioners decided to accept bids for the remodeling work. After remodeling is completed the building will house offices for the tax appraisers.

Commissioners also approved the contract designating the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission as the agents to negotiate for the purchase of the Rock Island Railroad properties. The PRPC has been requested by other counties and public bodies to investigate the possible purchase of the rail lines in its region. Wheeler County Commissioners agreed to pay 2 1/2 percent of the salary and insurance of a balliff as required by the 31st Judicial District.

WHEELER SCHOOL DISTRICT

The University Scholastic League Literary competition was taking place at Canadian High School Friday and Saturday. Wheeler Junior and High School students were competing in the various events. These events included Oral reading, Ready Writing, and Prose Reading. For the High School Journalism, Science Contests and Debates were added.

Wheeler High School will be hosting some of the UIL events including all the One Act Play contests. The UIL Debate for the 2B district will also be held in Wheeler.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

The membership drive for the Wheeler Chamber of Commerce is in progress, according to members. The purchasing of a nativity scene for the community is one of the projects for the Chamber.

New lights for the Little League Baseball Diamond are also being proposed for the upcoming season by the Chamber.

FUNDS FOR AREA COUNTIES

Jack Hightower announced this week the acceptance of the Rolling Plains Area in the Resource Conservation and Development Program.

The plan aimed at benefiting eight counties was developed more than ten years ago. The counties included in the Rolling Plains are Donley, Gray, Hall, Hemphill, Lipscomb, Salt Fork, and the Cap Rock Soil and Water Conservation District.

Officials in the SCS estimate that as much as $32 million may be eventually available for the six districts in the program. If an equal share is given to all six, the Rolling Plains may have $6 million to work with.

$390,000 was allocated for six projects across the nation. Areas in Indiana, Texas, Maryland, Pennsylvania, and North Dakota are included in the projects. The $390,000 was made available for conservation planning methods in the areas mentioned.

All the counties in the Rolling Plains area must have committees to outline conservation problems in their district. Von Kleibrink was recently recruited to head the RC&D program in the Rolling Plains.

Congress will appropriate money each year for the projects and counties will work with the available monies for the current year. In the past Congress has been hesitant in allocating funds for these programs.

The Resource Development plan include many areas not usually thought of as soil conservation. According to LaVonne Williams of the Wheeler SCS, "People are one of our most valuable resources and if it is recreation areas that will benefit these people, we may see money allocated for that purpose."

Weekend telethon will benefit Easter Seals

The Pampa News, in conjunction with The Golden Spread Chapter of the Texas Easter Seal Society, and KFDD-TV Channel 10, will present the ninth annual National Easter Seal Telethon the weekend of March 22-23. The 20 hour show, hosted in Hollywood by talented Suzanne Somers, will begin at 10:30 p.m. Saturday night and will continue until 6:00 p.m. Sunday.

In Pampa the Easter Seal pledge center will be set up at the Pampa News.

Volunteers from Pampa High School Kiwanettes and Key Club will be answering phones and accepting pledges for the full 20-hour period. The pledge phone number in Pampa is 669-2525.

The National Easter Seal Society was formed in 1919.

For over 60 years the organization has been widely recognized as the organization providing more services, to more handicapped people, than any voluntary agency in the world.

This year the Texas Society celebrates its 50th year of serving disabled children and adults in the state.

Today, Easter Seal Societies nationwide provide a comprehensive spectrum of services to 453,811 individuals.

Services are tailored to meet existing community needs.

As an advocate on behalf of the nation's disabled, the Easter Seal Society works to improve the environment for handicapped citizens with programs aimed at eliminating both environmental and attitudinal barriers and creating recognition for the capabilities of those who are disabled.

New book promotes fitness and exercise together

There's also advice on exercising in extremes of heat and cold, on selecting the clothing necessary for safe exercise, and even valuable information on how not to be ripped off by those seeking to profit from the new popularity of fitness, i.e. health clubs, health-food hucksters and exercise-machine manufacturers.

If you (or a member of your family) are ready to get in shape by eating properly and doing the exercises that are right for you, order a copy of "The Fitness Fact Book" today. It's easy! Just fill out and mail the accompanying coupon.

Going on a diet isn't the answer to losing and keeping off weight. Neither is a full-fledged exercise program. But if you combine the right diet with the right exercises you'll be on the road to total fitness, according to "The Fitness Fact Book."

Written by Theodore Berland, award-winning medical writer and author of the best seller, "Rating the Diets," this 160-page book is a fact-filled guide to diet, exercise and sports.

Unlike many "health" books, "The Fitness Fact Book" doesn't push a particular diet, exercise or product. Pulling no punches, it freely admits that getting into shape isn't easy, but it emphasizes that it can be done and presents a sensible means of doing it.

Included in the book, which is available for only $1.95 plus 50 cents postage and handling, is: an 18-page calorie chart, ratings of 30 of the most popular sports and exercises, an easy-to-follow 1,000 calorie exchange diet, spot exercises for building up or reducing specific parts of the body and tests to assess current fitness.

Western art now comes into its own

By ROBERT McEWEN
Associated Press Writer

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Many Eastern critics rank paintings of cowboys and Indians only a notch above cartoons, which might annoy Western art collectors if their investments weren't doubling and tripling.

"For the last five years, the investment value of Western art is better than anything I know," says Christine Mollring, owner of the Trailside Galleries in Scottsdale and Jackson Hole, Wyo.

Mrs. Mollring says she recently sold an oil entitled "The Fur Seekers" by John Clymer for $80,000, "when a similar painting five years ago would have sold for maybe a maximum of $15,000."

Not every painting quadruples in value so quickly, but "some of our artists have had as much as 400 percent increases in three years," she adds. "People are absolutely buying them up. We've practically doubled our number of collectors in the past two years."

Another example she cited was the work of Harry Jackson, a whose bronze "Stampede" sold in 1971 for $41,000 and was resold in October for $135,000. Its companion piece, "Range Burial," went for $20,000 in 1969 and now is valued at $90,000.

Business Week reports that the worth of Western art in the 1970s appreciated 100 to 200 percent, more for "top names."

Investors turned out en masse for the month-long annual Cowboy Artists of America Sale & Exhibition last October. Sales totaled $853,300, about $244,000 more than in the previous year and 17 times higher than the $49,000 from the first exhibit in 1965.

"Once the whistle is blown, all sales are made in 15 minutes," says public relations director Diane Lane. "And for most buyers, there's not a minute's indecision about writing out the check. That's what they came here to do."

The Cowboy Artists are a 14-year-old, half-professional, half-social group of 26 men, many of them real and former cowboys, who paint and sculpt slices of "a rough and dirty life."

Seven Texans sue in Clement's behalf

AUSTIN (AP) — Seven prominent Texans filed suit Friday to uphold Gov. Bill Clements' veto of a $46 million state welfare office building.

The plaintiffs are represented by five lawyers, including four former attorneys general, in their suit backing Clements' view that he had a constitutional right to block the construction.

Clements tried to veto construction of the building — which would be financed with federal funds — but Attorney General Mark White held Aug. 31 the governor's veto was unconstitutional.

Funds for the building are contained in a special provision or "rider," separate from the line item appropriations a governor has a clear right to veto. White said the Texas Supreme Court had held years ago that a governor may not veto riders.

The governor called the proposed building a "welfare Taj Mahal."

It would house the Texas Department of Human Resources and the Texas Youth Council.

Challenging White's opinion are former San Antonio Mayor Walter McAllister; Dallas businessman Harmon Schepps; Llano rancher Jim Inks; Austin investor Julian Zimmerman; Austin homebuilder Nelson Puett; former University of Texas Chancellor Logan Wilson; and Jan Dymond of Austin, who founded an association that promotes recreational programs for retarded children.

All except Puett and Mrs.

Dymond are on the board of governors of Texas 13, Inc., a statewide citizens group seeking tax relief.

"Whether the building should be constructed or whether the project has merit is not the issue here," said former

Attorney General Waggoner Carr, founder of Texas 13. "Neither is the basic question whether millions should be spent to office the bureaucracy or rather on programs for the needy, aged, blind and disabled."

EVER STRIVING FOR TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by a government, with the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property and secure more freedom and keep it for themselves and others.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guide expressed in the Covington Commandment.

It's past time to rethink priorities

You are an average Texan, an average American, and perhaps you ask in your frustration why you are paying more to fill your gasoline tank and to heat or cool your home. And perhaps unthinking you answer your own question by declaring that the nation has a shortage of energy sources or that the "big oil companies" are gouging you.

But that is not the way it is. You are a victim of a double-barreled attack. The environmentalists and the regulators are the reason you are paying more and the reason why there is an energy "crisis" in America.

The sorry truth of the matter is, however, that the environmentalists and the regulators share their guilt with the weak lawmakers who through the years have given them a free hand.

Earlier this month when the state county judges and commissioners conference was held in College Station, two featured speakers told those attending that America can produce enough oil, gas, coal and other forms of energy for its people "if permitted to do so."

Texas Attorney General Mark White said that in order to produce the energy, "we will need to have environmental and regulatory groups get off our backs."

He added, "We know that the United States can develop new oil and gas resources, for new production has been brought in recently in Mississippi and Michigan. Most U.S. federal lands have been off limits for exploration and drilling, but this needs to change."

White continued, "With regard to coal, the costs of bringing it from Montana to Texas are presently so excessive that it would be more economical to buy it from another country, yet we want to cut our dependence on foreign markets."

Texas Railroad Commissioner Mack Wallace told the group that America must "re-think its priorities and adjust to the crisis situation at hand. Otherwise, we will be sending our children to fight for oil some 11,000 miles away."

Wallace said, "Let no one tell you that the U.S. does not have adequate fuel resources, because it does, but these resources need to be developed and put into production. The U.S. has more coal than Saudi Arabia has oil, and we have oil and gas reserves if we are permitted to develop these."

Wallace said that constant delays are costing everyone money... "Your gas prices are going up daily as a result of continual delays caused by environmental and other regulations and restrictions. You must make a choice between having clean air or drafting our young people, who may be called upon to fight for a foreign oil supply." He emphasized that the energy problem has become a problem of national survival.

He made another statement about a situation which many may not have realized existed: a large number of those responsible for our problem still are in authority. Many present regulations which are "totally unworkable," he said, were put together years ago by a "number of pinheads in Washington" who were more concerned with restricting exploration and production than advancing progress. "Yet," he added, "these same people are still there, heading up important committees and impeding progress."

Despite regulations and despite the environmentalists, Texas is doing its share, and more, apparently, to ease the national energy crunch. Thirty-five percent of the U.S. crude oil, and 33 percent of the natural gas is produced in Texas.

If one pays attention to the petroleum news, one is aware that there is much Texas activity, inland and offshore, by the major oil companies and large and small independents, searching for oil and gas. This is free enterprise, investing its own money, taking a chance.

"It is high time," Wallace said, "that other states became less concerned with hoarding their energy supplies and adjust their environmental concerns to provide their fair share of energy resources."

So now you know who is responsible for the energy "crisis" in America. The regulators and the environmentalists are the dogs in the manger and the longer we take to throw them out the weaker our republic becomes.

Blaming the public

By Senator H.L. Richardson
California State Senate-25th District
(H.L. "Bill" Richardson is a member on three important Committees of the California State Senate. He is well known as a writer and speaker on education, economy in government and private ownership of property. His District Office is in Arcadia.)

America has known crude oil reserves in excess of 1,600 billion barrels. That's enough crude oil under the ground to last better than 150 years.

We have enough natural gas to last us over 2,000 years into the future.

We are up to our eyeballs in bureaucrats and regulations that inhibit, prohibit, or discourage the development of these petroleum resources by those in the oil business.

We also have a passel of legislators and governors who are delighting in our present quandary. Why? Because it gives them an excuse to promote more government control over transportation and our energy sources.

Fueled by the biggest jump in gasoline prices since the 1974 oil embargo, consumer prices are soaring.

The government said recently that it is largely up to the purchasing public to stop the spiral.

The Consumer Price Index currently stands at 211.5, meaning that it takes $211.50 to purchase goods and services that went for $100.00 in base-year 1967.

The Labor Department also reported that the buying power of an average blue-collar, non-farm, production or non-supervisory worker with three dependants has dropped 45 percent over the past 13 months.

Alfred Kahn, the Administration's chief inflation fighter, gave this advice to consumers:

"Buy pork, not beef." Beef and veal prices promptly took a 4.1 percent leap, but pork went down 1.7 percent.

"Use less gasoline." Gasoline prices rose 6 percent, the largest monthly increase since the Arabs cut off the oil five years ago.

"Don't speculate in new houses." Housing prices rose 1.3 percent, and mortgage rates increased 1.9 percent.

Government tries to blame the public when in fact the responsibility for our current economic state lies entirely with government, which controls the monetary supply, Federal spending, and energy policy.

By Robert LeFevre

If I were sitting in the Kremlin, filled with political ambition and eager to accomplish a great deal in the remaining years of my life, and if I had ultimate decision-making power, with which to fulfill my ambitions, the following analysis would be mine.

There are only two possible national powers standing between me and the domination of the world from the Kremlin. They are: China and the USA.

First, China: Although nearer to the Russian land mass, China is the lesser concern. Internal problems in China will tie it down effectively for years. Further, its leaders are flirting with democratic ideas which will surely weaken them.

They are permitting standards of living of the ordinary person to rise, thus impeding the emergence of a strong centrally controlled power base. China has two assets: population and perception. However, its economic problems are nearly overwhelming. China is buying time. Given time and help from the USA, China's population could be a real threat. At the moment it is more of a future problem. Therefore, all the conditions of China indicate the USA is the immediate threat and the first target.

The USA: The leadership in the USA is confused. This is an inherent weakness in any nation having freedom of speech and of the press. Observe how the British have been in decline for years partly as a result of failure to dominate the population. Note: There are traces of this same erosive tendency in the Russian culture and efforts should be made to deal with it effectively.

The American productive capacity is unbelievable. If I refuse to believe the propaganda we put out for foreign consumption and even for domestic domination and pay attention to the facts, we are a long way behind the USA. In this department lies the greatest threat to Russia.

However, at this juncture, the Americans are desperate for more oil. Thanks to the vacillating tendencies of any democracy, the Americans have lost face around the world as they have sought to deal with this problem. Instead of siding with the Arabs, who have been happy to relieve their problems, they have sided with the Israelis, who have oil.

This is typical of American leadership. It repeatedly blunders in terms of global politics. It is famous for backing losers. Even the armed might and the productivity of America could not win in Korea. And the confusion and the vacillation in Vietnam drove all the fight out of the average American citizen. While it is a great deal to hope for, and I cannot afford to be over-confident, in the Near East the Americans appear ready to repeat their follies of Vietnam.

Example: The confusion exhibited over the Iranian situation. From a practical point of view, the shah should have been backed and protected. Instead, the USA let him go and are now tied up by their own press in not knowing how to free a handful of their own people.

Time is pressing. I am growing no younger. Every year China will be more stronger and more of a threat. The Americans are not unified, they are confused and really don't know what they want.

The time has come to expand the Russian borders to the south and the west so that a permanent warm-water shoreline will be ours. Only then will we be in a geopolitical situation with which to deal with the enormous productive power of the USA.

Strategy: I will move a task force into Afghanistan. I will make it appear that we are engaged there in a major war. The Afghans are peaceful. A few tribes may give us a bit of a fight, but we will carefully remain in the hills and remote areas and fight no more than necessary. But we will give out contrary reports. America will be in confusion and so will China. Every few days we will enlarge our commitment in Afghanistan. That will appear to confirm the size of the conflict there. We will be building up our forces so that we can, in turn, attack Pakistan and Iran.

At this moment, the American leadership should welcome us. They have been fared badly in both countries, but with typical American confusion they will offer to become allies for both Pakistan and Iran. The leaders there do not want them and do not trust them.

Note: this is the weakness in my plan. If the Americans simply laughed and ignored our presence in Afghanistan, their Iranian and Pakistani problems would be resolved in a few weeks. Further, many Third World countries presently tied to us would break away and a major alliance against us could occur.

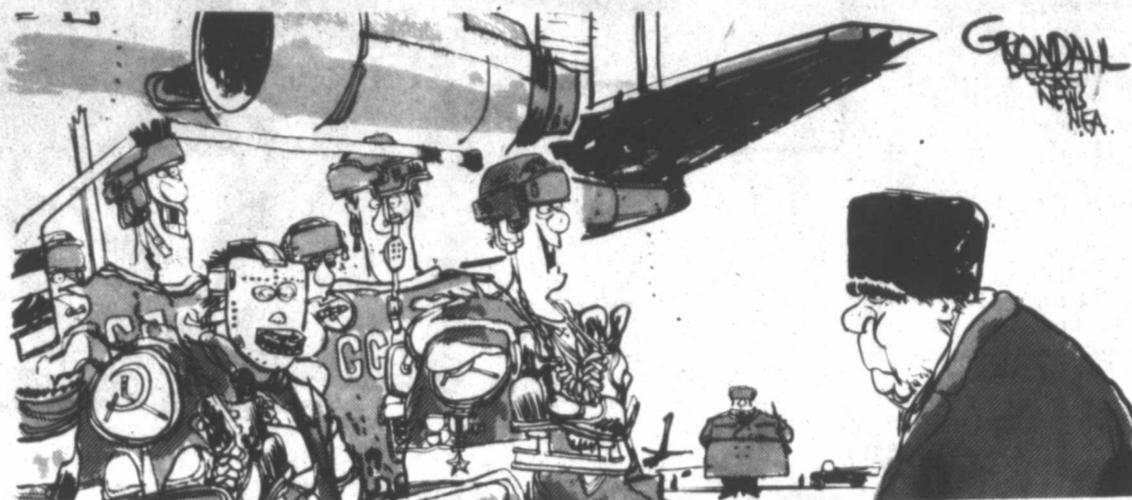

I am wagering that the Americans will again pick losers and side with those who will surely be defeated. Their commitment to the idea that by passing laws all problems can be solved is insane. Further, their tendencies to look to the government to resolve all difficulties have virtually destroyed them already.

Instead of thanking us for solving their problems with Iran and Pakistan, they will try to become unwelcome allies there. But they cannot be effective unless they employ atomic power. They will not employ atomic power for they fear our retaliatory ability at that level. Ergo, they do not have an atomic capability.

Conclusion: We will not have to fight the USA. We can mass our troops in Afghanistan and then in a lightning thrust take Iran and Pakistan in turn. The USA will try to provide arms so that Chinese personnel will do the fighting. But the Americans are still afraid of the Chinese, as they are fearful of nearly everyone on earth.

We should be able with a minimum of cost to secure the shoreline we have so long needed.

That's the way I'd be thinking if I were in the Kremlin. I hope I'm wrong.

A 'G' rated movie

by ART BUCHWALD

LOS ANGELES--Things keep changing in the movie business all the time. A friend of mine has been working on a movie script about a funny cat who does TV commercials. He has very good connections in the film industry and, therefore, thought he would have no trouble selling it to one of the studios.

But Leo hadn't reckoned with the MPPA ratings system, which is supposed to be a guide for audiences as to the content of the pictures.

The first knowledge he had that he was in serious trouble was when his agent called and said, "What's gotten into you? You just sent me a movie script which is for kids."

"It's not only for kids," Leo said defensively. "It's for the whole family."

"But all you can get with it is a 'G' rating!" the agent said. "It's all over town that you wrote a script for a 'G' movie, and I don't think it's doing your reputation any good. Your name came up for a job at one of the major studios the other day involving a picture that included incest, three ax murders and the seduction of a 14-year-old boy by a 40-year-old woman. Everyone knew about your cat picture, and they said that you had lost your touch to write a REAL movie."

"I believe in the cat picture. Maybe I can sell it to an independent producer who will take a chance. You never know when a family picture could take off."

"I'm talking to you as a friend," the writer said. "This town is dead set against 'G' films. Your best bet is to take your name off the script before everyone in the business has you marked down as a weirdo."

Leo did get one bite on his project. A producer called him in and said, "I don't like the story now, but maybe you could fix it up."

"How's that?"

"Well, let's suppose the cat is owned by this luscious, divorced chick played by Bo Derek, and one night she gets raped in her apartment while the cat is watching. Bo's a mental wreck and seeks help from a doctor like Dustin Hoffman. She goes for him and you have this great nude scene between them, which we watch through the eyes of the cat."

"Then they try to find the rapist. The cat recognizes him, on the street and chases him across town with Bo and Dustin in hot pursuit. They finally catch him and beat him up. It turns out the rapist is Bo's ex-husband. What do you think of that?"

"You want to make a picture like that for movie theaters?" my friend asked.

"What do you mean theaters?" the producer said. "I want to make it for television."

Becoming poor millionaires

By Dwight R. Lee

Dr. Lee is Professor of Economics at Virginia Polytechnic and State University. We are on our way to becoming a land of millionaires. If you do not achieve this once exalted status, almost surely your children or grand children will.

If, for example, you currently earn $20,000 a year and inflation continues at 14 percent per year (as this is being written the inflation rate is exceeding 14 percent in many parts of the country), you will be earning $1,280,000 a year in 30 years, if you keep up with inflation. If your net worth is $75,000 and it keeps up with inflation you will have a net worth of $1,200,000 in just 20 years. Unfortunately, in 25 years a $1 burger will cost $32, a $10 shirt will cost $320, a $25 pair of shoes will set you back $800, a $5,000 car will require $160,000 and a $75,000 house will be selling for $2,400,000.

So there will be little advantage in being a millionaire. But if your income keeps up with rising prices, something that seems to be increasingly harder to do, should not you at least be staying even? The answer is no. Inflation is going to do more than just make you a millionaire, it is going to make you a poor millionaire.

Under the existing tax system as your inflationary income increases you will be forced into higher income tax brackets. Your income may keep up with inflation but you will be able to buy less than before because a larger share of your income will be going to the government.

For instance, in 1977 the typical family of four made $15,000 and paid 9 percent of this income to the federal government in income tax. If the inflation rate averages just 7 percent a year, and this family's income increases at the same rate, by 1987 the federal income tax will claim 18 percent of their income. Even though their before tax income will have stayed even with inflation, in terms of what this family can buy with its after tax income they will be approximately 9 percent worse off. And this does not consider the inflationary impact of state, local and social security taxes on their spendable income.

This is not all. Because of inflation you are also losing on your savings account. By federal law banks and savings and loan associations are not permitted to pay much over 5 percent on pass book accounts. So if you have $1000 in a savings account earning 5 1/2 percent, after one year your savings, including interest, will be worth less than the $1000 is now. In one year you will have $1057.50 in your savings account, ignoring daily compounding of interest but if inflation is 10 percent it will take $1100 in a year to buy what $1000 will buy today. To the injury of inflation government adds insult by taxing you on your loss. Even though the $57.50 in interest on your $1000 savings did not keep up with inflation the government treats it as income and levies a tax on it. So that, if you have a taxable income of $26,000 and the inflation rate is 9 percent, you will have to earn approximately 17 percent on your savings just to break even. It is not surprising that saving money has ceased to be an attractive option for most of us.

Right now we are saving less than 5 percent of our disposable income, one of the lowest savings rates in our nation's history and by far the lowest savings rate among the major industrial nations of the world. In Japan, for example, almost 25 percent of disposable income is saved and this savings rate is over 15 percent in West Germany. The result is that Japan and West Germany, as well as many other countries, have been increasing their productivity much more rapidly than has the U.S., where productivity has increased hardly at all in the last few years; for lower savings means lower investment; lower investment in capital and equipment means lower productivity; and lower productivity means less wealth.

Why has so little been done to control inflation? It is not because no one knows how to control it. Economists have known for centuries that inflation is caused by increasing the money supply more rapidly than the increase in productivity. Only by controlling the money supply can inflation be controlled. And since the money supply is controlled by the federal government inflation can be controlled by our representatives in Washington if they chose to do so.

Unfortunately, it is very popular to vote for expanded government programs on the one hand, while voting for tax reductions on the other. This necessarily results in the budget deficits that have become the trade-mark of the federal government.

The federal government has run a deficit in 18 of the last 19 years, managing to spend 300 billion dollars more than it has raised in taxes. The enormous size of the recent deficits has made it impossible to cover them entirely through borrowing. The alternative has been for the Federal Reserve System to cover the remaining debt by creating new money. In recent years approximately 40 percent of the federal deficits have been covered through the creation of money. The result has been a rapid growth in the money supply and the longest inflation in our nation's history.

But hope for containing inflation is not completely unfounded. People are becoming increasingly knowledgeable as to the source of inflation and painfully aware of its costs. Politicians are finally beginning to get the message that their constituents are serious about reducing governmental extravagance, and are responding, if somewhat reluctantly.

There is increasing enthusiasm for changes, such as the balanced budget amendment and across the board expenditure restrictions, which will make it more difficult for the federal budget to increase relative to the size of the rest of the economy. Whatever the merit of these specific proposals, until some discipline is imposed on the political process, swollen budgets and increasing inflation will continue to be the news out of Washington, but if we let our political representatives know that we have had it with inflation and the undisciplined government spending behind it, then just maybe we can prevent our children from becoming millionaires.

Deaf will benefit in television plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — After months of preparation, the NBC, ABC and public television networks Sunday night will inaugurate a new service designed to open prime-time TV to Americans with impaired hearing.

The new "closed captioning" service is being launched before the first batch of special TV set decoders have even been delivered to the public. But enthusiasm for the project's start-up has built to the point that first lady Rosalynn Carter has scheduled a reception Wednesday for the officials most involved in making it happen.

"We're all very excited because we're on schedule and we know there is a substantial segment of the American public that's going to benefit," said Jane Miller, spokeswoman for the National Captioning Institute.

The new service involves the transmission of regular prime-time programs with written captions, similar to, but more complete than subtitles in foreign films.

The system is considered "closed" because the captions will not be visible without a special decoder, which the Sears, Roebuck & Co. is marketing at a price of $249.95. The decoders were prominently featured in Sears' spring catalog with a notation that orders would not be filled until March 15.

Federal officials estimate that 14 million Americans have impaired hearing and that 2 million of them are totally deaf.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare announced final plans for the new system in March, 1979.

Alien arrests makes census taking hard

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The regional manager for the U.S. Census says an apartment search by immigration agents that resulted in the arrests of 30 suspected illegal aliens has hurt efforts by census workers to gain an accurate count of Hispanics.

Cathy Bonner, manager for a 12-county district, called the Thursday raid "unfortunate" and said she has complained to the immigration office in San Antonio, which directed the raid.

Ms. Bonner said her workers had been assuring persons in neighborhoods where large numbers of Mexican immigrants are known to live that the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service would not be making any residential searches.

She said she had told them the procedure had been discontinued after a controversy arose last year following massive neighborhood "sweeps" of Hispanic neighborhoods in Los Angeles.

Ed Molino, assistant director of the INS in San Antonio, told the Austin American-Statesman the raid was not a "sweep" operation because undercover agents had determined a smuggling ring was operating out of the apartments where the suspected illegal aliens were arrested.

Christian enrolls in Dallas school

DALLAS (AP) — The son of former White House press secretary George Christian has been released from a Dallas psychiatric facility, is living with a foster family and has enrolled at fashionable Highland Park High School.

John Daniel Christian, 15, was pronounced dangerous to himself and others and ordered confined in Timberlawn Psychiatric Hospital after he walked into his Austin junior high school class on May 18, 1978, and shot his teacher with a rifle.

The teacher, Wilbur Rodney Grayson, died.

Christian spent more than a year at Timberlawn, but an Austin judge last month approved a plan for Christian to live with a foster family and begin high school. The judge said the boy was ready to start outpatient sessions.

Gulf proposal sent to OCAW

HOUSTON (AP) — A contract offer from Gulf Oil Corp. to refinery workers that could set the stage for final industry-wide settlement has been sent to Denver for approval by the national oil bargaining policy committee of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union.

An OCAW spokesman in Houston called Gulf's Friday night offer "a cheap one for the industry" but one that, if confirmed, "would be a fair basis for a 2-year agreement."

Following action on the proposal by the OCAW national bargaining committee, it will be returned for a ratification vote by Gulf's Port Arthur refinery workers.

The offer is the fifth made by Gulf since talks began last November with the 2,600-member Port Arthur local, OCAW's largest local union in the nation.

A Gulf spokesman, W. Kirk Vogeley, said indications are the pact will get the union's approval. The new offer was discussed at meetings this week with OCAW president Robert Goss, Vogeley said. Goss, who had met with Gulf officials at least twice in January, flew back to Denver Thursday night.

My Prerogative

By DEBBIE DUKE
Pampa News Intern

Last week I received a news release from the American Academy of Pediatrics, stating the facts about today's children, adolescents and young adults. Frankly, the statistics startled me.

According to the Academy, one out of every four children is not reaching his or her full physical, emotional or social health potential. This now is becoming a national concern.

In an effort to alert Americans to the major problems still facing today's youth, the Academy has adopted 10 National Child Goals and published them in a booklet. These goals - ranging from accident prevention to increasing health education in schools - are designed as national guidelines for the improvement of the health and welfare of children.

I'm not exactly sure how true the statistics are on this one but the Academy estimates that the average American family spends three times as much on liquor and one and one-half times as much on cosmetics as it does on the health of its children. Surprising? It was to me. The Academy also notes that in the last 15 years the portion of federal health dollar allocated to children has dropped dramatically from 50 cents to less than a dime.

The American Academy of Pediatrics' 10 National Child Health Goals are as follows:

- All children should be wanted and born to healthy mothers.
- All children should be born well.
- All children should be immunized against the preventable infectious diseases for which there are recommended immunization procedures.
- All children should have good nutrition.
- All children should be educated about health and the health care system.
- All children should live in a safe environment.
- All children with chronic handicaps should be able to function at their optimal level.
- All children should live in a family setting with an adequate income to provide basic needs to insure physical, mental and intellectual health.
- All children should live in an environment that is free from contaminants.
- All adolescents and young people should live in a societal setting that recognizes their special health, personal and social needs.

MOORE COUNTY HORSE JUDGING

The Moore County 4-H Adult Leaders Association is sponsoring a Horse Judging Field Day, Saturday, March 22, at 9:30 a.m. in Dumas. The field day will be conducted in the Moore County Community building at 16th and Maddox in the southeast part of Dumas, just east of the football stadium. Juniors, seniors and adults may enter and also junior and senior teams. Trophies and ribbons will be presented to the high placing junior and senior teams. A trophy will be given to the high individual in the junior, senior and adult divisions, in addition to ribbons for first through fifth places. The high point team, junior or senior, will receive the traveling trophy which will be engraved for the winning county.

An entry fee of $2 per individual in all divisions will be charged. This will be used to pay for trophies and ribbons. There is no limit on the number of teams or individuals a county may enter.

A horse clinic will be held March 29 at the R.J. Cluck Ranch, 12 miles south of Texhoma, Okla. A $20 registration fee will be charged. Participants should carry a sack lunch. Soft drinks will be available on the grounds.

Registration will begin at 8 a.m. and demonstrations are scheduled to begin at 9 a.m. Instruction on participant's horses will begin at 1 p.m.

For more information on these horse project events, call the County Extension Office at 669-7429.

The Pampa 4-H horse project group will meet Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the Courthouse Annex Meeting Room.

PUBLIC SPEAKING PROJECT

A public speaking project will begin Wednesday, March 19 from 4-5 p.m. in the Middle School. The project will be headed by Doreen Miley, a member of Toastmasters. For more information call the Extension Office.

Computer kids come to front

By JOE STROOP
Associated Press Writer

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — By the end of the decade, there will be a new definition of literacy in the United States that will include reading, writing and familiarity with computers - or so say the men who sell them.

"A child today who grows up without some knowledge of computers will be considered partially illiterate when he's an adult," said Ed Juge, merchandising director for Fort Worth-based Radio Shack, the world's biggest marketer of personal computers.

"Having kids educated to deal with microprocessors (small computers) is going to be important to getting a job," said Arlington computer programmer and salesman Phil Dorcas.

"My 9-year-old son gets up in the morning and while he's waiting to go to school, he doesn't turn on the TV and watch cartoons, he goes in and plays with our computer," said Dorcas' partner Ed Hammontree.

"In older people there's still a fear of the computer, somebody whose bill got fouled up and he owed some company $1 million," said Byron Kirkwood, a Dallas microcomputer retailer.

"The computer video games let young people put their hands on a computer and get past the fear of touching the keyboard," he continued. "They forget it's a computer, get comfortable with it and start programming and doing math."

"We had a 3-year-old kid in here the other day, with his daddy," Hammontree said excitedly, "and he was running the computer, going through the learning program. Three years old!"

"I went to some schools a couple of weeks ago to demonstrate the (computer) system, and spent the entire day there," he added. "I loved it and the kids loved it. I could still be there."

Two years ago, Kirkwood told a reporter for a national magazine that by the early 1980s, "every home will have a computer. It will be as common as a toilet." Computer salesmen enthusiastically predicted most U.S. homes would have a central computer to run everything from the household budget to climate control.

Today the enthusiasm remains, but is slightly modified.

"I think home computers eventually will be as popular as microwave ovens," said Juge, "but we have to show them something neat enough to justify the expenditure."

"It won't be to control home heating and air conditioning," he said. "Or balancing your checkbook. That's ridiculous. You can do that faster and easier with a $9 calculator."

"Lots of people over-emphasized the growth of the home computer industry," Dorcas concurs. "People aren't gonna buy a home computer to run their budgets or figure out their diets - there's got to be a bigger need."

That need, said Dorcas, Hammontree, Juge and Kirkwood, will be to deal with information and, they repeat, will start with educating children.

"That's what I perceive as a big field," said Juge. "They (children working with computer) are learning a logical approach to problem-solving."

"Kids are learning how to use computers in school," said Dorcas, "and some of them even are getting classes in how to write programs."

"After a kid has been working with computers for five or six years in school, he's going to start bugging his mom and dad

Bureau of Standards provides uniformity

EDITOR'S NOTE — In the sprawling expanse that is the National Bureau of Standards, in these cavernous measureless to man, reside the men who make the measures and set the standards. Sid Moody meandered through the mazes for this report on NBS.

By SID MOODY
AP Newsfeatures Writer
— "A false balance is abomination to the Lord: but a just weight is his delight." — Proverbs 11:1.

GAITHERSBURG, Md. (AP) — One day in 1904, Baltimore was burning, burning so badly fire equipment was rushed by rail from New York.

Alas, the out-of-towners' hoses didn't fit the local hydrants. At the time, Brooklyn had four official measurements of the foot, including a homegrown measure known as the 28th Ward Foot.

Couldn't happen today? Not so long ago, Swedish syringes and American needles were flown to Egypt to combat a cholera epidemic. They didn't fit each other, and thousands died in the meantime.

It's all a matter of standards, agreed-on uniform measurements that we take for granted. We may march to different drummers, but presume we may record them at 33 rpm. We presume the reverse gear shift will be to the left, so we don't ram forwards through the garage at night in an unfamiliar car. Green lights should mean "go" everywhere. (In the 1920s red meant "go" in some states and green "stop".) Typewriter keyboards should be uniform so touch typists spell "cat" instead of "c&H%."

Someone has to keep us from putting square pegs in round holes. Someone does — mainly the National Bureau of Standards here, a sprawling campus of 3,100 scientists and engineers, with a fervor for measuring everything from smoke in the kitchen to ozone in space.

At any one time there are over 1,000 projects going on here and at the bureau's lab in Boulder, Colo.

Some projects are at the frontier of science. Two scientists spend seven years measuring the proton in an electromagnetic field to test physical theory. Football helmets crash, synchrotrons whirr, lasers measure everything from the vulnerability of a running guard's head to the speed of light.

Computers, the hazards of smoking in bed, barnacles on ship bottoms, metal fatigue in airplane parts, asbestos in the air, toy arrows in the eye (NBS has to decide how to tell how sharp is sharp) all fall under the purview of the bureau.

The NBS is not a regulatory body. It merely devises test procedures and evaluates them. But with its vast resources, a reputation for thoroughness and objectivity, the bureau is often the final word in standardization.

Standards go way back. In Genesis, Noah's ark was to be built "300 cubits" in length. Everyone, of course, had to know what a cubit was. In old England, Henry I decreed that henceforth his forearm would measure an "ell." (And it still does in some cloth measurements.)

But by the Industrial Revolution, men needed more precise measures than a long-dead monarch's limb.

Eli Whitney, inventor of the assembly line, found he could mass produce rifles from mass produced parts. Railroad moguls fought each other like dinosaurs, but agreed, sometimes reluctantly, on the wisdom of laying their tracks to the same gauge.

As processes, products and people become more interdependent, standards and measurements must become more accurate and pervasive. You can harvest wheat by the bushel, but you can't build a computer by ells and 26th Ward Feet.

In the U.S., standardization has come from government and regulation and from private industry and voluntary moves. There are over 400 standards writing groups in industry. There is the Tire and Rim Association that makes sure a Goodrich tire will fit an Impala wheel. There's the Brick Institute of America, the Cooling Tower Institute, the Milk Bottle Crate Manufacturers' Association, the Pulverized Limestone Association and the Whey Products Institute to oversee the lumpiness in your cottage cheese.

But who standardizes the standardizers? Who sees to it that a New Yorker's blood test will get the same scrutiny when he moves to California?

The NBS, where a meter is a meter is a meter. The bureau was created by Congress in 1901 at a time when electrical metering equipment made in America, home of Thomas Edison, had to be sent to Germany for calibration.

It will establish guidelines and methods of testing for clean air or dart-throwing toy monsters, and let other agencies like the Environmental Protection Agency or the Consumer Product Safety Commission set the rules.

Would things go better if NBS spoke for all standards?

"We'll measure radiation in space and pronounce in a loud voice this is the reading to this degree of accuracy," says Dr. John Lyons, director of NBS' Engineering Laboratory. "But if you ask me if radiation causes cancer in Rutherford, N.J., I wouldn't have the least idea."

"Standards are for people who are going to use them," adds Dr. Larry Eicher, NBS' liaison to the voluntary groups. "If they're written from a government ivory tower and not by someone with a vested interest, they may be ignored or not relevant."

NBS gives advice to some 100 government agencies that may draw up laws or regulations. It oversees, by act of Congress, the purchase of computers by the government, the industry's biggest customer. It has reduced the number of computer languages from hundreds to a half-dozen.

Some 400 NBS scientists and engineers sit on 1,500 private standards organizations to let the bureau's viewpoints be known.

"I don't think we've lost our capability to be productive because there are so many standards voices," says Dr. Ernest Ambler, NBS director. "But there could be more cooperation between government and industry. We have the best communications in the world."

NBS prides itself on being a place where research is unfettered, where the profit motive is not looking over your shoulder, where there is continuity. Economies brought some grumbling, but Ambler thinks increased budgetary support ($168 million this year, $61 million of it for work for other government agencies) has turned this around.

Dr. Eugene Domalski's door, for instance, says he is group leader of combustion calorimetry studies. Translated, it means he's trying to measure how to measure the energy potential of America's garbage.

There's enough aluminum in it, he says, to rebuild all our planes 71 times over and enough bottles to give everyone in the world 1,500 wine glasses.

Domalski says garbage or RDF — Refuse Derived Fuel — could supply 2 to 3 percent of the nation's energy needs, but utilities don't know how to assess what's usable and are wary of what it might do to their boilers. Domalski is trying to establish the heat potentials for a variety of refuse. His group has designed, built and tested a much bigger burn measurement device than available before.

Across the campus, Walter Leight, chief of the Product Safety Engineering Division, has a chainsaw wired up like the terminally ill survivor of a train wreck. Next door, football helmets have been falling for five years to determine parameters for fatigue and how they can be tested for.

Perhaps the best place to see how NBS works is in a lab in a building with the bureau's reactor. The object is to determine if samples of human tissue, air and marine environments can be stored for comparisons of pollution or whatever by scientists a century hence. West Germany is also involved in the project. The initial work involves human tissue.

Which tissue? Scientists picked the liver because it handles so much bodily waste and will represent most accurately what has been going through the human system. Livers from where? Baltimore, Minneapolis and Seattle are were selected. How to get a standard liver? To reduce variation as much as possible, NBS will provide hospital dissectors with its own rubber gloves so it can have control of contaminants. It will provide the water to wash the tissue in.

(AP Illustration)

It is establishing strict protocols for shipping the tissue here. Once here, tissue will be cut with titanium knives. They have the fewest trace elements to contaminate the samples. They will be stored in Teflon containers, since tests show Teflon is a neutral substance. Then the sampled will be kept by various means of refrigeration at various temperatures for five years when they will be examined to see if they have degraded. If they haven't, NBS scientists will resume collecting tissues.

Who needs all this bizarre work? "You can struggle through without measurements, I suppose," said Dr. Murray Bullis whose task is to keep semiconductor standards abreast of computer technology. "But you can struggle a lot faster if you have them."

Which one is the waterbed?

Both of them!

You're looking at Morning Surf, a totally new concept in waterbeds.

Morning Surf's unique Aqua Gard flotation system uses a slim water mattress that weighs only 1/3 as much as an old-fashioned waterbed. Because it uses less water, Morning Surf is easy to set up and move, can be used in a trailer or motorhome, and limits exaggerated wave motions.

Since it is padded and insulated, it needs no heater and is very comfortable to sit on. And you can forget about size problems! Morning Surf fits a standard headboard and uses regular bedding.

Morning Surf. All the comforts of a waterbed... and none of the hassles.

The Aqua Gard flotation system uses a specially constructed water mattress only five inches deep, resting on a solid posture base foundation. A padded mattress fits on top, providing firm, cushioned sides and insulation for the water mattress.

- Looks like a regular bed
- Weighs only 1/3 as much as ordinary waterbeds
- No exaggerated wave motions
- Uses standard bedding, headboard & bed frame
- Firm support for sitting
- No heater required

API meet slated

L. E. Rapier, district marketing manager of Phillips Petroleum Company, will be the guest speaker at the monthly meeting of the Panhandle Chapter of the American Petroleum Institute (API). The meeting will be held at 6:30 p.m. Thursday, March 20 at Paradise Too (formerly Jim's Steak House), 318 E. Brown Street. Rapier will speak on "Energy in the Decade of the '80's." Lou Rapier is a native Kentuckian, served in the Navy during World War II and attended the College of Wooster in Wooster, Ohio, and the University of Georgia. He has been associated with the Phillips Marketing Division for over 30 years holding assignments in Oklahoma, Kansas, Tennessee, Colorado, Texas and the state of Washington. He has been on his present assignment as Marketing Manager of the West Texas Area for the past 10 years with headquarters in Amarillo. Persons selling 1980 memberships are reminded to complete their assignment and turn the books in to Martin Ludeman, Box 1900, Pampa, Texas 79065, as soon as possible so a current membership list will be available for the Scholarship Golf Tournament scheduled at the Huber Course during May.

Oil slick has not appeared

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) - Coast Guard flights have not found any patches of oil near South Texas following earlier reports this week of slicks as close as 10 miles to shore, Capt. Gerald Hinson said Friday. "I really don't expect we're going to have any impact of oil," Hinson said. A reconnaissance plane checked an area Thursday when oceanographers expected to find oil from a runaway Mexican well. The location, 180 miles southeast of South Padre Island, was clean, Hinson said. "I just don't know how to explain it. Either we're not where the oil is or we just can't see it," he said. A 12-mile-long slick had been seen 50 miles south of American waters and a smaller patch was located 10 miles offshore. Neither has been seen in the last three days. Oil containment equipment remained stretched across the southern entrance to the Laguna Madre at Port Isabel as a precaution. The smaller patch of oil could have been an algae bloom, which sometimes resembles heavily oiled debris, he said.

Poetzsch wins world title

DORTMUND, West Germany (AP) — Anett Poetzsch of East Germany added the women's figure skating world title to her Olympic gold medal Saturday despite a mediocre final free skating program.

West Germany's Dagmar Lurz edged out defending champion Linda Fratianne for the silver medal.

Without attempting even one triple jump on her four-minute routine, Poetzsch still managed to hold onto first place by virtue of a big margin she had achieved in the opening compulsory section. She finished with 12 ordinals and 188.38 points.

Skating before a hometown audience, the 22-year-old Lurz held on to second place in an unusual decision based on a majority of places. She had 23 ordinals and 186.22 points, while Fratianne had 22 ordinals and 187.04 points.

The American woman emerged again as the best free skater of the night scoring two marks of 5.9 for artistic presentation and four 5.8s in the category. She had six marks of 5.8 for technical merit after landing three separate triple jumps and a string of doubles while performing to music to Bizet's Carmen.

Poetzsch lost her balance and almost fell on a double jump late in her program and only managed to catch her balance with a straight arm toward the ice. Yet the conservative program to the music of Funny Girl was enough to win the title, even though she got only two marks of 5.8 and a majority of 5.7s.

Umpires needed

Persons who would like to join a softball umpires' association in Pampa are asked to contact Jay Trooper at 665-3733.

Membership fees are ten dollars per person, which goes to pay for rule books, umpire manuals and insurance coverage while officiating games. Fees will also pay for an umpires' clinic.

"We'll try to get someone from Amarillo to give a clinic for prospective umpires," Trooper said.

Trooper, who is serving as a public relations director for the Pampa Softball Association, said umpires are needed for Association games this summer. He said the Association will have church and industrial leagues for both men and women.

Duke tumbles

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Drake Morris hit eight free throws down the stretch as Purdue defeated Duke 68-60 Saturday to claim the championship of the NCAA Midwest Regional basketball tournament.

The victory was Purdue's 22nd against nine defeats and earned the Boilermakers a date next Saturday with UCLA in the NCAA semifinals at Indianapolis. UCLA won the West Regional title with a 85-74 victory over Clemson.

Purdue took its first lead in the second half, but the Boilermakers were unable to build a significant margin until Morris began earning trips to the foul line.

A pair of Morris free throws with 9:38 to play gave Purdue a 47-43 lead.

Morris hit six more free throws inside the last five minutes as the Boilermakers expanded a shaky three-point margin to 58-50 with 3:09 left.

Duke, which finished 24-9, made its final challenge behind baskets by Bob Bender and Gene Banks. But Purdue put the game away at 1:53 on a three-point play by Joe Barry Carroll to build the margin to 61-54.

Carroll, Purdue's 7-foot-1 All-America center, led both teams in scoring with 26 points. Keith Edmonson had 12 and Morris added 10.

Mike Gminski, Duke's 6-11 center, led the Blue Devils with 17 points, but managed only two baskets in the second half.

Lefors invitational track results

LEFORS-McLean boys and Groom girls were the winners of the annual Lefors Top O' Texas Invitational track meet Saturday.

McLean collected 129 1/4 points in the boys division, followed by Groom, 116 1/4; Lefors, 87; Texline, 70 1/4; Esteline, 33; Higgins, 6; Briscoe, 2; Darrouzett, 1, and McLean JV, 0.

Groom outpointed McLean, 160-141, in the girls division. Next in line were Texline, 79; Lefors, 53; Higgins, 50; Darrouzett, 10; Mobeetie, 3, and Briscoe, 0.

Lefors coaches Don Parsons and Charlie Sullivan expressed their appreciation for the community's help in making the meet a success.

"We had a bunch of people that came out and helped with the meet," Parsons said. "We couldn't have done it without them."

Listed below are final placings in both boys and girls divisions:

Rangers lose, 4-2

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Willie Mays Aikens slammed a home run, a double, scored twice and drove in three runs Saturday to pace the Kansas City Royals to a 4-2 exhibition baseball win over the winless Texas Rangers.

Aikens, acquired by the Royals to add punch to their lineup, doubled off the wall in the first inning to score Willie Wilson from third and Manny Castillo from first. Aikens eventually went to third and scored when German Barranca grounded into a force play.

In the third inning, Aikens homered off righthander Adrian Devine, who was charged with all four Kansas City runs.

The Rangers, 0-6 for the spring, could manage only two runs despite collecting 14 hits, including four by Al Oliver to raise his spring batting average to .579.

Kansas City is 3-3 in exhibition play.

Pastorini, Stabler switch teams

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — The Oakland Raiders officially announced Saturday what quarterback Kenny Stabler had said Friday night — that he has been traded to the Houston Oilers for quarterback Dan Pastorini.

In announcing the straight player trade, Raider executive assistant Al LoCasale said the Raiders "may be looking at a more long-run picture than would be practical with Kenny." Pastorini is 30 years old, Stabler 34.

"They are both outstanding players who have proved themselves in big games and in the post-season," said LoCasale, second in charge to Raider managing general partner Al Davis.

"We're hoping the trade will work out for both teams, and for both players," he added. "They deserve it." LoCasale was in Southern California for the National Football League meetings which ended Friday in Rancho Mirage.

Stabler, a 10-year veteran with the Raiders, told Mobile, Ala., station WKRQ-TV that the deal was finalized Friday night. There had been speculation about a possible trade.

"I've known about the deal for some time and didn't know when it would take place," he said.

"I felt it was in my best interests to play somewhere else and it was also in the Raiders' best interests," said Stabler. "Going to Houston is a great chance to play on a talented team with a chance to return to the Super Bowl."

Pastorini, a nine-year veteran with Houston, was not immediately available for comment.

Stabler, a left-hander, completed his 10th year in the National Football League this season. He was the Raiders' No. 2 draft choice out of Alabama in 1968.

Stabler was the No. 2 passing leader in the American Football conference in 1979, fourth in the league, completing 304 of 498 passes for 3,615 yards and 26 touchdowns, and 22 interceptions.

Pastorini was 13th in the conference on a rushing oriented team led by running back Earl Campbell. Pastorini had 163 of 324 passes for 2,090 yards, 14 TDs and 18 interceptions.

In 1978 Stabler was intercepted 30 times while throwing just 16 TD passes. That resulted in some critical observations from Davis. Stabler responded by demanding to be traded, but the dispute appeared to be settled by the time the 1979 season began.

Also after the 1978 season, Stabler was involved in a bizarre incident in which a California sports writer, seeking to meet with Stabler in Alabama for an interview, was arrested on drug charges. He was later released when it appeared that the writer had been set up by other still-undecided persons.

The highlight of Stabler's career was his quarterbacking of the Raiders to a 32-4 victory over the Minnesota Vikings in Super Bowl XI in 1977.

Pastorini had been Houston's starting quarterback since his rookie year, 1971, when he was drafted No. 1 by the Oilers out of Santa Clara.

In the 1978 playoffs, Pastorini gained national attention for his wearing of a "flak jacket" protective vest which cushioned badly bruised ribs and enabled him to guide Houston into the AFC title game against Pittsburgh.

Last year the Oilers got that far again. Each time the Steelers beat them and went on to a super Bowl triumph.

CONSERVE ENERGY

Cardinals meet LSU today

HOUSTON (AP) — Louisville Coach Denny Crum figures his No. 2-ranked Cardinals are the underdogs going into Sunday's NCAA Midwest Regional Championship game against No. 3-ranked Louisiana State.

The dream matchup between the top seeds in the Midwest tournament was set for a 2 p.m. tipoff with the winner advancing to the final four in Indianapolis next week.

The Midwest regional winner goes up against the survivor of the Georgetown-Iowa East regional finals.

"We match up rather poorly," Crum said Saturday. "We've already won more games this year than we ever thought we would win. The pressure is on LSU, not us."

Crum added, "If you had told me we would win 30 games this year with this team I would have told you ... not much of a chance. Then we lost one of our top players, and I'm surprised we even won 17 games."

Louisville, which outlasted Texas A&M University 66-55 in overtime Friday night, will carry a 30-3 record into the game.

"I've never had a team win 30 games," said Crum.

"We will have to play very well to beat LSU. They are more physical than we are and have more depth."

LSU Coach Dale Brown did not particularly mind being cast in the favorite's light.

"I believe if we play our game, we can go on and win the national championship," Brown said.

The 26-5 Tigers defeated Missouri 68-63 on Friday night using a stall to slow down the hot-shooting Big Eight Conference champions.

"I thought we stunk," said Brown. "We played a horrible first half. We will not have the luxury of having a bad first half against Louisville because if we do we'll be back in Baton Rouge."

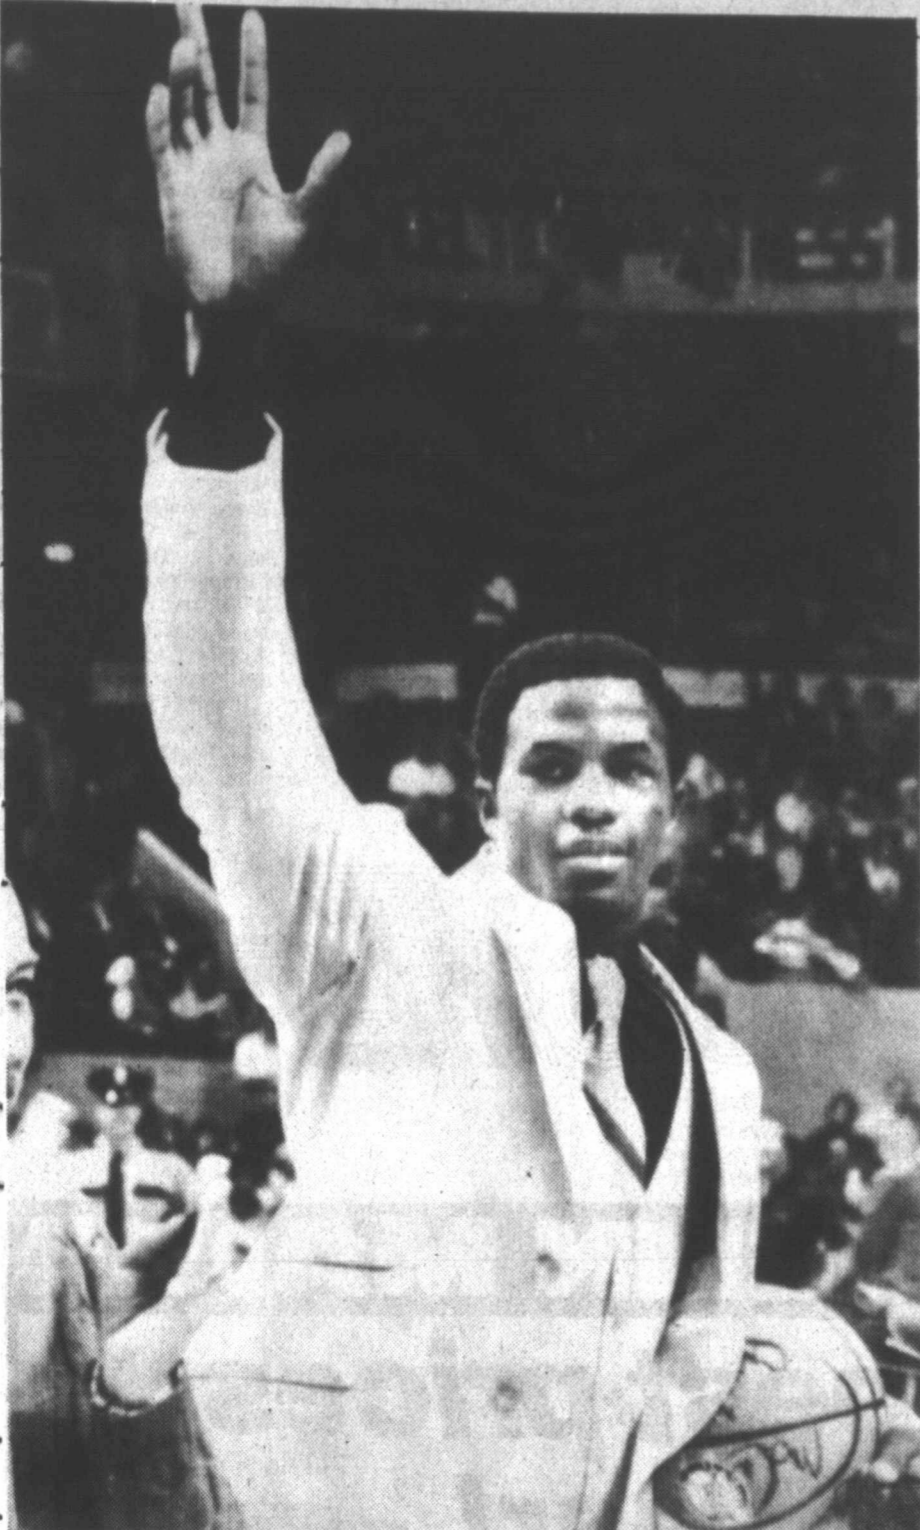

The game features Louisville's All-American guard Darrell Griffith and LSU's sensational forwards Durand Macklin and DeWayne Scales. Griffith scored 6 vital points in overtime and had a game-high 24 against the Aggies.

Scales scored 17 points and Macklin added 16 as LSU downed Missouri in a showdown of Tiger teams.

"To beat LSU we've got to go to the board strong because they have a great rebounding team. Both teams are quick, but it's the rebounds that should win the game," Griffith said.

Crum said he was amazed at the overall quality of teams in the NCAA playoffs this year, particularly in the Midwest.

"I believe this region is the toughest one of them all because if you look at the four teams involved, they have more victories than the teams in the other region," he said.

Success hasn't spoiled Hernandez

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — In St. Louis, he is lionized and idolized but when he strays too far from 250 Stadium Plaza he is just "Mr. X," another handsome face in the crowd, recognition factor near zero.

"That's the way I like it," confesses Keith Hernandez, first baseman of the St. Louis Cardinals, one of the newest in the mushrooming clan of baseball's instant millionaire super stars.

"It happened quickly for me but I don't intend to let it change my life. Basically, I am a private person. I don't want to become a TV personality like Pete Rose and Steve Garvey."

"The thought scares me."

A year ago, Hernandez was just another good journeyman ballplayer, a .225 hitter with 64 runs batted in, excellent glove but no exceptional speed on the bases.

Then he got hit by magic lightning.

He led the major leagues in batting with .344 — the first first baseman to lead the National League since Stan Musial 22 years before. He collected 210 hits, batted in 105 runs and led the league in doubles with 48 and runs scored with 116.

He wound up with a den full of trophies — NL Player of the Year, Top Performer, Man of the Year, you name it — but his chief prize was co-winner of the NL's Most Valuable Player Award with Pittsburgh's World Series hero, Willie Stargell.

His salary was raised from $75,000 a year to an estimated $760,000 a year — a five-year, $3.8 million contract so structured that its value could approach $10 million before all the security clauses are exhausted.

The good-looking native of California said: "Outside St. Louis nobody knows who I am. I walk down the street, nobody stops me. I go to a restaurant, nobody interrupts me. I went to a wrestling match the other night, nobody asked me for an autograph."

Despite his aversion for commercial exposure, the 26-year-old Hernandez has all the ingredients for box office appeal. Twenty-six years old, six feet tall, 195 pounds, dark-haired with a neat mustache, he could easily sub for Dennis Weaver in those deputy marshal and detective roles.

Yet he constantly vetoes endorsement opportunities submitted by his agent.

He had rather spend time with his wife of two years, Sue, and their infant daughter, Jessica.

Son of a San Francisco fireman whose baseball career was thwarted by a hand injury, Hernandez attributes his overnight improvement at bat to adjustment against right-handed pitchers.

"I always could hit left-handers," he said. "That man over there (Manager Ken Boyer) helped me against righties."

Some of the inspiration may have come from his boyhood idol, Mickey Mantle.

"We have the same birthday," he said. "I had my walls covered with his pictures, drawers full of stories about him. I met him two years ago. I was awestruck — couldn't speak."

Harvesters fall to Borger

HEREFORD-Pampa was eliminated by Borger, 13-3, Friday in the consolation bracket of the Deaf Smith County Baseball Tournament.

The Harvesters were limited to three hits, one each by Monte Covatt, Scott John and Andy Richardson.

"We've hit a lull in our season," Pampa coach Steve Scott said. "We've had only one workout in the last two weeks because we've been so busy playing games. I think the guys are just tired. We're going to come back, regroup and start again."

Losing pitcher was Scott John, who is now 1-1 for the season.

Borger opened with a four-run first inning and scored in every frame. The game was called after five innings due to the 10-run rule. The Harvesters play Dumas there at 4 p.m. Tuesday.

Nyambui wins mile, two-mile

DETROIT (AP) — Suleiman Nyambui, running smoothly and confidently, won the mile and the two-mile in the NCAA Indoor Track and Field Championships for the second year in a row Saturday, leading Texas El-Paso to its fifth team title in the past seven years.

The 28-year-old Nyambui, a sophomore from Tanzania, captured the two-mile in 8:36.82, then came back an hour later to take the mile in 4:05.26, helping the Miners compile a meet record 76 points.

It was the first time that a runner had twice won the difficult distance double in the meet's 16-year history.

"I'D BE late for my own funeral," Jimmy Clark, heavyweight boxer from Coatesville, Pa., tells newsmen in Philadelphia Friday after he missed connections that kept him from making the Polish flight which crashed Friday, killing members of the U.S. amateur boxing team. Clark said he was visiting his family and missed the plane out of Philadelphia Thursday. (AP Photo)

Missed flight saved Clark's life

Jimmy Clark, a heavyweight from Coatesville, Pa., missed a plane to New York on Thursday that would have put him on another jet to Poland. The Polish airliner crashed near Warsaw, killing all aboard, including 14 members of the U.S. Amateur Boxing Team.

"I'm still hoping there was some kind of mistake — that it really didn't happen," said the 24-year-old boxer.

Fourteen of his teammates, seven officials and the wife of one official, died in the crash.

"I loved those people on that plane," Clark said during an interview in Philadelphia. "Anybody who means anything to me in boxing is gone."

The team was to fight in Katowice, Poland, on Sunday and then in Krakow on Tuesday in a competition that was to be televised in the United States.

"It's like losing half your family," said Rollie Schwartz, a member of the Executive Board of the U.S. Olympic Committee and manager of the 1976 Olympic boxing team.

"It's a crusher. You just can't believe something like this would happen. Most of the lads were stars on their way up, getting ready for the 1984 Olympics."

One of the victims was Thomas "Sarge" Johnson, 58, of Indianapolis. He trained the 1976 U.S. Olympic team that won five gold medals, one silver and a bronze in Montreal.

"That was the highlight of my life," Johnson once said. "If I had to do it (the endless preparation) again 50 times, I'd do it. I shed a tear every time Old Glory went up."

Sugar Ray Leonard, the World Boxing Council welterweight champion who won a gold medal in the 1976 Olympics, called Johnson a warm-hearted man. "Whatever he did, he gave a part of himself. He was a very knowledgeable man and was just beginning to receive the recognition he deserved."

"This needless to say will be a tremendous setback for our program," said Robert J. Surkein, national boxing chairman. "But others who believe in amateur boxing will continue as a memorial to their dead teammates."

Many of the boxers who died in the crash hoped to make the Olympic squad, like 23-year-old Lemuel Steeples of St. Louis and Bryon Payton of Troup, Texas. It was the first international trip for the 16-year-old Payton, who won a Texas Golden Gloves championship last week.

Other members of the boxing team killed on the flight were: David Rodriguez, Los Angeles; Lonnie Young, Philadelphia; George Pimental, New York; Jerome Stewart, U.S. Navy, Norfolk, Va.; Gary Clayton, Philadelphia; Walter Harris, San Francisco; Byron Lindsay, San Diego; Paul Palomino, Los Angeles; Chuckie Robinson, Santa Monica, Calif.; Elliot Chavis, Fort Bragg, N.C.; Andre McCoy, New Bedford, Mass.; Kelvin Anderson, Hartford, Conn.; Junior Robles, coach, San Diego; Dr. Ray Wesson and Mrs. Ann Wesson, Biloxi, Miss.; John Radison, referee, St. Louis; Bernie Callahan, referee, Carlisle, Pa.; Steve Smigiel, assistant coach, Boca Raton, Fla.; Joe Bland, team manager, High Point, S.C.

Hobby, Kirzan named to annual all-star squad

Canadian's Alicia Hobby and Groom's Betsy Kirzan join Pampa's Kellye Richardson for the Golden Spread East-West High School All-Star basketball game March 20 in the Amarillo Civic Center.

The All-Star game serves as a preliminary to the championship game of the National Women's Invitational Basketball Tournament March 22.

Hobby was named the Best All-Around Athlete at Canadian High School in 1979. The 5-6 guard scored 8.5 points per game for Canadian this year, and managed four steals per game.

Miss Kirzan averaged 14 points and 10 rebounds per outing this season, along with five steals. The 5-10 guard-forward was named to the All-District 3-B squad for three of her four years as a Tigrette letter-winner.

Richardson and Hobby will play for the East squad while Kirzan will represent the West. Richardson, a 5-9 forward guard, averaged 22.7 points, 10 rebounds, and six steals for the Lady Harvesters.

This marks the 12th year for the NWIT Tournament.

No headway on alternate site

WASHINGTON (AP) — Almost two months after President Carter first mentioned a possible U.S. boycott of the Moscow Olympics, the administration seems to have made little tangible progress in arranging any alternate games.

Interviews with authorities on amateur sports and government officials show these examples of the lack of progress:

—The handful of officials working on the project have only a vague plan to hold competition in several other cities around the world in the latter half of August. London, Nairobi and Melbourne have been mentioned as possibilities.

—The officials have no firm idea of which sports will be involved or when competitions might be held.

—No one with experience organizing sports events has begun to work on the myriad details involved in a major international competition. No request for money has been formulated.

Administration officials say it is too early to expect firm arrangements. "In a couple of weeks, we'll have something," said Joseph Onek, a White House aide coordinating administration efforts.

The administration had explored the idea of stringing together a series of previously scheduled world championships into alternative games. But officials soon discovered that the major Olympic sports do not hold separate world championships in Olympic years.

The next best alternative appears to be an invitational format, but there is little likelihood that the Soviet bloc countries will accept invitations.

Softball players slated to meet

Two public meetings, pertaining to the newly-organized Pampa Softball Association, are scheduled for Monday and Sunday, March 23.

Sims Electric Company, located on Price Road, will be the site of an Industrial League meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday night. Those interested in playing for an Industrial League team are urged to attend or else call Jay Trosper at 665-3733.

At 2 p.m. March 23, persons interested in playing in a Church League are asked to attend a meeting in the fellowship hall of the First Christian Church, 1633 North Nelson.

Both mens' and womens' teams will be formed. More information can be obtained by calling 669-3506.

Baltimore had the best night-game percentage in the American League in 1979, winning 72 and losing 42 for a .632 performance.

PHIL NIEKRO of the Atlanta Braves has been awarded the Roberto Clemente award for humanitarian services off the field. Niekro, who tied for the National League lead last year in pitching victories with 21, is involved in several charity organizations for children.

A BIRDIE by Pampa's Bob Phillips (shown above) on the first hole gave the Pampa Harvesters third place in a lowball tournament Saturday at Hereford. Phillips shot a 155 to tie with teammate Barry Terrell for fourth place in the team tournament's medalist standings.

Nickhaus ties for Doral lead

MIAMI (AP) — Jack Nicklaus, a deeply frustrated non-winner for more than a year, fought his way to a windblown, 1-under-par 71 and a 3-way tie for the lead Saturday in the third round of the $250,000 Doral Open Golf Tournament.

Nicklaus, generally acknowledged as the game's greatest player and trying a comeback at age 40, had sole control of the top spot before he bogeyed the final hole on the 7,065-yard Blue Monster course at the Doral Country Club.

That dropped him back to a tie with Keith Fergus and Bruce Lietzke at 210, 6 shots under par.

Fergus, who has played strongly this year, had a 69 that ranked as the best round of the day on a course was raked by winds gusting above 30 mph. Lietzke, a runner-up last week, matched par 72.

Leonard Thompson, who started the day in a tie for the lead, fell victim to a 74 and was tied at 211 — 1 stroke back — with Wayne Levi. Levi had a 71.

It was another 2 strokes back to a group of four at 213. They were Ray Floyd, David Graham of Australia, Tommy Valentine and Ben Crenshaw.

Valentine, who had to survive a playoff for the last spot in the tournament field in the qualifying round Monday, had shared the lead at the end of the first two rounds. He clung to that position until making double bogey-7 on the 10th hole. He eventually finished with a 76.

Floyd, who had an eagle-3 on the eighth hole, shot 70. Crenshaw had a 74 and Graham, the current PGA titleholder, got it at 71.

Nicklaus had a share of the top spot when he played the 18th hole. He got his approach within 12 feet of the hole but saw his putt slide by the hole and, unusual for Jack, gave vent to a little pent-up emotion, grimacing and muttering angrily to himself.

On the 17th, however, he gave himself another chance, throwing an 8-iron shot 10 feet from the cup. He made this one and had the lead alone.

But that lead was a fleeting thing.

His approach to the 18th flirted with the pond on the left of the green and ended up on the bank, within the confines of the hazard. He played out short and missed the putt that set up the tie.

"Obviously, I like my position," said Nicklaus, who hasn't had a third-round lead in more than a season. "But," he continued, "I liked it better before I played the 18th."

Lietzke, who says he doesn't play well in the wind, lost two shots to par on the front side but got them back with putts of 12 and 18 feet coming home. Tied for the lead, he played the 18th almost at Nicklaus did, also getting down the bank. He came out to 15 feet and made the putt, using his cross-handed grip, to save par and a piece of the lead.

Fergus, who has yet to win but has been fourth or better three times this year, gained his share of the lead with the best back nine of the day, a 33. He birdied both of the par-5 holes on that side and moved into a tie with a 10-foot putt on the 16th.

Spring dog trials March 29-30

Top O' Texas Brittany Club will hold its A.K.C. Licensed Spring Trials March 29-30 at the Haynes Ranch 16 miles southeast of Pampa. Trials will consist of Open Limited All-Age, Open All-Age, Open Puppy, Open Derby, and Amateur Gun Dog. All stakes are for Brittany Spaniels only.

Trial judges will be George Miller, Amarillo; Bob Caddel, Pampa; J.C. Prince, Borger, and Joe Knittel, Amarillo.

Entries, which close at 8 p.m. Wednesday, March 26, should be mailed to club secretary Sara Leverich, 1824 Christine, Pampa, 79065.

Drawing for the order of the running follows immediately.

The field trial is under the rules, regulations, and procedures of the American Kennel Club. Visitors find the trail grounds by following the signs southeast of Lefors.

Ray Jordan is chairman of the Field Trial Committee, assisted by Jack Steed, Frank Roach, J.E. Leverich, Sara Leverich, and Dee Nix.

Club officers are Dr. L.B. Jachary, Pampa, president; Ray Jordan, Pampa, vice-president; and T.M. Cox, Amarillo, secretary-treasurer.

Net team plays at Hereford

HEREFORD-Pampa boys' and girls' tennis teams participated in the Hereford Tournament Friday and Saturday.

Although the Harvesters never made the finals, several players came close.

Mark Spence reached the semi-finals where he lost to Borger's Brad Renick, 6-4, 6-4. Earlier Spence had defeated Lubbock Dunbar's Phillip Crocker, 6-2, 6-4, and Greg Teeter, 6-1, 6-2, in Class B singles.

"Mark has just been doing great," Pampa coach David Martin said. "During the last two weeks he has improved more than any player I have ever coached."

In a dual Thursday, Pampa upset heavily-favored Lubbock High, 8-5. The Harvesters had dropped a lopsided match to Lubbock during the fall season.

Spence and Laura Johnson won singles matches while Mark Elliott and Greg Trollinger swept doubles.

Results of the Hereford Tournament are listed below:

Class A Girls Singles
Laura Johnson, Pampa, defeated Julie Gerard, Abilene Cooper, 6-3, 6-2; lost to Kendall Martin, Odessa Permian, 6-1, 6-1.

Class B Boys Doubles
Mark Elliott-Greg Trollinger, Pampa, defeated Hayden-Findell, Monterey, 6-4, 6-0; defeated Frazier-Barues, Midland High, 6-3, 6-1; lost to Brown-Johnson, Coronado, 7-5, 6-3.

Class B Girls Singles
Leslie Eddins, Pampa, defeated Chris Farquhar, Midland, 6-1, 6-1.

Class B Girls Doubles
Tricia Hawkins-Alisa Kirksey, Pampa, defeated Hiser-Sutherland, Monterey, 6-4, 5-7, 6-3; lost to Boone-Setzler, Wichita Falls, 6-3, 6-4.

Class C Boys Singles
Jerry Hink, Pampa, lost to Trey Dyer, Baird, 6-0, 6-0.

Burke Marsh, Pampa, lost to James Hill, Hutchinson, 6-4, 6-4.

Clay Douglass, Pampa, defeated by David Finley, Borger, 6-3, 6-2.

Mike Spence, Pampa, defeated Allan Bohanan, Baird, 6-1, 6-2; defeated Brent Raney, Forsan, 6-0, 6-1; defeated Brad Gore, Levelland, 7-6, 6-2; lost to Chris Lenoss, Odessa Ector, 0-6, 6-3, 7-6.

David Burns, Pampa, defeated Lowell Dueo, Hutchinson, 6-3, 6-4.

Billy Price, Pampa, defeated Jay Faraby, Whitharral, 6-1, 6-0.

Pampa golfers place third

HEREFORD-Pampa High's golf team claimed third place in the Hereford Tournament Saturday with a final round score of 318.

The Harvesters had a two-day total of 646. Bob Phillips and Barry Terrell were Pampa's top golfers with 155s. Terrell's 74 in Saturday's 18-hole final was the day's low score.

"I thought Bob and Barry really played well," Pampa coach Deck Woldt said. "They had to contend with the wind both days."

Paul Beck had a 166, Gary Cudney, 170, and Dennis Mashburn a 179 for Pampa.

Phillips and Terrell tied Canyon's Tim Kinkaid for fourth place in the medalist race with 155.

Medalist was Lubbock Monterey's Steve Covert with a 149.

Borger won the team championship with a 641.

followed by Monterey, 642; Pampa, 646, and Canyon, 328.

Pampa also finished third in the varsity division lowball championship with a 136. Pampa had tied with Monterey after the regulation 18 holes with a 136. The winner was determined by reverting back to the five-player score on the first hole with Phillips' birdie making the difference.

In a junior varsity tournament Thursday at the John Pitman Municipal Course in Hereford, Pampa's B teamers placed fifth with a 374.

James White led the local contingent with an 84, followed by Kenny Martin, 87; Jeff Hanson, 95, and Steve Shephard, 108.

Pampa's next outing is a triangular meet Saturday between Amarillo High and Caprock in Amarillo.

Carner takes command

RANCHO BERNARDO, Calif. (AP) — JoAnne Carner, with a 2-under par 70, propelled into a 2-stroke lead over Pat Bradley on Saturday in the third round of the $150,000 Ladies Professional Golf Association tournament at Rancho Bernardo Inn.

Carner, in quest of her fourth tour victory in six appearances this year, needed three birdies on the front nine to erase a pair of bogeys for a three-day total of 210, 6 under par.

Bradley, the first-round leader, stayed close with a 70, overcoming a shaky start that included bogeys on the first two holes. Mardell Wilkins and Judy Rankin were three strokes off the pace at 213. Wilkins had the best round of the day with a 68, carding five birdies on the last seven holes for a back-nine 32. Rankin shot a 70.

Carner and Bradley finished 1-2 here last year, with Carner posting a 7-under par 281 total for a 3-stroke victory.

Four strokes back, in a three-way tie, were Alice Ritzman, Cathy Sherk and Jane Blalock.

Ritzman, in just her second full year on the tour, shot a 69, aided by an eagle on the par 5, 490-yard third hole. Sherk had a 72 and Blalock a 73.

Kathy Martin, the second-round leader, ballooned to 76 after a 66 Friday to fall five strokes behind.

"It was sort of hit and hang on," said Carner, who bogeyed two of her first five holes. Despite her third straight sub-par round, the 40-year-old veteran said she was concerned enough with her swing that she spent two hours to rectify it after Friday's round. "It's finally starting to come around," she said.

Bradley, who finished fourth on the LPGA money list last year, said she was looking forward to the final-day dual with Carner. "Last year I went into the final day as the leader and JoAnne was second. This year it was vice versa," said Bradley, whose five career victories have all been come-from-behind triumphs.

Blalock, after a scorching 33 on the front, collapsed on the back nine, shooting a 40 that included four bogeys in the last holes.

UCLA downs Clemson

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Sophomore Mike Sanders and senior Kiki Vandeweghe tossed in 22 points each to lead the UCLA Bruins past Clemson 85-74 Saturday in the finals of the NCAA West Regional basketball tournament.

The victory sends the 21-9 Bruins to the NCAA Final Four in Indianapolis March 22, UCLA's first trip to the national semifinals since 1976.

Clemson, which was participating in the NCAA tournament for the first time, finished its season at 23-9.

A Clemson cold spell at the start of the second half, including a five-minute period during which the Tigers went scoreless, led to the impressive victory by the Bruins. UCLA ran off an 11-2 spurt in the early seconds of the half to gain an 18-point advantage at 57-39.

Clemson never was closer than 10 points after that time.

Vandeweghe, one of two starting seniors for UCLA, hit five of six free throw attempts in the closing seconds of the game to preserve the Bruin victory.

Guard Billy Williams scored 18 points to lead Clemson.

UCLA's halftime edge of 46-35 represented its largest lead of the game to that point.

Neither team was able to assert itself in the game's opening minutes, with both squads shooting well and UCLA matching up well against taller Clemson on the boards.

Divers hit record depth

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — Three divers locked in a pressurized chamber at Duke University Medical Center set a world depth record Thursday when they hit 2,003 feet below sea level.

The old record, the equivalent of 2,001 feet below sea level, was set by a French team in 1972.

The new mark was reached at about 6:30 p.m. The men have been locked in the small hyperbaric chamber, eight feet in diameter, since last Thursday.

The divers include Delmar "Bud" Shelton of Durham, a physician's assistant at Duke; William Bell of New Bern, a Duke medical student; and Stephen Porter of Cortez, Colo., a commercial diver employed by Oceaneering International of Houston, Texas.

Dr. Peter Bennett, director of Duke's Hall Laboratory of Environmental Research, said a mixture of 10 percent nitrogen with other gases in the chamber allowed the divers to reach record depths.

"This is a real breakthrough in deep diving," Bennett said, watching the divers on a television monitor outside the chamber. "This is the first time divers have gone anywhere near such depths without suffering from high-pressure nervous syndrome."

He said symptoms of the syndrome include nausea, vomiting, cramps, drowsiness and loss of appetite leading to severe weight loss.

He said the worst problem for the three divers has been slight irritability with each other at times.

"You take three men, confine them in a place as small as the chamber and there's going to be a little irritability," he said. "But so far, even that has been at a minimum."

He said the divers eat a normal diet, which is passed into the chamber through an airlock opening. They read and listen to music to pass the time.

"It's really amazing," Bennett said. "They (the divers) look so relaxed, so normal, just like they're in a normal situation."

Trial reveals buyers bear responsibility

By LISA LEVITT
Associated Press Writer
WINAMAC, Ind. (AP) — Ford Motor Co.'s vindication in a landmark criminal trial over the safety of its popular subcompact Pinto reaffirms an age-old caveat of the marketplace — that buyers also bear responsibility — those involved in the reckless homicide trial agree.

"There must be a responsibility on the part of the people who use products as well as people who design them," said new Ford Chairman Philip Caldwell after jurors Thursday acquitted the automaker in the first criminal trial of a manufacturer in a product liability case.

The company was indicted in the August 1978 deaths of three teen-age girls who perished when their 1973 Pinto burst into flames on a northern Indiana highway when struck from behind by a van.

Ford, which had faced a total maximum fine of $30,000 if convicted, spent a reported $1 million to defend its Pinto, which Caldwell described as "the best-selling small car" of the '70s. More than 2.1 million have been sold since the model was introduced in 1970.

The jury of seven men and five women deliberated for four days after the 10 week trial and reached its verdict at 25 ballots. Some jurors expressed concern about the car's safety, even after the verdict.

"We just felt the state never presented enough evidence to convince us that Ford was guilty," said jury foreman Arthur Selmer.

Selmer said he wouldn't buy a Pinto himself, but would drive one if it was given to him. "I wouldn't feel safe," he said, "but I'd drive it."

The state argued Ford knew of dangerous defects in the Pinto's fuel system, making it likely to explode in rear-end accidents, but put profit ahead of human life and sold the cars anyway.

"I felt the Ford (Pinto) was a reckless automobile," said juror James Yurgilas, "but we couldn't actually prove they didn't do everything in their power to recall it."

Three months before the fatal accident, Ford recalled 1.5 million 1971-76 Pintos and Mercury Bobcats when government tests indicated the cars could leak fuel in rear-end collisions, posing a risk of fire. But the mother of two victims testified her family did not receive a recall notice until six months after the crash.

Defense attorney James F. Neal said the acquittal showed even a giant corporation can win the day if it has "a fair and reasonable story." He called the 10-week trial the most difficult he had ever faced.

Prosecutor Michael Cosentino said the verdict had vindicated Ford. "It means to me that manufacturers can make any kind of car they want to," he said, "and it's up to the public to decide if they want to buy it or not."

A key and deciding issue, Selmer said, was how fast the two cars were traveling at the time of the collision.

Electric autos tested

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Fifteen electric vehicles will be used here by Southwest Research Institute and City Public Service, the municipal utility, as part of a three-year, federally supported demonstration program.

The U.S. Department of Energy is sponsoring the national program to show the commercial feasibility of electric vehicles.

Ten of the electric vehicles here will be given various working roles in the 1,400-vehicle CPS fleet.

CPS officials said vans will be used for various maintenance and repair services. Four passenger cars will be added to the general transportation pool.

SwRI plans to use the other five vehicles in similar working roles, including a van as a field laboratory vehicle.

SwRI and CPS must purchase and prepare the vehicles, operate and service them for three years, collect daily data and report information to DOE and promote electric vehicle use.

About half of the nearly $200,000 cost for the 15 vehicles is funded by DOE, said Roy Hull, SwRI's manager of vehicle systems.

"Electric vehicles offer a means of reducing our country's dependence on imported petroleum," said Hull. "SwRI, in participating in an electric vehicle demonstration project, will be serving a public need as well as responding to electric vehicle research and development."

CPS General Manager J.K. Spruce said, "Nighttime charging of electric vehicles — in sufficient numbers — could mean greater efficiency for our electric system. At present, peak use of electricity usually occurs during the day, and we could make more efficient use of our generating equipment if the demand for electricity were spread more evenly around the clock."

The passenger cars being used in this program, according to manufacturer's data, will be capable of a maximum speed of about 65 miles per hour.

Fine Arts sponsors Second Annual Invitational Show

Mall is exhibition scene

Texas Youth Art Month is being marked all through March.

In keeping with the observation, Pampa Fine Arts Association, in conjunction with the journalism and art departments at Pampa High School, are sponsoring an exhibition at Pampa Mall.

Arts, crafts and photography submitted by students who are enrolled in art, crafts or journalism, will be displayed. Exhibits only include projects completed during this school year.

Teachers coordinating the project include Janice Sackett, art; Doris Johnson, art; and Mary Ann Woolsey, journalism.

Betty Henderson is coordinator for the Fine Arts Association.

Works exhibited will include oils, acrylics, water colors, pencil drawing, ink drawing, pastels, crayon, charcoal, mixed media, printmaking, graphic design, textile design, sculpture, pottery, jewelry, three-dimensional design and

Dates for the showing are March 21, Monday, through March 21, Friday.

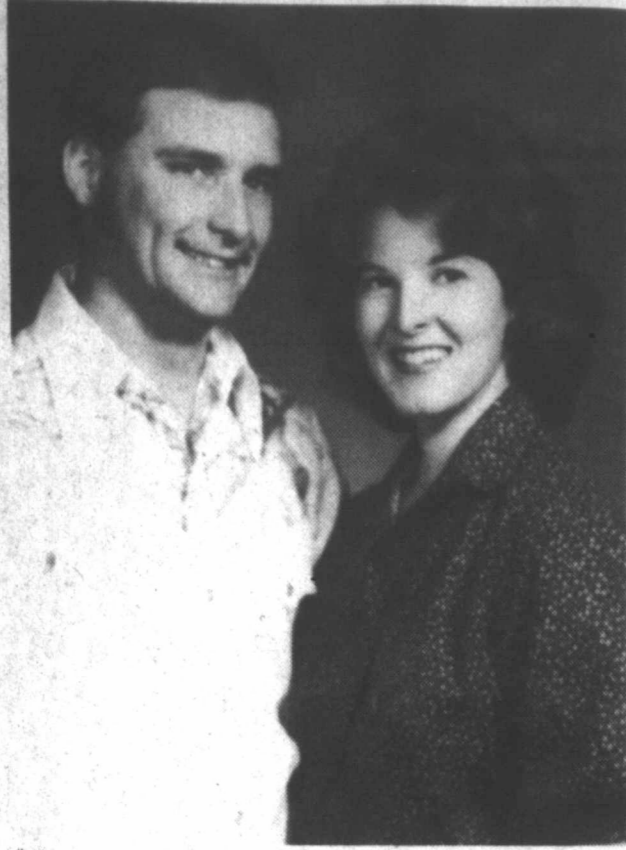

The Pampa Fine Arts Association is presenting this Second Annual Invitational Student Art Exhibit to acquaint the public further in the field of artistic development opportunities.

Student works have been chosen by public school instructors who, along with students, will be available for comment during the exhibit.

Do you or your habits control food choices?

CHECKING YOUR CREDIT RECORD:

If you've ever owed anyone money, bounced a check, owned life insurance or been arrested, chances are you are one of more than 100 million Americans who has a file in a credit bureau. The contents of that file indicate how you pay your bills, your credit history and whether you have ever been sued or filed for bankruptcy. But it may also include your neighbors' and friends' views on your character, general reputation and lifestyle.

Until 1971, consumers had no way to protect themselves against the circulation of inaccurate or obsolete information, and to make sure that credit reporting agencies used their files in a manner that was fair and equitable. The Fair Credit Reporting Act of 1971 gave new powers to consumers to protect themselves from the use of inaccurate information and provided ways to correct inaccuracies.

Under the Fair Credit Reporting Act, you have the right:

- To be told the name and address of the credit reporting agency responsible for preparing a credit file that was used to deny you credit, insurance or employment or to increase the cost of credit or insurance;
- To be told by a credit reporting agency the nature, substance and sources of the information collected about you;
- To take anyone of your choice with you when you visit a credit reporting agency to check on your file;
- To be told who has received a credit report on you within the past six months, or within the past two years if the report was furnished for employment purposes;
- To have incomplete or incorrect information removed from your file;
- To have the agency notify those who have received the inaccurate information that such information has been deleted from your file.

- To have all adverse information on your file removed after seven years, except bankruptcy information, which can remain for 14 years; and

- To sue a credit reporting agency for damages if it willfully or negligently violates the law.

The law requires only that the credit bureau or investigative reporting agency disclose only the "nature and substance" of the file, although some agencies will actually show you the file, and a few will give you a copy of the file, usually for a fee.

In order to obtain the information in your file, you must either go directly to the agency and provide suitable identification, or contact the agency by phone. When contacted by phone, the agency will send you disclosure forms, then will call you to give you the information about your file. You must pay any toll charges resulting from long-distance phone calls.

WHO CONTROLS YOUR FOOD CHOICES?

Do you really control your food choices — or do your habits control you? If changes are needed, only you can decide to make them — and that depends on four things: 1) a specific goal, 2) learning nutrition basics, 3) "unlearning" misinformation, and 4) changing traditions.

Few of us eat foods because we're told they're "good for us." In fact, health may be one of the least-effective motivations for change.

On the other hand, most of us will respond to a specific goal — weight reduction or diabetes control, for example. We see that health relates to any other specific goals, but just "health" alone isn't specific enough to make a majority of us change the way we eat. Most of us don't think in such long-range terms as eating "right" today to prevent health problems later in life. So having a specific goal is a "must" for many of us, but it's just the first step. If we can see health itself as our specific goal, this first step will be a stronger one.

Understanding nutrition basics is the second step, this takes learning. We need facts to point out the pathways of all our other steps — and to suggest the time and effort they'll require. Most of us are interested in nutrition only if it means something good today. We seek immediate results, and we're not too realistic about the time and effort needed to reach or obtain our desired goal. Learning nutrition basics is the key to effectively reaching our goal.

Learning and unlearning is a never-ending process, and nutrition education is not a simple matter. Changes in types and forms of foods will continue at a pace which staggers the imagination. Choices we face will become even greater. Realizing that this is a constant process which will go on throughout life is the third step in changing our eating habits.

Developing the ability to actually change is the fourth step. One key to success is knowing how strongly food habits become entrenched in our daily routines. Their grip is so strong we often fail to recognize that the laws of nutrition apply to everyone — or we ignore that fact.

How do we know if we need to change? Start with self-analysis. We can ask ourselves these questions: 1) What factors are most important when I select particular foods? 2) How does my overall dietary pattern affect my lifestyle and health? 3) Or, does my lifestyle determine my eating habits? 4) Do I select foods out of impulse, or am I a rational decision-maker? 5) Do I really understand why I choose the foods I eat? Remember, too for most people, price of food items doesn't play a central role in consumer decisions — cost limits our purchases, but it doesn't determine our eating habits. Here's one last question — a "food for thought" question (the one we asked in the first place): Do I really control my food choices, or do my habits control me?

DEAR ABBY

By Abigail Van Buren

A columnist comments on etiquette

DEAR ABBY: WONDERING asked what marriage would be like with a woman who kept reminding him to keep his elbows off the table, chew his food thoroughly, etc. You said, "Like being 9 years old again and married to your mother."

You were right. Nothing spoils a fine meal or any pleasurable setting as much as incessant nagging about etiquette.

I hope the unfortunate man decided to lean across the table, with his elbows firmly planted on it, and kiss the young woman goodbye. And I hope that before he did it, he rattled the spoon while stirring his coffee, slurped it loudly, wiped his mouth with his sleeve and belched!

Another of this perplexed man's complaints involved his beloved's refusal to let him talk with food in his mouth. A romantic little tableau comes to mind in which the guy's girlfriend gently places her knife and fork on the plate, chews thoroughly, swallows completely, dabs at the corners of her mouth with a napkin and says, "Dearest, your pants are on fire."

And she'd probably object if he used his glass of water to put himself out.

PATRICK MOTT

DEAR PATRICK: Beautiful! I am informed that you write a consistently bright column for the Register in Santa Ana, Calif., in which my column also appears. Congratulations, Patrick, you've just won another reader!

DEAR ABBY: We have a 17-year-old son who sucks his thumb. He seems so mature in all other ways that we can't understand it.

He sucks his thumb when he is alone, or thinks nobody is watching. We have a rather cool TV room. Sometimes he will cover himself with a blanket, way up around his nose, and he goes to town on that thumb!

Is this a sign of insecurity or perhaps a mental problem? He has many friends and nothing to feel insecure about. We have tried to break him of this habit, but we never imposed any serious punishment on him. In later years we've tried not to make much of it.

Have you or any of your readers ever heard of this problem in a boy this age? And what do psychiatrists recommend?

PERPLEXED IN UTAH

DEAR PERPLEXED: Thumb sucking is a habit formed in infancy which provides the thumb sucker with a feeling of pleasure and gratification. It is harmless. The possibility of embarrassment and humiliation may motivate the thumb sucker to overcome the habit, but in some cases, being told that it's babyish will only make the thumb sucker all the more anxious, so it's not recommended. Psychiatrists say, "Leave him alone."

DEAR ABBY: My Dad, a widower who lives in another city, has a December-May romance going. He has informed us that he and his girlfriend will be coming to stay with us for a weekend soon. We have only one guest room, but can accommodate two guests in separate rooms if necessary by using our sofa-bed, too.

We know for a fact that they have taken trips together and registered as Mr. and Mrs., although Dad doesn't know that we know this.

Our problem: Should we just assume that Dad and his girlfriend want to share one room? Or should we just set them up in separate rooms?

Some facts you should know: Dad and I never had sex talks while I was growing up.

We thoroughly approve of his girlfriend. She has done wonders for him, and if they want to stay together we have no objections.

DAUGHTER

DEAR DAUGHTER: Prepare the guest room for two. Also have the sofa-bed in readiness. When Dad and his friend arrive, ask Dad (privately) which set-up he prefers, and act accordingly.

DEAR ABBY: Greetings from another "I-never-thought-I'd-be-writing-to-you" Abby fan.

I am a 35-year-old professional woman, happily married with children, ages 14, 12, and a little one, 3 months old. I am amazed at the number of people — some I hardly know — who ask me if my last baby was an "accident."

I have given answers that I thought were good-humored, but evasive.

How can I tell people that I consider such a question rude, improper, and insulting without being rude, improper, and insulting, too?

BURNING IN 'BAMA

DEAR BURNING: Respond with a question of your own: "Why do you want to know?" It stops 'em cold every time.

Red Cross sets first aid class

In preparation for summer programming in camping, the Gray County Chapter of the American Red Cross is offering a multi-media first aid class March 24 and 25. The class, for anyone interested in first aid, will be at 6:30 p.m. each evening at the Red Cross Office in City Hall, according to Joyce Roberts, director. For more information, call 669-7121.

Program on Texas presented to Varietas Study Club

Mrs. J.E. Gunn hosted the members of the Varietas Study Club last week for a program on Texas. Accompanied by Mrs. Gunn on the organ, the group sang three popular songs about the state. Mrs. Aubrey Sprawls gave the program, tracing Texas' history. She discussed the leading industries with emphasis on oil, agriculture, and tourism. Twelve members attended. Mrs. R.H. Dyson was welcomed as a new member.

Oldest printing at Texas A&M

COLLEGE STATION — The oldest examples of printing known to exist are among 85 rare books and pieces donated to Texas A&M University by Loran L. Laughlin, a Salt Lake City businessman and antique dealer. One of the books is the world's only known copy of "Jun Mun Gyo," a Korean book reportedly printed with moveable metal type in 1439, almost 20 years before the famed Gutenberg Bible. The claim has sparked discussion among rare book scholars and enthusiasts because the Gutenberg date of 1455 is generally regarded as the beginning of moveable type printing. The Salt Lake City collector remains convinced that the work is authentic, however.

A child's feelings on divorce ... When the loving stops

By JANE SEE WHITE
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — She was a tree-climbing, hopscotching 9-year-old when her parents were divorced. Today, at 23, Julie List believes she has at last learned to accept the simple, central fact: Her mother and her father stopped loving each other 14 years ago.

"I don't think most children take divorce quite as hard as I did," she says. Julie took her parents' divorce so hard that years later, as a student at Princeton University, she wrote a series of memoirs about her troubled childhood.

Drawing on childhood diaries and letters, Julie expanded her recollections into a book called "The Day the Loving Stopped." It is an account of one divorce from a child's point of view.

She writes: "Children, they say, ... bounce back. I agree — children are terrific survivors." But, she adds, "Children bounce back because we know no other life than this."

Julie bounced back. She never retreated into drugs or alcohol, never sought a therapist's help.

"I don't feel I was a deprived child. I always knew my parents loved me," she says now.

But Julie was torn and troubled by the divorce; it made her doubt that love can endure, that anyone finds happiness. She says she has overcome those fears: "I'm more optimistic than I'd have thought possible."

Her father, a psychologist, and her mother, a writer, were divorced in 1966. Mrs. List and her two young daughters stayed in their suburban Connecticut house. List moved into New York. His visits with his daughters were scheduled — weekends, all of August.

"I missed my father, so I was glad to know there would be fixed times for me to see him. I couldn't have known then how disruptive this kind of life would be... From now on, seeing my father was to be a scheduled event. The spontaneity was gone."

Julie's visits with her father grew to be separate from her day-to-day life: "My father didn't know who my friends were or what I was learning at school... Our lives were linked by blood, by love, by weekends in New York. But he did not watch Abby and me grow up daily."

Julie's mother dated a few men seriously; one man grew close to Julie and her sister before he and Mrs. List parted. Meanwhile, Julie met a parade of women who passed through her father's life.

Eventually, he remarried. Four years later, he divorced again. The break was total: "One day we had a stepmother and two stepisters. The next day we didn't." Julie hasn't seen the woman since.

For years after the divorce, Julie's mother and father could not speak without arguing. As a result, List made plans directly with his daughter.

"When you're dealing with parents who cry and parents who fight, you have to start making decisions even though you're only 9. I often had to tell my father on the phone that I'd decided not to come into the city. I negotiated holiday plans with him."

Today, Julie is a researcher at New York's public television station. She says she wrote her book in part to alert parents to a child's feelings about divorce.

"Whenever I see a divorced father, I want to say: 'Listen, call your kids every day. Don't disappear from their daily lives.' If I could go back and change anything, I'd have my father continue to be a part of my daily life," she says.

She has other advice to divorcing parents:

- "Explain to a child that the divorce isn't his fault."
- "It's very, very important for children to know it's all right to love both their mother and their father even though they don't love each other anymore."
- "Don't malign each other."
- "Don't say to a child, 'You have to make a decision. Do you want to be with your mother or your father on Christmas Day?' A child wants to be with both. It's unfair to ask him to choose. It's not his job."
- "A father should not bring a new woman into his children's lives unless he thinks she'll be fairly permanent. Neither should a mother. It's destructive because children get attached so easily."

Despite her troubled childhood, Julie says she is not opposed to divorce:

"I think staying in an unhappy marriage is worse than divorcing. Children are not dumb. They feel the tension. I think it's harder on a child because it's a lie, it's living a lie."

"Although divorce is painful, it's an acknowledgement of the way things are. It says to children, we're trying to try to make things better and we're going to try to make things better for you, too."

Lubbock medical doctor to speak on good health at Knife & Fork dinner

Dr. William H. Gordon of Lubbock will be featured March 27 at a dinner meeting of the Top O' Texas Knife & Fork Club.

The event will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Starlight Room of the Coronado Inn. Deadline for purchasing tickets, now on sale at the registration desk of the Coronado Inn, is March 25.

Speaking on "Good Health ... is it worth the trouble?" Dr. Gordon will view factors such as heredity, diet, exercise, stress, alcohol, cigarettes, obesity and hypertension in relation to good health.

He will also discuss national health insurance, Medicare and Medicaid.

Born in Missouri, Gordon graduated from the University of Missouri with A.B. and B.S. degrees in medicine and from M.D. Medical College in Virginia. He has held numerous posts, including assistant chief of medicine and head of the cardiac department at the U.S. Marine Hospital, assistant in medicine at Harvard Medical School, and chief of medicine at the Marine Hospital in San Francisco.

He returned to private practice in Lubbock in July 1946. He has served 20 years on the faculty at Texas Tech.

Now semi-retired, he still spends considerable time with medical students at Tech. An avid bird hunter and fan of the outdoors, he also has an extensive gun collection.

"GOOD HEALTH ... is it worth the trouble?" is the topic of the March 27 dinner meeting of the Knife & Fork Club. Dr. William Gordon, former professor at Texas Tech in Lubbock, will be the speaker for the event. The semi-retired medical is an avid outdoor sportsman and has a gun collection which includes the 100-year-old Parker he's holding. (Photo special to the Pampa News)

Top O' Texas Cowbells will meet Monday at 11:30 a.m. at Tom's Country Inn in Pampa.

Pork workshop set in Amarillo

The ultimate test of good pork is in the eating, says Gray County Extension Agent Elaine Houston, and area homemakers will get some new ideas and recipes Monday and Tuesday at the Panhandle Economic Program Swine Workshop in Amarillo.

Designed for homemakers and pork producers, the workshop will begin each day at 8:30 a.m. at the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center, 6500 Amarillo Blvd. West.

Monday's workshop will focus on swine production. Extension specialists, area producers and agri-business leaders will conduct sessions evaluating live hogs, presenting three views on the selection of modern type swine, projecting the outlook for feed costs and for the swine industry, and looking at what is new in the industry.

Tuesday's workshop will focus attention on the end product and its uses, Mrs. Houston said. After evaluating carcasses and cut-out data from the hogs viewed Monday, Dr. Frank Orts, extension meats specialist from College Station, will demonstrate how to cut the meat.

Ken Horton, executive vice president of the Texas Pork Producers Association in Austin, will discuss the myths, fables and old wives tales surrounding pork and its consumption.

Brenda Davidson of Dumas, candidate for Texas Pork Queen, will give a special presentation during the morning break. Then Mildred Prince, home economist with Southwestern Public Service Co. in Amarillo, will conduct a pork cooking demonstration.

A "Pork Arama" will feature Extension home economics agents from the 20 Panhandle counties presenting a variety of pork dishes. Participants will have the opportunity to taste the dishes and collect the recipes, Mrs. Houston added.

TWEEN 12 AND 20

By ROBERT WALLACE, Ed.D.

Dr. Wallace: I'm 14 and pregnant. The father, 16, says that he loves me and will marry me when he graduates from high school. He wants me to keep the baby.

I'm going to have the baby but I don't know if I should give it up for adoption or keep it and get married. — M.C., Astoria, Ore.

M.C.: Only you can make that decision. The only question I would ask you is, "How would you feel if you kept the baby and the father didn't marry you?"

I would include your parents in any decision that you will be making.

Dr. Wallace: This morning my mom went through my purse and found a pack of cigarettes and a bottle of beer. (I don't smoke or drink).

My brother and I got into a fight last night and I know he "planted" the stuff in my purse and told my mom.

Now I'm in big trouble. Help! — Tonya, Marshall, Texas

Tonya: I'm amazed at the number of parents who will believe anyone who complains about their teen. Surely your mother knows that you don't smoke or drink.

Tell Mom that you do not smoke or drink, that the "goodies" in your purse are not yours and that you believe your brother was the villain!

Dr. Wallace: I'm a boy and I have a male cousin who is two years older than I. Whenever we are together, he makes advances toward me. At first, I thought that he was joking but he is serious. I can't tell my parents because my dad would kill him.

I don't know what to do because our parents are very close. I can't talk to anyone in town because our town is very small. Help. I hate going to his house. — Nameless, Willows, Calif.

Nameless: If you have talked with your cousin and

Jan DeWolfe, Steve Corbin exchange wedding vows

MRS. STEVEN CORBIN

Miss Mary Jan DeWolfe and Steven Lind Corbin were married Friday evening in Bethel Assembly of God Church in Pampa. Parents of the bride are the Rev. and Mrs. Paul DeWolfe, 1531 Hamilton. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Corbin of Dumas.

Officiating at the ceremony was the bride's father. She was given in marriage by her brother, Capt. Vaughn DeWolfe of Scranton, Pa.

Attending the bride as matron of honor was Mrs. Vaughn DeWolfe of Scranton. Shelly Corbin, the bridegroom's sister from Dumas, was bridesmaid.

Best man was Jim Keeney, the bridegroom's cousin, from San Marcos. Keith Kucifer of Abilene was groomsmen.

Flower girl was Tammye Martindale of Pampa. Ringbearer was Anthony DeWolfe, the bride's nephew.

Ushers were Ken Kucifer of Abilene and Norman Newman of Pampa.

Providing appropriate music were Mrs. Clifford Martindale, organist, and Mrs. Harold Presley, soloist.

Assisting at a reception after vows were exchanged were Mrs. Benton Rogers, Cathy Simpson and Martha Hadley.

The bride, a graduate of Pampa High School, attended Clarendon Junior College. She is employed at Sandra Corporation in Pampa. Corbin, a graduate of Dumas High School, attended Southwest Texas State University in San Marcos. He is employed by Halliburton, Inc. in Pampa.

Many seasons ago a popular song was entitled, "What We Did For Love." I don't remember the words, but the theme was that love was the most important thing in life and we'd do anything to possess it.

I agreed with that premise then, and I agree even more now. But I wonder how far we older mates will really go to prove that a loving spouse will do anything for love — or will refrain from doing the things that could affect it adversely.

I'd like to suggest, first, that we think before we thrust. By that I mean that when we want to bawl out the mate in the worst way, we need to pause and remember the times we may have merited rebukes for similar offenses. And most of us have.

Whenever we leave the apartment for a day or a week, I like to leave it in what a wise woman once called "dying condition". I don't have time to scrub corners every day, but if I'm ever brought home dead, the bearers won't find an unmade bed or a sink full of dishes or an untidy bathroom.

Otis is a clean soul and washes his hands every time he turns around, usually splashing the clean mirror thoroughly.

Countless times I've opened my mouth to scold. "Can't you splash the towel instead of the mirror?"

But I've remembered, in every instance, that I left his favorite jacket at the cleaner's for a month or forgot to buy toothpaste when we were out of it or neglected to stock the fridge with orange juice that he drinks by the gallon. In such cases he wears a less-loved coat, brushes with soda and sips grapefruit juice or milk — always without a word of protest. So, remembering, I bit my lips and say nothing.

In addition to thinking before we thrust, I hope we avoid tripping trouble for each other. If we're as attuned as we should be, we know at first glance when the mate is disturbed. If things have gone wrong for the husband that day (no sales) or for the wife (three rejection slips in one afternoon's mail), there is disappointment galore. The sufferer doesn't need to hear the woes of the spouse all through dinner.

If his wrinkled brow tells you he has a nagging headache, don't start relating your own indigestion or sore fingers or annoying sneezes and sniffles. Trouble can be trebled if your fire is added to his flame. So don't upset him, or yourself, by airing it. He has priority because he frowned first.

Last of all, let's allow the other mate's wishes to win over ours at least half the time.

After our many years of marriage, we all know our mates' annoyances and they know ours. It should be easy to avoid the things that we are reasonably sure will offend each other.

Food is something that several of you have told me you quarrel about.

DEAR LOUISE: My husband is Australian and loves mutton. I can't stand the smell of it and I hate cooking it and eating it. But I do it, at least once a week, for his sake.

I'm fond of liver and onions, but he swears that the whole house, including me, reeks for days after I cook it. These differences in our tastes are making us quarrel at most of our meals. And it's getting on both our nerves.

We've been married ever since World War II. But now he's threatening to go back to Australia and live "down under" where, he says, everybody likes mutton and nobody likes liver and onions. Shall I tell him to go? M.K.

DEAR M.K.: No! If you weren't in love with each other, you wouldn't have stayed married for more than 30 years. And if he's wealthy enough to return to Australia, he's rich enough to take you out to dinner fairly often. Usually the smell of offensive food is its worst quality. And good cafes with kitchen vents cut down eating odors.

So eat your favorite dishes in restaurants. Have beef and pork and chicken at home. And don't put the world between you. Live on chesse sandwiches first.

Write problems to DEAR LOUISE, Box 616, Pampa, Texas 79065.

Mary Sailor, Michael Coyne wed in Amarillo

Miss Mary Lea Sailor and James Michael Coyne were married recently in a ceremony in the First Baptist Church Chapel in Amarillo. The Rev. Dr. Winfred Moore, pastor, officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R.J. Sailor Jr. of White Deer. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Hobbs, Mrs. R.J. Sailor Sr. and the late Mr. Michael Coyne.

Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Don Coyne of Amarillo.

Serving her sister as matron of honor was Mrs. Rick Reyher of Canyon. Don Coyne, the bridegroom's father, was best man.

The bride, a 1979 graduate of Texas Tech University, earned a degree in journalism. She is employed as a staff writer on the Amarillo Globe-News.

The bridegroom attended Amarillo College, and is the owner of Amarillo Welding and Construction and Supply Co. and Medi-Gas and Supply Co. of Amarillo.

Neely-Hillhouse vows said

Charlotte Lynn Neely and John Hillhouse recently were married at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Harold Reid of Skellytown. The Rev. Milton Thompson, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Skellytown, officiated.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. C.T. Brittain of Amarillo. Mr. and Mrs. O.R. Hassler of Skellytown are the bridegroom's parents.

The bride wore a street-length dark blue velour dress and carried a bouquet of blue roses and baby's breath.

Mrs. Harold Reid was matron of honor. Best man was Bobby Burnett of Skellytown.

The couple was honored at a reception after the ceremony. Mrs. Reid, her niece, Rayleen Anderson of Amarillo, and Kathy Hassler, the bridegroom's sister, served at the reception.

The bride was formerly employed as assistant manager at Zales Jewelry, Western Plaza, in Amarillo. The bridegroom is employed at Phillips Petroleum Co. The couple will live in Skellytown.

MENDING MATURE MARRIAGE

By Louise Pierce

Donahue fans should like his new book

DONAHUE. By Phil Donahue & Co. Simon & Schuster. 247 Pages. $11.95.

Phil Donahue has a boyish face that looks too youthful for the silver hair that crowns it. The average nine-to-five would probably not be able to pick out Donahue in a crowd of two. But the 40-plus host of one of television's most popular talk shows is well known to the millions of housewives and stay-at-homes who see his syndicated talk show daily on 200 stations, including some in Alaska, Hawaii and Puerto Rico.

Donahue's book, written in collaboration with members of his staff, declares itself an autobiography, which, in part, it is. The author discusses his childhood in Cleveland, his days at Notre Dame and his entrance into show business. Described, too, is the development of "The Phil Donahue Show," the problems it has faced and its rise to its currently lofty position among TV fare.

However, the statistics and reminiscences of Donahue's life do not seem to be the essence of this book. Here, the usual biography takes a back seat to Donahue's presentation of his frank and sometimes courageous observations and theories on a wide range of topics that include parenthood, journalism, race relations, broadcasting, religion, charities and censorship. To some, Donahue will emerge a champion, to others, a complainer, depending on each reader's individual views.

Donahue's book will probably hold a great deal of interest for those who are not familiar with him. But for the millions of loyal viewers the show has as its own, this inside story is sure to be seen as a welcome and interesting glimpse into the private life of our hero.

Investor usually doesn't benefit in 'get rich quick' scheme

The problem with "get rich quick" schemes is that someone gets rich quick, but it usually is not the investor.

Take the case of a Connecticut man who wanted to sell his scheme to make money quickly. For $15, he offered a "vast wealth plan" which, he claimed could earn $60,000 in one month with little investment.

What the plan actually consisted of, though, was a letter that advised the recipient to send the offer to others for the same $15 investment fee.

Under the state's Unfair Trade Practices Act, he was taken to court. He was accused of making a number of misrepresentations: that the investor could earn $60,000 in one month; that thousands of people had purchased the plan; that he could easily charge $200-$500 for his plan; and that it was all perfectly legal.

The state argued that there was no evidence that any given amount of money could be earned; that only a few people had purchased the plan; that a $200-$500 fee was absurd; and that, being deceptive, the entire plan was illegal.

Blind lawyer gets promotion

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — A 33-year-old lawyer who was once kicked out of a school for the blind for refusing to accept his handicap has been named chief counsel for Florida's Department of Banking and Finance.

S. Craig Kiser is the first blind person to be promoted to such a statewide position in Florida. For Kiser, who struggled for years to accept his blindness, the promotion was a milestone.

In just three years, he rose from a $17,000-a-year job as a young lawyer in the department, to deputy general counsel and finally to the $32,400-a-year job as chief counsel.

"I don't want to be immodest, but I really do think, blind or not, that I've accomplished a lot," he said in an interview.

Though legally blind, Kiser can see light and shapes up close. To read law materials at work, he uses a machine that greatly magnifies words, making them as much as 3 or 4 inches high on a lighted screen. Kiser was 19 when doctors discovered he would soon lose his sight from a disease called retinitis pigmentosa — a pigment on the retina that slowly destroys the rods in the eye that govern peripheral and night vision.

Unwilling to accept his handicap, Kiser continued to drive a car while legally blind. He tried to enter the University of Iowa as a sighted person, but flunked out when he couldn't read the textbooks. He enrolled in a school for the blind, but was kicked out when he tried to lead the life of a sighted person.

After discovering he couldn't function adequately without training for the blind, Kiser returned to the school, obtained a bachelor's degree and became Florida State University's first blind law student.

"All of us always knew he would do well once he came to grips with his blindness," his brother, House Minority Leader Curtis Kiser, recalled. "We knew once he got channeled in the right direction there would be no stopping him."

BEEF SHORT RIBS and Yorkshire puddings make English-style meal.

Beef without bankruptcy

When shopping for beef or other meats, select cuts that give you the most servings per pound. That way you can have your beef and eat it, too.

You get two servings per pound of short ribs. If the price is $1.29 per pound, the cost per serving will be 65 cents.

The family math whiz will enjoy working out costs per serving.

WORCESTERED BEEF SHORT RIBS (English Style)
 4 pounds beef short ribs
 1/4 cup flour
 1/2 teaspoon salt, divided
 1/4 cup oil
 4 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
 1/2 teaspoon powdered mustard
 1/2 teaspoon curry powder

Cut ribs into portion-sized pieces. Coat with flour mixed with 1/2 teaspoon of the salt. Place in a lightly oiled, shallow roasting pan. Brown in a preheated 450-degree oven for 15 minutes. Reduce oven temperature to 350 degrees.

Combine oil, Worcestershire sauce, mustard, curry powder and remaining 1/2 teaspoon salt. Brush half of the seasoning mixture over short ribs. Bake, uncovered, in a slow oven until fork-tender, about 1 1/2 hours, brushing once more with seasoning half-way through the cooking.

Serve with rice, Worcestershire puddings and tossed salad, if desired. Makes 4-6 portions.

YORKSHIRE PUDDINGS
 2 eggs
 1/4 cup milk
 1/4 cup water
 1 teaspoon Worcester-

shire sauce
 1 cup all-purpose flour
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1 tablespoon beef drippings or oil

Place eggs, milk, water and Worcestershire sauce in the large bowl of an electric mixer. Beat for 1 minute. With electric mixer set at low speed, gradually stir in flour and salt. Mix just until blended. Mixture may stand covered in the refrigerator for 2 or 3 hours, if desired.

Place 1/4 teaspoon of beef drippings in the bottom of each of 12 2 1/2-inch muffin pan cups. Place in a preheated 400-degree oven until oil is hot, about 2 minutes. Remove pan from oven. Fill 1/4 full with the batter.

Bake in hot oven until the puddings are light and golden, about 30 minutes. Remove from pans and serve immediately. Makes 12 Yorkshire puddings.

Meat loaf is tasty way to cut costs

By TOM HOGGE
 AP Wire and Food Writer
 There's no really cheap way to serve meat today, but one of the less expensive and more satisfying ways is a well-seasoned meat loaf.

If baked to the proper degree and served with a tasty sauce, meat loaf can be a gourmet delight. I have always preferred it to most straight meat dishes.

A little imagination helps. Stuffed with hard-boiled eggs, or pitted olives or even a layer of shelled nuts, the loaf can be a glamorous dish.

more than an hour to cook and they are easy to make.

Another dividend lies in the fact that the remains of a spicy meat loaf left in the refrigerator overnight make delicious sandwiches or cold cuts the following day.

Meat loaf can be baked in a ring or fancy mold, but for most uses no special equipment is needed. Use a regular loaf pan or, still simpler, mold the loaf yourself and place it on a baking sheet.

Meats for some varieties, like chicken or liver, require a food chopper unless your butcher has time to grind it for you.

But the most common meat-loaf ingredients, beef, pork or veal, can be purchased chopped, of course, and all you have to do is mix them and the seasonings by hand or with a heavy-duty electric mixer.

Bread crumbs are usually added to make the meat go farther. Alternative additions are cooked rice, dry, ready-to-eat cereals, cracker crumbs or even crushed potato chips.

Milk is generally used to soften the loaf and to help blend the ingredients, but you can substitute red or white wine, tomato juice or a canned soup like cream of celery or mushroom.

The most popular loaf is made from ground beef, but I prefer the beef mixed with pork and veal at a ratio of 4 to 1, for example 2 pounds of beef plus half a pound each of pork and veal. Here's a recipe I use for such a loaf.

 1/2 pound pork, ground fine
 1/2 pound veal, ground fine
 1/2 teaspoon pepper
 2 eggs beaten
 1 cup bread crumbs
 1/2 cup milk
 1/2 cup chopped onion
 1/4 teaspoon allspice
 1 tablespoon prepared mustard

 4 slices bacon

Mix all ingredients except bacon and pack into lightly greased loaf pan or form into loaf on baking sheet. Top with bacon slices and bake in 325-degree oven for 90 minutes till loaf is crusty, if on sheet, or shrinks from sides of loaf pan. Serve with a beef bouillon and tomato or a beef mushroom sauce. Serves 8-10.

Meat outlook for 1980 is 'iffy'

By Gaynor Maddox

What do the experts predict about meat prices in 1980? The answers are iffy.

The Agriculture Department reports that near-record supplies of red meat will slow price increases a bit in 1980.

It is expected that food prices overall will go up from 7 percent to 11 percent this year. Meat prices, the department hopes, will not rise more than 4 percent to 6 percent.

The prediction is that pork prices will not go up by more than 2 percent in 1980 thanks to unusually high production.

That is the general picture today. But the department's report is well larded with words like "maybe," "hope" and "is expected."

We consulted Jeanne Paris, director of consumer services for Swift and Co., on how to control family meat costs.

"If your family insists on beef," she advises, "you should buy sub-primal cuts for economy. These are boneless cuts that are vacuum-packaged in the processing plants and shipped in cartons to the retailers."

She classifies the following cuts as "sub-primal": rib eye, chuck shoulder, chuck roll, brisket, top sirloin butt, round sirloin tip, the gooseneck (consisting of the bottom round, the eye of the round and the rump), top round and beef loin or strip.

Some of these cuts are not available in all markets. Those advertised most often include top and bottom beef round, rib eye, chuck roll and loin strips.

"The lower-priced chuck and shoulder roasts and steaks and the roasts and steaks from the round of all species are best cooked in moist heat," says Miss Paris.

She goes on to note that a great variety of fresh, cured and smoked pork items are commonly available at the market.

These cuts include fresh and smoked picnic shoulders, pork chops (usually assorted or combination chops from a quarter loin sliced from end to end into chops), half and full pork loins, bone-in rib and loin roasts, boneless pork roasts and pork leg roasts.

Also, spareribs, back bones, neck bones, pigs' feet, bacon, cured and smoked bone-in water-added ham portions (with the center slice removed), cured and smoked boneless ham and smoked sausage.

"Find new ways to prepare the high-quality pork that is available now," suggests Miss Paris. "Consumers need to be reminded that modern pork compares very favorably calorie-wise to other lean meat."

Tips on buying cottage cheese

By the Editors of Consumer Reports

If there were mandatory government standards for the cleanliness of cottage cheese sold at the retail level, you could confidently select from an array of brands for a low-calorie meat substitute. Unfortunately, such standards don't exist, so you must choose carefully.

When Consumer Reports tested 42 brands — 23 from the New York City area and 19 from California — only 12 showed reasonably low levels of microorganisms, yeasts or molds.

Although the products bought in the East were generally cleaner than those bought in the West, the Eastern brands often tasted worse. (Consumer Reports' sensory consultants suspected that was due to stale ingredients.) The presence of coliform bacteria in many samples indicates possible direct contamination by human or animal fecal matter or use of contaminated equipment or ingredients. By consuming coliform-contaminated cheese, you increase your risk of developing mild digestive disturbances.

While psychrotrophs, another microorganism found in a wide variety of samples aren't considered a health hazard, their presence in large numbers may indicate the cheese has been stored too long.

If cottage cheese has high counts of yeasts and molds, it tends to have a stale, musty or moldy flavor. In addition, excessive mold in any food is a potential health hazard.

Of course, it wasn't all bad news. Some of the products judged excellent by Consumer Reports' taste experts also had acceptable levels of microorganisms, yeasts and molds.

Manager named for National Endowment of the Arts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Edward Corn, manager of the Opera Company of Philadelphia, will become director of the Opera-Musical Theater Program of the National Endowment for the Arts.

Livingston L. Biddle Jr., endowment chairman, noted Corn's considerable experience in the field, including major positions with the Metropolitan Opera in New York, the San Francisco Opera and its Western Opera Theater, and with the St. Louis Municipal Opera.

Corn is scheduled to take over his new responsibilities gradually.

The title "cosmetologist" is the most definitive description for today's hairdresser according to the 68,000 member National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association.

"Today's licensed cosmetologists do much more than dress hair," says NHCA president William J. Ware of Louisville, Ky. "They provide skin care and cosmetic care and advice. They work with chemicals to curl and color hair. They also give manicures and pedicures and total fashion advice."

"In each state, we are licensed as cosmetologists to provide total beauty care, and we now believe it is time to be recognized for what we are legally licensed to be — cosmetologists."

The NHCA is beginning to campaign to rename today's beauty salon.

"The beauty salon used to be called the beauty shop and before that, the beauty parlour," Ware said. "We believe it is time for another transition and that the present beauty salon, which now provides complete beauty services, should be called the cosmetology salon," Ware said.

"Some people mistake the term cosmetology to apply only to cosmetics, but this is completely contrary to state statutes as well as the setup of cosmetology schools throughout the country," he said.

Other NHCA preferred terms for use in the cosmetology salon are: clients, instead of customer or patron; clientele for large groups of clients; practicing cosmetologist for the licensed cosmetologist who is working behind the chair; styling area, rather than styling booth or station; salon support employees, for employees other than licensed cosmetologists working in the salon.

Ware pointed out that the term hairdresser is still in the association's title and that the term will still be used within the association when referring only to the art of dressing hair.

All state cosmetology statutes include the following definition, in total or in part, for cosmetology:

"Cosmetology is hereby defined and construed to mean anyone and/or combination of practices generally and usually, heretofore and hereafter performed by and known as the profession of Beauty Culturists, or Cosmeticians, or Cosmetologists, or Hairdressers, or any other person holding himself or herself out as practicing Cosmetology shall be defined and shall include but otherwise not be limited thereby the following or any one or a combination of practices: arranging, dressing, curling, waving, cleansing, singeing, bleaching, coloring, or similar work, upon the hair of any person, or wig or hairpiece of any person, by any means, and/or with hands or mechanical or electrical apparatus or appliance, or by the use of cosmetic preparations, antiseptics, tonics, lotions, creams, or otherwise, massaging, cleansing, stimulating, manipulating, exercising, beautifying or similar work, the scalp, face, neck, arms, hands, or upper part of the body, or manicuring the nails of any person."

By Lawrence Lamb, M. D.

DR. LAMB

DEAR DR. LAMB — I was without good red blood for many years during my menstruation. Now at age 59 I had good red blood when my period started. I didn't think it was normal to menstruate at 59 so I went to the doctor and he did a D and C to scrape out the lining of the uterus. He said I had endometrial hyperplasia which he said was a thickening of the tissue. He said a number of women have this condition and if the bleeding recurred, that he would recommend a hysterectomy. I told him that I didn't want to have my uterus removed if there was nothing wrong with me.

I don't understand how the tissue got thickened and I'm writing to ask you what this condition is and if there's anything that can be done to correct it. Is there a special diet I could follow or any corrective medicine I could take?

DEAR READER — You did the most important thing — seeing a physician to find out why you were bleeding. Any unexplained bleeding, which includes sudden onset of apparent menstrual bleeding in a woman in your age group, deserves immediate attention. It can be an early sign of cancer.

The lining of the uterus is called the endometrium. That lining is shed with each menstrual period. The large medical term your doctor used (endometrial hyperplasia) merely means that the lining has grown thicker than usual.

The examination you've had eliminates the possibility that there is any cancer of the uterus at this time. But I do believe that it is a warning that you may be at increased risk and you should carefully follow your doctor's advice and return regularly for checkups. And if there's any other bleeding or problem you'd be wise to follow his advice.

No one wants an unnecessary operation but if there is a danger that your endometrial lining is showing some abnormal changes, it's far better to have a hysterectomy than it is to suffer with the problem of endometrial cancer at a later date.

No, there are no reliable medicines and certainly no diet that would correct your problem for you.

You are right. It is not normal to menstruate at age 59. Any woman who bleeds then is either on medicines that induce artificial menstruation when they are stopped periodically or has a medical problem. Hormone imbalance can cause the cells lining the uterus (endometrium) to grow abnormally or cause overgrowth. The use of estrogens after the menopause have been linked to these changes and possible development of endometrial cancer.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 14-12 on Hysterectomies, Cystocele and Rectocele. Other readers who want this information can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Some years ago doctors removed a small cyst by surgery from the skin in the center of my chest. It healed slowly and apparently had some infection. But after healing a very nasty keloid formed about the area. This tissue is ugly, itchy and always slightly sore and inflamed.

A dermatologist treated it with cortisone injections. After two years of monthly injections, the keloid is still the same. It seems strange to me that in this age of advanced medicine that such a seemingly simple malady cannot be relieved. Can you give me any information on this keloid condition? I am a blond Caucasian. Therefore, I should not have a condition related to people of dark skin if this is truly a trait found among them.

DEAR READER — It's true that keloids are more apt to form in people with dark skin than those who are fair. But anyone can have keloids or overgrown scar tissue. For the benefit of other readers, a keloid is a scar that continues to grow and often produces a mass or tumor-like formation. The exact cause of them is not known.

Your unsatisfactory results from cortisone injections points up the value of doctors not promising too much for any treatment of keloids. You cannot always tell whether they will return or whether they will regress under treatment.

Many doctors still believe the best approach is surgery in selected cases. The entire overgrown scar area is removed. Then the skin in the surrounding area is freed up so it can be pulled together without producing any tension on the incision. If you're lucky, the end result will be a small scar rather than the overgrown scar tissue that you had before.

In addition to surgery, some doctors believe in injecting a localized area or treating it otherwise with steroids. Then if there's any indication of regrowth of excessive scar tissue, doctors may recommend using radiation treatment locally to that area. Why don't you ask your dermatologist if it would be useful in your case to try surgery?

DEAR DR. LAMB — What does iron do for a woman while she's menstruating? Is it necessary?

DEAR READER — The iron isn't just to be taken during menstruation. We often say that a woman has increased iron requirements during her childbearing years because of her menstrual periods. The point is that she loses blood each time her menstrual period occurs and with the blood loss, she loses some iron. This, in turn, will increase her iron requirements since the lost iron must be replaced to avoid iron deficiency with resulting iron deficiency anemia.

Readers who want more information on this problem can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for The Health Letter number 4-4, Iron and Anemia. Address your request to Dr. Lamb, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Is it true that if a woman gets pregnant by a drug addict or junkie that her baby will suffer a withdrawal or will the baby have this problem even if the mother is not a junkie?

DEAR READER — No, the baby will not have the problem of drug addiction if the father is a junkie. There may be some drugs that affect the chromosomes in the sperm cells but I don't believe enough studies really have been done on this. If the mother uses drugs or alcohol, the baby may develop an addiction to those drugs and will have withdrawal symptoms and perhaps other problems.

FARM & RANCH NEWS

Hunting regulations remain much the same

Preliminary hunting regulations for ducks, geese and other migratory game birds for the 1980-81 hunting season have been proposed by the Interior Department's U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service. No major changes from last year's hunting regulations are proposed at this time.

The proposals, published in the February 29, 1980 Federal Register describe tentative season frameworks daily bag and possession limits, and shooting hours for migratory game birds in the contiguous U.S., Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

Species discussed in the proposals include ducks, geese, brant and swans; doves and pigeons; cranes; rails, coots and gallinules; and woodcock and snipe.

Shooting hours will remain from one-half hour before sunrise to sunset. Framework dates for ducks and geese will be from October 1, 1980, to January 20, 1981, for the Atlantic and some Mississippi Flyway States, and from October 4, 1980, through January 18, 1981, for the Central and Pacific Flyways and other States in the Mississippi Flyway.

The fish and Wildlife Service proposes to clarify the definition of "migratory game birds" by delegating the term "wild" where it is sometimes used to describe "ducks and doves and pigeons."

This minor change would remove a point of possible confusion, but would not affect other portions of the regulations or add additional species to those presently listed as migratory birds.

All of the published proposals are subject to changes later if indicated by information obtained from surveys, State conservation agencies and the public. Public comments on the proposals are invited through May 16, 1980, and should be addressed to the Director U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, Department of the Interior, Washington, D.C. 20240.

To ensure that the public has ample opportunity to comment on the proposals, two public hearings will be held to review the status of migratory game birds and consider proposed hunting regulations.

The first hearing will pertain to early season regulations before October 1, and will be held on June 20, 1980, at 9 a.m. in the Department of the Interior auditorium in Washington.

Those wishing to make statements should file copies with the Director before or during each hearing.

Area men elected

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — John Cargile of San Angelo was elected president Wednesday of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association as the group closed out its 103 annual meeting.

Frates Seeligson of San Antonio was elected first vice president and John M. Shelton III is the new second vice president.

Don King of Fort Worth was

The new directors elected were: G.A. Pete Adams of Bryan; F. Jake Hess of McLean; Mort L. Mertz of Eldorado; David M. Middleton of Beaumont; Louis M. Pearce Jr. of Houston, and Charles Roos IV of Sulphur, Okla.

More than 2,000 members of the group attended this year's convention.

Wage guidelines

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration is loosening its voluntary wage guidelines to allow pay increases up to 9.5 percent this year, but union leaders expect to win much larger settlements for their members under exceptions in the new program.

President Carter's top inflation adviser, Alfred E. Kahn, announced Thursday that the president had approved a labor-endorsed proposal to raise last year's 7 percent anti-inflation wage guideline to a range of 7.5 percent to 9.5 percent for pay and fringe benefit increases.

At the same time, the head of the Communications Workers of America told reporters the union could win pay increases large enough for the 525,000 telephone workers to keep pace with inflation without violating the new guidelines.

"We believe that we'll be able to get what our members need and still come well within the guidelines themselves," CWA President Glenn Watts said in announcing his union's bargaining goals in upcoming contract talks with the Bell System.

Other CWA officials estimated that if Bell is willing to pay, the union could obtain a 1980 wage increase surpassing last year's 13 percent inflation rate and still remain within the guidelines.

The CWA and other unions representing a total of 700,000 Bell System workers will be negotiating new three-year contracts in what will be the year's biggest round of contract talks. The current pacts expire in August.

Because the program is voluntary, employers and unions are not compelled to observe the guidelines, but violators could be chastised publicly and barred from obtaining government contracts.

The administration had been expected to approve the revised guidelines since they were proposed by an advisory committee of labor, business and public representatives in late January. The panel had concluded the 7 percent guideline was too low in view of a swelling inflation rate.

Louisiana shrimpers protest fishing ban

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Louisiana shrimp fishermen were asked Thursday to line up congressional opposition to a federal proposal closing national waters off the Texas coast to shrimping for 45 to 60 days during a fishing season.

Secretary J. Burton Angelle of the Louisiana Wildlife and Fisheries Department said the plan, submitted to the U.S. Commerce Department by the Gulf of Mexico Fisheries Management Council, "would be detrimental to Louisiana shrimpers and others in the shrimp industry within our state."

Delegates to the 21st annual convention of the Louisiana Shrimp Association were most universally opposed to the plan because it would send Texas shrimpers into Louisiana waters, depleting Louisiana's harvest and also possibly causing fuel and ice shortages.

"It was born in Texas, it must die in Texas and it must be buried in Texas," said Angelle, urging shrimpers to ask their congressmen to block the proposal.

Another speaker, Deputy Regional Director Harold B. Allen of the National Marine Fisheries Service said either all or parts of the proposal could not become law until September at the earliest and thus would not affect this year's shrimping season.

Allen said the intent of the proposal was to close Texas waters early in the season, when shrimp are small, and September would be too late for that.

But Angelle was adamant in his opposition to the plan.

"The Louisiana shrimp industry, as you and I know it, can't survive an experiment cooked up in Washington that is aimed at allowing shrimpers and the shrimp industry of other states to harvest, or hoard, their shrimp and then help themselves to a lion's share of the shrimp resource in Louisiana — the resource that keeps our shrimp boats moving, our plants busy, our warehouses and freezer plants active," Angelle said.

WORKSHOP TO STUDY PIGS FROM PEN TO PAN:

Swine producers and housewives both should find useful information at a two-day swine workshop to be presented in Amarillo Monday and Tuesday, March 17-18, by the Panhandle Economic Program.

With the theme of "Pork-From Pen to Pan", the program will include evaluations of live and slaughtered hogs, projections on feed and market conditions, innovations in the industry, demonstrations of pork cutting and cooking, and a "Pork-Arama," featuring more than twenty pork dishes.

The Panhandle Economic Program (PEP) is a regional organization sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service to promote economic growth and development and improved living in the counties of the Panhandle.

The workshop will be held at the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center, 6500 Amarillo Blvd.-West, and will begin at 8:30 a.m. each day.

The first day will begin with an evaluation of live hogs. This will be led by Dr. Frank Orts, Extension Meats Specialist from College Station, and Dr. Robert Cohen, Extension Area Swine Specialist from Lubbock.

Three viewpoints on selection of modern type swine will be presented by Dr. Bill Thomas, Swine Specialist from College Station, Larry Tackitt of Happy, and Dickie Clark, manager of Texas Tops Swine Feedyard in Tulsa.

The outlook for the swine industry will be projected by Sam Thomas, manager of agricultural development from Southwestern Public Service Co., Amarillo. The outlook for costs of corn, sorghum and soybean meal will be presented by Ray Henders, nutritionist with Producers Grain Corp., Amarillo. Current and new trends in the industry will be reported by Cohen.

The second session will begin with evaluation by Orts of carcasses and cut-out data from the hogs evaluated the first day. He will then conduct a demonstration of pork cutting.

Myths, fables and "old wives' tales" surrounding pork and pork consumption will be laid to rest by Ken Horton, executive vice president of the Texas Pork Producers Association, Austin.

The session will conclude with the "Pork-Arama."

MEETING TO EXPLAIN INS, OUTS OF FARM INCORPORATION:

Tax benefits and improved loan position may be obtained by organizing family farms and ranches as corporations, but there are many factors to consider carefully before incorporating, management specialists with the extension service caution.

To help farmers and ranchers understand when and how to incorporate, the extension service will hold a special seminar here Wednesday, March 19. It will be at the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center, 6500 Amarillo-West, Amarillo. Registration will begin at 8:45 a.m.

Several topics of farm incorporation will be discussed by numerous individuals.

CONTROL SCALE INSECTS:
Very few plants are likely to escape attack from scale insects, and now is the time gardeners should undertake one of the few effective control measures against the destructive pests. The insects get their name from the fact that the adults form a protective layer of wax over the body. This protective layer, which may vary from a thin wax layer to several layers in the form of plates, powders or tufts, makes the insect relatively safe from most insecticide.

Dormant oils applied during the late winter and early spring offer one of the few measures effective in controlling scale insects. Dormant oils kill all life stages of the scale insect.

Dormant oils should be applied before buds begin to swell, when temperatures are between 40 degrees and 65 degrees and when no freezing weather is expected for the next 48 hours.

Dormant oils have several advantages over most insecticides used on scale control. They are less expensive, give effective control when applied properly, leave minimum residue on fruits and nuts, and are safe to handle. Dormant oils have the additional advantage of being effective against other pests, such as mites and caterpillars. The oils also kill the eggs of numerous other insect pests.

When mixing and applying dormant oils, the gardener should use only the amounts recommended by the manufacturer. Some trees tolerant of the recommended application rates of oil may be damaged if excessive amounts are used. Even recommended rates have been noted to damage such trees as hickory, walnut, Douglas fir and Colorado blue spruce.

Farm scene

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farmers and feedlot operators are still running behind year-earlier marks in the number of cattle being fattened for slaughter, according to the latest government figures.

Inventories of feedlot cattle in seven key beef states March 1 totaled about 7.44 million head, down 9 percent from a year ago, officials said Thursday.

Further, farmers and feedlot operators placed only 1.21 million head in feeding pens last month, an 8 percent decline from February of last year, the monthly report said.

That will mean a further squeeze on "fed" beef supplies, the source of most "U.S. Choice" cuts sold in supermarkets.

The seven states surveyed monthly provide about 75 percent of the nation's beef. Their feedlot inventories of cattle on March 1 and percentages of their inventories a year earlier included:

Arizona, 360,000 on March 1 and 84 percent of a year earlier; California, 583,000 and 90; Colorado, 790,000 and 81; Iowa, 1,400,000 and 95; Kansas, 1,160,000 and 90; Nebraska, 1,470,000 and 88; and Texas, 1,680,000 and 97.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rice farmers will not have to set aside part of their cropland to qualify for federal price supports this year, nor will they be offered any "diversion" payments to take some acreage from production.

Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland announced the 1980 rice program Thursday.

No set-aside or diversion payments were offered under the 1979 program, and Bergland said this year's will be similar. He also announced the 1980 rice acreage allotment at 1.8 million acres, the same as it has been for some years.

The allotment does not restrict the amount of rice farmers can grow. However, farmers can get price support loans and target price payments, if those are due, only on rice produced on their farms' allotted acres.

Last year, rice farmers planted about 3 million acres and harvested a record crop of 136.7 million hundredweight. Domestic and world demand is large, however, and market prices have been relatively high.

Bergland said the final 1980 rates for price support loans and government purchases, and the target price, will be announced later.

Current estimates are for a target price of $9.35 to $9.65 per hundredweight and a loan and purchase rate of between $7.05 and $7.25 per hundredweight, he said. The 1979 target price and loan and purchase rates are $9.05 and $6.79 per hundredweight, respectively.

When market prices drop below the target price for a specified period, payments are made to producers to make up the difference for the subsidies.

The 1980 acreage allotment allocations included: Arkansas, 435,391.2 acres; California, 326,812.7; Florida, 960.8; Louisiana, 517,584.3; Mississippi, 50,812.2;

Missouri, 4,967; North Carolina, 41; Oklahoma, 163.2; South Carolina, 2,722.9; Tennessee, 288.2; and Texas, 460,256.5.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Grasshoppers, unless weather conditions interfere with their eggs hatching this spring, could chew their way across millions of acres of western rangeland by summer, says the Agriculture Department.

Potentially, it could be one of the largest plagues of grasshoppers in this century, a collection of swarms that threatens 32.2 million acres of rangeland in 17 western states, officials said Thursday.

About 60 percent of the threatened rangeland is in three states: Nebraska, New Mexico and Texas.

Last year, which has been called the worst since the

SCS seeks public input

The USDA's Soil Conservation Service (SCS) is currently making a study of alternate ways in which a National Plant Materials Centers Program can be conducted that responds to resource conservation needs.

Lee McDonald, SCS District conservationist at Pampa, says his agency is asking the public for their views on alternatives under consideration and for other proposals.

McDonald says SCS, in cooperation with other Federal and State agencies and through other arrangements, presently operates and maintains 22 plant materials centers (PMCs) in the United States.

Each center develops new plants for conservation purposes in the geographic area it serves that are released jointly with the State's agricultural experiment station and the other State and Federal agencies to commercial growers for production.

The plant materials center serving Texas and Oklahoma is located at Knox City. Plants that have been released from the Center in the past are Mason sandhill lovegrass, Selection-75 kleingrass Alamo switchgrass, Shoreline common reedgrass, and Aztec maximillium sunflower. Each of these now plant varieties have proven most successful.

Herbshield seed is safened so you can get really effective grassy weed control without harming your sorghum yields.

Because sorghum itself is a grass, controlling grassy weeds in sorghum has always been a problem. Do a job on the weeds, and you do a job on ordinary sorghum, too.

But with Herbshield seed, you can apply Milocep® herbicide for effective, long-lasting control of grassy weeds. And because Herbshield seed is safened by Funk's, your sorghum will flourish.

Anderson and rivals scrapping

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent
WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. John B. Anderson had been sniping at his Republican presidential rivals ever since the GOP debates began.

"They'd have a harmony session and he'd accuse them of peddling old ideas and platitudes."

Now that Anderson is a candidate with some clout — at least this week — they are firing back with a vengeance.

With the lonely liberal in the Republican field rated a top contender in the pivotal Illinois presidential primary election, Anderson was everybody's target Thursday night.

Former United Nations Ambassador George Bush, in danger of something close to a wipeout if he can't do well in Illinois, and Rep. Philip M. Crane, who isn't getting anywhere, came on strongest.

Former California Gov. Ronald Reagan played the elder statesman, but he got his shots in too, asking incredulously at one point whether Anderson really could be running as a Republican.

"I'm no longer the quiet man along the trail," Anderson said after the debate. He said the others legitimized his candidacy by ganging up on him.

In the fifth Republican campaign debate, it was three candidates against Anderson. That wasn't the only novelty at the televised confrontation in a Chicago hotel ballroom. This time, the Republicans actually argued.

Anderson had debated twice before, and stole a piece of the show when he and three other GOP candidates were denied seats after showing up for a Bush-Reagan debate in Nashua, N.H.

In those days, he was treated as a gadfly, not a threat. That changed after the Illinois congressman came within a handful of votes of upsetting Bush in the Massachusetts primary and Reagan in Vermont.

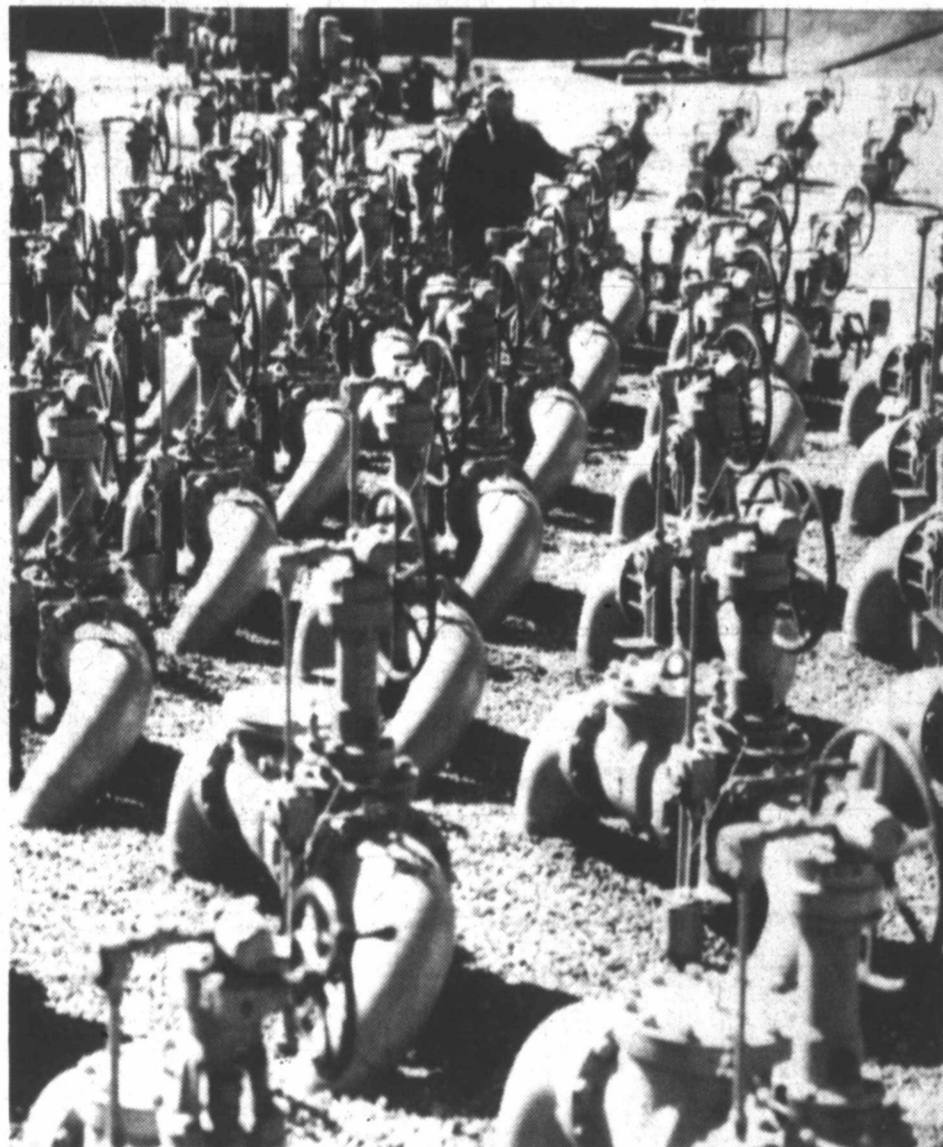

He went straight home to Illinois and started campaigning for the primary there next Tuesday. Bush took after him soon after the cameras blinked on in Chicago, accusing him of advocating cuts in Social Security benefits. Anderson called that the next thing to a lie.

Later on, Bush challenged Anderson to pledge support for the Republican ticket, whoever wings up as the presidential nominee.

Anderson wouldn't answer directly. He said he expected to be able to support the ticket — indeed, expected to be the nominee.

He then accused Bush of "narrow partisanship," and said that was typical of Richard Nixon's Republican National Chairman.

"You're in the wrong party, John," Crane said. "I didn't know we had a loyalty test," Anderson replied.

March 17, 1980

This coming year you should have the opportunity to make some changes that will offer you greater material security. Even if you don't inaugurate the situation, you'll be the one to guide things to fruition.
PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Assert yourself today, because you have an excellent chance of adding to your material resources. Get out and go after important goals. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in the year following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.
ARIES (March 21-April 19) This is not the week to let the Monday blues give you a slow start. Dig in. Be assertive. Use your splendid leadership qualities to gain our ends.
AURUS (April 20-May 20) What do you hope to achieve today can be accomplished much easier if you can find a quiet corner, or're much more efficient lone.
EMINI (May 21-June 20) Your friends may be looking to you for inspiration because very early in the day you'll show you're full of enthusiastic ideas.
CANCER (June 21-July 22) Don't be overly concerned if you find yourself in a competitive situation today. Your track time will be swift enough to give any opponent a race.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Profit from past experiences and don't allow yourself to fall back on bad habits. Try something new to break unproductive patterns.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You're especially sharp and quick in money matters or commercial transactions today. Use your insights to guide you toward possible profit.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Cooperation and consideration will be readily granted today because you set the example the moment you enter the scene. Others will want to follow your lead.
SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You will derive much more satisfaction from your work if you involve yourself with creative things that challenge your imagination.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Friends are drawn to you because you begin the week with a surge of energy and zest, demonstrating how to move forward with no thought of past negatives.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) The concerns for those you love will take priority over personal goals today. You'll do for them what they can't do for themselves.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Mental chores requiring alertness and agility should be a snap for you today. Your powers of concentration are extremely acute.

MEDIA MONITOR

Farrah -- down but not out

Raindrops keep falling on Farrah's head, but brighter days are seen on the horizon.

by Steve K. Walz

New York—There is a premise amongst Hollywood filmmakers that female TV superstars are poison at the silver-screen box office, so they discourage many actresses from making the transition. The thinking behind this theory is that most TV actresses possess a limited amount of talent and could not possibly project as well on screen, lest their shortcomings be exposed. Supposedly the tube can mask those flaws.

There is some truth in what they say, for we have seen Susan Anton fail in "Goldengirl" and there are whispers that Lynda Carter and Lindsay Wagner might bow as well in their attempt to broaden their careers.

Perhaps the biggest monument to the filmmakers' hypothesis is Farrah Fawcett. The 33-year-old daughter of a Corpus Christi, Tex., oil exec attempted to cash in all of her chips after she rocketed to fame on ABC's jiggly "Charlie's Angels" series.

Cover girl fame

Of course, when your face is on the cover of every major magazine in the United States, Canada and Europe, you tend to think you can conquer anything. Unfortunately, this gorgeous beauty fell into the "tender trap" of being promised mega-stardom if she dumped the weekly grind of being an Angel for the silver screen.

Sure enough, her first picture, "Somebody Killed Her Husband," was an instant bomb. But there was no turning back now. Next up was "Sunburn," a ripoff of "Foul Play" that enjoyed moderate success but did little to broaden Farrah's acting ability. In fact, her role as a kooky model involved with spies was almost an extension of her Jill Munroe character on "Charlie's Angels." All she had to do was look beautiful, which isn't hard for Farrah.

By this time Farrah was becoming confused and angry with her career, her husband and her agent. One future film assignment had already been canned due to her box office lethargy. Only "Saturn 3," a futuristic thriller co-starring film star Kirk Douglas, remained. Oh, there were the obligatory guest-starring spots on "Charlie's Angels" still ahead, and the publicity stunts for her less-than-spectacular cosmetics line, but mega-stardom was no longer attainable.

After completing "Saturn 3," Farrah broke up with her husband, dumped her agent and proceeded to re-evaluate her career. She realized that she was going down the tubes and rather than becoming a has-been, the sultry star began to assert herself and rely on her own instincts.

Look out

"She has taken control of her own destiny and wants to be in control of her future. Farrah had to make some adjustments in her life, but she's an eternal optimist," said the star's spokeswoman.

What lies ahead for the beleaguered beauty? According to a network source, Farrah is being offered as much as $60,000 a week to return to television on a regular basis, with NBC having the inside shot at snaring her. Fred Silverman, the NBC chief, was the force behind "Charlie's Angels" when he was at ABC, so the thinking there is that he can propel her again to lofty heights with the right vehicle.

Obviously, a film career will have to take a back seat right now as the golden-haired Fawcett is painfully aware of her limitations. It was probably a hard truth when Farrah came back down to Earth, which brings us back to the TV-to-movie jump being poison. Farrah found out the hard way. Hopefully she'll return to the medium that suits her best—TV.

SOUND COUNTRY

The Statler Brothers gained an extra "bonus" while negotiating the details for their appearance in the movie "Smoky and the Bandit II." Snuff Garrett, the film's music supervisor, has a hobby identical with that of the Statler Brothers—a passion for old singing cowboy movies. Garrett's production company even has a catalog of many old films. The Statler's participation in "Smoky II" involving a trip to Las Vegas for filming, then an immediate return to Nashville to record for the movie soundtrack. So the foursome decided to ask for a little something "extra" in their movie deal. Garrett would have to make the run from Las Vegas to Nashville with them on their video-equipped bus and provide some old movies for round-the-clock entertainment.

12 GOOD REASONS WHY YOU'LL FIND THE DAILY NEWSPAPER AN IMPORTANT PART OF YOUR CHILD'S EDUCATION...

1. It's an adult medium. No big seventh-grader with a reading problem likes to be seen carrying around "Six Ducks in a Pond." But he's proud to be seen reading the newspaper.
2. It deals in reality, in what is happening here and now. Motivation is built in for reading and discussions.
3. It bridges the gap between the classroom and the "real" world outside.
4. It contains history as it happens, reported as completely and objectively as is humanly possible.
5. It contains something for every student: comics for the slow reader, editorials for the bright youngster; real math problems for the child who hates textbooks; science as it happens.
6. It contains practical vocabulary, the words students will use over and over again throughout their lives.
7. It can be marked, cut, pasted, colored-important to young children who learn by doing and seeing.
8. It contains in its news stories the best models for clear, concise, simple writing.
9. It is the perfect model for teaching students to write for a purpose and for a particular audience.
10. It is the only up-to-date social studies text there is.
11. It is the only text the majority of children will continue to read throughout their lives.
12. It is an influential and integral part of our free society. Its freedom is guaranteed under the Constitution which some have said is "less the right of the newspaper to print than it is the right of the citizen to read."

DIVIDED IN THOUGHT. Norman and Christine Schroeder, both 26, and daughter Shari, 7, check the goats in the backyard of the Ross Township home Tuesday. The State of Michigan has taken custody of the couple's other two children, Eva, 2, and 8-month-old David, and is charging the couple with child neglect due to a vegetable diet which they say left the children underdeveloped. Norman says his wife's spiritual beliefs caused the children's illness. Shari is apparently in good health.

Whale migration is miracle

SAN PEDRO, Calif. (AP) — Now is the time of an annual miracle, the migration of the gray whales, a sight to behold.

John and Muriel Olguin behold the great creatures flopping and blowing in the morning mist from their bedroom, high above the blue Pacific, without even lifting their heads from their pillows.

If the weather is fair, they likely will rise early and get in their boat and go out for a closer look.

If the weather is foul, the likelihood is even greater.

"We love the elements," John said. "We like to feel the wind and the rain and experience the moods of the day. The best way to do that is in a small, open boat close to the water."

The Olguin's vessel is a 15-foot rowboat, the Pico Maru. In it, they have rowed to all the coastal islands, 25- 35- 50-mile trips. They have rowed 300 miles down the Californian and Mexican coasts. They have rowed the length of the Virgin Islands, the Greek Islands, islands off Alaska and Canada, the Fiji Islands, the Windward and the Leeward Islands. They sleep and eat aboard the Pico Maru.

Their preferred craft has not always, however, been a rowboat.

Only since John and Muriel entered their 50s — he is 59, she 57 — have they decided a rowboat would be a prudent choice for their sea journeys. Before that they used a canoe.

"There is nothing rash or foolish about it if you know what you're doing," John said. "The main thing is not to fight the elements, just go with them and enjoy them. It isn't always so important to go where you set out to go. Just go. The rest is adventure."

"So we did. That was 17 years ago and we have never moved it back inside. If it rains, we have a tarp.

"Wouldn't you like to fall asleep looking at stars and

One dark night, rowing to San Miguel Island off California, they were caught in a sudden storm. The wind whistled at 35 knots. Waves reached 14 feet, angry and mean.

"John threw out a sea anchor and steadied us with the oars," Muriel recalled. "I curled up in a wool blanket and slept."

John Olguin is associate director of the Cabrillo Marine Museum in San Pedro. Muriel is an artist and art teacher. Both, though, admit to a more primal calling: The magic of nature and the sea.

They grew up together on the California shore, swimming and sailing as sun-bronzed children. After World War II, they rediscovered each other, remembered their childhood fun and shared dreams, and were married. Since then, they have observed a yearly ritual.

"We take a month off and go adventuring," Muriel said. "As each of our three children arrived, they went along too. They are all grown now, so it's back to just the two of us."

John added: "After a trip to Puget Sound, a month of living outdoors, we came home and unpacked. Muriel said, 'John, let's move our bed outside tonight. I don't like the idea of sleeping indoors.'"

"So we did. That was 17 years ago and we have never moved it back inside. If it rains, we have a tarp.

"Wouldn't you like to fall asleep looking at stars and wake up listening to the ocean and watching whales play? Try it. Muriel and I wouldn't live any other way."

Alien student controversy still growing

HOUSTON (AP) — A bilingual consultant says he would "cry a lot" if illegal alien children were admitted to public schools because the current teaching program is already short 1,500 teachers.

"Somewhere, you have to draw the line," Robert Tipton of the Texas Education Agency said Thursday in federal court.

"It's like an ocean liner that can hold so many people," he said. "There are people out there in the water waiting to be saved. But if you pick up a hundred, you sink the boat and nobody is saved."

Tipton's testimony came midway in the fourth week of a suit by 17 alien groups to strike down a Texas law requiring undocumented children to pay tuition if they attend public schools.

He told U.S. District Judge Woodrow Seals the admission of illegal alien children would swamp an already inadequate bilingual program in Texas.

Asked by attorneys for the plaintiffs what he would do if the children were admitted to Texas schools this fall, Tipton replied, "I'd cry a lot."

He said the best teaching is done in a class of about 20 children, but the class size could be stretched to 40 or 50 children. With anything larger, he said, "we can't offer equal education opportunities."

He added that at the current rate of 300 bilingual teachers graduating from state schools every year, it would take five years to solve the present teacher shortage.

COLLABORATING ON TV FILM are producer Norman Lear, left, and Alex Haley, author of "Roots," who have joined together to produce "Palmerstown, U.S.A." It will be the first series for Haley, and the first dramatic film for Lear. The series will feature the life of two buddies, one black and one white, growing up in the rural South during the 1930s. GRAND OLE OPRY VETERAN Ernest Tubb, whose songs have poured from juke boxes for almost 40 years, thinks the record industry has deserted real country music for a hybrid that generates big bucks — but isn't country. (AP Photo)

Scouts do 'Good Turn'

The Adobe Walls Council, Boy Scouts of America, will participate in the 1980 Census Nationwide Good Turn on March 8-22. More than 1,000 Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts, and Explorers will be knocking on front doors throughout 15 counties to deliver red, white, and blue leaflets explaining the 1980 census and its importance to the federal government. The official 1980 census questionnaires are expected to arrive at individual homes about March 28. The nationwide Census Day is April

1. "Distribution of the leaflets will be handled differently by members of the three Scouting divisions," said Joe Chambers, scout executive. "Cub Scouts will distribute leaflets in their own neighborhoods. Boy Scouts will handle distribution within the area of the Adobe Walls Council but will include areas further from their homes than Cub Scouts. Explorers will handle the outlying areas." The leaflets to be distributed feature an American flag design on the cover. Inside, they include an explanation of how the census will be taken mostly by mail, a description of the confidentiality made to each citizen, and a listing of some of the benefits the community may receive as a result of the statistical information compiled. Each unit that participates will receive a special certificate. "We are indeed proud to have been asked to participate in this national public education effort by the U.S. Bureau of the Census," Chambers said.
